Fire Damages Hills Gas Station

CHEMICAL FOAM, MUD AND WATER were needed to put out a gasoline fire at a Hills service station yesterday afternoon. Firemen from Hills, Riverside, Lone Tree and Iowa City fought the blaze over an hour. A short in an electric gas pump (right) was believed to have started the fire. Glenn Simpson, station owner, made no estimate of building damage but said 1,000 gallons of ethyl gasoline were destroyed. (Daily Iowan Photo by Bill Miller)

National — Price Support Bill Approved

Congress Expected To Pass Permanent Program This Summer

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new permanent program for government support of farm prices was approved 8 to 0 by the senate agriculture committee yesterday.

The committee thus jumped in ahead of President Truman, who is planning a farm message to congress this week.

Senator Aiken (R-Vt.), principal author of the bill, said he expects congress to pass it before the summer recess.

The bill is designed to provide for government support of the prices of basic agricultural commodities at 75 percent of parity when there is a normal supply.

The support price would range from 60 to 90 percent of parity as the supply of any commodity varied from 130 to 70 percent of normal.

Parity is a price calculated to maintain an equitable relationship between the prices of the things the farmer sells and those he buys.

The bill which the committee approved adopts the 1909 to 1914 base period now in most common use but adjusts it to the price levels of the most recent ten years.

Aiken said the committee decided not to revise the parity formula to include the cost of farm labor.

The basic crops which would be supported on a sliding scale between 60 and 90 percent of parity are corn, wheat, cotton, rice, peanuts and tobacco.

The bill also provides that wool shall be supported at a level which would assure the annual production of 380-million pounds, so long as the figure does not exceed 90 percent of parity.

Says Million Men Needed for Services

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senate was told yesterday that regular and reserve forces of the armed services will need 1,689,000 new men during the next year.

The manpower estimate was made in a formal report from the senate armed services committee when it filed its new draft bill with the senate.

Chairman Gurney (R-S.D.) said this total is needed both to increase the regular forces and reserves, and to replace men now serving who will drop out during the next 12 months.

New enlistments have been less than the number of men quitting the armed forces, despite President Truman's pleas for strengthened defenses, the senate was told.

The 70-group air force bill, passed Tuesday by both house and senate, still waited President Truman's signature. The air force marked time, but was ready with new orders for modern jet planes once the President's signature made the measure final.

The controversial race segregation issue loomed as a stumbling block to senate passage of the new draft bill.

Faulty Uppers Cause Only Temporary Stop

WASHINGTON (AP)—The gentleman from Pennsylvania really got his teeth into the subject.

Rep. Graham (R-Penn.), was telling the house why he favored legislation to force executive departments to bare their secret records before congressional committees.

Suddenly, he sputtered — and stopped. "Darn these teeth," he said with a laugh.

It developed that he was speaking without his "lowers." And he couldn't keep his uppers in place. While the house roared, Graham reached into his pocket, pulled out his lowers—and hitched them in to place.

Then he swung back to his subject.

Hieroglyphics No Puzzle to Her

LILLY, PA. (AP)—Seven-year-old Antoninette Nodolski, pig-tailed and cute, has fun writing left-handed and backwards—but it's a headache for her teacher.

"Toni" preferred her left hand from the start, despite the best efforts of her parents to the contrary—even to crossing herself with her left hand at mass.

But her father, Anthony Nodolski, was floored when he saw her write some odd-looking hieroglyphics. Then he noticed they were merely backwards and could be read with a mirror! The words seemed just right to Toni. She could read them upside down just as easily.

A Pittsburgh expert said yesterday such cases can be cured within one to two years.

Labor — Auto, Rail and Phone Scenes 75,000 Car Workers Quit Chrysler Plants

DETROIT (AP)—Chrysler's 75,000 CIO employees laid down their tools yesterday in the first major automobile strike since 1945.

The walkout, stemming from a demand for a third round of post-war wage increases, posed an immediate test of Michigan's new labor law.

It was estimated that the strike would cost the CIO united auto workers $800,000 a day in wages and the corporation 5,000 cars and trucks a day.

The union sought a raise of 30 cents an hour but cut that demand to 17 cents only 12 hours before the strike. Chrysler's best offer was six cents. The pre-strike average was about $1.50 an hour.

The strikers were disciplined, quiet and effective. Within an hour after the 8 a. m. (CST) deadline every one of Chrysler's 12 Michigan plants was down. There are three others in Indiana and one in California.

The strike is expected to idle 13,000 Briggs Manufacturing company employees in six plants by the end of the week. Briggs supplies Chrysler with bodies.

Will Test Law Gov. Sigler ordered his state labor mediation board to test the new Bonine-Tripp labor law on the Chrysler strikers. A court complaint against the union is possible.

The law requires a state-conducted strike vote before a walkout. The UAW-CIO ignored it on grounds that Chrysler has plants outside Michigan.

"If the law is constitutional, we might as well find out now," Sigler told newsmen.

No Federal Move There was little chance the federal government would enter the picture as it did in the coal and rail disputes. Officials in Washington said the federal strike injunction power is limited to disputes threatening national "health and safety."

It was the first big strike at Chrysler since 1939. Not since November, 1945, have the auto workers staged a major walkout. They struck General Motors corporation then in a siege that lasted 113 days.

Politics — Oregon's Primary Nears Final Phase

Stassen Arrives for Debate With Dewey On Campaign Issues

PORTLAND (AP)—Oregon's primary election battle neared its final phase yesterday as Harold E. Stassen arrived to compete directly with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey for the state's Republican presidential preference.

Overshadowing their individual campaigning was assurance of a debate between the two before the May 21 election. Aides still were trying to work out a suitable date, with the probability it would be early next week.

Stassen said on his arrival here by plane from Winston-Salem, N. C., that he wanted a public debate, would not be opposed to a series of debates, and thought all issues of the campaign should be discussed.

Dewey's acceptance, however, was for a debate on outlawing communism. Stassen favors outlawing the party in the United States. Dewey does not.

