READING, ENGLAND (AP) — Mrs. Florence Hayes admitted in court yesterday she threw a bucket of cold water on two lovers who occupied her front doorstep. She explained: "She keeps on giggling. It's giggle, giggle, giggle all the time. My nerves won't take it." The court didn't fine her.

Trout in Topper is Illegal

MILLINOCKET, MAINE (AP)—Fishermen in this region will be asked to tip their hats to the game wardens from now on, a warden supervisor said yesterday.

It is not that the wardens seek homage, said Winfield S. Foster. They have found the head covering serving as a place of concealment for fish below legal length.

"Warden Alexander Cummings and I watched a man put 15 four-inch trout in his hat and come ashore without a fish in sight," Foster said. "He paid."

Court Declares State, SUI Win Disputed Campus Area

In what Judge James P. Gaffney termed a "unique case" of the "public vs. the public," Celia Carson and the Iowa Citizens on whose behalf she was suing the state yesterday were denied any right to the area west of East hall.

Dan Dutcher, attorney for Mrs. Carson, said last night he had not conferred with her to decide if the case will be appealed.

Gaffney announced the ruling in a letter from Marengo yesterday morning. He had taken the case under advisement after trial in the Johnson county courthouse earlier this spring.

Mrs. Carson claimed the land still belonged to Iowa City. She said the city council, which ceded the land to the university in 1890, had no right to do so.

In his decision, Gaffney agreed, and added that the state legislature was acting unconstitutionally in accepting the land.

"Yet," he said, "where there has been such a non-user for a period of years, accompanied by actual and notorious possession of land under a claim of right, an abandonment will be presumed and the public right in the land will be extinguished."

Gaffney said that if the people had followed the advice of Father Emmons of St. Mary's church, who urged the populace to challenge the land transfer in 1890, the present suit would never have arisen.

The "uniqueness" referred to by the judge is the fact that the plaintiff pays taxes to support the defendant.

Here is the brief history Judge Gaffney said he found concerning the case:

By an 1839 act of congress the tract of land was given to Iowa and designated to be a "park."

In 1864 the state legislature authorized the city to acquire tracts and dispose of them when they were deemed "unsuitable" or "insufficient" for original use (in this case, a "park").

In 1890, the city did "dispose" of the tract in question by giving it to the university. The judge said the mayor and city probably acted in good faith, but actually presented no evidence that the tract was "unsuitable" or "insufficient" for its original purpose.

In accepting the tract, Judge Gaffney said, the legislature violated the Iowa constitution by (1) passing a special law for vacating town plats, and (2) abridging the rights of the public vested by congress in granting the land and in the public's accepting the land.

In 1891 the electrical engineering building (then the chemistry building) and East hall (then a hospital) were built on the lot located between Jefferson street and Iowa avenue east of N. Dubuque street.

In the past 58 years $266,000 in improvements have been made.

"Viewing the last event, Gaffney asked: 'May (the defendant) and those she represents, now in the absence of a plea of fraud, question the many improvements of this park?'"

"She and those she represents have for some 58 years been perfecting the results now obtained. This fact substantially sustains the doctrine of equitable estoppel (prevention of possession of property)."

"The equities in this case preponderate in favor of the defendant."

Gaffney said the $266,000 in improvements would total over a half million dollars today. He decided "the future and welfare of the university have been designated; that were the plaintiff to succeed in her action individually or in behalf of the public it would cause a great pecuniary loss, irreparable damage, and would seriously interfere and impede the progress of a great university."

However, he said, "to deny plaintiff relief sought is to deny public pleasure, amusement, health and haven of rest the park was intended to provide."

The public should have acted sooner, much sooner, he indicated in his decision.

Miners Remain Idle

The captive diggers said they wouldn't work without a contract.

Arabs Declare Palestine War To Continue

CAIRO (AP) — An Arab league spokesman said last night the Palestine war between Jews and Arabs will be resumed tomorrow.

Israel was reported to have accepted Count Folke Bernadotte's proposal to extend the Palestine truce beyond tomorrow's deadline. The Arab league spokesman said, however, there would be no extension of the four-week truce.

Asked if his statement meant that warfare would start again, the Arab replied, "I mean nothing else."

As the Arab made this statement in Cairo, the United Nations security council voted 8 to 0 at Lake Success, N. Y., to appeal to both Arabs and Jews to extend the truce.

Bernadotte, the United Nations mediator, has not received an official reply on the truce extension from either the Jews or Arabs. A well-informed source in Tel Aviv said, however, the Israeli government is willing to continue the truce during further negotiations.

At Lake Success, N. Y., the representative of the Arab higher committee walked out of United Nations security council discussions on Palestine. The Arab representative, Jamal Hussein, objected when the council president Dmitri Z. Manuilsky, foreign minister of the Soviet Ukraine, designated Aubrey S. Eban as representative of Israel and not as representative of the Jewish agency.

Czechs To Probe Benes Supporters

PRAGUE (AP) — The government ordered a probe of the Sokol congress yesterday as Czechs again staged popular demonstrations for Former President Eduard Benes.

The Prague radio said "the question of future participation of foreign delegations in the Slet (the Bohemian name for the Sokol society congress) will be studied" by the Communist-dominated cabinet. Ministers were ordered to report on "the results of the Slet" at the next cabinet meeting.

The decision to probe the cultural and athletic organization followed a passive demonstration against Communist President Klement Gottwald during Tuesday's Sokol parade. The marchers cheered for Benes and for Premier-Marshel Tito of Yugoslavia, now in trouble with the Communist parties of other eastern European nations.

Early yesterday police broke up groups which traveled about the city cheering Benes, singing the national anthem and even paying apparent homage to the late Woodrow Wilson.

Early Convention Arrivals Declare Truman 'In'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Democrats gave their national convention machinery a preliminary spin yesterday and to many of them it looked as if President Truman would turn up with the winning number.

Early arrivals for the party meeting starting next Monday predicted for the most part that Mr. Truman is "in" for the presidential nomination. But the "draft Eisenhower" crowd, here and elsewhere around the country, was giving up grudgingly and in some cases not at all.

