

Free Speech Still the Best Policy

Problems that are actually quite simple can be confused when the basic, elementary rules of the game are forgotten. That appears to be the present status of the controversy over allowing Henry Wallace to speak in a university building.

The reason for banning his scheduled appearance here is a board of education policy prohibiting partisan political speeches in state-owned colleges and universities.

But in carrying out that policy, a number of complicated, "borderline" questions have to be straightened out. They call for answers that would bedevil any human being.

For example, should Wallace be denied use of a building after other partisan politicians have used them?

Were they actually candidates at the time of the speeches? How do you know whether a man is a candidate or not? Then, when isn't a man in public office actually making a political speech? Doesn't his mere appearance help get his name and his views before the public?

How do you draw the line between the governor, who is, after all, the state's chief executive and his political opponents without appearing to be unfair?

When is a political figure speaking as an "expert" on some subject and not speaking for election? How can you separate his experience and his political aspirations?

Would the President of the United States be denied an opportunity to speak on the campus were he to pass through this section during a campaign, in this or any other year?

How can one live in a democracy and avoid politics? Isn't the problem not one of too much politics, but too little—and too few people playing the game? Isn't it part of a university's function to encourage its students to listen to candidates for public office?

Innumerable questions arise about student political organizations recognizable by the office of student affairs. Apparently they can't invite active candidates to speak before them. But can a candidate's campaign manager speak—or a candidate's backer speak?

Does this mean you as a student can hear a candidate's "plugger" but can't listen to the man himself? Why shouldn't students, if they're to vote wisely, hear the candidates themselves?

All these questions arise when we forget that simple, good old American rule of the game—free speech. To be sure, free speech itself raises some complicating questions. But the theory is that these questions are less difficult in the long run than the questions arising from its denial.

We're sure the board of education holds to that theory, too. The problem is how to put it in practice.

If all student political groups will forget their partisan nature and unite on this simple question that affects them all, the chances are good the board would agree to re-examine its present policy.

There's a good chance they'd agree that in the long run free speech is the most simple and the best answer to the Wallace question.

Let Wallace Speak at SUI, Say Switzer, Beardsley; Gov. Blue Declines Comment

The Daily Iowan yesterday morning sent telegrams to Gov. Robert D. Blue, William S. Beardsley, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor; and Carroll O. Switzer, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor.

The telegram asked for a "statement in reference to the state board of education policy which prohibits Henry A. Wallace's speech in an SUI building."

The answers are printed below:

Blue

Blue did not reply to the telegram. He was contacted by long distance telephone last night to ascertain whether he had received the telegram. He said he had, but he said he did not care to comment.

Beardsley

"I do not know the policy of the board of education relative to political talks on the university campus. I have speaking engagements in Iowa City April 21 when I shall discuss the fallacies of Wallace's Communistic program.

"I deplore the position that Wallace has taken, but I would defend his right to state his views."

Switzer

"I cannot predetermine what Mr. Wallace will have to say, but if his statements were consistent with what he heretofore has said, I would doubtless find myself in disagreement with him.

"Be that as it may, I strongly feel that the right of free speech guaranteed to us all by the Constitution should be literally applied in this case.

"Since Mr. Blue and myself have been permitted access to university buildings, the cause of democracy can best be served with fair play to all sides of every question."

"I believe strictly and literally in the democratic process. . . . He (Wallace) should, I believe, be given the right to debate the issues freely—as I would expect that right to be given to me."

Battle of Bulge Wage Cage Melange Of Faculty Fops

By RUSSELL ZELENIAK

A battle of paunches and fallen arches will take place Saturday at 8 p.m. when two basketball teams comprised mostly of university instructors and professors meet in a duel-to-the-breath game at the fieldhouse.

With the grace of God, the creaky eagles hope to reach the court on their own two feet.

This battle of two centuries will be held in conjunction with the All-Campus Carnival at the fieldhouse the same evening. The carnival and basketball game are being sponsored jointly by Omicron.

Italy To Receive Aid Immediately As Truman Signs ERP Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—With a speed almost unknown in peacetime President Truman signed the six-billion-dollar, stop-Russia foreign aid bill into law yesterday less than 24 hours after congress rushed it through final passage.

"This measure," he told the world in a statement, "is America's answer to the challenge facing the free world today."

The gigantic task of shoring up western Europe, the middle east and China against Russian communism will start tomorrow morning on a high speed emergency schedule. The state department presumably will be in charge at the start until the regular organization is set up.

Five nations stand to benefit from the very first expenditures, officials said. They are Italy, France, Austria, Greece and the Netherlands where the need is great and the dollar supply low.

A direct move to counter Communist influence in Italy was made in another quarter yesterday. The United States, Britain and France joined in asking the United Nations security council to reopen Italy's application for UN membership. Since Russia once blocked this, yesterday's move puts the Russians and their Communist associates on the spot.

The aid bill became law two weeks before the April 18 Italian elections and it seemed a fair bet that ships laden with American aid would be started for Italy before the ballots are cast.

Judge Orders John L. Lewis To End UMW Coal Walkout

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal judge last night ordered John L. Lewis to end the coal strike.

Judge Matthew F. McGuire signed a temporary restraining order at 6:30 p.m. CST at the request of the justice department.

Earlier in the day President Truman had directed Attorney General Tom Clark to seek the order under the national emergency provision of the Taft-Hartley labor act.

The President acted after disclosing that a three-man fact finding board had blamed Lewis directly for the work stoppage which shut down soft coal mines, curtailed some railroad service and hampered steel making operations.

To Speed Up UMT Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—Spurred by Russia's fast-breaking moves, the senate armed services committee yesterday gave itself less than a week to decide what to do about universal military training and reviving the draft.

The committee wound up three weeks of public hearings yesterday. Chairman Gurney (R-S.D.) told reporters he hopes his group can send legislation to the senate by next Friday. Committee sessions behind locked doors will start Tuesday.

Gurney declined to forecast just how far the committee will go in meeting the administration request for both UMT and the draft in the preparedness drive. But the South Dakota senator had said previously that at least 10 of the 13 committee members favored the proposed program in principle.

Asked by newsmen just why he was pressing for a quick decision, Gurney said:

"In these times, with Russia making moves fast, anything that is good for the country is not so good if it is delayed."

Judge's Term Expires

Judge McGuire's order expires April 13. On April 12 he will hold a hearing on the justice department's request for a preliminary injunction.

The judge directed his order at both the United Mine Workers which Lewis heads and the Soft Coal Operators whose mines have been shut down for three weeks in a pension fund dispute.

Orders Halt to Strike

The judge ordered:

1. The union not to continue the strike, or even to permit or encourage the strike. (The judge used the word "strike" even though yesterday morning Lewis had told his members that the walkout is not a strike and he did not cause it.)

2. The union to "forthwith instruct" all members "immediately to return to their employment." (Lewis' home reported last night that he was not available.)

3. The union and the operators not to interfere with or affect the orderly continuance of work in the mines.

4. The union and the operators to carry out a provision in their contract which says both sides shall fully cooperate with each other to develop policies for the effective operation of the welfare and retirement fund.

PITTSBURGH—An official of the United Mine Workers said flatly last night he believed the nation's 400,000 soft coal miners will defy a government obtained injunction ordering their return to the pits.

"I've been doing a little talking among the miners since I've learned of this injunction and I don't believe the UMW members will be back at work Monday," the UMW chief said. The official, a top member of the John L. Lewis family in western Pennsylvania, declined to permit use of his name.

UMW Leaders Stunned

Shortly after the injunction was obtained by the government the first reaction of UMW field leaders was one of stunned surprise. "I'm surprised with the suddenness with which the injunction was obtained," said one western Pennsylvania UMW official. "And, I'm surprised, too, that the injunction was aimed at both the operators and the miners. The court must be confused over who caused this walkout."

Others Comments

None of the UMW chieftains in Pennsylvania would permit use of their names. Among their comments:

"1. This puts an entirely different light on the situation. I'd rather not say what I think the miners will do. Most of them won't learn about the injunction until they read the papers today."

"2. We'll have to wait a little while to figure this thing out. An injunction of this type (against both miners and operators) is something new as far as I know."

Politics—Stassen, Taft, Wisconsin Primaries

U.S. Trade Favors Russians Over Former Allies—Stassen

Cross-Voting May Stop GOP's in Wis.

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The possibility of heavy Democratic cross-voting clouded yesterday the outcome of next Tuesday's choice of Wisconsin's 27 GOP presidential nominating delegates.

Unlike some other areas, President Truman is sure of the backing of 24 state Democratic delegates. Except for an intra-party organization fight, Democrats will have little interest in their own ticket primary day.

