CHATTANOOGA, TENN. (AP)—Neighbors reported two men were fighting in a parked car. Police found two deaf men carrying on a conversation in sign language while they waited for their wives. Both were pretty fast talkers, police figure.

No Surrender To Treason: Vandenberg

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) said last night he wants to tell Premier Stalin of Russia that "underlying everything else we shall not surrender to Communist conspiracies in the United States."

Vandenberg, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, made an unexpected speech at a Michigan congressional dinner.

His comments followed a proposal by Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) that a test case be brought to determine the legality of the Communist party in America.

"We are suicidal fools if we do not root out any treason at home which may dream of being revolution to the United States," Vandenberg said.

The United States he added, cannot accept a "Munich peace" because appeasers "merely precipitate the very disasters from which they seek to flee."

While reiterating the nation's desire for peace, Vandenberg said "we are realists. We do not propose to be isolated in a world that has been Communized by force."

With emphasis, he also said "it cannot be a Wallace peace because the Communist fraternity sooner or later produces but one kind of fraternity—the kind John enjoyed when he was swallowed by the whale."

Henry A. Wallace, third party candidate for president, has sharply criticized the bi-partisan foreign policy of which Vandenberg is a chief spokesman.

8 Koreans Wounded In Osaka Skirmish

YOKOHAMA (AP)—Eight Koreans were reported wounded in another outbreak at Osaka late yesterday, but the incident was described as a skirmish "and not a riot."

The governor of Osaka prefecture telephoned Yokohama that part of a throng of 10,000 Korean demonstrators fought with Japanese police after disregarding orders to disperse. He said the police fired "warning shots" and turned firehoses on the unruly group.

The Koreans, whose uprising in Kobe Saturday was quelled by U. S. troops, had gathered in front of the Osaka prefectural building in protest against Japanese educational regulations closing Korean schools. The demonstrators had official permission to assemble.

Col. A. W. Stuart, U. S. eighth army intelligence officer, described the incident as a brief disturbance. He said he had no information of anyone's being injured or wounded.

The intelligence officer said the Japanese reported two policemen were abducted, but that later reports indicated they were back on duty within two hours—and not harmed.

Another demonstration in Osaka today was scheduled by the Koreans, the prefectural governor reported.

Royal Couple Celebrate Silver Wedding Jubilee

LONDON (AP)—King George VI and Queen Elizabeth celebrated their silver wedding jubilee yesterday amid demonstrations of affection from their subjects around the world.

The chief ceremony was a mid-day Thanksgiving service at St. Paul's cathedral in London.

The royal couple drove in state to the cathedral through miles of cheering, waving multitudes. Household cavalry in full dress escorted the gilded state coaches in the most lavish royal pageantry since the wedding of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip last November.

The king and Queen received scores of greetings, including one from Pope Pius XII.

State Department Gives Passport to Isacson

WASHINGTON (AP)—Representative Isacson (ALP-NY) has been granted a passport to visit Palestine.

State department officials said yesterday the passport was issued Friday and is "valid for Palestine and the necessary countries en route."

Isacson was turned down last month when he sought a passport to attend a meeting in Paris of backers of the Greek guerrillas.

Wedding Bells For Lana, Bob Topping

ALL SMILES was Lana Turner yesterday just after her marriage to Bob Topping, heir to a tin-plate fortune. The ceremony, which caused as much excitement in movie circles as did that of Shirley Temple in 1945, was performed at 2:12 p.m. in Hollywood. It was the fourth marriage for both parties. With the newlyweds above are Mrs. Sara Hamilton, matron of honor, and five-year-old Cheryl Crane, Lana's daughter by a previous marriage.

Labor — Miners and Pensions

Lewis-Trustee Parley Fails To Get Pension Plan Rolling

WASHINGTON (AP)—John L. Lewis failed to get his $100-per-month miners' pension plan rolling at a two hour meeting yesterday of welfare fund trustees.

None of the three trustees would say what the snag was. They agreed to meet again tomorrow afternoon. Meanwhile miners were back to work in force.

"No statement of any kind," Lewis told newsmen afterward. Senator Bridges (R-NH), the neutral trustee, and Ezra Van Horn, representing the mine owners, declined any comment.

Bridges did say, however, that no time has yet been set for starting pension payments to retired miners.

While the miners dug coal, the trustees turned their attention to questions including a court challenge of the pension agreement which preceded the back to work order from Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers.

Van Horn has asked the courts to prevent a Lewis-Bridges pension agreement from taking effect. It would grant pensions of $100 a month to miners 62 or older who have worked 20 years.

This, argued Van Horn, would illegally provide pensions to miners whose employers did not contribute the 10 cents a ton royalty by which a $35-million welfare fund has been amassed. He said also that it would break the fund and leave nothing for other benefits.

The government meanwhile checked up on the mines to see how fully manned they are. The justice department has taken the position that an 80-day anti-strike injunction it got in court should date from the time coal production becomes normal.

City Accepts Garbage Plan

Awards Montgomery $19,285 Contract To Collect City's Refuse

By RAY HENRY

After three sessions the city council by a four to two vote last night approved a private contract of $19,285 with Ira Montgomery for city garbage disposal.

Mayor Preston Koser, however, had not signed the resolution proposing the contract when the council meeting adjourned.

Following a heated argument at a meeting held April 19 on whether to accept the private contract or establish a city-owned garbage disposal system, Attorney Edward Lucas resigned as city solicitor. He said at that time that the proposed garbage disposal arrangements had nothing to do with his resignation.

The city-operated method would cost $32,000, according to earlier figures.

Mayor Preston Koser and Alderman Max S. Hawkins opposed purchase of the equipment and favored accepting the Montgomery contract. They reminded the opposition that the present contract with Montgomery, which expires April 30, would not give sufficient time to establish a city-operated system.

Alderman William Grandrath last night offered a proposal which would cut down cash outlay and still give the city its own disposal unit.

He told the council it could purchase a truck, allow $1,000 for a year truck maintenance and employ five men, all for $21,111.45. "This would buy the city a truck," he said, "and only cost $2,826 more than the Montgomery contract."

Hawkins said he did not have much faith in such figures. "To begin with, I don't think you can operate a truck and do all the garbage hauling for a maintenance cost of only $1,000 a year," he said. "Not only that, but five men are not enough to handle the job."

Discussion then turned to the $285 tacked to the original Montgomery bid which the contractor said was for payment of bonding the contract.

Alderman C. F. Mighell asked Montgomery if he would accept the contract without the bonding fee and received a negative reply.

The mayor called for a vote and Smith and Grandrath opposed. Revised plans and specifications for the proposed municipal swimming pool also were approved by the council. Last night had been set by the council as the date for a public hearing on the revised plans and no objectors appeared.

