

Between And Betwixt

BANGOR, ME. (AP)—The man couldn't make up his mind whether to plead guilty or innocent to a charge of intoxication. Pressed by the judge, he scratched his head and finally replied: "It's hard to say, Judge, I was betwixt and between." On a promise of future sobriety, he was given a suspended jail sentence.

Mediators Fail To Head Off Auto Walkout

75,000 Workers in 16 Chrysler Plants To Strike Today

DETROIT (AP)—A strike of 75,000 workers at Chrysler corporation set for 5 a. m. CST today appeared almost a certainty last night as federal conciliators failed in last minute efforts to avert it.

Negotiations between the company and the CIO united auto workers were broken off and all parties to the dispute said there would be no meetings before today's strike deadline.

Company Statement

Company spokesmen, in a special statement issued late last night, declared Chrysler has told the conciliators and union that "we still are willing to discuss this situation and to arrive at a reasonable settlement. And that is our position, regardless of the call to strike."

Conciliator Leo Kotin, tired and downhearted after seven hours of conferences with the principals yesterday told a news conference, "our efforts at mediation have been terminated."

Union Informed

Norman Matthews, head of the UAW's Chrysler department, went from the conciliation sessions to a meeting of union delegates from 16 Chrysler plants in three states.

He gave them a brief fill-in on the day's developments and wound up by saying, "since Chrysler has forced us into the position of striking, we will give them the damndest strike they have ever seen."

Kotin said no further efforts to avert the strike are contemplated.

Reject Union Offer

Negotiations were broken off abruptly as the union disclosed it had scaled its demand from a 30-cent-an-hour increase to 17 cents.

Chrysler officials rejected the union offer.

Robert W. Conder, Chrysler director of labor relations, said the company "sounded out" union sentiment on its previous six-cent offer, but did not formally reinstate it.

The union had declined the six-cent proposal some time ago.

As the negotiations were broken off, there was no official offer from the company.

A statement by the UAW negotiating committee that Chrysler admitted during long negotiations that a 17-cent raise was needed to offset higher living costs was denied by the company.

Rail Dispute Still Unsettled

WASHINGTON (AP)—The railroads highballed as usual yesterday but the rail labor dispute, snatched from the strike stage in the nick of time, remained unsettled.

Heads of the three unions involved paid a 20-minute call on Army Secretary Kenneth Royall, bent on seeking a settlement now that the rail system is under government control by President Truman's order.

Afterward, they said Royall told them he hasn't authority yet to deal with them but "will get in touch with us" again in a few days.

Royall told reporters earlier the army was not disposed to enter negotiations with the unions for the time being.

A quick settlement was predicted by M. W. Clement, president of the Pennsylvania railroad.

Clement told reporters at the Pennsy's annual stockholders meeting at Philadelphia that he believed a settlement will come before May 19.

That is the date Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough set for a hearing here on the government's plea for an injunction to replace the temporary restraining order granted by the judge Monday night to stop the strike.

It was a question of bowing to the court order or facing possible heavy fines for the three union chieftains—Alvanley Johnston of the locomotive engineers, David Robertson of the fireman and engineers, and A. J. Glover of the switchmen.

They finally gave in. But their instructions cancelling strike plans came less than eight hours before the walkout was due to start at 6 a. m. yesterday.

National — Air Forces, Draft and Communists

70-Group Air Bill Sent to White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—The American defense program gathered speed yesterday despite Russia's talk of "peace and cooperation." Both senate and house approved a 70-group air force bill and a senate committee voted a draft measure.

The air force bill—compromising minor differences between the two houses—now needs only the expected signature of President Truman.

The draft measure, in line with a preparedness program asked by President Truman eight weeks ago, still has several hurdles to pass.

Overwhelming voice votes gave final approval for the 70-group air force, indicating congress wants "enough-and-in-time" air force.

The draft bill was approved 7 to 2 by the senate armed services committee. This is how the committee draft bill was finally worked out after weeks of hearings and study: Men 19 through 25 would be subject to the draft, and serve two years in the armed forces.

Men 18 through 25 and medical men through 45 would have to register. Youths 18 years old may volunteer for a one-year training program, but they do not have to. The bill provides for training 200,000 of the 18-year-olds, who then would not be subject to the draft, but be held in a reserve pool.

Veterans would be exempt from induction but not registration. These are men who were on duty for 90 days or longer between Pearl Harbor, Dec. 7, 1941, and V-J day when Japan surrendered Sept. 2, 1945; also any man who has served 18 months in the armed services, even if only part was in the wartime period.

The committee prodded the executive branch for "vigorous enforcement" of existing laws to quell subversive activities, and declared the administration has failed to understand "the potentialities of Communist agents within our nation."

The report cited the recent bloody outbreak in Bogota and said that Communists form a greater percentage of the population of the United States than in the case in Colombia.

U.S.-Russ 'Peace' Meeting Rumor Dodged by Truman

Claims Smith-Molotov Talks Cleared Russ 'Misconceptions'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Amid world-wide speculation over a Soviet-American "peace" conference, President Truman yesterday issued a cautiously worded statement avoiding any commitment on the possibility of direct negotiations between United States and Soviet leaders.

He declared, instead, that the purpose of Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith's talk with Foreign Minister Molotov in Moscow May 4 was to clear away any "misconception or confusion in the minds of the Soviet government" about American policy.

Smith made two salient points, the President said. These were:

First, that the United States will continue to promote "vigorously and firmly" its policy of aiding western Europe.

Second, that "the United States has no hostile or aggressive designs" toward Russia.

Some of the President's foreign policy advisors, amplifying the American attitude on negotiations with Russia, emphasized that a primary requirement of any talks would be agreement beforehand on specific points to be discussed. They also said that any conference which involved the interest of other nations would have to include those other nations.

Generally, in fact, responsible American officials were inclined to discount the prospects for any early negotiations between Moscow and Washington aimed at an over-all settlement of the "cold war."

Several officials privately expressed the opinion to newsmen that there could be no such thing as an over-all settlement but only a series of settlements of specific issues. Such issues, for example as those centering upon Germany, Austria, Korea, political conditions in eastern Europe and the problem of trade between Russia and the west.

