

Young Republican League Reinstated by State Committee

The SUI Young Republican League last night was officially reinstated by its parent state organization.

Following a regular business meeting of the local league at which the matter of the suspension of the league by the state organization was discussed, Robert S. Lorch, director of the college activities committee of the Young Republican League of Iowa personally handed the letter of reinstatement to Chairman James F. Goodwin of the league.

During the discussion, Lorch said, "I believe the remarks made here tonight by the membership bring the league again within the Young Republican League of Iowa."

The remarks were chiefly those of Louis Scott, organizer of a Vandenberg-for-President group which had sought recognition by the league last week.

In a surprise move, Scott completely withdrew all requests for recognition of his group—"not because I am disgusted with the league, but because I was under a false impression that the chairman of the league could recognize such groups."

Scott said there had been "quite a bit of misunderstanding" and that "if I could have realized Goodwin's position none of this would have happened."

Lorch later stated that "if there are no other organizations requesting recognition by the league, then there is no longer any violation (See YOUNG GOP, Page 5)

Dewey Denies Making Deal To Stop Stassen

ALBANY (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey denied through an aide yesterday that he had made any "deal" with Senator Robert A. Taft in connection with the Republican presidential nomination.

The governor's office said there was a "report" Stassen had said in Ohio yesterday that Dewey and Taft had conferred recently.

Until Stassen's triumph over Dewey and Taft in Nebraska Tuesday, there had been mounting reports that Dewey and Taft would get together to prevent a deadlock between them at the GOP national convention.

Foreign — New Philippine Leader; Violence in Italy

Roxas Dies; Quirino New Philippines President

MANILA (AP)—President Manuel Roxas died of a heart attack yesterday at Clark Field, U.S. air base 50 miles northwest of Manila. The 56-year-old first president of the Philippines Republic collapsed shortly after making a strong speech in which he declared the free peoples of the world "must stop, and if necessary fight, aggression by Communist fifth columns the world over."

When Roxas was stricken, U.S. air force doctors and the secretary of health, Dr. Antonio Villarama, immediately attended him. Oxygen was administered. His personal physician, Dr. Antonio G. Sison, flew from Manila in a U.S. embassy plane.

A year ago Roxas narrowly escaped death from an assassin's hand grenade, which killed one and wounded six of his party on a Manila platform. Last November he became ill during the congressional campaign and took a long rest.

Roxas Wednesday went by train to Clark Field for his first official call at that biggest American air base in the Republic.

To Succeed Roxas Elpidio Quirino, who becomes president of the Philippines upon the death of Roxas, has served concurrently as vice president and foreign secretary of the Republic since its beginning July 4, 1946.

Quirino was educated as a lawyer at the University of the Philippines and was admitted to the bar in 1915.

Truman Optimistic On Next Four Years

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman said jauntily yesterday that he doesn't scare easily and that he'll be in the White House four more years.

Thus he smiled off political troubles besetting him in the south, New York and elsewhere.

He took a graver view of an intra-administration dispute over defense needs. He also expressed regret and surprise at the bloody revolt in the inter-American conference city of Bogota.

Mr. Truman completed three years as president this week. The question whether he shall be re-nominated is one of bitter controversy within the Democratic party.

One spot where some Democrats are bucking his nomination is New York City. A Henry A. Wallace man has won in a normally strong Democratic district there. Too, there has been sharp opposition from some New York Jewish groups to the administration's Palestine policy.

The question of southern objections to his civil rights program came up. A girl reporter asked whether he has seen any evidence that some southern states are coming back to Truman.

The president replied, a great many never left Truman.

In Nashville, the Tennessee state Democratic convention rejected a sharply-worded anti-Truman resolution yesterday in favor of a milder one leaving delegates to the national convention in Philadelphia uninstructed on the presidential nomination.

The convention adopted the resolution on a voice vote after an hour of debate. The resolution instructs the delegation of 40 to vote as a unit at Philadelphia.

To Head MacArthur Vets

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright yesterday accepted the chairmanship of the Veterans for MacArthur division of the MacArthur for President club of America.

Berlin To See How A B-29 Squadron Looks

FUERSTENFELDBRUCK, GERMANY (AP)—Twenty-eight B-29 heavy bombers arrived here today on a direct training flight from the United States.

As soon as they landed on this field, Gen. Lucius D. Clay asked that the squadrons make a sortie over Berlin.

This was interpreted as a move by the American commander in Europe to show Berlin what a squadron of the giant bombers looks like. Nothing of this size ever was used in the European war.

The proposed flight will be confined to the corridor into Berlin, set aside by the Russians for Allied travel.

UN Disagrees On Truce Plan For Palestine

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—The United Nations security council failed last night to agree on a truce to stop fighting and bloodshed in Palestine.

The Jewish agency for Palestine rejected the truce proposal that was warmly backed by the United States, Colombia and Canada.

The Arab high committee for Palestine did not commit itself, but the ranking Arab spokesman on the council said he would accept the truce plan with some iron-clad conditions.

The council finally gave up at 5:10 p.m. (C.S.T.) after Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet deputy foreign minister, declared he had not received his instructions on how to vote on the proposal.

The council will meet again today after the first day's session of the second UN assembly on Palestine.

The agency demanded, in effect, a truce on its own terms.

It said the truce-proposal before the United Nations security council "appeared to load the dice very heavily against the Jews."

Moshe Shertok, head of the political department of the agency, outlined his views to the council but did not commit the agency against any truce. In a 30-minute speech he blasted the pending proposal and the British administration in Palestine.

MOSCOW (AP)—The American news correspondent Robert Magidoff said yesterday he had been informed by the Soviet press department that his further work here was impossible. He said he was leaving the Soviet Union in two or three days.

His statement followed publication of a long letter in the government newspaper Izvestia — which Izvestia said was from Magidoff's American-born secretary — accusing him of spying for the United States.

Magidoff said the press department had told him in view of this letter his further residence in the U.S.S.R. was undesirable.

Izvestia quoted the secretary, Cecilia Nelson, a former employee of the U.S. embassy, as saying that Magidoff had dispatched reports in U.S. diplomatic pouches, not subject to censorship.

(In Washington, the state department said U.S. Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith had cabled from Moscow a flat denial that Magidoff served as a spy for the embassy. Smith said also that Magidoff had told him Miss Nelson's allegations were false.)

Magidoff has served the National Broadcasting Co., the Exchange Telegraph (British) and the McGraw-Hill Publishing Co., of New York. He once was on the Associated Press staff here.

(William F. Brooks, NBC vice president in charge of news, said in New York the network had full confidence in Magidoff's integrity.)

Izvestia quoted Miss Nelson as saying she had come upon documents which revealed that Magidoff was "using his residence in the U.S.S.R. in the role of correspondent for purposes of espionage and he was conducting intelligence activities against the Soviet Union."

Izvestia quoted the secretary as giving this account of Magidoff's activities:

She had involuntarily discovered documents in the correspondent's office which had reached Magidoff through the American embassy.

A letter on McGraw-Hill stationery dated June 26, 1947 gave instructions for the collection of detailed information about underground buildings. An attached questionnaire asked whether the buildings were in a strategic location (less vulnerable to bombing) and could be made proof against poison gases and radioactive particles.

Russell F. Anderson of McGraw-Hill World News said in New York that the assignment on underground plants was part of a world-wide survey designed to determine the effectiveness of such buildings during the recent war.

A native of Russia, Magidoff came to the United States in 1922. He is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin. His mother, Mrs. Jennie Magidoff of New York, said he is an American citizen.

The U.S. state department identified Miss Nelson as a native-born American citizen who has lived in Russia some 12 years. Records show she is married and her husband's name is Tovia Kohnen. His citizenship was not stated.

Communists Battle Fascists in Rome

ROME (AP)—Communists and Fascists battled in Tiburtino square last night with chunks of concrete as Italy's turbulent election campaign neared its close.

Heavy forces of riot police fought to stop the battle, when about 2,500 leftists descended with armloads of heavy missiles on the dingy square where a rally of the Nationalistic Italian Social movement (MSI) was in progress.

Soon the MSI followers were put to flight, and Communists took complete possession of the square, singing their songs, while police looked on. An airplane overhead dropped Communist leaflets. At least six persons were injured.

It was the second such clash in as many nights involving the MSI which sings Fascist marching hymns and boasts nearly all the paraphernalia of Mussolini's legions except the black shirt.

