SUI Budget Delayed; 4 Faculty Posts Filled

Approval of SUI's budget for the two-year period beginning July 1, 1949, has been delayed until early next month, a state board of education member said yesterday.

This action was taken by the board in its meeting with President Hancher and other officials of state-owned schools in Old Capitol yesterday.

Consideration of the Iowa State college budget, was also postponed until later.

The board approved the budget proposals of three other state institutions. They were the school for the blind, Vinton; the school for the deaf, Council Bluffs, and the tuberculosis sanatorium at Okdale.

Amounts of the budgets were not made public.

The board also accepted four appointments to the university faculty and two resignations.

Hubert Creekmore was appointed visiting lecturer in the department of English. Creekmore, who has had four volumes of poetry and one novel published, will have another novel published this fall.

He received a master of arts degree from Columbia university and did graduate work at Yale. He was formerly an editor for a New York publishing house and writes criticisms for the New York Times book section.

Dr. Kenneth D. Raak was appointed instructor in operative dentistry and dental anatomy. A graduate of SUI's school of dentistry in 1944, he practiced one year at Ames and one year at Storm Lake.

Appointed visiting professor in the department of art was Eugene Ludins, Woodstock, New York. Ludins is president of the Woodstock artists' league. His wife, professionally known as Hannah Small, is a sculptor.

Bernard Stern was appointed an assistant in the school of journalism news workshop courses and in the department of publications. He formerly worked for The Associated Press and for three years was a staff member of the Philadelphia Record. He graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1945.

The previously announced resignation of Dr. Earl J. McGrath was accepted by the board. McGrath, dean of the SUI liberal arts college, has accepted a professorship of higher education at the University of Chicago.

Also accepted was the resignation of Dr. J. V. Blackman, formerly assistant professor of operative dentistry and dental anatomy. Blackman is returning to U. S. army service.

Interim Committee Approves Contracts

Three contracts totaling $858,485 for the erection of a new electrical engineering building at Iowa State college at Ames were approved yesterday by the state legislative interim committee.

Meeting in Old Capitol, the board passed approval on contracts calling for general construction, plumbing and heating and electrical work in connection with the proposed building.

Others Get Money
The committee also approved an emergency allocation of $206,000 for use by six state institutions. This included the Anamosa men's reformatory, $15,000; the Davenport soldier's orphans home, $50,000; the Fort Madison state penitentiary, $90,000; the Marshalltown soldiers' home, $30,000; the Rockwell City women's reformatory, $6,500 and the Toledo state juvenile home, $14,500.

Blame High Cost
The high costs of operating the institutions, particularly salaries, were reasons given by the board for the need for financial help.

The other eight of the 14 state institutions under the board's jurisdiction have sufficient funds.

Leave Radios Home Or — Check at Gate

Portable radios at Big Nine football games have been banned by a conference ruling as a nuisance to other spectators. Athletic Director Paul W. Brechler announced yesterday that all radios brought to the game will be required to be checked at the gate.

Vishinsky Refuses To 'Swallow Bait'; Rejects Compromise

PARIS (AP) — Andrei Y. Vishinsky yesterday broke Russia's silence in the security council's Berlin debate — but only to slam the door in the face of six neutral countries pressing for an east-west compromise.

Rising dramatically in a tense council meeting, Vishinsky accused the neutrals of maneuvering to trap Russia into taking part in the debate by inviting him to answer questions. "It is naive to believe that the Soviet Union will swallow this bait," he said. "No, gentlemen, we will not."

Vishinsky repeated the Russian argument that the council had no business discussing Berlin. Then he smiled at his aides, sat down and resumed doodling — his principal pastime during the verbal boycott.

The neutral delegates bristled. Council President Juan A. Bramugue of Argentina tossed aside diplomatic niceties and with clenched fists told Vishinsky that he could not accuse the neutrals of double-dealing and "devious motives."

Vishinsky fidgeted. Later he said he was not apologizing but had not meant to reflect on the character of any delegate.

After the bitter exchanges, the council adjourned until next Tuesday with no positive indication of what will happen. The upshot of yesterday's meeting is that the east and the west are as far apart as ever on the Berlin case with each side sticking to old positions.

Elsewhere in the UN, Dr. Ralph Bunche, interim UN mediator in Palestine, said the time is ripe for a settlement in the Holy Land and urged the UN to guide the Jews and Arabs toward peace.

The committee set no date for resuming the discussions but decided to renew atomic energy debate on Monday.

Hang 10 Minor Nazis

LANDSBERG, GERMANY (UP) — Ten minor Nazis went to their deaths on Landsberg prison's gallows yesterday. Seven were hanged for murdering U.S. fliers and three for concentration camp atrocities.

Meeting in Old Capitol, the board passed approval on contracts calling for general construction, plumbing and heating and electrical work in connection with the proposed building.

Large Crowd at Pep Rally

Rain Fails to Dampen Spirit

By JEAN STRONG
The weatherman entered the Homecoming picture last night with a promise of light showers for today.

Light showers and cooler weather probably won't discourage the estimated 50,000 persons on hand to witness the Iowa-Purdue game at the stadium, however.

