LOS ANGELES (AP)—Nine rooming house tenants who claim they need a bath filed suit yesterday because, they alleged, their landlord insisted on sleeping in the tub. The superior court complaint, asking $50,000 damages, charged also the landlord, Mrs. June Gilbert, levied rents in excess of OPA ceilings.

Tired but Happy — Highlanders Back Home

Tired but happy, the State University of Iowa's Scottish Highlanders returned to Iowa City last night on the late Rock Island Rocket, ending an 8-day tour. Only a handful of people were on hand to meet the young ladies who performed before more than 10,000 members of the International Lions at Madison Square Garden in New York City July 26. The 30 young ladies also made appearances in West Point, N. Y., and Cleveland, Ohio.

Meets Wife
Robert Sautter, 1730 Muscatine avenue, was on hand to meet his wife, the former Nedra McNabney of Cedar Rapids. He said he had warned his wife not to eat on the last part of the trip because he had a couple of steaks in the icebox at home. The Sautters have been married about six weeks.

Sautter dashed over to the train shortly after it pulled into the station and kissed his wife who was one of the first to alight.

Trip "Wonderful"
The trip, she said, was "wonderful" and she was "tired but very excited."

Members of the organization said Mrs. Sautter had been anticipating the arrival in Iowa City ever since the train left New York.

A former Highlander was at the station to meet Norma Lou Haegge of Cedar Rapids. A member during 1942 and 1943, Robert Renfro, 115 E. Market street, belonged to the largest baggage band in the world when it was not entirely a women's organization.

More Welcomes
Betty Kirby, 1108 E. Burlington street, had hardly stepped off the train before being firmly hugged by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Sharp, and her sister, Marian.

Marilyn Smith, A. I. Oxford, returned with the knowledge that her picture will soon adorn the cover of Colliers magazine. The blond piper of the organization spent two hours on a Cleveland golf course Sunday posing for photographers.

"Cover Girl"
She was chosen for the picture Friday morning by Allan Gould of the Colliers staff, but he could not take the shots before she left for home so he flew to Cleveland Sunday.

"He took about five rolls of color film," Miss Smith said, adding that he changed the pose only slightly for each picture. Strictly disciplined in the traditional way to wear the Highlander uniform, she grew a bit perturbed when Gould moved her "Busby" (hat) to the back of her head and placed her bagpipes in a position from which she could not possibly have played them.

Performed in Ohio
The unit also performed before about 1,000 former Iowans Sunday at an Ohio state picnic for Iowans on the Ashland county fairgrounds, sixty miles south of Cleveland.

Only 22 members of the group returned to Iowa City last night with Col. and Mrs. W. W. Jenna. Part of the organization went home from Cleveland and others took routes from Chicago which would take them home sooner.

U.S. Says Russia is Blocking Arms Cut

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—The United States accused Russia yesterday of obstructing United Nations attempts to reduce and regulate world arms. Russia heatedly replied that the United States and Britain had sabotaged the arms cutting program.

The flare-up between Frederick H. Osborn, United States delegate, and Jakob A. Malik, Soviet deputy foreign minister, came at an open meeting of the UN commission for conventional armaments.

Osborn told the commission: "The work of this commission has continued to be hampered by demagogic appeals and irresponsible propaganda. We cannot but hope regretfully that the Soviet firmness of obstructionism in this commission is the same as that employed by them in the atomic energy commission."

Malik said: "I consider the statement made by the delegate of the United States to be a masterpiece of demagoguery. I categorically reject everything said in this statement about the Soviet Union, and I will take it up at the next meeting."

MMMMMM . . . I'M GLAD YOU'RE BACK! Robert Sautter, 1730 Muscatine avenue said it all with a kiss last night as he welcomed his wife home from her trip east with the university Scottish Highlanders. Mrs. Sautter, the former Nedra McNabney of Cedar Rapids, was one of the 30 Highlanders who left Iowa City July 26 and returned last night. The group made appearances in Madison Square Garden, at West Point, N.Y., and at Cleveland, Ohio. There were several happy reunions like the one pictured above last night at the Rock Island station. Note the electric iron Mrs. Sautter holds in her hand.

Pool Fund Hits $10,000

The Iowa City swimming pool fund yesterday cleared the $10,000 mark in its drive for $12,500, the Community Dads announced. The addition yesterday amounted to $49.63 and brought the total to $10,037.91.

William Grandrath, publicity chairman of the drive, said yesterday's addition included $20 from the business district drive and $29.63 from the residential area.

Grandrath said he hopes the drive will be completed by the end of the week. Many persons have held back their contributions until the $10,000 mark was reached, according to Grandrath, and now he expects these pledges to come in.

He said a letter has been received from Oxford regarding the drive there for the Iowa City pool. Figures on the Oxford drive will be announced in a few days. The totals from the various phases of the drive, as announced yesterday, include $3,685.91 from the business district, $3,345 from the lodges, $2,881 from the residential district, $71 from Coralville and $55 in miscellaneous contributions.

Ex-Communist Tells of 'Fifth Column' Within U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A "considerable" Communist fifth column has wormed its way into the U. S. government, senate investigators were told yesterday by Louis Budenz, former Communist editor.

And while some Communists are "confused" enough to believe their loyalty is to the United States, he went on, the majority of party members would stand with Russia in case of war.

The party aim, Budenz asserted, is to serve Moscow's purpose of world domination, including "dominance of the Soviet government of Russia over the United States." The party itself, he said, is a Soviet "fifth column."

Budenz gave that sweeping outline of Communist goals and tactics in testimony to a senate ex-

Observes Second Silver Wedding

LONG BEACH (AP)—It might seem like quite an achievement to celebrate one silver wedding anniversary, but Fred Marquardt, 91, observed his second such event yesterday.

He was married first in 1879. His wife died in 1921. On Aug. 2, 1923 he married his present wife, Sophia, now 66. Mr. and Mrs. Marquardt were host to a group of friends and relatives for the occasion.

In Independence He's A 'Hometown Harry'

INDEPENDENCE, MO. (AP)—President Truman strolled through the streets of Independence yesterday to greet friends and neighbors who addressed him familiarly as "Harry."

He and Mrs. Truman drove into nearby Kansas City last night to have dinner with a Republican friend of many years, Harry C. Jobs.

The President brought groans from Washington correspondents by disclosing he would vote at 6:30 a.m. today, (Iowa time), 30 minutes after the polls open, in the state Democratic primary.

Immediately after breakfast, he planned to drive to the Fairfax airport in Kansas City, Kans., for the three-hour flight back to Washington.

Senator Fails In Gag Attempt

WASHINGTON (AP)—Filibustering Dixie senators won a major round yesterday in their effort to talk the anti-poll tax bill to death.

The presiding officer, Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), decided that an effort to curb the debate was in conflict with senate rules, and so the talkathon continued.

It was highly doubtful whether the senate would reach a vote at this extra session on the bill to outlaw the poll tax as a qualification for voting.

Last Wednesday, Senator Wherry (R-Neb.) made a motion to take up the bill, which is part of President Truman's civil rights program.

Southerners immediately started a filibuster against the motion, and since then the senate has been tied up in knots.

Yesterday Wherry proposed that the senate invoke "cloture," which would limit each senator to one hour's talk. Wherry's proposal would have required a two thirds vote to become effective.

But it never got to a vote. Vandenberg ruled it out of order. He did so reluctantly, he said, because he personally favors the anti-poll tax bill. Moreover, he added, senate rules should permit a curb on debate in such cases. But the fact is, he declared, that they do not.

"In the final analysis," Vandenberg said, "the senate has no effective cloture rules at all."