The two clashes and the scheduling of 12 more big MSI rallies throughout the city today raised a suspicion among many middle-of-the-road Italians that while they have been busy trying to kick communism out the door fascism has climbed back up to the window.

Patrol Charges Pilot On Smuggling Aliens

MIAMI (AP)—The arrest of a Miami flight instructor and three New York City Chinese charged with smuggling aliens into the United States from Cuba was announced yesterday by the immigration border patrol.

The pilot admitted that he made five flights from Cuba to Chicago, Philadelphia and New York, an agent said, bringing in 19 Chinese and four Europeans, for which he received from $600 to $1,500 each.

The immigration official said the "head" of the reported smuggling ring had not been arrested but is under close watch by border patrol agents.

In Washington, the justice department reported a number of aliens, including some Chinese and some Europeans alleged to have been brought in by illicit methods, have been rounded up.

Petrillo Lifts Ban

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—The United Nations announced last night James C. Petrillo had temporarily lifted his ban on radio music transmissions to permit a recording in behalf of the UN appeal for children.

The recording of a song by Irving Caesar entitled "Let's Make The World of Tomorrow Today" will be sent to more than 40 countries for domestic broadcasting, the UN said.

ROBERT MAGIDOFF His Secretary Talked

U. S. Warned In Advance Of Revolution

WASHINGTON (AP)—The bloody revolution that wrecked the capitol of Colombia was pictured to congress and the American people yesterday as a Communist-inspired horror of a kind that can happen here.

The head of the U.S. central intelligence agency said Jorge Gaitan, liberal leader whose assassination touched off the Bogota violence, was a figure like "Henry Wallace in our country"—a man who played along "with the extreme left and Communists."

(Wallace could not be reached for comment either in New York City or at his farm at South Salem, N.Y.)

The intelligence head, Rear Admiral R. H. Hillenkoetter, told a special house subcommittee that the state department had been given advance warning of trouble—including a tip that Secretary of State Marshall and other U.S. officials might be molested.

But President Truman told a news conference he didn't know the revolt was coming. He said he was as surprised as anyone else.

Hillenkoetter read the astounded congressmen a March 10 report from a U.S. agent saying Gaitan supporters were bringing arms into Colombia for a revolution.

Grimly, Hillenkoetter said conditions in Colombia are "similar to those in the United States, except that they are advanced a couple of years."

Hillenkoetter disclosed that the central intelligence agency began getting reports from Colombia as far back as January that trouble was brewing—that the Communists were planning disturbances to discredit the inter-American and American officials in particular.

(The state department said last night that Secretary Marshall was warned repeatedly of possible trouble at Bogota.)

(But he replied, the department said, that it would be absolutely ridiculous for the American republics even to consider being intimidated — by Communists or anybody else.)

Colombian Workers End General Protest Strike

BOGOTA (AP)—The Colombian workers federation announced late yesterday the end of a general strike which paralleled the weekend's bloody revolution.

The strike was called last Friday to protest the assassination of Liberal party leader Jorge Eliecer Gaitan, who was shot earlier the same day. The shooting also touched off an insurrection and rioting which caused about 300 deaths.

A semblance of normal activity was restored in Bogota during the day. Banks reopened and the Colombian government moved to clean up the wreckage from the revolutionary riots.

Meanwhile, the body of Gaitan still was unburied and his widow remained steadfast in her refusal to permit interment until Ospina resigns the presidency.

The pan-American conference, interrupted by the uprising, resumed its sessions and is meeting in a school building in a Bogota suburb.

House Okays Air Bill Over Forrestal's Plan

Labor — Delays Lewis Trial Decision Until Monday

WASHINGTON (AP)—The John L. Lewis trial ended yesterday except for the final judgment. Judge T. Alan Goldsborough kept Lewis and the country in suspense by putting off his decision until Monday morning.

He will announce then whether Lewis and the United Mine Workers are guilty of contempt of court.

At a similar trial in 1946 the same federal judge rocked the same defendants with a "guilty" judgment and heavy fines.

Lewis sat massively silent again yesterday. He didn't so much as shake his bushy hair while Assistant Attorney General Graham Morison, summing up the government's case, thrust at him with accusations.

Morison, a short, dark-haired man 27 years younger than Lewis, said the issue is simple—the defendants on April 5 were handed a court order to end the soft coal strike and they let exactly one week pass before doing anything about it.

Morison said Lewis should be held responsible for his acts "as well as any other man." He told the attentive judge:

That Lewis caused the miners to quit work March 15; That he "well knew" he was causing it;

That he "took his time" about obeying the court order;

And that he finally ordered the miners back to work April 12.

Morison asked for conviction of both civil and criminal contempt.

The unions lawyer, Welly K. Hopkins, declined to sum up the defendants' case, though Goldsborough almost begged him to make a final argument.

A sizeable majority of the nearly 400,000 soft-coal miners were back at work heading Lewis's telegrams of Monday telling them that miners' pensions had been granted and they should return to work. But many thousands still stayed home.

If Goldsborough decides to convict Lewis and the union Monday, he must then decide on the sentence—maybe the same day, maybe later. There is no legal limit to the fines or prison sentence he can impose for contempt.

In December, 1946, when a court order banning a coal stoppage had been ignored, Goldsborough fined Lewis $10,000 and the union $3-million. The supreme court in 1947 cut the union's fine to $700,000 but Lewis paid the full amount of his.

Taft Says Wage Fixing A Way To End Strikes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Taft told the American Society of Newspaper Editors last night that strikes cannot be prohibited unless the government fixes wages.

The Ohio Republican, candidate for his party's presidential nomination, reviewed the work of the 80th congress.

"The Taft-Hartley law is still under trial," he said, "but I think we can say it has achieved a great deal of success."

Taft said there was no intention in the labor act to prohibit strikes, and added that a prohibition against strikes must necessarily be accomplished by wage fixing and then general government controls.

Vote To Settle Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—Members of the AFL united financial employees voted yesterday to accept a mediation agreement and settle their strike against the New York curb exchange.

The curb board of governors will meet today to vote on the agreement.

Plan NY Transit Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—Some 2,000 transit workers last night authorized the executive board of the CIO transport workers union to call "at will" a strike against three of the city's major private surface transportation systems.

The lines carry more than 3 million passengers daily.

Rep. Thomas Flays Canal Zone Status

NEW YORK (AP)—Rep. J. Parnell Thomas (R-N.J.) said yesterday there has been a "startling influx" of Soviet nationals into Panama since the beginning of last year.

"There is reason to believe that their chief interest is in the Panama Canal Zone," he said.

The chairman of the house committee on un-American activities writing in the current issue of Liberty magazine, also estimated the present U. S. military strength of the nearby Panama Canal Zone at only 6,000 troops.

The zone's 6,000 soldiers, including quartermaster, ordnance, medical corps, and headquarters detachments, could do little more than care for the wounded and bury the dead in the event of hostilities, he said. There is some radar, but with a maximum reach of only 150 miles, he said.

"We have only 16 anti-aircraft guns . . . to defend the whole canal, and only eight of them — four on each side — are fully manned," Thomas said.

Commissioner Claims White House Fire Trap

WASHINGTON (AP)—Did you know the White House is one of the worst fire traps in the United States and parts of it are holding together "purely from habit?"

That's the opinion of W. E. Reynolds, commissioner of public buildings. He says he shudders to think what might happen.

"The White House wouldn't pass any building code in America," Reynolds said. "I'm convinced a portion of the second floor is staying up purely from habit."

Senator Bridges (R-NH) quipped: "If they knew the White House was one of the greatest fire traps in the country, maybe there wouldn't be so many aspiring candidates for president."

Hawkeye Nine Meets Michigan Here Today

Wolverines Good Hitters; Pitching Weak

Iowa's baseball nine gets its first Western conference test of the season this afternoon when it plays host to Michigan's powerful Wolverines.

The Hawks, vying for their first Big Nine crown since 1942, go to the post with the best seven year record in the conference. But hot on their heels comes the Michigan team, and this year's Wolverine nine seems in a good spot to take over the leadership.

The Wolverines boast a powerful hitting club, with football players Bob Chappius, "Bumps" Elliot, Jack Weisenburger and Dominic Tomasi the pace-setters. If Michigan has a weakness, it lies in a pitching staff of rather doubtful strength.

The Wolverines have played six games to date, winning four of them. They hold single victories over the Quantico Marines, Camp Lee, Georgetown and Ohio University, while losing to the Ohio school and George Washington. In the six games the Wolverines have scored 58 runs to their opponents 32, indicating tremendous offensive power with doubtful pitching.

