

Justice Not Metered Out Here . . .

Recently a young Iowa City woman appeared in police court with a ticket for overparking. She explained to the judge that she had put money in the meter, but when it came time to go home she forgot about the car and started to walk. When she returned to her car, she had a ticket. "I thought I had heard them all," said Judge Trott, dismissing the case.

Iowa City Greets — Tourney Visitors

Brightly colored jackets . . . screaming fans . . . pretty cheer leaders . . . top basketball teams . . . gaily dressed girls. For these, Iowa City rolled out the welcome mat yesterday.

The vanguard of an avalanche of basketball enthusiasts poured into the city ready to jam the Iowa fieldhouse from now through Saturday for the boys' state high school basketball tournament.

Hotel reservations were unavailable for late-comers. The Jefferson reported rooms had been sold out "at least six or eight weeks." The Burkley closed reservations for this week about Jan. 1, and the Washington has been sold out for a month.

Reservations for rooms in private homes still may be obtained from the Chamber of Commerce, second floor, Iowa State Bank and Trust company building. Robert L. Gage, Chamber of Commerce secretary, said he expected the demand for rooms to be greatest for Friday and Saturday nights.

Dolliver, Iowa, Gage said, is the farthest town requesting rooms for the tournament. Dolliver is in Emmet county, just below the Minnesota border.

About 800 members of non-participating high school teams will be housed in special dormitories in the fieldhouse and the community building. Approximately 600 will bunk in the fieldhouse dormitory while 200 will have cots for Friday night in the community building. The Junior Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the project in the community center.

Restaurants are anticipating a marked increase in business, but proprietors expect to be able to take care of fans without any "rush and crush." Because of the game schedule, owners believe, they will be able to accommodate the additional customers without much trouble.

International — West Europe Bloc Binds Trizonia Into Its Economy Plan

PARIS (AP)—The foreign ministers of western Europe bowed reluctantly yesterday to division of Germany and voted to bring the three western occupation zones ("Trizonia") into their plan for continental organization.

At the close of a two-day meeting of the delegates from 16 Marshall plan nations set up a working committee to draft a treaty for mutual economic aid to make themselves strong against Communism and a charter for a permanent European organization to carry out the pact.

The United States will contribute to the organization through billions of dollars in aid under the Marshall plan. Left outside are the Soviet Union, the Soviet occupied zone of Germany and the Communist-led satellite states, avowed foes of the European recovery program.

France Shatters UN Agreement of Palestine

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—A tentative big power agreement on Palestine collapsed last night when France withdrew approval of a resolution which declared there is now a threat to world peace in the Holy Land.

At a morning meeting the United States, Russia and France agreed in principle that a threat to peace existed through continued infiltration of hostile elements across Palestine borders.

Italy Denounces Russian Exploitation of Industry

ROME (AP)—A foreign office statement accused Russia last night of seeking to divert part of Italy's industry "to the sole advantage of the Soviet Union." The statement in effect rejected current Russian demands that payment of $100-million in war reparations to Russia be arranged in advance.

Labor — Strikes Cripple Coal, Meat Industries Fact-Finding Board Appointed To Probe Meat Strike Dispute; Prices Skyrocket

Coal Output Plummets as Strike Grows

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Coal production plummeted yesterday with more than 300,000 of the nation's 400,000 soft coal miners idle in the two-day-old pension shutdown.

West Virginia and Pennsylvania, the two biggest bituminous producers, felt the brunt of the mine walkouts. West Virginia had 100,000 of its 125,000 miners out and in Pennsylvania 69,500 diggers stayed away from the pits.

In Washington, President Truman was reported studying reports on the big walkout. Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross said "nothing concrete" was done. In 1946, the President obtained a court injunction to halt a soft coal work stoppage.

Ezra Van Horn, representing the soft coal operators, yesterday asked mine chief John L. Lewis to join him in seeking court appointment of a third trustee to the miners' welfare fund.

A dispute over the use of the fund, now containing $30-million to pay $100-million pensions to retired miners is the key to the current walkout. The operators contend the pension plan is "too expensive."

Van Horn is the operator-trustee on the fund and Lewis speaks for the miners.

CHICAGO (AP)—The Taft-Hartley act, aimed at ending strikes that imperil the national health and safety, came formally to grips with the nationwide meat strike yesterday.

President Truman set the new labor act's machinery in motion Monday night. He made a futile request for delay of the strike, and yesterday announced members of a three-man board he set up to investigate the dispute.

The CIO united packinghouse workers of America, whose 100,000 members left their job yesterday, promised the President "every possible cooperation" with the fact-finding board. One of the meat packing companies publicly promised similar cooperation.

The strike chopped the nation's output in half. It sent prices upwards in the wholesale markets. Farmers cut sharply their shipment of meat animals to market because of a shortage of packinghouse slaughtering facilities.

Hog prices jumped 50 cents to $1.25 a hundred pounds at the Chicago stockyards and cattle rose as much as 50 cents. In the Chicago wholesale market, beef gained as much as $2 a hundred pounds, lamb $1 to $2 and pork cuts from $1 to $3. Wholesale meat prices also rose in New York.

The board, named under a provision of the Taft-Hartley act, is composed of these members:

Nathan P. Feinsinger, professor of law at the University of Wisconsin.

Pearce Davis, chairman of the department of business and economics at the Illinois Institute of Technology.

Walter V. Schaefer, professor of law at Northwestern university law school.

Senate Kills Executive Reorganization Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Presidential department in charge of the government's job-finding and jobless compensation services was killed by the senate yesterday. The vote was 58 to 25.

The senate's adverse vote on the proposal, coupled with its previous rejection in the house nullified the reorganization plan which would have been effective Friday.

Mr. Truman had proposed that the United States employment service be retained in the labor department.

It is there now under wartime powers, and will return to the federal security agency six months after official end of the war.

Ames-Ankeny Clash Opens Play

By BUCK TURNBULL
Sports Editor

For the second straight year Davenport's high-geared basketball team enters the final round of the Iowa state tournament in the favorite's spot. Who can stop the Blue Devils?

That is the main topic of discussion as the 29th annual Iowa High School Athletic association tournament goes into the final four days in the local fieldhouse today.

Eight games are scheduled for the first round pairings today with Ames and Ankeny opening the drive towards the state championship title at 9:30 this morning. Two contests are scheduled for the morning session, three for the afternoon and three more in the evening.

It is ironic, to say the least, that Davenport, the largest high school in the state of Iowa, should draw tiny Conesville in the pairings which place the teams in alphabetical order. The Tigers from Conesville come from a school with a total enrollment of 32 pupils, 16 of whom are boys. The defending champion Blue Devils boast an enrollment of 2,169.

But shed no tears for Coach Edgar Carney's Conesville outfit. The Tigers, who tangle with Davenport at 1:15 this afternoon, have a good ball club led by one of the best prepsters in the state, little Guard Bill Hesselstine. The flashy Hesselstine leads the tourney's top offensive team with 476 points in 26 ball games.

Conesville has lost only two games while ringing up an average of 55.23 points per game. If statistics mean anything, it might be worth mentioning that the Tigers' offensive and defensive averages for this season are both three points better than the Devils.

Coach Paul Moon, in his twentieth season at Davenport, will bring a well-balanced, veteran ball club into the finals. The Imps, led by "Skip" Greene and Jim Stange, were conspicuously absent from workouts in the fieldhouse yesterday. Apparently the Davenport quintet was content to rest on its laurels another day and travel to Iowa City this morning. But the other 15 teams ran through light drills in preparation for the battles today.

The "worst" and the "best" — according to season's records — meet in the lid-opener at 9:30 this morning.