Under Wisconsin law, the voter can cross party lines without any trouble. The supposition here is that non-organization Democrats will do that in big numbers.

Backers of Gen. Douglas MacArthur Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota all admitted privately they don't know how the Democrats will vote.

MacArthur's supporters recently have been bidding openly for Democratic support. George E. Brent of Greendale, former Democratic committeeman from that area, announced the formation of a Democratic for MacArthur club.

CHICAGO (AP)—Harold E. Stassen said last night the United States shipped more machinery to Russia in 1947 than was "shipped to France, Belgium and Italy combined."

The candidate for the Republican presidential nomination said in a speech prepared for the 100th birthday dinner of the Chicago board of trade:

"We have been entirely too passive and appeasing in our approach to the world clash with communism. It is my view that we should set out affirmatively to defeat communism in the world on the economic and ideological fronts.

"If we do so I believe we will have a much better chance of not being called upon to defeat them on the military front."

Stassen said he felt it "entirely unsound" to ship machinery to Russia now "under current world developments."

"It is a fact that in 1947 the United States shipped more machine tools and industrial machinery and equipment to Russia than we shipped to France, Belgium and Italy combined.

"In addition to that in 1947 the United States shipped more electrical equipment and electronic devices to Russia than we shipped to England and France combined."

He did not give figures nor disclose the source of his information.

Stassen defended a "free market" as essential to "a dynamic modern people's capitalism," which he said "is the only system that has thus far been devised that affords individual economic freedom."

Finland Decides on Answer to Russia

HELSINKI, FINLAND (AP)—Finland's leaders decided yesterday, after a week of deliberation, on their answer to the security pact requested by the Soviet Union to complete its chain of alliances from the Black sea to the Arctic.

The cabinet met with President Juho Paasikivi at the presidential palace in what was described by responsible sources as a decisive session.

An official statement said additional instructions were approved which will be sent to the Moscow delegation unit that has received a Soviet draft of a proposed friendship and military agreement.

Urho Kekkonen and J. O. Soederhjelm, the two delegates who returned here for the detailed discussions, will go back to Moscow on a Russian plane today and take the new instructions with them.

Says Chiang To Quit As China's President

NANKING (AP)—A reliable source said yesterday Chiang Kai-shek had decided not to continue as president of China. (The presidency is only one of many influential positions held by the Generalissimo. As head of the Kuomintang, the dominant party, Chiang still might remain China's most powerful figure.)

The informant said Chiang was urging his associates to accept in his stead Dr. Hu Shih, president of Peking university. Dr. Hu formerly was ambassador to Washington.

The national assembly now is in session to select China's first constitutional president and vice-president. Chiang's selection as president has been regarded as a certainty.

Korea Border Well Defined

Soviets Hold Target Practice In North; South Koreans Afraid

AT THE 30th PARALLEL, KOREA (AP)—Russian troops are holding frequent target practices just north of this arbitrary boundary which divides Korea between Soviet and American occupation forces.

Villagers who live just south of the line in the American zone are afraid to venture near the border, defined by newly-dug earthworks on the Soviet side.

North Koreans, in turn, appear so suspicious that one of them actually threw away an American cigarette which this correspondent laid on the line for him. A cigarette is an article of considerable black market value. In more than two years in Korea I never before have seen a Korean disdain one.

This point in the middle of the Ongjin peninsula on Korea's west coast was visited yesterday by this correspondent and Richard J.H. Johnston of The New York Times.

Shortly after we arrived at an American outpost near the village of Sinchon, we heard several bursts of fire, apparently from a Russian tommygun. It could have been for our benefit.

Jews Seize Arab Village

JERUSALEM (AP)—Jewish warriors seized an Arab village yesterday in a drive to blast open a supply line for Jerusalem's 100,000 hungry Jews.

Striking before dawn, fighters of Haganah, the Jewish militia, routed a handful of Arabs defending a hill top village five miles west of Jerusalem.

Russ Guards Quit Rail Center

BERLIN (AP)—Eight armed Russian guards early today quit the Soviet military railroad headquarters in the American sector of Berlin which has been surrounded by American military police.

The Russians left after Britain and the United States had presented a stiffened front to Soviet pressure and the United States had sent a note asking the Soviets to take "immediate steps" to remove the guards.

American military force said early today, however, they believed other Russians still were in the building.

The American military police yesterday blocked about 40 Russians from entering the offices where the Soviet zone rail network is directed.

Then they set up a road control point where Soviet officers motor from their homes in Potsdam and their offices in down-town Berlin and for four hours subjected Russian traffic to inspection.

Says Heating Fuel Causes Oil Shortage

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The president of Standard Oil company (Ohio) declared yesterday one way to prevent future petroleum shortages was to discontinue the use of fuel oil for heating.

W.T. Holliday, of Cleveland, estimated it would require considerable time for conversion but said it is necessary to conserve petroleum. He said petroleum should be kept for internal combustion units.

Within a few years the oil industry has become a "two-fuel" industry—one of the contributing factors to the present shortage of products, he said.

Holliday made his remarks in an interview while attending a conference of his company's recently-expanded Mid-Continent division.

Martin Sees Revision of Oleomargarine Taxes

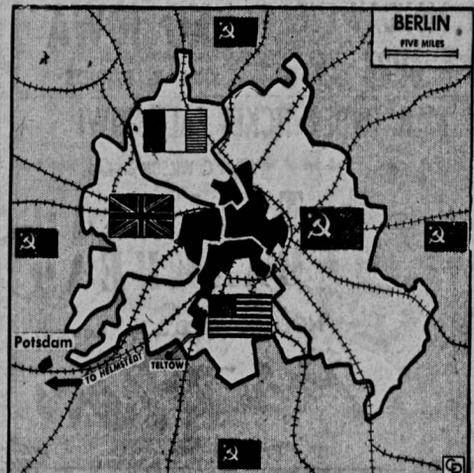

WASHINGTON (AP)—Speaker Martin (R-Mass.) predicted yesterday that the house will pass legislation revising the highly controversial taxes on oleomargarine.

But he said he expects tougher opposition in the senate where the farm and dairy groups are stronger than in the house.

Congressional action in the long and bitterly fought "battle of the bread spreads" could take two forms:

1. Outright repeal of the tax.
2. A compromise which would ease but not entirely wipe out the present restrictions.

Berlin—Island in Soviet Zone

SOVIET RESTRICTIONS have snarled road and rail traffic in and out of Berlin. Americans have cancelled most railway traffic, substituting air transport. Russians living in the Potsdam area are subjected to search when driving across the U.S. zone of Berlin.

Hawkeye Nine Clubs Luther Again, 7-0

Bruner, Demro Give Norse Two Bingles, Strike Out 13

By AL SCHMAHL
Assistant Sports Editor

Iowa's Hurryin' Hawkeyes, behind the air tight twirling of Jack Bruner and Wes Demro, capitalized on six Luther errors to take an easy, 7-0, triumph over the Norsemen yesterday. The Hawks had rolled over Luther, 17-0, on Friday.

The mid-season form displayed by Bruner, Waterloo southpaw, was the feature of the contest. Bruner held the Norse batsmen to a lone hit, a ground single to right by Arnold Veglahn, and struck out nine men in his six-inning stint.

His successor on the mound, Demro, took up where Bruner left off. Don Mellor's line drive single to center was the only bingle off the fireball right-hander, who struck out four Norsemen in the last three innings.

Two walks and an error by Bruner were responsible for the only other runners reaching base safely. Only two men reached as far as second, and both died there.

The Iowa pitching was so effective, in fact, that the Norse batters hit a mere three balls out of the infield, their two safeties and a high fly to center by Veglahn.

The Hawkeyes, meanwhile, pounded the efforts of Schmidt

Kramer, Riggs Tangle Here

Big Jack Victor in 42 of 59 Starts Now

Bobby Riggs versus Jack Kramer. It's the tennis extravaganza of the indoor season, and Iowa fans will have the opportunity to see the duo in action here tomorrow night.

Currently, Big Jack is running away with the series and is a sure-fire bet to annex Riggs's crown as leading professional player of the world. At this time Kramer has won 42 matches, with little bobby the victor in 17 meetings.

That edge has cinched the title for Kramer, but Riggs, with all his aggressiveness, is not the type to sit back and take a decisive beating.

Pancho Segura and Dinny Pails will open the show at 8 p.m., followed by the Riggs-Kramer match. Kramer and Segura will meet Riggs and Pails in a doubles match to conclude the show.

second on a two base error by Luther shortstop Boelter. Erickson hit a ground single and Tedore walked to load the bases.

