BERLIN (AP) — The Russians did an abrupt about-face yesterday and called off an hours-old rail traffic block which would have cut off food and coal from 2-million Germans in Berlin's western sector.

The end of the crisis came when the Russians advised American and British authorities that freight trains could move normally again from western Germany to Berlin. The first freight train from the American zone moved into the Russian zone from Helmstedt on the British zone border an hour later.

Boost Auto Prices, Grant Wage Hike To Rubber Workers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Another company-wide wage increase settlement and price boosts by two more automobile manufacturers featured the labor-management picture yesterday.

The Firestone Tire and Rubber company granted its 23,000 CIO production workers an 11-cents hourly wage boost.

Nash-Kelvinator announced it would hike the price of its Nash automobile from $75 to $90.

General Motors announced a price increase for its entire truck line—the boosts ranging from $10 to $110. A company spokesman attributed the boost to higher manufacturing costs and improvements.

The Firestone agreement may set the pattern of wage increases in the rubber industry. The settlement was the first among the big four rubber companies. The CIO united rubber workers union had sought 30 cents.

Ford Motor company, the only one of the big three companies still negotiating with the union, has announced plans to increase prices.

General Motors and Chrysler granted pay boosts but so far, Chrysler has kept its list prices unchanged. General Motors has left its passenger car prices as before the settlement.

The collision occurred 40 miles north of the Jersey coast in a fog, the Coast Guard said.

Truman Raps Russ Peace 'Obstruction'

BERKELEY, CALIF. (AP)—President Truman accused Russia yesterday of "obstruction and aggression," endangering world peace.

In a major foreign policy speech, Mr. Truman placed Russia's record of "coercion or open aggression" alongside what he termed America's "record of action in behalf of peace without parallel in world history."

"The refusal of the Soviet Union to work with its wartime allies for world recovery and world peace," he said, "is the most bitter disappointment of our time."

The president again held the door open for an "honest negotiation" to bring about "genuine settlement." But he turned down flatly any idea of great power "deals" to the "detriment of other nations or at the expense of principles."

"We refuse to play fast and loose with man's hope for peace," he said.

If Russia wants peace, he said, she can prove it by "proper action" in troubled Greece and Korea.

The chief executive spoke at commencement exercises of the University of California in the 90,000-seat stadium.

"The United States," he said, "will always respond to an honest move by any nation to further the principles and purposes of the charter of the United Nations."

"What is needed is the will for peace. What is needed is the abandonment of the absurd idea that capitalistic nations will collapse and that instability in international affairs will hasten their collapse, leaving the world free for communism."

"It is possible for different economic systems to live side by side and in peace, one with the other, provided one of these systems is not determined to destroy the other by force."

Iowa Wallacites Hold Parley

WATERLOO, IA. (AP)—O. John Rogge, former assistant U. S. attorney general declared yesterday the Mundt-Nixon anti-Communist bill "takes most of the remaining short step" from reaction to fascism in this country.

He told about 110 persons 15 from Iowa City attending a convention to found Henry A. Wallace's new third party in Iowa.

"Make no mistake about it. The Mundt bill is not aimed at the Communists, it is aimed at us."

Among those attending the two-day convention which opened yesterday were mostly college-age men and women, several elderly persons and a few Negroes. SUI's Prof. Bernard Baum headed the resolutions committee.

Wallace and U. S. Senator Glen Taylor (R-Idaho), the new party's presidential and vice-presidential candidates sent telegrams to the convention.

Wallace said:

"My heartiest greetings to my fellow citizens of Iowa who meet today to form a new people's party. In dedicating yourself to a peaceful, abundant America, you join with millions of other Americans to ensure that the ravages of war will never blacken the fertile fields of Iowa."

"Together, we can end the reign of terror and abuse against American labor under the Taft-Hartley act."

"I especially rejoice that the progressive men and women of my home state join with me in this great people's movement for the free and abundant land desired by all our people."

Taylor's telegram said: "It is fitting that a new people's party be established as congress seeks to adjourn. The Republicans and Democrats have buried the interests of the people."

Slashed Foreign Aid Bill Restored by Senate Unit

House Passes Stop-Gap Aid For Farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) — A stop-gap farm price bill was passed yesterday by the house and sent to the senate after several hours of debate on peanuts.

It continues until June 30, 1950, with some modifications, the present program of government price supports on a selected group of commodities.

A voice vote passed the bill in an unusual Saturday session called to help clear the legislative decks for planned adjournment next Saturday. By taking the action, the house got a jump on the senate on the issue of whether this congress should enact a long-range farm program.

Senate farm leaders are pushing a bill to set up a permanent price support program in line with some of President Truman's recommendations.

House leaders believe the senate, anxious to quit next Saturday, will take the house bill and drop the senate measure.

Speaker Martin (R-Mass) said yesterday after a conference with Senator Taft (R-Ohio) that chances of congress adjourning next Saturday are "fair but not good." Taft agreed, saying it is "reasonably possible."

The senate busied itself yesterday with appropriations and lesser bills. It put off until Monday a vote on extending the reciprocal trade act.

Program Put On Twelve Month Basis

WASHINGTON (AP) — The senate appropriations committee voted $4-billion for the European recovery program late yesterday — restoring most of the slashes made by the house.

The committee voted unanimously to put the vast aid program on a 12-month basis instead of the 15 months approved by the house.

The effect of the action is to give the economic cooperation administration a total of $5,055,000,000 instead of the $5.3-billion asked by the administration.

Senator Bridges (R-NH), chairman, said the committee's decision represented an increase of $950-million over the house approved figures for ECA.

While the committee was unanimous on shifting the program from 15 back to a 12-month basis, there was strong disagreement over the total amount to be given ECA.

Reporters outside the committee room could hear angry voices. Bridges said later some committee members wanted more money for the European aid program — others wanted less. But he declined to discuss what had gone on in the dispute.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, had led the appeal for restoring the house cuts. He appeared personally before the appropriations group to plead for carrying out the full program authorized by congress.

In cutting the foreign aid appropriation and spreading it from 12 to 15 months, Bridges said the house actually allowed ECA $3.2-billion on a 12-month basis. Included in this figure was $150-million for aid to Japan and Korea.

CONGRESSIONAL BOXSCORE

House

Displaced Persons — Passed a bill to admit 202,000 homeless Europeans and an unspecified number of orphan children, 289 to 91. Rep. Jensen (R-Ia) was the only Iowan to vote against it. The bill, which contains less restrictions than its senate counterpart, goes to a joint committee for compromise. The measure to admit DP's was listed as one of the "must" bills as congress moves toward adjournment. (See page 4, Daily Iowan, June 9)

House Committees

Rules — The senate-passed draft bill to call men 19 through 25 into two years service has been tossed into Leo Allen's (R-Ill) committee. Also listed as a "must" bill by GOP leaders, the bill is in danger of being left out in the cold as congress rushes to adjourn next Saturday, June 19. A house draft bill, similar to the senate measure, has been worked up and approved by the house armed services committee. It is up to the rules committee to give the house measure the go-ahead.

Appropriations

Drew up a $5,795,048,931 measure to cover costs of the veterans administration, atomic energy commission and other agencies. It proposed cuts of $48,150,000 in the atomic energy commission's budget and $354,600,000 in the VA budget. Among other things, the measure seeks to end payments under the GI bill for private flying, dancing and other "hobby" instruction.

Banking

Chairman Wolcott (R-Mich.), calling the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill "socialistic," offered a substitute eliminating proposals for public housing, slum clearance and farm housing aids. Later, a Democratic-Republican coalition formed to ram the T-E-W bill through, 14-13. Some of the most controversial provisions of the bill: federal financing of 500,000 low rent homes to be owned by public housing agencies in the communities; subsidies for slum clearance and redevelopment of city areas; farm home building aids; guaranteed annual profits for big scale investors in rental housing, and renewal of government mortgage insurance on new home construction.

