West Rejects Meet; Pushes UN Protest

PARIS (UP)—The United States, Great Britain and France decided last night to reject Russia's new bid for a big four conference and to go ahead with their complaint to the United Nations that the Soviet blockade of Berlin is a threat to peace.

The foreign ministers of the western allies made their decision despite an implied Russian threat to boycott the UN security council if it takes up the Berlin crisis.

When the security council met to take up the Berlin charges, Russian Chief Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky shouted, pounding the table before:

"I insist that this item be excluded from the agenda. The Soviet Union will not be a party to such violations of the UN charter."

But while the council was meeting, Secretary of State George C. Marshall, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman met separately at the French Foreign office.

They formally agreed to reject Russia's proposal for a big four conference, made in a "surprise" note to the western allies Sunday night, and to adhere to their determination to conduct no further negotiations with the Soviet government so long as the Berlin blockade continues.

The council bogged down in an argument over the manner in which speeches of delegates should be translated, and adjourned until 3 p.m. today without taking a vote on putting the allied complaint on its program.

United States Delegate Philip Jessup and British Delegate Sir Alexander Cadogan, replying to Vishinsky's threat, to walk out, made it plain that the allied charges will be pressed regardless.

Accusing Russia of repudiating the machinery of the UN for settling disputes, Jessup said:

"The Soviet Union is unwilling to have world public opinion examine the record in this case. If the Soviet Union wants peace, let it welcome a resort to an organ for world peace."

Soviets 'Not Ready' For Atomic Control

PARIS (UP)—The United States in effect rejected Russia's latest proposals on atomic energy control yesterday when Warren R. Austin, chief U.S. delegate, charged that the Soviets "indicate they are not yet ready for effective international control."

Austin challenged Russia to explain in detail the proposals offered Saturday by Deputy Premier Andrei Y. Vishinsky. Referring to the wording of the plan—a simultaneous destruction of atomic bombs and creation of international control—Austin said if it really meant what it implied, "then we've brushed away dead cats, old tomato cans and cleared the way for this (political) committee."

But Austin left no doubt the United States considered the chess between Russia and the west as wide as ever. He said that while Vishinsky's proposals said one thing, the words of Soviet spokesmen during UN debate show they do not really want effective international control.

Austin spoke to the 58-national political committee after Ukrainian Foreign Minister Dimitri Manuilsky charged that President Truman's major objective was to preserve a monopoly on atomic energy in preparation for war.

Anti-Trust Hearing Set in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—Anti-trust charges against the Trans-America corporation of San Francisco, the nation's largest bank holding company, will be aired in public here Oct. 12.

The federal reserve board, making its first official disclosure of the case yesterday said Trans-America itself requested that the hearings be made public.

TransAmerica, headed by A. P. Giannini of the California banking family, has an interest in more than 500 banks and industrial firms in five western states.

The complaint, a civil charge, was originally filed June 24. The suit alleges that TransAmerica developed a "credit monopoly" by putting directors on the board of banks in the Bank of America chain in California and other banks in Washington, Oregon, Arizona and Nevada.

Meat Prices Still Slipping; May Mean Lower Retail Costs

CHICAGO (UP)—The price of hogs and of wholesale meat nosedived yesterday, continuing the downturn which began two weeks ago.

Hog prices plunged as much as $2.25 at some markets yesterday and were down between $1 and $2 at all major midwestern livestock markets.

Wholesale pork prices dropped four cents a pound at Chicago today and the American Meat institute reported that the wholesale price of dressed beef has dropped six cents a pound in recent weeks. Choice lambs dropped eight cents and hams, an average of nine cents, the institute said.

A spokesman for the department of agriculture said much of the decline in hog prices has been due to seasonal increases in shipments.

"Farmers are shipping their hogs to market in order to beat the price break," he said, "and of course, the more hogs that are shipped in, the faster the price goes down."

He said that prices still are "relatively attractive" despite yesterday's big drop which saw hogs selling for more than $6 under the all-time high price recorded last August.

"The increase in hog shipments has come earlier than had been anticipated," the agriculture spokesman said, "and as a result most of the packers were caught short-handed."

Gives Up Suicide As Cleveland Wins

SAN MATEO, CAL. (UP)—Leo Amster of San Mateo decided yesterday that he wouldn't take gas after all—Cleveland won the American league pennant, and he's going to see the series or else!

A few days ago Amster wired President Bill Veck of the Cleveland Indians asking for reservations and threatening "you must hold one set of box seats or will take gas."

Veck wired back: "Suggest poison. It's easier, for there are no seats available."

Amster who saw the Indians in their last world series 28 years ago, boarded the City of San Francisco for Cleveland and the series today after sending Veck this telegram:

"Sent gas pipe and poison to McCarthy of the Red Sox. I'll see the series if I must sit on your lap. Shall we dance?"

Claims Heir Took $1-Million

NEW YORK (UP)—Leonard B. Clark, 42, Harvard graduate and heir to a maritime fortune, allegedly embezzled an estimated $1-million from his family's estate.

Clark, son of an oldtime sea captain who amassed a $2.5-million fortune in the rum and molasses trade with a fleet of windjammers during the late 19th century, was discharged from the Westchester division of the New York hospital where doctors had declared him sane. Waiting detectives arrested him.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said Clark had been juggling funds of various family trusts for the past 12 years and led his mother to believe he was investing her money in conservative securities which were yielding about $50,000 a year in interest in her name.

Hogan said Clark's family believed he had a law practice with an income of about $75,000 a year. But Clark was only earning some $3,000 or $4,000 a year as the Clark estate's administrator, Hogan said.

Hogan said Clark spent between $50,000 and $75,000 a year for the past three years on his personal living. About $2,000 a year went for theater tickets. Between $8,000 and $10,000 was spent on automobiles. He gave his wife $2,000 a month for household expenses and made choice additions to his

Open Demo County Campaign Headquarters

1020 Kirkwood avenue, yesterday as Johnson county Democrats opened their campaign headquarters in room 312 of the Hotel Jefferson. James D. France, Demo candidate for representative from the first congressional district, was among the Democratic party members who attended the event. Mrs. Mabel Fitzgerald is in charge of the headquarters, which will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. every weekday until the Nov. 2 election. County Republican party headquarters are also located in the hotel.

Community Chest Drive Nets Nearly $1,900 on Opening Day

Nearly $1,900 was pledged to the community chest drive according to incomplete returns received by closing time yesterday at community chest headquarters, Mrs. J. L. Records, permanent secretary, reported.

The figure represented returns received from only two soliciting groups, the business and professional division and the national firms group.

Mrs. Records said she was "very well pleased" with the trend indicated by first returns.

First Day "Smooth" Douglas R. Williamson, campaign director of the drive, reported the campaign had gone along smoothly the first day.

The 12-foot red feather sign, originally planned to be erected atop the canopy of the Ford Hopkins drug store, was instead set up near the sidewalk to the east side of the store.

On it will be recorded the daily record of returns from the community chest drive. The red feather is the traditional symbol of chest drives throughout the country.

Provide Sign at Cost The sign was constructed by the Goodfellow Sign company from a sketch by Williamson. Lumber for its construction was furnished by the Eaton lumber company.

The lumber and the labor for the sign was provided at cost. The community chest drive is scheduled to extend to Oct. 16. This year's quota is $19,732.76.

No Navy Casualties Advices from Okinawa said LST 898 was aground one mile off Buckner bay, on the east side of the big island, with a big hole in its forward hold. A tug was standing by.

The navy reported the typhoon did not cause injuries or damage at its installations on Okinawa.

Warehouses Destroyed Reports from Kyukyus commander said troop housing remained "nearly intact" but most large warehouses were destroyed.

Two LST's a small military government freighter and other craft ran aground as the winds reached 120 miles per hour.

Supreme Court Gets Appeal for Contempt WASHINGTON (AP)—John Howard Lawson, Hollywood movie writer, carried an appeal to the supreme court yesterday against his conviction for contempt of congress.

Lawson's petition, filed as the justices met for the start of their fall term, challenged both the authority and the methods of the house committee on un-American activities.

Lawson was convicted following his refusal to tell the house committee whether he is or ever has been a Communist. He is a former president of the Screen Writers' guild and author of such screen plays as "Algiers," "Smashup" and "Blockade."

There was no assurance that Lawson would get a high court hearing at this time. He was trying to by-pass the court of appeals, where the case is now pending and get an immediate ruling from the highest bench.

Three Miners Killed In Slate Collapse; 12 Others Injured COALWOOD, W. VA. (UP)—A huge slate fall caught 29 miners as they left a Youngstown Sheet & Tube company pit here yesterday, killing three of them and injuring 12 others.

The block of slate, 50 feet long and three feet deep, was dislodged and crashed on the men after a tool car rammed a timber support, the state mines department said. The accident occurred during a change of shifts 1 1/2 miles from the mouth of the mine.