Rain began falling during the pep rally on the west approach to Old Capitol last night but only a few of the 3,000 Iowa fans scurried away.

Most of the fans stayed on to hear speeches and skits punctuated by firecrackers, whistle blasts and cheers. The Scottish Highlanders and the University band furnished the music.

Alva A. Evans, senior chemical engineering student, Long Beach, Calif., received a $10 check for the winning design in the Homecoming monument contest.

The monument, surrounded by the pep rally crowd, was identical to the model submitted by Evans, he said. Only the Herky cutouts were not on the original.

One-hundred seventy-five man hours contributed by 35 engineering students went into constructing the monument. Brunt of the work was borne by M. E. Nelson, E4, Harland Hartmann, E4; Harold Grunsky, E4, and Phillip Moorehead, E4, Evans said.

Total Homecoming badge sales at 8 p.m. yesterday were 14,200. With yesterday's sales lagging at 1,200, Tailfeathers renewed their assault on students, townspeople and guests last night after the rally.

Ken Mounce's Gold team was still leading the contest with 7,400 badges sold, while Joan Perry's Black team had sold 6,800. The goal is 33,000.

At least a symbol of the Homecoming spirit penetrated to many other points in the United States. Uncle Sam's mail carried badges to New York, Arkansas, Kansas, Texas, Washington, Wisconsin, Nebraska and many points in Iowa to alumni who sent dimes and requests for the badges.

They couldn't attend the celebration but they wanted the badges for their collections.

In other phases of the Homecoming celebration, the traveling trophies for housing decorated by Evans, he said. Only the

SUI Alumni, Now Traer District Judge, Boasts 37-Year Homecoming Record

The homecomingest alum of them all—that's Judge B. F. Thomas of Traer.

As near as can be determined witnessed all of Iowa's Homecoming games. With a record like that he's probably the king of Iowa Homecomings.

Settling back in a chair at the Triangle Club rooms at the Iowa Union last night Judge Thomas reminisced a bit about the old days.

"I was following football at Iowa before they even had a fence around the field," he said. "There wasn't even such a thing as a kick-off in those days."

Thomas has seen just about every Iowa game since 1907. "My wife and I usually come down for the plays, too," he said. "We had five sons that went to school here so naturally we've always been very interested."

Two of the Thomas sons graduated in law at SUI; one received his doctor's degree in geology, another got his doctor's in chemistry and the fifth, a journalism student, died before graduating.

Thomas received his LLD degree from Iowa in 1900. He practiced law until 1941 when he took the bench for the 17th district court.

"I didn't amount to a darn when I was in school," Thomas smiled. Further questioning disclosed he was a sports writer and later co-editor of the SUI Quill, The Daily Iowan's predecessor.

Scores Bull's Eye In Farewell Prank

HOMER, N. Y. (AP)—The army can count on Clarence Strauf's shooting ability.

The 19-year-old youth, state police reported, demonstrated his excellent aim Thursday in the following manner:
Strauf was walking along when he saw his neighbor, Harold Hicks, 38, bending over while repairing the roof of his house.
Strauf went into Hick's house, borrowed an air rifle and scored a bull's eye.
Hicks obtained a warrant charging disorderly conduct. Strauf, who is scheduled to join the army, was fined $10 by Justice of the Peace Roy J. McMaster.

Hawks, Purdue Injury-Ridden; Dopesters Favor Boilermakers

By BUCK TURNBULL
Sports Editor

Two Big Nine football teams, one with a dismal record and the other a mild surprise, clash here in the Iowa stadium this afternoon before an expected attendance of 50,000 persons.

Purdue, victim of the onslaughts of three of the nation's top football elevens on successive Saturdays, meets Iowa in the main attraction of the Hawkeyes' 37th annual Homecoming.

The Boilermakers took on a murderous early season schedule, playing Notre Dame, Northwestern and Michigan. They lost all three games with Michigan soundly thumping Coach Stu Holcomb's eleven last Saturday, 40-0.

The Hawks, pointed for the conference cellar by pre-season dope have come along exceptionally well in their two Big Nine starts.

Indiana squeezed out a one-touchdown triumph at Bloomington two weeks ago, but the Hawks favorite, there has been no over-confidence shown by the Iowa team. The players realize that the Boilermakers will have practically the same starting team which whipped the Hawks last year, 21-0.

Included in that lineup will be the fleet-footed Harry Szulborski, who raced for one long touchdown run against Iowa a year ago. Szulborski will be switched to fullback this afternoon to take up the slack left by the injured.

But the player most feared by the Hawkeye coaches is Quarterback Bob DeMoss. The T-formation ace will be by far the best passer met by the Iowans to date. DeMoss will be aiming his tosses at one of Iowa's major weaknesses, pass defense.

Iowa hopes to counteract the efforts of these two stars with a running-passing combination of its own. Quarterback Al DiMarco and Halfback Jerry Faske present the one-two punch.

DiMarco is currently ranked third among Big Nine passers, having completed 17 of 49 aerials for 261 yards, Faske, the 5-foot 8-inch speedster from Brooklyn, N. Y., is third in the conference in rushing with 182 yards gained in 42 attempts.