The whole situation arose, in the opinion of the President's diplomatic advisors, because the Russians chose to consider a remark by Ambassador Smith that the door is always open to negotiations with Russia as a virtual invitation to hold a Soviet-American conference.

The Soviet government last night broadcast Smith's statement to Molotov of May 4 and Molotov's reply of May 9 stating that the Soviet government "adopts a positive attitude toward the wishes of the United States government to begin... a discussion and settlement of differences existing between us."

Diplomatic authorities here took the position that actually no proposal for Soviet-American talks had been made by Smith. His words, as interpreted here, did not go beyond the "open" door statement which President Truman included in his message to congress on March 17.

Discussions Leave Lawmakers Divided On Russ Sincerity

WASHINGTON (AP)—If Russia wants to shake hands instead of fists, it's agreeable to a lot of congressmen.

However, the disclosure of new diplomatic discussions between U.S. Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith and Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov left some lawmakers unconvinced of Russia's sincerity in striving for an adjustment of differences.

Senator Connally (D-Tex.), former chairman of the foreign relations committee, said "it's a very sensible thing." A veteran of several international conferences, the Texan said he is "very hopeful" for an improvement in relations between the two great powers.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), present chairman of the committee, reserve comment on the development, but House Speaker Martin (R-Mass.), told a reporter: "I think every effort should be made to reach a rapprochement between the two countries. I'm glad to see it's being done."

Senator George of Georgia, a high ranking Democratic member of the foreign relations committee, termed the Moscow announcement "just a lot of double talk." He said he did not have "much confidence" that the development will lead to better relations between the U.S. and the Soviets.

And Rep. Judd (R-Minn.), a member of the house foreign affairs committee, looked on the Soviets' handling of the matter as "another clever move in the Russians' diplomatic warfare."

"They're seizing on an opportunity to get a play in the world that they are after peace and we are after war," Judd said. "What the Russians are afraid of is our 70-group air force. They are grasping the first opportunity to discredit our arming program."

Judd said that Josef Stalin "long ago laid down the tenet that sincerity in diplomacy is no more possible than dry water."

Senator McMahon (D-Conn.) said that if Russia and the U.S. could only get together on effective control of atomic energy, "everything else can be settled relatively easily."

Goodwin Presents Plea to Board of Education

APPEARING BEFORE THE STATE BOARD of education yesterday at Vinton to plea for the removal of the board's ban on use of university facilities for speeches by avowed political candidates was James P. Houghton Jr., member of the board. In foreground is William G. Noth, another board member.

Parliament Elects Einaudi President Of Italian Republic

ROME (AP)—Parliament elected last night as first president of the Italian republic 74-year-old Luigi Einaudi, a banker.

Einaudi, vice premier in the government of Premier Alcide De Gasperi and director of the budget, is an opponent of Communism. He accepted the post with these words:

"I can only reply with an old phrase 'vox populi.' Parliament is the voice of the people. The voice of the people is the voice of God. Let God's will be accomplished."

His term is for seven years. An aide said last night that he will designate De Gasperi as premier to form a new cabinet. The request will be formally made today, the aide said, immediately after De Gasperi resigns his present ministry.

Einaudi's election came on the fourth ballot at a joint session of the senate and chamber of deputies. He received 518 of 871 votes cast, 67 more than the required 451 majority.

Jews Claim Capture Of Arab Main Base

JERUSALEM (AP)—The Jewish army said yesterday its fighters had captured Beit Mahsir, main base for Arab forces in the battle for control of the vital Jerusalem-Tel Aviv highway.

The Arabs launched a counter-attack in Bab El Wad gorge, through which the highway winds. Beit Mahsir is near Bab El Wad, scene of repeated bloody Arab-Jewish clashes.

(An Arab army communique issued in Damascus said Arab fighters had surrounded 4,000 Jewish soldiers at Bab El Wad and had them under artillery fire. "All Jewish attacks directed toward releasing them have been unsuccessful," the communique added.)

The Jews said they were not only trying to secure the Jerusalem-Tel Aviv road but a belt of the Judean mountain terrain five miles deep on either side.

Jerusalem-Tel Aviv highway is indicated on map above by arrow.

Board Defers Action on Ban Of Political Speeches at SUI

VINTON—The state board of education yesterday deferred until June 29 consideration of availing SUI facilities for political speeches by avowed political candidates.

Three SUI campus political groups and an Iowa City veterans' organization sent delegations here yesterday to seek revision of the board's policy.

Instead, the board deferred action on the matter until its next meeting, June 29, at Iowa State Teachers college in Cedar Falls.

Largest delegation was from the Young Republican league. It include James Goodwin, John Loughlin, Robert Tyson and George Williams.

Mrs. Mildred Kalish and Bernard Yadoff represented the Johnson county chapter of the American Veterans' committee.

David Cofing spoke for Students for Wallace and Phil Nordland for the Young Democrats club.

All the students appearing before the board agreed that: (1) Any candidate for public office should be allowed to speak in a university building if invited and sponsored by a recognized campus political organization.

(2) Sponsoring organizations should defray any expenses thus involved.

(3) Such political speeches would have a definite and necessary educational value.

Board Chairman Henry Shull read to the board a resolution passed Monday night by the SUI chapter of the American Association of University Professors concerning the issue.

The AAUP resolved that the board modify its ruling, after study of the matter "in time to become effective by the beginning of the next academic year."

Shull also read a telegram from Eidon Kelly, president of the Cedar Falls chapter of Students for Democratic Action, requesting "that the state institutions of higher learning be open to speeches by any political candidates able to gain sponsorship for their appearances by officially recognized campus organizations.

Chief concerns of the board members, and questions they asked all the students appearing, were the following:

(1) Would the selection of political speakers by campus organizations be any better than, or different from, the policy now exercised by the board?

(2) Would campus organizations be discriminating against some candidates if they didn't invite all to speak?

(3) Do political speeches contain enough educational value to warrant their delivery in state educational institution buildings? Board members were cordial and attentive to all the students appearing before them.