Two of the injured were reported in serious condition. Eight others required first aid treatment.

The fall temporarily trapped 10 of the miners in the 600 foot shaft but all were brought to the surface after several hours work by rescue crews. Fourteen others riding coal cars on their way out of the Olga No. 1 mine, escaped injury.

The dead were Okey Sargeant, 40, of Coalwood, W. Va., inspection foreman; Arthur Wood, and Davis Smith, Coalwood. Wood's body was dug out of the debris after he was reported missing.

Those hospitalized were Chester Johnson, Richard McDaniel, John Hanley and Smith Brown.

Mason City Tile Plant Burns, Heavy Damage MASON CITY, (AP)—Fire yesterday destroyed the old national Brick and Tile plant and about 2,500 bags of mortar mix stored there.

Firemen said the blaze apparently started from a grass fire the water, but all the passengers got out through windows and helped push the plane back onto the beach. The only damage to the plane was the propellers.

Ruth Bendon, 30, the plane's stewardess and only woman aboard, said the passengers—all Puerto Rican laborers—remained calm and took it very well.

In Nassau, RAF Wing Commander E. H. Coleman, director of the Bahamas civil aviation, who flew to the scene of the crash, said it was a "most amazing landing, especially at night."

He said the landing was made in shallow water and the plane barely missed a large projecting boulder.

MIAMI (AP)—Twenty-three persons saved by a pilot's skill in a night crash landing on a lonely Bahaman island were flown here by rescue planes last night.

Nineteen Puerto Rican passengers appeared somewhat confused by their experience but agreed it "wasn't too bad."

The twin-engined DC3 charter air liner made a crash landing on Haines Cay in the Berry island group, about 60 miles northwest of Nassau, in pitch-black darkness.

Richard Roy Olivere, pilot of the plane and president of the company, said they were flying direct from Teterboro, N. J., to Miami and wind-drift drove the plane off its course.

"We were low on gas and were looking for a place of habitation," Olivere said. "We sighted a ship and sent a distress signal, but got no reply. We were flying about 1,500 feet altitude and came in low over the island. We had our landing light on, but it was pitch-black. The plane skidded off into

Sausage Drops Fast at Swift Plant

SAGINAW, MICH. (AP)—Meat came down fast here yesterday, but nobody was happy about it. A sausage stuffer in the Saginaw plant of Swift & Co. exploded on the sixth floor of the packing house and showered meat in all directions. Sausage flew out of the windows and rained down on passing motorists and pedestrians. An official estimated that 750 pounds of it splattered against the walls or was shot out the window. No one was injured.

Truman Plans Trip; Dewey, Dulles Confer

President Truman announced plans Monday for new campaign swings through the Midwest and New England that will keep him talking to the voters until the election Nov. 2. Meantime, his Republican rival, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, discussed foreign policy with adviser John Foster Dulles while his political aides worked on the itinerary for his next stumping tour. Dewey's foreign policy stand got a plug from Senate President Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan in the day's major political speech.

Speaking from Washington over a nationwide network (CBS), Vandenberg said the GOP still is going to keep foreign affairs out of politics.

But he slapped at Mr. Truman by claiming the 80th congress may rank "best" in history on foreign matters.

The White House said that, after a four-state eastern swing ending Saturday, the President will leave again Sunday for another six-day barnstorming tour through Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and West Virginia. He will speak in Chicago, Oct. 25.

Dewey's next stumping swing begins with a major speech in Pittsburgh Oct. 11. It is due to end with an eight-appearance barnstorming tour of Minnesota the following Friday. In between, Dewey may visit Kentucky, Tennessee and Oklahoma to help GOP senatorial candidates.

Another political development occurred yesterday when former Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes apparently made his peace with President Truman after two years of feuding. He visited the White House and told reporters he left his hatchet "in my car."

Runs Over Mother To Save Her Life

STERLING, ILL. (UP)—A 13-year-old girl drove the front end of a car over her mother yesterday to protect her from an enraged cow which had knocked her down and trampled her.

Barbara Cordes, of route 1, Tampico, Ill., drove the car astraddle her mother after the cow had attacked her. Barbara then sounded the horn and screamed to attract the attention of her father, who was working in a nearby barn.

Find Missing Plane on Island

MIAMI (AP)—Hurricane warnings flew among the Florida Keys last night while a tropical storm whirled in the Caribbean sea 200 miles southwest of Havana.

The hurricane, with winds near the center estimated at 90 miles an hour, had practically come to a standstill at 10 p.m. (Iowa City time) and the weather bureau said it apparently slowed down to begin a turn northeastward.

Pressures tumbled and heavy rain fell over western Cuba but winds had not yet become strong. The hurricane had made little forward progress during the past six hours.

It is expected to cross Cuba this morning, offering a threat of dangerous winds and flooding rains to south Florida as it pushes northward.

LA Faculty Meeting Liberal arts faculty members will meet in the senate chamber of Old Capitol at 4:15 p.m. Thursday, the liberal arts office announced yesterday.

OTTUMWA (AP)—Senator Alben W. Barkley, Democratic vice-presidential nominee, accused the Republican party last night of trying to foment class division between labor and agriculture.

Concluding a swift grain belt campaign in which he spoke at Rochester and Mankato, Minn., and Mason City and Ottumwa, the Kentucky senator said the GOP tactics were "reprehensible."

"You cannot," he declared, "discriminate against labor without hurting agriculture, nor can you discriminate against agriculture without hurting labor."

A prosperous agriculture, Barkley said, is beneficial to labor and industry because farmers in good years buy 25 percent of industrial production.

Throughout its history, Barkley said, the Democratic party has been the advocate in Washington of labor, agriculture and "honest business."

Attacks T-H Law Barkley attacked the Taft-Hartley labor law as "a very unfair law," and promised to fight for its repeal.

Prior to his address in the local coliseum, Barkley was honor guest at a dinner attended by 350 local and state Democratic leaders. He was accompanied here by Guy M. Gillette, candidate for the senate, and Carroll Switzer, Democratic nominee for governor.

Barkley will leave by special plane this morning for Denver and a speech tonight at Greeley, Colorado.

In his Mason City speech, Barkley said the Republican record on agriculture in the past bodes no good for farmers. He urged the crowd, estimated at more than 2,000, to remember "the poverty and despair of 1932."

The Kentuckian told a northern Iowa crowd estimated at more than 2,000 persons that the Democratic party "halted their decline" in farm income which he said caused foreclosures of homes and farms 16 years ago.

Speaks for Gillette Under Democratic administrations, Barkley said, national farm income has risen from $5-billion in 1932 to $30-billion today.

Barkley strongly urged the election of Democrat Guy Gillette who is seeking to regain his senate seat in a race against George Wilson, the Republican incumbent. Gillette introduced Barkley to the noontime crowd.

Purple Heart Bearden Routs Boston

Woodard to Captain Hawks for 2nd Week

By BUCK TURNBULL
Sports Editor

Iowa's head football coach, Dr. Eddie Anderson, last night praised the outstanding play of Center Dick Woodard in the Hawks' 7-0 loss to Indiana Saturday and announced that the big 215-pounder would captain the Old Gold eleven against Ohio State next Saturday.

It will be the second straight weekend that Woodard has led his teammates in a Big Nine game. Following his excellent line-backing work against Marquette in the opener, Anderson named him game captain for the Hoosier tilt.

"I told Woody immediately after the Indiana game that he'd be our captain against Ohio State," Anderson said last night.

It was only fitting that the big center, who played such an inspiring game at Bloomington Saturday, should lead the Iowans against the Buckeye jinx at Columbus.

Not since 1928, 20 years ago, has an Iowa football team been able to beat Ohio State.

The Hawkeys were naturally downcast in their dressing room Saturday following Indiana's narrow triumph. Only an amazing 30-yard driving run by Hoosier Fullback Chick Jagade had been able to send the Hawks down to defeat.

The Iowa players thought they should have won. They just did not think Indiana was a touchdown better than they were.

But Anderson's brief talk, before the Hawks had time to enter the showers, pulled them right out of their lethargy.

"Listen, men," Dr. Eddie shouted, "I was proud of you today. You all played a terrific ball game. We lost. Okay, let's forget this one. We've got a tough one coming up with Ohio State next week, so let's start thinking about that one right now."

Yesterday afternoon Anderson had a freshman team run Buckeye single-wing plays against the varsity, giving the players an idea of just what they'll face in confronting an improved Ohio eleven.

Actually, Iowa will have only two more days to prepare for the Bucks since the squad will leave for Columbus at 4:15 p.m. Thursday.

Maury Kent, Iowa scout who watched Ohio State win its second straight game of the season last Saturday, reported to Dr. Anderson that the Buckeyes are big, rugged and fast.

They used 42 players in facing Southern California, 20-0, including 17 backs. Ten of their tackles scale better than 200 pounds.