Erickson got trapped off second base and Smith utilized the opportunity to break for home, sliding in safely ahead of the throw. Tedore and Erickson advanced on the throw, giving Iowa a triple steal. That set the stage for Ed Browne's perfect squeeze bunt.

Bob Primrose received a base on balls to start the sixth and Everett followed with a long double to center, sending Primrose to third. An error by Veglahn gave Pinch-Hitter George Schamberger a life and Primrose scored on the play. The Hawks added their final run in the seventh inning. Browne slipped out a long triple to right-center and scored when John Sullivan, who replaced Jack Dittmer at second base in the first half of the inning, lined a solid single to centerfield.

The win gave the Hawkeyes a record of six wins in eight starts for the season. Iowa's next foe will be Bradley a perennial baseball power. The Hawks will travel to Peoria, Ill., to meet the Braves next Friday and Saturday.

Wier Hits Eight As Stars Whip Nuggets

DENVER (AP)—Superior speed and drive paid off for the Western college all-stars last night in an 89-68 victory over the Denver Nuggets in an exhibition basketball game.

The college boys, rambling at top speed from start to finish, produced so many shots from their bag that only once were the Nuggets ever in front.

The Denver team, runnerup for the National AAU crown and winner of third place in the recent New York Olympic tournament, will meet the Eastern all-star collegians Monday night.

So polished was the collegians' play last night it would be difficult to name the leading star, although Murray Wier of Iowa, Gene Berce of Marquette, Otto Schnellbacher of Kansas, and Ed Mikani of De Paul, seemed to catch the crowd's fancy the most.

Harris Blanks Reds SARATOSA, Fla. (AP)—Sotapaw Mickey (Himself) Harris twirled the first seven innings in good style yesterday as the Boston Red Sox blanked the Cincinnati Reds 5-0.

The $30.50 season tickets are for 82 home games, at least, with 32 league tilts guaranteed.

Priced for home games will be 75 cents for league tilts and 60 cents for exhibition matches, Manager Ralph Lucker said. Games will cost less than 40 cents each with a season ticket, he added.

The league is split into eastern and western divisions. The Cards will play two double-headers here with western division Rock Island, Aurora, Peoria, Waukegan, Racine, Hammond and Chicago. Eastern division Flint and Midland, Mich., South Bend, Fort Wayne, Cleveland, Columbus, Toledo and Detroit each will play one double-header here.

Joe Louis' Flint Brown Bombers will be here for a double-header July 18, but Louis won't be with the team. However, he probably will be with the Bombers on a return trip sometime in August.

Ris Sets New AAU Record

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Ohio state won its third successive national AAU swimming championship last night with a total of 46 points as American Olympic hopes took a sharp upswing.

Miller Anderson, Ohio State's great diver, became a double champion for the third straight year in succession, equalling the feat of Joe Verdeur of Philadelphia, who Friday set a new world record of 2:30.5 for the 200-meter breaststroke.

Walter Ris of Iowa set a new meet record of 1:50.4 for the 100-yard free style in a preliminary, and proved his consistency by winning the event in 1:50.5, for the fourth straight year.

Michigan, winner of the Big Nine and N.C.A.A. titles, lagged far behind Ohio State in team totals but managed to salvage some glory by taking the medley relay in 2:50.9, a new meet record. This brought the Wolverines' points to 26 for second place. Next came the Brighton club of Atlantic City, N.J., and Yale with 19 each, followed by Michigan State with 17, and Iowa and the New Haven Swim club with 14 each.

Ris, termed by Olympic Coach Bob Kipphut a "marvelous hope" for the games in London this summer, won going away from Ford, who was attempting a comeback after his war service.

Season Ticket Sale For Cardinals' Games Will Start Tuesday

Twenty Iowa City businessmen Tuesday noon will start sale of season tickets for home games of the Iowa City Cardinals, entry in the National Softball league, J. J. McNamara, sales chairman announced yesterday. Sponsored by a group of Iowa City businessmen, the Cards will play at Kelley field.

The $30.50 season tickets are for 82 home games, at least, with 32 league tilts guaranteed.

Priced for home games will be 75 cents for league tilts and 60 cents for exhibition matches, Manager Ralph Lucker said. Games will cost less than 40 cents each with a season ticket, he added.

The league is split into eastern and western divisions. The Cards will play two double-headers here with western division Rock Island, Aurora, Peoria, Waukegan, Racine, Hammond and Chicago. Eastern division Flint and Midland, Mich., South Bend, Fort Wayne, Cleveland, Columbus, Toledo and Detroit each will play one double-header here.

Joe Louis' Flint Brown Bombers will be here for a double-header July 18, but Louis won't be with the team. However, he probably will be with the Bombers on a return trip sometime in August.

Remaining performances will be given by the Mechanicville Self Culture club, Webster City Woman's club, Mason City Woman's club and the Spencer Drama club.

Zeta Phi Eta, national drama and speech honorary, will sponsor a dinner for the groups at 5:30 p.m. in the Iowa Union.

Cooperating in production of the festival are the university extension division and department of speech, the Iowa Community Drama committee, and the Federation of Women's clubs.

University Tops $2,700 Quota

University of Iowa departments solicited in the Johnson county 1948 Red Cross drive have topped their $2,700 quota by $185.52, Mrs. M. C. Boyer, headquarters chairman, said yesterday.

Contributions to the county's $23,750 goal have climbed to $17,644.91. Other Iowa City units and their total donations are as follows: Business men and women, $4,213.64; men's organizations, $360; Mercy hospital, $85; professional men and women, $532; residential, $3,119.50; schools, $199.50, and university hospitals, $959.10. Women's organizations are the only unit besides the university which has gone over their quota. They contributed $280, or $30 over their $250 quota.

One hundred percent donations were made by two sororities and one fraternity. They were Phi Beta Phi, Delta Gamma and Phi Epsilon Pi.

Small towns and townships have contributed $4,835.65 of their $7,795 quota. Advance gifts total $175.

Mrs. Boyer pointed out that university students did not give to the Red Cross when they donated to the Campus Chest drive. According to its congressional charter, the Red Cross cannot be included in any other drive.

Students who wish to contribute should call the Red Cross office, 6933, or come to the office at 15 1/2 S. Dubuque street. A Red Cross representative will visit any housing area to pick up contributions.

Fighter Planes

Roar Over Iowa City On Social Call

ARRIVING over town with a lot of noise, two army pilots flew their P-51 fighter planes on a trip yesterday to visit the parents of one of the fliers.

Robert Jones and Scott Kuntz, first lieutenants, are visiting Jones' parents, Mr. and Mrs. R.K. Jones, 107 Lowell street. The men will leave today.

The fliers came from Fayetteville, N.C., spending three and one-half hours in the air.

A string of traffic brought many curious people to the airport shortly after the fliers landed. A small crowd gathered around each of the planes.

Iowa City Says—

Keep Down Your Dukes

—On The Sabbath

By JAY HORNING

Don't put up your dukes in Iowa City on a Sunday—there's a law against it. For those belligerents who can't restrain themselves from using fisticuffs on the Sabbath, the Iowa City code provides a fine of $5 to $100 and, or, one to 30 days in jail.

The ordinance, one that's "just never been repealed," according to city authorities, applies not only to "performers," but to "assistants," "proprietors," and "agents" as well. That goes for wrestlers too.

Mayor Preston Koser suggested that the ordinance was probably the work of "old time" Iowa Citizens.

It may seem strange that the "old timers," living in an atmosphere generally considered a little more rugged than that of our present day society, objected to such diversion. It could be that Sunday was the womenfolks' day, and they were indirectly responsible for the prohibition of such activities—but that's a matter for speculation.

Then too, there's the ordinance prohibiting the operation of shoe shining, repairing and cleaning establishments on Sundays. That's another one that has present day city officials guessing.

Maybe such businesses didn't want to cater to Sunday trade, and city fathers responsible for passage of the ordinance were merely being accommodating. No matter what the desires of shoe shiners, repair men and cleaners, the Sunday observance section of the code still lays down the law.

Even if you can't legally box or wrestle on the Lord's Day, or get a professional shoe shine to help you look your Sunday-best, you can light up a cigar any old time—just so you don't use a public cigar cutter.

In its legal terminology, the code has this to say: "The use of any common cigar cutter or device used by more than one person for the clipping of ends of cigars in any store, restaurant or other public places is hereby prohibited."

Since the cigar cutter has evidently passed its popularity peak, it seems unlikely that local stogie smokers will ever press for repeal. They're all just ordinances that haven't been repealed, the mayor said. And they probably won't be as long as no one objects to them. Those who think these ordinances may be a little out-moded, and maybe even unnecessary, should be reminded of laws still on the statute books of other cities.