Ankeny's unbeaten B quintet, the only team in the state to boast an unscathed slate, goes to the fort against Ames. The Little Cyclones, always a top-notch tournament team, scored upsets in all three per-final games to earn the trip to Iowa City.

The Ames' ball club, coached by Kenneth Wells, finished in a last-place tie for the Central Iowa conference cellar while winning 5 games and losing 11. In contrast, Ankeny enters the meet with 27 straight triumphs.

The Hawkeyes of Ankeny have something novel in their starting lineup—a brother act which has blasted all foes to date. Three brothers, who rank one-two-three in the Hawk scoring column, are Dick, Ray and Ron Fontana. Dick is the high-point man with 513.

Boone's AA team rules a favorite over Carroll in the morning's second tilt. Bob Clifton leads the Toreadors into the championships, having scored 465 points in regular seasons' operations. Boone won the Central Iowa league crown.

Then comes the day's feature attraction, the "David and Goliath" match between Conesville and Davenport. The Imps will be seeking their fifth title in 12 trips to the finals.

Loras of Dubuque and Fontanelle mix things up in the afternoon's middle game. The Loras team had a mediocre season but came fast towards the end of the season, utilizing a fast-break attack to good advantage. However, the Gubs will have their hands full with little Fontanelle, winner of the state meet last year, and Bo Walker pace the Bulldogs, winners of the Little Six conference this season.

In the finale of the long day of basketball, Sioux center faces Ottumwa's Central Catholic high school.

Since early season injuries, which saw the Indians of Sioux Center lose three of their first five games, the Sioux have gone unbeaten in their last 23 contests. Wayne Juffer, speedy little forward, and Dan DeRuyter lead the powerful Sioux Center team.

Truman Speech Ready; Faces Poised Congress

Military Men Define Tasks Of Services

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense Secretary Forrestal said yesterday there is peace in the high command of America's war machine.

He said the week-end conference at Key West, Fla., of army, navy and air force commanders ended in "general accord" on the duties and responsibilities of the three arms of service.

Forrestal's announcement said the decisions affect the long-term development of procurement programs. Forrestal's aides said this means aircraft, weapons, and other equipment, but not allocating manpower between the three forces.

The army is reported to be considering asking congress for a return of the selective service system. Army authorities believe the mere presence of a draft law would boost volunteer recruiting.

They said, however, that the draft would not call back veterans. Lower age brackets—men who have become of military age since the war—would provide enough manpower, they believe.

In answer to press inquiries the army issued a statement late yesterday. It pointed out that only the President has the power to call the national guard to federal duty for service within the continental United States. Congressional action is required to permit service by national guard units outside the United States.

"It is the view of personnel and legal officials in the army," the statement said, "that new legislation would be required to recall to duty veterans of World War II who served under the selective service act."

"Powers to call members of the officers reserve corps and the enlisted reserve corps to active duty against their will expired last year."

The United States has approximately 1,380,000 men in uniform today. This does not include 226,300 more in the national guard.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman conferred with his top advisers—military, diplomatic and economic—last night as he completed his tensely awaited state of the world message.

House Speaker Martin (R-Mass) said yesterday on the eve of President Truman's state of the world address, that "the constant advance of the iron curtain across Europe has created a grave crisis in our international relations."

In another development, the White House called off a scheduled meeting between Mr. Truman and four congressional leaders, Martin among them, which had been scheduled for 10 a.m. (CST) today—shortly before the President's tensely awaited message.

The White House explained that two of those invited, Senators Vandenberg (R-Mich) and Barkley (D-Ky), would be attending an important meeting of the senate foreign relations committee at about that time.

Vandenberg's office said a short time earlier that he had turned down the White House invitation because of the foreign relations committee meeting, which is to continue hearings on Greek-Turkish aid.

The Michigan Senator, who is chairman of the committee, declined to elaborate. He told a reporter previously that he had not been consulted about the President's world affairs speech.

Those who had been called to the White House, presumably to get a preview of the President's talk, were Vandenberg, Barkley, Martin and House Democratic Leader Rayburn of Texas.

The President's speech is to be delivered to a joint session of congress, and broadcast by major networks, at 11:30 a.m. (CST) today.

Martin's statement spotlighted the April 18 Italian elections as the coming test between Communism and western Democracy.

The house speaker declared that "the fate of civilization is at stake." And he declared this country must become "absolutely supreme" on land, on the sea and in the air.

"There is no reason," Martin said, "for the American people to be other than perfectly calm."

The senate postponed until Thursday the beginning of debate on a $4.7-billion income tax cutting measure. Barkley said the Truman message "might present a situation that would make it utterly futile to attempt to reduce taxes."

Sioux Center (A)	25	3

of 31 games in 32 starts this winter.

The fifth game of the opening day, starting at 3:45 p.m., pits two Class B teams, Galva and Hudson, against each other. Both had good B school records but their chances for a championship are slim.

The three games in the evening session will present the best overall drawing card of the first day.

Livermore's powerful Class B five, proud holders of a 32-1 winning record, meets Manning's (27-2) equally proficient team, Class A.

The Bulldogs of Livermore have the best balanced quintet in the tourney action. The season's individual scoring records shows the first five with this point distribution—Jerry Bordwell, 384; Robert Gronback, 230; Dwight King, 228; Don Logue, 330; and Dick Williams, 274.

In the second game on the docket for this evening, Oelwein's surprising cagers, conquerors of a good Waverly team in the District tournament, battles Ottumwa's Bulldogs, favored by many to upset defending champion Davenport for the title.

Dick Chado is the outstanding performer of the Oelwein five, having scored 451 markers in action this season. Wayne Freshour, star of the Ottumwa ball club which came close to upsetting Davenport in the semi-finals of the state meet last year, and Bo Walker pace the Bulldogs, winners of the Little Six conference this season.

In the finale of the long day of basketball, Sioux center faces Ottumwa's Central Catholic high school.

Since early season injuries, which saw the Indians of Sioux Center lose three of their first five games, the Sioux have gone unbeaten in their last 23 contests. Wayne Juffer, speedy little forward, and Dan DeRuyter lead the powerful Sioux Center team.

Oleo Tax Repeal Fight Killed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Butter won a 16 to 10 decision over oleomargarine yesterday in the house agriculture committee.

By that vote, the house group decided to pigeonhole 18 bills which had been drawn to repeal federal taxes on margarine and license fees imposed on those who sell it.

"That kills the legislation for this session of congress," Chairman Hope (R-Kas) told reporters after the closed session.

But Rep. Poage (D-Tex), an opponent of the margarine tax, declared: "The fight will go on. We are not licked yet."

He and nine other Democrats were lined up on the losing side. Repeated efforts have been made in the past to repeal the tax on oleo, first imposed in 1889. Opponents contended the tax is discriminatory and gives butter an unfair competitive margin over margarine. Supporters of the tax said it is necessary to protect not only the dairy interests, but the public.

In recent years the dispute has aligned chiefly the representatives of dairy states on the side of butter, and those from the cottonseed oil producing south on the other.

This year the advocates of repeal did their best to line up votes from states which produce large amounts of soy-bean oil, and from cities which are large consuming centers.

The present federal taxes on margarine, in addition to the 10 cents a pound on colored, include 1/2 cent a pound on all margarine.

Railbirds Have Field Day

Fifteen Teams Work Out in Preparation for State Finals

By JOHN McINTOSH

The railbirds had their inning yesterday as fifteen state-title hopefuls worked out in the fieldhouse in preparation for today's payoff competition.

The seats surrounding the floor were loosely packed throughout the day as the crowd drifted sporadically in and out of the fieldhouse.