Halliburton to Start

The probable starting offensive line will have Bob McKenzie and Jack Dittmer, ends; Don Winslow and Bill Kay, tackles; Ray Carlson and Earl Banks, guards, and Dick Laster, center.

The Hawks will shooting to raise the Homecoming record to an even 500 percent. The Homecoming slate now stands at 16 wins, 17 losses and 3 ties.

Purdue leads the Iowa series, 15 to 10, with two games ending in ties.

Single student section spouse tickets for the Purdue game will also go on sale at 8 a.m. Havlicek emphasized that single tickets will be sold only for the Purdue and Wisconsin games. Tickets for the Oct. 30 Wisconsin game will not go on sale until the week of the game.

The announcement followed a meeting of the board of control of athletics on the spouse ticket problem. The ticket sale was stopped Thursday afternoon.

Before last night's board meeting some 200 persons met with officials of the athletic department at the fieldhouse.

Havlicek told the crowd that the estimate on the number of seats necessary for students, made last April and May, was 9,500. Enrollment this fall was over 10,600, he added.

There are enough seats for the students, he said, but seating for the wives was the big problem.

After being besieged with questions on the situation, Havlicek assured his audience, "If we can get you in, we will."

SUI to Hold International Debate Nov. 5

The 21st annual international debate will be held Nov. 5, Prof. A. Craig Baird, director of forensics, said yesterday. Two representatives of the British Municipal universities will meet an SUI team at 8 p.m. in Macbride auditorium.

The debate will be the third since the war. The British team will uphold the affirmative of the resolution: that modern society enjoys the greatest benefits under a planned economy.

Herman Cohen, G. and Kenneth Thompson, G. will maintain the negative for SUI.

Cohen is a master's candidate in speech. He received his bachelor's degree last year. He was a finalist in the Hancher oratory contest last year. Cohen has been active in intercollegiate debate and radio work at WSUI and KSUI.

Thompson is working for his doctorate in economics. He received his bachelor's degree from SUI in 1944, and his master's in 1947. He is a member of Delta Sigma Rho, honorary speech fraternity, and Phi Beta Kappa.

Anthony J. Cox of Bristol University and Reginald Galer of Birmingham and London university will form the British team.

Race with Death

Truck Driver Warns Of Explosion

TAMAQUA, PA. (UP) — The driver of a dynamite truck ran a race with death yesterday to warn motorists that his 20,000-pound load of explosives was about to blow up.

When E. W. Petty, 31, Little Rock, Ark., saw flames shooting from his motor, he drove the truck and its high powered cargo into a ditch. Then he ran up the road and flagged down an approaching driver.

Without hesitating, he sprinted back in the opposite direction, past the blazing truck after its gasoline tank had exploded, to warn traffic coming up from behind.

Seconds later, the 10-ton load of dynamite went off with a blast felt 15 miles away. Petty, still running for his life was knocked flat by the concussion and suffered bruises.

The big truck disintegrated. Its motor landed in a woods almost a quarter mile away. The blast tore a hole 60 feet long, 40 feet wide, and 10 feet deep in the Macadam highway. Windows of nearby farm houses shattered, and tree tops ripped off.

Police described the explosion as sounding "like a hundred bombs going off all at once."

Heading for Homecoming

MARCHING ALONG TOGETHER to the Iowa-Purdue football game today will be these SUI students, Peggy Broderick and Jack Schmidt, front, and Lois Moore and Dan Dorn, back. Wearing smiles as bright as their gay sports attire, the foursome chooses jackets and sweaters for their stadium attire. They find a camera and portable radio football "musics" to capture all Homecoming game thrills. However, they probably won't get past the gate with the radio because a Big Nine rule prohibits the use of portable radios and movie cameras at games.

Herky's Story

Corn Hard to Get; Use 200 Ears

There's a "corny" story behind the Herky homecoming monument.

In 1914 when the engineers on campus first started constructing the monument it was made entirely of corn.

This year corn wasn't so easy to find in the corn state. Engineers could only accumulate some 200 ears to adorn the base of the monument, said Prof. Edward M. Mielnik, instructor in charge.

After much wrangling, Edward Stepanek, student in charge, and his 35 building mates managed to talk one local farmer out of approximately two and a half bushels of corn for $4. Said price would have bought enough corn not too many years ago to cover the entire monument.

Since this wasn't enough corn the boys trekked off to the Prof. J. J. O'Mara farm to pick their own corn. They picked the corn all right but from the wrong field.

Thus the college of engineering owes one unknown farmer an unknown sum for about one and a half bushels of corn with husks.

Mielnik estimates that this year's monument will cost approximately $150 to $200. Last year's monument cost $187.60.

Bearded Vulture Helps British-Soviet Relations

LONDON (AP) — A bearded vulture from Moscow, name of Lammerger, has arrived in London.

Largest European bird of prey, the Lammerger checked into Regent's Park zoo with some pals — a snow leopard, a northern lynx and five red-breasted geese.

In exchange, the London Zoological society has sent the Moscow zoo a chimpanzee, some monkeys, a leopard, a toucan and a hornbill.

