LOS ANGELES (AP)—Motorcycle Officer C.D. Barkley said he overtook Everett Clyde Miller, driving 50 miles an hour without a steering wheel.

After pursuing the stunts, Barkley decided that constituted operating an unsafe vehicle.

About that steering wheel . . .

Barkley said the youth was using a pair of pliers to guide the car.

Swedish Prince Bertil Dines, Converses With SUI Faculty

The bright blue flag of Sweden with its yellow cross flew below Old Glory atop Old Capitol yesterday.

The Swedish flag was hoisted to honor Sweden's Prince Bertil and his party. The group stopped briefly in Iowa City yesterday to lunch with President Hancher and faculty members.

Prince Bertil, grandson of King Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden, and son of Crown Prince Gustav V, lunched on American fried chicken and Iowa corn (off the cob) in the main lounge of the Iowa union. There was plenty of coffee to satisfy the famed Scandinavian yen for that beverage.

Prince Bertil and the Swedish delegation of 22 educators, officials and dignitaries arrived in Iowa City from Rock Island escorted by members of the Iowa

Wier Joins Guard; National Command Expects Full Quota

Murray Wier, SUI's all-American basketball star, enlisted with nine other men Monday night in the local national guard troop.

Others are: John A. Evans, 610 E. Davenport street; Edward W. Poggenpohl, 717 Kimball avenue; William R. Englert, 1020 Carroll street; Duane E. Latta, Riverside; Donald F. Fryauf, 4 1/2 S. Dubuque street; Leo R. Zeithamel, 731 E. Church street; Robert E. Svatos, route 3, Solon; Robert G. Walter, 420 N. Dubuque street, and Paul F. Wears, route 3, Solon.

These enlistments bring the strength of the troop to 70 men and six officers, according to Capt. Harry W. Dick, troop commander. Total authorized strength is 127 men and seven officers.

Under provisions of the draft bill passed Saturday by congress, men who join the guard before President Truman signs the bill are exempt from the draft.

Local guard units are receiving telegrams from national headquarters stating that the President, a former guardsman himself, will delay signing the draft bill for a few days so guard units may recruit to full strength, Lt. Col. Fred C. Tandy, adjutant general of the 34th infantry division, said yesterday.

National headquarters in Washington, D. C., expects the guard to fill with volunteers by the end of this month and stop recruiting for a year, The Associated Press reported.

There were between 90,000 and 100,000 vacancies in the national guard when the bill was voted Saturday.

First state reports indicated this total will be reached by volunteers aged 19 through 25 who will be subject to induction into the armed services. National guardsmen and members of the organized reserves are draft-exempt.

The draft bill will probably not affect next fall's enrollment to any great extent, Ted H. McCarrel, SUI registrar, said yesterday.

McCarrel said he believed volunteer enlistments would likely level off the increase in enrollment of those who came to school to avoid induction. The bill provides that college students will not be felt until the fall semester of 1949, he said.

Last spring, approximately 1,300 students were in the 19 to 25, single, and non-veteran classification. Probably less than one-third of these students are attending the summer session, McCarrel said.

"I surely think I would consider a professorship here," Westin said, in commenting on the university.

After the luncheon Prince Bertil, President Hancher and the group walked up the hill from the union where they viewed the campus from the approach to Old Capitol.

"Do you have much in athletics around here?" asked the Prince.

President Hancher explained that SUI "had quite a bit" and talked of Iowa's basketball, football, swimming and track teams.

The prince's motor caravan was scheduled to leave Iowa City for Des Moines at 2 p. m. yesterday afternoon. But reporters and others held up departure of the Swedish visitors until nearly 2:30 p. m.

Attorney Eskil Carlson, former member of the Iowa state board of education, and Bert E. Stolpe of the Des Moines Register and Tribune arrived in time to escort the Prince and his party to Des Moines. Celebration in honor of the delegation begins there today.

AMES (AP)—Charles E. Friley, Iowa State college president, was injured yesterday when the car he was driving overturned on Highway 89, about 15 miles north of Des Moines.

$25,000 Gift for SUI Cancer Study

The University of Iowa will receive a $25,000 grant for courses in cancer study, The Associated Press reported yesterday.

The grant was announced by Oscar Ewing, federal security administrator, after recommendation by the national advisory cancer council.

Dean Carlyle Jacobsen of SUI health sciences and services said the purpose of the grant is to assist the university "to improve and extend the university teaching in relation to problems of cancer control and cancer research."

The grant, he said, was part of the U.S. health service's program to "strengthen instruction in cancer control."

highway patrol. The Swedish prince has done his own driving on his visit to this country, and planned to drive on with his group to Des Moines late yesterday.

The Swedish delegation is in America to celebrate the Swedish pioneer centennial.

The broad-shouldered prince, often considered the "world's most eligible bachelor" was introduced at a reception preceding the luncheon at the Union.

President Virgil M. Hancher, who gave the luncheon for the Swedish visitors, introduced Dean Emeritus Carl E. Seashore. Seashore said that the Swedish pioneers contributed love of family, of God and of country to the foundations of American society. This he interpreted to mean "morality, religion and steadfast patriotism."

Seashore sent cordial greetings from SUI to King Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden and to Prince Bertil's father, Crown Prince Gustav V.

The prince, introduced by Seashore, acknowledged the SUI welcome and the tribute paid to his people by Seashore. But he declared it was his "day for a holiday from speech-making."

"I made four speeches yesterday," he said, before introducing Dr. Gunnar Westin, education and free church movement representative in the delegation. Westin is a professor at the University of Upsala in Sweden.

Westin spoke of the interesting experiences the delegation has had in America. Once, he said, a reporter said that he "couldn't figure out why there seem to be so few dukes and counts in Swedish nobility."

"We have one very fine prince to represent the Swedish nobility in our delegation," Westin said. "And in addition, we have leaders in so many fields of national life who truly represent the Swedish people. In that, we are acting just as Americans would."

Westin reported that he was much impressed with the welcome he and his companions had received at SUI and with the fact that so many faculty members were of Swedish descent. He said he had learned at luncheon from Dr. M. Willard Lampe of the school of religion that SUI has the "only state university in the world with an interfaith school of religion."

"It was worthwhile to go to Iowa City if only to learn of this school," he said.

Both sides told the board they were willing to resume talks and the board suggested they try for an agreement before the board makes its report to the White House late today.

That was his price for keeping coal flowing while a new contract is worked out.

Coal Talks Continue; Pension Plan Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP)—John L. Lewis and soft coal operators broke up a negotiating session last night without comment. They set another meeting for this morning.

The lack of comment from either side on the way the talks went may indicate progress. At least the negotiators were smiling when they left and there was no sign of a new break in the talks.

The renewed negotiations had been suggested by a presidential inquiry board early yesterday.

Russ Reform East German Currency

BERLIN (AP)—The Soviet military administration announced last night currency reform for eastern Germany and Berlin.

A letter to the mayor of Berlin said the reform would become effective June 24.

The Soviet announcement was made unilaterally and without the consent of the United States, Britain and France as far as Berlin was concerned. It apparently ignored four-power discussions begun earlier yesterday on the subject of a currency reform compromise for Berlin.

A letter made public last night by the Soviet news agency from Marshall Vasily D. Sokolovsky, the Russian commander in Germany, to the British commander, Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, said it was hoped the British would not try to stop the reform in its sector of Berlin.

Berlin is governed by the four powers.