Some of the harder fans arrived simultaneously with Conesville's team as the Tigers started their warmup exercises in the morning at 10 o'clock and stayed until Central Catholic of Ottumwa finished the proceedings at 9:15 last night.

Little Billy Hesselbine of Conesville gave the early birds a good idea of why he has scored over 450 points this season. He put on a dazzling show of shooting and dribbling while demonstrating his wares. Joe Hankins of the Tigers also got a few gasps from the crowd as he consistently hit his long shots.

Undefeated Ankeny put on a good show for the crowd and few found any reason for wondering how they entered the tourney unbeaten. The three Fontana brothers spearhead the Ankeny attack and have averaged 21, 16, and 7 points apiece over the 27 game stretch.

Some of the players had a hard time adjusting themselves to the large expanse of the fieldhouse and for the first few minutes of their practices shot consistently short. However, as they became warmed up they seemed to find the floor to their liking and split the net regularly.

A survey of the coaches showed that most of the teams had never encountered glass backboards before. They didn't seem to confuse the sharpshooters but some of the players said it gave them a funny feeling to be shooting at nothing the first few times.

"Happy," the fieldhouse vendor, was on hand early to assuage the hunger and thirst of the spectators surrounding the hardwood.

The photographers had a field day as they set up shots and took the shining lights of each team aside for background pictures.

Local sports fans who usually sit on the first row of the second balcony north are due for a disappointment. The entire front row across the fieldhouse this year has been built for the use of radio stations. More than 15 stations representing towns all over Iowa have signified their intentions of covering the tournament.

To those wondering what the black curtain is for at the west end of the fieldhouse—don't be alarmed. Nobody is in mourning. It is just the scheduling of afternoon games that makes it necessary. The sun streams in through the big glass windows, floods the

A HIGH-FLYING TRIUMVIRATE—The Fontana brothers, Dick (13), Ray (10) and Ron (7), Ankeny stars, exhibit their prowess in a pre-tournament warm-up. Dick has averaged 21 points a game, brother Ray has hit for 16 per cent and Ron has netted seven per game to pace the undefeated Hawkeyes.

Ris, Free-Stylers Lead Tank Team to National Collegiate

A nine man swimming squad was named by Coach Dave Armbruster yesterday to take part in the national intercollegiate championships at the University of Michigan, March 26-27.

From Ann Arbor the men will continue to New Haven, Conn., for the national AAU indoor championships at Yale.

The group will be led by Capt. Wally Ris, who will enter the 100 and the 220-yard freestyle events. The sprint relay team, holder of the American amateur record for the long course and made up of Ris, Ken Marsh, Duane Draves and Erv Straub, will also compete.

Iowa will also send Draves, Dick Lake and Straub in the medley relay. Other individuals registered are Larry Larimore, Dave Brockway, Dick Maine and Bud Griesbach.

Scores Around the Grapefruit League

Cards Snip Yank String; Beat Spud Chandler, 4-1

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA. (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals defeated the New York Yankees 4-1 in an exhibition game yesterday, snapping an eight-game winning streak.

Spud Chandler, who had an elbow operation last fall, made his 1948 debut and said his arm felt good. But he yielded six hits and three runs in three innings and was charged with the loss.

The American leaguers were limited to seven hits by Al Papi, John Grodzicki and Ted Wilks. The Cards collected 13 blows off Chandler, Allie Reynolds and Joe Page.

The hits off Chandler included two doubles by Enos Slaughter, a triple by Dick Sisler and a home run by Rookie Don Lang.

Meanwhile an X-ray examination of Yogi Berra's foot, injured yesterday, showed the Yankee catcher had no fracture but will be out at least a week. Tommy Henrich, injured right fielder, will be idle ten days.

Braves Explode in 14th; Skim Past Detroit, 4-3

LAKELAND, FLA. (AP)—The Boston Braves greeted Detroit Tigers relief pitcher Rufus Gentry with three straight hits in the 14th inning to gain a 4 to 3 exhibition win over the Detroiters here today.

Successful singles by Danny Litwhiler, Tommy Holmes and Frank Kerr brought in the winning tally after Virgil Trucks had held the National leaguers runless with two hits from the sixth through the thirteenth innings.

Boston collected a single run in the second inning on Litwhiler's double and Ryan's single. The Braves added two more in the fifth on two walks, and Thor Torgerson's double.

Detroit garnered all its runs in a third inning outburst. Joe Ertutt tripled, Art Houtteman singled, Johnny Lipon reached on an error, and Johnny Bero singled.

Reds Wallop Senators On Big 3rd Inning

TAMPA, FLA. (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds scored all of their runs in the first and third innings yesterday to wallop the Washington Nationals, 9-2, before 717 fans.

Two walks and three successive singles resulted in three Redleg counters in the opening round. Two more passes and five safeties, one of them a three-run double by first sacker Ted Kluszewski, rounded out the Cincinnati scoring with six runs in the third.

Howard Fox, Cincinnati right-hander, gave up five hits and one run in the first five innings, and his successor, Kent Peterson, yielded one run on four hits.

White Sox Take 6-3 Win Over Brownies

SAN BERNADINO, CALIF. (AP)—The Chicago White Sox hopped on the St. Louis Browns for six runs in as many innings to win a spring training exhibition baseball game, 6-3, yesterday.

The Sox hit safely but didn't score in the second frame. They made two in the fourth inning, however. Fred Sanford, who went to the mound in the fifth got things under control for the last three innings but Brownie batters couldn't match the difference in runs.

Cubs Score 5 in 1st To Roll Over Angels

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Chicago Cubs piled up five runs in the first inning yesterday and went on to trounce the Los Angeles Angels, 11 to 3, in an exhibition baseball.

Don Johnson was the only Cub veteran who started. He opened the initial round with a homer to start the five-run assault at the expense of Bill Felming, former Cub.

Vogel to Announce Team for Dixie Trip

The Iowa baseball squad leaving Saturday for its annual Dixie jaunt will be named tomorrow, Coach Otto Vogel said yesterday.

It will be only the second time since the southern trips were inaugurated in 1925 that the tossers will take off for the south without the benefit of outdoor drills at home. The team has been working out since early February in the Iowa fieldhouse.

The squad of about 20 men will leave by chartered bus Saturday morning for Ruston, La., for two games with Louisiana Tech. Before making the circuit back to Iowa City, the nine will meet Arkansas Teachers, Arkansas State and Washington university of St. Louis.

Last spring the Hawkeyes won three games, lost two and left one tied on their southern trip.

WSUI, KSUI to Air Basketball Tourney

KSUI, FM and WSUI, AM, university broadcasting stations, will air the state high school basketball tournament beginning today.

WSUI will begin its coverage at 9:20 a.m. this morning. However, KSUI will only give evening coverage. Bob Brooks and Spunk Brothers, of the WSUI sports staff, will handle the play-by-play description.

ANOTHER BROTHER ACT—Fontanelle's twin demons, Roland (5) and Raymond Seegers (8) are the pace setters on the Wolves' high scoring quintet. Another brother, Leonard, should see a lot of action in the tournament. Fontanelle has an impressive 29-1 record in pre-tournament play.

floor, causing difficulty in vision for players, officials and spectators.

Lyle Quinn, the daddy of the tournament, blew into town yesterday afternoon and spent a busy evening at the fieldhouse. It was quite a feat for him to get from one side of the court to the other, as he was continually stopped for opinions, handshakes and questions.

Bob Brooks, WSUI sportscaster, had a busy day with his wire recorder. He was kept hopping trying to separate the coaches from their charges in order to get them for recorded interviews.