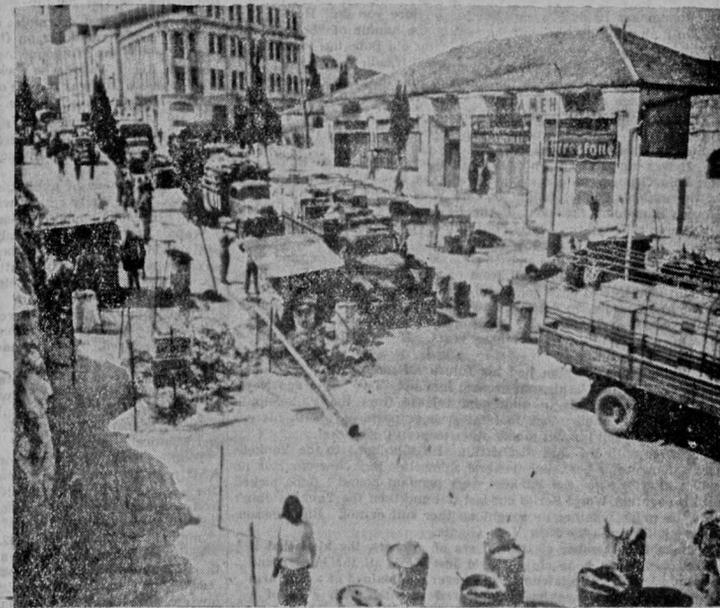

Rail Unions Recess At Closed Meeting

CHICAGO (AP) — Discussions aimed at settlement of a wage dispute involving the nation's railroads and three operating unions recessed yesterday without disclosure of progress.

The participants will resume the closed meeting this morning at 11 o'clock. Midnight tonight marks the end of a 30-day cooling off period which followed issuance of a settlement recommendation by a federal fact finding panel in March.

The unions have been directed to set a strike date after the midnight deadline if no agreement has been reached. A strike of the three brotherhoods would involve some 150,000 railroad men and would paralyze the nation's carriers.

Involved are the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and the Switchmen's Union of North America.

Oleo Wins House Battle

Group Cannot Shelve Bills

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—Northern city Republicans yesterday teamed with southern Democrats and struck a blow for oleo.

When the shouting and tumult died away in the house, it was found that oleo had won a major round over butter, 235 to 121.

It was a day which produced a little of everything, including a proposal that margarine should be put up in tricky triangular packages.

The test itself was on a rather technical issue. Officially, the house voted to discharge its agriculture committee from further consideration of bills to repeal federal taxes on oleo.

This means that the committee no longer can shelve the bills—as it previously had decided to do by a vote of 16 to 10.

It also means that the house, judging from yesterday's vote, soon will pass a bill cancelling taxes on oleo. Debate was limited to three hours, with the final vote tentatively set for tomorrow.

It does not mean that the housewife soon may go to her favorite grocery store and buy her margarine already colored.

For the bill still must pass the senate and then get President Truman's okay. And even if this is done, there still are more than 20 states with their own taxes and restrictions on oleo.

Yesterday's political lineup was unusual.

Generally the southern Democrats are yammering at their northern city brethren, and vice versa. But it was a different story yesterday.

Magazine Scores Miss On Flynn's First Kiss

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A magazine article entitled "My First Screen Kiss, by Errol Flynn," resulted in a $300,000 damage suit yesterday by the actor against a film magazine, Movie Stars Parade.

Flynn's suit said he did not authorize or write the article for the May issue of the magazine. He asserted the article is untrue and harmful to his professional standing.

The actor said the article gives a description of a scene with him and Olivia De Havilland. The suit seeks an injunction against alleged unfair trade practices and invasion of privacy.

Asks House Action Against Harriman

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Busbey (R-Ill.) proposed yesterday that W. Averell Harriman, former secretary of commerce, be brought before the house on contempt charges punishable by imprisonment.

Busbey also said in a statement that President Truman has "defied the will of congress" in the case of Dr. Edward U. Condon. He said the president has had a part in "unholy acts of resistance to orderly processes of government."

The congressman proposed contempt action against Harriman for having withheld from the house an FBI loyalty report on Condon, director of the national bureau of standards.

A house un-American activities subcommittee has accused Condon of associating with suspected Russian spies and of being one of the weakest links in atomic security. It cited part of the FBI loyalty report in support of its accusations.

Condon has denied the charges. He has been cleared by a commerce department loyalty board.

Direct appeals and a subpoena designed to get the FBI letter on Condon were rejected by Harriman.

War Is Far Off: Forrestal

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Forrestal said yesterday that he doesn't think war is imminent. If it were, he said, he'd be asking $25-billion from congress instead of $3,481,000,000.

The head of the nation's defense establishment found himself in the odd position of arguing against giving the military more funds.

He borrowed an old figure of speech on extreme preparedness: "If you leave it to the military, they'll fortify the moon."

Forrestal testified before the senate appropriations committee in support of a program to increase the air force from 50 to 66 groups. The house has voted for a 70-group force.

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) asked the secretary if he considered a 70-group force as "fortifying the moon." Forrestal said he didn't, that he would like to have such a force in being.

He added, however, that the smaller force, balanced with army and navy power, is designed to get "the best military results if our budget is to be limited."

The $3,481,000,000 figure would be on top of the $11-billion armed forces budget for the year beginning July 1.

Report Armies Will Invade By Saturday

JERUSALEM (AP)—The regular armies of Trans-Jordan, Syria, Lebanon and Egypt will launch an invasion of Palestine by Saturday, advisers reaching Jerusalem last night said.

A dispatch from Amman, capital of Trans-Jordan, said King Abdullah personally will take the field against the Jews at the head of the armies of Trans-Jordan, Syria and Lebanon.

Moving with him will be Egyptian army units which will cross the Holy Land's southern frontier in a coordinated action. The Egyptian command will be closely allied to Abdullah, it was said.

Throw in Regulars Arab informants in Cairo said Iraq and Saudi Arabia also have decided to throw their regular military forces into the fight to prevent the Jews from establishing a state of their own in the Holy Land.

Arab leaders reportedly are alarmed by the extent of recent Jewish military successes. Arab peoples in the middle east have been inflamed by the arrival of Arab refugees from Palestine.

An invasion by the Holy Land by regular army troops would defy the British mandate which is not scheduled to end until May 15 and the United Nations security council which has ordered a truce in Palestine.

British Trained The Cairo accounts said King Abdullah already has dispatched reinforcements of Trans-Jordan's Arab legion to Palestine.

The 15,000 legionnaires are well disciplined troops. British trained and adequately equipped, they are regarded as superior to the Arab volunteer forces which thus far have engaged the Jews in the Holy Land. Approximately 10,000 legionnaires already are in Palestine on security duty with the British.

The accounts telling of the massing of Arab armies on Palestine's boundaries came as 500 Arab volunteers rushed into strategic Alamein camp on the southern edge of Jerusalem and occupied it without firing a shot.

French Back Creation of Palestine Police Corps

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—France is reported sponsoring the creation of a heavily-armed volunteer united nations elite police corps to safeguard Jerusalem. The proposal is said to have tentative approval of Jews and Arabs as well as a number of delegates.

The 500-to-800 man force as suggested by France might include at least 100 New York police volunteers, but no Russians if the Western powers could exclude them.

Others could be drawn from among London hobbies, British Palestine forces, French mobile guards, and trained police from other countries around the globe.

Politics — GOP in the Keystone State

Pennsylvania To Hold GOP Primary Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Pennsylvania Republicans hold a primary election today and the results of a write-in vote may bring further indication of the relative strength of candidates for the Republican nomination for president.

There's a spot on the Republican ballot for each voter to indicate his presidential preference.

The Keystone state Republican will also select 73 delegates to the national nominating convention. The delegates won't be bound but are expected to back Senator Edward Martin as their favorite son.

