Labor — New Hope in Wage Dispute

GM, Auto Workers Continue Negotiations For Pay Settlement

DETROIT (AP)—More than 13 hours of continuous negotiations between the CIO united auto workers and General Motors Corporation gave the auto industry new hope today of settlement of their wage dispute before a threatened strike is called.

It was believed any settlement reached would be in the neighborhood of 9 to 10 cents more per hour for 225,000 GM production workers.

Marathon wage talks on a new contract to replace one that expires at midnight Friday continued past midnight with no comment from either side.

Earlier the union disclosed GM had offered wage boosts of more than six cents an hour.

The union, asking a raise of 25 cents an hour—10 cents of which could be diverted into the UAW pension fund—has threatened to strike General Motors plants for the second time since the war unless the dispute is settled by Friday.

The conference, which observers believe may produce a wage pattern for the entire auto industry and bring quick settlement of a Chrysler corporation strike now 13 days old, continued in the huge General Motors building where a 113-day GM strike was settled March 13, 1946.

The union confirmed that GM, biggest outfit in the auto industry, had made its first wage offer of 1948 to the UAW-CIO.

The union did not say whether GM's offer was acceptable. Neither side would name the figure.

Want Partition Dropped Arab spokesmen in Cairo and Lake Success indicated the Arab nations would agree to a truce only if the Israeli army is disbanded and the Palestine partition plan shelved. Obviously the Jews will not accept these conditions.

Many Arab leaders have gathered at Amman, Trans-Jordan, to consider the matter. An Arab league source there said the government of Iraq already had decided against the cease fire order. Arab league members require unanimous agreement for positive action.

Both the United States and Britain urged the Arab nations to abide by the UN demand. British and American diplomats delivered the appeals for peace in Cairo and other Arab capitals.

U. S. Britain Talk Meanwhile, Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin conferred in London with U. S. Ambassador Lewis W. Douglas for the second time in 48 hours.

While the foreign office withheld comment on the course of the discussions, it was assumed the talks were held in an effort to iron out British-American differences over Palestine.

CAIRO (AP)—The United Nations security council last night extended until 11 a.m. Wednesday (Iowa time), its deadline for a cease fire in the Arab-Jewish fighting in Palestine.

The council, meeting at Lake Success, delayed the deadline 48 hours at the request of Syrian and Egyptian representatives. The original UN deadline expired at noon yesterday.

The government of Israel, which accepted the UN appeal subject to Arab agreement, told the council the Arabs broke the deadline yesterday when Lebanese gunners fired a barrage across the Palestine border at 11:30 a.m. (Iowa time).

Faris El Khoury of Syria told the council that Arab leaders will meet in Amman, Trans-Jordan, today, and that their acceptance or rejection of the UN appeal to halt the Holy Land fighting will be communicated to Lake Success no later than 11 a.m. Wednesday.

Meanwhile, Arabs and Jews both claimed victories in local actions as the Palestine fighting continued.

Claim Jordan Win A Haganah communique, issued by the Jewish army in Tel Aviv, said "the whole Jordan valley has been cleared of enemy forces."

The communique said Jewish forces recaptured two settlements in the northern area — Sha'ar Hagolan and Massada. It added that the whole Samakh area now is in Jewish hands. Jews evacuated the settlements a few days ago under Syrian army pressure.

Samakh is at the southern tip of the Sea of Galilee and the Jordan valley lies directly south of the sea.

The Arab high command said its troops had captured Ramat Rehel, a Jewish village half-way between Jerusalem and Bethlehem, where a major battle had raged for 48 hours.

Heavy Casualties Both sides reported the other's casualties were heavy at Ramat Rehel. The Arabs said they had killed more than 300 Jews and the Jews said "tens of bodies" of Arab attackers littered the streets.

A dispatch from Jerusalem said Trans-Jordan Arab legionnaires were attempting to disorganize Jewish defenses by heavy shelling. The legion appeared to be avoiding ground assaults which caused heavy infantry casualties and was relying instead on a blockade of food and water supplies to weaken Jewish resistance.

Wallace Denies Rumor He Plans Moscow Trip SALEM, ORE. (AP)—Henry Wallace said yesterday he had "no plans to go to Moscow" to confer with Joseph Stalin.

Wallace told The Associated Press that there was nothing to a published London report he was planning such a trip.

The third-party candidate added, however, that "if I thought the cause of peace would be served by my going to Moscow, I would be most glad to go."

Wallace is in Oregon on a two-day speaking tour.

International — Say Airforce On Full Alert At Okinawa

MANILA (AP)—It was learned unofficially early today that U. S. air forces on Okinawa were placed on full alert several months ago and that jet fighter planes are conducting regular patrols.

Unofficial sources disclosed this during discussions concerning a London report that a British Overseas airways four-engine flying boat was intercepted by a U. S. fighter near Okinawa Saturday while en route from Japan to Hong Kong.

(British Overseas airways said in London that one of its planes, flying from Japan to Hong Kong, was intercepted. The report lacked details and there was no confirmation of another report that warning shots were fired across the plane's bow. The report said it landed at Okinawa.)

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the 13th air force in the Philippines said no details of the incident were available here. He added, however:

"From looking at the map, it is obvious that the BOAC pilot was off course. What he was doing there we don't know. It is probable that no clearance was filed with Kadana (airfield on Okinawa). In a case like that, any unidentified plane would be investigated and then proceed."

National — Social Security; Senate's Attic

Truman Again Bids Congress To Broaden Social Security

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman yesterday demanded anew that congress quickly broaden social security to relieve the "desperate" plight of the aged and needy in a time of inflation.

He sent a special message to Capitol Hill calling for a 50 percent boost in old age insurance benefits and asking that 20-million more persons be protected.

Noting that for three years his similar requests have gone unanswered, Mr. Truman asked "early action" on a five point program which, he said, stresses "independence and self reliance, rather than relief."

He spelled out in this detail the sweeping program that he outlined in his state of the union message when congress met in January:

1. A one-half increase "at least" in old age and survivors' insurance benefits; allowing pensioners to earn up to $40 a month, instead of $15, without losing benefits; raising of the tax rate from 1 percent to 1 and one-half percent next Jan. 1 instead of a year later, increasing the taxable earnings from $3,000 to $4,800.
2. Extension of coverage to the millions of farm and domestic workers, the self-employed, and others not now covered.
3. Broadening of unemployment insurance to cover employees of small firms (those having less than eight workers), federal employees, and others not protected.
4. Disability insurance, to protect workers from loss of earnings caused by sickness and injuries. The federal government should offer "a strong financial inducement" to all states to provide such aid," he said.
5. Increased federal benefits to match state aid for dependent children, the needy aged, and the blind.

Brannan Appointed To Agriculture Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—Charles F. Brannan, 44-year-old former Denver lawyer, was appointed secretary of agriculture yesterday. Brannan's appointment must be confirmed by the senate. He was appointed to succeed Clinton P. Anderson, who resigned May 10 to run for the senate in New Mexico.

Brannan has been an employee of the agriculture department since June, 1944. He has cattle ranching interests in eastern Colorado.

Insides of Cyclones, Eight-Year Promise Acted on by Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senate tidied up its legislative attic yesterday. Before it had finished it had voted to:

1. Find out what goes on inside a cyclone, and
2. Keep a promise to 35 men who went to Greenland eight years ago.

First, that cyclone business. The weather bureau, which wonders about such things, has been cooperating with the army and navy to send airplanes into the middle of thunderstorms.

The senate now gives the weather bureau the authority to mess around the insides of cyclones, hurricanes and assorted atmospheric windbags.

The bill goes to the house. Next, the 35 men who went to Greenland.

The time was 1940, and the U.S. was neutral. But it was very interested, nevertheless, in a cyclone mine in Greenland. For cyclone is used in making aluminum.

Now the U.S. couldn't send military personnel to Greenland. So 35 members of the coast guard volunteered to leave the service and go as regular citizens.

They were to act as a guard, and they had a promise that some day legislation would be passed to guarantee them an unbroken service record.

Today congress finally got around to keep that eight-year-old promise. The bill must be signed by the President before it becomes law.

House Group Firm On GOP Trade Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The house rules committee pinned a "this or nothing" tag on the Republican trade agreements bill yesterday. Secretary of State Marshall said he would rather have nothing. The rules committee, moreover, voted to limit house debate on the measure to three hours. It scheduled a vote for Wednesday.

