

Russ Traffic Control Grab Brings Draft, UMT Demands

WASHINGTON (AP)—New calls arose yesterday for a great preparedness program to show Russia the U.S. will not be pushed around.

Coming on top of Russia's seizure of traffic control in and out of occupied Berlin, there were these developments:

1—The two biggest veterans organizations—the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars—spoke out urgently for universal military training and a limited peacetime draft. The American Veterans committee did not go along.

2—For two hours, the house armed services committee questioned Secretary of Air Symington on plans for a 72-group air force. There are now 55 groups. Rep. Rankin (D-Miss.) demanded in a house speech that the United States build "the greatest air force in the world."

3—President Truman asked congress for $3-billion more for preparedness, "to carry out our purpose of achieving peace." The sum would be for the armed forces expansion outlined by defense chiefs last week.

Rep. Boggs (D-La.) told the house the Russian action is "a challenge to congress to pass selective service immediately and bring our military force to its full authorized strength."

He said of the Russian traffic maneuver: "I cannot imagine a greater threat to peace."

Commander James F. O'Neil of the American Legion said universal military training is needed to halt Russian expansion.

The VFW viewpoint was expressed by the committee by Omar Ketchum, who said:

"We have steadfastly maintained our nation must be strong in peace—that the price of preparedness and vigilance is small compared with the enormous cost of war in both lives and treasure. . . . we must never again lead ourselves to the brink of disaster as we did in 1941."

The American Veterans committee, a World War II group, said in opposition to UMT that it does not believe that a large trained citizen reserve would stop any aggressor nation.

Course Transfers Eased on GI Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The veterans administration made it easier yesterday for World War II veterans, training under the GI bill to change their educational or vocational courses.

The agency ruled that veterans studying in public high schools and colleges no longer need the agency's prior approval before changing courses. Approval by school officials will be sufficient.

Veterans enrolled in other schools and job establishments which have "adequate counseling service" also may transfer into new fields without advance approval.

Veterans in schools or job establishments not authorized must continue to ask VA permission to change.

No New AAF Duds

WASHINGTON (AP)—The house decided yesterday that the air force does not need new duds right away.

It voted down 72 to 48, a proposed $10-million appropriation to begin replacing the present khaki uniforms of the air force with a new-looking blue uniform which was modeled before congressmen last month.

Labor — Omaha Settles; Strike Pinch Felt

Nation's Idle Totals 500,000 As Work Stoppages Continue

Omaha Local Ends Meatpacking Strike

OMAHA (AP)—Union and company officials yesterday reached an agreement to end the 32-day strike of more than 300 union workers at the Omaha Cold Storage company.

A meeting of local 120, United Packinghouse Workers of America, CIO was called last night for ratification of the agreement.

Terms of the settlement will be announced later, a union spokesman said, adding that they are "basically" what the union proposed.

The union first asked a 13 cent hourly wage boost and the company offered 6 cents.

H. C. Sheridan, president of the firm, said initial crews would report to the plant today if the settlement is ratified. Several days of preparation will be required before full operations can be resumed.

The strike at the Cold Storage company plant had no connection with the nationwide meat packing strike despite the fact the local is affiliated with the UPWA-CIO.

President Truman talked over the coal strike with his advisers yesterday, but no direct step to force its halt was announced.

The conference was called to study the problem, but not necessarily to reach final decisions, the white house said. No decision was reached, a participant reported.

The nation's idle through work stoppages, meanwhile, totaled more than 500,000.

A survey showed that more than 40,000 workers in coal-dependent industries have been made idle by the 18-day old strike of 400,000 United Mine workers.

Steel production sagged, with 38 banked blast furnaces across the nation. Steel mill operations slumped from 103 percent to 82 percent in the Youngstown, O., region. In the Birmingham, Ala., region, production was down to 68 percent of normal.

President Truman could have sought a Taft-Hartley order to halt the miners strike when he received a report of the coal fact-finding board Wednesday. Instead, he let it be known he would study the report before deciding his next step.

Some federal officials think a Taft-Hartley injunction would be hard to enforce because John L. Lewis maintains his miners stayed away from work on their own decision.

Rep. Hartley (R-NJ) co-author of the Taft-Hartley act, renewed his request that congress make the anti-trust laws apply to unions. His proposal is aimed at Lewis, union chief of the striking miners.

The strike of 100,000 CIO meat handlers for higher wages went through its 17th day in plants across the nation but supplies were reported adequate in most places. The only exceptions, the American Meat institute reported, are in some midwest and southwest localities where pork is scarce.

The meat dispute fact-finding board worked to complete the report it must submit to President Truman by April 8.