Senate

Draft — Passed, 78 to 10, the draft bill calling for two years service for men 19 through 25. Bill requires all men 18 to 25 to register, permits one-year enlistments for 18-year-olds in order to avoid two-year draft. Also calls for special registration of doctors and dentists up to 45. College students, under the bill, would be deferred until the end of a school year. Most veterans will be exempt.

Foreign Policy

Passed Sen. Vandenberg's (R-Mich) resolution calling for congress to approve military aid to non-Communist nations. Resolution also calls for a curbing of the UN veto on matters of peaceful settlement of disputes and on admission of new members. Further, the resolution calls for a worldwide regulation and reduction of armaments "under adequate and dependable guaranty against aggression." Claiming such actions would spell out "America's role in collective peace," Vandenberg has extended the interpretation of the original Marshall plan beyond economic help to non-Communist nations. He proposes to work through regional groups for common defense, as outlined by the UN charter.

Senate Committees

Finance — Approved a one-year extension of the reciprocal trade agreements act, in modified form. Under the committee's bill, the president must wait for the tariff commission's recommendations before cutting any tariffs and requires him to give congress a detailed report if he goes beyond those recommendations. It scraps the congressional veto power in the house-approved bill. Truman and Secretary Marshall had asked for a full three-year extension to the present act, which expires next Saturday. The Republican congress, expecting a Republican in the White House next year, wants to fashion the country's tariff policy to their liking in 1949.

Appropriations — Led by Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich) a host of witnesses attacked Rep. Taber's (R-NY) foreign aid appropriation cuts in the house. Secretary of State Marshall, ECA boss Paul Hoffman, Harold E. Stassen, Thomas E. Dewey and Earl Warren all joined in protesting the "meat axe" technique of the house. The fight is over the house's cutting foreign aid spending from $6,533,000,000 to $5,980,000,000 and ruling that the money must last 15 months instead of the planned 12.

PALESTINE

UN Cease Fire Order Stops Fighting; Officials Arrange Peace Meetings

A tense truce descended upon the Palestine fighting on the weekend, suspending, at least temporarily, the battle for Tel Aviv. Arab forces were reported as close as eight miles to the capital of Israel. Jewish forces managed to trap 1,000 Egyptian troops and armor while seaborne reinforcements rushed to the rescue. Later in the week, Count Bernadotte, UN mediator, set the ceasefire for an estimated 6,000 Jewish and Arab warriors for Friday (Thursday midnight, Iowa time). Military observers dispatched by the UN to observe the keeping of the truce rushed to investigate reports of constant violations.

Meanwhile, Bernadotte and his staff flew to the Greek island of Rhodes to arrange for peace talks.

An end to fighting simplifies, does not solve, basic problems. A gigantic question mark will surround the peace negotiations. Jews will demand the new-born state of Israel be left alone. Arabs will not rest until all Palestine is in Arab hands. The battle will be shifted from opposing armies to opposing negotiators. But a solution to the great Palestine dilemma is still not in sight.

Although the Jews are allegedly violating the truce on many fronts, they stand to benefit militarily from a stalling of the hostilities. They have been slowly retreating with their backs to Tel Aviv and the sea. A breathing spell will prove beneficial in case fighting resumes.

Arab gains will be a big point in negotiations. They now control big chunks of Israel territory. At the moment, the truce is a prestige-getter for the UN. Any further accomplishments have not showed up yet.

COLD WAR

Western Powers Agree On Federated State For Western Germany

Agreement by the U.S., France, Britain and the Benelux countries to merge the three western zones of Germany into a federated state made the big news this past week.

The British cabinet and the U.S. state department promptly approved the measure. Only French approval stands in the way.

The western powers agreed to internationalize control of the Ruhr under a seven-nation control authority. Britain and the U.S. also promised to retain occupied European troops in the Ruhr until Europe's peace is secured.

Led by Georges Bidault and President Vincent Auriol, the French cabinet adopted the measure and planned to seek approval from the French parliament.

French opposition to the move came from the Communists and De Gaulists who both claimed that France was abandoning her traditional policy of security against Germany.

Russia immediately branded the move a "new menace of war for Germany and the entire world." The action comes after months of trying to get Russia to agree to unite Germany politically and economically. The Russ have been busily absorbing their zone of Germany into Russia's economy.

On this basis, the western powers decided upon a "Germany without Russia." At best, the move puts the east-west split on a semi-permanent basis.

We are floating the British zone, are now inheriting a French zone which is running in the red. (See page 4, DAILY IOWAN, June 10)

Yet the boost to recovery in the Marshall plan area may be worth the risk of increased costs and war with Russia. It is too soon to realize the full implications of the latest movement in the cold war.

The following also poked up the embers of a smoldering cold war: The Moscow radio charged the U.S. with carrying on "unbridled propaganda" for a new war. It pointed out an article in a May issue of Newsweek outlining military strategy in a war with Russia.

U.S. Air Secretary Symington announced that an airforce X-51 research jet plane had attained super-sonic speeds "many times" in trial flights last October.

Russians in Germany blocked off freight to the western zones of Berlin, promptly lifted the ban.

Secretary of Commerce Sawyer indicated that the U.S. would not soon indicate what goods could not be shipped to Russia. Due to a clamor that the U.S. was shipping military goods to Russia, a virtual ban on shipments was laid down March 1. It has not been lifted and the goods have not been tagged military or non-military. Western European nations would also like to know what the U.S. wants to keep from Russia. These countries need to trade with the east to restore their economies. (See page 4, DAILY IOWAN, June 12)

IOWA

Blue, Gwynne Upset in Primaries; Beardsley, Wilson, Gillette Win

Gov. Robert D. Blue and U.S. Rep. John W. Gwynne were toppled from their GOP posts in last week's primaries. Both organized labor and the Farm bureau patting themselves on the back over the outcome.

Other results of the primaries: William Beardsley will be opposed by Democratic candidate Carrol O. Switzer for the governorship; George E. Wilson will seek to retain his U.S. senate seat against Democratic candidate Guy M. Gillette, former U.S. senator. (For a more complete roundup, see 'Interpretive' elsewhere on the editorial page.)

POLITICS

Truman's Western Tour Causes Row in Congress, Democratic Party Ranks

Harry Truman's "non-political" tour of the midwest and west kicked up political sparks last week. The president unwrapped his new speaking style—informal, unprepared addresses from the platform of his train or in small halls. The idea behind it is the fact that Truman is stiff and cold when reading speeches.

His advisers thought his personality would shine through to the voters better if he spoke casually, "off the cuff."

The effects have been electric. Deliberately avoiding making major statements of policy for fear of committing a major blunder, the president resorted to simple mud throwing. (See On The Stump.)

His remarks against the Republican congress were repeated at whistle stop after whistle stop. Capitol Hill and GOP presidential candidates jumped up in defense. The result was more name calling, less facts.

The president gave his followers new headaches also. In Nebraska, State Democratic Chairman Ritchie said Nebraska and Iowa bigshots had been given the "bum's rush" by Truman. He was quickly accepted into the anti-Truman fold. (See Names in the News.)

Thoroughly eclipsed by Truman's tour and tongue, both Democrats and Republicans went ahead with lavish plans for their Philadelphia conventions. Both parties claim the most expensive preparations in the history of political conventions.

LABOR

Labor Layoffs Agitate Auto Industry; Lewis Wins Pension Argument

Recent wage settlements by General Motors, Chrysler, Packard and Kaiser-Frazer failed to bring labor peace to the industry. Last week General Motors and Ford announced the lay-off of 230,000 workers due to a shortage of steel. The corporations blamed the recent coal strike for the shortage.

Meanwhile, John L. Lewis was negotiating with soft coal operators to extend the UMW contract beyond July 1. A new coal strike hung in the balance.

Lewis won his point to continue the miners' welfare fund benefits beyond July 1, but Ezra Van Horn, operators representative on the fund trustee board, threatened a lawsuit to block payments. The trustee is continuing.

