Thinks Board Won't Discuss Political Ban

But 'Closed' Question Can Be Reconsidered

The banning of political speakers from the campuses of state-owned schools will probably not be discussed during the current meeting here of the state board of education, Henry C. Shull, president of the board, said yesterday.

Shull indicated, however, that although the ban is a "closed issue" any member of the board may bring up the question at a time if he desires.

The board began its meeting yesterday in Old Capitol with President Virgil Hancher of State and the presidents and directors of four other state institutions.

They discussed financial requirements of Iowa's state-owned schools in connection with the budgetary statement to be presented to the next session of the Iowa state legislature.

The discussions will continue today.

President Hancher said he would prefer not to have the political ban issue come up at this time. He said the board would be too busy with its legislative asking to do anything about the question now.

Quick Action Saves Town from Disaster

WARREN, PA. (AP) — Baker Lowell McCann's quick action yesterday probably saved this town of 14,891, inhabitants from disaster.

At 2 a.m. McCann noticed the gas flames in his bread ovens had flickered out. Ten minutes later gas again hissed through the pipes—unlighted.

McCann reasoned many unattended gas appliances in the slumbering city might be pouring unburnt gas into homes and apartments. He didn't wait.

He called Fire Chief Charles Albaugh. Fire trucks, police cars and ambulances sped through the darkened streets, sirens screaming. A sound truck blared, "Check your gas. Check your gas."

Albaugh said the desperate cacophony which woke the population saved many lives. He said his men found about 200 gas-filled homes. Albaugh personally awakened "at least 50" groggy citizens.

No one was overcome. "I expected to find 50 or more dead," Albaugh declared. "McCann's prompt report undoubtedly saved many from gas asphyxiation."

The Manufacturers Light & Heat Co., serving the area, blamed the gas interruption on an air pocket in the lines.

Former Lieutenant Indicted for Treason

NEW YORK (UP) — A federal grand jury yesterday indicted a former U.S. air force lieutenant for treason, charging that he hitchhiked from India to Italy to surrender to the Nazis.

Martin James Monti, of Florissant, Mo., pleaded innocent to the 21 overt acts of treason charged in the indictment. If convicted he faces a minimum sentence of five years in jail and a $10,000 fine and a maximum sentence of death.

The indictment charged that Monti deserted his post at Karachi, India, in October, 1944, and hitchhiked by plane to Naples, Italy. There he stole a P-38 and flew to northern Italy where he surrendered himself and his plane to German forces, it charged.

When Monti volunteered to work for the Nazis, the indictment alleged, they took him to Berlin where he broadcast to American troops in Europe under the name of Martin Weithaupt.

Stop Sale of Spouse Tickets

The university athletic department yesterday stopped selling spouse tickets for the Homecoming game tomorrow.

Paul Breehler, director of athletics, said sales were stopped because athletic officials believed the student section, in which holders of spouse tickets are seated was filled.

He said 250 spouse tickets for the year and 300 individual wives' tickets for the Homecoming game had been sold in the student section. Officials, he said, expect about 95 percent of the student

Homecoming Pep Begins

'Beat Purdue' Rallies Offer Music, Color

By JEAN STRONG

A pep rally at 7:30 tonight on the west approach to Old Capitol opens the State University of Iowa's 37th annual Homecoming celebration.

Two 10-minute pre-pep rallies at 9:20 a.m. and 10:20 a.m. will also be held on the east side of Old Capitol to stir enthusiasm for the larger rally tonight.

A WSUI staff announcer will interview tomorrow's game captain, Dick Woodard, and a jazz section of Bill Meardon's band will help the Iowa cheerleaders create a "we're going to beat Purdue" atmosphere. Student Council is sponsoring these pre-pep rallies.

The event, climaxed when the Hawkeyes meet the Boilermakers at the stadium Saturday, actually started yesterday when two teams from Tailfeathers began selling Homecoming badges in Iowa City.

Sell 13,000 Badges
 An estimated 13,000 badges were sold on the first day of sales. Ken Mounce's Gold team was leading the assault on students and townspeople with a total sale of 7,000 badges. Joan Perry's black team trailed with 6,000.

Three large groups of students will converge on Old Capitol tonight for the pep rally. The men from Hillcrest and the Quadrangle, led by the Scottish Highlanders, will march in one body with fraternity men from the west side of the river.

Town Men will assemble at College street park and conduct young ladies from the sororities on the east side of Iowa City. Dubuque street fraternity men will escort Currier and sorority women to the rally. Impromptu bands will accompany the two east side groups.

The program for the rally includes two skits, music, cheering, short talks, stunts and group singing.

Evan Hultman, student council president, will be master of ceremonies. A student auxiliary homecoming committee, chaired by Tom Gray, planned the rally.

After SUI President Virgil M. Hancher addresses the group, members of the faculty will present a skit. Prof. Leo Sweeney will star in a professional role, and other professors and instructors participating are LeRoy Cowperthwaite, M. L. Huit, James Ludtke, Russell King, and Eugene Harlan.

Mark Meier, president of the Associated Students of Engineering will present an award to the winner of the design contest for the Homecoming monument which was erected yesterday on the west approach to Old Capitol.

Hawkins To Speak
 After a speech by Max Hawkins, field director of the alumni association, the Tailfeathers will perform another skit. Principles are Dick Davis, Reva Silverton, Connie Polasky, Joyce Bahr, Al Grady and Dean Crawford.

The Scottish Highlanders and cheerleaders will perform and Craven Shuttleworth, vice president of the I-Club, will speak.

The housing unit decorations will be judged early tonight and the winners announced in Saturday's issue of The Daily Iowan. Winners in the three groups — fraternities, sororities — (See HOMECOMING, Page 8)

Estes to Witness Homecoming Tilt

Johnny Estes will return to the Iowa stadium Saturday afternoon to view the Iowa-Purdue football game.

It will be a special homecoming for Johnny as his fellow Iowans celebrate the 37th annual Hawkeye Homecoming.

Estes was a member of the Iowa varsity last fall and was slated to move into a regular half-back position for 1948. But a freak accident on a basketball floor in Des Moines this summer has nearly paralyzed him from his waist down.

