

He Had a Marry Attitude

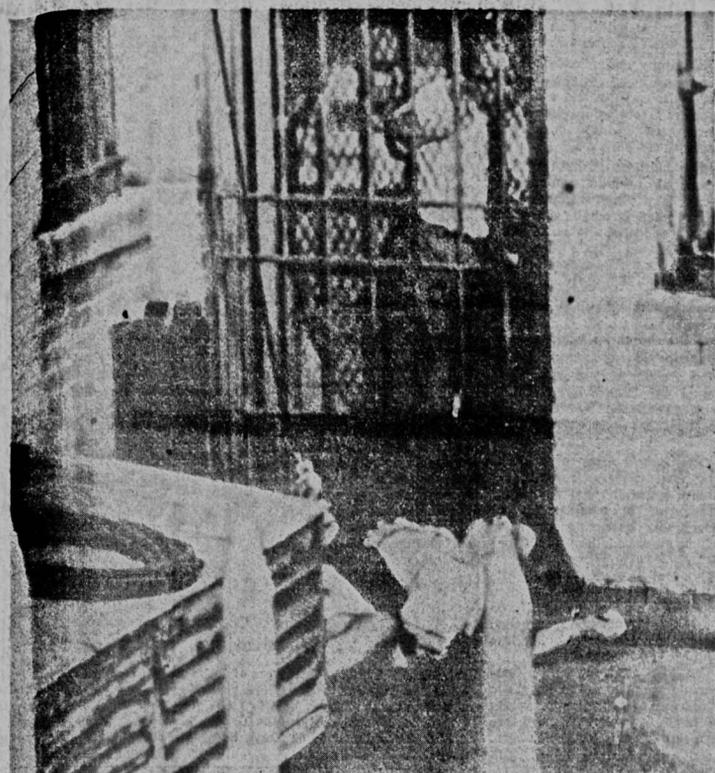

VIENNA (AP)—Friedrich Koch admitted to a Vienna court that he had three wives, but he pleaded for clemency on the grounds that he had a "poor memory." The presiding judge considered this for a moment and then observed:

"What a fortunate man: married to three women at once — and he can forget it!" Koch now has a one-year sentence to forget.

Escapes Soviet Consulate

1. Just After Plunge—These dramatic Associated Press wirephotos tell the story of Mrs. Oksana Stepanovna Kosenkina's three-story plunge from the Russian consulate in New York late yesterday afternoon. This picture shows her Russian school teacher seconds after she struck the concrete courtyard at the rear of the building. Her right arm is entangled in wire and her leg is twisted under her. Consulate employees are opening the barred door behind her to give her aid. The woman had been secluded for five days in the building.

2. Police at Scene—The door is opened and the Russians carry the woman inside. New York City police also rushed to the woman but were hampered by a high fence around the courtyard (seen in picture No. 1). Consulate officials would not surrender the teacher until 40 minutes later when they agreed to let her be taken to a hospital. The house un-American activities committee had been seeking the woman for questioning but the Soviets had refused to release her from the consulate.

Russian Jumps from Building, Says She 'Had To Get Out'

NEW YORK (AP)—A Russian woman teacher flung herself from a third floor window of the Russian consulate yesterday and last night told a friend from her hospital bed, "I had to get out."

The teacher, Mrs. Oksana Stepanovna Kosenkina, 52, lay critically injured in Roosevelt hospital. Her dramatic mid-afternoon leap climaxed an amazing story with international ramifications. Police at the hospital said she told them she had jumped deliberately.

Later she asked that a white Russian (anti-Communist) friend, Vladimir Zenzinov, be brought to her bedside.

Police took him to the hospital and as he left, he told newsmen she said:

"I was struggling to break out. You know—." Here he gave a pantomime of pushing obstacles aside. "I was like a bird in a cage. I had to get out."

Mrs. Kosenkina jumped into the consulate courtyard at 2:20 p.m. Iowa time. She landed enmeshed in the wires of a fence.

Police Appear

Police on guard outside leaped the fence to help her. They reached her just as consulate employees picked her up and carried her inside. Forty minutes later she was taken to the hospital.

Zenzinov, a journalist, described himself last Saturday as the man who spirited the teacher away from New York and to a white Russian camp at Valley Cottage, N.Y., 30 miles north of the city.

Was 'Rescued'

Soviet officials took her from there Saturday. Their self-described "rescue" of her brought to light her story.

Zenzinov had to wait an hour at the hospital to see the teacher, while she recovered from effects of sedatives.

A witness to the meeting said she embraced the journalist, and that Zenzinov told her "the police and Mrs. Oksana Stepanovna Kosenkina, a teacher he said was rescued by the Soviet consul in New York from anti-Communist Russian 'white guards.'"

Interprets Leap

Asked if he believed Mrs. Kosenkina had been held at the consulate against her will, which the Soviets have denied vigorously, Zenzinov replied with a shrug: "What do you think — if a woman has to jump out a window to get away?"

Mrs. Kosenkina's plunge to the consulate courtyard highlighted a day that saw these other events on the Russian front:

1. Questioning by the house un-American activities committee of a fellow-Russian teacher, Michael Ivanovitch Samarin, who has renounced his Soviet citizenship and announced his desire to remain in this country. The committee said he added nothing to its spy probe, however.

2. Sharp reiteration by President Truman of his charge that the espionage investigation was a red herring designed to blanket inaction on his anti-inflation program.

3. A demand by Rep. Karl Mundt (R-SD) of the house committee that Mrs. Kosenkina's leap be investigated fully as to whether "she jumped or was thrown," and that she be given around-the-clock protection.

4. An assertion by Common Cause, Inc., anti-Communist group, that the jump proved its "charge that she was being held against her will."

The organization said it believed "this heroic escape of hers will convince the American government that the time has come to end the privileges and exaggerated diplomatic immunities behind which the hordes of Soviet officials have practiced espionage and subversion in America."

5. A statement by Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH), that the woman teacher's "iragic and dramatic escape" proves "the immediate necessity of limiting Russian activities in the United States."

Zot I. Chepurnykh, Soviet vice-consul who went to the hospital to try to see Mrs. Kosenkina, was asked about her statement that she had jumped. He replied:

"What else could it be? She was very nervous and kept complaining about the crowds in front of the building since her return."

He said she left several letters, "but only to her relatives in Russia."

The police refused to permit Chepurnykh to see her.

Earlier at the hospital Deputy Chief Police Inspector Edward Mullins said the teacher told him: "I did jump."

Molotov Demands Teachers' Release From U. S. Officials

LONDON (AP)—Russia has protested to the United States that American authorities connived in the alleged kidnapping of two Soviet school teachers in New York, the Moscow radio said last night.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov summoned U.S. Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith to the Kremlin Wednesday night to deliver the protest.

The text of the broadcast as made public in London by the Soviet monitor made it appear that the protest was delivered last night. The monitor later made it clear that Molotov summoned Smith last night.

Molotov, in a declaration handed to Smith in the Kremlin and broadcast by the Moscow radio, demanded the "immediate release" of Mikhail Ivanovitch Samarin and his family.

