PARIS (AP) — The national assembly grudgingly authorized the government early yesterday to go along with the six-power agreement on Germany provided French security is assured.

The deputies tacked conditions on their authorization before approving it, 298 to 289, with 26 abstentions.

The vote meant final approval for the London recommendations, which will give western zone Germans the right to handle their internal affairs, at least under a minimum of Allied control.

The other five countries — the United States, Great Britain, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg — already have signified their approval of the western Germany agreement.

The vote came after four days of bitter debate in the assembly, during which Premier Robert Schuman's government was accused of abandoning traditional French policy on Germany and failing to defend France's national interests.

The debate was a rough session for Foreign Minister Georges Bidault and his resignation was, at times, predicted freely. The government received an unexpected boost Tuesday from a bloody strike riot in central Clermont-Ferrand, which recalled to many hesitant deputies the specter of Communist riots last December.

The first announcement gave Schuman's government a nine-vote majority, but 10 minutes later a revision gave it only eight.

This margin tied the narrowest margin Schuman has had on a vote since he took office six months ago. Once, during last winter's strikes, his majority fell to eight votes over a crucial issue involving legislation to beat the Communists.

Before the vote was taken, Schuman told the assembly Tuesday night that the time had come "to return to the Germans responsibility for the direction of their internal affairs."

Prince Bertil To Visit City

Prince Bertil, second son of the crown prince of Sweden, will be a special guest of the University of Iowa at a noon luncheon Tuesday, President Virgil M. Hancher announced yesterday.

Twenty-three other members of a Swedish delegation, now touring the United States participating in the Swedish pioneer centennial, will also attend the luncheon.

The group will stop in Iowa City en-route from Rock Island, to Des Moines where the prince will be honored Wednesday.

President Truman presented Bertil the Legion of Merit, Order of Commander, at the recent Swedish Pioneer centennial celebration in Chicago. In return, Mr. Truman became the first American to receive the gold medal of King Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden.

The prince is the second son of the present crown prince, Gustav, and is now second in line to the throne — after the crown prince.

His mother, who was Princess Margaret of Great Britain and Ireland, died when he was a boy. His father then married Lord Mountbatten's sister.

Hoover To Visit Iowa

Former President Herbert Hoover will visit West Branch, his birthplace, on his 74th birthday, August 10, William B. Anderson, president of the Hoover birthplace society, announced yesterday.

STUDYING BILLS to be "cleaned-up" before congress can adjourn Saturday are Senators Arthur H. Vandenberg (R-Mich); Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio), and Kenneth S. Wherry (R-Neb). ## Arabs Ready 'To Talk Shop' If UN Partition is Scrapped

CAIRO (AP) — The Arab league indicated yesterday it was willing to participate in negotiations for a permanent Palestine settlement on condition that the United Nations partition plan is shelved.

Count Folke Bernadotte, the UN mediator, said the league promised to send four experts on June 21 to his headquarters on the Island of Rhodes. He added: "These experts are just consultants who will help us in our work for a short period but will make no decisions."

Bernadotte said he did not know whether Israeli authorities were prepared to send a similar group but he expected to find out when he gets in touch with Jewish leaders in Tel Aviv today. He plans to return to Rhodes Friday.

Palestine's fighting fronts remained quiet on this sixth day of the four-week truce while Bernadotte conferred in Cairo with the premiers of Egypt, Lebanon and Trans-Jordan and Abdel Rahman Azzam Pasha, the Arab league's secretary general.

The Israeli government charged that Britain was "imposing oil sanctions" against the new Jewish state by shutting off the oil pipeline to Haifa and diverting fuel to the Arab countries.

Government Enters Alcoa Wage Dispute

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The federal government yesterday stepped into the wage dispute between the CIO-union steelworkers and the Aluminum Company of America.

Charles R. Ward, federal mediator of Pittsburgh, said today he will ask both union and management for an early renewal of wage talks in an effort to avert a strike called for Sunday midnight.

Ward's statement came only a few hours after the steelworkers union officially announced it had called the walkout of 18,330 Alcoa workers.

The strike call resulted from a breakdown in negotiations in which the company had offered an eight percent hourly wage increase. A company spokesman said this would average about 10 1/2 cents. Saying, the situation "has become a little confused," the spokesman added that the union now is seeking a straight 13-cent an hour across the board increase. A union spokesman concurred on the 13-cent figure.

'Foreign Aid' In Last Round

WASHINGTON (AP) — The senate-house fight over foreign aid spending moved into the decisive last round yesterday with well over a billion dollars at stake.

The house rejected the $6,125,710,228 appropriation voted early yesterday morning by the senate and a joint conference committee got the formidable job of trying to work out a compromise.

Rep. Taber (R-NY), named chairman of the house conferees, declared that the far smaller sum voted last week by the house is "adequate." He vigorously opposed any "arbitrary action" to increase it.

Senator Bridges (R-NH), appointed chairman of the senate conference group, was just as firmly supporting his chamber's version. He estimated that it gives the foreign aid program at least $1.1-billion more than the house bill.

In actual cash, the senate added only $145-million to the house-approved appropriation. But the house directed that the money must last 15 months while the senate would allow it to be spent in a year.

The funds are intended to launch the ERP and finance such other projects as aid to Greece, Turkey and China. The cost of running some occupied areas also is included.

It was Taber, as chairman of the house appropriations committee, who led the fight to reduce foreign spending below the level asked by the administration and "authorized" by congress earlier this year.

Russia Walks Out Of Berlin Council

BERLIN (AP) — The Russians last night angrily walked out of the allied Kommandatura. The Kommandatura is the last functioning four-power governing body in Berlin.

The Russian walkout came after a stormy 13-hour meeting of the body, at which economic issues were discussed.

The Soviet action was similar to a Russian walkout from the Allied control council for Germany March 20.

The Russian walkout occurred shortly before midnight. The apparent reason was that the American commandant, Col. Frank L. Howley, had left the meeting.

Then the Russian deputy commandant, Col. Alexander Jelissarov, arose and, with his entire delegation, stalked out of the meeting.

Truman Raps GOP Congress; Relaxes In Missouri Home

INDEPENDENCE, MO. (AP) — President Truman called upon the voters to overthrow congress because its "majority is against the people" as he came home yesterday to a rousing reception from friends and neighbors in Jackson county.

The President settled down for the night in his big, white frame home on Delaware street after a day of campaigning through Kansas in which he limited his attacks on the Republican-dominated congress to domestic issues.

Hundreds jammed the Union station at Kansas City and hundreds more stood outside to cheer as the President's train pulled in at 2:45 p.m. (Iowa time). As he stepped "into his car," a band played, "Hail to the Chief," and later switched to the familiar "Missouri Waltz."

Enroute here, the President exempted a "great many liberal congressmen and senators" from the criticism he has leveled at congress during a cross-country tour which started from Washington June 3.

And, exempting bi-partisan foreign policy from his campaign, he told a crowd at Newton, Kan.: "Thank God the foreign policy of the United States has not gotten into this brawl."

At Newton, and at Emporia, he said the bi-partisan foreign policy must be supported because it is "for the whole world," and means "peace in the world" if it is carried out.

