

Streetcar Chivalry Still Lives

DENVER, COLO. (P)—The Denver Post took a poll to see whether street car riders believe a man should surrender his seat to a feminine fare spender. Forty-two percent of the men questioned gave a flat "yes" answer but only 27 percent of the women were as emphatic.

Youths Testify Against Draft, UMT Plans

WASHINGTON (P)—A 17-year-old high school science student told senators yesterday they ought to see to it that the draft and UMT problems without "forcing all American boys to go through the army system."

Richard L. Van Nort, slender but confident teen-ager from Haddonfield, N.J., told the senate armed services committee that it should keep an "open-mind" on both universal military training and a temporary draft.

"I hope you won't forget that the statistics you are dealing with have a lot of flesh and blood in back of them," he said.

Van Nort testified as a member of the Philadelphia Christian Youth Council.

Robert Tesdell of Chicago testified that 10-million young church people are opposed to both UMT and the peacetime draft.

Tesdell, 29, appeared for the United Christian Youth movement. He said this included 40 Protestant denominations and such groups as the Y.M.C.A., Y.W.C.A. and other youth organizations.

Van Nort said young men his age favor an adequate defense but believe it can be had "without uprooting millions of boys." He suggested that voluntary enlistments might do the job if some things about military life were "straightened out."

Three farm organizations went on record as opposing both the draft and UMT—unless the nation faces a war crisis. And if such a crisis exists, then the country should be told, and not only the draft and UMT, but industrial production of war supplies should be pushed, one group said.

House Plans Vote On Tax Cut Today

WASHINGTON (P)—The house got set yesterday to pass the $4.8-billion income tax cut bill on to President Truman today.

The rules committee decreed only one hour of debate before the vote.

The committee took that course after some Democrats had served notice they would block an effort to rush the bill to President Truman yesterday.

Speaker Martin (R-Mass) predicted the house will approve the senate's version of the bill by more than a 3-1 margin. "The tax cut is certain," he said.

He added that if the President vetoes the bill, as is widely expected, the veto will be overridden.

There was one brief flare of Democratic opposition to the bill on the house floor. Rep. Monroney (D-Okla) shouted:

"At this moment when democracy is in great peril we are asked to reduce taxes. Before the year is out congress will draft the sons of the mothers of this country. We had better draft the dollars now and keep taxes where they are."

Replying to Monroney, Rep. Rich (R-Pa) said:

"The gentleman from Oklahoma wants to tax and tax the people of America and spend and spend all over the world. I think we've got to take care of America first and let other countries look out for themselves until we do take care of America."

Safety Publicity Man 'Breaks' With Creed

CHICAGO (P)—Paul Jones is director of publicity for the National Safety Council.

He's the man who keeps track of how many accidents occur on highways, in the home and on the farm. At intervals he issues warnings against driving after drinking, holding fireworks in one's teeth or hanging storm sash in a high wind.

At present Jones is having trouble keeping up with his work. His arm is broken in two places. He slipped and fell on an icy driveway at his home.

Labor — President Invokes T-H Provisions

Truman Enters Coal Strike

WASHINGTON (P)—President Truman set the Taft-Hartley labor law in motion late yesterday to try to stop the nine-day-old coal strike.

He ordered a board of inquiry to bring him within 13 days the facts of the miner's pension dispute between John L. Lewis and the operators.

When this is done, the government can ask federal court to issue an injunction to halt the walkout. This carries with it a threat of contempt of court penalties, jail or fines, if it is ignored.

Mr. Truman acted six hours after Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, scorned a government plan to settle his quarrel with the soft coal operators.

Federal conciliator Cyrus S. Ching went immediately to the White House to announce failure in his efforts to make peace.

Mr. Truman set up a three-man board. He expects to appoint the members today. Their job will be to tell him the situation; not to make recommendations. They must report April 5 or before.

Mr. Truman, in accordance with language of the Taft-Hartley act, said the strike if continued "will imperil the national health and safety."

Ching's settlement plan, which Lewis spurned, called for a fact-finding board to investigate the dispute over payment of miners' pensions and recommend action.

The government announced another cut in railroad coal use unless the mines reopen.

GERMAN GOVERNMENT

WASHINGTON (P)—President Truman tossed overboard yesterday administration plans for a civilian governor over the American occupation zone in Germany.

The White House announced that General Lucius D. Clay would remain as military governor.

Proclaim Jewish Nation To Function After May 16

JERUSALEM (P)—Representatives of Palestine's 600,000 Jews announced last night a provisional Jewish government would begin operation in the Holy Land May 16, the day after the British yield their mandate.

In a joint meeting of the Jewish agency and Jewish National Council in Tel Aviv, the Jews rejected any plan for a Holy Land trusteeship, as suggested by the United States to the United Nations.

Jewish-Arab warfare continued, with a bitter battle raging last night in the Montefiore district of Jerusalem, a heavily fortified Jewish area. An Arab-driven truck exploded in the district, demolishing between 30 and 40 houses, an official statement said. A British soldier was killed in the gun battle that followed.

Most observers had predicted that a formal proclamation of a Hebrew state would emerge from the Tel Aviv meeting but the action did not go quite that far.

A statement said that prior to May 16 the Jews will "do our utmost to minimize the chaos created by the present government and we shall maintain so far as lies within our power the public service neglected by it."

The British plan to yield the mandate May 15, and complete withdrawal of all their armed forces by Aug. 1.

The Jewish agency is the administrative body elected by the world Jewish congress. The national council (Vaad Leumi) is the administrative body of the national assembly elected by Palestine Jewry.

Both groups appealed for the earliest possible arrival in Palestine of the United Nations commission on partition and for recognition of a provisional Jewish government in Jewish areas of Palestine by the commission. The commission secretariat is already here.

Senate Approves Aid

WASHINGTON (P)—The senate shouted approval yesterday of a $275-million military aid program to bolster Greece and Turkey against Communism.

The voice vote came as the house began debate on a $6,205,000,000 two-continent foreign aid bill, with a supporter and an opponent both labelling it a "war measure."

West Asks Russian Decision on Boycott Of Germany Control

BERLIN (P)—The United States, Britain and France asked yesterday for a showdown on whether the Soviet Union wants to maintain four-power rule over Germany.

This came in a demand upon Soviet Marshal Vasily Sokolovsky to set a date for the next meeting of the allied control council before taking up work of lesser four-power committees.

Late yesterday the Russians partially ended their boycott of four-power government by calling for a meeting of subcommittees on currency reform and currency printing for later in the week. It was the first such action by the Russians since they walked out of a control council meeting Saturday.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, the American military governor, declared his own boycott however, by informing Sokolovsky that the Americans would not attend any subcommittee meetings until a date is set for another council meeting. Sokolovsky is current council chairman under the rotation method.

Britain and France supported Clay in his demand.

The Russians had previously cancelled seven meetings scheduled for yesterday in allied control council agencies. A top American official said:

"We are tired of being pushed around. The Soviets think they can cancel meetings on subjects they don't want to discuss and call meetings on subjects they want to discuss."

The official said the United States was making the demand upon Sokolovsky to determine whether the Russians intend to continue four-power negotiations or just call certain committee meetings that suit their own propaganda purposes.