He also demanded "punishment of all persons who have taken part in the kidnaping of Soviet citizens," Samarin and his family and Mrs. Oksana Stepanovna Kosenkina, a teacher he said was rescued by the Soviet consul in New York from anti-Communist Russian "white guards."

The declaration did not indicate that Mrs. Kosenkina plunged from a window of the Soviet consulate in New York yesterday and was injured critically.

It did not demand her release—evidently assuming she still was at the consulate—but said the Soviet government insists that Samarin and his family not only be released but that they be allowed to "transfer, until their departure home, to the consulate-general in New York."

Gen. (Walter) Bedell Smith promised to bring the Soviet government's declaration to the notice of the U.S. government and assured Mr. Molotov that the American authorities would make a strict investigation into the facts set out in this declaration, the Moscow broadcast said.

Patience Paid Off For 2 Newsmen

NEW YORK (AP)—When Mrs. Oksana Stepanovna Kosenkina jumped from the Russian consulate yesterday, an Associated Press reporter and photographer were at the scene.

The reporter was Vincent O'Mahoney and the photographer was Robert A. Wands. All day they had remained at the consulate to cover any developments in the case.

For hours nothing happened. Suddenly, at 2:30 p.m. Iowa time, Mrs. Kosenkina leaped to the rear courtyard of one of the consulate buildings.

Both O'Mahoney and Wands rushed around to the spot. O'Mahoney phoned in the first bulletin. When Wands made his pictures and a motorcycle rider was dispatched to pick up negatives — a mile and a half away.

At 3:06 p.m., six minutes after Wands' negatives went into the developer, AP's first wirephoto was being transmitted.

Soviets Still Holding Two U. S. Officers Seized Last Week

FRANKFURT, GERMANY (AP)—Two Americans seized by Soviet troops a week ago remained in Russian hands last night without apparent hope of immediate release.

Russian liaison officers refused yesterday to turn loose Lt. Sherman S. Turner of Council Bluffs, Iowa, military governor of Bad Kissingen, and Roland Mason Myers of Brooklyn, N.Y., a member of the military government at Nuernberg.

U.S. officials said the Russians told American officers the captive pair would be "released through Berlin."

Turner and Myers were arrested Aug. 5 near Mellrichstadt on the American-Russian zonal border when they crossed by accident into the Soviet zone.

After they were in Russian hands four days, Soviet liaison officers said they would be freed the next day. They were not turned over, however.

Truman Gives Tobin Cabinet Appointment

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman late yesterday gave Maurice J. Tobin a recess appointment as secretary of labor.

Tobin, former governor of Massachusetts, is to be sworn in today after attending his first cabinet session at the White House.

He was nominated just prior to adjournment of congress Saturday and the failure of the senate to act necessitated a recess appointment.

Watch Your Step; Look at the Date

Better watch your step today. Don't let any black cats cross your path. Don't walk under any ladders. Those things are bad luck any time, but today they're especially bad.

Throw a pinch of salt over your left shoulder if you spill some and don't break any mirror or you're doomed.

"Why all this caution today?" It's Friday, the 13th.

Turned Back Without Fight

BERLIN (AP)—United States and British military police turned back two Russian invasions of western-occupied sectors of Berlin yesterday without resorting to violence.

The incidents added to the tension existing in this Soviet-blockaded city. They also served to point up the increasing danger of a clash arising from a recent split of Berlin's city police force into two rival camps.

Meanwhile, thousands of German workers in the American zone of Germany demonstrated against high food prices and the policies of the American military government. In Frankfurt a crowd beat an American soldier and his German driver. It was the biggest and noisiest demonstration in that city since the end of the war.

In both the Berlin boundary incidents the Russian-controlled forces claimed they crossed the lines in pursuit of black market operators.

"Harassing Tactics"

Charles C. Bond, assistant chief of the American military government's public safety branch, said he suspected the border forays were "just harassing tactics." He said it also was likely the Russians were looking for deserters from the Soviet army.

The incident which brought intervention from U.S. military police occurred in the American-occupied borough of Kreuzberg. According to American officials 30 Soviet-controlled German police crossed the boundary to round up Germans living in the American sector and search houses. The American police forced them back across the line.

Russ Try Again

A few hours later Russian and German police forces, staging a mass raid at downtown Potsdamer platz, crossed into the British sector to round up alleged German blackmarketers.

Western sector police headquarters said it sent up a force of its own men backed by British military police. The British negotiated with the Russian military police who retreated without a clash.

Britain Challenges Russia To Prove Claims on Danube

BELGRADE (AP)—Britain demanded yesterday that Russia prove her claims of being a Danubian country with direct territorial interests in the future of Europe's most important river.

British Ambassador Sir Charles Peake raised the issue as the outnumbered western powers attempted to block a Soviet plan which would place future control of the river in the hands of eastern Europe's Communist states.

Russia has proclaimed herself — along with Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Romania, Hungary, Bulgaria and the Soviet Ukraine — as one of the riparian countries (those on the river) entitled to exclusive jurisdiction over the 1,800-mile waterway.

Waving a small scale map of eastern Europe, Peake said he could discover no point at which the Danube touches the soil of Russia proper, although the river does touch the Ukraine, a part of the Soviet Union.

Peake called upon Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky to supply a reason why Russia, under the Soviet plan, should be entitled to two seats — her own and the Ukraine's — on the proposed Danubian control commission.

Vishinsky said in reply: "I don't know what Sir Charles has, but certainly I have never seen any map which shows Britain on the Danube."

The British ambassador threw his country's support behind a United States amendment designed to broaden the commission to include the three big western powers.

Russ Arms-Cutting Plan Voted Down

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—A United Nations commission decided yesterday Russia's scheme for slashing the world's armaments cannot be put into effect under present international tension.

The 9-2 vote in the 11-nation commission on conventional armaments meant shelving Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov's ambitious plans for reducing the arms of all nations.

3. Taken to Hospital—On a stretcher, Mrs. Kosenkina is removed to Roosevelt hospital in New York. Police said she received a broken leg and internal injuries in the plunge. At the hospital the 52-year-old woman told Deputy Chief Police Inspector Edward Mullins that she jumped on purpose. A 24-hour police guard was placed around the injured woman. Hospital authorities reported her condition as "critical." The Soviet consul general said Mrs. Kosenkina jumped or fell after hearing a radio program telling of the dispute over her.

Jerusalem's Water Sabotaged

TEL AVIV (AP)—Saboteurs yesterday blasted the Latrun pumping station, vital to Jerusalem's water supply. The government of Israel declared the act constituted a glaring breach of the United Nations truce, "fraught with the gravest consequences."

At Haifa a United Nations spokesman said the blast had been reported to the UN security council at Lake Success as a truce violation by the Arabs.

He said the Arab legion was in control of the Latrun area and must be held responsible. The spokesman added, however, that a truckload of Arab "irregulars" had been seen near the station an hour before the blast.

The station had been held by the Arabs, but was placed in a "no man's land" Wednesday by agreement between the Arab legion and the United Nations. The station had been taken over by UN personnel. The Arabs had withdrawn to about 1,000 yards away.