Letters were sent to the western powers less than two hours after the first high level conference among the four powers in more than three months broke up without agreement on a reform compromise.

Taft-Stassen Meeting Results in 'No Deal'

U. S. To Exchange Diplomatic Missions With Jewish State

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman last night announced the exchange of diplomatic missions between this government and the provisional government of Israel.

Mr. Truman appointed James Grover McDonald of New York to serve as special representative of the United States in heading the mission to the new Jewish government.

Elihu Epstein has been designated by Israel, the White House statement said, as its special representative in the United States and head of the Israeli mission.

McDonald, 61, was a member of the Anglo-American commission of inquiry on Palestine in 1946, and is a trustee of the Twentieth Century fund.

Born in Coldwater, Ohio, McDonald now lives at Bronxville, N. Y. He is a graduate of Indiana university, Harvard, and Tufts college.

He served as high commissioner for Jewish and other refugees coming from Germany between 1933 and 1935.

Burning Munitions Threaten Tel Aviv

TEL AVIV (AP)—Thousands of Tel Aviv residents fled from the waterfront late yesterday when a munitions-laden LST beached by rebel Irgun Zvai Leumi fighters threatened to explode after being set afire by Israeli army shelling.

The sudden fire, resulting from regular army mortar fire, threw the four-hour battle between Irgun and the army into strange confusion.

All hotels and apartment houses along the Mediterranean waterfront, including headquarters of a United Nations truce team, were deserted within a few minutes.

Trucksloads of unarmed Irgun fighters suddenly appeared on the city's main streets. As two dozen crew members jumped off the LST, which carried 600 tons of munitions, both army troops and Irgun rebels joined in the mass exodus.

Just what was happening to Irgun's fight against the Israeli government remained a mystery. The fact that most of the Irgun fighters driving down crowded Allenby road away from the waterfront were unarmed was interpreted by some to mean that a deal had been made with the government to end the fighting that began early Monday.

Shuffle Votes

Associates of the three candidates said that by comparing their strength they could muster 505 votes behind the man of their choice—43 less than the number needed to win.

Then if Duff could "deliver" 23 of Pennsylvania's 73 votes a coalition candidate would be only 20 short of the nomination.

This assumes, however, that Taft, Stassen and Warren each has all the delegates he claims and that all the delegates would vote for the "coalition" candidate.

While the pace of the dickered grew steadily hotter, the convention itself gave a rousing welcome to House Speaker Martin of Massachusetts. Martin defended spiritedly the record of the GOP-controlled 80th congress and blasted the Truman administration for

Talk Called After Ed Martin Steps Out in Favor of Dewey

CONVENTION HALL, PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Senator Taft of Ohio conferred secretly with Harold E. Stassen last night amid strong indications that a Taft-Stassen-Warren coalition was being sought to stop Thomas E. Dewey.

The race for the Republican presidential nomination was at its most furious when the party's roaring-for-victory national convention wound up its second day's session at 9:43 p. m. Iowa time.

The Taft-Stassen meeting occurred in strictest privacy after Senator Edward Martin stepped out as Pennsylvania's favorite son and threw his support to Dewey—bringing claims from the New York governor's aides that he would be a sure winner on an early ballot.

Taft and Stassen both told newsmen that they had met and that Pennsylvania Governor

Favors Vandenberg

Duff, Senator Martin's great rival in the split Pennsylvania delegation, has spoken favorably of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan as the party's presidential candidate.

Nobody would say last night what happened at the Taft-Stassen meeting. Stassen told reporters: "There is no deal. The situation is unchanged. I'm still in the race for the nomination."

He added that a Taft-Stassen ticket is "impossible."

Thus it was left completely up in the air what candidate a Taft-Stassen-Warren coalition might back—if such a coalition actually was formed.

Martin Takes Over

Martin took over the gavel as permanent chairman of the convention for the third time in a row. He said administration "fumbling and bumbling" on the diplomatic front made it necessary to spend a lot on arms.

"That," he said, "is the price of faltering leadership in the White House."

Martin said he is proud of the record of a congress President Truman has called the worst, or at least second worst, in history. He said the Republican program in congress was "the product of foresight and vision."

Today there will be an alphabetical roll call of states, and nominations can be made then.

Edward Martin told reporters he understands Alabama will give way at that time to Pennsylvania, so he can make the nominating speech for Dewey.

Behind Convention Scenes — Iowans at Convention

By R. BRUCE HUGHES

Congressman Tom Martin of Iowa City is much in evidence around the Iowa delegation, although he is not a delegate himself. Martin arrived Sunday after the final work of congress had been hurried through. He said he thought the congressmen had done "a fine job" despite the press of last-minute bills.

Another congressman, James Dolliver of Fort Dodge, sixth congressional district representative, brought his daughter Peggy to the convention with him.

She had participated in a mock national convention at Oberlin college where she is a student. That convention nominated Sen. Arthur Vandenberg. Asked if she thought the Michigan Senator would win the real test she replied:

"The saying at school is, 'As Oberlin goes, so goes the nation.' We've been right most of the time so far."

Dolliver himself declined to name his favorite for the nomination. His son, James Dolliver Jr., attended the navy pre-flight school in Iowa City and now is a senior at Swarthmore college.

Jim Richards, Des Moines, sergeant at arms, and a group of other Iowa persons found themselves trapped in a hotel elevator when the door jammed. This has been frequent in overcrowded elevators. The group climbed out, however, to their embarrassment and the enjoyment of persons waiting for the elevator. But the mishap knocked the elevator out of service.

A "big romance" is rumored between Don Blue, son of the governor who is acting as mail page for the Iowa group, and Gloria Green, 17-year-old daughter of Illinois' Governor Green. Don was taking a lively round of kidding from Hawkeyes who were trying to match up a luncheon date for the two.

Another of the younger politicians getting first experience at the National convention is Lowell Doud, 17-year-old son of State Senator Doud. Their home town, incidentally, is also named Doud.

Iowa Delegates Eye Pre-Ballot 'Deals'; Split on Candidates

(R. Bruce Hughes, former editor of The Daily Iowan, is at the GOP convention in Philadelphia reporting sidelights and news of special interest to Daily Iowan readers.)

By R. BRUCE HUGHES

PHILADELPHIA—Iowa's delegation to the GOP national convention, visibly concerned by the important "deals" affecting the pre-balloting jockeying, caucused for more than an hour yesterday afternoon without formally deciding their stand.

The biggest blow to the top-heavy Stassen Iowa delegation was the withdrawal of Pennsylvania's Senator Ed Martin from the favorite son category. He pledged support to Dewey and announced he will nominate the New York governor when Arizona passes on the nomination roll call today.

No Poll

Robert Klauer, delegation secretary, would say only that no formal poll was taken. But delegates confirmed that strategy was vigorously discussed. Obviously, the Hawkeye contingent does not want to be waiting at the post while the furious and dead-serious maneuvering is taking place.

Iowa Dewey supporters were understood to have pressed for the immediate endorsement of the New York governor in view of Martin's withdrawal. Meanwhile Ted Miles of Corydon wants to jump aboard the Vandenberg bandwagon on the first ballot.

Stassen supporters in the Iowa delegation retained their control and prevented any shift of votes. Taft men, however, continue to press for a Taft-Stassen combination which is reported in the making.

Iowa will caucus again this afternoon after meeting California governor Warren in the morning. The caucus voted not to admit the press to any of the meetings.