Atomic workers at Oak Ridge, Tenn., denounced the Atomic Energy commission for refusing to take sides in their dispute with the Carbide and Carbon Chemicals corporation, voted a strike.

Ben Hogan Captures U.S. Open With 72-Hole Record of 276

Snead Fades To 5th Spot

By BOB MEYERS
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Ben Hogan, winner of almost every other honor in golf, captured his biggest tournament yesterday—the United States open championship.

Stunning a record crowd with a par-breaking performance, Hogan won the championship with a 72-hole score of 276. Par is 284.

The mechanical man of golf, refusing to crack when the pressure came in the final stages, wrecked the par 71, 7,020-yard Riviera country club championship course with yesterday's performance.

Shooting final rounds of 68 and 69 to go with his first round 67 and second round 72, Hogan steadily and carefully chopped down hopes of his nearest rival, Jimmy Demaret.

Demaret missed second, matching Hogan's rounds of 68 and 69.

Hogan broke the U. S. open tournament record for 72 holes, a 281 registered by big Ralph Guldahl at Detroit in 1937. He also fractured the 54-hole score, too, which was 211.

An estimated 25,000 fans watched the triumph of the 35-year-old transplanted Texan from Ft. Worth, who now calls Hershey, Pa., home.

Slamming Sam Snead, who led the field going into this final challenge, dropped back with rounds of 73 and 72.

This was Hogan's course. He won the last two rich Los Angeles open tournaments over it in 280 and 275, stripping its par by 13 shots.

He became the first man to win in the same year the U. S. open and the PGA championships—one medal, the other match play—since Gene Sarazen turned the trick in 1922.

The win was worth $2,000 in cash to Hogan. Demaret got $1,500.

Jim Turnesa, of Elmford, N. Y., was third with rounds of 71-69-70-70-280. He pocketed $1,000.

Bobby Locke came next with 70-69-73-70 for 282, and Snead finished fifth with 69-69-73-72 for 283—a sad finish for the fans who wanted old Sam to win this one.

The defending champion, Lew Worsham, knocked two balls out of bounds on the seventh hole, and himself out of the running.

The gallery gave him a roar, however, when he bowed off the final hole after sinking a 60-foot putt.

Hogan started the afternoon round with a two-stroke lead over Demaret, and the two Texans virtually battled on even terms until the finish.

BEN BLASTS ONE—Little Ben Hogan, winner of the U.S. National open yesterday, got caught in the famed "island" sand trap in the middle of the 6th green at the Riviera Country club. Undaunted, Hogan blasted the ball (arrow) out of the trap and then one-putted the green to par the hole. Hogan won the event with a 72-hole record of 276. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Indians Sweep Twin Bill From Yanks, 7-5, 9-4

Gordon Slams 3 Home Runs, Drives in 6

NEW YORK (AP)—Former Yankee Joe Gordon had a field day on the eve of the celebration of the opener of Yankee stadium, pacing the American league leading Cleveland Indians to a double victory over the World Champion New Yorkers yesterday, 7-5, and 9-4, before a capacity throng of 68,588.

Gordon smacked three home runs, two in the second game, and a single and drove in six runs as the Tribe increased the margin over the second place Philadelphia Athletics to three and a half games.

Gordon started Frank Shea toward his sixth setback in the fourth inning of the nightcap by blasting his seventh homer with Walt Judnick aboard.

The star second baseman made it 3-0 with his eighth four-bagger in the sixth and contributed a run-scoring single in the Tribe's big six-run seventh.

Gordon's opening game homer came with one on and gave the Indians a 5-4 advantage in the seventh. The league leaders, however, required a two-run flurry in the ninth to nullify a Yankee marker in their half.

Allie Reynolds, former Cleveland right hander, was the loser. Ed Kleiman pitched fine relief ball to receive credit for the win.

For the others—the 49th annual U. S. open comes up next year at Ardmore, Pa.

Demaret, his bright red slacks beaming in the sun, made few mistakes. He was trapped once, on the fourth, he was out of bounds on the seventh, but he recovered and birdied the next four out of five holes, and given a nod from lady luck, could have birdied two more holes.

Last night there was celebration for Hogan's first U. S. open victory. He's won most every local and sectional open; he tied once and lost the playoff for the Masters title; he was captain of the Ryder cup team; he has been golf's top money winner, the Vardon trophy winner.

The Americans led by two matches to one at the start of the day's play. Mrs. Margaret Osborne Dupont of Wilmington, Del., quickly extended the margin to 3-1 by trouncing Mrs. Betty Hilton, 6-3, 6-4. Miss Brough's victory, which followed, thus supplied the clincher and made mere exhibitions of the two concluding tussles.

Reds Nose Out Braves Twice

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds defeated Boston twice yesterday 3-2 and 11-9, to knock the Braves out of the National league leadership. Hank Sauer got his 17th homer with the bases loaded in the nightcap. Jeff Heath, Bill Salkeld and Phil Masi also homered for Boston in the second game.

Red Barrett, who pitched only three balls in the second game, was loser of both contests before a crowd of 13,248.

Barrett, loser to Johnny Vander Meer in the opening game, took over the pitching at the start of the score tied, 9-9. His three pitches to lead-off man Johnny Wyrostek were balls. Jim Pendergast replaced him and threw another ball to Wyrostek who eventually scored the winning run. The run was charged to Barrett.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Detroit Tigers climbed into fourth place in the American League yesterday by defeating Washington, 4-1.

Hal Newhouse kept seven hits comfortably spaced to chalk up his seventh victory of the season, six of them in a row. He walked three and struck out seven.

Dick Wakefield, with a double and three singles, sparked the 10-hit Detroit attack.

Fete Feller, Stirnweiss
NEW YORK (AP)—Bob Feller, star pitcher of the Cleveland Indians, and George Stirnweiss, fleet second baseman of the New York Yankees, were honored as "sports fathers of the year" yesterday in a ceremony between games of the Yankee-Indian doubleheader.

Stirnweiss is the father of four children while Feller has two sons.

Illinois Takes NCAA Crown

CHAMPAIGN, ILL. (AP)—Illinois' baseball team, co-champions of the Big Nine, yesterday won the fourth district NCAA title by walloping Western Michigan, 12 to 2.

The victory gave the Illini the right to play in the eastern NCAA finals at Winston-Salem, N. C., next week.

Big gun of the Illinois' attack yesterday was Bob Wakefield, brother of the Detroit Tigers' Dick Bob, a third baseman, hit a triple and homer and walked in his four times at bat. He scored three times himself and drove in five runs.

His rountripper came in the seventh with the bases loaded. The clout traveled an estimated 430 feet on the fly to rank as one of the longest balls hit in Illini field.

Stanley Feldman pitched four hit ball for the Illini until he was relieved for wildness in the eighth. He struck out five and passed six.

Western Michigan got one run in the seventh on a pair of doubles. The other came in the ninth on a triple by Pinch Hitter Ted Plaza, who scored on an infield grounder.

Anniversary Day in Yankee Stadium
Ruth, Old-Timers Return for Exhibition

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK (AP)—The dim, but somehow still vibrant, past will be brought back for a few fleeting hours today when the baseball great of yesterday will appear at the silver anniversary ceremonies commemorating the opening of the Yankee stadium.

Fittingly, the top attraction in the "House that Ruth Built" will be the one and only Babe Ruth himself, wearing for the final time that familiar uniform with the No. 3 on the back. Immediately after the ceremony it will be taken to Cooperstown, N. Y., to be placed in the hall of fame with other mementoes of the great man's career.

But there will be more than the Bambino to bring back a flood of memories to the oldsters, and to bring a tingle to those who have read and heard of the great Yankee teams of the gala 20's, but never saw them.

Ruth himself will mingle his way out to home plate to present the lineup of the team of his 1923 teammates to the umpire before its game with a team of later-day Yankees, managed by the Babe's old boss, Ed Barrow.