Iowa Science Law Called 'Vicious' by Chiropractic Man

DES MOINES (AP)—The state basic science law yesterday was termed "vicious legislation" by Ralph Evans, vice-president of the Palmer school of chiropractic at Davenport.

Evans appeared before the legislative interim committee. "There is no question in my mind," he told the legislators, "that the viciousness of the type of legislation enacted is now at work."

With Evans was Charles Wilson of Atlantic, who has been enjoined from practicing as a chiropractor; a representative of the Disabled American Veterans; a Farm bureau member, and two other representatives of the Palmer school.

Failed Tests
Evans told the committee that Wilson had taken the basic science exam eight times, being failed each time in four or five of the six required subjects. He eventually passed all but the anatomy test included in the examination.

The basic science law, enacted in 1945, provides that a person must pass the basic science examination before being qualified to take an examination for a license to practice medicine, chiropractic or other methods of healing.

Wilson successfully passed the chiropractic licensing examination but his license was held up because of failure in the basic science test.

"Wrong Legislation"
"Enactment of that type of legislation is wrong," Evans declared.

It is wrong, he added, to set up a board that has the authority to deny a person the right to practice a profession which is his means of livelihood.

Evans termed chiropractic "admittedly antagonistic to the medical profession."

"Any legislation conceived for the purpose of benefitting one group and one group only has no justification," he asserted.

Asked what he expected the interim committee to do in the case, Evans said his purpose was to call the situation to the attention of the legislators in the hope that the legislation might be changed.

Contempt Charge
Wilson was enjoined May 24, 1947, from practicing chiropractic without a license. Since then he has been charged by State Commissioner of Health Walter Biering with contempt of court, the charge contending he has practiced without a license. Trial on this charge is set for tomorrow in Atlantic.

APPROVE HOSPITAL CONTRACTS

The committee approved an addition to the children's hospital at the State University of Iowa; general construction contract, M. D. McCreedy, Iowa City, $40,375; plumbing, heating and ventilation, Carstens Brothers, Ackley, $7,086; electricity, Wilson Electric company, Rockford, Ill., $2,769.

Hold Post-Interview Meeting At U.S. Embassy in Moscow

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW (AP)—Diplomats of the United States, Britain and France talked with Prime Minister Stalin last night about the chances of settling east-west differences.

They remained in the Kremlin more than two hours, leaving that walled center of the Soviet government at 1 p.m. Iowa time. The length of their stay indicated Stalin had granted one of his longest interviews to foreign diplomatic representatives.

Even before the visit there were indications of an easing of the tense international situation: Authoritative sources said progress already has been made among the four great powers.

The three envoys—U. S. Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith, French Ambassador Yves Chataigneau and Frank Roberts, special British representative—returned to the American Embassy after their meeting with Stalin and went into immediate conference.

All three were smiling and affable. As they hurried into the embassy building, Smith led two colleagues up the stairway.

Correspondents had to follow him partly up the steps before they could stop him. Then, turning and laughing, the U. S. Ambassador said:

"Wait a minute. You can't follow me right into my office. We're having a meeting there tonight, you know."

Other U. S., British and French officials already were in the embassy waiting for their chiefs to return from the Kremlin.

Smith told reporters: "Generalissimo Stalin and Mr. Molotov received us all at a meeting."

Then he added: "There will probably be a communique to that effect tonight. I don't think there will be anything more. I'm sorry, but that's all."

Veteran correspondents who have covered Kremlin meetings for years, said last night's conference was one of the longest they could recall.

British diplomatic writers speculated that the meeting with Stalin soon might lead to a conference of Stalin, President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee and French Premier Andre Marie.

A strict official silence was observed by the U. S. state department and the British and French foreign offices on all aspects of the western nations' latest approach to Russia. British officials said any leakage of information about what the western powers are proposing might ruin the outcome of the Moscow talks.

Univis Lens Strike Brings Ohio Guard

DAYTON, OHIO (AP)—National guardsmen last night were ordered to move into Dayton to maintain law and order at the strike-bound Univis Lens company plant.

Mayor Louis Lorehy and Sheriff Ben Smith, declaring a public emergency, announced that another attempt to reopen the plant, scene of picket-line fighting and use of tear gas by police, would be made this morning.

Gov. Thomas J. Herbert, acting on local officials' plea for help, ordered Adj. Gen. C. W. Goble to send in a force of guardsmen from southwestern Ohio.

Russ-Backed Police Arrest West Sector Policemen in Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—The Russian-backed German police in the Soviet sector of Berlin have launched an arrest-on-sight war against their counterparts in the western sectors, American public safety officers said last night.

Four western sector policemen were seized over the weekend when they entered the eastern sector. They still are in custody.

According to the American sources, the Russian sector police are acting under orders to arrest any policeman working for Johannes Stumm, who recently was appointed police chief by the anti-Communist city government.

Stumm was told to replace Moscow-trained Paul Markgraf, accused of complicity in the disappearance of hundreds of Berliners in the Russian sector. The Russians refused to recognize the city government's action, and Markgraf stayed in his headquarters in the Russian sector.

Stumm moved his headquarters to the American sector. Both claim to be the legal chief of police.

Meanwhile, the conference of western diplomats with Prime Minister Stalin in Moscow last night caused Americans to delay dealing with the troubled currency situation in Berlin.

American occupation authorities met with German bankers to find ways of dealing with the Soviet freeze on accounts of western Berlin firms.

American sources said it had been planned to tell banks to issue loans to the firms to tide them over, but the plan was abandoned pending developments from the conference with Stalin.

Resistance to government acquisition of the schools will be considered sabotage.

Miss Bentley, seated in the rear of the room when this picture was taken, has testified to the subcommittee that she collected information from government employes during the war.

Whitfield Sets Olympic 800-Meter Mark

Smith Gives U.S. 1st in Pole Vault

By GAYLE TALBOT

OLYMPIC STADIUM, WEMBLEY, ENGLAND (AP)—A record breaking victory by Mal Whitfield in the 800 meter run and a magnificent flight by Guinn Smith in the pole vault gave America's track and field stars two more Olympic titles before another capacity crowd of 84,000 yesterday.

Whitfield, an army air force sergeant stationed at Lockbourne field, Columbus, O., established a new Olympic mark of 1:49.2 for two laps of the wet, heavy track in beating the greatest field ever to run in the event in the games.

Two of the human deer he defeated either beat or equalled the former Olympic record of 1:50.8 set by Britain's Tom Hampson in 1932 and all six finalists ran the 800 faster than Johnny Woodruff's winning time of 1:52.9 in the 1936 games at Berlin.

Arthur Wint, a tall Jamaican, finished second about three yards back after putting on a thrilling sprint in the stretch.

Smith, forced to make his approach along a soggy, slippery runway, soared to 14 feet, 1 1/2 inches to win the pole vault. He fell short of Earle Meadows' Olympic mark of 14 feet, 3/4 inches, but it was a great effort under the conditions. A light but steady rain fell through the last four hours of competition.

Erkki Kataja of Finland was second at 13 feet, 9 inches, and Bob Richards of the United States took third at the same height. He had more misses than the Finn. Erling Kaas of Norway placed fourth, Ragnar Lundberg of Sweden fifth and Richmond (Boo) McCormack of the United States sixth. All cleared 13 feet, 5 inches.

The day's most spectacular and pulse-stirring event saw Gaston Reiff, a balding little fellow from Belgium, just last to snatch victory in the 5,000 meter run from Emil Zatopek, the Czech star who had won the 10,000 and was trying to complete a classic double.

With only 200 meters to go, Reiff was in front by close to 40 meters, and appeared headed for an easy victory. But Zatopek took after him and faded by only two yards to nip him at the wire as the crowd went wild with excitement.