U. S., Russ Tangle Over Czechs, Italy

LAKE SUCCESS (P)—Russia charged yesterday the United States is attempting to "blackmail" Italy and Czechoslovakia. The U. S. retorted such a charge is "fantastic" and unworthy of answer.

Andrej A. Gromyko, Soviet deputy foreign minister, told the United Nations security council that the United States is using "promises and threats, whip and cake" in the Italian campaign.

He declared that the U.S. is employed in Italy a "policy of rude pressure and blackmail." It was the first reference here to Italy since the western powers called for the return of Trieste to Italy.

Gromyko denounced all charges against Russia in the Czechoslovak case as being groundless. He said the Czechoslovak people would not yield to "blackmail" and "cheap propaganda" coming from the nostrum of the security council.

Warren R. Austin, chief U. S. delegate, promptly answered Gromyko's hour-long blast against the European policies of the United States, Britain and France. Austin attacked what he called these "fantastic stories about the United States."

The American delegate said that it has always been obvious that such stories are the "propaganda of the arbitrary rulers of the Russian people."

British Troops Reinforce Troubled Trieste Border

ROME (P)—British military police reinforced the border in Trieste Free State last night as a precautionary measure.

A foreign ministry spokesman in Rome said Italy would reject Yugoslavia's second offer to barter her claims to Trieste for Italian Gorizia.

Maj. Gen. Terence S. Airey, chief civil officer of the allied military government in Trieste said fresh detachments had been moved into the border area dividing Trieste territory between Yugoslavia and British-American occupation zones.

Russ Envoy Booms Peace

NEW YORK (P)—Soviet Ambassador Alexander S. Panyushkin charged last night that a "monstrous" slander campaign is being waged against Russia—a nation that "has always stood and stands now for peace and international cooperation."

In his first major speech in this country, the youthful envoy charged that Winston Churchill and American forces of "international reaction" are trying to stir up enmity against the Soviet Union.

"They will never succeed," he declared.

Panyushkin said the phrase "iron curtain" was "two little catchwords put into circulation by the light hand of Goebbels and later picked up by Churchill."

He said, however, in an address delivered to a dinner meeting of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship:

"It is not the Soviet Union, but certain circles from the camp of international reaction, which are well known to all of us, which have lowered this curtain in order to conceal beyond it the truth about the Soviet Union and about countries of eastern Europe."

Eleven times in the 1,600-word speech Panyushkin said Russia wants to live at peace with the United States and all other countries.

Panyushkin said any "desire for freedom" on the part of Russia's neighbors, or "any intention on their part of taking the road of democratic reforms," is being "distorted" by propaganda into "an act of aggression" by the Soviet Union.

He defended the recent coup in Czechoslovakia as reflecting "the will of the Czechoslovak people for freedom, independence and democracy." And he suggested that this was none of the western powers' business.

It was carried out, Panyushkin said, "in full accordance with the constitution of the Czechoslovak republic" and it constitutes "an internal affair of the Czechoslovak people themselves."

After Russia's present "demobilization" is completed, Panyushkin said, the Russian army will be made up solely of men born in 1926 and 1927. This is an estimated 4-million men.

By KELLY RUCKER A heated contest in yesterday's 12-hour all-campus balloting ended in the election of Paul R. Lange, C4, Cedar Falls, and Evan "Curly" Hultman, A3, Waterloo, as men delegates-at-large to the Student Council.

On the basis of complete unofficial returns, top polling honors in the election went to Jean Gallagher, A3, Appleton, Wis., who received 1,719 votes to win a woman's delegate-at-large post. Joyce C. Bahr, A3, Princeton, Ill., with 1,432 votes won the other woman's delegate-at-large position on the council.

Lange and Hultman polled 953 and 938 votes respectively. Richard Dice, A2, Cedar Rapids, and Katherine McNamara, A4, Winterset, were the two top vote pullers in the 11-candidate slate for board of trustees, Student Publications, Inc.

With 1,106 and 1,032 votes respectively, they thus won two-year terms on the board. Keith A. (Pete) Glasgow, A3, Iowa City, with 1,018 votes was third high. This gave him a one-year term on the board.

The Student Elections committee ordered a recount of the Board of Student Publications election.

Student council President Mel Heckt said the council elections are final unless someone contests the count. In that case, he said, the ballots would be recounted. Murray Wier won the Tailfeathers athletic award.

A small turnout of independent Town Women elected Valorie Dierks, A3, Iowa City, as their representative to the Student Council.

She polled 45 votes to defeat Dorothy Roman, A3, Moline, Ill., who received 28 votes.

Marian Lager, A3, Anawan, Ill., was elected president of the Town Women's organization. Georgiana Falb, A4, Elgin, Iowa, was elected vice-president.

Elected secretary was Eloise Sybil, A2, Iowa City. Dorothy Hertel, A3, Amama, was elected treasurer.

The final count of votes for liberal arts senior class officers resulted in victory for Janet Gutz of Hampton who won the presidency with 134 votes, according to Eva Adel Schlossberg, chairman of the senior election committee.

Elected vice-president by the June graduates was Carolyn Anderson of Maller who ran a close second with 130 votes.

Jean Dawson of Des Moines received 125 votes to win the office of class treasurer, and Charles E. Guggenheim of Cincinnati became class secretary with 116 votes.

Victors in the election of officers of WRA, UWA and YWCA will be announced April 15 as part of the ceremonies of UWA's all-campus "Recognition Day." Betty Dickinson of the elections committee said last night.

There were 3,199 votes cast in the election. This was 374 less than last year's 3,573 total.

Thirty-five students—members of each group slated on the ballot—counted the ballots. They completed their work about 12:45 this morning.

They tabulated the results in a basement classroom in Schaeffer hall. Counting began at 8 p. m. yesterday.

Bridges Asks Ban Of Wallace News

WASHINGTON (P)—Senator Bridges (R-NH), chairman of the house appropriations committee, demanded yesterday that news of Henry Wallace be banned from Voice of America broadcasts.

Secretary of State Marshall and his aides were before the committee to urge it to restore cuts made by the house in the department's funds for the fiscal year beginning next July 1. Marshall asked for $204,318,531, and the house whacked off $17,101,068.

"I'm not going to vote money here to publicize Henry Wallace and his efforts to depreciate American foreign policy," asserted Bridges.

He was told by C. E. Bohlen, state department counselor, that news about the third party candidate for president is watched carefully.

Kentucky Tops Baylor, 58-42

Wins NCAA Basketball Crown; Holy Cross Downs Kansas State

NEW YORK (AP)—Kentucky's classy Wildcats won the NCAA basketball championship last night by overwhelming Baylor, 58-42, before 16,174 fans at Madison Square garden.

The smart, sharpshooting boys from the Blue Grass country succeeded Holy Cross' Crusaders, who triumphed over Kansas State, 60-54, in a preliminary consolation game for third place.

Kentucky and Baylor will meet again this season since both are participants in the Olympic tryouts opening at the Garden Saturday.

The Kentuckians won the eastern NCAA title by defeating Holy Cross here Saturday night while Baylor, champion of the South-west conference, was annexing the western division at Kansas City with a final win over Kansas State.