Hull Says Dewey Did Not Originate Bipartisan Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Secretary of State Cordell Hull accused Thomas E. Dewey yesterday of making an "extravagant" claim of having originated the bipartisan foreign policy.

Hull issued a statement quoting Dewey's Oct. 12 speech at Louisville, Ky., in which Dewey said:

"We have abandoned partisanship to speak through a bipartisan policy. I first proposed to Secretary Hull during the election campaign four years ago that we have cooperation between our two parties to win the peace. That was the beginning of our bipartisan foreign policy."

Hull said Dewey could "easily refresh his memory of what actually took place" by re-reading the newspapers of August and September 1944.

Gov. Dewey's statement is only the latest of many statements in which extravagant claims for credit have been made for achievements which were the fruit of joint effort by members of both political parties, Hull said.

"If these competitive claims continue, they will inject partisanship into the conduct of our foreign affairs."

Hull said Dewey promised four years ago that American efforts to keep the peace would never be made the subject "for partisan political advantage by any individual or by any party either in or out of office."

Hull went on, "I heartily agreed with that statement then and recommend it now to all who speak for either party during the remainder of the campaign."

"Whoever party is returned to power next November will need, as never before, the same non-partisan cooperation from its political opponents."

In St. Paul, where Dewey spoke last night, James C. Hagerty, his executive assistant, said the New York governor had "no comment" on the Hull statement.

"Education is the bridge to the future," said Prof. A. H. Moehlman of the college of education before the Iowa City Woman's club yesterday at their monthly meeting in the Community building.

Moehlman pointed out that civilization as we know it would vanish if our educational processes were stopped.

"We believe that man is of fundamental importance in America's unique contribution to civilization," Moehlman said. "Some people believe that education has been weakened by democracy, that learning for all is foolhardy, but America stands as an example that universal education is the basis of strength for a people."

The professor went on to say that the hope of the world is universal education on a worldwide scale.

The meeting was part of the program of the women's club to understand and remedy problems of their community and the world.

of the treasury, said yesterday 73,000 immigrants had reached Israel in the first nine months this year.

FOR HOT WATER MAGIC GAS has got it!

FIFTY... one hundred... one hundred and fifty times? In any case you know it takes lots of hot water to run the average household each day.

Sometimes the water must be moderate temperature—for bathing, shaving, shampooing, etc. At other times, extremely hot water of 150 degrees F. or more is a necessity for laundering white washables or sterilizing dishes.

Regardless, the important thing is to have an automatic water heater: (1) capable of producing the hottest water required, and (2) big enough to meet all your needs.

There's a Ruud automatic gas water heater built to fit your particular requirements—available on convenient terms. For complete details—stop in—now!

They Gave Him A Cell Instead of Raw Steak

The prisoner in the Iowa City jail yesterday was really in the dog house.

From his cell just beyond the wall of the police court room he managed to make his presence known to all traffic violators who appeared before the judge.

The prisoner, a mongrel black and white dog, just did not understand the law that required him to have a license. Today police will take him to the medical laboratories where he will be held until someone claims him.

Tenants Won't Go, Farmer Complains

Herbert Williams, Union township farmer, yesterday filed suit in Johnson county district court for the removal of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Murray as tenants of a house on his farm.

Judge Harold D. Evans ordered a hearing at Johnson county courthouse Oct. 25.

Williams claimed he orally employed Murray to work on his farm. He said Murray's employment ended Sept. 4 and the defendants' tenancy ended when the job ended.

The plaintiff served a three-day notice to vacate the defendants Oct. 6 but he said the defendants refused to leave.

Clearman and Knoepfer are attorneys for the plaintiff.

YMCA Plans Trip To Boone Council

YMCA members interested in attending the inter-collegiate conference at Boone should sign up at the Y's Iowa Union office, YMCA President Merle Frey said yesterday.

The scholarship fund will aid any who could not otherwise attend. Room and board fee will be $5.50, Frey said.

The theme of the conference will be "Dynamics of Christianity." Worship, recreation, platform addresses and bull sessions will form the program.

Special features will be workshops in leadership techniques, Christian faith and heritage, personal and campus affairs, social responsibility, and world relatedness.

Iowa City Problems Typical Says Koser

Other cities in Iowa face the same general problems as Iowa City. Mayor Preston Koser said yesterday on returning from the 50th annual convention of the League of Iowa Municipalities.

The mayor pointed out that officials of other cities in Iowa were also concerned with such problems as garbage collection, parking, streets, sidewalks and sewers.

The share of certain state taxes cities receive was also discussed at the two-day convention in Des Moines, Koser said.

The league plans to propose legislation at the next general assembly for a larger share of these taxes which include gasoline, liquor and sales taxes.

City Attorney William Bartley also attended the convention.

The league, comprised of 806 Iowa cities and towns, was organized to promote improvement of municipal government and administration.

'Sun Never Sets on Soviet Threats'

A witch's brew of "Stop Russia", British imperialism and far eastern nationalism is churning up in London. The pot has been closely guarded; but there are indications that western-world tonic may soon appear.