Congress Overrides Two Truman Vetoes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The house and senate overrode President Truman three times yesterday in the battle of vetoes, writing one bill into law over his rejection and leaving a second in doubt.

Both the house and senate voted by the necessary two-thirds majority to pass over the President's objections an appropriations bill which carries a rider transferring the U. S. employment service to the federal security agency.

The senate, by a 63 to 25 vote, overrode the veto on the so-called Bulwinkle bill which lets railroads make rate agreements without fear of anti-trust laws if approved by the interstate commerce commission.

The house plans to vote on the Bulwinkle bill today.

Truman Responsible for Call; Eliminates Draft for Doctors

WASHINGTON (AP) — The house used the axe on the draft bill last night. It cut the required term of service from two years to one, eliminated doctors entirely from induction, and placed on the president's shoulders the responsibility for calling men into service.

Other amendments during the day altered the shape of the bill the house armed services committee worked weeks to draft.

Major change was the amendment by Rep. Coudert (R-NY) to limit service to 12 months. It was fought bitterly by Chairman Andrews (R-NY) of the armed services group but was approved tentatively by a vote of 156 to 88. The action, however, may be challenged on a roll call vote later.

The house bill, calling for a two-year revival of the draft, would have required two years' service of men 19 through 25.

Earlier, the house approved by voice vote an amendment by Rep. William J. Miller (R-Conn) dropping the special registration and draft of medical men from the bill.

Miller said no draft is needed to get enough medical care for the armed forces. The original bill called for registration of doctors through the age of 44, with special provision for drafting them.

The sudden groundswell of support for the Coudert amendment for one-year service swamped leaders of the bill, who earlier had won a rejection on a proposal for 18-month service.

Debate on Coudert's amendment was cut short by members shouting "vote! vote!" while Rep. Case (R-SD), in the chair, pounded his gavel for order.

Member after member announced dramatically he would give up his speaking time to permit an immediate vote.

Rep. Kilday (D-Tex), vainly trying to check the runaway house, begged "Be honest—vote against the whole bill if that's how you feel, but don't use amendments to kill it."

House Group Demands Prison for 4 Parolees

WASHINGTON (AP) — A house committee demanded yesterday that four former Capone gangsters, free on parole, be clapped back in federal prison.

The house expenditures committee made a point of identifying two attorneys who represented the men, as "personal" friends respectively of President Truman and Attorney General Tom Clark.

The lawyers are Paul Dillon of St. Louis and Maury Hughes of Dallas.

The report said they were "in a position to exert influence with those in authority."

The committee said big money was spent in getting the men out.

Two Crash Victims In 'Good Condition' At Mercy Hospital

Arlo Barnes and Virgil Broders, occupants of the truck that collided with a car Tuesday evening on highway 6, three miles east of Iowa City, were in "very good condition" late last night at Mercy hospital.

Barnes, Malcom, suffered a fractured knee cap and Broders, Grinnell, received a severe scalp laceration in the crash that killed two Muscatine residents, Mrs. Vernon Willis and Robert Crose, occupants of the car.

Funeral services and burials will be held Friday afternoon for Mrs. Willis at West Frankfort, Ill., and for Crose at Muscatine.

Mrs. Willis, 29, was born Elva Jane Brewer, June 17, 1919, in Cardwell, Mo., where she operated a beauty shop. She was married July 22, 1947, to Vernon Willis and came with him to Muscatine in April this year.

She was a member of the Baptist church and was active in church work. She is survived by her husband, her mother, living in Hot Springs, and a brother of Cairo, Ill.

Crose, also 29, was born March 30, 1919, at Okquawka, Ill., and had lived in Muscatine 20 years. Until recently he had been employed in a Muscatine cafe.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Myrtle Barnes of Muscatine; his former wife, who was Patricia Thorne and to whom he was married in Cedar Rapids in November, 1940; a son, Richard Allen Crose, Chambersburg, Pa.; a half brother, Donald Maples, Monmouth, Ill.; a sister, Mrs. Hubert Sorrells, Oakland, Calif., and two half sisters, Mrs. C.N. Neiberger, Canton, Ill., and Mrs. Fred Schneider, Jr. of West Liberty.

He served six years in the coast guard during World War II.

Policeman Turns Back, Costs City One Buck

An Iowa City policeman found out yesterday "the hand is quicker than the eye."

About to write a ticket for over-parking, he was questioned by a student writer concerning the city's parking laws.

Turning to the writer, the policeman admitted a dollar was pretty stiff for a minute overtime. While the officer's back was turned the car owner appeared and deposited a penny in the meter.

"Thanks, buddy," the driver called to his benefactor as he drove off hurriedly.

Says 350 Fail To Pay Tuition Fees On Time

Approximately 350 of the 4,800 students attending the summer session did not pay their tuition by five p.m. yesterday, according to F.L. Hamborg, university treasurer.

Yesterday was the deadline for payment without penalty. Students, paying today, will have to pay a $2 fine. Veterans must pay the fine out of their own pockets.

Quaker Leader Dies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dr. Rufus M. Jones, 85, one of the best-known Quakers in America and an organizer of the American Friends Service committee died yesterday at his suburban Haverford home.

Dr. Jones helped found the American friends committee in 1917 and headed it as chairman until 1928. He was renamed chairman in 1935 and served until 1944 when he was made honorary head of the group.

Dr. Jones is survived by his widow, the former Elizabeth Bartram Cadbury of Philadelphia, and a daughter, Mary Jones.

Speech, Panel Discussion, Songs Highlight Iowa Education Meet Closing

RAISED ACCORDING TO THE BOOK, 14-month-old Edward Shoben III was held in his mother's arms while he looked over Dr. Benjamin Spock, (right) associate professor of psychiatry at the University of Minnesota. Young Edward, son of Prof. and Mrs. Edward J. Shoben Jr., 183 Riverside Park, has been raised according to Spock's principles of child care. Looking on was W.M. Whiting, assistant professor of anthropology at SU.

The 21st Iowa conference on Child Development and Parent Education closes today with a speech, a panel discussion and a program of folk songs.

At 9:45 this morning Allison Davis, professor of education at the University of Chicago, will discuss "Different Social Values in Child Rearing."

After Davis' speech, members of the SUI faculty, John Haefner, Manfred Kuhn, A. H. Moehlman and R. H. Ojemann will conduct a panel discussion.

The afternoon and evening sessions will be presented by Alan Lomax, director of Decca Records folk song series. He will give a program, "Folk Singing in the Family."

More than 400 persons registered yesterday for the conference which was opened by Dr. Benjamin Spock, who explained "Child Training in our Society." Dr. Spock is an associate professor of psychiatry at the University of Minnesota and is associated with the Mayo foundation and the Rochester, Minn., child health project.

Dr. Spock emphasized the shifts in ideas on child care, and pointed out that the pendulum is now swinging toward naturalness in child training.

One danger, he said, is that the new freer ways of child raising might become as fanatical as the old rigidity.

The other speaker of the morning session, John W. M. Whiting, discussed "Child Training in Primitive Societies."

Whiting, assistant professor of anthropology in child welfare at the university, based his report on a study of 84 societies including African, Asiatic, North and South American groups.