Adolph Rupp's Southeastern conference champions stepped off to an early 13-1 lead and never were headed. They led 29-16 at the half.

Baylor, scoreless for the first 5 minutes, pulled up to 44-35 after the intermission. But the Wildcats staged another spurt and won breezily.

In the consolation game Holy Cross stood off a stout last half rally by Kansas State to defeat the Wildcats 60-54.

The Crusaders, led by George Kaftan and Bob Cousy, stepped off to an early lead and increased it to 36-24 at the half.

Kansas State rallied after the intermission and at one time pulled up to 50-47, but the Crusaders outlasted the late spurt.

Hawks Hang High Hopes On Sprinters

On the blackboard at the east end of the fieldhouse pool Coach Dave Armbruster has chalked "400-yard freestyle relay—that's our baby."

The Iowa relay quartet, holder of the American long course record, is sighting in on the next plum in line, the National Inter-collegiate meet crown, at the University of Michigan's short course pool this weekend.

The relay combination of Capt. Wally Ris, Erv Kraub, Duane Draves and Stanny Marsh, and five other Hawkeye swimmers entrain this morning for Chicago and thence to Ann Arbor for the annual NCAA championships. Armbruster's team is scheduled to arrive at the Michigan campus by 7 p. m.

The remainder of the squad is composed of Dave Brockway, Dick Lake, Dick Maine, Bud Griesbach and Larry Larimore.

The relay's best time over the long course is 3:33.4. Speculating on what the same performance would be worth on a short course, the above time can be roughly translated as about 3:26.2, or better.

The world's record stands at 3:24.5, established by the 1944 Great Lakes team of Jerry Kershner, Wally Ris, Dobson Burton and Bill Smith. The national collegiate mark is 3:26.6, accomplished by Yale in 1942. The Michigan team of the same year set the NCAA meet record of 3:27.8.

If Iowa's combination falls short of the above targets at Ann Arbor, the national AAU meet at Yale the following week offers another opportunity.

Ohio State won last year's NCAA crown in 3:30.0. The national collegiate long course mark had stood for seven years at 3:37.6 before the Iowa flashes began taking their swaths at it during the current campaign.

Red Sox Win, 3-2, On Cardinals' Errors

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Making the most of two Cardinal miscues in the eighth inning, the Boston Red Sox defeated St. Louis 3-2 yesterday in an exhibition game which drew 2,297 cash customers. The Sox overcame a one-run deficit in that inning when Joffre Cross fumbled a grounder and Del Rice made a wild throw. Stan Spence opened the inning with a single, and Neil Sheridan was safe on the error by Cross.

Both scored when Rice fielded Bill Goodman's bunt and then threw wild deep into foul territory behind first base.

Third Baseman Whitey Kurovski of the Redbirds had broken a 1-1 deadlock with a home run over the left field fence in the sixth.

Bradenton, Fla. (AP)—Freddy Hutchinson pitched two-hit ball in the six innings he worked for the Tigers yesterday as Detroit defeated the Boston Braves 6-3 in an exhibition baseball game.

It was the first Detroit victory in four starts over the Braves in pre-season exhibitions.

Hutchinson was in great form as he hurled no-hit ball for 3 1/2 innings. Jim Russell singled to center after two men had been retired in the fourth to become the first Boston base runner.

Hutch wasn't found for another hit until the sixth when Al Dark tripled over Hoot Evers' head in center field. There were two out at the time and the Braves were unable to rescue Dark.

Meanwhile the Tigers had scored twice in the fourth and twice more in the fifth at the expense of starter Bob Hogue. They added two more markers in the eighth against Glenn Elliott.

Tailfeathers' Award Goes To Murray

Murray Wier was named last night as the athlete who had done the most to further Iowa athletics and sportsmanship during the past year.

The contest was sponsored by Tailfeathers, campus pep organization, which each year submits a list of Iowa's outstanding athletes to the students of the University of Iowa for selection.

Wier was chosen over nine other athletes and a radio announcer. There is no campaigning for this award.

For winning Wier will receive a key presented by Tailfeathers. Last year Herb Wilkinson was the recipient.

Wier broke into Iowa's lineup four years ago as a sparkler, and since that time has come more and more into the limelight. This year was his greatest and was culminated by his being chosen first string all-American on several basketball teams.

Wier was always known as a hard competitor and throughout the Big Nine last year as "the hardest man to guard." He started out with what was thought before the season to be a mediocre team.

By his hard driving, never say die spirit and unceasing accuracy from the field, he led Iowa's Hawkeyes to second place in the conference race.

On the way he broke three Iowa records: Most points in one season by an Iowa player, 399. Most field goals in one season by an Iowa player, 152. Most field goals for Iowa player in the Big Nine, 197.

He also bettered three Big Nine marks: Most points in one season, 272. Most points in four years in Big Nine, 584. Most points in three years in Big Nine, 515.

295 Athletes Entered In Purdue Relays

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—The complete entry list for the sixth annual Purdue relays Saturday was announced yesterday.

It shows 297 athletes from 26 schools entered the 15 events. Among the outstanding individuals are Harrison Dillard of Baldwin-Wallace, world record holder in the hurdles, and Charles Fonville at Michigan, American indoor record holder in the shot put.

In the university division Michigan leads with 21 entries. Ohio State is second with 19 and Indiana and Wisconsin each have 18.

Other entries: Notre Dame, 15; Purdue, 14; Michigan State, 11; Northwestern, 7; Drake, 6; Kentucky, 6, and Marquette, 1.

Miami leads in the college division with 23 entries. Others are: Baldwin-Wallace, 18; Butler, 15; Wheaton, 15; Michigan Normal, 13; Western Michigan, 10; Ohio Wesleyan, 10; DePauw, 10; East Illinois, 10; Chicago, 8; Ball State, 8; Loyola, 7; Bradley, 6; Indiana State, 4, and Monmouth, 4.

Bill said yesterday that he has invented a ball which can be cut in two sections with a centerpiece about two inches wide, which also is divided in half. All the parts, of course, are locked together, but for fitting purposes, they can be moved separately just like an automatic footmeasurer when you're buying a pair of shoes.

The span measurement of the hand can be made merely by moving the centerpiece back and forth "till a comfortable position is found. It's even good for left-handed bowlers. The angle of the finger holes is obtained by moving the top and bottom halves of the ball.

However, McClaren, a scientist, is not content to stop there. He has developed a device which gives span and angle measurements in one reading and cannot go wrong. Setting the angle for the finger holes is the most important because it gets the holes in such a position that equal weight is distributed on each finger.

He's Been Sick, Lost Weight, But — Iowa's Own Little Murray Wier

— May Dazzle New Yorkers Thursday

NEW YORK (AP)—Eastern basketball fans are anxiously awaiting tomorrow night. The big reason for their hopeful expectations is the appearance of Iowa's All-American Murray Wier in the third annual East-West All-Star game in Madison Square garden.

The charity contest is sponsored by the New York Herald Tribune's fresh air fund.

The name of the little red head from Muscatine, Iowa, has spread like a heat wave in this sector of the country. Murray's being a member of the Western team is the chief topic of discussion here.

Wier arrived in New York City Saturday with a severe sinus infection, which has bogged him in workout so far. Yesterday he felt a little better.