Behind closed doors, foreign ministers of the British commonwealth of nations have been meeting. The roster includes Great Britain, Australia, Canada, South Africa, New Zealand, Southern Rhodesia and the three new "dominions" of India, Pakistan and Ceylon.

To tag the last three as "dominions" needs qualification since far eastern nationalism, don't forget, is a vital ingredient in the London brew.

Pandit Nehru of India maintains he is bound by electoral promises to work for India's complete independence from Britain. Pakistan and Ceylon are in the same boat. So is Burma which broke away from Britain and the British commonwealth to become an independent nation last year.

Theoretically, there is nothing evil in the desire of Indians and other far easterners to long for their own republics. After all, the British commonwealth of nations—no matter how abstract a conception—still smells like British domination.

British imperialism and far eastern nationalism do not blend at all... a lot of foam is being churned up.

But the great binding ingredient in the concoction is fear of Russian aggression and expansion... "Stop Russia."

Ministers of the established dominions want to extend the five-nation western union military setup beyond Europe to Africa and the far east.

The idea is to provide a girdle of defense for the west and form a buffer between the main forces of east and west. In other words, the British commonwealth would sponsor the "Stop Russia" defense setup.

Proponents of this theory point with alarm to Communist advances in China, Indo-China, Malaya and Indonesia. They also note that since Burma became a republic last year, the nation has been rocked by Communist violence.

This reasoning continues: If India leaves the British fold, she too will be exposed to the Russian bear. A deadlock could easily develop between imperialism and nationalism except for one thing.

The U.S. is being called in to help stir the brew. A compromise lies in tying together far eastern republics and the British commonwealth under regional arrangements of the United Nations. The U.S. could become a party to this.

The London talks won't be in vain. Although the pot is proudly labeled "The Sun Never Sets on the British Commonwealth", the aroma drifting off it spells out the realization "the sun never sets on Soviet threats."

The 'Brown Out' May Pass

Iowa City's "white way" may really deserve the name soon. A joint city council-chamber of commerce light committee has been investigating the downtown lighting problem. And the committee seems out to by-pass half-way measures of correction.

The cause of the downtown area "brown-out" is due partly to the fact that almost half of the 72 street lights in the district are unlighted. The basis of the unsatisfactory lighting, however, is in the antiquated type of light now in use. Judging from the action taken by the committee so far, the need for a new lighting system is recognized.

Last week representatives from Westinghouse and General Electric conducted surveys to estimate the cost of replacing the old downtown street light system.

In the meantime, the joint committee visited Rock Island, Ill., to study the mercury-vapor type system recently installed there. Next week the committee plans to take a look at Burlington's new incandescent street lighting. The committee seems to have worked the problem down from what to do about it, to what type of new lighting to install.

Of course, the elimination of the "brown-out" is far from complete at this stage of the project.

But the city council and the chamber of commerce have taken a long stride in the right direction. The boost the chamber of commerce is giving the plan is particularly noteworthy. The Iowa code provides that city improvements of this type will be paid for through assessment of adjoining property.

But the business men—at least, members of the chamber—are not only behind the plan, but are pushing.

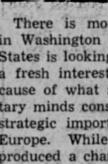

Lighting up Iowa City's "white way" will pay off in many ways. In cities where improved lighting has been installed, nighttime traffic accidents decreased as much as 60 percent, crime rate dropped to almost nothing, and businessmen reported nighttime window-shopping increased.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT It's Strange Scenery...

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

There is more than one hint in Washington that the United States is looking upon Spain with a fresh interest these days, because of what some of our military minds consider to be Spain's strategic importance in western Europe. While this has not yet produced a change in our diplomatic relations with Franco, there are observers who would not faint with surprise if ultimately, by however circuitous a road, an American ambassador were to turn up in Madrid again.

There is something in this picture that is unfamiliar, very curious. After a while one gets it. It is the implied revelation of how our America now takes a strategic view of the world, a view bound up with military considerations, and of how, for the first time in our national life, we are judging the various portions of this planet on that basis.

AND THIS KIND of change, subtle and erosive, is, of course, part of the price we must pay for our new settled conviction that force is our chief reliance for saving the peace. The theory is that we must do certain things we have never done before in order to save our civilization, such as adopting a peace-time draft, enacting a huge arms budget, and taking a military-strategic view of the world.

But somehow, it seems to me, we are ducking the question of how you can stay the way you are when you do things you have never done before.

The truth is our new conceptions cannot keep us the way we are; they represent only a choice among ways of changing. And

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

(Readers are invited to express their opinions in Letters to the Editor. All letters must include handwritten signature, address and if student, classification. Typewritten signatures are not acceptable. Once received, all letters become the property of The Daily Iowan. The right to edit or withhold letters is reserved and, of course, the opinions expressed do not necessarily represent those of The Daily Iowan.)

TO THE EDITOR: Your analysis of the Progressive Party platform in your recent series twisted the facts. Probably you have not read the platform of the "new party". Some of your errors, which a slight acquaintance with the platform might have avoided, were:

1. You said that in the platform "nothing is said of veterans aid."
2. You say the platform "confines itself almost entirely to domestic issues," and that "Russia is scarcely mentioned if at all." Yet, nearly a third of the platform deals specifically with foreign affairs, while Russia is discussed and frequently referred to.
3. Your statement that "absolutely no mention is made in the platform to extend social security" is simply not true. The platform demands "extension of social security protection to every man, woman, and child in the U.S." and calls for a $100 a month old age pension, federal health insurance, increased unemployment and disability benefits, and other like social security measures.