Truman supporters went into action to head off any attempt by a gallery mob to stampede the convention to Gen. Dwight D. Eisen-

DROWNING VICTIM OLIVER (BUD) SWAB is lifted from Lake Macbride by an unidentified lifeguard. The 22-year-old SUI commerce junior drowned yesterday evening at the lake. Witnesses said he dived under the surface and failed to come up. The body was recovered by Iowa City firemen.

Temperature Drops To a 'Pleasant' 88

Iowa Citizens were agreeably surprised yesterday to see the mercury sink back to a timid 88 degrees after Tuesday's belligerent 100.

Even the weatherman was surprised. He had predicted a slight drop of two or three degrees. Instead, an easterly wind brought in a "cold wave" from the Great Lakes region. Temperatures in the high 90's are anticipated by the weatherman.

It was speculated that some Johnson county persons may have gone "crazy with the heat" Tuesday. Sheriff Albert J. (Pat) Murphy reported yesterday that two stoves were stolen from two Johnson county township schools.

The M.D. McCreedy Construction company, 1205 Seymour street, yesterday received the general construction contract from the state board of education for the new wing to Children's hospital.

Bids for the construction were opened at 2 p.m. in the house chamber of Old Capitol.

The Iowa City company submitted a bid of $40,375.

The electrical contract was awarded to Wilson Electrical company of Rockford, Ill. The bid was $2,769.

Carstens Brothers company, Ackley, was awarded the contract for the plumbing, heating and ventilating work at $7,086.

Movie Stars Hollywood Comedians To Visit City

Marjorie Main and Percy Kilbride, who played Ma and Pa Kettle in "The Egg and I," will stop in Iowa City Tuesday morning to say hello to movie-fans.

The pair, with Shelley Winters, blonde movie starlet, and lispng comedian Joe Besser, are touring Iowa for the world premiere of their new film "Feudin', Fussin' and A-Fightin'."

The Hollywood team is scheduled to meet crowds in front of the Varsity theater from 9:30 to 10:00 Tuesday morning, according to Ansel J. Chapman, manager of the theater. Miss Main and her party are stopping in Iowa City enroute to Davenport from Cedar Rapids, Chapman said.

The comics appeared several times yesterday between first-day showings of their new comedy at a Des Moines theater. They will be in Cedar Rapids later this week and, after the brief stop-off in Iowa City, will continue on to Davenport for appearances.

"Feudin', Fussin', and A-Fightin'" will open in Iowa City at the Varsity theater next week, Chapman said yesterday.

Russian Interceptors Fly in British Zone

BERLIN (AP) — The British announced last night that five Russian Yak fighter planes were sighted in the British air corridor between Berlin and Hamburg Tuesday.

British military government headquarters said a British European airways pilot spotted the planes.

An announcement said one of the fighters "peeled off and flew within the comparatively close vicinity of the BEA pilot's aircraft."

"The Yak pilot did not fly dangerously near and in the BEA pilot's own words, 'I was not in the least worried,'" the statement added.

It declared "no importance or significance is attached to the report."

This was the first report of a British or American pilot sighting Russian fighters since the air lift to blockaded Berlin got under way. U.S. air force officers said American pilots had been given "routine" briefings to watch for Russian fighters. But none has been reported in the U.S. corridor.

British military government headquarters officially denied that the Russians protested the use of Havel lake, in the western sector, by Sunderland flying boats bringing supplies to the city.

Oliver Swab First Fatality In Lake Macbride this Year

By DON DEEDRICK

Oliver (Bud) Swab, 22, university student from Cedar Rapids, drowned yesterday evening at Lake Macbride. This was the second student death from drowning in a week.

Swab, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Swab, was attending summer school as a junior in the college of commerce. His father is owner of the Swab Motor company in Cedar Rapids.

Search for the body began at 5:30 when Swab failed to appear after signalling his party of four. The body was recovered from 12 feet of water about 150 feet from the beach on the north shore of the lake. The recovery was made at 6:02 p.m. by Bob Ball of Mount Vernon, a Cornell college student.

Charges Railroads Gouged Government On War Shipments

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government official said yesterday the nation's railroads exploited "A grandiose scheme to gouge the government" on the shipment of war materials during world War II.

Thomas F. Proctor, an official of the solicitor's office of the post office department, made the accusation. He testified before a house expenditures subcommittee which is investigating alleged multi-million dollar overpayments by the government to the railroads.

Rep. Bender (R-Ohio), subcommittee chairman, estimated the federal overpayments at between $1 billion and $3 billion.

Proctor brought in the name of Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers, wartime army air forces procurement officer, who has been convicted of subornation of perjury in connection with handling of war contracts.

"As long as Gen. Benny Meyers was running the air forces material command at Patterson field," Proctor said, "the army transportation corps and the air forces traffic people in Washington were relegated to a position of secondary importance in traffic matters."

"This committee could very well direct itself to an investigation into the so-called service contracts which General Meyers negotiated with the oil companies on aviation gasoline during the war."

Another witness, James E. Kilday of the department of justice, testified that he has recommended a criminal investigation of some unnamed army and navy officers who worked out government freight rates with railroads during the war.

"Are you suggesting they were hell-bent to filimflam the government?" Bender asked.

"It was a case of government personnel dealing with a thoroughly organized and cartelized industry," replied Kilday, transportation chief in the justice department's anti-trust division.

William T. Faricy, president of the association of the American railroads, later called Kilday's testimony "irresponsible" and said the railroads are ready to defend their wartime rates in court.

Wallace Quits Job On New Republic

NEW YORK (AP) — New Republic magazine yesterday announced the resignation of Henry A. Wallace as a contributing editor. Wallace said in his final article that "the strenuous three months ahead will require my full energies."

Wallace has been contributing editor of the weekly magazine since he resigned its editorship to seek the presidency on a third party ticket.

applied an inhalator to Swab when he was taken from the water. Acting County Coroner George D. Callahan finished his examination at 6:55 and said Swab was dead. The body was taken to Cedar Rapids by ambulance.

Bob Monatt, an SUI student in Swab's group, said Swab was a good swimmer. He said the group had been at the lake since 4 o'clock when Swab, who had been swimming under water, came up for breath, then dived and failed to reappear.

