LITTLE VALLEY, N.Y. (AP) — Four-year-old Raymond Dempsey of Buffalo was found yesterday by volunteer searchers after 17 hours in the open. Raymond, who wandered away from a picnic Monday, was found on a country road. His first comment: "I'm afraid of the cows."

Russ Turn Down Invitation to Yugoslav Communist Meeting

LONDON (AP)—Premier-Marshall Tito's Yugoslav Communists got two hard answers last night to their defiance of the nine-nation Communist International Information bureau (Cominform). Russia's Communist party said it has rejected an invitation to send a delegation to the Yugoslav Communist congress opening in Belgrade July 21. The announcement was made here just before midnight through the Soviet news agency Tass and the Moscow radio.

An hour later, Tass reported little Albania defied Yugoslav warnings that she must resume economic relations with her bigger neighbor or face the consequences.

The Yugoslav Communist party placed itself "outside the family of Communist parties," the Russian communique said, by its refusal to attend a Cominform meeting in Romania last month. At that meeting, other members of the nine-nation Cominform discussed Tito's alleged deviations from the Marxist line.

The central committee of the Russian Communist party, of which Stalin had served as general secretary since 1922, thus repeated in almost identical words a charge in the original Cominform blast at Tito.

The Russians implied that the situation remains the same — the Yugoslav Communists have not repented of their "Trotskyist" actions charged by the Cominform and, therefore, still are not welcome back into the Communist fold.

The Tass dispatch from Tirana, capital of Albania, said the Albanians were taking "strong measures" to guard their frontiers with Yugoslavia and Greece against "hostile elements."

The Cominform's original blast against Tito and the Yugoslav Communist party said the Yugoslavs, by their actions, had placed themselves "outside the family of the brotherly Communist parties." The Cominform called on the "healthy forces" within the Yugoslav party to force party leaders to mend their ways. If this fails, the Cominform said, the leaders should be replaced.

The Yugoslav party's two latest moves were an appeal to Prime Minister Stalin, over the head of the Cominform, to help it back to a high place in the Communist world and an invitation, again ignoring the Cominform, for delegations of foreign Communist parties to attend the Yugoslav party congress.

Text of last night's Moscow announcement: "The central committee of the all-union Communist party (Bolsheviks) received an invitation from the central committee of the Communist party of Yugoslavia to the fifth congress of the Yugoslav party, with a request to send a delegation to the congress."

"The central committee of the Communist party (Bolsheviks) decided not to send a delegation to the congress of the Yugoslav Communist party since the central committee of the Communist party of Yugoslavia refused to participate in the conference of the Communist information bureau and thus placed the Yugoslav Communist party outside the family of Communist parties."

Earl Mountbatten Searches for Job

LONDON (AP) — Earl Mountbatten, who retired June 21 as governor-general of India, said last night he is out of a job and has no immediate prospects.

The one-time supreme commander for southeast Asia implied, however, that he still hopes for an active command in the royal navy, in which he holds the rank of rear-admiral. The navy lent him last year to serve as the last British viceroy and later as first governor-general of the new Indian dominion.

"I went to see them at the admiralty, but they had no job for me," Mountbatten said in an interview. "They told me to report back later in the year."

"I am a sailor," he added.

Super-Colossal Corn Grows in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Corn grows high in Hollywood. Even transplanted Iowans who think the film capital produces only bunions and ulcers stop to gander at Edward Kalsched's seven-foot high corn. Kalsched has four rows of the genuine tasseled variety growing in his backyard in mid-Hollywood. Six and seven ears to the stalk, too. Mrs. Kalsched canned 20 pints of corn, unliqued, last year. It'll be still more this year. That's a lot of corn, even for Hollywood.

Mercury Hits Record 100 Students 'Beat the Heat' in Air Cooled Union As Heat Claims Three Iowans

Some 500 students took refuge in the Iowa Union yesterday as the mercury soared to 100 degrees here. New season records were reported throughout Iowa yesterday as hundred-plus readings were listed in the state's steaming heat wave that has claimed three lives.

An unofficial 103 degrees was reported at Sioux Rapids. Esterville reported 102 yesterday afternoon, and Sioux City recorded 100.

The previous Iowa 1948 high was 100 at Sac City and Sioux City yesterday. Esterville's 102 was the second highest temperature recorded there since 1893.

Meanwhile, the third Iowa death attributed to the heat in 24 hours was reported at Sac City. Two deaths also occurred in Des Moines yesterday.

Frank Burge, assistant director of the Iowa Union, reported an estimated 500 students were taking advantage of the air conditioning. The entire Union resembled a huge library as students attempted to keep abreast of the "torrid" summer school pace.

Mercy hospital reported one case of heat prostration. Shirt-tails and shorts were prominent garb throughout Iowa City.

No relief was reported in sight by the weather bureau. For today it predicted fair and hot. Tomorrow and Friday, partly cloudy with hot daytime temperatures.

Continued high humidity. (Humidity in Iowa City yesterday: 47 percent.) Temperatures will range from 75 to 98 over the entire state today and tomorrow.

Czechs Cheer Benes, U. S., Ignore Gottwald

PRAGUE (AP)—Former President Eduard Benes was cheered yesterday by 60,000 persons marching through Prague in the Sokol congress parade. There were no cheers for his Communist successor, President Klement Gottwald.

The paraders also shouted slogans for Yugoslavia, Premier Marshal Tito, Russia, Premier Stalin and the United States. Scores of small paper American flags appeared in the parade, carried by individuals. They drew cheers along the route.

The Sokol is a national cultural and physical training organization.

French Tell Of Communist Plot in Berlin

PARIS (AP) — Evidence of a Moscow-inspired plot to force the United States, France and Britain out of Berlin was reported by the French foreign ministry yesterday.

The reported plot first was disclosed through the publication in Le Figaro, conservative Parisian morning paper, of a purported secret document sent by the central committee of the German Communist party to the Berlin cells of the movement.

A spokesman for the Quai D'Orsay said his government had received confirmation of the Communist plot from the British. The British in London disclaimed giving the French any note on the affair.

In the newspaper account, the move to oust the westerners was to begin with a break-down of public services, continue with street riots between Communists and the German police, and end with the Soviet army moving in to protect the western occupation forces by corraling them in a special reservation.

The newspaper document said Communists should demonstrate for a unified government. It added it must be assumed there will be numerous dead and wounded when the German police intervene.

Soviet forces then would appear it said, and a provisional government set up at a mass meeting of workers would declare a state of general public crisis. All this would take place only in case of increased tension between Russia and the west, it said.

The note ended with instructions that it be destroyed. It was reported to have been turned over to the western allies by a member of one of the Communist cells in Berlin.

Announcement of the plot caused a stir in French political and diplomatic circles. A government source said the French army believed it had sufficient forces in its sector in Berlin to deal with any disorders.