During the game Saturday Johnny will recline in a half-sitting position in an ambulance parked at the northwest corner of the stadium. Two doctors and a nurse will be at his side.

For the first few days following his severe spinal injury, the young athlete fought for his life. Gradual recover has been evidenced over the last few months and Johnny can now move his arms, ankles and toes slightly.

Estes, who lives in Des Moines, has been in University hospitals since late in July.

Queen Nancy Views Comic Dolphin Show

By CHARLES CARROLL

Pretty Nancy Koerber was crowned queen of the 26th annual Dolphin club water festival last night before a near-capacity of 2,800 persons at the fieldhouse.

Queen Nancy, A2 of Mason City, will be attending during her three-day reign by Connie Jewett, A1, Des Moines; Jean McCarl, A1, Iowa City; Margie Felter, A1, Van Meter, and Marcia McCreary, A1, Toledo.

The beauties, who viewed the swimming spectacle from a balcony overlooking the pool, watched the comic-loaded show staged before them.

Clowns flopped in the water, acrobats hurled themselves high in the air and precision swimmers glided gracefully across the pool, but the real thrill for the crowd came when the all-American medley relay team chipped more than three seconds off the 150-yard medley record.

The crack swimming team, composed of Duane Draves, Dick Keith and Erv Straub was clocked at 1:20.1, thus establishing an unofficial mark .03.1 under the existing record. The world mark is held by the San Francisco Olympic club which skimmed the 150-yard course in 1:23.2 in 1940.

Olympic Champ Wally Ris also displayed his swimming prowess which has earned him a score of swimming marks. Ris' demonstration was limited chiefly to churning around in the pool giving demonstrations of the varied types of swimmers.

The trampoline performance of Bruce Sidlinger and Kenny McKenna bordered on the sensational. The pair of gymnasts, labeled as the "Buckin' Broncs" bounced and somersaulted in the air causing the crowd to rise to its feet on more than one occasion.

The show, which is one of the four annual affairs staged by the Dolphins, was punctuated by frequent bursts of gunfire as Indians and cowboys sloshed around the side of the pool and sprangled in the water.

An authentic Indian ceremonial dance, involving 14 paddlers, capped the synchronized swimming section of the program.

A fire dive in which three high board performers plunged into the pool with uniforms ablaze ended the 13-act program.

Boilermakers' Spirit Boiling

It seems evident that the Iowa football team may be facing one of its most fired up opponents in years when Purdue's Boilermakers provide Iowans with Homecoming entertainment here tomorrow afternoon.

Witness below the two banner headlines from the Purdue Exponent, student newspaper, of last Tuesday and Wednesday.

These displays of "school spirit" were brought about after the Boilermakers lost their first three games of the season to Notre Dame, Northwestern and Michigan. Their early season opponents now rank second, third and fourth respectively, in this week's nationwide Associated Press poll.

The most recent drubbing handed Purdue was last Saturday when Michigan's Rose bowl champions rolled to a 40-0 victory.

The Purdue students went into action early this week, calling a pep rally Tuesday night with "Beat the team," and "Beat Iowa" chants.

The entire Purdue squad attended the rally, which featured speeches by Coach Stu Holcomb and Captain Phil O'Reilly, first string tackle.

Besides the headlines in the Boilermaker paper, several stories and columns told the students that their team's plight was not as bad as the three losses indicated.

Boxed at different spots throughout the paper were such quotes as: "Stu's Crew Over Iowa," "Hop the Hawks in '48," and "Beat Iowa."

Focus Attention On UN Neutrals

Back from the War 50 Years Late

ACKSONVILLE (UP)—George Woodland came back from the war yesterday singing the praises of Dewey. Adlai Dewey, that is.

Woodland knocked at his sister's door and said: "Well I'm back." The last time she had seen him was in June, 1898, when he joined the army and went to Cuba in the Spanish-American war.

Since then, Woodland explained, he has traveled in the Philippines, Sumatra, Canada, England and France. He said his "itchy feet" had kept him on the go for 50 years.

Political Pressure on Dewey as Showdown Nears

BY THE UNITED PRESS

President Truman hurled back Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's "underlying" charge yesterday with a savage attack on the GOP presidential nominee's position on atomic energy.

Dewey countered with a charge that the Truman administration is tired and confused. He asked the voters to let him put a firm hand on the tiller of government.

With only 18 days remaining before election day, the two major parties were pulling every string in an effort to sway the outcome.

The Democrats started a new get-out-the-vote drive, publishing a brochure showing how a mere handful of votes have won or lost past elections.

The Republicans called on their party's faithful to shell out another $1,500,000 to assure a GOP victory.

Replying indirectly to the New York governor's charge that his short-lived "mission to Moscow" was a "blunder," the President said Dewey himself "blundered" by bringing atomic energy into the presidential campaign.

Accusing Dewey of a "dangerous" lack of understanding of atomic power, Mr. Truman said it is too powerful a force to be handled on a "business as usual" as usual basis.

Dewey, speaking on the President's home grounds, said the present administration is "coming apart at the seams." It "scolds and complains," and "runs off in a dozen different directions at once," he said.

Taylor: Bi-partisans 'Renazify' Germany

GARY, IND. (UP)—Sen. Glen Taylor, Progressive party vice presidential candidate charged last night that the bi-partisan coalition is fostering "renazification" instead of denazification in Germany.

Speaking at a Progressive rally here, Taylor said "the cold war is being directed by the people who are personally responsible for helping Hitler in his ride to power."

"I maintain it is absolutely unrealistic to expect the Russians to cooperate with the very same people who so recently helped the Nazis, who are trying to force full diplomatic relations with Franco in Spain, and who are so instrumental in the freeing of former Nazi cartels and big shots," Taylor said.

"With the control of our government in the hands of Forrestal, Dulles, Draper and other Wall Street manipulators," he said, "I can see no basis for mutual agreements or any end to the cold war."

Taylor came to Gary after a tour through Henry A. Wallace's home state of Iowa. He will attend a series of meetings at Chicago today including one at the University of Chicago and will confer with Wallace about future campaign strategy.

No Dewey Charge To Face Engineer

LOUISVILLE, KY. (AP)—Louisville & Nashville railroad officials who declined to be quoted by name reported yesterday Gov. Thomas E. Dewey had requested that no disciplinary action be taken against engineer Lee Tindle.

