MUNCIE, IND. (AP) — Rachel E. Potter, 32, of nearby Parker, drove her automobile into a 72-car Nickel Plate freight train here early yesterday and derailed six freight cars, but she continued on to work later unhurt. Mrs. Potter said she did not see the train. Her car was wrecked.

Trigger-Happy Soviet Fires Upon Germans

BERLIN (UP)—A Russian lieutenant fired into a group of Germans in the American sector of Berlin yesterday wounding a German and forcing American military police to take cover. Level-headed American soldiers prevented a possibly serious outbreak by holding their fire as the excited Russian, accompanied by two others who had entered the American sector, retreated into the Russian zone.

Entered Home
The incident was touched off when aroused Germans spotted the Soviet entering the home of a German woman about five blocks from the Russo-American border, and called military police. The Russian left the house and backed slowly toward woods which marked the Soviet zonal border, followed by a group of angry Germans.

When two military police patrols arrived at the scene, the Russian fired three times. One German fell and the others dashed for cover.

Americans Duck

The Americans ducked under their jeep. They emerged almost immediately, pistols drawn, and saw the Russian heading toward the woods. They did not fire.

About 10 minutes later, the Russian came back into the American zone, followed by another soldier brandishing a sub-machine gun.

New York Times Correspondent Edward Morrow, who arrived on the scene with United Press Correspondent John B. McDermott, went down a back street and approached the Russians.

Given Advice

Speaking quietly in Russian, Morrow advised them to keep down their guns and talk things over with American military police.

The Russian said he had come back for his motorcycle, confiscated by the Americans. He did not get it.

The Russians, the correspondents and Lt. Col. Thomas Lancer, U.S. Provost Marshal in Berlin, conferred briefly.

'I'm Sorry'

"I'm very sorry it happened," said the Russian who fired, "I would never shoot at an American. Why, I should have shot down all the Americans around there, like shooting crows, if I wanted to. I was just trying to scare off the German mob."

As he talked, his companion stood a few paces away, his sub-machine gun cocked.

"I'm a very good shot," the Russian continued. "If I wanted to hit you, I could have. I don't know why there is so much excitement over one German girl."

New Location for '48 Corn Monument

The symbol of the State University of Iowa's annual Homecoming celebrations, the corn monument, will have a new home this year, Louis C. Zopf, chairman of the Homecoming committee, said yesterday.

The monument will be erected on the west approach to Old Capitol, the site of the Homecoming pep rally, Oct. 15.

The location of the corn monument on the campus will eliminate the traffic bottleneck at the corner of Iowa avenue and Clinton street, the former location.

The contest for the design of the monument closed Wednesday evening. Fifteen plans had been submitted. A $10 award will be made for the winning design.

The first monument was erected in 1914 by members of the hydraulic engineering class.

U.S. Renews Atom Offer

Sets Date for Berlin Debate

PARIS (AP)—The United States yesterday renewed its offer to give the rest of the world the secret of the atomic bomb and blamed Russia for blocking international control of the deadly weapon.

U. S. Delegate Warren R. Austin told the United Nations assembly's political committee that his government wants no monopoly on atomic force.

Then as October president of the security council he set 3 p.m. Monday as the hour for the start of debate on the fateful issue of Berlin. The western powers charge the Soviet union with threatening the peace of the world in the former German capital.

Austin said Russia had blocked global control of the atomic bomb by refusing to sacrifice any of her sovereignty to permit international inspection and control of sources of atomic energy. He noted the Soviet Union vetoed a majority-accepted control plan in the council.

"Fear has supplanted hope," he said, "because the Soviet Union has insisted on placing its sovereignty athwart security for all."

Austin said the United States is willing to submit to international control and inspection because the Americans "want peace for the world, for themselves and for their children."

There also were these developments in UN circles:

1. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt told the assembly's 58-nation social committee that the United States would accept a proposed world bill of human rights without amendment if all other nations follow suit.

There seemed little chance of acceptance to her offer due to opposition from the Soviet bloc and other quarters.

2. France's Communists joined those of Britain in backing Russia's UN proposals for a one-third reduction in the armaments of the world's five big powers. The item comes up for debate in the political committee after a decision is taken on atomic energy.

3. Reliable sources said 12 countries were about to form a middle eastern bloc in the UN. A meeting of the dozen, all of them generally anti-Russian, was set for tomorrow.

The list included Afghanistan, Egypt, Ethiopia, Greece, Iraq, Iran, Lebanon, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Turkey and Yemen.

LONDON (UP) — Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, chief of the British imperial general staff, will be named generalissimo of the armed forces of the five western countries allied against Communist aggression, an official source said yesterday.

The British cabinet already has approved the appointment, which will be announced within 48 hours by the permanent commission of the Brussels treaty powers, the source said.

These powers are Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Last Request Granted—Violin Buried with Her

LOS ANGELES (UP)—A Stradivarius violin yesterday was entombed with the body of Mrs. Nana Patricia Dubois, 78, former concert violinist.

Mrs. Dubois, known on the concert stage as Louisa Terzi, died last Sunday and her last request was to have the violin buried with her.

The violin once was valued at $45,000 but later it was damaged by fire and in three shipwrecks.

Some GI's Get Checks

If you are among the lucky few who found a G. I. subsistence check in the mail yesterday don't lose any sleep over whether to keep it.

According to William D. Coder, Veterans' Service director, those students who received checks yesterday are entitled to them. Coder said a number of students asked him yesterday if they could keep the checks.

The checks, covering the period from registration to Oct. 1, were sent out to a few of the students who pre-registered last July, according to Coder.

He said some of the pre-registration papers had been sent through to Kansas City for processing before the new order arrived from Washington requiring thirty days attendance in class before becoming eligible for subsistence.

And if you haven't received a check yet the chances are that you will have to wait until Nov. 1, Coder added.

Iowa Progressives To Remain in Race

Although 13 Progressive party candidates withdrew from congressional contests in five states yesterday, Seymour M. Pletcher, SUI professor and Progressive U. S. senatorial candidate, yesterday indicated that no withdrawals are expected in Iowa.

"The Progressive party in Iowa hasn't entered candidates in congressional races in competition with candidates which are considered 'liberal,'" he said.

In Washington, D. C., Wallace's campaign manager, C. B. Baldwin, announced the withdrawals of the 13 candidates, explaining that the Democratic nominees in the races "have now turned to a much more constructive liberal path."

He admitted that the design of the atom bomb is a secret, "but so is the design of the B-36. This doesn't mean that some other power couldn't build big airplanes nor does it mean they couldn't build atomic bombs."