While the administration asked an outright extension of the reciprocal trade agreement act for three years, the GOP bill extends it for but one year. Further, it created a congressional veto power over the agreements if the President exceeds specified tariff-cutting limits set by the federal tariff commission.

Politics — President Plans No Stops in Iowa Details of Truman's Speaking Tour Revealed

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman's swing across the country next month calls for five major addresses and a host of lesser ones.

Details of the pre-convention trip came from the White House yesterday. The president plans to leave Washington by special train June 3 and return around June 16. No stops in Iowa are planned.

The major addresses are scheduled at Chicago June 4, Omaha June 5, Seattle June 10, Berkeley, Calif., June 12 and Los Angeles June 14. Others are shown on map.

The talks will cover a wide variety of subjects, ranging from displaced persons to the American foreign policy. They are expected to include Mr. Truman's views on reclamation and conservation, defense, public power and other items.

On the way back, the President plans to leave Los Angeles for Washington June 14, spending a day or two en route at Kansas

Communist Says U.S. Party Free of Moscow

About 700 persons heard a Communist last night in Macbride auditorium. He was Al Rubio, youth director of the Illinois district of the Communist party (USA).

He came here from Chicago to discuss with Robert Iversen, instructor in the history department and Prof. Bernard Baum of the English department, "Is There a Place for Communism in America?"

The forum, sponsored by SUI Young Democrats and Students for Wallace, was moderated by Prof. Robert S. Hoyt of the history department.

Setting the tone of the meeting with quotes from the first amendment to the U.S. constitution and from Article 125 of the Soviet constitution, Hoyt described the forum as part of education which "consists of widening one's knowledge . . . acquiring the ability to think."

Speaking first and last in the panel discussion, Rubio said "yes" to the forum's query. He declared Communist's "real" influence is its "identity with the fundamental problems of America." He denied charges of "taking orders from Russia or a World Communism movement."

American Communists "do take an interest in the general principles of Marx, Lenin, Engels and Stalin, and we teach and explain these principles," he added. "We don't try to hide our solutions for American problems."

Rubio declared that Americans were "very much concerned and shocked" when the U.S. "quickly snatched away" Soviet proposals for discussion of U.S.-Soviet differences. "We can live in peace for some time to come," he added.

Speaking for the Young Democrats, Iversen declared that all the reforms advocated by Rubio were in reality tactical moves for establishing what he termed the "totalitarian dictatorship" by the Communist party.

He said the "basic American belief in political democracy" is in direct conflict with the Communism approach. He went on to say that where political democracy is preserved, the people may vote into power any type of economic system they desire—socialism, capitalism or communism.

He said that the people should be allowed the privilege of voting the Communists into power if they so desire—"but they should be aware of the goods they are buying." The goods are represented as democratic by the Communists, he said, but they are in (See FORUM Page 8)

Date for Noble Trial To Be Set This Week

SOUTH BEND, IND. (AP)—Date for the trial of Robert D. Noble, 29, Iowa City, on charges of reckless homicide, will be set here this week by Circuit Judge Dan Fyle. Noble, assistant secretary of the University of Iowa Alumni association, was indicted after an investigation of the death of two college students here last Oct. 25.

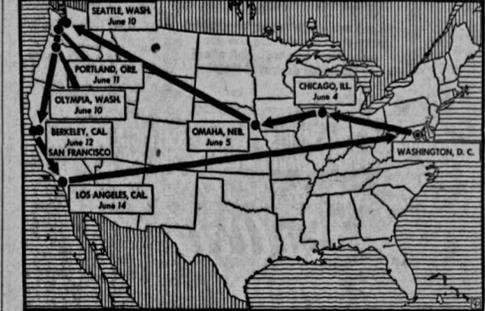

Noble's car is alleged to have struck a group of students that was crossing the highway near the University of Notre Dame.

Noble pleaded innocent at his arraignment March 10 and provided $2,000 bond for his release pending trial.

May 29 Deadline Set For College Changes

All students who plan to register for the summer session in a different college of the university must complete the formal application for admission to the new college before May 29, according to the registrar's office.

All students who plan to transfer from the colleges of liberal arts, commerce, engineering, law, or the graduate college must call at the registrar's office immediately for the required application blanks. Registration in a different college will not be permitted unless the student has been admitted to the new college.

City and his home town of Independence, Mo. Mr. Truman's Chicago address will be at the opening of the observance of the 100th anniversary of Swedish immigration into the Midwest. Prior to approval in Chicago, platform speeches are planned at Fort Wayne and Gary, Ind. Mr. Truman's second major talk at Omaha will be before the 35th division reunion. On June 6 he will attend church services at Kearney, Neb.

Iowa Rips Louisiana Tech, 11-3; Germuska, DiMarco Split Hurling

Teams Play Again Today

By BUCK TURNBULL
Sports Editor

Iowa's baseball team rapped out 14 hits yesterday afternoon to overwhelm Louisiana Tech of Ruston, La., 11-3.

The victory set the Hawkeyes' season record at 14 wins, and 10 losses. The two teams will meet again this afternoon at 3:30.

The Hawks did all their scoring in the first five innings. They scored two runs in each of the first three frames and added four more in the fourth and one in the fifth.

Right-hander Larry Germuska started on the mound for Iowa, allowing one hit and two runs in four innings. He was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the last of the fourth but received credit for the victory.

Al DiMarco hurled the last five innings, giving up three bingles and the other Louisiana run. DiMarco's two trips to the plate gave his batting average—highest on the Hawk squad—quite a boost. He batted out a triple and a single, raising his average to .571.

Louisiana Tech split the pitching duties among three chuckers, Tom Herrin, Jim Delacroix and Henry Albritton. All were unsuccessful in quelling the Iowa bats.

Don McCarty was the big gun for the Hawks in number of hits with three singles. But the long clout of the afternoon was Pete Everett's home run to right-centerfield in the second inning. That ball would probably still be rolling if the right-fielder hadn't caught up with it.

Dale Erickson continued his timely hitting with two singles while Jack Dittmer had a double and a single in five times at bat. A good portion of Iowa's runs were unearned, although the Hawks did manage to hit in every inning. The southerners booted the ball all over the lot in committing seven errors in the first five frames.

Iowa led, 6-2, going into the last of the fourth. Germuska was scheduled to be the first hitter but Coach Otto Vogel decided to switch pitchers. So Dick Hoeksema, a pitcher and good left-handed hitter, batted for Germuska.

Hoeksema was hit by the first pitched ball and took first. Don Martin came in to run for him. Then the four-run inning started. Bob Smith was safe on the third baseman's error; Erickson singled to score Martin; Dittmer doubled to send Smith and Erickson home, and McCarty came through with a single after two were out, scoring Dittmer. The score stood at 10-2 after Bob Primrose popped out and the game was finished.

Hoeksema will probably face T. L. (Lefty) Smith in today's finale. . . . Smith is undefeated in five starts. . . . Iowa and Tech opened the Hawks' season at Ruston in March. . . . Louisiana won the first game, 2-0, and Iowa the second, 2-1.

Umpire George Magerkurth and Tech's Lester Burks, who played left field and first base, had a brief squabble in the seventh inning. . . . But old "Mage," veteran of 19 years in the National league, showed what an umpire is paid for. . . . He called Burks out on strikes and the Tech player gave the towering ump a little sass. . . . Said George, "When I call 'em strikes, they're strikes—that's all."

Champ Full of Sour Grapes, But Martin Says — Louis To Beat Walcott

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Louis says that Jersey Joe Walcott isn't game, and if he means Jersey Joe isn't some wild creature that can be stalked and trapped he's probably right. At least the champion didn't have much luck trapping him the last time.

If he means Walcott just doesn't have a resolute heart when it comes to fist fighting we think he is wrong, and that the assertion was another ill-advised bit of oral exercise. Louis has been full of sour grapes since his narrow squeeze in his bout with Walcott last December, and a lot of people don't like sour grapes.

These sour grapes—or gripes—might be the better word—have been liberally sprinkled with alibis. The champion dried out too much before their last bout. His reflexes were operating in wait time. He didn't have his strength. He didn't have this and he didn't do that. You'd almost think the guy lost the fight.