Some of Iowa's basketball players drifted in and out during the day watching the play. Many of them played on the fieldhouse floor in high school colors before enrolling at the university. One of the most rabid spectators was Stan Straatsma. His former team, Sioux Center plays Central Catholic of Ottumwa in the final game tonight. Stan was on the first Sioux Center team to ever play in state tournament competition back in 1943.

Gale Johnson, the Sioux Center coach, has established a mark worth shooting at by other Iowa coaches. He piloted his high school team in Nebraska to two straight state berths, and in this his first year at Sioux Center, it has made the coveted field.

Illinois Boxing Shut Down

CHICAGO (AP)—A 23-day shutdown of professional boxing in Illinois was requested by Gov. Dwight H. Green yesterday pending adoption of measures to prevent ring fatalities.

The move climaxes criticism of the conduct of the sport that followed the death of Sam Baroudi, 20 year old Akron, O., boxer who died after being knocked out in the Chicago stadium ring Feb. 20.

Rifle Team In Inter-Collegiate

The University rifle team will leave Friday for Lincoln, Neb., to compete in the national intercollegiate rifle matches to be fired Saturday.

The local team took second place in the national meet held in Omaha last year. The men making the trip are William W. Voelckers, G. W. Eckhardt, Charles Rogler, J. R. Rohner, E. E. Moore and W. H. Olson. All are from Iowa City except Eckhardt, who is from Davenport.

Maj. C. N. Wagner and Sgt. H. W. Wendlandt of the military science department will accompany the team.

In matches fired in the Armory last week, the Universities of Indiana and Nevada were defeated by Iowa's score of 1890. Nevada tallied 1889 and Indiana, 1887.

Scores made by the Iowa team were J. R. Rohner, 381; G. W. Eckhardt, 381; H. E. Moore, 378; Charles Rogler, 377 and J. P. Taylor, 373.

Official scores of the Wisconsin shoulder-to-shoulder match fired Saturday, are not yet available.

Social Studies Teachers Plan Meeting Here

The 26th annual conference of history and social studies teachers will be held here Friday and Saturday, April 9 and 10.

Prof. William O. Aydelotte, interim chairman of the history department, said yesterday the conferences will be under the direction of the history department, extension division, college of education and graduate college.

A luncheon in the river room of Iowa Union will open the program Friday noon. Dean Elmer T. Peterson of the division of research and teaching will deliver a welcoming address.

Meetings will be in the senate chamber of Old Capitol. Prof. George E. Mowry of the history department will preside at the first meeting at 2 p. m. Friday. Lecturers will be Prof. William H. Hesselstine of the University of Wisconsin history department ("States Rights and Human Rights in the American Civil War") and Prof. George L. Mosse of the history department here ("A Reexamination of the Liberties of the Englishman").

The Saturday meeting will begin at 10:00 a. m. with Prof. John H. Haefner, head of social studies at the University high school, presiding.

Prof. Robert R. Palmer of the history department at Princeton university will speak on "What Modern History Should We Try to Teach?" Prof. Robert E. Keohane of the social studies department at the University of Chicago will complete the conference schedule with his address, "Articulation in History: Between High School and College."

Teachers of history and social sciences in the schools and colleges of Iowa and neighboring states will attend, Prof. Aydelotte said.

Museum Staff Adds New Bird Exhibit

Members of the museum staff will show visitors the recently completed bird group in Macbride hall Sunday from 1 to 5 p. m.

"Next to the Laysan exhibit, it is one of the largest and finest exhibits in the museum," Prof. H.R. Dill, director of the museum, said yesterday.

The new exhibit has a background of 17 by 7 feet and has a floor space almost as large. The background consists of an autumn scene depicting the wood lot in Dill's yard and that of his neighbor, Prof. Robert Sears.

Shown in the exhibit are 83 mounted birds representing many species of sparrows, warblers, thrushes and other small birds that flock together for the fall migration.

Walter Thietje, chief taxidermist, collected and mounted the birds. He also made the wax foliage and assembled the group in the case. Assisting him were Glen Downing, John Rohner and Charles Dalton.

Moawad Mohsen, Egyptian student in training, painted the background. Dill directed the work on the exhibit.

73-Year-Old SUI Grad Dies in Des Moines

Dr. Donald McDerry, 73, an SUI alumnus, died Monday afternoon in a Des Moines hospital where he had been a patient for the last two months.

Surviving are his wife, the former Edith Boarts of Iowa City, and a son, Frank, of Des Moines. Funeral services will be held at 3:30 p. m. today in Ottumwa. Burial will be at Agency, Iowa.

Mrs. Stevens, 70, Dies; Funeral Rites Tomorrow

Mrs. Maggie Stevens, 70, route 4, West Lucas township, died at a local hospital at 9:20 a. m. yesterday after a long illness.

Dr. L. L. Dunnington will officiate at the funeral services to be held at the Oathout funeral chapel tomorrow at 2 p. m. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

PLU To Hear Fehling

Phi Lambda Upsilon, chemistry honorary, will hold a meeting Tuesday, March 23 at 7:30 p. m. in room 314 of the chemistry building. The guest speaker, Dr. Fred L. Fehling of the German department will speak on "Science as a National Character."

Author Maurice Samuel To Talk at Hillel

Author Maurice Samuel will speak on "Four Jews" at Hillel foundation Friday at 7:30 p. m.

His discussion concerns Jewish characters in James Joyce's book "Ulysses"; "Remembrance of Things Past," by Marcel Proust; Thomas Mann's "Magic Mountain," and a work of Sholem Aleicham's.

For more than 25 years, Samuel, through his lectures and writings, has been an interpreter of Jewish literature. He is the author of the current best-seller novel, "Web of Lucifer."

Samuel has observed and studied Jewish life through Europe, Palestine and Africa. He has translated the works of such Jewish writers as Chaim Nachman Bialik, Sholem Asch, I. J. Singer and Shmarya Levin.

Samuel is the author of 30 books. He is at present at work on a companion volume to "The World of Sholem Aleicham," dealing with the life and work of the Yiddish classicist, I. L. Peretz.

St. Pat's Student Wins Essay Prize

Roy Duffy, student at St. Patrick's high school, won the $3 first prize in the American Legion auxiliary's annual essay contest, Mrs. Dewayne Doerres announced yesterday.

Second and third place winners, Joe Ries and Helen Lekin, received $2 and $1 respectively. They are students at St. Mary's high school.

All entrants wrote on "The Greatest American Heritage—Liberty."

The contest is nation-wide. Duffy's essay will be entered in the state contest. The winner of that will receive an encyclopedia and his essay will be sent to the national contest.

Mrs. Don Guthrie, 1634 Morningside drive; the Rev. J. Ryan Beiser, professor in the school of religion, and Prof. Harrison J. Thornton of the history department were judges in the local contest.

Annual U.S. fire losses of timber and lumber are enough to build 200,000 houses.

Woman's Club Views Styles

Navy blue, kelly green, lavender, gray, amber and black were the predominating colors at the "Easter Parade" spring style show presented at the Iowa City Woman's club meeting yesterday afternoon in the Community building.

Sponsored by Towner's department store, the show was narrated by Mrs. William Hutchinson.

Typical of the morning attire shown was a navy and eggshell ensemble modeled by Mrs. Velma Harlow. The navy print dress, topped with an eggshell shortie coat, was worn with a straw fabric off-face hat of navy with the new blouse crown. A navy faille handbag with "biscuit" cotton shortie gloves completed her outfit.

For afternoon attire Mrs. R. C. Wheeler was garbed in a black two-piece sheer Eisenberg dress, draped with a taffeta bow. Her full-length black gabardine coat was worn with an off-face black Baku straw hat, black purse and white gloves.

