'Spare the Trees'

IRRATE OSKALOOSA HOUSEWIVES lean against the blade of a bulldozer in an attempt to stop removal of 137 shade trees along an avenue through the city. The bulldozer was stopped and yesterday morning a court order temporarily halted all work. The trees were being taken out to widen a federal highway through the city.

Hope Seen for Berlin Settlement

Optimism Follows Stalin Talks

By WES GALLAGHER

BERLIN (AP)—Western Power negotiations with Prime Minister Stalin are expected here to result in a new Big Four power conference and the lifting of the Soviet blockade of Berlin.

Official silence cloaked the Moscow negotiations in this blockaded city last night but it is known that American and British occupation commanders are being kept advised of developments by Washington and London.

Informed unofficial sources, showing their first signs of optimism in weeks, indicated they had reason to believe Monday night's meeting in Moscow would result in an east-west compromise and the breaking of the Berlin deadlock.

"You can't expect things to return to normal around here," said one source when questioned whether he thought the blockade would be lifted. Others expressed the same view.

This same source was pessimistic over whether a new Big Four meeting would succeed in settling east-west issues, but he predicted a high probability of success.

Dennis devoted most of his speech at the closed convention session to the 1948 elections. He said the Communists would continue to support the Progressive party despite contentions they should withdraw this backing if they "really want to help beat reaction."

Portions of the speech were released by the convention publicity staff. Dennis was one of 12 top Communist officials recently indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of seeking to overthrow the U.S. government.

"It should be noted," Dennis said, "that the very emergence of the new anti-monopoly people's party (the Progressives) is an expression of the developing crisis within monopoly's two-party system."

Symptoms of the crisis, he continued, include the "short-lived Eisenhower boom, which united southern Bourbons, northern machine Democrats, the ADA (Americans for Democratic Action) crowd and various CIO leaders in a desperate search for a winning candidate."

But, the secretary said, "big capital is saving Eisenhower for a more acute national emergency, where he can appear in the guise of a non-partisan candidate and play the Cincinnatus role of national saviour."

There were indications the western powers would accept this compromise.

Israeli Announces Conscription Order

TEL AVIV (AP)—A labor conscription order affecting immigrants who arrived after the beginning of the United Nations truce July 18 was announced by the Israeli government yesterday.

Terms of the truce prohibit military conscription of the immigrants but the new order allows the government to register them for draft labor.

The Hebrew press yesterday displayed prominently Foreign Minister Moshe Shertok's warning that Arab violations of the truce would lead to a renewal of the war by the Israeli army.

Israeli leaders are expected to reiterate their demands for firm UN action to halt truce infractions when Count Folke Bernadotte, the UN mediator, arrives here today for conferences.

A paralyzed war veteran arrived in Iowa City Monday afternoon driving 1,100 miles to attend the graduation of his brother this evening.

John H. Buhs, 24, left Peekskill, N. Y., Sunday morning with his mother, Mrs. Kate Buhs, in his car, which is equipped with special hand controls. Buhs, who was discharged from Cushing VA hospital July 26, drove the entire distance himself.

His brother, William, will receive his bachelor of arts degree from the college of liberal arts this evening.

Buhs is paralyzed from his waist down. He was injured after a B-17, in which he was riding, was machinegunned by German planes over Saarbrücken in Feb. 1944.

Unknown to him, his parachute had been punctured. After jumping from the plane, Buhs pulled the ripcord but the cord pulled loose so he had to tear the parachute from its case as he fell. The parachute opened, but began to rip, making Buhs descend faster and faster. On the way down he passed out. When he came to he couldn't move.

German SS troops picked him up and he was sent to a hospital staffed by captured English medical personnel.

He spent seven months at the German hospital before being repatriated. Then he stayed for two years in England general hospital at Atlantic City, N. J., and underwent several operations to remove pressure on his spine. In September

South Stalls On Poll Tax; Taft Stumped

WASHINGTON (AP)—The southern filibuster against a bill to repeal the poll tax derailed on yesterday with Senator Hill of Alabama reading the history of the constitution in a slow Dixie drawl.

Senator Taft (R-OHIO) has said that in his opinion it is "absolutely impossible" to break the filibuster.

"The only solution is to change the senate rules so that we can limit debate, but I don't think we can do that before the regular session in January," he said.

The GOP policy leader said he would ask a special Republican conference today to decide whether to back a plan to submit the poll tax question to the states as a constitutional amendment.

Southerners have indicated they would not filibuster such a move. It would, however, require a two-thirds approval of both houses and ratification by three-fourths of the states.

Hill declared the poll tax bill had been brought before the Senate "in the heat of a political campaign—under political pressure—at a time when the senate ought not to be considering any fundamental changes in the law."

There were only eight senators in their seats and less than 25 persons in the galleries as Hill ended a 16-hour, 13-minute speech.

Although hindered by the women, who stood beside the trees as the workmen fastened chains around the trunks, the crew pulled out half a dozen of the 137 trees scheduled to go in connection with a federal aid street-widening project.

At that point a group of householders got a court order temporarily delaying the project and an uneasy peace settled on this community.

