Civil Rights Proposal In Draft Awaits Vote

Bernadotte Sets Truce For Friday

CAIRO (AP)—Count Folke Bernadotte disclosed last night that he has asked Jews and Arabs to stop fighting in Palestine at 6 a. m. Greenwich time Friday (tomorrow midnight Iowa time).

He said he had asked for Arab and Jewish replies to his proposed truce terms by noon today (6 a. m., Iowa time).

But dispatches from Amman, the Trans-Jordan capital, said prospects for any truce were growing dim.

While all Arab states were reported standing firm against accepting Jewish conditions for a truce, a reinforced Egyptian spearhead was reported fighting to get out of a Jewish trap at Isdud, 23 miles south of Tel Aviv.

Seven U. S. naval officers left Washington yesterday by plane to help keep tabs on the manner in which any cease fire arrangement is carried out. Fourteen other officers equally divided between the army and air force are to be sent immediately from the American occupation forces in Europe.

The state department said the truce team was requested by Bernadotte. France and Belgium are expected to provide similar groups.

At a news conference here Bernadotte said if his terms for a truce were rejected he would have to refer the whole matter back to the UN security council.

"I earnestly believe the proposals and interpretations set forth in my note of June 7 provide a just basis for a truce—just to both sides," he said. "I solemnly hope that these proposals shall find acceptance and that the conflict in Palestine will come to a standstill."

French Cabinet OK's West German State

PARIS (AP)—The French cabinet yesterday approved the six-power agreement to set up a separate western German state and prepared to push it through parliament by the end of the week.

Foreign Minister Georges Bidault got unanimous cabinet approval of principal provisions in the agreement during a five-hour session under President Vincent Auriol.

The agreement is not popular in France for concessions to Germany are traditionally regarded without favor by the French. But Bidault and Premier Robert Schumann began immediately to map their strategy for winning parliamentary approval.

The agreement to establish a separate federal government for western Germany was announced Monday by the United States, France, Britain and the Benelux countries (Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg). The powers occupying Germany also agreed to retain their troops there until Europe's peace is secured.

The French at first wanted a complete internationalization of the whole Ruhr area, but apparently decided to go along with the separate state plan after it was decided to set up a seven-nation control authority for the Ruhr.

Turk Cabinet Falls; Saka Keeps Control

ANKARA, TURKEY (AP)—Premier Hasan Saka's government collapsed early this morning under mounting criticism from the public and its own political party over domestic economic policies.

President Ismet Inonu immediately asked Saka to form a new government.

Political circles said they believed the next cabinet would have new ministers in the economic, commerce, labor and possibly the agricultural ministries.

Shortages of staple foodstuffs, charges of irregularities in the export of grains and failure of the government to adjust Turkey's weak economic structure led to the cabinet's resignation.

Dumb Cluck?—Not This Hen

RADFORD, VA. (AP)—Since the family cat became a mother the other day, the little red hen has been helping her with the chores here.

Kitty wandered into the hen house of the Rev. P. T. Travis, pastor of a Negro church, borrowed a vacant nest, and soon gave birth to four kittens.

When the mother cat left the nest the next day for a stroll around the chicken yard, a Rhode Island red hen jumped up into the nest and took over.

Northwest Lashed By New Columbia Wave

PORTLAND, ORE. (AP)—The third wave of the Columbia river flood rolled into the main valley yesterday—the 20th day of battling against rampaging waters in the Pacific northwest.

Two more bodies were recovered from shattered Vanport. This lifted the number of flood dead to 29. The homeless totaled 60,000. Property damage was in the multi-millions.

The known dead at Vanport, destroyed in the first wave nine days ago, now is four. There was encouraging news, however, from the Red Cross, which reported that the list of unlocated Vanport persons was dwindling hourly. The list had 725 names Monday. It was down to 545 yesterday.

The third flood wave was riding from mountain tributaries, 1,000 miles upstream, where the hottest sun of the season was melting snowfields.

It will be felt in the critical lower river area Thursday. By Saturday the river will be back up nearly to the height of the first and most destructive crest.

That wave smashed Vanport, a city of 18,700, closed countless waterfront industries and burst into thousands of acres of rich farmland.

The second wave, which reached the ocean Monday, added to the damage. All told, army engineers estimate 414,000 acres in the Columbia basin have been flooded. Soil damage has been tremendous.

The third wave will push the Columbia up to 30.1 feet Saturday, 15.1 feet above flood level, at Vancouver, Wash., and only two to three inches under the first crest.

Softened dikes continued to give way in the Columbia basin and along the Fraser river in Canada.

Atom Workers Hit AEC, Ask Walkout

OAK RIDGE, TENN. (AP)—In a sharply worded resolution, atomic laboratory workers last night opposed re-confirmation of David E. Lilienthal and other members of the atomic energy commission and unanimously authorized their AFL union to call a strike.

Some 500 workers, at a mass meeting, adopted the resolution opposing Lilienthal's re-confirmation as chairman of the AEC "for his open support to the vicious contractor, Carbide and Carbon Chemicals corporation."

They are among the 875 members of the AFL atomic trades and labor council who are under 80-day federal injunction preventing a strike or company lockout at the atomic plant here.

Kenneth L. Scott, AFL organizer and union representative, earlier had indicated some progress had been made in resolving the months-long dispute with Carbide and Carbon Chemicals corporation.

The union seeks a 26-cent hourly pay increase for its 875 members. It originally had sought 15 cents but later upped its demands. The company offered 10.

Although the 80-day time limit on a court order barring the union from striking at the laboratory terminated Monday midnight, the union still is forbidden to strike.

The government has not asked federal district court at Knoxville to dissolve the injunction issued last March 19. The union will not legally be free to strike until the order is dissolved.

2-Year Limit, Alien Recruits Pass Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senate made two changes in the draft bill yesterday, then in a late night session agreed to vote on a civil rights amendment today.

The amendments approved were (1) to limit the proposed selective service bill to two years instead of five as first planned, and (2) to permit 25,000 aliens to serve in the American armed forces at home and abroad.

The civil rights proposal scheduled for decision today is the segregation amendment sponsored jointly by Senator Russell (D-Ga.) and Senator Maybank (D-S.C.).

It would let enlisted men serve in segregated units if they request.

The extra-hours session last night, second in a row, was featured by a lengthy speech by Senator Langer (R-N.D.) on a proposed amendment to limit private profits from the draft program under certain conditions.

Later, he yielded the floor to Senator Russell, who was followed by Maybank.

The weary senators finally agreed to call it a day after Maybank's speech. They decided to reconvene today at 9 a. m. (Iowa time), allow those in favor of the bill to speak one hour and opponents 30 minutes, and then vote at 11:30 a. m.

Both Maybank and Russell, arguing for the segregation amendment, said that politicians seeking reelection this year would let the desire to win votes influence them on the racial issue.

Maybank, in the final speech of the day, said: "They will injure the national defense of the nation in order to curry favor with groups of minority votes in doubtful states."

He said "decent, self-respecting people" are getting "more than sick of all this kowtowing to a minority group which holds the balance of power in a few large doubtful states."

But he said there was a "political awakening taking place." The 47 to 33 vote shortening the duration of selective service was a surprise. Senator Morse (R-Ore.) offered the amendment, saying many Americans feel the United States is moving too far in the direction of an "over-militarized state."

Two Republican leaders split on the Morse amendment. Senator Taft (R-Ohio) voted for it, and Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) against it.

A draft bill now awaiting action in the house also calls for a two-year draft.

Iowa's Senator Wilson voted for the Morse amendment, Senator Hickenlooper voted against it.

Truman Honors War Hero at Dedication, Discovers It's a Girl

ABOARD PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S TRAIN, ENROUTE TO BUTTE (AP)—President Truman dedicated an airfield yesterday to a boy killed in the war—only it turned out to be a girl killed at home.

That was at Carey, a little town in southern Idaho.