"Apparently the Buckeyes have much improved morale over the 1947 outfit which finished last in the conference," Kent said yesterday. "They also have cut down their offense and know their plays. The unorthodox defenses they used last year have been discarded."

Kent described Joe Whisler, 220-pound fullback, as a hard-hitting line-bucker of the old school of fullbacks, very hard to handle in scoring territory.

Lou Boudreau, Kenny Keltner Aid in Victory

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

BOSTON — (UP) — The Cleveland Indians, a team of destiny which ran a little behind schedule, won their first pennant since 1920 yesterday by defeating the Boston Red Sox, 8 to 3 in the first play-off game for the flag in American league history.

The Indians scored their climactic triumph before 33,957 suffering Red Sox fans at Fenway park, and won the right to meet the Boston Braves in the world series, opening here Wednesday. Johnny Sain, the Braves' ace will pitch in the first game against either Bob Feller or Bob Lemon.

Yesterday in the moment of great triumph for a game ball club, the big glory belonged to a Purple Heart kid pitcher, Lefty Gene Bearden. He scored his 20th victory and his seventh in a row by holding the slugging Red Sox to just five hits.

Bearden, who has aluminum plates in his head and his left leg from war wounds and iron in his arm, plus cold steel in his heart, was out there with only one day of rest.

There were those who thought Cleveland's daring manager, Shortstop Lou Boudreau, had gone crazy when he put Bearden in for this historic game. But Boudreau was right. With a whole season's efforts for both clubs in the balance, Bearden pitched the game of his life.

Of course he had help, and most of it was provided by Boudreau himself. As if personally accepting the responsibility for the spot he had put Bearden in, Boudreau smashed two home runs, two singles and drew a walk and paced the 13-hit Cleveland attack on Boston pitchers, Denny Galehouse and Ellis Kinder.

Boudreau set the thunderous tempo of victory in the very first inning with a lofty home run over the left field screen.

That blow seemed to electrify the Indians, who appeared downcast and jittery after losing their final game of the season Sunday to the Detroit Tigers.

And in the fourth, another old pro, Indian Third Baseman Ken Keltner, put the game entirely beyond the reach of the Red Sox by blasting his 31st home run of the season with Boudreau and Joe Gordon on base.

That blow knocked out Galehouse, who also had been a surprise starter, and the Indians went on to pick up another run in the same inning off Kinder on a double by Larry Doby, Bob Kennedy's sacrifice, and Jim Hegan's infield out, making the score 5 to 1.

But with such sluggers in the Red Sox lineup as Ted Williams, Vern Stephens, and Bobby Doerr, Bearden couldn't relax for one minute.

He didn't, not until his hysterically triumphant team-mates swept him off the field after the final out and lofted him onto their shoulders. The back slapping and affectionate roughing up they gave him probably was the worst going over he had gotten since he was battling for Uncle Sam in a navy uniform in 1943 and 1944.

Bearden suffered his battle wounds with the Pacific fleet on the USS Helena when it was torpedoed. He was missing for 10 days. Even when rescued there were medics who despaired of his ever resuming an athletic career — let alone pitching a ball club to a pennant.

In the sixth inning, Gordon, a clutch player and one of the best second basemen in baseball, put Bearden in a hole by dropping a pop fly by Williams. But Bearden bore down and struck out the dangerous Stephens.

He made one pitch a little

Chicago Bears Rip Cardinals, 28-17

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bears slashed and passed to a 28-17 National Football league victory over the defending champion Cardinals before this city's biggest professional game crowd, 52,765, at Comiskey park yesterday.

The outcome before the overflow through seriously jarred the Cardinals' hope to repeat as western division champions and stamped the Bears as strong title favorites.

The champions erased an early 14-0 lead and forged ahead 17-14 midway in the third period. But on the Cardinal kickoff seconds later, Bear Halfback Frank Minni returned 95 yards in a dazzling touchdown run which settled the issue.

Bucky Harris Leaves Yanks; Successor Won't Be Player

NEW YORK (AP) — Stanley (Bucky) Harris is out as manager of the New York Yankees and the club announced the successor would not be picked from its present player list.

That Harris' contract would not be renewed next year was announced after a meeting among President Dan Topping, General Manager George M. Weiss and Harris.

The decision was by "mutual agreement," the terse Yankee announcement said.

The new manager will be chosen at a future date, it added, and considered for the post are several men "not including a player active with the 1948 team."

Harris succeeded Johnny Neun as pilot of the Yankees at the end of the 1946 season and led the club to the American league pennant and a World Series victory over Brooklyn.

No reason was given for the break but there have been reports that Harris and Weiss didn't see eye-to-eye in the handling of farm talent.

Harris' plans were not known immediately. Rumors are he will join the Detroit Tigers in some executive capacity.

Harris' only comment was: "we parted on friendly terms. I am now a free man. That is all I can say."

BUCKY HARRIS

The managerial change is the second in the American league in two days. The Chicago White Sox Sunday announced Ted Lyons would be replaced by Jack Onslow.

Among those regarded as high in favor of the Yankee job is Jim Turner, former New York pitcher who is manager of Portland in the Pacific Coast league.

Plan Election At Riverdale

Elections for Riverdale council will be held as soon as ballots can be printed, Don Itse, chairman of the election committee, said yesterday.

He said ballots would be distributed to each housing unit in Riverdale village in the morning and picked up for counting in the evening. Itse said he hoped this could be done today or tomorrow.

Nominations for council chairman at a village meeting last week were John Weber, Donald Crain and Andy Novosad.

One councilman and one councilwoman will be elected from each of four zones. Nominations for council positions were Zone one, Duane Draves, Jack Mell, Meredith Holtzhammer, Mary Moore, Rita Weber.

Zone two; Richard Marshall, Grant Genske, Georgia Johnson, Edna Thompson.

Zone three; Charles Harrington, George Loerzel, Dorothy Jones, Geneva McCollum.

Zone four; Eldon Lockwood, Rex Jones, William Jackson, Doris Jones, Betty Itse, Mary Livingston, Lee Filler.

Election committeemen are; Don Hakes, Rus Benda, Bob Holtzhammer and Don Itse.

New Library Directory

Contains a Guide to Departmental Libraries, Reveals 'Secrets' of Card Catalog

The university libraries have published a leaflet, entitled "How to Use the University Libraries," that is now available for student use.

Miss Grace Van Wormer, assistant director of university libraries, announced yesterday that the leaflet is for the student who seeks a better and quicker way to borrow library books.

The library public service department has discarded the ponderous pamphlets of previous years and has printed a handy four page leaflet that will fit in a regular three-ring notebook.

Not 'Light Reading'

Miss Wormer said the pamphlet is not "light reading." It is meant for a handy reference guide and is full of helpful information and illustrations.

It tells the reader how to fill out a call card so that he can get the book he wants, it reveals the "secrets" of using the card catalog and contains a library directory to help in finding departmental libraries.

The leaflets are placed in the libraries in front of signs marked "For Your Notebook."

In Three Parts

The leaflet is in three parts. The main section, entitled "How to Use the Library," can be found on the circulation desk at Macbride library.

It contains explanations of information found on catalog cards, how the cards are cross-indexed and it also explains how to fill in the call slip.

Section two, entitled "On Using the General Library at Macbride hall," explains fully the location marking on a catalog card and the many reasons why books are not always available when the borrower wishes them. It also explains the library loan regulations.

Section three, entitled "On the Use of the Library Annex," gives information on books at reserve, periodicals and other serials, government documents and communication skills reading room. It also contains a diagram of the library annex and will be an aid in finding locations in the maze of rooms at the annex. This section is available for students at the Annex.

Personal Notes

Mary Teresa Kaspar, 435 Fairchild street, and Rosemary Stratton, 408 S. Clinton, returned last week after a two and one-half week vacation in Mexico. They visited Taluca, Taxco, Mexico City, and flew to the beach at Acapulco. Parents of the girls are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kaspar, Iowa City, and Mr. and Mrs. Milo Stratton of Oxford.

Clinics Aid Iowa's Crippled Children

Hundreds of Iowa's crippled children are being examined in their communities by specialists according to Dr. Raymond F. Rembolt, director of the state service for crippled children. The examinations are given to children suffering crippling conditions, diabetes or heart ailments.

Each year 23 clinics are opened for one day throughout Iowa as a function of the service for crippled children. Headquarters of the organization is on the SUI campus.

The clinics are held in locally centered hospitals at the request of local medical societies. Patients are under 21 years of age, and are referred to the clinic by their doctors.

The examinations are conducted by two surgeons, two child specialists, a nutritionist and a psychologist. Vocational rehabilitation advice is also made available. The findings and recommendations of these specialists are then sent to the local doctors, who advise the patients.

Bert Kent Funeral Services Tomorrow

Funeral services for Bert Kent, 62, life-long resident of Iowa City, will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the McGovern Funeral home. The Rev. Donovan G. Hart will officiate and burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Mr. Kent died at 3:30 a.m. yesterday at his home at 422 N. Duquesne street.