"You are not fooling the American people when you think you are driving a wedge in the Democratic party by putting on this sham battle."

U. S. USED AUSTRIAN AGENTS, TASS SAYS

VIENNA (AP)—The official Soviet new agency, Tass, charged yesterday that a number of Austrians arrested recently by Soviet authorities were known criminals who acted as agents for the U.S. army intelligence service.

American officials said the charge was without foundation. The Tass statement mentioned Capt. Frank Harris, described as chief of the 430th counter intelligence corps, as an American who hired one of the Austrians. American CIC officials said they had never heard of any Capt. Harris.

The Tass statement said Soviet authorities had evidence "these gangsters in the American service were not only engaged in espionage service against the Red army but were also instructed to ransack offices of Democratic (Communist) Austrian organizations."

U. S. SHIPS BOATLOAD OF I. Q. TO JAPANESE

SEATTLE (AP)—The Seattle port of embarkation claims it's the biggest single shipment of top-grade I. Q. from the United States to any foreign country.

"It adds up to 119 schoolteachers, all bound for Japan to instruct children of army personnel.

He was transferred to Cushing. He played wheelchair basketball there for the Cushing Clippers, runners-up in the national wheelchair tournament held in Madison Square Garden last March.

Besides giving ambulatory demonstrations and speaking before civic groups on paraplegics, Buhs studied watch repairing and will enter the Bulova watch repairing school in Long Island after becoming married Sept. 4.

Citizens of Peekskill and surrounding towns took up a collection for Buhs to help construct a special house for him.

This is the third trip to Iowa for the paralyzed veteran. He has also made frequent trips in the east. He pointed out that a survey by the Massachusetts motor bureau revealed that paraplegic drivers had far less accidents by percentage than regular drivers.

Without the aid of his car or wheel chair, Buhs is only able to move very short distances with the aid of crutches. He uses them mainly for exercise.

GOP Readies Limited Inflation Control Law

Had Yen-for Yen, No Craze for Blaze

TOKYO (AP)—Japanese police at Hiroshima, investigating an arson case, questioned a neighbor. No, he insisted, he hadn't started any fire. All he had ever done was rob that bank messenger last fall of half a million yen.

He also told officers exactly how he'd managed the robbery—which police had never been able to solve.

Guard Insures Peace At Univis Lens Plant

DAYTON, OHIO (AP)—Peace—enforced by national guard guns, bayonets and tanks—came to the strike-troubled Univis Lens plant yesterday.

But not to the CIO united electrical workers, whose 91-day strike for bargaining rights resulted in picket-line battles and a municipal state of emergency.

The company resumed production yesterday when approximately 350 of its normal 658 employees returned to the plant between lines of steel-helmeted troops who resorted once to use of tear gas.

While nearly 1,400 guardsmen maintained a cordon about the plant area, to keep out strikers, sympathizers and the curious, union members ran into trouble elsewhere.

Lou Kaplan, U.E. field agent and leader of the strike, was clapped in jail for 10 days for contempt of court.

Kaplan and four other strike lieutenants, including a former state senator, Kermit N. Kirkegaard, were fined $100 for contempt.

All were jailed pending posting of $2,500 bond each to guarantee they would remain out of the strike zone.

Two other union leaders were picked up on charges of engaging in picket line skirmishes last week, and two men employed by a bakery were seized for interfering with the guardsmen.

Common Pleas Judge Paul T. Klapp, sentencing the five contempt defendants, told them "you have done an unjustifiable and miserable thing to this community and have only hurt your own cause."

Criticizing last week's five days of disorder, when pickets massed by the scores in disobedience of a court order limiting them to six, Judge Klapp added:

"It is probable that in the history of Dayton there have never been such unnecessary scenes as recently."

He imposed the $100 fines because the five ignored his order to remain away from the plant. Kaplan got his 10 days because he overslept and kept the court waiting an hour and a half.

Bill Would Re-Establish Credit Control

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican leaders reached an agreement last night to start a limited anti-inflation bill rolling through Congress today.

The agreement was announced by Senator Taft (R-Ohio), chairman of the Senate GOP policy committee, and Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich.), chairman of the House banking committee. Their announcement followed a two-hour meeting of Taft, Wolcott and several members of the Senate banking committee.

As outlined by Wolcott, the House banking committee will start consideration today of a Senate-approved bill to re-establish consumer credit controls.

Wolcott said the bill would be used as a base. He planned to offer amendments in committee to restore the gold reserve requirements for federal reserve banks to their 1945 level, and probably an amendment to increase the reserves of federal reserve banks by three percent on demand deposits and one percent on time deposits.

Increasing the reserves cuts down the amount of money banks can lend. The theory is that this is a check on inflation.

President Truman had recommended that the government be empowered to increase reserve requirements on time deposits by four percent, and on demand deposits by ten percent.