Such an attitude is strictly out of character for the man everyone has regarded with tremendous respect through his long reign as champion. When he won, it always was "another lucky night, I guess." And that was all. He won over Walcott as far as record is concerned, but the very fact he is brooding about it and belittling Jersey Joe indicates he isn't too sure he deserved the decision.

In accusing Walcott of lack of gameness the champion put himself in a position of a guy with an axe in his hand chasing a turkey and yelling: "Come here and let me whack at your neck, you cowardly so-and-so."

Because Walcott wouldn't stand still and let the champion work on him with those axes which pass as fists is no reflection on Jersey Joe's gameness. Rather, it is tribute to his mental agility.

On their respective records, Walcott could not expect to stand up to Louis in a toe-to-toe slugging match. He fought what might be called a cute fight and, in the minds of a great many spectators, should have been declared winner. If that was lack of gameness, a lot of fellows who fought Louis in the last 10 years would have done much better if they had a little of the same.

We have seen neither Louis nor Walcott since they started training for their meeting June 23. But, even if the pictures we saw of the champion when he returned from Europe indicated he was carrying about 200 pounds and dragging 50 more, at this writing we still think he will win by a knockout the next time out.

Maybe we are overly influenced by memories of the Louis of other fights—the sleek, stalking, deadly panther. Maybe we are putting too much stress on his tremendous pride. After all, maybe Walcott is proud, too, and just because a man is proud doesn't mean he has the physical equipment to do anything he pleases. And what is it they say about pride coming before a fall?

Whether the champion wins or loses, we'd like to see him do it with the grace he has shown on so many occasions in the past when the victory bell always tolled for him.

Accusing Walcott of lack of gameness, criticizing his running tactics and otherwise making derogatory statements isn't a boon to Louis' popularity. And if Jersey Joe was running all the time, the ring posts or the referee must have given Louis some awful whops on the head.

Cardinals Side-Tracked, 6-2

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Walt Dubiel retired the first 18 men in order and then went on to hurl three-hit ball as the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals, 6 to 2, last night. One of the Cards' hits was Stan Musial's homer following Red Schoendienst' single in the seventh.

Johnny Blatnik was the big gun in the Phils' nine-hit attack, although Dubiel himself came through with a single and a double. Blatnik drove in two runs with a double and a triple.

The Phillies held a 3-0 lead going into the seventh behind the perfect pitching of Dubiel. Then Schoendienst broke the spell with a single and Musial cracked out his seventh home run of the season. The only other hit was a ninth-inning single by Evr Dusak. Blatnik's double gave the Phils their initial run in the opening frame. Dubiel's double followed by Richie Ashburn's bunt and a double play was good for another in the third.

Ralph Caballero's single and Blatnik's three-ply blow produced the third run in the fifth. Singles by Dubiel and Ashburn, a walk, and two successive errors by Nippy Jones accounted for the Phils' three tallies in the seventh.

Ashburn ran his consecutive hitting streak to 14 games while Enos Slaughter's streak was halted at 17.

Hogan Faces Turnesa In PGA Final

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Little Ben Hogan handed his fellow former Texan Jimmy Demaret, a 2 and 1 setback for a birthday present and milk Mike Turnesa upset his favored neighbor, Claude Harmon, in a 37-hole tussle yesterday in semi-final matches of the Professional Golfers' association championship.

Turnesa, whose White Plains, N. Y., club is about three miles from Harmon's at Mamaroneck, N. Y., rallied to catch Big Claude on the 35th and then beat him with a birdie three on the extra hole. It was Harmon's second overtime struggle in successive matches, as he had to go 42 holes to beat Sam Snead Sunday.

In the tussle of Texans, Hogan staved off Demaret's late rally that twice squared the match, and finally won out by taking the 33rd and 34th holes in successive and halving the 35th. Hogan and Demaret both hail from Texas originally, although Bantam Ben now registers from Hershey, Pa., and Big Jimmy from Ojai, Calif.

Today's 36-hole clash will be the second PGA final for Hogan, who won the title two years ago, and the first for Turnesa although each has competed in six championship tournaments.

Yesterday was Demaret's 35th birthday but his only chance to celebrate came when he rallied on the second 18 to square the match twice after being 3-down at the end of the morning round. It was the second time Hogan and Demaret, who frequently team together in four-ball matches, had met in the PGA semi-finals. Two years ago Hogan won 10 and 9.

Turnesa, who will be 40 years old next month, staged a more successful pursuit. Never more than one hole down until he blew himself to a six on the 28th. Mike played steady golf for his victory after Harmon began pressing and lost his touch toward the end.

On the extra hole Mike came through with a smartly-played birdie three, using a fine faded pitch and run shot to the green and then sinking a 15 foot putt. Harmon tried the same approach but hooked a little and his ball kicked off to the left of the green. After chipping up, he failed to hole a putt slightly longer than Turnesa's.

In his previous PGA appearances, Mike never had gone beyond the third round, losing to Byron Nelson at that stage in 1945.

Tight Pitching Gives IC Cards Double Win

Iowa City's Cardinals combined two brilliant pitching jobs by Manager Ralph Tucker and Paul Reberry to down Dubuque, 2-1, and 4-2, Sunday night.

Tucker won the opener by twirling a two-hitter, while Reberry gave up only three blows during his stint on the mound in the night-cap.

In the preliminary game Russell's steakhouse, girls team, lost its opening game of the season to Lucas, 8-3.

Scribe Does It the Hard Way

POSITION IS EVERYTHING—At least Iowan First Baseman Ray Eastman's interesting style of covering the bag paid off in this play Sunday in which he retired WSU's dapper Bob Brooks. Eastman had touched the base a moment before this picture was snapped. The radio station went on to break up the pitcher's duel in the ninth inning to win, 15-14.

Prince Hal Finishes Strong To Win, 5-2

DETROIT (AP)—Pitching his way past a shaky start, Hal Newhouse settled down with shutout hurling through the last eight innings whipped the Washington Senators 5 to 2.

Three successive hits in the opening inning, singles by Al Koza and Mickey Vernon and a triple by Gil Coan, sent the Senators off flying with a 2-0 lead, but Newhouse applied the brakes right there.

Hal yielded only four hits the rest of the way, retiring 17 of the last 18 men to face him, as he took his third victory of the year.

Dodgers End 8-Game Losing Streak, Wallop Cincy, 9-4

BROOKLYN (AP)—Brooklyn's eight-game losing streak ended yesterday as Preacher Roe lefthanded the Dodgers to a 9-4 victory over Cincinnati.

To the relief of 8,054 paid customers and embarrassed thousands who listened at home behind drawn blinds the win pulled the Brooks out of the cellar after an overnight stay. The Reds took over.

A six-run fourth inning did the job for the Dodgers, knocking out Starter Kent Peterson with his fourth loss. Singles by Jackie Robinson and Carl Furillo and a double by Bruce Edwards started the big frame. Two walks and a three-run double by Eddie Miksis chased Peterson. Miksis then stole home while reliever Bud Lively was winding up.

Robinson capped his three-hit day with a home run into the center field seats in the seventh. Billy Cox banged his second homer of the year to the left field stands in the sixth. Both blows came off the Veteran Bucky Walters, third Cincy hurler.

Roe allowed eight singles. All of the Cincinnati runs were unearned.

Prior to the game, the Dodgers suffered a serious blow when Relief Pitcher Hugh Casey was placed on the disabled list. Casey will be lost to the team for 60 days.

The veteran fireman slipped on the stairs in his apartment yesterday morning and fell heavily on his right side. X-ray pictures showed no break but the big righthander was taped up heavily and sent home.

Davenport, Monona Meet for State Title

MASON CITY (AP)—Davenport and Monona will meet here today at 3:30 p. m. in the finals of the state high school baseball tournament. They are the same two teams that played for the title last year, Davenport winning, 5-1.

Since that time, Monona, winner of the state high school ball tournament, has gone undefeated through 34 straight games. Davenport has lost one game this season.

Davenport moved into the finals yesterday by trimming Kanawha, 3-2.

Jay Riedesel, Davenport pitcher, helped win his own ball game with a home run with none on in the sixth after Kanawha's Pitcher Bob Goodnow had poked out a two-run homer an inning earlier.