Aides of Dewey also indicated they prefer a debate in a radio station studio or before a small audience. John C. Higgins, the governor's Oregon campaign manager, said debate in an auditorium might take on the aspect of a circus spectacle.

Forrestal 'Potential Hitler,' Says Taylor

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) yesterday wrathfully denounced Senator Taylor (D-Idaho) in the senate after Taylor criticized President Truman and called Secretary of Defense Forrestal "a potential Hitler."

Knowland, stepping down from the rostrum where he had been presiding, shouted that Taylor "could not if he tried have given more aid and comfort to the Kremlin" than he did in his remarks to the senate.

Taylor opened a lengthy speech by saying Mr. Truman had turned down what Taylor called Russia's willingness to confer on differences between the United States and the Soviet.

The Idaho senator called Forrestal "the most dangerous man in America today—he is a potential Hitler."

STUDENTS PREFER GOP DES MOINES (AP)—Drake university students prefer Harold Stassen or Sen. Arthur Vandenberg for president over the incumbent Harry Truman, a poll indicated yesterday.

Royall Turns Down Rail Negotiation Job

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Army Royall refused yesterday to take on the job of negotiating a wage contract with three rail unions, but the door remained open for other government peace moves.

Royall insisted that President Truman's order taking over the nation's railroads on Monday only empowered him to run the trains.

Court help was necessary to keep the railroads operating Tuesday, however. The three union chiefs made it plain that the strike would have come off as scheduled had not federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough issued a 10-day restraining order.

Thus the army was assured of court backing in keeping the trains rolling for at least another week.

That is time enough for the quick settlement predicted by Pennsylvania Railroad President M. W. Clement.

Settlement Broached for Phone Workers Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP)—Telephone company negotiators said government conciliators broached "a lot of propositions" yesterday for settling a nationwide dispute of long distance phone operators.

The operators, represented by the American telephone workers' union (CIO), have agreed to withhold a strike pending outcome of the government talks on their wage dispute.

U. S. To Offer Plan to UN Subcommittee

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—The United States called on the United Nations last night to install a UN high commissioner for Palestine. The selection would be made by the United States, Russia, France, China and Britain.

An American delegation spokesman said the plan would be presented to a sub-committee of the special Palestine assembly this morning.

No Government Power The proposed commissioner would have no governmental powers. He would attempt to mediate Jewish-Arab differences, arrange for common services in the Holy Land, provide for protection of the holy places and promote Jewish-Arab agreement on a future Palestine government.

The new American plan also would provide that the UN Palestine partition commission should be discharged of its responsibility immediately.

The American spokesman said this new proposal was part of a three-point United States program for the remainder of the current special assembly on Palestine.

Marshall, Truman Talk Announcement of the program was made here shortly after Secretary of State Marshall conferred with President Truman in Washington.

The United Nations assembly earlier in the day had given up efforts to create an emergency government in Palestine.

The break-down came when Arabs rejected a plan for a shadow administration and Jews objected to main parts of it.

This came approximately 48 hours before the end of the British mandate and a governmental vacuum in the embattled Holy Land.

The British officially advised the UN during the day that they were ending their rule Friday midnight in Palestine — 4 p. m. CST.

Salvage Possibilities Informed quarters saw these two possibilities of the UN being able to salvage something.

Dr. Julius Katz-Suchy of Poland said in committee he understood the United States was preparing to present a suggested solution. The American delegate made no immediate reply. American spokesmen also refused to comment off the floor.

Guatemala held out hopes that the UN might find a solution acceptable to one side. The apparent reference was to the Jews, who have agreed to a mediation regime which would not upset the Zionist partition schedule.

International — Marshall on Russia; Dulles on UN Rejects 2-Power Parley

Work in UN, Marshall Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall rejected flatly yesterday any Soviet-American conference aimed at a general settlement between the two great powers. However, he held the door open to greatly improved dealings with Russia if the United Nations and other diplomatic agencies.

Marshall even indicated at a news conference that he suspects the Kremlin may have decided to soften Russian foreign policy.

He read a paragraph from the statement which Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov gave to American Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith in Moscow last Sunday declaring that Russia's policy toward the United States has always been and will continue to be "a peace loving policy and one of collaboration."

Statement Important Marshall said that statement should be read with regard to the future. He added that he considers it a very important statement, which the whole world will be waiting to see fulfilled.

He also told questioning reporters that the exchange of notes between Smith and Molotov and their surprise publication by Moscow may have helped the cause of world peace and brightened the prospects for a settlement of outstanding differences.

In a prepared statement which seemed to be directed to Moscow, Marshall said: "The discussion of any proposals in regard to outstanding issues which the Soviet government may have in mind, must as a matter of course, be conducted in the body charged with responsibility for these questions. What we want is action in the fields where action is possible and urgently necessary at the present time."

Premier Post To De Gasperi

ROME (AP)—President Luigi Einaudi refused last night to accept the resignation of Premier Alcide De Gasperi, Christian Democrat leader who then announced his government would remain in power.

Einaudi acted shortly after he was sworn into office as the first president of the new Italian republic at Montecitorio palace.

It was his second official act. His first was to name his predecessor, Provisional President Enrico De Nicola, a senator for life.

De Gasperi's office said he would make some modifications in his present cabinet, then present it to Einaudi. Parliament must approve the cabinet later.

Einaudi received De Gasperi in Quirinale palace, the Italian "White House." Presentation of the resignation was a required formality.

Dulles Asks Caution On Revision of UN

WASHINGTON (AP)—John Foster Dulles counseled congress yesterday against handling Russia any take-it-or-leave-it proposal to revamp the United Nations.

The Republican foreign affairs expert said such a move might result in a big diplomatic setback for the United States.

Testifying to the house foreign affairs committee, Dulles said: "I could name at least 10 or 15 nations outside the Soviet bloc who would not go along with us."

That list would include the Arab states, he said. He did not name the others.

Dulles, an adviser to Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York, expressed the opinion that there is "no possibility" that Russia would agree at this time to revising the UN charter.