The board's building and business committee will meet in Iowa City May 20 to call for bids on construction of the new SUI library.

Wallace Asks Cold War End

NEW YORK (AP) — Henry A. Wallace last night addressed an "open letter" to Premier Stalin, urging immediate action by Russia and the United States to end the cold war and insure a "century of peace."

He proposed, among other things, that the two major world powers initiate a general armaments reduction and outlaw all methods of mass destruction.

The letter was released at a Madison Square Garden rally addressed by the third party presidential candidate and his running mate, Sen. Glen Taylor (D-Idaho).

Wallace said "the whole world was heartened" by the notes of U.S. Ambassador Bedell Smith and Foreign Minister Molotov disclosed early yesterday.

"There is no misunderstanding or difficulty between the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R. which can be settled by force or fear and there is no difference which cannot be settled by peaceful, hopeful negotiation," the letter said.

Wallace included much of the letter in his speech, which was broadcast over the NBC network. Tickets cost as much as $4 each.

Wallace also called for speedy peace settlements with Germany and Japan and withdrawal of occupation troops within a year, withdrawal of U.S. and U.S.S.R. troops from China and Korea and establishment of a government for all of Korea, and pledges by America and Russia that they have no designs on the territorial integrity of any other nation.

Injury Jinx Plagues Major Leaguers

Giants Hit; Cooper To Miss 2 Months

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball's injury list is beginning to read like a disaster casualty report with almost as many men on the bench as on the playing field.

The New York Giants, battling for the National league lead, must face the next couple of months without Walker Cooper, their hard-hitting catcher. Big Coop chipped a knee bone in a home plate collision on the second day of the season. Latest reports indicate that an operation is necessary.

The Detroit Tigers, received a staggering blow when Third Baseman George Kell, their top hitter, suffered a fractured right wrist when hit by a pitched ball last Saturday. He is expected to be out for about four weeks.

The Cooper injury was just another in a long series of mishaps encountered by first line Giant players. Center fielder Bobby Thomson, Second Baseman Billy Rigney, Shortstop Buddy Kerr, First Baseman Johnny Mize, Pitcher Bobo Newsom, and Utility Infielder Jack Conway all have been sidelined at one time or another because of injuries.

The Brooklyn Dodgers also have been regular visitors to the clinic. Pitcher Harry Taylor, recuperating from an appendicitis operation, will not be available for duty for another three weeks. Rookie First Baseman Preston Ward is nursing a charley horse.

Bruce Edwards, hard working catcher, has been plagued by a sore shoulder. He is back in the lineup, but still complains of pains in his throwing arm. He missed a full week of work. Also back is Shortstop Pee Wee Reese, after sitting out one week with a sprained leg. Pete Reiser is out with a throbbing ankle.

Schoolboy Rowe and Dutch Leonard, mainstays of the Philadelphia Phillies pitching staff, are nursing injuries. Rowe suffered a fractured thumb on his left hand when hit by a line drive and will be out two months. Leonard, hit on the knee, is expected to miss several turns on the mound. The Cincinnati Reds were dealt a rude jolt when Catcher Ray Lamardo broke a leg in a home plate collision. No one knows when he will be ready to resume work. The Reds had an added fright when Ewell Blackwell, their ace right-hander, left the mound during the course of a game last week, complaining of pain in his shoulder. X-rays, however, showed that the injury was merely a pulled muscle. He is expected to take his next pitching turn.

Following is a list of additional players currently out of the lineup, through injury or illness:

New York Yankees—Tommy Henrich, wrenched knee; Phil Rizzuto, pulled leg muscle.

Philadelphia Athletics — Bill Dietrich, sore shoulder.

Chicago White Sox—Don Kolloway, spiked leg; Gerry Scala, sprained back.

St. Louis Browns—Paul Lehner, broken shoulder.

Philadelphia Phillies—Bert Haas, concussion.

Boston Braves—Ed Stanky, fever; Sibby Sisti, spiked knee.

Pittsburgh Pirates—Roman Basgall, damaged leg.

Chicago Cubs—Andy Pafko, sprained wrist, Phil Cavarretta, leg injury; Hank Wyse, sore shoulder.

RICHMOND, IND. (AP)— Catcher Bob Osgood, 19, of the Marion, O., Cubs of the Ohio Indiana baseball league, collapsed and died last night in the dugout. Coroner Henry F. Unser blamed a heart attack.

The youth, who joined the Marion Club last Sunday, was sitting on the bench during a rainstorm which forced postponement of a game with the Richmond Braves.

Hawkeyes' Hurling Big Hope In Series With Wisconsin

In third place in the Western conference race after skinning Minnesota for two wins last weekend, Iowa will bring its fine hurling to bear against Wisconsin for two games at Madison Friday and Saturday. Illinois with a 6-0 card and Michigan with a 7-1 record will also fight it out next weekend for the Big Nine lead. Iowa trails the two leaders with a 4-2 mark.

Jack Bruner, who owns a season's slate of six wins and two losses, spearheads the Hawkeyes' hurling staff. The lefthander has averaged almost one strikeout per frame in the 66 innings he has worked this year, retiring 62 enemies on whiffs. He has given up 19 runs on 36 hits.

Wes Demro, whose five-hitter dropped Minnesota in the recent series, and Dick Hoeksema, impressive lefty, support Bruner on the mound.

Iowa Coach Otto Vogel has warned his squad that the Badger pitching corps in turn deserves respect. He said yesterday that their hurlers are back in fine form for Wisconsin, which has a 3-3 league record.

Iowa's chances of off-setting the Badger arms turn principally on John Tedore, batting .343, Bob Smith, .337 and Bob Primrose, .333. Dale Erickson, who sprang to action with two long triples against Minnesota, follows that trio with .272.

NBL Threatens Court Action Against BAA

CHICAGO (AP)—The wobbly National Basketball league yesterday threatened court action in its fight with the rival Basketball Association of America over four boiling clubs.

At the same time, the NBL announced it had issued a franchise to a Detroit syndicate associated with "Forum, Inc."