A book compiled by Dick Hyman, "Looney Laws," lists a lot of them—like the one in Riverside, Calif., that says couples mustn't kiss unless they first bathe their lips with carbolized rose water.

It seems quite probable that Iowa Citizens would much rather carry around their own cigar cutters than carbolized rose water.

Junior Red Cross Sends 182 Boxes to European Children

One-hundred eighty-two gift boxes were sent this week to European school children by Johnson county members of the American Junior Red Cross, Chairman Mrs. H.H. Jacobsen said yesterday.

The 9x x3 inch boxes contained school and health supplies contributed by Junior Red Cross members in most of the elementary, junior and senior high schools throughout the county. Required items in each kit were three pencils, three small paper pads, toilet soap, toothbrush, toothpaste or powder, and a ball. Additional similar articles completed the donations.

The students worked for two months filling and packing the boxes.

Written notes to the European children were included in the boxes, and also blank forms to be used by the recipients for writing thank-you notes.

Iowa Ranks High In Voting Numbers

—When it comes to taking an interest in vital issues of the day, Iowa and the middle west have a better record than the nation at large.

According to the U.S. News and World Report for March 26, 1948, 67 percent of all eligible Iowa voters participate in elections.

Although this voting record isn't quite as good as participation in some other states; Illinois, 72 percent; Utah, 71 percent; Indiana, New Hampshire and Nebraska, 70 percent; Colorado 69 and Idaho, 68 percent, the Hawkeye record does tie that made in West Virginia and New York.

Two-thirds participation of voters in elections is no enviable record, but a greater percentage of eligible citizens exercise the franchise in Iowa than in 38 of the 48 states.

Particularly black is the voting record in four southern states. In Georgia, just 16 percent of voters cast ballots on election day, while in Mississippi and Alabama, 15 percent go to polls. Poorest participation is in South Carolina, where only one eligible voter in 10 takes part in choosing representatives.

Significantly, although these four states have instituted electoral blocks to prevent Negroes from voting, the repressive measures also have prevented a number of white people from voting.

Whites outnumber Negroes in all four states, but still considerably less than the over 50 percent of white voters go to the polls.

ROTC Equipment To Be Displayed

A display of available ROTC ordinance, engineer and signal corp equipment will be shown on the campus in front of Old Capitol Tuesday in connection with Army Day, according to Capt. Ray J. Slezak.

Officers, enlisted men and advanced ROTC students will explain and demonstrate the equipment, Slezak said.

The Pershing Rifles' crack drill team will perform near the exhibit during the day.

Open house will be held at the Armory in the field house from 9 to 12 o'clock Saturday morning. Equipment will be displayed and a tour will be conducted showing teaching facilities to the public.

The purpose of the exhibits and demonstrations is to show the public what is going on in ROTC, Slezak said.

Light army equipment will also be displayed in the Woolworth 10-cent store window tomorrow and Tuesday. An enlisted man will be present to answer questions on operation of the material.

Study Club Hears Solution to Child Behavior Problems

Parents can solve their children's behavior problems many times by investigating the cause of the behavior, Prof. Mary D. Fite of the psychology and child welfare departments said yesterday afternoon.

Professor Fite addressed members of the Child Study club on "Everyday Behavior Problems," in the Y.M.C.A. room, Iowa Union. "Any behavior is a problem only in terms of its reaction to those observing it," said Professor Fite. Much behavior which is actually normal for children is regarded as unusual by parents, she said.

It is normal for children at times to be bashful, to be timid and to exhibit aggressive and destructive behavior at certain ages, Professor Fite pointed out.

All behavior has a cause, and if parents can determine the cause, the problem can be corrected, she said. In setting disciplinary measures for the child's benefit, his age and level of understanding should be considered, the professor explained.

If the behavior seems unexplainable, she continued, the parent can be helped by a psychologist, psychiatrist or other qualified person. She emphasized, however, that an outsider must know the child's history to deal with the problem.

Psychologists or psychiatrists prefer to help the parent discover the cause of undesirable behavior and cure it rather than to make an arbitrary decision, Professor Fite concluded.

Mrs. C.J. LeVois was elected president of the Child Study club preceding Professor Fite's speech. Other officers elected were Mrs. W. Edgell, vice-president; Mrs. Alan Wicks, secretary, and Mrs. Don Metzler, treasurer.

The next business meeting will be held in September. A picnic will be held in May, time and place to be announced later.

Wallace Group Wants To Know Status

University Requested To Clarify Position

Students for Wallace yesterday asked the university administration to clarify its position concerning the status of political organizations on the campus.

1. "Will (campus political organizations) be permitted to use university facilities for meetings with acknowledged political candidates?"
2. "Will such organizations be permitted to use university facilities for meetings with off-campus speakers who, while not themselves political candidates, may be affiliated with political parties?"
3. "Will (they) be permitted to use university facilities for holding discussions of a political nature within the group?"

The clarification be made by "a written memorandum or directive addressed to all campus political groups."

The question arose from the news that Henry Wallace, third party presidential aspirant, would not be permitted use of university facilities to make a speech.

Students for Wallace have scheduled Lloyd James, international representative of CIO united farm equipment and metal workers of America, to speak on "Foreign Policy" Wednesday night in geology auditorium.

The group's executive committee asked the clarification "to facilitate planning of future educational programs."

James is not a political candidate, but he is affiliated with the Wallace group, Roland Protz, publicity chairman, said.

to be used by candidates for political office in the furtherance of their campaigns.

"This has not precluded men in political life from coming to the campus for addresses when they were not campaigning for public office or when they were qualified to speak with expert knowledge on special subjects.

"Examples are the addresses of former Senator Gillette on Palestine and Brig. Gen. Olmstead on China.

"No question of academic freedom is involved. The above-mentioned policy of the board has no bearing on the right either of faculty, administrative staff or students to individual participation in political discussion or action."

Final plans for distribution of Wallace's foreign policy platform were announced at yesterday's meeting of the Wallace group's executive committee meeting.

Protz said 1,000 pamphlets containing an abstraction of "the Wallace plan" for European relief will be distributed.

Distribution will be made in front of Old Capitol, at the north entrance of Schaeffer hall and between Macbride hall and University hall.

Protz said that distribution of the pamphlets was approved by Goetsch.

Truman's Likening Of Russia To Nazis Erroneous—Wallace

NEW HAVEN (P)—Henry A. Wallace said last night that President Truman's recent speech likening the international situation to that prevalent in 1941 "was a serious error."

The third party presidential candidate said in a speech prepared for delivery at the founding convention of the Progressive party of Connecticut: "It is a matter of life or death to millions of us to understand just how wrong Mr. Truman is in this comment on recent and current history."

The chief executive said in a speech in Washington Monday "there are certain things which are worse than war. One of them is slavery. That's what we were faced with in 1940 and 1941. We are faced with almost exactly the same situation today."

In reply Wallace said "the men who make the statement that the situations in 1941 and 1948 are almost exactly the same are trying, first of all, to sell the idea that Nazi Germany and Soviet Russia are almost identical."

That, he said, "is not only a stupid statement, it is a criminal statement. It is a myth. It was created by men who know that Nazi Germany and Soviet Russia are quite different."

Unlike the Fascist dictatorships, he said, "the Russians have no necessity to expand their borders, nor will they for many decades to come, except as external threats and pressures compel them to seek military security."

Commerce Fraternity Pledges 24 Students

The pledges are Bob Bunn, Waterloo; William D. Brooks, Shell-rack; Edmond Cassady, Bonara; Arthur Claus, Cedar Rapids; Robert Dykema, Manchester; John Foster, Bloomfield.

Carroll Voelkers, Wheatland; Morris Goddard, Laurens; Robert Long, Joliet, Ill.; John McGill; Independence; Dick Hedlund, Moline, Ill.; and Everett Diehl, Wapello.

Want SUI Building for GOP Speaker

By PHIL MILLER
Managing Editor

SUI Young Republican leaders last night indicated they would attempt to obtain a university building for a speech by Republican gubernatorial candidate William Beardsley.

Their attempt would be made on the grounds that Beardsley is a "recognized labor authority."

Beardsley is scheduled to speak here April 21 under Young Republican league sponsorship.

Meanwhile, President James Goodwin of the league said last night he is sending a letter to Pres. Henry Shull of the state board of education protesting the board's policy of denying use of university buildings to partisan political speakers.

to Shull said. "It has come to my attention that university student organizations will be denied use of university facilities for certain meetings.

"I feel that in a formulation of a policy by the board of education, the following points should be considered:

"Denial of university facilities to sponsor speakers restricts the rights of students as members of university-chartered organizations. "It is the normal and expected function of all political organizations to present candidates and their views to the public.