That 1923 Yankee squad was the first ever to win a world championship. Some of the members—Lou Gehrig, Tony Lazzeri, Herb Pennock, Miller Huggins—have died, but present to play under Manager Ruth will be pitchers Bob Shawkey, Waite Hoyt, Sam Jones, Carl Mays and Jose Bush; Catchers Wally Schang and Fred Hoffman; Infielders Wally Pipp, Mike McNally and Joe Dugan, and Outfielders Bob Meusel, Whitey Witt, Oscar Roeltger, Hmkey Haines and Elmer Smith.

Barrow's squad will include Pitchers Johnny Allen, George Pipgras, Ernie Bonham, Hank Borowy, Spud Chandler, Bump Hadley, Wilcy Moore, Lefty Gomez and Tom Zachary; Catchers Bill Dickey and Pat Collins; Infielders Mark Koenig, Frank Crossetti, Joe Sewell, Joe Gordon and Red Rolfe, and Outfielders Sam Byrd, George Selkirk, Myril Hoag, Jake Powell and Bud Metheny.

Pueblo Whips Denver
DENVER (AP)—The Pueblo Dodgers jumped on the Denver Bears for six runs in the first inning yesterday and coasted in to a 14-6 Western league victory.

Warren Martin walked the first four Dodgers to face him. Hank Williams replaced him, and Jim Babcock, the first batter to face him, knocked a ground ball that bounded over Outfielder Bob Reash's head to clear the bases.

Bernie Zender's double and George Bradshaw's single scored the other two runs.

Win With Big 5-Run Seventh

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The New York Giants exploded for five runs in the seventh inning yesterday to come from behind and defeat the St. Louis Cardinals, 7-5, in the first of a three-game series.

Johnny Mize, who sent the Giants off to a 2-0 lead in the first inning with his ninth home run of the season, opened the big inning against Jim Hearn with a double. Billy Rigney capped the rally with a double which drove in the winning runs. The blow came off Murray Dickson, who had charged Henry Dickson was relieved with the defeat.

In between Mize's and Rigney's doubles, Will Marshall walked, Sid Gordon doubled, and Buddy Kerr and Pinch Hitter Johnny McCarthy singled.

Don Lang and Nippy Jones each struck three blows for the Cardinals and Teammate Ron Northey cracked his second home run.

Chisox Beat Boston On Seerey's Homer

BOSTON (AP)—With Pat Seerey and Luke Appling generating the offense, Righthander Al Chisox won his first start at the Chicago White Sox yesterday by holding the Boston Red Sox to seven hits for a 5-3 triumph.

Seerey lashed his second homer in as many games at Fenway park off Lefty Mickey Harris with Appling aboard in the third inning. That circuit blow was the "clincher," for the Chisox tallied twice in the opener on a pass to Don Kolloway, singles by Appling and Tony Lupien and a force play.

Bobby Doerr put the Red Sox into a 2-2 tie in the second by homering after Gettel passed Junior Stephens.

Swimsuits Shrinking Too Fast?

Pioneer Designer Predicts New Style

By SAUL PETT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—It is one yard down and a half yard to go in the women's bathing suit industry. Twenty-five years ago, the average gal's swim suit consumed about two and a half yards of material. Now it takes one and a half.

Soon, within 15 years, it will be down to one yard, says an authority. That means women going to the beach won't be wearing any tops at all, whatsoever, absolutely.

"The way things are going now, the topless suit may be here in much less than 15 years," predicts Leonard C. Asch, the man who made the first modern, one-piece, form-fitting women's bathing suit. "And they'll look lousy. Once at a show at the New York World's Fair, I saw some girls without tops. They looked terrible, and they were show girls who should have looked good. Honest, it was like something at a zoo."

As a pioneer in the art of designing less and less, Asch should know. He's the man credited with taking women bathers out of the long skirts, bloomers, long stockings and other items they used to hide in on the beach. In 1921, Asch created a sensation by manufacturing the one-piece, tight-fitting "Annette Kellerman suit," worn by the famous Australian diver of the same name.

Asch introduced his suit at the first Miss America contest in Atlantic City which he helped promote. For the next eight years, he helped run the annual contest, supplying most of the suits as well as the professional models, among them, Barbara Stanwyck, Ruby Keeler, Josephine Dunn and Peggy Shannon.

"I just got the idea of cutting the suit at the hip or thereabouts," the red-haired, 53-year-old Asch recalls. "But they were still wearing the opera-length stockings. In 1923, we had a show-down."

"I was tired of paying $15 a pair for stockings for the models. So we got special permission from the mayor of Atlantic City to let the girls appear without stockings. Even then the mayor or some other official had to measure the length of the bottom of the suit from the knee. I think the rule was it had to be no more than six inches."

"We had to promote the suit," Asch says. "Women were afraid to wear it, mothers threatened their daughters with everything under the sun if they did. But we finally proved the one-piece form-fitting was the healthiest, best for the sun, best for swimming."

One in those days, a Broadway night club owner commissioned Asch to make some very extreme two-piece costumes for his chorus girls.

"It was just a short skirt and bra," says the manufacturer. "The same thing you see on the beaches today. But it took hours and hours of argument to persuade the chorus girls to wear it."

Asch got out of the bathing suit business about 10 years ago. "Sometimes I'm sorry I did," he says. "It was lots of fun. More interest. I knew that women's bathing suits would get more and more daring, but I never dreamed just how far they'd go."

WHAT A DIFFERENCE A YARD MAKES! . . . aptly demonstrated by Virginia Hazen, A4, Ottumwa and Marian Egerer, A3, Chicago. Marian wears two and one half yards of material . . . what the 1898 "flapper's" suit consisted of . . . while Virginia wears the one and one half yards of material . . . the amount used in the present-day suits. Who ever started that saying about the "good olde days"? (Daily Iowan Photo by Herb Nipson)

First Lady in '49?

***
Mrs. Dewey, Former 'Scandals' Singer

There'll be music in the White House if New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey wins through to the presidency.

It'll be good vocal music, too, for Gov. Dewey's pleasing baritone voice is more than matched by Mrs. Dewey's even better mezzo-soprano.

However, good voice or not—unlike Margaret Truman, the present president's daughter—there'll be no concert tour for shy, self-effacing Frances Hutt Dewey, for she has no personal ambitions.

The social whirl has few attractions for this handsome woman who does not look her 45 years. Her job, as she sees it, is to be the capable wife of her famous husband and the mother of her two sons—Tom Jr., 15, and John, 12, whose activities she rigidly supervises.

No one would guess this quiet homemaker once appeared in "George White's Scandals," a Broadway musical revue, under the stage name of Ellen Hoyt; however, she also sang in church choirs.

The daughter of a railroad brakeman, Frances Hutt of Sapulpa, Okla., won a high school singing contest that brought her a University of Oklahoma scholarship. However, she preferred music and loyal Salpulpans raised funds to send her to New York for further study of the art.

After her brief stage career, (George White's Scandals), she worked as secretary to a Chicago voice teacher, Perry Rector Stephens, in exchange for voice lessons. It was here she met young Tom Dewey, a University of Michigan student, who had won a Michigan first prize and a national third prize by his singing, plus a scholarship under Stephens.

Their courtship lasted five years. They were married June 16, 1928, and set up housekeeping in a $75-a-month apartment.

Frances Hutt Dewey already lists a president among her relatives. She is a great-grand niece of Jefferson Davis, the first and only president of the Confederate States of America.

Summer Band Offers Openings For Musicians

Like to play a flute or clarinet—or maybe a saxophone? The university summer band has several openings for members, Prof. C.B. Righter said yesterday.

Prospective members are asked to sign up in the band office at the music studio building as soon as possible. Rehearsals for the band will be held Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 3 until 4:15 p.m. in south music hall.

Prof. Righter, director of bands, reported that it is not necessary to be a music major to join the summer band. Open air concerts may be given later in the season.