An American spokesman in Berlin said "it is part of our occupation duties to handle such a situation." He said the plot was an old rumor circulating since last November.

A 'Carpet Badger' in Wisconsin?

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Patsy Petersik has lived in Wisconsin all of her 11 years, but she didn't find out until yesterday what a badger, official state animal, looks like.

"I thought it was a rug until it looked at me," Patsy told humane society officers summoned by her report that a wild animal was loose in her neighborhood.

"He was more scared than I was, though," she added. "He ran across the street. I just walked into the house."

New Russ Food Ban Tightens Berlin Crisis

BERLIN (AP)—The Russians stopped the truck export of food and other essential commodities to western Berlin from the Russian sector yesterday, western-licensed newspapers reported.

This action apparently steered the Berlin crisis toward a climax. It came as the United States, Britain and France lodged a strong protest with Moscow against the Soviet land blockade of western Berlin.

The Russians, in another of their long series of protests, charged the Americans with violating flying safety rules.

The Soviet-licensed news agency ADN said a new protest was sent to American authorities by the Russian section of the Berlin air center. "The Americans by their unilateral violation of rules for control of flying traffic," the protest said, "take full responsibility for the safety of American planes."

The ADN report did not explain what was meant by the "safety of American planes." United States pilots have received daily routine briefings to watch for Russian fighter planes.

Western Berlin's air lifeline to the west was interrupted yesterday by bad weather. But by noon the air over the city again was drumming with the sound of incoming planes ferrying essential supplies from western Germany.

The western-licensed German press said the Russians clamped strict controls on trucks entering Berlin's beleaguered western sector, administered by the Americans, British and French.

Acting Police Chief Seidel of the Soviet sector ordered his police to inspect the load of every truck heading for western Berlin from the Russian sector, the press said. He ordered the confiscation of foodstuffs, scrap, building materials and telephone equipment.

American officials said the German press reports of new truck controls apparently were true. Seidel's truck inspection order would erect another wall through the heart of Berlin, dividing east from west, as did the introduction of two currencies.

Israel Refuses Bernadotte's Peace Terms

TEL AVIV (AP)—The main Tel Aviv-Haifa highway was blocked last night by a heavy battle between Jewish and Arab troops. The clash occurred as Count Folke Bernadotte traveled from Tel Aviv to Cairo in an attempt to extend the uneasy Palestine truce.

Few details of the fighting 10 miles south of Haifa were available here. Two United States marines driving United Nations truce team trucks were turned back by Arabs who fired on them for 40 minutes before they waved a white flag to end the shooting.

Private Charles Phalen, 19, of Bluefield, W. Va., and Private Lewis Taylor, 19, of Jackson, Miss., said they were forced to pull their trucks into a ditch and crawl for cover under rifle and machinegun fire from Arabs dominating the road between Tirez and Jara. This occurred about noon.

There was no official indication how seriously Jewish authorities here regarded the highway clash. Telephone lines between the two cities were cut.

Earlier in the day the Israeli government turned down Count Folke Bernadotte's Palestine peace proposals. He promptly announced he will continue peace talks even if fighting resumes.

The United Nations mediator made this statement on arriving from Tel Aviv, where he was asked by the Israeli government to "reconsider" his plan for ending Arab-Jewish warfare.

In Tel Aviv, Bernadotte received from Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Shertok a 1,000-word reply to the mediator's proposal to turn Jerusalem over to Arab rule, make Haifa a free port and regulate immigration.

The reply said the Israeli leaders were deeply wounded by the Jerusalem suggestion and expressed emphatic opposition to any restriction on immigration.

It said Bernadotte's proposals "appear to ignore" the United Nations partition decision and added: "It is indeed the conviction of the provisional government that the territorial provisions affecting the Jewish state now stand in need of improvement in view both of the perils revealed by Arab aggression . . . and the results achieved by Israel in repelling this aggression."

At a Tel Aviv conference Bernadotte said he did not know whether the Jews and Arabs would agree to extend the Holy Land truce but added: "I have a feeling the doors are not closed."

The four-week truce ends Friday.

'Adviser' Baruch Arrives in London

LONDON (AP) — Bernard Baruch, adviser to presidents, arrived last night with no advice for anybody.

"In this unsettled world, individuals without definite responsibilities should not be talking," he said. "Their chatter might disturb men with delicate tasks on their hands."

"I am here without responsibilities," Baruch added. "At least no one has given me an assignment as yet. Speculations that I am here to confer with someone on atomic energy are simply off base."

Tomorrow, Baruch said, he will take a walk, buy a wreath and place it "quite unobtrusively" at the base of the new statue of Franklin D. Roosevelt in Government square.

Push for 'Ike' Continues Despite Refusal

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS A last ditch stop-Truman movement drove grimly ahead last night in the hope that General Dwight D. Eisenhower can be drafted for the Democratic presidential nomination despite his refusal to take it.

New attention was thrown on the name of Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas as a possible nominee with the same aim of sidetracking the President's ambitions for election.

In Massachusetts, all delegates to next week's nominating convention were urged to support Douglas. Letters were sent them.

By a committee headed by former U.S. Rep. Thomas H. Eliot, Eliot said Douglas had not authorized the action.

Douglas' name will be put before the convention, according to Leon C. Henderson, chairman of Americans for Democratic Action. Henderson said in a statement that ADA still hopes Eisenhower can be persuaded to run.

Eisenhower's "no" was subjected to a close between-the-lines study by those who seek to draft him, looking for loopholes.

He said he couldn't take the nomination. They hoped, however, that he wouldn't refuse to run if chosen by the convention opening Monday.

But other politicians were freely predicting a first ballot victory for President Truman.

And Democratic National Chairman J. Howard McGrath seized the opportunity to call for party unity — for "proclaiming the achievements of our party and its leadership."

Mr. Truman, returning to Washington from Bolivar, Mo., had "no comment" on Eisenhower's statement. But aides said the President felt that the only formidable threat to a first ballot Truman nomination had been removed. He headed back to the White House to help plan the moves to head off any renewed Eisenhower threat at next week's convention.

of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, declared the Democrats should nominate Eisenhower as a "national candidate."

He renewed the call for a caucus Saturday at Philadelphia of Democratic delegates to settle on a candidate. He got quick "eyes" back from Eisenhower draft leaders.

Roosevelt reasoned that Eisenhower "will not serve as a partisan president but will answer a call to national duty."

What Eisenhower said Monday

Switzer, said Virginia's 26 convention votes will be cast for Eisenhower as the state convention directed.

Frank Hague, New Jersey state Democratic leader who last Sunday led his state's Democratic delegation over to Eisenhower, was not deterred by the announced stand of the former army chief of staff.

Hague called on President Truman to ask Eisenhower to take the nomination. He said New Jersey's votes still will go to Eisenhower.