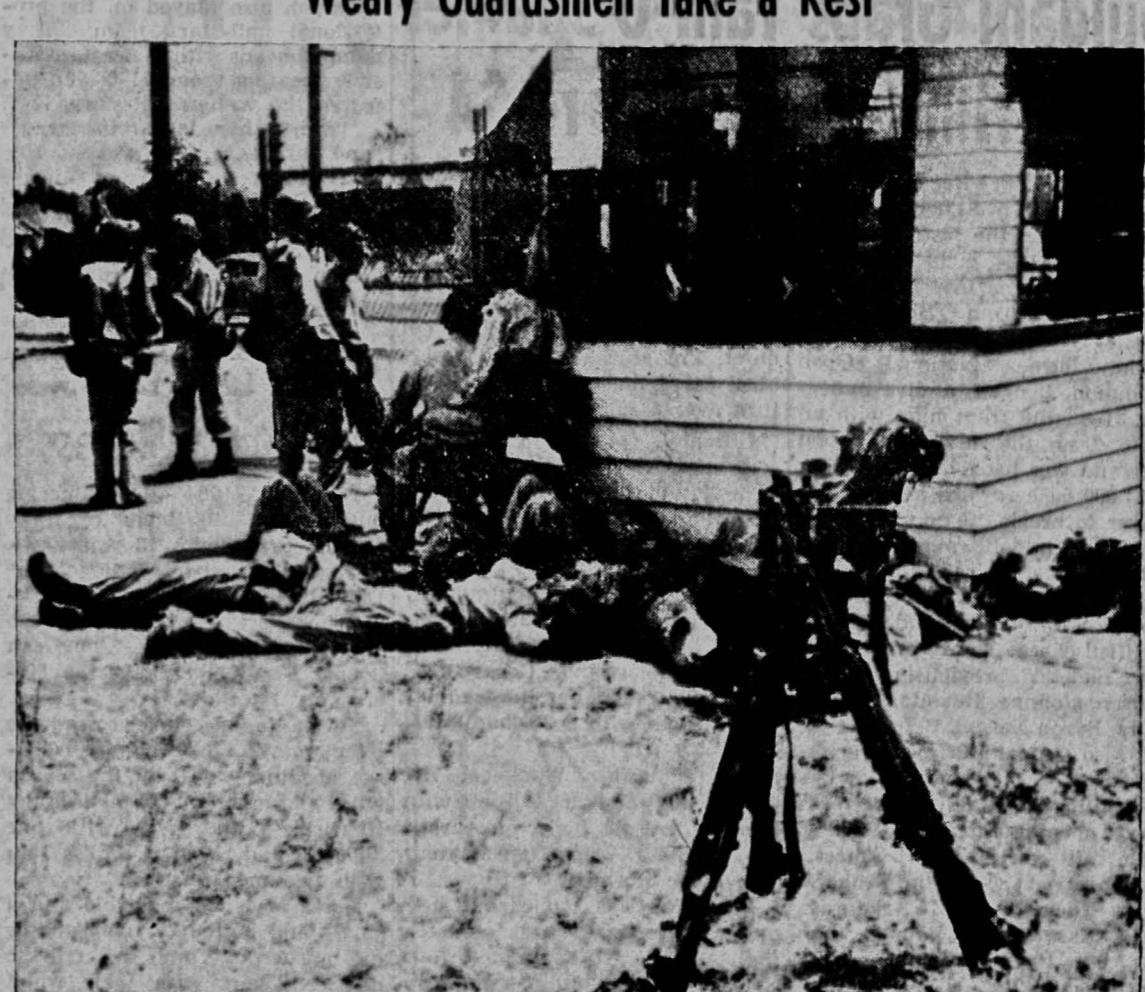

Scrap Truman Program
The Republican leaders have marked for the discard most of the Truman anti-inflation program, which calls among other things for powers to control some prices and wages and to resume rationing if it is deemed necessary.

Despite indications that it has no chance of success, the President pressed yesterday for passage of another item in his anti-inflation program—an excess profits tax designed to trim the peacetime profits of larger corporations.

Rep. Wolcott said his amendment to increase the reserves that banks are required to set aside to assure payment of their deposits would apply only to members of the federal reserve system.

The President, too, asked that the increases apply only to member banks but federal reserve officials have said the increase should apply to non-member banks as well.

Weary Guardsmen Take a Rest

TAKING A REST are these Ohio national guardsmen at the Univis Lens company plant in Dayton, Ohio. The troops moved all Monday night to take up strike duty yesterday at the plant. The guard was called in to keep order after the 91-day strike began to produce picket-line battles and brought a municipal state of emergency in Dayton.

Wally Ris On Winning 800-Meter Team S

Thompson Sets New Record In Shot Put

By TED SMITS

LONDON (AP) — Uncle Sam reaped another bumper crop of Olympic championships yesterday, thanks to three Californians — sprinter Mel Patton, shot putter Wilbur Thompson and diver Vicki Draves—and the men's 800-meter swim relay team.

The men's swim relay team composed of Wally Ris of Chicago and Iowa university, the 100-meter free style Olympic champ; Wallace Wolf of Los Angeles; Jimmy McLane, 17-year-old Akron, Ohio and Andover academy star, and Hawaiian Bill Smith of Ohio State, broke the world and Olympic record of 8:51.5 set by Japan in 1936. The American quartet was clocked in 8:46 flat.