Reiff's time of 14 minutes, 17.6 seconds, as well as Zatopek's 14-17.8, were under the former Olympic record of 14:22.2 set by Gunnar Hockert of Finland at Berlin in 1936.

Curtis Stone of State College, Pa., the only American who qualified for the event, had nothing to be ashamed of in finishing sixth against 11 of Europe's distance stars.

With two husky Italians taking turns throwing the discs out of sight, Uncle Sam could manage no better than a third in that event. Adolfo Consolini, the winner, shattered the Olympic record with a toss of 173 feet, 2 inches, and so did his teammate, Giuseppe Tosi, with 169 feet, 10 1/2 inches.

Fortune Gordien of the University of Minnesota grabbed third place at 166 feet, 7 inches, which also bettered the Olympic mark of 165 feet, 7 1/2 inches set by Ken Carpenter of the United States at Berlin. The two other American entries, Victor Frank and Bill Burton, fell far short of their best and failed ven to qualify for the final throw-off.

Three American sprinters, Mel Patton, Barney Ewell and Cliff Bourland, packed themselves into the field of 12 qualifiers for the semi-final of the 200 meters. One of them should win today's final, though Herb McKenley, the noted collegian running for Jamaica, will be a threat.

Bourland raced his two heats in 21.3 seconds, as did McKenley, who beat Ewell rather handily in their second-round meeting. Patton loafed to an easy win in 21.6 in his opening heat, and then sped a fast 21.4 in the second round.

Whitfield's fine victory in the 800 gave him the first leg on what he hopes to turn into a classic double by winning the 400, which begins on Wednesday. No athlete ever has won the two Olympic events, and Mel Shepard, 1906, was the only previous American even to qualify for both.

The sergeant's time on yesterday's sloppy track bettered the record of 1:49.8 that had stood since Hampson set it in the Los Angeles games. Wint's 1:49.5 also was under the old mark, and Marcel Hansenne of France equalled it in taking third place.

Herb Barten of Michigan finished fourth in 1:50.1. Ingvar Bengtsson of Sweden was fifth and Bob Chambers of Southern California sixth. Chambers' time of 1:52.1 could have been good enough to win at Berlin in 1936, when Woodruff scored in 1:52.9.

Reberry Hurls 2 No-Hitters

Paul Reberry performed an iron man task over the weekend by pitching two no-hitters as the Iowa City Cardinals split four National Sortball league games on the road.

Reberry hurled his first hitless game against league leading Racine, beating them, 3-2. The Cards lost the second game to Racine, 4-2. He got his other no-hitter against Peoria, 2-0. The Caterpillars turned on Don Dannen in the other tilt, 2-0.

In the first game with Racine, Iowa City came close to them, 3-2, but weren't able to close the gap. The Cards scored their runs on Duly Bailey's triple and Tom Stahle's four-bagger.

In the second game, at Racine Reberry walked five and his mates committed three miscues to allow Racine two runs. The Cards had a big three run inning in the fourth to take the contest.

Against Peoria, Reberry fanned ten and issued only three walks as the Cards got their two runs on four hits. The first run came on singles by Ralph Tucker and Johnny Albrecht. They scored again in the seventh when Eddie Colbert singled and was sacrificed to third. He then stole home.

In the other game, Iowa City, was held to two hits by Dom Dominick. The Caterpillars collected only three safeties off Dannen, but two of them were extra base blows, giving them the 2-0 win.

Reds Set Back Braves Before Slim Crowd, 3-1

BOSTON (AP)—The lowly Cincinnati Reds made the most of their opportunities last night and imposed a 3-1 defeat on the National league leading Boston Braves, who flubbed most of their opportunities against the veteran left handed Johnny Vander Meer.

The Tribe stranded a dozen base runners before 12,994 paid fans, the smallest night home crowd of the season.

Browns Tip Senators On 9 Hits; Win Series

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Browns put their nine hits to good use last night as they downed the Washington Senators, 7 to 5, in the only game played in the American league. The victory gave the Browns the series, three games to two.

Schmitz Nips Bums 6th Straight, 4-2

BROOKLYN (AP)—Chicago's Johnny Schmitz maintained his jinx over Brooklyn yesterday as he whipped the Dodgers for the fifth time this year, 4-2, in eleven innings.

Usually all the windy city flinger has to do is throw in his glove and the Brooks play dead. Yesterday they made him work, but Eddie Waitkus took care of things in the 11th with a double that drove in Schmitz himself with what proved to be the winning run. Andy Pafko drove in the insurance run with a fly out.

Waitkus and Pafko drove in the other two Cub runs in the first inning, each belting a homer. The Brooks sent the game into overtime with single tallies in the fourth and eighth games.

Schmitz gave up nine hits. The Cubs got as much off four Dodger hurlers.

College All-Stars Open Drills For Title with Chicago Cards

EVANSTON, ILL. (AP)—Coach Frank Leahy yesterday greeted an all-star collegiate squad potentially so powerful it may unleash a double-barreled attack — T-formation and single wingback — against the Chicago Cardinals at Soldier field Aug. 20.

Leahy also plans to have defensive units coupled with each offensive array, thus providing "first string" rating for 44 players and utilizing as much of his bulky, but talented squad as possible.

Lujack, of course, will direct the T-formation phase of the all-star attack. Available to put the punch in the single wingback's key spot, tail back, will be such aces as Bob Chappuis of Michigan, Charley Conery of Mississippi, Herman Wedemeyer of St. Mary's, Earl (Jug) Girard of Wisconsin, and Layne, who fits into any system.

In all, Leahy has 15 ends, 14 tackles, 12 guards, eight centers, seven quarterbacks, 11 halfbacks and four fullbacks to covart before a sell-out throng of 100,000.

Hogan Wins Western Open

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Bantam Ben Hogan yesterday added the Western Open golf championship to his National Open and PGA crowns—the first man ever to hold the three titles the same season.

And he did it, in an 18-hole playoff with Seattle's Ed (Porky) Oliver, in such impressive style that he had his pudgy opponent rooting for him at the finish.

TIJ stone-faced, 137-pounder from Hershey, Pa., who hits like a heavyweight and puts like a billiard shark, turned the sunfilled finale into a rout as he smothered the westerner under a nine-stroke avalanche—64 to Oliver's 73—the most one-sided playoff since Bob Jones whipped Al Espinosa by 23 shots in the 36-hole playoff for the 1929 National Open laurels.

Hogan, a perfect golfing machine except on the third hole where he hit one chip shot a bit too hard, carded a 33-31-64, eight under par. That clipped two strokes off Brookfield Country club's record.

Miller Anderson Injured In Fall

Ris on Relay Team; Brand Wins Crown

LONDON (AP)—Wally Ris of Iowa university was named number one man on the United States 800-meter free style swimming team yesterday. Coach Bob Kiputh made the announcement. Meanwhile, American hopes for a clean sweep of the two men's Olympic diving championships faded today when Miller Anderson of Ohio State was injured in an uncontrolled 30-foot fall to the water while performing an exhibition dive.

Both the United States team coach and doctor feared Anderson had knocked himself out of further Olympic competition. He suffered a slight hemorrhage as the result of a miscue in a cutaway dive from a handstand position on the 10-meter (32 ft. 10 ins.) platform.

Anderson finished second to Ohio State teammate Bruce Harlan, the first American Olympic water champion of the 1948 games, in the springboard diving finals Saturday.

Anderson was hurt when his left foot slapped the platform as he cut through from a handstand. He went spinning down to land flat on his back.

In the day's only swimming final, statuesque Ann Curtis of San Francisco, was second to Denmark's Great Greta Anderson in a 66.3 second 100-meter free style.