A comparison of child training in the American middle class and in primitive societies was given by Whiting. He pointed out that modesty and sex training is less severe in the American middle class than in primitive societies.

He also said the American middle class seems to protect and care for children longer than in primitive societies, but children are given responsibilities earlier.

Dr. Spock and Whiting appeared in the afternoon in a round table discussion on "Universal Trouble Spots in Child Training." The audience, which filled the senate chamber of Old Capitol, asked questions directed toward practical application of theories discussed in the morning.

Questions ranged from cure of thumb-sucking to solving problems of the school child.

Nearly 100 persons attended the conference dinner last night in the river room of the Iowa Union.

Robert R. Sears, research professor of child psychology and director of the Iowa child welfare research station, was principal speaker.

"The state of Iowa is carrying the heaviest financial burden for child research of any state in the country," Sears said.

He emphasized that Iowa has led the country in research since foundation of the research station here in 1917. The national program cannot expect to carry on endless research on donations, but needs more federal aid, Sears said.

In closing, he said the atomic energy commission spent $2-billion, but the children's bureau of the U.S. department of labor was allotted only $90,000.

"Two billion dollars for atomic energy, but only $90,000 for the people who are going to push the button to release it," he declared.

House Rules Committee Kills Housing Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The house rules committee yesterday killed for this session a housing bill with public housing and slum clearance provisions.

The committee, headed by Rep. Leo Allen (R-Ill.), left the door open however for adoption of a housing bill without these sections.

And the house banking committee scheduled a meeting today to whip through a modified measure that the rules body will accept.

The bill refused clearance by the rules committee was much like the Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill already passed by the senate.

Cubs Clip Braves, 8-5; Pafko, Waitkus Homer

Boston, Bucs Now Tied for League Lead

BOSTON (AP)—Home runs by Eddie Waitkus and Andy Pafko and some good relief pitching by Emil Kush yesterday enabled the Chicago Cubs to defeat the Boston Braves, 8-5, the first decision for the Chicagoans over the Tribe in eight games this season.

The loss left the Braves in a tie for first place with the Pittsburgh Pirates. The Braves held the top position by a one game margin before yesterday's defeat.

Boston Starter Bill Voiselle had a terrible time as he gave up four hits and got only one batter out in the five men he faced. One of the hits was a home run into the right field bull pen by Waitkus, also scoring Hank Schenz, who had singled.

Red Barrett replaced Voiselle and went along fine until the fifth when, with the Braves leading, 5-4, he gave up successive singles to Waitkus and Hal Jeffcoat and a home run to Pafko which was sliced into the bullpen for three runs.

Bob Hogue and Clyde Shoun followed Barrett to the mound and the Cubs went scoreless until the ninth when they tallied an unearned run.

Kush came on in the fourth for Chicago, relieving starter Bob McCall, and after a shaky beginning slammed the door in the Braves' faces.

Kush wild pitched home one run and forced in another with a base on balls but over the six innings he twirled the Tribe was able to fashion only three hits off his delivery. Over the last four innings he pitched hitless ball.

Cards Nip Hawks, Climb in Loop Race

Iowa City's Cardinals captured their first home league win of the season last night when they edged out the Rock Island Hawks at Kelly field, 2-1.

In grabbing their fourth National loop contest, the Cardinals avenged last week's 4-2 loss to the third-place Hawks. Iowa City hopped on Hawk pitcher Horace Long for eight hits, two for extra bases, to tally once each in the second and third innings.

Clayton Colbert, Cardinal centerfielder, got life in the second on a fielder's choice and romped home on brother Eddie's long triple to the corner in left field.

In the third, the Cards bunched Jim Yordy's double to center and a blooper single by Tom Stahle to push across another counter. Stahle was nabbed at second when he tried to stretch his scratch hit to a double.

The Hawks hopped right back in their half of the fourth, grouping two of their night's three singles to score. Catcher Ed Lavelle singled to short left, and moved all the way around to third on a pair of Card errors. Right-fielder Lou Miller then dropped a pop hit over to third to score Lavelle.

Outside of his bad second and third innings, Long had little trouble handcuffing the Cards. The lanky Hawk whiffed a dozen Cards, getting two in the fifth and sixth and getting the whole side in the eighth.

Don Dannen, Card hurler, pitched effectively, striking out seven Hawks, and getting his opponents out on four pitches in the crucial ninth.

The win pushed the Cards up into sixth place in the western division, and gives them a .400 season average. Iowa City plays host tomorrow to the Joe Louis Punchers of Flint, Mich.

Sonny Dean Wins Twice; Slack Beaten

DES MOINES (AP)—Don Kneeter, Des Moines, who earlier had eliminated Medalist Gene Slack, Oskaloosa, bowed out of the Iowa junior golf tournament yesterday in his second round match.

Don Webber, of Ames, eliminated Kneeter, 2 and 1, as the young golfer played two rounds yesterday to trim the field to eight quarter-finalists.

Russell Dickinson, Des Moines, gained revenge over a fellow Roosevelt high golfer when he beat Stewart Franness, Des Moines, 4 and 3 in the second round. Last year Franness trimmed Dickinson in the semifinals of the city junior tournament.

Slender 18-year-old Mel Gicoff, West Des Moines, polished off Leonard Van Fleet, Ottumwa, 4 and 3, in his first round and then easily eliminated Steve Poling, Ottumwa, 8 and 6.

Other quarterfinalists are Tom Rowe, Fairfield; Jack Stewart, Fairfield; Sonny Dean, Iowa City; Bob Fisher, Boone; and Tom Crabbe, Cedar Rapids.

Strictly Touch and Go

THE GUSTINE STRETCH—Frankie Gustine, Pirate third baseman, scored this run the hard way. Gustine raced in from third after first baseman John Mize of the Giants had caught a pop foul. Mize threw to Catcher Mackey Livingston, who blocked the plate, but Livingston dropped the ball, enabling Gustine to touch the plate. Umpire Dusty Boggess, who had called Gustine out, reversed his decision as the ball trickled away. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Pirates Tounce Giants; Westlake, Hopp Homer

NEW YORK (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates pulled into a tie with the Boston Braves for the National league lead yesterday, trouncing the New York Giants, 11-5, while the Braves were beaten by Chicago.

Manager Bill Meyer's Pirates tagged five Giant pitchers for 12 hits, including homers by Johnny Hopp and Wally Westlake. Four errors along with a couple of mental lapses by the Giants aided the Pirates considerably.

Docusen, Robinson All Primed, 147-Pound Title Bout Tonight

Dillard, Hurdle Star, Out of NCAA Meet

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Harrison Dillard, Baldwin-Wallace's threat to world's high hurdles records, is not eligible to compete in the national Collegiate Athletic association track and field meet here this week end, the NCAA ruled yesterday.

Prof. Hugh Willett, chairman of the NCAA eligibility committee, who disclosed the ruling, gave no indication the rule would apply to other athletes scheduled for competition.