The Hawkeyes, who have won seven of their 10 non-conference games, will be out to avenge the loss of a double header to Michigan at Ann Arbor last year. The Wolves won the games, 10-1 and 7-3.

Either Al DiMarco or Jack Bruner, each with a 3-1 record this season, will get the starting pitching assignment today, with the other probably taking the mound for the second game of the series tomorrow.

Hawkeye hopes will rest on the ability of these twirlers in silencing the big bats of the Wolverines. Meanwhile, Iowa hopefuls are counting on the hitting prowess of the Hawkeyes to more than equal anything the Michigan club can dish out.

Little Bob Smith, Iowa lead-off man, is the big sticker so far with a .409 average. Captain Lyle Ebner and Bob Primrose follow closely with .375 and .388 respectively.

Although the rest of the Hawkeyes are well down the list on the basis of percentages, any one of the probable starters is capable of breaking up a ball game. This is especially true of Don McCarty and Jack Dittmer, who have had little success at the plate to date.

Today's game is scheduled for 3:30 p.m., with the game tomorrow due to start at 2 p.m.

Cubs Get 2 in 8th To Beat Cards, 6-4

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—The Chicago Cubs made two runs on three St. Louis errors in the eighth inning yesterday and beat the Cardinals 6-4 in the final game for both teams on their southern tour. Last night they headed for home and their city series that precedes the league opener.

The Cardinals rallied with two runs in the ninth, but a double play cut them short. Chicago's rookie pitcher Bob McCall held the Cardinals in check until the ninth, when a double and two walks filled the bases and Ralph Hamner relieved him.

It was Chicago's only victory in a four-game series.

No Favorites Shown, for Injury Jinx a Plague

To all Big League Managers

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Major league managers, alarmed over the recent wave of injuries to key players, today were anxiously counting the days before the official opening of the season. It simply can't start soon enough to please them.

At least six top flight performers appear certain to be among the missing from the starting lineups when the national and American leagues get under way next Monday and Tuesday.

The injury jinx has played no favorites. It was hit the high and the low alike. Both the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers, last year's world series rivals, will make their 1948 bow minus their No. 1 catchers.

Larry (Yogi) Berra, who was expected to handle the Yankee catching duties on opening day in Washington Monday, instead will be sitting on the sidelines with a split hand.

The Dodgers' world series catcher, Bruce Edwards, also will see the opener from a cozy spot on the bench. A constant sore arm threatens the sturdy receiver's immediate future.

The Boston Red Sox and St. Louis Cardinals, generally regarded as the most dangerous challengers of the Yankees and Dodgers, also are faced with injury problems.

The Red Sox most likely will be without the services of second baseman Bobby Doerr. The infielder suffered a back sprain during a batting practice session two weeks ago and still cannot swing a bat without pains in his shoulders.

The Cardinals, besides worrying over the condition of ace south-paw Howie Pollet's pitching arm, are still uncertain of Marty Marion's physical condition. The lanky shortstop's knee caved in on him during an exhibition game two weeks ago.

The Giants also will start without a key man. Second baseman Billy Rigney will be missing. Rigney, bothered by an ailing arm, will be out of action for at least six weeks.

An injury to first baseman Ed

Robinson of Cleveland, has forced Hank Greenberg to vacate his soft-cushioned seat in the vice-president's office for a hard one on the Indians' bench. Big Hank will play the bag at least until Robinson recovers from an injury to his right leg.

Bill (no-hit) McCahan, who was counted upon to pitch one of the games of the Philadelphia Athletics' morning-afternoon double header with Boston Monday, definitely will not. Pleagued by a sore arm, McCahan has done little pitching thus far.

Others who have been sidelined by injuries or sickness recently and whose opening day status is doubtful include Ted Williams, Dom DiMaggio and Tex Hughson, Red Sox; Frank Papias, Chicago White Sox; Bill Bevens and Charlie Keller, Yankees; Ferris Fain, Bob Savage and Dick Fowler, Philadelphia Athletics; Gil Coan, Washington Senators; Warren Spahn, Boston Braves; Buddy Kerr, Giants; Joe Garagiola, Cardinals; Harry Taylor, Dodgers and Bob Chesnes, Pittsburgh.

Williams, of course, had that widely publicized appendicitis attack; Dom DiMaggio has been bothered by sore feet; Papias is recovering from an arm operation; Bevens, Fowler, Savage, Taylor and Chesnes have sore arms; Coan has a sprained ankle; Kerr was beamed yesterday; Spahn tore some shoulder tissues when struck by a line drive last Monday, and Garagiola's throwing arm is out of kilter.

Reds in Late Win Over Syracuse, 8-6

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds pushed over two late inning runs yesterday to break a 6-6 tie and hand the Syracuse Chiefs, their International league farm hands, an 8-6 defeat.

Two passes, a hit batsman and the Chiefs' second doubleplay of the day added up to the tie-breaking run for the Reds in the eighth. They added another in the ninth on a walk and Marv Rickert's triple.

Intramurals in Spring Action — Table Tennis, Wrestling Beginning to Narrow

Lynn Gray and Hiram Houghton, Phi Delta Phi, advanced to the finals in the professional fraternity table tennis doubles by edging Eugene Hogan and Harvey McFate, Theta Tau, 21-16, 18-21, and 21-14.

In a semi-final match, John Woodard and Donald Schultz, Phi Chi, play John Eichhorn and Ernest Youngtown, Phi Delta Phi. The winners will advance to the finals with the Gray-Houghton duo.

James Kenworthy, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, tangles today with Donald Brown, Delta Tau Delta, in the championship match of the social fraternity badminton singles tourney. Kenworthy advanced to the finals by defeating Robert Hoff, Phi Gamma Delta, 15-9, 15-6, while Brown was having trouble with John Syverud, Phi Kappa Psi, 15-10, 10-15, and 15-10.

In quadrangle league handball competition, Jim Frick and Tom Wilson will clash Monday for the singles crown. Frick beat Emilio Stadthagen, 21-17, 21-11, while Frick moved up with a forfeit over Howard Meyers.

After a week of matches, social fraternity wrestlers have narrowed the field down to four finals contests and two semi-finals engagements.

In the 136-pound class finals, Jack Marrs, Delta Upsilon, meets Don Meade, Theta Xi. Marrs downed Hal Sorenson, Phi Gamma Delta, in one semi-final match and Meade overcame Dave Campbell, Delta Upsilon, in the other.

John Porter, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, hit the top round in the 145-pound group by defeating Dick Taylor, Sigma Phi Epsilon. His competition will come from Bill Sidinger, Theta Xi, who beat Dick Berg, Phi Kappa Psi, in the lower bracket semi.

Burt Fulton, Phi Gamma Delta, tangles with Carl Fuerste, Phi

Kappa Psi, for the 155-pound championship. In the semis, Fulton decided William Sutter, Delta Upsilon, and Fuerste pinned Marvin Bendorf, Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Semi-finals in the 165-pound class pit Don Martin, Sigma Phi Epsilon, against Richard Wite, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and Bill Wilken, Phi Gamma Delta, at John Lohmes, Delta Upsilon.

Chris Schmidt, Delta Upsilon, engages Dick Turner, Theta Xi, in one 175-pound semi-final match while Roy Stevens, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, meets Dave Shugart, Phi Kappa Psi, in the other.

In a heavyweight clash, Jerry Long, Phi Kappa Psi, wrestles Dick Hoerner, Sigma Phi Epsilon, for championship honors. Long was victorious over John Fort, Phi Gamma Delta, and Hoerner pinned Jim Cozard, Phi Psi, in previous matches.

All-university wrestling matches will begin Monday in all classes.

Golfers Set for Opener Today

Vines Appears Here Sunday

Golf activity for the University of Iowa on its home course opens this afternoon against Coe college.

Coach Charles Kennett named an eight man team for the match which will start at 1 p.m. They are: Warren (Skip) Carlson, John Campbell, Bob Graham, Jim Rasley, Don Taylor, Gene Mathess, Bill Martin and Warren Strout.

From the eight, Coach Kennett will select two doubles teams, and will send four men out in singles matches.

Points are collected on the basis of one for winning the first nine holes, one for taking the second nine, and one for winning the match, making a total of six points for the two doubles, and 12 for the four singles.

Iowa split their two previous outings of the spring by defeating Emory university of Atlanta, Ga., and losing to the University of Georgia at Athens.

Kennett announced that Ellsworth Vines, who will return to Iowa City for ten days or more to hold clinics and offer other golf and tennis instruction as he did last fall, will open his activities here Sunday in an exhibition golf match with three Iowa varsity players.