"I feel it is part of the educational process to hear views on various issues so that the student may form an objective opinion. Student organizations as representatives of the student body should be allowed equal opportunity to university facilities."

The human eye can distinguish about 100 million different colors.

More news about that ALL-CAMPUS CARNIVAL which is to be in full swing at the Fieldhouse next Saturday evening, April 10th, from 7 to 12 p.m. Word is that the faculty is to battle it out on the basketball court as a feature attraction. "Hancher's Hawks" are facing the strong challenge of the "Dean's Team" and unheralded group of players from the north side. The "Creeper's Sweepstakes" and a baby beauty contest are two other things of interest, not to mention some 30 concessions which will be available for your amusement, and entertainment. Everything from fortune telling to tossing hoops at coeds legs. All this, and dancing too! You can't miss the ALL-CAMPUS-CARNIVAL next SATURDAY!!

And then there is Barb Flood, DG, who called "Buck" Buchanan, Sigma Chi, bright and early on the morning of April 1st and told him the sad, sad news that she had the chicken pox. After many minutes of advice and much concern on "Buck's" part, he finally told her to hurry up and get in bed and call the doctor. Time was drawing short as Barb heard the 8:15 taxi honking outside, and she told the amazed fellow she had to be off to class. He then was more concerned than ever and Barb had a hard time convincing him she was fine and dandy and it was just a joke!

Alderman Rivals Tax Collector

Collects Pictures, Pencils, Insignia, Stamps and Coins

By RUSSELL ZELENIAK

Next to the income tax collector, Frank Fryauf Jr., 49, Iowa City's alderman-at-large, is probably Iowa's greatest collector.

At the age of nine, Fryauf began collecting paper bands representing brands of cigars, and photographs of prizefighters and movie personalities. Since then, he has branched out and collected old coins, stamps, army insignia and pencils.

His current collecting interests are stamps and pencils, but his greatest interest lies in collecting pencils in their original manufactured form.

Has Collection Mounted

Fryauf is Iowa City's sole pencil collector and one of the nation's estimated 300 pencil collectors. His collection, mounted on cardboards, ranging in size from a square foot to two square feet, consists of more than 12,000 different types of novelty, trick, advertising and display pencils of mechanical and non-mechanical make. The frames cover most of the north wall in the back room of his leather-goods store at 4 S. Dubuque street.

Included in his collection are pencils from Japan, Germany, Czechoslovakia, France, China, the Philippines, Great Britain and Alaska.

Recently, he received the oldest pencil to be added to his collection. It is an ordinary wooden type pencil of German make brought to Iowa by a German immigrant 52 years ago.

One of 121 Collectors

The smallest and biggest pencils in his collection are of a mechanical type, the smallest being one inch long and a sixteenth of an inch in diameter. The biggest pencil is 25 inches long and a quarter of an inch in diameter.

"The biggest pencil I know of is six feet long, six inches in diameter and weighs 19 and one-half pounds," Fryauf remarked. "The pencil is valued at more than $5,000 and belongs to William Hausman of Chicago."

Hausman is one of the 121 pencil collectors with whom Fryauf corresponds or exchanges his duplicate pencils for those he lacks.

Fryauf's novelty, trick and display pencils are the focus of attraction in his collection.

Displays Novelty Pencils

Novelty pencils are those shaped into miniature brooms, umbrellas, golf clubs, canes, baseball bats, polo mallets, bowling pins, rifles, regular-sized 30 caliber shells, awls, cigars, clothespins and eight-inch nails.

"These are some of my trick pencils," Fryauf said with a broad grin. He pointed to three ordinary-looking pencils.

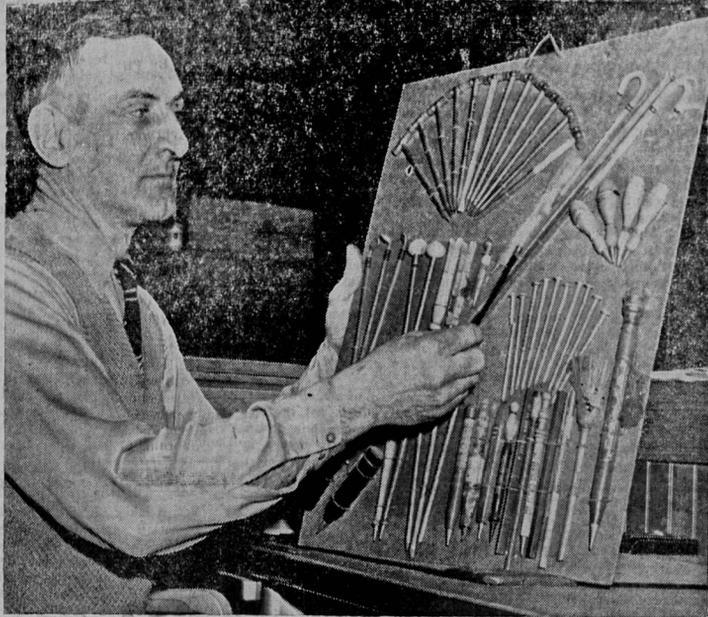

"This pencil has a rubber point," he continued, "and the one next to it, lead that slides back in the wooden section of the pencil when pressure is applied to the point. The other springs apart when you press down on the point."

Miniature-sized cans of salmon and beer, and bottles of wine and soda are some of the items displayed on pencils distributed by companies as advertising schemes. They are the "display" pencils, according to Fryauf.

Collects 'Advertising' Pencils

Scoping up a handful of pencils from a small cardboard box, Fryauf said they were part of his unmounted "advertising" pencils. These pencils, engraved with a name and address of an individual or a business enterprise, comprised most of his collection.

ing all but two of the railroad companies in the U. S., and he added that he has pencils advertising one or more business enterprises in each of the 48 states.

At present he is trying to complete one section of his collection which will consist of pencils from each of Iowa's 932 incorporated towns. So far, he has pencils bearing the names of 630 towns.

Started Seven Years Ago

A 70-year-old woman gave him the idea to collect pencils, Fryauf said.

A few days later, Fryauf said he "got to thinking about her collection and got a notion to start my own."

American Republics United After Opening Week Conferences

BOGOTA, COLOMBIA (AP) — The delegates of 21 American republics wound up their first week of deliberations here yesterday determined to stand together in the present world crisis.

There is probably five weeks of hard work ahead. But the delegates attending the Pan American conference already have declared their unity of purpose.

The conference faces the issues of communism and foreign colonies in the western hemisphere, economic problems and reorganization of the Pan American system. Although there are opposing views on these issues, the spirit of compromise has prevailed and up to now there has been no serious disagreements.

Secretary of State George C. Marshall's statement that the European recovery program will have first call on the United States pocket book caused the Latin Americans some disappointment.

But the Soviet blockade of Berlin increased support within the conference for the European recovery program. It also increased the desire of some delegates to put teeth into some sort of project to control subversive activities by Communists in the western hemisphere.

In addition Argentina has come forward with her own type of Marshall plan designed to keep the economies of Latin American countries going until the United States is able to give them increased assistance.

Knutson Asks For Additional Tax Revisions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional tax framers turned yesterday to legislation revising excise and corporation levies, after passing a $4.8-billion cut for individual income taxpayers.

The new bill may reduce the overall tax take by more millions of dollars.

Chairman Knutson (R-Minn.) announced the ways and means committee will tackle next week the job of writing a general revision of the tax statutes, particularly in the excise field, "to iron out inequities."

Knutson wrote the bill to cut $4.8-billion off for individual income taxes, which congress passed Friday over President Truman's veto.

Knutson told reporters, "If we can afford it we should eliminate the excises on transportation and communications." Moreover, he said he would like to see the excises on cosmetics and luggage, now 20 percent of retail price, returned to their former 10 percent of retail levels.

The transportation tax, 3 percent on the bills for moving freight, now yields about $276-million annually; the communications excise (15 percent on local telephone bills, 25 percent on long distance telephone, telegraph, cables, radio and leased wires) brings the treasury about $418-million annually—or a total of almost $700-million on the communications and transportation levies.

The cosmetics and luggage excises yield $180-million.

Senator George (D-Ga.), senior Democrat on the senate finance committee, saw little hope for cutting excise levies at this time.

"In view of the present demands for the rearmament program and for foreign aid, it would be unwise to eliminate any excises of the sharp revisions at this time," he said.

Three Persons Fined

Three persons were fined a total of $250 in police court yesterday by Judge Emil G. Trot.

LaVerne Christensen, Atalissa, was fined $22.50 on disorderly conduct charges; Harold L. Lawrence, 42 Clinton, $17.50 for speeding and one person, $12.50 for intoxication.