Hungary was second, pressing the Americans all the way. The Hungarians also bettered the former record with a time of 8:48.4. France with Alex Jany swimming anchor, was third.

Patton was a bitter disappointment in the 100-meter race, sped to victory in the 200-meter final, less than a yard ahead of Barney Ewell, the 30-year-old former Penn State star.

The 23-year-old Southern California student was clocked in 21.1 and the finish was so close that Ewell recorded the same time on the official watches.

Back of the American pair came Lloyd LaBeau, Panama's one-man team, and Herb McHenry the American-trained Jamaican who is a standout favorite in the 100-meter event.

An Olympic shot put record was set almost every time an American tossed the iron ball. Nine times the old standard fell before Thompson, another Southern Cal student, clinched the title with heave of 56 feet 2 inches. It was the seventh track and field crown won by an American.

Thompson cracked the record five times and fouled out on the sixth attempt as he nosed out Jim Delaney, a high school teacher in San Francisco, who achieved 54 feet 8 1/2 inches.

All of this shelved the old mark, set by Hans Woellke of Germany in 1936, when he did 53 feet 1 1/4 inches.

Mrs. Draves, a 23-year-old Pasadena housewife, led the U.S. to a sweep of the first three places in the women's springboard diving competition. The men accomplished the same cleanup Saturday. Both men and women are favored to repeat their triumphs in the high dive.

Wally Ris of Oakland, California, the 17-year-old American title-holder, finished second to Mrs. Draves for the first time in major competition. The final result was in doubt until the eighth and last dive was scored. Patricia Ann Elsener of San Francisco was third.

Basketball, considered a sure thing win for the American squad, produced a real surprise when the Argentines made it close. The U.S. squad, trailing at half time by six points, had to come from behind to pull out a 59-57 victory in a game marred by arguments.

Guldahl Grabs Tam O'Shanter Lead with Course Record 64

CHICAGO (AP) — Big Ralph Guldahl dropped a $1,000 five foot birdie putt on the last hole for a course record 64, eight under par, to jump into the first round lead of the $50,000 Tom O'Shanter golf tournament yesterday.

The former National Open champion banged a five-under par 31 on the front nine with an eagle, 3, on the 485-yard second hole and was back in 3 under 33. A $1,000 cash reward awaited the player to break the course record of 65 and Guldahl calmly rambled in his five-putt on the 18th carpet for a birdie, 3 and 64. Promoter George S. May then handed him a certified check. The record 65 had been matched previously by Len Dodson, Johnny Revolta, Johnny Bulla, Byron Nelson, Bobby Locke and also Guldahl in past tournaments.

Trailing Guldahl in yesterday's opening round of the 72-hole all-American pro meet, which pays $5,000 to the winner, were Dick Metz of Arkansas City, Kas., with a pair of 33's for 66, Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., 32-35-67; little-known Elmer Reed, Atlanta, Ga., 34-33-67, and Herman Barron of White Plains, N. Y., the 1946 Tam champion, with two 34's for 68.

AMERICAN BEAUTIES SWEEP DIVING — Mrs. Victoria Manolo Draves (center) took first place in the women's Olympic springboard diving competition. Zoe Ann Olsen (left) was second and Patricia Ann Elsener finished third.

The Americans failed to place a man in the hop, skip and jump and only one, Browning Ross of Villanova, qualified for the finals of the 3,000-meter steeplechase. But it looked like another sweep today in the 110-meter hurdles in which the U.S. sent all three men into the semi-finals.

All three U.S. entrants in the 10,000-meter walk were disqualified because they were not walking in the approved style. Henry Laskau, Fred Sharaga and Ernest Weier, all of New York, were tossed out of the heel-and-toe event.

After their diving sweep, the American women had to take a back seat to the Danish girls who apparently are destined to succeed the Dutch as team's swim champs. Karen Margrethe Harup of Denmark clipped a full second off the old Olympic mark in the winning a trial heat in 1:15.6.

Nel Van Vliet of Holland won the women's 200-meter breast stroke championship in 2:57.2, in the evening competition. Her time was two-tenth of a second slower than the new Olympic record she made in a preliminary heat. All Americans were eliminated in the winning a trial heat in 1:15.6.

It's Been a Long Time Since '34 —

But Just One More Summer

— And 'Ship' Farroh Can Quit School

By JIM ROSE

One more summer session and Shipley Farroh, a former Iowa football player, will put his college books away for good.

Farroh has gone to IowA and since 1934. He received his B.S. in physical education last January and expects to get his M.A. next summer.

He has accepted a coaching job at Galena, Ill., high school this fall, and is going to come back next summer to finish his college work.

"Ship" started playing football here in 1935, alternating as fullback and guard. His most regular years were in '37 and '38 when he played guard.

"I was running guard for Ozzie Simmons," Farroh said. "He was the best open field runner I have ever seen. I thought he was a great player."