Gene Mathess will be Vines' partner against Skip Carlson and John Campbell in the match which will begin 1:30 p.m.

ELLSWORTH VINES, who will return to the Iowa campus for a ten-day visit, opening Sunday with an exhibition golf match at Finkbine field, fondles his putter.

golf tournament.

Medalist Peggy Kirk, Findlay, O., Grace Lenczyk, Newton, Conn., and Carol Diringler, Tiffin, O., are in the next-to-the last bracket with the Atlanta standard bearer.

Lowell Lange, Edward Miller Set Pace in NAAU Wrestling

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y. (AP)—Lowell Lange and Edward Miller, defending champions, each won first round matches yesterday as the three-day wrestling tournament of the National Amateur Athletic Union opened at Hofstra college.

Each moved into a slightly heavier class in conformity with Olympic regulations. Miller, representing the Ithaca, N. Y., Y.M.C.A., quickly pinned young George Doherty of the Long Island grapplers, Amityville, N. Y., in 1:58, using a reverse nelson and inside croch. They competed at 147.5 pounds.

Lange, representing Cornell college of Mt. Vernon, Iowa, defending team champions, received one "bad" point in the 136.5 pound class because the best he could do was take an unanimous decision from R. E. Hallman of the U.S. navy. Hallman's home is in Baltimore.

Last year Miller wrestled at 145 pounds and Lange at 135.

The National A.A.U. tournament, one of the most important in the elaborate system of eliminations leading up to selection of the U.S. Olympic wrestling team at Ames, Iowa, April 29-May 1, is conducted under Olympic rules.

Under this system the perfect score is zero and a defeat, either by fall or decision, counts three points against a man. Even a victory by a decision counts one "bad" point. Winners by falls receive no points. Five points cause a man to be thrown out of competition. Four men from each class qualify for the Olympic tryouts.

The tournament drew 130 entries, with Navy, Cornell, Oklahoma A. and M., the Newton, N. J., Boys club, and Southwestern Tech of Wetherford, Okla., among the strongest teams. The 20-man Navy squad is composed equally of officers and men and represents the pick of the navy from all over the world.

After the opening matches in the first two classes had been completed, Cornell, Navy and the

USMO Council Discusses Fences, Road Improvements

Fences, roads and gardens in the married student housing areas were topics of lively discussion at the University Married Students organization council meeting in the Student Affairs office last night.

Councilman Bob Maloney, 123 Westlawn, introduced the fencing problem at Finkbine.

"The section of Finkbine facing the highway is unfenced," Maloney said, "and children are in danger of being 'splashed' by a car."

"I feel it is the university's responsibility to fence the area," he said.

J. Robert Cotter, manager of married student housing, said the university feels a responsibility for the safety of its students' children, "but no more so than the parents themselves."

"We have fenced off all natural hazards such as cliffs, railroads and lagoons," Cotter said, "but we do not have the funds necessary to fence off whole villages."

Maloney charged that the university fenced off the golf course to protect it from children, but will not fence off a village to protect the children.

Cotter said he didn't know who fenced in the golf course but that the fencing really protects children.

"Residents in the golf course area picked up about 50 golf balls from two days' golfing that hit their dwellings," he said.

"In areas where villagers feel they need additional fencing, the housing office will cooperate," Cotter said. "If the villagers furnish the labor, we will furnish posts. For the fencing itself we will match student donations, dollar for dollar, to a maximum of a dollar per family."

During the meeting Cotter announced a tentative plan for road improvement in the housing areas slated to begin "sometime in June." The $20,000 plan calls for varied types of road surfaces from hard surface to gravel according to the needs of the areas.

The USMO council decided that a representative group from all the areas should meet with the housing office to determine which roads are most in need of improvement.

"If there would be some way to control it, village gardening would be all right, but past experience has shown that it cannot be controlled," Cotter explained.

"Those who would maintain an attractive garden will have to be penalized for the many who would not. Many dig up sod for garden space leaving mud holes for the following year," he said.

3 Women Selected By Newman Club As Queen Finalists

Mary Bayley, Evanston, Ill., Pat Meloy, Cherokee, and Jeanne Murray, Iowa City, were selected last night as finalists for queen of Newman Nocturne, semi-formal dance to be held Friday, April 23, from 9 to 12 in the Iowa Union main lounge.

One of them has been named queen. Her identity will be kept secret until she and her two attendants are presented at the dance.

A committee of nine Newman club members selected the women from a group of women chosen from each housing unit. Miss Bayley represents Delta Gamma social sorority; Miss Meloy, Kappa Alpha Theta, and Miss Murray, town women.

Judges included three representatives each for fraternities, dormitories and town men.

They were: Don Holmwood, Gery Martin and Bill Burke, Fraternities; Dick Haggerty, Tom Ryan and Mike Breen, dormitories; and Tex Campion, Ralph Cahill, and Bill Vogel, town men.

Newman Nocturne is sponsored annually by the Newman club.

Martin To Leave His University High Post

University high school principal Murray Martin announced last night that he has accepted the position as principal of the J. J. Young junior high school in Daventryport.

Martin has been University high school principal for two years and taught mathematics in the school previously.

Myron Olson, principal of Ft. Dodge high school and junior college will succeed Martin. He will take over as principal June 15.

Chemists To Attend Annual Conference

Nine faculty members of the chemistry department will attend the American Chemical Society's bi-annual conference to be held in Chicago Sunday through Thursday.

Planning to attend the Chicago meeting are professors George Glockler, Edward Barto, Jacob Cornog, Ralph Shrinar, Stanley Wawzonek, James Osburn, Walter F. Edgell, Lothrop Smith and Robert Buckles.

The American Chemical Society

is one of the largest scientific organizations in the world. It is composed of over 55,000 chemists and chemical engineers from schools and business firms all over the country.

Students Must Learn To Think: Roberts

The teacher is not paid to give students the answers but rather to give them the ways of finding the answers. Prof. Hew Roberts of the college of education told the Future Teachers association last night.

"All rote learning, if not applied, interferes with thinking and acquiring thinking habits," he declared.

Two things should be expected of the public school graduate, Roberts said.

(1) He should be able to express himself in speech and writing. This is connected with thinking, for what a person can see clearly he can express clearly.

(2) The graduate should know how to think. He should learn the methods of science, not just the facts.

Roberts said that new trends in education are to use the problem approach, the study of past and present relationships and the study of interrelationships between subjects.

"The teacher should teach the student to apply his brain to the limit of his IQ rather than teach him to apply facts to the limit of the clock," Roberts said.

Plan City Housing Corporation

An "Iowa City Housing Corporation" is now being formed by the local Chamber of Commerce to finance a home building project here, Secretary Robert L. Gage announced yesterday.

Corporation papers are being signed by local officials for the non-profit organization and will be sent to the Secretary of State's office in Des Moines within a few days.

Sub-committees of the chamber housing committee have already met with FHA officials to investigate and eliminate factors that provide obstacles to new home building in Iowa City.

Local contractors are currently attempting to figure costs on each of three sets of FHA approved plans and specifications.

Officers for the projected corporation will be Vern Nall, president; S. Lysle Duncan, vice-president; Louis Shulman, treasurer, and Robert L. Gage, secretary.

Directors include W.W. Summerwill, John Nash, R.H. Lind, David Stoehl, C. Woody Thompson and Mayor Preston Koser.

Ten SUI Anatomists To Attend Meeting

Ten members of the college of medicine's anatomy department will attend a meeting of the American Association of Anatomists April 21-23 at the University of Wisconsin.

Members of the department presenting papers at the meeting will be Prof. W. R. Ingram, head of anatomy, Prof. W. O. Nelson, Dr. Ralph Janes and Miss Dorothy Jensen.

Dr. Ingram was assisted in preparation of his paper by Max D. Wheatley, assistant professor in anatomy, and John R. Knott, associate professor in clinical psychology.

Helen Wheeler, resident assistant in anatomy, assisted Nelson in his paper, and Janes was aided by Dr. S. B. Barker, assistant professor in physiology.

Ah, Hollywood!

ACTRESS Susan Hayward of the movies poses in Hollywood in a low-cut strapless beaded evening gown.

Community Dads Club To Settle Future Status At Meeting Monday

The Community Dads will discuss the future of their club in Iowa City at their next regular meeting, 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Community building, according to the Rev. Donovan G. Hart, club secretary.