4,674 Enroll; Expect More

A total of 4,674 students had enrolled for summer school at the end of the first day of classes, Wednesday, President Virgil M. Hancher announced yesterday.

The total represents a decrease of 263 students from the preliminary enrollment last year of 4,937. Final enrollment total for the 1947 summer session was 5,102.

It is expected, President Hancher said, that an additional 100 or 150 students will enroll later this week or the first of next week.

The summer enrollment represents 1,108 women students and 3,565 students.

Broken down by colleges, the figures are as follows: graduate, 1,823; liberal arts, 1,535; commerce, 508; engineering, 261; law, 301; dentistry, 2; pharmacy, 54; and nursing, 190.

Records In Review

By JOHN L. HARVEY

(Presently in San Francisco, John Harvey is writing a "close to the source" column on current records. Next week Harvey will have a review of newer popular releases.—The Editor.)

Victor has announced the re-release of the almost legendary Furtwangler performance of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony. It is well worth getting; the score is handled with blazing power, and most conductors could learn a lesson from Furtwangler's beautiful reading of the second movement. Despite its age, the album is very well recorded. (The number of this set used to be M-426; 5, 12" records.)

Musicraft Album 78 contains an altogether wonderful performance of Bach's A minor Violin Concerto by Roman Totenberg, who also conducts the orchestra. After hearing this, one is tempted to concur with Virgil Thomson's opinion of Totenberg—that he is one of the few violin virtuosos who is also a musician. Since the performance is well-recorded too, this set belongs on your "must list." (Two 12" records.)

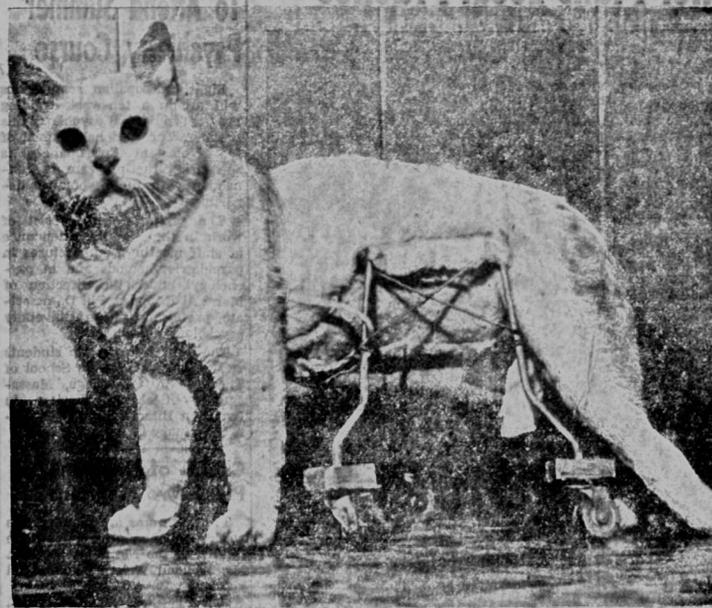

Andreas de Segovia has recorded the Bach Chaconne in his own arrangement for guitar. Though this may sound like a freakish affair, the result is both attractive and justifiable. Since the Chaconne was intended to be played on the violin with the obsolete curved bow, you are never likely to hear a genuinely authentic performance. Senor Andreas, however, gives a good substitute; intelligently transcribed and hauntingly played; the guitar seems amazingly suitable for this work. Unless you are fortunate enough to own Sonia Gramatte's violin performance or Erik Then-Bergh's performance of the Busoni piano transcription—both of which are nearly unobtainable—you will find the guitar version about the most satisfactory statement of this music. (Musicraft, 2 12" records.)

Rubenstein has recorded the Liezt E flat Concerto, with the Dallas Symphony under Antal Dorati. As a performance, it is no better than Gieseking's version in Columbia set X-17; however, the Rubenstein-Dorati set enjoys considerable superiority with respect to recording, and is therefore an automatic choice for those who want this work. (Victor set 1144, 2 12" records.)

One of the new "small companies"—Artists' Records—has issued an album containing fragments from Alban Berg's opera "Wozzeck." Werner Janssen conducts his own orchestra, and Charlotte Boerner is the very able contralto. Since "Wozzeck" is more discussed than heard—none of it has been recorded before—this album is very welcome despite certain minor deficiencies in the conducting. (Set JS 12, 2 12" records.)

Three new "singles" of works by Saint-Saens deserve notice. Jose Iturbi plays the French composer's interesting little Allegro Appassionato, and plays it startlingly well. The whole affair is helped out by magnificent reproduction. (Victor 10-1315, 1 10" record) . . . Guilomar Novaes plays the "Caprice on Ballet Airs from Gluck's Alceste," which is considerably better than its title. She plays with rare understanding and finesse, but is only fairly well recorded. (Columbia 71961-D, 1 12" record.) Sir Thomas Beecham and the new Royal Philharmonic give a definitive performance of "Omphale's Spinning Wheel," and are brilliantly recorded. I forgot to note the number of this one; it is on Victor.

Dog, Cat Troubles—Their Feet, Babies Don't Match

ALMOST LIKE NEW NOW, "UNFORTUNATE," a deaf, toothless and paralyzed tom cat was found 18 months ago on the side of a street, victim of a traffic accident. "Unfortunate" now sports a cat-style wheel chair and has a good start on a new set of home-grown molars. A plumber friend made the wheeled cradle. Mrs. A.H. Cooper, Ft. Worth, Texas, the cat's owner, says the diet she fed "Unfortunate" is responsible for the new teeth he is cutting. Her current problem—a cat-sized hearing aid. (AP WIREPHOTO)

DAISY'S FAMILY — PUP, RACCOON AND RABBITS. After two of her pups were sold, Daisy, a chihuahua owned by Charles Crowner, West Burlington, Ia., adopted an orphan raccoon brought home by Crowner, and then found herself five baby rabbits to care for. Daisy and her "babies," all seven weaned, are doing nicely. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Lawyer, Piano Tuner Plans Local Practice

RELAXING AFTER THE 11-YEAR GRIND, Shirley Porter and his children, Marshall and Diane, listen to Mrs. Porter read of Porter's school record. Porter entered the SUI college of liberal arts in 1937. Friday he was admitted to the bar. (Daily Iowan Photo by Rick Timmins)

Wanted: One law office. As soon as Shirley Porter, 29, 1424 Center avenue, can find an office he'll open a law practice in Iowa City. He thinks it will be about fall.

Porter, who "graduated with distinction" from the SUI college of liberal arts in 1941, and from the SUI college of law a week ago yesterday, was admitted to the bar Friday.

He is a Phi Beta Kappa and has received praise from Mason Ladd, dean of the college of law. "I'd like to run for some of the local offices," he said. "Our city attorney is appointed. I'd like to be appointed."

Right along with his lawyering, Porter will tune pianos. Blind from birth, he has tuned pianos for local citizens and organizations for 11 years. He was away from Iowa City two years during the war. He played the piano and organ in midwest night clubs.

Porter met his wife when she helped him on a bus in February, 1941.

"I was really enthusiastic," she said. "I thought he'd be a wonderful guest for a party I was giving. We were married the following September."

The couple has a blond boy, Marshall, 5, and a blond girl, Christy Diane, 3.

The kids seemed to be indifferent to their Dad's handicap. Almost oblivious. While he was eating his bacon and eggs they were squabbling over who should play with the kitten, "Opus." Diane demanded her Dad's arbitration on "taking turns playing with the kitty."

Porter wants to keep his wife in this setting. She wants to be his office girl.

"I don't want a wife-secretary. I want a wife and secretary." He wants to do trial work because "I can talk better than I can do research."

"You must do general practicing for a while. There's not much of any one thing." He anticipates little business at first, "but later on the income tax returns will start coming in."

Porter evidenced no qualms. He thinks he'll do all right in court. He's been getting around town on the "echo principle."

