

They Send It Home, Too

LONDON (UP) — British delegates to the United Nations meeting in Paris can get their dirty linen washed at home from now on. The Institution of British Launderers said yesterday it is setting up an airplane delivery system to provide 48-hour service because British delegates were unhappy about the price charged by French laundries.

Small Nations To Tell Russ: 'End Blockade'

Hot Fights Continue In UN Political Body

PARIS (UP) — Small non-Soviet members of the United Nations security council last night were reported preparing a demand that Russia lift the Berlin blockade.

Athoritative sources said one of the small countries on the 11-nation body would introduce, probably next week, a resolution to carry out American-British-French demands to end the blockade. Under the resolution being drafted, the council then would call for a meeting of the four-power council of foreign ministers on the whole German question.

As far as it is known here the non-Soviet nations on the council are planning their moves in the expectation that Russia will veto any action the council tries to take. The issue then may be tossed to the assembly.

The East-West struggle continued unabated on two other issues—atomic energy and arms reduction—with Russia clashing with the West again in the assembly's political committee.

The political committee, on which all 58 member nations are represented, voted 47 to 0 to create a sub-committee of 11 countries to study the possibility of an atomic energy agreement.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky accused the Western powers of blocking world disarmament for the last 20 years and demanded that the big four mediate their forces by one-third immediately.

Hector McNeil, British minister of state, said the Soviet plan was not "realistic" and not calculated to create the confidence necessary for disarmament. As for the present Russian government, McNeil said:

"Everyone who dares to disagree with them is a dirty 'warmonger' who is waiting to attack us."

Ordered to 'Debunk' Russia's Atom Plan

WASHINGTON (UP) — Secretary of State Marshall has ordered an international campaign to "debunk" Russia's latest proposal for control of atomic energy.

Undersecretary of State Robert A. Lovett said yesterday the order came from Marshall in Paris.

Lovett said Marshall acted after the French radio reported that Russia was retreating from her previous demands on the control of atomic energy and was making a concession to the western powers.

"The retreat is entirely imaginary," Lovett told President Truman's new advisory commission on information.

He explained that the "basic problem" still remains:

"Do you get international inspection, and do you get elimination of the veto in order to make international inspection effective?"

Russia's latest proposal was submitted to the United Nations general assembly in Paris last Saturday by Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky.

The Soviet minister demanded that the United Nations ban the atomic bomb and set up atomic energy controls, but still insisted on veto power over the controls.

Japan's Right Wing Presses for Power

TOKYO (UP) — Japan's ultra-conservatives pressed a drive for power yesterday as the coalition cabinet of Hitoshi Ashida resigned because of a government loan scandal.