Among the array of dinner dresses shown was a gold crepe, hooded style modeled by Mrs. Glenn Eves. Severe, with straight simple lines, this gown was accented by a gold striped evening bag and two-piece black silk gloves which can be worn as mitts or shortie gloves.

Mrs. G. W. Buxton was in charge of the program, and Mrs. Arthur Klaffenbach and Mrs. Ted Hunter served as hostesses.

211th Squadron To Meet

Flight A of the 211th composite squadron will meet in room 16 of the ROTC armory tonight at 7:30. M/Sgt. Daniel Nelson, university ROTC department, will speak on military law.

Tournament Fans

By BUCK TURNBULL
The DAILY IOWAN Sports Editor

Four weeks ago 928 Iowa high school basketball teams began to hope and pray and plug for the dream uppermost in a schoolboy athlete's mind, winning the state tournament. Now 912 of those teams have felt the bitter pangs of defeat, while 16 have ridden the road of glorious victory to the final elimination which begins here this morning.

The Iowa fieldhouse has been dubbed all too fittingly, 'Heartbreak Alley.' Eight of the top teams in the state will know the meaning of that expression when the first day's play ceases tonight. The other eight teams will keep their treasured dreams alive for at least another day.

The "sweet sixteen" will go to the firing line beginning at 9:30 this morning. And the thrills which dominate every tournament game are sure to pack capacity crowds into the fieldhouse for each of the four days.

This year the tourney procedure has changed slightly from that used in past years. Last winter eight Class A and eight Class B ball clubs won berths in the final meet. This season finds five Class AA, five Class A and six Class B teams among the finalists.

The double A rating is given to the 40 largest high schools in the state—210 schools fall in the A ranking while 678 are classed as B schools.

But from little Conesville with only 16 boys in the school to mighty Davenport with a total enrollment of 2,169, all have travelled to Iowa City for one purpose—to leave for home after Saturday night with the title, 'state champions.'

The defending champion Blue Devils of Davenport have been lodged as the 'favorites.' In fact, they were given the choice to repeat by many fans before sectional play began late in February.

Once in 30 Years

How often has a team won the coveted crown twice in a row? Never in modern-day basketball. That fact alone dims the chances of the deadly Devils from the banks of the Mississippi river.

Only once in the last 30 years has any school—the same Davenport—been able to turn the trick. The repetition occurred in 1929 and 1930, the first two seasons of Coach Paul Moon, now in his twentieth year of tutelage at the Red and Blue school.

First records of Iowa state tournament play show that the meets to determine the "best" in "The Best State in the Land" began 35 years ago in 1914. In the seasons of 1917 and 1918, teams representing Mount Pleasant high school won the state title twice in succession. Thus, Mount Pleasant and Davenport are the only schools in the state of Iowa ever to defend the crown successfully.

Remember When . . . ?

Thrills and spine-tingling games have marked the record over the years. You old tournament fans will well-remember the rise of two great Class B teams, Melrose and Diagonal, to state championships in 1937 and 1938 respectively. The two small schools were "giants" of the hardwood in those seasons.

You more recent tourney followers have seen the dominance of the larger schools since 1940. The perennial state powers of Mason City, Ottumwa and Davenport have been in the limelight.

And who will forget the final game of the 1946 meet, which pitted average Iowa City high school against heavily favored LeMars? Those who saw the contest claim Iowa City's climactical finish was the greatest the tournament will ever see.

The game itself proved that under-dogs always rule respect. The Little Hawks upset LeMars 41-40 by virtue of three baskets in the final 45 seconds.

No Under-Dogs

So the 16 finalists enter the 1948 tournament here today. There are no under-dogs. Every team has the "there's always that chance" attitude which makes even the smallest school a dangerous competitor.

Nine of this year's "sweet sixteen"—Ankeny, Conesville, Loras academy of Dubuque, Fontanelle, Galva, Hudson, Manning, Oelwein, Central Catholic of Ottumwa and Sioux Center—have never experienced the excitement of entering the state finals since the Iowa High School Athletic association began sponsoring the event in 1923.

The other seven have come through to the "big show" at least once, with Davenport's title defense this year being its twelfth journey to the finals. Ottumwa is next in line with this being trip No. 8. Ames has entered the finals five previous times, while Boone with three, Livemore three, Carroll and Sioux Center once each, complete the field.

No First Names Needed

Nicknames always present fascinating play on letters to interest the ardent fan. Here are a few of the "John Henry's" which may be shouted across the fieldhouse floor during the heated play on the hardwood today.

Ames will sport a "Perky" Liddell and a "Rock" Koch to match the three Fontana brothers, Dick, Ron and Ray, of Ankeny in the curtain-raiser at 9:30 a.m. In the second contest of the morning show, Carroll will present a "Denny" Rees and a "Duke" Anneberg against the monickers of "Pinky" Clifton and "Hanky" Stark of Boone.

"Mert," "Skeeter" and "Red" of Conesville will trade baskets with Davenport's ever-dangerous "Skip" Greene and "Stretch" Stange in the opener of the afternoon card at 1:15.

The straight-laced boys from down Fontanelle way show no unusual nicknames, but they may find the going a little rough in the second afternoon game if Loras of Dubuque uses "Kayo" Wareham and "Blackie" Glaser.

Little Galva Consolidated, with a total of 48 boys, will also be up against a problem in the afternoon close-out when it meets "Beans," "Sleepy," "Big Ed," "Stogie" and "Rocko" of Hudson Consolidated.

The evening's action will see "Doe," "Gorpy" and "Chink" take to the hardwood for Livemore, "Mercury" Volker, "Deago" Butler and "Hookey" DeTimmerman of Oelwein will toe the mark against Ottumwa's "Bud," "Ducky" and "Bo." Central Catholic of Ottumwa sports a "Butch" and a "Hooks."

So the stage is set, tournament fans. Pack up your lunch—maybe a little supper-time snack, too—and head for the "Big Top." "The Best Show on Earth" is ready to start the biggest day in basketball.

FROM THE OLD HOME TOWN—Lois Finders, A2, gives the boys from Oelwein some pointers before they open play against Ottumwa's powerful Bulldogs tomorrow. Dick Chado (6) and Jim Butler (8) are the boys receiving the tutoring, and they seem to be enjoying every minute of it.

Wilson and Hickenlooper Split on ERP

Thoughtful men and women who are thinking ahead to next year's elections will want to know how Iowa's senators voted when the upper house passed the ERP bill last Saturday. It was a history-making vote. It was the version of the Marshall plan which has finally been hammered out on the cruel anvil of congressional compromise. As such it was not perfect. It is necessarily the product of many long months of congressional hearings, debates and pressures. But it surely represents the best means yet suggested of staying off another war. Senator Hickenlooper voted with the majority in passing the bill, while Senator Wilson voted against it. One of them, Wilson, has announced his intentions to seek reelection. Iowans will want to think over in their minds whether his vote on this crucial issue truly represents them.