"For an echo there must be an original sound. I used to click my fingers, or even my tongue, when walking on grass."

"The beauty of the thing is that the loudness of the echo corresponds to the size and height of the object. The curbs echo back so I can tell when I approach them."

His diversions? Dancing, wrestling, playing cards.

"I danced for the first time in years Friday night. We were celebrating."

Theology Students To Attend Summer Psychiatry Course

Eight Episcopalian seminarians will attend a ten-week training program in clinical psychiatry this summer. The National Council of the Protestant Episcopalians is sponsoring the program in connection with the psychiatric department of SUI.

The program will consist of work in the hospital, attendance at staff meetings, and lectures in psychiatric methods and in psychology, under the direction of Marshall R. Jones, Ph. D., associate professor of the university psychology department.

The eight Episcopalian students were selected from the School of Theology in Cambridge, Massachusetts, Seabury - Western in Evanston Illinois, and the Berkeley Seminary in Berkeley, Calif.

Church of Nazarene Plans Two Programs

Two programs are planned this week for the members of the Church of the Nazarene, the Rev. Mr. Wendell Wellman announced yesterday.

These services include a mid-week prayer and bible study on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock and the church school visitation scheduled for 7 o'clock Thursday evening.

Behind the Dial

"Behind the Dial" will appear on this page every Sunday, and will feature local radio patter.

Recorded musical shows are the butt of much comment, both good and bad. Some persons believe a lot of music is bad radio, while others hold the opinion that music is the backbone of local broadcasting.

Over at WSUI the staff is taking these varying opinions into consideration as a guide for their summer program planning. Every morning at 8:30, WSUI has "Morning Serenade" featuring both serious music and some of the semi-classic variety. The program carries Debussy, Brahms, Strauss and others of a somewhat classical vein.

The program director feels that this is the sort of music that can be enjoyed without strain, relaxing, and at the same time helping to brighten the morning, for listeners.

*****

Herm Cohen's "Musical Chats" everybody at 1 p.m. is an example of carefully chosen records molded into a show with enough diversity to hold listener interest. An example is the Friday broadcast devoted to such American composers as Berlin, Gershwin and Cole Porter.

Then there's the 6 p.m. "Dinner Hour" handled by Otto Schlaak this summer. Otto chooses a guest producer once a week and does a nice job of selecting his recordings.

Spank Broders, on his noon-time "Rhythm Rambles," is spinning the latest hits even before they are on the music store racks. Spank's latest idea—Band of the Week—is bringing in piles of mail and is holding listener interest at a high level.

Another show with top popular tunes is "Tea Time" every afternoon at 4:30. Flo Robinson's doing most of the work on it now and getting some fine discs, both old and new, that everyone likes to hear.

To round off the recorded music day, the boys browse through the record shop, pick out easy-listening platters and spin them for 45 minutes of musical relaxation on "Campus Shop" at 9:00 every evening.

Townpeople Students May Sing In Chorus

If you like to sing and you've had previous choral experience, the place for you is the university summer chorus.

Membership in the chorus is open to students and townpeople. According to Prof. Harold Stark, chorus director, students may enroll in chorus for one semester hour credit.

Chorus rehearsals are held Monday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 7:15 p. m. in south music hall.

A summer concert is being planned for July 28. The chorus will present a program of unusual interest in the Union at that time, Stark said.

The Bach cantata "Sleepers Wake," Mozart's "Requiem" and Stravinsky's "Symphony of Psalms" will comprise the program.

Those interested in joining the chorus are asked to contact Stark, telephone extension 2278, or be present Monday evening at 7:10 in south music hall.

Sopranos and altos are especially needed.

Elevators Full so Wheat Piled in Street

AN ESTIMATED $200,000 worth of Texas and Oklahoma wheat was lying on four roped-off city blocks in Burkburnett, Tex., Tuesday because the three grain elevators were already full. Trucks were said to be lined up for a mile waiting to unload.

SUI Fame Draws Jack of All Arts

*** Dabbles in Art, Travel, Drama, Designing ***

Claude Marks, who lectures on the contemporary art exhibition at 4 p.m. tomorrow, can draw on an extensive background including travel, art, costume design and drama.

SUI's reputation brought him here last summer for painting with Lechay and prints with Lanskansky. "Oil is my favorite medium," he said, then exhibited an aqua-tint to prove that he likes etchings too.

Yesterday he was working on the third of his thesis paintings.

"One of my theses hangs in the hall exhibit at the Art building," he volunteered. "It's called 'Self Portrait.'" He expects to earn his master of fine arts here next August, then continue teaching at SUI.

His accent identifies him as English. "My first M.A. was from Cambridge," he said. Then he studied in Paris for "a couple of years" with side trips to Germany and Austria in the turbulent early '30's.

He's spent his last 10 years in the United States, at first teaching in a school of costume and design in New York.

By a more rigorous logic than usual with the army, Marks became a camouflage technician. "Sometimes I was able to do murals for service clubs," he added.

After the war he spent a year and a half for a Los Angeles theater designing sets and costumes, notably for the play "Father Was President," not unknown on this campus. He has sketches and designs from this period as well as photographs of portraits done there. The one he's most proud of was for Anne Revere but Vincent Price and Arthur Freed were also customers of his.

"I'm glad I had those interim months," Marks said yesterday. "It allowed me time for decision before returning to school."

He's been teaching courses in art appreciation and costume here. "I've been interested in period costumes ever since I was a kid," he admitted. He also gave lectures on costume for last spring's old masters show.

And drama? "Oh, yes," he added. "I've been able to put in some time in summer stock in a company in East Kennebunkport, Maine. It was good practice . . . all the arts are related to each other."

Cooperation Plus —

The senate has passed a resolution to extend American military aid to non-Communist nations. This same resolution asks revision of the UN Security Council veto arrangement.

This move is significant for several reasons. First, the senate has at last realized the United States is a citizen of the world—has for the first time made an historic move to ally itself for prior defense with other nations of the world through a world-type organization, the UN.

Second, we have asked to join in a common defense group—not as top dog which our national ego has so often demanded—but as just one of the boys. The Vandenberg resolution has, in effect, asked what kind of aid we can give to world peace instead of the big stick tactics dating back to the Monroe Doctrine and then Teddy Roosevelt.

We've made a move to get in with the bunch. That's not compatible with the old isolationism—neither is it compatible with the newer maneuvering and manipulating over foreign governments. But it is a healthy move, as Vandenberg pointed out, to rid ourselves of the idea that the UN is our baliwick "with or without" Russia.

The United States has cried "cooperation" when she has wanted things straightened out. The word has suddenly taken on a new meaning to 64 senators who voted for the Vandenberg resolution.

E Pluribus Unum —

Despite several days of hard fighting, the Sixteenth Connecticut, a regiment of volunteers of the Civil War, was forced to surrender.

But before the enemy could swarm the ground the Union soldiers had defended, the colonel of the regiment shouted: "Boys, save the colors. Don't let them fall into enemy hands."

Immediately the flag was stripped from its staff, cut into small pieces and distributed among the regiment.

Upon capture, the entire regiment of some 500 men was sent to a Confederate prison where nearly all of them remained until the end of the war. Each man who had a piece of the flag secretly preserved it, and when a soldier died, his fragment was in secrecy entrusted to another comrade.

When the war was over, the regiment was released from prison and the men returned to their homes, each still carrying with him the fragment of Old Glory that was in his keeping.

The worn fragments were rounded up and sewed together. This historic flag can still be seen at the state house at Hartford, Conn. Tomorrow, on Flag Day, the people of Hartford will remember how those fragments were united to create a precious heritage.

At the same time, all over the United States this flag has set an example. Remember how the flag is not just the result of one nation—there are fragments of many national flags; pieced together by people of the whole world, in what we know as the American flag.