Mr. Truman stopped there momentarily as he skimmed across the state by car at a minute a minute pace. He was on the way to Idaho Falls to pick up his special train and move up into Montana to speak and to meet political and civic leaders at Butte.

Carey had the flags flying, a big welcome banner across its only street, and a wreath and microphone ready. The President dedicated the field from the back seat of his open car.

He said he was happy to be able to present this wreath to the mother and father of this boy who died that "liberty in this country" might live.

Informed of his error, the President commented: "well, I congratulate you. It was for the welfare of the country that she did it."

The mother and father were Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Coates. Mrs. Coates told reporters their 16-year-old daughter, Wilma, was killed in a civilian plane crash Feb. 8, 1947.

Mr. Truman shook hands with the parents and said he was sorry for his mistake.

"Oh, that's all right," Mrs. Coates told him.

In advance of the President's entry into Montana, State Democratic Chairman Lester H. Loble was unhappy because political leaders weren't invited to ride on the Truman train.

He had wired Nebraska Chairman William Ritchie about it.

It was Ritchie who abandoned his support of the President in favor of some other nominee after Mr. Truman visited Omaha last weekend. The President met Nebraska Democratic leaders only for a handshake.

SUI Student Wins County Nomination

George Prichard Jr., L4, Onawa, won the Republican nomination for state representative from Monona county in Monday's primary election. He defeated the incumbent George Brown.

Near Record GOP Vote Cast

DES MOINES (AP)—Gov. Robert D. Blue and U.S. Rep. John W. Gwynne were defeated for Republican renomination in Monday's state primary—results over which organized labor expressed "complete satisfaction."

Blue, who carried only 13 of Iowa's 99 counties, also was opposed by the farm bureau and educators. The Iowa State Education association said the results were "the expression of an enlightened electorate."

Gwynne's district included Waterloo, site of a recent bitter packing house strike. He was dean of Iowa's congressional delegation of eight Republicans.

The primary saw a Republican turnout of more than 316,000 voters, close to the record high of 332,000 established in 1940. Nearly 65,000 votes were cast in the Democratic primary.

State Rep. William S. Beardsley, a druggist-farmer from New Virginia, won over Blue in the latter's bid for a third term. Complete unofficial returns from 2,469 precincts gave Beardsley 189,864, Blue 125,985.

Gwynne was defeated by H.R. Gross, former Waterloo radio newscaster.

Beardsley will be opposed in November by Carroll O. Switzer of Des Moines who was nominated by the Democrats without opposition.

Governor Blue's last administration was marked by the passage of restrictive labor laws.

Commenting upon his defeat, the Iowa State Federation of Labor, in a statement, expressed "complete satisfaction" and Ben Henry, Iowa CIO chief said, "we're pretty happy about it."

Both also expressed pleasure at Gwynne's defeat.

U.S. Senator George A. Wilson, easily won renomination on the Republican ticket over John N. Calhoun, Burlington attorney. He will be opposed in November by Former Senator Guy M. Gillette who won the Democratic senatorial nomination handily over Ernest J. Seemann.

Rep. Gwynne was one of three Iowa GOP congressmen who had contests for renomination. The other two, Reps. Henry O. Talle of the second district and Karl M. Le Compt of the fourth district won by overwhelming margins.

With eight candidates seeking the Republican nomination for secretary of state, none was able to receive the required 35 percent of the votes cast. The state Republican convention will nominate a candidate July 23.

Joseph Miller, one of the eight candidates, yesterday withdrew his name from consideration by the Republican convention. Mrs. Ruby Miller, widow of a former secretary of state, led in the race.

Last of Guard Unit Returns to Iowa City From Waterloo Duty

The last of the Iowa City national guard to stand duty during the recently-settled meat-packers' strike returned home yesterday from Waterloo.

Twenty-five men and two officers drove back to Iowa City in a two and one-half ton truck, armored car, half track and jeep—equipment of the local unit.

Demobilizing of the 45 members of the Iowa City unit sent to Waterloo by a governor's proclamation of a state-wide emergency on May 19 has been going on for the past week and a half.

Four Iowa City guardsmen, the first from the local unit to return, arrived from Waterloo on May 29.

Actual demobilization of troops at the Waterloo packing plant was scheduled to begin June 1. But Sgt. Edward Windrem of the Iowa City national guard said last night that because the governor feared a possible outbreak of violence, demobilization was slowed. Only a few men were sent home each day.

Guardsmen of the Iowa City 34th mechanized cavalry reconnaissance unit will settle down to regular drills again at the armory on Monday night, according to the officers.

Official Primary Vote Figures Announced

Official returns from the county auditor's office yesterday gave William S. Beardsley a 445 majority in the Johnson county balloting for the GOP governor nomination.

Governor Robert Blue polled 1,126 votes while Beardsley received 1,571.

Auditor Ed Sulek said the total county vote in the primary election would not be known until next week.

In the other official county returns, results from the other six Republican and one Democratic contested posts were listed.

D. C. Nolan, Iowa City attorney, won 2,697 to 1,859 over Dr. Frederick Schadt of Williamsburg in the GOP nomination for state senator of the 25th district, according to official returns from Iowa and Johnson counties, the counties in the district. The Johnson county vote was 1,971 to 536 for Nolan.

In the GOP contest for U.S. senator, incumbent George A. Wilson won over John N. Calhoun, Burlington attorney, 1,673 to 862 in the county returns.

The lieutenant governor vote was 1,566 to 670 favoring Kenneth M. Evans over Redfield C. Mills.

The contest for the Republican nomination to the secretary of state post had six entries. In the Johnson county official returns, Mrs. Earl G. Miller led 669 to 391 over Charles J. Knickerbocker. Richard N. Mason finished third with 374 votes.

Mayor Calls Council To Act on Pool Bids

Mayor Preston Koser yesterday called a special meeting of the city council for tonight to act on bids for the proposed swimming pool.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 in the city council chambers of the city hall.

According to advice given the council at previous meetings, they must act before tomorrow on bids received in the sealed bidding May 10.

Action on the two bids for the bathhouse and the main pool will probably be taken at this meeting also. These bids were submitted in private negotiations by the council June 3 by M. C. McCreedy and R. H. Wildman.

McCreedy bid $47,790 for the pool while Wildman offered to build the bathhouse for $29,428.

The council may accept bids totaling not over $112,500 for the pool. This is all the money authorized by two city bond elections.

The entire cost of the pool will be approximately $124,978. The extra $12,500 will be raised by public subscription.

Senator Myers To Head Demo Platform Group

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Francis J. Myers of Pennsylvania last night was reported picked by party leaders to head the Democratic platform committee. The first round of the southern civil rights battle will be fought before this committee.

Myers has been designated as chairman of a group which will begin platform work before the July 12 Philadelphia convention.

G-E Offers 8 Percent Pay Boost to 125,000

By the Associated Press
The General Electric company offered its 125,000 workers an eight percent wage boost yesterday.

The company said its wage offer to the CIO united electrical, radio and machine workers union would amount to an increase of from nine to more than 15 cents an hour. The union has sought either an 11 cents hourly wage increase or a straight 13 cents hike. The union studied the offer.

Rocky Favorite in Bout With Zale; Odds Lower

Tony Predicts Knock-Out in Third Round

By JACK HAND

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—Youth and a brain-scrambling right hand make Champion Rocky Graziano a strong favorite over rugged body-punching Tony Zale tonight in the third chapter of their series at Ruppert stadium.

Most folks think their middle-weight title brawl can't possibly go the scheduled 15 rounds. Pre-fight odds favoring the Rock from New York's lower east side dropped off a point at the end of final drills. They fell from 5 to 12 to 5 to 11 and even 1 to 2 in some circles. It is not a big betting fight.

Arrival of Zale supporters from Chicago and his hometown of Gary, Ind., and a burst of sunshine brought an upswing in ticket sales. The weatherman predicted clear skies and cooler temperatures for the fight, scheduled for 8:00 p. m. (CST). It will be broadcast by the Mutual broadcasting system.