Johnston also observed that James Roosevelt might be a good teammate for Eisenhower "because his name is Roosevelt."

Jacob M. Arvey, Chicago party chairman, said he believes if Eisenhower is drafted he won't refuse to serve his country.

In Georgia, Democratic State Chairman James S. Peters said the state's 26 votes at the convention will go to Eisenhower if his name is offered, in accordance with the state convention's instructions. At first, after reading the Eisenhower statement, he said the votes would go to Senator Russell of Georgia.

Some Alabama delegates refused to give up hope for Eisenhower.

night was that he "could not accept nomination for any public office or participate in partisan political contest." Such an assertion last spring smashed a drive to give him the Republican nomination.

But Eisenhower admirers decided his renewed stand wasn't final after all and gave vent to enthusiastic new statements.

Senator Johnston of South Carolina moved to hurl the issue into the national executive committee at Philadelphia Saturday. He said he will offer a resolution instructing McGrath to ask Mr. Truman to withdraw for the nomination race in favor of Eisenhower.

Johnston also observed that James Roosevelt might be a good teammate for Eisenhower "because his name is Roosevelt."

Only Pittsburgh and Cincinnati failed to place a starter in the National league, while Chicago, St. Louis and Washington were shut out in the American league.

Biggest individual vote-getter was Boston's Ted Williams, who garnered mention on 1,556,781 of the 4,107,893 lineups submitted by fans in the wide-spread balloting.

Yankee Clipper Di Maggio, the 1947 leader with approximately the same number of votes Williams collected, placed third this year behind Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals, who topped National League returns with 1,532,022.

Under the pact between the Tribune and baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler and with presidents Will Harridge of the American league and Ford Frick of the National league, the managers must use the lineups designated by the fans for the first three innings.

Of all the buildings on the University of Iowa campus, a smart young hawk picked the fieldhouse, home of Iowa athletics, for a morning siesta yesterday.

Glen Devine, assistant business manager of athletics spotted the living example of the Iowa symbol just outside the athletic office window. The hawk stayed on the ledge there for some time solemnly inspecting the office interior, but when Devine attempted to capture him, he flew away.

Burlington Knocks I.C. From Legion Tourney

The Iowa City junior legion baseball team bowed out of the district tournament play yesterday afternoon when the Burlington Greyhounds slapped them down, 3-2, on the City high diamond.

The Greyhounds scored once in the first inning and twice in the fourth inning for the winning margin. Fontz got to first when Jerry Anderson bobbled an in-field grounder. Danny McBride cracked a single into centerfield and Fontz scored on the throw in from Dutcher to shain at the plate.

Otto walked to open the fourth inning, and Salkeld got to first when Shain's glove hit the bat, interfering with the batter's swing. The runners advanced to second and third on a sacrifice hit by Wellington and Bailey slapped a single to centerfield to score the two runs.

Iowa City scored once in the fifth and once in the sixth innings and missed chances to score in the first and the seventh innings. Ed Faيمان walked to start the fifth and came home on Dick Doran's long triple into leftfield. With two men on and no outs, Whitey Diehl hit into a double play catching Doran at the plate and Diehl at first. Anderson was caught off third by the catcher to third combination.

The Hawklets scored again in the sixth inning when Danny Dutcher singled to leftfield. He was forced at second by Johnny Fenton who scored on an error by Greyhound shortstop Otto.

The Hawklets missed scoring chances in the first and seventh innings. Filling the bases with none out in the first inning Greyhound pitcher Wellington set down three Hawklets in a row to retire the side without a run and leaving the bases loaded.

Wellington, who went the route for Burlington, gave up five hits and struck out four men. Doran struck out nine men and gave up only three hits. The Hawklets lost the game on five costly errors in the infield. The five mishaps accounted for two of the Greyhound runs.

In the first game, Victor tipped Tipton, 2-1. Bob DeBecker gave up only three hits in winning for Victor.

Ris Defeats Ford In Olympic Trials; Advances to Finals

Iowa's national sprint champion, Wally Ris, advanced to the final Olympic trials Sunday when he grabbed first place in the 100-meter free style event at a regional trial in Milwaukee.

Blazing over the long course in 57.8 seconds, Ris edged out Alan Ford, ex-Yale ace and holder of world's records in the 100-meter event.

In beating Ford by a few inches, Ris duplicated his earlier victory over the Yale man in the indoor National A. A. U. meet over the 100-yard distance. At Milwaukee, the Hawk star overtook Ford in the last 20 yards and finished with a burst of speed.

Ris, along with four other Hawkeye swimmers, is now completing workouts in Detroit, Mich., the site of the final trials this weekend.

The first three men in each event will make the trip to the Olympics in London later this weekend.

Bowen Stassforth, Iowa frosh 200-meter breast stroke artist, finished second in that event at the Milwaukee trials. He trailed Joe Verduke of La Salle college, the world's record-holder. Verduke finished at 2:42.6, within a tenth of the Olympic record, while Stassforth was timed at 2:56.5.

Rossie Knocks Out Cady for 2nd Time

Bob Rossie Jr., local welterweight, knocked out Don Cady of Des Moines for the second straight time at Maquoketa Monday night.

In Rossie's second meeting with Cady, he was shoved out of the ring in the second round. He climbed back in and Cady started working on a cut on Rossie's left eye that he inflicted in their first fight. Rossie said he could feel blood trickling down his face, and knew the referee would give Cady a technical knockout if he didn't knock Cady out first.

Rossie threw a quick right that staggered Cady, and then floored him with a flurry of punches.

'Don't Expect Drivers to Get Killed,' Collins

WITH HAND IN AIR, Billy Snyder, Minneapolis, Minn., pulls into the pits after his motor conked out on the third lap second heat of the Independence Day Races at Hawkeye Downs in Cedar Rapids Sunday. Other drivers are Russ Lee (left), No. 6, also of Minneapolis and Bill Hall, No. 88.

By JIM ROSE

Emory Collins, the national dirt track champion, said Sunday that people no longer come to an auto race expecting somebody to have an accident or get killed.

When fans witness a pile-up now, they don't want to go to another race, he added. Collins drove his Offenhauser at Hawkeye Downs in Cedar Rapids last Sunday. The final event was rained out, but Collins beat Big Ben Musick of Dallas, Tex., in a special match race.

Once you're champ, it's hard to stay there, Collins said. "When you're in the lead and make one slip, the other boys will be right up there."

The 43-year-old Collins has been racing since he was 15. He built his first car himself. He gained recognition in 1939 when he raced against the late Gus Schrader of Cedar Rapids.

When asked about Jimmy Wilburn's accident at Oskaloosa, he said, "Wilburn cracked up because he hit a bad place in the track. It wasn't that he was driving faster now than he did a few years ago."