Yesterday's four-bagger was the second in the tournament for Goodnow who poled a round-tripper with the bases loaded last Saturday.

Schools To Aid Olympics

Fraternalities To Use New Rush System

A new "hotel-type" plan of rushing has been set up by Interfraternity Council for the 1948 fall semester, Joe Poulter, council president, announced recently.

Under the new plan, it will be required that both rushers and fraternity men arrive on campus three days before registration begins. These days will be devoted entirely to rushing.

Through the cooperation of the university dormitory housing office, certain sections of the men's dormitories will be set aside for rush week. All men desiring to go through formal rush week must live in these sections unless planning to live in a private home with relatives.

Cafeteria facilities in the Quadrangle dormitory will be available throughout the three-day period.

A charge of $6.00 for six nights will be made for the accommodations with a charge of $1.00 for additional nights. There will also be a $1.00 registration fee, payable at the time of registration.

Registration will begin at noon Sunday, September 12. Actual rushing periods will begin at 5 p. m. on Monday, September 13 and will continue through Tuesday and Wednesday, according to the following scheduled periods: 11 a. m. to 2 p. m.; 2 p. m. to 5 p. m.; 5 p. m. to 8 p. m., and 8 p. m. to 12 midnight.

No man will be pledged from the close of school this semester until September 17, and then only men who have registered for rush week may be pledged.

Men who did not register may not be pledged by any fraternity until October 1. That date will mark the beginning of informal rushing, which may be carried on by the various fraternities for the rest of the semester.

Musicians To Give Two Recitals Today

Student musicians will present two recitals today at 4:10 p. m. in north and south music halls, Prof. Philip Greeley Clapp announced yesterday.

Vocal, piano, clarinet, trumpet, viola, bassoon and oboe selections will be offered by recitalists. Musicians include:

Here is the Schedule Again; Final Exams Begin Thursday

The Daily Iowan today reprints the final examination schedule for the colleges of commerce, education, engineering, liberal arts and the graduate college. Examinations are to be held from May 27 to noon June 4, according to J. Harvey Croy, acting director of the examination service.

Where two courses in different departments conflict, the one with the lower department number takes precedence. If two courses in the same department conflict, the one with the lower course number takes precedence.

In general, courses having examinations early in the period last fall appear late in the period in this semester's examination schedule.

SUI To Inaugurate Major in 'Thinking'

New Course To Cut Departmental Lines

By RAY HENRY

A new major which permits better students to cut across departmental boundaries was approved Thursday by the liberal arts executive committee.

The program in "European Literature and Thought" will go into effect next fall.

It will acquaint students with basic methods and material in philosophy, literature, art, history and the social sciences. It will attempt to integrate these fields more than previously has been possible in one department in hopes that students will develop the ability to read closely and analytically.

Liberal Arts Dean Earl J. McGrath said the new major "will give students a chance to come in contact with fundamental problems of human life and to see how certain great minds have dealt with them."

This sounds like a big order, but sponsors of the new major felt a successful attempt to fulfill these objectives was carried out the past two semesters.

It was done, they said, in a single course called "Contributions to European Thought and Literature" when a select group of students dipped into Machiavelli, Plato, Rabelais, Frazer, Aeschylus, O'Neill, St. Francis, Marlowe, Goethe, Milton, Locke, Freud, Shakespeare and Eliot.

The theme of the course was "Myth and Reason" and, along liberal lines, the professors prompted discussion on these subjects. The teaching was an adaptation of the Socratic method and two or more professors participated in each discussion. From time to time, visiting experts were invited to take part in the discussion.

The material of the course varied, as the list of authors shows, from politics to anthropology. The students were chosen because they ranked high scholastically and for their background.

The course, taught regularly by English Professors Victor Harris and Joseph Baker and Classics Prof. Gerald Else and sporadically by History Prof. George Mosse and McGrath, blossomed into the new major.

These same men were among the group instrumental in getting the major established and, although the staff hasn't been announced, some of them will undoubtedly be a part of it this fall.

The new major's first official consideration was by a committee of 14 representing ten departments in the college of liberal arts. The committee set up the requirements for the major which have been accepted by the liberal arts curriculum and executive committees.

They were:
12 hours: Seminar in European Literature and Thought
12 hours: History; Social Sciences
12 hours: Philosophy; History of Science
12 hours: Literature (third year foreign language courses may be counted)
3 hours: Fine Arts (excluding studio courses)

Command of one language other than English.
The requirements, totalling 51 hours, will be in addition to the core courses, mathematics and communications skills and physical education.

The backbone of the new major will be the seminar course, which will be organized almost exactly along the lines of the course taught this year. Four semester courses are planned, to be called "Myth and Reason," "The Good Society," "Nature and the Nature of Man" and "Values in the Contemporary Society."

The seminar will be the integrator of the history, philosophy, literature and arts courses. It will attempt to draw the loose ends together and fit them into a pattern.

A NEW MAJOR FIELD in which classes will operate along almost the same lines as this class in "European Literature and Thought" was approved by the liberal arts executive committee last Thursday. Emphasizing informal discussion, the seminar course will be the backbone of the new major. It will attempt to integrate such fields as philosophy, literature, fine arts, history and the social sciences.

literature and arts courses. It will attempt to draw the loose ends together and fit them into a pattern.

As during this year, however, the course will be open to majors from all departments.

The major, at least until students reach their junior year, will be organized along the same lines as any other liberal arts major. By the time a student is a junior, however, he will have completed the basic required courses and will go into the seminar and other fields.

Harris said the major will be an advanced "History of Ideas" with emphasis on original sources.

"The principle of the major," he said, "envisages an active cooperation among several departments. It will give the student an opportunity to prepare himself along broad lines."

Of the major in general, McGrath said, "It will provide a forum in which every student in class has a chance to express himself on serious matters. It will give students a chance to defend their opinions before a group of critical persons, both faculty and students."

Fishing Violation Cost 5 Persons $12.50 Each

Fishing without a license and taking game fish out of season cost five persons $12.50 each in justice of the peace court yesterday morning.

Eugene E. Page and Jerry Peterson, both of Cedar Rapids, and Howard L. Wilson, Coralville, were fined for fishing without licenses.

Delbert W. Newton and Leo Newton, both of Brooklyn, Iowa, charged with taking game fish out of season, were fined $40 each plus $2.50 costs. Justice of the Peace J.M. Kadlec suspended $30 of each of the fines.

The five men were arrested Sunday at Lake MacBride by Wes Ashby, state conservation officer.

County Attorney Charges Two Men in Auto Theft

County Attorney Jack C. White filed information yesterday in Johnson county district court, charging two Davenport men with operating an automobile without the owner's consent.

The men, Raymond D. Jacobs, 32, and Norman C. Griffis, 18, were arrested by highway patrolmen near Walcott early on the morning of May 16. The Davenport men had run out of gas at that point.

The group also elected Prof. Harry Wade, president of the organization. Other officers elected were Prof. John Partington, vice-president, and Prof. George Hartman, secretary-treasurer.

IC Dump, 16 Alleys Get DDT Spraying

Sixteen downtown alleys and the Iowa City dump last night received the first of five DDT sprays scheduled during the season in the city-wide "fly fight."

The spraying of about 85 downtown food-handling establishments Saturday night and Sunday, and last night's DDT applications in alleys and the dump were the climax of a week-long intensive anti-fly program.

Householders are being asked to make additional applications of DDT to screens and garbage cans throughout the season in order to insure the success of the campaign.

Warm Weather Attracts Youngsters to University Playgrounds

Instructors Offer Suggestions for Safe Play

By BETTY LOU EHLKE

Warm weather and sunshine spell marbles and mischief for approximately 730 youngsters in the married student housing areas. Until playground areas have been completed, mothers will be keeping an eye on "junior" to see that he stays away from the lagoon and doesn't get in the path of on-rushing autos.

Helen Poulsen, recreation instructor in the women's physical education department, and Ann Nugent, head teacher for three-year-olds at the Iowa child welfare laboratory pre-schools, offered several suggestions to keep Johnny and Jane safe and happy.

Miss Poulsen urged parents to show real interest in their children's recreation. Children definitely like rules in games, she said. They feel responsible if they know games well enough to teach them to other children.

Miss Nugent warned parents their three- and four-year-olds will have trouble with fill-in color books. They don't have the muscle development to stay within the lines, she explained. Large sheets of paper are better and may be obtained cheaply at printing companies.