Roberts believes the public does not understand what the word "secrecy" means in relationship to science and atomic energy. He suggested that the public thinks of secrets in terms of the plot of a "spy movie." The villain comes on the scene, deftly lifts the secret formula, and goes out with a means of world conquest.

"Atomic secrets are not like this," Roberts said. They may not even be written. In the event

a Communist wanted to steal valuable material, he might have to carry off a whole cart-load of "filing cabinets," he said.

Assuming that valuable data was stolen, Roberts said he doubted whether it would be of much value. He said those who received the information would not know whether it was true and would waste more time looking for errors and deceptions than if they went about proving the matter for themselves.

"The most they could possibly gain," said the physicist, "is two or three months research time, which might be lost anyway in trying to interpret and apply another scientist's findings."

Truman, Dewey Talk Prices, Policy Abroad

Truman Says NAM Ruined Price Control

LOUISVILLE, KY. (AP)—President Truman said last night the National Association of Manufacturers organized a conspiracy against the American consumer and spent $3-million to destroy price control.

Mr. Truman said "it's time for a change," a change that will bring Democrats back into control of congress and get action against high prices and for more housing.

In Louisville

The Chief Executive spoke in the armory at Louisville after a day of heavy campaigning through southern Illinois and Indiana and more flings at the GOP and congress.

The President said he didn't think the people will be fooled again by "that tommyrot" that the Democratic administration was wrong in wanting to keep price controls, that prices would take care of themselves.

Asks Changes

Contending the Republican party is "willing and eager to listen to the voice of big business and special privilege," Mr. Truman said:

"And that's why I say it's time for a change—a change from the Republican congress we've been suffering under these last two years.

"Give us a Democratic congress and we will get action for more housing at lower prices. That will be a change.

Monopoly

"Give us a Democratic congress and we will take action against monopoly. That will be a change.

"Give us a Democratic congress and we will move forward for the benefit of all the people, toward better housing, better medical care, better education—all the things that mean a happier and more secure life for the average American family.

"That is the sort of change which we Democrats propose. That is the kind of change the American people need and want."

Yugoslav Parliament Attacks Cominform

BELGRADE, YUGOSLAVIA (AP)—The Yugoslav parliament adopted a resolution last night denouncing the Soviet Union and the Cominform for starting "a campaign of slander against Yugoslavia."

The resolution was read to parliament by Petar Stambolich, newly appointed president of Serbia.

It was written in the same defiant tone that Premier Marshal Tito and his Communist party central committee used when the Cominform first accused them of veering away from the Marxist-Leninist line.

Cheering frequently interrupted the reading. Whenever feats of the wartime Yugoslav partisan fighters or aims of the Tito regime were mentioned, the deputies rose to their feet and applauded.

Tito attended the session and rose several times to acknowledge the acclaim of the members.

'Speedy' Truman Loses Count

HAWESVILLE, KY. (UP)—President Truman greeted the people here last night saying it was "good to be in Irvington." He caught himself quickly and apologized, saying he was moving so fast yesterday that he couldn't count all the towns. "I just come out when they call me," he told a rear platform crowd, "and I got my towns mixed." He went on to call for the election of the full Democratic ticket in Kentucky.

Israeli Police Arrest Head of Stern Group

TEL AVIV (UP)—Nathan Friedman Yellin, head of the outlawed Stern group which is accused of assassinating Count Folke Bernadotte, was arrested in Haifa yesterday along with one of his chief lieutenants.

Israeli police traced Yellin from Tel Aviv to Haifa where they trapped him and Matayahu Shmulevitz, his assistant, in a small house in the Arab quarter. Both men were carrying forged papers. Neither resisted arrest.

Yellin became leader of the Stern group after Joseph Stern, the founder, was killed in 1942 while trying to escape the British. Yellin was born in Poland some 40 years ago, is a graduate engineer, and has been a teacher.

Trans-Jordan charged yesterday that Israeli forces launched an all-out attack on the old city of Jerusalem Wednesday night, and the walled area was placed under "the heaviest fire so far."

United Press Correspondent Robert C. Miller reported from Jerusalem that the Israeli government plans to submit an amendment to the Bernadotte plan for Palestine when it is discussed in the United Nations general assembly at Paris.

The council named Rod Gelatt, Hillcrest representative, to head the committee.

Young Republicans, Young Democrats and Students for Wallace — the three campus political groups — were authorized to name one representative each to the straw vote committee.

The council last night also took "full responsibility" for planning the annual Homecoming pep rally.

Council President Evan L. Hultman explained that a "mechanical mixup" with Tailfeathers necessitated the move. Tailfeathers' first pep meeting is scheduled for Oct. 22, the night before the Notre Dame-Iowa football game, he said.

The council also decided to hold regularly scheduled meetings the first and third Thursday each month.

Claiming "there is direct evidence that secrets have been turned over to the Russians," McDowell declared that Attorney General Clark should be impeached if he doesn't prosecute those against whom the committee has assembled evidence.

The Pennsylvania said the Russians have acquired American secrets involving atomic information, jet propulsion, radar, gun material, chemicals, state department policy document, defense and detection devices, new explosives, and airfield locations.

R. D. Noble Pleads Innocent to Charges

SOUTH BEND, IND. (UP)—A plea of not guilty to charges of reckless homicide was entered yesterday by Robert D. Noble, 29, Iowa City, driver of an automobile involved in an accident with a group of college students following the Iowa-Notre Dame football game here last year.

Noble, assistant secretary of the University of Iowa Alumni association, asked Circuit Judge Dan Pyle for a change of presiding judge in his case. Pyle said he would appoint a new judge, subject to agreement by the prosecutor and defense attorneys.

The car driven by Noble was involved in an accident with a group of St. Mary's college and Notre Dame university students walking along a highway shortly after the football game here last Oct. 25. Two persons were killed.

Dewey Warns Russia Against Bluffing Policy

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey last night proposed a nine-point American foreign policy aimed at lasting peace but making it "perfectly plain" to Russia "we do not intend to be bullied or bluffed."

"However much we may desire peace, we cannot buy peace with appeasement," the Republican presidential nominee said in a major campaign address in the famed Mormon tabernacle.

The New York governor called for "unstinting support" of the United Nations.

Declaring the goal of American foreign policy "is to establish in the world a just and lasting peace," Dewey outlined this program:

1. "We will give unstinting support to the United Nations," which, although "still imperfect, . . . can be perfected."

2. "We will extend the hand of friendship and help to freedom loving people everywhere." Dewey cited the European recovery program as a notable case in point.