New NBL president, Leo Ferris, said the legal action would be based upon a resolution passed last month in which all National leagues concurred—including Minneapolis, Rochester, Indianapolis and Fort Wayne, Ind., which Monday jumped to the BAA.

The resolution, Ferris said, provided that if any club withdrew without league permission, its players would become league property.

Once the four jumping clubs begin BAA competition, Ferris said, the NBL would seek an injunction against their players, claiming ownership of their contracts.

Most prized individual performer among the players who presumably will move with their clubs into the BAA is big George Mikan of the Minneapolis Lakers, who broke all National scoring records last season.

Owner Max Winter of the Lakers said yesterday Mikan had signed a 1948-49 contract for a undisclosed salary, presumably between $12,000 and $15,000. Mikan could not be reached for comment, but his lawyer said it was news to him.

The BAA and particularly the four clubs which switched allegiance greeted Ferris' threats indignantly.

The BAA adjourned its meeting late last night after the day's hectic developments, but the NBL continued in session yesterday. It elected Ferris president to succeed Paul Walk of Indianapolis, who resigned, and named Dottie Moore

Keltner Gets Tenth Homer

NEW YORK (AP)—Allie Reynolds halted the high-flying Cleveland Indians yesterday, snapping their five game win streak with a 4-1 victory for the New York Yankees. It was Reynolds' fifth straight success in an unbeaten season.

Reynolds, although nicked for nine hits, including Ken Keltner's 10th homer in the fourth inning, held his former mates in control most of the afternoon. Charley Keller, making a fine comeback, was his biggest booster with two doubles and a single.

In the second, seventh and eighth, the Tribe had two men on base but could not get to Reynolds for the big hit they needed.

Bob Lemon, the most consistent winner on the Cleveland staff, yielded all the runs before he was lifted for a pinch hitter in the seventh.

Phils Tackle Reds, Move Into 4th Place

CINCINNATI (AP)—Hitting at opportune times, the Philadelphia Phillies yesterday defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 4 to 3, and moved into fourth place in the National league pennant race.

The victory went to Ed Heusser, who in 4 1-3 innings allowed only two hits. Defeat rested on the sloping shoulders of Old Timer Bucky Walters, who was trying for his 199th win in big time.

Del Ennis, with a home run, two doubles and a single, was the batting star for the winners. The loss shoved the Reds deeper into the league cellar and marked the Phils' third consecutive win here.

Iowa Golfers Rebound to Thump Indiana

CEDAR RAPIDS, IA. (AP)—Iowa's golf team, rebounding from Monday's loss to Minnesota, defeated Indiana, 2 1/2 to 4 1/2, on the Country club course here yesterday.

Skip Carlson of the Hawkeyes hit 73 for the low score in the singles matches.

Low-ball doubles scores: Bob Cleland-Bill Hoke, Indiana, defeated Skip Carlson-John Campbell, 2 1/2 to 1 1/2. (77), Iowa, defeated Staats (83), 2-0. (77), Iowa, defeated Staats (83), 2-0. Bloomquist (76), Iowa, defeated Hoke (81).

Red Sox Break Losing Streak

BOSTON (AP)—Aided by two home runs by Vern Stephens and one by Bobby Doerr the Boston Red Sox yesterday blanked the Chicago White Sox, 8-0, behind the six single pitching of handsome Jack Kramer against whom only one enemy base runner advanced as far as second.

Stephens treated Starter Glen Moulder like a batting practice pitcher, leading off the second inning with a home run high into the screen atop the left field wall and duplicating the stunt in the third inning.

Bobby Doerr followed the example set by Stephens in the second inning when he too punched a drive into the same netting.

Boston Manager Joe McCarthy changed his lineup in an effort to put some thump into the local Hose who had lost five in a row. Stan Spence, who has been a first baseman all season, was sent to right field and Jake Jones played first.

The loss was the seventh in succession for Chicago's Sox.

Mackmen Trip Browns, 3-2

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Fred Sanford walked Pete Suder to force Ferris Fain home with an eleventh inning run last night to give the Philadelphia Athletics a 3-2 victory over the St. Louis Browns and undisputed possession of the American league's first place before a crowd of 22,565.

Sam Chapman sent the game into extra frames with a homer after two were out in the ninth. Phil Marchildon's wild throw over first gave the Browns their two runs in the eighth.

In chalking up their ninth straight win, the Athletics apparently had the game won after scoring a run in the third with Marchildon mowing the Browns down regularly.

But in the eighth, Marchildon walked Joe Schultz and Pete Layden ran for the St. Louis catcher. Bob Dillinger came through with a single. On Char-

22 Prominent Iowans Urge Formation of World Government

Twenty-two Iowans—including Iowa City chamber of commerce President Robert H. Lind—yesterday called for congressional action to form a federal world government.

In a statement sent to Rep. Charles A. Eaton, R-N. J., chairman of the house foreign affairs committee, the group urged "a favorable report" by that committee on house concurrent resolutions 59-68.

These resolutions call for an immediate United Nations conference "for the purpose of making the United Nations capable of enacting, interpreting and enforcing world law to prevent war."

The foreign affairs committee began hearings May 4 on these and other resolutions for revising the United Nations.

Testimony so far on the resolutions has been largely by opponents of UN charter change and by congressmen who support the ABC plan for partial revision of the UN.

Witnesses in support of the concurrent resolutions appeared for the first time before the house committee yesterday.

Interpreting the group's statement to Eaton, David M. Stanley, president of the state branch of United World Federalists, said:

"The Iowans who signed the statement urged formation of a strong world federation with power to make and enforce all laws necessary to maintain peace, and to enforce such laws directly upon individual citizens.

"Their proposal thus goes much farther than the recently proposed ABC plan, which calls only for elimination of the UN veto power and establishment of a small UN military force."

"Only a thorough transformation of the UN into a world government can guarantee peace," he added.

Besides Lind, others who signed the statement were Robert M. Blakely, editorial writer for Des Moines Register and Tribune; Robert Buckmaster, Waterloo city attorney; the Rev. Mr. Grant A. Butler, Des Moines, minister of First Unitarian church; David Dentan, assistant managing editor of the Waterloo Courier; Elmo Ferguson, mayor of Muscatine.