Born in Iowa City Feb. 23, 1886, he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kent, pioneer residents of Iowa City.

He married Nora Mannagh July 10, 1910. He was employed in the sales department of the Iowa-Indiana Gas and Electric company for 43 years.

Mr. Kent was a member of the Elks club, Moose and Chamber of Commerce.

Surviving are his wife; a son, Lloyd, Des Moines; a sister, Mrs. Walter Prince, Hackensack, Minn.; an aunt, Mrs. Margaret Miller, Iowa City and one granddaughter.

Johnson County Grand Jury Returns Indictments on Eight

Indictments against eight persons were returned yesterday by the Johnson county grand jury. Six of the eight indictments remained secret until the indicted persons furnish bond.

Ralph Jarrett was indicted on a charge of assaulting James Montgomery, 308 Kirkwood avenue, Aug. 8, 1948, with intent to commit great bodily injury.

The charge arose from a stabbing outside the Mexi-Hot restaurant at Maiden Lane and Benton street.

Several men had become involved in a fight when Jarrett allegedly knifed Montgomery in the stomach. Jarrett is being held under $2,500 bond.

Robert Eddy, address listed as Chicago, was indicted on a charge of burglary.

The indictment charged him with entering the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity house at 303 North Riverside drive last July 9 with intent to commit larceny.

Eddy was caught by police at the west end of City park bridge while running in his stocking feet. Members of the fraternity had called the police department to report that someone had been prowling at their house.

Eddy was bound over to the grand jury on the charge after being accused of taking over $70, according to County Attorney Jack C. White.

No indictment was returned against Jacob P. Wegmuller, arraigned in Iowa City police court in June on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. Wegmuller, at that time, waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to the grand jury.

Inspections of the Johnson county jail and county home were also made by the grand jury. The report was "satisfactory" for both institutions.

Iowa Gains 3.4 Percent More Population over '40

WASHINGTON (AP) — Iowa's population as of July 1, 1948 was estimated at 2,625,000 in a report by the census bureau.

This is an increase of 86,732 over the official 1940 figure of 2,538,268. It is a percentage gain of 3.4 percent.

U. Hospitals Admit Clinton Polio Victim

Verna Fuller, 17-year-old Clinton resident, was added to polio list at University hospital yesterday bringing the total number of active cases under treatment there to 20.

Miss Fuller was admitted to University hospitals Sunday. Hospital authorities describe her condition as "fair."

Five other polio patients were reported at University hospital Saturday. They include: Lillian Alden, 6 months, Dougherty, admitted Sept. 28 in "serious" condition; Laura Stoffer, 2, Sheffield, admitted Sept. 30 in "fair" condition; Barbara Crooks, 3, Dougherty, admitted Sept. 30 in "fair" condition; Irvin Birkenholt, Knoxville, admitted Oct. 1 in "fair" condition; Joyce Wern, 12, Decorah, admitted Sept. 3 in "fair" condition.

Chester Reeve, 30, of six north west of Iowa City, was discharged from University hospitals yesterday. He had been admitted to polio ward on Sept. 27 in "fair" condition.

Local Police Jail Man On Car Stealing Charge

Iowa City police arrested William G. Jenkins, Cedar Rapids, at 2 a.m. Sunday on charges of stealing a car in Cedar Rapids.

The car, a 1941 sedan, was allegedly stolen Saturday.

Jenkins will be returned to Cedar Rapids police. He may be returned here later to face a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated, according to Iowa City Police Chief Edwin J. Ruppert.

State Park, Lake

Construction of a new state park and artificial lake in Washington county is being considered by the state conservation commission, according to Harry Wagoner, farm forester of the Iowa City district.

Wagoner said he will start estimating the value of timber in the proposed lake area this week.

If the state goes ahead with plans for the lake, it will then accept bids on clearing the land, he said.

The area under investigation for the park is in southwest Wash-

Two Traffic Violators Fined in Police Court

Police Judge Emil G. Trot collected $17 in fines for two traffic violations in police court yesterday.

James E. Reger, 717 Iowa avenue, paid $4.50 for failure to stop for a stop sign and Leonard D. Krotz, 537 S. Van Buren street paid $12.50 for not having a chauffeurs' license while operating a truck.

Wesley Committee

Prof. Leslie G. Moeller, director of the university school of journalism, was elected chairman of the Iowa City committee of the Wesley Foundation yesterday.

Other members elected to the committee were Jacob A. Swisher of the state historical society, treasurer, and Mrs. Helen Larson, social secretary of the foundation, committee secretary.

The officers were elected at a noon luncheon at the Iowa Union. They will serve from Nov., 1948, to Nov., 1949.

Ames Scientist To Get First 'Iowa Medal'

Frank H. Spedding, director of the Atomic Research institute at Iowa State college, Ames, will receive the first medal for "meritorious achievement" awarded by the Iowa section of the American Chemical society.

The award will be made Dec. 3. Prof. R. M. Featherstone of the SUI pharmacology department announced.

Featherstone, chairman of the Iowa ACS awards committee, said that Spedding will be asked to present an "Iowa Medal address" at the time of the award.

Spedding, before taking his position at Ames, was a member of the Argonne national laboratories' board of directors, director of the Ames project under the Manhattan district and member of the director's council for the development of the plutonium project.

The Iowa section of the chemical society voted to establish the award at its meeting last December. It will be presented annually to an Iowa chemist or chemical engineer for "meritorious achievement."

The recipient must be an Iowa resident who has worked in a research institute, university, industrial company or experiment station in Iowa.

The medal was designed by Mrs. George Glockler and Mrs. R. L. Shriner. Mrs. Glockler is the wife of Prof. Glockler, head of the SUI chemistry department. Mrs. Shriner is the wife of Prof. Shriner of the organic chemistry department.

"We want to show the people of this state and others what chemistry is doing for Iowa," Featherstone explained.

"The people of this state do not realize that at present, Iowa industrial output exceeds farm marketings in dollar value," he said. "Chemical education and research in Iowa must keep pace with the industrial development.

Business BRIEFS

Several new businesses have been established in Iowa City during the past year, bringing new services and payrolls to the community.

One of the new restaurants to make its appearance is the Uptowner, located on Clinton street opposite Schaeffer hall. The Uptowner is managed by John Bolt.

Among local restaurants, it claims to be the first to adopt the "smorgasbord" feature on its menu. Every Sunday you get "all you can eat" at the Uptowner for one uniform price.

The dining room is air conditioned and soundproof.

Located alongside the Uptowner is the Smoke Shop. It was opened last spring at approximately the same time as its next door neighbor.

Owned by Russell Camp and managed by Arthur Cook, the Smoke Shop has a cigar counter and a food grill in its front section and billiard tables to the rear.

The "smoke" of the Smoke Shop is largely eliminated through its air conditioning system.

Newest of the women's wear shops is the Mode O' Day, established Aug. 20 and located on Clinton street near its intersection with College street.

The shop is affiliated with the Mode O' Day chain, and specializes in women's frocks and blouses. The store is managed by Mrs. Marie Fry.

Last July, Adrian and Fritz Panzer branched out from their original Hamburg Inn at 119 Iowa avenue and established Hamburg Inn No. 2 at 214 Linn street.

A new producer of Downy-flake doughnuts in Iowa City is the Dunkit, which is just off the main lobby of the Jefferson hotel and fronts on Dubuque street. The Dunkit is a new creation of George Davis, manager of the Jefferson hotel.

The counter at the Dunkit is horse shoe shaped and runs diagonally. No problems in transportation of product here. The doughnuts are served directly from the factory, the Downyflake machine, to the customers.

Manning's Mercantile, 112 Washington street, sells general clothing, camping equipment, bedding, household goods and some surplus war goods. The store was established late last month. It is owned by Frank Baum and managed by Pete Bradtke.

'University Women' To Hold Guest Tea For New Members

Women eligible for membership in the University Women's club next year will be honored at a guest tea Thursday from 3 to 5 p.m. in the University club rooms in Iowa Union.

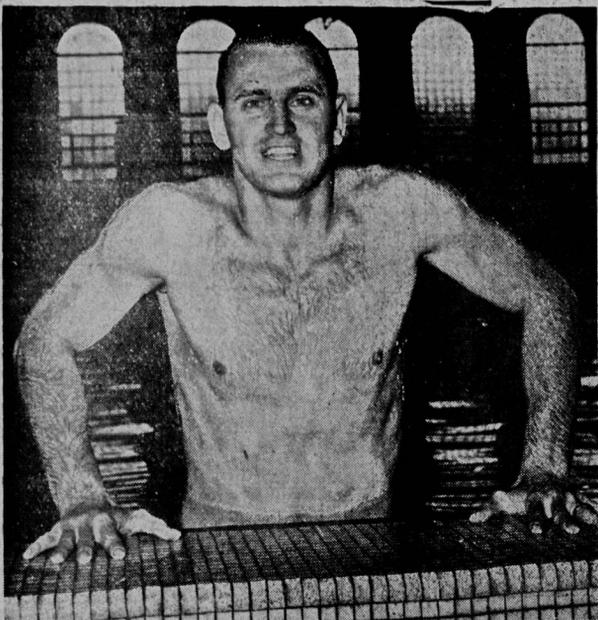

Mrs. W. Bates is in charge of the tea, assisted by Mrs. L. G. Lawyer. Serving on the committee are Mrs. M. L. Mosher, Mrs. E. W. Chittenden, Mrs. Hugh Roberts, and Mrs. A. W. Bennett.