As expected, the three springboard girls from California finished the first half of their diving program in first, second and third places.

After four dives, with four more to be judged this morning, Mrs. Victoria Manalo Draves of Pasadena, was first on point. The U. S. springboard champion, Zoe Ann Olsen of Oakland, was second and Patricia Ann Elsener of San Francisco, was third.

Olympic swim coach Bob Kiputh of Yale, got his water sprinters qualified for the finals of the 800-meter relays without even using any of the first string quartet he will put on the mark in the payoff race for the championship tomorrow night.

Coach Kiputh was satisfied to finish second in his heat with Robert Gibe of Detroit, William Dudley 3rd of New Orleans, Edwin Gilbert of University of Texas, and Eugene Rogers of the New York A. C. swimming in that order.

But for tonight, Kiputh has named the top men of his 12-man relay squad to swim in this order: 1. Wally Ris of Chicago and the University of Iowa, the 1948 Olympic 100-meter free style champ; 2. Wally Wolf, Los Angeles; 3. McLane; 4. Old reliable ukelele Bill Smith of Honolulu.

Turkey, with four first places and two seconds, won the Olympic free style wrestling team championships.

Two American grapplers, Glenn Brand of Clarion, Iowa, and Henry Wittenberg, the wrestling cop from New York, won individual titles. Brand triumphed in the middleweight class while Wittenberg garnered the light heavyweight crown.

In addition to triumphs by Brand and Wittenberg, Gerald Leeman of Cedar Falls, Iowa, was second in the bantamweight division and Leland Merrill, Jr., of Milltown, N. J., wound up third in the welterweight class.

America's wizards of the court punctured any doubts of their Olympic basketball invincibility by scoring a leisurely 53 to 25 triumph over Czechoslovakia, the best team in all Europe.

The American's mastery was so dunk the ball in the basket with seven foot Bob Kurland, who can complete that the Phillips Oilers' mildest sort of a leap, never once indulged in this advantage.

He only took aim when a sporting distance out on the floor and he cashed in a couple of these which, with two free throws, gave him six points for the day.

Cards Shock Giants, 21-5

NEW YORK (AP)—Staging the largest scoring spree in the majors this season, the St. Louis Cardinals yesterday shattered the seven-game winning streak of the New York Giants by pounding five assorted fingers for 20 hits and a humiliating 21-5 victory.

A crowd of 20,446 sat in on the massacre. It watched the high flying Redbirds score in every inning but the seventh and ninth. They routed starter and loser Ray Poat with a four-run first inning after two were out and continued their assault on Clint Hartung, Ken Trinkle, Monte Kennedy and Clem Dreisewer. Their big inning was the fifth when they counted eight times.

The Cards collected 12 extra base wallops, only one away from their own league record of 13. They smashed four home runs and eight doubles. Stan Musial cracked his 25th four-bagger, Marty Marion his fourth, Erv Dusak his third and Whitey Kurovski his second.

Little Murry Dickson, encouraged by this great batting support, went the route for the first time since June 26, to register his eighth win. He has lost 11.

The victory moved the Cardinals up into a virtual third place tie with the Brooklyn Dodgers who bowed to the Chicago Cubs. Both clubs are one game behind the second place Giants.

SHAKING HANDS are Iowa's Wally Ris (left) and Ohio State's Bruce Harlan after they received their gold medals, symbolic of Olympic championships. Ris set a new Olympic standard of :57.3 seconds in the 100-meter free style while Harlan captured the men's springboard diving.

Ris Win 'Greatest Sprint Feat'

Coach Dave Armbruster yesterday hailed Wally Ris' victory in the Olympic 100-meter free style as the "greatest sprint feat in history."

"This victory was made under sent sizzling speed when considering that the race was contested in a 50-meter pool, and the swimmers had the push-off advantage of only one turn."

He praised the first of his pupils to make the Olympic team and said, "Ris is a great competitor under pressure. The tougher the competition the better he swims."

Armbruster described his pupil as a "determined swimmer who won't be beaten." He pointed out that his string of 25 major victories in the 100-yard and 100-meter free style as evidence.

Armbruster said that in long watching of Ris he knew how he reacted to various situations. "He has a habit of feeling out his opponents, swimming somewhat cautiously until he knows their strength. Then he sets himself mentally for the great effort."

"Because he qualified the Olympic record in the semi-final race, he was determined and confident that not one of the other seven hundred meters over the long course was :57.6 seconds. This was set last September in Hawaii. He tied the Olympic record of :57.5 in the preliminaries and splashed to the new record of :57.3 in the finals.

According to the United Press, Olympic swimming Coach Bob Kiputh called Wally Ris "the greatest speed swimmer of all times." The compliment deluxe came as Ris received his gold medal for winning the Olympic 100-meter free style title with a new record of :57.3.

Coach Dave Armbruster got into the Olympic swing of things Saturday night when he was tossed into the swimming pool at the Country club at Cedar Rapids.

The occasion was the annual pool party which is held at the club each summer. Athletic Business Manager Frank Havlicek told the crowd that it had a distinguished guest and asked Armbruster to come to the microphone.

Havlicek then announced that it was a standing tradition that the coach of an Olympic swimmer was tossed into the water to help his swimmer celebrate his victory. Several SU alumni took up the challenge and heaved him into the water.

After the impromptu ducking Armbruster's wife said, "I'm glad I got to see this." To which he replied, "I'm glad you did too."

Two Brides-Elect Prepare For Early Fall Weddings

Tour Five Department Stores For Wedding Trip Apparel

By JO BARNES
Society Editor

"Busy is the bride-to-be." Sarah Records and Marjorie Smith, two brides-to-be who have chosen the "Indian Summer" season for their weddings have found this saying to be very true.

Marjorie, the niece of Mrs. L. C. Nebergall, Long Beach, Calif., will be married to Murray Weir, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Weir, Iowa City, on September 10.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Records, Iowa City, Sarah will exchange vows with Jack Fox, the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Fox, Waterloo, on August 25.

These two girls, finding themselves in "the same boat", decided to do their trousseau shopping together, believing that "two heads are better than one."

However, the unpredictable weather man has them in a quandary. The question that immediately occurs to both of them is, "Should I buy cottons or woollens for my trousseau?"

So, while shopping they agreed to make somewhat of a compromise with "friend weather" and to try a few garments of each type.

Both girls plan formal weddings, so the main item on their shopping list is the traditional white wedding gown.

Satin definitely predominates in early fall weddings, with some marquisette being shown. However, no certain "type" gown is especially popular this season. In fact, in browsing through Iowa City department stores, the two shoppers found that gowns of almost every type are being shown . . . victorian, tailored, frilly, etc.

The traditional "sweetheart" neckline as always is in demand for fall weddings . . . as are the pointed sleeves.

The two shoppers found that suits have taken on a more "classic" look. Although they are not mannish, they are not extremely frilly. Also, a new silhouette has been added to this year's styles. Straighter-looking skirts with hidden fullness, usually concentrated in the back, are being shown.

Skirt lengths are about the same as those of last season, or at the most, two inches longer. Padded hips, drooping shoulders and voluminous fullness for "street wear" have gone the way of all passing fads. The French silhouette has been boiled down to the American taste.

In afternoon and evening dresses, skirt fullness is concentrated at the back for the most part, with the front facade slim and simple.

Velvet has taken first place in m'lady's bonnets this season. Berets and off-the-face hats are very popular. Also feathers and veiling is used abundantly in decorating the headpieces.

In shoes, the styles have remained almost the same. The every-popular "opera" pump and sling pump still lead the trends. However, there is much more variety in color this season.