Kluszewski's Homer Beats Pirates, 6-4

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Ted Kluszewski's ninth inning two-run double with the bases loaded and two out last night led the Cincinnati Reds to a 6 to 4 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

It was the second time in two days that the Red first baseman with the jaw-cracking name has pulled victory from defeat in the final inning. In the second game Monday, his ninth inning home run tied the contest, 4-4, and the Reds went on to win.

A's Shave Cleveland's Lead

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lou Brislie survived a 2-run Washington rally in the eighth inning last night to move the Philadelphia Athletics within 10 percentage points of first place with a 5-3 victory over the Senators.

The game was called at the end of eight innings to permit Washington to catch a train.

U. S. Olympic Squads Need $90,000 for Trip: Brundage

By TED SMITS
CHICAGO (AP)—Avery Brundage yesterday notified the committees controlling the American Olympic team that it will be "necessary to curtail the squads unless funds are subscribed before the ship sails for London July 14."

The threat that the American team may be reduced was contained in telegrams dispatched by Brundage, president of the United States Olympic committee.

Owen V. Van Camp, Olympic treasurer, revealed that out of a budget of $500,000, only $330,000 is in hand. Another $80,000 is pledged, leaving a deficit of $90,000.

It had been planned to take 385 athletes to England for the games starting July 29. A deficit of $90,000 could result in 70 being left home.

Brundage said he had sent a special appeal to 5,000 individuals asking for help.

"I am profoundly discouraged," he said, "by various campaigns to raise funds to send private individuals to London who have hitched themselves onto the Olympic parade. The contributions are needed first of all for the team."

The Olympic sports are ranked in this declining order if it is necessary to make any reductions: men's track and field, men's and women's swimming, boxing, basketball, wrestling, rowing, equestrian, women's track and field, gymnastics, men's and women's fencing, soccer, weight lifting, rifle shooting, pistol shooting, water polo, modern pentathlon, cycling, yachting and canoeing, and field hockey.

However, if for instance any particular sport raises half its budget it will be able to take half of its team regardless of its place on the list," said Brundage.

Brundage said he understood the following sports had not yet raised their full budgets: fencing, canoeing, field hockey, gymnastics, weight lifting, yachting, cycling, soccer, rowing, and women's track and field.

Van Camp reported that basketball, track and field, boxing, and swimming had been the heaviest contributors to the Olympic fund.

Lampe Cites Religion Case

Tells Objections to Supreme Court Ruling on Religion in Schools

Prof. M. Willard Lampe, head of the university school of religion, spoke yesterday at the Kiwanis club luncheon on "Champaign (McCullum) Case and Our American Heritage."

Lampe reviewed the United States supreme court decision in the case of Mrs. McCollum protesting the release-time plan for religious education in the Champaign, Ill., public schools.

The case was defeated by the district and supreme court, the previous decisions were overruled, and the court prohibited the Illinois schools from teaching religion.

The issue of the case, according to Lampe, was the meaning of the phrase "separation of church and state." This wording does not appear in the first amendment of the constitution on religious freedom, Lampe said, but was a phrase used by Thomas Jefferson. Jefferson meant there was to be no church founded by the state, Lampe said.

The objections found in the Champaign system which led to the supreme court decision were put into four categories by Lampe.

1. The pupils brought together by the state laws for compulsory education, were being subjected to religious education in the state facilities, thereby combining church and state.

2. The public schools were maintaining a program of unity bringing together all pupils for education, while the religious program was dividing the pupils up according to their church affiliations. This case maintained that this was against the ideas of public education.

3. In the propaganda put out by the religious teachings, the pupils were being indoctrinated to accept a religious faith and creed.

4. The feeling that it is impossible to teach religion in an educational way.

"They felt that there is not an objective way to teach religion," Lampe said. "Mrs. McCollum wanted everything that suggested God ruled out of the Champaign schools."

"The supreme court decision is not final," he said, "but is only bait for differing views. Under pressure of public opinion, it will be revised."

"We can take pride in America," Lampe said, "that one woman feeling grieved because her boy was embarrassed in school could take the case and arouse enough sentiment to carry it to the supreme court and get a favorable decision. There are not many countries where you can do that."

Keep Cool With A New Hair-Do

"HOW CAN I WEAR MY HAIR THIS SUMMER?" . . . this is the question in the minds of the fair sex from four to forty, once the hot, sticky summer weather hits their vicinity. One of the newest summer styles is a take-off on the wintertime "bustle back." However, in the summer hairdress, the bangs are worn back and the hair is pulled completely off the neckline. For dressy occasions, flowers may be pinned at the back of the head where the hair is caught up.

ANOTHER STYLE, POPULAR SUMMER OR WINTER, is the "Maria." Women blessed with naturally curly hair will have better luck with this petite coiffure. The hair must be cut to one and one-half or two inch length, and forms a cap of fluffy ringlets all over the head. This is a practical hairdress if you plan to do a lot of swimming this summer.

Drink Water!

Perspiration Needs Compensation

During the summer heat, parents are inclined to forget that small children and babies need an adequate water supply just as much as adults do, Dr. Milford E. Barnes, head of hygiene and preventive medicine, college of medicine, said yesterday.

"It is imperative that everyone drink enough water during the warm weather," he stressed. What is considered to be an adequate water supply by most individuals falls below the amount the body needs to compensate for the loss of perspiration, Barnes said. In such activities as mowing lawns, he pointed out, the water lost is very high.

"A person perspiring profusely in the heat should be sure he is replacing the salt supply he is losing. Neglecting such a factor might possibly lead to heat cramps under certain circumstances," he explained.

If it is possible to limit one's activities in the extremely hot weather, Barnes said, the average person should be able to withstand the heat with reasonable success.

Iowa Union Cools Hot Students

MIKE BURGE, 11, took his shoes off. But then Mike was only two years old. He visited the Iowa Union yesterday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Joseph Burke, 118 Riverside Park to escape temperatures of near 100 degrees.

Frank Burge, assistant director of the Union, estimated more than 700 students took advantage of temperatures at least 30 degrees cooler than outside. They filled all seats in the main lounge and in the river room.

"I told you it would be like this," said Burge. "We had to move chairs out of the dining rooms to handle the crowds."

"By the time afternoon classes get out, people will be sitting on newspapers on the floor," predicted Earl E. Harper, the Union's manager.

The waiting line to the soda fountain stretched for yards into the main lounge.

But Mike probably had more fun than anybody as he toddled barefooted and gurgling happily across the rugs in the union lounge.

Last Rites Set for Mrs. Lucy Reynolds

Funeral services for Mrs. Lucy Jane Reynolds, 86, will be held at 2 p.m. today at the Oathout Funeral chapel. Dr. L. L. Dunnington will officiate.

Mrs. Reynolds died at 5 a.m. July 5, in Marshalltown.

Born Dec. 31, 1861, in Wisconsin, she was married to I. P. Reynolds on Jan. 11, 1883, in Iowa City. After the marriage, the couple established their home on a farm near Iowa City.