Tindle was engineer of Dewey's special train when it backed toward a crowd the Republican presidential nominee was addressing Tuesday at Beaucoup, Ill. Tindle, an Evansville, Ind., resident, said there had been mist and smoke and he ran about eight or 10 feet past a water tower. He said he then began to back up slowly, giving the proper signals.

Small Nations To Try Again

Push Efforts to Uncover Solution to Berlin Crisis

PARIS (AP) — The security council's neutral nations last night pushed last-minute efforts to uncover a solution to the Berlin crisis acceptable to the east and west.

Council President Juan A. Bramuglia told newsmen he still thinks there is a chance the six neutrals he speaks for will find a solution of their own "just and acceptable" to Russia and the western powers.

Western delegates met for hours in secret session on the eve of renewed council debate on Berlin. Authoritative sources said they still were waiting for the neutrals to come through with a plan.

The Russians also were reported to be showing keen interest in off-the-floor maneuvering.

The council meets today at 8 a.m. Iowa time.

Bramuglia, Argentine foreign minister, admitted the Berlin question was right back where it started in the council with both sides maintaining "their known positions." But he insisted that with all the cards on the table, the neutrals — Argentina, Belgium, Canada, China, Syria and Columbia — now may come up with an answer.

Informed sources said the neutrals were expected to ask a series of questions at the council meeting in efforts to clear up some points in the western case. The answers they get may cement a resolution.

The United States, Britain and France have charged Russia with threatening world peace by the Berlin blockade and want the council to end it. Russia insists there is no blockade and the whole German problem should go before the four-power council of foreign ministers.

Andrej Y. Vishinsky, fiery Soviet deputy foreign minister, is boycotting council discussions but he attends the meetings and is expected to veto any resolution which goes against the Soviet point of view.

Bunche Tells UN Jews Negligent in Bernadotte's Death

PARIS (UP) — Dr. Ralph Bunche, acting mediator for Palestine, reported to the United Nations yesterday that negligence by Jewish authorities in Jerusalem made possible the assassination of Count Folke Bernadotte.

Appearing personally before the UN security council, Bunche said also that he has received no official information on the progress the Israeli government has made toward capturing the Stern gang, terrorists who murdered Bernadotte.

"In all frankness, I find the conclusion inescapable that there was in this instance negligence on the part of local authorities in Jerusalem," Bunche said.

The UN political committee, on which 58 nations are represented, will take up the Bernadotte report at morning and afternoon meetings today.

At the opening of the security council meeting Russia, the Ukraine and Syria were defeated in an attempt to force postponement of consideration of true violations.

Conservative Becomes Japan's Prime Minister

TOKYO (UP) — Higeru Yoshida, Japan's leading conservative, became prime minister yesterday and immediately began organizing his country's sixth post-war government.

Yoshida succeeded Hitoshi Ashida whose cabinet resigned Thursday after high government officials were named in a bribery scandal.

Grothus May Miss Sacroiliac Hampers Regular Guard; Woodard Also Doubtful

By BUCK TURNBULL
Sports Editor

The Homecoming picture darkened for University of Iowa football fans yesterday when it seemed apparent that the stellar Hawkeye line may miss the services of two of its most capable operatives.

Dr. Eddie Anderson said yesterday that Guard Joe Grothus, who injured his back in practice Monday, may not even see limited action against Purdue tomorrow.

Also on the doubtful list is Center Dick Woodard who injured his left ankle in the Ohio State game last Saturday.

"I think Woodard will be in better shape to play than Grothus," Dr. Eddie said last night. "However, you can't tell about some of these injuries. Some times they just disappear over night."

Grothus is suffering from an injured sacroiliac which snapped while he was moving out of the line on a practice play Monday.

Definitely out of tomorrow's game is Left Halfback Bob Longley, who injured his left knee in the fourth quarter of the Ohio State tilt. His position will be filled by Sophomore Jimmy Halliburton.

Despite the heavy injury list, Anderson put his charges through another rough scrimmage session yesterday afternoon against a freshman eleven running Purdue plays.

Although Woodard was favoring his ankle, he was used as a line-backer in the scrimmage. The rest of the defense included:

Bob Phillips and Tony Guzowski, ends; Don Winslow and Bill Kay, tackles; Earl Banks and Ray Carlson, who has returned after an injured knee forced him to miss the Indiana and Ohio State trips; guards; Woodard, center; Ron Headington, fullback line-backer; Jerry Paske and John Tedore, halfbacks, and Glenn Drahn, safety.

Fesler Says Buckeyes 'Murdered' Kay, Banks

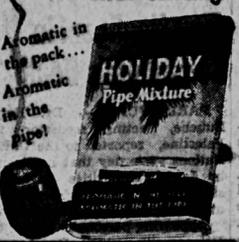

Ohio State Coach Wesley Fesler had some interesting comments to make at a press luncheon at Columbus Monday concerning the Buckeye loss to the Hawks Saturday, 14-7.

Iowa fans may find Paul Hornung's report in the Columbus Dispatch quite choice: "We didn't lose the game (to Iowa), we kicked it away," Hornung reported Fesler as saying. "We have no one to blame but ourselves. We didn't get blocked, we licked ourselves. It was just a lousy loss."

"We were much better than they were. I feel much better now, after looking at the movies, than I did Saturday. I thought then that it had been an even match, but we were much the better ball club. There was just no comparison."

Ref Abused, Quits Iowa State Game

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A ball referee made the yesterday by withdrawing his four remaining offic assignments involving Iowa college.

Ted O'Sullivan, well-known midwest whistle toter, a six days after the Iowa St. Kansas university game which Cyclone Coach Abeber said the Jayhawk football team did half the work "the officials did the other half." KU won 20 to 7.

In a letter to Reaves P executive secretary of the Seven conference, O'Sullivan this to say:

"I thought an official should withdraw only in an emergency that officials should receive respect and confidence of players and the coaches in this "relationship does not exist, sooner or later very unfortunate developments occur which prove embarrassing to everyone concerned."