"That old-fashioned look" . . . variously called "victorian," and "quaint" is a strong trend evident in dress clothes. It is a trend that comes within the established success-silhouettes of snug bodices, sloped shoulders, full skirts. Pencil skirts, however, are being shown in abundance.

Fabrics shown suggest victorian richness. There is lots of velveteen and corduroy and trimmings such as braid, ball fringe and embroideries.

Sarah and Jack plan to go to White Fish Lake, Minn., for their wedding trip while Marjorie and Murray will journey to Mannatu Springs, Colo.

So lots of informal sport clothes will be packed for both girls. Sundresses are the most popular sportswear for women this season. The unique feature of these dresses are that when worn without a jacket, they are correct on a tennis court or golf course. But when coupled with the jacket, they can be worn to semi-dressy occasions.

On the golf course, plain, unpleated shorts in various colors are being worn. Halters and white shirtwaist blouses are coupled with the shorts.

"T" shirts have become popular again, when worn with pedal-pushers and shorts and are sometimes even worn with gabardine sport skirts.

Play shoes in bright or pastel colors are being displayed. Gold sandals for dress are making fashion history. There's no end to the variety now obtainable in a style whose basic lines were established when Helen of Troy was in the ship-launching business.

Both open and closed models are seen, but most of them, bowing to warm weather, are wide open, at toe, heel and shank. They are designed with elegant straps of all kinds . . . ankle, instep, double and single, symmetric and asymmetric, T-straps and bracelet straps.

Sarah and Marjorie were both very good natured throughout the shopping expedition, however, toward the end, they had to admit they were a bit fatigued.

"All I've got to say is the groom certainly gets off easily in these matrimonial affairs," Marjorie remarked.

"Yes, but wait until they're paying for our shopping spree," Sarah laughingly remarked, "they won't think it's so funny!"

So, two very tired, but happy girls finished an all-day shopping spree, confident that they had chosen apparel which, when worn, would make their husbands-to-be very proud to introduce them as "my wife."

A LOVELY BRIDE, Marjorie, in a flowing satin wedding dress. Styled with the traditional "sweetheart" neckline, the dress is sheared in a panel down the front. The sleeves are full at the top and taper down to points at the wrists. A halo of flowers could be worn in the hair with the veil falling from the flowers. The full skirt swirls into a rounded train, giving grace to the gown. Jewelry, such as pearls or a locket (a gift of the groom) could also be worn with the dress because of its simple but smart lines.

"JUST IN CASE IT'S WARM," THESE ITEMS OF SPORTSWEAR are examined by Marjorie and Sarah. The tailored chambray dress which Marjorie wears can also be worn for semi-dressy occasions. "Push up" sleeves and the pointed collar are the unique feature of this dress. Sarah's sundress is of spun rayon and is coupled with the matching bolero jacket.

"JUST IN CASE IT'S COLD," Marjorie and Sarah try these ensembles. Sarah's black faille suit boasts three-quarter-length sleeves and is designed with a plain round neckline. Marjorie's three-piece corduroy outfit consists of a skirt, vest and cape, with wooden buttons fastening the vest and decorating the flap pockets on the cape. A white long sleeve blouse completes the ensemble.

"UMMMM, THEY'RE SO SOFT," sigh Sarah and Marjorie when they don the filmy nightwear. Sarah wears a satin gown and negligee set. The bodice and straps of the gown are of embroidered lace. The negligee has panels of matching lace running from the shoulder line to the waist, which is fastened with a satin bow. The full, flowing sleeves taper to narrow wrist bands and the back is completely satin, styled along princess lines. Marjorie's pajamas present a pleasant picture with their simple tailored lines. Made of embroidered rayon, they are styled with "shirtwaist" collar and sleeves. The jacket buttons down the front and is belted and fastened with a bow in the front. The trousers are narrow with a slight flare at the bottom.

A VISION IN WHITE, Sarah wears a lovely satin wedding gown, fashioned with a bustle which trails into a swirling train. The yoke is of sheer net and the full-length sleeves come to a point at the wrists. Marjorie models a bridesmaid Tiny satin-covered buttons, at the back, fasten the dress from the neckline to the waistline. At the middle of the yoke, a beautifully designed, flower of seed pearls decorates the bodice. The waist is snug with the billowing skirt flaring from it, dress for Sarah's approval. Of lime satin, its unique feature is the hooped skirt. Insets of lace peek from the bottom of the skirt where it is caught up. Pearl puffed sleeves reach to the curve of Marjorie's shoulder, giving a drop-shoulder effect. This gown also has the snug waistline, adding slenderness to the wearer.

FOR "DRESS-UP" OCCASIONS, Marjorie tries a lightweight summer suit and Sarah, a two piece black dress. Marjorie's two piece suit is topped off with an off-the-face velvet beret sporting a perky feather. Her spectator pumps add the final touch to this neat and attractive outfit. The sheer black suit-dress worn by Sarah is trimmed in dainty lace and rhinestone buttons. She chooses the ever-popular picture hat and black suede opera pumps for accessories.

THE WEDDING AND RECEPTION ARE OVER . . . AND THE COUPLE DASH OFF IN a gaily decorated car. And for their "going away" suits, the two girls turn to the fall fashions. Marjorie's three-piece suit is tailored, offset only by the decorated metal buttons. Her off-the-face hat is draped in black veiling which is fastened beneath the chin. Sarah's suit has a "sailor-type" collar and a slight peplum. Her hat, also an off-the-face model, is decorated with a feather, adding color to her ensemble.

Disturbing Signs in the Univis Strike

Following a full week of police-picket violence at the strike-bound Univis Lens company plant in Dayton, O., Gov. Thomas J. Herbert has dispatched national guardsmen to the scene.

There is something about the 89-day-old strike that is peculiar. A complete collapse of bargaining, mass violence and other symptoms of a union which is not willing to settle a dispute quickly are reminiscent of the recent packinghouse workers' strike.

Settlements in most of American industry for third round pay wages give the CIO united electrical workers no excuse that they are fighting to set a precedent for their industry. The outcome of a dispute against a company employing 658 production workers cannot affect a basic industry.

The thing that arouses suspicion is that the heads of the union negotiated an agreement with the company over the weekend. The negotiations were sponsored by Governor Herbert in an effort to end the violence.

It is rare when union rank and file reject "unanimously" an agreement negotiated by their leaders. In announcing the rejection of the agreement, the UE leaders showed signs of being thrown off guard. The only excuse they could think of was that they were pressured into agreeing by the governor.

Something is wrong. There is a wedge between union leadership and union members. The thing that worries us about it all is the recent Communist party write up of the indictment of Gus Hall, Ohio Communist leader, who was one of 12 top Communists arrested by the FBI recently.

Describing Gus, the Daily Worker boasted "he strives to build the party on the rock bottom base of mass industry workers."

A Nation or a Mister?

To the optimistic signs still hanging around Europe and the world add the meeting last night of United States, French and British diplomats with Joe Stalin.

The diplomats seemed in good spirits when they left the conference, so take heart. Apparently Stalin was a good humor to. Why shouldn't he be in a good humor? In spite of several rebuffs he has taken in central Europe, there are things to hearten an aging dictator — he is a dictator unless you go along with H. Truman who says he's a good guy but the tool of the politburo.

One thing is the Wallace Progressive convention. After all the mean things that Stalin has been called in America, here is a group who claims he's a pretty good guy — with or without the politburo. For a while there, Stalin might have entertained an idea that America didn't hate him so much after all.

This brings up another idea: if the leaders of Russia, France, Great Britain and the United States did get together as the rumor now has it what would that mean? It wouldn't be just Harry Truman talking to Andre Marie and a chap named Stalin talking to a chap named Attlee.