Public Opinion Favor Oleo Tax Repeal

Public opinion as tested by the Gallup poll last week indicates a vast majority of the American people favor removing the federal taxes on margarine. On the national polling, 69 percent favor removing the taxes, 15 percent are opposed and 16 percent said they had no opinion. Surprisingly enough, more farmers agree to this than disagree. But a clear majority of farmers was not shown for either side, since 39 percent favor repeal of the taxes, 37 percent oppose and 24 percent were undecided. The federal government levies a tax of one-fourth cent

It's Time for BIG Talk

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

We are angry because we are losing in Europe; and we are losing because we are merely on the defensive against communism, instead of on the offensive for peace. There was one thing missing from Secretary Marshall's warning last week about the "very, very serious situation"—and that was a direct demand upon Moscow for an immediate conference to ease and devise the situation. If war is the danger and the problem for the other side of the world, too? Why do we operate as if the solution must come solely from us, from our side? Nothing could reveal more clearly the defensive posture into which we have slipped than our acceptance of the proposition that the world is in a desperate crisis, and that we must solve it. Why are we alone? If the world is in crisis, the world must solve it. We need to lift up our eyes, and our sights. Marshall spoke about the "regrettable" rise of passion and alarm in this country. But it is only the fact that we seem to have given up almost every hope for a settlement by agreement that makes passion dangerous. If we were on the offensive for peace, our passion would be an asset to the world. If we were thundering demands for peace, demands for conference to establish the peace, for effective guarantees to stand behind the decisions of such conferences, our noises would not be alarming, but reassuring. Passion in the service of a proper goal is no menace to anybody. To say it is too late for such tactics to produce results is to say that the other side is indifferent to the question of whether there is going to be war or peace—and that is impossible to believe. We need a larger and a better fear, fear for the world, rather than just fear for ourselves. We need to advance from the small fear that poisons, to the large fear that saves. The day after Marshall's statement, the commentators were saying, once again, that "civilization as we know it" is in danger. But it is time to stop looking at the wide world through a circled forefinger. It is not only civilization as we know it that is in danger, but also civilization as the Tahitians know it, and as the Tibetans know it, and as the Afghans know it, and as the Uzbeks know it. All are clearly in danger if war comes. Why do we talk only to ourselves, when we can talk to the world? Why do we talk small, when we can talk big? Once again, the narrow, stifling, defensive position we have taken is shown up by the way in which we have chosen to treat the agony of mankind as if it were a mere matter of holding a line. The defensive against communism will not save the peace. But the offensive for peace may even stop communism, if communism lets the world see that it refuses to accept its equal responsibility for averting the break-up. Let us give up our small fears for ourselves, and take on the greater fear, fear for the world—taking also the power and leverage and stature that go with it.

77 Seniors Petition Against Method of Electing Officers

A petition signed by 77 students protesting procedure for electing liberal arts senior class officers was presented yesterday to Prof. H. Clay Harshbarger, director of the liberal arts advisory office. Signers of the petition said the method adopted at a senior meeting Monday was not representative of the entire class and that it eliminated many persons who might be eligible to run for office. Harshbarger was presented the petition in the absence of Dean Earl J. McGrath of the liberal arts college who was out of the city. Harshbarger represented McGrath at the class meeting Monday. Eva Adell Schlossberg, East Chicago, Ind., was elected temporary chairman then. Petitioners said insufficient notice of the meeting was given and that it was held at an inconvenient hour. Under the terms drawn up Monday, only seniors graduating in the June convocation would be eligible for office. This provision was held to be unfair by those signing the petition who believed any person graduating in 1948 should be qualified for class office. According to plans drawn up Monday, a primary election was scheduled for today. By those plans, nominations from each housing unit would be presented at the ratio of one for every 20 seniors in the unit. The overall total was limited to 50 persons. Nominations from among Town Men and Women would be made from the floor at the election meeting. From among these 50, today's election would narrow the field to 12 who would enter the general election March 23. There should be no arbitrary limit on the number who may be nominated, the protesting group believed. Harshbarger said the liberal arts office called a meeting of the seniors to allow them to decide on a method of electing class officers. Harshbarger added, "Since this meeting represented the senior class, it seems to me dissatisfaction with the results should be remedied by regular parliamentary procedure at the next class meeting." The meeting for primary election of class officer candidates has been scheduled for 4:30 p. m. today. The petition protesting the election methods read: "We, the undersigned, being seniors, wish to protest the decision made at the meeting held in 221A Schaeffer hall Monday afternoon limiting those eligible for offices of the senior class to graduates of the June convocation. In our opinion this election should include those graduating during 1948, either in January, June or in August, with all seniors being eligible to vote."

$25,000 Fire Truck To Be Delivered After June 10th

Iowa City will get its new $25,000 fire truck after June 10, Fire Chief J.J. Clark said yesterday. The machine will be sent here from Des Moines following a demonstration at the Missouri Valley Fire Chief's association meeting, June 8 through 10. The machine will be marked as belonging to Iowa City fire department. It will be kept here in the temporary station next to 234 S. Gilbert street, Clark said. Iowa City is the first municipality west of the Mississippi river to buy a truck of this model, he continued. The truck, latest in fire fighting equipment, has an 85-foot ladder, long enough to reach top floor of Hotel Jefferson, Iowa City's tallest building, in spite of its length, the ladder can be raised and operated by one man. Iowa City contracted for the truck August 2, 1946, after a fire destroyed part of the university's East hall, Clark said.

Need ID Cards To Vote

Liberal arts seniors will need identification cards to vote in the primary election today, Eva Adell Schlossberg, temporary class chairman, announced yesterday. Voting for class officers will be held at 4:30 p. m. in room 221A, Schaeffer hall.

Community Building To House 156 Fans

Iowa City's Community building will be transformed into a temporary hotel Friday to accommodate 156 high school students for the state tournament. Arrangements have been made by the junior chamber of commerce, university officials and Community building directors to house the non-participating team members on Friday night. Cots and blankets will be furnished by the university and will be rented for $1. Officials at the community building will act in a supervisory capacity. Transformation of the auditorium into a temporary dormitory will be made Friday morning after noon, J. Edgar Frame, recreation center director, said yesterday.

You, Too, Can Help

The owner of a local restaurant told about this the other day: A lady entered and asked where she could find the collection container for the AVC-sponsored drive to rebuild Iowa City's adopted Belgian village. The restaurant owner said she had been instructed to ask identification before turning the collection container over to anyone. The lady replied, "Oh, I didn't want to pick it up. I just wanted to put something in it." She also said she had a special reason for wanting to do so, but didn't elaborate on the reason. Afterwards, it was discovered she had deposited a check for $25. This lady's practical demonstration of a way to help international reconstruction is a reminder that you, too, can contribute.

Quad Men Urge $75-a-year Co-op Dorms

By JOHN ELLIOT Non-boarding cooperative dormitories at $75 a year and investigation of the possibility of boarding dormitories on the pre-war cooperative basis were discussed Monday night by the Quadrangle council. The council instructed its special investigating committee to press these points in a meeting later this week with Dormitory Director T. M. Rehder. Approval of these things came after the council heard a report of previous recommendations made by Rehder. On the Quadrangle committee's recommendation for cooperative housing, Rehder presented two alternatives earlier this month. The first proposed cooperative cottages without janitor services. The second called for elimination of these services and bedding furnished by the university. The minimum number of men required to establish any such cooperative unit is 32, enough for one cottage unit, according to Rehder. Because the committee felt the university can provide bedding and laundering facilities more cheaply, it recommended only the elimination of maid and janitor services. Discussion in the council centered around the fact that many students cannot afford increased rates. In order to keep in school those persons who may otherwise be forced to drop out, it was felt less expensive housing was essential. For numerous others to whom the new rates will be a burden, the council felt the university should offer a definite inducement to seek cooperative housing by providing substantially lower rates through cooperative units. Pointing out that there were nine cooperative boarding houses on the campus before the war, council members expressed the opinion that many would be interested in such accommodations. Rehder has said that the university tried to reestablish such units after the war, but lack of student interest at that time forced abandonment of the plan.

Letters To The Editor

"Panic"—not too good for us to enjoy. MR. and MRS. GEORGE E. KELLY, 309 Iowa avenue (Thank you kindly, but you wouldn't try to kid us now, would you?—The Editor.)