Four years ago the state's preferential write-in tally showed 146,706 votes for Gov. Dewey of New York and 1,502 for Former Gov. Stassen of Minnesota.

Pennsylvania Democrats are also holding a primary today with President Truman's name on the ballot alone. They will send 74 delegates to the Democratic convention.

Other political developments: Ohio—Senator Robert A. Taft, campaigning for the GOP nomination in his own state, said that he believed Stassen "probably reached his peak in Nebraska and Wisconsin on election day, but here in Ohio he reached that peak 10 days before election day and now is on the downturn."

Taft said he would make about 30 speeches before the May 4 Ohio primary. Stassen is contesting for 23 of Ohio's 53 convention delegates to be chosen then.

Oregon—Stassen opened his bidding for Oregon's 12 GOP delegates, who will be chosen May 21 in a preferential vote. This first test of Stassen in a far western state pits him against Dewey. Dewey plans a 10-day Oregon tour starting May 1.

Rhode Island—Republicans chose yesterday their eight convention delegates, all unpledged. Sentiment among them was reported sprinkled among Dewey, Stassen and Taft. Massachusetts—the 35 Republican delegates will be elected by popular vote today and are to go to the Philadelphia convention unpledged. They have three possible favorite sons—U. S. Speaker Martin, Senator Leverett Saltonstall and Senator Henry Cabot Lodge.

Of the 36 Democratic delegates to be chosen from Massachusetts, Mr. Truman is assured of the support of 35. The objector is Mayor James Curley of Boston.

Oklahoma—the state's Republicans yesterday elected four delegates at large to the national convention. Three of them were favorable to Dewey. District conventions earlier picked 16 unconstructed delegates, who said they will back Dewey.

New Jersey—the far-traveling Stassen arranged to speak Wednesday at Princeton. Taft is due in New Jersey in May.

Indians Whip Chisox In 14 Inning Fray, 12-11

Home Run by Ed Robinson Pay-off Blow

CHICAGO (AP)—Eddie Robinson and Bob Feller—appearing as a relief pitcher—produced unbeaten Cleveland's fifth straight victory yesterday when the Tribe trimmed the Chicago White Sox, 12 to 11, in a four-hour and 20 minute, 14-inning game before 5,965 persons.

Robinson opened the fourteenth inning with his second homer off Earl Caldwell, the losing pitcher, for the game's third run since the fifth inning. When Russ Christopher, sixth of seven Cleveland pitchers, threw a single to Taft Wright and walked Aaron Robinson in the Chicago half of the fifth extra inning, Feller took over.

Bob struck out Bob Kennedy and Cass Michaels before Thurman Tucker caught Jim Delsing's fly to end the game.

The game was productive of 37 hits for 68 total bases. Cleveland's portion of this harvest included four homers, round-trippers by Larry Doby and Ken Keltner besides Robinson's pair; two triples and two doubles, all by Manager Lou Boudreau, and 14 singles.

Boudreau used his second double, the fifth of five straight hits, to drive in Cleveland's tenth and eleventh runs in tying the score in the Tribe ninth.

The contest had all the aspects of a wild west show as Cleveland scored two runs in each of the first and second innings. Doby homered to account for the two runs in the second. The White Sox made their first dent in the second when Cass Michaels homered behind Dave Philley's double.

Cleveland made it 5-2 as Doby's single scored Don Black, Cleveland's starting pitcher, in the third. Chicago bounced back with five runs in its half for a 7-5 edge. Tony Lupien hit a three-run homer and Philley, later banished for protesting a decision by Umpire Bill Summers, hit for the circuit behind A. Robinson's single.

The Indians moved in front, 8-7, with three runs in the fourth. Boudreau opened with his second triple and scored after Joe Gordon fled out. Then Eddie Robinson hit his first homer. After Ken Keltner blasted his no. 5 of the season, Howie Judson, Chicago's starting pitcher, was replaced by Glen Moulder.

The White Sox posted two-run spurts in the fourth and fifth to move in front, 11-9, as Boudreau's first double scored Doby with the Tribe's ninth run in the Cleveland fifth.

This concluded the scoring until the ninth. Dale Mitchell started with a single and Tucker walked. Both scored on Boudreau's double to send play into overtime.

Ol' Bobo Newsom Knew Where He Was Headed

Remember Louis Norman Newsom? Sure you do. He operates in the major leagues as a pitcher using the handle of "Bobo." But if we asked you how many big league teams old Bobo has tossed them up for, you might find that a little more difficult to answer.

At present, Bobo is on the roster of the New York Giants, his ninth change of uniform in the big show. The 40-year-old, he claims—although he might be 45 or 50—still has a few good innings left in his paw as proven by his 6-2 triumph for the Giants Sunday over the Boston Braves.

It was almost a cut and dried situation that Newsom would join the Polo Grounds' aggregation as early as last June, while he was in the nation's capital toiling for the Washington Senators. Maybe Horace Stoneham, president of the New Yorkers, and Manager Mel Ott weren't in on the secret, but Bobo still had plans on moving into their picture.

At that time a team composed of Mize, Marshall, Cooper and company were plastering the ball from one ball park to another. Bobo thought he'd like to pitch for a club with hitters like that.

And besides, he'd been with the Senators for two consecutive years—right on par. Newsom never stays with any one team, winner or loser, for three years. He gets itchy feet and wants to move on.

While Louis Norman had his future all mapped out, President Clark Griffith of Washington crossed him up. Two years ago Newsom had received his unconditional release from the Philadelphia Athletics and Connie Mack to hunt greener pastures. With his release he could sell himself to any other team in the market.

Not so with the shrewd Griffith. He sold Bobo to the Yankees last summer and pocketed the cash himself. But Newsom had no gripes to offer since the Yankees were pennant-bound. Bobo picked up his eventual World Series cut last fall and then the Yankees didn't care too much whether he sought another suit or not. But Newsom knew his destiny—the New York Giants.

Bobo is a member of the old era of pitchers, the kind that if they developed bone chips they'd just work all the harder and grind the chips into talcum. He's never complained of a sore arm and more than once has volunteered to pitch both ends of a doubleheader in the middle of July.

Newsom has hurled 3,642 innings in the major leagues. He's led the American league thrice in games won and once in games lost. He's also been the strikeout king and the bases-on-balls champ. In 1938 with the Browns he gave up 334 hits for the season and showed an earned-run average of 5.07—yet he won 20 of his seventh-place team's 55 victories.

He's been traded for 14 players over the course of his traveling and he's brought in quite a few thousand dollars to the clubs who sold him. Only two of the 14 players—Mark Christman of the Senators and 42-year-old Pitcher Fritz Ostermueller—still are in the business.

Long gone from the majors are such performers as Ben Chapman, Mel Almada, Wes Ferrell, Red Kress, Beau Bell, Joe Vosmik, Vern Kennedy, Jack Kraus, Archie McKain, Roxie Lawson and the rest.

Maybe Bobo won't last out the season with Mel Ott's Giants, but while he's new and not bored he'll probably hurl some good games for his ninth major league team.

Hawkeye Cagers Ranked 12th in Nation

The Iowa basketball team has been given a ranking of 12th in the nation by Dick Dunkel, who picks everything from beauty queens to football ratings. Dunkel's system—based on comparative merits—gave Iowa a rating of 71.8.