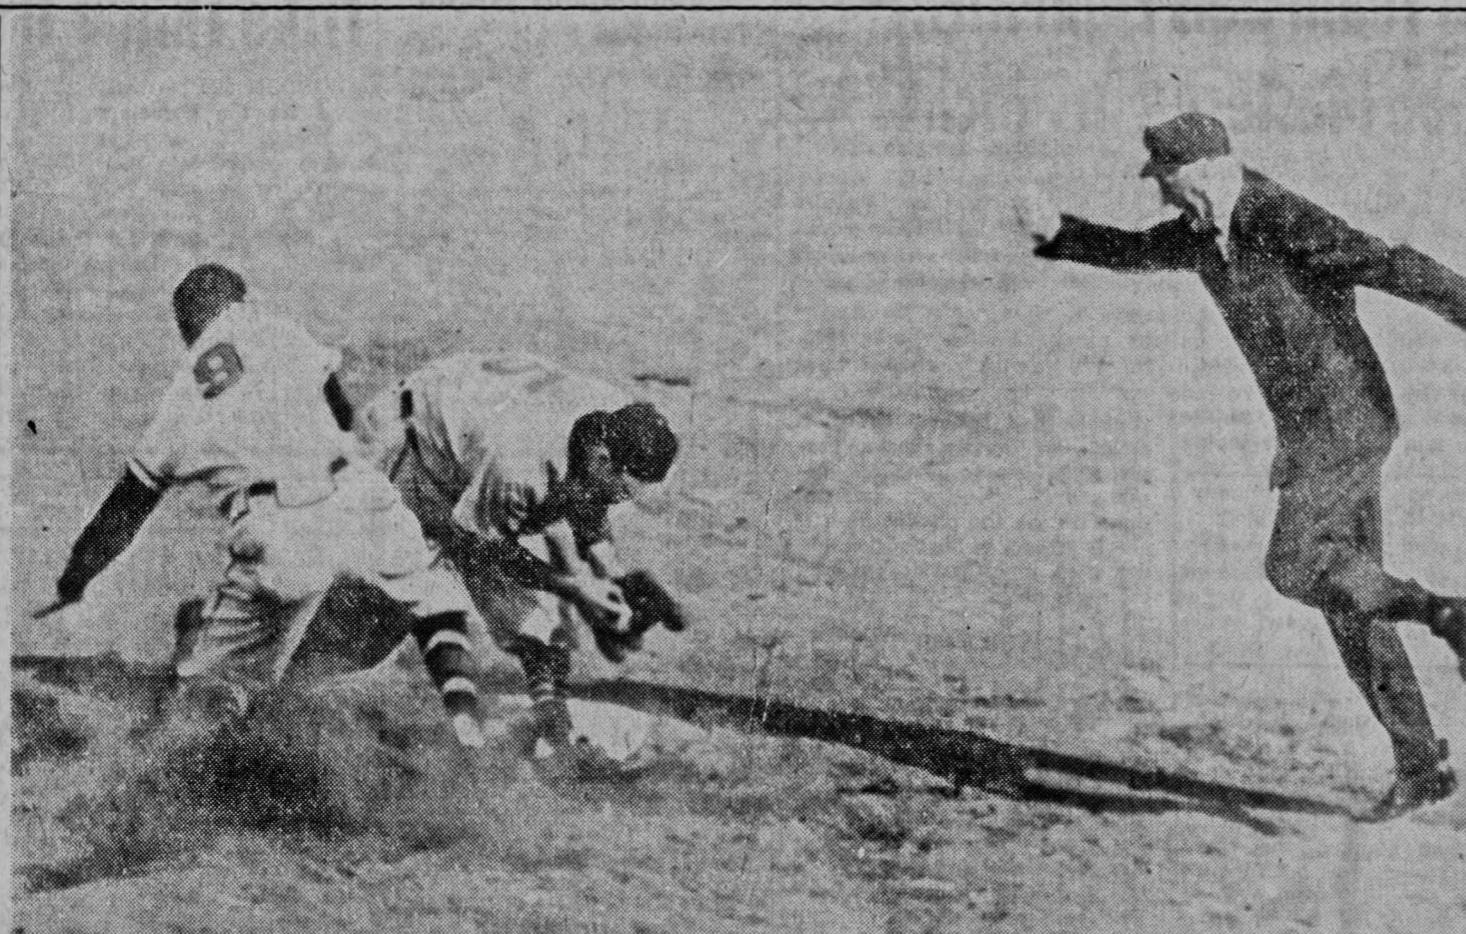

The conservatives, misnamed the Democratic-Liberal party, picked their president, former Premier Shigeru Yoshida, as their candidate to head a new cabinet.

The Democratic party, headed by Ashida, favored trying another coalition to thwart Yoshida but the Socialists, who hold the key to such a solution, were undecided.

The Socialists precipitated the cabinet resignation yesterday after a former deputy premier and the president of the economic stabilization board were arrested on suspicion of bribery in a $10-million government loan to the Showa Denko fertilizer company.

The investigation is continuing, with fireworks predicted when the diet meets in special session Monday.

McBurney urged solicitors to turn in their money at the Campus Chest office as soon as possible. This will facilitate tabulation and book work, he explained.

Baseball On Rails

Frustrated Fan Flees First TV Train Test; Vision Blocked, Resorts to Radio

By ARTHUR EDSON

BALTIMORE (UP)—Television boarded a moving train yesterday and baseball fans, whizzing along at 80 miles an hour, more or less watched the world series.

Except for some experimental runs, this was believed to be the first television reception on a train in history.

Verdict: Technically, it was surprisingly good, so good that Baltimore and Ohio railroad may install it as a regular fixture on its better trains. But, as a way to watch a ball game, make mine Braves field.

Shortly before game time, a group of newspaper and magazine writers—the customary guinea pigs for this sort of thing—began to arrive at Washington's Union station.

The television set was in a special car hooked to the tail of a New York-bound B. and O. train.

Right off, the trouble started.

Miss Frieda Hennoek, the pretty, blonde federal communications commissioner, came aboard. Torgeson singled to right.

Miss Hennoek bee-lined to Frank Norton, who works for a radio manufacturer. They shook hands, and were photographed, while standing directly in front of the set.

"I wish I had time to powder my nose," said Miss Hennoek. She powdered her nose, and the three true baseball fans in the car learned that Cleveland was now at bat.

Miss Hennoek then posed—in front of the screen, of course—with J. H. Wallis, electronics engineer for the B. and O.

"Well, I've got to run now," said Miss H., running. Dark of the Braves, lashed out a single.

Then the science writers moved in. They talked of curvatures, not curves; of low bands, not low balls.

Finally a baseball fan fought his way through the megacycles to Norton to ask, what's the score?

"I don't know," said Norton.