Ed "Moose" Krause, Notre Dame basketball coach and mentor of the Western squad, was worried over the condition of the Hawkeye record-breaking star.

Following a scrimmage in the New York Athletic club Monday, Krause cornered Murray's roommate, Dick Shrier of Ohio university. Wier and Shrier are staying at the Lexington hotel.

"Please," begged Krause, "see that Murray wears his rubbers and covers up if the weather gets cold. That's one boy I need."

The spirit of the West team is the best of any all-star group of the series to date. This was the opinion of Ev Morris of the New York Herald Tribune. Morris annually picks the East and West teams.

In yesterday's practice Wier was only a shadow of his former self. He has lost 10 pounds since he has been sick and remarked yesterday that he finds it much harder to run now than during the past season.

"Maybe it's just too much basketball," quipped the red head, "but I just don't feel right."

Whether that is true or not, he still dazzled spectators with a superb shooting exhibition Monday. From all indications he will be in the West's starting lineup tomorrow. Other likely starters are A. L. Bennett of Oklahoma A. & M., Alex Hannum of Southern California, Thornton Jenkins of Missouri and Otto Schnellbacher of Kansas.

Relief duty will come from Arnie Ferrin of Utah, Jack Burmaster of Illinois, Gene Berce of Marquette, Ed Miken of DePaul, Andy Wolfe of California, Dan Miller of St. Louis and Shrier.

The team yesterday named Bennett as captain of the Western quintet. The East chose Leland Byrd of West Virginia as its leader.

So Wier gets his life's ambition tomorrow night—to play in Madison Square garden. With glandular disturbance eases on nearly every big college team, Wier still is one of the chosen few to appear in this star contest.

According to Krause, "If you saw him in street clothes, you'd probably never pick him, but 'wow' how that kid can fire a basketball!"

And said one New York writer, "This little fellow is destined to stand Eastern fans on their ears Thursday night."

"Don't look for Wier to score a lot of points in the All-Star game. He's playing with a bunch of boys who are used to scoring themselves. But if his cold is any better, he'll give the eastern folks an inkling of 'how Murray Wier does it.'"

Decision on Olympic Team Due Friday

Science Will Spin With Bowling Balls

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Olympic basketball committee will meet here Friday to decide how it will select the 14 members of the team which will represent the United States in the 1948 Olympics.

Lou Wilke, chairman, said the only thing he was certain of was that the team will consist of 14 players and that seven players will be chosen from the college ranks and seven from the independents.

In the 1936 Olympics, 13 of the 14 members of the basketball team were from AAU fives. The only collegian was Ralph Bishop of Washington university. Seven players were selected from the Universal AAU champions and six from the Bartlesville Oilers.

Wilke also said the coach of the winning team in the Olympic tryouts which start Saturday will be named the Olympic coach. An assistant coach also will be named Friday.

At the coaches luncheon, Dr. H. C. Carlson, veteran coach at the University of Pittsburgh, was named by his fellow mentors as the one who has contributed the most to basketball over a period of years. Three men had been nominated for this annual award which last year went to Henry "Hank" Iba of Oklahoma A & M.

Harold Anderson of Bowling Green university, chairman of the officials committee reported there has been a definite trend toward uniformity of the interpretation of the rules throughout the country.

The following recommendations were submitted:

1. A clearer, more definite interpretation of the rules, the interpretation to be nationwide, rather than sectional.

2. Interpretation to include such items as blocking and screening, charging the ball, kicking the ball, traveling and fumbled dribbles.

3. Movies should be made available and free clinics should be conducted for coaches, officials and spectators.

4. Less attention should be paid to backcourt fouls which cause no particular damage. This would reduce whistle-tooting.

Lombardo Will Try For Speed Mark Today

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Guy Lombardo, who is fast becoming as famous for his boat racing as his band leading, today will attempt to set a new U. S. speed record for powerboats in his Tempo VI.

With a new 1,300-horsepower, 12-cylinder Allison engine mounted in the 25-foot boat, Lombardo hopes to better the 124-mile an hour record established by Gar Wood 16 years ago in the St. Clair river, near Algonac, Mich.

In a trial spin Monday, he estimated the Tempo VI "hit around 120 miles an hour."

The attempt will be made over a measured mile in Indian creek, chosen for its constantly calm water.

"I'm reasonably certain of bettering Wood's American record," Lombardo said, "but what I really want is Sir Malcolm Campbell's world record of 141.74 miles an hour. England has had it nearly nine years and it's time it was brought back to this country."

Trains, Busses, Airlines Add Extra Facilities

Students leaving Iowa City this afternoon will find extra transportation serving them on all carriers.

United Airlines has a Mainliner 180 "Easter Special", 21-passenger plane leaving for Chicago at 3 p.m., according to B. D. McWilliams, local station manager. The plane will arrive in Chicago at 4:25 p.m.

Most of the seats on the regular 1:35 p.m. flight westbound and the 2:05 p.m. plane eastbound have been reserved by students, McWilliams said.

Extra cars have been added to the Rock Island's afternoon Rockets to handle the heavy load of reservations. Frank Meacham, ticket agent, said. Students going east will take the Corn Belt Rocket leaving Iowa City at 4:45. Those travelling west will leave at 5:50 on the Rocky Mountain Rocket.

Earlier, the Rock Island had arranged special trains for students, but the government order prohibiting special trains with coal burning locomotives has prevented their use.

The Union bus depot indicated extra busses will be available on the regular schedules.

Extra cars will be added to Grand Central trains leaving at 1:10 p.m. and a special trip will be made at 2:45 p.m., according to the local office.

City Workers Start Patching Pitted Streets

A city-wide job to repair heavy winter damage to Iowa City streets got underway yesterday as workers began patching holes in pavement on Iowa avenue.

Chuckholes in asphalt-surfaced streets, bulges in brick paving and axle-deep mud in dirt streets have contributed to the particularly bad condition, described by City Engineer Fred Gartzke as the most serious since he entered office in 1931.

Frost, sent three and one-half feet into the ground by severe winter cold, was the prime factor in the abnormal condition of streets this spring, the city engineer said.

Gartzke listed heavy traffic and a partial thaw followed by heavy snow and ice, trapping water under the paving, as other reasons for the damage.

Many requests have been made to the city hall this month for surfacing dirt streets, he said. A rock surfacing program which includes several areas of the city is planned but cannot be stated until the ground settles, Gartzke added.

Thirty tons of asphalt, to be delivered about April 1, has been ordered by the city for the street repair job. A mixture of asphalt and coarse rock is being used to fill the holes in asphalt paving.

Solon Father Asks $31,400 Damages In Dvorsky Death

A $31,400 damage suit resulting from an auto accident Jan. 26 in which Elwood Dvorsky, 17, Solon, was killed, was filed yesterday in the Johnson county district court.

Edward J. Dvorsky, father of the high school youth and administrator of the estate, filed the suit against Warren Harding Johnson, driver of the truck which struck and killed Dvorsky, and the Farmers' Co-op Elevator company, Martelle, owner of the truck.

The petition claimed the accident resulted from "carelessness and negligence on the part of the driver."

Dvorsky said his son's life expectancy at the time of his death was 42 years and asked $25,000 for damages.