A strike of AFL financial workers went through its fourth day at the New York Stock and Curb exchanges, but operations were reported near normal. The AFL United Financial Employees union said it would ask non-union workers to take part in a general strike but did not say when.

The AFL International Typographical union announced it would fully comply with a federal court order banning any bias against non-union printers. The ITU told striking locals they must open new negotiations or face loss of strike benefits.

In Chicago, the ITU local whose members are on strike against five daily newspapers, scheduled a conference with employers for today.

Cite T-H Act as Basis 'For Industrial Unrest'

WASHINGTON (AP)—A four-man minority of the senate-house "watchdog" committee on the Taft-Hartley act said yesterday the law "has laid the basis for industrial unrest."

In a report to congress, the minority group said the act "already has been the direct cause of work stoppages throughout the country." No specific stoppages were cited.

Senate-House Committee Approves Global Aid Bill

The U. S. Takes to The Air

MAP LOCATES AMERICAN air corridor from Frankfurt to Berlin through which special flights will be made to supply Americans in Berlin with food and passenger service as a result of Soviet restrictions. Shaded areas are American, British and French occupied zones.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A senate-house conference committee approved a $6,098,000,000 global foreign relief bill late last night. Announcement of the committee's action by chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich) capped a day long session of the ten conferees. They worked at unprecedented speed to approve aid for Europe and China, both threatened by Communist expansion.

The compromise, which is expected to be quickly approved by both houses today provides for $5.3-billion for the first 12 months of the four and one-fourth year European recovery program, $275-million for military aid for Greece and Turkey, and $463-million for aid to China over a 12-month period.

Any Logical Berlin Move?

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.

The first and natural reaction to the Russian attempt to encircle 25,000 allied troops and civilians in Berlin is that General Clay should arm those troops and drive them through.

In former days, that almost certainly would have been done if a foreign power tried to interfere in any such fashion with the free and legal movement of Americans. We have fought over such issues on more than one occasion.

But war, and actions which might lead to war, are a more serious matter in the middle of the 20th century than in the early days of the 19th.

There is no question of the right of allied forces to occupy their agreed zones in Berlin. There is a grave question whether that right is worth starting shooting about.

Occupation of Berlin is highly important in our efforts to mobilize the Germans for the cold war. Also to the countries of Western Europe who feel themselves impotent against communist aggression unless they can be certain of our capability to defend them.

But from a coldly military standpoint, the only viewpoint from which it is safe to consider the present situation, Berlin isn't worth it. Especially it isn't worth a gesture which could only end in futility.

The allies don't have enough military strength in Europe now to back up an attempt to use force, and General Clay says the Russian stoppage of our trains cannot be broken immediately without force. For the time being, we are waiting for the Russian answer to our protest.

The allies, then, while still conducting negotiations over the Berlin communications tangle, might well busy themselves by sending heavy reinforcements to their occupation troops in Western Germany. Determination, backed by plenty of muscle, will probably settle the Berlin crisis and the similar one which is expected to develop in Vienna at any time.

But a handful of doughboys with machine guns and light mortars, trying to push those trains through the Russian troops now, might be committing suicide in a cause which we are not yet prepared to carry to a successful conclusion.

four and one-fourth year European recovery program, $275-million for military aid for Greece and Turkey, and $463-million for aid to China over a 12-month period.

The China aid would be divided as follows: $338-million for economic aid under the general applicable provisions of the European recovery program, and $125-million for additional aid through grants, on such terms as the U.S. president may determine, to be used as the Chinese government sees fit.

The bill also would provide $60-million for the international children's emergency fund of the United Nations.

The bill authorizes the Reconstruction Finance corporation to make $1-billion available immediately through a loan to start the European recovery program on its way.

Loans of $50-million are authorized to initiate the Greek, Turkish, and Chinese programs.

The house had previously approved a $6,205,000,000 "package" foreign aid bill. The reduction was made in aid to China. The house had authorized $570-million for a 15 month period commencing April 1 as compared to the senate figure of $463-million for a 12 month period.

The conferees, composed of five members from each of the two foreign committees, also agreed to direct the administrator to discourage the participating European nations from shipping to Russia and her satellites commodities which this country would not ship to them directly.

The house also gave the administrator the right to regulate exports if he deemed it in the national interest. But the conferees toned down this provision which would have given the administrator authority over export controls. These are now under the jurisdiction of the Department of Commerce.

And reports from Europe strongly indicated that few of those countries will have any part of cooperating with the Spanish regime which was branded "fascist" by the United Nations in 1946.

'Tooney' Spaatz Resigns as Airforce Head

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Carl A. ("Tooney") Spaatz, who successfully led more troops in air battle than any other man in history, will retire July 1 as chief of the U. S. airforce.