3. Use of that program "as the means for pushing, prodding and encouraging the nations of western Europe toward the goal of European union."

4. "We shall bring an end to the tragic neglect of our ancient friend and ally, China."

5. "We shall be so strong (militarily) that no nation will again risk attacking us."

6. "Besides military might, 'our policies will encourage an abundant,' increasingly productive nation."

7. "As a cornerstone of our foreign policy, we shall continue to strengthen the close and cordial cooperation with our neighbors in the American continent."

8. "Our foreign policy will be the expression of the ideals, traditions and aspirations of the American people."

9. "We shall enlist the spiritual resources of mankind in a great moral awakening. We are resolved to wage the peace with such courage, such unity, such great uncompromising devotion to the right that mankind will take heart again. . . ."

ALTHOUGH TRADITIONAL SYMBOL of the Republican party is an elephant while the donkey belongs to the Democrats, things got switched briefly yesterday in Manhattan. The unusual get-together occurred during a rally at which Warren spoke.

SUI's Arthur Roberts Raps Thomas Committee

A University of Iowa physicist and consultant to the government on atomic energy yesterday denounced the house un-American activities committee for its conduct in investigating scientists.

The Thomas committee is hounding the American people much more than any conceivable existing combination of Communist saboteurs," according to Prof. Arthur Roberts of the physics department.

The physicist, who now is acting as consultant to the Argonne, Oak Ridge and Brookhaven laboratories, said he has many scientist friends who resent the procedures of the Thomas committee.

"The committee's baseless attacks on scientists," Roberts said in an interview, "show that it is far from interested in the welfare of the nation. The committee seems intent on driving scientists out of government work, and insistent on making political capital out of witch-hunts."

Roberts, chairman of the Federation of American Scientists, regards the Thomas committee investigations as "deterrents" to our atomic energy efforts.

"It's no wonder," Roberts said, "that a large percentage of American scientists have left government jobs. Working for government laboratories has now become very disagreeable to many scientists."

"Actually," commented the physicist, "The Thomas committee has alienated all scientists by its vicious attack on Edward U. Condon."

Roberts believes that continued scientific advancement is "far more important" than any alleged secrets.

"You can't easily steal atomic secrets," he said. "In fact it would be very difficult to give them away."

Roberts' reason for this is that there are no secrets which we have that someone else couldn't discover in the "same manner that we did."

He admitted that the design of the atom bomb is a secret, "but so is the design of the B-36. This doesn't mean that some other power couldn't build big airplanes nor does it mean they couldn't build atomic bombs."

Roberts believes the public does not understand what the word "secrecy" means in relationship to science and atomic energy. He suggested that the public thinks of secrets in terms of the plot of a "spy movie." The villain comes on the scene, deftly lifts the secret formula, and goes out with a means of world conquest.

"Atomic secrets are not like this," Roberts said. They may not even be written. In the event

a Communist wanted to steal valuable material, he might have to carry off a whole cart-load of "filing cabinets," he said.

Assuming that valuable data was stolen, Roberts said he doubted whether it would be of much value. He said those who received the information would not know whether it was true and would waste more time looking for errors and deceptions than if they went about proving the matter for themselves.

Bruised Hawk Gridders Leave This Morning for Indiana Game

A travelling squad of 35 Iowa football players, definitely not in the best physical condition, will leave Iowa City at 9:15 o'clock this morning enroute to its Big Nine opener against Indiana tomorrow afternoon.

The Hawkeye party will set up headquarters at Indianapolis this evening and travel to Bloomington, 50 miles south of Indianapolis, tomorrow morning by chartered bus.

As the Hawks leave this morning, here is their injury list.

1. Ray Carlson, regular right guard and game captain against Marquette last Saturday, will be left at home. Carlson twisted a knee in the Hilltopper tilt and has been laid up since.

2. Al DiMarco, quarterback and undoubtedly Iowa's chief threat, has been slowed by a bruised right shoulder. The shoulder is expected to be in better working form by game time tomorrow.

3. Jerry Faske, No. 1 right halfback, has stayed away from heavy work this week in an effort to shake off a charley horse. Although slated to start, whether Faske will be able to utilize his much-talked-of speed remains unknown.

4. Ralph Doran, senior right halfback from Cedar Rapids who proved to be one of the Hawks' best running backs against Marquette, is suffering from a bruised side.

That's the situation as the Old Gold squad leaves for the game which should give some indication as to what lies ahead for the remainder of the season. Iowa must exhibit much more, both offensively and defensively, than it showed against the Hilltoppers if the Hawks hope to stand on even ground in the bone-crushing games ahead.

Woodard Works at Full
Yesterday afternoon Dr. Anderson, realizing that he may be short-handed at right half, moved Fullback Johnny Tedore over to that position and hoisted Center Dick Woodard out of the line and into the fullback slot.

Both Tedore and Woodard have played those positions before. Tedore was an Iowa halfback in 1946 and 1947 but his slowness afoot resulted in the switch to full. Woodard, exceptionally fast for a 215-pounder, was a fullback in high school days at Ft. Dodge and for Iowa in 1944.

In practice this week Anderson has given no reason to believe he will make any drastic changes for the Hoosiers. His lineup, except for Carlson, will be practically the same as played the major portion of the Marquette game.

His probable offensive first string will have Bob McKenzie and Jack Dittmer, ends; Jim Shoaf and Bill Kay, tackles; Joe Grothus and either Earl Banks or "Junebug" Perrin, guards; Woodard, center and game captain; DiMarco, quarterback; Bob Longley and Faske, halfbacks, and Tedore, fullback.

Two Defensive Changes
His two major changes on defense will be to sideline DiMarco and Dittmer, his best passing combination, in order to get more husky operatives in the lineup. Tony Guzewski is the likely replacement for Dittmer and Ron Headington, line-backing fullback, is DiMarco's alternate.

The Hawks have drilled long and hard this week against Indiana formations, especially concentrating on Hoosier plays designed to shake George Tallafiero, flashy Negro halfback, into the secondary.

Dr. Anderson has observed that Indiana is usually a fast-breaking team and will be buoyed additionally by the unexpected win last week over favored Wisconsin, 35-7.

Michigan, Buckeyes, Tar Heels Favored

by AUSTIN BEALMEAR

NEW YORK (AP) — All set for the second whirl of the season on the football guessing merry-go-round, this forecaster warns the customers that last week's initial effort resulted in 18 misses out of 75 tries:

North Carolina vs. Georgia—If Justice doesn't triumph here, there ain't none. Choo Choo and the Tar Heels look like the class of the south after walloping Texas. A big vote for North Carolina.