The committee is considering a sheaf of resolutions with that aim. Most of them call for U. S. leadership in convening a world conference, with or without Soviet participation.

'Mail Order Catalog' To Increase U. S. Sales

WASHINGTON (AP)—American sales to Russian-bloc nations may be boosted by a commerce department "mail order catalog" listing things they may buy from the United States, and under what terms.

But weapons, ammunition and industrial goods that might aid to Russia's war potential still will be banned, said officials who disclosed this new step yesterday. Purchases will continue to be subject to licenses.

SAYS COMMUNISTS FAIL WASHINGTON (AP)—Communist efforts to gain control of the near east without invasion have failed, it was reported yesterday.

A subcommittee of the house foreign affairs committee said there is "no serious danger of immediate Communist control" of the near east.

Royalty — Daughter Will Succeed World's Senior Monarch Netherlands' Queen Wilhelmina To Abdicate

THE HAGUE (AP)—Queen Wilhelmina of The Netherlands announced in an emotion-choked voice yesterday that she will abdicate in favor of her daughter Juliana just after her golden jubilee.

The ailing 67-year-old queen, senior of the world's monarchs and one of the thriftiest, told her subjects in Holland and abroad in a broadcast from her palace at Het Loo that fatigue and the complex problems facing the throne persuaded her to turn over royal authority to younger hands.

The abdication will be on or about Sept. 8. Princess Juliana will become regent for the second time within a year in a simple ceremony Friday in the second chamber of the Dutch parliament. On Aug. 30 Queen Wilhelmina will rescind the throne for a week's commemoration of her 50 years of rule, and then retire.

Queen Wilhelmina will be 68 on Aug. 31. She ascended the throne on Sept. 6, 1898, five days after reaching the required age of 18. She succeeded her father, King William III, on Nov. 23, 1890, when she was 10 years old.

Her mother, Queen Emma, ruled as regent until the coronation. Last Oct. 14 the queen turned over her royal functions to Princess Juliana as regent because of need for a rest. She reassumed her role on Dec. 1 after six weeks. This week it was announced that Juliana would take over as regent for a second time. Often described as "Holland's Queen Victoria," Wilhelmina, like the English queen, was called early to the throne, married a German consort, outlived her husband, enjoyed a long reign, was a stickler for the formalities and set an example for her people.

Her investments in Dutch industrial undertakings were estimated at one time at not less than $20-million but Wilhelmina often could be seen sitting with her sewing in her unpretentious palace like any other dutch housewife.

In her younger days she frequently bicycled through the capital.

Loop-Leaders Rap Brownies

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The league leading Philadelphia Athletics combined three hits with four walks in the second inning last night to score six runs and defeat St. Louis 8 to 4, extending their winning streak through 10 games. Dick Fowler was credited with his second victory in as many starts, though he needed help from Bob Savage and Lou Brissie.

A crowd of 21,763 saw Hank Majeski lead off the second inning with a single. Sam Chapman, Pete Suder, Fowler and Eddie Joost all walked, forcing in two runs. Barney McCosky unloaded a base cleaning double and scored on a single by Elmer Valo.

Joost singled in the eighth to continue his hitting streak through 17 games.

The score: R. H. E.

Bo Sox Send Ailing Hughson To Minors

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Red Sox yesterday started Tex Hughson, their onetime ace pitcher, towards his native Texas hoping that the hot sun there might help cure the big fellow's ailing right elbow. Tex, who won 20 games in the Sox' 1946 pennant drive, was optioned on a 24-hour recall basis to Austin of the Class B Big State league.

Admitting he was surprised when informed of the plan, Hughson said, "I'm for it if it will help. I'm certainly not going to give up until I finish out this season."

Tex will be following the example set ten years ago by Schoolboy Rowe, another native Texan, who went down from Detroit to Beaumont of the Texas league and returned to the big leagues.

So far this season Hughson has pitched two innings. He found he couldn't throw with full speed or use any breaking pitches without feeling twinges in his elbow.

His elbow, aggravated last season when he pitched despite a circulatory deficiency, was operated on last December. A growth was removed from the joint and excess tissue scraped from the bone.

Tex has a record with the Sox of 89 victories and 51 defeats in his six years beginning in mid-season of 1941, with part of 1944 and all of 1945 spent in the army.

Donnelly's 3-Hitter Blanks Pirates, 5-0

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Blix Donnelly, Philadelphia pitcher, yesterday gave only three hits to beat Pittsburgh, 5-0 in the Pirates first National league shutout of the season.

The little right-hander was in control all the way while Pittsburgh used three pitchers, who gave up 13 hits. A ladies day crowd of 11,644 saw the game.

Ernie Bonham started on the mound for Pittsburgh but was chased in the fifth after giving up 10 hits. Vic Lombardi took over but was replaced by Kirby Higbe in the ninth.

The Phils lost little time getting their hit parade started, scoring twice in the first inning. Emil Verban started the fireworks with a triple to right and came home on Blatnik's single to left. After Dick Sisler flied out, Del Ennis singled to center, sending Blatnik to third. Ed Miller lifted a pop fly in short left which fell safe. Blatnik scored but Ennis was out at the plate.

Three hits and an error accounted for the third run, with Blatnik coming across on Gusline's low throw on Ennis' hopper in the third. The Phils added one in the fifth and a final tally in the seventh.

Bruins Lose Another

It was the sixth straight loss for Des Moines.

Passport to London Filed for Wally Ris

All Wally Ris has to do now is pack his bag, win the tryouts in July and he can be off to London. As far as a passport goes, that's already "in process."

So sure is the American Olympic committee of Ris' qualifying for the 100-meter berth that Chairman Lawrence Johnson has already sent out application blanks for passports to him and other top swimmers of the country to avoid a rush at the last minute, although the trials are two months off.

Of course, if Wally doesn't make the team, he can always throw his papers away, but Iowa Coach Dave Armbruster will be keeping eyes on the fieldhouse waste basket—just in case some foreign undercover agent should try to sabotage his star's chances.