The tournament of Champions, Inc., a new promotional group formed to compete with Mike Jacobs, predicted a $350,000 house and an attendance of some 21,000. With Graziano reportedly guaranteed $120,000 or 40 per cent and Zale assured of $60,000 or 20 per cent, the outlook for a profit was not bright. Another $30,000 has been pledged to charity.

On past performances this brawl figures to be as good a fight as could be arranged in any class. In fact, many think it will provide more genuine action, while it lasts, than the Joe Louis-Jersey Joe Walcott heavyweight go June 23.

Graziano is a ring outcast in his own state where his license was revoked for refusing to report an alleged bribe offer long before he won the title. Many other states put up the bars against him because of his spotty army record.

Lean and ready after two months of hard work, the Rock is eager to show the New York fans that he deserves to be champ. He also would like to convince Chairman Eddie Eagan of the New York State Athletic commission that he should be reinstated.

Zale, too, has every incentive. At 34, eight years older than Graziano, this probably will be his last chance to regain the crown he wore so proudly from 1940 until last July. If he doesn't win, he may retire. If he doesn't win, there will be no more pay days like the total of $231,860 he already has received for two brawls with the Rock.

For the records, Graziano has refused to name a knockout round. Zale has said he'll end it in three.

In their first fight, Sept. 27, 1946, at the Yankee stadium, Zale dragged himself off the floor, a badly battered champ, to knock out the challenger with that right shot to the body. Last July 16 he was stopped by the New Yorker in the steaming heat of the Chicago stadium. That fight ended in the sixth round.

Boxing writers who saw both fights like Graziano this time, basing their opinions on his eight-year advantage in youth. They, too, respect Zale, but they think Graziano will outlast him in another wild slugfest. In this corner, it looks like Graziano in the fourth.

Iowa Ties for 3rd On Composite Basis

Iowa's football, basketball, and baseball teams racked up a .534 record in the 1947-48 Big Nine conference competition to share third place in the composite standings.

In the three sports for which percentage standings are figured, the Hawks had 15 wins, 13 losses, and one tie, the same record as that of the Wisconsin Badgers. The Wolverines from Michigan ran away with top honors, grabbing 26 victories in 30 outings.

The Iowan mark was topped with an 8-4 record in basketball, followed by 5-6 in baseball, and a 2-3-1 total in football.

Michigan, with an .867 percentage, soared with a 6-0 mark turned in by its Rose Bowl championship gridgers. The Wolverines had a 10-2 record in basketball and the same in baseball. Illinois placed second in the conference standing with 20 wins and 10 losses.

Wisconsin, Iowa, and Purdue ran a close race for third place honors. The Boiler-makers turned in a 17-15 record, just three percentage points behind the Hawks and Badgers.

Iowa City Nips Peoria Twice; Now 4th in Western Division

The Iowa City Cardinals jumped into fourth place in the western division of the National Softball league when they turned back Peoria in both games of a double header, 6-2 and 4-2, at Peoria Monday.

Paul Reberry pitched the first game, allowing Peoria five safeties. Don Dannen hurled the Cards to a victory in the nightcap giving up six hits.

Braves Hand Cubs 7th Straight Loss

CHICAGO (AP)—The Boston Braves breezed to an 11-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs yesterday behind the four-hit pitching of Vernon Bickford, right handed rookie from Milwaukee.

It gave the Braves a sweep of the three-game series and stretched the Cubs' losing streak to seven straight.

The Braves pounded Johnny Schmitz off the mound in six innings and continued unabated against Bob Rush, Jess Dobernie and Emil Kush, rolling up 13 hits. Phil Masi and Tommy Holmes each collected three blows.

Bickford retired the first 16 men to face him before Dick Culler scratched a hit to Eddie Stanky in the sixth. The rookie lost his shutout in the seventh when Eddie Waitkus walked and tallied on singles by Hal Jeffcoat and Bill Nicholson.

Aggies Take NCAA Win from Nebraska

LINCOLN, NEBR. (AP)—Oklahoma A & M tied up a district NCAA baseball playoff with Nebraska at 1-and-1 yesterday. The Aggies rallied in the last of the ninth to win 5 to 4.

The teams will meet again today in the deciding game of the series to determine who will go to a four-team Western playoff at Denver June 16-19.

With the score 4 to 3 in favor of the Huskers, the Aggies catcher, Coleman, walked at the beginning of the Oklahoma half of the ninth. Charles Franks, a pinch hitter, singled to center field, but the ball went through the fielder's legs, Coleman scored and Franks went to third.

VFW 2581, Wilsons Take Wins

VFW 2581 downed College Inn, 8 to 5, and Wilsons dropped VFW 3949, 10-7, in the fourth round of play in the City league at Kelley field last night.

Jerry Wagner held College Inn to eight hits in the opener as his mates pounded out eleven off Mel Greazel. Queck, VFW third baseman, smashed a long homer to left center in the first of the sixth to ice the game for the Vets.

Sid Goldberg and his Wilson mates collected 5 hits and 12 walks off two VFW 3949 pitchers in the second game to score 16 runs. Goldberg smashed a long ball into center field in the last of the second with two mates on board and turned it into a homer when the center-fielder muffed his throw to third.

Al Dunn started for the Vets

but was relieved in the fourth after giving up two hits and eleven walks. Bob Vollers replaced him and gave up three more hits and a walk in the remaining two innings. Dunn cleared the left-field wall with a hard hit ball in the first of the sixth, bringing in two runs.

Rasley Breaks Finkbine Record with Torrid 65

Jim Rasley, A3, 406 Magowan street, set a new record of 65 yesterday on Finkbine course.

Rasley shot a 32 on the upper nine and a 33 on the lower for a five under par 65. He was playing in a foursome with Frank Bernick, Warren Strout, and Leo Torrence.

The old record, held by Leo Goucher, was set in 1943 when he shot a 68.

Lincoln Regains 2nd; Noses Out Omaha, 8-6

LINCOLN (AP)—The Lincoln Athletics moved back into second place in the Western league last night as they turned back the Omaha Cardinals, 8 to 6.

It was the seventh win of the season for Fred Wells, the Lincoln pitcher who went all the way. He has lost only one game this year.

Omaha got off to a 4-0 lead in their half of the second on four walks, two Lincoln errors, and hits by Mike Conroy and Larry Mizgins.

Lincoln came back with two runs in their half of the same inning, and went ahead 6 to 5 in the fourth when Bob Wellman emptied the bases with a triple off Omaha Relief Pitcher Jim Morrison.

Lou Ortiz and Larry Mizgins hit homers for the Cardinals.

The second of the two game Omaha-Lincoln series will be played today at Lincoln.

Indians Shut Out Bosox

BOSTON (AP)—The Cleveland Indians last night blanked the Boston Red Sox, 2-0, on Manager Lou Bourdeau's disputed two run homer into the right field seats in the fourth inning. The vast majority of 33,032 paid fans and the Red Sox all claimed the ball left the playing field on the grandstand side of the foul pole but Umpire Charlie Berry held fast to his decision that the hit was a home run.

All Tallies Scored In First 3 Frames

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers scored six runs in the first two innings yesterday but needed some nifty relief pitching by Willard Ramsdell to whip the Cincinnati Reds, 6-5.

Ralph Branca started for the Dodgers but blew up in the third and yielded five runs. Ramsdell took over in the third and stopped the Reds cold the rest of the way, giving up only two singles. The victory was the knuckleball artist's first of the season.

The Dodgers jumped on starter Ken Raffensberger for four runs in the first inning on four singles, a walk and a double.

Brooklyn scored its winning runs off long Tom Hughes in the second on a walk and singles by Pee Wee Reese and Gil Hodges.