My, My! My, my how conditions change! Your one sentence quote from Henry Wallace's remarks in 1940 on the third party makes one wonder! Are you trying to convince us that the national and world conditions are the same in 1948 as they were in 1940? Or are you trying to prove Wallace inconsistent because he correctly recognizes that innumerable changes in the world picture have taken place? L. W. GLEEKMAN, G (No, just wanted to point out that Henry himself recognized at one time that a third party can only mean the election of reactionaries.—The Editor.)

Is Wallace Is, Or Is He Ain't? TO THE EDITOR: In regard to your editorial entitled "My, My, How Times Do Change"...

Well, we figured that meant us too, so we went down to see "Panic." The first thing I did when we finally got home was to read again what O'Brien said about the show. But, after seeing the picture, it didn't seem so clear, so I thought I'd better write this. Now, O'Brien called "Panic" a lot of things. He said it was a "melodrama" and a "tragedy," a "case-study of mob psychology" and a "romance." He said it had some "realistic personality" but "was seldom self-conscious in its imagery."

And when we looked a little further, we found out that it was also a mystery film with a blood-curdling moral: "the ageless terror of a man of godliness and sanity hounded unto death by a group of fools victimized by a perverted intelligence of criminals." I reckon that is what O'Brien meant when he said the movie was better-than-average but "much more than that." I don't think I remember ever seeing O'Brien review an American movie, and I think I know why. American movies don't have credos like this one. I looked that up in the dictionary and it means, belief, and the belief of this movie was just like O'Brien said: "man's desire to believe a lie and then to react accordingly." I'm not sure just what that means but it sure sounds fine. Now, we thought "Panic" was a good show. The acting was fine, and that Viviane Romance was pretty gay, but being from the south, the wife felt sorta disappointed about the mob scene. But I reckon me and the little wife missed some of the "under-tones." We didn't feel "that grotesque and irritating sort of frustrating excitement" which O'Brien said was "melted" by this movie. But, like he said, "fortunately this (the undertones) which makes for its fitness, is not enough to detract from its box office acceptability." We're hoping the Capitol Playhouse will get more pictures like

of the candidates for Student council delegate-at-large comes from Evan "Curly" Hultman. This is the plank which proposes to restore confidence of the students and the administration in student government. In the past the Student council has proven ineffective because of the apathy of both students and the administration toward the council. If the students back up practical issues, the council can be an effective governing body, and a closeness between the students and their council will serve to gain the confidence of the administration. This will make the council an effective, working organization. Any candidate who is cognizant of the need for this confidence to the point of making it a part of his platform deserve the attention of the student voting body. MRS. E. A. CAIRNS, A2 No. 44, Hawkeye Village

Prof. Daykin Tells Job-Hunters 'To Be Your Normal Self' "Being your normal self will get you further than anything I know," Prof. Walter Daykin of the commerce department said yesterday concerning personal interviews. Daykin spoke on the personal application and personal interview, the second of two job clinic sessions sponsored by the University Women's association, in the senate chamber of Old Capitol. "No interviewer likes camouflage or the extreme in appearance," Daykin said. An applicant should keep in mind that the interviewer is forming opinions by what he says, the way he speaks and the mannerisms he exhibits, Daykin said. He cautioned job-seekers to beware of companies which promise everything. "They are overselling and you will be disillusioned if you accept their offers," he said. Daykin also warned applicants against pinning all their hopes on one job. Such an attitude displayed in the interview will discourage the company from offering other jobs which might eventually lead to the job desired, he said.

Supervisors Approve $429,494 for County Highway Improvements

County road improvements totaling $429,494.65 were approved yesterday at a meeting of the Johnson county board of approval and board of supervisors. The proposed three-year project must be approved by the state highway commission before the county can act, according to Ray Josten, county engineer. Measures approved by the board included surfacing of 55.89 miles of local county dirt roads at an estimated cost of $100,068 and bringing of 70.69 miles of county roads to permanent grade at an estimated cost of $230,962.65. The board of supervisors also approved the rebuilding and resurfacing of 30.77 miles of county trunk roads at an estimated cost of $98,464.

County Dependents Get $25,584 During March

Johnson county received $25,584.10 in March for old age assistance and aid to needy blind and dependent children, the Iowa department of social welfare announced yesterday. Total welfare cases handled by the department this month as listed in their monthly statement was 48,532 at a cost of $2,057,070. Monthly assistance is paid on the first of the month for assistance during the month. The sum listed does not include burial expense, remedial eye treatment and medical care for needy blind and dependent children.

'New Party' Tactics TO THE DAILY IOWAN: Apparently the "New Party" (Students for Wallace) political organization on campus is making an effort to draw attention to their candidate by indulging in a "smear" campaign through the medium of letters to the editor. It is alleged that 20 persons who attended a meeting of that organization for the purpose of getting information on the "New Party" candidate packed a meeting of 130 supporters. We can only assume the "New Party" group is interested in publicity or they are very sensitive about the position of their candidate and party. We suggest that they vote for their candidate. In doing so, they insure the election of any candidate that the Republican party may put up. We consider this matter closed. We do not propose to contribute beyond this letter to the free publicity of this group by contributing to an exchange of letters to the editor and to Daily Iowan editorials even though they are reduced to name-calling and smear tactics. ### University To Entertain Visiting Students

High school students visiting Iowa City this week to attend the state basketball tournament will be entertained by a series of events planned by the university, Jim Jordan, director of the university information service, said yesterday. Entertainment planned for the students include campus tours, football and basketball movies, swimming, a matinee of the all-student production "The Elegant Mr. Emperor," use of university game rooms, and guided lectures at the Metropolitan art show. Tours and entertainment are sponsored by the student council, the information service and the university housing office. Campus tours, to be conducted on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, will show students the dormitories, the museum and the Memorial Union. Trips through the engineering buildings where exhibits of Mecca week are on display will highlight the tour. The gymnasium and swimming pool will be open to all visitors when the tournament is not in progress. "A basketball matinee" of "The Elegant Mr. Emperor" is planned for Saturday afternoon at 2:30. Dances are scheduled from 3:30 to 5 p. m. on Wednesday and Saturday.

Court Religion Rule To Hit Iowa Schools

The recent U.S. supreme court ban on teaching religion in public schools will affect dozens of Iowa schools, the state department of public instruction said yesterday. Miss Jessie M. Iowa law provides that no public money shall be given to schools which are "under ecclesiastical or sectarian management or control." The law also says, however, "The Bible shall not be excluded from any public school or institution in the state, nor shall any child be required to read it contrary to the wishes of his parent or guardian."

Who's YOUR Man?

Who should be elected president of the United States? The Daily Iowan is conducting this poll to see whom you would elect if the voting were today. Five different lineups are given. The poll assumes that Mr. Truman is the Democratic nominee and that Wallace does not withdraw. Five different possible Republican nominees are listed. Thus, if the elections were today and Dewey were the GOP nominee, whom would you vote for? Do the same for the other four possibilities. If enough interest is shown, the hypothetical lineups can be changed at a later date with other possible combinations of candidates. All you do is ask yourself whom you would vote for in the five situations given and mail or bring your ballot to The Editor, The Daily Iowan. Be sure to mark your ballot for every one of the five situations. Do NOT sign your name. A running total will be kept. The poll isn't expected to prove anything, and it isn't supposed to be scientific. But it ought to be interesting.

Jaycees Launch Safety Drive

"One out of every two youths starting to school in Iowa City will be hurt, injured or killed before he finishes college," according to Paul Hill, natron safety council director of highway safety for 12 mid-western states.