Willett said the NCAA holds that Dillard has competed in more than three "varsity years," in violation of association rules. Dillard, holder of the unofficial world's record time for the 120 yard high hurdles, has been considered a top possibility for the U.S. Olympic team. As a result of yesterday's ruling, he will have to compete in the National Amateur Athletic union's meet in Milwaukee July 2 and 3 to qualify for a position.

Winners in the NCAA meet will compete in final Olympics tryouts at Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill.

Willett said Dillard competed in 1942 as a freshman. On May 10, 1943, Dillard was inducted into the army.

Willett said Dillard's commanding officer permitted him to return to Baldwin-Wallace in 1943 to compete in a conference meet. That constituted a season under NCAA regulations.

'Sugar' Ray 5-1 Favorite

CHICAGO (AP)—A lean 21-year-old New Orleans lad, possessing outstanding boxing skill, will attempt to wrest the world's welterweight championship from Ray "Sugar" here tonight.

The challenger is Bernard Docusen, who popped out of nowhere into the no. 1 spot as welterweight contender.

The bout to be fought in Comiskey park, home of the Chicago White Sox, promises to be interesting. Some 12,000 fans expect to see Robinson sharp-shooting the fastest opponent in the division. The "Shoo," seeking his 33rd successive triumph, has been established a 5 to 1 betting favorite to connect often enough to win the 15-round decision.

Promoter Irving Kovin predicts the gate receipts will hit $100,000, making the venture a financial success.

Robinson, a cool, deliberate puncher with dynamite in each glove, will be shooting for a quick knockout. A sensational victory would bolster his chances for obtaining a lucrative match with Tony Zale, middleweight title holder, in New York next fall.

Docusen, pronounced "Dookusen," is a tricky, fast moving boxer. However, he is rated as a light puncher, particularly against opponents of Robinson's class. He has scored 44 victories; fought four draws and lost two fights as a professional. He reversed the two he lost, the last being an exchange of decisions with Gene Burton, whose victories over Ike Williams and Johnny Bratton in Chicago bouts won him respect here. Docusen scored only eleven knockouts in his 50 professional bouts, indicating his weak hitting ability.

Tonight's bout will be Robinson's third defense of the crown he won by defeating Tommy Bell on a decision Dec. 20, 1945. The 147-pound champion has not lost in his last 46 starts, having been held to a draw once by Jose Batorra, who will appear in a supporting bout against Jimmy Sherer, Milwaukee, tonight. During his reign Robinson flattened both foes in title defenses, Jimmy Doyle in eight rounds and Chuck Taylor in six. Doyle died following his knockout in Cleveland.

The New Orleans swifty, of Filipino-Spanish-French parentage, will attempt to stay "in close" to Robinson. He figures that if he attempts to box at long range he might get nailed quickly with Robinson's lones, precision punches.

Robinson appears to be in the best possible condition. He has trained hard, sometimes boxing twelve rounds daily. He says he will have no trouble making the required 147 pounds at the 1 p. m. weighing in time today.

An additional supporting match of 10 rounds will bring together Enrique Felipe, latest Argentine heavyweight importation, with Bob Foxworth, East St. Louis, Ill.

Diehl Paces Legion Juniors To 5-3 Win Over Cedar Rapids

Iowa City's junior legion baseball team took a 5-3 victory yesterday from the Hearn-Stephens squad at Cedar Rapids. The Hawks combined tight pitching and Whitey Diehl's power hitting to notch their win.

Hawk hurlers Morry Christensen and Dick Doran held the home nine to a pair of lone hits. Christensen worked the first six innings for the winners and Doran finished, each allowing one bingle.

Diehl, Iowa City high athlete, continued his hitting ways as he topped the Hawk's four hits with a double and a triple. Ray Shain did the catching chores for Iowa City while Fulton and Pfeiffer were the batteries for the losers.

Detroit's Streak at Six; Beat A's, 2-1

DETROIT (AP)—Lefty Lou Brissie lost a tough one yesterday as the Detroit Tigers ran their winning streak to six straight games with a 2 to 1 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics in 11 innings.

The 24-year-old Brissie had a one-hit 1-0 shutout through eight innings but couldn't hold it.

Feller Drops 5th Straight

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Boston Red Sox pounded Cleveland's Bob Feller to his fifth straight defeat yesterday, 7 to 4, with a barrage of 13 hits, including seventh inning homers by Ted Williams and Bobby Doerr.

Williams, with a walk, two doubles and a single in his other turns at bat, had a perfect day at the plate. His 13th homer sailed over the left field fence with Johnny Pesky on base through a walk. Stan Spence then singled, and Doerr clouted his seventh circuit blow of the season.

Ken Keltner pounded the ball deep into the lower left field stands in the fifth inning for his 15th home run and the Tribe's first tally off righthander Joe Dobson who yielded six other hits—three of them in the eighth when Joe Gordon bounced a two-run double off the left field fence after singles by Hank Edwards and Lou Boudreau.

The loss was Feller's seventh against five wins. He hasn't won a game since May 19.

Furillo's Hit Beats Reds In Ninth, 4-3

BROOKLYN (AP)—Carl Furillo singled with one out and the bases full in the ninth inning to drive in Marvin Rackley from third with the run that gave the Brooklyn Dodgers a 4-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds last night. Ralph Branca went the route for his seventh victory of the season. He had a no-hitter for seven and two-thirds innings before Johnny Wyrostek hammered a home run with one out to tie the score at 3-3.

Ahead 3-1 going into the eighth, Branca pitched a home run ball to Wyrostek after Ray Lamanno got on as Pee Wee Reese fumbled his grounder.

The Dodgers won in the ninth against Relief Pitcher Kent Peterson. Branca walked to open the inning but was forced by Marv Rackley on a bunt. Pee Wee Reese then singled to send Rackley to third and Jackie Robinson walked filling the bases.

In this spot Furillo lined the second pitch over Peterson's head for a clean single to score Rackley. It was Furillo's third hit, in a perfect night, and Carl's third run batted in.

Yanks Beat Chisox; Reynolds Gets Win

CHICAGO (AP)—Allie Reynolds went the route for the first time since May 11, pitching the New York Yankees to a 3-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox yesterday.

Reynolds held the last place Sox to seven hits in gaining his seventh victory of the season.

Reynolds blanked the Sox on three hits until the sixth when they scored their lone run on Tony Lupien's double and singles by Pat Seery and Taft Wright.

Browns Drop Senators

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A four-hit eighth inning attack by the St. Louis Browns, including doubles by Al Zarilla and Paul Lehner, gave them a 6 to 5 victory in a see-saw battle with the Washington Senators last night. Both clubs hit freely in the eighth. The Nats threatened in the top of the ninth but Al Widmar came in and set the Senators down after two men reached base.

AIR-MINDED?

Many of the top men in the class of '48 want careers in aviation. But aviation is a specialist's field—and the way to move up fastest is to learn one of the skills or trades that are needed. That's just what you can do under the U. S. Air Force Aviation Career Plan.

If you're a high school graduate, between 17 and 34 years old, you can select the specialized training you prefer, qualify for it before you enlist, and be sure of assignment to it after basic training. ## Annual July 4th Celebration To Open With Horse Show

The program for Iowa City's Fourth of July celebration sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce has been announced.