So while you're thinking of nations of the world remember they are nations not just some man with a mustache or with glasses. And Mr. Truman who now represents the United States, had better be ready to talk to Mr. Stalin and the others if the call comes. For his country's sake he must forget his emphatic statement that he would not go talk to Stalin.

Adjournment without Legislation

Shame on the skeptics who said congress wouldn't lift a finger to do anything about inflation!

Despite the cynics, the house banking committee is about to unwrap the GOP solution to our complex inflation woes. The congressional leaders tell us not to worry. Simply by tightening the screws on bank credit, re-enacting "title 6" which insures mortgages on new homes and by aiding investigators in new housing, the inflation bogey man will go away.

Heartened by such a thoroughgoing and all-inclusive approach to the problem, the majority of us can settle back in utter resignation and wait for the adjournment without legislation.

Now's the Time ...

Energetic 'Backfield' Carries Ball for Dewey

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Four lawyers are running Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's campaign for the presidency.

Three of them have worked as a team for several years in promoting the political fortunes of the Republican standard bearer. They are Herbert Brownell Jr., of New York City, J. Russell Sprague of Minola, Long Island, and Edwin F. Jaekle of Buffalo.

The fourth, Rep. Hugh D. Scott Jr., of Philadelphia, joined the "backfield" of the veteran Dewey campaign team in June when he was elected chairman of the Republican national committee.

Brownell is the quarterback. He calls the signals and directs the field drive for votes.

The extent to which Scott will participate in the drive to reach the Dewey goal—the White House—and the scope of his activities have not been determined specifically yet. As the national chairman, however, the Philadelphian will be entrusted with vital assignments.

"Coach" Dewey, of course, supervises overall strategy and has the final say on all major decisions. But he rates highly the proven political savvy of Brownell, Sprague and Jaekle, and seldom clashes with any of them.

Brownell, a slender, affable, balding and urbane gentleman of 44, first tied up with Dewey in 1930 when both were young mid-western-bred lawyers seeking a foothold in New York City. Born in Nebraska, Brownell settled in Manhattan after graduating from Yale law school in 1927.

Dewey started up the political ladder as an assistant district Republican captain. In 1931 he persuaded Brownell to run for the assembly from Manhattan's 10th district, a Tammany stronghold, and acted as his campaign manager. Brownell lost, but ran again in 1932 and won, despite the first Roosevelt landslide. He was re-elected four times.

The two hooked up again in 1940 when Dewey was making his first bid for the GOP presidential nomination. In 1942 Brownell helped Dewey become New York's first Republican governor in nearly 20 years.

With Dewey back in the national limelight, Brownell was a member of the triumvirate with Sprague and Jaekle which worked successfully behind the scenes to gain Dewey the GOP presidential nomination in 1944 without the governor ever formally declaring his candidacy.

Dewey made Brownell national chairman. He resigned in 1946 and resumed law practice, but returned last year and, working with Sprague and Jaekle, built up delegate support for the governor which smothered all opposition at the Philadelphia convention.

At 61, Sprague is the oldest, but politically the most nimble of Dewey's "three musketeers." He has been a member of the GOP national committee for eight years and has developed a wide circle of friends who wield considerable influence in the party.

He possesses an intimate, friendly personality and, like Brownell, an unshakable belief in Dewey. He is a graduate of Cornell law school and has been a member of the New York bar since 1911. He was police justice of Lawrence, Long Island, for 13 years starting in 1913. From 1930 to 1937 he was supervisor of the town of Hempstead, and since 1937 he has been the $20,000-a-year county executive of Nassau county, Long Island.

Sprague, as Nassau county Republican leader, was among those who in 1936 urged Dewey, then the racket-busting district attorney of New York county, to run for governor. Since then he has had a major part in managing his campaigns.

Sprague once explained his political philosophy this way: "Better politics makes for better government. The higher the plane of the political party administering the affairs of government, the more benefits will be derived by the people. I like politics that accomplish."

Jaekle, a quiet-spoken, heavy-set graying man of 53, blossomed as a New York state political power in 1936 when he was elected chairman of the Erie county Republican committee. He was regarded as a liberal and long was at odds with what he termed the "conservative" wing of the party.

He hitched his political wagon to the rising Dewey star early and active espousal of Dewey's gubernatorial candidacy in 1938. Dewey lost by a narrow margin to Democratic Governor Herbert H. Lehman. Jaekle became state chairman that year and worked with Brownell and Sprague in all Dewey's subsequent campaigns.

Jaekle broke with Dewey, however, after his defeat by President Roosevelt said it was due either to Dewey's failure to make Jaekle national chairman or to give him a more important role in the 1944 campaign.

He returned to the Dewey camp more than a year ago and since then has been one of the hardest working members of the team.

Jaekle, Brownell and Sprague are men of markedly different personalities, but they each have four traits in common—tremendous capacity for work, great organizing ability, a passion for political detail and an abiding faith in the political destiny of Thomas E. Dewey.

Scott, the new member of the team, is a friendly, informal, energetic man of 47, who has been dubbed the "Yankee from Virginia."

He was born in Fredericksburg, Va., is a graduate of Randolph Macon college and the University of Virginia law school, but made his career on the northern side of the Mason-Dixon line.

He got into politics as an assistant district attorney for Philadelphia county, a job he held 15 years, and in 1940 was elected to the house of representatives. He was re-elected in 1942, defeated in 1944 (when all six congressional seats in Philadelphia went to Democrats) and elected again in 1946.

Although a congressman during

SCOTT Friendly, Formal, Energetic

Roosevelt in 1944. No public explanation was offered by him or most of the war years, Scott saw considerable active military service. He was commissioned a lieutenant in the naval reserve in 1940 and served overseas in Iceland and in the Pacific theater. He was a lieutenant commander at the end of the war and drove the first navy jeep into Tokyo after Japan's surrender.

Indigestion's Not Your Own at the U. S. Mint

By ELLIOTT CHAZE
DENVER, COLO. (AP)—Once upon a time a bookkeeper at the United States mint here had a sour stomach.

It is very easy to develop a sour stomach working in the mint. There is something depressing about rubbing up against gold bricks all day long, then going home to a crowded apartment and an egg omelette bought on the cuf.

This bookkeeper was, doing something-or-other quite legitimate in the gold vault one night. He belched four times. Very fast and hard. The next thing he knew, an armed guard with a riot gun came sprinting in. The belches had set off a delicate sound alarm.

"It's just my stomach," the bookkeeper said. The guard thought that one over a moment, wheeled and made for the door. Then he turned and stared distrustfully at the bookkeeper's stomach.

Surrender to the Atom

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

So a Stafford, Connecticut, aircraft factory is moving 1687 miles to Dallas, Texas, to be safer in this atomic age!

About 1500 families are to be transplanted, and some 30,000 tons of machinery. This, to me, is a far more striking atomic news story, than any of those tense descriptions of what happens to a living creature when an atomic bomb lands in its immediate neighborhood and transforms it into a shapeless mass of hydrogen. For with this story, the terror of the atomic age becomes an everyday terror.

A freight car moves up to a siding, on an ordinary hot summer morning, the machinery is loaded, the car moves off again.

There is a special horror in the very ordinariness of these small events, for they mean that the menace of the atomic age is now being woven into the fabric of our routine life; it is no longer an apocalyptic vision, it is now as real as breakfast and the morning mail.

It means that the mere fear of the raging atom can blow an aircraft plant of 30,000 tons almost two thousand miles away from its fixed position, an explosive effect somewhat greater than that of the bomb itself is capable of. It means that the explosions foretold of the future are already producing prophetic anterior explosions in the minds of men.