Five divers began a search when Swab failed to come up. They could not find him in the muddy water. Later, when the Iowa City firemen arrived, the body was located with grappling hooks.

Ball then dived down and found Swab in the mud at the bottom of the lake.

The firemen worked on the body until Cedar Rapids police and hospital attendants from Mercy hospital in Cedar Rapids arrived at 6:45 with a respirator to help.

Four other SUI students were with Swab at Lake Macbride. They were Monatt, Bob Chadima, Natalie Hennessy and Charlotte Chadima. The group was on a diving board about 75 feet from Swab when they saw him come up, laugh, wave and go down the last time.

Two life guards were on duty when the accident occurred. Neither saw the drowning. Ball, one of the life guards, had just rescued a girl in deep water on the other side of the diving board when Swab's friends called him to the search.

Dr. Callahan said he did not know what caused the drowning.

The last drowning in Iowa City was July 1 when Samuel J. Elbert drowned in the university fieldhouse pool. The Swab drowning was the first one in Lake Macbride this year.

Swab is survived by his parents and a sister, Jan, who graduated from SUI.

Announces Additions To Commerce Staff

Two professors have been added to the SUI college of commerce faculty, President Virgil M. Hancher announced yesterday. The appointments will be effective Sept. 1.

C. Frank Smith has been appointed associate professor of statistics, and Robert H. Johnson received a joint appointment to the college of commerce and the Bureau of Business and Economic Research.

Smith received his B.S.C. in commerce in 1942, his M.A. in 1943 and his Ph.D. in 1945, all from SUI.

Since 1945 he has served on the faculties of Bradley university, Louisiana state university, and was assistant professor of statistics at the University of Indiana.

Johnson received his B.A. degree from Maryville college in 1936, his M.A. in 1937 and his Ph.D. degree in 1940 from SUI. He has been a member of the faculties of the University of West Virginia and the University of Arkansas. From 1944 to 1946 he was employed in the treasury department in Washington, D.C.

Johnson will teach in the department of economics and serve as economist in the business and economic bureau.

SIGHT PLANE WRECK

Offer a resolution asking Mr. Truman to step down.

Place Eisenhower's name in nomination.

Here in the convention city, an unofficial Eisenhower headquarters broke out more banners.

In Chicago, Hugh Will, temporary chairman of the William O. Douglas for President clubs, said the campaign for the supreme court justice is marking up "great gains" as a result of Eisenhower's statement that he is not available.

But the politicians gathering here for preliminaries generally were saying that Mr. Truman would get the nomination in a walk if he didn't stub his toe.

intercept any efforts by a howling crowd in the convention galleries to revive the Eisenhower campaign.

Eight years ago, the "we want Willie" cries from the balconies were credited in part with swinging the Republican convention toward the nomination of the late Wendell L. Willkie.

Biffle told a reporter he figures it's Truman on the first ballot at this year's Democratic show. That was the idea, too, of Senator J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island, Democratic national chairman.

McGrath came to town yesterday after seeing Mr. Truman at the White House Tuesday night.

Even some southern Democrats were saying it looked as if Mr. Truman would clinch the nomination, and that the main jobs of the convention would be to build a platform and pick a vice-presidential candidate.

But William Ritchie, Nebraska Democratic chairman, told a reporter he still is getting "a lot of letters and telegrams" from people who haven't given up hope that Eisenhower somehow will be given the nomination the general has said he could not accept.

And in New York, Queens Democratic Leader James A. Roe said that once the convention gets going, he will:

Select Only Six Pitchers To Play For National League All-Stars

Four Third Basemen Named In Effort To Increase Power

NEW YORK (AP) — The National League named only six pitchers to its all-star baseball squad yesterday but picked four slugging third basemen in hopes of overpowering the American league in the annual game at St. Louis next Tuesday.

Customarily eight pitchers are selected, none of whom may hurl more than three innings. The streamlining of the hurling corps enabled the senior circuit to select four third basemen instead of the usual pair. The extra hot corner men are Sid Gordon of the New York Giants and Bob Elliott of the Boston Braves. Gordon has walloped 18 home runs and Elliott 10.

From the usual bunt-minded crew, the National league, still smarting under the sting of 10 beatings in 14 clashes with its rivals, will be a home run hitting aggregation from stem to stern. With the exception of the pitchers, the 25-man squad already boasts 146 home runs.

The six-man pitching staff with the unenviable task of stopping Williams and Co., will consist of righthanders Ralph Branca (10-6), Brooklyn; Johnny Sain (10-6), Boston Braves; Elmer Riddle (9-3), Pittsburgh; Ewell Blackwell (5-5), Cincinnati; and southpaws Harry Brecheen (9-3), St. Louis Cardinals and Johnny Schmitz (7-9) Chicago Cubs.

Leo Durocher, manager of the Dodgers, who will pilot the all-stars, must use the starting lineup designated by the fans for the first three innings. The remainder of the 25-player squad follows closely the fan voting.

Among the regulars will be Eddie Stanky, former Dodger infielder, who was traded to the Braves last spring. The scrappy second baseman has played a whole of a game for his new club and is hitting over .300 for the first time in his big league career.

Here is how the rest of the starting lineup will shape up: First base — Johnny Mize (.278), Giants; third base — Andy Pafko (.337), Cubs; shortstop — Pee Wee Reese (.296) Dodgers; right field — Enos Slaughter (.290) Cardinals; centerfield — Richie Ashburn (.352), Phillies; left field — Stan Musial (.414) Cardinals; catcher — Walker Cooper (.247), Giants.

Besides the aforementioned, other players selected include Catcher Phil Masi, and Right Fielder Tommy Holmes, Braves; First Baseman Ed Waitkus and Catcher Clyde McCullough, Cubs; Centerfielder Bobby Thomson, Giants; Third Baseman Frank Gustine and Left Fielder Ralph Kiner, Pirates; Shortstop Marty Marion and Second Baseman Al Schoendienst, Cardinals.

Durocher will have two assistants on the coaching lines. They are Eddie Dyer, manager of the Cardinals and Mel Ott, Giants skipper. Ted Wilks, Cards' relief ace, and Paul Minner, southpaw rookie of the Dodgers will act as batting practice hurlers. Del Webster, also of the Cards, will be the batting practice catcher.