In a second count, Dvorsky asked $1,900 for funeral expenses and interest. Funeral expenses were $863.16, he said.

The plaintiff's third count asked $4,500 for the loss of his son's services on his farm.

Young Dvorsky was struck on the back of the head by the rear vision mirror on the truck cab, as he was walking along Highway 218 north of Solon.

Will J. Hayek is attorney for the plaintiff.

Following the accident, Johnson was charged with manslaughter in a sheriff's information but he was cleared by the grand jury for the February term of the Johnson county district court.

Saigon Invades IC In Novel Campaign

An innovation in advertising technique appears to have eased its way into Iowa City.

Mrs. Edith Frederickson, who spends several hours a week watching thousands of coins go through the city's machine that counts and rolls parking meter receipts, caught a couple of coppers bearing a "new look" last week.

Inscribed in red on little circular slips of white paper firmly affixed to the two pennies was the message, "Saigon is Coming."

Employees in the city hall were kept guessing for awhile. The suggestion was made that "Saigon" might be a cousin of "Kilroy" — with a more unusual method of presenting himself to the public.

"Saigon's" identity remained an enigma at the city hall for a couple of days. But the puzzle was solved when one employee noticed a Des Moines paper advertising "Saigon"—in a conventional manner—as a movie.

The Married Student Coop will award a basket of groceries to both first and second place winners in the final contest.

Damage Totals $470 In Two Auto Accidents

Two weekend automobile accidents were reported to police yesterday, with damages totaling $470.

A car driven by Louis Robert King, 107 Central park, side-swiped a parked car owned by Richard Burton Lierle, 603 River street.

The accident occurred Sunday at 8:10 p.m. on Newton road in front of University hospitals.

Lierle reported $250 damage to his car, and King listed $150 damage to his automobile.

Friday at 5:30 p.m. cars driven by Kirby V. Anderson, Spencer, and Gil Gradinger, Waterloo, collided in a traffic line on the Iowa avenue bridge.

Anderson listed $100 damage to his car. Gradinger reported $20 damage to his car.

Geology Students Enjoy Tester's Private 'Beach'

POINTING TO THE SPOT WHERE WAVES FLATTENED AN "island" through erosional processes is Prof. Allen C. Tester of the geology department. With Tester are Emerson K. Beckley (left) and Harold J. Bissell, two students studying the effects of wave erosion and deposition. The experiment is being conducted on a screen table-tank combination 28 feet long and 7 feet wide. An electrically-operated wooden paddle at the rear of the table creates wave-action. (Daily Iowan Photo by Doris Engelby)

Used To Study Wave Action

By RUSSELL ZELENIAK

Prof. Allen Tester of the geology department and graduate geology students are spending a lot of time at Tester's private "beach" where the temperature is 73 above zero.

Here, Tester directs the students in an illustrated study of beach-forming processes.

From this sub-tropical retreat, the genial Tester assures the experiment is going well.

"Yesterday one of the students built an island from sand, and after 24 hours, that's the remainder of it," he said, pointing with a wooden rod to a spot of sand slowly eroding out of sight.

He explained that the "island" will disappear from wave action leveling it off, while the island's sands will migrate toward the main shoreline where it will form a ridge.

The ridge will get bigger from wave deposits of sand and eventually extend the length of the beach. As the tide goes out, other ridges will form below the initial ridge on the gentle, seaward-sloping beach.

This is a simple explanation of erosional and depositional effect of waves, according to Tester.

"Approximately every hour the students write down the rate and type of change made to the shoreline," he said. "They work out definite problems dealing with the amount of sand eroded or deposited during specific lengths of time."

Tester complained that the night before the "ocean" leaked out. "But we stopped the leaking today," he added.

Tester's "beach" and "ocean" are located on a combination screen table and water tank 28 feet long and 7 feet wide in the geology building basement.

The "ocean waves" are created by a wooden paddle attached to a steel arm and operated by a 1/4 HP motor. The size of the waves is regulated by sliding the paddle up and down the steel arm, thus lengthening or shortening the paddle's strokes.

To simulate tidal action, water is let into the tank slowly for "incoming tide" and gradually released for "outgoing tide." At high tide the ocean is one and one-half feet deep.

The wave-making machine, built at Tester's request in 1929, is the first machine of its type to be used in geological experiments.

Food service at the Iowa Union will be suspended for spring vacation after the evening meal today. Service will resume for breakfast, March 30.

The building will be open from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Thursday and Friday, from 9 a.m. until midnight Saturday and from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Monday.

Regular building hours will be resumed March 30.

Cairo Dean Claims —

Italy To Go Communistic

— In April Elections

By PHIL MILLER
City Editor

Italy will probably go Communist in the April elections.

This statement was made in an interview yesterday by M. T. Hefnawy, former minister of Egyptian agriculture and dean of the Cairo college of agriculture.

Hefnawy, now adviser to the minister of agriculture in Egypt, is a patient at University hospitals.

The Egyptian statesman strongly disagrees with communism, but he thinks "the new religion" is likely to spread throughout Europe unless the U.S. finds an alternative to starvation for Europe's millions.

War is not that alternative, he said. "Wars can only destroy people and towns—they cannot destroy ideologies."

"If the United States wants to stop communism," he claimed, "she must raise the standard of living of the millions of poor people."

Speaking fluent English, Hefnawy said he believed the western allies "greatest fault is that they killed Germany so completely — they should have left some life there."

"By depriving Germany of all its industries, he explained, "poverty is created. This helps communism."

"Now, Germany as a block against Russia has been destroyed."

Going back to the subject of war, Hefnawy said he thought "America would win a war with Russia, but at a very, very high cost."

"Historically, you know, that's the fate that has always befallen a nation that attacked Russia." America would deprive herself of practically all her wealth and industry to win such a war, he said.

"And would the defeat of Russia mean the defeat of communism? I believe not. War would probably increase the number of Communists," he said.

Hefnawy arrived in Iowa City by plane Monday. He plans to be in Washington, D. C., April 5 for a meeting of the World Food Council. He is the Egyptian representative to the council.

An Easter Message

From The Churches of Iowa City

The thought of Easter always reminds one of a fresh start—a new life. It is the time of the year when the grass is turning green . . . the atmosphere is refreshed and vibrant. It is the time that one thinks of love, kindness and friendship. Jesus taught us His ideas of freedom, a love of mankind . . . His way of life. It is because of His sacrifices that we have the opportunity to go to the church of our choice to worship Him.

Coming Decision at Nuernberg

A decision on the guilt or innocence of 23 I. G. Farben leaders now on trial at Nuernberg as war criminals will give a clue about our concept of total war.

There has been convincing proof laid before the world of the vast, inter-woven connections of these industrialists in helping Hitler to power.

Yet, by the rule of precedence, they may be let off on exactly the same grounds that freed H. Horace Greeley Schacht.

He was Germany's leading financial wizard and was a close associate of the Farben leaders before and during the Nazi regime. With them he helped finance Hitler to power.

Schacht was acquitted, however, in the 1945 trials. The court sustained his plea that he didn't know about Hitler's evil purpose.

The judges now hearing the trials of the 23 Farben leaders are bound by a rule of the American military government issued after Farben's trial. That regulation set up the All American War Crimes tribunal and decreed that it should be guided by the decisions of the previous international tribunal.