The meeting with Warren will finish up the formal Iowa calls on candidates. The group met Taft yesterday afternoon, Dewey on Monday and Stassen last Sunday. No meeting was scheduled with Vandenberg and the steering committee did not contact him.

Morrison-Spangler Fray

An open split developed yesterday between delegates Bill Morrison of Iowa City and Harrison Spangler, Iowa National committeeman.

The cause of the dispute was the seating of 16 pro-Dewey delegates from Georgia over protests of the Taft group. Morrison is the Iowa member of the credentials committee and voted with the majority in the 26-24 decision upholding the national committee's previous decision in favor of the pro-Dewey forces.

Spangler, Iowa's representative on the national committee, voted with the Taft forces. The credentials committee acted as a court of higher appeal from the national committee. The Taft forces marshalled strength in the effort to win the vitally needed 16 votes.

Spangler, former national chairman and still national general counsel, had counted on Morrison's vote in the extremely close balloting, regarded as a test between the two leading candidates for nomination.

"Read Out"

Spangler, accosted Morrison outside the credentials committee room after the vote and accused him of reversing Iowa's stand on the matter. Morrison said Spangler "virtually read me out of the party."

Morrison said, however, he voted "strictly in accordance with the merits of the dispute."

Morrison is regarded as leaning toward Dewey, and Spangler is an out-and-out Taft supporter.

Meanwhile, Stassen forces within the 23-member Iowa delegation held conferences with lieutenants of California's Governor Warren, hoping to increase the bond of friendship between the two forces. Both "liberal" camps are known to be considering switching votes if and when the going gets tough for either one, and look on each other as allies.

Rain Threatens To Delay Louis-Walcott Title Bout

Bookies Favor Champion by 5 to 12 Odds

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK (AP)—A steady drizzle of rain and Jersey Joe Walcott money fell on New York yesterday as the odds on Joe Louis slipped to 5 to 12 for his 25th and last—maybe—heavyweight title defense.

The weatherman, usually cooperative with Uncle Mike Jacobs' ventures, took a dim view of the future. He predicted considerable cloudiness today with scattered showers and thunderstorms throughout a warm, humid day. There was some hope of clearing in mid-afternoon. The title fight goes on at 8 p. m. (Iowa time).

If a postponement is necessary, the fight will be held tomorrow night, also in Yankee stadium.

Walcott cash from south New Jersey may slice the price to 1 to 2 by fight time although the current odds still fluctuated. It seemed likely that Louis would enter the ring a solid choice over Jersey Joe, who lost a disputed split decision to the champ in December. If you like Louis by a knockout you must give 7 to 5.

Despite the rain, the city bristled with out-of-town visitors. Hotels were reported doing capacity business and choice $50 ring-side seats were selling at twice their face value. There still were plenty of tickets left.

Twentieth Century Sporting club officials clung to earlier predictions that 55,000 fans would see the fight, paying "somewhere between $800,000 and $900,000." Yesterday's rain has killed all talk of a million dollar house.

Louis and Walcott took only light exercise, trying to hold their fine edge until ring time. When he finished his boxing chores at Pompton Lakes, N. J., Monday, the champ said he would come in at close to 215 pounds, four pounds heavier than for his last fight and the heaviest of his career. Walcott will weigh about 195 pounds.

At 34, the same age as Walcott, Louis admits he has lost speed but insists he still hits as hard as ever. If he goes through with his announced plans of waiting for Walcott, a counter puncher, to come to him, it may be the dulllest fight in the annals of the ring.

If Louis gets hit with a good right hand before he finds his chance, there may be a new champ. If he scores first, Louis may be able to carry out his prediction, "I'll win early." One punch can decide it.

CHICAGO (AP)—The Boston Red Sox overcame a 6-2 deficit to gain their sixth victory before 27,838 persons by clubbing the Chicago White Sox, 11-6 here last night. To Hold Missouri Valley Net Meet on Fieldhouse Courts

The University of Iowa clay courts will be the site of a Missouri Valley district tennis tournament Saturday.

Entrants to the tourney will see competition in one of two divisions, boys or juniors. Boys play is open to youngsters up to 15 years of age while juniors must be from 15 to 18.

Players who were 18 before the first of this year are not eligible to compete in the tourney.

The tournament, sponsored by the Iowa City Tennis association, is open to all net players from Iowa City and the vicinity. The winners and runners-up in both divisions will be awarded medals by the Missouri Valley tennis conference.

The two winners in the Iowa City play-offs will represent this district in the Missouri Valley tournament in St. Joseph, Mo. July 5.

All entries are due not later than Friday and must be sent or given to Iowa net Coach Don Klotz at the Iowa fieldhouse. Players will be notified by the Hawk mentor as to playing time Saturday.

According to Klotz, play will be in singles competition only and there is no entry fee for either boys or juniors.

Klotz indicated that the top netters at the St. Joseph tourney will be sent to the National Juniors event, to be played in Kalamazoo, Mich., in July. From Kalamazoo, the winners will meet the cream of the Eastern juniors crop later in July.

Five local net aspirants will see action this weekend at Des Moines in the Hawkeye Holidays tennis tournament. Making the trip are Mike Trueblood, Bruce Higley, Keith Boyle, Bill Jenna and Don Weston.

Trueblood, 1947 South Dakota singles and doubles prep champion, is one of the top Hawkeye varsity hopefuls for next spring.

Higley, who transferred from Grinnell college this summer, is a local product. He was runner-up to Don Lewis, Hawkeye ace, in last year's Iowa prep singles final.

Boyle is rated one of the best prep doubles players in the state. He is co-holder of the district, state and Mississippi Valley conference titles. Jenna, another city high product, won the district prep singles this year and reached the semi-finals of the state and Mississippi Valley meets.

Don Palmer Hits Sizzling 68; Cops Amateur Medal Honors

OKOBOJI, IA. (AP)—Don Palmer, 23-year-old Dubuque golfer, fired a five-under-par 68 over the wind-swept, wet Brooks County club course yesterday to win medalist honors in the State Amateur golf tournament.

Palmer put together rounds of 33 and 35 to lead a field of 132 golfers seeking to qualify for the 32 places in the championship bracket.

Trailing Palmer by four strokes were veterans Milo McWilliams, Cherokee, and J. B. Harris, each with 72's.

Defending champion Fred Gordon, the Belmont florist who topped Jacobs from his throne last year at Davenport, finished considerably further down among the qualifiers.

Others who tied with Jacobs at par 73 were Hal Chase, Des Moines; Don Webb, Iowa State college golfer; Bernie Stieger, Cedar Rapids, and Jack Smith, of Des Moines.

Two Des Moines competitors, Dale Smith and Dixie Smith had cards of 74. One stroke behind them were Bill Pew, LeMars; Jim Rasley, University of Iowa player and Tom Chapman, of Sioux City, Chapman had a 37-38.

Indians Hand Yanks 5-2 Defeat

DiMag Blasts 16th Homer

CLEVELAND (AP)—Sam Zoladak pitched the Cleveland Indians to a 5-2 victory over the New York Yankees yesterday in his first appearance in a Cleveland uniform since his recent acquisition from the St. Louis Browns.

The victory enabled the Indians to increase their first place margin in the American league pennant fight to three-and-one-half games over the second-place Yankees.