The highest point-score reached by the Hawkeye cagers during last winter was a tie for tenth. Teams ranking ahead of Iowa were Kentucky, St. Louis, Holy Cross, Michigan, Western Kentucky State, North Carolina State, City College of New York, Illinois (7), DePaul, Baylor and Bowling Green.

If Mr. Dunkel had been in the Iowa fieldhouse on the night of Feb. 9th, he probably would have thought differently about ranking Illinois over Iowa—final score, Iowa 72, Illinois 50.

Those Ferocious Little Men

— Have Had No Respect For Size

By HANK ALLAN

Ever since David dropped Goliath with his deadly slingshot, the "little fellows" of the world have had absolutely no respect for size. They've chopped down the bigger of the specie with terrifying ease.

Modern gladiators like middleweight Boxer Stanley Ketchell, welterweight Joe Gans, and Middleweight Sam Langford carried on the tradition by soundly thrashing top light-heavies and heavyweights. Ketchell, a 152-pound warrior, went so far as to floor Champion Jack Johnson who tipped the beam at 200-plus.

About the best example of this type of giant-killer on the local front is the "Dubuque Assassin", Roger Wely, who packs 150 pounds of brawny muscle on a five-foot, three inch frame.

Wely got introduced to ring warfare at the tender age of eight as a member of the Dubuque YMCA.

"I fought dozens of exhibitions in those days," Wely recalls with a grin. "In the 80-pound division," Wely's vague about the number of fights he's had. The stocky, boxer estimated he's come out fighting 70-80 times and figures he belted 25 fighters into dreamland.

"I've been beaten seven times," the close-cropped blond athlete declared. "That I know for sure."

Wely has won seven amateur tournaments; the "Assassin" won at Dubuque and Cedar Rapids twice. Independence, Anamosa and Monticello each once.

Tommy Campbell, then national AAU champion and now a headline professional, was Wely's first opponent when the Dubuque fighter invaded the tournament of champions at Chicago in 1942.

Wely waded into Campbell and fired a left to the head. Campbell ducked and shot a right to Wely's jaw crashing him to the canvas.

Wely rose and again was hit and felled. In the second round the wicked-punching Campbell again dumped Wely and the referee halted the fight.

"I didn't see any of those punches," Wely admitted shaking his head and smiling. "I didn't even see Campbell move. After the fight he told me I was off-balance when I led. Sometimes you learn the hard way."

When Uncle Sam beckoned in 1943, Wely became a member of the 49th Armored Infantry, 8th Armored Division. The "Assassin" boxed a few times while stateside and for a while was a stablemate of Erv Sarlin, high-ranking professional heavyweight.

In Czechoslovakia the Dubuque slugger entered the German occupational tournament. Wely dropped a decision to a University of Wisconsin boxing product.

"We fought under NCAA rules which prohibit the use of the ropes," he said, "I'd never fought collegiate style before and was lost."

Being so short has its advantages, Wely declared. The short fighter has the edge in close quarters and usually can get the better of a taller opponent in the counter-punching department.

"My size confuses many fighters," laughed Wely. "Fighters are forced to change their styles for me."

Wely usually depends on in-fighting where his foes are cramped for space. He ducks and slips his opponents jabs and counter-punches to the heart.

"Usually they're wide open in the mid-section," said Wely in a matter-of-fact tone.

The biggest what he considered the biggest factor in his ring success, Wely drew himself up to his full five-foot, three inches and modestly replied, "Concentrated power, brother, concentrated power."

Braves Shut Out Dodgers, 5-0

BOSTON (AP)—Eddie Stanky, traded off by the Brooklyn Dodgers last month, enjoyed a field day in his first crack against his old mates yesterday as the Boston Braves shut out the National league champions, 5-0, to end a four-game losing streak.

The little second baseman cracked out a triple, single and drew a walk in four times at bat. His walk came in the first inning as leadoff man and led to Boston's first run. His triple in the third led to another run, and his single in the seventh was followed by Jim Russell's home run. In the field, Stanky handled eight chances cleanly.

Bill Voiselle, who as a member of the New York Giants, defeated the Dodgers six times in 1944, handcuffed the Brooks with three singles. Only one Dodger, Pee Wee Reese, got as far as second base. Voiselle walked three and struck out two. Arky Vaughan and Duke Snider were the others besides Reese to reach Voiselle safely.

Plan To Send UWF Petition To Lobbyists

Signatures of 2,500 students and faculty members on a United World Federalists petition for a stronger United Nations will be sent to UWF lobbyists in Washington, D.C., Dave Campbell, petition drive chairman, said yesterday.

The petition drive fell short of its goal of 5,000 signatures, Campbell said, because there were not enough active workers on hand to canvass the campus. The drive began April 8 and ended Saturday.

"Over 90 percent of those contacted signed the petition," Campbell added.

The petition was sponsored by the university UWF chapter. It asks passage of congressional resolutions which would make the United Nations capable of "enacting, interpreting and enforcing world law to prevent war."

Original plans called for sending photographic copies of the petition to Iowa congressmen.

SUI International Club Sponsors 'Night in China'

150 Attend Chinese Show, Student Play

About 150 persons got a glimpse of China for several hours Saturday night at the Presbyterian church. They attended the Chinese night sponsored by the SUI International club.

More than 40 Chinese students helped present a Chinese program which included folksongs, folk dances, Peking drama and playing of abacus. A display of more than 200 Chinese articles including paintings, ivories, embroideries and curiosities was exhibited.

The program started with "China Today," a color film telling about the college life in China.

Two folksongs were sung by Mrs. Frederick T. C. Yu.

The Peking drama was presented by Kwei-ling Wang and Chen-ling Whuang.

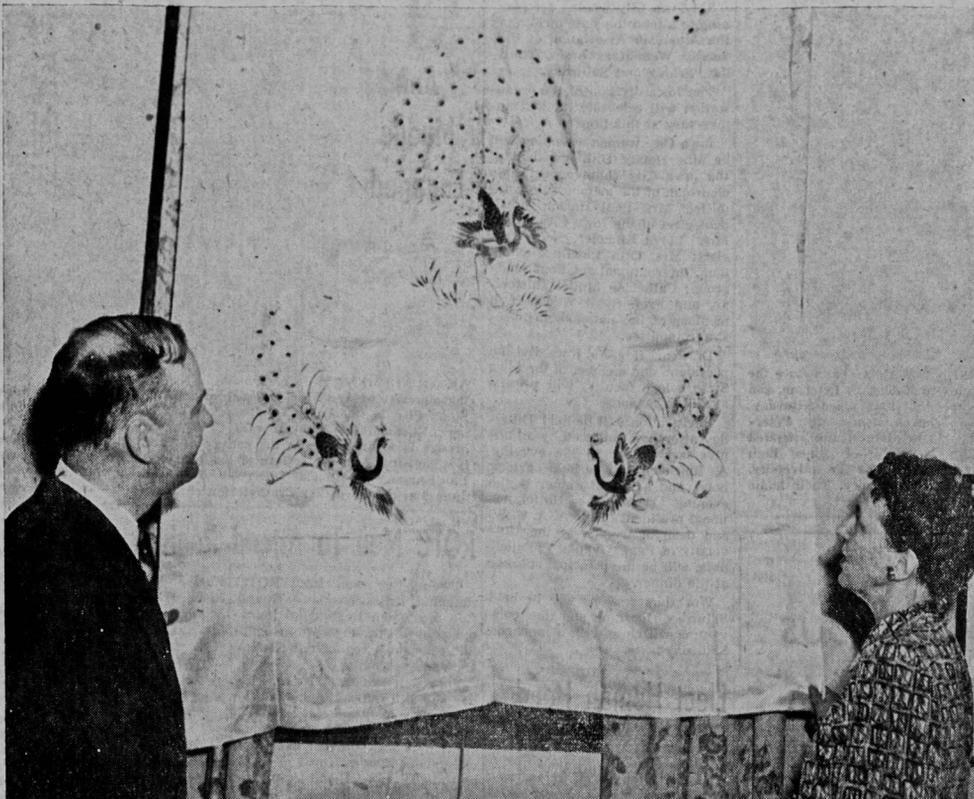

Yang-chang Shiu, a graduate in civil engineering, introduced the abacus, Chinese calculating device, to the audience.