Chance To File for Civil Service Jobs

Application forms may be secured from any first or second class postoffice in Iowa.

Jaclyn Fitch Wins Delta Gamma Award

Jaclyn Fitch, Clinton, received the Diamond Delta Gamma achievement pin as the outstanding junior of the active chapter at a Founder's day luncheon Saturday at the Mad Hatters tea room.

The luncheon was held by the Delta Gamma Alumnae association and the active chapter of Iowa City.

The award was made this year for the first time. It will be awarded each year to the junior, most outstanding in campus activities, scholarship, and participation in chapter activities.

Miss Fitch was selected by a committee composed of four active members, Joan O'Shaughnessy, A2, Chicago; Ellen Jeanes, A3, Cedar Rapids; Marcia Ashland, Clear Lake, and Dorothy McCorkindale, Storm Lake, both A4; Gwen Oppenheimer, Marshalltown, retiring president of the chapter, and Mrs. John Williams, Iowa City, chairman of the alumnae advisory board.

Miss Oppenheimer presented the award.

Dorothy Page, Chicago, presented scholarship awards to three women. Martha Fry, Oklahoma City, Okla., with a grade average of 3.5, received the first-place award. Miss Ashland and Katherine Billings, Red Oak, with averages of 3.3, tied for the second-place award.

Negro Demos Ready If Whites Walk Out

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Negroes will be ready to take over if Arkansas' white Democrats walk out of the national convention at Philadelphia in July.

Such a walk-out has been suggested as a possible step in the south's opposition to President Truman's civil liberties proposal.

Dr. J. M. Robinson, president of the Arkansas Negro Democratic association, said yesterday that group had named seven delegates to attend the national democratic convention.

He said the executive committee authorized election of delegates to "take the seat vacated by any insurgent who leaves the convention hall and defects the party."

Bill of Rights—Platitudes or Protection?

How much do we mean of the Bill of Rights? Are those guarantees of liberty only platitudes to be invoked when convenient? Or are they a part of the "American way of life" which offers protection for the oppressed and the persecuted?

Justice William O. Douglas has some pertinent words about this in a recent speech, excerpts of which are reprinted elsewhere on this page today.

Two cases currently in the news illustrate the dangers. One concerns a type of police habit all too common. A Negro of Le Mars, Iowa, was ordered to "move on" by police ordering him off railroad property.

His story gained a sympathetic hearing in a small town a few miles away. It seems he is industrious, thrifty and willing to work. He was trying to find a ride to the next town to obtain work.

Western Union college students and Le Mars and other townspeople, to their credit, are talking publicly about this insidious, hard-to-define police attitude which insists that a Negro in town is always a "vagrant."

The other case currently brought to mind involved the wrecking of an avowed Communist's home in Columbus, Ohio, by an angry mob.

Some 25 police were present. But they did nothing. Instead, they departed after the crowd had gathered. The crowd proceeded to wreck the man's home.

Now who is using violence and terroristic tactics? The Communists? No, the great liberty-loving mob of Columbus.

What is wrong in a country that resorts to such tactics which violate the elementary basis of justice? Has blind fear erupted like a volcano within us? Must its poisonous lava spread out until it blots out that which we most prize—our insistence on civil rights for both friend and opponent?

Is there still time to quell this upsurge of madness? Perhaps, if the stirring words of men like Douglas and others can be absorbed into our actions as well as our sentiments.

Navy Hits New Low in Hearst Award

The navy struck a new low first award of this kind a man whose fanatical belief in military power has at times almost wrecked the nation.

It awarded William Randolph Hearst its highest civilian honor—the "distinguished public service award."

Hearst's claim to the award came for just one reason—guess? His "fight for an armed force second in size to none in the world."

And, of course, "his publications and radio stations have aided the cause of the navy, particularly that of a big navy."

Thus the navy cited for its first award of this kind a man whose fanatical belief in military power has at times almost wrecked the nation.

That the navy should choose him is an indication of the depths to which the military will sink in casting about for someone to lick their boots. That this man—of all men—should be the first to receive the award dishonors it.

The award must make GIs shiver as they come across that little case in the bureau drawer while fumbling for shirt buttons.

Czechs 'Lose' Loan Before Russian Coup

By The Associated Press WASHINGTON—It wasn't the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia that killed that country's application for $60,000,000 U.S. loan. The loan was killed long before that because just such a development was feared.

An authoritative person says the loan was administered as far back as 1946 by James F. Byrnes, then secretary of state.

plan is based on Austria's "own resources and in close collaboration with her natural trade partners, her neighbors."

Altman, who was the only Communist member of the government, resigned when currency reform was adopted last November.

MADRID—Usually well-informed diplomats tip that a rumored cabinet shake-up by Generalissimo Franco should not be expected until at least after the April 18 election in Italy.

A main point in the rumored change would be creation of a vice-president or premier. He would in effect be chief of government, as distinguished from Franco, who is chief of state.

U.S. Bill of Rights--Guardian of Liberties

Justice Douglas Says a Nation Is Healthy Only if Its People Are Strong—and Free

(Following are excerpts from a speech entitled "Our Bill of Rights" delivered by U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas Dec. 30, 1947, in Chicago, honoring the 100th anniversary of the birth of John Peter Altgeld, one-time governor of Illinois—The Editor.)

... Altgeld placed human beings higher than the dollar in the national scale of values. A nation's industrial plant represents not only the darning of capital and the imagination of executives, but the blood and sweat of men.

The men and women who compose a nation are its greatest natural resource—greater than its mines or forests or rivers.

The nation is healthy only if its people are strong. The state must concern itself with their economic disasters. For the greater share of their troubles are due not to laziness but to economic forces beyond their control.

There is in most men a lively sense of decency, of good will, of fraternity. The poor have those instincts, as well as those blessed with more worldly goods.

The powers of government should be directed to protect them in their struggle to survive and in their efforts to live in dignity and to share the fruits of freedom...

We will be wise if we carry that philosophy into the world problems which confront us today.

There are active bidders for the goodwill and support of the common people of the world. There are emissaries of totalitarian regimes in the capitals of the world, bargaining with bags of wheat for the souls of men. They are our competitors; but we need not emulate their example.

The victims of war in Europe and Asia... must not be treated as if they can be purchased with the dollar. We must not manage this great crisis of democracy as if it were an auction; as if the peoples of the world were on the block and going to the highest bidder...

The peoples of the world have suffered beyond our comprehension. If we so manage this crisis as to leave the impression that our standards are mercenary, we will have generated a revulsion to our system which may well be irreparable...

When we come to the aid of the distressed people of the world, we (must) act not out of charity alone but in answer to a responsibility to support in peace the ideal for which we were willing to wage a war.

Someday, somehow, we must let the peoples of the world know that. We must reach behind the facade of ministers and cabinets and commissions and let the common people feel our warm hand-clasp.

We must let them know that we understand their suffering. We must make sure they know that our desire is not to make them our satellites but to meet them as equals in a world where standards of decency and justice prevail.

My remarks are not directed to agencies of government. I refer more particularly to the role which all groups—civic, cultural, and religious—can play in keeping close ties with the peoples of the world.

Behind even the iron curtain of eastern Europe are human beings whose thirst for freedom is as great as our own. We must manage to let them feel the warmth of our understanding and friendship. We must not let them become the forgotten people of the world...

The pattern of an enduring peace will be found only in their hopes and aspirations. Altgeld once said that "All great reforms, great movements, come from the bottom and not the top." That is true in the international as well as the national field.

Thus it is doubly important

Protests Wallace Ban

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:

In yesterday's Daily Iowan, President Hancher was quoted as follows: "The big trouble is the politicians don't discuss the issues objectively so they aren't contributing to the university's main function— to serve as an educational facility."

It would be difficult to support the above Wallace-banning statement in view of the guest speakers appearing in Mr. Hancher's own Great Issues course.

Do all the Great Issues special pleaders "discuss the issues objectively?" Or isn't the great value in knowing first-hand what the chief special pleaders have to say?

I am amazed that the student body is being denied educational opportunity of hearing a progressive man's views, and all other political views. Should ignorance and name-calling take the place of understanding and reason?

I am certain that Wallace will treat issues more "objectively" than do many guest speakers on campus. Others come and express their political views on the issues—why can't Wallace? Students should be able to decide about politicians "getting beyond their depth in political waters" just like Mr. Hancher says they must with professors.

I am not sure that Mr. Hancher's statements, or mine, are purely objective in themselves. But I am certain that censorship and suppression do not contribute to the "university's main function as an educational facility."

that we do not lose the link which we have with all peoples whose dream is political, intellectual, and religious freedom.