Bishop Elwood Haines of the Episcopal Diocese of Iowa; Cecil E. Hinshaw, president of William Penn college, Oskaloosa; Don E. Hutchings, president of the Des Moines Junior chamber of commerce.

Frank Miles, Des Moines, state education chairman for Veterans of Foreign Wars; Harlan Miller, columnist for Des Moines Register; Alice Myers, Des Moines, president of the Iowa Association for Adult Education.

Frank T. Nye, associate editor of Cedar Rapids Gazette; George Olmsted, chairman of board, Hawkeye Casualty company, Des Moines; J. C. Pryor, Burlington, vice-president of Mississippi Valley Savings and Loan association; Mrs. James S. Schramm, Burlington, citizenship chairman of Iowa League of Women Voters.

Forrest W. Seymour, editor of editorial pages, Des Moines Register and Tribune; Forrest B. Spaulding, librarian, Des Moines public library; C. M. Stanley, senior partner of Stanley Engineering company, Muscatine.

Mrs. C. M. Strawman, president, second district federation of Republican Women's clubs; Rabbi Irving J. Weingart of Tifereth Israel Synagogue, Des Moines, and Matthew Westrate, judge, seventh judicial district of Iowa.

To Question Students on Core Courses

How valuable are the core courses? What is good or wrong about them? How can they be improved?

To get the answers to these and other queries, the college of liberal arts and the student council are mailing a three-page questionnaire on core courses to 1,000 liberal arts students, Dean Earl J. McGrath said yesterday.

Those questioned, he added, will provide a cross section of the 6,000 liberal arts students. They will represent all majors, all departments and all classes.

The questionnaire was made up by the liberal art general education committee with the aid of Prof. E. F. Lindquist of the education department, Prof. N. C. Meier of psychology department and Student Council members.

"There has been widespread comment among the student body on core courses," Evan Hultman, council president said. "This questionnaire will give students a chance to make their voices heard."

McGrath urged that "students receiving the questionnaire should give it serious thought and be as objective as possible in answering it."

Committees are working on the core courses, McGrath added, and will study the answers. As they will want to use the replies before the school year ends, he asked that questionnaires be returned to his office in Schaefer hall by Monday, May 17.

McGrath asked that the information "be your own opinion and not the collective opinions of others." The questionnaire, he said, will be distributed widely enough to get replies from a cross section.

Questions include:

1. How much of the course duplicates high school studies?
2. How difficult was the course?
3. How much teaching ability and knowledge did the teaching staff have?
4. What has the course "given you of lasting value?"
5. What over-all changes would most improve the present core course system?
6. Does the program "make sense in helping prepare the student for life?"

Regional Governor Outlines Kiwanis Objectives for 1948

Emmett C. Murphy, Omaha, regional governor of the Iowa and Nebraska Kiwanis, outlined seven objectives of Kiwanis clubs for 1948 at a luncheon yesterday in Hotel Jefferson.

1. Promote world peace. "This can be done," he said, "through international understanding and preparedness adequate enough to preserve free government."
  2. Proclaim friendship of Canada and the United States as an outstanding example of good will.
  3. Develop and form public opinion to combat opinions opposed to democratic principles.
  4. Aid in conserving America's natural resources.
  5. Promote understanding and cooperation between labor and management.
  6. Build better communities.
  7. Strengthen such institutions as the home, church and school.

$1,500 to $2,000 FOR SUMMER WORK

Canvassing among Farmers: $8 per diem guaranteed PLUS Liberal Commissions and Special Bonuses.

A well-known firm, producers of hybrid seed corn, is looking for men who really need money for the next school year; married veterans preferred. Canvassing is not necessary, as this is a simple canvassing job that calls principally for serious purpose, determination, and reliability in following orders and working steadily, 6 days a week.

The employer will pay a guaranteed salary of $8 a day; plus commissions of $1.25 per bushel for orders taken. Past experience shows that an average man who works steadily and calls at every farm takes orders for 10 or more bushels each day. That volume of orders pays $12.50 a day. Add the $8 guaranteed salary and you have $20.50 for each day's work and no days lost through bad weather or shortages of material as happens on so many vacation jobs.

The minimum working season is 12 weeks; a week is 6 days. Work will start in June, after a 2 or 3 day's training for which you are paid. Each canvasser will be given an exclusive territory, as close to his home as possible. Earnings above the $8 a day guarantee will be in proportion to the hours worked as no particular "salesmanship" is necessary; just steady, regular work.

Men with farm experience or who live in farming communities will, perhaps, do better; but the principal qualification is willingness to work reliably and to follow simple instructions without close supervision.

If you are really anxious to make good money and ready to put in at least 12 weeks during the season; write for application forms to BROWNSON ADVERTISING, INC., 1128 - Metropolitan Life Building, Minneapolis, Minn.

Bruce Hughes Receives $1,000 Award

Honor Iowan Editor For Editorial Stand On Cooper Incident

NEW YORK (AP) — R. Bruce Hughes, 22-year-old editor of the Daily Iowan, yesterday received the first annual $1,000 award of Friends of Democracy, Inc.

Hughes received the award from Norman Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review of Literature, at the organization's annual dinner in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

Speakers at the dinner included Elmer Davis, winner of the 1948 Peabody award and former chief of the office of war information; Louis Nizer, author of the best-seller "Between You and Me"; Merle Miller, associate editor of Harper's magazine and former Daily Iowan city editor, and Dr. Leon M. Birkhead, national director of Friends of Democracy.

The organization's citation to the youthful Iowan editor said that with the help of Cousins he "uncovered a story of brutal racial intolerance in Iowa City."

"Instead of being threatened by vigilante mobs, Hughes found himself a local hero. As a result of his bold journalistic efforts, there has been better understanding between people in Iowa City."

In a series of articles and editorials, Hughes criticized an attack by a student and a youthful Iowa City resident on Elihu Stamm Cooper, a Jewish teacher in a small Jewish school in Iowa City.