The blast wrecked UN plans to start delivering water to Jerusalem today.

Financial Survey of Air Industry Asked

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman yesterday stepped in to help the airline industry with its money problems.

He ordered a thorough financial study of the entire air transport industry to find the best way to finance both immediate requirements and long-term development.

The President acted after a conference with top officials of the reconstruction finance corporation, the civil aeronautics board and the budget bureau.

His order followed by one day a CAB call for an industry-wide meeting here Aug. 19 to study plans for passenger fare boosts and ways to cut operating costs.

Airlines recently have run into financial difficulties because of rising costs and declining revenue from passenger traffic.

Labor Department Applies Race Law

WASHINGTON (AP)—The department of labor yesterday became the first federal department or agency to carry out President Truman's order barring racial or any other discrimination in federal employment.

Acting Secretary of Labor John W. Gibson signed an order directing that employment and personnel policies in the department be governed solely on the basis of merit and fitness, without regard to race, color, religion, or national origin. The department has 3,300 employees.

Tribe Splits, Mauling Browns in Night Tilt, 26-3

Loss of First Game Moves Idle A's into AL Top Spot

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Cleveland Indians lost their slender hold on first place last night when they divided a twilight-night double header with the St. Louis Browns, losing 8 to 4, and then storming back to win, 26 to 3.

The split enabled the idle Philadelphia Athletics to take over the top perch in the hectic American league race by a percentage margin of .6018 to .600.

By scoring 26 runs in a game the Indians came within one of tying their own league record of 27 set in a game with Boston on July 7, 1923. The modern major league record is 28, set by St. Louis Cardinals against Philadelphia, July 6, 1929.

By banging out 29 hits the Indians also came within one of tying the league record of 30 established by the New York Yankees on July 28, 1923.

The Redskins exploded for nine runs in the first inning and scored almost at will from them on as five Brown pitchers paraded to the mound.

The nine-run blast included a homer by Pitcher Gene Bearden with two men on and two doubles by Hal Peck. Bearden and Peck had four hits apiece. Larry Doby, Jim Hegan and Walt Judnich also hit homers and Manager Lou Boudreau batted four runs across.

Bucs Squeak By Cardinals In Last of 9th

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Wally Westlake's single with the bases loaded and two out in the last of the ninth gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 3-2 win last night over the St. Louis Cardinals. The win, four in a row for the Pirates, put them into a tie for fourth place with the New York Giants.

It was a heart-breaking defeat for Dickson who allowed only five hits as he was charged with his 11th defeat against nine wins. In the first of the ninth, with the score 1-1 and first and second occupied, Dickson singled to left center and drove in what appeared to be the winning marker.

The Cards' strategy backfired in the last of the ninth as Dixie Walker was intentionally passed to fill the bases with out out. Ralph Kiner popped up for the second out but Westlake came through with a slashing single to delight the crowd of 26,004.

Vic Lombardi gave up six hits to the Cards who muffed a chance to go into second place as Boston defeated Brooklyn 2-1. It was his fifth win against six losses.

Cochran, Vets Divide, Meet Thursday for Title

Cochran Roofing and Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post 2581, split their play-off twin-bill for the Iowa City softball league championship at Kelleys last night and will meet in one game next Thursday night for the title. Cochran took the first game, 8-6, but the Vets bounced back to blank their opponents in the nightcap, 1-0, and knot the series at one game apiece.

LINCOLN DOWNS OMAHA

LINCOLN, NEB. (AP)—Bob Wellman's Texas league single to right field in the seventh inning drove in two runs to break 2-all tie and give Lincoln a 4-2 Western league victory over Omaha here last night. It was the only win for the A's in the three game series.

Ruth Shows Slight Improvement

'He's Feeling Better' Says Bambino's Wife

NEW YORK (AP)—Babe Ruth showed slight improvement yesterday in his battle with a critical illness at Memorial hospital. His family and friends seemed encouraged about his condition. Mrs. Claire Ruth, his wife, told reporters "He's feeling better" as she left the hospital for a short time this morning.

The morning bulletin at the Memorial hospital center for cancer and allied diseases said the former baseball star had rallied and that his pulse was stronger. "Condition improved, although still critical," it added.

The second bulletin of the day, issued at 4:30 p. m. (CST), said the Babe's condition remained unchanged.

The great home run slugger and idol of the nation's baseball fans has been sick for two years, but his condition suddenly became much worse Wednesday morning.

The Babe's army of friends and well wishers rallied behind him during the day with an outpouring of telephone calls, telegrams, letters and visits which swamped hospital facilities.

Mrs. Ruth expressed her heartfelt thanks through the newsmen for all of the "kind thoughts" and said "I am particularly touched by all the messages pouring into the hospital from boys."

The exact nature of Ruth's two-year-old ailment never has been divulged. He has lost much weight and his husky voice and lined face have shown how sick he has been.

Sports Hash From Marlin

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK (AP)—Sports hash: We're zorker than a discus thrower from trying to keep track of all the Olympic events and their distinctive phrasology. The most baffling is the weight lifter's clean and press. Wonder is it is 24-hour service. The yachtsmen seem to make the loudest squawks. The finals started out in a squall and ended up the same way, with 14 protests being lodged. One entry was disqualified for striking a buoy. A hit and run driver, no doubt. Give Stan Stanczyk credit for a rare bit of sportsmanship. He bettered a world record in weight lifting, but disqualified himself by saying he hadn't done it properly. The judges hadn't noticed anything wrong.

Branca's Only Pitch Loses Game for Bums

BOSTON (AP)—Relief hurler Ralph Branca's first pitch was a wild one and allowed Pinch Runner Sibby Sisti to race across the plate in the last of the ninth last night with the run which gave the National League's first place Braves a 2-1 triumph over the pressing Brooklyn Dodgers before a paid audience of 27,766.

A pair of lefties, Warren Spahn for the Braves and Joe Hatten for the Dodgers, hooked up in a nifty pitchers' duel for the first eight innings of the game. Both allowed five hits, Spahn striking out five and Hatten three.

But when Hatten began to weaken in the ninth, Manager Burt Shotton called on his ace starting pitcher, Branca, to try and quell the threat. Branca's only pitch lost the game for Hatten.

U.S. Track Team Blasts Britain

Relay Triumph For English

By TED SMITS
LONDON (AP)—The U. S. Olympic track and field team defeated a British Empire squad, 11 1/2 to 3 1/2, yesterday in the dual meet which traditionally follows the games, scoring one of the most decisive triumphs since the series began in 1920.

A crowd of more than 40,000 at White City stadium watched the Americans grab the top three places in six of the eight individual events.

Although the British won only three of the 15 men's events outright and tied in another; one of their victories made up for all the losses. That came in the 440-yard relay when an empire quartet strengthened by two Australians galloped away from the U.S. team which won the disputed Olympic 400-meter relay final.

The Empire sprint team was made up of John Bartam and John Treloar, both of Australia, and Alastair McCorquodale and Jack Archer, both of England.