The basic principle underlying the war crimes trials has never been universally accepted. But to let off the industrialists after convicting some of the military would be rank injustice.

The fact that conviction might involve some leading American industrialists ought not to prevent action.

Spring Needs a Press Agent

We resisted it. We fought it. "No one," we decided, "was going to force The Daily Iowan to print one of those corny editorials on spring this year—early robins and grass roots and all such stuff."

But spring seems to be so completely ignored that attention must be called to it. Doggone, everybody just seems to have forgotten spring.

For instance:

Some students walk in the warm promising night. They fail to see and wonder at the star-studded sky—probably hurrying to a Wallace-for-president constitutional meeting.

No vases of flowers adorn the desks of young female professors. You'd probably find, instead, a red-backed copy of Kinsey's "Sex Behavior in the Human Male." Compelling sociological interest, of course.

A languid, smoking coed at ease in a chair in a booth in front of Old Capitol. Her absent stare doesn't indicate she's absorbed by the mystery of growing things, of campus grass grasping a renewed hold on life. Nope—she's just mentally counting how many ticks left to sell to that performance.

The rushing Iowa river carrying debris-filled spring thaw water over the Burlington street dam. The rails are empty—where each spring hundreds pause to watch the energetic, swirling, thick water toss huge logs about. Guess everybody was voting in the student election.

So it goes. Precinct caucuses, mid-term exams, vacation, worry about the draft, French movies, nine cents a glass for milk—how can the soft, ease-creeping embellishments of spring buck a combination like that.

Spring, you'll have to get a good press agent to ballyhoo your innocent way in this atomic age.

Roberts, Petersen To Attend Meeting

A conference on adult education will be held for Iowa school superintendents and board members at the Savory hotel in Des Moines Monday and Tuesday.

Prof. Hew Roberts of the department of education is advisor of the conference which will be sponsored by the state department of public instruction.

Prof. E. T. Petersen, executive dean of the division of research and teaching, will address the group on "The Community School." Dr. Cyril Houde of the University of Chicago and Homer Kemper of the National Education association are also listed as principal speakers.

The conference is to be based upon discussion groups which will attempt to get an interchange of experiences. Roberts said.

Representative from about 300 Iowa towns will attend the conference, he stated.

Highway 218 Opened As Iowa River Drops

Highway 218 was re-opened to traffic north of Iowa City yesterday morning as the Iowa river continued its slow drop.

The river reached a level of 12.3 feet at the Hydraulic Research station at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. It should continue to fall slowly unless heavy rains fall, according to officials at the hydraulic station.

Who's YOUR Man?

Who should be elected president of the United States? The Daily Iowan is conducting this poll to see whom you would elect if the voting were today. Five different lineups are given. The poll assumes that Mr. Truman is the Democratic nominee and that Wallace does not withdraw.

Five different possible Republican nominees are listed. Thus, if the elections were today and Dewey were the GOP nominee, whom would you vote for? Do the same for the other four possibilities.

If enough interest is shown, the hypothetical lineups can be changed at a later date with other possible combinations of candidates.

All you do is ask yourself whom you would vote for in the five situations given and mail or bring your ballot to The Editor, The Daily Iowan. Be sure to mark your ballot for every one of the five situations. DO NOT sign your name.

A running total will be kept. The poll isn't expected to prove anything, and it isn't supposed to be scientific. But it ought to be interesting.

Panacea Tour the State?

Harvard has its Hasty Pudding show, Princeton the Triangle production, Pennsylvania the Mask and Wig, and Iowa—Panacea. If these other presentations are half as good as the recent Kanzell upon the authors should be most thankful.

Now that the tradition of a Panacea show has been established (according to Henry Morgan it takes one year for the job) why not imitate these other schools and take the show on tour during spring vacation?

The staff of the university are always trying to build a reservoir of good will in the state, and I don't know of anyone more qualified for the job than someone like "The Elegant Mr. Emperor."

A tour of midwestern cities would be good publicity for SUI, and also might provide financial backing for future productions.

History Lesson

Not quite as startling as man bites dog, but still news. O'Brien (Sunday, March 21) fights Incas! Cortez (and Power) fought Aztecs. (Or are all the history books and Webster's Collegiate wrong?)

Advice to O'Brien: You can't tell the Indians without a program for would "the relationship between names on the program and identification of character" still "escape" you?

In view of the newspaper shortage, might it not be advisable to fill the first two-thirds of his reviews and retain only the dozen lines actually pertinent to the movie being reviewed?

WALTER L. BERG, A4
509 Rundell

(You're right, and the history books and Webster's Collegiate are right. But, Incas, Aztecs, the Zarabanda—what Power was really fighting, according to O'Brien, was a lousy script and a losing battle with the history books and even with Webster's Collegiate—The Editor.)

Hits Young GOP Tactics

I have had the misfortune of witnessing one of the most unfortunate developments in recent Young Republican history.

After the disgraceful petty power manipulation last year (in which the present officers of the league, then officers of ADA, steamrolled and captured the league), I thought things might settle down.

So far this year, with the exception of one or two little things, these men have conducted themselves rather honorably. And the league has made progress. But now I see they are up to their old tricks again.

Stassen is a fine candidate for president, although not the only one. But, since these officers favor Stassen, they have revived some of their old tactics to force all opposition to silence. The Vandenberg supporters were told to get out of the league or keep their mouths shut.

Even though I personally favor Stassen I believe the supporters of Vandenberg and other Republican candidates, even though minorities, have just as much right to form clubs within the framework of the league as have the supporters of Stassen.

When will the league grow up?

Europe's Economic Outlook Brightens

Most Countries Need More of Everything To Reach Safe Level

By WILLIAM T. CHASE

LONDON (AP)—Battered Europe's food, fuel and health conditions looked better today than at any time since the end of the war.

A mild winter reduced suffering and helped conserve precious fuel supplies. No epidemics were reported.

But the improvement was only relative. Germans still existed at near starvation levels. France and Italy fought inflation as they awaited Marshall plan aid, and Britain struggled in an economic morass. More of almost everything was needed by most of the nations and needed quickly.

An Associated Press survey of conditions all across the continent indicated Switzerland, Eire, Belgium and Portugal were the best off generally, with Russia and the Soviet-dominated nations also reporting improved living conditions.

There was little change in food rationing, but even dollar-short Britain had more fresh and canned fruit and Moscow correspondent Eddy Gilmore reported the Russians were eating better than at any time since the beginning of the war.

Crops were ahead of schedule and spring planting prospects looked promising. A late February cold spell was reported to have done little damage.

Health statistics showed decrease in some common diseases. There were fewer malnutrition cases.

This is the way things shaped up with spring just around the corner.

Britain—The nation's health improved greatly during an exceptionally mild winter. Food remained rationed but there was more fresh and canned fruit available to compensate for other shortages.

Coal stock piles were higher than expected and the fuel ministry said the nation holed to export two or three million more tons than she had promised under the Marshall plan.

Eire—This was still a land of plenty. Farmers predicted bumper crops and Washington reports indicated Eire probably would get the 400,000 tons of wheat from America set as the import target. Dubliners joked that half of the population of Britain had crossed the Irish sea for an unrationed steak.