The Daily Iowan published 12 articles and six editorials on the attack and generally commented on anti-Semitism in Iowa City. Cousins in the Saturday Review

Campbell Elected President of UWF

The university chapter of United World Federalists last night elected Dave Campbell, Dubuque, president for the coming year. He succeeds Harlan "Bud" Hockenberger, Des Moines.

Others officers elected at the meeting in Iowa Union last night were William Shuttleworth, Cedar Rapids, vice-president; Annette Braverman, Iowa City, secretary, and Robert Kramer, White Plains, N.Y., treasurer.

Following the election, the group discussed whether to place the organization's emphasis on political action or education during the coming year.

Recalling an announcement made at a meeting last week by Jean Leu, state executive secretary of UWF, that the words "political action" cannot be used in UWF literature, Hockenberger advised the new officers, "I wouldn't let that stop you."

Miss Leu told the chapter last week that the national organization faces the risk of losing tax exemption if the words "political action" are used.

Hockenberger suggested the local group pattern its activities on the methods used at the University of Chicago's UWF chapter. There, he said, they have been taking stands on political issues without regard to national UWF policy.

Plan 'New Deal' Orientation

Freshmen and transfer students entering SUI next fall will be given a "New Deal" the Student council committee on orientation announced yesterday.

Although plans are not yet final, mass meetings, literature, and personal contacts all are scheduled for use in orienting new students to university life, according to committee members, Richard Dice, Jim Packer and Mary Sayre.

First among the committee's activities will be the appointment and training of orientation leaders. These leaders will provide personal contact between upper classmen and the new student, providing him with any help he may need, said Dice.

At a meeting Saturday morning, the orientation committee appointed five students, representative of the men's dormitory and fraternity organizations, to train the men's orientation leaders.

Included in this committee were Fred Stines, Wally Leiding, Dean F. Davis, Wilson Croissant and Ernest Archer.

Two mass meetings, one each for men and women, will be held during orientation week, at which the students will be placed in groups of about 20, Dice said. Each group will be provided with a leader who will instruct them on school activities, traditions and organizations.

Another committee of five was appointed to plan the mass meeting for men. Included in this were Glenn Thomas, Gene Glenn, Burt Faldet, Dave Copeland and George

Mayson Talks Air Racing; Predicts Fast Bendix Race

By MEL SCHINKEL

Between races, Tommy Mayson, two-time money winner in the Bendix air races, and pilot for Paul Mantz Air Services, talks about the next race.

"This year's race promises to be the fastest ever," he predicted. "We are getting all dolled up for it."

Mayson flew Dr. John Crum, University of Iowa alumnus, and his wife, in a Mantz plane from Burbank, Calif., yesterday to attend funeral services for the doctor's father in Tipton.

After 7,000 hours in the air, such a trip for Mayson is just routine. His real thrill comes yearly with the Bendix Trophy race, a speed event from Van Nuys, Calif. to Cleveland, Ohio.

Paul Mantz and Mayson have flown P-51's in the race for the last two years. Mantz won first place both times. Mayson placed third the first year and sixth last year. He had engine trouble in each race.

"Sponsored by Texas oil men, we plan to enter three P-51's this year," he said. Mantz, Mayson and a Texas pilot will fly them.

"Each year we have 'souped up' the P-51's a little more, and so far we've been successful," grinned the young airman who began flying in 1936.

"Mantz's 460 miles an hour last year will not be fast enough this time," he continued. "We expect to average 475 to 480 miles an hour next September."

This year all types of aircraft may enter the contest, including foreign planes. "They say the French and English planes are supposed to be faster; this year we'll see," the former air transport command pilot added.

Speaking with a southern accent, Mayson said he left Atlanta, Ga., to enter the ATC at the outbreak of the war. After flying many types of aircraft all over the country, he was finally based at Long Beach, Calif. There, he began flying for Mantz.

The Mantz Air service is the largest chartering firm in the United States, chartering every kind of aircraft from DC-4's to Cubs, he said.

In 1946 Mantz bought 475 planes from army surplus that cost $117,000,000 to build. At that time Mantz owned a total of 509 planes which made him the "seventh largest air power in the world."

We do 95 percent of all the movie flying, Mayson said. "Mantz prefers to do the stunt work himself. I do the other movie flying." Rental charges for the movies vary from $100 to $1,000 a day.

The latest enterprise of the Paul Mantz Air services is rainmaking. With two Thompson brothers, Mantz has formed a corporation called Weath-AIR incorporated. The Thompson brothers, former servicemen, have a new rainmaking idea and have gathered experimental data from the General Electric laboratories, Mayson said.

Weath-AIR incorporated plans to begin rainmaking experiments in Arizona this summer. The rain is expected to benefit the ranchers in the country around Phoenix and Flagstaff.

A B-25, an A-20 and a TBM have been designed into special rainmaking planes. They will distribute several products to form the nuclei of the rain drops, including silver iodide, dry ice and plain water, Mayson added.

No Time for Mere Sighing

Well, we Americans heaved another sigh of relief yesterday when the railroad strike was called off. This business of sighing relievedly seems to be getting to be a habit.

Two years ago we sighed when the railroad strike of that year was settled. Twice we have sighed when John L. Lewis agreed to send his men back to the mines. And now we are holding our breath again awaiting the outcome of the meatpackers' strike. Yes, it seems to be getting to be a habit.

But it is something like the sighing of the victim of severe gastric disturbances. He feels so good after the pain of each attack passes that he doesn't try to get at the cause of the pains. Often such pains are the result of over-indulgence, of greed.

Our pains, like his, are caused by severe internal pressures resulting from reluctant management and insistent labor, or vice versa, however you may look at it; from over-indulgence, from greed, from a desire to get while the getting is good. We go along suffering from these pains, sighing with relief after they have passed, without getting at the cause of the trouble.

There is a political-geometrical rule which says that the health and well-being of the body politic as a whole is of greater importance than the sum of its parts—the public welfare of a nation is more important than the welfare of any or all of the individuals or groups which make up that nation.