U. S. Quartet Loses
The Americans used Barney Ewell of Lancaster, Pa., Lorenzo Wright of Wayne University, Harrison Dillard of Baldwin-Wallace and Mel Patton of Southern California, the same combination which first was disqualified after its Olympic triumph and then reinstated on the strength of the official movies.

Bartam made up ground on Wright and a poor American exchange of the baton put Dillard at a disadvantage. Archer came home ahead of Patton by almost five yards in 41.8 seconds.

Ewell and Wright, whose baton exchange in the Olympics was the one mistakenly called a foul, made sure this time. Their pass was fully legal and as a result it was slow but not fatally tardy.

Only one point was awarded in each of the men's events and the performances of the three competitors from each country were added together in the field events.

Wright Takes Broad Jump
John Winter of Australia, the Olympic champion, won the high jump at 6 feet, 6 inches but an even split resulted when the total heights of the two sides came to 19 feet each.

American Yachtsmen Win Title

LONDON (AP)—America's sailors mopped up the Olympic yachting honors, usually an European monopoly, yesterday but managed to send only one man into the finals of the boxing tournament the U. S. was expected to dominate.

This surprising turnaround featured the next-to-last day of heavy competition in the weary, puffing 1948 London games. United States yachtsmen won the overall championship in the Olympic regatta with two firsts, a second and a third in the five classes and atoned for their complete shutout in 1936 when the star spangled banner never once rang out over the bay.

The Llanoria, handled by a five-man crew from Oyster Bay, N. Y., captured the international six-meter championship, biggest of them all, and a father-son team, Paul and Hilary Smart of Noroton, Conn., finished on top in the two-man star class.

One U.S. Boxer in Finals
The resounding American success at Torquay, however, was not duplicated at the Empire exposition poolhouse where only Welterweight Horace Herring of St.

Petersburg, Fla., was able to bash his way into the boxing finals.

The 24-year-old navy steward's mate scored a decision over Doug Du Preez of South Africa. He meets J. Torma of Czechoslovakia in the final tonight.

Lightweight Wallace Smith of Cincinnati was derailed by J. Vissers of Belgium on a decision in the semi-finals.

The U.S. army's rugged horsemen continue to hold their own in the still uncompleted equestrian event. Earl F. Thomson of Lake James, Ind., returned one of the fastest times in the Olympic endurance run yesterday.

He carried his mount over 21 miles of treacherous hurdles in two hours and two minutes to become a leading contender for honors in the three-day competition.

Chapman Takes Tourney

DES MOINES (AP)—Tom Chapman, assistant coach at East Sioux City high school, stayed with par to post medal honors yesterday in the annual schoolmen's golf tournament here.

Chapman's 72 was two strokes better than G. J. (Bugs) Firkins, Iowa State instructor.

U. S. Olympic Squad Now Has 609 Points

LONDON (AP)—The United States Olympic team, picking up points yesterday in yachting and canoeing, pushed its total to 609 points at the close of the twelfth day of competition. The Olympics close Saturday.

The first-place Americans now are within 20 points of the total Germany amassed in the 1936 for the all-around team championships of that year.

Sweden remains in second place with 318 1/2 points, followed by France with 177 and host Britain team with 143, Italy is next with 142.

Two Favorites Fall In National Amateur

ANN ARBOR, MICH. (AP)—Two of the early favorites were missing here yesterday as 16 survivors emerged from the third round of the National Junior Amateur golf tourney.

Outstanding casualty on the rolling 6,600 yards University of Michigan course was Warren Higgins, Dallas, Texas, sharpshooter who had been conceded a strong chance for the title. Higgins succumbed one down after a close battle with Miles Schlapik, Northbrook, Ill.

Another highly regarded entrant to tumble was Dick Evans, Cleveland, O., who was turned back 2 and 2 by Dean Lind, Rockford, Ill.

Still in the running, however, and evidencing an even stronger claim to positions as tournament favorites were Schlapik, Jim "Bill" Key, steady going Columbus, Ga., lad, Clayton Johnson, St. Paul, Minn., 4 and 2 victor over John Moynihan, Jr., Troy, N. Y., and Ken Venturi, San Francisco, Calif., who scored a 6 and 5 victory over Dick Foster, Chevy Chase, Md., Key advanced by defeating James Pollock, Columbus, O., two up.

Demaret, Ransom Lead Open Tourney

ST. PAUL, MINN. (AP)—A pair of surprising 6ts, something that wasn't figured to happen, boosted Jimmy Demaret, Ojai, Calif., and Henry Ransom, Ravinia, Ill., into a first-day lead in the $13,500 St. Paul Open golf meet yesterday.

Because heavy rains had promoted heavy growth of grass, the boys weren't supposed to assault par of 72 very easily. But Demaret, and Ransom proved otherwise.

The happy-go-lucky Californian was the first to shoot his 67, thus taking much of the attention of the gallery of 4,000 away from Lloyd Mangrum, the heavy money winner from last week's Tam O'Shanter. Mangrum got a 69 on his first round yesterday.

Mary Mercer Sayre Weds

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Dawson

Mary Sayre Weds John H. Dawson At Trinity Church

In a double ring ceremony at the Trinity Episcopal church at 11 a.m. yesterday, Mary Mercer Sayre and John Howard Dawson exchanged wedding vows, the Rev. Harold McGee officiating.

Mrs. Dawson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy S. Mercer, 709 S. Summit street. Mr. Dawson is the son of Dean and Mrs. F.M. Dawson, 723 Bayard street.

Mrs. Richard T. Feddersen, 250 Blacksprings Circle, attended Mrs. Dawson as matron of honor. Murray Dawson, La Grange, Ill., was best man. A reception at the Hotel Jefferson followed the ceremony.

Mrs. Dawson, a graduate of Iowa City high school, received her bachelor of arts degree from the University of Iowa where she was a member of Pi Beta Phi social sorority. Mr. Dawson was graduated from University high school and the University of Iowa where he was affiliated with Phi Gamma Delta social fraternity. He received his master of science degree at Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pa., and is now an associate professor in the civil engineering department at Oklahoma A and M college, Stillwater, Okla.

The couple, left on a wedding trip to Canada, and after Oct. 10 will reside in Stillwater.

Chic and Charming

LATE '90's NOTE... In celebration of New York's golden anniversary, many topflight designers have gone back to turn-of-the-century fashion for inspiration. An example of this is this back-sweeping "absinthe green" satin evening dress. The button-front bodice is richly-embroidered with emerald and pearl beads around the top and on the peplum, which flares out over the "radder" bustle folds of the skirt in back.

Cool Off with Summer Drinks

When friends drop in, be prepared with delicious and cooling refreshment.

Here are some hints on how family and friends may be pleased with least concoctions.

APRICOT COOLER: Fill the glass with ice cubes. Then fill half of the glass with apricot nectar. Fill in with ginger ale, stir well, and serve immediately.

GRAPE COOLER: Fill the glass with ice cubes, adding a half glass of grape juice. Add ginger ale, stir thoroughly, and serve.

Both of these drinks are not too sweet to serve with sandwiches or salads.