The White House announced that the hard-bitten, 56-year-old "Flying Dutchman" will be succeeded by Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, 49, vice chief of staff since Oct. 1, 1947.

A nephew of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R-Mich), Spaatz's successor is a native of Milwaukee, Wis. He served as director of central intelligence for almost a year, and returned to duty with the airforce in April, 1947. He has been in the airforce since 1923.

Spaatz will remain in an advisory capacity. He requested retirement but gave no reason.

Postpone Decision on Gasoline Rationing; Krug Asks Stepped-up Fuel Production

WASHINGTON (AP)—A decision on possible voluntary rationing of gasoline this summer and fuel oil next winter was postponed for two weeks yesterday.

The petroleum industry advisory committee decided to survey the situation in detail before making any recommendations.

At the same time, Secretary of the Interior Krug asked the governors of eight major oil producing states to cooperate in stepping up production as greatly as possible without violating accepted conservation practices.

Although some government officials say they anticipate sharp shortages in gasoline late in the summer and of fuel oil next winter, one industry spokesman discounted such predictions.

Action Expected Today On Tax Cut Veto Move

WASHINGTON (AP)—Whether or not American income taxpayers will get a reduction this year may be known by tonight. And the odds favor a cut despite increased spending for defense.

President Truman's veto of the $4.8 billion tax reduction bill will go to congress at noon today, a White House conference of administration and congressional leaders decided yesterday.

Senate and house leaders said a vote will begin immediately to uphold or reject the veto. A two-thirds majority is needed to override the President's rejection of the measure.

Congressman Renews Attacks on Dr. Condon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Vail (R-Ill.) told the house yesterday that scientist Edward U. Condon has associated with 30 or more persons who "directly or indirectly are engaged in espionage activity" on behalf of Soviet Russia.

Dr. Condon is director of the national bureau of standards and has worked on atomic energy problems. Vail's speech was a renewal of the charge by the house unAmerican activities committee that Condon is "one of the weakest links in our atomic security."

Condon has denied this. He also has been cleared by a loyalty board in the commerce department, where the bureau functions. He is scheduled to appear before the unAmerican activities committee April 21.

U. S. Jumps Russ Restrictions By Flying Food Into Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—The Americans began flying food into Berlin yesterday to thwart a Russian squeeze aimed at forcing her war-time western allies out of this former German capital.

The Russians put swiftly into effect a calculated program of travel and transport restrictions to this isolated allied outpost deep in the Soviet zone. The restrictions:

1—Halted all military trains between Berlin and the western zones, cutting off normal military supply channels.

2—Stopped British barge traffic to the four-power capital.

3—Instituted rigorous examinations of traffic on the Autobahn, only highway linking the city with the west.

4—Turned back one rail coach occupied by civilians of several nationalities.

For several hours the Russians maintained a traffic-snarl inspection along the edges of their Berlin sector.

But the air was free, and Gen. Lucius D. Clay, the U.S. commander, announced he would use it to supply the 8,575 American military personnel and civilians in the city.

He cancelled military train service to Berlin which would not be pushed through the Soviet cordon without inviting a clash, and called on airpower to win the political battle for Berlin.

At stake was a question of prestige in the cold war between east and west. If the Russians succeeded in dislodging the western allies from the former German capital, their stock would rise, and the hopes of the supporters of the western powers in all Germany and Europe would sag.

Last night an American official said American planes flew 15,000 pounds of food into Berlin in the first few hours after the Clay order.

UN To Reconsider Palestine Problem

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—The United Nations security council called last night a special session of the 57-member U.N. assembly to reconsider the Palestine problem.

The vote for the special meeting was 9 to 0. Russia and the Soviet Ukraine abstained.

The assembly will convene April 16 in New York City.

The council, by one of its rare unanimous decisions, called also for a Jewish-Arab truce in Palestine.

Warren R. Austin, chief United States delegate who sponsored both moves in the council on orders from the White House, declared the truce was needed to stop the "blood feud" raging there.

The U.N. secretariat immediately swung into high-speed action to prepare the ground work for the second special assembly in U.N. history.

Reporters quickly discovered that Piral is a scrambled word version of April.

It was April Fool's day here, too.

Politics — Wisconsin Stumping; Ike Over Truman

Dewey, Stassen Race For Wisconsin Votes

Truman a Poor Bet For Demos-Bowles

WILWAUKEE (AP)—Harold E. Stassen filed a bold claim here to a majority of Wisconsin's GOP presidential delegates tonight as Thomas E. Dewey asserted that "military genius" is no good for a cold war.