Finger painting is another good pastime for three and four-year-olds, according to Miss Nugent. Finger paint may be obtained commercially but is quite expensive. A mixture of thick starch with added vegetable coloring will do the trick just as well, she said. She suggested a heavy surface with a glossy side or even heavy wrapping paper to paint on. "Small children will do much scribbling at first, but they'll gradually make representative objects," Miss Nugent said.

Five and six-year-olds like stunts and singing games, said Miss Poulsen. The duck walk is a favorite stunt. The children squat, take hold of ankles and walk like ducks, quacking at the same time.

"Dog and the bone" and "queens headache" are popular for child groups, according to Miss Poulsen.

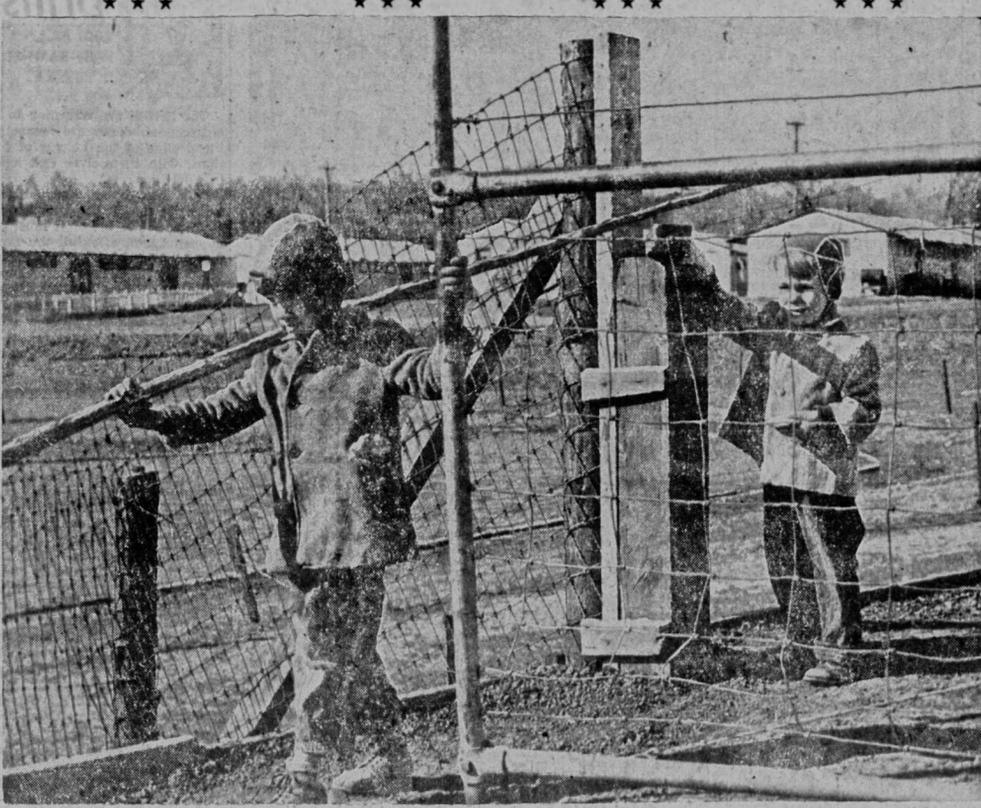

In "dog and the bone," the dog sits with hands over his eyes on a chair or bench in front of the room. His back is toward the other players and his bone (dumbbell, eraser, book, etc.) under the chair. The other children take turns trying to sneak up on the dog and touch the bone without being heard. If the dog hears one of them coming, he may turn to see him and player returns to his seat. The object of the game is to touch the bone without being heard by the dog. The child successful takes the dog's place.

In "queens headache" all but the queen are seated at one end of the room. The queen sits at the opposite end, blindfolded. The leader tells how the queen has such a dreadful headache, and how her ladies in waiting are so noisy the queen has dismissed them all. The queen is now choosing new attendants, regardless of beauty. The only requirement is that they walk quietly.

So everyone may have a chance, one at a time with a nod from the leader, they go across the room and touch the queen on the knee, before she is aware of their presence. If the queen hears a noise, she groans and the player must sit on the floor where caught.

As another idea, Miss Poulsen said five and six-year-olds can easily make bean bags that won't roll when dropped. Have the children sew Catalpa beans or regular navy beans inside two rectangular pieces of material.

A little more on the cultural side, Miss Nugent said children develop an interest in music and books when records and literature are handy around the house. "They especially enjoy folk songs and nursery rhymes," she commented.

Mothers Solicit Money to Build Playgrounds

By JOHN WEBER

In spring, the fancy young housewives softly turn their kids outside—especially the housewives in the married student housing areas.

After stepping on kids all winter, they welcome the chance to get the kids from underfoot. For the kids, it's a chance to explode the energy stored up while winter-cooped in crowded trailers and apartments.

Once they're turned loose, the kids can get into more trouble than a United Nations conference. With taxis whizzing through the areas, lagoons to fall into, and gates to swing on, life outside the narrow trailer wall probably seems wonderful to the kids, but it worries their parents.

The problem of safe recreation for their pre-school tots is a tangled one for married students. One solution, they think is outdoor playgrounds in each area.

Mrs. Joe Clyde, 207 Westlawn, started the playground ball rolling when she discovered from an American Legion auxiliary representative that the organization has a welfare fund they didn't know what to do with. Mrs. Clyde knew exactly what they could do with it.

After clearing the project with the organization's national board in New York last August, the married students had some financial backing for their playground idea. Each playground was to receive $50 for equipment.

But there was a string attached. The money would not be donated until the villagers built enclosures for the children of each area.

The university came to the rescue. They agreed dollar for dollar to match student donations for fencing material up to a maximum of one dollar for each housing unit. Six of the eleven housing areas now have either completed or started the enclosures.

Other donations poured in. The State bank donated $20 for paint. Linder Tire Service, 21 E. College, offered to supply old tires for swings.

Roger Barnt, 109 Westlawn, organized and headed the first playground committee. He collaborated with the child welfare agency to determine the type of playground equipment suitable and had blue prints drawn. Mrs. David Owens, 111 Newton took over his duties as playground committee chairman last November.

When the playgrounds are completed, each will be equipped with two packing boxes to serve as Sherman tanks or pirate ships, two planks to double as slides and teeter-totters, two sawhorses and a sandbox.

The limiting factor in the whole playground project is time. Fathers with crowded study schedules have to squeeze time from their economics notes to build and paint the equipment. Mothers have to turn from busy household chores to supervise the play.

So far none of the areas has completely solved the playground problem, but all are in various stages of working on it.

Playschools, on the other hand, are more completely and efficiently organized to entertain the married students' youngsters safely. The USMO playschool in the basement of the Congregational church is an example of that solution to the play problem.

Four mornings each week, the supervised playschool holds "classes for the children of campus parents. The curriculum includes such activities as free play; supervised play like pasteing, finger painting and modeling with clay; listening to records; a "juice and cracker" session; rest periods, and outdoor play.

Monthly tuition for two such classes a week is $3, for four classes $6. Mrs. Allen Rutenbeck, playschool supervisor, said there are some openings for the Monday-Thursday class sessions.

"Anyone interested in enrolling their children in the playschool, Mrs. Rutenbeck said, "could contact Mrs. L.O. Ely, chairman of the school council, by phoning 7535."

Mrs. Caryl Lewis, assistant playschool supervisor, said they planned to expand the playschool in the near future to accommodate more children.

AN OCCUPATIONAL HAZARD of being a playschool supervisor is the constant exposure to the cold virus. Mrs. Allan Rutenbeck here "powders" the nose of little Joyce Peterson, 2, 153 Stadium park. Bright-eyed Joyce stopped running just long enough to let Mrs. Rutenbeck stop her nose from running.

UP AND COMING ARTISTS demonstrate their talents in the art room of an Iowa child welfare laboratory pre-school located at 10 E. Market street. Anne Nugent, head teacher for three-year-olds at the laboratory, suggests that parents let their children paint on large sheets of paper rather than fill-in color books.