A's Get Four Hits, Beat Yankees, 4-3; Majeski Stands Out

NEW YORK (AP) — Hank Majeski knocked in three runs with a home run and triple to lead the Philadelphia Athletics to a 4-3 victory over his former New York Yankee teammates last night. Dick Fowler spaced nine hits to register his seventh victory against one loss.

A crowd of 61,163 saw the second place A's make the most of their four hits off Tommy Byrne and Frank Shea to hand the Yankees their fourth straight defeat and remain 10 percentage points behind the pace-setting Cleveland Indians.

Majeski climaxed a three run inning for the A's by belting a home run with one aboard. Eddie Joost had opened with a walk, raced to third on a single by Barney McCosky and scored on a fly by Don White.

Majeski drove in what proved to be the winning run in the fifth with a long triple which chased in White who had walked.

That Pennant Touch? *

NEW INDIAN AND BOSS — LeRoy (Satchel) Paige, the veteran Negro hurler signed by the Cleveland Indians, discusses his new role with Tribe President Bill Veck as he demonstrates his pitching form with a baseball.

Satchel Paige Signs Indians' Contract

CLEVELAND (AP) — The pennant-chasing Cleveland Indians yesterday signed that veteran, Satchel Paige, as a relief pitcher.

The tall, lean hurler who had a fabulous career in the Negro leagues and the exhibition circuit put on a major league uniform for the first time yesterday. But he isn't scared. He summed it all up:

"I'm starting my major league career with one thing in my favor, anyway. I won't be afraid of anybody I see in that batter's box. I've been around too long for that."

That was the famous LeRoy (Satchel) Paige of Negro baseball fame, who has fogged his "hurry up" ball and "bat dodger" past major leaguers in many an exhibition game for years.

Just how long he has "been around," or how many games he has won, isn't very clear. "Born in Mobile," he said, "Sept. 18, 1908." His age has been estimated variously in the 40's and even 50's, but he says he was eligible for the draft all through the second World War.

Bill Veck signed him up in the hope his right-hand relief pitching could bolster the Tribe's drive for a pennant. Veck bought

U.S. Olympic Hopes Jolted As Gil Dodds Suffers Injury

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Olympic financial prospect brightened yesterday but the team outlook was overcast by injury to Gil Dodds.

Dodds, the only United States distance runner with a real chance to score, has a strained Achilles tendon in his left leg. If this should force him out of the 1,500 meter final tryout in Evanston Saturday the Olympic committee would be compelled to leave him off the team.

At Boston, Dodds jogged through a 45-minute workout with his injured leg encased in plaster half-way to the knee and said he would try to run at Evanston.

The Flying Parson also wore a two-inch rubber-cushioned heel on the injured leg, all of which indicated he would be far from his best in the Olympic test.

On the brighter side, Owen Van Camp, Olympic treasurer, reported that $28,000 was received overnight, bringing the total on hand to $358,000 against a budget of $500,000. An additional $80,000 is pledged.

If Dodds fails to respond to treatment in time to compete in the tryouts, or finishes fourth or worse, a situation similar to the 1936 pole vault will arise. Then, George Varoff of the San Francisco Olympic club set a world record of 14 feet 6 1/2 inches in the National A.A.U. championships but could do only 14 feet the next week in the Olympic tryouts and was regrettably left behind when the team sailed for London.

Dodds had been counted on to take fourth place or possibly a little better in the 1,500 at London. In the longer races, no American is given a chance.

An international gesture of good will sent pole vaulters' spirits soaring along with the marks. A consignment of 50 special bamboo poles was received from Japan, forwarded by Shuei Nishida, who was runner-up to Earl Meadows in the vault at Berlin. Richmond (Boo) Morcom and others immediately put them in use, terming them the "greatest thing" they had seen in poles — light and with plenty of spring.

A sticker on each pole wished the American vaulters good luck. Japan was not invited to the London games. Most of the 200 athletes who will compete in Dyche stadium tomorrow and Saturday are here, and took their last hard workouts yesterday afternoon.

NEWHOUSER BEATS BROWNS DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Tiger Hal Newhouser, bidding for a pitcher's berth on the American league all star team, blanked the St. Louis Browns, 6 to 0 last night as he scattered seven hits.

COLUMBUS, OHIO (AP) — Minor league baseball moved yesterday to get America's fundless Olympic qualifiers off New York's docks and into the games at London.

George M. Trautman, President of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, yesterday wired presidents of 58 minor leagues asking their aid in raising funds for the athletes who may be cut from the Olympic squad because of lack of cash.

Trautman asked the league presidents to designate next Sunday as "Olympic Day," to wire him Sunday night the amount of cash raised, and promised to have the money in the hands of Olympic officials by Tuesday.

Avery Brundage, President of the United States Olympic committee, said Tuesday that the present $90,000 deficit in Olympic team funds might result in at least 70 of the qualifiers being unable to make the trip.

"We don't expect to raise the full $90,000 at Sunday's 200 odd minor league games," Trautman said, "but at least we can help to some extent. I don't know whether this is a history-making incident or not, the professionals lending a helping hand to the amateurs. But I do know that if we can't send a full Olympic team to Great Britain, we are mixed up in another 'American Tragedy.'"

Reds Crush Erring Cubs, 10 - 3

Andy Pafko Boots 2 In Wild First Inning

CHICAGO (AP) — Andy Pafko, newly named as the National league all-star third baseman, made three errors as the Chicago Cubs floundered to a 10-3 defeat at the hands of the Cincinnati Reds here yesterday.

Two of Pafko's boots came in the first inning and Roy Smalley contributed another to stake the Reds to five unearned runs and they breezed in from there for their third straight victory. Ken Raffensberger scattered 10 hits for his fifth win.

Frank Baumholtz hit his second homer and Dan Litzwiler his seventh of the season to pace a ten hit assault off four Cub hurlers, starting with Bob Chipman who was routed in the first. Baumholtz' blow was an inside-the-park homer that resulted when Harry "Peanuts" Lowrey crashed into the ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ralph Kiner and Wally Westlake teamed up with a double and a single respectively in the ninth inning to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 2 to 1 edge over the St. Louis Cardinals last night. Bob Cheshnes held the Redbirds to six hits in his mound battle with Al Brazle.