As far as the mentor of America's number one sprinter is concerned, that would only lead to making another application.

Golfers Face Beloit

The University of Iowa golf team, boasting a record of five victories and one defeat, will meet the Beloit college linksters of Beloit, Wis., this afternoon.

The match will be played on the Finkbine course here in Iowa City. The Hawkeye golfers' only loss of the season came at the hands of Minnesota last Monday, 19½ to 7½.

Doerr's Blast Drops Chisox

BOSTON (AP)—Bobby Doerr's third home run of the season, driven high over the screen in left field with two mates aboard in the tenth inning, yesterday piloted the Boston Red Sox to a 10 inning 6-5 triumph over the Chicago White Sox, who now have lost eight games in succession.

Scoring ahead of Doerr were Ted Williams, who had walked, and Wally Moses, who had singled. There was one out at the time.

The White Sox, by scoring two runs in their half of the tenth, came close to snapping their losing streak.

The Veteran Luke Appling started the inning by singling to left for his fourth hit of the day.

After Ralph Weigel sacrificed him to second and Taffy Wright went out on a great catch by Centerfielder Dom DiMaggio, Dave Philley was walked purposely and Bob Kennedy doubled off the wall in deep center despite a great try by DiMaggio. The blow was good for two runs.

The victory was credited to Ellis (Cot) Deal, who pitched to the last two Chicago batters. It was his first major league triumph since he came up from Toronto late last season.

Ted Williams hit in his 11th consecutive game.

Tigers' 14-Hit Attack Overwhelms Nats, 14-9

WASHINGTON (AP)—Detroit concentrated all its 14 hits in three innings to defeat Washington, 14-9, in a wild game here last night. The Tigers moved into fourth place as Dizzy Trout, third of four Detroit pitchers, notched his second victory.

Hal Newhouser was belted from the mound in the fifth inning after being staked to a 7-3 lead when the Tigers scored off Sid Hudson through two errors in the first inning, then clustered six runs off him in the fifth.

Air Mail Service Week Planned Here

Mayor's Proclamation Prepares Observance Of 30th Anniversary

A proclamation issued yesterday by Mayor Preston Koser designated the week beginning May 15 for Iowa City's observance of the United States air mail service's 30th anniversary.

The mayor, in his proclamation, expressed his belief that "the citizens of Iowa City are vitally interested in the continued development and growth of aviation as it benefits the people, the nation, the postal service and our relations with the peoples and nations of the world."

A special cachet on stamp covers mailed from New York City, Washington, D. C., and Philadelphia air mail fields has been authorized for use on May 15, according to Postmaster Walter J. Barrow.

The first air mail route, which began May 15, 1918, served these three cities. Interested Iowa Citizens can obtain information from Barrow on where and how to send the stamp covers.

Wallace Club To Weigh Aid To Strikers

By KELLY RUCKER

The Student for Wallace club tonight will consider joining the Iowa City Wallace group in a ten-day drive for food contributions to be sent to Ottumwa to aid striking packinghouse workers there.

Also at the meeting, Bill Head, Cedar Rapids lawyer, will speak on the packinghouse workers strike. His speech will be at 8 p.m. in the Geology building auditorium. The meeting is open to the public.

The ten-day food drive started yesterday under the sponsorship of the Iowa City Wallace for President committee. The relief committee is headed by Hayden Scott, G, Iowa City.

Reason for the drive is to fight the "starvation policy" of the Ottumwa plant's management, Sandra Hellman, student representative on the relief committee, said yesterday.

Members of the Wallace groups will take the food to Ottumwa on May 22. Literature on the Wallace party will be distributed with the food, Miss Hellman said. Some members of the Wallace group may join the picket line, she added.

Food contributions will be taken to Ottumwa only, she said, because "we feel that the food will be better received by the Ottumwa union which is sympathetic to the Wallace movement."

Collection center for the food contributions will be at the home of the Rev. Mr. E. A. Worthley, 10 South Gilbert street, Miss Hellman said.

Alda Hightshoe Seeks Divorce for Cruelty; Asks Child's Custody

Alda Hightshoe filed suit for divorce yesterday in Johnson county district court against Clarence Hightshoe, university botany instructor.

Mrs. Hightshoe charged cruel and inhuman treatment. She asked custody of their child and for such alimony and support as the court may find suitable. She wanted the defendant ordered to continue payments on the Hightshoe residence.

The court issued an injunction without bond against the defendant to keep him from coming on the property at 1522 Broadway street and from molesting the plaintiff and child.

The Hightshoes were married in Cedar Falls, Nov. 26, 1941. Mrs. Hightshoe said they lived together until yesterday. She said he was a graduate student about to get a masters degree in botany. Swisher and Swisher represent the plaintiff.

Pan-Americanism Is No Answer

The crises at Bogota—first the cool reception which the Latin American delegates gave General Marshall's announcement that "Europe was first" to get United States aid, and then the revolt—have made one thing abundantly clear.

The countries of North and South America are too disparate in their forms and too diverse in their aims to become easily subject to a Pan-American influence.

This means we probably cannot battle Pan-Slavism with Pan-Americanism. In short, the western world is no longer "a world." It is merely a part of a larger order or strategic grouping—certainly not bounded by the poles and oceans which mark the extremities of this continent.

Western Europe, the Mediterranean, Scandinavia, parts of Africa and a large part of Asia and the Middle East are bound by a greater, generalized fundamental basis for agreement. They are opposed at this time by a more centralized camp—the Soviet sphere of control.

Whether these two camps can ever come to a point of compromise is a matter of speculation. Certainly they must if the world is to live at peace. The only alternative would be a war which seems to be coming nearer and nearer and is too much for us to stomach the thought of.

There has been a long tradition that the United States is accepted by the people and governments in Latin America because she has money which the Latin American countries need.

The United States' influence, however, is accepted with considerable resentment. Like the Finnish labor unions, when they are placed in the position of being asked which side they want to be on, the Latins promptly answer "neither."