In the third, Branca walked the first two batters, Augie Galan then belted a homer. Ray Lamanou doubled, Finch-Hitter Frankie Baumholtz tripled and Johnny Wyrostek singled. After Wyrostek's hit, Ramsdell took over and picked Wyrostek off first to end the inning.

Yankees Nip Chisox

NEW YORK (AP)—Bobby (Golden Boy) Brown's single with one out in the 12th inning scored Yogi Berra from second with the run that gave the New York Yankees a 3-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox last night.

Cuttin' the Corners

With Al Schmah!

After a rather slow start, Iowa City's Cardinals are beginning to show the rest of the National Softball league that they won't be pushovers for some of the older clubs in the circuit.

The Cards had a very successful road trip over the week-end, winning three of four games. The only loss came at the hands of Waukegan, and that despite the fact that Paul Reberry pitched two-hit ball. Reberry was nipped for one home run as the Cardinals went down, 1-0. In the other end of the Waukegan double header, and again against Peoria Monday night, the Iowa Citizens finally came to life in the department in which they have been the weakest, hitting.

Most of the Cardinals are facing top-notch twirling for the first time, and with experience they bid to develop into a top-notch club. With Tommy Stahl getting two home runs and Duly Bailey contributing one against Peoria, indications are that the experience is beginning to pay off.

Tonight's Rocky Graziano-Tony Zale bout sets off the summer card in the bigger circles, in what should prove to be a terrific curtain raiser. It'll be the third go between the two, and everyone knows what happened in the first two. That's enough to keep all ears glued to the radios tonight.

The rest of the summer bouts should also bring a lot of interest to fight fans. The month of June gets two more big bouts, with the Joe Louis-Jersey Joe Walcott match on the 23rd holding most of the interest.

But at the Bernard Docusen-"Sugar" Robinson fight on the 17th could well be the thriller of the bunch. Those two welterweights can throw just as many punches as Zale and Graziano. With the Beau Jack-like Williams bout coming on July 12, the fans shouldn't be lacking for cigar store comment.

Question of the week: Just what constitutes professionalism?

We remember only too well the difficulties which Murray Wier, Herb Wilkinson and others got into after Wier received the gift of an automobile from the good people of Muscatine.

Now we read in The Daily Iliini that the Illinois baseball team, co-champions with Michigan in the Big Nine, were to play an exhibition game with the Cincinnati Crescents last Saturday. The Crescents, it seems, are a Negro professional club, which would seemingly put all the Illini in the pro category.

Or is there a difference between the AAU in Illinois and Iowa?

Our esteemed predecessor in this column racket, Buck Turnbull, informs us that he has accepted a summer position as sports caster for a radio station in his home town. The "golden-voiced" lad will give out with a 15-minute show daily.

Could be that our memory is slipping, but we seem to recall certain belittling statements concerning the radio profession in connection with a recent WSUI-Daily Iowan softball game. Is it an about face or could it be merely a concession to monetary expediency?

Recreation Loop to Begin Play June 14

J. Edgar Frame, Recreation center superintendent, announced yesterday that play in the Senior Boys softball league will begin June 14.

Six teams will compete in the league play. They will be sponsored by Iowa Supply, Wilson's,

Morris, Boerner's, VFW 2581 and Wagon Wheel. The season will be divided into two sessions with the winners of each playing for the championship. Second round play will begin July 12 with the games being played in the same series as in the first round.

Games in the league will be played on the Benton street playground beginning at 6:30 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Waymack's Speech on Friday To Open Summer Lectures

A man who knows about atomic energy—its problems and potentials—will speak at SUI Friday night.

William Wesley Waymack, member of the United States Atomic Energy commission, and distinguished journalist, will discuss "What Is Atomic Energy?"

Scheduled for 8 p.m. on the west approach to Old Capitol, Waymack's speech is the first in the summer session Friday evening lecture series. If the weather is favorable, the meeting will be held in Macbride hall.

Waymack's lecture will also be the chief public meeting of the annual physics colloquium which will be in session on Friday and Saturday. Saturday morning, Waymack will participate in the Network Broadcast Of Concert Set for Fine Arts Festival

Summertime brings the tenth annual fine arts festival which features a series of concerts by the university summer session band, orchestra and chorus.

According to Prof. Earl E. Harper, director of the school of fine arts, the orchestra and chorus will broadcast a program over the NBC network in late June or early July.

The first concert in the series is scheduled for 8 p.m., July 14 in the Iowa Union when the symphony orchestra will play. Dr. Philip Greeley Clapp will conduct the orchestra in a program of classical and modern selections including "The Planets" by Gustav Holst.

July 28 at 8 p.m. the summer session chorus will give a concert under the direction of Herat A. Stark. Mozart's "Requiem," Bach's "Sleepers Wake" and Stravinsky's "Symphonies du Psalms" will be presented.

Concerts by the summer band will be played on dates to be announced later.

Instrumental and vocal ensemble concerts and solo recitals will be given June 9, 16, 30 and July 7 and 21 in studio E, of WSUI.

WSUI will broadcast the symphony and chorus concerts, Harper said.

W. W. WAYMACK

Two o'clock general discussion of the colloquium considering "International Implications of Atomic Energy."

A Pulitzer prize winner, Waymack received the coveted award for distinguished editorial writing in 1937.

He is noted chiefly for his connection with the Des Moines Register and Tribune on which he became an editorial writer in 1914.

After he was successively managing editor, editor of the editorial section and editor. Waymack became director of The Register and Tribune in 1931 and rose to the position of vice-president in 1939.

Though all his professional life, until he went to Washington as a member of the Atomic Energy commission, has been spent in Iowa, Waymack's activities have been varied.

He has served on the board of directors of the federal reserve bank of Chicago, the Economic Policy committee, the national labor board and the War Food Administration. In 1942 he was special advisor to the department of state.

On the invitation of the Australian and New Zealand governments in 1941 Waymack studied the Australian war effort. More recently he was a member of the United States mission to observe Greek elections in 1946.

Waymack also has been a member of the board of trustees or director of the following: Carnegie Endowment for international peace; American association for United Nations; Freedom House; Woodrow Wilson foundation and national conference of Christians and Jews. From the latter organization he received a distinguished service citation in 1942.

A graduate of Morningside college in Sioux City, Waymack also holds degrees from Drake university, Parsons college and Grinnell college.

Couple Leaves on Wedding Trip

LEAVING ON THEIR WEDDING TRIP to Wichita, Kans., are Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred C. Hanrahan, Jr., who were married at 8:30 a.m. yesterday at St. Patrick's church. The Rev. P. J. O'Reilly officiated at the double ring ceremony in which Mrs. Robert Schenberger, Route 6, was the matron of honor and Joseph Hanrahan, 511 Third avenue, served as best man. Mrs. Hanrahan, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Lenney, 318 S. Johnson street, is employed in the University of Iowa statistical department. Mr. Hanrahan, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred C. Hanrahan, 511 Third avenue, is employed at the Thomas Electric Company. Both are graduates of St. Patrick's high school. After June 14 they will reside at 2002 H street, Iowa City.

Little Dutch Girl — Brings Bridal Showers

June... "the month of brides," is also the month of endless "showers" for brides-to-be.

The average American woman from 18 to 30 probably attends more bridal showers than any other type of social function.

A well-known bridal authority became curious about just how this tradition originated and after doing a little research came up with this interesting tale:

A pretty little Dutch girl fell in love with a poor miller who did not have much of worldly goods. Her father disapproved of his daughter's choice and refused to give her a dowry unless she married the man he had selected for her—a farmer with a hundred pigs.

The poor miller's friends were disturbed when they heard this story and they decided each would give the girl a gift, even though small, so that the young couple could set up housekeeping. They gathered such gifts as linens, plates, copper pots and vases which, when massed together, were more than her father's dowry. The couple was married and lived happily ever after.