"JUICE AND CRACKERS" is a regular feature of the USMO playschool held four days a week in the basement of the Congregational church. Hostess at the upper table is Mrs. William Lewis, assistant playschool supervisor. Seated at her table from left to right are Judy Stevens, 2; Doug Morgan, 4; Nancy Boltkins, 2; Gregory Scott, 2, and Marilyn Marshall, 4. Seated with backs to camera are Fanny Biele, 3½, and Eddie Sayre, 2½. (Daily Iowa Photos by John Weber and Betty Lou Ehlke)

TEARING DOWN THE PLAYGROUND in Riverdale occupies the time of Cordy Dimbat, Mike Lewis and Micky Smith, all of Riverdale. Since there is no equipment in the wire enclosure and no one to supervise them, the kids have their own ideas of what a playground is for.

DOING THE DUCK WALK, pupils of Henry Sabin school are being instructed by Helen Poulsen of the university women's physical education department. The children squat, take hold of their ankles and walk like ducks, quacking at the same time.

How About 'Politics Day' At SUI?

(From Cedar Rapids Gazette)

Last Tuesday this writer sat in on the hearing which the state board of education accorded student organizations from state schools. Four groups from the University of Iowa appeared—three political in nature and the other a veterans' organization. An Iowa State Teachers college student political organization sent a telegram.

The students asked the board to change its policy banning candidates for political office from speaking on the campus.

At first glance this question may seem easy to decide. The board could answer either "Yes, we'll change the policy," or "No, we won't." But it isn't that simple when all the angles are considered.

Board members were much in sympathy with the student representatives—who, incidentally, did an excellent job of presenting their arguments.

But board members still are at a loss to know how to be fair unless they either (1) bar all political candidates from the campuses of state schools, or (2) allow all of them equal privileges to use facilities. One question is: Isn't there some danger of making our schools into political hotbeds if some control isn't exercised?

Student representatives and board members alike agreed that a line must be drawn somewhere on appearances of political candidates. But both admitted they were at a loss as to where to draw that line—and, in a sense, who should draw it.

Board members feel that it falls within their jurisdiction to draw it.

Students argued that they should be allowed to invite candidates of their choices to appear—which means they feel it should be within their jurisdiction to draw the line.

However, as board members asked, what happens to candidates who are not invited by a student group to appear on the campus? Haven't they as much right to do so as those who are so honored? And so the discussion went.

There was no disposition on the part of the board to deny students the right to hear political candidates. In fact, it was our impression that the board will do everything it can to reach a decision June 29 which will be favorable to the student plea.

After all, student representatives pointed out, there are more students of voting age on our campuses today than ever before—over 50 percent on most of them. And in a great many instances these adult students are veterans who fought for this country, who are as much interested in its future—and who most certainly have a much greater stake in that future than older voters who won't be here as long.

In as much as suggestions usually are in order in these matters, we'll offer ours as a possible solution.

Why not establish a "Politics day" on the campuses of the state schools? This day could be set aside for the students to hear every candidate who had filed his nomination papers for United States senator or a state office. Every candidate would be invited to share the facilities before the students on the same day—and every student would have the opportunity to see and to hear all who accepted the invitation.

We believe such a day on campuses would be a great one both in the lives of the students and in the lives of the candidates, who need to be brought in closer touch now and then with the thinking of younger persons. The whole thing could be done up in a single day—or even in an afternoon—and through a most democratic procedure.

However, this does not answer the question of what to do with presidential candidates and those for county and local offices.

It appears to us that every declared candidate for the presidency could be invited to the campuses. Undoubtedly most candidates could not accept but there could be no cry that they had been forbidden the right to appear before the students on the campus.

So far as local candidates are concerned, the student body comes from every county in Iowa and from many other states. Therefore, it hardly seems possible, with their interest in local candidates so widely scattered, that there would be enough concentrated interest in the candidates of any particular county or locality to warrant appearances of these candidates on the campuses.

It would be far better for students to visit nearby local and county rallies if they wanted a real lesson in practical politics, whether or not they were interested in the personalities involved.

Since our state elections are biennial, only one day in two years—or a single afternoon—would be lost from school work, and something valuable would be gained. Presidential elections come only once in four years, which would mean these appearances would be at a minimum too.

There may be bugs in this proposal. But we advance it for the board's consideration because we know the board is as interested as the students in fixing a policy that is satisfactory to the majority and which is in accord with the right of candidates to be heard and the right of the citizenry—and that includes both adult and minor students—to hear them.

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

Lenin the God, Stalin the Prophet

By J.M. ROBERTS JR., AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Stalin warps Lenin's policies to fit the wolf of modern pressures, but he and those about him constantly proclaim their devotion to the Lenin dogma.

What would Lenin do? Here are some of the things he said which live in the Communist religion today and which bear directly on what can be expected from the Kremlin.

"Until the final issue is decided, the state of terrible war (between the bourgeoisie and proletariat) will continue."

"Either the Soviet government triumphs in every advanced country in the world, or the most reactionary imperialism triumphs... this is the Anglo-American imperialism..."

"If war is waged by the proletariat after it has conquered the bourgeoisie in its own country (as in Russia) and is waged with the object in its own country (as in Russia) and is waged with the object of strengthening and extending socialism, such a war is legitimate and 'holy.'"

"The practical task of communism is to take advantage of this hostility (between various capitalist strata and between capitalist countries) and to excite one against the other."

"A communist must be prepared to make every sacrifice and, if necessary, to resort to all sorts of schemes and stratagems, employ illegitimate methods, conceal the truth..."

"The next practical task for women today is 'to make it possible to combine a career with marriage and children,'" Dr. Bobula says.

"This may be done, she suggests, by measures like reducing the number of working hours per day to four or six instead of eight, by providing well staffed day nurseries for young children and by the development of commercial kitchens to provide home-cooked meals at the housewife's order."

"Housework ought to be divided between men and women as a sort of partnership," Dr. Bobula says. "It is a grand thing for harmony if both know the difficulty of the struggle for a living as well as the tediousness of housework."

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT British Petty Legalism

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

The British are returning to an old scandal. They are reenacting the decline of the League of Nations, with themselves cast again in a leading role.

It is incredible, after all the warnings the British people have given each other that it must not happen again, after all the times they have beat their heads against the wall for having let it happen in the Thirties, after all the books they have written and read on the subject, that they could be doing it once more. But they are.

They have drawn a thousand morals from the time when they let Ethiopia fall, when they let Spain fall, when they let Germany rear, when they let Mussolini grow strong, and they do not remember one of them.

The British seem to be doing their best to revive the almost forgotten but very bad reputation they had before the war in the field of collective action for security. That record was wiped out by a magnificent war effort, but it is being restored by a dismal diplomacy in the security council.

In the dreadful, petty legalisms the British are using today to justify their material and moral aid to the Arab lawbreakers, one catches again a breath of the air of the Thirties.

Perhaps the British people are prepared to have the United Nations collapse, to have the world slip into war again, to fight bravely again, and then to write a whole new set of very intelligent books again on, oh, the pity of it, and what a shame it was to make the same old mistakes again.

But the people of the rest of the world do not want to play this game again, and it is in utmost sincerity that the warning is directed to the people of Britain to take note that their country's reputation in the field of collective security is extremely poor as of long ago, and that it is continuing as such.

How many times can a mistake be repeated before the world begins to remark that such mistakes seem, in our time, to have flowed rather often from the same source, and that there is a library of literature, English-written, to prove it?

How many times can a mistake be repeated before the world comes to fear that it is not a mere succession of errors which is involved, but a basically incorrect approach to the problem of aggression, persisted in time after time until the day of ruin comes along to halt the game?

One remembers how Spain fell when one hears the British explain that they will not recognize Israel because there is no way of telling how long the new state will endure. It might endure longer if it obtained British recognition. The British excuse is like refusing to feed a hungry man on the ground that the miserable creature is starving to death.

One remembers how Japan was allowed its own way in Manchuria, when one hears the British say they will continue subsidies of arms and money to Transjordan until the Security Council rules Transjordan an aggressor—and then sees them working hard to minimize security council action, to keep it below the level of explicitly naming the aggressor.

The world remembers the last time, and behind the little legislative speeches there rises something like the terror of a scream.

The Real Murderers

TO THE DAILY IOWAN:

We murder one innocent man (at Waterloo) and—as if that were not enough—impel another innocent man to murder by creating conditions that destroy his reason and conscience with fear.