There is "her current problem to which Altgeld's philosophy is relevant. On the domestic scene his courage and steadfastness of purpose are needed for protection of the civil liberties of our people.

We are apt to leave that task to the faraway court in the state or national capital. These courts, by their examples, exert a great influence. But the great percentage of the grist is found in the lower courts. A more accurate measure of the vitality of our bill of rights is not in sporadic rulings of our highest tribunals but in the day to day attitudes of the lower courts.

Moreover, it is not in the courts alone that the strength of our civil liberties is to be ascertained. The executive and legislative branches of government also have responsibilities for enforcement of the bill of rights.

The administration of the voting booths, the habits of the police in law enforcement, the nature of the city's ordinances—these are all indices of the vitality of the bill of rights in the life of the community. So is the attitude of the community. For an indifferent community, like a misguided one, will surely breed disrespect for the standards embodied in the bill of rights.

We may never reach perfection in our practice of the ideals of the bill of rights. But there is no earthly reason why with education and organization it cannot be an increasingly potent force in the every-day lives of our people. The extent of a community's respect of the human rights of all of its citizens is in fact the measure of its progress in civilization.

The creation of a healthy community attitude is not the exclusive task of any one group. The task starts in the homes, in the schools, and in the churches.

But city and state officials, editors, lawyers, and other groups of citizens have an important share of the responsibility.

I remember recent instances where tyrannical judges sitting in local courts rode roughshod over the civil liberties of defendants charged with crime. In one case it was a doctor, in another an editor who thundered personal disapproval and started campaigns to rid their cities of those oppressive practices. They were indeed the ones that alerted the local bar associations and caused civil liberties committees to be formed to patrol the local scene.

These are not always easy steps to take. When Altgeld insisted that even anarchists were entitled to due process of law, he himself was labeled a subversive influence.

That will often be said today when one insists that the safeguards of the bill of rights be extended to all groups, including any minority group in our midst that may be as the whipping post or the subject of temporary hysteria.

Yes, it takes courage to stand between an unpopular minority and the community, insisting that our bill of rights was designed for the protection of all people whatever their race, creed, or political faith.

The lawyer may feel uneasy when it seems that important clients may slip away because of his attitude. The editor may be tempted to stand mute by reason of the views of important advertisers. Even the clergyman may be under pressure to hold his tongue because of the influence of some of his parishioners.

But those who are devoted to the democratic ideal expressed in our bill of rights will take the direct and daring course. Once they are sure of their facts and know they are doing right they will espouse the cause of the victims of ignorance, prejudice, or passion...

Institutions become great by the greatness of the men who champion them, by the greatness of the advocacy that defends them. A people indifferent to their civil liberties do not deserve to keep them, and in this revolutionary age may not be expected to keep them long.

A people who proclaim their civil liberties but extend them only to preferred groups start down the path to totalitarianism. They emulate either the dictatorship of the right or the dictatorship of the left. In doing this they erase a basic distinction between our system of government and totalitarianism.

To allow that to happen is to lose by default. Far better to lose pleading the cause of decency and justice. Then we win greatness even in defeat, and leave behind a rich heritage for those who later rebuild on the ashes of our lost hopes.

But there will be no failure if we adhere steadfastly to our faith. For the goal of people of all races is toward a system which respects their dignity, frees their minds, and allows them to worship their God in their own way.

None has yet designed an article of political faith more suited to those ends than our own bill of rights.

Book Review

By JIM BECKER

How to Stop the Russians—Without War by Fritz Sternberg. The John Day Company, N. Y. $2.

Heralded by his publishers as a "prophet," Fritz Sternberg, it is true, has made in the past some amazing predictions of things to come both economic and political.

As his publishers fail to note, however, this is not because he makes annual trips to Delphi but because Sternberg has a grasp of certain forces—political, social and economic—that form a synthesis from which he can predict certain happenings under certain conditions.

There is no hokum here; no whirl-around-throw-it-over-your-left-shoulder. Here is reality of a type incomprehensible or unacceptable to the men to whom "realities" are chauvinism, force, balance of power and the final tragedy, war.

If "appeasement" of the Russians is the unforgivable sin, Sternberg must plead "not guilty." That is not the basis of his reality. If "stop communism at any cost" has become the goal of our leaders, Sternberg shows that "any cost" does not necessarily include war.

The 1,500,000,000 people in Europe and Asia are on the march, Sternberg points out. In Asia they are looking for an end to the feudalism that has prevented their economic and political advance.

In Indonesia they are fighting to throw off the colonial yoke of the Dutch. In Indo-China, the French are holding off a surging people. In China the peasant (or would you rather call him "Communist?") fights to rid himself of the reactionary landlord; in Greece to finish off another feudalism.

This is part of Sternberg's reality. To the extent that we ignore it or shrug off its implications, we live and act in a dream.

The success of the Communists in China is not due to the peasants' love of totalitarians—or the dialectic. The Communists succeed because they grant reforms the people are demanding.

This is why money for guns, for Chiang, for China (?) is just so much down a rat hole. For agrarian reforms, reconstruction of industry or representation of the people on a democratic basis are not conditions of American aid to China. Sternberg points out quite rightly that as long as Chiang's government rests essentially on the old military and landowning cliques, our support means support of the Communists. It is to the Communists the peasant will continue to turn.

Turning to Europe, Sternberg demonstrates that the only thing that can be said about our foreign policy today, is that it is consistent. Here again our policy must be completely revised and devoted to uniting Europe on a basis practicable for them as well as for us.

This cannot include capitalism which has become an impossibility for Europe since its prerequisites are no longer present; its postulates unattainable.

This is real: the middle class foundation for a system of free enterprise no longer exists in Europe. Europe has become poor in capital, as Sternberg says. The colonial empire that once furnished Europe with raw materials and food has vanished. To attempt to revive it or support the shreds of colonialism is to deny to half the people of the world the things they are demanding—and to force them to communism.

"Europe must seek new economic and political forms if it is to endure as an independent force," Sternberg states.

The myth that is American foreign policy today, that ignores the reality, is again seen in our handling of the Ruhr.

Here we are faced with the problem of restoring German industry without creating a basis for a new war potential that German reactionaries may use to threaten the peace. But, instead of weakening the private industrialists, we are strengthening them. Sternberg points to our refusal to allow Britain to socialize the Ruhr—against the will of German workers who twice voted for socialization. Where will these workers turn?

And, although he didn't use this example, Sternberg could have pointed to a Jimmy Byrnes who refused to extend credit to a then democratic Czechoslovakia because, at the Paris conference, a Czech delegate applauded a speech by a Russian delegate.

In the Ruhr again, Sternberg reminds us of the clear-cut stand the German Social Democrats have taken against General Clay (whose reappointment as military governor last week is the second reor of a Class C dream) and his directives against socialization.

"American policy against socialization and for the old reactionary regime has not been the smallest factor in giving the Communist party its present strength among the Ruhr miners," Sternberg warns.

The question of who we must support, of what system Europe must operate under, can have but one answer. As Sternberg says, the question is not "Private enterprise or democratic socialism in Europe?" For the truth is that the social and economic basis for liberal free enterprise no longer exists.

The alternatives, then, are "... nationalism, fascism and reaction ... or planned socialism and democratic development." We are paying our money (ERP) and we are taking our choice (—)!

If, in order to have peace, we must stop the Russians and communism, we must have the help and aid of those people, whether in China or Europe, who can offer a policy that will give Europe or China a future as an independent united force.

We must help them, Sternberg says, "... even if their aspirations and hopes, even if their institutions are and never will be the same as ours."

For those who look to "reality" or "practicality" as a guide to their thinking, Sternberg offers a brand seldom found in the current market. For those whose faith is in the military—the let's-draw-the-line-and-stop-them-now's—this is a challenge they cannot ignore if their claims to rationality are more than a pretense.

Who's YOUR Man?

Who should be elected president of the United States? The Daily Iowan is conducting this poll to see whom you would elect if the voting were today. Five different lineups are given. The poll assumes that Mr. Truman is the Democratic nominee and that Wallace does not withdraw.

Five different possible Republican nominees are listed. Thus, if the elections were today and Dewey were the GOP nominee, whom would you vote for? Do the same for the other four possibilities.

If enough interest is shown, the hypothetical lineups can be changed at a later date with other possible combinations of candidates.

All you do is ask yourself whom you would vote for in the five situations given and mail or bring your ballot to The Editor, The Daily Iowan. Be sure to mark your ballot for every one of the five situations. Do NOT sign your name.