And again what grips the attention is the ordinariness of the event, the kind of acceptance that is implied in the picture of over-allied workmen deciding whether to move that piece of machinery first, or this one, heaving it up into truck or box car, putting in an eight-hour day at escaping the atom, then going home to sleep so as to rest up for eight hours more.

It is indeed a story of national acceptance, acceptance of the intolerable and the impossible. Something has happened to us since that day, three years ago, when unbelievably we read the first accounts of the first explosion. We did not know quite how to take it then, or what to do. Now, we know, or think we know.

Why, we'll move to Dallas. It must suggest it. Bring up the box cars and the trucks.

They can punch out 750,000 pennies in eight hours, slightly less than that in the way of four-bit pieces and quarters and the rest.

Superintendent Smith said that every time a batch of coins goes through the puncher, or down the inspection belt, the whole lot is weighed.

"We don't have to count them to find if one's missing," Smith said. "We have the finest scales in the world."

Smith is very fond of proving this.

He likes to give you a sheet of clean paper and a pencil. But first he weighs the paper on a fancy scale.

"Now," he says, "make the smallest dot you can make on the paper, the very faintest, lightest dot — careful, now, not too big a one."

Then he takes the sheet of paper and weighs the pencil dot. It's probable that through the years mint officials have weighed a couple of hundred pounds of pencil dots, just by way of showing that it can be done.

McBride's Hall A Blue-Gilled Humanizer

By BILL MCBRIDE

In a statement to the press the other day, Vaughn Monroe made the startling announcement it has always been his belief that "the best fish I ever ate were the blue gills my Uncle Maah used to catch out in Akron."

You're probably thinking that just shows how far a celebrity will stretch a point to make a statement to the press. Why bother making a statement at all if something more dynamic than Uncle Maah's blue gills can't be mentioned?

I can imagine how this statement about Monroe's uncle evolved. The singer and his agent were sitting in an office when a lovely, but inefficient, secretary opened the door and announced that a member of the press wanted to talk to Mr. Monroe. How do I know she was inefficient? If you made the money that Monroe does, wouldn't you hire at least one inefficient, pretty secretary just on general principles?

Being fresh out of dynamic statements, the crooner and the agent decided they would give the press a "humanizer" this time.

A "humanizer" is a press release that is supposed to bring a celebrity closer to his public by letting it know that he is just a common fellow who likes to get into an old pair of blue denims on a Sunday afternoon and shoot marbles with the president of General Motors who happens to live next door. That is how the Uncle Maahs story was born. (If I had an uncle with a name like that, I'd keep it out of press releases.)

You see how it works? Vaughn Monroe, who makes a living grooming about sailing with the moon, or basting with the spoon, or mauling with the boom (never have been able to understand him), has an uncle in Akron who fishes for blue gills. My dad fishes for anything he can catch, and that practically sets me up in business as a crooner.

To cinch the "humanizer" the singer said, "My aunt would take off the top fins, clean 'em, sash 'em around in a pan of corn meal and fry 'em."

That statement is positively loaded with "humanizers." Suppose we analyze it. First of all he mentions his aunt... that means his Uncle Maahs is married, and since marriage is the great American institution and all of us know at least one couple who is married, we have something in common with a famous vocalist right off the bat.

The second clincher rests in the statement that his aunt takes off the top fins, cleans 'em, slashes 'em around in a pan of cornmeal and fries 'em. (Note the use of rustic English.)

Broken down, this means that he doesn't eat fish whole, although he failed to mention removing the head, and the thought of a blue gill staring up from the plate while I dissect the finny little fellow is a little too oriental for me.

I don't see where Monroe gains much in the part about sashing 'em around in cornmeal. What else would you sash 'em around in? ... a pan of emeralds maybe?

The fact that his aunt fried 'em is a nice touch, though. Now we know that Vaughn Monroe eats his fish cooked just as you and I do.

While Dr. Harper has his detective magazines, Prof. Mauricio Lasansky holds the dubious honor of being the only art faculty member who ever found a rattlesnake in his studio, and no matter how distinguished you are, a thing like that can upset a bushel of bearing.

Harold Stassen was named president of the University of Pennsylvania Wednesday. Wonder if he'll be allowed to speak on Penn's campus... ayowed political candidate you know.

'GOP, Demo Vote For Fascism, War'

NEW YORK (AP)—William Z. Foster, national Communist party chairman, last night praised Henry A. Wallace's party and said "a vote for either Truman or Dewey means a vote for eventual fascism or war."
 "They are brazen liars who charge that the Communist party is trying to dominate the new party to claim the credit for its formation," Foster asserted in a speech prepared for a rally at Madison Square Garden.
 The rally opened the 14th national convention of the Communist party. It will continue through Thursday. Foster's speech was broadcast over the ABC network.
Wall Street Dominated
 The party leader said the Democratic and Republican parties "are both dominated by Wall street, their candidates and platforms were dictated by big business, and both are committed to American imperialism's policy of world conquest."
 "The new Progressive party offers the opportunity for the forces fighting for peace and against inflation and fascism, to organize and express their strength."
 "It's national ticket, Wallace and Taylor, will rally hosts of workers, Negroes, farmers, veterans, women, youth, intellectuals, and other patriotic Americans who are determined that our people shall not be butchered for the profit and glory of Wall Street."
 Foster declared "the Progressive party is in no sense a Communist party."
 The Communists have many points of difference with the Wallace group, he said, explaining: "Capitalism On Way Out"
 "The most important is that while many leaders in the Progressive party believe that the badly crippled world capitalism system can be saved and transformed into 'progressive capitalism,' we Marxist-Leninists do not. Capitalism historically is on its way off the world stage."
 Foster said "the Trumans, Deweys, Dulles, Hoovers, and Marshalls, Vancembergs and other men of the trusts who are running our government could readily secure a Democratic agreement with the USSR, as Roosevelt did. But they don't want it. They are fighting for Wall street's world control."
 Americans are "paying through the nose for Wall street's insane imperialistic adventures," Foster said.
 "A decisive factor in the soaring cost of living is the government's squandering of 25 billions per year building up a war economy in the United States and Europe."

Foster was one of 12 top Communist party officials indicated by federal grand jury two weeks ago on charges of seeking to overthrow the U. S. government by violence. He is free on $5,000 bail.
Not For Violence—Dennis
 Eugene Dennis, the party's general secretary, said in a prepared speech that "despite all fables and falsehoods, we Communists do not advocate force and violence. As Marxists, we are opposed in principle to adventurism, terror, assassination, conspiracies and coup d'etat."
 He brought up the name of Elizabeth Bentley, self-styled former Communist agent who testified before congressional committees last week about an alleged spy ring in government departments.
 "No matter how many . . . Elizabeth Bentley's reaction digs up from the dregs of capitalist society," Dennis said. "No matter what 'espionage' provocations and other new frame-ups the bi-partisan monopolists invent to bolster their miserable defense, we intend to press our indictment against the men of the trusts."
 Another speaker, John Williamson, member of the Communist national board, also referred to the spy case.
 Republicans and Democrats "and the powerful monopoly interests they represent," he said in a prepared speech, "are trying to keep the people from thinking about their troubles by feeding them thriller-dillers about 'beautiful blondes' who turn out to be homely brunettes, and 'spy rings' that never happened at all."
 Dennis and Williamson also were indicated by the grand jury.

 It was in the form of money donations to be used as a nucleus for a continuing fund by which the work of the Hoover library and institute can be expanded.
 The occasion was the former president's approaching 74th birthday.