I got off here at Baltimore, and finished out the game in peace on an $11.95 radio set owned by a couple of redcaps.

Indians Blast Braves, 4-1, Deadlock Series

A DOBY DOUBLE — Cleveland's center fielder, Larry Doby, slides into second base with a double in the second inning of yesterday's game. Umpire Bill Grieve calls the play as Al Dark, Boston shortstop, waits for the late throw. Backing up the play are Braves' Second Baseman Ed Stanky (12) and First Baseman Earl Torgeson (9).

Each Team Gets Eight Hits; Lemon Masterful in Pinches

By GAYLE TALBOT

BRAVES FIELD, BOSTON (P)—The favored Cleveland Indians came bouncing back behind Righthander Bob Lemon yesterday to clip the Boston Braves 4 to 1, and square the World Series at a victory apiece as the play-offs moved west for the next three games.

uprising and went on to win easily behind Lemon's gilt-edged curving.

The Indian chucker, who delivered a total of 10 shutouts for the Tribe in the regular season, would have blanked the National league champs but for an error by Second Baseman Joe Gordon which led to an unearned run in the first inning.

Lemon's performance was not quite as spectacular as Bobby Feller's losing two-hitter of the previous day. The Braves touched him for eight hits, the same number Cleveland got off Spahn, Charlie (Red) Barrett and Nelson Potter. But the Cleveland star was superb in the clutches and was aided by two fancy double plays.

Assault Spahn

Cleveland's shortstop-manager started Spahn's downfall with a lead-off double in the fourth, scoring a moment later on Joe Gordon's line single to left with the first Indian run of the series.

He completed the rout of the lefthander an inning later when he sliced a single through the box into center field to score Dale Mitchell, who had singled and advanced on a sacrifice.

That was all for Spahn, who chalked up 15 wins for Boston in the regular season.

Both Barrett and Potter hurled well in relief, allowing the Indians only two more widely spaced hits over the last 4½ innings. But their efforts went for naught as Lemon, aided by a stiff east wind at his back, bore down and stranded the Braves in the tight spots.

Fourth Run

The fourth Cleveland run in the ninth inning was tainted. Catcher Jim Hegan got on when Alvin Dark, Boston's rookie shortstop, made his second glaring bobble of the game. Hegan continued around on a couple of infield outs and a blow to center by Bob Kennedy.

Bob Elliott, Boston third sacker, made his third error in two days to help put Barrett in a hole in the seventh frame, but the redhead pulled out safely. Barrett, using a lot of slow stuff, pitched to 10 Indians and gave up only one hit before retiring for a pinch-hitter.

Larry Doby, Cleveland's crack young centerfielder, was the only member of the winning club besides Boudreau to connect more than once. He laced a double to deep left centerfield with two down in the second for the Indians' first safety off Spahn, and powered Gordon across the plate with a fourth-inning single.

On his last two times up Doby fell a strikeout victim first to Barrett and then to Potter, missing third strikes by wide margins.

Pick-off Play

The same pick-off play which created a furore in the opening game worked like a clock yesterday and helped pull Lemon out of a jam in the first inning.

Earl Torgeson was on second and Bob Elliott on first, one score already was across and only one was out when the Cleveland flinger whirled and whipped the ball to Boudreau, just as Feller had done in Wednesday's disputed play.

Again Boudreau slapped the pellet on the runner, and this

Tribe Thinks It's 'Sure In'

BOSTON (UP)—Cocky was the word for the Cleveland Indians last night.

They roared into their dressing room after squaring the World Series at one game each and it was apparent they figured they had the Boston Braves over a barrel.

"It's Gene Bearden Friday, I don't know who on Saturday and then Bob Feller on Sunday," Manager Lou Boudreau chorled happily, and it was obvious that the smiling shortstop expected that to be all.

"Big one Friday," Lou yelled, and everybody let out a cheer.

Bearden, the handsome hurler who goes to the hill today, hardly looked up from his dressing.

"Just another ball game," grunted the guy who beat the mighty Boston Red Sox in the American league play-off to put Cleveland into the series. "They can't be as tough as those Red Sox. They don't have the power."

Hawkeyes Leave For Ohio State

Name 36 Men
To Make Trip;
Carlson Left

Coach Eddie Anderson and his 36-man Iowa football squad left Iowa City yesterday afternoon at 4:15 via train for Columbus, Ohio, for the Ohio State game tomorrow.

The squad, named yesterday, is due to arrive in the Buckeye city this morning.

Iowa will again be without the services of Guard Ray Carlson. Carlson was left behind for the second successive weekend due to a knee injury which has not responded to treatment.

Otherwise the Iowa squad is in much better shape for this contest than they were last week at Indiana.