"In '38 I was on the same team with a lot of the men that made up the 1939 Iron Men squad," "Ship" reminisced. "Nile Kinnick, then a sophomore, was our quarterback. I knew him well, and liked him very much. The whole team thought the world of him. We could see then he was going to make an exceptional player."

Farroh said "Bush" Lamb was also a teammate. Lamb was killed in action during World War II. Other "Iron Men" on the team were Erwin Prasse and Ken Evans, he added.

Farroh quit school in 1938 to play professional football. He played with the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Boston Red Skins, both National league clubs.

"The Chicago Bears had a powerhouse then, and we dreaded it every time we met them on the gridiron," "Ship" remarked. "The first time I played against them, two big bruisers playing opposite me, hit me and just about knocked me out," he added. "I weighed about 205, so you can gather how big they were."

Farroh also played on the professional all-star team. They bumped heads with the eastern all-stars, beating them, 21-0, and defeated the western all-stars, 13-7.

"Ship" then joined the army and served for five years. He was athletic instructor at "about two dozen different bases in this country." He received his discharge late in 1945, and came back to school in the fall of 1946.

Yanks Clip Tigers; Yogi Berra Shines

DETROIT (AP) — Hammering out a dozen hits, including three homers to go with 18 walks, the New York Yankees walloped the Detroit Tigers, 15 to 3, before 48,915 fans last night to move into second place in the American League. Frank Shea gave the Tigers only four hits.

Seven Yankee runs crossed the plate on the three homers, George McQuinn's 11th of the season with one man on base, Tommy Henrich's 12th, also with one aboard, and Yogi Berra's 10th with two men on.

Berra also had a double and a single and batted in five runs as the murderous Yanks collared the hapless Tigers with their worst defeat of the year.

Everybody in the New York lineup hit safely at least once except Phil Rizzuto and everybody but Charley Keller drove in at least one run.

Yogi Berra, the 10th man on the 36-year-old Guldahl in met the 36-year-old Guldahl on the 18th green, but kept the mutual window closed. He usually makes fantastic bets on putting but this time he declared: "I didn't want to put any more pressure on Ralph than possible—so I kept quiet. I'm glad to see him establish 64 as the course record and turn over a $1,000 check to him."

Guldahl's swing went somewhat sour after he won the 1937 and 1938 National Open titles and he has been pretty much out of the picture since. However, this year he began another campaign on the tournament tour and gradually has brought his game under control.

Bill McParland, Cedar Rapids, Ia., was among the leading pro golfers with a 36-hole total of 36-35-71.

Mike Stolarik of Waukegan, Ill., topped the amateur division with an excellent 68 for a one-stroke lead in the all-American amateur side of the tourney.

Babe Zaharias rapped out a 4- under women's par 72 to match the course record in taking a four stroke lead over the all-American women's field. Listed at 76 were Patty Berg of Minneapolis, who held the course record, and two amateurs, Grace Lenczyk of Newington, Conn., and Mrs. Eddie Bush of Detroit.

Ex-Champion Ryan Dies

VAL NUYS, CALIF. (AP) — Tommy Ryan, 78, former welterweight and middleweight champion of the world and survivor of 200 boxing battles in the days of skin-tight gloves, died yesterday.

Heart disease called the final count on Ryan at his home where he lived with his wife, Anna. They had been married more than 50 years.

Ryan knocked out the original Jack Dempsey, the nonpareil, in three rounds at Coney Island in 1895, after winning the welter title from Danny Needham by a knockout after a 76-round, 5-hour and 5-minute fight at Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 16, 1891.

There was some dispute over whether Needham or mysterious Billy Smith was the preceding welter king, so Ryan beat Smith, too, in 20 rounds in 1894. Ryan assumed the middleweight title left vacant by Bob Fitzsimmons and retired undefeated with both titles in 1907.

Colombian Official Gives Hint that U.S. May Be Considering Alternate Waterway

By Daily Iowan Research Staff

The Panama canal — vital link in America's defense plan — may soon be pushed aside for a sea-level canal through Colombia.

Colombia's Foreign Minister Eduardo Zuleta Angel let the cat out of the bag with a recent remark that Colombia may soon issue an official statement on a report that the U. S. proposed such a canal.

Angel is now meeting with a committee of the Colombian parliament and may issue the statement any day now. To informed observers, it will not come as a surprise.

Since the end of the war, the Panama canal and its defense are becoming obsolete. The prospect of long-range guided missiles in a future attack against the intricate system of canal locks is a serious worry to military men.

To make things worse, a recent wave of anti-American feeling in Panama influenced the national assembly to reject an agreement under which the U. S. would have obtained leases on 13 bases it was using under a wartime arrangement.

During the war the U. S. had 130 bases in Panama. They ranged from tiny radar and searchlight posts to the huge 20,000 acre Rio Hato airbase. Today, this vital core of a canal defense system which patrols 4.5-million miles of sea and land is gone.

Added to other worries over the canal, the locks are too small to accommodate the country's most modern warships. The U. S. S. Franklin D. Roosevelt, for instance, is three feet wider than the Panama locks.