Final arrangements for the event to be held in City Park July 5 were announced yesterday by Joe Schmitt, general chairman of the arrangement committee.

The feature of the celebration is a fireworks display to be shown at 9 p. m.

Schmitt said the exhibition will include a map of Iowa outlined in fiery display with a red dot marking the location of Iowa City.

Other set pieces to be shown are a replica of SUU's Old Capitol building, the statue of liberty, the liberty bell, the eagle and shield, and the American flag.

The program for the celebration will begin at 2 p. m. with a horse show sponsored in conjunction with the Iowa City Saddle club.

Schmitt said the Saddle club expects approximately 100 entries for the eight classes to be shown.

Classes to be shown in the horse show are a pony class for 42 inches, a pleasure class for children under 16 years old, an open five gaited class, a pleasure class with western equipment, a pleasure class with English equipment, a Palomino class and a stock horse class.

Judge for the horsemanship will be Harlan Conley, field representative of the Iowa Horse and Mule Breeders association. Buster Davenport, Anamosa, will do the announcing.

Schmitt said four prizes in cash and ribbons will be awarded to each class.

Following the horsemanship, bands from outlying cities will perform. Schmitt said he was unable to name the bands. The Iowa City Moose Drum and Bugle corps will play at 7 p. m.

The Jaycees have set the price of admission at 25 cents at the gate. Iowa City merchants are handling advance sale of tickets. "Kids up to 8 and over 80 years old will be admitted free," Wayne Putnam, Jaycee president said yesterday.

There will be a regular midway in City park during the celebration. Some of the concessions will be sponsored by local organizations, Schmitt said.

Some of the concessions sponsored by local groups are a pop stand by the Eagles, pop and ice cream by the Odd Fellows encampment.

Time-saving, production-conscious executives enrolled in the university's summer management course, practice what they preach. Coming from 25 states and four countries, the executives have increased air travel to Iowa City so much that United Airlines has added another flight to accommodate them.

B. D. McWilliams, station manager, announced yesterday that they are holding continuing space at Chicago and Lincoln for non-stop flights to New York and Los Angeles.

The 112 executives attending the two weeks' course are industrial engineers and management supervisors.

Under the direction of Prof. Ralph M. Barnes, the course consists of lectures, luncheon get-togethers and afternoon laboratory sessions. It offers a complete survey of the industrial engineering and management field.

Retiring Caretaker Honored

RETIRING AFTER TWENTY-FIVE YEARS as caretaker at the chemistry building, W.H. Demming poured himself a beaker of coffee during a party which students, faculty members and office personnel gave Tuesday in his honor at the Chemistry building. Students brewed the coffee in this large flask.

By LAVERNE WOODS

When the chemistry department moved to its new building on Capitol street, W.H. Demming helped move the beakers, bunsen burners and sulphur bromide. He was the new caretaker then.

That was almost twenty-five years ago. The chemistry department used the building now occupied by the electrical engineers.

Tuesday, Demming retired after serving as chemistry building caretaker for twenty-five years. He is 72 years old.

A group of eighty students, faculty-members and office personnel joined to give Demming a send-off party for his faithful service.

After presenting Demming with a radio, the group crowded into a classroom where students brewed coffee in a huge pyrex flask. Glass siphons carried the coffee to the beakers from which the well-wishers drank.

Demming plans to remain in Iowa City after his retirement. He lives at 119 S. Linn street. He came to Iowa City from his farm in 1920.

"The biggest change I've seen in my twenty-five years here," Demming said, "is the great increase in the number of students. Naturally, this meant more work, but I didn't mind."

Demming said he has seen so many changes on the campus that he can't remember them all. The influx of veterans didn't bother him at all. As far as Demming is concerned, they're just students.

Demming has three children, a son and two daughters. All are grown now and only his son, Kenneth, is living in Iowa City.

Smiling, Demming said he is glad to be retiring. "Now I can do all the things I never had time for before." He didn't say what those things are.

First Lady in '49?

Mrs. Stassen Youngest 'Lady in Waiting'

(Third in a series)

A politician's model of what a First Lady should be is Esther Stassen who says: "My husband doesn't want to just be president—he wants a chance to act out his ideas and ideals."

And she has almost worshipfully made his gods her gods. She is a Stassen-fan as well as a devoted wife of the kind who stays in the background as the campaign managers say "candidate wives" should.

Esther Stassen is the youngest of the "Ladies-in-Waiting", just as her husband is the youngest presidential candidate at 41.

She was born Esther Glewwe in the little town of Mound, Minn., on May 14, 1906. Both the Stassens attended the University of Minnesota. She is not a graduate and neither is she the intellectual type.

Although quiet by nature, it is amazing that her club affiliations are so many and varied. However, Esther Stassen, isn't the leader in these. She is more the one to lend the prestige of her name as a member of the Minnesota Federation of Republican Women, American Red Cross, Children's Hospital and League of Women Voters. She is also a member of Delta Zeta sorority.

During the war when her governor-husband turned Navy commander to serve under Adm. William (Bull) Halsey, she busied herself helping the WACS and WAVES and was a staff assistant for the Red Cross.

The relationship between the Stassens is one of the nicest things about them. They grew up together and they attended the same services in a Baptist church together.

The Stassens are close, and while he doesn't consult her on political strategy, he seeks her comfort in a telephone call every night from wherever he may be. She "believes in him" and that makes the Harold and Esther team a mighty strong one.

If elected, there will be plenty of "small fry" running around in the White House for Glen Harold is but 12 years old and his sister, Kathleen Esther is only 6.

Not known as well in Washington as the wives of some of the other presidential hopefuls, Esther Stassen, fortified by her experience as a First Lady of Minnesota, would be the most "wifely" First Lady in the Land of our day. She would do as her Harold and the state department tell her to do as America's hostess—dotting every "i" and crossing every "t."

Last Rites Today For Wilma Loghry

Funeral services for Mrs. Wilma Loghry will be held at 3 p. m. today at Beckman's funeral home. Dr. L. L. Dunnington of the Methodist church will officiate.

Burial will be in Clarinda, Iowa, with a graveside service.

Mrs. Loghry died Tuesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. James Lons, 521 N. Dubuque street.

MR. AND MRS. ELMER M. SANTMAN, Dysart, announce the engagement of their daughter, Phyllis Pearl, to Leroy H. Noe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil A. Noe, Garrison. Miss Santman is a graduate of Dysart Consolidated high school and is now employed at the Elsan Dairy, Dysart. Her fiancé was graduated from Garrison high school and is now a junior in the college of commerce at the University of Iowa. He is a member of Phi Eta Sigma, honorary scholastic fraternity, and the collegiate chamber of commerce. No definite date has been set for the wedding.

Protestant student religious groups of the university yesterday announced their schedule of vesper services for the summer months.

The series will be held on the west approach to Old Capitol on Sunday evenings and special music and worship will be a part of each vesper.

The Rev. Leon C. England, sponsored by the Lutheran student association, will speak at the services next Sunday evening.

Sunday evening services June 27 will be sponsored by the Westminster foundation with the Rev. John Craig, pastor of the Congregational church as the speaker.