France—Wheat prospects looked good and coal supplies were on the upgrade. But bread was still rationed and one of Premier Robert Schuman's main tasks was to induce farmers to sell their products at a reasonable price rather than hoard them. Wages were frozen the first of the year yet prices continued to go up. Contracts for Italian wine, Dutch eggs and Spanish oranges were signed in a further effort to force French domestic prices down.

Switzerland—The nation remained an oasis of abundance. American soldiers on leave from Germany stared incredulously at crammed candy stores and butchers' windows in Geneva. Bread alone was rationed. Industrial Swiss firms sent food parcels to Germany, Austria, France, Britain and other countries. Winter snows melted ahead of schedule to keep hydro-electric power stations humming.

Germany—The mild winter was a blessing to fuel-short Germans struggling to keep warm in bomb-shattered homes. Germans in the Anglo-American zones received an average food ration of 1,300 calories daily, less than half the amount consumed by a working American. Nonetheless nutrition authorities said there were no epidemics or deterioration in health. Crop prospects were favorable. American correspondents who toured the Soviet zone, however, said Russia may have to ship grain into the area to meet rations in the late spring and early summer.

Austria—The people survived the winter far better than they did last year and crop prospects were brighter. The food ration rose 300 calories to 1,850 daily. Coal output increased and the nation began exporting electricity to Germany, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia. General health improved but still was below prewar standards.

Italy—Mild weather cut fuel costs but prices of almost everything else continued to soar. Bread, spaghetti and olive oil reached postwar peaks but eggs dropped from ten to five cents each. Authorities estimated 15,000,000 quintals of grain (one quintal is 220.46 pounds) must be imported to maintain rations until the next crop. Health authorities cited malnutrition as the chief cause for an increase in tuberculosis.

Greece—The United States pulled Greece through the winter nearly without privation by supplying nearly $400,000,000 worth of food under its post-UNRRA program. Prospects were reported excellent for nearly normal farm production.

Belgium—Rationing of all commodities neared an end after a mild winter in this land of abundance. Only milk, fats, bread and sugar remained on the ration, and even the poor were said to be well fed by present European standards. Health was fairly good and fuel supplies adequate.

Holland—Food, fuel and health conditions were described as fair, with the food ration maintained at 2,100 calories daily.

Portugal—This country got through the winter better than most others on the continent. The standard of living rose, prices dropped and many essentials came off the ration list. Crops improved and many essentials were imported. The death rate decreased.

Spain—Lower food prices brightened the economic picture for the average Spaniard. Winter rains assured good crop prospects. The nation looked to United States credits for much needed farm machinery and transportation equipment. Health conditions were said to have improved.

USSR—The Russian people were reported eating better than since the beginning of the war under the new rationing system. Increased agricultural planting and favorable winter weather led to hopes for an excellent crop this year. Coal production was above prewar standards and health and morale were said to have improved.

Czechoslovakia—The food outlook was brighter than it had been for months, although rationing continued. Imports of grain from Russia and meat from Poland and Hungary were expected to safeguard the nation's food supply. The mild winter prevented an acute coal shortage.

Hungary—Neither food nor fuel was a serious problem this winter. The shops had plenty of unrationed food and there was enough fuel to heat most homes. Spring crop prospects were described as reassuring.

Romania—Wheat, sugar, bread and vegetable oil remained on the ration but adequate supplies of food were available at state shops at six times the initial stabilization prices. Mild weather prevented a serious fuel shortage. Official circles said there was a slow but definite decline in disease owing to malnutrition.

Bulgaria—Increased planting was called for under the state economic plan and the ministry of agriculture said crop prospects were good. The country imported 75,000 tons of wheat from Russia. The fuel supply was described as sufficient and health conditions better than last year.

Yugoslavia—A new government system of prices and supply went into effect March 1 designed to stem soaring free market prices of most consumer goods. Middlemen were abolished and additional food provided for heavy workers. Fuel and health statistics were not available.

Poland—Authorities said the three-year economic program extending through 1949 had been assured thanks to Soviet aid. Russia was scheduled to deliver 200,000 tons of grain to provide bread until the next harvest.

Norway—Rationing continued but food was described as plentiful. Fuel was obtained from the forests. Mild weather and a heavy snowfall promised plenty of water for hydro-electric plants. The national health was reported very good.

Sweden—Butter, meat, coffee, tea and sugar remained on the ration because lack of hard currencies limited imports. More imported fuel was needed to increase export of newsprint and other paper products. The fuel commission said imports of coal were "satisfactory," with most of it coming from Poland. General health conditions were described as good.

Denmark—Food supplies continued adequate, although white bread and butter were still rationed. Most of Denmark's large butter production was exported, leaving little for the people at home. Authorities said the country needed more animal feedstuffs.

Finland—Food conditions were much better last year, but prices were soaring. Rationing continued. The bread supply was expected to be maintained with the help of 300,000 thousand tons of grain from Russia. Coal was scarce and Finns living in the country had to use wood for fuel. Normally the wood was saved for export as paper or woodpulp. Health was considerably improved.

THESE DAYS— Real Meaning of Truman's Speech

By George E. Sokolsky (King Feature Syndicate)

The tremendous barrage of war propaganda is designed to arouse the American people to the truth, long undisclosed, that the United States, in spite of the tremendous sacrifices of our people, did not win the last war.

A war is won when the peace is won. We won the battles, but we lost the peace. We lost it at Teheran, Yalta, Potsdam and San Francisco. We did not lose it in Prague a week or so ago; we lost it in the White House during the war.

So, we have to face the cold fact that we may have to start all over again. That is the meaning of the Forrestal conference at Key West! It is the meaning of President Truman's sudden speech to the congress! It is the meaning of all the excitement.

Soviet Russia for a year has been engaged in a cold war with the United States. The objective of central Europe, North China and Manchuria and inroads into western Europe via Italy and France.

Soviet Russia made definite progress during the cold war. She moved her line westward from the Oder to the Elbe, including in her area Hungary and Czechoslovakia; in China and Korea, the Communist forces made great strides.

However, the program has not been altogether successful. France resisted inroads and remarkably produced a sound government. Italy remains uncertain until April 18. Korea has not been conquered.

The role of the United States has been complex. Politically it has not been possible for those in charge of government to admit that the whole of Roosevelt's foreign policy was a tragic, costly and perhaps irreparable mistake.

Those in control of government were his coadjutors in error.

They tried to save what they could of it, but day by day, Teheran, Yalta, Potsdam, and San Francisco plague them, particularly the idiotic Morgenthau plan, the dual plan in Palestine, the double-dealing with Chiang Kai-Shek.

The Marshall plan of economic assistance became involved in the Truman doctrine, the latter sound if also applied to China, the former sound only if a political union developed in western Europe.

Nevertheless, strides were made in American policy. The people discovered that the build-up given Stalin and Soviet Russia in this country since 1933 has been false and damaging to America. While national consciousness has not been aroused to a fervor equal to that of Soviet Russia, the American people have rediscovered their own country. Communists have no longer a free ride in the United States or in Great Britain or France. Fellow-travelers are marked foul.