The third of three Republican presidential hopefuls seeking the state's 27 votes in next June's party convention—Gen. Douglas MacArthur—was silent in Tokyo.

But if MacArthur was far away, his representatives here contended he was politically close to home base in his run for Wisconsin's support.

There seemed to be some basis in the statements of the other two candidates for the widely-voiced belief here that the general might win more than his share of the state's delegates.

In a direct broadside at MacArthur, Dewey said: "Military genius—no matter how excellent—is not the answer that we dare rely upon for victory in this cold war that gnaws at the peace."

The former Minnesota governor urged priority for the air forces in building up the nation's military might.

Housing Expediter Explains Changes in IC Rent Ceilings

By PAUL LUCKINBILL
Rent ceilings in Iowa City under the new rent control act will generally remain the same as those which were in effect June 30, 1947, Federal Housing Expediter Tighe Woods announced yesterday.

The rent bill, signed Wednesday by President Truman, will remain in effect until March 31, 1949.

The new law does not provide for any general rent increases, but does permit boosts to 15 percent where tenants and landlords agree on a lease running through 1949.

Rent changes are permitted if the local rent office issues an individual adjustment order changing the rent or if the housing expediter approves a rent increase in response to a recommendation from the local board.

If you're a tenant with no lease now, or if your present lease runs out between now and next March 31, the landlord cannot put you out for refusing to sign a new lease.

Conditions for Eviction
What of the landlord? How can he put a tenant out? He can do it under only six conditions:

1. The tenant won't pay his rent.
2. The tenant has committed a nuisance.

3. The landlord wants the place for the use of himself or his immediate family.

4. The landlord has a contract to sell the place to someone who wants it for his own use.

5. The landlord wants to tear down the place or remodel it, but can't do it while the tenant is living there.

6. The landlord wants to stop renting altogether.

7. If housing accommodations have been acquired by the state for public improvement and are rented temporarily before the construction of such improvement.

60-Day Notice
In every case except in 1 and 2—refusing to pay rent or committing a nuisance—the landlord must give a tenant 60 days notice in writing that he wants the tenant to move out.

If a tenant finds out a landlord has violated the rent law by overcharging him, he can go into a local court and sue for up to three times the amount of the overcharge, plus court cost and a reasonable lawyer's fee.

Can a landlord raise your rent before March 31, 1949? No, except under the following conditions:

1. You voluntarily agree to an increase, but when you so agree you sign a lease. The landlord can't force you to agree or to sign a lease.

2. The area rent control director permits the landlord to raise your rental. If this happens, the director will tell you so in writing.

3. The government has approved a rent increase for the general area in which you live.

Lease for Raise
If you agree to a rent raise in exchange for a lease, then remember the increase must not be more than 15 percent above the rent for your living quarters June 30, 1947. Also the lease must run at least through Dec. 31, 1949.

Although the new law runs from April 1, 1948, to March 31, 1949, any lease you sign, agreeing to an increase, must be signed between April 1, 1948, and Dec. 31, 1948.

Congress may or may not kill rent controls altogether when the new law ends March 31, 1949. If it kills them after March 31, 1949, then a landlord will be free to raise your rent any amount.

If you sign a lease that runs till Dec. 31, 1949, even though it means an increase for you, you'll be protected from any other increase until Dec. 31, 1949.

Rooming Houses Covered
What about rooming houses? Rent controls stay on all rooming houses except where there are no more than two paying tenants in non-housekeeping rooms.

In such a case rent controls now are dropped and the landlord can charge anything he wants.

The high spots of the rent law which will operate for the next 12 months have been covered here. Further questions will be answered by the area rent control director located in the Iowa State Bank building in Iowa City.

Cancer Group Opens Drive

The Johnson county chapter of the American Cancer society officially opened its 1948 fund drive yesterday, with a quota of $4,389, almost double that of last year.

Mrs. Albert Husa, Johnson county chairman, said the increase was necessary to promote research slowed down during the war because of the doctor shortage.

Solicitations have already begun in clubs throughout the county and the drive will end April 30, she said. Plans are being made for establishment of collection points over the county.

Money from the drive goes for cancer educational programs; for care of persons with the disease, and for cancer research.

A poster contest is now underway for students 15 years of age or under in the county. A $5 theater book will be given to the winner and a $2.50 book to the second place winner. Prizes were donated by the Tri-State Theater corporation.

Entrants must turn in posters to the De Reu Realty company by April 4.

Students are limited to one poster each and are asked to print names and addresses in the upper right corner of the poster. Each one will be used for display in business establishments throughout the county.

'Grading' of Professors Makes Headway

The proposal to allow professors to know student evaluation of their work is rapidly being shaped into tangible form.