Many years after, an Englishwoman had a friend who was to be married. Being too poor to give the girl the kind of a gift that would express her good wishes, and remembering the story of the Dutch girl, she called her friends together and suggested that they all present their gifts at the same time.

The "shower" was so successful that fashionable circles established it a definite social custom. However, these parties were not called "showers" until the "gay nineties" period, when someone conceived the idea of filling a Japanese umbrella with small gifts and giving it to the bride-to-be with instructions to open it over her head—the result being a "shower" of gifts.

And so, the custom of bridal showers has been handed down to us through the years... and the word "shower" is now a synonym for parties honoring the bride-to-be with gifts.

Mrs. Florence Fenlon was elected 1942-43 president of the Past Noble Grands of Rebekah lodge 416 at a meeting Monday evening at the home of Mrs. L. R. Morford, 216 McLean avenue.

Other officers elected were Mrs. J. P. Clark, vice-president; Mrs. W. A. Harper, secretary; Mrs. Roy Mackey, treasurer and Mrs. Jess Rarick, historian.

Calls Housing Bill 'Socialistic': Offers Substitute Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—A house Republican leader yesterday called Senator Taft's (R-Ohio) housing bill "socialistic" and offered a substitute.

The house member, chairman Wolcott (R-Mich.) of the banking committee, aimed his criticism at the public housing feature of the measure sponsored by Taft.

Wolcott moved to strike out provisions for (1) federal financing of 500,000 low-rent homes to be owned by public housing agencies in various communities and (2) federal subsidies for a huge slum clearance program.

They are controversial features of the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing act designed to encourage the construction of 15,000,000 residences in 10 years.

The house banking committee is expected to act on Wolcott's substitute Thursday or Friday. The plan is to put it before the house early next week.

Wolcott pinned the "socialistic" label on the public housing feature of Taft's bill in talking with reporters.

Kilpatrick To Attend Library Convention

Norman L. Kilpatrick, head of the technical process division of the university libraries, will leave today for Atlantic City where he will attend the American Library Association convention. The meetings will take place during the week of June 14-18.

Kilpatrick will present a paper to the group on June 18 entitled "Technical Processes in University Libraries."

Also representing SUI at the convention will be Dr. Ralph E. Ellsworth, director of university libraries, Clara Henton, Janet Dixon, and Grace Wormer.

"Of course, I don't think Senator Taft is a socialist," he said in answer to question.

"But this bill passed by the senate, with its public housing features, fashions the key by which the house of socialism may be opened."

Wolcott's measure also omits provisions of the senate measure for aids to farmers for home construction and a program of housing research.

President Hancher's Son Graduates With Honors

Virgil Hancher Jr., son of university president Virgil M. Hancher, was awarded five honors when he was graduated from Shattuck school in Faribault, Minn., at commencement exercises last week-end.

The honors included the rector's silver letter, high honors in physics, mathematics departmental prize, cum laude shingle and Good Shepard medal.

The university president delivered the baccalaureate address at the exercises.

Joan L. Koerner Weds Guy Heath

Two university students, Joan L. Koerner, A4, and Guy W. Heath Jr., A3, were married in a double ring ceremony June 3 in the First Methodist church, the Rev. R. E. Terry officiating.

The bride's sorority sisters were her attendants. Helen Ann Hansen, Glen Elynn, Ill., was maid of honor and Patricia May Dunn, Marshalltown, and Florence Fout, 319 Church street, served as bridesmaids.

William Stuhler, Monticello, was the best man and Roger Chappell, Rockwell City, and Harold Debban, Mason City, were ushers.

Mrs. Heath, the daughter of Atty. and Mrs. Walter Koerner, Dubuque, is a graduate of Dubuque Senior high school. She is a member of Alpha Chi Omega social sorority. Mr. Heath, the son of Dr. and Mrs. Guy W. Heath Sr., West Palm Beach, Fla., was graduated from West Palm Beach high school. He is affiliated with Sigma Chi social sorority. A reception at the Hotel Jefferson followed the ceremony.

Following a trip to New Orleans, La., the couple will reside at 933 Iowa avenue.

Atomic Attack

Midwest Fire Chiefs Given Preview

DES MOINES (AP)—Midwestern fire chiefs in convention here were given a preview yesterday of what might happen in an atomic bomb attack and their role in combatting it.

Facts on a possible atomic bomb emergency were given by Chief William J. Cawker of Topeka, Kans., second vice-president of the International Association of Fire Chiefs.

Cawker read a paper by Maj. Gen. Harold R. Bull of the army describing the possible results of atomic attack.

"Within a radius of three-fourths of a mile from the bomb hit," the report said, "the area may be considered doomed or totally destroyed. Only heavy steel and reinforced concrete would stand among piles of rubble. Survival of persons in this area would be miraculous."

"A well organized and disciplined populace" must be thoroughly prepared in advance to meet the known contingencies of atomic attack," the report stated.

New methods of fire fighting must be developed and new methods of civilian defense put into effect, Cawker said.

PEDALS 300 MILES DES MOINES (AP)—John Odam has qualified for a boy scout cycling merit badge by riding his bicycle most of the 300 miles between Hastings, Neb., and Des Moines.

Oleo Won't Score

The margarine tax repeal bill is playing a great game. At the opening of the inning, oleo hit a clean single out of the house of representatives—7 to 3 vote. Then oleo stole second when the pro's pushed the bill into the senate finance committee. That was a much more friendly than the agricultural committee where opponents of repeal wanted it to go. Third base: the senate floor. That's where oleo repeal will probably finish the inning. Oleo will die on third. The senators are pushing for a June 19th adjournment . . . and if they end their session then, oleo will be just another winning run that never quite crossed the plate.

But in spite of senate inactivity, at least one branch of government has managed to break down the prejudice against oleomargarine. The house armed services committee has approved a bill to permit the army, navy and airforce to buy oleomargarine for table use. That's quite a concession. As steeped in tradition, as shackled by red tape and as inert as the armed services agencies have often shown themselves—in spite of these handicaps the services have moved to accept butter's brother oleo. The armed services have joined many consumers and nutrition experts in realizing that oleo has been maligned all the way from producer to the kitchen table. When the laws and lawmakers catch up with their constituents, then oleo will get an even break.

The American 'Foreign Legion'

Senator Lodge's amendment to the draft bill will stir up talk for quite some time. To say the least, it is novel in modern warfare.

Although not a "foreign legion" as one unit, such a force of men would certainly be mercenaries in the 16th or 17th century sense of the word. And, as the senate debate further pointed out, such a scheme would certainly relieve 25,000 Americans from military service.

But there are some deeper implications. First, it is a return of the indenture system in the modern day. During colonial days, Europeans went into voluntary servitude for a stated length of time as payment for their passage across the Atlantic.

Five years in the U.S. armed services in exchange for U.S. citizenship—how appealing that would sound for the hungry, unemployed young men of Europe. It would be a five-year transition to the unobtainable, U.S. citizenship.

So, as a modern form of immigration into the United States while most other means are sealed off, the draft amendment is significant.

Secondly, rather than opening the ranks of this country to foreign criticism, we would be exerting a positive pressure in rallying the western side of the cold war.

At a time when the western powers of Europe are talking about economic and military cooperation—even unification—the U.S. comes up with a scheme to put our military organization in the vanguard of the fight we are obliged to fight anyhow.

By permitting "aliens" to defend themselves as well as us in a common struggle, we will be doing more than keeping one of the best equipped armies in fighting trim.

As another gesture to admitting unfortunate Europeans to the United States, this is an admirable move; but as a political thrust to pacify draft opponents and DP-admission supporters, the amendment is deplorable.

McBride's Hall

I Had A Sneaking Hunch—

By BILL MCBRIDE

At 9:30 last Sunday morning there was a formal rabbit show in the national guard armory. (Formal for the visitors . . . rabbits came dressed in the usual rabbit attire.)

The show started with about 140 rabbits. No word of how many more appeared before the end of the show.