INTERPRETING THE NEWS —

'Operation Blue Defeat' Told

By DWIGHT MCCORMACK

DES MOINES (AP)—You can get a hundred explanations for the surprise, history-making defeat of Gov. Robert D. Blue for renomination. But the opposing campaign managers say the reason was simple.

"It was a combination of the post war trend to turn the ins out," in the opinion of Clyde McFarlin. In his maiden effort as a campaign manager McFarlin directed Blue's bid for a third consecutive term in last Monday's primary election.

"It was a groundswell of the common people for one of their own kind of folks," said Charles R. Fischer, whose third straight success as a campaign manager gave the Republican gubernatorial nomination to state Rep. William S. Beardsley.

Others attributed Beardsley's victory to the farm bureau, or to labor forces, or to the state education (teachers') association, or to a combination of two or more of these interests; or to a near record outpouring of voters, or to heavy balloting by persons who usually don't vote in primary elections, among things.

The Associated Press' complete unofficial tabulations showed 315,849 Republican votes cast for Governor. This closely approached the record high of 332,000 votes in the 1940 primary.

Of Monday's total, Beardsley got 189,864, Blue 125,985. Blue carried only 13 of the 99 counties. Beardsley won in Wright county, the governor's home area, in addition to his own county, Warren.

Blue was the first governor in the state's 101-year history to be defeated in a bid for renomination, McFarlin and Fischer agreed. The governor was the only one of three Republican chief executives who sought a third consecutive term to be defeated.

The surprise of Blue's defeat political discussion in general came in the fact that prelection and polls in particular forecast a victory for the Governor. Beardsley took the lead after the first three precincts reported, and never relinquished it.

McFarlin, 58 and an attorney at Montezuma since 1914, has been active in Republican circles all his life. But he never has run for a political office himself.

Fischer said, "I don't think groups elected Beardsley. You don't carry elections by group voting. However, the farm bureau and labor were contributing factors."

"Blue never was a strong candidate. He was defeated because he was living in the past, politically. Just being for a greater Iowa, as he was, is a little too vague for the average voter. He wants something he can sink his teeth into if he's going to the polls."

Blue ran on his record, his desire to continue his post war programs for "A Greater Iowa." Beardsley promised greater state aid to schools, tax relief including repeal of the sales tax on food, and better farm-to-market roads, among many things.

Fischer, a former state insurance commissioner whom Blue declined to reappoint after Fischer had served 8½ years, successfully managed Republican gubernatorial nomination campaigns for Dan Turner in 1934 and George A. Wilson in 1936.

Blue incurred the opposition of the farm bureau and the teachers because they unsuccessfully sought to have the state pay 25 percent of the schools' operating costs and to have the state income tax put back to 100 percent. The tax now is 75 percent.

State aid to schools was increased by the 1947 legislature to $13-million a year, but it would take about $18-million a year to meet the 25 percent mark.

Labor bitterly opposed Blue because he supported two restrictive labor laws passed by the 1947 legislature.

President Truman—"I have been in politics a long time, and it makes no difference what they say about you, if it isn't so. If they can prove it on you, you are in a bad fix indeed. They have never been able to prove it on me.

"The voters should toss out the Republican congress—the worst congress in history.

"If you (organized labor) do not like the present labor law, you should not have elected the 80th congress in 1946.

"I doubt that voters will be sucker enough to believe the Republican leaders when they tell you what a great congress they have been.

"Congress has been listening to the private power lobby and their false economy threw us backward in controlling the now flooding Columbia river.

"Old Joe (Stalin) is a decent fellow. But Joe is a prisoner of the Politburo. He can't do what he wants to."

Norman Thomas — "A terrible danger lies in the tension of a cold

Robert Taft—"We may as well adjourn congress. There is little use working day and night to complete constructive programs when we have a president whose attitude towards congress and its philosophy is that of President Truman."

GLOBAL

Czech President Benes Resigns in Protest; Plan Benelux Economic Union

Czechoslovakia's President Eduard Benes resigned last week in protest over the proposed Communist-drawn constitution. Communist Premier Klement Gottwald tightened his grip by succeeding Benes.

200 persons are believed drowned from the Danish passenger vessel Kjobenhavn which struck a wartime mine in the Kattegat.

Ministers of the Benelux nations agreed on measures to develop "a real economic union" by January.

Maybe the only way to stay the way we are is to leave a few questions unanswered, on the theory that an essential part of the American character is our dependence on our ability to answer questions as they come up, and to adventure satisfactorily through them.

For the unifying thread running through most of the new measures we are discussing is their worried defensiveness. That was never a part of the way we are.

Maybe we have to take chances to stay the way we are, the way we always did take chances during the years when we were the way we are.

Maybe that's part of the way we are, the chances we have always been willing to take, on letting people think as they pleased, on leaving the door open for the people who needed America to come in, and on depending on improving our relations with the world rather than on setting up a field of force.

Maybe the only way to stay the way we are is to leave a few questions unanswered, on the theory that an essential part of the American character is our dependence on our ability to answer questions as they come up, and to adventure satisfactorily through them.

For the unifying thread running through most of the new measures we are discussing is their worried defensiveness. That was never a part of the way we are.

It wouldn't seem, at first glance, to be at all the way to do it; you don't hold your ground by leaping like a startled gazelle. Yet there are men around, seriously arguing that the way to keep America a land in which we don't care what anybody thinks is to make sure we know what everybody thinks.

And this funny little pattern of changing everything to avoid changing anything seems to crop up again and again. I feel, somehow, that it shows up in the Senate Displaced Persons Bill. This bill would allow 200,000 refugees to come here in the next two years. But it pretty effectively keeps most Jews and Catholics among the DP's out, by means of visa provisions too complicated and clever to go into here. The cleverness thus shown is distressing; such cleverness seems somehow out of place on the part of the Senate of a great people. Senators, as a general rule, shouldn't wink.

And as to precisely what our America is being defended against by such small devices it seems very difficult to say. For the plain truth is that America was made the way it is by letting everybody in who wanted to come.

It's a strange, defensive topsyturveness which has come over us, based on the peculiar slogan: "What do we have to change around here to stay the way we are?" We hope we're standing still, but in actual fact we're vibrating and throbbing all over the place, setting up floor creep and lateral motion. Like, for example, having conscription in order to make sure that we will never become like those other unfortunate countries in this world which have always had conscription, or like deciding that the way to avoid trouble is to put our faith in a policy of big armaments, in some ways like that followed by the countries we licked in the late war.

And suddenly one has the odd feeling that maybe playing it safe

Truman southerners invited Ritchie to join their preconvention caucuses.

With no letup in the Pacific Northwest flood threat, President Truman signed a $10-million emergency appropriation for flood relief. The federation was established in October, 1945, to "educate the public to the implications of atomic energy."

He further stressed this country's efforts toward international control of the atomic bomb and peacetime application of atomic power.

McBride's Hall — Seersucker—Dignity Buster

By BILL MCBRIDE

A man who can get up in the morning and put on a seersucker suit gets nothing but admiration from me.

I own a seersucker suit (which I fondly refer to as Seersucker), but it never leaves the confines of my closet. You might say that I have a seersucker suit phobia . . . seersuckeritis.

I'll admit the suit is not a particularly good fit. The coat is rather tight through the shoulders and more or less bells out at the bottom. Many men wear ill fitting clothes, however, and my bell bottomed coat is no excuse for the collection of crude remarks made in my presence about Seersucker.

There are mornings when it seems that Seersucker is the only suit I should wear. I wake up, a friendly sun beams into the bedroom, and I bound from bed with one thought.

This is the day to wear Seersucker I say to myself gleefully. Then my ivory tower falls. (Must do something about that falling ivory tower. Neighbors are complaining about the noise.)

In my mind I can hear one of the rowdies in the newsroom shout, "here comes the good humor man! Anybody want an ice cream cone." Or, "Well look at ole Mae. He forgot to take off his pajamas today." It's things like that which strike like a hot iron into a man's sense of dignity.