The preliminary work is proceeding in an orderly, reasonable fashion. It has gained the approval of the university administration with certain safeguards.

These safeguards are important both to the student and the instructor. Use of the student "grading" forms is optional with each professor. The name of the student is not signed to the form.

The last idea may not be perfect, but it is probably the best that can be expected.

Administrative approval of the "student grading" idea was obtained in cooperation with Prof. Norman Meier of the psychology department.

They have distributed in selected classes forms on which students indicate the desirable traits of an "A" professor.

When the results of these combined indications have been compiled, a form will be made listing the ones commonly agreed upon.

This list of criteria will then probably be used in a few selected classes to check the work of professors who agree to the trial run.

The "bugs" in the system can then be worked out for general university use, possibly starting next fall.

This is indeed remarkable progress on a desirable program of student-professor cooperation.

For that is what the program calls for. The student must cooperate in keeping his evaluation free from pettiness.

Together, both the student and the instructor can profit.

Next Year's All-Campus Elections

The all-campus elections are over now, and all congratulations are due the winners.

But there are some pointers for future elections to be gained from this year's experience.

The first is contained in a "Letter to the Editor" submitted too late for publication last week.

It's from Meritt Ludwig. He suggests that all the candidates form a "clean-up committee" to remove the remnants of the campaign signs and debris.

It's too late to do that now. But it's a suggestion that has our hearty endorsement for next year.

Let the candidates agree next year as a condition for nomination that they all meet the morning after the election and help with the cleanup.

The second suggestion concerns recounting of the ballots. There was some confusion this year, as in years past, whether a recount should be ordered in certain races.

The trouble is—the question is always decided after the original count. After the first counting has been done, there's plenty of room for personal considerations to enter in.

Wouldn't it be a good idea for the elections committee to determine before the elections how small a margin would require a recount?

The margins might differ according to the different positions to be filled. This would eliminate all demands for recounts—and the necessity for passing on them.

Where the margin was smaller than that set as the standard, a recount would be automatic. And where the margin is bigger, there automatically could be no call for a recount.

Truman's Slap at Wallace

President Truman has belittled his office with his recent remark that Henry Wallace "ought to go to the country, he loves so well."

The imputations and implications are clear. Aside from the utter falsity of them, their utterance is not becoming to a man who poses as the nation's leader.

The temptation to engage in this sort of irrelevant eatealing is great enough that it must entice the best of us at times. But despite the fact that many persons, including ourselves, happen to wish Wallace's third party no success, his right to press for his convictions does not merit the meanness of Mr. Truman's remark.

FRANKFURT, GERMANY (AP)—A special air shuttle service will begin transporting Americans from Frankfurt to Berlin today.

Women and children will be among those flying to Berlin, now the center of tension between Russia and the western allies.

U. S. army transportation officials announced the flight service last night as passengers on American trains turned back at the Soviet border arrived at Frankfurt's main station.

How Can Official Secrets Be Protected?

Part 4—

Happy Experience With Voluntary Censorship in Past

(By Daily Iowan Research Staff)

It is the obvious duty of government officials to take all necessary precautions against disclosure of information that clearly ought to be kept secret in the interests of national security.

The danger in this field is that safeguards will be raised in the name of security that go beyond what is necessary and have the practical effect of obstructing the free flow of legitimate information about government affairs.

When that happens, the way is open for abuses no different from those likely to occur under a politically administered system of censorship.

Case in Point

Complaints by American correspondents in Japan about the classification practices of the occupation authorities are a case in point.

Senator Knowland (R-Calif) in the senate on Feb. 3 contrasted the alleged restraints on newsmen in Japan to the action of congress in approving the Smith-Mundt bill to expand the government's Voice of America radio programs.

"I think it is doubly important, along with the Smith-Mundt bill, in which we bring to the attention of the world the facts as to what is going on, and try to lift at least the corner of the iron curtain, that we in the United States not permit an iron curtain of any type or character to exist either between the government and the people of the United States, or between any of our occupied areas and our home country."

Seeming Paradox

There is a seeming paradox between moves to throw restrictions around government news sources and moves to step up government propaganda activities.

The risk is that such restrictions may be applied in a manner equivalent to that of political censorship and thus become an adjunct of the propaganda activities. Heretofore the United States has had this problem only in time of war.

In World War I censorship and propaganda functions were made the responsibility of a single agency. In World War II these functions were entrusted to two separate agencies, with the dividing line between them clearly marked.

Voluntary Censorship

Censorship of the American press during both wars was conducted on a voluntary basis.