Quarterback Al DiMarco's arm is back in throwing form, and Jerry Faske who ran for 89 yards against the Hoosiers, has shaken off the effects of a charley horse. In lieu of Carlson, Anderson will work Earl Banks or "Junebug" Perrin in at the guard slot, and three others are ready.

Iowa has not won a game from Ohio State in 20 years, and last year's 13-13 tie still ranks in the Hawk's memories. In this game the Hawkeyes are 14 point underdogs, but can be expected to give a good account of themselves.

All this week Iowa's coaches have been trying to find the scoring punch that was so sadly lacking in last week's game. This has taken the form of heavy passing drills, coupled with working several halfbacks in the first string backfield to find the missing power.

Meanwhile the first and second-string lines have been working on the Buckeyes' tricky offensive plays as thrown at them by the fresh team.

The Hawks are particularly worried about Joe Whisler, Ohio State's 5 foot, 8 inch, 220 pound pile-driving fullback. Whisler nearly demoralized Southern WAIVING GOOD-BY, Iowa Center Dick Woodard boarded the train yesterday for Columbus, Ohio, where the Hawks will play Ohio State tomorrow. For the second week in a row, Woodard will act as game captain for the Iowans. The Hawks are seeking their first football victory over Ohio State in 20 years.

The Traveling Squad

The traveling squad as named by Dr. Anderson:

- Ends—Ralph Woodard, Bob McKenzie, Jerry Long, Bob Phillips, Bob Hoff, Tony Guzowski, Jack Dittmer.
- Tackles—Jim Shoup, Don Winslow, Bill Kazy, Jim Cozad, Bob Geigel, Jack McDowell.
- Guards—Joe Grothus, Bill Kersten, Louis Ginsberg, Earl Banks, "Junebug" Perrin.
- Centers—Dick Woodard, Bob Snyder, Dick Laster, Dick Meyer.
- Quarterbacks—Al DiMarco, Arthur O'Connell, Dennis Drahn.
- Left Halfbacks—Bob Longley, Jim Halliberton, Don Fryant.
- Right Halfbacks—Jerry Faske, Bill Greene, Ralph Doran, Mearl Naber.
- Fullbacks—John Tedore, Ron Headington, Gerald Nordman, Joe Pausen.

Picks Buckeyes, Irish, Purdue, Bears, Army

BY AUSTIN BEALMEAR
NEW YORK (P) — Off on another run with the football guessing special, trying to improve on a two-weeks' record that shows 37 misses in 156 attempts.

Iowa vs. Ohio State — somebody must have built a fire under those Buckeyes this year. Looks like Ohio State.

Minnesota vs. Northwestern — here's a game that may prove to be one of the highlights of the season. Northwestern is the surprise of the Big Nine. Minnesota was the pre-season favorite. The winner likely will wind up with the conference title and a Rose Bowl trip. On the theory that a team which can blank both UCLA and Purdue must be tough, one healthy vote for Northwestern.

North Carolina vs. Wake Forest — this should be easy for the Tar Heels after their triumphs over Texas and Georgia. A confident vote for North Carolina.

Army vs. Illinois — we still don't know how good Red Blaik's 1948 Cadet outfit really is, but we may find out here. Army has rolled up 82 points in two games.

Illinois was unimpressive in dividing its first two. The Illini may find themselves, but our guess is Army.

Harvard vs. Cornell — what with the Cantabs' wallop of Columbia last week, it's a new day for the Crimson. Put this one down as No. 2 for Harvard.

Wisconsin vs. California — if the Pacific coast is going to win one from the Big Nine this season, including the Rose Bowl squabble, this had better be it. Probably close. A shaky vote for California.

Michigan vs. Purdue — Michigan won its first two. Purdue lost the same number. That makes Purdue due. The Boilmakers couldn't shake off their narrow loss to Notre Dame but should be tough now. Purdue.

Michigan State vs. Notre Dame — Leahy's first stringers should be ready. They didn't have to exert themselves against Pitt, Notre Dame.

Southern Methodist vs. Missouri — it will be nice when the Mustangs come up against somebody's own size but this isn't it. SMU.

Columbia vs. Yale — the Lions gained 482 yards and 26 first downs—but lost to Harvard.

Clemson vs. Southern California — both these teams show signs of blowing hot and cold at intervals this season. Eenie, meenie . . . USC.

Ohio State Suffers Loss of Halfbacks

COLUMBUS, O. (AP) — Coach Wesley Fesler of the Ohio State Buckeyes is going to have to go far down the line to get a right halfback for Saturday's game against Iowa.

He disclosed yesterday that Alex Verdova of Lakewood probably wouldn't play because of a pulled chest muscle and that neither Second Stringer Mike Canavino of Cleveland nor Third Stringer Bob Demmel of Fremont was recovered from injuries received last week.