We can't go on, wincing from the pain caused by these internal pressures, even though it is so wonderful to be able to sigh with relief when the attacks have passed. We must do something about the cause of the attacks before it is too late, before the only remaining cure may kill us.

Removing the cause of our pains may require drastic measures, such as a change in our system of government, may even require (say this quietly) socialization of our basic industries so that they would be operated for the public welfare, not for individual gain. As we said, these are considered drastic measures and we would shy away from them, as the victim of a gastric disturbance shies away from an operation.

There is, however, another method, one which the victim himself could use. It involves abstinence from over-indulgence, being less greedy. We Americans, individually and collectively, can try this method.

Labor could stop demanding higher wages and threatening to strike when their demands are not met. Management could stop demanding greater profits, stop increasing prices when profits are not as large as expected. As individuals, we could stop adding to these internal pressures, could be a little less greedy, could stop buying for the sake of buying, stop getting while the getting is good.

Admittedly, it may not work. However, it's better than merely waiting fearfully for each attack and doing nothing but sighing relievedly when it passes.

It's something to do until the doctor comes.

Bogota: Green Dollars, Not Red Riots

Two much emphasis has been placed upon the Bogota revolution and not enough upon the economic implications of the ninth inter-American conference.

Discounting Communists and other political implications and turning to the economics of Bogota, the picture is not rosy.

Since the end of the war, Latin America has felt neglected by its big brother, the United States. Despite assurances that she would share in the Marshall plan wealth by providing resources and goods, Latin America is still agitating for a "Little Marshall plan" for the western hemisphere.

All talk of business at the Rio conference last fall was pushed off by the United States until Bogota. Now that Bogota is history, it is apparent that the hemisphere is no longer "one big happy family."

The grounds for agreement between the United States and Latin America are there—Latin America needs dollars, always has; the U.S., now rushing to rearm, needs Latin American resources, military support and a "united front" to show the world.

During the war, Latin America provided all the quartz and much of the tin used in U.S. munitions. It also was a constant and abundant source of mercury, tungsten, copper, platinum, nitrates, quinine, petroleum, fibers and food.

In another war, with the prospect of much of the eastern hemisphere closed to the United States, Latin America's strategic importance increases.

For reasons such as these, America went to Bogota prepared to talk business. But we found the Latinos whistling a different tune. Economically, the conference got nowhere.

American idea was to remove Latin American barriers to private capital. We assumed that if U.S. capital could make a fair profit and could receive fair treatment, it would solve the hemisphere's industrial development problems.

We were prepared to offer

Impossible Inevitability

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

Ed took an early train into town. There was only one seat and, of course, it was beside Martin, his partner in many quarrels.

"Hi, Ed," said Martin. "Hello," said Ed. He lifted his paper to reading position. But it was a gesture which had no magic with Martin.

"Well, Ed, I guess we better face it," said Martin. "No use being an optimist. I think war is inevitable."

Ed put the paper down. "I remember you said to me a couple of years ago in this same train that war was impossible," he said.

"Did I say that?" asked Martin. "I guess that's one of the shortest distances in nature," said Ed, "between the impossible and the inevitable."

"Yup," said Martin sourly, perhaps thinking back to previous talks in the same train, even in the same seat.

"What do you think of chances for a recession?" asked Ed, mostly to change the subject.

"Oh, impossible," said Martin. "I hope you don't mean inevitable," said Ed, and Martin glared at him.

They fell into a silence, not unnatural. It struck Ed how very strange it was that what had seemed impossible three years ago, war, should seem, at least to some men, inevitable. It was like skipping lightly from the south pole to the north pole.

Maybe that was one of the rhythms in nature, he thought. When you were a small boy, you thought it was impossible that you would ever grow up to be a man, free and independent; and yet it wasn't at all impossible, it was, indeed, inevitable.

Martin stirred in his seat, and returned with renewed cheerfulness to the attack.

"How's that peace movement of yours going, Ed?" he asked. "Pretty well," said Ed. "There are a lot of people interested in peace."

"Think they can stop a war?" asked Martin, with something like a giggle. "Impossible."

There was that word again. So it was impossible for peace to win out? Maybe it was really inevitable. Ed suddenly felt a sharp lifting of the spirit. Those big, raw words like "impossible" and "inevitable" were very close; and maybe when some of the blowhards used one of them they really meant, in fear, or desire, or something, to imply the other.

Ed sneaked a glance at Martin. Maybe when Martin had said a few years ago, that good relations with a country like Communist Russia were inevitable, he had really believed they would prove impossible, and had used the other word to cover the hidden thought; and now, when he said that good relations were impossible he was perhaps secretly afraid they might be inevitable.

He reached over and shook a surprised Martin's hand warmly as the train pulled into the station. "It was awfully nice to see you this morning, Martin," he said. "It was a real pleasure to talk to you."

Wallace Is Not 'Left,' Just Middle-of-the-Road

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:

The letter published in the Iowan on May 7, taking issue with the Iowan's editorial stand on Wallace aptly points out some of the fallacies of the ADA—anti-Wallace—"liberal" approach.

I would like to extend the observations of that letter and indicate more generally and historically the errors and dangers of the "Communist" name-calling attitude toward Wallace and the third party movement.

To begin with, I will state the proposition that Henry Wallace is not only far-removed from Communist ideology, but actually, in the light of world events, is not even "left."

In Europe, socialist doctrines, of course, came on the scene with Karl Marx himself, and became the sole heir to the left political movements in the eighties or thereabouts.

After 1918; and most certainly since 1945, paternalistic capitalism, Tory democracy, liberalism as expressions of reform had departed, and various working class ideologies represented the new "progressive" thought. These left movements were organized in the western democracies around the general pattern of social-democracy.

America, however, did not undergo a change in the structure of left political opinion. As the post-war period, depression and finally World War II and the present postwar years came, the idea of a political left within the framework of capitalism remained.

This left movement had firm foundations in America. It created its platform in American history both around the highly organized western and southern sectional interests and the much weaker eastern working-class viewpoint.

Alone and together, these elements of the American left found no argument with capitalism but implied, rather, a theory of progress and reform within the "free enterprise" system.