The bill which became the Espionage act originally contained a provision which would have empowered the president to "prohibit the publishing or communicating of . . . any information relating to the national defense which, in his judgment, is of such character that it is or might be useful to the enemy."

President Wilson, on April 13, 1917, two months before the Espionage act became law, established the committee on public information as an agency for "censorship and publicity."

The CPI supervised the system of voluntary press censorship and at the same time developed an extensive government information and publicity program.

It has been pointed out that "if the censorship was not quite as 'voluntary' as many Americans believed it was during the war years, it was very largely self-administered—the CPI set down the general principles to be followed, and without the necessity of legal action the great majority of American newspapers followed the rules under their own interpretation."

Pre-Pearl Harbor and After

Before Pearl Harbor the army and navy had been actively planning for wartime censorship of postal and cable communications, respectively, and the office of facts and figures, later merged with other agencies into the office of war information, had been set up to disseminate information on the defense program.

The office of censorship was set up on Dec. 19, 1941, with Byron Price as director, to perform all war censorship functions. Information functions were left to the agency already established for that part of the war program.

The director of censorship, in addition to being made responsible for censorship of international communications, was instructed to "coordinate the efforts of the domestic press and radio in voluntarily withholding from publication military and other information which should not be released in the interest of the effective prosecution of the war."

Codes of wartime practices were drawn up and issued to press and radio. They were, according to Price, "aimed at the one objective of keeping information from the enemy."

He said the office of censorship "must never be influenced by non-security considerations of policy or public needs." In keeping with this principle, it was decided not to censor material emanating from other government agencies.

An agreement was reached between the OWI and the office of censorship whereby OWI short-wave broadcasts were censored for security only, and OWI agreed it would not ask domestic newspapers or radio to withhold any thing from distribution.

Voluntary Program a Success

Between Jan. 15, 1942, and May 15, 1945, the office of censorship issued five editions of its press and broadcasting codes which described various types of information which should not be published or broadcast "except when made available officially by appropriate authority."

Supplementing the general codes from time to time were special requests to observe caution with regard to particular subjects, such as trips of the president, the forthcoming invasion of France, experiments with atomic energy, and the like.

By taking press and radio partially into the government's confidence on such matters, the office of censorship succeeded in preserving various highly vital war secrets.

Testifying to the success of the voluntary censorship system in his final report on Dec. 18, 1945, Price said:

"From the outset editors and broadcasters gave unstinted cooperation in complying with the code's requests. There were mistakes, of course, but they were inadvertent.

"Never during nearly four years of war was the code or the principle of voluntary censorship successfully challenged. "Even when editors disagreed with the need for withholding certain information, they abided by the recommendations of the office of censorship that it not be printed . . ."

Censorship of press and radio, as of all international communications, was terminated on Aug. 15, 1945, the day after Japan surrendered.

In summing up the experience, Price cautioned that "no one who does not dislike censorship should ever be permitted to exercise censorship."

He declared that "the first and last principle to be remembered . . . is that censorship should come into being solely as an instrument of war."

Favors More Aid to Schools

C. O. Switzer Hits Wasteful Economy

By PHIL MILLER, Managing Editor

"I favor increased state aid to public schools and charge the present state administration with failure to adequately cope with the growing problems in our public school system."

This statement was made yesterday by Democratic gubernatorial candidate Carroll O. Switzer.

In an interview he said, "We are constantly faced with the dilemma of how much to spend on education. That dilemma is best solved by looking at our needs."

And in a democracy, he added, the need for education "is profound."

"Of course," he said, "there must be economy in the school system. But economy can best be implemented through efficiency. Penny-pinching is not true economy."

He said true democracy requires a sound educational system and "we can't have that without competent teachers—who, in turn, must be adequately paid."

"Good teachers naturally gravitate out of their chosen profession if they cannot live on what we pay them."

For these reasons, he concluded, it is time "we used a portion of the uncommitted surplus in our state treasury to help our children obtain the education they so desperately need in this unsettled world."

Switzer is now county attorney in Polk county. He was in Iowa City yesterday to appear as a guest expert on the radio program "What the Experts Think" over WSUI.

Permanent experts on the program are Professors Walter Daykin, Jack Johnson and George Mosse. The program is moderated by Ray Guth, chief announcer at WSUI.

Watch Decay, Switzer Says

Democratic candidate for governor Carol Switzer yesterday told members of the Rotary club at a luncheon in the Hotel Jefferson that the United States must guard against decay from within.

Switzer, county attorney for Polk county, cited France as an example of national disaster resulting from government decay.

The people of this country should begin a "moral rebirth in their approach towards government," he said. "It is time we became citizens first and partisans second."