Iowa vs. Indiana—A bow to the Hoosiers.

Oregon vs. Michigan—The Rose Bowl champs against the team which may be the host at Pasadena next time. Both were hard pressed last week against underdog foes. That narrow squeak against Michigan State must have brought the Wolverines down to earth. Despite Gene Derricotte's injury, the nod goes to Michigan.

Dartmouth vs. Pennsylvania—Dartmouth, supposedly improved, may be the dark horse of the Ivy league, but Pennsylvania is the champ. A confident vote for Pennsylvania.

Tulane vs. Georgia Tech—Tulane's victory over Alabama was a surprise, but a decision for the Green Wave here should be nothing less than a shock. Georgia Tech.

Arkansas vs. Texas Christian—Probably close with Clyde Scott the difference. TCU is favored but we'll take a flier on Arkansas.

Purdue vs. Northwestern—This should clear up a question or two in the Big Nine, unless the Bollermakers fail to bounce back from their heartbreaking loss to Notre Dame. That isn't likely. Purdue.

Columbia vs. Harvard—The Lions handled Rutgers with ease and will be tough for anybody. Columbia.

Baylor vs. Mississippi State—A tough one. One shaky vote for Mississippi State.

Southern California vs. Ohio State—This could go either way, but it's usually safer to take any Big Nine team over any from the Pacific Coast. Also the Buckeyes are at home. Ohio State.

Louisiana State vs. Rice—In their openers, Rice humbled Sam Houston, while LSU got trounced by Texas. Rice.

Stanford vs. Washington State—Neither looks like a threat in the Pacific Coast conference. Stanford.

Cornell vs. Navy—The Middies have the better first string, while Cornell has better reserves. EEnie, meenie . . . Navy.

Mississippi vs. Kentucky—Ole Miss made a good start toward its Southeastern title defense, but it may end here. Kentucky.

Illinois vs. Wisconsin—The Badgers can't be as bad as that 35-7 loss to Indiana indicated, but apparently they're bad enough. Illinois.

Lafayette vs. Army—Both looked good in their respective debuts last week, but Lafayette won't have so much fun this week. Army.

Notre Dame vs. Pittsburgh—The Panthers scored twice on SMU and may do it against the Irish, but that won't be enough. Notre Dame.

Running rapidly over the rest of the week end's better games:

Tonight
—Boston College over Georgetown, Missouri over St. Louis, Detroit over Marquette. South Carolina over Furman.

Tomorrow
—Penn State over Bucknell, Holy Cross over Syracuse, Princeton over Brown, Yale over Connecticut, Maryland over Delaware, Villanova over Duquesne.

Minnesota over Nebraska, Oklahoma over Texas A. and M., Oklahoma A. and M. over Denver, Kansas over Colorado, Iowa State over Kansas State, Kansas over Colorado, Michigan State over Hawaii, Cincinnati over Xavier, Miami (Ohio) over Western Reserve, Wichita over Bradley.

Drake over Iowa Teachers, North Dakota over South Dakota State, Washington (St. Louis) over Carnegie Tech.

Alabama over Vanderbilt, Duke over Tennessee, Auburn over Louisiana Tech, Florida over Tulsa, North Carolina State over Clemson.

Slow Track, Yanks Almost Scratched

WADING HOME from centerfield after the Yankee-Athletics game yesterday are Joe DiMaggio (left) and Phil Rizzuto, of the Yanks. A steady rain which started yesterday morning held up the start of the game for half an hour. The A's won the high board diving event but the Yank won the game, 9 to 7.

Little Hawks Meet McKinley In Homecoming Battle Tonight

McKinley high will try to break its victory drought tonight when it invades Iowa City to meet the Little Hawks in the Hawkeye homecoming. The game is scheduled for the City high stadium at 8 p.m.

In 3 years McKinley has never defeated the Little Hawks, their only solace being a 7-7 tie in 1945. In fact the Iowa City team is so strong that clubs from Cedar Rapids schools have only posted five victories in 36 meetings over the 13-year span.

Coach Frank Bates said last night that "we will be better off for this game than at any time this year as regards to injuries."

This means that Gene Hettrick will be on deck and ready for action in the contest. Hettrick has been suffering from an abscess under his arm and missed last week's contest against Wilson of C.

McKinley has a light, fast ball club which goes in for plenty of trickery. It operates from a T-formation but shifts into a single-line to utilize the services of its speedy left half Statney.

Rox Slain will captain the Hawklet tonight. The Little Hawks will again operate from the T-formation and in tonight's game may open up their bag of tricks. Their passing was practically nil in last week's contest, but with Hettrick ready to throw, they will probably vary his power tactics with passing and end sweeps.

University high will probably get off the fence tonight when they play the Wapello Indians at Wapello.

So far this fall the Blue Hawks have won one and lost one for a .500 average. Wapello will be their third foe of the season.

The Indians have lost both games played this year. West Branch beat them, 13-6, and West Liberty took their measure, 20-0.

Bob Mathews, fullback, poses the biggest threat to the Blue Hawks.

Arnold Schnoebelen, end who missed last week's game, will be back in the Blue Hawk lineup, though Jerry Blaha, tackle who was injured in the same game, will not be ready for the Wapello contest.

Bosox Keep Hopes Alive

Parnell Beats Senators, 7-3

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Red Sox postponed the fatal day of reckoning in the American League race by hammering Washington, 7-3, with a 15-hit barrage that placed the lead of the idle Cleveland Indians to 1 1/2 games.

The die hard men of McCarthy now are sure to cling to a mathematical chance until Saturday afternoon, although a Cleveland win over Detroit today would assure them of no worse than a tie.

Idle today while the Indians open their final three game set with the Tigers, the Red Sox close out their season Saturday and Sunday in a two game struggle with the New York Yankees. If they can win both from the Yanks, Cleveland must drop two of three to force a Monday afternoon tie playoff.

It was evident as early as the second that Pitcher Early Wynn was in for a rough afternoon. The Sox combed him for five hits in that inning. He escaped with only two runs because Billy Goodman hit into a double play and Vern Stephens struck out with the bases full.

The Sox were leaving men on base at an alarming rate, enough to disturb starter and winner Mel Parnell. In the fifth they finally got Wynn out of there. With one gone Spence hammered his 12th homer into the right field seats. That started it.