If this tragedy does not rend a man's heart to shreds and drive him to action, he is not human.

Mr. Roberts is not the murderer, and it is not he, his wife and their nine children who deserve to be penalized. The perpetrators and supporters of legislation typified in the Taft-Hartley law are the guilty ones!

It is they who deserve to be penalized!

Terrific Subway

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The subway is an underground avenue to and from work.

It is also a place where you can pick up a bedbug or a cold, make a home, commit a murder, hear a harmonica duet, meet a girl, close a business deal or buy a pencil from a blind man.

Some people believe the subway made modern New York City possible. Others are just as sure it has made the city impossible.

The subway is a twice-a-day purgatory to millions who have to ride it during the rush hours. To out-of-towners it is first an adventure, then just one more reason why "New York's a great place to visit, but I sure would hate to live here."

It is the safest, railroad in the world, but it remains a claustrophobic hell for many who get nervous when the train rolls under the east river. They j on for years dreading a tube collapse and swift drowning in rushing waters. It is futile to point out to these people this isn't likely to happen.

The subway is more than a transportation system that sews the town together. Some day it will have a Boswell to write its history, a Bobby Burns to sing its songs.

Some natives here when asked to give their place of birth can put down truthfully: "A subway station at so-and-so streets."

The roaring wheels—fascinating invitations to death for the life-sick—have extinguished the problems of living for hundreds who put their nickel in the turnstile for a pass to eternity. Beginning July 1 it will cost a dime.

The subway sometimes serves as a traveling store, home and concert hall for small-time opportunists. Romances have begun and ended in it. It is a place where cheap crooks make a living rolling drunks and grafters running floating crap games, moving from station to station every few hours to nick passersby.

Theoretically, a man could live forever in the subway—a full, crowded life at that. He could mooch his eating money from fellow passengers, sleep at night on the warm seats and change his socks in the rest rooms, where he could also do his laundry. In times of depression men have saved rent money that way for weeks. Whole families have done it for days.

The talented boy whose voice sounded swell in Keokuk but hasn't stirred an echo on Broadway often picks up small change yodelling to subway riders going home from the movies. Pitch men peddle novelty jewelry, wax flowers, neckties and song sheets.

The subway has the city's largest circulating libraries—trash boxes in which readers stuff newspapers and others pluck them out for free.

At every point the subway touches the life of the city. There even is a theory that the subway is responsible for the Brooklyn accent—it is the only speech that will penetrate the noise of grinding wheels.

Sex Appeal Threatens—SUI Organizations — Equal Rights Women's Recreation Association

By FRANCES LEWINE
NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (AP)—The biggest block in women's fight for equal rights has been fear of "losing sex appeal," says an expert in the field.

For more than 3,000 years, reports Dr. Ida Bobula, visiting lecturer at New Jersey College for Women of Rutgers university, men have been quick to use this potent weapon against feminists, suffragists and career women.

"Most women naturally would rather win a man's heart than fight for the right to sit beside him at a legislative session," she added.

Dr. Bobula, former professor of history at the University of Debrecen, Budapest, Hungary, was a leader in her own country's fight for woman suffrage and equal rights.

Now she is presenting the first course in "the history of women" ever given at NJC.

"The greatest revolution in the history of mankind—raising half of humanity to political equality—is essentially accomplished," she said. But the problem today, she adds, is whether women actually will participate equally with men in government.

"If we don't assume our responsibility, it may mean the greatest setback in human evolution," Dr. Bobula said.

American women are celebrating the centennial year of their fight for equal rights, "yet not even in this fortunate country are conditions favorable for combining both a career and marriage," she said.

Dr. Bobula recalled that one hundred years ago, in July, 1848, the first women's rights convention in history was held at Seneca Falls, N. Y. Actually, she says, the fight for these rights really began as far back as recorded history can recall.

Dr. Bobula, in her college course, traces the status of women through the ages and the periodic ebb and flow of power between the sexes.

"Humanity has been happiest in those periods when there has been a balance of power between men and women," she says.

"Always," she adds, "women have been a force for peace and the mutual understanding of nations, for sound democratic progress and social evolution. The world badly needs some female influence."

"The next practical task for women today is 'to make it possible to combine a career with marriage and children,'" Dr. Bobula says.

"This may be done, she suggests, by measures like reducing the number of working hours per day to four or six instead of eight, by providing well staffed day nurseries for young children and by the development of commercial kitchens to provide home-cooked meals at the housewife's order."

"Housework ought to be divided between men and women as a sort of partnership," Dr. Bobula says. "It is a grand thing for harmony if both know the difficulty of the struggle for a living as well as the tediousness of housework."

(This is the 14th of a series of articles dealing with university organizations. Others will appear on this page from time to time—The Editor.)

By BETTY-LOU EHLKE
The Women's Athletic association came into existence during the period when women were proving their capabilities in the field of athletics.

The WAA, which is now called the Women's Recreation association, was organized in 1911. Its aim was to promote spirit of fair play and sportsmanship among girls. The association grew from its original list of nine members to 200 in 1936.

Ten clubs sponsored by the WAA were Orchestra (dancing), Seals (swimming), outing, hockey, canoeing, archery, badminton, tennis, basketball and handcrafts.

Projects included seasonal tournaments, play days for colleges and high schools and all-freshmen parties.

By 1941, the emphasis had shifted from athletics to include outing, handcrafts and dancing. The constitution was revised and the organization became the Women's Recreation Association.

The purposes of the WRA are: 1. To stimulate interest and participation in worthwhile recreational activities.

2. To promote the ideals of health.

3. To create a spirit of good sportsmanship and fellowship.

4. To develop democratic techniques leading to efficient self-government.

Any university woman, graduate or undergraduate, who belongs in any one of the associated clubs or has actively participated in women's intramurals is a member of the WRA. University men or faculty members may become members by the same process.

Clubs Sponsored
The clubs sponsored by the WRA are Seals, Hick Hawks, Orchestra, basketball, hockey, softball, crafts, archery, tennis and badminton. New clubs may organize when an acceptable constitution is presented to the executive board.

Membership for the different clubs vary. Clubs are organized on the basis of try-outs with the hope that people who are participating will improve their skill. Each club has a faculty advisor who is approved by the Department of Physical Education for Women.

The executive board, governing body of the WRA, consists of the president of the association, the first vice-president, second vice-president, secretary, treasurer, publicity manager, intramural manager and assistant intramural manager.

The president presides over all meetings and appoints committees. The first vice-president is the social chairman and in charge of social dancing classes. The second vice-president acts as membership chairman and is in charge of roller skating.

Applications
The executive officers are nominated by the application system. Application for office is made by those who fill out an application blank and file it with the president of WRA. A committee composed of the senior members of the executive board in cooperation with the faculty advisor consider these applications and nominate two women for each office.

Regular meetings of the board are held at least twice a month. The date and time are set at the first meeting of the executive board in the fall.

The intramural program has its own student board which is affiliated with the WRA. The manager and assistant managers of intramurals are appointed by an intramural committee consisting of the faculty advisor of intramurals, and the faculty advisor of the WRA.

The organization is one of the largest on campus and has continually grown until it now has approximately 300 members.

The present executive board is revising the constitution, which was written in 1941. They hope to promote co-recreational activities in the clubs.

Officials Investigate Iowa River Death

Iowa county authorities yesterday were investigating the death of a man, believed to be W. A. Ray of Cheyenne, Wyo., whose body was found in the Iowa river near Marengo at 3:30 p. m. Sunday.

A man registered as Ray disappeared from the Doose hotel in Marengo April 16, leaving his luggage and clothes. The man had registered at the hotel April 12.

The body was found face down in the water by three men who were fishing in the river a mile east of Marengo.

The only mark of identification on the body was a ring engraved with the initial "R."

Salute to the Generals

There is altogether too much General lying around loose in this happy country. There are Generals here, there, everywhere—except where the Colonels and the Captains get a show for themselves.

There are two Generals now racing for the Presidential chair, there is one just disabled and out of the race; there is a vast host of officers and ex-officers burying themselves in politics in one way or another; and of the whole lot not more than half a dozen that we would not be glad to spare.

And those half-dozen are officers in active service, whom we should like to see strictly minding their business. (Editorial in Puck, the American humorous weekly, July 7, 1880.)