The Cyclone coach said the officials in the game, O'Sullivan; John Waldorf, Umpire; Joe Weir, head linesman and Dick Pendleton, field judge, took abuse from the Kansas coaches.

He charged the officials heard this abuse and after that "the officiating breaks went Kansas' way. It was merely a case of a squeaking wheel getting the grease."

Leading West Liberty At U-High Homecoming

University high has the chance to dump West Liberty from the unbeaten list in the Eastern Iowa Hawkeye league this afternoon for U-high's homecoming.

West Liberty is currently running in a three-way tie for the loop lead with a two-nothing record. The U-high Blue Hawks have won two out of three in the conference.

The Blues lost last year to West Liberty, 27-14.

Game time is 3:30 p.m. at the university practice field.

he swings from the third base side of home plate.

John broke in with the Yankee organization as a pitcher and was later converted to an outfielder because of his punch at the plate. He likes to tell this pitching yarn.

It was one of those days when John was scattering a few hits among the opposition — some inside the park, and others outside — as he refers to it. While the Yanks were battling along about the sixth inning, manager Joe McCarthy leaned over to Catcher Bill Dickey and asked, "What's John got on the ball out there today?" Dickey retorted, "I couldn't tell you because I haven't caught a ball yet."

He advised every youth who thinks he has the ability to become a baseball player to give the game everything he's got, because it sure pays off when you hit the big time.

After Saturday, the Six-foot-five-inch Lindell will leave for Arcadia, Calif., where he lives now.

Survey Shows— Food Cost Drops Off

Food prices were on the down-grade in Iowa City grocery stores yesterday, reflecting recent wholesale price declines. The Daily Iowan market basket survey revealed.

The market basket index, which represents the amount a student family of three will spend this week for food, stood at $17.23.

This compares with an index of $17.57 last July 29, when the survey was temporarily discontinued. A year ago, the index was down to $16.54.

Butter, which is usually one of the first commodities to reflect wholesale price changes, registered the greatest drop, when yesterday's figures are compared to those of July 29.

Butter had melted to 14 cents below its July level and yesterday retailed at 71 cents, the exact position it held on the price scale a year ago.

With the exception of pork chops, all meat items in stores surveyed have dropped since July. Leading the way with a decline of 6 cents a pound each, "choice" round steak and first grade bacon were followed by a 4-cent drop on ground beef.

Pork chops were selling yesterday at an average price of 75 cents a pound. They were listed at the same level both last July and a year ago.

Pork chops had gone up, however, in most local stores since the July survey, but returned to the 75 cent listing following the recent general wholesale meat declines.

First grade bacon was the only meat item to sell lower yesterday than last year. It was 16 cents off its price level noted last Oct. 16.

Ground beef and "choice" round steak were both higher than a year ago, by 10 cents and 14 cents a pound, respectively.

Velveeta cheese skidded 20 cents below its price registered last July, but was still three cents higher than last October.

A sharp increase of 8 cents on one-pound cans of red sockeye salmon since July 29 marked one of the price gains noted yesterday. Grade "A" eggs were also up 8 cents a dozen.

Most other items remained fairly consistent with their July price listings.

Housewives can expect further price drops on food, according to the latest Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food index. Released Oct. 12, the index reported wholesale prices on food had dropped to the lowest point in 15 months.

All-Brahms Concert Will Begin Season For SUI Symphony

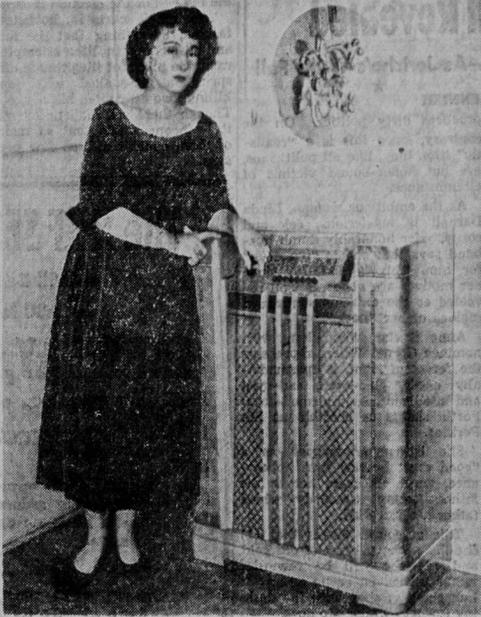

Prof. Philip Greeley Clapp, head of the music department, has selected an all-Brahms program for the first university symphony orchestra concert of the season, Wednesday at 8 p.m.

The concert will be presented in the main lounge of Iowa Union. Professor Clapp will conduct the 100 piece student orchestra.

Works by Brahms on the program will include: "Tragic Overture," Opus 81, "Variations on a Theme by Josef Haydn," Opus 56, "Symphony No. 1 in C Minor," and Opus 68, in four movements.

Tickets may be obtained at the main desk of Iowa Union starting Monday morning. There is no admission charge.

Dolled Up for Dancing

DANCING AT THE HOMECOMING PARTY TONIGHT will be Marie Christen, A4, Hammond, Ind. Soft brown velvet cut in simple classic lines will be the dress she wears. Its three-quarter length sleeves feature the new wide cuffs. Marie's pumps are suede with narrow gold braid. Her earrings are silver pendants from Mexico.

Currier Elects 20 Unit Chairmen, 60 Subsidiary Heads

Dorothy Jean Myers, president of Currier hall association, yesterday announced names of unit officers elected recently.

Each of the 20 units in Currier's self-government organization elected a unit chairman as well as social, activities, and judiciary chairmen, Miss Myers said.

Critic Sennish Sees—

Darnell Well Revealed

—As Jericho's Walls Fall

By BOB SENNISH
"The Walls of Jericho," currently running at the Englert, is another infuriating example of how the American public is being sold short by Hollywood.

By combining a host of first magnitude "stars," smart publicity, and prayers to Mammon in one grand endeavor, the high priests of the industry are lead to expect that the average filmgoer can be hocus-pocussed into the transports of star-gazing bliss.

But by continuing to hack out such things as the film in question, they are soon to be shown otherwise.

The title, to begin with, is a deliberately misleading come-on. It has absolutely no connection, allegorical or otherwise, with Joshua VI. "Jericho" is simply a small town in Kansas. It could as well have been dubbed "Beth-el" or "Gitzmstown."