No services will be conducted Sunday evening, July 4. The Wesley Foundation will sponsor July 11 vespers. Rev. Elmer Dierks will speak.

The speaker July 18 will be the Rev. Robert Sanks, minister of students at the Methodist church. The Congregational student fellowship will sponsor the vespers that evening.

Final services July 25 will be sponsored by the Roger Williams fellowship of the Baptist church with the Rev. Lowell J. Satre, pastor of the Lutheran church, as speaker.

In case of rain vesper services will be held in the Congregational church.

Toward A Winning Label —

Of all the things a political candidate must do when he seeks office, probably the most difficult is to find a prize-winning label to tack on himself.

First off, he's a Democrat or a Republican—maybe he's a Farm Laborite, Progressive, Socialist, or what have you. But he's a political "something". This is predetermined. His cronies have pushed him into place and he assumes that party tag which he's carried along with him.

But from there on, the label depends on the spirit of the times. And roughly this boils down to the question: Is this candidate liberal or conservative? That's probably the broadest sense of division—and politics deals mostly with the broadest terms—that a candidate can find.

Conservative or liberal tags carry certain connotations which people quickly learn to respect or suspect. Besides that, there's no apparent consistency on just which term is favored at any given time. When resentment was rising against the New Deal, the liberals decided they weren't liberal; it was politically smarter to be a conservative.

Now there's a swing the other way. Let's look at what everyone fondly calls "presidential timber."

Leading this election's crop of liberals is Henry Wallace. While his followers have no monopoly on the term "liberal" it is probably the most-used adjective in their campaign literature.

President Truman will run in November as a liberal. He started out following a liberal President Roosevelt; has retained the liberal tag—sometimes in spite of himself.

Now let's look at the liberal Republicans who, at least until next week, are in the presidential hopeful class.

Stassen says he's a liberal from "way back. He's even crossed swords with some GOP higher-ups on this very issue. Vandenberg is a liberal internationalist, whatever that means this year. At least within the past six years he's liberalized his own views considerably, especially on foreign affairs.

Governor Warren of California is liberal enough to get a lot of support from both major parties in his home state. Speaker "Joe" Martin, while not a wild-eyed demon, does consider himself quietly liberal in a New England sense of the word.

Even Senator Taft is calling himself a liberal this year—but he mentions that you must know what's true liberalism and what isn't.

That's the sticker. Examining the records of these men with the assumption they are all liberals leaves nothing but confusion. You can't, of course, say that everyone is either a radical liberal or a stodgy conservative—that is, everything isn't either black or white.

But when you have so many varying shades of gray it leaves you semi-liberals, hemi-semi-liberals, and hemi-semi-demi-liberals. However, a candidate doesn't call himself all that big name. It's politically dangerous to be a conservative, then he'll call himself a liberal without qualification.

And if that label is printed big enough, it may outshine a candidate's actions.

Safety Lesson in a Pile of Wreckage

There are some pointed safety lessons in a pile of wreckage on Highway Six a few miles east of town. They show what happens when a driver insists on "riding the tail" of a truck and passing it without knowing if the road ahead is clear.

Truckers are reasonable drivers, usually the safest on the road. When they slow up or stop, there is generally a good reason. It is always a good idea to signal a truck ahead (by horn in daylight; by headlights at night) and wait for a return signal that it is safe to pass.

These are simple rules. But two people died Wednesday night trying to disprove them.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT Return to Innocent Age

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

The coming campaign is going to be in some ways one of the weirdest in the memory of man. In part it is like a return to the age of innocence, with the Republicans once again, as in the days of long, long ago, sure that they are going to win, and on a straight conservative platform, too, without having to fight a Roosevelt or to make ideological concessions to his ghost. It is Class Day for the G.O.P., a return to the scenes and customs of its youth, to the era in which a torchlight parade was better than any argument and in which one won an election, match, because one was a Republican.

Yet in some particulars this is a very peculiar return to the age of innocence. For the Republicans hope to win, in part, because there is a continuing business boom. And why is there a continuing boom? The New York Journal of Commerce, in summing up the "chief reasons advanced" in the business community for the argument that there need not be a recession, gives three: (1) the treasury's easy credit policy, (2) federal armaments and foreign aid programs, by which "government spending of well over 40 billion dollars yearly is assured" and (3) "wholesale use of government credit to finance new construction," thus leaping the high cost barrier to a building boom.

Now these are all government measures. And here the picture becomes almost surreal. The Republicans will be campaigning on the ground that they have brought the country back to a sane, traditional-conservatism, and to real prosperity without the use of New Deal ideas; and they will be saying this during a year in which the government will be spending 40 billions. The highest Roosevelt budget in the depression years was about 9 billions.

So this is, as I say, a very odd return to the age of innocence. Conservative opinion has, it seems to me, engaged in a number of pretenses in its impatient drive to get back yonder, and relive the time of its youth. It has, by means of the bipartisan agreement and the enormous pressures toward conformity now set up among us, sought to create the feeling that liberalism no longer truly exists, that it is not and perhaps never was a vital force.

For it is under the cover of that forty-billion-dollar expenditure that we are enjoying this seeming return to the political mood of fifty years ago; by spending more in one year, in other words, than Roosevelt spent to fight the whole depression. The cost of getting rid of liberalism seems to be, roughly, almost five times the cost of keeping it. This is one of the most expensive returns to simplicity in all history.

Harold E. Stassen, Scoring Early Primary Victories, Lost Steam in Recent Elections

Was Capable Governor But Tangled With Party's 'Old Guard' From the Beginning

Harold E. Stassen

Stassen Picks Stassen on Ninth Ballot

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—"We are entering the convention determined to win the presidential nomination," Harold Stassen said this week.

He made the statement at his final press conference here before he left yesterday morning for the national Republican convention in Philadelphia.

"We recognize that we face a tough fight," he went on, "but never yet have we hesitated on the eve of a tough fight."

The former Minnesota governor repeated his prediction he would win on the ninth ballot. But he declined to forecast the first ballot strength of himself or Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York or Senator Robert Taft of Ohio.

He said the picture has changed since he predicted he would have 340 votes on the first ballot.

"It is clear now," he said "that all the favorite sons will be in the race at the first ballot. Together they have about 350 votes which leaves only 750 to be divided among the three leaders. We will have to await the caucuses or possibly the first ballot itself to determine relative strength at that time."

He described Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts as the states to watch after the first ballot.

In response to a question, Stassen said he talked with Col. Robert McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, in Chicago Saturday afternoon. Later he said, he and Mrs. Stassen were guests of the McCormicks at dinner. He said he asked for the afternoon conference after being invited to the Tribune to pose for a color picture.

Stassen described his visit with McCormick as pleasant and enjoyable. He declined to go into detail about their discussion. He explained that the meeting was in line with his policy of conferring with key figures in the Republican party, looking toward party unity after the convention.

At Chicago, Col. McCormick said the dinner was "social" and politics were not discussed.

Stassen declined comment on recent stories discussing the possibility of a Taft-Stassen ticket except to say they probably arose from the realization that no one could be nominated without delegates now pledged to Stassen.