Goodman beat out a roller to Al Kozar and Tebbetts singled to left. DiMaggio came through with his third straight hit, a two run double to left. Johnny Pesky's single, which Kozar just got a glove on, knocked in DiMaggio. When Williams rapped a single to center, Manager Joe Kuhel hoisted Wynn for Sid Hudson.

Sid couldn't get the ball over, walking Stephens and Bobby Doerr on eight straight balls to force in the fifth run of the inning.

Washington broke Parnell's shutout bid in the sixth on Ed Stewart's seventh home run into the right field seats following a walk to Tom McBride. Singles by Jake Early, Kozar and McBride produced another run in the seventh.

Light Work, Blackboard Drills Occupy Hoosiers

BLOOMINGTON, IND. (UP)—Indiana university gridgers had a blackboard drill on blocking assignments yesterday, and Coach Clyde Smith followed the skull practice with light contact work. Nick Sebek and George Tallaferra alternated as passer for the Hoosiers, with injured Right Half John McDonnell catching his share of the tosses.

Injuns Still Scoutin' Foes

HALTING YESTERDAY'S WORKOUT BRIEFLY Cleveland pitcher Bob Feller, left, checks on the score of the Yankee-Athletic game. He's conferring with Gene Bearden, another ace Indian hurler. Both the Yankees and Boston Red Sox won to climb within 1 1/2 games of the league-leading Tribe, which was idle.

Yanks Use 3 Pitchers in 9th To Wade Through A's, 9 to 7

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The New York Yankees retained their slim stake in the American League flag race by outscrambling Connie Mack's Athletics 9 to 7 in a rain-swept game at Shibe park yesterday.

When Vic Raschi, third Yankee pitcher in the ninth inning, stifled the last two Athletic batters with the bases loaded, it meant that the world champions still had an outside chance of winning the pennant they captured last year by a dozen games.

The figures last night showed that Bucky Harris' club could sneak in by beating the Boston Red Sox in both their closing games in the Hub City Saturday and Sunday—providing the front-running Cleveland Indians drop their final three against Detroit. It was a thin hope.

Cubs Drop Reds, 1-0, On Chambers' Victory

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Cubs ended their home season today by defeating Cincinnati, 1 to 0, in a lefthanded pitchers' duel between Cliff Chambers and Ken Raffensberger. Chambers thus completed a weird season in which he won his first start from St. Louis in April, 6-2, then didn't triumph again until this, his final start. Hal Jeffcoat drove in the lone run in the fourth with a long fly.

Double Win Places Redbirds in Second

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Stan Musial paced St. Louis to a 6-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday in the first game of a day-night doubleheader with a three-run homer in the first inning. It was his 39th circuit blow of the season.

Harry (The Cat) Brecheen chalked up his 20th victory of the season when he pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to a 4 to 1 victory last night over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The double win enabled the Redbirds to gain a second place tie with the idle Brooklyn Dodgers while the Pirates dropped to fourth.

Donnelson Wins In City Net Play

Ken Donnelson, only seeded player to see action, stroked his way into the third round men's singles of the Iowa City tennis tournament yesterday by downing Harris, 6-4, 6-1.

The other three seeded entrants Dr. Soley, Dr. Millikan and Netolicky will swing into action today.

The tournament, which opened yesterday is being played on the Library Annex and varsity courts south of the fieldhouse, with action beginning daily at 3:30 p.m.

Only other contestants to play yesterday were the junior girls. Ruth Ashton blanked Donna Peters 6-0, 6-0, while Jean Hamish extended Tish Dawson to three sets before falling, 4-6, 6-4, 7-5.

Margie Moeller won from Marjorie Kurtz by default.

Mountaineers Plan Outing Tomorrow

The Iowa mountaineers are going on a timber trail horseback ride tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. Don Strub, leader of the mountaineers, announced yesterday.

The group will leave from the Engineering building and travel in the mountaineer's truck to Upmeir's stables. The stables are about three miles north of Solon.

After the ride a picnic supper will be served around a campfire, and the group will return around 8:00 p.m.

Two New Families In Finkbine Village

Linke is a senior in English. He served as quartermaster on the aircraft carrier USS Hancock during the war.

Kendall is a pre-dentistry sophomore and a veteran of the infantry in the south Pacific.

The Kendalls have a daughter, Pamela Jane, 11 months.

Delay Trial Of Anderson

The trial of Oscar Anderson, charged with intent to commit murder, has been postponed until Oct. 18, Judge James P. Gaffney of the eighth judicial district, announced yesterday.

Anderson's trial was first scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. October 11. It was set back a week at the defense attorneys' request.

A $31,400 damage suit brought by Edward J. Dvorsky, Solon, against Warren Harding Johnson and the Farmer's Co-operative Elevator company, will take the place of the Anderson case on Oct. 11.

Dvorsky seeks damages for the death of his son, Elwood, 17, who was killed in a truck-pedestrian accident last Jan. 26.

The youth allegedly was walking along the shoulder of highway 261 near Solon when he was reported to have been struck in the head by the rear view mirror on a truck.

It's Not the Original, but It's 'Bix' His Nephew Enrolled Here

Followers of jazz music please note: If a Bix Beiderbecke is called upon to recite in any of your classes, it is not a character masquerading as the late immortal jazz trumpeter and SUI alumnus of the roaring twenties.

The husky lad with the crew cut who answers to that call is really Bix Beiderbecke, named after the original Bix.

Leon Bismark "Bix" Beiderbecke, who hailed from Davenport, was, and still is, considered one of the greatest names in jazz music of this or any jazz era. Musicians and other followers of serious popular music still speak of him in terms of reverence.

His stay here at SUI was not long. He enrolled here in the spring term of the 1924-25 school year. But, apparently his scholastic endeavors suffered too much from his avid interest in jazz, and, as the Registrar's office put it, "He was not allowed to complete the semester."

Bix played with some famous people—Louis Armstrong, Paul Whiteman, the Dorsey brothers, Bing Crosby, Hoagy Carmichael—the list is endless.

Richard "Bix" Beiderbecke, 18, also from Davenport, and a freshman here at SUI, isn't a noted name in jazz—he "plays at the drums"—but he certainly is proud of his uncle.

"I don't remember anything about him, but, according to my father, Bix was the greatest guy," Richard "Bix" graduated from Davenport high school last June. He started school here a week ago with his brother, Charles, 20.

Chuck, who was three years old when the great Bix died, remembers very little about his illustrious uncle. One incident, however, will probably be imprinted upon his mind, or rather, his scalp.

In a playful mood one day, Bix placed a mechanical toy top on

It's Not the Original, but It's 'Bix' His Nephew Enrolled Here

Chuck's head. The top proceeded to rip out most of the youngster's hair. Chuck is proud of the scars.