In the receiving line will be Mrs. Robert Ballantyne, Mrs. Virgil Hancher, Mrs. Mayo Soley, Mrs. Robert Ebel, Mrs. George Fonken, Mrs. A. Marx, and Mrs. P. W. Richardson.

Parlor hostesses include Mrs. A. W. Bryan, Mrs. C. Jacobsen, Mrs. E. T. Peterson, Mrs. R. A. Kuever, Mrs. Mason Ladd, Mrs. C. A. Phillips, Mrs. Bruce Mahan, and Mrs. Dewey Stitt.

They will be assisted by members of the standing committee: Mrs. E. J. Ogesen, Mrs. Fred Fehling, Mrs. Ralph Shriner, Mrs. F. Francis, Mrs. James Jones, Mrs. Ethyl Martin and Florence Snyder.

Those who will pour are Mrs. E. McGrath, Mrs. L. A. Van Dyke, Mrs. G. Hartman, and Mrs. Fred Higbee.

Industrialists to Meet Cigarette May

Over 100 executives and representatives of industry will attend a conference in the senate chamber of Old Capitol, today in conjunction with the opening of the sixth special course in "Quality Control by Statistical Methods."

The aims and possibilities of quality-control programs in industry will be explained to the executives at the special meeting.

60 Persons Enrolled

The course itself is an intensive 10-day session limited to 60 persons who have a supervisory position in industry. Firms and corporations from all parts of the country and Canada are represented in the list of trainees.

Such firms as Sears Roebuck, John Deere, Kaiser-Frazer, Oldsmobile, Eastman Kodak, Maytag and Alcoa have sent men here to take the course.

To Improve Quality

The program concentrates on the use of statistical methods in reducing expenses and developing improved quality in manufacturing processes and products.

It consists of a series of conferences, lectures and laboratory periods lasting from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. each day except Sunday ending Oct. 15.

SUI Men Head Staff

Prof. Allen T. Craig and Prof. Lloyd A. Knowler of the SUI mathematics department will supervise the instructional staff. The staff will include educators from the Universities of Illinois, Purdue and Northwestern and members of industry experienced in quality control.

Dean F. M. Dawson of the college of engineering will preside at the opening session of the special executive conference this morning. Prof. Edwin B. Kuriz, head of the electrical engineering department, will preside at today's afternoon session.

Pictures Help Prof. To Identify Students

Having your picture taken isn't new, but having it taken in class is "another story," say many newcomers to SUI.

Prof. Eldridge of the physics department, has been shooting pictures of his students.

"Some of them always seem bewildered and others think its funny," said Eldridge, "but the system proves most valuable to me."

Eldridge says he has "difficulty" remembering names. With this handicap in mind, he takes pictures and places them with the respective names, memorizing both. It is only a matter of a few days before the professor is calling all his students by name.

Picture taking is part of the Eldridge method of teaching. Knowing the names of all his students gives him "personal contact" which he would not otherwise have, said Eldridge.

How long has he been taking pictures? Nearly five years.

"They're good too," quipped the professor, "at least they don't make you look like a bunch of criminals."

"Some of them like it," said Eldridge.

"Who knows," he laughed, "I might even get an apple out of the deal."

Engineers' Reception Scheduled for Oct. 14

The annual student-faculty reception of the college of engineering is planned for Oct. 14, in the river room of the Iowa Union, according to Mark Meier, president of the Associated Students of Engineering.

The reception is an annual feature of the college of engineering. It is sponsored by the A.S. of E. so that engineering students and faculty can become better acquainted.

STAG DINNER TO BE HELD

Students in Quadcrest cottages 17, 18, 19 and 20 will hold a stag dinner at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow in Hotel Jefferson. Jack Traver, 6, is in charge.

Government Seeks Engineers to Fill Jobs in Washington

The government is looking for engineers to fill jobs paying $2,974 a year in Washington, D. C. and vicinity, according to a recent civil service announcement.

Jobs are open in all branches of engineering, the announcement said. Applicants must:

1. Have completed four years of college study in professional engineering leading to a bachelor's degree.

2. Have had four years of progressive experience in technical engineering.

3. Have had any time-equivalent combination of such education and experience.

Applications will be accepted from students who will complete their college courses within six months of the date of filing applications.

Age limits are 18 to 35 years except for persons entitled to veteran preference. Women as well as men may apply for the jobs, but each government department requesting engineers has a right to specify the sex desired, the announcement said.

Further information and application forms are available at the Iowa City postoffice or from the U. S. civil service commission, Washington 25, D. C.

Art Students To Hold 'Get Acquainted' Dance

The art guild will give a "get acquainted" tea dance in the main gallery of the art building Sunday, from 3 to 5:30 p.m. The tea is to introduce the guild to art students and give them an opportunity to join.

All art students and the art faculty will be invited by the officers of the guild. President of the art guild is Len Everett, A3; Margery Donnellon, A3, is vice-president, and secretary-treasurer is Yvette Wright, A3. Bryon Burford is the guild's faculty adviser.

Phillips called last year's figure of $643 about average, in comparison to other years. "In fact, there has been even less fire damage to university units in previous years," he said.

Wendlandt turned out two national championship teams during his coaching career at SUI, one in 1940 and the other in 1946.

Wendlandt has instructed over 10,000 students since he came here in 1932. "I'm thankful to have been stationed at the university all these years," he said, "because I like Iowa City so well."

For three years a firing member of the infantry team, Wendlandt has been unable to enter competition since he came to the university, because he was on detached service. He plans to continue his sharpshooting activities after he becomes a civilian.

Other officers, all of whom are in advanced ROTC, are Harvey F. Jensen, Libertyville, Ill., executive officer; Everett Waller Jr., Sioux City, adjutant; Jack W. Burns, Cedar Rapids, finance officer; Richard R. Brawner, Iowa City, operations officer, and J. William Condon, Iowa City, supply officer.

Phillips asked that students be exceptionally careful while smoking. "Many dormitory fires are definitely caused by cigarettes," he said.

Wendlandt is the head of the ROTC rifle team at the university, expects to be discharged from the U.S. army late this month. After 26 years of army life, Wendlandt will retire with his wife to their farm in Good Thunder, Minn.

Col. W. W. Jenna, head of the military science department, described Wendlandt as "top-flight material and one of the finest soldiers I know."

Wendlandt turned out two national championship teams during his coaching career at SUI, one in 1940 and the other in 1946.

Wendlandt has instructed over 10,000 students since he came here in 1932. "I'm thankful to have been stationed at the university all these years," he said, "because I like Iowa City so well."

For three years a firing member of the infantry team, Wendlandt has been unable to enter competition since he came to the university, because he was on detached service. He plans to continue his sharpshooting activities after he becomes a civilian.

Other officers, all of whom are in advanced ROTC, are Harvey F. Jensen, Libertyville, Ill., executive officer; Everett Waller Jr., Sioux City, adjutant; Jack W. Burns, Cedar Rapids, finance officer; Richard R. Brawner, Iowa City, operations officer, and J. William Condon, Iowa City, supply officer.

Phillips called last year's figure of $643 about average, in comparison to other years. "In fact, there has been even less fire damage to university units in previous years," he said.

University Buildings, Valued at Millions of Dollars, Suffered Only $643 in Fire Damage Last Year, Putting the SUI Physical Plant in an Envyable Position in the Realm of Fire Prevention.

R. J. Phillips, superintendent of the university physical plant, announced on the second day of National Fire Prevention week yesterday that the university had a total of 26 fires between July 1947 and July 1948.

"This figure includes many minor fires where no damage was reported," he said.

The two worst fires of last year came within a week of each other. On Sept. 22, 1947, two-year old Linda Schweitzer died of complications which developed from burns received in fire at her Quonset park home. In his 15 years with the university, Phillips could recall no other fatality from fire.

The largest fire last year in terms of dollars and cents was Sept. 29, 1947. At that time, $328 damage was done to a Central park barracks.

The SUI physical plant takes many steps to prevent fires, Phillips said. All university fire equipment is checked at least once a year and much of it is checked monthly. This includes fire extinguishers in every barracks apartment and every trailer.

In addition, students are warned constantly of the danger of fires by both word of mouth and posters.