Five Nile Kinnick Scholarships Available For Qualified Iowa High School Graduates

Five Nile Kinnick scholarships for the school year 1948-49 are available to qualified Iowa high school graduates, Dr. Walter R. Goetsch, director of the office of student affairs and chairman of the university scholarship committee, announced yesterday.

The five scholarships will be presented to students chosen on the basis of scholarship, leadership, personal integrity, and participation in extra-curricular activities. The awards are made as a memorial to the late all-American Nile C. Kinnick and to other former Hawkeye students who lost their lives in the recent war.

Goetsch also announced several changes in the processes for selecting the Kinnick scholarship winners to be effective this spring.

Chief among the changes is the provision of a special weekend visit for the scholarship candidates for the university on May 14 and 15 as guests of the university scholarship committee.

While on campus, the candidates will be given two sessions of academic tests similar to the university's entrance examinations. From the test results and the interviews the final winners for the scholarship awards will be selected and announced at a later date by President Hancher.

The scholarships are valued at $500 for beginning students. High school graduates meeting the standards and interested in qualifying should submit four letters to Flave Hamburg, university treasurer.

The items listed by Goetsch are: 1. An informal, personal letter of a biographical nature. 2. A letter of recommendation from the high school superintendent or principal or boys' adviser. 3. A letter of recommendation from each of two business or professional men in the boy's home community. 4. A copy of the high school transcript to date.

Deadline for these application materials is April 17, Goetsch said.

Market Basket Index Soars to a Record $17.37 High

By PAUL LUCKINBILL

Catapulting to $17.37, the Daily Iowan market basket index set a new record yesterday as soaring meat prices off-set falling grocery prices. The previous record of $17.36 was set Dec. 18.

This week's index is 22 cents above last Friday's index of $17.15. Ground beef jumped 6 cents, one-pound selling for 55 cents while "choice" round steak hit 84 cents, a 5 cent increase.

Center cut pork chops gained 4 cents, reaching 73 cents. First grade bacon climbed 2 cents, one-pound retailing for 75 cents.

Meat managers agreed the CIO union strike of employees in meat packing plants will continue to force meat prices higher next week if the strike is not settled.

Butter also helped force the index higher by shooting up 5 cents—1 cent short of the 90 cent mark. Idaho potatoes showed the only other gain of the week, 10 pounds selling for 78 cents, a 2 cent rise.

Seven grocery items declined in price but this failed to bring the index down.

One-pound Spry dropped 6 cents, selling for 45 cents, as did two-pound vealstea cheese, now selling for $1.10.

Ten-pound flour dipped 3 cents, retailing for 95 cents. One-pound lard declined 2 cents, dropping to 29 cents.

Five-pound sugar, large size Ivory Flakes and Baker's chocolate all slipped 1 cent, retailing for 48 cents, 36 cents and 41 cents respectively.

The Daily Iowan market basket survey is based on prices of 24 food items in seven representative Iowa City grocery stores. Prices listed are an average of all stores combined.

Yesterday's market basket index of $17.37 is an estimate of what a student family of three persons will spend for groceries this week.

The cost of each food item is weighed in accordance with the amount of that item a student family of three uses in a week.

Market Basket Index: This Week, $17.37. Last Week, $17.15.

The Daily Iowan market basket index is not an added total of the prices listed above. That is, the INDEX figure takes into consideration both the costs of the items listed above and the amount of each item a student family of three uses in one week. The amount of each item the family of three uses in one week was arrived at in a survey conducted in cooperation with the university bureau of business research.

WHAT WAS HE LOOKING FOR?

Ponce de Leon, the Spanish explorer, was searching for the magic Fountain of Youth, whose waters could restore youth to the aged. Indian legends of the fountain excited his curiosity. Though he didn't find the Fountain of Youth, he stumbled on another rich prize... the state of Florida... discovered on Easter Sunday 1513.

Sets Date for Carson Case; Claims Part of SUI Campus

Trial of Celia Carson's case against the State of Iowa involving the block of land on which the Electrical Engineering building stands, was set for trial April 26 by Judge P. Gaffney yesterday.

Mrs. Carson, 903 E. College street, is suing the state on behalf of the citizens and taxpayers of Iowa City. She is attempting to reclaim for the city the property which was granted to the state in 1890.

Mrs. Carson claimed the city council acted in violation of its duties and obligations to the city in making the grant and the state acted without authority in accepting it.

Mrs. Carson is represented by Ries, Dutcher and Osmundson. The state, through its attorneys, Attorney General Robert L. Larsen, Assistant Attorney General Oscar Strauss and Arthur O. Lefz, Iowa City, claimed that under law Mrs. Carson could not sue the state without its consent.