Question considered will be whether the club is going to work out a positive program and maintain member interest or whether the organization should disband, he said.

J. Edgar Frame, director of the recreation center, will address the Dads regarding better coordination of effort. Frame recently returned from the mid-western recreational executives conference in St. Paul, Minnesota.

Also under advisement will be nomination of officers for the May 3 election; financial report by the club secretary and the Freedom Train essay contest open to all Iowa City grade and high school students.

Application Deadlines Set For 240 SUI Scholarships

Dr. Walter R. Goetsch, director of the office of student affairs, yesterday announced the deadlines for university scholarship applications. Approximately 240 awards will be made.

The deadline for both new and renewal applications for the university merit scholarship awards is May 1, 1948. Deadline for renewal applications for the other three scholarships offered is July 1, 1948. September 1, 1948, is the deadline for new applications for these scholarships.

The award affecting the largest number of students is the $100 yearly university merit scholarship, available to 150 applicants. Applicants for the award must have a 3.0 scholastic average for the past school year, be registered in the college of liberal arts, commerce, engineering or pharmacy, have completed at least one year at SUI and must be a resident of Iowa. The student must also show evidence of satisfactory participation in outside activities. Part-time employment or other extracurricular activities may satisfy this requirement, Goetsch said.

It is not necessary for the student to demonstrate financial need to be eligible for this award, he emphasized.

Made possible by a $15,000 yearly allocation by the state board of education, the university merit scholarships have been available since 1946.

Only about 25 awards were made last year, Goetsch said. He indicated that this was due, in part, to the small amount of students applying for the scholarship.

Student aid scholarship, Carr scholarship and LaVerne Noyes scholarship are the other three awards discussed by Goetsch.

To be eligible for one of the 25 student aid scholarships, the applicant must be a resident of Iowa and must be entirely self-supporting. The award covers the basic fee in the college of the applicant's registration.

The Carr scholarships will be available to about 30 students next year. The applicant must be enrolled in the college of liberal arts, commerce, engineering or pharmacy, have at least a 2.5 grade point for the previous semester, and is required to show proof of financial need. The Carr scholarship consists of a $30 cash award each semester.

At least 35 LaVerne Noyes scholarships will be available next year, Goetsch said.

To be eligible, the student must be a direct blood descendant of a World War I veteran who either enlisted before May 11, 1918, or served overseas.

Candidates for the award are also required to have completed one semester of college work with a satisfactory scholastic average, and must demonstrate financial need. The award covers the basic fee in the college of the applicant's registration.

'Oklahoma' Author To See University Production of Play

Lynn Riggs, playwright and author of "Oklahoma", will arrive in Iowa City April 20 to see the opening of his new play, "A World Elsewhere," in the University Theater April 23.

The play is a comedy set in Mexico and written in the style of Riggs' "Russet Mantle."

While Riggs is in Iowa City, there will be experimental productions and readings of several of his new manuscripts including "The Year of Pilar," a tragedy dealing with an upper class Yucatecan girl and her whole class of people who were trying to restore a lost era.

Riggs last visited here 15 years ago in connection with the production of "Green Grow the Lilacs," better known as "Oklahoma," and the play "Cherokee Night."

The playwright will spend a week in Iowa City and plans to confer with student playwrights in Prof. E. C. Mable's seminar.

This is the first of the series of new ventures to be undertaken in the experimental theater. They will be continued throughout the 1948 summer session.

VFW and Auxiliary Install New Officers

The Veterans of Foreign Wars post No. 2581 and their auxiliary held a joint installation of officers last night at the club rooms, 22½ E. College street.

Amos Kelso was installed as commander and Mrs. Amos Kelso as auxiliary president of the auxiliary.

Other post officers installed were Ogen Frazier, senior vice-commander; John Purdue, junior vice-commander; Warren Clark, quartermaster and adjutant; Glenn Thomas, chaplain; Edward L. O'Connor, adjutant general, and Sam Shulman, trustee.

Other auxiliary officers installed were Mrs. Leonard Spratt, senior vice-commander; Mrs. Owen Rogers, junior vice-commander; Mrs. Warren Clark, treasurer; Mrs. Edward Bushman, chaplain; Mrs. John Zahner, conductress; Mrs. A. E. Rabas, guard, and Mrs. Evelyn Goss, trustee.

Director Explains Running of School Farm

"Care of a 92-acre farm helps train the pupils of Scattergood school develop a sense of responsibility," Leonor Goodenow told members of the Rotary club at a luncheon yesterday in the Hotel Jefferson.

The school, located 12 miles east of Iowa City, is an inter-racial boarding high school operated by the Society of Friends since 1944.

The school is a new venture in education, according to Miss Goodenow, director. The pupils do their own cooking and laundry. She said "These tasks help to bring classes into the pupils' lives."

Each student goes to class seven hours a day but, she added, no grades are given at the end of the term.

"We expect them to study however," Miss Goodenow said, "because most of them go on to college."

The school is composed of 36 students between the ages of 13 and 17, and eight faculty members. Half of the students are from Iowa, Miss Goodenow said.

To Give Concert Today

The University elementary school band under the direction of Paul G. Anderson will present a concert this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the school music room for parents of the students.

State Group To Install Helen Danner President

Helen Danner, A3, Iowa City, will be installed as president of the state Home Economics College club at a meeting at Simpson college in Indianola today.

Phyllis Bennett, instructor in the university home economics department, will be the state club's advisor for the next year.

Prof. Lula Smith of the home economics department, Mrs. E. T. Peterson and Eunice McLaughlin, A3, Iowa City, are also attending the meeting at Indianola today.

St. Patrick's PTA Unit To Elect Officers Today

The St. Patrick's PTA unit will elect next year's officers at a meeting in the school social room at 1:30 p.m. today.

A silver tea will follow the business meeting. Mrs. D. J. Gatens and Mrs. C. F. McMahon, past PTA presidents, will pour.

Others on the committee planning the tea are Mrs. George Calahan, chairman; Mrs. Timothy Grady, Mrs. Vincent Sullivan, Mrs. Helena Clark, Mrs. Leo Cain and Mrs. Francis Graham.

All friends and members of the PTA unit are invited to attend.

SUI Grad Eire Crash Victim

Among the 30 dead in Wednesday's Shannon, Eire, plane crash was Bernadine Marie Feller, a 1946 SUI graduate.

According to The Associated Press, Miss Feller was stewardess aboard the Pan American World Airways luxury liner "Empress of the Skies."

Miss Feller was born in Victor, Iowa, in 1924. Graduating from the university in February, 1946, she joined Pan American the following May.

She was a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority and majored in romance languages at SUI.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Feller, Bernadine's parents, had just returned to Victor after visiting Bernadine for several days in New York.

Besides her parents, Miss Feller is survived by two brothers, Bob, who was graduated from SUI's college of engineering in 1947, is a pilot for Trans-Asiatic Airways in Bangkok, Siam. The other brother, Bruce, lives with his parents on their farm.

Observers of the crash at Shannon reported that the ship crashed in a second attempt to land on Shannon's main airstrip. It apparently hit an obstruction, skidded along the ground, and burned for over three hours.

One person, Marc Worst, Burbank, Calif., survived the crash.

Mountaineers Plan First Weekend Hike

The Iowa Mountaineers will take to the trails with their sleeping bags and tents tomorrow and Sunday on their first overnight hike this year.

As planned, the outdoor enthusiasts will meet at the Engineering building at 1:00 p.m. tomorrow, ride to Mid river by interurban and travel the countryside along the Iowa river near North Liberty. They will return to Iowa City Sunday afternoon.

The hikers will carry sleeping bags, tents, food and other equipment on the two-day outing, and the hike will serve as an aid in classifying members.

All active members are urged to participate in the weekend's activities. No reservations are necessary.

Calendar Deadline

The deadline for applying for the chairmanship of the UWA 1948-49 calendar project has been extended to Wednesday, April 21, President Elaine Lenney announced yesterday.

Applicants should submit samples of their drawings and ideas for next year's calendar to the UWA office. Selection will be based on the originality of ideas and artistic ability, Miss Lenney said.

'Symposium for Peace' Guest Editorial —

The Price of World Peace is Change

Our Institutions, Beliefs Are Outmoded; We Must Give Up Local, Tribal Loyalties

By PROF. WENDELL JOHNSON, PSYCHOLOGY DEPT.

In one of his more rambunctious moods, H. L. Mencken once made a blazing verbal bonfire of the revered notion that men prefer peace to war.