Mrs. Reynolds' husband, a Civil war veteran, died Feb. 11, 1932.

She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Maude Rogers, Mrs. Annie Ekbring, and Mrs. Addie Kleinschmidt, all of Iowa City.

Also surviving are six sons, Samuel, Oxford; Amos, Coralville; Benjamin, Grinnell; John and Ralph, Springfield; Charles, Iowa City, 28 grand children and 40 great grand children.

Burial will be in Tiffin cemetery.

Charlotte West Engaged

MR. AND MRS. P. G. WEST, BACON'S CASTLE, VA., announce the engagement of their daughter, Charlotte Virginia to William Ray Yates, son of Mrs. Pansy C. Yates, Columbia, Mo. Miss West received her bachelor of arts degree at Farmville State Teachers college, Farmville, Va. in 1942 where she was a member of Kappa Delta Pi, national honorary society and Theta Sigma Upsilon, education sorority. Mr. Yates was graduated from the University of Iowa college of law in 1947. He is now employed as a special agent with the Federal Bureau of Investigation in New York City. No definite date has been set for the wedding.

Services Tomorrow For Mrs. C. Zager

Funeral services for Mrs. Carrie Zager, 80, will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Oathout Funeral chapel. Dr. L. L. Dunnington will officiate.

Mrs. Zager died at 5:15 p.m. Monday, at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Connelly, near Tipton.

Born May 6, 1868, at Akron, Ohio, Mrs. Zager came to Johnson county when she was a small child.

She married Frederick Lewis Zager on Feb. 5, 1885. After the marriage, the couple settled on a farm in Sharon township.

In 1912, they moved to Iowa City.

Mrs. Zager's husband died in 1931. Since then, she has lived with her daughter, Mrs. Clifford Connelly, near Tipton.

A member of the Hummer Methodist church and the Carnation Rebekah lodge No. 376 of Iowa City, Mrs. Zager is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Meade Parrott, Afton; Mrs. Neva Johnson, Oxford; Mrs. Wanda Connelly, Tipton, and Mrs. Stella Thomas, Pharr, Texas.

Also surviving are two sons, William, Ainsworth, and Jesse, Ellsworth.

Burial will be in Hummer cemetery.

Iowa Women Voters To Attend Institute

International affairs chairmen of 15 chapters of the Iowa League of Women Voters will attend an institute at SUI Thursday.

The one-day institute will be held to discuss ways and means of implementing the recently adopted national program, Mrs. R. W. Iverson, of the Iowa City League, announced yesterday.

The noon speaker will be Prof. Hew Roberts of the SUI department of education. Roberts heads the United Nations correspondence center, an official information center on U. N. at SUI. He will talk on "Informing the Public on U. N."

Discussions of techniques for furthering the national program locally will take place at the afternoon session. At 1:15 p. m. there will be a review of available material on UN. A group discussion on how to set up summer workshops on UN is scheduled for 1:45 p.m.

Prof. Elizabeth Halsey, professor and head of women's physical education and former Iowa City League president, will lead the discussion.

Mrs. Elmer DeGowin, former president of the League of Women Voters in Iowa will be the final afternoon speaker. At 3 p.m. she will discuss "How to Inform League Membership on UN."

Door Ajar; Air Enters; Thief Too; Cash Goes

Hot weather and a thief conspired to do Carl Berger, A4, out of four dollars Sunday morning. Berger reported he left his door in the Quadrangle ajar Saturday night because of the heat and awoke the next morning to find his trousers pilfered and his billfold gone.

Later that morning, Berger said, he found the empty wallet lying down the hall.

"At least the thief had the good sense to return the billfold," Berger remarked.

On The Finnish Line

Finland, dwarfed under the paw of the Russian bear, has handed its Communists another defeat in last weekend's elections.

This marks another European crossroad where the Russian steamroller has been forced to a clanging stop. Russia cannot be too happy about the election results.

On June 3, Moscow cancelled one half of the $1.5-million in war reparations due from Finland over the next three years and granted the Finns a $4-million loan.

Not popular in Finland, the Russians expected at least to hold the 51 seats in Finland's one-chamber Riksdag. They held one fourth of the Riksdag seats up until last week's election.

But Finnish voters whittled the Communists margin from 51 to 41 and gave a decisive victory to the Agrarian Center party. Although the Communists are expected to be included in the three-party coalition government to be formed, they are decidedly weaker.

Defiant Finland knows that she can be pounced on by the Russian bear at any moment. Russian pressures kept Finland from joining the Marshall plan, and Russia's stand kept Finland out of the United Nations.

When the Finns ousted the Communist secretary of the interior, Leino, last May, the Communists retaliated with a crippling general strike. The Finns were forced to put another Communist into Leino's post and to give Leino's wife—a powerful Communist agent—a cabinet portfolio.

Just as the people of France and Italy have recently demonstrated, there are plenty of friends to help them stand up and speak back to the Communists.

In recent months, the United States has dusted off some new tactics for countering Russian pressure. U.S. handling of the Italian election was a masterpiece of cold war strategy.

The Allies have given themselves reassurance at the Brussels conference that set up the Western Union. Following through, the United States has turned on the spigot of Marshall plan aid, has taken steps to establish military and diplomatic contacts with the Western Union and has decided to end the state of indecision in western Germany.

Seeing the possibility of greener pastures on the other side of the iron curtain, Tito's Yugoslavia has been wooing the west. The resulting uproar in Russia's satellite sphere has been a serious blow to the Russian guise of pan-Slavic harmony.

All of Scandinavia has been feeling more at ease as Russia is being shoved around in other parts of Europe. Sweden, Denmark and Norway have recently affirmed their neutrality in the ideological struggle now going on. These three nations are already participating in the Marshall plan and may, in the future, join the Western Union.

With the atmosphere right, the Finns have rebuked Russia in a free election. They have showed that the relentless Russian pressure for domination has slowly eased off.

The major precaution at the moment is to watch Moscow's attempts to open a cold war "second front" in the far east.

No Future in a New Job

With a fairly flat "no" from Eisenhower and the blind shrieking from the Eisenhower-for-president proponents, the whole Democratic political picture begins to look like bobby-soxers and the crooner. The more the crooner shook his head, the more the bobby soxers screamed.

It must seem inconceivable to Eisenhower's backers that the general figures he "ain't never had it so good." Here he is, president of a great university, still basking in the glow of his war exploits. And some people want to shake him loose—dip him into the political hogwash.

The south seems to think Eisenhower would soft-pedal the civil rights issues that made Truman so unpopular in Dixie. That would gain the nation nothing. But as long as Eisenhower doesn't decide to run, we'll never know where he stands on many issues... and he can retain the aura he has gathered around his life.