Phillips asked that students be exceptionally careful while smoking. "Many dormitory fires are definitely caused by cigarettes," he said.

He also warned students against molesting university fire fighting equipment, pointing out that this act could cause serious damage and is punishable by law.

Art Guild to Begin Film Series Friday With Russian Movie

"Country Bride," a Russian film dealing with social change in Russia before the revolution will open the University film series at eight p.m. Friday. The art guild, sponsors of the series, announced yesterday that foreign films will again form the greater part of the program.

Season tickets for the series will be on sale Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in the lobby of the art building for $1.50. Single admissions will be 40 cents at the door. The movies are shown in the art building auditorium.

Two German movies, "Misunderstood" and "Don Juan's Wedding," will be shown Friday, Oct. 22. The presentation of the American produced biography of Schubert, "Melody Master," will be Friday, Nov. 5.

Another American movie, "Native Land," is scheduled for Friday, Nov. 19. Friday, Dec. 10 is the date for the French film, "Gribouille." The German production, "The Love of Jeanne Ney," will be Jan. 7.

In addition, short subjects on music, art or literature will be shown.

Now We Know - It's an Elevator

Are you still wondering what kind of structure is being erected on the east side of the physics building?

Well, it's an elevator for lifting materials from the ground level to the upper story. It will be used in building a wall to separate two laboratories, one of which will house a small atom smasher, according to Prof. James J. Jacobs, physics department.

The smasher is a Cockcroft-Walton type and is expected to be completed this winter.

Greeks Not Getting Parcels

Distribution Corrupted by Greek Officials, Supervision Needed Says Dunnington

The people of Greece "need our help all right but we had better supervise every bit of it," according to Dr. L. L. Dunnington, minister of the First Methodist church.

Addressing his congregation Sunday, in his second sermon since returning from a tour of Europe, he said the corruption of the biggest share of Greek officials is "unbelievable" and, that, if our money and gifts of food and clothing are to be of any benefit to the needy people, we must accompany them with American supervision.

Dunnington said he met a man from California in Greece trying to find out what had happened to thousands of dollars worth of food and clothing he had collected and sent over for sick and starving people. He said the man finally found some of the supplies. They had been in a warehouse for eight months. After paying $13.50 duty on the supplies he found they had been destroyed by moths.

While in Athens, Dunnington became acquainted with George Lee, an English representative of the "Save the Children Fund," who was trying to find and distribute some of the supplies his organization has sent to Greece.

Dunnington quoted Lee as saying, "There is no doubt that there are hundreds of thousands of starving people in Greece. Our biggest enemies are the thieves who don't care who starves so long as they get a piece of graft out of the deal."

Dunnington told of visiting warehouses where cases of American relief goods had been broken open and the contents stolen. He said he found cases of rotten canned milk and cartons of goods that had been broken into by officials and stevedores.

THE PLATFORMS —

Cures Offered for Nation's Civil Rights Ills

First in a series by the Daily Iowan Research Staff comparing the main points of the Republican, Democratic and Progressive national platforms.

REPUBLICANS

CIVIL RIGHTS:
" . . . right of equal opportunity to work and to advance in life should never be limited in any individual because of race, religion, color or country of origin."

The Republicans have placed planks in their national platform calling for anti-lynching legislation, poll tax abolition in federal elections and prohibition of racial discrimination in the armed forces and the federal civil service.

These planks could easily be injected in Republican policy without fear of disrupting the party.

Republican voting strength is greatest in the north and the west where racial problems are acute only in highly industrialized areas. The south has a regional race problem which naturally leads to persistent white supremacy struggles in each southern state.

Republicanism, traditionally and consistently labeled as an advocate of a strong national government, has a poor chance of capturing votes from the disrupted segments of the southern Democrats. Southern white supremacy is maintained by the political mechanism of states-rights and by the extralegal means of the Ku Klux Klan and intricate party-voting requirements.

Such means and modes are directly opposed to any extension of federal power into the area of state police powers. States-rights and state police power are synonymous terms for practical political purposes. The federal constitution reserves certain police powers to each state and the United States supreme court has proven by past decisions that only a constitutional amendment can bring lynchings and racial abuses within the control of federal police power.

Any federal legislation, whether by a Democratic or Republican congress, would check racial discrimination only within the federal government and within state governments could only prosecute peace officers for failure to protect minorities or persons. The legislation would not give the federal government power to prevent any state citizens from practicing discrimination against fellow citizens. This problem is reserved solely to the realm of state police power by the constitution itself.

More Negroes are voting each year in the south but still not enough to provide any great additional voting strength for the Republican party. The main objective of the Republican civil rights plank is to draw off as many independent votes as possible from the following of the Progressives.

Many minorities, not as leftist as Wallace's Communist and socialist supporters but who still want real equality, might possibly be drawn to the Republican fold in the hope that a strong conservative party will promptly enact radical civil-rights legislation as the price of their support.

DEMOCRATS

CIVIL RIGHTS:
" . . . racial and religious minorities must have . . . the full and equal protection by the Constitution."

When President Truman placed his civil rights plank before the Democratic national convention he split his party wide open. The civil rights plank was directly opposed to the states rights sentiments of the solid South. Conservative and agrarian by nature the southern Democrats have always been leery of the socialist tendencies of the New Dealers.

Only the strong hand of Franklin D. Roosevelt kept them in Democratic ranks during the '30s. The New Dealers were the main-spring behind the civil rights plank because it would assure them control of the Democratic party.

The plank is to all purposes and appearances identical with that of the Republican and Progressive planks and would not accomplish any more than what they have promised. However, it has accomplished a serious loss of electoral votes to President Truman.

The rebellious Dixiecrats control a sizeable portion of the southern white vote that cannot be offset by any Negro nor by even the labor votes of the newly developed southern industrial centers. Truman's big hope in offsetting the Dixie revolt is to win over the moderate elements of the Progressives and the undecided portions of labor.

Labor itself is divided as to Truman's desirability for another term. There is also an increase in the number of independent voters this year which might serve as an unexpected reservoir of Democratic strength.

Truman can pin his hopes for additional southern strength on another factor. The gradual in-

Ugly Signs of the Times: Religious, Racial Discrimination
Republicans, Democrats, Progressives Promise to Deal with it

dustrialization of the south since World War II has slowly changed the economic and social basis of a few southern states. There are union labor elements unwilling to exert their power in party dissension.

Being relatively young branches of American labor they don't want to see their gains under the Roosevelt administration lost by a break in the American labor fronts of the CIO or the AFL. In the final showdown on election day the southern labor votes may not follow the example of their Dixiecrat leaders.

Truman's civil rights plank is an appeal to the votes of the independents, moderate Progressive elements and the southern racial and economic minorities which no longer keep the solid south as solid as it once was.

PROGRESSIVES

CIVIL RIGHTS:
"The Progressive party condemns segregation and discrimination in all of its forms and in all places."

The Progressive platform prescribes the same civil rights planks as the Democratic and Republican platforms but, in addition, covers a wider area of civil activities and proposes much more specific cures and preventives. The conservative approach of the Republican platform and the cautious approach of the Democrats seems vague in outline besides the Progressives. But therein lies the danger points of the Progressive civil rights planks.

In one plank federal funds would be denied to any state practicing discrimination in any form. Another plank would have legislation forbidding racist propaganda in any form of public communications including the mails.

Such planks mean only more censorship activity by the federal government but instead of mere congressional investigation the censorship would be associated with justice department investigation and prosecution. It would only mean additional burdens on federal courts which have a hard enough time drawing the thin line between libel and mere opinion in the mails and newspapers.

Decisions in state and federal courts have kept a remarkable balance between the two but the charges and countercharges issuing from congressional investigations are creating a tendency to subordinate the hairline judgments to public opinion for mere political purposes.

The Progressive civil rights planks would only aggravate the tendency to a point where the courts would find more and more of their functions being relegated for final decisions to quasi-judicial bodies like the federal communications commission and the post office department. As far as Wallace's Communist supporters are concerned they would welcome such a state of affairs because it would lead to feelings of insecurity and distrust in the matter of freedom of press and speech.

Whether Mr. Wallace realizes it or not he is still one of the original New Dealers in his methods and would have extended highly socialistic controls in certain areas of the economy except that a conservative supreme court balked at his projects.

It is not too generally known that racist propaganda is based on economic rivalries as well as on obvious features like color and physique. Since the intentions in any case are what determine whether a person is convicted or dismissed, how can any judge or jury hope to trace the subtleties of the economic basis for much racist propaganda?

When it comes to putting planks like armed forces nonsegregation in concrete form it is not too hard a matter because human colors can generally be seen in their relative extremes. But trying to trace the varicolored facets of racist propaganda is like trying to substantiate every claim made in a congressional pink-and-red investigation.