The U. S. was keenly disappointed by Panama's rebuff. Reports claim that Communist agitators fanned long-standing controversies and resentments against the U. S. A hatred of "Yankee imperialism" which paid American help more than native laborers on the canal and a new surge of nationalism spurred by Panamanian college students were two of the chief reasons for the advocates of reaction.

Something a little more complicated in the way of a Truman-Dewey switch appears in the present squabble over the extra session of congress.

If we are to believe the Republican leaders, Dewey and the Republican party now stand in the vanguard of liberalism and free enterprise, the new "New Dealers" for American business to support, while Harry Truman and his cohorts are clearly the advocates of reaction.

The political in-punching on both sides has been professional and deadly, but there is little doubt that the Republicans are out to convince the country they have everybody's best interests at heart. Senator Taft has openly denounced President Truman as a political opportunist for calling the special session.

A lot of pious breast-beating on the part of Republicans is being trotted out. Through it all, Truman has stuck to his position that six months can't be wasted before something is done about high prices and inflation.

The Republicans are saying that nothing really constructive can be accomplished until the Democratic President is kicked out, and a good, cooperative Governor from New York takes his place. Then, we are told, just watch their smoke. Things are going to happen. They'll really get down to cases and save the country from a bust.

Truman is being criticized for recommending dangerous measures. Taft has stated that price controls and ceilings simply will not work in this country. The man-on-the-street who makes fifty dollars a week recalls that hamburger sold for twenty-three cents a pound under OPA regulation and that it is now eighty cents a pound.

Taft and other Republican leaders say that Truman and his advisers are taking a backward-looking attitude toward the problem, insisting upon useless stop-gap measures and encouraging crippling governmental interference in private business.

The great game of American politics is hard for one to figure out. The pot-calls-the-kettle-black routine is in full swing and being worked to death. What we'd like to know, and pretty soon too, is not which of the parties, or candidates, is progressive or reactionary — but what either one, or both together, can do to stop the ruinous price-wage spiral.

Probably still with an idea to adjourn this Saturday, congressional leaders have decided to push through some limited anti-inflation measures.

Then will come the day of reckoning when whatever measures they pass will either stem or fail to stem the price inflation. And it will provide both parties with more than enough ammunition to wage a fine old campaign.

Communism Begins at Home

With the most recent "spy" stories holding the headlines we hear that some Austrians were arrested for spying on the Soviet army. The story goes that they were in the employ of Americans. It all sounds like the "direct line to Moscow" charges against spies arrested here.

There are, however, several differences. One difference may be the type of trial such spies would get here as compared to trials in Soviet courts. And another difference: the international impact of the Austrian arrests and their use as international propaganda. The "spy" tales here will probably end up with little more than political implications.

Political partisans are nudging this spy story into the headlines — complete with "blood beauty."

It seems rather childish to try to hang infiltration of Communists onto the political party in power. Government agencies being what they are it would be foolish to say that it is impossible for Communists to get into a Republican government.

By the same token, using the argument of a government honey-combed with foreign agents as a means to political victory overlooks the most important party of all — the Communist party.

Business Failures In Iowa Jump 25% Over May Figure

Business failures during the month of June, 1948 increased 25 percent above the figure for May, 1948, the SUI bureau of business and economic research found.

In an article published in the monthly magazine, "Iowa Business Digest," comparison of May and June, 1948 statistics revealed the following:

A survey of 11 Iowa banks show bank debits rose 17 percent.

The value of building permits was up 22 percent, but the number of permits issued dropped off three percent.

The number of business incorporations rose 54 percent.

Farm product prices increased eight percent, but prices paid by farmers rose two percent.

Industrial payrolls gained four percent.

Life insurance sales were up three percent.

The cost of living, employment and production each rose one percent.

The July issue of the digest states that between 1922 and 1928 banking institutions succeeded in stabilizing price levels. Previously, the banks of England were able to exercise some control over "boom-and-bust" periods by controlling credit. In recent years that has been impossible, the digest says.

The president of the Federal Reserve bank in New York recently declared that although central finance might check the boom, it couldn't guarantee that only a very small depression might follow.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

As matters stand now, the Republicans would seem to be losing a good bit on account of the special session, the Democrats looking if they are gaining a little, and the Wallace movement as if it is gaining a great deal.

The Republicans are losing prestige, if nothing else; every special session news item, I think, hurts them, especially the press accounts of conferences among Republican leaders on how to handle the President's program.

The fine points reported as being discussed in these conferences, as to whether to adjourn without any action, or whether to pass a nothing, show a pretty cool approach to some pretty hot problems; the tone is glacially strategical.

So far the press has not reported very warm sessions at which top Republican leaders have asked of other top Republican leaders:

"Well, now, let's see—just what prices can the people afford to pay?" or even "Just how much money does the country need?"

It has been rather on the level of what bills have to be passed to avoid a party disaster, and of what can be postponed, and of how much busy work must be done to reveal a good intention. It is cold, cold.

The flip comebacks haven't helped much, either, such as the crack that Truman could have curbed inflation two years ago if he had only wanted to use his power. If the Republicans would accompany such remarks by pos-tive action to take ten cents off the price of butter, then these smart rejoinders might bring real smiles to the voters' lips. But without such action this type of argument tends to be rather a bore.