Under Observation Many Eyes Focus on Social Security Plan

Britain Inaugurates Socialized Medicine

(By Daily Iowan Research Staff)
American proponents and opponents of socialized medicine will be watching closely the success of the "cradle to grave" social security plan which went into effect in Great Britain Monday.

British doctors, led by the British Medical Association, have long opposed the plan. But after a long string of concessions on the part of the government and the doctors, about a half of the doctors indicated their willingness to participate.

Any British physician remains at liberty to stay out entirely; to be a full-time participant, or to give part of his time to the new service while continuing his private practice.

The costs of the new program will be supported directly and indirectly by taxation. Each Briton is entitled to doctor's care without doctor's bills; hospitalization with surgery and specialist care; drugs, eyeglasses, hearing aids, artificial limbs; dental treatment; unemployment and sick benefits for workmen; maternity allowances; old-age pensions and death grants to cover funeral expenses.

Larger than any scale ever contemplated for the United States, the British plan will cost an estimated $300-million a year.

Barriers to the program include the reluctance of doctors and dentists to participate, the lack of hospital facilities and the reluctance of employers who must pay increased scales to float the program.

As far as the socialized medicine provisions of the new plan, it will eventually operate like this:

For the patient, a free choice of doctors is available and there is no limit to the number of calls he is entitled to. He will be admitted to hospitals without charge and is entitled to receive all professional services. Also provided free are consultations with specialists, home nursing and midwifery and child care.

For the doctor, a basic $1,200 basic annual salary plus a per capita fee for each person assigned to his "panel," whether or not the latter actually receives treatment during the year.

Doctors are promised a normal salary range from $4,200 to $1,300

McBride's Hall — Love Life of Stanford Algae

By BILL MCBRIDE

Out at the Stanford research laboratory, a scientist by the name of Prof. Gilbert Smith recently discovered that his experimental family of one-celled creatures disregard each other in total darkness.

If he is so certain of the moral conduct of his Algae in the dark, it seems to me that he has been doing a lot of undue prying into the private life of an Alga.

In the interest of science, I suppose Smith has a more or less valid excuse for his actions, but his conclusions aren't quite what I had expected. The Algae may think he has something.

Smith says he usually keeps the males and the females separate, but to make tests, he lets them get together occasionally. This brings up the question of how does he discern the sex of a one-celled animal? I suppose an Alga would know, but I doubt if he, or she, would tell.

According to the authority, his Algae pair off and start wooing when placed in the light. This, he says, is very strange. It's perfectly simple to me. Separate males and females of any number of cells and keep them in the dark for a long period. They get so lonesome that they just disregard conventions when they do get together.

If Smith would get out of his lab long enough to visit the nearest railroad station, it would straighten him out on a lot of these hazy ideas.

When under the microscope, the Algae just swim around aimlessly, Smith says. Is that such a phenomenon? He probably hasn't provided any other recreation for them.

If they had a chance to learn honeymoon bridge or how to tool leather or even how to improve their backstroke, they wouldn't feel so restless.

Since the Algae do a lot of swimming, it would be a sound business venture on the part of Smith to start an Algae Aquacade and go on the road. A fellow named Rose, who didn't know a thing about biochemistry, did alright with an idea like that at the N.Y. world fair. Of course Rose had more cells to work with.

Patrick McPartland dropped in to give me a sure-fire recipe for relieving hiccups.

He found the cure in the New Yorker, which seems to consider spasms of the respiratory organs in its readers important enough to give space to helpful hints to hiccuppers. I guess that's a good policy because it is a known fact that readability suffers tremendously when a reader is subject to utterances due to sudden contraction of the diaphragm accompanied with closure of the glottis.

I had a friend in Spokane who had his Glottis closed once. However, that was a different situation entirely. He owned a tavern called the Brown Glottis and lost his license for serving to minors.

To get back to Pat's cure, he says to ask the victim what his uncle's middle name is. Pat tried it on the illustrious Bob Schmidt the other afternoon (Bob had a case of perfectly legitimate non-alcoholic hiccups), and claims it worked like a charm.

ID RATHER BE RIGHT Magic at a Convention

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

It looks as if Mr. Truman will gain; the Democratic nomination the way Mr. Dewey obtained the Republican nomination, on points, and because the opposition is not unified or organized. Maybe I'm wrong, and maybe the great name of Eisenhower, or some other, will sweep the convention, but it's a pretty safe bet that at the end Mr. Truman will be nominated. The little groups of protesters will be left scattered on the street corners of Philadelphia, looking about wildly for the disappearing Douglas, the way similar groups at the Republican meeting peered through the dark for the vanishing Vandenberg.

This business of hoping that some one magic name can come along and sweep a major convention off its feet seems to be growing, myself, and not very practical. It was probably started by the successful Wilkie uprising of 1940, but that was different. The Republicans did not expect to win in that year, and they weren't being swept off their feet, they were taking a gamble.

Besides, Wilkie was an active candidate; he was all over the place at Philadelphia, holding public meetings and making speeches; he was not a name sitting in a remote study somewhere, with a "Do Not Disturb" sign on his door.

And anyway, Wilkie reached his peak of liberal development after his nomination and defeat. By the time he had matured to the kind of character he ultimately became, the Republicans had little use for him; he hardly got a mention in '44. To expect any name to sweep a convention without organization, is to be hopeful indeed, and to expect a conspicuously liberal name to do so borders on fantasy. Even Roosevelt, though certainly liberal in '32, was by no means as much so as he later became; he had important conservative support in that year, and one of his chief pledges was a promise to cut the cost of government by twenty-five percent.

This has been the year of the Great Fantasy, the feeling on the part of liberals, especially the amateurs, that the chief political job of the moment is to find some magic name, and tie on to it. The talk of Eisenhower all winter and spring, and now of Douglas, has almost assumed the proportions of a new political movement; it might be called Name-ism. And the Name-ists go to the conventions, and wave their banners in their damp little hands, but when they wake up on the final morning, it turns out to be Dewey.

If the Name-ists really want to do anything for Douglas at the Democratic convention, they had better stop dreaming about sweeping through to victory on the basis of shouts from the gallery. They might, instead, summon as large a conference as they could manage next week of labor leaders, influential women, enlightened farm representatives, prominent persons, etc., to proclaim the Douglas candidacy in a formal way.

Then they might go out and work among the delegates, cajoling them, harassing them, painting repulsive pictures of what the future might be if they don't do right, and in general working to dissolve the bonds of loyalty and interest which hold them. It is very late, however, and it may even be that Douglas is not a candidate. But if he isn't, then Name-ism has piled fantasy, for a new record.

It would be exciting to see the Douglas move succeed. But if Name-ism does flop, it would be better for it to flop very badly, so that at least we will have learned, for future use, that this isn't the way, that you don't get far in politics by looking around wildly for a papa; and maybe later on there will be the movement first, and then the name.