Eddie Stevens came within one putout of tying the National league record for a nine-inning game when he retired 20 Redbirds at first base. The record is 21, set by Jake Beckley of Cincinnati on Sept. 27, 1898. The American league mark is 22.

Wapello, Wilton Win In Legion Tourney

Wilton Junction and Wapello advanced to the semifinals of the American Legion junior district tournament here yesterday. Wilton topped Fairfield, 5-1, and Wapello trounced Fort Madison, 8-1.

Jerry Helgenberg, Wilton Junction catcher, slammed a fat pitch into deep centerfield for a homer in the first of the third inning for Wilton Junction's first tally.

Fairfield tied the score at one all in the last of the sixth and then the Wilton Junction nine clouted six singles off two Fairfield pitchers for their other four runs in the first of the seventh to ice the game.

Wapello dropped Fort Madison in the second game, 8-1. Belzer pitched five-hit ball in the five innings he worked for Wapello while his mates blasted seven safeties off Kemper of Fort Madison.

Wapello scored once in the second, twice in the fourth and five times in the sixth for their win. The Chiefs came through with only one run in the last of the fifth inning.

Kemper chalked up 10 strikeouts for the losers but his mates made eight misplays which accounted for four of Wapello's runs. Belzer struck out seven men and Dave Butler fanned four of the six men to face him in the other two innings.

The semifinals and finals will be played today, beginning at 1 p.m. The second game will be at 3 p.m. and the finals at 5 p.m. Wilton Junction will meet Wapello in the first game and Victor will face Burlington in the second contest.

Nats' Rally Clips Bosox

BOSTON (AP) — The Washington Senators cut loose with a five run rally with one out in the ninth to overtake the Boston Red Sox for a 7-6 victory last night before a 33,957 crowd.

Junior Stephens and Bobby Doerr homered and Ted Williams became the first American leaguer to smash 100 hits while the Bosox were ending a four-game winning streak.

New Crisis in Coal

John L. Lewis, although deciding against defying the Taft-Hartley law again this year, is up to his neck in another coal strike. With the help of favorable court rulings on his pension fund, Lewis was able to agree to a contract with the soft coal industry last week. Then on the weekend, he concluded a contract agreement covering 80,000 anthracite miners.

Lewis might have been able to settle back for a while to watch his pension fund swing into action and lick his wounds. But the steel industry refused to sign the soft coal contract on behalf of their "captive" mines.

The steel industry agreed to the $1 a day wage hike and the 20-cent of 10-cent a ton royalty for the miners' welfare fund. What they disputed was the union shop clause in the agreement. While Robert N. Dehman, general counsel of the national labor relations board, is busy investigating charges that the union shop clause violates the Taft-Hartley law, one fourth of the country's miners are on strike.

Under the procedure Dehman is taking, an injunction to halt the strike is due at any minute. Whether he likes it or not, John L. Lewis is directly defying the government again.

Lewis had to get the operators to agree to the union shop in the new contract or he was caught. The steel industry took up the challenge and now Lewis is over a barrel.

When the union shop clause was put into last year's contract, it did not conflict with the Taft-Hartley law. But now the act requires an election among the miners to determine whether or not they want a union shop.

The NLRB is needed to supervise the election, but a union must have signed non-Communist affidavits before it can use the NLRB.

Although John L. Lewis is avowedly a non-Communist, he has refused to file non-Communist affidavits as part of his fight to harass the Taft-Hartley act.

In the present showdown, the steel industry must have sensed a chance to get even with the United Mine Workers chief. If Lewis defies the impending court injunction, his union faces another round of fines. The labor leader will also lose some public esteem. Indifferent to public opinion heretofore, Lewis has recently hired a staff of publicity agents to sugar-coat his actions.

Whatever the outcome, vital coal is not being mined, vital steel is not being made and the boast of congressional leaders that the Taft-Hartley would bring labor peace has a discordant ring in our ears.

The Glowing Spark

When Eduard Benes resigned the presidency a few weeks ago, the Soviets must have been certain that the last official spark of freedom had been snuffed out.

But "We Want Benes for President" demonstrations in Prague have shown that the brave Czechs might not buckle under a police state regime.

It may also prove that the feeling of shattered unity and a weakening Moscow grip over her satellites has penetrated into Czechoslovakia. Recent elections when over 700,000 Czechs refused to vote for a ballot of Communist-sponsored candidates prove that there are many Czechs who are willing to buck the Communists in spite of retaliations.

Now, to contribute to the troubles Russia is meeting in Europe, Czechoslovakia refuses to remain shackled. Klement Gottwald's regime is too firmly planted to be shaken by the populace and is too well versed in the Moscow party line to run counter to Soviet wishes.

Still, Czechoslovakia could turn into a major trouble spot for the Russians. The new German state will border on Czechoslovakia and the sight of democratic government across the Bohemian forest may further arouse Czech longings.

If the Czechs do nothing more in their present demonstrations, they are contributing to the atmosphere of Russian weakening.

Strategic U.S. Stockpiling Gets No Fanfare

(By Daily Iowan Research Staff)

The munitions board of the armed forces has been carrying out without much fanfare a vital phase of U.S. preparation for future armed conflicts.

The job of building up a $2.1-billion stockpile of strategic materials has been going on since Congress approved the program in July, 1946.

Since then, the postwar boom in the U.S., the cold war and the Marshall plan have simultaneously spurred and slowed the program.

Essentially, the program is designed to move slowly. The minimum stockpile of essential materials will not be reached until 1952, according to existing plans. There are 83 raw materials being gathered, few of which can be adequately supplied in the U.S.

Since Russia is also stockpiling, U.S. buying throughout the world clashes with Russian buying. The cold war has stepped up the stockpiling tempo, thus creating a new area of conflict.