Stassen said Fred Seaton, publisher of the Hastings (Neb.) Tribune, would accompany him as his press secretary and that Victor Johnston would be in charge of his Philadelphia press headquarters. Seaton managed his campaign in Nebraska and Johnston was in charge in Wisconsin.

(This is the third in a series of sketches on the leading contenders for the Republican presidential nomination. Tomorrow: MacArthur and Eisenhower.)

Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, streaked through primaries in Nebraska, Wisconsin, sputtered to a halt in Ohio and failed to snap back in Oregon. Consequently, he will go into the convention with much of the steam taken from his drive but with 275 first-ballot votes.

Stassen made enemies with the old guard of the GOP when he wrested the governorship of Minnesota from them in 1938. Their opposition will haunt him at the convention.

After the first several ballots, the state machines will begin sacrificing their favorite sons for one of the leading contenders. Stassen's strength is expected to wane once the old guard leadership starts manipulating.

Born 41 years ago on a truck farm in West St. Paul, Minn., he worked his way through the University of Minnesota as a grocery clerk, bakery helper and sleeping-car conductor.

Graduating from the U of M's law school in 1929, he married his childhood sweetheart, and became a county attorney. Since then, Stassen has never been defeated in an election.

He was reelected county attorney in 1933. During his service as county attorney, he encountered labor-management disputes for the first time.

At the age of 31, he was elected governor of Minnesota. In addition to paying off a $39-million deficit in the state, Stassen pruned out the state bureaucracy and passed a "labor peace plan" which featured a 10-to-30 day cooling-off period before a strike could be called. This and other provisions cut strikes 70 percent and won him the support of both the AF of L and CIO when he ran for reelection.

Stassen, youngest man to become a governor, was reelected in 1940 and 1942. In 1940 he delivered the keynote speech at the GOP convention and became Wendell Willkie's floor manager.

Resigning the governorship to become a lieutenant commander in the navy in 1943, Stassen became flag secretary to Admiral Halsey. Stassen declined running for the senate upon his discharge from the navy in 1946, chose to groom himself for a crack at the presidency.

Today he is the youngest and most intensive campaigner for the nomination. His unpopularity with party leadership is offset by his tremendous voting appeal, particularly among independent voters.

The first contender for the nomination to state his position, Stassen made a nine-week skirt of 16 European countries, including

McBride's Hall — Right Arm for An Apartment

By BILL McBRIDE

A faculty wife reports that when two little boys walked past her home the other day, one of the children was trying to teach the other how to believe.

That's an important gastronomic function that should not be dismissed so lightly in the lower levels of education.

The League of Women Voters has a display in the Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Co. window that covers practically every citizen responsibility. Too bad more of us don't adhere to those suggestions.

The "Lone Ranger" is celebrating his 15th radio anniversary by offering prizes to the youngsters who can guess what town in the U.S. has changed its name to "Lone Ranger Frontier Town."

No one seems to have even the vaguest idea where this community is, but if I lived there, I'd make it a point to move as soon as possible.

Imagine writing a return address like 1123 South Tonto avenue, Lone Ranger Frontier Town, Rhode Island.

Be a good spot to open a livery stable.

A letter from J. F. McBurney tells me that he is apartment hunting. He says he will need one by August 15, and he knows there will be housing of sorts available then, but he "would rather get a good one."

I took a skeptical eye at Mr. McBurney. He can afford to be fussy in this day of K-9 housing units? His attempt to prostitute this column with what should be a paid advertisement succeeds only because he is offering his right arm for a "good three room apartment at a reasonable price." Ha!

No matter how attractive his right arm may be, he doesn't stand a chance. There are too many persons willing to pay money for the same thing J. F. is trying to get with a non-negotiable right arm.

A student living in the Stadium park area recently had to remove some of the metal siding of his house.

A pair of friendly sparrows made their home between the inner and outer walls of the building and started to raise a family. The student didn't object to that, but when baby sparrows began falling down between the walls with the parent birds making an attempt to retrieve them, it was a bird of another color.

Sparrows are notoriously untidy, so this doesn't surprise me at all.

I can hear those slovenly sparrows saying, "Oops! there goes Junior number seven . . . hatch another egg mamma."

Freedom Train

Johnny Gives Interview

— Finance and Politics —

There may be some disappointed Iowa City children at the Freedom Train tomorrow, according to 8-year-old Johnny Boucher.

Johnny, a third-grader last term at Lincoln school, said his class had read so much about Washington's and Lincoln's writings being on exhibit that most of the children thought the Freedom Train would bring Washington and Lincoln in person.

Johnny is a son of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Boucher, 136 Templin park. He was also concerned about children whose tuition Superintendent of Schools Iver A. Opstad recently asked the state to pay.

Opstad asked this because the children's parents live in tax-free housing units and don't pay any tax money to support the Iowa City schools.

When all this was explained to Johnny, he became thoughtful.

"I hadn't even heard about it," he said.

Reading a clipping which explained the tuition request, Johnny wore a worried look as though the reporter had come to collect the money from him.

"Sixteen dollars a month," he exclaimed. "Yes, the state should pay it." (The $16-a-month figure is the cost of educating a grade school pupil.)

Johnny passed both second and third grades during the last school year. "They promoted me" was his understatement on that subject. He plans to return to Lincoln school this fall.

Johnny Boucher knows Superintendent Opstad, too. "He's the one who shows our movies," said Johnny.

Johnny is a young man with definite opinions. For instance he thinks Stassen will be the next president. Although he has been a lifelong Democrat, Johnny thinks he would vote for Stassen rather than Truman—if he were old enough.

Eisenhower is his favorite, though. Asked if he would cast a write-in vote for Eisenhower, Johnny answered, "If I knew how to spell his name."

Johnny thinks that if the voters had to spell the candidate's name right Taft would win.

As for Johnny's own interests, he likes baseball, running, reading and, as he says, playing. He enjoys drawing and would like to be an architect when he grows up.

Johnny collects match books and comic books. Asked which he had more of, he said, "comic books, I guess."

Melodious Money

Local Lyric Writer Sells Song

There is a "Mrs. Words" in Iowa City.

The "Mrs. Words" is Mrs. F.M. Switzer, 722 N. Lucas street, and she has written the lyrics to a song composed by (the "Mr. Music" in this case) Paul Morokoff, Cedar Rapids. What's more, their song is going to be broadcast over radio station WEDO, McKeesport, Pa., 810 on the dial, Thursday at 12:30 a.m.

Mrs. Switzer, a wife and mother, has been writing lyrics for over six years in her "spare time," but these are the first to be played over the radio.

The song, "You're Cruisin' for a Bruisin', Baby," is to be played on the program "Song Previews," according to a letter Mrs. Switzer received from United Music, Inc., which handles her lyrics.

"I've written lyrics more for amusement than anything," the dark-haired woman said.

"Of course I've always had the desire to accomplish something," she added. "I feel that I will now."

Explains State Plan For Better Schools

"Better schools will cost more money," County School Superintendent Frank J. Snider said last night, "but we'll be getting our money's worth."

Speaking at the Johnson county courthouse on the state-wide reorganization effort, Snider said reorganization will better county schools.

He explained that state and county school boards are making a survey on which they will base reorganization proposals.