Johnson To Lead Discussion at USC

Prof. Wendell A. Johnson, director of the SUI speech clinic, will act as panel discussion chairman at a University of Southern California meeting of the Southern California Psychological Association Friday.

Johnson, who is teaching two graduate courses in speech pathology at USC in Los Angeles this summer will lead a discussion on "Speech Pathology in Special Education and in Clinical Practice." Six authorities on speech correction from leading American universities and colleges will participate in the panel discussion.

Johnson began his summer session teaching duties at USC June 20 and will conclude his work there late in July. During August he plans to vacation in the west and take a motor trip through the northwest before returning in September to SUI for the fall semester.

City Engineer Issues Six Building Permits

Six building permits were issued recently by the city engineer, including one for a $10,000 residence to be built on Melrose Court by R. A. June. June listed himself as contractor.

The Rev. C. S. William, 732 Jefferson street, and Mary Hornung, 420 N. Dodge street, were issued permits to enclose their porches at costs of $500 and $200, respectively.

Mrs. Esther Clark, 730 E. Jefferson street, was issued a permit to make an addition to her residence and enclose the porch at a cost of $1,000. Boyd and Rummelhart are the contractors for the work.

Other permits issued were to Robert M. Adams, 3 Triangle place, to build a $200 porch and to A. G. Schreiber, 950 E. Davenport, for a $500 garage.

Police Hunt Missing Iowa City Girl, 13

Iowa City police last night were looking for Dona Sue Bane, 13, daughter of Feryl Bane, 822 Rider street.

She was reported missing at noon yesterday. When last seen she was on the gravel road between Solon and Ely and believed headed for Cedar Rapids.

She was riding a Schwinn bicycle. One man told police he saw a girl of her description pushing a bike, and resting at times in the shade. He said she looked as though she was suffering from the heat.

Falls from Car; Two Cars Collide

Minor injuries and an auto collision resulted when Mrs. John Yordi, 62, 410 Melrose court, fell from a car at the intersection of Iowa and Dubuque streets yesterday at 3:15 p.m.

Mrs. Yordi was taken to Mercy hospital by Dr. Stuart Cullen. Her condition at the hospital was described as not serious.

John Yordi, Mrs. Yordi's husband and driver of the car, was going east on Iowa avenue when the door flew open. He swerved the car suddenly attempting to prevent the fall. When he did so, his car was hit by a car going north on Dubuque street driven by Larry Swails, 615, S. Clinton street.

Educational Movies To Be Featured by Extension Division

The third series of educational films presented by the bureau of visual instruction will be shown today and tomorrow, Dean Bruce E. Mahan of the extension division announced yesterday.

All persons interested in educational films may attend, Mahan said. The films will be shown in the audio-visual laboratory, E205 East hall, at 4:15 p.m. Each day's program will last one hour.

The films to be shown are selected and presented by the summer session members of the audio-visual class under the direction of B. H. Van Roekel, visiting lecturer in the college of education. Films shown today are: "The Red-winged Blackbird," "The Ruby-throated Hummingbird," "Birds of Prey," "Birds of Winter," and "The Blooming Desert."

Tomorrow: "Foods and Nutrition," "How the Ear Functions," "Leaves," "Growth of Flowers" and "Butterflies."

Ruess Files $250 Suit Against Express Agency

Albert Ruess of Muscatine county yesterday asked the Johnson county district court to award him $250 for a hog he said died when it was shipped by the Railway Express agency.

The agency is the defendant in a suit filed by Ruess. The plaintiff said the defendant was to ship the hog from Canby, Minn., to West Liberty, last October. He said the hog was found dead in Omaha because of negligence in caring and handling.

Attorneys D. C. Nolan of Iowa City and Harold O. Keele of West Liberty are representing Ruess.

Light Bulb Burns Out; Only Holiday Fatality

The light above the traffic signal at Dubuque and Washington streets was not burning yesterday.

Police said, however, that there had been no traffic deaths in Iowa City. The bulb had only burned out and will be replaced.

It has been 315 days since Iowa City has had a traffic fatality.

Holiday Toll: Four Wrecks, One Injured

Holiday traffic accidents in Iowa City resulted in four collisions, injuring a woman and damaging nine cars.

The injured woman was Evonne Marie Carier, according to police. She received a minor scalp wound in a three-car collision on N. Riverside drive about 10 p. m. Monday.

The cars involved were driven by Logan A. Myers, North Liberty; Roy O'Leary, 525 S. Linn street, and Mrs. Louis Irwin, 37 Highland drive.

In connection with the accident, O'Leary has been charged with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated. He was arraigned yesterday in police court and waived preliminary hearing to the grand jury. He was jailed pending payment of a $2,000 bond.

Damages to the Myers car were reported as about $150. The damages to the other cars had not been estimated yesterday.

In the second accident, cars driven by John Hays, 200 Koser street, and Albert Barnes, Oxford, collided at the intersection of Woolf avenue and Bayard street about 10:30 p. m. Monday.

Damage to the Hays car was $150 while no estimate was reported for the Barnes car.

At the corner of Dubuque and Church streets at 11:30 p. m. Monday, the third collision occurred. The cars were driven by Dale Herdliska, route 2, and Carl K. Colony, Oxford.

Damage to the Herdliska vehicle was listed at $150, and $350 to the Colony car.

A fourth holiday accident occurred Sunday afternoon at the intersection of Market and Dodge streets. Cars involved were driven by William C. Arn, West Branch, and Donald D. Carroll, 430 E. Bloomington street.

According to reports, the cars slid together on wet pavement. Damage to the Arn truck was $85, and to the Carroll car, $200.

Over 250 Needed To Detassel Corn

Over 250 workers are needed to detassel 930 acres of corn in Johnson and surrounding counties, Mrs. Nellie C. Verdin, acting manager of the Iowa State employment office, said yesterday.

Registration for the work begins at the community building today.

Donald Lininger, manager of the Pioneer hybrid corn company said the work will last for two or three weeks.

Corn is detasseled to produce a hybrid seed corn, according to Emmett C. Gardner, county extension director.

The tassel bears the pollen which contains the male cells of the plant. The ear shoot of the stalk bears the female cells.

Gardner explained that pollen fertilizes the ear shoot of the stalk through the corn silk. Each strand of silk leads to a single female cell which develops into a grain of corn after fertilization.

The tassel of the stalk is pulled off to allow cross breeding with another variety of corn.

The process begins with the planting of select seeds of a fixed strain of corn in intervals in the field.

By detasseling the rows of one variety, which then become known as the female rows, the pollen of another variety, the male rows, is mated or crossbred. The result is a hybrid seed corn.

Stock Judging Tour

The Blue Ribbon Winners 4-H club will conduct a live-stock judging tour of the farms of 11 members July 13, Emmett C. Gardner, county extension director, said yesterday.