The parades, the marching and waving, the slick uniforms, the traveling afar and the homecoming amidst blizzards of ticker tape flung in sheer hilarity from tall buildings crammed with hero-worshippers—you can't beat that, growled Mencken, for downright exhilaration.

Peace, by comparison, is a boring tea to be ducked out of by the nearest exit. No one, he contended, has yet concocted a moral substitute for war. Gandhi probably came the nearest to it of anyone in our time, and, to most "right-minded" people he was simply incomprehensible, and a little dangerous.

When a whole civilization goes on a military bender every time a new generation gets old enough to lug the equipment, its talk of peace sounds for all the world like the protestations of the old codger who said, "Well, it's Saturday night. I have to go to town and get drunk. Lord, how I dread it!"

War is a form of behavior. So is peace. At least, it keeps our thinking a little more clear to view them that way. It makes it likely, at any rate, that we might now and then raise some particularly clarifying questions.

For example, how would we have to behave in order to be peaceful—and to stay that way? Precisely what would we have to do? And in what sort of a society would we be likely to do it? In what respects would that kind of society differ from the one we have now?

If we are to grapple with such questions, we just about have to give up the old game that nobody ever wins—the game of asking, "Who is to blame?" We'll score more points by asking, "What is to blame?"

Emory Reeves has offered one answer that makes sense to at least a few people. In his book, "The Anatomy of Peace," Reeves reviewed the years of "peace" between World Wars I and II from the respective points of view of the major nations involved.

From each nation's point of view, its leaders had acted in good faith and with admirable patriotism in doing the things that led so unwaveringly to the ultimate moral orgy that was World War II. Each "aggressor" and every "appeaser" was a prophet in his own country.

Reeves' solution was refreshing in its simplicity: do away with nations, with the very idea of nation, and all the self-justification, patriotism and bloody rubble that go with it.

Reeves was saying in his way that the kind of society in which men would behave peacefully is one in which Ivan's morality does not make him want to kill. Bill, because Bill's sense of what is right is wrong to Ivan, and vice versa.

Dr. Chisholm's moral substitute for war is a morality that transcends any specific local conscience. In other words, any parent anywhere in the world, here included, who gives his child a sense of right and wrong should furnish him with a viewing plan that will make its limitations crystal clear.

Army Troops Parade Past the National Capitol

medical services in the Canadian army. In the William Alanson White memorial lectures in Washington, D. C., in 1945, psychiatrist Chisholm undertook to diagnose the condition of a civilization given to periodic mass murder and destruction. The doctor located a focal semantic infection which he called "local moralities."

This shocked almost everyone who didn't quite catch the "local" and thought he had said "morality." Those who heard it right—"local moralities"—were sobered into a realization that children the world over are trained, and learn all too well, to defend to the death what they come to see as "right," and to attack, with soul-cleansing zeal what they are conditioned to abhor as "wrong."

The little lurking fact that makes the big horrible difference is simply that what Ivan learns to call "right" Bill learns to call "wrong," and vice versa. Under these semantic conditions one sense of right and wrong plus one sense of right and wrong equals millions of wrongs and few rights, by any non-local, one-world standards.

Dr. Chisholm was saying in his way that the kind of society in which men would behave peacefully is one in which Ivan's morality does not make him want to kill. Bill, because Bill's sense of what is right is wrong to Ivan, and vice versa.

Dr. Chisholm's moral substitute for war is a morality that transcends any specific local conscience. In other words, any parent anywhere in the world, here included, who gives his child a sense of right and wrong should furnish him with a viewing plan that will make its limitations crystal clear.

These two analyses have much in common, and the two answers they yield are quite similar. They amount to this: we create our motives for war by regarding our local loyalties and moralities as having absolute validity and universal value; we create motives for peaceful behavior by viewing our local loyalties and moralities as possessing relative validity and limited value. This doesn't explain everything, but it's a help.

One way to reject Reeves and Chisholm is to growl, as Mencken did, "Who wants peace anyway?" It's an attitude that has at least a kind of morbid honesty about it.

But if Reeves and Chisholm are not to be rejected, it would appear that the price of peace is staggering: to get rid of war, people the world over, ourselves included, must give up the self-centered righteousness and tribal loyalties for which they fight.

We think too loosely about peace; talk too glibly about it, take it too much for granted. It is not something that will come if only we say nice things about it. Lewis Mumford, in "The Condition of Man," has soberly reminded us that if we are to achieve peace we "have to accept the hardest sacrifice of all, and that is to give up our illusions about this civilization. . . . The bulk of our institutions no longer corresponds to the needs and possibilities of human life."

We cannot have peace so long as we insist on making our local moralities hold for other people for whom they were never designed. We cannot have peace so long as we insist on defending a warlike way of life. We cannot have peace so long as we remain the kind of personalities we now are. The price of peace is change—in each one of us, first of all. And this is a far higher price than we have ever thought of paying for it.

There are some observers who feel that if peace ever does break

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT

A Matter of Definition

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

Air: That which has replaced water in the affections of some ex-isolationists as our chief national protection.

The great air force is now talked about in somewhat the same terms as the great navy of a decade ago. Those who were formerly engaged in what the late Heywood Brown used to call "sea worship" and who gave frequent thanks for the Atlantic ocean, now give equal thanks for the air spaces which divide and protect.

In other words, isolation has come up in the world, about a mile.

Force: The only thing this weird world will respect and understand, as proved by the remarkable demonstrations of regard and affection which followed the death of Mahatma Gandhi.

The Smoke-Filled Room: A symbolic and descriptive term for the chambers in which professional politicians gather to select one of their number for the presidency.

Something is amiss with this venerable procedure this year, however, because the three men about whom the greatest commotion is being made are General Eisenhower, who doesn't seem to be in either party, Stassen, the victor in Wisconsin and Nebraska, who is hardly accorded house-room by the GOP top command, and Wallace, who has been given the heave-ho by the official Democrats. The interest in General MacArthur, whatever its other aspects, is also part of this trend.

Something has gone wrong with that old organization magic, the smoke-filled room is a place where men gather to hear disturbing reports about what's happening outside.

The Tough Line: A policy of working for peace by making passionate speeches against Russia, and by building a great military establishment.

There are some observers who feel that if peace ever does break

The Red Needle?

LONDON (AP)—British diplomats think Russia's not-so-secret weapon—the needle—may next be jabbed in Korea and China.

The theory is that American aid has checked Soviet propaganda in western Europe for the time being. The diplomats expect Russia to claim that the U. S. is building up Japan as an eastern ally.

out, it will be necessary to dismantle the military apparatus, and to take back some of the speeches, and that these operations will be almost equally difficult.

It might work, but it's a little bit like ridding your garden of weeds by paying it with concrete; it doesn't leave much room for those tender green shoots.

Palestine: A country in which it is going to be necessary to use force to enforce a trusteeship which would replace partition because partition would have required force. There are some of us who can remember when Gertrude Stein's "a rose is a rose is a rose" was considered funny.

The Issue: That which a candidate must pick carefully, to arouse popular interest and win support. A strange ineffectiveness haunts many issues today, however, and reduces their value as attention-routers.

One issue, for example, is whether we ought to have an air force of 70 groups, or a somewhat smaller one, say 55 groups.

But the discussion of this point is haunted by the memory of the time, only three years ago, when we were going to have peace, not bigger airforces, with the result that as you listen to this debate you have a vague feeling that you have dropped something, or that everybody has forgotten something. It is a feeling which takes some persons' minds off what is going on, and makes for inattentiveness.

Many of the issues which are being trotted out during the current election campaign are clouded in this way by the half-conscious thought that the real issue is when are we going to get back to the issue.

WHAT THEY SAY

The New 'Old Guard'?

(From The Cedar Rapids Gazette)
What's this, the new "old guard"? We mean this business of temporarily suspending the University of Iowa chapter of the Iowa Young Republican league.

League officials said the action was taken because of the refusal of the student chapter to follow the policy of the state senior and junior GOP groups which prohibited the endorsement of Republican presidential candidates before one of them is selected as the nominee at the national convention.

Of all the stupidity. We were under the impression that the party welcomed a free exchange of expression among its members regarding the candidates for the nomination.

There are good reasons for sending an uninstrusted unpledged delegation—which has not endorsed any candidate—to the national convention. But none of them apply to local units of the party.

We would think that the state GOP groups would invite expressions on the candidates from the various local units. We would think that the state groups would want to be informed as to the thinking of those making up the local units. We don't know how else the policy could stem from what the GOP itself has chosen to call, the "grass-roots," unless such expressions are stimulated.