If we are to assume the leadership in the so-called western world which we so frequently claim, we must begin to realize that other countries fear our stumbling, bumbling methods and our casual assumption of strong influence, if not control.

We must study a little, if you like, to find out what these countries want and what we have to offer them—and it must be something in addition to our resources or money.

Every small country wants, in general, security and peacetime surroundings; unless we can offer them that we are licked before we start. Perhaps, then, we should reconsider staking our complete hopes for the western hemisphere on a mere Pan-American philosophy.

The one way we can offer them a future without threat of war is to offer them membership in as nearly a world-wide federation of states as possible—something as near as possible to world government.

It seems a drastic step, perhaps. But so does atomic war. They seem to be alternatives.

The 'Crime' of Disagreeing

(From The New York Post) In the past few days, the house un-American activities committee has been suspiciously quiet; no wholesale smears of law-abiding citizens, no klieg-lighted histrionics with Representative Thomas pounding his mighty chest at the Kremlin, no heavy-handed pressure on employers to fire workers whose political views might be slightly "left"—the dirtiest four-letter word of them all, to Thomas and his crew.

But don't relax now. The committee plans to hit the headlines soon with a monstrous bit of devilry which it has whipped up in its spare time. It's something called a "Subversive Acts Control bill." And no decent citizen could come near it without protecting his nose with a cloth.

The committee is apparently sure that the Communists are about to take over America. So, before the Reds can sweep our constitution away, Thomas and his un-American colleagues would beat them to it by declaring our Bill of Rights null and void!

Their legislation is expected to follow the pattern of the Mundt bill which has already been introduced in the house. If so, congress will be seriously asked to make it illegal for any member of a "Communist-front" organization to accept, hold or seek public office. (It's just too bad for the voters if they should want him.) Further, passports could not be issued to such persons.

The attorney general would be required to keep a registry of all "communist-front" organizations with the names and addresses of officers and a record of money received and spent.

And how are we to tell a real Communist-front group from the falsies? A definition is obligingly supplied. A Communist-front organization, it would seem, is the Communist party or any organization which engages in any action intended or which is reasonable to believe is intended (italics ours) to further the objectives of:

Bringing about the replacement of the existing form of the government of the U.S. with a Communist form of government, or Bringing about the replacement of free enterprise in the U.S. with a Communist economic system, or Bringing about the acceptance in the U.S. of a Communist ideology.

That's the gist of it. It's immediately apparent that the bill is based on the untenable, undemocratic theory of guilt by association or affiliation, rather than guilt because of a specific hostile act committed by an individual.

If our congressmen honestly believe that the Communists are out to overthrow the American government, the burden of proof is on them. They must prove that each individual party member is unfit to hold office or exercise citizenship because of a specific crime.

But our congressmen are obviously out after more than the Communist party. Under their sloppy legislation, any member of any organization which is merely suspected of entertaining "dangerous thoughts" could be denied a passport and barred from public office.

This could include members of genuine front groups. The bill's bland assumption that some form of thought control is needed in America, plus its sweeping application, should tip us off, once and for all, that the un-American activities committee isn't really scared of America's handfull of Communists.

The committee is actually frightened by the growing list of American liberals. Popular support of federal housing bills, health insurance, anti-trust and anti-cartel acts has given the Thomas committee the whim-whams.

For such legislation means an expanding democracy. And an expanding democracy has a way of steam-rolling the vested interests, the pockets of privilege, which the committee apparently holds dear.

The Thomas committee has a right to be alarmed. For there is every chance that the American people won't be swept along in the anti-Red hysteria, but will demand a Subversive Acts Control bill of their own—one which makes its first order of business the abolition of the un-American committee.

Trouble Shooter

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT

Remarkable Bill, Indeed

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

There are federal laws against attempting to overthrow the government by force and violence. In fact this type of activity is disapproved throughout the world. There are very few countries which tolerate or encourage it and revolution is illegal almost everywhere.

What, then, is new about the Mundt bill, brainchild of the house un-American committee? What is new about it is precisely what ought to make Americans recoil from it in horror. It is the doctrine that the government should be allowed to punish men for attempting to overthrow it without having to prove it on them.

The bill contains a clause which forbids, under penalty of high fines, long imprisonment, and loss of citizenship "any attempt in any manner" to set up a totalitarian dictatorship in this country under foreign orders.

And, of course, anybody who actually tried to set up a totalitarian dictatorship here, under foreign orders, or even without them, might properly be considered a low type, who should be discouraged.

But this bill does a remarkable thing. In its preamble and in its supporting verbiage, it sets up the doctrine that anybody who joins the Communist party, or who works with it or some of its members in any organization, or even, who looks as if he does, is in effect helping to set up a totalitarian dictatorship under foreign orders.

And here, the bill ceases to be one aimed against actions of a certain kind, and becomes a bill aimed against people of a certain kind. It sets up a punishment clause barring certain activity and then, by a sweeping legislative declaration, seeks to establish that all people of a certain kind are engaged in the prohibited activity; and that is what one means when one says that this bill allows the government to punish without having to supply proof.

It is like setting up a penalty for burglary and adding a postscript to the effect that all men who wear brown hats are burglars, in which case the district attorney, presumably, need only prove that the prisoner was wearing a brown hat.

And the shadow of illegality thus suddenly cast over activities previously legal spreads very far. For under the bill any organization whose activities make it "reasonable to conclude that it is under the control of a Communist political organization" could be legally labeled as a Communist front. And there are those in this country who recently felt that it was quite "reasonable to conclude" that Franklin D. Roosevelt was under Communist control.

The actual registration burdens placed on Communist front organizations are slight, perhaps to keep liberal opinion from becoming too alarmed. But the chain of guilt by association is there, formally set up on the loosest ground, so that in the end a housewife who belonged to an organization which demanded more day nurseries, and in which there was one Communist or maybe even none, might find herself connected right back up to the Kremlin, and thus brought within reach of the penalty clause.