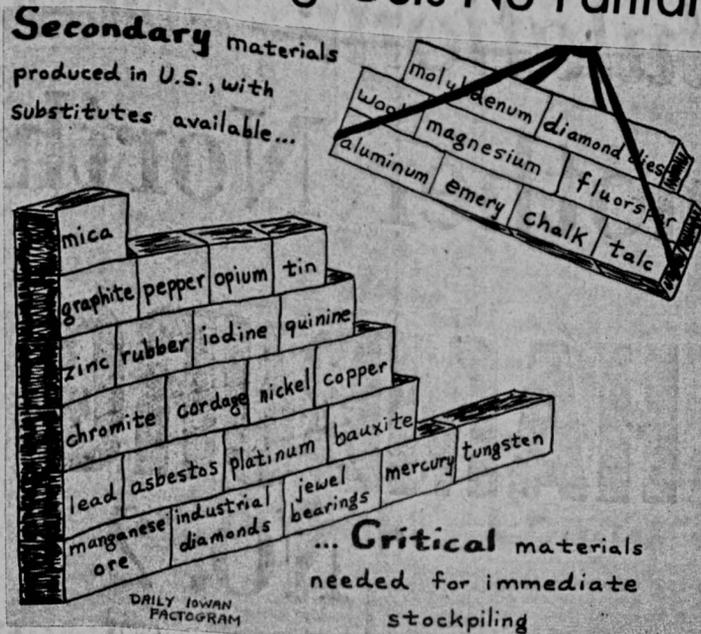

In addition, the U.S. depends on Russia and Russian-dominated areas for some critical materials.

About 14 percent of our imports of manganese, a metal for which there is no substitute in making steel, comes from Russia, Africa, India and South America could be turned to for more manganese if Russian sources are closed off.

Chromium supplies also come from Russia in quantity. It is needed for alloy steels used in oil and chemical industries. Turkey and Southern Rhodesia would remain as U.S. suppliers if Russian sources were blocked.

The only other important material critically needed which comes from Russia in any quantity is platinum. Canada and Colombia, however, are important producers.

New impetus has been given to U.S. stockpiling in recent months by the Marshall plan. European nations participating

America Quietly Stockpiles Critical Raw Materials in Case of War In Certain Areas, We Are Becoming a 'Have-Not'; The Cost Is Felt

In the ERP can be expected to pay off part of their dollar debts with strategic materials on a barter basis.

Also U.S. purchases of critical material outside the Marshall plan area will aid the dollar-hungry world. Latin America, particularly, is jealous of American billions going to Europe. She might be happier about the Marshall plan if more dollars were coming her way.

Marshall plan countries and their holdings could repay the United States in the following: Portugal, tungsten; Tunisia, lead; Turkey, chromite; Morocco, manganese, lead; Sierra Leone, diamonds; British Guinea, bauxite; Gold Coast, manganese, diamonds; Belgian Congo, cobalt, copper, tin, diamonds, zinc, tantalite; Madagascar, mica; Southern Rhodesia, chromite, asbestos; Northern Rhodesia, cobalt, copper; Nyasaland, carborundum.

Nigeria, columbite; Ceylon, graphite; Netherlands East Indies, bauxite, tin; Malaya, tin, and so on.

Pressed by dwindling reserves and threats of future trouble, the United States is quietly stockpiling. The bureau of mines estimated the U.S. would need a 6-billion stockpile to carry it through a five-year war. At the moment, American stocks of nickel and chrome are nearly exhausted. At the present rates of consumption, without imports, our readily available manganese would last two years; asbestos and mercury three years; platinum, antimony and tungsten four years; vanadium seven years; bauxite nine years; lead 12 years; zinc 19 years, and copper 34 years.

Today, the U.S. is a "have-not" nation in at least 40 vital materials for carrying on a peacetime economy or an all-out war. Either way, the costs of stockpiling or not stockpiling will be tremendous.

The ruling gives draft exemption to those men who by midnight of June 24 (the day President Truman signed the draft bill) were enlisted in reserve organizations having a minimum of "35 scheduled drills or training periods, or days of active federal service, or any combination thereof, per year."

The draft act provided for exemption of men in reserve units, but did not specify the qualifications of the units. That was left to the secretary of defense. Registration of men 18 through 25 for the draft has been tentatively set for Aug. 16. The date will not become official, however, until President Truman issues a proclamation formally designating it.

Actual drafting cannot begin before Sept. 22—90 days after Mr. Truman signed the new draft law.

Edson on Passports, Cabbies and Kings

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (P) — King Peter's passport, missing for five days, finally showed up yesterday.

So did the passport belonging to his wife, Queen Alexandra. And it turns out that this is the reason they disappeared: Balkan politics are too tough for a Washington cab driver to understand.

Put on your false whiskers and your opera cape, and we'll study a story of international intrigue, junior grade.

Peter, onetime king of Yugoslavia, and his missus are in New York. They want to go to Great Britain.

So ten days ago Peter mailed their passports to his former ambassador to the U. S., Constantin Fotich, who still lives here.

Last Friday Fotich gave the passports to a messenger to take to the British embassy for the routine stamp of approval.

"Was done. But when the messenger got back to Fotich's home, he climbed out and left the passports in the taxicab behind him.

Here, to coin a phrase, the plot thickens. Apparently the cabbie, or his superiors, saw "Yugoslavia" on the passports, and figured the Yugoslav embassy would be just the place to return them to.

Anyway, Yugoslav ambassador Sava N. Kosanovic said someone from the Premier Cab Co. had called the embassy and said he had a couple of spare passports he couldn't use. Send them around, he was told.

He did. And they were Peter's and Alexandra's.

Now Kosanovic works for Marshall Tito, who takes a dim view of Peter. And Fotich worked for Peter, and takes a dim view of Tito.

For a time it looked as if a minor scale Balkan war might break out on Massachusetts Avenue—Washington's embassy row—with the Premier Cab Co. right in the middle.

But a press relations man at the embassy told a reporter yesterday the passports had been sent to the U. S. state department.

A fellow at the state department first reported he couldn't find them, but later in the day they showed up.

A telephone call to the Cab company brought this enlightening conversation:

"About those passports—

"Um—sorry. We have nothing to say?"

"Do you know who—?"

"We have nothing to say."

"I don't think the Premier Cab company wants to hear any more about it."

Forrestal Outlines Drill Requirements For Reserve Units

WASHINGTON (P) — Defense Secretary Forrestal has ruled that reserve units must hold 35 scheduled drills a year in order for their draft-age members to be exempt from induction.