Zoladak gave up eight hits and needed help from Russ Christopher in the ninth. Christopher came to Zoladak's rescue with two on and two out and got Johnny Lindell to pop to Joe Gordon on his first pitch to end the game.

Joe DiMaggio collected three of the hits yielded by Zoladak, including his 16th homer of the season which enabled him to tie Cleveland's Ken Keltner for the league leadership in that department of play. It was DiMag's fifth four-bagger in three days.

Wilson's, VFW 3949 Win City Loop Tilts

Wilson's Sid Goldberg pitched three hit ball in the first game of the second round play in the City league last night to shackle Cochran's, 7-2, at Kelley field.

Wilson's big inning came in the first of the third. Dean and Benda walked, Guzowski got on when Riggle, Cochran third baseman errored and Spencer drove them in with a smashing triple to left field. Goldberg and his mates went on to score one in the fourth and two in the seventh inning to win.

Cochran's only runs came in the first when they bunched two of their three hits and a walk for the two tallies.

The College Inn, VFW 3949 game was called at the end of six innings because of rain, with the Vets winning 10-2. Red Youngstrom hurled for the Vets, giving up only one hit in the six innings. Ray Sullivan was nicked for ten hits in the rout.

Iowa Stars Get Coaching Jobs

Many Hawkeye graduates in athletics and physical education have nailed down coaching jobs for next fall, according to a recent athletic department survey.

Two of Iowa's recent stars, Ross Anderson and Keith Keller, have accepted positions in Wisconsin. Anderson, who completed his gridiron competition last fall, will become athletic director at Northland college, Ashland, Wis.

Keller, a distance runner on the Hawk's track and cross-country teams, will take a coaching and physical education job at Watertown, Wis.

Another Hawkeye great, Lyle Ebner, 1948 baseball captain, will coach and teach science at Sibley, Iowa. Shipley Farroh, griddier of the mid-thirties who returned after the war to earn his degree, will coach football at Galena, Ill.

A pair of former Iowa assistant coaches have moved up to head positions. Wendell Hill, junior varsity basketball mentor, goes to Macomb, Ill. as head basketball and baseball coach. Bob Otto, fresh football assistant last fall, moves to Buena Vista college of Iowa where he will serve as head football coach and physical education director.

BOSTON (AP)—Stan Musial's fifth consecutive single, with the bases loaded in the ninth, clinched the St. Louis Cardinals 5-2 win over the top-place Boston Braves last night before a 29,064 crowd. That perfect batting performance boosted the National League's top slugger's average to .402 and gave Harry (The Cat) Brecheen his eighth pitching triumph of the season.

CHICAGO (AP)—Four former champions and the meet medalist yesterday stroked into the second round of the 19th Women's Western Open golf tourney as only one mild upset was recorded in the 16-match inaugural pay-off session.

Most one-sided triumphs were a pair of 7 and 6 decisions turned in by veteran Patty Berg of Minneapolis, one of four contending professionals and two-tour former champion, and another open champion, Helen Detweiler, Indio, Calif.

Miss Berg had the day's best performance over the 6,494-yard Skycrest Country club course which was swept by gusty winds.

The sturdy Minneapolis redhead, open winner in 1941 and 1943, was only two over par for the 12 holes she sought to eliminate Mrs. Jac Ochiltree of St. Charles, Ill.

Miss Detweiler, 1939 champion, zoomed to a six-stroke lead at the nine-hole turn in her walk-away over Mrs. Nathaniel Kanrich, Glencoe, Ill.

Margaret Gunther of Memphis, Tenn., Monday's top qualifier with 76, erased Dot Kieley of Long Beach, Calif., 1948 Curtis copper, 7 and 5.

Favored professional Babe Didrikson Zaharias of Denver, Colo., seeking her fourth open title, belled out Carol Diring of Tiffin, Ohio, 5 and 4, finishing three over par for the 14 holes.

The fourth ex-champion to win was professional Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., who came back after a feeble qualifying 85 Monday to whip Peggy Kirk of Findlay, Ohio, 2 and 1. Miss Kirk had a qualifying 79. Miss Jameson, who also was three over par for 17 holes played, won the open in 1942.

Two matches went an extra holes as Mary Agnes Wall of Menominee, Mich., and Shirley Spork of Detroit, Mich., shared 1-up decisions on the 19th green over Ann Casey of Mason City, Ia., and Dorothy Ellis of Indianapolis, respectively.

Mrs. Jack Germain of Atlantic, Iowa advanced to the semi-finals of the 1948 Western Amateur, gained the second round with a 2 and 1 verdict over Patricia Devaney of Gross Lake, Mich. Today, Miss McMillin again is pitted against Mrs. Zaharias.

A pair of Texans set up a second-round date with each other as Polly Riley of Ft. Worth bested Mrs. W. F. Zimmerman of Chicago, 5 and 4, and Betty M. White of Dallas nipped Mrs. Jim Wagner of St. Charles, Ill., 3 and 2.

Beverly Hanson of Fargo, N. D., whose qualifying 77 gave her top spot in the lower bracket, turned back Marjorie Lindsay of Decatur, Ill., 2 and 1.

The one match which provided the closest semblance to an upset was the 1-up setback of Catherine Fox Park of Glen Ridge, N. J. by Mrs. E. S. Blanton of Oklahoma City.

Big Nine Swamps Pacific's Thinclads

EVANSTON, ILL. (AP)—The Big Nine swept to 12 firsts and a tie for another to walloop the Pacific Coast conference, 92 1/2 to 39 1/2, last night and win its third straight dual track meet title in the 8-year series.

One world record and a meet mark were bested by the Western conference track men performing before a crowd of 6,000 in Northwestern's Dyche stadium.

The 480-yard shuttle hurdle relay team scampared the distance in 56.8. The accepted world mark as well as the American collegiate record is 58.6 by Texas in 1940.

Only other record was set by Northwestern's Bill Porter in the 120-yard high hurdles. His time was 13.9, compared with a meet record of 14 flat by Ohio State's Bob Wright in 1942. Porter was the only double winner. He also took the 220-yard low hurdles in 23.1, far off record time.

Southern California's speedster, Pell-Mel Patton, ran only in the 440-yard sprint relay, which was won by the Big Nine. He said his legs "lightened up," preventing him from running in the 220-yard dash which Indiana's Chuck Peters won in 21.6.

Prof. Lewis Mumford, Author, To Give Session's Third Talk

By SISTER VIRGINIA ANN

Lewis Mumford, author and teacher, will give the third summer session lecture Friday evening at 8 p.m. His subject will be "Foundations of World Order."

If the weather is good, the lecture will be delivered on the west approach to Old Capitol. Otherwise it will be given in Macbride auditorium. Mumford will also conduct an informal roundtable Saturday morning at nine o'clock in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Mumford has taught at Dartmouth college, Harvard university, and Leland Stanford university but he is better known as a writer. His son, Geddes, was killed in Italy in World War II and this factor has colored all his recent writings.

Son Killed

Mumford wrote the "Values for Survival" in 1946 and "The Story of Geddes" in 1947. The first of these was dedicated to his son and consists of a collection of papers and addresses related to the deeper meanings of the war.

The book was in fulfillment of a promise to his son. Its spirit and purpose are revealed in the following sentence in the foreword: "I trust my words will make sense to the returned fighting man and to all those civilians in every land who have in any way shared his privations, his miseries, his dangers or his sacrifices."