The plot (if one is generous enough to call such hurly-burly a plot) centers around two friends who are torn from each other's bosom by politics, scandal, and (here's an original twist) an ambitious woman. It should be understood that neither of the pair practices dirty politics. On the contrary, since this is a "realistic" film, they, like all politicians, are but honor-bound victims of circumstance.

As the ambitious woman, Linda Darnell is mysterious, coy and corny. Her honorably dumb husband says that she is "too deep" for him. This is doubtful since her motives are about as well-revealed as the extreme southward regions of her "neck."

Anne Baxter, who, along with nominee Cornel Wilde, represents the forces of right, is spasmodically eager, glad-eyed, sad-eyed and intelligent. As the court-room Portia she is as credible as Ma Perkins.

She is rubber-stamped as a "good guy" by her first appearance, which uncovers her as the fathom-feeling somebody whose father has just died.

This of course means that (1) she has a heavy heart of old gold, and (2) she will be rewarded either in heaven or by getting to hug and kiss oboy with the dashing Cornel—which she does.

As a small town politician, Cornel makes a good Chopin. He has the devil in his eye but divinity in his soul. His platform is never quite revealed; but you can bet your last civil right that he will be fine, upstanding, and on the big end of the election returns. The movie carts in, huckster-fashion, everything that is foul and disgusting in life: attempted rape, the plight of illegitimate offspring, a gin-soaked wife, one killing, two attempted killings, etc. Through these realistic events, it is inconceivable that so many of them could befall so few persons.

It is in this extravagant waste that the movie becomes an ugly travesty on motion picture realism. Instead of exposing the intrinsic rottenness of small town politics, it projects only those things which are vulgar and obvious and does so by putting unconvincing characters through unconvincing paces.

An outrageous insult to his intelligence, the spectator will find more "realism" in any good and substantial Terry Toon.

McBride's Haul

By BILL MCBRIDE

The other day some one said "Clavalux" to me. Not knowing whether to take this as a compliment, insult or invitation, I decided to play it safe and retorted, "Clavalux," in a neutral tone of voice.

Later I discovered that a Clavalux is an instrument for projecting light. Immediately I perked up and started investigating. There is going to be a genuine Clavalux right here on the campus Oct. 18 and 19. In fact, a fellow is coming all the way from West Nyack, New York to show us how a Clavalux operates.

According to the meager information I first obtained it was revealed that the Clavalux projects abstract designs on a screen. I tended to pooh the idea, because I can make a fair shadow rabbit or an old bearded man with only my hands and table lamp.

Later I learned the process of projecting abstract designs in light and color is rapidly falling into the classification of the "eighth fine art" in some circles.

No one has mentioned what the other seven arts are, and I'll not put myself in an embarrassing position by asking for the information. It's best not to let it get out around here that there are seven arts in existence anyway.

I asked an authority what persons should be interested in this demonstration, and he said it should be of general interest to everyone, but advertising, psychology, art or drama students should certainly see it.

He assured me that it would be a highly entertaining performance and lecture. Not only that... it's free... they're handing out tickets at the Union desk.

For three consecutive mornings Jeanne has told me of a strange dream which insists upon repeating itself. This is where I miss having a dream consultant somewhere on our staff.

Dreams come in two different classifications: (a) the kind that are used simply as conversation starters and (b) those which really mean something.

Since this dream of Jeanne's is recurrent it must mean something... besides, we are well enough acquainted by this time that we don't need conversation starters at 7 a.m. In point of fact, conversation itself is not needed at that hour.

In her dream, Jeanne sees herself walking down Washington street. Suddenly her feet hurt. The pain is so unbearable she can't stand it another moment. She stops and takes off her shoes.

The next scene finds her in a department store looking for the shoe department. She never finds it. People snicker and point to her bare feet. She is embarrassed, and her feet still hurt. End of dream... Cut!

Remembering an article on dreams I had seen in a popular monthly magazine not so long ago, I sought out said article in an earnest effort to analyze.

The article said dreams where the dreamer sees him or herself in a public place fully unclothed is symbolic of deep anxiety. It mentioned nothing about only bare feet, so it doesn't seem that could be symbolic of even a smidgeon of anxiety.

The next solution suggested by the article was to be gained by "thinking of your dream as a memo written by yourself, to yourself and about yourself."

That confused the issue so badly that I almost gave up entirely. Jeanne told me she never writes memos to herself and if she did I wouldn't be allowed to read them anyway. I dropped the memo technique like a hot clavalux.

What I believe to be the solution was finally found under the heading, "Dreams—Positive and Negative."

A Positive dream is one which actually forecasts what will happen in the future. A Negative dream forecasts just the opposite of what will occur.

At this point the reasoning becomes extremely difficult to follow, but if I could stick with it, you can too.

If Jeanne's dream had been of the Negative type, it would have meant that she will find the shoe department and purchase a pair of shoes. Our bank balance makes it necessary to discard that interpretation.

Therefore, the dream must have been Positive, and from now until the first of next month I'm keeping my eyes open for any indication of shoe removing on Washington street.

School for Handicapped Opens

A dozen new students were enrolled on this campus this week. A little younger than most students at SU, these students will range in age from three to ten.

The children we refer to enrolled in the state hospital-school for severely handicapped children which opened Wednesday in a wing of Westawn nurses' dormitory.

The last session of the Iowa legislature appropriated $500,000 for the erection of a new building to house the training school for these crippled youngsters. It also voted a total of $59,000 a year to be used as operating expenses for the institution.

Twelve children are to be enrolled in the beginning session. The maximum enrollment has been set at 20, although there are more than 100 applicants. Children as young as three years old will be admitted.

The school works primarily with "spastics"; that is, those who are unable to walk, talk, or pick up objects although they are mentally sound. Spastic paralysis is often the result of an injury to the brain at the time of birth.

Children who are severely handicapped as the result of polio, auto accidents, and certain other neurological difficulties are also eligible for enrollment. The training period may extend over several years, and children will be kept in the school so long as it is evident that they are benefiting from the treatment.