Secondly, the United Nations has proved a failure, as some of us foretold. It is capable neither of making the peace nor of preventing war. It has degenerated into a talkfest. The American people, while not ready to give it up, place less dependence upon it.

Finally, we have come through the aftermath of the war, economically sounnder than almost anyone anticipated. And that is what counts. The next war, like the last, will be an industrialists war. Whoever can produce the means of destruction in the greatest quantities and of the most devastating quality will win in the end. Therefore, we need not fear—that is, if once we set our minds upon the target. Our target for a long time to come will be Soviet Russia.

This is what, in simple terms, President Truman is trying to tell us.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT In a Funny Sort of Fix

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

The two men looked like truck drivers. They were very tired. "Come on, we'll make the two," said one. "Be in New York at six."

"I'm licked," said the other. "Look. Let's go to a hotel and sleep four hours. We'll make the six. So we'll be a little late."

They sat down on a bench in Washington's union station to talk it over.

One of them laughed. "Hey, when did I sleep last?" he asked. "Was it the night before last, or the one before that? I've forgotten."

"I struck the other as funny, too. 'And I want to eat,' he said. 'I want to eat, I want to sleep, and I have to get to New York, and I got four hours to do all three.'"

it and eat it while you sleep," said the other.

"Or a nice shoe sole," said the first. "Fall asleep chewing it like a dog."

"If we did eat," asked the other, "what would it be, lunch or breakfast?"

"It'd be breakfast," said the first. "Because I haven't eaten for twelve hours."

"It would be lunch, by the clock," answered the other, pointing.

"The first picked up the newspaper from his lap.

"It looks like war," he said, pointing to the headline about the President's speech.

"No, it's peace," said the other. "We just had a war."

He turned back to the newspaper headlines, maybe because it was something to do that was easier than deciding. "Hey, do you suppose everybody in Washington is like us? They don't know what to do the next four hours?"

The other laughed. "Put salt and pepper on the bedspread," he said. "Come on. We're going to sleep."

"All right," said the first. He threw the paper away. "We'll catch the six o'clock war."

The two men walked out of the high arched gateway to where the cabs waited in the sun.

than the Earth and four-fifths as heavy.

Venus' distance from the sun is two-thirds as far as Earth's. It is a little warmer there than on the Earth.

Venus has no moon and in this way differs from the Earth. Its year is scarcely longer than our week—only seven and one-half days. A day and night there lasts about a month by our calendar.

"The presence of carbon dioxide would make plant life on Venus possible," Wylie said. "However, persons could not live there because of lack of oxygen."

Astronomy Students — Discover Venus

By HARLEY ASHBAUGH

Could it be a flying saucer?

At 2:30 yesterday afternoon four or five students and Dr. C.C. Wylie, head of the astronomy department, were gazing toward the heavens as they stood on the east side of the Physics building.

Each was using his thumb and index finger to form an "o" through which he sighted.

Another man joined the group. "I've found it," one of the students jubilantly said.

The newcomer nudged one of the men and asked in an undertone, "What are you looking for, Mac?"

"Venus," was the reply.

The late arrival tipped back his head, shielded his eyes and squinted. He saw only the "clear blue sky."

"Come over here, I'll show you," the obliging professor said. Then, by using a cornice of the building as a guide, he again located the Earth's twin sister.

The latecomer then took the position where the professor was standing and soon located the bright spot in the sky.

"Gee, it's awfully bright," he exclaimed.

"I looked a week ago," Wylie related, "but the sky was too cloudy to see until yesterday. It will be visible on clear days all through April."

Venus, like all of the other planets, shines by reflected light of the sun. It is brighter than any other celestial object except the sun and moon.

"Venus is always cloudy, so its face has never been seen," Wylie explained. "It has lots of carbon dioxide and scientists have been unable to detect water vapor. For this reason, the atmosphere on Venus is likely to be dry and dusty."

This planet is called the Earth's twin sister because the two are so much alike. It is a little smaller

No Answer On Hillcrest Food Situation

Hillcrest residents who petitioned Gov. Robert D. Blue Monday to investigate the food situation in that dormitory reported no action on the request last night.

According to petition signers, the request arose from dissatisfaction with the food situation in the dormitory cafeteria. Complaints against dormitory food were also heard earlier in the year. At that time T. M. Rehder, director of dormitories, appeared before the Hillcrest council to answer complaints.

Monday's petition was the result of recent illness in the dormitory which effected about 200 men, the signers said. It emphasized in the petition to the governor that the men felt the dining operations at Hillcrest should be investigated.

Referring to the recent illness, Arley Blankenburg, Quasqueton, said, "We don't necessarily say that it was the food, but we feel the whole dining service operation should be investigated."

Jack Bernstein, Newark, N. J., another signer, said the main purpose of the petition was to bring the complaint "to the eyes of the public."

Dr. Chester I. Miller, student health director, said analysis of food served at Hillcrest showed that it was not responsible for the illness. An intestinal infection, which is contagious, caused the outbreak of illness, Dr. Miller said.

George Kauffman, Audubon, council president reported that the council "will not take any action" in the case.

Accident-Proof Tool Sends One To Hospital Second Injured

CHICAGO (AP)—A demonstration of an accident-proof tool sent one man to a hospital and another to a physician's office for treatment of injuries yesterday.

The device is a gun powered by a blank .22 caliber cartridge which fires a short, threaded rod into a wall. This eliminates the need of drilling holes and screwing in bolts to hold up signs or tubing.

About 50 persons gathered at the General Outdoor Advertising company, to see it work.

Richard T. Reidy, 56, the concern's electrical manager, reported to police that he held his left hand lightly over the front end to demonstrate the gun's safety. Suddenly it discharged.

The rod pierced Reidy's hand and wounded Charles Brenchley, 40, Montreal district manager of the company, in the neck. He was standing nearby.

Brenchley, who lives at 137 Balantine avenue, Montreal, was taken to Alexian Brothers hospital and Reidy to a doctor's office for treatment.

Reidy said he was at a complete loss to explain the accident. He said a sharp tap is necessary to fire the gun "but it discharged anyhow."

Iowa Air Defense System Discussed By Military Men

DES MOINES (AP)—Plans for perfecting an air defense system for Iowa were discussed yesterday at the statehouse.

Brig. Gen. Charles H. Grahl, state adjutant general, said the project was scheduled for discussion at this time regardless of the international situation.

Participating in the conference were Maj. George W. Vass of the national guard bureau in Washington, D. C., and Capt. C. A. Taylor, a regular army instructor in air control and warning methods.

General Grahl said the Iowa setup, which hasn't been started yet, will include such technical equipment as radar. The new units also would be trained in directing the use of the planes in the Iowa national guard squadrons, should the occasion arise.

The general said the plan calls for 24 officers and 350 men. There would be a headquarters established in Des Moines and several branches elsewhere in the state.

Where the branches, or "cells" as they are called, would be located has not yet been determined.

Air units of the Iowa national guard are under the air defense command which is charged with the air defense of the United States.

Three persons, charged with intoxication, appeared in police court yesterday before Judge Emil G. Trotter.

Ed M. Walters, Iowa City, was sentenced to eight days in the county jail. John C. Jensen, route 6, and Lyle O'Conner, 529 S. Clinton street, were fined $27.50 each.