Aleck L. Smith
521 E. Washington

Our platform researcher (Progressive division) has a very red face. His source material had this statement in small print: "Following is the complete text of the Progressive party's statement of principles and the complete text of its planks concerning civil rights, public ownership of property, labor and agriculture."

The platform concerning veterans actually says: "The Progressive party recognizes the veterans' special sacrifices and contributions in the nation's most critical period. We demand priority for veterans in obtaining homes. We call for a Federal bonus to veterans based on length of service. We demand the expansion of the Veterans Administration program and increased GI benefits and allowances and the elimination of discrimination. We demand that the coverage of the GI bill of rights and other servicemen's benefits be extended to war widows and to merchant seamen with war service.

"We call for the prompt refund of the overcharges collected from veterans by national service life insurance. We demand that the government enforce the right of Negro veterans in the south to file terminal leave applications and to collect their benefits. We call for increased benefits for disabled veterans and a program to guarantee them jobs at decent wages."

Korea's Rhee Fears Communist Infiltration

SEOUL, KOREA (UP) — Communist agents from Russian-dominated north Korea are infiltrating into south Korea with instructions to foment disorder, President Syngman Rhee said yesterday.

South Korea must constantly combat plots hatched behind the north Korea blockade, Dr. Rhee said. Korean Communists, he said, are determined to extend their "Red dictatorship" to American-backed south Korea.

The president said frankly that his government relies upon the United States for economic and military support against these plots.

In his simply-furnished office, Dr. Rhee told how he was looking forward with "keenest interest" to consultation in Tokyo with General of the Army Douglas Mac-

Arthur and other countries of the far east.

Dr. Rhee, with his wife, will leave for Tokyo Oct. 19. He will stay at MacArthur's residence.

The president, dressed in a western style business suit and apparently in excellent health despite the strain of his three-months regime, said that he was "absolutely confident" Korea would be united.

He was named to his office by United Nations-supervised elections.

Korea, Dr. Rhee said, for both economic and military reasons, needs restoration of its old national boundaries. This unification, he said, may prove to be the opening wedge in the elimination of Communists from Korea and adjacent Manchuria.

A keen student of history, Rhee said he believed the movements of both Chinese and Korean Communists were directed by a single plan made in Moscow. He also believed that these movements are related to recent Communist outbreaks in Malaya, Indonesia and Burma.

Commenting on police action against the Korea Press news agency, and against the Chinese Central news agency in Korea and a number of Seoul newspapers, the president said that while he is not opposed to criticism of the government in editorials, he demands complete accuracy and impartiality in news reports.

The constitution of Korea, he added, guarantees freedom of the press but prohibits agitation to overthrow the government.

Belgium Poised for Communist Moves

BRUSSELS, BELGIUM (UP) — An informant in the Belgian counter-intelligence service said yesterday that the Cominform had instructed the Belgian Communist party to "do everything in its power" to overthrow the government of Premier Paul-Henri Spaak.

He said that the central committee of the Belgian Communist party also had been told a few days ago to start agitation for higher wages.

The counter-intelligence service, the informant said, has proof that the wage agitation move is linked with similar movements in France and Italy.

"We have the situation well in hand," he added, "and if the Communists engage in large scale subversive activity they are in for trouble, serious trouble." Arthur on the Communist threat

McBride's Haul

By BILL MCBRIDE

Agent Burt Fulton reported two incidents the other day that deserve to be passed on if for nothing more than their educational values. The first case involves a simple knowledge of photography, and the lack of such simple knowledge is not to be considered indicative of overall ignorance.

When students were being photographed for their ID cards, one beau brummelish fellow casually asked the photographer when he could see the proofs.

As an English philosopher once said, the proof of the pudding is in the eating. From that you may gather that all old saws are not necessarily applicable to modern problems.

The really sad part about ID card pictures is that most of them look exactly like the subject. When you begin feeling pretty handsome, take a good look at your ID card and remember that's how you look to the professor who teaches your 8:30 class... no wonder he's grumpy at times.

I compared last year's picture to the one which identifies me this year and reached the conclusion that parting my hair on the side instead of down the middle, as last year's picture had it, looks better, but reveals more forehead.

When I stopped parting it in the middle, changing the line to the left side of my head, I felt certain some one would send me a free copy of Das Kapital. One student of political science tells me that Franco is now parting his hair down the middle and on both sides, as well.

The other incident Burt reported was seen the same day. About the time when students were gathering in University hall to have their pictures taken and pay tuition, not one but several lines formed.

One fellow came in, saw a line and got into it without checking the goal of the persons ahead of him. The line moved rapidly and he moved with it, never giving a second thought to the ultimate end... ours is not to reason why...

The next thing this fellow knew, he was faced with a perplexing situation. The line he had been standing in was comprised wholly of women, and he had followed them right into the ladies rest room... obviously not the place to pay one's tuition.