The Democrats are gaining a little because they are fighting a little; if they fought harder they would gain more. But Truman's program is mild; there is little in it which offers immediate hope of a real change in the inflationary situation. If there were even one shocker in it, such as, say, a proposal to spend at least twenty percent of what we now spend on arms for subsidies to roll food prices down, it would make all the difference in the world.

McBride's Hall

Among the Newer Literati

By BILL MCBRIDE

What with all the racket up in Sioux City about exposing juveniles to "bad" books, I thought I'd drop over to the public library and see what Iowa City children are reading these days.

I came to the conclusion that they are reading some pretty interesting stuff and wished college textbooks could be written as sensibly.

Only two comic books are subscribed to, and either of them would pass the SC police department censorship board without a hitch. (Providing the righteous cops in that neck of the woods can read, from some of their statements that is questionable.)

Mrs. Dene Carney, the children's librarian, told me the favorite books are those dealing with horses and dogs. I thought that a little unusual, since there is a shelf of mystery stories which caught my eye immediately.

As a lad, I headed for the thriller department as soon as my hometown librarian would let me in. My shoes were always muddy, and our librarian, being neither as pretty, young nor understanding as Mrs. Carney, stood over me for a solid 10 minutes supervising the process of scraping my shoes on the cocoanut doormat at the entrance.

I would probably be considerably more literate if I hadn't spent so much of my youth on that doormat.

It must be said that, despite such intriguing titles as "The Tangled Skein" and "The Missing Half," the mystery books would not make little Alphonse want to cut the family cat's throat. As a matter of fact, I couldn't find one corpse on the whole shelf.

A majority of the books are non-fiction, lining almost one complete wall of the children's section. Such books as "Termite City" and "The Story of Great Medical Discoveries" account for the fact that one of the boys in our neighborhood knows more about ants and the tying of sutures than I do.

While I glanced through a book on frogs, a little girl shyly handed Mrs. Carney a bud from a trumpet flower and upon quizzing the librarian I learned that she frequently receives such gifts.

Once a group of boys, who had come for the regular Thursday afternoon story hour, brought a snapping turtle with them. The monster created such a fuss that Mrs. Carney finally had to get a bucket of water to make him feel at home.

The first thing that catches your eye as you enter the children's section is a table with a model race track laid out in detail on its surface. It looks so Hiaieahish that I immediately glanced around in the hope of spotting a bookie.

This track is for other purposes, however, and there is no one in the children's library who even faintly resembles a bookie, although there were a couple of energetic youngsters who appeared to have vitality enough to act as trainers.

The object of the track is to create interest in a bookreading contest for children between the ages of 9 and 12. Sixty boys and girls belong to the jockey club and proudly wear the colors of their horses in their lapsels.

The horses are made of cork and pipe cleaners, and each one represents a team of six readers. "Whirlaway" is ahead in the stretch and "Battleshield" is bringing up the rear.

The race, which has been on all summer, will end in a few days, and the winning team will be awarded blue ribbed certificates at a party for all members of the jockey club.

Law Fraternity Initiates 12 Men

Twelve men were initiated into Delta Theta Phi, professional law fraternity, at ceremonies in the Iowa Union last night.

Honorary guest at the dinner and initiation was Judge Harold E. Davidson, Clarinda, an alumni member of the Drake law school chapter of Delta Theta Phi.

Initiated were William A. Ansley, Chariton; Herman T. Bailey, Ottumwa; Francis J. Bradley, Bancroft; Dudley S. Hubbard, Dixon, Ill.; William D. Irwin, Le Mars; Albert K. Mathre, Cambridge, Ill.; Max R. Miller, Storm Lake; Robert D. Nordstrom, Sioux Falls, S.D.; Loyd W. Starr, Ottumwa; John H. Stevens, Waterloo; Donald L. Thompson, Waterloo; Donald G. Wolff, Chicago.

LIVERPOOL, ENGLAND (AP)—Police at full strength guarded last night against a recurrence of race riots which have swept the south end of this port city for three nights.

Sixty-nine Whites and Negroes, both men and women, appeared in two courts yesterday on charges growing out of the worst rioting Monday night.

All were ordered to appear again next week to answer charges ranging from disorderly conduct to assaulting police. The women were freed on bail; the men were kept in jail.

Police Prosecutor C. McCallister displayed brass knuckles, iron bars, knives and a big sword collected in the trouble zone.

"Attacks have been made by white men on Negroes and by Negroes on white men," he told the court.

He said some of the Negroes, most of them seamen from British West Africa, had been heard shouting, "Down with the British! Down with the Whites!"

Outside of court a welfare officer told a reporter that women were one cause of the trouble. He said the Whites disliked seeing white women going with Negro men — a not uncommon sight in British cities.

Distribution of Prof. Marcus Bach's new book, "Report to Protestants," will begin the eve of the World Council of Churches meeting in Amsterdam, Aug. 22.

Prof. M. Willard Lampe, director of the school of religion, announced yesterday.