In a year when the Republicans have several men capable of carrying out the duties of the presidency, it is most peculiar that state groups in Iowa would adopt a prohibitive policy.

This action is reminiscent of another policy which the "old guard" has kept in vogue for several years—a policy of "agree with our thinking or be ostracized." Let's hope the Young Republicans aren't setting the precedent for a "new old guard" policy with this action.

Communists Expected To Pull 'Something Big' On Eve of Italian Vote

ROME (AP)—Anti-Communists here and in northern Italy say they expect their opponents to launch "something big" as a last-minute effort to win borderline votes in the national elections Sunday.

No one claims to know exactly, but most say it will be "some new scandal" aimed at high Christian Democratic figures. One prominent Christian Democrat in Milan says he thinks it may be "something in the international field."

Some political prophets predict significant shifts in geographical distribution of pro-Communist votes in the election.

Reports indicate the Communist-Socialist combine will lose votes in its traditional stronghold, the industrial north, but gain ground in the agricultural south.

The usual explanation is: (1) American aid to Italy under the Marshall plan is easily understood by industrial workers, but (2) farm hands, whose clamor for agrarian reform has gone largely unheeded, lend attentive ears to leftist promises.

London backers of the proposal to admit Italy to the United Nations expect the move to put Russia on the spot.

UMT Is Old Stuff to European People

All Nations Except Germany, Austria Calling Up Youth

By HAL COOPER

LONDON (AP)—"Universal" is the word for military training in Europe today.

Some nations, an Associated Press survey shows, have started shoring up their defenses or at least slowing down the return to a peacetime basis for their armed forces.

Nearly every able-bodied youth in Britain and on the continent is being taught to handle the weapons of war.

With the exception of occupied Germany and Austria, they are everywhere subject to call for soldiering at ages ranging from 18 to 23.

To most nations of Europe, subject of hot debate now in the United States—is an old established institution. The international tension of recent months merely has given it new importance.

In France, for instance, the ministry of armed forces decided recently without explanation to hold up discharge of navy men who had completed normal terms of service. Denmark postponed demobilizing 2,400 army regulars; Norway began reorganizing its home guard; Poland launched a five-year plan for giving infantry training to 4,500,000 boys, volunteers in the 16-to-21 age bracket.

Russia has announced demobilizing of older men and said its army soon will consist "in the main" of 21-and 22-year-olds. No figures were given on how this will affect the overall size of the forces. Information was equally sparse from most nations in the Soviet orbit.

Britain is going ahead with plans to reduce its army, navy and air force from a present 940,000 to 716,000 one year from now. Boys will continue to register for the draft just before their 18th birthday. They are exempt if they enter the essential coal mining industry before the draft reaches them.

Nation by nation, compulsory military training in Europe works like this:

approximately 230,000 of France's armed force of 600,000 is conscript. There is talk in government circles of increasing compulsory service to 18 months.

Great Britain—Boys are channeled into service by the ministry of labor. Under present regulations they serve 18 months to two years, then become a part of the organized reserve. Beginning next year the term of service will be cut to one year.

Spain—At the age of 21, Spaniards are required to serve two years in the army, which now has about 300,000 conscripts. Military training is also given by the Falange, the totalitarian state party. It is training undisclosed numbers of reserve officers, and has a youth branch organized along military lines like the Hitler youth.

Poland—Youths are subject to a year of pre-military training at 20 and to conscription for two years when they are 21. The regular army is being held to 166,000 and some men whose two years will not be up until May 15 are being discharged now. A new organization, "Service to Poland," is recruiting boys of 16 to 21 to "prepare them to defend their country if needed."

Romania—Men are drafted at 21 for not more than 18 months. The peace treaty limits the army and police forces to 120,000. The nation has been calling up half of each year's eligibles at a time and keeping them for six to nine months.

Czechoslovakia—Groups are called for two years of military service as they reach ages 19, 20 and 21. Because conscription was abandoned during six years of German occupation, older men who missed service are being called up for short periods. After leaving the army, Czechs go into the reserve and may be called for maneuvers. There have been no maneuvers since the war, but some reservists recently received orders on what to do in case of an emergency.

Yugoslavia—Universal national conscription takes every man at 21, if he is fit and has no special exemption such as wartime partisan service. The minimum service is one year for graduates of secondary schools; others serve two years, if assigned to the ground forces; three years in the tank or air corps; and four years in the navy.

The conscription law permits the minister of national defense,

Marshal Tito, to call up 20-year-olds but there has been no indication he has done this. Demobilization generally has balanced inductions in the past. Foreign observers are watching for the usual end-of-April demobilization order to determine whether the army is being increased. The government has given no figures on its size.

Italy—Conscription begins at 21 for 18 months, but because the army is limited by the peace treaty to 250,000 men, including the volunteer Carabinieri, many serve shorter terms. Italy calls up about 60,000 every four months.

Switzerland—All able bodied men from 20 to 32 are required to serve an average of 20 days a year. From 32 to 48 they do 60 days. During the war Switzerland mobilized more than 800,000 men, but has dispensed now with a standing army and depends entirely on its "civilian soldier" system. Military reserves are required to keep up rifle practice.

Sweden—A universal military training law applies to all physically fit men from 20 to 47 months, but those inducted last year got only nine. The army is made up of 28,000 of the 20-year-olds, 10,200 regulars, 1,300 officers and 2,110 noncoms.

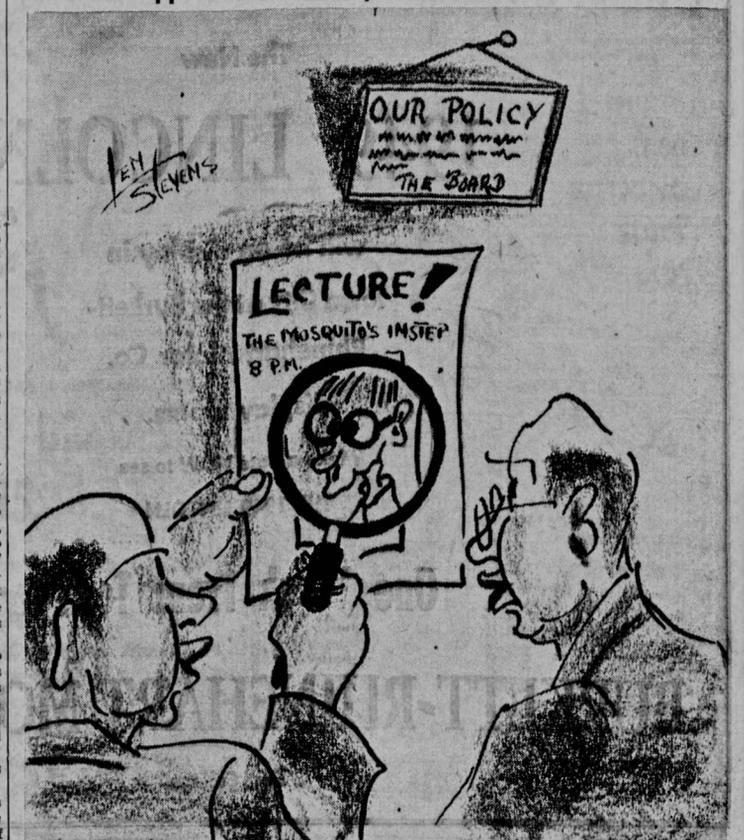

Norway—All fit men between 20 and 45 are subject to military training in peacetime. In wartime the range is 18 to 55. The compulsory one year of service takes place when a man is 21, and 20,000 are now on duty. Norway is reorganizing its home guard from the forces which opposed the Germans during the war.

Denmark—Men may be conscripted at 21 for a year of service. The classes of 1925 and 1926 are on duty now. There has been no recent increase in conscription, but the government decided to postpone "for a couple of months" demobilization of 2,400 of the 22,000 army regulars. A government official explained the men will be kept until the incoming class has received preliminary training.

Belgium—Men are subject to conscription for 12 months as soon as they are 20. Belgium is calling up an average of 2,650 a month to maintain its army and airforce total of 61,000 men and 4,500 officers.

Neighboring Luxembourg uses the same system.
The Netherlands—Conscription begins at 20 and men must serve an average of two and one half

Rutledge Gives Law Address Market Index Falls 6 Cents

U. S. Jurist Says Caution Necessary To Avoid War Again

Justice Wiley Rutledge of the U. S. supreme court in an address here yesterday, cautioned an audience of 1,200 to act carefully in order to avoid another war.