Hsin-kuan Liu, a hydraulics graduate, entertained the audience with a show of Chinese boxing.

A recitation and translation of Chinese poetry was made by Chia-shuen Yih, another graduate in hydraulics.

Five Chinese women took part in a display of Chinese costumes. Most of them wore embroidered dresses.

The program ended with a group singing by the Chinese students. They sang "Song of the Hoe," a very popular song in China.

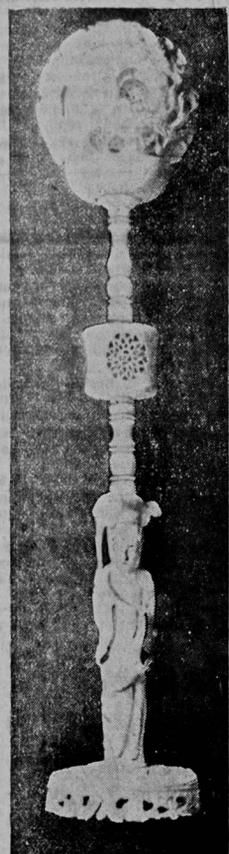

THERE WERE MANY OH'S AND AH'S over this handmade, embroidered bedspread. Dean Dewey B. Stuit (left) and Mrs. Virgil M. Hancher were two who enjoyed it. The background is light pink and the peacocks have all the colors in the rainbow. Representing one kind of Chinese embroidery, the delicate needlework is done on a piece of soft satin. Provinces like Hunan, Szechuan, Chekiang and Kiangsu are all famous for embroideries. The work in each province is different from the others in design, needlework and satin. This bedspread, embroidered in east China, belongs to SUI student Shih-cheng Wang, Shanghai, China. Almost all of the 200 articles on display, were brought to the U.S. by Chinese students at the university. (Daily Iowan Photo by Phil Miller)

Recall Park Located on Disputed Site

By NEAL BLACK

It was old-timers' day in the Johnson county district court yesterday as the hearing was begun in Celia Carson's case against the state of Iowa.

The case involves the block bounded by Dubuque and Jefferson streets, Iowa avenue and East hall, on which the electrical engineering building stands.

Mrs. Carson, 315 Lee street, brought the suit on behalf of the residents and taxpayers of Iowa City. She is attempting to reclaim the land for the city on the grounds that the original grant to the state was illegal.

The plaintiff's case and part of the defendant's case were heard yesterday. The hearing will resume this morning at 9:30 a. m. Judge James P. Gaffney is presiding.

Four men, the youngest of whom is 78, were called to the witness stand by the plaintiff. The plaintiff was attempting to prove, through their testimony, that the block in question was originally used as a park.

In his opening statement, Dan Dutcher, attorney for Mrs. Carson, said he is attempting to prove that the block was intended for a city park and that the city council had no right to grant it to the state.

Arthur O. Leff, attorney for the state, pointed out that the city is merely a part of the state and is subject to its laws. The federal government granted the land to the state for a state capitol, the state gave it to the city and then the city gave it back to the state, he said.

The biggest point of the state's defense, Leff said, is the argument that the city has permitted the state to use the land and make valuable improvements on it for such a long period of time that it no longer has any right to it.

W. F. Murphy, 92, Iowa City attorney, was the first witness called to the stand by Dutcher. He described the appearance of the block in question when he was attending school in Iowa City in 1876.

The block was used as a park at that time, he said. It had hitching rails along two and a half sides, a board walk through the middle, and a band stand in the center with benches around it, he said.

Concerts were held in the park, he said. "I'm not kidding, Iowa City had a right good band then," he added.

He also said he remembered that quite a number of political speeches were made in the park in those days. When asked if he could remember some of the speakers, he replied that he could not.

Murphy said he later was the proprietor of a livery stable on Washington street between Clinton and Dubuque streets.

Edmund T. Davis, 82, was called to the stand next. He said he remembered Fourth of July celebrations held in the park while he was attending an academy in Iowa City in 1883.

He said he hitched his mules to the rail around the park when he came to town. He recalled a time when he brought a load of corn to Iowa City to sell. He got 15 cents a bushel for it and that was all he sold, he said.

Birds-Eye View of Part of Campus Disputed in Celia Carson Case Against State Area Bounded by Dubuque and Jefferson streets, Iowa Avenue and East Hall . . . Contains Electrical Engineering Building

The plaintiff then offered in evidence photostatic copies of newspapers published during the middle of the last century.

Dutcher read portions of the Iowa Capitol Reporter dated back to 1842. The stories told of Fourth of July celebrations held in the park.

Stories from the Iowa City Weekly Republican dating back to 1860 were read into the record by Dutcher. The stories also told of celebrations and a concert series. A story from a paper dated Sept. 19, 1860, announced the opening of the University of Iowa on that day.

Ascending balloon and fireworks "such as have never before been seen by Iowa Citizens" were described in a story published in 1876 when the centennial Fourth of July celebration was held. The 1877 celebration was unsuccessful because one man "wanted to run things," a story said.

Ira Tulloss, 92, gave testimony substantiating the claim that the block was used as a park in the old days.

George Balluff, 78, court bailiff, described trips to Iowa City made when he was a boy. He told of eating lunch in the park. He also said there was a lot of argument about the city's grant of the land to the state.

The plaintiff then rested her case and Leff called Fred W. Ambrose, university business manager and secretary, to the stand.

He described the uses the university is making of the electrical engineering building. Besides the building the block contains steam lines and water lines in tunnels, electrical connections and sewer pipes leading to the university buildings east of the area, he said.

Leff then introduced exhibits showing the amount the university has spent on improvements on the block.

Leff asked Ambrose if the university has any other means for heating, furnishing water or electricity to the buildings east of the area. Gaffney overruled the plaintiff's objection and Ambrose answered that it did not.

Leff's question on the result of the cutting of these lines was also objected to and Gaffney overruled the objection. Ambrose said it would be necessary to construct new tunnels and estimated the cost of doing this and putting in the required service lines at $95,200.

Ambrose said there is no other building that could be used for the purposes to which the electrical engineering building is now being used.

Dutcher, in cross-examination of Ambrose, brought out that the communications building which is to be built on the area in question was originally intended for the block just west of the area in question.

Dutcher then brought out the fact that the land originally intended for the communications building is not now intended for any specific purpose.

Ambrose also said the university owns several blocks north of the east campus which is not intended for any specific purpose.