Other Works

Among his other books are "The Story of Utopias," "Sticks and Stones," "The Golden Day," "American Taste," "The Brown Decades," "The Culture of Cities," "Men Must Act," "Faith for Living," "The Condition of Man" and "City Development."

A humanist with deep interest in all problems of modern culture and civilization, Mumford has taken a great interest in the problems of higher education. He contributed to the volume, "The University and the Future of America," and has served on committees on higher education with Dean Earl J. McGrath of the State University of Iowa.

Study Tire You? Doze and Learn More, Magazine Says

Been dozing in class lately? You may have the right idea, according to research into teaching during sleep, reported in the July issue of Science Illustrated.

The article claims that it's easier to learn during sleep because light, outside sounds and other distractions can't interfere. Facts are memorized although temporarily forgotten.

The "mind writer" is one machine used in sleep teaching. It is a record player with a special clock to start it after the subject is asleep. A whispering speaker in a sponge rubber pillow implants the facts to be learned.

Foreign language lessons, Morse code, multiplication tables and chemical formulae might one day be planted gently in the minds of sleepers, predicts the magazine.

Judson S. Brown, professor of psychology at SUI said yesterday that experiments of this nature had not been conducted here.

"We'd have to see how big their sample was and how rigorous their methods were before we could say how valuable these experiments were," he said.

Brown remembered a past experiment in which a man read Greek to his child before the infant could talk. Later when the child took formal Greek lessons he absorbed the language easier than could have been expected.

"Successful experiments such as this are quite likely," he said.

Fuel Shortage Faces U. S.; Oil Officials Urge Winterization

These warm summer days in Iowa City drive out the memory of cold, fuel-short days experienced during the past winter.

Government authorities are keeping those days in mind, however. Warnings are coming out of Washington that "another fuel famine" is due next winter.

An oil shortage extending into 1953 is highly probable, according to Max W. Ball, director of the oil and gas division of the Department of the Interior.

Authorities report oil production off 725,000 barrels from the 6,150,000 barrels a day needed to supply the nation. The gap between production and need indicates a potential oil shortage this winter, they point out.

According to Interior Secretary J. A. Krug, at the present production and consumption rates there will not be enough oil, gas and coal to go around. This applies not only for next winter, but "for several winters to come."

To counteract the fuel shortage, government agencies are urging that conservation steps be taken this summer. Proper winterization of homes and business buildings is advised by the Construction Research bureau of New York. The basic steps, the bureau says, are storm windows and doors, weatherstripping and closing cracks.

The government is stressing insulation of buildings as a means of conserving fuel this winter.

Tests run by the National Bureau of Standards show that four inches of mineral wool between roof and living quarters and filling of hollow spaces with insulation will save upwards of 35 per cent of fuel burned in the average house.

Patients 'Punished' by Pallid Paint

Psychopathic Changes Brown to Green

Remodeling has changed the SUI psychopathic hospital's isolation rooms, and "their new appearance has had a great psychological effect upon the patients," according to Wilbur R. Miller, hospital director.

The hospital can now handle 200 more patients annually since the recent $26,839 remodeling, according to Miller.

Two south wards of the hospital, formerly open wards for convalescent patients, have been converted into supervised closed wards.

Partitions have been removed from the south wards which previously separated each room into separate units. Alterations have also been made on the sunporches. The regular screens have been replaced by detention screens which can withstand 500 pounds of pressure without damage. These new screens placed in back of the windows "will eliminate the danger of escape and breakage," Miller said.

The small rooms were previously built with wooden floors and plaster walls and were painted a drab brown and tan, according to Miller.

The rooms now have tiled walls and floors and are finished in a tan and green color scheme.

Our American Political Heritage —

Americans have one essential definition of political democracy. Traditionally, it is "rule by representatives elected by a majority of the people." In the light of what is happening now in Philadelphia, it might be appropriate to re-examine that belief.

This is a Republican year. Barring a political accident, like Eisenhower's accepting the Democratic nomination, the man nominated by the Republicans this week will be our next President. And barring several political miracles, that man will not be selected by a majority of the American people.

He will be appointed, almost elected, by a handful of politicians. U.S. News magazine in a recent article pointed out that in only 14 states did the voters have even a remote part in the selection of the men who may name the next president. Even in those states, only one-third of the registered Republicans voted.

Of the total of 496 delegates chosen by voters in the GOP primaries, only 153 are formally obligated to support particular candidates.

The remaining 498 convention delegates have been appointed, with or without the formality of state conventions, by local party bosses with no responsibility except to themselves. These strawmen delegates will follow the orders of their bosses.

Only 548 convention voters are required to nominate. That's 50 less than the machines alone control. In other words, if every primary-elected delegate were instructed to vote for the same man, there still wouldn't be enough votes to buck the machine groups.

According to public opinion polls, the only indices available short of a national primary, the general public wants Stassen. Politicians and commentators concede him small chance. Dewey, second in the popular choice, is facing a strong "stop-him" movement from party big-wigs.

Other polls indicate that political leaders would prefer Taft. But the same "leaders" have indicated that, in the event of the expected Taft-Dewey deadlock, a stampede will be led to some reliable party work-horse like Bricker or Martin.

Either way, the final decision will be made by the private arrangement of a dozen or so political bosses—even if not in a "smoke-filled room" of Harding memory. Votes of delegates (so-called popularly chosen) will be swapped by the bloc in return for promised favors—and ultimately, the convention will "unanimously" name a candidate.

Meanwhile, "spontaneous" demonstrations on the floor may indicate the personal popularity of an aspirant, but no votes will be changed by the noise. The pageantry gives delegates something to do while their leaders bargain behind the scenes and determine the results.

Harry Daugherty, who managed the pre-convention campaign for Harding in 1920, described the process this way:

"We live in a hard boiled age. No man in this country is ever called to the presidency by the clamor of millions. All Presidents are made by organization.

"Our candidates for the highest office in the gift of the people usually select themselves. Or a political leader grooms an individual quietly for office and springs him on the party at the right moment.

"The idea that Presidents are made by a spontaneous outburst of public opinion is no longer believed except by a few amateur political writers."

Well, no matter who the boys pick, we'll go out and vote for him. And we'll elect him. And maybe we'll even let the boys kid us into believing that we actually chose him ourselves.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT

No Crying by The 'New Rich'

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

PHILADELPHIA—I have come here to see the rarest sight in the world, a conservative party that is prospering.

That is the story here, and it is for me the only story here.

For a while something about the atmosphere, the family parties accompanying the delegates, the tender, round faces of the youths and maidens, shining about the Taft and Dewey buttons, bothered me, plucked at memory, and then I had it. This convention is for all the world like the opening for the season of one of those huge, Victorian seaside hotels of the age of innocence.

There is restrained mirth among the elders, and joy among the young, and one looks around for the little placards asking bridge foursomes to sign up and announcing that there will be dancing in the grand ballroom at nine o'clock. I fully expect, at any moment, to see a character in white pants go bounding through the lobby of the Bellevue Stratford, intoning: "Tennis, anyone?"

This is the happiest Republican convention I have seen; it is the first one in a good many years that is at all like a party. In '36 there was something about a depression; in '40, in this same city, it was a question of who to put up to lose to Roosevelt, and the Republicans then felt so low the Wilkie liberals took over; in '44 there was the war.

Now something has happened; the delegates themselves don't quite understand it, but suddenly it is all right again, it is all right, do you understand?