Michigan vs. Purdue — Michigan won its first two. Purdue lost the same number. That makes Purdue due. The Boilmakers couldn't shake off their narrow loss to Notre Dame but should be tough now. Purdue.

Little Hawks Meet Dubuque In Important Valley Game

Iowa City's Little Hawks will be seeking their third straight Mississippi Valley conference victory tonight as they meet powerful Dubuque in the Rams homecoming game.

The Dubuque line averages 200 pounds with state dash champion, Ralph Richman, bolstering the speedy backfield. Its first string will be at full strength for the tilt.

Co-captains for the contest will be Guard John Fenton and Tackle Francis Beasley. Mighty Francis could ruin the Rams with his surprising runs on the fake-punt play. The "Doc" Blanchard type player is devastating when he gets his hands on the ball.

Blue Hawks Face Strong West Branch

A sizzling West Branch team will invade the University High school stronghold this afternoon looking for their fourth straight win in as many games.

It will be homecoming for the Bluehawks, but a victory appears remote. Although the Blues have won their last two games after absorbing a 57-7 defeat from Wellman, it is doubtful that they can upset the Bears.

The game will be played on the University practice field starting at 3:30 p.m.

Four Auto Mishaps on Wet Streets

Four drivers, involved in four separate accidents reported to police yesterday, said that wet streets were partly to blame for the accidents.

At 1:15 a.m. yesterday an accident at the intersection of Burlington and Linn streets involved cars driven by Joe W. Miltner, route 6, and Eugene Arneson, 1214 Sheridan avenue.

Miltner reported that the front of his car and the rear fender, body and right side of the Arneson car were damaged.

Damage totaling $200 was caused in another accident that occurred at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday at the intersection of Iowa avenue and Madison street.

Robert E. Irwin, Duncan court, reported that $120 damage was done to his car and estimated $80 damage to a car driven by Verelle Brummitt, 1032 N. Dubuque street.

At 7:30 p.m. Wednesday another accident involved cars driven by George Dale Oxley, 736 Kirkwood avenue, and C. H. Allen, 403 S. Lucas street.

The accident occurred at the intersection of Burlington and Gilbert streets. Damage estimated at $100 was done to the Allen car and $25 damage to the Oxley car.

In a fourth accident Wednesday an estimated $100 damage was done to a car driven by Azar Joseph Elias, 222 E. Market street. No estimate was made on the damage to the second car involved which was driven by Lige Britt, 1020 N. Summit street.

The accident occurred at 10:51 p.m. on Burlington street.

SUI Changes Plan To Reserve Rooms

A change in the method of handling reservations for auditoriums and classrooms in university buildings was announced yesterday by Ted McCarel, registrar.

Assignments for use of all auditoriums and classrooms for all buildings on the east campus, except the Iowa Union and Old Capitol, will now be made by the registrar.

Permission for using the Iowa Union can be secured from the director of the union. Assignments for use of Old Capitol will be made by the president's office.

McCarel explained that assignments for use of university buildings by campus organizations will be made from the list of organizations approved by the office of student affairs.

In general, requests for space assignments for courses and examinations will have preference during either the day or evening hours over requests for space for campus organizations, he added.

Issue Permits for Three Homes Here

Three new residences, costing an estimated $43,500, will be built in Iowa City in the near future, according to building permits issued recently by the city engineer.

A $15,000 residence and garage will be built by Ben S. Summerhill at 334 Hutchinson avenue. W. J. Buckle is the contractor for the building and J. B. Rust is the architect.

Ray H. Justen plans to build a $15,000 home and garage at 322 Blackhawk street. Buckle and Rust are contractor and architect for this work also.

A residence, costing $13,500, will be built by Phillip W. Willis on Park road. Willis will do his own contracting.

Two permits for garages were also granted by the city engineer. Carl D. Davis, 1205 Riverside drive, will build a $1,500 garage and F. Neal Miller, 1308 Kirkwood avenue, will spend $500 on a similar structure. Both men will do their own contracting.

Community Chest Increased by $28

Only $28 was received in the Community Chest drive yesterday, according to the amounts turned in at chest headquarters, Mrs. J. L. Records, permanent secretary, reported.

This marked the lowest daily return noted since drive began Monday. It boosted the totals for the four-day period to $2,859. Goal for this year's drive has been set at $19,732.76.

Two Persons Report Purse Thefts to Police

Two persons reported thefts totaling $71 to police yesterday.

Betty Vacik, 715 E. Market street, told police that her purse containing $61 was missing, and John P. Spader, 418 N. Jefferson street, said his billfold containing $10 was stolen yesterday.

Neither person reported where the theft took place.

that a crushed rock road had been constructed across both properties. The land is normally used for agricultural purposes, the plaintiffs claim the damage to them is $1,000 each.