In addition to Leff, the state is represented by Oscar Strauss, assistant state attorney general. Mrs. Carson is represented by the law firm of Ries, Dutcher and Osmundson.

Dodge Blasts Southern System

A white southerner stood in Macbride auditorium Sunday night and caustically lambasted southern paternalism—"the little system of the boss," he called it.

Said Dr. Witherspoon Dodge, "Paternalism in the south is the dominating force. It works with kid gloved hands rather than mailed fists, but that's the only difference between paternalism and outright fascism."

Dodge is a native of Atlanta, Ga., and is a travelling representative of the National Religion and Labor foundation, New Haven, Conn.

Speaking in machinegun tempo, Dodge said at a University Vespers service:

"Paternalistic corporations control the south, and that's the reason we are what we are today.

"They rule the south—there's a racial epiglottis down there."

But he suggested we "look to youth. Youth is the hope. Their humility before the truth . . . will change that unfortunate section of our planet."

And he added, "It's always been our old men who drug civilization into catastrophe."

A great-great-grandson of Declaration of Independence signer John Witherspoon, Dodge said after his lecture that "the Negroes of the South are determined to vote this time, and they are powerfully organized."

"In some cases, they may be escorted to the polls by white persons for protection; we may have some excitement down there come November."

The veteran clergyman said, "Time, education and the clergy could solve the South's racial problems. Our clergymen down there need to speak out. They should do much more than they do—they would carry their con-

Plan To Preserve Iowa Newspapers

Representatives of several Iowa libraries met with R. E. Ellsworth, director of the University libraries, recently in Old Capitol to consider the problem of preserving Iowa newspapers.

Reproducing the newspapers on microfilm was decided to be the best solution, and a special committee was appointed to study the problems of setting up a cooperatively supported microfilm center. Another meeting was scheduled for next fall.

Mumps Show Increase With 17 New Cases

Mumps showed a sharp increase last week with 17 cases reported to the city clerk. Only seven cases had been reported the previous week.

However, Dr. D. F. Fitzpatrick, city health physician, told the board of health recently that this is the time of year for mumps and a large number of cases could be expected.

Cases of other communicable diseases were near the year's low. Only two cases of chicken pox and one of measles were reported.

Bond Drive Gains $291,000 in County Sales Last Week

Despite lack of wartime fanfare and glamour, savings bond sales in Johnson county totaled $291,008 during the first week of the security loan drive, according to Roger F. Warin, state director of the savings bond division.

This represents 20.17 percent of the county's $1,442,536 quota for the drive. On a state-wide basis, only 13.9 percent of the $100-million quota has been purchased.

Warin justified the launching of the security loan drive at this time because of increased bank deposits in all parts of the state. He cited Johnson county as an example of this, showing that from Dec., 1946, to Dec., 1947, time and demand deposits jumped $2,833,343.

"Deposits at the end of 1947 for all Iowa banks were 247-million dollars higher than at the end of 1946, and many bankers report that withdrawals since January have not been unusually heavy," he stated.

Warin pointed out that the above figures do not include checking accounts which are at record peaks.

Violence Against Strikers No Solution

Violence has long been associated with strikes. The common idea in the public mind is that the men striking necessarily are the only ones who practice it.

That idea stems from the often distorted—or at best, superficial—newspaper reporting of labor news. It's the obvious thing—the concrete action of calling a strike—that gets the play.

Often the underlying causes and conditions are ignored. True, those are the things that are most difficult to report.

But because these questions are difficult does not mean they should be ignored—for often they are the nub of a labor dispute.

Therefore it is not strange that the public should associate violence only with the activities of strikers. Labor economists, however, have accumulated evidence that in many cases the violence actually is instigated by management or their allies—the private detective, militia, city police, or government troops.

It is only fair to point out that newspapers are handicapped in reporting news of violence in labor disputes. How does a reporter actually know whether a policeman acted so as to incite violence or whether he is merely "protecting the company's property against violence?"

Investigating committees and grand juries often are baffled as to why the violence occurred. It's not strange, therefore, that the news is merely a stereotyped press association report: "Violence broke out yesterday at the blank plant in blankville where 2,000 workers are on strike," etc.

It's not often that the violence can be isolated. But an incident at Kansas City, Kansas, last Friday was one of those unusual ones that left no doubt about who originated the violence.

Police charged into the headquarters of the CIO meatpackers union. They were ordered to "get tough, and crack skulls," if necessary. They demolished the union headquarters. The city's entire police force—70 armed men—participated in this clear-cut use of gangster methods. Ten persons, one a news photographer and the others union men, were hospitalized.

These Nazi tactics in America deserve the strongest condemnation. Those tactics exposed brutality and violence in stark reality. But more than that, they revealed our basic ignorance of the methods of solving industrial relations.

Violence as a solution is a proven failure. Its use is not confined to laborers alone. Its use against labor is as sure to breed new violence as the use of violence by labor. Until the company police, the troops and management recognize that, peaceful solution of labor problems is indefinitely postponed.

Great Britain Takes a Step Forward

Britain's labor government has taken time out from its Herculean efforts in rebuilding that nation's economy to deal with a problem that has both economic and social implications. The death penalty for murder has been ended for a test period of five years.

This is striking evidence of the change in our attitude toward crime. It is the greatest step in recent years away from the vindictive and retaliatory theory of dealing with crime.

That theory has generally been followed in most countries of the world. It is only by gradual and halting steps that we have realized the ill fruits of such a theory.

There has been a realization that crime is in many instances a disease; that it springs from economic, social and psychological causes that cannot be met by retaliation.

GOING DOWN FOR THE THIRD TIME?

Marshal Tito Has Big Plans To Make Belgrade Capital of 'Balkan Federation'

By OSGOOD CARUTHERS BELGRADE, YUGOSLAVIA (AP)—This ugly old city sits at the real crossroads, historical and political, between east and west.

It is nicknamed the "white city." It has been described in more high-flown terms: "Capital of the Balkans," "Seat of vast Cominform plots," "Tito's Stronghold," "Springboard for Communist expansion into Italy and Austria and France and Greece."

People on the outside give Belgrade those names—particularly people from western countries. Let's see what it looks like to the people—westerners and easterners both—on the inside, as I have been for nearly two years.

Is Belgrade the capital of the Balkans? Geographically, she could well be. Politically, she could well be. That is, if one thinks in terms of a Balkan federation with Premier Marshal Tito as its titular head.

So that question brings up another: "Is there a Balkan federation?" Tito said on his last visit to Sofia the future formation of a federation of Balkan and Danubian states had reached the stage of "mere formality."

Belgrade got a big boost in December 1946 when the all-Slav congress held its first meeting here and made this permanent headquarters. After that, for the initial pact-making, all heads of neighboring governments came to Tito in Belgrade or in the "summer capital" at Bled in the Slovenian Alps.

Belgrade has been made the seat of the Cominform too. So far as newsmen here can find out, none of the Yugoslav government has even the slightest connection or contact with the Cominform in the lower strata.

So far as the Belgrade office is concerned, political authorities who understand Communist history and policy are inclined to agree that the Cominform is exactly what it says it is—the information bureau of the Communist parties.

The results of the various parties' work are reported to the grab office of the Cominform here, where all material that is not secret is edited for publication in a bi-weekly newspaper.