The twisting of postwar events has made everything all right, and in the enormous happy politeness of the hardly-moving but never-jostling crowds here there is just the proper blend of delight and restraint which is a suitable demeanor for those who have suddenly received an unexpected legacy.

Everybody visits all the candidates' campaign headquarters. In 1940 here these headquarters (usually a ballroom done up with posters and a string band) were the gloomiest spots in town; you couldn't even get a crowd up with free soft drinks.

Now they are all crowded, all the time; it is as if to miss one would be a bad thing, like missing a sight you were supposed to see on a vacation trip.

The delegates and their kin and the local people file through them all; for it is only in part that the Republicans are here to fight fiercely for any particular man; mostly they are here in celebration of the twist, that has put them on top again, and it is in a gay, relaxed way that they look forward to the young people's swimming races, excuse me, the nominations on Wednesday.

And because of this, I miss something. There seem to be very few persons here who are ready to cry if their man doesn't win, or even if he does—for at the usual convention the more emotional ladies shed as easily at victory as at defeat.

I remember them crying when they spoke the name of Landon in 1936. But this isn't a crying convention.

You don't cry when you've just come into a fortune. The expressions, in the lobbies and in the elevators, remind me strongly of the way people look when they are watching a minor fight on the television, far away; uninvolved in the contest, really, but happy to be doing what they are doing, gay in a moment that is comfortable, and without strain.

The Sad, Sad Case of An Alternate Delegate

By ARTHUR EDSON
CONVENTION HALL, PHILADELPHIA (P)—You want to know who the forgotten man is? He's an alternate delegate to a national political convention.

He has to pay his own way. And when he finally arrives, what does he find. A seat far back in a big hall, and no chance to vote or anything.

Yet when I wandered around, asking "What do you think of this convention?" the answer was that—back seats, no votes and all—they love it.

Paul A. Wiegand, of Wichita is attending his first convention.

Finding the speeches pretty dull, eh?

"No," said Wiegand, "Very interesting."

He has met several candidates and if he had a vote he'd go for Vandenberg.

"I met the Senator," said Wiegand. "Oh, I just shook his hand, of course. But I was impressed."

Mrs. Elizabeth J. Cudmore of New York has been attending conventions since 1924, with the exception of 1944.

After all these years, was she

McBride's Hall —

Of Minute Gaps—King Crabs

By BILL MCBRIDE

Into the Interesting-If-True department comes the story of a man affiliated with the teaching of photography at the university. The man is supposed to have left a note on his desk reminding him to "blow up Old Capitol tonight."

His wife found the note and almost had nervous fits before the true meaning of the threatening words was explained to her. In photography jargon "blow up" means to enlarge a picture.

Overheard while sitting in a barber chair: "I'd like to hear more from Wallace and less from the Wallace for President party."

Word comes that Mrs. Edna Lamb, Maurice River, N. J., ate 186 cherrystone clams in 30 minutes during a recent national clam eating contest. Mrs. Lamb now bears the title of "National Clam Eating Champion of the United States."

She broke last year's record by 44 clams. The former champ, Izzy Weintraub, made a rather poor showing this year with a high of 144 molusks.

I hate to be rude, but I wouldn't want either Edna or Izzy to my house for dinner.

Speaking of clams reminds me of King crabs for some reason or another. A lot of people don't know about King crabs and it's high time some one did something about it. By way of bringing to you the second in a series of "Minute Gap" reports, I will tell you about the King crab.

Even if you know about the King crab, you have probably forgotten that this is the time when King crabs hold their annual convention off the coast of Alaska.

Some of us may have a tendency to get this convention confused with those in Philadelphia this year. The difference in these conventions rests in the fact that the politicians meet only once every four years with the idea of choosing a candidate for president.

As contrasted to political conventions, the King crab meeting takes place every year and does so in the interests of reproduction.

You wouldn't think a King crab has much romance in his life, but in his own little hard-shelled way, he gets along.

Carrying out a ritual which has been going on for a good many years, millions of female crabs and bachelor crabs pack up and go to Alaska each summer. This serves the dual purpose of mating and getting crabs away from their work which consists of erasing all day long throughout the year.

Apparently the females don't really get away from it all because they invariably arrive two weeks before the men-folk and just sit around and crab about the unreliability of men.

When the six-legged bachelors start dalliating and finally do show up, they create a scene by dancing around rather uncertainly and in general making fools of themselves.

This is probably due to the annual he's-a-jolly-good-fellow convention atmosphere and undoubtedly results in some pretty big hangovers. I imagine a hungover King crab is about the crabbiest creature on earth.

Despite the obvious weak spots in a gathering of this sort, it must work out to a fairly decent degree of efficiency because every year a great many little King crabs come into the world.

getting bored with this talk, talk, talk?

"I am not. I love it." Her eyes twinkled. "You see, I'm a politician."

Her vote, if she had one, would go to Dewey, her governor.

John Benadek, of Chicago, is another first timer.

"Sure I like it, why not?" he asked. Having listened to about four bushels of assorted oratory, I could have given him a few hints, but I let the question pass.

Like the rest of the Illinois delegation, he'd string along with Gov.

Dwight H. Green on the first ballot. Then he would turn to Taft.

Senator Wherry (R-Neb) did the most old-fashioned political orating of any speaker on this morning's program.

When the crowd applauded at one point, Wherry put his hands on his hips, shouted:

"You want some more down there? I've got some more if you want it." The crowd cheered.

"Ah, here we go," said Wherry. And we went.

Argentina Lifts Profit Embargo

BUENOS AIRES (P)—Argentina yesterday lifted restrictions on sending abroad money representing profits made by foreign companies operating in Argentina.

This means many millions of dollars may be taken out of the country by American concerns.

In a large-scale realignment of her economic policy, Argentina also lifted nearly all restrictions on importation of goods from Britain, France, Italy, Holland, Belgium and Spain.

A third measure announced after the markets had closed for the day was establishment of a new exchange rate of five pesos to the dollar for dollars coming from the sale of Argentine exports.

Lifting restrictions on the payment of profits to foreign investors chiefly affects U.S. and British capital. Since July, 1947, new capital coming into Argentina has been permitted to export profits ranging only from 5 to 12 percent.

There also are restrictions on the movement of this capital from the country. The new order provides that all profits arising from capital which entered Argentina since Jan. 1, 1948, may be remitted abroad freely and that this capital also may leave at any time.

Construction of New State Office Building Halted Until Spring

DES MOINES (AP) — There will be another delay, at least until next spring, in the beginning of construction of the long awaited state office building, it developed yesterday.

Attorney General Robert L. Larson told a special committee in charge of the project at a closed meeting yesterday it is questionable whether the group has authority to contract for other than a completed building.

Thereafter the committee obtained agreements from most of the low bidders on the major portion of the work to hold their offers open until next Feb. 15. None of the low bidders refused to follow this plan but the committee was unable to contact all of them immediately.

The 1949 legislature, which meets in January, will be asked to appropriate approximately $2-million more to complete the financing.

Low bids opened May 25 totaled a little less than the $2,580,380 now available from appropriations by the 1941, 1945 and 1947 legislatures. The over-all cost is expected to be about $4,500,000.

Tornado Rips Through Two Iowa Counties

EMERSON, IA. (AP) — One person was injured, some farm homes damaged and numerous farm out-buildings smashed in a tornado that slashed northwesterly across two southwestern Iowa counties yesterday.