As a youth, I was exposed to the abundant productivity of rabbits. One of my little chums and I started on the hobby of raising rabbits with a family of seven cottontails.

It seemed that we spent all of our spare time enlarging the hutch. As soon as we built another addition; those prolific little beasties would produce another litter to fill the new space.

We continued to build, and the rabbits continued to produce until my little chum's backyard was just one big rambling rabbit hutch.

The father of my little chum was a patient man, but when our family of hares reached the astounding number of 240, the patient parent laid down the law.

It wasn't so much that he didn't like rabbits, but he was afflicted with hay fever, and one of the items on his allergy list was rabbit fur. Every time the boy's father came within 200 yards of his home, he was seized with violent sneezing fits.

We finally sold the whole hutch full to the owner of a nearby fox farm for three dollars.

We were heart-broken when we later discovered that the fox farmer didn't want the rabbits for purposes of improving the breed, but rather to feed to his hogs.

One of those bitter childhood experiences that goes into the making of a man, I guess. I've never quite been able to trust a fox farmer since then, however.

Every year about this time some "expert" comes out with the thought provoking statement that soon a topless women's bathing suit will be on the market.

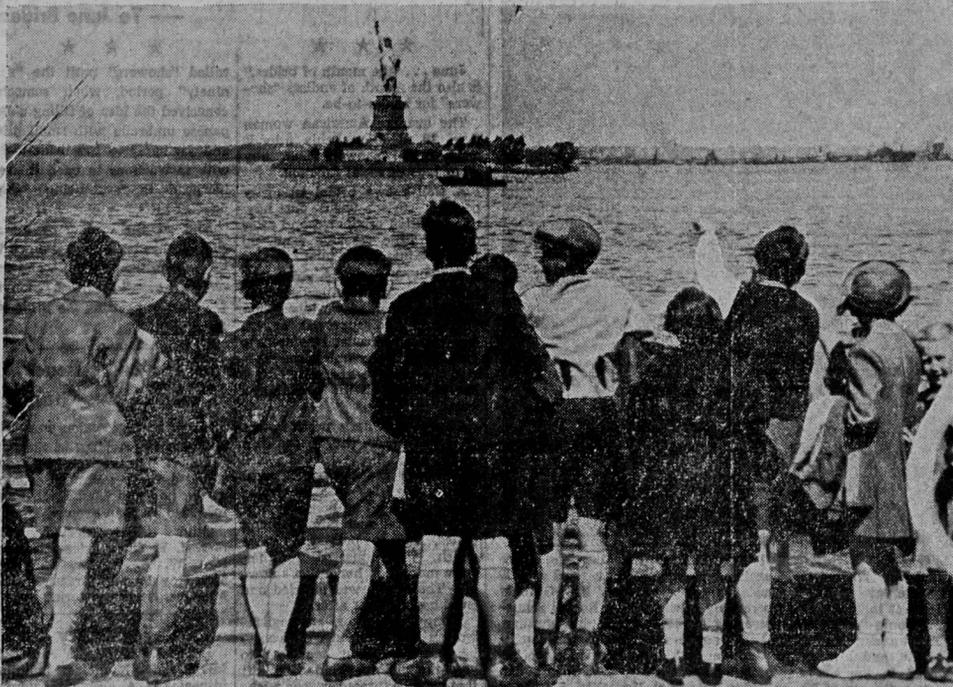

This year 53-year-old swim suit designer Leonard C. Asch of New York City, claims that within 15 years women will be wearing absolutely no tops at all. I mentioned this to a mixed crowd the other evening and both the male and female element began tabulating on their fingers what their ages would be in 15 years.

As a designer who has been prominent in the cause for women wearing less and less to beaches, Asch dreads to see his prediction come true. He says he visited a show at the New York World's fair once where he saw girls without tops. (Bathing suit top, that is.) I quoted his remark for the occasion; "They looked terrible, and they were show girls who should have looked good. Honest, it was like something at a zoo."

My question is; what sort of zoos does this fellow Asch visit?

Under Observation—

Enter: The Displaced Persons

(By Daily Iowan Research Staff)

One of the most straggled-off of our postwar problems—resettling Europe's displaced persons—was looked squarely in the eye by congress last week.

The senate passed a bill to admit to the U.S. up to 200,000 European war refugees in the two years beginning July 1.

It provides that at least one-half the persons admitted must have followed agricultural pursuits and follow that occupation in this country.

It also stipulates that one-half of those admitted come from countries which have been annexed by a foreign power—Estonia, Lithuania, Latvia and Eastern Poland.

The main idea of the bill is to provide for the type of displaced person that ordinary rehabilitation will not help—the political exile who does not dare return to his home.

It is practically impossible to find an accurate estimate of how many immigrants the U.S. can accommodate. President Truman asked for permission for many more to enter. Some senators think 200,000 is too many.

The important thing is that the displaced person problem still exists, as desperate today as it was on V-E day.

The International Refugee organization estimates that there are still one million DPs in Europe. After World War I, that many persons had emigrated from Europe within two years. Today, only a handful have been able to leave the overpopulated, ideologically-torn continent.

In addition, nine million Germans have been expelled from eastern Europe and are charges of the western powers. Estimates place the number of people who would like to leave Europe today at 100-million.

Europe has constantly poured emigrants out over the face of the earth. For nearly a century, until the 1930's, the tide of Europe was constant, though fluctuating.

The Irish potato famine in 1847 and the German revolution of 1848 pushed the flow of hungry home for 40-million Europeans, some 80 percent of Europe's total emigration.

The Nazi-created problems of dislocation, race hatred and over-population have added to Europe's age-old population problems. Political exiles from behind the iron curtain have aggravated the situation in the west.

For a breakdown of Europe's homeless refugees:

Jews. The Nazis methodically killed 6-million Jews, left a remnant of one million in Europe, exclusive of Russia. Many of the Jews remaining are in displaced persons camps, most others are in areas where anti-Semitism still smolders.

Italians. A traditionally overcrowded country has been further clogged by Mussolini's repopulation measures and war devastation. Each year births exceed deaths.

The Czech coup last February touched off another migration of political refugees into the western zones of Germany. Recently, the passengers of a Czech airliner forced its pilot at gunpoint to fly to Italy and freedom rather than to return to Prague.

There are a few places in the world where manpower is needed and land is available to accommodate Europe's homeless.

Men are needed in Britain to fill desperate gaps in the labor supply. They are needed in mines, textile mills, transport industries and on farms.

Russia, still using the forced labor of as many as three million prisoners of war, could absorb as many as seven million European emigrants. But most political refugees fled from Communist-dominated areas.

France is trying to replace a deaths by 400,000. Large numbers of Italians seek to emigrate northward to work in France, Britain and the low countries. Few have had been transported by the Nazis from their homelands. By now, all but one million have returned. Few of those remaining will find homes in Europe.

Political refugees. More than 350,000 Spaniards, who fled from Franco Spain in 1939, still remain in southern France. Anti-Soviet Poles and anti-Tito Yugoslavs comprise another huge block of displaced persons.

labor deficit of one million men. She made it attractive for German prisoners of war to stay on in France and become citizens. She is also attracting Italians, Irish and Algerians.

Land is available in several areas outside Europe. But cultural differences, fear of economic competition and general suspicion block immigration into such areas.

Italians, Spaniards, Poles and Irish are on Argentina's list of approved immigrants. Peron talks of boosting his population from 13-million to 40-million. But rigid screening of immigrants cuts off the flow of immigrants sharply.

South Africa and Australia could absorb millions of additional persons, but make it tough for any but Britons to emigrate there.

Likewise, Canada, with 27-million acres of unused land suitable for farming, could increase its present 12-million population from 50-million upwards to 200-million persons. Although immigration into Canada has been large, the dominion's restrictions exclude most of Europe's refugees.

Now the United States has opened its immigration faucet a crack. Even this was done over bitter opposition, as the debates in congress proved.