However, the trumpeter had his softer moments. Just before his namesake was born, Bix went to Davenport and played the piano for his sister-in-law.

The Beiderbecke's were and are a musical family. Young Bix's father, Charles Sr., plays the saxophone and sings a very good baritone, according to his son. His grandmother, Mrs. Agatha H. Beiderbecke, was a well-known pianist.

But, though Bix the younger plays the drums and both brothers are proud of the family tradition, neither have any intention of pursuing music as a career.

Both boys are enrolled in the school of liberal arts and are not definite as to their majors yet.

(Daily Iowan Photo by Erwin Gilmore)
Bix Beiderbecke
Nephew of the Immortal Jazz Trumpeteer

Bix thinks he might major in psychology or philosophy.

However, though they might be considered at variance with the family tradition, they do have one thing in common with their uncle. They will go far and wide to hear some good jazz.

When he was young the immortal Bix had a boy row him alongside the Mississippi river steamers up from New Orleans, so that he could hear and play with the Dixieland and Creole jazz bands that were usually aboard the boats.

They don't take to the water, but the Beiderbecke brothers will go as far as Chicago to hear some well-known jazz artist. As to their preferences: Dixieland, bop, progressive jazz—no favorites. Sometimes, even Stan Kenton.

New Traffic Signals Installed in Iowa City

Iowa City drivers yesterday afternoon received their first taste of the new traffic signals at the corner of Burlington and Gilbert streets.

Other intersections at which the lights soon will be installed are at Clinton and Burlington streets and the west end of the Burlington street bridge.

The new signals work on an electronic principle with a detector set in the pavement some distance back from the intersection.

The right-of-way is given to a street only as the result of "actuation" caused by a car passing over the detector on that street. In the absence of traffic on both streets the right-of-way will remain on the street where it was last assigned.

The time it takes a car to go from the detector across the intersection is recorded and the timing device on the signal is set at this speed-called the vehicle interval.

When a car passes over the detector it receives an initial interval after which the keeping of the right-of-way depends on the vehicle interval.

The idea of the new signals is to move the maximum amount of traffic. Each successive actuation cancels the unexpired portion of the vehicle interval in which it occurs, resets the mechanism at zero and begins the timing of a new interval.

The crew working with H. B.

Allen, Des Moines traffic device distributor, turned the heads of the new signals away from traffic while installation was in progress yesterday, but many drivers slowed or completely stopped at the intersection. Later in the day the lights were turned on for experimental purposes.

Allen said the Clinton street lights will probably be in by Tuesday of next week and the bridge lights within the next two weeks.

The date of the beginning of operation of the various lights was not given. There is still some work to do at the Gilbert street crossing which should not take more than one day.

Democrats to Open Headquarters Here

Campaign headquarters for Johnson county Democrats will be opened today in room 312 of the Jefferson hotel, Edward Lucas, chairman of the Democratic central committee, announced yesterday.

Mrs. Mabel Fitzgarrald, 335 S. Dubuque street, will be in charge of the quarters which will be open from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. every weekday until the November 2 election.

According to Lucas, the room will be a clearing house for voters away from home and those too ill to come to the polls, but desiring to cast absentee ballots. Facilities will be set up to notarize absentee ballots.

Lucas invited all voters desiring information on registration or voting to visit the headquarters.

Jaycees Plan Minstrel Show

Plans for the Jaycees' forthcoming minstrel and variety show moved ahead yesterday as Leo Cortimiglia, co-chairman of the show committee, announced names of several Jaycee members who will begin preliminary work on the production.

The new appointees will begin work immediately in preparation for rehearsals, which will start Oct. 14.

Representatives of the John Rogers Production company, Fostoria, Ohio, will be on hand at that date to take charge of the show, which will be held Nov. 2, 3 and 4 in City high school auditorium.

Those appointed by Cortimiglia are Bob Snyder, James Baxter, James Sousel, Harry Dunlap and D. R. Williamson.

They will take charge of publicity, finance, talent and other advance work in connection with the show.

Cortimiglia estimated the production will entail a cast of about 150.

Proceeds of the show will go to help finance the Jaycees' current safety drive.

Young GOP's Plan Survey of Married Students on Campus

Plans to conduct a survey of all married students on the campus were presented to the members of the Young Republican League at its first meeting of the year last night in Macbride hall. The survey, to be conducted by Bob Van Nostrand, is planned to aid married students in registration for the coming election.

John Elliot, executive chairman of the student GOP announced plans for a social meeting to be held in the Hub Room of the Hotel Jefferson Sunday, Oct. 11, at 3 p.m.

Elliot also announced that a rally would be held Oct. 27. He said details would be announced later.

Other business before the group consisted of registering new members and securing volunteers to help out with work at the Republican county headquarters and with the survey of married students.

Announcement was also made of a coming election, to be held at the next business meeting, to elect a secretary.

Chairman of the young GOP's, Jim Goodwin, told the members that the student council had approved a plan to hold a straw vote late in October and had assigned a committee to report on how it is to be conducted.

A mock political debate was presented by Bill Shuttleworth and George MacBurney in which political platforms were lampooned. MacBurney and Shuttleworth were chased out of the room by Bob Luman impersonating a member of the state board of education.

Solicitors to Start Collections Monday In Chest Fund Drive

About 65 solicitors will begin work Monday to raise the university's community chest quota of $3,551.89, Graham Marshall, director of the university phase of the community chest drive, announced today.

Marshall's list of solicitors, as yet incomplete, will include representatives from all departments in the university.

They will seek funds from all university employees, with the exception of those employed by University hospitals. They will not solicit students.

Students will be asked to contribute to the Campus Chest drive, which also begins Monday.

The overall quota of this year's community chest drive is $19,732.76. The funds will go to Iowa City Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Parent-Teachers association, city hall rest room fund and campaign and administration expenses.

Besides the university and University hospitals, other agencies from whom funds will be solicited are local schools, lodges, business and professional concerns and national firms.

The Retailers' Wednesday Morning Coffee club has already pledged its support to the drive. After meeting with the Retailers, D. R. Williamson, community chest campaign director, said he was confident he could expect "100 percent cooperation from the merchants."

Business and professional people are asked to give $8,090.43. This is the largest single quota.

Man Charged with Drunken Driving

Roy O'Leary, 525 South Linn street, has been charged with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated, in a county attorney's information filed by county attorney Jack C. White in Johnson county district court.

The information charged O'Leary with drunken driving July 5 on North Riverside drive.