One Communist in position to know the Cominform's workings said, "To us it sounds utterly stupid when American and British politicians and military men speak of the Cominform in the same terms as the old Comintern—as though it were a mighty cloak-and-dagger outfit sitting in Belgrade and plotting the fall of nations."

"We know it's just an information center, very newly organized. If they want to think it's other than that—want to dress it up in frightful suspicion and speak about it in hushed tones—we don't argue. They serve our propaganda purposes much too well."

Without that it will become only a one-legged partner in the western European nation. The fight at the polls is very likely to prove only a preliminary for a no-less bitter battle by the true Communist against Italian recovery.

'Good News' This Summer

Government Experts Predict 'Historic' U. S. Labor Shortage

By ROBERT E. GEIGER WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. faces a labor problem so tough that government labor experts say the work call will go out for all hands—including women and retired workers—by midsummer.

Robert C. Goodwin, director of the U. S. employment service, predicts around 61,000,000 people will have jobs. In July, 1947, some 60,078,000 were employed, an all-time high record.

Goodwin says the situation is more critical than at the start of the war because the nation had an "unemployment pillow" on which to drop its wartime labor recruiting problem. There were 7,000,000 unemployed in 1940, but Goodwin says unemployment virtually is nonexistent today.

Military and civilian officials have conferred several times recently the labor crisis which they say must arise because of the European recovery program, the U. S. defense program and civilian industrial requirements.

President Truman's economic council has advised him labor recruitment should be on a voluntary basis. Emergency recruiting powers have expired.

Privately government officials say the availability of materials will help control the labor situation as it did during the war. That is—if material controls become necessary, they say, it means essential materials will be shunted to necessary industries and workers will follow the materials.

Statistics list 2,400,000 people "unemployed" today, but Goodwin says this is misleading. Actually, he says, they were only shifting from one job to another or were temporarily out of work. Jobs were available for them.

Although there is virtually no reservoir of unemployed, there are an estimated 5,000,000 persons outside the labor force today who were either in the civilian labor or military forces in 1944. (Technically, the "labor force" means persons working or looking for work.)

These mostly are women, men now retired or veterans who were in the military forces in 1944. Goodwin says the most important part of the 1948 labor recruiting program will be to induce some of these people to return to jobs. Many of the women, however, now have families and many of the veterans are in school and probably won't leave except for patriotic reasons or offers of high salaries.

Other ways of meeting the production demand include longer hours of work, reclassification of jobs and importation of foreign labor.

Reclassifying means assigning a couple of assistants to a skilled worker, altogether they may turn out the work of two or more skilled men.

During the war foreign workers were an important part of the labor forces. About 315,000 prisoners of war and other foreigners helped. The foreign labor force this year is expected to total from 50,000 to 60,000 agricultural workers from Mexico.

Why do not the chosen statesmen of this country recognize facts? Why do they go through the motions of meaningless protocol? A country's actions cannot rise higher than the level of the intelligence of those who determine its policies.

For instance, Leo Isacson, Henry Wallace's congressman from the Bronx, wishes to attend an international convention in Europe, designed to oppose the American policy in Greece.

Comparatively, Connolly is the more important and more effective person. He has manipulated the American Labor party into a power which has sent three members to congress from New York city and which has politically blackmailed both Republicans and Democrats into providing endorsements for its candidates.

What Does Italy Mean?

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

Now that we've won in Italy, and now that a week has elapsed for cool reflection, it is time to go into the question of what we've won. What have we won?

We in America tend, I think, to take too much of a sporting contest view of such foreign political crises as the Italian election. The election is finished, we've won, the score is up there for everybody to see, the referee has blown his whistle, the game's over.

Only, in politics, the game is never over. A new one starts as the old one ends, or, rather, they overlap; the last play in the old one is the first play in the new. You get no breathers. All you ever win is the right to stay in the game.

We have won time, and we have won the right to help put Italy in a sound, self-sustaining economic position. It is a little bit like winning the right to carry a hundred pounds up a steep hill on a hot day.

And the new game that now begins in Italy is the kind that doesn't make the headlines, though it does make history. I don't know if we are even going to follow it very closely, for we do have to some degree the habit of being engaged by elections, and bored by trends.

The new game will be played out in a country which has 2,000,000 unemployed, including many of the partisans who fought behind the German lines, and who are men of a certain temper and impatience. It is a country which has a throbbing inflation, and perhaps the largest class of landless peasants in Europe.

We have won the right to help the de Gasperi government to correct these conditions. That was indeed worth winning, we needed to win it, but it isn't exactly one of the biggest jackpots of all time.

Yet it will be hard to resist the temptation to treat the victory as a jackpot. It is human to overestimate triumphs; in politics it is almost impossible not to. There are some in de Gasperi's ranks who seem to feel, in the flush of victory, that this was the final battle, and that the Communists have lost irrevocably.

But a Christian Science Monitor compilation shows that the left wing parties actually gained 400,000 votes as compared with two years ago, going from 9,500,000 to 9,900,000, with most of the increase going to the Communists. There will be a temptation to treat what, historically, may turn out to have been a skirmish, as if it were a Waterloo.

And there will be a temptation for the de Gasperi government to move to the right in order to hold the left down, to try by legal moves to turn the skirmish into a Waterloo. This temptation will be hard to resist; it will be hard for the government, in the enthusiasm of victory, not to proceed against an annoying strike, say, not to make its judgments on a political manipulation.

The president has stimulated the nation to preparedness for war with Russia. He keeps that campaign alive by messages to congress and by various military activities. But he permits war goods to be shipped to Russia. He possesses the power to end that trade at a moment's notice by executive order.

However, when it was proposed that American funds, through E R P, should not be used to supply Soviet Russia with war materials either of our manufacture or of the manufacture of E R P countries but released because of our gifts, the President, Marshall, Harriman and Senator Vandenberg united to oppose the proposal.

The conclusion then must be reached either that the war scare is indigenously political and is discounted, or that the administration does not have the courage to act quickly in matters which may lead to reprisals. Certainly, the attitude is paradoxical. It is not to be explained within the margins of logic.

Again as regards Palestine, the administration has pursued a flow-and-ebb policy, perhaps substituting polls for principle. Never has policy been so contradictory in so short a time.

What this country needs is a state department—one that will function consistently for the United States of America. That does not exist at the present time.

INTERPRETING THE NEWS— The Battle Was Won, But Not the War

By J.M. ROBERTS JR., AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Italy has won a battle, but the war continues. The anti-Communist government at Rome seems to be firmly in the saddle. Its position has been doubly emphasized by the popular vote and by its ability to police the country against election violence.

Although foreign observers were reported keeping their fingers crossed until the complicated election system has determined finally the makeup of the senate, Premier De Gasperi seems confident that there will be no necessity for including Communists in the government.

In this first major test of their strength when the red army is far away, the communists have taken a terrific beating. It is a tremendous victory for the world's anti-Communist force and especially for the United States, which for the first time in history threw its weight unreservedly into the internal politics of a major country.

But, any way you look at it, there are still a lot of people in Italy who are either Communists or who would risk the dangers of communism rather than continue living the way they have been.

Palmiro Togliatti, although Comintern-trained, has felt it necessary to veer sufficiently from the Moscow line to avoid being stamped in the popular mind as a Russian agent. Fearing to arouse Italian patriotism and nationalism, he has tried to win power by legal means. He has failed. International communism is intolerant of failures.