That clause, with its grim and sweeping prohibitions against "any attempt in any manner" to set up communism might easily cover such actions as attending a meeting, or buying a book.

This bill would substitute fear for knowledge as the active principle in our American behavior, for it seeks to meet Communist persuasions with legalistic clubs instead of with counter-arguments and counter-persuasions.

We must, like all countries, protect ourselves against treachery; but that is an administrative job; it is like the job we did against sabotage during the war. This bill is a legislative effort to take over this administrative function, to violate the very civil liberties which we declare he is out to destroy.

To deny a scoundrel his right to speak is to contravene the basic concepts of a free America. Further, many an obscure and utterly ineffective hate monger has been catapulted into notoriety by the attacks of outraged good citizens. Their efforts publicize him, build him up, give him unmerited prestige and a role all out of proportion to his real stature.

Occasionally such attacks upon the demagogue spread his lies much further than he can hope to do through his own efforts. That is why many a small-time rabble rouser welcomes (sometimes even stimulates) noisy brawls and attempts to deny him the right to speak.

Well then, when do we attack the demagogue? Each case is a law unto itself, but here are some useful guides: When it is clear that to leave him unanswered is to strengthen his case and spread his influence, then "throw the book at him"; particularly so, when he violates the law. If the demagogue is merely a loud mouthed puppet responding to hidden strings, he can be silenced most effectively by discovering and exposing his backers.

Here (action against the demagogue) is a place where we must walk warily. Occasionally, in our zeal to fight the demagogue, we

Critic Finds That

'Lear' Was a Tragedy

—In More Ways Than One

By JACK O'BRIEN

The only thing "experimental" about the University's two-performance production of Shakespeare's "King Lear" were such negative elements as the chopping off of two acts and an erratic lighting design that first mystified and then irritated.

Dr. Kernode, who has been restricted exclusively to these unpublicized and largely unwitnessed "experimental" productions for two semesters now, offered a lengthy explanation as to why the play had been deprived of two acts, which seemed to appease most of the audience.

Many would have appreciated an added comment on why the esteemed audiences attending the department's commercial productions have been denied the opportunity to witness the work of such an able director for so long.

As for the performance itself, it presented an intriguing historic pattern fluctuating between extremes of both the best and some of the worst acting that has occurred on the university boards in two semesters.

The mediocrity of several performances can be traced to the fact that many of the players were not so much potential thespians as present students of History of the Theatre.

At any rate, several seemed incapable of understanding their lines themselves let alone projecting the meaning of some of Shakespeare's most magnificent verse to a patient audience.

On the other hand, Tom Gregory was only a shade short of extraordinary as the king driven to exposure and madness by the perfidious behavior of his two eloquent but unloving daughters.

In his interpretation, he selected the alternative of suggesting that Lear is merely irascible and not very discerning of human character in the first stages of the play—not already on the verge of dementia.

This was wise since it allowed him greater range of development in his desperate struggle against complete madness during the progression of the next two acts.

Other two acts conducted at the same tempo would almost certainly have left Gregory, and many a professional performer, lying prostrate at curtain-call time. His king seldom lost nobility and, never once, his eloquence. A fine job.

James Sproul as the all-wise fool appeared to fine advantage and balanced his performance to contrast neatly with Gregory's. His ridiculousness always held the note of sympathy and wisdom essential to the character.

Douglas Wells was less successful as Edgar than when disguised as "Poor Tom." Both Wells and Sproul had an energy and almost ballet-like grace which added much to the interpretation of both roles.

An additional element of tragedy was induced by the limited run of the performance. A great deal of labor went into the production and, certainly, despite its weaknesses, it ranked higher, both in quality and interest, than several of the commercial productions given this season.

The fact that the theatre was almost filled the first night and played to standing room the second performance attests to the show's audience interest.

It might well have run on until next Friday night when the white columnar rocks of Shakespeare's health would necessarily have to be cleared away to make way for the Victorian heaviness of Ruth Gordon's neither tragic, nor noble, nor eloquent—nor necessary—"Years Ago."

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP)—Canadian immigration authorities will seek further information concerning charges made by Representative McDowell (R-Pa) that tramp steamers are dumping "thousands of subversive and criminal aliens into Pacific coast ports." An immigration official says, "if McDowell has that much information, it should not be difficult for him to name ships and ports. We will certainly go after it."

By DANIEL DE LUCE JERUSALEM (AP)—The threatened war between a Jewish state and the Arab world looks more and more today like an exploded propaganda balloon.

This correspondent has come to this conclusion after weeks spent mostly in Arab capitals and after seeing the Jewish setup in Palestine.

The Jewish state is now a reality despite diplomatic discussions at Lake Success and the continuation of the British mandate until May 15.

It has an army which has decisively defeated a few thousand poorly led Arab volunteers, the majority of whom came from outside Palestine.

This Army, Haganah, in addition to holding that part of Palestine allotted the Jews, under the United Nations partition plan, now dominates many Arab districts outside the Jewish boundaries.

The Jewish state is totally mobilized for military action. The Palestine Arabs are a military nonentity, and the neighboring Arab powers are squabbling in their high councils instead of uniting.

In the past week deep schisms have appeared in what the Arabs had been heralding as their solid front against Zionism.

This correspondent's observations in Arab capitals led to these conclusions: If Palestine is to be invaded, the Arab governments still are unable to agree on their military commitments, on the overall command without which coordination would be impossible, on how territorial spoils, if any, are to be divided.

If Palestine is not to be invaded, these governments are just as bitterly at odds over how to save their faces with their own peoples, who have been stirred up to expect a miraculous, eleventh-hour rescue of the Arabs of Palestine.

Regardless of the flowery communications issued after each conference of the Arab governments—at Damascus, Cairo, Amman, Riyadh—there are indications that the old jealousies among the Arab kings and premiers run unabated.

The Arab governments have not yet decided on how to wage a war. It may be assumed they will have as much difficulty deciding on how to make peace with Zionism.