Fremont County Sheriff Al Christopher at Sidney, south of here, said the tornado moved across the Missouri river from Nebraska City, Neb., where at least one was killed, angled north-easterly across Fremont county and hit a section of Mills county.

Mrs. Anna Johnson, mother of Ralph Johnson, was injured when the Ralph Johnson farm home, about a half mile south of here, was damaged by the twister. Emerson is in Mills county.

Roofs were blown off, barns were knocked over and corn bins and other small building leveled as the high winds and heavy rains moved across the southwestern corner of the state. Some livestock were reported killed.

Heavy rains accompanied the storm which struck around 4 p.m. Christopher said the Frank Mead's oil station just across the river from Nebraska City was damaged by the tornado.

The storm missed Sidney, a town of about 1,200 persons, passing three miles to the north, the Fremont county sheriff said. A barn on the Joe Pullman farm north of Sidney was flattened, he said.

Some outbuildings about 10 miles northeast of Sidney in the Randolph area were damaged by the winds, Christopher reported. The side, was torn from another farm home near the Johnson place south of Emerson.

Powder, Paint Essential to Well-Groomed Delegate
Convention Bigwigs Need Cosmetics to Impress Video Spectators

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Something new has been added to the politician's bag of tricks: powder and paint.

The bigwigs at the Republican national convention don't use cosmetics. If they do they won't admit it. They say they don't need makeup and wouldn't submit to it if they did.

But they'll probably come to it, maybe before the present clam-bake is over. The reason: television.

Under those merciless lights, even the handsomer candidates

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

This is just a personal reaction but: in television Senator Taft looks pale, Governor Dewey looks as though he needed a shave, and Harold E. Stassen looks as though he could do with a lot more hair.

With 18 television stations, claiming a 10,000,000 audience looking on, the pressure is terrific on a candidate to throw male prejudice to the winds and get himself prettied up with the special makeup that's his for the contest.

Some of the women already have fallen into line.

A very dark cake-type powder, black and brown liner pencils and mascara are handy in many purses—just in case someone wants an extempore interview.

There's been a trend to dark dresses with something white at the neckline and off-the-face hats. The television experts are making such costumes almost a "must."

Video creates strange problems.

GOP Lists Platform Highlights

To Vote On Planks Today

PHILADELPHIA (P)—Here are the highlights of the platform approved by the resolutions committee of the Republican national convention for action by the convention itself today:

"To establish and maintain peace, to build a country in which every citizen can earn a good living with the promise of real progress for himself and his family and to uphold as a beacon light for mankind everywhere the inspiring American tradition of liberty, opportunity and justice for all—that is the Republican platform."

"Our foreign policy is dedicated to preserving a free America in a free world of free men... Prudently conserving our own resources, we shall cooperate on a self-help basis with other peace-loving nations... We believe in collective security... The United Nations should progressively establish international law, be freed of any veto in the peaceful settlement of international disputes and be provided with the armed forces contemplated by the charter."

"We pledge an attack on the basic causes of inflation, including progressive reduction of the cost of government... stimulation of production... fiscal policies to provide increased incentives, a sound currency, reduction of the public debt."

"The maintenance of armed services for air, land and sea, to a degree which will insure our

Construction Increases At University

Post-war construction is swinging into high gear at SUI, a building survey has revealed. The new $91,000 hydraulics laboratory annex is expected to be completed next month. The annex will double facilities of the Iowa institute of hydraulic research, according to the director, Prof. Hunter Rouse. It will be used primarily for research in the basic laws of stream sediment, scour, transportation and deposition.

Carrier Addition
Work started March 1 on the Carrier Hall addition. The new dining hall, accommodating 150 women, will be ready for use this fall. The $431,185 five-story addition, ready September, 1949, will contain 75 rooms and house 150 women, raising Carrier's housing capacity to 780.

Plans are being made for a new $65,000 physical plant shop to house the plumbing, heating, electrical, carpentry, machinery, and painting shops. The legislative interim committee recently granted the university permission to advertise for bids for this project. Plans also have been approved for 32 new university garages to cost about $30,000.

Remodel Hospital
Psychopathic hospital can handle 200 patients annually as a result of a new $28,839 remodeling job, according to Wilbur R. Miller, hospital director. Remodeling was done in the isolation rooms and in the south ward, where modern tiling and a new color scheme were added.

Work is underway to clear the site for the $12,000,000 Veterans hospital. At the last meeting of the board of education's building and business committee, the university was granted permission to advertise for bids to remove the botany laboratories to the southwest section of the hospital's parking lot, according to Fred Ambrose, university business manager.

To Expand Children's Hospital
The board of education has also authorized the university to advertise for bids for a $45,000 expansion of Children's hospital. The severely handicapped children will be temporarily accommodated in a remodeled portion of Westlawn nurses home. The addition, expected to be complete in July, will accommodate 16 to 20 children. Facilities will include sleeping and living rooms, classrooms and occupational therapy equipment. Half a million dollars already have been set aside for the permanent hospital.

Expansion of Hillcrest dormitory for men is expected to begin this fall. The present structure houses about 400 residents. The addition will double the capacity. In the medical laboratories, the first section of the radiation research laboratory is expected to be completed this summer. The entire laboratory will be finished next year.

national security... recognize the American principle that every citizen has an obligation of service to his country."

"Continuation of efforts... to reduce the enormous burden of taxation... Withdraw or reduce those taxes which can best be administered by local governments, with particular consideration of excise and inheritance taxes."

"Small business... must be encouraged through aggressive anti-monopoly action, elimination of unnecessary controls, protection against discrimination, correction of tax abuses, and limitation of competition by governmental organizations."

"Collective bargaining is an obligation as well as a right, applying equally to workers and employers; and the fundamental right to strike is subordinate only to paramount considerations of public health and safety... We pledge continuing study to improve labor-manager legislation..."

"A long-term program in the interest of agriculture and consumer... an accelerated program of sounder soil conservation; effective protection of reasonable market prices through flexible support prices, commodity loans, marketing agreements... encouragement of family-sized farms... support of the principle of bona fide farmer-owned and farmer-operated cooperatives, and sound rural electrification."

"A comprehensive reclamation program... with full protection of the rights and interests of the states."

"A realistic and adequate adjustment of veterans' benefits on a cost-of-living basis."

"Federal aid to the states for local slum clearance and low-rental housing programs only where there is a need that cannot be met either by private enterprise or by the states and localities."

"Extension of the federal old age and survivors' insurance program and increase of the benefits... strengthening of federal-state programs designed to provide more adequate hospital facilities."

"Prompt enactment of legislation to end lynching... legislation to maintain the equal opportunity to work and to advance in life... abolition of the poll tax... We are opposed to the idea of racial segregation in the armed services."

"Vigorous enforcement of existing laws against communists and enactment of such new legislation as may be necessary to expose the treasonable activities of Communists and defeat their objective of establishing here a godless dictatorship controlled from abroad."

Files Damage Suit, Asks $20,000 After Bus-Truck Collision

A $20,000 damage suit was filed in Johnson county district court yesterday against the Iowa City coach company and George F. Morrow, doing business as Morrow's Standard service station, 801 S. Riverside drive.

Teresa Seibert, Albia, brought the suit. She said she was injured when Morrow's truck collided with the rear of a bus in which she was a passenger on Jan. 20, 1948.