Attorney for the plaintiffs is Kenneth M. Dunlop, Iowa City.

Ask $2,000 Damage From Two Firms; Claim Farms Hurt

Damage suits totalling $2,000 were filed in district court here yesterday by two Johnson county residents against the Rock Island railroad and the Wolfe-Jensen company of Chicago.

The two, E. Virgil Bowers and Cora Kile, both of Coralville, ask $1,000 each from the defendants.

They charge the two companies wrongfully used property in the construction and repair of a Rock Island railroad bridge.

According to the plaintiffs, verbal agreements were made with the two companies last fall in which the latter were to pay $100 to each of the plaintiffs. They also agreed to be off the land before frost went out of the ground in the spring.

Plaintiffs allege they never received the $100, and that the right-of-way was user longer than the agreed upon time. They added

A Stranger and His Surroundings

The fact that the Dixiecrats refer to themselves as the states' rights offshoot of the Democratic party indicates more clearly than one realizes just what their objective is.

Their objective is a regression to as firm a segregation policy as a deep-hating people can muster.

The south is aided in this drive by state laws which not only require segregation, but provide stiff penalties for those who foster mixing of races.

The Kentucky state attorney general's office ruled this week that Centre college at Danville cannot admit three students from Nigeria, West Africa. He said pictures of the students indicate they have dark skin. But his opinion was based on the state law and a state court of appeals ruling that says: "It is natural for members of the Negro and white races to be separated."

The ruling goes on to point out that "nature" originally segregated the races, so we'd better keep it that way. This appeal to the Hem, Shem and Jephrah phase of the world's progress actually belongs to a day that is far behind us.

But there are laws. There are state laws that insist the races should not eat together, travel together, or be educated together.

States rights candidate J. Strom Thurmond has in his speeches married the civil rights advocates and fair employment practices advocates with communism, Stalinism and whatever other loaded terms would serve to put the southern voters on the defensive.

He is fighting with all the emotionalism and hatred he can muster to unite the south to protect its enforced segregation.

The need then is for a type of concerted action to repeal the state laws which deny Constitutional freedoms.

In rare instances, after appeal to higher courts, the legal term of "equal facilities" has been interpreted by judges to allow Negro students into otherwise restricted white schools.

If we first get off with the old laws, then we can get on with the new.

Menace of 'Yellow Zoners'

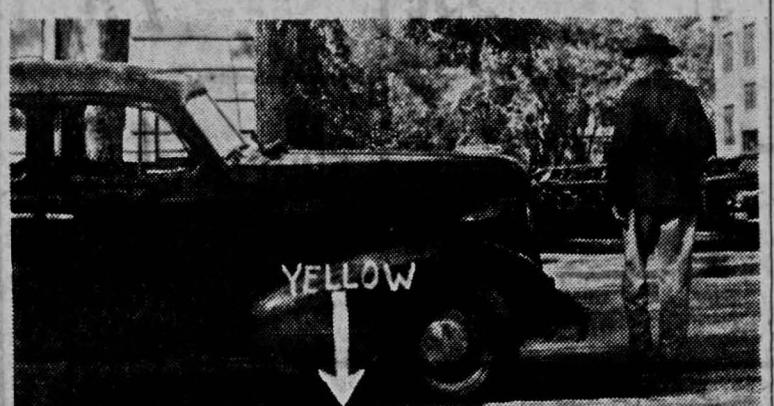

The latest menace to Iowa City drivers and pedestrians is the "yellow zoner."

The "yellow zoner" is a special breed of driver, who, when he can find no other parking place within two doors of his destination, wheels into the nearest yellow "No Parking" zone and cuts off his engine. The "yellow zoner" is also a refinement over the usual type of dangerous motorist. Anyone can run down a pedestrian or bush in a fender while his car is moving, but the "yellow zoner" creates a safety hazard when his car is standing still.

During the summer, the city repainted all of the yellow zones. In most cases, the length of the zones were cut to the minimum to provide additional parking space. Despite the fact that the increased number of students now owning automobiles has added to the city's acute parking problem, there is still no justification for parking in the yellow zones.

The dangerous type of "yellow zoner" is the driver who parks in the marked areas at the intersections. The areas are designed to give the approaching motorist and pedestrians a clear view of the oncoming traffic. Small children are especially handicapped for they must walk eight to ten feet off the curb in order to see around the hood of the "yellow zoner's" illegally parked car.

The extent of yellow zone parking has reached such proportions here in Iowa City that it would be impossible for the local police to arrest all violators without increasing the size of the police force. Only a "too late" accident, it seems, will bring the lesson home to some of Iowa City's "yellow zone" parkers.