Judge Harold D. Evans ruled that the Johnson county District court had jurisdiction and that the case should be tried. The Iowa Supreme Court refused to consider an appeal on Evans' ruling.

The state is claiming the city has no rights to the property and questions the dedication of it to the city.

Finns Return Home

HELSINKI (AP)—Two members of Finland's treaty delegation to Moscow are making a hurried trip home to confer with President Juho Paasikivi, the foreign office announced last night.

They will arrive by air today. One well informed source indicated that the sudden return was tied in with Paasikivi's delay in sending new instructions to the delegation.

The Finnish negotiators went to Moscow nearly two weeks ago to discuss a treaty of friendship and mutual assistance at the invitation of Prime Minister Stalin.

987 Violate Parking Meter Regulations

During the month of March 987 persons appeared in police court to pay fines for meter violations. Eighty-eight paid $2.00 fines for parking left wheel to the curb, 104 for parking in a prohibited zone and 47 paid fines for parking in an alley.

Chief of Police Ed Ruppert estimated that almost twice that many tickets were issued but only half of those receiving tickets appeared in court.

Iowa City police started a campaign this week to bring in all those cars having old tickets issued against the owners. To date 8 or 9 cars have been towed in and will not be released until the towing charge and back fines have been paid.

A few tickets also have been issued for double parking, parking at the wrong angle and failing to have registration visible.

UMSO Slates Clean-Up

The married student housing areas are due for a raking over between April 10 and 17, according to Robert Van Horne, president of the university married students organization.

Each resident will be expected to clean up the winter's collection of leaves and debris around his own housing unit. The work, however, will be strictly on a volunteer basis.

All 150 plots of the University Married Students organization garden area have been applied for, Donald Sonius, chairman of the garden committee, reported to the UMISO council last night.

Preparation of the ground for planting will begin today Sonius said. The garden area will be fertilized, plowed and harrowed before the married student gardeners move in with their packages of seeds.

The one-and-one-half acre garden area at the corner of Park road and Ferson avenue will be divided into 150 plots, each 20 by 20 feet square. Sonius said the committee plans to post the plot assignments as soon as possible at the married students housing office.

Folk Song Recital Artists Capture Spirit Of Rural France

By ARDATH YOUMANS
Mme. Genevieve Rex didn't need gaily embroidered costumes to put across the spirit of rural France she embodied in the graduate folk song recital last night in Macbride auditorium.

She could have worn a grain sack and her pure soprano voice, sparkling eyes and expressive hands would have elicited the same hearty applause from the something-less-than-capacity but enthusiastic audience.

The exquisite lace added local color of the eight provinces the costumes represented, however. So did the vielle, that extraordinary instrument which Roger Blanchard manipulated through its zestful routine.

The mandolin-like vielle resembles half of an over-sized watermelon, with a handle for a stem. Blanchard turned the handle, which rubbed a wooden wheel against the strings to give that continuous background drone. The octave-and-a-half of keys he controlled with his left hand. The jocular tune came out in a soothing wheeze, to the tempo of the bourree, march or lullaby.

Blanchard and Joseph Canteloube, who collaborated with him in the series of folk-song albums recently published in France, arranged the harmonies with which Blanchard accompanied Mme. Rex. He pointed out that the "purists of folk music frown on such use of background harmony.

"They maintain," he explained, "that there is nothing so beautiful as a folk song in the mountains, with no accompaniment but the birds, the wind and the river. But in a concert hall, where are the mountains, the birds and the river?"

To the layman of the folk song, Blanchard's piano helped Mme. Rex's voice interpret feelingly the land of enchantment that is French folk art.

Prof. Alexandre Aspel of the Romance languages department introduced the lecture, sponsored by the graduate college in cooperation with the department of Romance languages and the school of fine arts. He promised a delightful evening with Blanchard's running lecture and piano technique and Mme. Rex's expressive voice.

It was exactly that, on account of the performers' own enthusiasm as much as their ability.

UWF Schedules Rally in 'Petition' Drive

A rally featuring a "prominent speaker" will kick-off a UWF-sponsored petition drive next Thursday night, Harlan Hockenberger, chairman of the university chapter of United World Federalists, said last night.

The drive is aimed at gaining 7,500 signers for a petition calling for congressional action on resolutions favoring revision of the United Nations charter. Nearly 100 student "workers and team captains" will be employed to canvass the campus for signatures, Hockenberger said.

Lawrence E. Dennis of the political science department explained to last night's UWF members in Schaeffer hall how the charter can be revised to "make it capable of enacting, interpreting and enforcing world law to prevent war."

"A code, a cop, a court" are UWF's minimum objectives in revision of the charter, Dennis said.