It appears almost inevitable that Palestine will be a trouble zone for a considerable time to come, with sporadic violence between the Jews and Arabs and among the Arabs themselves. But the prospective pattern is one of unorganized multitudes, underground terror and sheer banditry—not of modern war.

Arab pride throughout the Middle East has suffered a terrific blow. In the highest Arab circles, the talk no longer is of exterminating Zionism, but of containing it.

Nursing Groups

(This is the eighth of a series of articles on university organizations. Features on other organizations will appear on this page from time to time—The Editor.)

By MAX ELDER

Two organizations on the University of Iowa campus serve the professional and social needs of women enrolled in the school of nursing.

Sigma Theta Tau, nursing sorority, is the only national scholarship society of nursing in the United States. Gamma chapter was established on the campus in May, 1929. The chapter now boasts a membership of 158, with 28 active members living in this community.

The purposes of Sigma Theta Tau are to create a closer union between university schools of nursing, to foster high professional standards, encourage creative work in nursing and to stimulate research.

They also attempt to promote the spirit of fellowship among members of the profession of nursing and to develop an abiding interest in the advancement of nursing.

Members are chosen scholastically by evidence of professional interest, leadership, promise in the field of nursing and ward experience.

Officers in the local chapter are

Mrs. Maxine Swan, president; Mrs. Gertrude Saar, vice-president; Mrs. Velma Flynn, secretary; Mrs. Jo Adel Sullivan, treasurer and Mrs. Janet Gray, archivist.

The student nurse's association was founded on the campus in 1918.

It serves a dual purpose for its members, acting as a supervisory group over the dormitory units as well as a social organization.

Membership is automatic for all women when they enroll in the school of nursing.

A council, elected by popular vote each spring, governs the organization. The president of the council is a member of the Union board, and the second vice-president is a member of the University women's association council.

The association's purpose is to improve the conditions for women in the school of nursing.

Officers, recently elected, are Marian Reynolds, Madrid, president; Clarine Wall, Missouri Valley, 1st vice-president; Ruth O'Connell, Iowa City, 2nd vice-president; Mary Lou Koch, Fort Atkinson, secretary; Jane Neibert, Fairfield, treasurer; Ruth Tennerman, Deerfield, Ill., social chairman; Mary Sandberg, Algona, activities chairman and Rosemary Chapman, Independence, Mo., Hawkeye representative.

Doing Something About Prejudice

The following article was written by Dr. Julius Schreiber, a practicing psychiatrist in New York who has done much research on the subject of prejudice, and appeared in the February, 1948, issue of Survey Graphic—This is the sixth installment.—The Editor.)

When considering legislation (as a means of combatting prejudice), one should think not only of desirable new laws, but also of the enforcement of existing laws; many communities and states already have laws which, if enforced, would prevent many unfair discriminatory acts on the part of prejudiced people.

It is often argued that proposed legislation such as the bill for a federal FEPC (fair employment practices commission) will not work because "You can't legislate mores!"

This is easy to say, and it sounds profound. But no one contends that the passing of a law on Monday will change the mores of the people by Tuesday—assuming that the new legislation goes contrary to the dominant folkways.

Yet customs do change. And many such changes were stimulated, or even started, by the educational process resulting from the passage of highly controversial legislation. This author has stated elsewhere:

If we are proposing legislation that seeks to make a practical application of a democratic principle, and if that legislation is a down-to-earth proposal that can actually work out in everyday life, and finally if it meets the needs of objective social conditions—there is no other course but to get behind it and push for it.

The purpose of such legislation is to alleviate the unhappiness of innocent victims of prejudice, but it is sure to make some people unhappy in the process.

It must be recognized that if it is to work, it must have adequate administrative machinery; that while it may be backed up by punitive measures, it should operate, primarily, on an educational level; that it should not be limited to fair employment practices.

Other problems calling for legislative remedy are the poll tax, lynching, unfair discrimination in educational institutions, and segregation.

VA Rules Vets Can't Combine Training Time Allowed by Both Laws

Disabled veterans eligible for education benefits under both the vocational rehabilitation act and the GI bill cannot increase their period of training by combining the total time allowed under both laws, the Veterans administration ruled recently.

This ruling is based on the decision that the time spent in school under one law must be charged against the total period of training that would be gained under the other law.

Therefore, the VA said, a veteran's maximum training time must be the time available to him under the law which provides the greater period of eligibility.

To Investigate Overcrowding In IC Schools

The Iowa City school board voted last night to study the overcrowded conditions in Longfellow and Lincoln grade schools with the view of increasing their size by the fall of 1949.

A school building program would have to be voted on by Iowa City taxpayers before it could be started. Board members said it would probably be advisable to enlarge the two schools because of the uncertainty of the direction the city will grow in the next decade.

The school board voted to review plans and specifications for a new boiler unit to be installed in the junior high school. The present unit was installed more than 30 years ago.

Edward L. Patero, consulting engineer from Des Moines, submitted plans for the boiler unit at the meeting last night. He estimated the total cost would be about $10,800. If Patero's plans are approved by the board, contractors may submit bids to the board before the next meeting, June 9.

Schmoker To Talk On Foreign Students

J. Benjamin Schmoker, general secretary of the committee on friendly relations among foreign students, will speak to civic and SUI group leaders Wednesday May 19, 7:30 p. m. in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Letters were sent Saturday to about 30 university and community club presidents, requesting them to come or send representatives to hear Schmoker speak, Richard E. Sweitzer, advisor to foreign students, reported.

Speaking on the relationship between foreign students and the college community, Schmoker will urge community and campus groups to encourage foreign student participation in their activities.

In a pamphlet entitled "The Unofficial Ambassadors," Schmoker said there are 19,934 students from other countries in U. S. colleges and universities.

"On these young guests lies much of the responsibility of interpreting democracy in their homelands," he added.

There are 150 foreign students attending SUI from 25 nations, Sweitzer said.