AN ELDERLY PEDESTRIAN walks about eight feet off the curb to see around this motorist's illegally parked car. In this case, one might call the driver a "semi-Yellow Zoner" since only about two-thirds of his auto is in the yellow zone.

THE PLATFORMS

Proposals for Curing Inflation Vary Widely

REPUBLICANS

"The maintenance of Federal finances in a healthy condition and continuation of the efforts so well started by the Republicans in Congress to reduce the enormous burden of taxation in order to provide incentives for the creation of new industries and new jobs and to bring relief from inflation."

It is doubtful whether any party can hope to control fully the complicated facts of the national economy unless something on the order of a highly socialistic or communistic governmental control is established. But even these systems have serious faults that leave capitalism with many good points in its favor.

What any party can do, short of socialism, is to prop up the economy at weak points with items like farm support programs and to check its dangerous extremes by stopping credit expansion.

The present boom reputedly is in large measure due to the abnormal consumer demand for goods denied during the war when production was channeled into the manufacture of war necessities. Any party experiencing a bust, after gaining power in November, will bear the blame for it in spite of any efforts to prevent it.

Republican plans are still conservative in this respect. Like the Democrats they promise a long-range farm support plan but their principal charge against the Truman administration is the lack of a sound spending program. To gain this objective they will concentrate on reducing taxes and on a considerable realignment of the taxing structure.

The total amount of taxation is to be reduced sharply; provided, of course, that another war does not decide otherwise in spite of

Republican hopes of a "sound economy" lie greatly in complete

Conjecture is certainly part of analysis of political stands and when a plank in a political platform proposes legislation for rectifying present discrimination it should not be too far afield to speculate on the difficulties of such law-making and judicious enforcement.

Reader White's attitude seems to be that of a person who read only the section in which he was interested with the idea of finding out how he had been misrepresented. A Democrat or Republican with the same attitude may well take exception to the implied weakness of those parts stands on the civil rights issue and the deeper implication that civil rights to those parties may be a political means while they lose sight of the nobler ends.

While discussing the Progressive party plank on public ownership of certain industries, the writer equates industrial nationalism with socialism. If this were true, Turkey, where most industries are state owned is a socialist state. This is news to the U.S. state department.

I personally wish you had said "debatable partiality" instead of "profound stupidities."

TO THE EDITOR:

The Daily Iowan has been running a series of analyses of the major party platforms. While written by a "Research Staff," a number of debatable issues have been dealt with in a very partisan manner.

In the article on civil rights, the writer indicated disapproval of legislation outlawing discrimination. He stated that since the roots of discrimination are economic, a judge trying such a case would have to inquire into the economic roots of the discrimination.

This suggests that one is free to commit a crime if it can be proven that there was economic motivation. May I point out that while circumstances may be mitigating, a crime is still a crime, and most crimes are economically motivated.

While discussing the Progressive party plank on public ownership of certain industries, the writer equates industrial nationalism with socialism. If this were true, Turkey, where most industries are state owned is a socialist state. This is news to the U.S. state department.

May I suggest that The Daily Iowan could editorialize to the editorial column. Having feature articles signed might discourage some of the more profound stupidities.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT

Dullness in Sharp Reality

BY SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

The reason this has been such a dull election campaign is that the people do not expect anything good of the near future. Somewhere near half the population has to expect, and has to have reasonable ground for expecting, that something good may or will happen in order to make a hot campaign, a hard-fought, exciting campaign.

In the Roosevelt campaigns the issues were relief or not relief, jobs or not jobs, then, later, isolation or not-isolation, and the campaigns were really campaigns. One fought for the future.

It is, as a result, a sad, complex election. All the splendid emotions of just a few years ago, our feelings on behalf of establishing this as one world, and our feelings on behalf of improving our society by driving hard at steady, sensible reform, are now bottled up. And it is not that the people no longer want these things; the trouble goes deeper—they cannot seem to find a way to get these questions put on the agenda, to get them mentioned and included in the order of the day.

And it is customary, especially among Mr. Wallace's supporters, to explain all this on the basis of a sinister agreement between the major parties against peace and reform.

I could almost wish this were true; it would reduce our problems to a babyish simplicity. Instead, I find I have the truly terrible feeling that the thing is much worse than that, that our dislocations are quite real, that the bipartisan agreement, if there is one, is the result of our dislocation and the cause of it.

We cannot continue our reform movement during a jumping inflation any more than one can make a wild and somewhat drunken party come to order for the purpose of hearing a few well-chosen words on the subject of human happiness. The aims of our reform movement, complete employment and increase of purchasing power, have all been accomplished, in a distorted, leering way by the inflation itself; enough so to cripple reform, if not enough so to make us safe.

And in the foreign field, the point is that nobody in the world really knows whether peace is possible.