"Of the 50 percent knocked down, 15 percent will be maimed for life," he said.

Emphasizing that "every Iowa Citizen has a stake in the reduction of these figures," Hill launched the Junior Chamber of Commerce's local safety drive last night at a kick-off banquet in Hotel Jefferson.

Hill substituted for Tom A. Burke, program director of the national council, who was originally scheduled to speak.

The Jaycee drive gets underway today with the placing of a wrecked automobile on the corner of Washington and Dubuque street, according to Jaycee Safety committee co-chairman Carl E. Redenbaugh and Wayne Putnam Jr.

Posters will be placed on the auto reminding passerbyers that they could have been in that "wreck."

A blue light will be placed in the center of the same intersection today. It will be kept burning day and night as long as there are no traffic accidents or fatalities in Iowa City. When an accident or death occurs, the light will be turned off for 24 hours.

Redenbaugh told the group that the safety committee plans to condense the Iowa City traffic code into booklet form to be distributed in order to "acquaint the public with the law."

Beginning April 1, the drive will be concentrated on pedestrian safety. "Courtesy tickets" will be given by Boy Scouts to pedestrians who are found jaywalking, crossing in the middle of the block and cutting corners.

Signs, which call drivers' attention to the fact the pedestrians have the right of way when walking with traffic, will also be placed on street corners.

The month of May will be devoted to safety education in the schools. Key points in this part of the campaign include motion pictures, lectures on safety and the installation of more traffic lights at school crossings.

From June 1 to the end of the drive, Nov. 14, the Jaycees safety drive will concentrate on reducing automobile accidents. Tires, headlights, brakes and other mechanical equipment on autos will be checked by the local garages during this time.

Liberalism Forum Displays Opposing Views on Religion

Opposing views on religious fundamentals were presented last night at the fourth and last in the "Liberalism and the American Scene" series of forums sponsored by the Johnson county chapter of the American Veterans committee.

The panel of three local ministers and one graduate student discussed "Religion and American Liberalism" before a Schaeffer hall audience.

John J. Kamerick, G. Ottumwa, said the Catholic church embraces liberals "all the way from right to left, requiring allegiance to no particular political or economic doctrines."

"But," he said, "the Catholic church cannot be liberal about such basic teachings as the Apostle's Creed." Such creeds and dictums, he claimed, must be accepted with no critical inspection.

"If the liberal doesn't believe certain things required of Catholics," he remarked during the question period, "he can get out of the church."

Dr. Lewis L. Dunnington, Methodist pastor, thought differently.

"The liberal," he declared, "has a free and open mind. He seeks truth in all fields and follows truth no matter where it may lead him."

"He must examine the Apostle's Creed and everything else on the religious landscape."

The liberal, he felt, should not regard the Bible as infallible, but regard it as "a gold mine with the nuggets buried in the mud and rubble."

"The tragedy," he said, "is that some people only travel part way in religious liberalism and throw out all religion with nothing to replace the childhood religious teachings they have relinquished."

Rev. Evans A. Worthley, Unitarian minister, said liberals who in the past explored "frozen" religious institutions were subsequently expelled from those institutions.

"But liberals are now working within religion," he said, "much to the dismay of orthodox and the fundamentalists."

"And I suppose we must give the devil his due," he concluded, "and acknowledge the liberals working outside religious institutions for the same social measures advocated by the churches."

Rev. Howard Thurman, visiting lecturer in the school of religion, described "the crucial dilemma created for the American liberal by the zeal of the Communists."

"Whenever the liberal takes a position with relation to some aspect of economics or social structure," he asserted, "he is attacked in that stand by the Communists."

"So, to avoid confusion, the liberal retreats from his stand and remains silent."

Prof. Eric C. Kollman of the Cornell college history and political science department, was moderator.

AVC Program Chairman Robert W. Iverson announced that a pamphlet summarizing the series will be published and distributed.

Judsons Lecture, Show Color Film on Columbia

A color motion picture, "Neighbor Columbia," was shown to an audience of 200 yesterday afternoon in Macbride auditorium.

The picture was part of an illustrated lecture by Dr. and Mrs. Lyman Judson, writers and lecturers on Latin America.

"Neighbor Columbia," filmed in natural color, traced Columbia's historical development, touched upon the geographical and economic importance of the nation's regions and concluded with a picture of the republic as a visitor might see it today.

The Judsons Iowa City presentation was under the auspices of the SUI extension division and the Iowa City Pan American league.

Wallace Fans Get Pep Talk

By KELLY RUCKER
About 50 Wallace supporters got a pep talk at a meeting in the community building.

It came from Henry Felsen, state publicity director of the Wallace for President committee organized in Des Moines, Feb. 29.

The pep came from jests by Felsen as he commented on his political opponents in the anti-Russian camp. The audience caught on every time. No one who aspires to the presidency—except Wallace—escaped Felsen's jibes.

Felsen is the author of a dozen novels and several magazine fiction stories. The novels are for high school students, he said. But he's working on a novel for adults now.

He said America currently is in the grip of hysteria. War hysteria. It's a sign of neurosis, he said. Americans, he said, want "Doug" MacArthur to come home and take over so they can escape problems facing America. It's a father complex, he added. It's "kind of a rot all through America" the way Americans want someone to take over, he declared.

Americans are in a hurry to give up their liberty out of fear of losing liberty, Felsen said. This immature attitude, he continued, is like the "old art of seduction—it's inevitable, why not now?"

Interspersed in the talk were these phrases: Marshall plan—"The Truman blue print for war"; a suggested alternative was the "Wallace plan" with "no political strings to European aid"; "simplicity is the Wallace campaign approach." And he applied hybrid corn science to political science.

Felsen maintained that the "war scare" is manufactured for the political year. With election of Wallace, the war threat will diminish, he claimed.

Felsen was a student in the university from 1933 to 1935.

The Iowa City Wallace for President committee unanimously, before Felsen's speech, named Prof. Bernard Baum of the English department and Prof. George R. Kernodle of the dramatic arts department as vice-chairman in the Wallace committee.

In nominating the two professors, Chairman Cliff Richards described them respectively as men who "are not afraid to undergo a little fire," and "will stand up and be counted for Wallace."

The group also made final the change of name from Progressive Citizens of America to Iowa City Wallace for President committee.

(The combined cost of living on a national average was 67% higher in December, 1947, than in 1939—source U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.)

Fuel, labor and materials have increased tremendously the cost of making electricity. While it is true that your greater use of electric service for more and more jobs—plus our constant attention to economy and efficiency—has helped to keep its price down, every day finds it harder to maintain present low prices for electricity.

Rock Island To Run Two Extra Trains

A few reservations are still open on special Easter vacation trains to Chicago and Omaha, according to local Rock Island officials.

A train will leave Iowa City for Chicago at 3:30 p. m., March 24, and another will leave for Omaha at 4:45 p. m., March 24.

Reservations for these trains must be made in advance. The official requested that reservations be picked up as early as possible to avoid confusion the last few days.

Chorus, Orchestra To Present 'Elijah'

The university chorus and symphony orchestra will present Mendelssohn's "Elijah" oratorio tonight at 8 o'clock in the Iowa Union main lounge.

Prof. Herald Stark will direct the groups in their annual pre-Easter appearance.

Dr. James R. Houghton, SUI graduate and professor of music at Boston university, will sing the featured baritone role of "Elijah."

Free tickets for the performance may still be obtained at the service desk in the Union.

Will you be going home? Will you be visiting friends? Or—if you are staying here—why not suggest that your folks visit you! Either way, Overland Greyhound provides convenient, comfortable, low-cost travel.