A pot luck picnic dinner will be held at City park at noon. Following the dinner, the 4-H members will play against their fathers in a softball game.

War Hero Comes Home for Final Rest; Myers To Be Buried in North Liberty

In December, 1942, the war, for the U. S., was young. For the Eighth airforce in England, it was younger still.

That was when people heard of ten of a marvelous bomb-sight that could drop a bomb in a pickle-barrel from 20,000 feet. That was before fighter escorts protected bombers into the heart of Europe. B-17's were still olive-drab—and by the standards of later pilots, primitive.

Major Edward Myers was already a veteran. Once he had led his squadron on a mission in which his six Fortresses destroyed five Folke-Wulfs. He had received the air medal and the Purple Heart.

Early in the morning of December 30, 1942, the CQ at the English bomber base awoke Myers, his crew, and 17 other crews of the group, for a pre-dawn briefing.

Later, the nine men of his crew in their places, Myers lined up the nose of his fortress with the runway, shoved the throttles full forward, and lifted his plane above the English countryside.

Myers, like other men in other ships, had thought of the big New Year's eve party the base would pitch the next night. Like the other men in other ships, he had calculated the remaining missions before he could return home.

But on that mission to France, which the Eighth always called "the milk run," Myers was struck by a flak fragment and died from the wounds. That was five and a half years ago.

Soon Edward Myers will return to Iowa City where he attended high school, and where he received a chemical engineering degree in 1938 from SUI. He is among the American war dead of World War II who will be returned to this country from temporary military cemeteries in Europe.

From Brookwood cemetery in Surrey, England, Myers will come to his permanent rest in the Ridgewood cemetery in North Liberty. He was born in North Liberty on September 7, 1916.

Surviving him are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Myers, Campus hotel; two brothers, Richard E. Iowa City, and Clifford O., Portland, Ore., and his wife and son in Florida.

Magazine Praises Wendell Johnson, SUI Speech Head

A tribute to Prof. Wendell Johnson, director of the SUI speech clinic, will appear in next Sunday's issue of Parade, weekly picture magazine.

The article tells of Johnson's work with stutterers and how he became interested in speech defect therapy.

In 1939, according to the Parade story, Johnson discovered he had twelve stutterers in one of his classes. A stutterer himself, Johnson joined with them in forming the Demosthenes club, named for the Greek orator who cured himself of a stammer by filling his mouth with pebbles and shouting at the sea.

Johnson and his clubmembers decided to "bring the stutterer out of his tower and into the world of free association," according to the article. The purpose of the Demosthenes club was not to rid its members of their speech afflictions, for this can't always be done, continues the story.

"There is no reason," said Dr. Johnson, why a man who stutters should have to retire to the back room of life. We are trying to find some way to help him compensate for his handicap."

Other chapters of the Demosthenes club were formed on other campuses, says the article.

According to the article, Johnson, when he was 12, was faced with a lifetime of stuttering. But he fought it himself, and at college, he earned his Ph.D. in clinical psychology and speech pathology. By the time he was 22, says the story, Johnson had all but conquered his stutter.

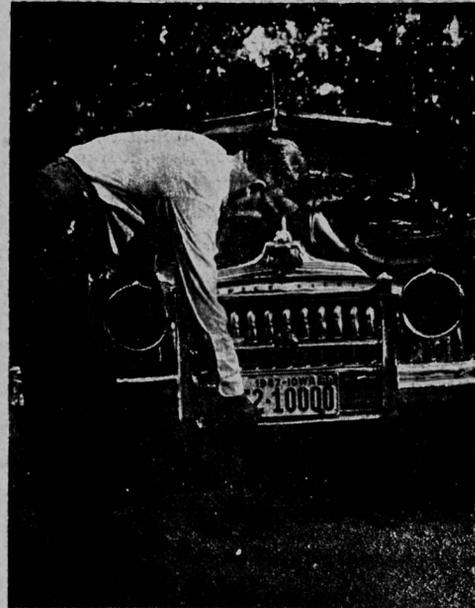

Parade says Johnson is "one of the nation's top authorities on speech imperfections." He is editor of the Journal of Speech and Hearing Disorders, member of the American Speech and hearing Association's executive council, author of several books and director of the speech correction foundation. The foundation was established in 1946 to raise funds for research essential to the advancement of speech correction.

To Open Bids for Hospital Addition

Bids for the one floor addition to Children's hospital will be opened at 2 p. m. today in Old Capitol, George L. Horner, university architect, announced yesterday.

Horner also announced the university is ready to receive bids on the botany lab project.

The main floor of the lab will have to be severed from its base, Horner said, and moved to its new location in the southwest corner of the university parking lot. A new foundation will have to be laid and the main building set in place, he added.

The bids would include dismantling and reassembling the tree house and green house.

Bids for the project will be opened at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday, July 21, in Horner's office.

Pie Social Postponed

The Blue Ribbon Winners 4-H club's benefit pie social that was scheduled to be held tonight at the West Branch community hall, has been postponed until Thursday, July 15, at 8 p. m.

Demo Platform Troubled by Taft-Hartley Repeal Problem

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Democrat platform writers faced this headache as they arrived here yesterday. Whether to pledge repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law.

The labor plank of the 1948 platform, though not so explosive a subject as the civil rights plank, will stir up some arguments in the party's resolutions committee which starts hearings today.

The CIO, represented by secretary James Carey, and the AFL, represented by President William Green, will ask the committee—later in the week—to go on record for the wiping out of the labor law.

Democrats who want to pledge repeal say:

That President Truman vetoed the Taft-Hartley bill and strongly condemned it a year ago. That it became law only after the Republican dominated congress overrode his veto.

That the law bears the names of two Republicans and has become known as a Republican measure. A Democrat pledge to repeal it would not only please labor leaders but it would fit in with Mr. Truman's campaign strategy of blasting the record of the 80th Congress.

On the other hand—many other Democrats say there would be political disadvantages in pledging repeal.

The Democrats, who are at their strongest in the big cities and among industrial workers, want to capture as large a proportion of the farm, rural, and small city vote as possible. May be a pledge of repeal would displease some non-labor groups.

Also, more Democrats voted for the Taft-Hartley bill than against it. That fact doesn't fit in with a pledge of repeal.

Golf Clubs Stolen From Parked Car

A $200 set of golf clubs was reported missing yesterday by its owner, Myron Petnakis, 23, of Reich's cafe.

Petnakis said the clubs, a new light-brown bag, and leather club covers were stolen between 5 and 6 p. m. from his Dodge, parked at Clinton street and Iowa avenue.

The set included eight irons and four woods. Petnakis also said 12 golf balls were stolen.

He said the set was a Ben Hogan brand, manufactured by the McGregor company. The clubs were registered, he said.

Petnakis has offered a $10 reward for return of the clubs, according to police.