The purpose of the school is two-fold: Besides training this limited number of children so that they will become reasonably independent as they mature, the school will also be training individuals to go out

'Why I Am a Progressive ...' Party Sees Urgency of Social Problems'

(This is the last of three articles by representatives of the three major political parties telling why they have chosen their party and its candidates.)

By JAMES F. BECKER
Supporter, Progressive Party
"I deplore any confession of an abdication of our ability to think"—Henry Wallace, Iowa City, May, 1948.

Leaving myself open to accusations of undue devotion to His Master's Voice, I believe, nevertheless, that Wallace's words hold the key to my decision to vote for him in the November elections.

In my conviction (you may call it "naivete") that the Progressive party movement is essentially right and deserving of the support of all progressives, there is also the belief that the continued application of thought by all voters will bring more and more people to the support of that movement.

This doesn't mean that only my interpretation of past events can lead to the "right" answer to the question, "Whom shall I support in the coming elections?"

For there are others who support Wallace with far different motives than mine, and with far different interpretations of the historical forces that have brought us to these crucial times.

The variations in motives and beliefs within the party are not a myth, despite the insistence of our opponents that Third party decisions and policy are "made in Moscow."

The broad outlines of what I believe are also held to be true by many in the Third party who are non-Communist, non-Marxian and unwilling to submit to the dogma of political left, right or center—or to that peculiar brand of social reformism found today among "liberals" still clinging to the Democratic party.

First of all, this writer must vote for Wallace as a matter of principle: Dewey and Truman are unacceptable. Thomas is doctrinaire. Wallace and party match my personal convictions most closely. Therefore, my vote must be for Wallace, regardless of any unlikelihood of his winning the election.

This brings us to the fallacy of the "wasted" vote.

This argument hinges on the belief of some that the Democratic party is the least of the evils; that a Democratic victory will give the body blow to reactionary Republicanism and give the "non-Communist left" a breather in which to marshal their forces for another battle another day.

But these Democratic liberals leave several important elements out of the picture. They have to demonstrate, with the evidence at hand, that election of the Democrats to office will mean slowing the present mad course to war and the accompanying disintegration of our society.

The record of Harry Truman and the Democrats is at hand for all to observe. It is a story of unswerving devotion to a bipartisan foreign policy with power politics as its corner stone, shored up by force, violence and seven-come-eleven guesses of the military and big business.

In the past two years we have witnessed a low comedy entitled, "The Flight of Reason." How much closer can we come to war without engaging in the ultimate tragedy?

These loyal Democrats say, "Just give us a Democratic congress and president, and all will be well." But what does the record show?

Among other things, it shows that 106 Democrats voted to override Truman's veto on the Taft-Hartley law. It shows that 94

Democrats voted with the Republicans to give the states control of oil-rich tidelands; 101 Democrats voted with the Republicans to remove thousands of people from social-security benefits. The story is long and dismal.

And what of Truman? His appointees each and all smack of brass and bullion. There is ECA's Paul Hoffman, formerly of the Studebaker corp.; there is James Forrestal of Dillon-Reed, investment bankers. There was the unsavory demotion of Harold Ickes.

Most important, there has been the saturation of the state department with the military man and mind, who seems determined to rely on arms and gold as his primary tools in the search for peace.

In the two years since they have lost their leader, the Democrats under Truman have wandered down the same primrose path trailing only slightly to the left and rear of the Republicans.

There is little evidence at hand to indicate that the election of that once fine party would be anything but a tragedy almost equal to a Republican regime.

There is still another point overlooked by those who scream "wasted vote" at the Wallace supporters.

In this area, the tremendous advance of technology, spurred on by two wars in 30 years, has accentuated both the depth and intensity of social problems.

With an atomic age and atomic war just around the corner, the social fabric must be changed quickly and surely if there is to be peace.

Of course, the Third party realizes there can be no successful new society that does not evolve from the material of old institutions. It also realizes that the change must be more rapid than ever before; that all the efforts exerted by the combination of man and reason will be barely equal to the task that faces a world seeking peace.

It is the time element that must be beaten in this age of tremendously magnified social problems. The Third party is the only party that recognizes this fact; that allows for this urgency in its national platform.

The end sought by the Third party is a society which utilizes the reason and morality that must be the arbiters of social decisions.

There are two other things to be said here concerning (a) the Communists in the Progressive party, and (b) the lack of Third party support from organized labor.

What is said about the Third party now may not be true in the future. The infiltration of Communists is a threat, as it will always be a threat to any party embarking on a worthwhile program of social reform.

To throw up one's hands on that account is to toss hope out of the window—the hope of ever steering our society into peaceful, prosperous and non-authoritarian channels.

Historically, the support of organized labor for reform movements has come, at least in western democracies, only after long and tedious effort.

The great English socialist, Sidney Webb, writing in 1893, describes a situation that has a lesson for us today:

"Whether the Independent Labor party is destined to become one of the leading political forces in the state must still be reckoned as uncertain. The great national trade unions still stand aloof from its ranks, and are at this moment hesitating whether they shall not take a hand in the parliamentary game."

The lesson is this: As the his-

Cold War Hiking Aid Needs

WASHINGTON (UP)—Mounting east-west tension may require the next congress to act on a record $8-billion foreign aid program, it was disclosed yesterday.

A United Press survey of key government departments revealed that requests being considered for foreign assistance next year will place greater emphasis on military aid for non-Communist nations in western Europe. In addition increased economic and military help for the far east is deemed certain.

The new estimate compares with just under $7-billion authorized by the 80th congress for spending abroad by June 30, 1949.

Officials said budget requests now being prepared reflect the critical status of the cold war and the interest of the United States in bulwarking free nations against communism. Revisions may be made either way by next January, depending on the trend of east-west relations, progress of present reconstruction projects, and world crops, it was said.

Whose Country?

The state board of education is meeting here. At this meeting there is a possibility they will settle the problem of whether or not political speakers will use university facilities.

We would like to send the state board our greetings—like to welcome them here on behalf of the students. We hope you enjoy the Homecoming festivities; hope you have a pleasant meeting and hope you make a definite settlement on the political ban issue.

Who is this welcoming you? These are the students at SU—here's a man with two children and he's enrolled here. There's another chap with a Silver Star he picked up for action in Europe; another with plenty of missions with the AAF, and there a marine officer.