He told a news conference yesterday that he acted on recommendations of the army, navy and air departments when establishing the requirements.

Membership in a federally recognized national guard unit also exempts a man.

The ruling gives draft exemption to those men who by midnight of June 24 (the day President Truman signed the draft bill) were enlisted in reserve organizations having a minimum of "35 scheduled drills or training periods, or days of active federal service, or any combination thereof, per year."

The draft act provided for exemption of men in reserve units, but did not specify the qualifications of the units. That was left to the secretary of defense.

Registration of men 18 through 25 for the draft has been tentatively set for Aug. 16. The date will not become official, however, until President Truman issues a proclamation formally designating it.

Actual drafting cannot begin before Sept. 22—90 days after Mr. Truman signed the new draft law.

VA Announces Life Insurance Renewal

WASHINGTON (P) — National Service Life insurance "term" policies may be renewed for five years, the veterans administration said yesterday.

The first of the policies, issued to men in service in October, 1940, will expire next October unless renewed. From 1946 onward the term policies were issued for five instead of eight years.

War veterans and servicemen heretofore have had to convert their term policies to one of six available permanent forms to avoid lapse.

Congress recently passed a law allowing renewal of the term policies for another five-year period at the time of renewal.

Meanwhile, more than 10 million veterans, who have allowed term insurance to lapse, have until July 31 to reinstate their policies without a physical examination.

First reports from the scene indicated that only two men were on board the plane which was on a routine night flying training mission.

Air Crash Kills Two

GREENVILLE, S.C. (P) — Two men were killed last night when an air force C-47 on a routine training flight crashed and burst into flames at Greenville air force base.

First reports from the scene indicated that only two men were on board the plane which was on a routine night flying training mission.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT Grabbing at a UN Straw--

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

Harry ran into Bert near Radio City, for the first time in more than half a year.

"Drink?" said Bert, and they turned in for a beer.

Harry noticed that Bert was wearing the same gray suit as last fall, with the long, double-breasted coat, hooked with one button somewhere down near the knees. If you hadn't known it was sharp, you'd have thought it was funny.

"Still have your apartment, Harry?" asked Bert.

"Why, Bert?" asked Harry, though he knew why.

"I got a fellow who'll give you two fifty to give it up, and I think I could persuade your landlord. I wouldn't even take a percentage from you, I'd get it from the other side."

Harry laughed. Same old Black Market Bert, as always. Harry remembered him vividly, in his muddy soldier suit, as king of the cigarette deals. It had seemed sort of funny, then, in France, but that had been a long time ago.

"How you been doing, Bert?" he asked, really wanting to know.

"I been hanging around New York since the war," said Bert.

"I help people buy things that are hard to get. You work your way into the middle of a deal, somehow, and you make a couple of hundred for yourself. It was good for a while. But now!" He made a face; it was an almost babyishly disgusted gesture.

"You'd be surprised how few things are really short now," he said angrily.

"Why don't you look for something else?"

"Oh, my old man wants me to go back to Ohio and work for him. I don't want to, not enough in it. I almost decided to go last week, though. Had my bag packed, and then changed my mind."

"Like it here that much, huh?" asked Harry.

"No, it wasn't that," said Bert. He laughed. "It's kind of funny, I guess. You know where I live?"

"No."

"Over on the east side. Near where they want to build those United Nations buildings, you know. I've watched them working there, lots of times, it's a big deal. Well, I had my bag packed to go back to Ohio, my ticket bought, Pullman, and was going to give up my room to somebody I know. Then I picked up this paper and read where Congress hasn't given them the money for these United Nations buildings. Sixty-five million, you know."

"I know," said Harry.

"Well," said Bert, with a funny, half-shy smile, "I decided to stay. I know it doesn't really mean anything, Congress was just too busy, or something, and I don't expect it to be war or anything like that. But, hell, if they don't even build those buildings, it looks like things aren't going to settle down and be so quiet. And if everything stays kind of stirred up, and not normal, I can find me some deals."

"So you're going to stay," said Harry, looking at Bert unbelievably.

"Yeah," Bert smiled again.

"Hey, Harry, you don't think I'm just grabbing at a straw, do you?"

McBride's Hall — When Humidity Was Young

By BILL MCBRIDE

Everyone seems to have something to say about the heat, but no one says anything new. I get tired of "it's not the heat; it's the humidity." Who started that humidity business, anyway? That was all right when meteorology was in short pants, but the science of guessing what tomorrow's weather will be, and why, is in the mature stage now. We deserve something better.

A usually reliable source tells me that the humidity angle came up one day back in 1912 when a perspiring citizen walked grouchy into a weather office in Tulip Ridge, Tennessee, and demanded an excuse for the heat. The overworked meteorologist on duty (by the name of George Rengaw) saw that he was in a tight spot, and did some fast thinking.

Rengaw pulled the overheated man into a back room and swore him to secrecy before telling him that "it isn't the heat, but the humidity." You know how a thing like that will get around. For awhile it was whispered between close friends and kept from children, but now everyone brazenly blurts out, "It's not the..."

The manufacturers of air conditioning systems will probably be angry because I have let the cat out of the bag, but it's high time we stopped spoofing ourselves and face the facts. There is no such thing as humidity, and that comes on good authority.

Dick Layman tried to beat the heat Tuesday by studying in a bathtub full of cold water. He was reading "Joseph Andrews" for his literature course when he dropped the book into the water. The novel is bound in red cloth, and when it hit the water, the dye faded. Before Dick could scramble out of the tub, he had taken on the appearance of a well-boiled lobster.

After Pat Pearson went to all the trouble of air conditioning his drugstore, one uninformed individual marveled the other day at how cool the open front ice cream refrigerator kept the building.

The old, reliable institution of the five cent ice cream cone is staggering under a two cent increase in some Iowa City establishments. Odd how the increases came during 90 degree temperatures. That is the insufferable law of supply and demand at work, so I suppose we'll just have to dig up the extra two cents from some place.

Seems to me there should be a moratorium declared on ice cream price increases for children under 10 years.

They don't know about the S and D law, and they'd probably ask some embarrassing questions if they did.