Justice against discrimination has not been achieved by condemning men for their opinions of groups but convicting them for unwarranted assaults upon the dignity of the individual. Not even a mass psychologist would claim the ability to determine the subtle differences between races and groups as surely as he could decide the more obvious diversities between individuals. Economic and political equalities might be enforced to some degree from the top by government but social equality begins at the bottom of society and can be made into effective law only after the people are willing to practice it as part of their everyday living.

Undoubtedly the Progressives will draw a large percentage of independent votes together with the disoriented elements in their ranks but their proposed cures for civil rights discrepancies shade off into the realm of racial vagaries that judges, juries and quasi-judicial bodies would find almost untenable to decide.

The cure would be worse than the sincere intentions of the really serious persons in the Progressive party. The conservative and cautious approaches of the Democrats and the Republicans are superior in this respect.

McBride's Haul

By BILL MCBRIDE

Returning from a pleasant drive to Cedar Rapids Sunday afternoon I told one of my passengers and his wife about the dandy little book lights now on display in IC shops. It looks like a miniature desk lamp and clips to the cover of your book . . . should be excellent for those of you who live in rooms with 18-foot ceilings lighted by a 40 watt bulb.

Some time ago this passenger-friend and I discovered we had a number of similar childhood experiences. Among those experiences was one which probably has a great deal to do with both of us wearing glasses today.

Upon comparing notes, we found we both used to take flashlight to bed with us and read under the covers after lights out. What a boon these new book lights would have been.

A more extensive survey reveals that we weren't the only ones who tried fooling our parents with the flashlight trick, but I'll wager there were few boys who owned a water-spaniel as old and as fat as Brownie my best dog.

The flashlight and the book weren't the only items which found their way to my bed. It was a veritable fortress of peanuts, hard candy, cap guns, an aviator's helmet with goggles, pencil and paper (for writing threatening notes and distress messages to the outer world), a bottle of Kool-Ade and Brownie. Brownie's rations usually were limited to a couple of doughnuts.

It's a puzzler that I ever found space to sleep in that mess, but it didn't seem to stunt my growth or warp my spine.

Whenever Brownie was caught in my bed one of us had to go, and even though she was my best friend, it was always the over-stuffed spaniel who slept on the floor. She never seemed to mind too much as long as I didn't keep her doughnuts.

While on this same thread of thought it dawned upon me that children are getting a much better deal these days from the recording companies than we ancients did.

In the first place, children's records today are almost all the unbreakable plastic type. I don't recall ever breaking any of my brittle records, but do recall having to be exceptionally careful with them. Anything I had to be that careful with never appealed to me much.

As a matter of fact, the records didn't strike me as being the important part of rainy afternoons anyway. It was the business of winding the phonograph and adjusting the speeds of that machine which was interesting.

For some abstract reason most record manufacturers in those days hired an Englishman (or a reasonable facsimile) to tell fairy tales and sing children's songs.

The result of that move was that I never could understand what was being played.

The one record that sticks in my mind is the "Jack and the Beanstalk" story. It began with the loving of a cow and progressed into a series of growls, grunts, groans and belches, proceeding day after day in Inner Sanctum programs in the ho hum bracket. I'm not so sure that isn't where it belongs anyway.

As a clincher to the beanstalk platter a long, painful scream was emitted by the English story teller into what I always imagined was a rain barrel.

Even a Woody Herman and his futuristic, discordant, overblown herd could not match the horror of that scream.

Garner Foresaw Demo Woes

WASHINGTON (UP)—Former Vice-President John Nance Garner is depicted in an official biography published as a far-sighted prophet of current events.

In the book "Garner of Texas" (Harper's), veteran Washington correspondent Bascom N. Timmons reveals that Garner:

1. Predicted in 1936 the present political difficulties of the Democratic party.

2. Foresaw as long ago as 1933 that the United States would have serious international troubles with Russia.

3. Quarreled with the late President Roosevelt in 1939-40 over what Garner regarded as the "coddling" of Communists and the "infiltration" of fellow-travelers into the government.

Since the 80-year old Garner, now in retirement on his ranch at Uvalde, Tex., has vowed never to write his own memoirs, Timmons' book may well be the most authoritative telling of the Garner story that the public will receive.

Timmons was an intimate associate of the former vice-president throughout his long service in Washington, and has continued to be since.

He wrote the biography with the approval of the now-retired Texan who was speaker of the house from 1930 to 1932, and vice-president during the first two Roosevelt administrations.

Those Who Only Stand and Wait

Used Car Market Slumps

New Price Regulation Worries Dealers — Prices Down $600 in Some Areas

By CHARLES H. HANSON
DETROIT (UP) — The national used car market is in a definite slump, a United Press survey shows, and the peddlers of second hand transportation are worried about it.

Except in concentrated population areas which are far from centers of automobile production, the slip in the market value of both new and old used cars is anywhere from $50 to $600 per car.

The price drop is attributed by most dealers to three causes: 1. Renewal of "regulation W" by the government, which requires a one-third down payment on all used cars bought on installments.

2. The usual seasonal fall slump, when sales of both new and used cars drop off with the buyers' interest.

3. An inflationary trend which has priced the little man out of the market except for old-model jalopies.

A survey of dealers throughout the nation revealed, however, an almost unanimous opinion that a required one-third down payment will hurt only the prospective buyer with a small bankroll.

Except in San Francisco areas, where cars are bringing premium prices with no let-up in the market, dealers noted a definite lag in sales of late model cars.

$190 Decrease
In Washington, for instance, a 1946 Chevrolet used to bring $1,645, but now is worth only $1,450, a $190 decrease.

Dealers agreed that the let-up was due to the small income group's inability to scrape up the one-third down payment for a late model car.

The low-salaried buyer also is reluctant to buy a jalopy, because they sometimes run up monumental repair bills within months.

One New York dealer speculated that the peak of the postwar used car boom was past, and prices would decline steadily, although there are at least two years left of the high price market.

Northeast Still High
In the northeast used car dealers have felt little of the price pinch. Both Boston and New York dealers still are getting near peak prices for their cars.

New York dealers reported only a slight slump from the June sales peak except for convertibles, which do not sell well during the winter. A 1947 Chevrolet coupe brings $1,885, while a 1946 two-door Ford model is worth $1,400.

Washington dealers were more glum. They reported a "definite" slump, attributed to regulation W, and expect a $400 to $500 price drop within four or five months.

Dealers Balk
In the south, Atlanta, Ga., dealers said that sellers of cars still are demanding wartime prices on late models, and the dealers are refusing to buy them. A 1948 Ford costs $2,100.

The Midwest appeared to be better off. A "steadily dropping" market, however, has made it difficult for car owners to re-sell a new car to a used car dealer. Chicago dealers have cut prices on late models from $100 to $300.

Highest in West
Prices are higher and demand is greater in the west and on the west coast. In San Francisco a 1948 Ford sedan costs nearly $2,000 and a 1947 Chevrolet is worth $2,195.

San Francisco prices are the highest in the nation, but the market is slowing elsewhere in the west. In Los Angeles, Dallas, Tex., and Portland, Ore., sales have dropped as much as 20 percent but prices have taken only a slight decline.

Fifty Rushees Attend Orientation Meeting
Fifty rushees attended an orientation meeting of Delta Sigma Pi, professional commerce fraternity, yesterday afternoon in room 213, University hall.

Prof. Wendell Smith of the College of Commerce spoke at the meeting on the advantages of belonging to a professional organization.

Iowa City Resident Dies At University Hospitals
Herbert Everett, 77-year-old Iowa City resident, died at University hospitals yesterday morning.

Everett, a widower, resided at 319 Iowa avenue. He had previously lived at the Van Meter hotel.

Town Men Plan Sports

Organization of intramural sports for the Association of Town Men was begun at the association's meeting last night under the direction of Frederick S. Beebe, associate professor in charge of intramurals.

Tennis, golf, touch football and basketball championships will be played this year, Beebe told his audience of approximately 80 men.

Iowa City has been divided into eight sections with the men in each section comprising a team. The winner of the various sports will compete in the all-university championships, Beebe said.

Town men interested in participating in the sports can contact Beebe by calling university extension 2226.

The association also announced a "sweater dance" to be held in the river room of the Iowa Union between 8:30 and 11:30 p.m. Saturday. All Town Men and their dates are invited.

Sorority Members See Style Show

Alpha Delta Pi sorority house was the scene of a style show presented by Alden's department store last night.

According to Mary Jane Peterson, in charge of the show, two other presentations have been given at the store and now the girls are appearing at sorority houses on invitation.

Miss Ruth Evans narrated while Miss Peterson, Leigh Sloane, Midge Carlson, Nancy Grier, and Pauline Voelckers modeled casual, suit, and formal styles.

Their next appearance will be at the Chi Omega house Wednesday night.

Enlistments Stop for Those with Dependents

The army and airforce have stopped enlisting persons with dependents unless they are qualified for the first three enlisted grades, Sgt. M. L. Herdlicka of the Iowa City recruiting office has announced.