After waiving preliminary hearing in police court July 6, he was bound over to the grand jury under $2,000 bond. Bond was later reduced to $1,000 and has now been posted.

The county attorney's information took O'Leary's case out of the grand jury's jurisdiction.

The information said that O'Leary had previously been convicted for drunk driving Oct. 24, 1946.

William Grandrath, publicity chairman for the pool fund drive, said yesterday that the Community Dads greatly appreciate the work the East Lucas Ladies club is doing.

"I feel that this club deserves special praise, because most of its members live outside the Iowa City limits," Grandrath said.

Traffic Violators' School Here?

The Iowa state public safety department reported yesterday that Iowa City was one of five cities "which have asked for assistance" in establishing schools for habitual traffic violators.

But Mayor Preston Koser denied knowledge of any request. Police Chief Edwin J. Ruppert said he had heard nothing about it.

Police Judge Emil J. Trott said he thought it was a good idea but he knew of no such request from Iowa City.

Alderman James M. Callahan, chairman of the city council's parking, public safety and police committee, disclaimed any knowledge of such a request.

The dispatch also said, "The first such traffic school in Iowa was started in Des Moines July 28."

Police Captain Laurance N. (Bey) Ham said he directed a school of this type here in 1938 and 1939 and that none of the schools "students" returned as habitual violators.

Under Observation —

Benes, Nationalism Affect Czech People

When the philosophy of Edward Benes left Prague it was believed in most circles that Czechoslovakia had finally been lost to the bastion of the west within the Iron Curtain.

The recent $6-million loan extended to the Czechs by the international monetary fund, to which the United States is the chief contributor, has raised some eyebrows on the subject.

This loan carried special significance for another reason. It was the first such loan granted to a country within the Soviet orbit.

It was Bismarck who said that whoever controls Bohemia controls Europe.

The natural resources of this little country, coupled with the tremendous importance of the Skoda armament works in Pilsen, have served to make Czechoslovakia a much sought-after prize in European power politics.

When we add the natural protection offered by the mountains facing Germany we get a true picture of the strategic importance of Czechoslovakia in a possible European conflict.

The extreme nationalism of the Czech people, which has seen them support the undercurrent of Benes philosophy which still prevails, has heartened their friends in the western world.

It is quite conceivable that the Russians might, in this case at least, have bitten off more than they can chew. They are dealing with a nation that has a deep seated liking for democracy, style a la United States.

The $6-million involved in this recent loan can be considered to be the dowry that the western powers are willing to pay to marry the Czechs to their western suitors.

The Russians, as well as the west, realize that the Czech frontier is suited both to a defense against western attack, as well as a springboard for an attack on the Silesian industrial basin on one side, and industrial Austria on the other.

After viewing the Czech position in central Europe it can be safely assumed that there will be plenty of wooing from both sides before the bride gives in.

Chip as You Clip, Politician Advises

CHICAGO (UP)—Barbers and beauty shop operators should talk politics while they are clipping hair, a Nebraska congressman said recently.

Rep. Carl T. Curtis (R Neb) told the convention of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists association here that he has "never yet met an individual whose business suffered because he had convictions about political matters and expressed them."

Curtis said hairdressers and barbers have a "great influence" on voters and advised them to do all they could to bring about good government in America.

He said his bill to repeal the 20 percent tax on cosmetics will be passed during the next session of congress.

Mourning Czechs See Benes Borne to Grava
Action of International Fund Indicates All Hope Is Not Gone

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT

For or Against Peace

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

So we have broken off our talks with the Russians, and we have thrown the Berlin issue into the Security Council, and our hopes for peace are down. And because these hopes are down, this is the right time to say again that there are three sides to this argument, the Western side, the Russian side, and the peace side.

I would like to set up the postulate that anyone who is at this moment passionately, wholeheartedly, red-neckedly stating either the Western case or the Russian case is not stating the peace case. That is true regardless of how much any such man may think he is for peace, or what sweet thoughts he may have about the world and himself stuffed away in the back of his mind.

For we must set up a kind of operational test in this field. The man of peace is the man who works for peace. If he does not work actively for peace, then his private thoughts about peace, his hidden predilection for it, his silent love for it, are all of no consequence.

And it seems to me clear that no one who is actively, frantically, unreservedly vocalizing on behalf of either the Western or the Russian case is working for peace. Indeed, the weight of his efforts will, in the end, be against peace.

For the peace interest is a universal interest and it cannot be served by the part-time efforts of men who are spending ninety percent of their days proving that somebody else is wrong in Berlin. That is one of the troubles at Paris, that the work of peace is being done sporadically, by occasional help, it is no one's full time profession.

For the man who plunges heartily into the Western side of this quarrel, showing with heavy, unrelieved emphasis how the other side has lied and cheated, does not really work for peace. He tells us, instead, over and over, that the dimensions of the problem are greater than those of any offered solution.

For it must become almost an occupational disease with him, a part of his advocate's frenzy, that he must prove he is correct, he must demonstrate beyond doubt that one side in the world dispute is unchallengeably right, and one hopelessly wrong. And as he completes the argument the world slowly unbalances, and hope of peace recedes, defeated by this glowing lawyer's demonstration of how virtue stands against evil, in full planetary incompatibility.

The man who mouths the Russian case does exactly the same thing; his thesis that half the world, by reason of its capitalist nature, is inherently bound to make war, is at basis an argument against peace, an argument against the possibility of peace, an argument in which the inevitability of war is tied gloomily in with the nature of man and the laws of economics.

But this is exactly the kind of world in which we must make peace, a world made up of capitalists and communists and liars and double-crossers and theoreticians and the pridefully arrogant and the hysterically fearful, and any demonstration that such types exist is only a restatement of our problem.

It is our task to make peace among such as these, and that is why there is a peace interest, over and above the contending special interests, over and above the hot provers of right and wrong, the tendentious point-makers, the passionate judges and advocates.

The peace interest must find some means of addressing these other interests. That is why I repeat an earlier suggestion that the U.N., acting through all its chambers, shall at once call upon the West and Russia to make peace, that it shall give them the month to do so, informing both sides that the U.N.'s future is directly involved, and firmly asserting that the peace interest, the U.N. interest in a continuing life, is superior to all other interests involved in the dispute, and that it means to be heard. If the U.N. doesn't say it, who shall? Where else can the notes and communiqués of the world's peace asserting that the peace interest,

McBride's Haul

By BILL MCBRIDE

In the next U.S. census report I would like to see figures on the number of Hard-huffers living in the Midwest.