Will Togliatti, then, remain in control of the Italian party, or will he be forced to give way to the Cominform's proponents of more direct action? He and the other Italian Communist leaders, along with the left-wing Socialists with whom they combined in the election, have promised to abide by the election returns.

But that is directly counter to the training of all true Communists. If they follow their usual course, strikes, riots, scandalous campaigns and terrorism will be the order of the day in efforts to obtain concessions from the government.

The Truth Hurts TO THE DAILY IOWAN: I would like to make a remark in regard to the letter from Bernie Rosenberg which was published Thursday.

I am not exactly a Wallace supporter unless you can accept as his supporters those who are compelled to support him for lack of someone better.

I consider myself a "Common Man" but it would be difficult for me to accept Mr. Rosenberg's indictment that we common men are blundering because we are open-minded (or should I say progressive?) enough to be able objectively to select the least undesirable of a field of undesirable presidential aspirants.

It was a pleasure to note the effect, upon one less common than I, of the self-evident truths in the material passed out by the official Wallace supporters Friday, April 16. The material was cleverly prepared and Mr. Rosenberg's reaction illustrates the trite saying that the truth hurts.

THESE DAYS— Wants an 'American' Foreign Policy

By George E. Sokolsky (King Feature Syndicate)

Why do not the chosen statesmen of this country recognize facts? Why do they go through the motions of meaningless protocol? A country's actions cannot rise higher than the level of the intelligence of those who determine its policies.

Why refuse Isacson a visa while granting one, for the same meeting and the same purpose, to his chief, Connolly? Either the state department does not know who Connolly is, which is an appalling admission of ignorance or someone in the visa office of the state department needs a loyalty test. It is impossible to underestimate Connolly's history or his power of

Not Guilty Plea Entered By Anderson

Oscar Anderson, 58, pleaded innocent yesterday to charges of assault with intent to commit murder. Held in connection with the shooting of Clifford Kelly, Anderson was arraigned in Iowa City police court.

Police Judge Emil Trott continued hearing in the case to Friday at 2:30 p. m. He set bond at $10,000. Anderson did not post bond. He is being held in the Johnson county jail.

Kelly was victim of a bullet which eyewitnesses said Anderson fired after a brief argument Thursday in the Strand cafe. Kelly was reported in serious condition last night by University hospital officials. They said he is apparently slightly improved but still in serious condition.

Relatives said yesterday that both of Kelly's legs are paralyzed but that he seemed to be in good spirits.

Edward L. O'Connor and William R. Hart represented Anderson in police court yesterday.

County Attorney Jack C. White filed a preliminary information against Anderson Saturday. The police are continuing to investigate circumstances surrounding the shooting.

Officials have been unable to trace the .38 calibre Iver Johnson revolver used in the shooting, according to Sheriff Albert J. (Pat) Murphy.

Eyewitnesses said Anderson asked Kelly to go outside the cafe with him. Kelly said he did not know Anderson, witnesses said. When Kelly rose from his seat at the counter Anderson was reported to have pulled the revolver from his pocket and shot Kelly.

New Baptist Church Planned Here

Architect's Sketch of Planned Baptist Church
Fund Campaign to begin in June

A $125,000 Baptist church will be built here next spring, according to plans disclosed yesterday by the Rev. Elmer E. Dierks, pastor of the First Baptist church.

The financial campaign to make the construction of the new church building possible will begin around June 1.

The church will be built on the present site of the Baptist married students house, 106 East Fairchild street, across from Currier hall. The site is an 80x150-foot lot with the length running north-to-south.

According to the Rev. Mr. Dierks, actual construction and costs of building the church depend on changing conditions in the construction business.

Charles B. Zalesky, Cedar Rapids architect, designed the plans for the new building. The Rev. Mr. Dierks said no contracts have been let for the construction.

The financial drive will be headed by Virgil Copeland with the Rev. Mr. Dierks and Copeland directing the campaign for funds from local church members.

Eaton L. Hagler is the chairman of the committee on memorials. Several memorial gifts have already been designated for use in the building project. C. L. Blake will head the committee on outside solicitation.

Alumni of SUI who attended the local church will be contacted by Mr. and Mrs. Roy F. Warner, Minneapolis, during the drive. Tentative plans call for a church building 69 feet wide and 106 feet long with a seating capacity for 360. The building's exterior will be built with brick or stone, and the floors are to be of concrete.

The sanctuary will be on ground level. The ground floor will be on two graduated levels providing space for Sunday school and choir rooms and a large "Fellowship hall" for church dinners and meetings.

Also planned for the main floor are a memorial parlor, assembly room, church office and pastor's study.

A formal chapel, to accommodate small worship services, student vespers, and weddings is planned. This chapel will be open at all times for individual use.

On the second floor there will be a balcony—both sanctuary and chapel spaces will extend through the second floor level—and additional classrooms.

If the need arises for enlargement of the building, an annex can be added later since the proposed design leaves additional space on the north side of the lot. Until then this area will be laid out in a formal garden and outdoor retreat.

The Rev. Mr. Dierks said that complete membership of the campaign committees will be announced at a later date.

Three IC Firemen Attend State Meeting

The Iowa Association of Fire Fighters adopted resolutions for improving fire prevention and fire fighting at their meeting in Fort Dodge Friday and Saturday.

Attending this year's convention from Iowa City were H.T. McNabb, trustee, 248 Rocky Shore drive; William A. Vorbrich, delegate, 1707 E. Court street, and Edwin Knoedel, alternate delegate, 804 E. Jefferson street.

Resolutions adopted at the convention will be presented to the state legislature sometime in the future, Vorbrich said yesterday.

Many fires are started by carelessness and therefore avoidable, delegates stressed. Speeches by State Attorney General Robert Larson on "Rural Fire Protection" and State Fire Marshal John Strohm on "Fire Prevention" emphasized this point, Vorbrich said.

Cedar Rapids was selected as the 1949 convention site. Iowa City delegates to that meeting will be chosen later.

Koser Questions Wage Boost

By JAY HORNING

The city council last night adjourned amid confusion after a resolution passed by the group giving 5-cent an hour increase to city street department workers was called "no good" by Mayor Preston Koser. He claimed the resolution did not direct him to sign it.

Four aldermen questioned the legality of the adjournment and remained in the council chambers for several minutes after the mayor, other aldermen and spectators had left.

The initial motion for adjournment was defeated by a four-to-two vote, and the resolution authorizing the increase was drawn up. Alderman Max S. Hawkins and William Grandrath voted in favor of adjournment and against the resolution.

The second motion to adjourn came immediately after Koser disputed the validity of the resolution. When the mayor called for the votes of council members in favor of the motion, aldermen who were opposed voiced their "nays" with the "ayes" and Koser declared the meeting adjourned.

The proposed increase would affect "about 18 or 20" men who are on an hourly wage basis, according to Harry Wilford, local representative of the AFL teamsters union of Cedar Rapids.

The union has also asked for increases for city employees on a monthly wage basis, but those increases can be effected only by ordinance. A resolution is sufficient to raise an hourly wage.

Aldermen James M. Callahan and Frank Fryauf indicated last night that they would try to arrange for a council meeting soon with union representatives to continue negotiations, Callahan and Fryauf both said they considered the proposed increase "reasonable" and "justified." The 5-cent increase proposed last night would apply to employees in the 80-cent and 90-cent an hour bracket.