There's one hope for Seersucker and I. While wearing the trousers during dinner (in the kitchen with the door closed) the other night, I spilled beet juice in my lap.

Now I'm going to dip the whole suit in beet juice and maybe I can wear it sans comment.

Tomorrow is Flag day in commemoration of the day in 1777 when Congress proclaimed the Stars and Stripes the national standard of the United States.

You would think that Flag day would mean the same thing to every red-blooded American, but it doesn't.

For instance, a dog thinks a flag is the bushy part of his tail. A deer, following the same train of thought, refers to his whole tail as a flag. Birds of prey call the long feathers on their legs flags. (It has been rumored that some chickens shave their legs . . . this type of chicken is a bird of prey.)

It's because of these variations in the American language that you should be careful in mentioning Flag day around your dog. He will think you are referring to chopping off the bushy part of his tail and leave home.

Interim Group Asks Flood Control Team

DES MOINES (P)—The next legislature will be asked to create a new state agency to take charge of Iowa's flood control and related problems.

The agency would have independent supervision over all waters within the state.

This is the principal recommendation on which the interim flood control committee appointed by the last legislature has agreed, according to Senator George Faul of Des Moines, the committee chairman.

"We see no other way to supervise all these problems in the interests of all the people of Iowa," he said.

The agency, so far, is without an official name because the interim committee is now in process of winding up its work and laying the ground for its report to the 1949 legislature.

The recommended plan will be an "authority" or "council" of qualified citizen appointees to be named by the governor. The membership would be limited to about nine.

"On the overall flood control program as it affects Iowa we are not going to recommend that the state make any appropriations," Faul said. "That's a federal matter. But there are other problems and we will need legislation to cover them."

The other problems involve drainage districts, soil erosion, stream pollution, stabilization of the water flow on rivers and means of controlling local overflows that are hard on farmers but do not rate headlines.

"We want to avoid disturbing the functions of existing agencies such as the conservation commission, the department of agriculture and the health department but we should have some over-all recommendations to make everything dovetail," Faul said.

The interim committee was created by the 1947 legislature. Its members include three senators, three members of the house, three civilian engineers and three other citizens.

Extensive hearings have been held on flood control and drainage district problems throughout most of the state but more hearings are scheduled in the western sections before the committee's report begins to take form.

This report, which probably will be voluminous, must be ready in printed form by the latter part of December. It will take about two months to get it printed. The committee will meet at the statehouse tomorrow to go over some of the details.

The committee is expected to wrap up its recommendations in a series of proposed bills, much as the special tax study committee did before the 1947 session. The number of bills it will propose is still undetermined.

The group has been giving attention to local tax problems that might develop after completion of federal flood control plans. For example, what is going to happen to school districts and their tax bases when a new dam on the Des Moines river is located at Red Rock or Howell?

Stream pollution and soil conservation have been going hand in hand during committee discussions. The department of agriculture wants help in keeping the soil anchored and the department of health wants to keep the wasted silt out of the beds of streams so that the flow of water will not be impeded.

The health department recalls, unhappily, that back in 1930—before the state's industrial expansion—some of the state's streams practically went dry.

Adamson Recalls

When Men Wore Skirts

— And Liked It

By GEORGE PORTER

... and the men were glad to wear skirts."

William L. Adamson, director of the Scottish Highlanders, was talking about the history of the organization.

It all started after the last war when an army officer, Col. George F. N. Dailey, watched a bag-pipe at the Edinburgh Castle. He made up his mind then to have a pipe band of his own some time.

The opportunity came when he was ordered to the University in 1934 as head of the R. O. T. C. He invited students to form a "band," but when they learned they were to wear "skirts," they declined.

Dailey then organized a drum and bugle corps and sent a music-major student to Canada to receive a month of concentrated instruction on the bag-pipe.

This student returned to teach four others, the art. While this was going on, five pipes and uniforms were purchased.

In 1936, these five pipers, complete in full Scottish regalia, made their first appearance. The apathy of the other students disappeared. But it was too late. The instructor-student graduated and the Colonel was left without an instructor.

Dailey then heard of Adamson who was teaching bag-pipe playing in Boston. He invited Adamson to come and look over the situation.

Adamson accepted the position and in 1937, started teaching 16 students. At the same time, uniforms and pipes were bought.

At the first football game that year, the Highlanders, all men, performed for the first time. There was 27 members including the drum major.

By 1942, the size of the organization had increased to 44 members and more men applied for positions than could be equipped.

According to Adamson, they marched and played as well as any similar organization in the country. They travelled over 15,000 miles and in 1939, performed at the New York World's Fair.

In 1943, because of the shortage of male students, the organization was converted to women. A call was issued for volunteers on Sept. 1, and on Sept. 30, the new organization performed at the first football game that year. At the same time, their number was increased to 55.

Adamson said, "Contrary to masculine belief, the girls do not have as much 'wind' as men."

The uniform worn by the Highlanders is similar to the costume of a 17th century Scottish gentleman.

The kilts are one piece of tartan cloth about seven yards long. They are pleated in back and folded in front. The plaid (piece over the shoulder) is fastened to the belt in back and draped over the left shoulder and fastened with a brooch.

The pipers wear doublet of dark blue with a lace dickey underneath. Drummers wear a crimson doublet which is buttoned up the front to the neck.

Hanging from the belt in front is the Sporrin. It is copied after the pouch used as a "purse" by early Scotchmen.

Two caps are worn by the Highlanders. The plumed bonnet is similar to that worn by the Black Watch regiment for over 200 years. The other headpiece is the "Glenngarry." It is worn with the front peak over the right eye.

In addition to their regular pipe playing and marching, the Highlanders present popular Scottish dances such as the Highland Fling, Sword dance, Reel of Tulloch, Irish Jig and Sailor's hornpipe, all in appropriate costumes.

Ojemann will serve on the panel.

Thursday afternoon the authorities on child welfare and training will hear Alan Lomax talk on "Folk Singing in the Family". Lomax directs the folk music series for Decca records. Former curator of archives (American folk songs) in the library of congress, he spent more than ten years collecting and recording American folk music and lore. Presiding at Thursday afternoon's meeting will be Professor Ruth Updegraff.

To conclude the conference Thursday evening, Lomax will present a program of songs, recordings and stories in the main lounge of the Iowa-union. Theme of the concert will be "Folk Songs, U.S.A." Tickets can be had free at the Union desk beginning Monday morning at 8.

City, U-High Girls To Y-Teen Meeting

Nine women from City and University high schools will attend the "Y-Teen" summer conference, June 13 through 19 at Grinnell college.

This convention is held annually for "Y-Teen" clubs in Iowa. Approximately 225 delegates from all over the state will attend this year.

Elizabeth Winbigler, 516 E. College street, is advisor for the Iowa City group whose theme is "We Build Together."

City high school women attending the conference are, La Donna Stubbs, president; Janice Krattet, vice president and program chairman; Colleen Ahrens, treasurer; Loretta Frel, assistant treasurer and Alice Lord, membership chairman.

University high school women attending are Marge Kurtz, president; Melva Colony, vice-president; Lillian Murphy, secretary and Betty Barnes, program chairman.

Council To Discuss Surfacing Projects

Action on bids for the rock surfacing of 20 streets and two alleys in Iowa City will be the main business of the city council at their regular meeting tomorrow night in the city hall.

The city clerk was directed on May 24 to advertise for bids on the project which called for a $12,317.95 bond issue. Bids will be opened tomorrow at 2 p. m. and acted upon at the 7:30 meeting. The work must begin by July 1.

A public hearing on proposed concrete paving of sections of Keokuk, Court, F. Bayard and Yewell streets will also be held.

This paving program, requiring a bond issue of $98,122.62, includes the removal of the center parking strips on Iowa avenue from Clinton to Gilbert streets. The space will be replaced by paving. The action is intended to make an open thoroughfare and help alleviate traffic and parking congestion.