Tossing Fruit at Actors Now Passe

*** Audience Records Displeasure by Machine ***

EVEN BETTER THAN AN OVERRIPE TOMATO is the device shown being tested by Prof. Norman C. Meier of the department of psychology. The gadget records audience reaction to plays and lets the author know just where his play drags or is interesting to the person operating the device.

Playwrights have a gadget now that records the precise moment when somebody in the audience would like to heave a tomato at the leading lady.

Designed by Prof. Norman C. Meier, department of psychology, the device is called an audience reaction recorder. It measures an individual's reaction to high or low spots in a play or motion picture performance.

Weighing less than five pounds, the mechanism is housed in an aluminum box. It may be held on one's lap while using it to record reaction to a play.

On the top is a sliding scale which is manipulated by hand. Degrees of interest in the play are listed on the scale, ranging from "enjoy immensely" to "do not enjoy."

The individual watching the play simply moves the slide to whatever points indicate his minute-by-minute interest.

A permanent record of this varying interest is made on a paper tape which unrolls from the side of the box at a constant speed. The paper is specially treated and records impressions from a metal stylus attached to the sliding scale.

When the graph showing one person's continuous reactions to the performance of a play is compared with the script, the writer or director can tell where spots of low interest occur.

The dramatics department has only one such indicator at present, but several more are on order. Prof. E. C. Mabie, head of speech and dramatic art, emphasized that it is too early to draw any conclusions as to possible uses for the device.

Before a complete cross-section of an audience's interest could be obtained, a large number of the indicators would have to be used and the results compared.

Admit Two Polio Patients to SUI Hospitals; Condition Fair

Two polio patients were admitted yesterday and Tuesday to University hospitals. They were in fair condition last night, according to hospital authorities.

Barbara Funk, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Funk of Moline, Ill., was admitted yesterday.

Charles Richard Abbey, 10-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Abbey of Mason City, was flown to Iowa City Tuesday. He was suffering from bulbar poliomyelitis.

Three cases of polio have been reported in the state since the weekend. Keith Anderson, 24, Humboldt, was admitted to the Des Moines hospital yesterday. He was the second polio patient to be admitted to the Des Moines hospital from Humboldt county this year.

Birtus Alton, 7, Little Sioux, was taken to Mercy hospital in Council Bluffs Sunday. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hays Alton. Robert Uring, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Uring of Council Bluffs, was admitted to the same hospital Monday.

Polio Disease Strikes Heaviest Among Children

In the United States about 60 percent of the cases of poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) are found in children below the age of 10 and 80 percent are below the age of 15.

These statistics have been released by the American Orthopaedic association. It has been found that boys usually save a higher incidence of the disease than girls. This sex variation, however, does not hold true on an adult level.

Although the disease has occurred on epidemic levels in cities, generally it is found in rural areas. At the present there is still no absolute proof as to the method by which infantile paralysis is contracted.

In an epidemic area, there are various preventative measures which should be observed, according to the association.

Children are warned against crowded places generally, especially indoors; swimming pools; travel; streams and water subject to pollution; overexertion, and tonsillectomies.

General sanitation of the community should be carefully checked, especially sewage disposal and the water and milk supply.

After the disease has been contracted, paralysis is likely to occur on the second to fourth day. In ordinary cases the paralysis reaches its maximum extent within 48 to 72 hours after it appears.

White Guesses 'Ike' Would Split Delegates

About one-half of the Iowa delegates to the Democratic national convention would vote for Eisenhower if he were nominated, Jack C. White, county attorney, said yesterday.

White is Iowa delegate-at-large to the convention. The Iowa Democratic delegation goes to the nominating sessions unpledged and uninstructed, White said. However, at the state Democratic convention earlier in the spring, a strong resolution for Truman was passed.

White considered unlikely the possibility that the convention will nominate Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas. White said that Douglas is not well-known enough to Americans.

Though he expects the convention to be full of excitement, White hesitated to speculate on the outcome of the sessions. "We'll know more when we get there," he said.

White felt that if Eisenhower makes his "no" to the presidential nomination acceptance stick, the convention will be less exciting.

The attorney and his wife will drive to Philadelphia Friday. They will stay at the Adelphi hotel, headquarters for the Iowa delegation during the convention.

White will not return to Iowa City until about July 21. He and his wife plan to drive to Niagara Falls to "rest up" from the convention.

Harry Shulman, alternate delegate, left earlier this week for a vacation in the east and will arrive in Philadelphia in time for the convention, White said.

Fred Thomas, route 5 farmer who leases the building, asked this action last month.

The defendant moved into the schoolhouse when working for him, Thomas said. Cox refused to move when he terminated his employment with Thomas, the farmer said.

Cox was ruled in default. Thomas was represented by attorneys Bowen and White.

Frame Discusses Recreation Facilities

J. Edgar Frame, superintendent of the Iowa City department of recreation, spoke yesterday at the noon luncheon of the Lions club.

Frame told of the progress Iowa City has made in the last three years in preparing supervised playgrounds for the children of the community. He presented a map showing the concentration of playgrounds in the city, and pointed out the positions of the playgrounds to meet the needs of nearly 2,000 children.

Frame spoke of the work done to prepare the north end playground located on Brown street, between Lucas and Governor. "We haven't a single tree on the block," he said. "The only sun shelter provided for the children is the shade from one building constructed this summer," he added.

In citing the activities carried on at the playgrounds, Frame said Tuesday they had four softball leagues, boys working on soap box derby cars and games of all kinds scheduled for the children.

New Roof Going on East Hall

Workmen began clearing the remaining rubble and brick from the roof of the central section of East hall this week in preparation for the laying of a concrete slab roof.

A built-up roof of asphalt and crushed rock will be used as a sealer, according to R. J. Phillips, superintendent of the physical plant. Phillips said the cost of the new roof would be $15,000.

The new roof will replace a temporary one which has protected the building since a fire destroyed the third floor of the central section over a year ago.

To facilitate the removal of the debris and to aid in bringing materials to the roof, a new 60-foot, self-supporting, hoist has been purchased by the university at a cost of $2,500, Phillips said. He said the hoist is built in sections and can be made shorter by removing several of the units. It can be formed at the desired height on the ground and then raised into the air by means of its own cables.