The word Hard-huffer is a derivative of hard half, which refers to the more solid side of studio couches. In the early 1900's, when studio couches became popular in Paris, persons who slept on the solid side of the studio couch were called Hard-siders.

This had to be changed because it was difficult in conversation to ascertain whether it was Hard-sider or hard cider being referred to.

Hard cider is used in mountainous areas for heating purposes.

The point in mentioning this (there has to be a point, or I'd never get away with it) is that I'd like to form a Hard-huffer club.

Inasmuch as our present apartment was constructed without a bedroom, each night we must drag out the studio couch before retiring. One side of the couch is soft and pliable similar to a bed. The other side (where I sleep) has the resilience of a tombstone.

After a night on that it's a pleasure to get up at an early hour each morning. I'm getting a Hard-huffer spine. Before long it will be impossible for me to touch my knees. It's seldom that I really want to touch my knees, but it would bother me no end if I knew I couldn't.

By forming a club, we Hard-huffers could pool our resources and buy a bed. We could make up a schedule whereby each member would spend at least one night a month sleeping in comfort.

Who knows, such action might stave off the dreaded Hard-huffer spine ailment for years.

A reliable agent called Wednesday night and suggested I telephone Currier cottage nine. He reported a young woman down there was answering all calls with a commercial of some sort.

I called immediately, but all I heard was a sultry "Currier cottage nine." No commercial, so I alibied that I must have the wrong number and promptly buzzed the agent for more details.

He got on it right away, and in less time than it takes to fill out a change in schedule slip, he had the information for me.

A freshman by the name of Jane Johnstone was the guilty party. It is common knowledge that many youngsters feel that answering a telephone with something clever like "City hide and tannery. You get the hide, we'll tan it" is the epitome of college humor.

Unfortunately, this little game started soon after Alexander Graham Bell's innovation in communication, so the only person really amused is the one who makes the funny statement.

Miss Johnstone had a new twist, however. Her line went, "Bernie's Flower Shoppe." When confronted with a "sorry, I must have the wrong number," the clever Miss Johnstone explained that her mother operates a fernery by that name in Boone, and a business plug never hurt anyone.

This is evident when you know that Jane has thus far received two orchids from her mother in the her short time here—whether in payment for advertising services rendered or not is not totally clear.

The telephone commercial blarbs came to a violent halt when other cottage nine girls found that Jane was balling up the date situation. A prospective suitor who thinks he is talking to a tulip salesman is no better than no suitor at all.

However, the agent reported that, as this was being explained to him by a less business-minded girl, muffled cries, sounding like "Bernie's floorboard schump," filtered into the receiver.

Try a sandwich-board, Miss Johnstone.

An agent who reads called my attention to an advertisement in the Wednesday morning Register.

Urges National Service in Many Fields

MINNEAPOLIS (UP)—The president of the University of Minnesota declared yesterday that the nation needs a compulsory national service system for all young men.

President James L. Morrill told a convocation audience at the university that "all the 700,000 or 800,000 young men who reach annually a certain age" should be classified and assigned to specific kinds of work.

He did not limit the proposed program to military service.

Morrill said that deferring college students in the present selective service system "puts the cart before the horse."

"I cannot believe that college students, simply as college students, should enjoy special privileges denied their fellows at work, or idle, elsewhere," he said.

Morrill suggested that colleges take an important position in the compulsory service system, giving training in needed fields of preparation and providing "scientific and technological research which only they conduct."

Inflation Hits Love

Dealers in Courtship Commodities Say Cost Of Love Has Gone Up 400 Percent

By CLAIRE COX

NEW YORK (UP)—The high cost of loving is putting romance on the rocks.

The men who used to woo with orchids, filet mignon and soft music now have to rely only on their charms and so risk losing their skirts.

Dealers in the commodities of courtship—candy, ice cream, flowers, movie tickets and night club entertainment—say loving costs have gone up at least 400 percent.

None had any idea when Dan Cupid will come back down to earth. But it's hurting—oh, how it's hurting!

Date Costs

The men who live on love said the fellow who used to spend $10 on his girl every Saturday night now treats her in queenly fashion only once a month and he has to scrimp to get together the $40 or $50 it takes to pay for the gay evening.

Between times the girl has to be contented with having her hand held in a movie, in taking a walk, sipping beer or sitting in her own parlor with the guy, they said.

Ted Peckham, author of "Up to No Good," a book on how young men can do more and more with less and less, said the situation is so critical a fellow often has to ask his date to pay her share of the check. You can bet he has to use all his wiles if he gets away with that, Peckham said.

Conversation Cheap

The girl who used to get a box of candy once in a while is lucky now if she gets as much as a candy bar," he said. "The one bright spot is that the fine art of conversation is being revived. People who used to pay for entertainment now entertain themselves."

L. Charles Daum Jr., official of a florist's chain, said inflation has put so many barriers athwart the road to romance the only roses a girl can count on these days are in her cheeks—if she can afford the rouge.

Orchids, he said, cost at least $2 more than they did before the war, with the top now at about $10. Gardenias that used to sell for $1 go for $1.50 or $2. Rose corsages are about double.

"Our business has dropped 30 percent because all other costs are so high," Daum said.

Ice Cream Up

Even an ice cream soda at the corner drug store costs more, confectioners said. Sodas are up from 15 cents to 25 or 30. A two-pound box of candy costs 50 cents more.

Cupid's emissaries agreed, however, that the cost of courting has not gone up anywhere near as much as the cost of keeping the girl after you've got her.

"It isn't the initial cost," Daum commented. "It's the upkeep."

State Bar Exams Set for Oct. 12-15

The Iowa State Bar examinations held in the fall will be conducted in Iowa City at the SYU law school Oct. 12-15, Dean Mason Ladd of the law college announced yesterday.

The dean said students who graduated from the school of law here Sept. 4 will take the examinations. He said a dozen or more students from the Drake law school will also take the examinations.

The examinations will be conducted by bar examiners appointed by the Iowa Supreme court and will be given under the direction of Donald Hise, assistant attorney general.

Tickets to Dance Classes for Sale

Tickets for classes in social dancing may be purchased today at the Iowa Union, Carol Olson, vice-president of the Women's Recreational association, said yesterday.

Lessons will be given in the women's gym for 10 consecutive Mondays beginning Oct. 4. Both beginning and advanced classes will be taught. Helen Carroll will have charge of the beginning group. Miss Olson and Marian Tomfeld will teach the advanced group.

Two hundred persons or more are expected to participate. Both men and women students are invited. Cost of tickets is $1 per person.