Says Army Threw in the Towel

ARMY EX-SERGEANT ARTHUR K. JEFFERSON, Baltimore, Md., isn't demonstrating the old saying that "cleanliness is next to Godliness." He is holding the Army medical department towel which he charges was left in his stomach after an operation in an Army hospital. Removed in an operation in 1946, the towel figures in his $100,000 suit against the government.

City Hopes To Expedite Pool By Meeting with Contractors

Prospects for early construction of the municipal swimming pool brightened last night when the city council called for a meeting of interested contractors with city officials next Thursday.

The decision to hold the meeting, scheduled for 4 p.m. in the city council chamber, came after pool engineer Ned L. Ashton advised the council that private negotiations for pool construction should begin as early as possible.

Ashton said he had received "more or less luke-warm expressions" from some contractors in regard to negotiating the work. He told the council he thought contracts could be negotiated within a week and it would be possible to build the pool this year within the $112,500 bond issue.

The original suggestion that the council might negotiate privately was made at the council's May 10 meeting after no bids were received on the pool bathhouse, bathhouse substructure and the main pool.

Alderman Max S. Hawkins last night suggested the city might act as its own contractor and hire someone to oversee the entire project. However, no definite decisions were made last night pending the outcome of Thursday afternoon's meeting.

The council set June 1 as the date for action on the issuance of $276,000 in bonds for the Benton street bridge. The resolution passed calls for the council to provide a tax levy to pay the interest on and principal of the bonds.

Only one objection to the bond issue was filed with the city clerk. It came from W. J. Teeters, who said he didn't believe Iowa City taxpayers "would vote at this time to bond the city for over a quarter of a million dollars in a program that lacks good business judgment."

Five petitions setting forth objections would have been necessary to halt the proceedings. Alderman James M. Jones voted against the resolution.

The city clerk was directed to advertise for bids on the city's rock surfacing program last night. Twenty streets and two alleys are included in the project, which calls for a $12,317.95 bond issue. Bids are to be opened at 2 p.m. June 14 and acted on by the council that night. Work must begin by July 1.

A bid from Reha and Aldershaf, Iowa City contractors, of $4,609.96 was accepted for sidewalk construction. The contract provides for sidewalk installation along sections of Riverside drive, Ginter avenue, and Dodge, Yewell and Governor streets. The only other bid was submitted by Fiesler and Keppler, Iowa City contractors, for $4,652.

A public hearing on proposed concrete paving of sections of seven city streets was set for June 17. The paving program will require a $98,122.62 bond issue. Sections of Keokuk, Court, F, Bayard and Yewell streets are included in the project.

Center parking strips from Clinton to Gilbert streets on Iowa avenue are to be removed and will be replaced by paving as a part of the program.

Forum—

reality totalitarianism "as bad as the right-wing Hitler type."

But he declared that the Communist party should not be outlawed—that its test would be to win support "in the open market place of ideas."

That support, he added, will never be gained as long as "there is political democracy to deal with the necessary reforms necessary in our capitalistic system." What the U. S. wants, he emphasized, is democratic reforms and not "revolutionary dictatorship proclaimed by a minority."

Pointing to Rubio, Iverson said, "They're a completely Machiavellian lot... full of lies and deceit." Iverson expanded with quotes from Lenin, Stalin, Dimitroff and the American Communist leader, William Z. Foster, the Communists "use" of "fronts" to gain their purpose of "preparing the masses for the overthrow of bourgeoisie."

Baum, speaking for Students for Wallace, added his doubts that the Communist party could take "all the credit for progressive ideas."

He cited Henry A. Wallace's "avowed and open disagreement with the Communist party," and Wallace's denial that there is evidence to substantiate the "frequent charge that Communists plot to overthrow the U. S. government."

With this basis, Baum agreed, with Rubio, Iverson and Hoyt, against outlawing the Communists here. "No one group has a monopoly on truth," he asserted. Existing laws can take care of the "cloak and dagger boys," he said. "All the avenues to truth must be kept open."

Though saying Wallace disagreed with the Communists, Baum said the Wallace party "does not think there is a place for communism in America."

Speaking of a vacant seat on the platform, Hoyt said, "according to original plans, it was to have been occupied by a representative of the Republicans," but because of "administrative difficulties the Young Republican league could not be a part-sponsor of the forum."

After appealing, "Is there a Republican in the audience?" Hoyt volunteered to express "an intelligent conservative attitude" on the question before the forum.

The Communist party has a place in the political scene as a "gadfly," Hoyt said. But it is "too far from American ideas" to find a true place, he added.

In rebuttal, Rubio spent most of his time replying to Iverson because, he said, "We are backing Wallace for the presidency and have only minor disagreements with them. We think the Wallace position is the stronger of the two opinions expressed here."

Gwendolyn Wolsted To Teach in Turkey

Gwendolyn Wolsted To Make Natives Stop 'Talking Turkey'

By JOHN WEBER

Now that Turkey is a hot spot in the U. S.-Russian cold war, teaching there should be exciting, Miss Gwendolyn Wolsted, A. I. of Cedar Falls, said in an interview yesterday.

Miss Wolsted has been appointed by the American Board of Foreign Missions to teach English for three years at the American Academy for Girls in Scutari, Turkey. She said she hopes to sail early in August.

Miss Wolsted was born in Madura, India, of Congregational missionary parents. She left there for this country when she was nine and one-half years old. "Growing up on the mission field developed my interest in working with the people of another land," Miss Wolsted said. "This fundamental interest has been stimulated by contact with students from those countries and by other people with similar desires."

Miss Wolsted said she has brought over many memories of India but she likes best to tell of how she followed a Hindu snake charmer around for an entire day while he captured cobras in their compound.

"I was offered a five-year teaching position in India, but I turned it down," Miss Wolsted said. "I would like to return to India, but the job involved teaching American children. In Turkey I will teach native girls," she explained.

Sets Plane Record

PALM SPRINGS, CALIF. (AP)—Jacqueline Cochran yesterday established a new international speed record for propeller-driven planes over a 1,000-kilometer course from Palm Springs airport to a point near Flagstaff, Ariz., and return.

Her flight, clocked by H. Dudley Wright, National Aeronautical association representative, was made at an average speed of 432 miles an hour over the 621.369 mile course.

Chairman Announces Program for Double Holiday Memorial Services This Weekend

Chairman Charles M. Wilson of the Iowa City Memorial Day Observance association announced the Memorial day program for this year after a meeting of the association last night.

Part of the program will take place Sunday but the major portion will be on Monday, May 31.

The complete program is:
7 a.m. Sunday, May 30. Decorating of veterans' graves by a committee from the Sons of Union Veterans assisted by the American Legion, VFW posts, Boy Scouts, Grandsons of Veterans and the Marine Corps league.

8 a.m. Monday, May 31. Knights of Columbus memorial mass at St. Joseph cemetery, celebrated by the Rev. W. J. McEneaney with sermon by the Rev. Raymond J. Pacha.

8:30 a.m. Iowa Avenue bridge, exercises in honor of the sailor dead. Singing of "Nearer My God To Thee" with the city high school band. Invocation. ## Fisherman Hooks Missing Meter

Parking meters usually plague motorists in Iowa City, but Sunday even a fisherman tangled with a meter. An unidentified man in the Iowa river near the interurban bridge and returned to police by Raymond June, 16 W. Bloomington street. June told police that the meter was caught on a throw line by a man fishing beside him. The meter was removed from in front of a local barber shop about a month ago, according to police. The post is still missing and the meter head was battered and bent when returned.

Here's a RECORD Topping the List

"Saxa-Boogie"—Sam Donahue's latest recording for Capitol

SAM DONAHUE'S slick-style waxing of this jazz-boogie instrumental is fast hitting the top in popularity.

Sam is a Camel fan from 'way back. As he puts it, "Of all the brands I've tried, Camels suit me best. They're mild and cool smoking—and Camel's full rich flavor always hits the spot!"

Try Camels on your "T-Zone"—T for Taste, T for Throat. See for yourself why, with Sam Donahue and millions of other smokers, Camels are the "choice of experience."

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. Winston-Salem, N. C.

And here's another GREAT RECORD!

CAMELS suit my 'T-zone' to a 'T'

More people are Smoking CAMELS than ever before!