Here's another hint. Instead of plain water ice cubes, you may freeze some of the fruit juice with which you are flavoring the drink and use these. Or, if you prefer, freeze the ginger ale and use in the same fashion. Both these kinds of frozen cubes are fine additions.

Flavored milk drinks for summer serving are one way of giving your family their quota of milk. The drink of this sort is liked best when blended with a fully-ripe banana, a dash of sugar, and a dash of salt. If you haven't a blender, slice the banana into a bowl and beat with a rotary egg beater or electric mixer until it is smooth and creamy. Add the milk and shake or mix thoroughly.

Here's a clever way to combat the children's milk-drinking strike. Fix egg-nogs for them. They love to beat the egg whites to a stiff froth while you are beating the yoke and adding a few teaspoons of sugar. Then add a cup of milk and a little vanilla. After the egg yoke is folded into the beaten white and poured into a tall glass... watch them devour it!

Interpreting the News — Says U. S. Peaceful Policies Root of European Troubles

By J. M. ROBERTS
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Secretary Marshall, saying that the United States must not seek agreement with Russia merely for agreement's sake, is reiterating something that has been an accepted part of American policy for a year and a half.

If it had been accepted three or four years ago we might have escaped many of our current troubles. In that period we were still leaning over backward in an effort to buy Russia's postwar cooperation. Yet the storm signals already were flying. Otherwise I would not have been writing in 1944 and early 1945 of Russian expansionism and the fear that "by yielding to Russia on certain points we have been storing up a whirlwind" and that "by learning what she can do by flexing her muscles she might become insatiable."

Marshall was speaking with direct reference to the Danubian conference at Belgrade, where Russia has made it clear that her definition of "free" navigation is on par with her wartime definition of the "free" elections to which she agreed for in eastern Europe. But it was perfectly clear that his statement also holds good in all of our dealings with the Communist imperialists.

The Marshall statement was highlighted by its coincidence with testimony that the Russian embassy in Washington has paid at least one American citizen to spy against her own country.

It also comes at a time when the Russian propaganda machine is resuming the "peace offensive" which followed Molotov's rejection of America's "basis for peace" in May. There is room for compromise, says New Times, on the heels of a conciliatory Moscow radio broadcast. Meanwhile, Russian planes invade allied air over Berlin, another western sector policeman is snatched, and new Times in another column criticizes Benes of Czechoslovakia for having tried to be a peacemaker between east and west. Russia and Yugoslavia accuse Britain and U.S. of doing in Trieste what Yugoslavia actually has been trying to do.

Reports from Paris and London indicate strongly that, to avoid a complete breakdown of negotiations for a four-power conference, the allies have been forced to start bargaining. Stalin and Molotov want to be paid for carrying out their own suggestion.

To be fair, it hardly seems reasonable that the allies can expect a successful conference on all-Germany while they are acting unilaterally with regard to part of Germany in the matter of a western government, even though they were forced to do it by Russia herself.

From the Russian standpoint, the main reason a conference would be nullified. From the allied standpoint, freezing of preparations for the new government would merely let the Russians accomplish their over-all desire to interfere with the Marshall plan. The allies merely want to trade a conference for lifting of the Berlin blockade.

Whether the conference will come off at all is likely to be decided in the next few days. If it does, it looks mighty like it will be just conferring for conferring's sake.

Patent Office Has Need for a Doojigger

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ingenious Americans still flood the U.S. patent office with inventions ranging from dog boots to hen marking nests.

But what the patent office needs is a streamlined doojigger that might help get rid of the greatest backlog of patent applications in its 138 years of existence.

With examiners 148,180 cases behind, it looks like "Pat Pending"—meaning "we're waiting for patent approval, if the patent office ever gets around to us"—will remain firmly entrenched for a while on the new compounds and inventions you find in the stores.

The nation's inventive spirit took a nosedive during the war. Then, the backlog of applications dropped to about 39,052. Since that time, however, new ideas have been popping out all over. Here are some samples for the people who like to put their best foot forward:

A mud shield for shoe heels, a one candlepower boot drier, a flexible heel adjuster and a safety attachment for shoes. And, of course, the dog boots, which—you may want to explain to your pup—are something like the things you slip over your golf clubs.

There are also other interesting gadgets. Like the one for dehydrating bread crumbs, and the inflatable leak stopper.

These, like the hen marking nests and many other useful inventions, are awaiting their turn in the patent office's mounting backlog.

Officials are taking steps to cut down that growing stack of applications. They have hired a New York firm of efficiency experts—who tried it once before, 22 years ago—to go over the whole patent routine again.

Cost: $34,000.

If you can invent a cheaper way, you're invited to submit an application to patent officials.

It'll only be 148,181st on the list.

Extinguish Leaking Gas Main Blaze

FIREMEN TURN OFF A GAS JET. The flames shot high in the air when gas escaping from a main caught fire yesterday but Iowa City firemen had almost brought the fire under control when this picture was taken.

Firemen Extinguish Leaking Gas Blaze

Willard Waters, Iowa City, was slightly burned and several other men escaped serious injury when gas leaking from a main caught fire yesterday morning.

The fire occurred in front of a home being built for Eli Braverman, in the 700 block on River street. Workmen were connecting gas pipes from the house to the main and it is believed a bonfire touched off escaping gas.

The jet of flame shot almost 75 feet into the air, shriveling the leaves on a nearby elm tree. The Iowa City fire department succeeded in extinguishing the blaze before it could damage nearby homes.

Firemen brought the fire under control with water and then helped fill the hole with dirt until the gas was cut off. The damage to the tree was the only property damage done by the fire.

Brownell Declares People 'Shocked' At Truman Attitude

ALBANY (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's campaign manager, Herbert Brownell Jr., said yesterday the people were "shocked" at the "attitude of President Truman in seeming to cover up" information congress sought on Communist activities.

At a news conference after a long meeting with the Republican presidential nominee on campaign strategy, Brownell also declared that the Democratic party "has fallen to pieces and its national leaders are stumbling."

Brownell said Dewey would wage "a vigorous, constructive campaign and will travel extensively."

He predicted that the New York governor and his vice-presidential running mate, Gov. Earl Warren of California, would get "lots of help" in the November election from Democrats and independent voters.

Brownell talked to newsmen after conferring more than four hours with Dewey. Other present included J. Russel Sprague of New York City and Edwin F. Jaekle of Buffalo, who along with Brownell are Dewey's top political advisers.

City Council Calls Public Hearing on Budget for Tonight

A public hearing on the proposed 1949-50 city budget will be held tonight at 7:30 in the city council chambers of the city hall.

The 1949-50 budget totals $667,113 and includes raising the millage rate to 26.64 mills. This means that every property owner will pay $26.64 on every $1,000 of assessed property. This is $3.85 more than the amount assessed for this year.

The money receipts estimated, aside from taxes, in the new budget total $254,795. The revenue to be received by taxation is estimated at $347,071.

The budget was approved by the city council on July 23. After the public hearing tonight the budget will be filed with the Johnson county auditor who will use it as authority for levying city taxes after final approval by the state auditor.