A running total will be kept. The poll isn't expected to prove anything, and it isn't supposed to be scientific. But it ought to be interesting.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT Someone Is Calling Us

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

The phone has been ringing. The voices on the other end are warm, excited—good to hear in a period of dismay.

These are people who like the idea of holding a model peace conference, an unofficial meeting of able Americans who would undertake to sit down and argue out a draft agreement between the United States and Russia on the basis of which peace could be made.

And these are people who are talking peace, people who have not yet, between days or between headlines, given up the hope that peace can be established.

The trend toward war is so deadly strong, so sweeping, that it cannot possibly be reversed in a day or a week. First it must be halted, and then the reverse trend must take hold, gradually reawakening those who have gone inert with hopelessness during one of the grimmest political winters of our history.

The very fact of holding a model peace conference would serve notice that "hope still" exists, that there is an area of reason still un-invaded, a citadel of sense and reflection still unstormed.

There would be other benefits. As originally advanced, the proposal for a model peace conference called for having half the delegates—six out of twelve—take the Russian side in the negotiation.

This thought is in itself perhaps a kind of shocker. It implies there is a Russian case. That is an idea which many of us, during this last year, have not allowed to dent the polished surfaces of our innocent preconceptions.

The conference would, perhaps bring us a measure of very much needed humility, as it brought out the fact that there is perhaps a Russian case, in security terms, as against a great power possessing the atomic bomb.

I have been told it would be impossible to find six eminent Americans, out of twelve selected, who would take the Russian side, even in mock debate. If that is really true, then the game is up, and we aren't thinking any more, and have really left reflection behind, and are off to the wars.

But the six would not be working for Russia, any more than the other six would be working exclusively for America; they would all be working for the world, as would come clear if they ever got down on paper the beginnings of a practical, realistic, hardboiled plan for peace.

That sheet of paper, however unofficial and lacking in legal status, could become the hottest bit of paper in the world, if it made sense, and gave us answers.

And in discussing it, we would be talking about peace, we would be relearning the rusty vocabulary of peace, we would be loosening our tongues for peace—even those who attacked it would find themselves discussing the clauses of a draft peace treaty, instead of tanks and divisions and landing points.

I will welcome comments and offers of cooperation from those who would like to be associated with this sort of adventure in understanding.

WHAT WAS HE LOOKING FOR?

Sir Galahad went in quest of the Holy Grail, the cup that Jesus used at the Last Supper. A nun's vision of the Grail inspired the Knights of King Arthur's Round Table to search for the cup, which was believed to have been brought to England in the early Christian era. Galahad, Percivale and Bors were the only ones actually to see the Holy Grail, according to legend.

Scouts Issue Traffic Tickets

In two hours yesterday afternoon Boy Scouts and Air Scouts gave out traffic violation courtesy tickets to 2,000 pedestrians in the downtown business district.

The scouts, representing troops 1, 3, 10 and 13 and air squadron 6, were helping the local Junior Chamber of Commerce in its safety campaign.

The campaign started March 15 and will last until Nov. 15. The theme of this month's safety drive is "pedestrian safety."

Police officer O. A. White gave the boys a send-off address before they took their posts on street corners. Soon after White delivered his instructions, one of the scouts gave him a courtesy ticket for stepping into the street before the traffic light changed.

Officer White said the toes of his shoes merely protruded over the curb.

The tickets, purchased by the Hudson-Jennings insurance agency, were given out in a two-hour period starting at 1:30 p.m. The Jaycees had assumed that 2,000 tickets would be sufficient to last through the month of April, but the scouts gave out the whole batch yesterday.

The tickets were awarded for one or several of the following violations: walking against traffic light, jay walking, crossing other than at an intersection and stepping into the street before the light changed.

Later in the afternoon, a tally of violations was totaled, and it was found that 1,074 persons had walked against a traffic light, 183 had jay walked, 129 had crossed streets between intersections and 614 had stepped off the curb before the light changed.

After the scouts completed their duties, the Jaycees treated them to soda pop and doughnuts while Mayor Preston Koser commended the boys for doing a fine job.

Steve Darling, chairman of the Jaycee pedestrian campaign for the April safety drive, said the scouts will distribute the courtesy tickets to traffic violators every Saturday afternoon this month.

Next Saturday the number of scouts will be doubled and plenty of tickets will be made available to the boys.

SUI Women Debaters Win

(Special to The Daily Iowan)
LAFAYETTE Ind.—The University of Iowa took first place in Western Conference league women's debate yesterday and tied for second in men's debate. This is the third straight year Iowa has won the women's division.

Three Iowa debaters gained superior ratings, with two more receiving excellent individual ratings.

These results were announced at the close of the 20th annual conference debate tournament at Purdue university. Simultaneous tournaments for men and women were held Friday and yesterday.

Purdue took top honors in men's debate with eight wins and two losses. Tied for second with records of six and four were Iowa, Northwestern and Chicago university.

In winning first place the Iowa women's team also had eight wins and two losses.

All debates were upon the national inter-collegiate question. "Resolved: A federal world government should be established."

In addition to school honors, the Iowa women's affirmative team tied for first place with Ohio State. Iowa women's negative tied for second place honors with Purdue.

In men's debate the Iowa negative team split honors with Purdue for second place with four wins and one loss.

School ratings are based upon the combined scores of the affirmative and negative teams.

Beside place ratings, the teams are scored individually from superior to below average. The Iowa women's negative was superior, and an excellent rating went to the women's affirmative, and to both men's teams.

Individual debaters are ranked in the same way as the teams. Superior recognition went to the following Iowa debaters: Charles Guggenheim, Cincinnati, Ohio; Virginia Rosenberg, Burlington, and Georgianna Edwards, Richmond, Ind.

Rated excellent were Richard Peterson, Council Bluffs; Maureen McGovern, Iowa City; and Virginia Dickson, St. Louis, Mo.

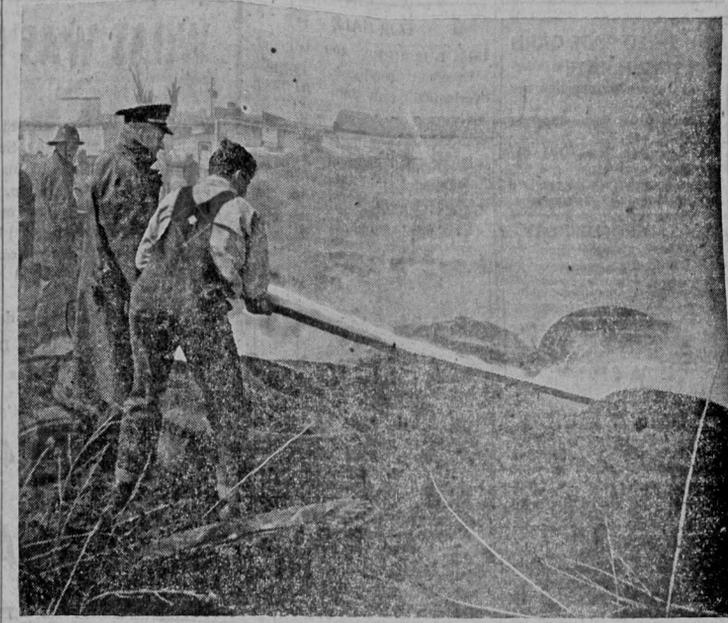

Also debating for Iowa in the tournament were Sherwin Markman, Des Moines and Evan Hultman, Waterloo, both of whom rated good.

Bulge Battle—Fire Spreads From City Dump to Tires

Firemen battled from 10:45 a. m. till 12:30 p. m. yesterday before subduing a stubborn blaze in a $30 pile of junk tires at Miller Truck sales and service, 1026 S. Riverside drive.

A stiff south breeze spread flames from leaves burning on the city dump to the tires, spectators said.

Sold Friday to Braverman and Worton Auto Parts company, the tires would have been moved Monday, Eldon Miller, owner of Miller Truck sales, said.

About thirty 55-gallon barrels of oil owned by Mohr Service, 1034 S. Riverside drive, had been stored near the tires. Volunteers rolled the drums to safety after flames were first noticed.

Dense black smoke billowing from the burning rubber attracted several hundred people. So many cars blocked roads leading to the blaze, fire trucks had difficulty getting there.

A fresh outbreak of flame was reported at 5 p. m., but firemen found tires only smoldering. Danger of the blaze spreading was past, they reported.

At 11:35 a. m., while firemen were still battling flames, one truck was called to extinguish a grass fire at 119 Pearl street. The flames were cut before firemen arrived.

A brush blaze at 804 Iowa avenue was reported at 1:50 p. m. while the men were busy cleaning equipment and rolling up hose. No damage resulted from the latter two fires.