The plaintiff said she was "violently jolted and strained, and received severe injuries to her spine, neck and back, which have compelled her to wear almost continuously various casts and braces."

The injuries still cause her "great physical pain and mental suffering," she said. For this she asked judgment of $10,000.

Mrs. Seibert claimed in her petition that she was incapacitated for six months and was unable to take care of her house and family. She also said she will be permanently unable to do her duties as a housewife as she had previous to the accident, and therefore asked a further $5,000 judgment.

The plaintiff requested an additional $5,000 judgment for doctor, nurse, hospital and traveling expenses.

Mrs. Seibert charged "concurrent negligence" of the bus driver and the truck operator.

John D. Moon, Ottumwa, attorney for the plaintiff, filed the petition by mail.

Bond Sales Too Low, Iowa Chief Says

Johnson county is in 20th place among Iowa counties in the sale of U. S. savings bonds, according to Roger F. Warin, state director of the savings bond division.

Warin yesterday reported on the sale of savings bonds in Iowa at the end of the ninth week of the security loan drive.

South Lee county is leading in the drive, having sold 87.41 per cent of its quota. In Johnson county, sales for the drive have reached 52.85 per cent of the quota of $1,442,536.

Warin said Iowa savings bond sales "are far below what they should be at this time."

He said the state has made 47.14 per cent of its $100-million quota for the drive. Iowa should have reached 60 per cent of the quota at this point in the drive, he said.

Warin said buying savings bonds is a way of "combatting the spiral of higher prices."

"This is one way that every citizen can help to stabilize the national economy," he said.

Stern Policemen's — 'Tears Flowed Like Wine'

— In Gas Demonstration

WINDING UP LIKE A BIG-LEAGUER, Chief R.W. Nebergall of the Iowa bureau of criminal investigation last night demonstrated how to toss a teargas grenade for the police officers. In the upper corner, Russell LaVine of the Hawkeye protective appliances Co., editor of the Iowa sheriff magazine, wipes his eyes after a dose of tear-gas. "I just came to see if our equipment works," he said. "It does," he sniffed. (Daily Iowan Photo by Herb Nipson)

Bombs fell west of the Iowa City airport last night. The explosions formed no craters — just sent clouds of tear gas billowing into the air.

More than 50 tear-eyed, shirt-sleeved sheriffs, constables and police officers learned from experience last night the use of tear gas grenades at a field demonstration.

The law enforcement officers are enrolled in the short course

Police officers in Iowa City for a short course this week feared it would be necessary to send out the highway patrol last night to round up two of the speakers for today.

Judge Harry Porter and Police Lt. Frank Andrews, both of Evanston, Ill., were stranded in Durant, Iowa, late yesterday afternoon when their car developed engine trouble.

for policemen being held at SUI this week. Evening sessions, according to Director Richard L. Holcomb, present informative material that couldn't be demonstrated in the classroom.

Chief R.W. Nebergall, of the Iowa Bureau of Criminal Investigation at Des Moines was in charge of the demonstration.

Though a hilltop provided a good set-up for his display of tear gas techniques, two white horses and a couple of curious calves had to be shooed off.

Briefly Nebergall explained to the crowd gathered around him on the hilltop that there are two kinds of tear gas: poisonous and non-poisonous.

The non-poisonous type was demonstrated last night. It is composed of chloracetone with a little HC to give smoke, the instructor explained. Though it makes the most hard-hearted soul weep, blinding victims temporarily, the non-poisonous tear gas has no permanent ill-effects.

The poisonous gas contains diphenylamine-chloracetone, he said. "It not only makes you so sick you think you're going to die, Nebergall explained. "It makes you so sick you're afraid you're not going to die."

Then the instructor got down to practical explanations, discussing the various types of detonators on the grenades. The crowd stepped back warily as he tossed the first grenade. A cloud of ominous white smoke drifted away from the spectators. Somebody remarked he was glad the wind was blowing in the other direction.

The instructor called for volunteers to go down and sniff the tear gas. Only one officer agreed. He walked down the hill, sniffed, and returned, sneezing.

But with the detonation of the last bomb, Nebergall pulled a fast one. "This grenade gives off no smoke," he said with a grin. "And it explodes in three places," he warned.

There was an explosion. The crowd scattered. In a moment the officers were sniffing, sneezing and wiping futilely at streaming eyes.

The instructor tried to proceed with his lecture, doubled over in

Dads Collect $286 In First-Day Drive For Swimming Pool

The Community Dads announced last night that $286 was collected yesterday in the first day of the business district canvass for the swimming pool fund.

This makes a total of $599 donated in the drive for $12,500 to complete the contracts for the pool project.

The city has floated two bond issues totaling $112,500 for the pool construction. The $12,500 sum was set when the city found that a pool would cost approximately $125,000. The council then decided to raise the needed money by public subscription.

Last week the Dads volunteered to supervise the subscription with the aid of the PTA and the League of Women Voters.

The Dads are making the canvass of the business district and the PTA will handle the residential drive. A special committee was appointed to canvass the various fraternal and service organizations.

Three Go From SUI To Denver Meeting

Prof. James Jordan, Richard Spencer and John Barbour of the university information service left yesterday for Denver where they will attend the national convention of the American college public relations association now in session.

When the convention closes next week, Barbour will assume duties as public relations director of Buena Vista college in Storm Lake.

a series of sneezes and cried, "Laugh, you guys, laugh. I'm getting rid of my head cold." He had previously explained that tear gas was a sure way to clear a head cold.

Tear gas, explained Nebergall, is useful in driving out barricaded criminals. "It not only saves the life of the hoodlum, but protects the innocent public often involved," he said.

"I've never seen an occasion when I couldn't do the job with tear gas," he added.

Russia Vetoes Control Plan

LAKE SUCCESS (P)—Russia's 26th veto yesterday killed a security council majority decision approving the American plan for world atomic control.

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet deputy foreign minister who has bitterly assailed the American proposal, cast the veto. The Soviet Ukraine voted with him.

The United States, Argentina, Britain, China, Belgium, Syria, France, Canada and Colombia voted to approve the entire work of the United Nations Atomic Energy commission.

Balked by the Soviet veto, the council then decided to send the records of the atomic deadlock to the general assembly meeting in Paris Sept. 21 for its action.

Register 2,500 for Mail-Order Courses

Almost 2,500 students are registered in the SUI correspondence school this summer, according to Helen Williams, director of the bureau of correspondence study.

This is one of the largest enrollments the bureau has ever had, Miss Williams said. The courses, which number more than 200 in 25 departments, are always more popular in the summer, according to Miss Williams. This is because of the large number of teachers who are free to further their education, she said.

The courses are also popular with ex-GI's who take them under the GI bill, and with students from other universities.

The most popular course, Miss Williams said, is short story writing. Another popular course, she said, is "Child Study and Parent Education."

Each course is handled by a regular member of the SUI faculty in the department in which the course is listed.

I am an ad. You've seen many advertisements just like me. You look at us to find what goods or services you want to buy. Why not look at us in relation to your own job and future.

These ads—and all the advertising that you read and hear—are busy selling goods and services.

Now all the businesses and all the pay checks in America depend ultimately on somebody selling something to somebody else.

Advertising is the lowest cost way yet devised to sell goods. So advertising is what makes jobs, what makes more and better jobs, what gives you security and a chance for promotion. So be glad that business spends money for advertising. Be glad Americans read and listen to it—like it as well as the editorial material itself.