The proposals will be submitted to the people in the affected areas, and Snider emphasized that the people will have the last word on any change in their schools.

"This is the first real reorganization program for the state of Iowa," Snider pointed out, "and I think we will go quite a way with it in the next two or three years."

Present town, district and county lines will be disregarded when necessary, Snider pointed out. He said the Johnson county board will work with school boards from adjacent counties "to provide the best program."

On the subject of state aid, Snider said: "If enough Iowans think the state should contribute more aid to schools, the legislature will provide it."

SUI Student Nominated in Montana Vote

Mary M. Condon, 31, a university summer graduate student, was nominated Democratic candidate for superintendent of public instruction in Montana, it was announced recently.

A former Cedar Rapids resident, Miss Condon now lives in Billings, Mont., where she has been director of student activities at Eastern Montana Normal school.

She received her bachelor of arts and master's degree in history from the University of Iowa. For 22 months during the war, she served as program director with the Red Cross. Later she served as educational field consultant with the American Junior Red Cross.

She is attending the university this summer taking additional work in education.

Applebaum Divorce Granted Yesterday

Nan Applebaum, 21, yesterday was granted a divorce in Johnson county district court from Melvin Applebaum, 28.

The plaintiff was granted permission to use her maiden name, Windle. No alimony was awarded.

Mrs. Applebaum said the couple was married Feb. 1, 1947 and lived together until 1/27, 7, 1948. She charged cruel and inhuman treatment.

Attorneys for the plaintiff were Messer, Hamilton, Cahill, and Bartley. The defendant was in default.

Four Indicted For Violating Lobbying Act

WASHINGTON (AP)—The state agricultural commissioners of Texas and Georgia were indicted by a federal grand jury yesterday on charges of violating the federal lobbying act.

Along with the two—James E. McDonald of Austin, Texas, and Tom Linder of Atlantic, Ga.—the jury also indicted two other individuals and two farm organizations on similar charges. They were:

Ralph W. Moore of Granger, Texas, and Washington, D. C., who maintains headquarters here as secretary of the National Farm committee.

Robert M. Harriss, senior partner in the New York commodity brokerage house of Harriss and Vose.

The national farm committee, a Texas corporation headed by Linder.

The Farm Commissioners counsel, an unincorporated association with offices here. Its principal officers are Linder and McDonald.

The grand jury said that the accused individuals and organizations failed to register and file statements under the law regulating lobbying, and that the individuals conspired to lobby for higher commodity prices.

Attorney General Clark said all four maintained commodity trading accounts and that they had a financial interest in maintaining high commodity prices.

Listing "overt acts" it said had been committed, the grand jury said that Moore picked up the check for a $3,000 banquet for 200 congressmen and 93 other guests at the Mayflower hotel here last November, and for a similar $1,100 dinner a few months earlier also attended by "many congressmen and senators."

The jury reported it was unable to ascertain the exact sum of money reported to influence legislation. Convictions under the lobbying act can mean penalties as high as two years imprisonment and $10,000 fine, plus a prohibition against any lobbying activity or testimony before any congressional committee for three years.

Summer Credit Offered In Audio-Visual Course

The summer audio-visual workshop will be held July 26-30. Dean Bruce E. Mahan of the extension division said yesterday.

The workshop will provide school administrators, teachers, and audio-visual directors with the latest developments in the field.

One semester hour of college credit will be allowed for satisfactory completion of work in the course. The course is open to both graduate and undergraduate students.

Registration will be limited to seventy-five students. Tuition charge for the one week workshop course will be $6.25.

Gromyko Attacks 'Ruling Circles' in U. S.

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—Andrei A. Gromyko declared yesterday ruling circles in the United States are clanking atomic weapons to put political pressure on Russia.

He said in effect that Russia is not afraid of such moves; that they would not succeed. He singled out U.S. Senator Brian McMahon (D-Conn) and former secretary of state James F. Byrnes as members of the "ruling circles" in the U.S. who want to wreck international atomic control and increase the war psychosis which Gromyko said exists in this country.

In a 51-minute speech to the security council Gromyko made it clear he would veto an American resolution putting council approval on the majority-backed atomic control plan.

He said the United States is only hunting Soviet veils. He said it is nonsensical to introduce such a resolution in view of the long standing disagreement between America and Russia on atomic control.

Fountain Requests Court Nullification Of Farm Contract

Irvin Fountain yesterday asked the Johnson county district court to dissolve a farming partnership he formed with Lester Willtrout, last February. Fountain requested the appointment of a receiver to take charge of the assets of the 60-acre farm involved in the partnership.

He also asked the court to restrain Willtrout from interfering with the receiver's accounting and selling the farm's assets.

Fountain said the men rented the farm from James and John Walker. He said that by an oral agreement, the partners were to divide equally costs, labor and profits. Fountain said Willtrout has not done his share of the work nor paid his share of the bills.

He requested the receiver to sell the crops and animals on the farm, pay the bills with the money realized, and divide any net profit equally between the partners.

Engineering Award to Rouse

Hunter Rouse, professor of fluid mechanics at SUI and director of the Iowa Institute of Hydraulic Research, was presented the $1,000 George Washington award last night.

The Westinghouse award is presented annually by the American Society for Engineering Education "for distinguished contributions to the teaching of engineering students."

The award was made during the annual meeting of the society held this week at the University of Texas in Austin.

Professor of fluid mechanic at the university since 1939, Rouse has been director of the Iowa Institute of Hydraulic Research since 1944. Before coming to the university he held positions at California Institute of Technology, Columbia University, and Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Dean F. M. Dawson of the college of engineering was reelected a vice-president of the society last night.

Other university staff members attending the meeting in Austin

this week are Prof. H. O. Croft, head of the department of me-

Mrs. Volesky Sues For Divorce; Asks Custody of Children

Edwin Volesky, farmer in Big Grove township of Johnson county, was sued for divorce yesterday in Johnson county district court by his wife, Eleanor.

On Mrs. Volesky's request, Judge Harold D. Evans issued an injunction without bond restraining Volesky from premises occupied by Mrs. Volesky.

The plaintiff charged cruel and inhuman treatment and habitual drunkenness.

Mrs. Volesky asked sole custody of two children, and one-half the assets from the 186-acre farm, the machinery and animals. She asked for sole ownership of the household furniture. She also requested alimony and support.

Mrs. Volesky said she brought divorce action against her husband a year ago, but dropped it when he promised "to refrain from acts of cruelty and excess

Highway Collision Damages 2 Cars

Two cars side-swiped on Ball's hill just off Highway 218 Tuesday morning at 4:15, according to an accident report filed yesterday at the police station.

The drivers were Donald D. Welt, 5 Bella Vista street, and Fred Stinocher, 209 N. Lima street.

Welt set the damage on his car at $90 for a smashed left front fender. The Stinocher car had a damaged left rear fender, wheel and window. He made no damage estimate.

Stinocher claimed the car driven by Welt was hugging the middle of the road and hit his car's rear wheel. Welt said he noticed the cars were close and then they collided.

use of intoxicating liquor." She said she was forced from home three times since the reconciliation.

Swisher and Swisher represent the plaintiff.