Exception is made for those re-enlisting within ninety days after discharge.

Van Dyke Says Schools To Be More Flexible

"The educational program of Iowa's North Central association schools may become more flexible and experimental," Prof. L. A. Van Dyke, director of university high school, said yesterday.

Van Dyke, Iowa's chairman, met with 19 other state chairmen in Kansas City, Mo., last week. The group proposed to give schools in their 20-state area greater flexibility in becoming accredited.

"The new proposal is concerned with whether a school's total pattern is good. Less emphasis is placed on annual accreditation," Van Dyke said.

"We propose to judge schools as a whole and permit marked superiority in one aspect to compensate for minor deficiencies in another."

Van Dyke pointed out that this is a step in the right direction, for it will encourage experimentation and new ideas in our educational programs.

Final vote on this proposal will be at the next meeting of the association in March, '49. There are 175 member schools of this organization in Iowa.

Iowa Citizen Builds

New Floor For Cagers

Visitors at SUI's home basketball games this year will watch the players flash up and down a brand new hardwood, thanks to Earl Nelson, 2218 H street.

Recently Nelson nailed down the last of approximately 7,400 maple flooring boards. He hammered away ten days at the task and used 310 pounds of nails.

He estimates nearly a quarter of a million hammer blows were required to fasten the boards to the subfloor.

Nelson isn't a big guy either — about five foot six and probably not a pound over 135. But observers have been amazed at the speed and ease with which he handled the job.

R. J. Phillips, head of the university's physical plant, said simply, "That guy's a worker."

A few days ago, Nelson — who has laid floors for 20 years — sanded the maple hardwood floor which he later varnished.

The floor is 112 feet long and 62 feet wide. It was shifted 25 feet to the west to make room for more bleachers.

Nelson, by the way, is a basketball fan. So this winter if you see some fellow gazing intently at one end of the floor while all of the activity is at the other, remember — it may be Earl Nelson giving his job a critical once-over.

Curtis to Talk on Flower Arrangement

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Curtis of the Curtis floral company will give an illustrated talk on flower arrangement in the home at the first meeting of the graduate Home Economics club tonight at 8 o'clock. The meeting will be held in the home economics room in MacBride hall.

All home economics graduates of any college or university are invited to attend this meeting.

Officers of the club for this year are Mrs. Wilma Holcomb, president, Mrs. Joyce Featherstone, secretary, and Mrs. Josephine Cerny, treasurer.

Texas' Face Red After Color Error

HAPPY AFTER 'JIM CROW' INCIDENT. This 17-year-old Navajo Indian girl, Ivy Begay, was smiling yesterday after accepting an invitation to attend a Texas fair with her father. The invitation came after she reported being ordered into the "Jim Crow" section of a bus while going through Texas to accept a scholarship at Sarah Lawrence college, Bronxville, N. Y. The Indians are from Flagstaff, Ariz.

Medical Society to Hear Dean Soley Tomorrow

Mayo H. Soley, dean of the college of medicine, will speak on "Radio-Iodine in Thyroid Disease" at the regular meeting of the Johnson County Medical society tomorrow at 6 p.m., in the Jefferson hotel.

Dinner and a business meeting will precede Soley's speech. A discussion opened by Dr. Titus C. Evans, research professor of radiology and radio-biology, will follow.

Kenton Is Jazz 'Moses'

—Or Still in Bullrushes?

BY BOB SENNISH

A number of colorful legends have sprung up around the person of Stanley Newcomb Kenton — most of which point to the young maestro as a sort of musical Moses who is destined to lead the children out of the wilderness of reaction.

The term "reaction" applies to American music and, more specifically, to stereotyped jazz which stagnates the profession's key men . . . or so we're told by the zealots of Kentonism.

Started at Nine

Stanley Newcomb, who enjoyed his first hankering for the piano as a nine-year-old, has devoted healthy portions of time and energy to what he labels "progressive jazz."

Henkey-tonking through California during the early '30s, he did "pick-up" arranging until about a decade ago when he organized the band we're to hear Friday night.

His votaries (for Kenton fans seem to have more religious enthusiasm than plain loyalty) can be observed draped around any juke-box evangelizing that Kenton is the best thing that's happened to jazz since Alvin Roy's fingers had arthritis.

After the release of Kenton's latest album, however, the aforesaid gospel was subjected to considerable pooh-poohing by musicians all the way from Huyett's to The Street.

Progressive Jazz

It is argued that the illustrious Stan has simply gone too far. He has submitted Stravinsky, the Schillinger system, and his own creative eccentricities to the otherwise capable pen of arranger Pete Rugolo. He has added a score of musicians to the assignment, and proclaims with the solemnity befitting the announcement of a millennium, that what happens is "progressive jazz."

A controversial term in itself, "jazz" usually implies improvisation on the part of the soloist. Kenton's arrangements are peculiar for their omission of "ad libbing." In the field of jazz, Dizzy Gillespie, creator of "bop", is probably the most progressive influence — at any rate he gets to call Stravinsky "Strav."

Provided Foothold

Kenton's "Artistry in Rhythm" series provided the foothold he is currently using for his ascent into the clouds. The "Artistry" series featured plenty of those things which made Kenton a kindred soul to every forward-looking musician in the business.

In his latest work, however, Kenton is accused of having brought forth a collection of weird sounds which while appreciable to some talented few, are little more than belabored dissonance to the many.

It is charged that Kenton has not acknowledged the limitations of dance band instrumentation and that he is working his head off to be Stravinsky-like. Why not just forget Kenton and listen to Stravinsky? ask some critics.

Achieves Intonation

Thus stands the controversy. It is noteworthy, however, that Kenton's brass, in addition to its piling qualities, achieves an intonation which approaches Ellington's. His rhythm section is shifty and, unless kept at bay by the efforts of "impressionism," is always a delight to the educated ear.

A substantial turn-out will doubtless be on hand Friday night to appraise first-hand what the interesting young man has to offer.

Progressives Launch Drive

The Johnson county Progressive party will "cooperate fully" in a statewide Progressive membership drive launched Saturday by the state headquarters in Des Moines, Mary Baum, publicity director of the Johnson county Progressives, announced last night.

Details of a local membership drive will be ironed out in county executive meetings this week, she said.

The site of the Glen Taylor speech here Oct. 13 was announced definitely last night as the Community building. The announcement was made by SUI English Prof. Bernard Baum, chairman of the county Wallace group, at a mass meeting in the Community building.

Baum also called for volunteers to take part in a Wallace literature distributing caravan in Fort Madison, Burlington and Keokuk, Saturday, Oct. 9.

Two filmstrip cartoons — "C. Redbaiting" and "NAM Against Man" — were shown at the meeting last night. Baum read the prepared narrations for the cartoons.

Book on Invasion Free to Wounded

Wounded at Cherbourg? For that matter, wounded in any of the campaigns from the landing at Utah beach to the fall of the French city?

If so, you may obtain a free copy of "Utah Beach to Cherbourg," by Maj. Roland G. Ruppenthal—a book describing Allied activities from the landing on Normandy to the collapse of Cherbourg.

According to Capt. Joseph E. Faimon, military department, any veteran wounded between June 6 and July 1, 1944, may obtain a free copy by presenting proper documentation to the Army Historical Division, Washington, D. C.

SUI Grad Writes Novel Set in Iowa

Martin Yoseloff, a graduate of SUI, uses Iowa as a setting for his first novel, "The Family Members," to be published, Oct. 12.

Yoseloff creates Rock Center, an Iowa town of 15,000 as the locale of his novel. He tells the story of a respectable family made the center of town talk because of the mistake of their young daughter.

Yoseloff was born in Sioux City, July 26, 1919. He lived in Spirit Lake for a short time and in Mason City for 14 years. He wrote for the Mason City high school paper and was president of the Iowa high school press association in 1936-37.

At 17 Yoseloff was a reporter for the Mason City Globe-Gazette. He received his bachelors degree from the State University of Iowa in 1941. His first book, "No Greener Meadows," nostalgic recollections of an Iowa childhood, was published in 1946.

A 1944 SUI graduate, Sheldon Schaffer of New Haven, Conn., has been appointed instructor in economics at Clark university, Worcester.

Demos Plan Campus Drive

Plans for canvassing the married students' housing areas and division of the campus into precincts were discussed at a Young Democrats meeting in Schaeffer hall last night.

Henry Allan, president, explained that married students would be interviewed to determine their party affiliation and registration status.

The poll is designed to eliminate administrative difficulties in voting and to stimulate the students to cast their ballots in the Nov. 2 election, he said.

The campus has been divided into seven precincts to facilitate campaigning in the national election and taking a straw vote Oct. 29, Allen reported.

Bob Mohr, G. Mason City, was appointed Young Democrat representative to the straw vote committee. It is composed of members from three student political groups and the student council.

The campaign to aid students' cast absentee ballots was brought up and the matter is to be discussed with the other student political groups.