There's a girl working for a degree while she keeps house for her husband and their child. Here's a man who will enter law practice next year in an Iowa law office. Over there you'll see a chap who worked at the Los Alamos project—he's a student here.

There you have a man who cast an absentee ballot in 1944 from Guadalcanal; and that fellow was on Bougainville then. They'd been in the Pacific for two years when they voted for the first time. Some of the guys with them couldn't vote yet. That was a long way from home, but they voted. They'll vote again this year.

We don't say that the State University of Iowa is unique. The other schools in the state have the same representation in their enrollments.

But these are the people who don't feel good about the much-kicked-about ban on political speakers. These are the people being trained to step into the nation's jobs next year, the next and so on until they pass their jobs on.

These people are interested in more than a man named Harry Truman, a man named Henry Wallace and a man named Thomas E. Dewey. They are interested, and as far as is possible enthusiastic, about a political campaign which belongs to them — and therefore it is their future too.

One of the big cries this year is against political complacency over the entire nation. One of the finest things being done about this is a movement—exemplified here by the League of Women Voters—to get people out to vote with an interest in their national, state and local governments.

The interest shown by campus groups over the nation—candidates have spoken in many campus facilities—is a healthy indication that the men who are put into office go there with the knowledge and understanding of the nation's youth. The youth will receive the results of such men's work. They must know the men who direct their nation.

Do You Drive Dogs Crazy?

World crises, election-time feuds, school worries... nuts! The pace is too maddening these days. Let's tag along with the nation's veterinarians and relax in the serene world of the animal kingdom.

Our first stop is in Spokane, Wash., where the Inland Empire Veterinarians' association is meeting. Any ordinary association, league, board or committee would send out formal notices to the press advertising its meeting.

Not the Inland Empire vets; they were too smart. But some reporter representing a fast-paced newspaper which went out to several thousand scurrying Americans got wind of the meeting and button-holed one of the members.

"I don't know what you could say about our organization," the veterinarian said with a shrug. But the reporter had to have his story. "Who's your president?" "We have none." "Your secretary?" "No secretary either." "Officers?" "No officers."

"Well do you have a speaker scheduled?" "We have no speakers, no regular meeting dates, no officers, no dues and no axe to grind. We just like to get together and talk."

The reporter may have been sentenced to his editor's doghouse, but we are frankly happy. It's comforting to know that somewhere in the fast-surging world there is a group that just doesn't give a hoot, that just likes to get together and talk.

No axes, no tempers, no ulcers... just talk. But just when we were thinking mankind had a ray of hope, our attention was shifted to a meeting of the Southern Veterinary Medicine association in Richmond, Va.

A veterinarian posed this question: "Does your dog bite people? If he does, you should see a psychiatrist because you may be driving him wacky."

The doctor went on to explain that a dog's temperament often reflects the inner disturbances of his master. If a pet is neurotic, it could be because his master had slipped his cable.

Poor mankind! Not only do we fly around insisting on press publicity, axes to grind and the like, we have to drive innocent pets crazy. Where do we go from here?

into the state to work with the many other severely handicapped children who cannot be admitted directly to the Iowa City institution because of its limited capacity.

It is hoped that through the training they receive these severely handicapped children will learn not only to coordinate their leg and arm muscles, but will also become more normally adjusted to their surroundings so that they can grow up with a maximum of confidence and usefulness.

The State of Iowa is to be commended for their efforts in trying to help crippled children. This is the first step in a program which should expand to meet the mental and physical needs of every severely handicapped child in this area.

Italy's Communist Labor Chief Threatens Strike

ROME (AP)—Italy's Communist labor chief, Giuseppe Di Vittorio, yesterday threatened the nation with a 7-million-man general strike unless the government satisfies demands of striking state workers.

More than 1-million government employees, considered a center or right-of-center white collar class, were called out yesterday for one to nine hours to support their demands for higher wages and other benefits.

More to Be Learned Than the Three R's Mrs. Laverne Holle, Darryl Newton, Iowa Falls, and Loretta Foster, Muscatine.

Woman — The Unfaithful Sex

Detective Who's Trained Women for 40 Years Wouldn't Trust Them Out of His Sight

By CLAIRE COX

NEW YORK (UP)—S. Alexander Cohen, who has earned a living for 40 years chasing other men's wives, has decided women are much more unfaithful than men.

He said he wouldn't trust the average female out of his sight. Cohen is chief of detectives of the Supreme Detective Agency, which specializes in catching wayward wives and husbands. He said most of the 10,000 women he has "trapped" were victims of too much money and too much time in which to spend it.

From his keyhole view of matrimony, he has concluded that about the best way to keep women from developing a roving eye is to make sure they are so busy at home they don't have time to think about the possibilities of things beyond the hearthside.

Husbands, Too

Cohen seeks out errant husbands, too, but most of the time he trails middle-aged women. He has surprised women by climbing fire escapes, peeking through transoms with periscopes, and even smoking them out with lighted newspapers stuck under doors.

As a man who once got socked on the jaw by actress Gloria Swanson when he tried to serve her a subpoena, Cohen doesn't think much of the allegedly weaker sex. "Give 'em an inch and they'll take 10,000 miles," said Cohen, who has travelled to London, Bermuda and all points west in search of roving wives.

Change Names

"Most of the women change their names and their hair do when they leave town," he said. "They get new social security cards. But they leave a trail a mile wide behind them. In the winter they go south with the birds and the millionaires. In the summer they go to resorts. "The husbands who leave home usually stay in the city and keep their jobs. They don't change their names and usually are much easier to find."

He locates most of the runaway women through tips. Then he determines whether she has a boy friend and brings the bad news to the old man back home.

Middle-Aged

Most of the cases involve middle-aged couples who have been married a long time, he said. One he found in Florida got homesick for her family after two years and came back to a forgiving husband. "I can't say men don't stray, but most of the women I've had dealings with are cheating cheaters," Cohen said. "They cheat on both their husbands and sweethearts. "But I can't say I haven't known any good women. My mother was a good woman—and then there's my wife."