That's one spot where all the carnage and personality in the world won't mitigate the situation. Such statements as "Do you have a match?" or "How far is it to Tiffin?" fall completely short. Best just to keep silent and back out with as little fuss as possible.

Seeks 'Free' Atom Research

COLUMBUS, OHIO (UP) — A member of the U.S. atomic energy commission suggested yesterday that America's "most potent secret weapon" may turn out to be its traditional belief in free and untrammelled scientific research.

Commissioner W. W. Waymack, addressing the 75th anniversary celebration of Ohio State university, said the advantages of free inquiry in science are "secret, of course, only from those so blinded by dogma that they refuse to see."

He said Marxist dogma has put Russian scientists in the position of having to "follow the party line" even in research on genetics.

The danger in America, he said, is that people will get the idea that science must be directed toward the solution of immediate "practical" problems in order to be really useful.

If that attitude had prevailed in the past, he said, scientists could never have amassed the tremendous store of apparently useless "pure theory" that made possible the development of atomic bombs in World War II.

He also cautioned that too great reliance on secrecy may endanger, rather than safeguard, national security by smothering the free interchange of ideas on which scientific progress depends.

"For anything but the shortest run," he said, "the main reliance must be on progress" toward new achievements, rather than on extreme measures to maintain "secrecy" about things already learned.

He added, however, that "fifth columnism... is a reality that we cannot dodge" and said he "can see no possible alternative" to the atomic commission's present strict loyalty investigations of its employees.

Nine ROTC Men Made Eligible for Direct Commissions

They won't be West Pointers, but nine advanced ROTC students may attain the same status as academy graduates shortly after they complete work here.

Yesterday, the military department revealed that six airforce and three army advanced students have been named "distinguished military students."

They are Hugh A. Drown, A4, of Kellogg; Carl W. Grant, C4, of Omaha, Neb.; Robert E. Gross, G, of Iowa City; Charles M. Mason Jr., A4, of Muscatine; Gordon P. Hansey, C4, of Cedar Rapids, and Donald O. Thompson, A4, of Clear Lake, advanced air students, and Robert J. Berens, A4, of Neola; Frederick J. Haesmeyer, G, of Rockford, Ill., and William L. Jackson, C4, of Earlham, infantry students.

"Distinguished military students" are eligible to apply for direct commissions in the army or airforce upon the successful completion of their final year.

The nine men were chosen on their previous ROTC record and their work at summer camp, the department announced.

Congress acts on such appointments, following the recommendations of the regional army or airforce headquarters, the president of the university, and the head of the military department.

The men can become second lieutenants in the regular army, the same as regular West Point graduates. Ordinarily, they would receive only reserve commissions.

A "distinguished military student" must possess "outstanding qualities of military leadership, high moral character and a definite aptitude for the military service," according to the military department.

He must also distinguish himself academically, and be in the upper third of his ROTC class.

Continued high performance is necessary to be eligible for the regular commission, the department said.

METHODIST BROADCAST The Methodist youth fellowship will broadcast over radio station KXIC tomorrow at 8:15 a.m. Under the direction of the Rev. Robert Crooker, First Methodist church associate minister, the fellowship will present the program, "These Are Our Voices."

Auctioned Off City Park Pavilion And Furnishings

Memories of childish laughter, frolicking couples and gay parties went on the auction block Thursday.

The old city park pavilion, scene of many picnics and outings for Iowa City residents, and SUI alumni was sold along with furnishings and effects to the highest bidder.

Nostalgia-laden articles like old silver-plated sundae dishes, large soda schooners, heavy wire-backed chairs and tables went by way of the auctioneer's gavel.

The antique solid-mahogany soda fountain reputed to have originally cost $5,000 was sold for $100 to Fred Neuzil.

Ira Montgomery bought the pavilion itself for $750. Spectators estimated the building to contain 18,000 board feet of lumber.

The structure, which has been in the park for 40 years, formerly had a wide veranda on two sides and a dance hall in the rear.

The park board has not announced what it intends to do with the site. It is believed a refreshment stand will be built there for the crowds using the new swimming pool under construction.

Fourteen girls were initiated into active membership in Alpha Delta Pi social sorority, Wednesday.

Others are Marianna Merner, A4, Cedar Falls; Charlotte Rogers, A2, Lytton; Margaret Taylor, A3, Keokuk; Jean Shearer, A2, Newton; Betty Peacock, A3, Quincy, Ill.; Nadine Warnock, A2, Mitchellville, and Jean Agnew, A4, Iowa City.

Chest Gets $3,056; Still Short of Goal

Community chest donations poured into chest headquarters yesterday in the next-to-the-last day of this year's drive.

A reported $3,056 came in yesterday, zooming community chest totals to $11,241.80.

Today is the last day in the community chest's effort to raise a quota of $19,732.76.

With $8,490.96 to go, Mrs. J. L. Records, chest permanent secretary, was doubtful if that amount could be raised. She held her expectation that the drive this year will have to be extended in order to meet the quota.