The budget is effective April 1, 1949 to March 31, 1950.

Pupil Tito Emulates Master Too Closely

By CLARK HOPING
Writer for Central Press
STALIN AND TITO have finally split, showing that stolid Uncle Joe has his headaches, too.

The world stands open-mouthed at this development, asking itself: "How come that a most favored son of Soviets turns out to be an un-Marxist-Leninist? And why has the Kremlin's master suddenly opened fire on his pal?"

The information seeping through from back-stage of the eastern bloc shows the psychological reasons why Stalin clashed with his adopted son.

First of all, it has become clear to Stalin that war-baptized Marshal Tito is a bad pupil, who studied as a promising internationalist, but finally graduated as a diehard nationalist.

It has also become clear to him that in reaching the crossroads where Tito had to make up his mind whether he would thereafter be nationalist for Tito's sake, or internationalist for Stalin's sake, it seems that the bad pupil decided to do what gave Uncle Joe a pain in the neck.

HOWEVER, hadn't Tito always been a very active Communist, which also means an "internationalist"? How come, then, that the "young marshal" changed his world outlook?

The answer to this question is found in Karl Marx's own philosophy where it is clearly stated that sometimes people change history, but that principally history changes people.

Tito was organizer of the underground movement before he came to power. According to never-changing political principles, before a politician gets power he tries by all means to undermine the ruling powers, so as to grab power from them later on.

Generally speaking, nationalism always helps those in power, directly or indirectly. A ruler is nationalist because he wants his nation recognized and himself supported as a representative of that nation.

Thus, when Tito fought the "reactionary rulers" of Yugoslavia he fought against their "reactionary nationalism," too. In other words, if he was sincere internationalist before, he was so for tactical reasons.

After he became dictator of Yugoslavia, however, history changed his position from prisoner to prison-keeper. According to another political principle, as a successful politician he now used the same weapons against his opponents which the previous rulers had used against him.

That is why Marshal Tito changed his mind after he grabbed power. It resulted in the paradox that, while Yugoslavia has become more and more Communist, Marshal Tito and his adherents became less and less Communist, or "internationalist."

The other reason which made the Stalin-Tito axis come to a sudden end is that the younger marshal learned too much from his one-time mentor and that he imitated his master's tactics only too well.

No Longer Pals — Josef Stalin and Josep Broz (Tito)

Like all foreign-born Russian-brand Communist leaders Marshal Tito not only picked up the proper political line, strategy and philosophy from Stalin, but learned to copy his political personality, too.

All of Uncle Joe's students first learn how to eliminate their enemies inside the party as "Trotskyists" or "spies," and to rap all outside enemies as "imperialists" and "pacifists." Secondly, they learn how to use "internationalism" to accomplish their own nationalist aims. They learn how to use the old doctrine to serve their own new purposes, and how to beat down live competitors with dead statues.

In all these respects, Marshal Tito is perhaps the graduate with the highest honors that Uncle Joe has had in the last few decades. Immediately after he grabbed power, Marshal Tito established the OZNA, the same thing as the MVD, and he published Borba, another Pravda.

Tito also organized Omlandina, the same thing as the Communist Youth; he set up the Tanjar, Yugoslavia's Tass news agency; he introduced strictest censorship; he introduced death sentences, and built a large active army.

Most important of all, Tito imitated his old teacher in organizing a Cominform of his own, which was an open betrayal of his master, even though the setup innocently was called Balkan Nations federation.

WHEN MARSHAL TITO and Premier Dimitroff came out with an unofficial statement that such a federation would be desirable, the Kremlin-gang slapped down on it at once.

Since then Marshal Tito had lain low, but the relationship between the two eastern dictators had received its first definite crack. Before then, Stalin may not have been sure whether the young eagle was dreaming of stealing his lightning.

However, now it is obvious that Tito was never satisfied with what he got in his homeland, and that he is trying to expand beyond his borders, in other words, that he is trying to break into Uncle Joe's own pastures. And this by using the methods of the old Communist chief himself, playing nationalism and internationalism against the middle!

At this point the elder dictator realized that he had a real competitor. Uncle Joe, once again, discovered that tyrants are always in danger of being overthrown by the young generation.

After all, it shows that if the Russian-brand Communist fighters either learn too much or too little from Comrade Stalin at last they will get fired.

THESE DAYS—

Freedom of Regimentation

By George E. Sokolsky (Kling Feature Syndicate)

The American political parties recognize the rights of individuals to opinions and judgments of their own. This was made amply clear at both the Republican and Democratic conventions at which direct attacks were made upon the party leadership. As a matter of fact, both parties, in convention, were fruitful in factionalism, which is regarded as wholesome because it is indicative of independence of view.

To contrast, I cite the Communist party of this country, which received a report from Bob Klonsky, organizational secretary of eastern Pennsylvania and Delaware, on the expulsion of a faction led by Francis Franklin. It seems that Franklin had ideas of his own, which no Communist may have unless he is so authorized by those who control the party.

Franklin is described as a "petty-bourgeois renegade," also as a "petty-bourgeois opportunist." His crime is described as "an organized struggle against the main line and policies of our party, conducted under the ideological leadership of Franklin and other anti-party groupings, which if permitted to develop, would destroy the party."

Franklin is accused of having committed this heinous offense: "In the course of pre-convention discussion in his club to defend his 'right' as a party member to attack the present leadership and present as part of pre-convention discussion what he called 'basic and fundamental disagreements with the party line,' as a 'right' guaranteed him by the party constitution."

He also did this: "A refusal to contribute to the fighting fund against the Mundt bill on the ground that 'the party was 'crying wolf' in order to raise the funds.'"

After Franklin and his associates were expelled from the party, "they proceeded to organize within the party a factional struggle against the expulsion on the grounds that it was a 'violation' of 'legal and constitutional rights.' This is considered to be a crime.

In a word, freedom of thought, freedom of choice, freedom of expression are absolutely forbidden. Criticism of the leadership of the party is absolutely forbidden. "Unrestricted discussion" and the "rights of minority opinion" are forbidden. This is in the United States of America, not somewhere in the Balkans.

This report of Bob Klonsky is an official document which lays down the party line to be followed by all members. It is important to note that while Communists stand on their constitutional rights as citizens of the United States, they reject constitutional rights for members of their party. While as citizens of the United States, they make a tremendous do-do about minority rights, they reject minority rights within their own party.

While as citizens of the United States, they demand freedom of speech, of the press, of conscience, of opinion, within their own party, they insist on obedience to a stated and recognized line with no deviation from it on any basis.

Whereas as citizens of the United States, they demand and insist upon their constitutional right to denounce, smear, criticize everyone including the President, the supreme court and congress, they deny to their own members the right even to criticize the leadership of their party.

How abject a human being may become under such pressures appears in Earl Browder's rejected application for readmission to the party. Browder practically begs to be let in again but he is turned down because he failed to say that he had been in every respect wrong during the prolonged period of his party leadership. Klonsky, in his accusations against Francis Franklin and others, makes the point:

"It is significant here to note that this same person, (Francis Franklin) the 'leftist' of today, sent a letter to the national committee at the time of Browder's expulsion in defense of Browder.' Heinous offense!"