'Marshall Plan Is Working,' Dr. Dunnington Tells Rotary

The Marshall plan is working and will work in the future, Dr. L. L. Dunnington, recently returned from Europe, told Rotary club members yesterday.

Dunnington, First Methodist church minister, said there are many "loose rivets" in Russia's iron curtain. In Czechoslovakia the basic philosophy of the Communists is falling apart.

Russia has lost much ground, Dunnington said, since she imposed the Berlin blockade. If the United States remains firm with Russia, stays in Berlin and does not appease Soviet demands, sooner or later Russia will have to raise the iron curtain.

Then the two leading powers of the world can bring about peaceful settlement of international problems, he said.

Dunnington believes war is not necessary if the United States stands fast, is patient and continues to share her bountiful resources with the war torn countries of Europe.

Speaking on Czechoslovakia, Dunnington described the country as "tired and unhappy." After years of Nazi suppression and war the Czech people were looking forward to peace. Peace brought the Communists and a new kind of suppression. The few leaders who have tried to restore some kind of self respect to the country have been disposed of in one way or the other.

Dunnington said we are living in some of the world's most challenging days. The United States is in position to play the most important role of her career because everything the United States does has an important effect on the world.

Truck Victim's Dad Is Awarded $16,000

A verdict for the plaintiff in the amount of $16,466.32 was returned at noon yesterday in the case of Edward J. Dvorsky against Warren Harding Johnson and the Farmer's Cooperative Elevator company, Solon, in Johnson county district court.

After an all-night session, Charles Keefe, jury foreman, Penn township, announced the verdict.

Dvorsky had filed a $31,400 damage suit against the defendants after a truck belonging to the elevator company and driven by Johnson, an employee, struck Dvorsky's son, Elwood, just north of Solon last Jan. 26. The rear-view mirror protruding from the truck hit the Dvorsky boy as he was walking along the shoulder of Highway 218, and killed him almost instantly.

Will J. Hayek was attorney for the plaintiff and Ries, Dutcher and Osmundson represented the defendants.

DUNNINGTON TO SPEAK

Dr. L. L. Dunnington, First Methodist church minister, will speak at the regular meeting of the Masonic Friday noon luncheon club today at the Masonic temple.

Law School Proctors Stay

The proctor system will continue to be used by the SUI college of law in their examinations. Law students voted Wednesday and yesterday on whether to keep their proctor system or adopt the honor system for their exams. The final vote was: proctor system: 269; honor system 86.

The law faculty had previously decided to let the students decide by ballot whether they would begin an honor system next semester or keep the old proctor system.

Larew Company in Auto Damage Suit

Charles Beuter, Solon, filed a $515.85 damage suit against the Larew company, Iowa City, and Telford Larew, the proprietor, yesterday in Johnson county district court.

Beuter claimed a car belonging to the defendants and driven by an employe struck his car last March 31 at an intersection in Solon.

The plaintiff claimed damages to the car were $165.85; damages for loss of use of the car $100, and personal damages for light injuries $250.

Hospital Admits 2 New Polio Patients

Two new polio patients and three discharges brought the total number of active cases at University hospitals yesterday to 23.

The new patients are Boyd Boyles, 18, Burlington, admitted Oct. 4 in "good" condition and David Springman, 14, Columbus Junction, admitted Oct. 8 in "good" condition.

Discharged from University hospitals were Jo Crooks, 9, Dougherty, admitted Sept. 29; Barbara Crooks, 3, Dougherty, admitted Sept. 30; and Jerry Younge, 18 months, Thornton.

Chest Drive Falls Short; Add Time

Contributions of over $300 from local schools helped lift the Community Chest fund to $8,195 yesterday, Mrs. J. L. Records, permanent secretary, said.

A total of $1,174 was reported to Community Chest headquarters yesterday.

Although the current drive is scheduled to end Saturday, Mrs. Records said it would be continued "indefinitely" until the goal of $19,732.76 is raised.

Purdue-Type Football; Faculty Style

SEVERAL MEMBERS OF THE PURDUE FOOTBALL TEAM were caught practicing in Maebride auditorium late yesterday by a Daily Iowan photographer. Closer inspection revealed that the men are really members of the university faculty practicing the skit "Purdue Football Practice" which they will present at the pep rally tonight, 7:30 p.m., on the west approach to Old Capitol. Prof. Leo Sweeney portrays the Purdue coach, Stu Holcomb. Other 'stars' (left to right) are Professors Frank Sills, (Szulborski), Russell King (Adams), Eugene Harlan (DeMoss), and M. L. Huit (Carnaghi).

Homecoming—

ties and dormitories — will be awarded traveling cups.

Across the river after the pep rally the Dolphin show, "The Dude Ranch," goes into its second night at the fieldhouse, beginning at 8:15 p.m.

At the Iowa Union the all-university dancing party, the Triangle open house for former university men and a University club reception for women will be held after the rally.

All tickets for the dance, for which Billy Bishop will provide the music, were sold by yesterday, according to Union Board, sponsors of the event.

Numerous breakfasts, luncheon meetings and "open houses" and the Iowa-Purdue game are set for Saturday.

About 240 national and state officials will be guests of the university for Homecoming, chairman Louis C. Zopf, said yesterday. Heading the list of Iowa officials is Gov. Robert D. Blue.

Complimentary tickets for the game and for the luncheon for official guests may be secured in the Iowa Union lobby between 9 and 12 Saturday morning. The luncheon will be in the river room of the Iowa Union at 11:15 a.m.

A parking space for official guest cars will be reserved on the tennis court north of the fieldhouse, Bruce E. Mahan, Homecoming committee member said.

Two special trains will help bring the thousands of Homecoming football fans here.

Plan Talks About Teaching Opportunities

Opportunities in teaching will be discussed with seniors and graduate students in 221A Shaeffer hall at 4:30 p.m. Oct. 20 and 21 respectively, Frances Camp, director of the educational placement office, announced yesterday.

The meetings are open to all senior and graduate students interested in teaching positions for Feb., 1949, or 1949-50. It is especially important that persons available for teaching in February attend, Miss Camp said.

The educational placement office is a bureau of service to aid SUI students seeking teaching positions.

Special emphasis will be given to a detailed explanation of registration procedures and the university's facilities for job-finding.