The publishers, Bobbs-Merrill Company, said Bach's new book is "a personal investigation of the weaknesses, need, vision and great potential of the Protestant faith."

Written in the highly popular style of his first book, "They Have Found a Faith," it is really a story of his spiritual pilgrimage, Lampe said.

Bach teaches two courses in the school of religion — "Protestant Faith" and "Religions of America," which is broadcast to about 50,000 radio listeners, Lampe said. Bach has asked publishers to reserve first edition copies for radio listeners and friends who want autographed copies.

Nudist Convention 'Bares' Watching

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Many delegates to the 17th annual convention of the American Sunbathing association came into town yesterday incognito. They were clothed.

Starting tomorrow at Sunshine park near May's Landing, some 500 association members will get down to the bare essentials of their meeting.

Dr. Isley Boone, 69-year old superintendent of Sunshine Park, said delegates will be housed and entertained on the 2,000-acre establishment. When the association met here in 1939, some had to find accommodations in Atlantic City hotels.

The most important rule of the park is "clothes of any kind strictly forbidden, without special permission."

The convention calls for two business sessions daily. These will be strictly in the nude, Boone said. He did not say when the convention would end or what business would be discussed.

Free time during the convention will be passed by participation in athletic events, including tennis, ping pong, swimming, softball, foot races and horseshoe pitching, Boone said. A number of events will be mixed affairs, but some will be restricted to men or women only.

The public is barred from Sunshine Park. There are a number of cottages on the property, built by nudist enthusiasts who pass their summer vacations at the park.

Says U.S. Officials Led Spy Net

Names Hiss, Witt, White

WASHINGTON (AP)—Whittaker Chambers, who said he once served in the Communist underground in Washington, swore yesterday that it was headed by a number of U.S. government officials, including:

Alger Hiss, state department official who later rose to be secretary general of the San Francisco conference at which the United Nations was launched, and Nathan Witt, who served successively as attorney and executive secretary for the national labor relations board.

Officials in Network

Chambers also declared a number of other government officials were among the leaders of the Communist network in the capital during his life as a Communist party member from 1924 to 1937.

Chambers, now a senior editor for Time magazine, testified before the house un-American activities committee as it dug into stories of a widespread spy ring in the federal government.

He asserted that Harry Dexter White, former assistant secretary of the treasury, was "certainly" a fellow traveler. Chambers said he tried to persuade White to "break away from the Communist group" but failed.

The witness also told of seeking unsuccessfully to get Hiss to "break away from the Communist party."

Hiss Denies Charge

Hiss, now president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, said in New York: "I don't know Mr. Chambers. As far as I know I never met him. And there's no basis for the statement which has been reported to me that he made to the committee."

Chambers named other cell leaders of the Communist network here as Lee Pressman, Donald Hiss, Victor Perlo, Charles Cramer or Kramer (also known as Krivitsky), John Abt and Henry Collins.

Across the capital, Chairman Ferguson (R-Mich.) of a senate expenditures subcommittee also digging into key spy ring stories, complained that the administration hadn't come through with information requested.

The committee wants the employment records of William W. Remington, official in the office of international trade whom Miss Bentley has named as a source of information for the Communist spies. Remington says he thought she was a newspaper reporter and that he gave her no secrets.

Remington "Romantic"

Remington told the senators yesterday he believed Miss Bent-ley's story of a wartime spy ring is true, but that he was not a part of it.

Saying that he met her in parks at street corners at her request, Remington acknowledged this was a "preposterous" thing to do but explained he was young and "romantic."

He first suspected late in 1943 that she was a Communist, Remington said, but he didn't report it to his superiors because he hadn't given her anything improper.

Edney will serve as professor and head of the speech department in his new position which begins Sept. 1.

Edney received his bachelor of arts degree from the University of Nebraska in 1935, his masters degree from Nebraska in 1938, and his doctorate from SUI in 1946.

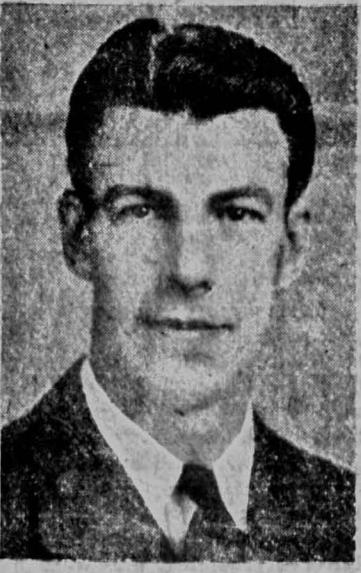

The author of articles which have been published in journals of speech and education, Edney was also a contributor to the textbook, "Speech Handicapped School Children," which will come from the press this month.

He has also served as executive-secretary of the Iowa curriculum construction program in speech and dramatic arts, is a member of the Secondary School Committee of the National Association of Teachers of Speech and chairman of the Iowa high school forensic league.

To Send Work to Fair

SUI artists will send about 30 etchings, oils and washes to the Iowa state fair exhibition, the art department announced yesterday.

All paintings must be submitted by Aug. 18 for the fair which starts Aug. 23.