And Frederick Vanderbilt Field ends his "proposals on the far east" with the sentence: "This point is important not only for an objective analysis of American imperialism, but for the struggle against Bolshevism and other reformist apologetics for American imperialism."

He has thus proclaimed his orthodoxy. All this is not of world-shaking importance, but it does give a picture of the terrorism within the Communist party which keeps in line those who once become part of it.

McBride's Hall Keeping Emily Posted

By BILL MCBRIDE
Emily Post is telling people strange things these days, and I'm not sure if I approve of them or not. In one of the This Week supplements in the Sunday Register last month a woman asked how to send late staying guests home without being rude.

Mrs. Post suggested the wife say, "John dear, you go to bed — you have to be up early in the morning." According to Emily, the guests "will then probably leave."

And that isn't being rude? Come, come, Mrs. Post, we can be more subtle than that. If that's the way you want it, Emily, why not just come out and say, "You go to bed, John dear. (John obviously manufactures farm machinery) I'll sit up with these 21-jeweled bobs if it kills me."

There are several approaches which beat the dean of etiquette's suggestion all to the dogs. For example, there's the Terrorizer which was developed during the early '30's when that getting up early story wouldn't work because no one had anything to get up early for.

To manipulate the Terrorizer correctly the wife waits for a lull in the conversation and says casually, "I forgot to ask you this morning, John — has the little toe on your left foot fallen off yet?"

This arouses the guests' curiosity, and by way of explanation the hostess lets it slip that John has leprosy. . . reassuring that he is doctoring for it, of course.

If they don't leave after that, show them to the spare bedroom, you're whipped.

While making the 3 p.m. coffee run the other afternoon, I noticed Pat Pearson had a sign at the entrance of his drugstore which said, "At last! A rich Hormone cream!" At the bottom of the sign it said, "Katherine Hormone day or night cream."

Up until this time, I guess all hormone creams have been pretty poor. It's a relief to know that something besides indigent hormones are on the market.

Odd that a woman by the name of Katherine Hormone should manufacture hormone merchandise. She must be clever to teach hormones to work in shifts so they can be available day or night. I would prefer that she would settle on one spelling of cream (or creme), though.

Must confess that I wouldn't know a hormone if I saw one, but I do remember when several fellows who hung around a barbershop at home used to get together and hormoneize for their own enjoyment.

By way of squaring myself with Pat, I'd better mention that he has started in earnest on his redecorating program and that he'll still set coffee by the cup regardless of how ritzy the place looks when he's finished.

Am waiting with anxiety to see what becomes of the threatened FCC crackdown on "give away" radio shows. It would certainly be a relief to turn on my set and not hear some nitwit being given a fortune by an even more nitwitical M.C.

According to reports, the network people don't like the programs much better than I do, but they have let them snowball to such an extent that the barrage of $100,000 a week in prizes can't be stopped.

Watched the excavating crew dig out the boulevard center between Dubuque and Linn yesterday afternoon and decided that if I hadn't already made up my mind to try journalism I would be an operator of one of those earth moving tractors.

What a feeling of power and satisfaction must be gotten by mastering one of those monsters. Maybe if we elected a bulldozer driver for president he could push congress into action.

Fear Spurs Moving Germans

BERLIN (AP) — More than three years after the end of the war hundreds of thousands of Germans are still on the move over the war-scarred face of their country. A major reason for this movement, according to an American military government survey, is the desire of hordes of Germans who can manage it to get away from Russian control into the areas occupied by the western powers.

A population survey showed that during 1947, the population of the U. S. zone of Germany increased three percent of 350,000 people — from 17,380,000 to 17,730,000. The addition was packed into the area already populated far beyond prewar thickness. In the same period, however, the Russian zone, alone among the areas of Germany, was losing population.

Excluding the return of prisoners of war, the survey said, inter-zonal immigration formed by far the largest part of immigration into the U. S. zone. And of the inter-zonal immigrants, by far the majority came from the Russian zone.

Movement of Germans from the Russian zone into what they call the "free air" of the western zones is divided into two classes — controlled and uncontrolled.

During 1947 the controlled inter-zonal immigration into the U. S. zone amounted to 70,000 Germans, of which 83.2 percent came from the Soviet zone. Many of these said they were fleeing political persecution and forced labor.

Uncontrolled immigration was immensely greater — how much greater nobody knows, because the people who made it fled by night and fog. They secretly skipped across zonal borders, probably rode freight cars, or hid under freight cargoes of trucks.

Crisis: Made in America

To venture a conclusion on the drama centering around the Soviet consulate in New York City while it is still being enacted is impossible.

But it must be said that a minor skirmish in the big strategy in the cold war — the Communist spy probes in the U. S. — has at last exploded into an up-and-coming battle front.

Americans have seen world crises mushroom up over Berlin, Belgrade and Rome over night. Now America's largest city could conceivably be the Danzig of World War III.

But some positive things are assembling above the haze — Americans aren't going to forget the cold war and turn to politics at home exclusively; no matter what is uncovered, Russia is on the defensive; coupled with a new feeling of failure by western envoys at Moscow, the incident will extend the international uneasiness.

'The Female of the Species'

Air Lift Delights Berlin Kids

BERLIN (AP) — Berlin's children, who haven't had much fun since the war, are getting a thrill out of the British-American air lift which is combatting the Russian blockade of the city.

Daily, by the hundreds, they besiege the U. S. army's Templehof airbase and the RAF's Gatow airport to watch the big blockade-busting transports land and take off in endless procession.

The fields are fenced off and nobody can get in without a pass. So the kids cluster in adjacent streets, often climbing perilously to balconies of bomb-ruined buildings or into fence-topping trees to get a better glimpse of the C-54 Skymasters and big Yorks and Lancasters. On the Havel lake the Sunderland flying boats are the big magnet.

"It's something they'll probably remember to their dying days — this blockade summer of 1948," said one parent. "They never tire of watching the operation. I've got to go out to Templehof, spank my children and drag them home crying when darkness comes — else they'd stay there all night."

German children who are old enough to remember the wartime bombings call the air lift planes "rosinen bomber (raisin bombers)" because one of the items for their diet brought in by the fliers is raisins.

Only a few of them ever get into Templehof or Gatow to see the "raisin bombers" close up. Then it is to hand pathetic little bouquets or other presents to the airmen in appreciation for their efforts.

Six Named To Review Cement Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP)—Six Chicagoans, representing industry, agriculture and labor, were named last night by Chairman Capehart (R-Ind) of the senate committee on trade policies to a 41-member advisory council to study effects of the supreme court's decision in the cement case.

This decision prohibits absorption of freight costs by producers as a means of meeting competition with plants situated nearer to the customer. Capehart said that while the ruling applies specifically to cement its effects could be felt by every industry affected by freight costs.

Truman Disagrees with Taft Prediction of Leveling Prices

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman said yesterday he couldn't agree with Senator Taft (R-Ohio) that prices will level off soon.