Economic prejudices, racial hatreds and intolerance have cooled and solidified the American melting pot. Congress has just applied a tiny spark to the stone-cold kettle. The results should be interesting.

and pressed up into a tidal wave. For three generations, European emigration averaged 500,000 persons a year.

The last great wave of emigration from Europe came in the late 19th century when the industrial revolution threw peasants off the land faster than the cities could absorb them.

During the great waves of emigration, the U.S. became the new Germans. Despite war losses, German population has swollen by one and a half million over the prewar figure. German territory has been reduced by a third. Population density is 519 per square mile, 12 times that of the U.S.

labor deficit of one million men. She made it attractive for German prisoners of war to stay on in France and become citizens. She is also attracting Italians, Irish and Algerians.

Land is available in several areas outside Europe. But cultural differences, fear of economic competition and general suspicion block immigration into such areas.

Italians, Spaniards, Poles and Irish are on Argentina's list of approved immigrants. Peron talks of boosting his population from 13-million to 40-million. But rigid screening of immigrants cuts off the flow of immigrants sharply.

South Africa and Australia could absorb millions of additional persons, but make it tough for any but Britons to emigrate there.

Likewise, Canada, with 27-million acres of unused land suitable for farming, could increase its present 12-million population from 50-million upwards to 200-million persons. Although immigration into Canada has been large, the dominion's restrictions exclude most of Europe's refugees.

Now the United States has opened its immigration faucet a crack. Even this was done over bitter opposition, as the debates in congress proved.

Economic prejudices, racial hatreds and intolerance have cooled and solidified the American melting pot. Congress has just applied a tiny spark to the stone-cold kettle. The results should be interesting.

To Bust Or Not To Bust

More and more one has the feeling that we are entering a period that is in some ways similar to the Twenties. One sees business analysts announcing again that prices are going to stay up, that a vista of something like a sustained inflation lies ahead. Hmm-mmm! This up, up feeling was certainly part of the moral atmosphere of the Twenties. Bit by bit it is coming back, as we begin to tell each other, in general terms, that the price structure is fundamentally sound.

Of course there are some dissenting voices. At any sizeable cocktail party, or at any dinner table longer than eight feet, you will find at least one character who will warn solemnly that a bust is coming. That is the chief difference between the present time and that of two decades ago; in the Twenties nobody said it; it was kind of unpatriotic to say it, and in some quarters one would have run the danger of being tarred and feathered for saying it.

Another aspect of the Twenties was a kind of deterioration of our relations with the outside world. We had little time or attention for the rest of the planet while we were enjoying our boom. And in this respect, too, one finds a startling corroboration in what is going on today.

It is not just our relations with Russia I have in mind; it seems to me, surprisingly enough, that our relations with other leading countries are worsening, too. There was the manner in which the House acted up recently on extending the reciprocal trade agreements—act, attempting to surround future agreements with restrictions which would make it virtually certain that the volume of foreign goods coming here would be reduced, at a critical time for world recovery. And this touch of revived interest in tariff barriers is, of course, in purest form, a breath of the Twenties.

There is also the manner in which House Republicans, after whipping huge armaments bills through in jig time, have begun to cut down sharply on Marshall Plan spending; the first open attacks on Marshall Plan estimates began in the House Appropriations Committee last week. We are not, of course, turning isolationist, as in the Twenties, but it could be said that, by placing more and more of our bets on our own arms programs, which mean on ourselves, and less on foreign trade and world recovery, we are perhaps preparing to turn about, as much in that direction as one can in a year like 1948.

No, it isn't quite the Twenties, yet; it isn't exactly like those years when we fattened on our boom, ignored the world, and fascinatedly read news stories about tree-sitting and endurance dance contests, and other events that had nothing to do with anything. But, of course, one did notice an outbreak of stories last week about women offering themselves in marriage, at a price, through classified advertisements, and there was something familiar about the way the thing flared up and spread from state to state. It stirred old memories. Goldfish eaters next?

Settle Out of Court In Suit Against City

The case of Everett J. Fehlberg, 11 W. Harrison street, against the city of Iowa City and Alice K. McCollister, Elizabeth S. Koza and John S. Koza was settled out of court yesterday just as the jury was to be impaneled, according to Judge Harold D. Evans.

The case was to begin at 2 p. m. The jury was excused until next Monday when the first criminal case is scheduled to come up in Johnson county district court.

Fehlberg said he fell into the cellar opening on the sidewalk in front of the building at 108 S. Dubuque street. The individual defendants in the case are owners of the building.

Fehlberg asked $1,731 judgment for damages he said he suffered as a result of his fall.

Sentence Anderson For Molesting Girl

John Norman Anderson, Oakdale, was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail Monday by Police Judge Emil Trott.

Anderson pleaded guilty to a charge of molesting a nine-year-old girl in a local theater last Wednesday.

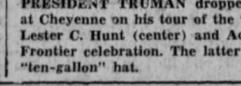

In police court, 34 persons paid a total of $44 for traffic violations. Twenty-nine of the fines were for meter violations, and five were for illegal parking.

Leonard Dolezal, Oxford; John Wilson, 1027 E. Market street; Frederick Kent, 302 Richards street, and A. J. Larew, 308 N. Clinton street, paid $2 fines for parking in prohibited zones.

Ray O. Sutter, Burlington, was fined $2 for alley parking. Judge Trott dismissed 13 persons on minor traffic charges.

Three Cars Damaged In Collision Sunday

Three cars were damaged in a three-car collision on S. Johnson street Sunday at 10:30 a. m. No one was injured, and no damage estimates were given.

According to the accident report filed yesterday at the police station, the drivers of the three cars were Mrs. C. A. Alexander, 433 S. Johnson street; Robert E. Jones, 838 Rundell street, and Adelaide Goodrell, 336 S. Dodge street.

Sawyer Says No Embargo On Shipments

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Sawyer indicated yesterday that Russia's own attitude and actions will help determine what she may buy from the United States.

At the same time, he said he does not believe this country can control or build up the war strength of other nations through issuance or denial of export licenses.

Sawyer said the United States has no agreement or policy to prevent shipments of industrial goods to Russia and Soviet-dominated Eastern Europe.

"We do not intend to place an embargo on shipments to any countries of Eastern Europe," he said at a news conference. "We get benefits from the exchange of goods with them."

It had been predicted that the secretary would disclose just what goods can and can't be sold to Russia under the new trade policy, but he did not do it.

And he left still very much in doubt the fate of about $21,000,000 worth of Soviet orders for American goods tied up by a virtual ban on industrial shipments to Russia clamped down March 2.

Senate Committee Approves 1-Year Trade Act Extension

WASHINGTON (AP)—A one-year extension of the reciprocal trade agreements act, in modified form, was approved by the senate finance committee yesterday. Several Republican leaders applauded the compromise but Democrats assailed it as deadly to the whole trade agreements program.

The committee threw out a house-approved provision giving congress the power to veto, by majority vote, tariff cuts ordered by the president if they were greater than the federal tariff commission recommended.

Instead the committee approved a compromise proposal which (1) requires the president to wait for the tariff commission's recommendations before cutting any tariffs, and (2) requires him to give congress a detailed report if he goes beyond those recommendations.

This compromise was drafted by Chairman Millikin (R-Colo.) of the finance committee and Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich.) of the foreign relations committee.

Millikin said it gives the president "every power he has at the present time."

But Senator Byrd (D-Va.), a member of the finance committee, said the senate bill "will do irreparable harm to the trade agreements program," which he described as "the only reasonable hope existing in the world today for a restoration of international trade."

One Democratic argument is that the president will have little if any chance to make tariff-cutting agreements with other countries during the one-year extension of the act, if he has to wait until the tariff commission investigates all of his proposals.

President Truman and Secretary of State Marshall have appealed for a three-year extension of the present act — which expires next Saturday in its present form. The act empowers the president to lower U.S. tariffs if foreign countries, in return, lower their duties on goods imported from the U.S.