Tries Odd Dandruff 'Cure'

PUTTING A HEAD ON HIS HEAD, Ed Krause, Clear Lake, tries out the new "shambrew" which is finding many converts on the campus. Recipe is a handful of cornmeal and a bottle of the beverage some students prefer taking internally. You just rub the cornmeal into the scalp, comb out, and rinse with the "suds." Users claim the shambrew removes dandruff. Krause got rid of his dandruff all right, now wonders how to get rid of the cornmeal. (Daily Iowan Photo by Roger Menges)

Chorus Presents — Enjoyable Concert

By JOHN L. HARVEY

The University Chorus, under Herald Stark, presented last night an altogether enjoyable program.

Big event of the evening was the premiere of Mitchell Southall's spiritual "De Lawd God Almighty's on His Throne." Southall, a graduate student in the music department who has had some of his works published, is having a big week of it. He is eagerly awaiting his wedding, and while awaiting it, he has witnessed a resoundingly successful performance of his music.

The spiritual is lusty, straightforward, and likable. The chorus apparently enjoyed it nearly as much as the audience, and the piece was repeated by popular demand.

Among the other compositions were the lovely De Profundis of Gluck, and the moving Crado by Gretchaninoff. The chanting solo part of the latter was ably handled by Benjamin Shlaes, and the chorus gave a splendid account of itself in both works.

Longest composition of the evening was Brahms' Libeslieder. This is, substantially, a song-cycle for chorus and duo-pianists. The performance, from where I sat, sounded uneven. The chorus seemed badly off-pitch at the beginning, but things soon righted themselves. However, a little more vitality would have been welcome though lack of spirit is usually the last-thing with which one could charge the chorus.

Also included were a transcription of Schubert's "Allmacht," with Joy Rankin singing a solo part, and works by Jenkins, Niles, Wolf, Handel, and Elgar.

In most of the miscellaneous numbers, the singing was altogether unexceptionable—crisp, neat, and clear.

Dirty Work Threatens Women's Shoe Styles

There's dirty work a-foot! Women's fashions have taken another turn and this time it's the fad to end all fads.

High buttoned shoes! Right now you may scoff at the idea, but Mabel and Charles Julianelli predict high shoes . . . and the chances are the coeds will be wearing them soon.

The Julianellis are a hard-working young couple who have become virtual dictators of America's feminine footwear in the last seven years and according to them, these high shoes will be worn for both street and dressy afternoon occasions.

The street version will be "spat" type with suede uppers and patent leather bottoms. The dressier types will be of satin or suede, either buttoned up the side or laced in the back.

(Of course, there will still be plenty of ordinary "bread n' butter" styles for those who like their shoes "conservative.")

If the Iowa City male reaction to this trend is any indication of its success . . . high buttoned shoes will in all probability stay in the family album, causing that strained look on granny's face.

One married student when asked if he'd like to see his spouse in this style answered, "Not while I'm buying 'em!"

An Iowa City shoe salesman had but one thing to say when approached on this topic. "It's nuts", he said.

To Attend Ceremonies

Dr. Louis A. Turner, head of the physics department, will attend the cornerstone ceremonies tomorrow for the new metallurgy building at Iowa State college.

The building is the first of three specialized units being constructed at Ames by the atomic energy commission.

W. W. Weymack, a member of the commission and a former member of the Des Moines Register staff, will speak on "Atomic Energy Research" at the ceremony.

Gasoline Transport Overturns, Burns

5,500 gallons of gasoline were destroyed when an Eldon Miller gasoline transport overturned and burned one-half mile west of Homestead at one o'clock Monday morning.

The truck, owned by the Iowa City company, was driven by Truman Johnson, 711 Second avenue.

He said an oncoming car swerved across the road, and to avoid hitting it, he drove the big tank truck off the pavement. The highway shoulder crumbled and the truck rolled over.

Johnson was not hurt and climbed from the truck cab before the fire started.

The truck was enroute from Iowa City to Keswick when the accident happened, according to a truck company official. He said the Marengo fire department extinguished the fire. The truck was a total loss.

University Symphony To Play Rarely-Presented Production

The university symphony orchestra will complete its concert season next Wednesday by performing one of the most rarely-presented symphonies.

The work is Gustav Mahler's third symphony, a large-scale production normally intended for presentation at the piece de resistance at a music festival.

Lengthiness is a tendency in Mahler's compositions, and his third symphony is no exception. Its performance next Wednesday will constitute the entire concert program.

The symphony consists of six movements. The long first movement will be separated by intermission from the playing of the last five shorter movements.

In addition to an oversize orchestra, the symphony calls for two women's choral groups—a large chorus of 80 voices and a small choir of 20.

Next Wednesday's concert will be at 8 p. m. in the Union main lounge under the direction of Prof. Philip G. Clapp, conductor of the symphony orchestra.

Free tickets to the concert will be available to students and the public at the information desk in the Union lobby from Saturday morning until concert time Wednesday.

Plan Center for 150 Foreign Students

Would Centralize International Club

By FREDERICK T. C. YU
A plan of setting up an international center for about 150 foreign students attending the university is being undertaken by the office of student affairs and the International club, according to Richard E. Sweitzer, university advisor to foreign students.

In a letter to President Hancher about this plan, Prof. Walter R. Goetsch, director of student affairs, suggested using the convalescent home on Bloomington street. The house was vacated recently because it was not considered safe from a fire hazard standpoint as a home for crippled children.

Goetsch pointed out in his letter that the International club was organized last year to "help intergrade the foreign students into the American way of life without attempting to make them feel any kind of disloyalty for their country."

But having these students scattered throughout the campus makes such a program very difficult, he said.

Other institutions, particularly the University of Chicago and Columbia university, have had great success with their International clubs because of their International houses, the letter continued.

According to the plan drawn by the office of student affairs, the international center would be used not only as a meeting place for the various national groups and the International club, but also would provide a place where American students would have an opportunity to share and exchange opinions and ideas with students of other cultures.

Th policies and regulations governing the house would be set up by a committee of interested faculty members, representatives from the office of student affairs and members of the International club.