To Be Taught Atomic Energy

DES MOINES (AP)—Iowa school children will have an opportunity to learn something about atomic energy in terms they can understand.
 And while they are learning the emphasis will be placed on the useful purposes to which recent discoveries about nuclear energy might be put.
 Jesse Parker, state superintendent of public instruction, says the educational program may be sufficiently advanced to give it a good start during the next school term which opens in the fall.
 The department of public instruction is serving as the coordinating agency for a general committee of educators who have interested themselves in introducing a study of the new subject in the schools.
 In addition to the general committee there are numerous sub-committees of teachers who will have to deal with the matter of text material written so that teenagers and grade school children can grasp what splitting the atom means.
 The general committee is composed of representatives of the University of Iowa, Iowa State college, fellow educators, members of the department of public instruction and interested laymen.
 Miss Parker said she planned to have a meeting of this group during August to go over details of the project and find out what still remains to be done.
 "It is pretty much in a nebulous state but the groundwork has been laid to accomplish something worthwhile," she said.
 "There are many ways of approaching the subject at the different grade levels and these will have to be worked out to achieve the best results."
 One of the major problems confronting the committees, Miss Parker said, is the preparation of suitable textbook material.
 The department's first opportunity to bring the program to the attention of Iowa teachers generally will be during the tri-county meetings preceding the opening of school in September.

GOP Readies Anti-Inflation Plan To Differ from Truman Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The congressional Republican high command yesterday drew the outlines of a GOP anti-inflation program, flatly rejecting most of President Truman's proposals.

Chairman Wolcott (R-Mich) of the house banking committee told reporters he probably would introduce the Republican bill tomorrow.

The GOP program, in a preliminary stage and not formally announced, was reported to include:

1. Legislation to tighten bank credit by increasing bank reserve requirements.
2. A housing bill that would reenact the so-called "title 6" under which the government insures mortgages on new dwellings, give investors in rental property tax savings by increasing the rate of depreciation of the property and yield insurance, guaranteeing a profit for investors in large rental properties.

The housing bill, eliminating the controversial federal low-rent housing and slum clearance, passed the house during the regular session and is pending in the senate.

Mr. Truman has asked for that measure, with the subsidized housing feature back in it, along with price and rationing controls, and a multi-billion dollar excess profits tax.

The Republican program outline was drawn at a meeting of House Speaker Martin, Senator Taft of Ohio, house Republican Leader Halleck of Indiana, and Wolcott.

They also discussed whether wartime controls on installment buying should be restored. Indications were that no agreement was reached on this subject.

The session was held amid indications that congress might clean up its extra session work and quit in a few days.

The Truman profits tax bill was sent to the capitol earlier in the day.

Republican leaders let it be known immediately it has no more chance of engagement that the President's price control program.

They were working on an anti-inflation plan of their own. They hoped to get action on this and then adjourn the extra session next week.

West Liberty Nurse Files $37,000 Suit Over Fatal Collision

$37,000 damage suit growing out of the fatal auto-truck collision near Wilton Junction May 11 was filed yesterday in Johnson county district court.

Margaret Bottomley, 38, West Liberty nurse, brought the suit against the Treloar Trucking company, Peoria, Ill., whose driver, John Wesley Turnipseed, 29, Des Moines, was trapped and burned to death in his auto-carrying semi-trailer.

Miss Bottomley, employed by Dr. A. E. Ady of West Liberty, said her new car was completely demolished. Valued before the accident at $2,500, she said it had a $100 salvage value afterward.

The nurse said her injuries included a fractured jaw, thigh, nose and vertebrae, lacerations, a brain concussion and first degree burns on her fingers and neck.

She said she will continue to suffer mental anguish and physical injury of a lasting nature. She said she sustained "disfiguring and lasting" cuts.

She was confined to Mercy hospital for six weeks and will continue to need medical and nursing care at home, she said.

Other losses her petition mentioned included clothing and salary.

She has assigned her cause of action to Walter Blackledge, a resident of Illinois.

Attorneys Harold Keele of West Liberty and D. C. Nolan of Iowa City are representing Miss Bottomley.

Well, You Might Go Riverbanking

She had been hunting for an apartment for months. Ever since they had become engaged she and her fiancé had been spending their spare time hunting (spelled h-a-u-n-t-i-n-g) landlords to seek lodgings.

Sunday she got her first wedding gift. It came in a huge white box.

Her eyes lit up as she unwrapped the tissue paper as her fellow employees at the Iowa Union looked on.

As she opened the lid of the box, her jaw dropped, and with it the beaming of anticipation she had carried.

"Oh," she said, "I thought it was going to be a tent."

But she appreciated the big, warm, moth-proofed blanket, anyway.

Yordis File Twin Auto Damage Suits

John and Emma Yordis, 401 Melrose court, yesterday filed two damage suits against G.H. Swails, 611 Oakland avenue.

The suits resulted from an automobile collision at Iowa avenue and Dubuque street last July 6. Mrs. Yordis' suit is for $2,500 personal damages she said were incurred when she was thrown from her car to the pavement when a car owned by the defendant and driven by Larry Swails hit her automobile.

She said she sustained injuries to her left leg, back, and right arm. She said she has been and will continue to be under a doctor's care.

Her husband asked for $172.50, the amount of damages he said was done to his car, which his wife was driving at the time of the accident.

Attorney D. C. Nolan represents the Yordis.

L. Servheen Feted At Farewell Party

Lutheran students surprised Lorraine Servheen, student center director, at a farewell party Sunday night. Miss Servheen leaves Friday for her home in Washington, D.C., where she will attend the Corcoran school of art.

After a buffet supper, Miss Servheen received gifts including a $150 purse, a radio, flowers, and a life membership in the student foundation. She has been student counselor since 1943, with the exception of one year's leave of absence spent in Sweden.

The Rev. A. C. Proehl presented the new director, Fern Bohlsen of Nebraska. Miss Bohlsen was in Iowa City over the week-end acquainting herself with the student center duties. She will return in September.

Miss Bohlsen comes here from Powell, Wyo., where she taught in an elementary school. She is a graduate of Wayne State Teachers' college, Wayne, Neb., and the University of Nebraska in Lincoln. As a college student, Miss Bohlsen was a member of the Lutheran student association for four years.

No Increase in Membership Of Rent Board

The Iowa City rent advisory board will "definitely not" be increased to 11 members, T. J. Wilkinson, area rent director, said yesterday.

Early in July Wilkinson announced that the board would be increased so that there would be a proper representative ratio of landlord, tenant and public interest groups provided for in the 1948 rent law.

Later there was an indication that the increase of members on the board would not go through. At the time Wilkinson said abandonment of the plan would have to be authorized by Tighe Woods, national housing expediter.

"I have received word from Washington that the idea of an 11-man board for this area has definitely been abandoned," Wilkinson said.

He said an 11-member board "is too large and unwieldy" for this area. He did not know what action Washington will take to balance representation on the board.

Vacancy On Board

Meanwhile, names have been submitted to the national housing expediter as nominees to fill the advisory board vacancy left by the resignation of Ruth A. Gallaher last week.

"An appointment to fill the vacancy will be made in a week or ten days," he said.

Present members of the board are Chairman Jacob A. Swishes, H. J. Dane, Stephen G. Darling and Harold W. Vestermark.

Wilkinson also reminded veterans yesterday that they should be given first opportunity to buy or rent single family residences constructed between June 30, 1947 and April 1, 1949 when the present rent law expires.

The veteran has purchase and rent preference for 30 days following completion of the dwelling.

The local rent office is also prepared to receive complaints of veterans who purchased dwellings during the time the veterans emergency housing program was in effect.

Prior to this time the office of the housing expediter was not equipped to handle complaints on priority housing.