The house recently turned down the administration plea flatly in passing its bill for a one-year extension with the president's powers sharply curbed. Several house GOP leaders said yesterday that the senate committee's bill, which still awaits action by the full senate, is acceptable to them.

List Program For Week of Rededication

Nelson G. Wettling, area director of the American Heritage foundation yesterday announced the program preceding the exhibition of the Freedom Train in Iowa City.

This week, beginning Friday and ending with the arrival of the train June 18 is called the week of rededication.

The program includes:

June 11. Organizations. This day will be highlighted by a radio program in which various civic and fraternal organizations will participate. The organization committee has furnished speakers for 13 civic, fraternal and veteran's organizations beginning May 24 and finishing on June 17, the day before the Freedom Train arrives.

June 13. The program for this day will be announced at a later date.

June 14. Freedom of Religion. In Iowa City churches sermons emphasizing various phases of our American freedoms and, particularly the Freedom of Religion will be given.

June 15. Agriculture. A radio program for this day is planned but arrangements have not yet been completed.

June 15. Woman's day. On this day the women of Iowa City will present a program on the east side of Old Capitol portraying our American heritage. This program will begin with "Sail On," a poem about Columbus and will include tableaux on various phases of American Life and movies of the Freedom Train.

June 16. A rally will be held at the Community building this evening at 7:30. Each veteran's organization will have a representative speak for a few minutes on some phase of the Bill of Rights.

June 17. Constitution Day. Plans for this day will be announced later.

June 18. Freedom Train Day. An official welcoming program will be held from 9:30 to 10 a. m. Mayor Preston Koser will welcome the train to Iowa City and the response will be made by the train director, Walter H. S. O'Brien. D. C. Nolan is chairman of the train day committee and will be in charge of all programs on that day.

State Board Gives Pharmacy Exams

Pharmacy Grads Start Examinations For State Licenses

Thirty-six pharmacy graduates yesterday began the state board examinations which continue through tomorrow.

Four members of the state board of examiners are administering the test. They are Chairman L. R. Henderson of Muscatine, J. F. Rabe of Des Moines, George W. Gillman of Fort Dodge and Paul Jepson of Newton.

The state pharmacy license examination consists of three phases. At first the pharmacy graduate may take two phases, the written and laboratory parts. The third part, the oral test, cannot be taken until the graduate has served as an apprentice.

A bachelor of science degree is necessary to take the initial examinations, Dean R. A. Kuever of the college of pharmacy explained.

Of the group taking the tests, 21 graduated from the University last week. The remaining 15 are graduates of other schools in the Midwest.

End Veteran Hobby Lessons; Recommend Other Budget Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP)—An end to "hobby" lessons for veterans, and a cut in atomic energy commission funds were recommended yesterday by the House appropriations committee.

It did so in reporting out a $5,795,048,931 measure to finance the Veterans administration and several other agencies. It is the last of the big money bills for the 19-49 fiscal year starting July 1, 1948.

Its total was eight percent, or $504,570,069, below what President Truman had requested.

The committee recommended cuts of $48,150,000 in the atomic energy commission's budget and $354,600,000 in veterans' funds. In the latter connection it urged a ban on continued spending for recreational and avocational training of veterans under the GI bill of rights.

It cited a budget bureau report estimating at more than $200,000,000 a year the cost of avocational and recreational training. Members of congress have said that veterans are trained in private flying, tap dancing, ball room dancing and other things.

Mine Owners Accept Lewis' Challenge To Draft Contract

WASHINGTON (AP)—Soft coal operators yesterday accepted John L. Lewis' challenge to make a contract offer in an effort to avoid another strike after July 1.

The mine owners said nothing about the nature of the proposals they will make, but they asked for another 24 hours to go over them. There was no indication whether the proposed contract will be ready in that time to try on Lewis for size.

Conferences between Lewis and the operators' negotiating committee now are scheduled to resume this afternoon.

Lewis opened the current contract talks Monday by saying the United Mine Workers had no wage proposal but "assuredly expect improvements."

Lewis also said the miners "will expect guarantees incident to the honoring of the current agreement in the matter of its welfare provisions."

The welfare fund, now being raised by collections of 10 cents a ton, brought another legal move by Lewis today.

During the lull in negotiating Lewis' attorneys went to federal court and filed an answer to the petition of operator Ezra Van Horn for an injunction. Van Horn seeks to block any payments from the $50,000,000 welfare fund under a pension system compromise which ended the recent strike.

Federal judge T. Alan Goldsborough will hear arguments on Van Horn's petition Saturday, June 19.

"I am making these minutes available for inspection by the court," Lewis said in an affidavit, "so that the obstructive, delaying and frustrating acts and conduct of the plaintiff may be fully, completely and finally disclosed and revealed to the end that the court may see and observe the naked truth of plaintiff's pernicious actions."

Lewis accused Van Horn of trying to "mislead and deceive" the court by using only excerpts of the trustee meetings.

Lewis contended that the welfare fund is a charitable public trust rather than a private one and that therefore the rule governing public trusts applies.

Van Horn argues that under the Taft-Hartley act the employer representative—meaning himself—must agree to any payments for pensions. The act says that payments from a welfare fund must be approved by the employer when it is financed by that employer.

Dads Set Up Pool Fund, Donate $50

The Community Dads voted to set up an Iowa City swimming pool fund and contributed $50 as the first donation, at a meeting in the Community building last night.

They also voted to meet June 15 with representatives of all service clubs in Iowa City to discuss means of raising $12,500 needed to finish Iowa City's proposed swimming pool.

A new slate of officers and a new board of directors were also elected at the meeting.

In setting up the swimming pool fund, the club voted to put $25 into the Iowa State bank and $25 in the First National bank. Interested persons may bring contributions to either place, or to the mayor's office, William Grandrath said.

The Rev. Donovan G. Hart was named chairman of the committee in charge of the meeting of all service clubs. This meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. June 15, in the city hall council chamber. Named to assist the Rev. Mr. Hart were Norris Dicker, Russell Mann, Jack C. White and Max Hawkins.

The committee will contact all service clubs in Iowa City and be in complete charge of the meeting at which a drive to raise the needed $12,500 will be planned. The city council has been authorized to spend $115,500 on the proposed new swimming pool while the lowest bid received was $125,500. Purpose of the meeting is to raise the difference between the two sums.

Preceding the business meeting the Dads elected Charles T. Smith, president; William Grandrath, vice-president, and Morris Dicker, recording secretary. The Rev. Mr. Hart was named to assist Dicker.

Named to the board of directors were Chairman Ewald Kuhlmann, John Kobes, Clarence Wilson, William Hoffer, Jack C. White, Walter Garwood, Frank Fryauf, James Callahan and Newton Mulford.

Next regular meeting will be held the second Tuesday in July at the Community building.

To Complete Plans For Schick General Hospital Transfer

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Arrangements for transfer of the 3,200-bed Schick General hospital at Clinton, Ia., to the Veterans Administration to operate as a general medical center will be completed some time this month.

The War Assets administration real property division here announced yesterday its experts will meet representatives of the Minneapolis VA office at Clinton Thursday to inspect the center and arrange for formal deed of the property. The center is to be used in rehabilitation of war veterans.

The transfer without funds is facilitated under Public law 557 recently signed by President Truman.

Construction of the hospital group, of which 71 buildings remain, cost the government more than $7,000,000. Clinton citizens raised $83,000 to purchase land and the city gave additional land for a total of 157½ acres.

BAKERS GET RAISE

DAVENPORT (AP)—About 300 bakers in this area, employed in 12 shops, will receive an eight and one-half cent hourly wage increase retroactive to May 1. The announcement was made yesterday by Oscar De Money, Rock Island, business agent of local No. 36, bakery and confectionary workers (AFL). The union also includes Muscatine.