The position is unprecedented; there has never been this situation of a world divided, half into capitalist and half into Communist spheres, and there is no one who can truly and positively say whether the halves can make peace.

So the final sad word is that our problems are quite real, even if our candidates' speeches are not.

Our trouble goes so deep that our election itself is more a sign of it than answer to it. And it is only by realistically accepting these grim perspectives that we can make even a beginning toward wisdom and a solution.

DEMOCRATS

"The Republican 80th Congress is directly responsible for the existing and the ever increasing cost of living."

The Democratic platform promises a long-range farm support program.

Down-payment requirements on

PROGRESSIVES

"Monopoly's grip on the economy must be broken if democracy is to survive and economic planning becomes possible."

The Progressive cure for infla-

It is not to be denied that Bri-

the Attlee ministry came into power and that nationalized intends to preserve segments of the economy beyond their useful

dangerous in that they will not die

Progressive emphasis is on maintaining economically inde-

Social Work Is Prevention, Vasey Claims

DES MOINES (AP)—Professional education prepares an individual to understand the cause underlying a request for public assistance, Wayne Vasey, director of the new school of social work at the University of Iowa, said here last night.

Vasey spoke at the evening banquet of the three-day Iowa Welfare association conference.

Means Prevention

Positive social work, Vasey said, means prevention rather than mere treatment of social ills as they occur. He outlined the following four factors as vital to such a program:

1. Adequate services to meet problems. Such services include qualified personnel, decent offices, sufficient budget and "above all, a willingness to go beyond the basic minimum services required," working for better housing, slum clearance, adequate recreation, proper home surroundings.

2. Prevention, seeking to find conditions leading to the need of welfare agency service.

3. Long-term social research into basic difficulties underlying social problems, such as national migration which involves unrest and oftentimes, maladjustment.

4. Co-operation with other social sciences, such as sociology, political science and economics, and even the physical sciences, since the atomic scientists are trying to convert the new power to a constructive social purpose.

Work With Legislature

To put over such a program, Vasey emphasized, men and women of the professional field "must go into the world of activity, serving on community committees and working with the legislature."

The University of Iowa, he said, will require a two-year graduate curriculum, development of the right kind of faculty, and a field work program for its new school of social work.

"But possibly we can develop something superior here," he stated. "There will be no compromise with quality, but we will try to meet Iowa's needs."

Student Council Okays Straw Vote; SUI's Approval Needed

Plans for a campus straw vote cleared its next-to-the-last night when the Student council approved a report submitted by its straw vote committee chairman, Rod Galett, Hillcrest representative.

Now only university approval of the plans is needed. Walter R. Goetsch of the office of student affairs said last night Goetsch said he expected a detailed report on straw vote arrangements to be made to his office, where they will be given final university approval.

At the Student Council meeting in Old Capitol last night Galett proposed:

1. Oct. 28 as the date for the straw vote. He proposed balloting hours from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

2. Oct. 27 as the date for a big political rally at which the campus political groups, Young Republicans, Young Democrats and Students for Wallace, will climax their election campaigns. It will be held at 7:30 p.m. on the west approach to Old Capitol. Each political group will be given 15 minutes to use in whatever way it desires.

3. A ballot containing presidential, vice-presidential, U.S. senatorial and Iowa gubernatorial candidates.

4. Ballots of two colors. These would distinguish students of voting age from those too young to vote in the regular election, Nov. 2.

5. Student ID. cards as the identification needed to be eligible to vote.

6. Polling places at Currier hall, Quadrangle, Schaeffer hall, East hall and Iowa Union. The polls would be manned by representatives from the campus political groups.

If approved by the university, the straw vote will be sponsored by the Student Council.

This year's homecoming pep rally is "assuming the traditional pattern," Thomas Gray, South Quad representative, reported to the council last night.

The rally, to be sponsored by the Student council, will be held on the west approach to Old Capitol, Oct. 15.

Tentative plans call for talks by Max Kadesky of Dubuque, president of the I-club, and William Reilly of Des Moines, board member of the Iowa Alumni association, and faculty and Tailfeathers skits.

Name Hockenberg As UWF Delegate

The university chapter of United World Federalists last night named Harlan Hockenberg of Des Moines as its voting delegate to the national UWF general assembly in Minneapolis, Nov. 12-14.

The selection of Hockenberg was made at a UWF meeting in the YMCA rooms of Iowa Union. Other non-voting delegates may be sent to the assembly, UWF President Dave Campbell said after the meeting.

UWF members decided last night to conduct their membership drive on a housing unit basis. Plans for the drive were launched at a UWF meeting, Sept. 30.

The university housing units will be canvassed by UWF members, Campbell explained. Instruction sheets, to be prepared by the UWF executive committee, will be passed out to those doing the canvassing, he said. Definite dates for the membership drive have not been set.