Rutledge spoke at afternoon ceremonies in the Iowa Union which were part of the college of law's 18th annual supreme court day.

Because of their position judges can't speak freely, he said. "We have freedom of speech in the U. S. for everybody but judges," he joked.

Rutledge spoke of the possibility of war. He said if another war were to break out there would not be a democracy left in the world. If a nation with a democratic form of government were left after another war it would rule by force and would not be a democracy, he said. When a nation forces democracy on another nation it is no longer a democracy, he added.

A portrait of Rutledge was presented to the university by the class of 1946 in ceremonies preceding his address.

Thomas C. Teas, Mason City attorney, presented the portrait on behalf of his class. He was chairman of the memorial committee of the class of 1946.

Pres. Virgil M. Hancher accepted the portrait for the university. "This portrait will perpetuate on this campus the work of a man who has done well here and elsewhere," he said.

Dean Mason Ladd of the college of law introduced Rutledge. "Mr. Justice Rutledge has attained the highest distinction of any man from the Iowa college of law, but is not just because of his high position but also because of his warm friendliness that we hold him in such high esteem," he said. Elmer M. Jones, president of the Iowa Law Student association presided at the afternoon's ceremonies.

Teas, in making the presentation, pointed out that it is significant that not only the college of law but all the schools and colleges of the university took part in presenting the portrait of Rutledge to the university.

Rutledge said he felt a little like a person who has reached the end of his rope after remarking that portraits usually are painted after the people are dead.

The former dean of the Iowa college of law commended the college on the practice of holding supreme court day. "I don't know of anything comparable to it in any other law school," he said.

It was a day for reunions for Rutledge. The ceremonies attracted many prominent barristers and judges who had been students and associates of Rutledge while he was in Iowa. Mr. and Mrs. Rutledge, having renewed many old friendships, will return to Washington today.

Math Professors To Attend Meeting

Five professors and three graduate assistants of the mathematics department will attend the meeting of The Iowa Academy of Science today and tomorrow at Parsons college in Fairfield.

Dr. E. W. Chittenden, H. H. Ellingson, W. H. Marlow and Paul H. Bailey each will speak.

Others attending from the Iowa section are Professors N. B. Conkwright, Lloyd A. Knowler, E. N. Oberg and Roscoe Woods.

"I WISH I COULD BELIEVE I looked like that," Justice Wiley Rutledge (right) of the U. S. Supreme Court said yesterday in referring to the portrait of him which the class of 1946 presented to the university. Thomas C. Teas (left), Mason City, made the presentation. "I am grateful to Mr. Brett, the artist, for making future generations think I look like that," Rutledge said.

Fisher, Shelton Law Winners

Bryce M. Fisher, Cedar Rapids, and James H. Shelton, Ames, were declared winners of the fictitious law case argued yesterday before the Iowa supreme court.

A part of the college of law's supreme court day, the argument was held in the main lounge of Iowa Union.

Ben C. Birdsall, Clarion, and Ross H. Sidney, Davenport, argued the other side of the case.

Chief Justice John E. Mulronney, of the Iowa supreme court, in announcing the winners, said, "If that case had been argued in our court room in Des Moines by these same young men who argued the case so convincingly today, and a stranger had walked in, he would have thought an appeal case was actually being heard."

Mulronney commended all four of the law seniors on their briefs and oral arguments and predicted they would go far in the legal profession.

He laughingly pointed out that there was a representative present of a higher court than the one he represented and suggested that the losers might appeal. Justice Wiley Rutledge of the U. S. supreme court was on the speaker's platform at the time.

Honors and awards were given to outstanding law students and graduates at yesterday's ceremonies. Fifteen law seniors and graduates were initiated into the Order of the Coil, honorary law society at morning ceremonies.

Rutledge administered the oath of the organization to the new members and they were charged by Dean Mason Ladd to maintain the high principles of the law profession.

Justice H. J. Mantz of the Iowa supreme court, who was made honorary member of the coil, gave the coil address.

"We stand close to the crossroads of destiny," he said. "You, as citizens have the responsibility of being alert, fearless and vigilant to preserve the things for which Washington fought, Jack-

Although The Daily Iowan market basket index fell 6 cents yesterday, it remained at an inflationary level of $17.29. Last week's index was $17.35.

Meat prices were generally steady with two exceptions. "Choice" round steak rose 1 cent, selling for 85 cents, while first grade bacon dropped 2 cents, retailing for 73 cents.

Despite the packinghouse strike, a scarcity of meat hasn't materialized yet. Fresh beef and pork seem to be plentiful in all Iowa City stores.

A meat consumption decline has upset the prediction of government economists last winter that a severe meat shortage would develop about now.

Because people are eating less meat and the liquidation of large livestock herds by farmers, meat packers say no shortage will come. Butter, which has been lingering near the 90-cent mark for several weeks, slid 1 cent, selling for 87 cents. Several grocers indicated that butter would be much lower this weekend, however.

A wide variance of egg prices was found, ranging from 54 cents to 45 cents for one dozen. The average price was 48 cents.

Two surprise decreases of the week were a 1 cent drop in the price of peas and a 1 cent decrease on peaches. Number 2 cans of peas were selling for 19 cents while number 2½ cans of peas slipped to 32 cents.

Although two-pound Velveeta cheese averaged out the same this week, a couple of stores reported the wholesale price of cheese has gone up about 2 cents and will soon show up in retail prices.

A wide variance of cheese prices is evident, ranging from 95 cents to $1.30. Some managers say they are selling their cheese higher because the boxes contain a slicer also. However, one manager said this is merely an excuse to raise their price since the wholesale price of these boxes is only 1 cent higher than those boxes which do not contain the slicer.

Sugar users can look for a decline in sugar prices, according to one grocer. He said sugar industries are expecting a decline in refined sugar prices because many consumers are still using up supplies hoarded last year. Also bakers, confectioners and canners are buying on a hand-to-mouth basis, as demands for their products lag, he explained.

The Daily Iowan market basket survey is based on prices of 24 food items in seven Iowa City representative grocery stores.

Prices listed are an average of all stores combined.

Yesterday's market basket index of $17.29 is an estimate of what a student family of three persons will spend for groceries this week. The cost of each food item is weighed in accordance with the amount of that item a student family of three uses in a week.

Wallace Group To Sponsor Peace Rally

Featuring Prof. Bernard Baum of the English department speaking on "War or Peace," a "Save the Peace" rally will get underway this afternoon at 4:30 under the sponsorship of Iowa Students for Wallace. The rally will be in Macbride auditorium.

Also on the program are Rhoda Jordan, who will give a dramatic reading of "The Freedom Train," and a group of dramatic arts students who will present a skit on peace.

The rally follows up a Students for Wallace campaign to gain student opposition to the "bipartisan foreign policy," peacetime draft and universal military training.

Yesterday, Students for Wallace distributed 2,000 copies of a "Call for Peace."

Again this morning, the Wallace group plans to distribute 2,000 pamphlets on the campus. This time, the sheets will decry "Republicrats" in a satirical style, Chairman David G. Coffing said yesterday.

At the rally this afternoon, he said, a sheet listing names of high military personnel in the state department and those who have "close ties with Wall Street" will be distributed.

The Daily Iowan market basket INDEX is not an added total of the prices listed above. That is, the INDEX figure takes into consideration both the costs of the items listed above and the amount of each item a student family of three uses in one week. The amount of each item the family of three uses in one week was arrived at in a survey conducted in cooperation with the university bureau of business and economic research.

Date Set for Demo Caucuses

Johnson county Democrats will meet in pre-county convention precinct and township caucuses next Tuesday night, local attorney W. J. Jackson announced yesterday.

Jackson is chairman of the county Democratic central committee.

Main order of business will be the selection of 286 delegates to the county convention which will be held April 30 at 11 a. m. in the courthouse.

All caucuses will be at 7:30 p. m. in the following places:

First ward, first and second precincts—courthouse.

Second ward, first and second precincts—city hall.

Third ward—CSA hall.

Fourth ward, first and second precincts—Community building.

Fifth ward, first and second precincts—Iowa City Bottling works, 525 S. Gilbert street.

These caucuses and the subsequent county, state and national conventions are the chain which will ultimately select Democratic presidential and vice-presidential candidates at the national convention in Philadelphia in July.

Delegates to the county convention will in turn select 34 delegates from Johnson county to the Democratic state convention in Des Moines May 15. Delegates to the national convention will be named at the state gathering.