He blamed what he called the "do nothing congress" because it failed to act on his recommendations to the special session.

When told by a reporter at a news conference that Taft thinks prices will begin to level off, Mr. Truman said he hopes Taft is a god prophet but that he couldn't agree with him.

The President said prices have been going up ever since price controls were taken off, and that he had been told before that prices would level off but that they always seem to level off at higher brackets.

The only bright outlook, he said, was the recent report that farm crops will be larger than ever. This may bring down food prices.

He would not say what he planned to do about the Republican sponsored anti-inflation measure

Richard and the Door Are Back in the News

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Richard couldn't open the door so he got a round-trip ride from Honolulu to the states and back.

Ten-year-old Richard Serrao and his mother boarded the Matson Liner Lurline at Honolulu to see friends off.

"I went into a restroom and the door slammed," the lad said here yesterday. "I couldn't get it open."

The Lurline was far at sea when Richard was discovered. Ship's officers radioed his mother, who wired $120 for a round trip ticket.

The Lurline sails for Honolulu tonight and ship's officers are keeping a sharp eye on Richard, just in case he slams a door ashore.

Opposite six were the words "failed to act."

Failure to act also was charged to his civil rights legislation, increased minimum wages, increased social security benefits, displaced persons act changes, restoration of power appropriations and revision of the federal pay scale

City Clerk Explains Vote Requirements for Iowa Residents

Only permanent residents of Iowa City may register and vote here, City Clerk George J. Dohrer reaffirmed yesterday.

The residence requirements, set up by state law, include six months residence in the state, 60 days in Johnson county and 10 days in the precinct.

Students whose permanent homes are in Iowa City are eligible to vote. If a student is married and his home is in Iowa City, all his belongings are here and he is self-supporting, he may register in Iowa City.

Persons with jobs in Iowa City are considered residents. All persons must also be eligible under the state law residence requirements relating to length of time of residence in order to vote.

Iowa residents whose homes are not in Iowa City may send for absentee ballots from their county auditors. In cities over 10,000 population you must be registered 10 days prior to an election in order to obtain an absentee ballot.

One of the Fortunate

RAGWEED "FLOWERS" THAT BLOOM in the late summer have no effect on lucky Carol Chopek, 321 Center avenue. But that's only half the story. This patch of small ragweed, and others like it, will soon be causing much sneezing and many watery eyes among Iowa City's hay fever sufferers, not so fortunate as Carol.

Despite pollen counts which rose to 1,249 that year, the highest count detected within the house at any time was 21. The sufferers within their private refuge spent a comparatively comfortable season.

The doctors point out that the window-filtering equipment costs approximately $150 and can be reused with the insertion of fresh filters.

The Community Dads announced last night that they are planning a children's day celebration at city park Labor Day.

A special meeting of the Dads was called Monday night to make the preliminary arrangements for the day. A ball game between the "Old Timers" and some local team may highlight the day's festivities. Charles Smith, president of the club, urged all members of the Community Dads to be at the meeting so that plans may be worked out.

William Grandrath, publicity chairman of the Dads-sponsored swimming pool drive, announced a $45 addition to the fund yesterday from the business district phase of the drive.

This brings the total from the business district to $3,968.91 and the total from the entire drive to $10,534.79.

State Board Mum on School Tot Tuition

City School Superintendent Iver A. Opstad said yesterday that he has received no further word from the state board of education regarding the status of school children in the state owned housing area at Finkbine.

Opstad wrote the state board in June asking them to make some arrangements on the tuition for the children of SUI students on the state property outside the city limits. The Finkbine area is located in West Lucas township.

In his letter Opstad asked the state to pay $10 monthly for the students. West Lucas township refused to pay the tuition because it has school facilities available.

However, other township children attend Iowa City schools and the township pays the tuition. The township has two, one-room schools with a total enrollment of 20 children.

As the situation now stands, students from the Finkbine area may go to Iowa City schools if they pay the $10 monthly tuition, provided the city schools are not overcrowded, Opstad said.

School Board Lists 4 New Teachers For Public Schools

Four new teachers for Iowa City's public schools have been appointed, the school board announced Wednesday night.

These appointments fill most of the staff vacancies of approximately 100 teaching positions.

The four new teachers are: Mrs. Margaret Beall McCarthy, Williams, as grade teacher at Horace Mann school. Mrs. McCarthy taught at Lincoln school in Cedar Rapids last year.

Mrs. Marguerite Haney French, Philadelphia, is fifth and sixth grade teacher at Horace Mann school. She has taught at Upper Darby and Whitmarsh, both in Pennsylvania.

Glenn J. Jablonski, Big Rapids, Mich., is vocal music instructor, succeeding Thomas Wikstrom at junior high and City high schools.

Mrs. Muriel W. Clark, Ida Grove, will teach at Horace Mann school. Mrs. Clark has taught at Stanford university elementary school.

The school board also elected Mrs. Vashti Sessler, 615 N. Dubuque street, as a secretarial worker for the principal's office at city high school.

Public schools will open Sept. 13.

Roosevelt Escape Revealed in Article Written by Hopkins

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the midst of the war, Nov. 14, 1943, a torpedo just missed a battleship, the U.S.S. Iowa, which was carrying President Roosevelt and the chiefs of staff to the Cairo and Teheran conferences.

The incident is told in the current installment of "the secret papers of Harry L. Hopkins," appearing in Colliers' today.

When the torpedo was sighted President Roosevelt was on deck watching an anti-aircraft drill. Suddenly a sailor yelled, "It's the real thing," and all the ships' guns let go at a torpedo 600 yards away. It passed astern of the Iowa.

No further explanation of the incident is made other than the one offered at the time: The torpedo came from one of our own destroyers (unnamed in the article) and "must have been unloosed because of heavy seas in some unaccountable fashion."

Profs Pass

Minnesota Students Grade Instructors

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—A group of University of Minnesota professors have been graded by their students and none of the profs flunked.

Announcing results of a university-sponsored "microscopic" examination of the teachers by 1,000 students, Dr. Kenneth E. Clark, assistant professor of psychology, said yesterday that all had passing grades or better.

Approximately 25 professors agreed to act as guinea pigs in the test conducted in the arts college.

The highest possible grade for the group was 4.0, but the grades ranged from a low of 2.22 to a high of 3.35.

For general teaching ability, profs were rated at 3.19; for their sense of humor their grade was 2.82 which was slightly above "average."

On the question, "how much are you learning from this instructor?" The students gave the profs a grade of 2.50 although they rated the group's teaching ability at 3.19.

Asks Doctors To Volunteer

CHICAGO (AP)—The Journal of the American Medical Association yesterday called on young doctors educated during the war at government expense to volunteer for service under the new draft law.

"They owe an obligation to the government and to the people of the United States," the journal said editorially.

The journal termed the need for medical services in the armed forces "exceedingly critical," saying nearly 6,000 physicians will be required within a year.

The journal said there were "thousands of young men who were educated at government expense in the ASTP and the V-12 programs who did not render actual military service."