Henry Wallace, today, continues that chain of capitalistic reform. He traces more direct descent than

Doing Something About Prejudice

(The following article was written by Dr. Julius Schreiber, a practicing psychiatrist in New York who has done much research on the subject of prejudice, and appeared in the February, 1948, issue of Survey Graphic. This is the fifth installment—The Editor.)

An anti-prejudice action program is worthless unless it is guided by facts and theories discovered and developed by scientific research. Typical of the hundreds of questions being studied today are these:

Why is the particular minority group selected as the target by the prejudiced individual?

What (if anything) is there about the selected victim that evokes or stimulates the prejudice?

What kinds of information and experiences cause or change prejudices?

What is the relative effectiveness of the various media of communication and methods of education in the reduction of prejudice?

How may an understanding of the dynamics of prejudice be applied to an understanding of international tensions?

Education is an extremely important weapon.

But what will presentation of the facts do to the demagogue? Not much—except, perhaps, enrage him. It may, however, inhibit him somewhat, since the spread of factual information can create serious obstacles for his propaganda steamroller.

As to the prejudiced individual, we have already pointed out that he has a need for his prejudices. However, the strength with which a prejudice is held varies considerably.

Prejudiced individuals do relinquish their prejudices—it happens every day! In the majority of such instances, this is not due to the presentation of the facts, alone, but rather to developments deriving from such education—improved local mores, progressive legislation, alleviation of social, economic, and political pressures, participation on a positive basis with individuals against whom prejudices exist, attainment of a more satisfactory way of discharging frustration—aggression.

Needless to say, education is of prime importance in the prevention of prejudice in children and in non-prejudiced adults.

Here the excellent programs of intercultural education play a significant role.

But all such education should include "what to do about it"—an action program. Further, intercultural education in our schools requires non-prejudiced teachers, professionally competent to give such training.

It must be a natural part of the over-all curriculum and not a special course stuck into the catalogue. Nor should such education be limited to the school. It is a task for the entire community, in which parents, clergymen, press, radio, theater, movies must all play their parts. What does education do for the victims of prejudice and for the anti-prejudice individuals?

It provides them with factual information and thereby enriches their armament for counterattack. Education can also help the victim to accept himself and identify himself with his group. Self-esteem and self-respect are essential to counteract the self-pity and self-hate which so many victims develop.

Mayor Koser Urges Support For City-Wide Anti-Fly Drive

By JAY HORNING

Mayor Preston Koser issued a proclamation yesterday setting aside the period from May 17 to 24 "for the purpose of concentrated community-wide anti-fly program."

During this period, a city-wide publicity effort aimed to arouse interest in the anti-fly campaign will be launched, according to Mrs. Marvin Miller, chairman of the program's publicity and education committee.

The mayor's proclamation called attention to the fact that "DDT compounds now provide a practical means for effectively controlling and eventually eliminating the threat of disease-bearing flies to personal and public health."

"I strongly urge the active participation of every householder, every keeper of a commercial place of business, and every operator of an industrial plant to do his part by assuming the responsibility for placing his own premises under treatment with DDT," the mayor's proclamation read.

The mayor also asked that the effort to eradicate flies be continued throughout the summer months "so that the full benefits of the campaign may be realized."

In connection with the publicity campaign, Mrs. Miller said that "Fight the Fly" posters will be placed on display today and announcements pertinent to the campaign will be made from a sound truck which will tour residential districts today and Saturday.

Local theaters and radio stations will cooperate by showing slides and broadcasting spot announcements advertising the program. Business establishments will have window displays in connection with the campaign.

At 12:45 p.m. Saturday, Dr. Kenneth MacDonald, assistant professor of hygiene and preventative medicine, will broadcast a 15-minute program over WSUI during which he will answer questions pertaining to the "fly menace." Housewives are invited to submit questions for the program.

The downtown attack on flies is scheduled for Sunday, May 23. Eighty-five food-handling establishments and 16 alleys will be sprayed with a 5 percent DDT emulsion.

The residential aspect of the anti-fly campaign is being emphasized this year because it is believed that ineffective control in those sections hampers eradication in downtown areas.

The committee is asking homeowners to join in the campaign by painting and spraying window screens and garbage cans with DDT. DDT painting procedure outlines will be distributed at local grocery stores.

Saga of the Sea Bottom Falls Out of Things for Trio

The whole bottom fell out of things for three Iowa Citizens Monday night.

Here's what happened according to the police:

The trio took a rowboat minus the owner's permission and glided toward the middle of the Iowa river below the dam. Then it happened.

The boat bottom fell out, down went the boat, in went the fellows and away drifted the oars.

The soaked boatsmen swam to shore, built a fire, and were drying their clothes when police arrived.

Two of the three men are charged by police with malicious mischief. They are Glen Tuttle, Route 5, and George Abbot, 1208 S. Linn street. They will appear before Judge Emil G. Trott in police court this afternoon.

Police did not say what would happen to a 16-year-old youth, the third member of the party. Elmer Poggenpohl, 229 S. Madison street, the boat owner, said the trio broke the boat lock before shoving off up river.

Six Arraigned in County Court; 4 Fined $300 Each for Driving While Intoxicated

Six men were arraigned in Johnson county district court yesterday.

Clifford W. Karr, 37, Wellman; William G. Hauser, 39, 1027 Sheridan avenue; William J. Mahoney, 23, West Liberty; and Cletus Reilly, 23, 12 W. Court street, each paid $300 fines after pleading guilty to charges of operating motor vehicles while intoxicated.

Seymour Plummer, 65, Manchester, pleaded guilty to charges of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated. His case was continued for sentence until such time as the court may decide. He was released on bail bond.

E. M. Walters, charged with two counts of forgery requested a continuance for time to plead which was granted by Judge Harold D. Evans who presided at the arraignments. Walters said he desired council but was without funds to employ one. Evans appointed A. C. Cahill to represent him.

Evans suspended the drivers licenses and cancelled the liquor books belonging to the four men fined for operating motor vehicles while intoxicated.

Karr was charged in an indictment returned by the grand jury for the May term of court with operating a motor vehicle while