Berlin's Food Rations to Be Raised Nov. 1

BERLIN (UP) Western leaders announced yesterday that food rations in blockaded Berlin would be increased more than 15 percent Nov. 1 to "help sustain the population" in its resistance to "inhumane and illegal" Soviet pressure.

An official announcement issued by the U.S., British and French military governors set the date for the previously announced increase of west Berlin food allotments from 1,730 to 2,000 calories daily.

274 Extra Calories

Under the increases, which gave evidence to the Germans of the success of the fight against Russia's blockade, the ordinary consumer will get an additional 274 calories a day.

Formal confirmation of the increases, made possible by the Anglo-American airlift, came as allied air authorities announced plans to place the air supply fleet under a unified command. This makes it the first truly "combined operation" since the end of World War II. U. S. Maj. Gen. William H. Turner will command it.

The rumble of Russian field and anti-aircraft artillery, clearly audible in western Berlin, reminded the people that the four-power capital is encircled by Soviet-held territory.

'Air Maneuvers'

An American intelligence officer said the artillery practice was part of continuing Russian "air maneuvers."

There was no indication that the firing menaced airlift planes. Pro-Soviet Berlin newspapers accused the western commanders of making a "secret treaty" which would place the Ruhr industrial area under international control for an indefinite period.

In Frankfurt, Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American commander in chief, said at a press conference that a plan was now being considered to establish a "temporary German management control" in the Ruhr.

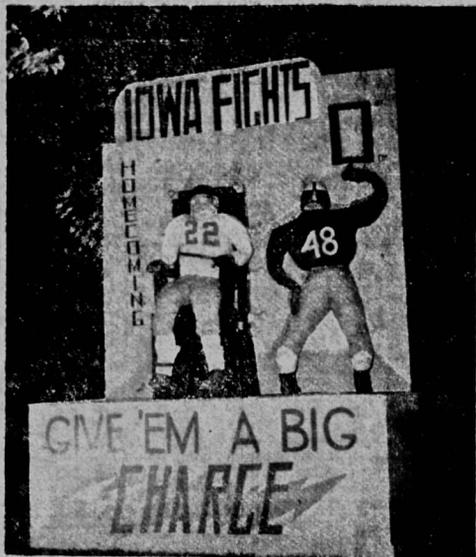

The Germans, he said, would supervise for the present the responsibilities usually carried out by owners and would continue in operation until a future German government could settle the question of ownership of Ruhr industries.

New Polio Patients Bring Total to 23

Three new polio patients were reported at University hospitals yesterday, bringing the total number of active cases there to 23.

The new patients are Michael Zell, 2, Waterloo, admitted Oct. 12 in "fair" condition; Jerry Kerns, 7, Waterloo, admitted Oct. 15 in "serious" condition and Evelyn Aegerter, 10, Lohrville, admitted Oct. 15 in "fair" condition.

Decoration Winners in Dormitory and Sorority Divisions

WINNER IN THE DORMITORY division of the Homecoming decoration contest which was judged last night was the Quadrangle display shown above. Entries from South Quad and Currier placed second and third.

CHI OMEGA sorority won the sorority division of the Homecoming decoration contest judged last night. Delta Delta Delta and Delta Gamma placed second and third.

Bennett Trial Judge Named

DES MOINES (UP)—The Iowa supreme court yesterday appointed District Judge G. K. Thompson, of Cedar Rapids, as an outside judge to hear an ouster suit against Des Moines' suspended safety commissioner.

Judge Thompson was appointed upon a petition filed Thursday by First Assistant Polk County Attorney Ed S. Thayer. The petition was filed shortly after District Judge Russell Jordan of Des Moines dismissed two of four charges against Myron J. Bennett.

Court officials said that Thompson's appointment probably means a delay in the Bennett trial. A hearing on malfeasance charges filed by County Attorney Carroll Switzer was scheduled for next Wednesday in Des Moines district court.

The officials said that under Iowa statutes the appointed judge must fix the time and place for trial. The earliest possible legal date is Oct. 25. The court explained that appointment of an outside judge is mandatory upon the request of "either party."

MARSHALL TO GREECE

PARIS (AP)—U.S. Secretary of State George C. Marshall will leave soon for Athens to check on American aid to Greece, a U.S. spokesman said last night. The date for Marshall's departure was withheld.

New Signals Speed Homecoming Traffic

Iowa City's actuated traffic signals will be in full operation today to handle the expected heavy concentration of cars on Burlington street.

The actuated signs work on an electronic principle with a pressure detector in the street some distance from the crossing. When a car passes over this detector an impulse registers in the control box. Then, if there is no cross-traffic the "go" signal is given.

Husband Defaults, Wife Gets Divorce

Joyous Lewis, Iowa City, was granted a divorce on default yesterday in Johnson county district court, after Eugene Jack Lewis failed to appear at the hearing. The plaintiff was awarded permanent custody and control of two children, $20 a week alimony and support, household furniture and costs of the action.

The couple was married at Cedar Rapids Nov. 10, 1944 and lived together until Sept. 10, 1947. Swisher and Swisher were attorneys for the plaintiff.

tions went to the Quadrangle in the dormitory group, Chi Omega for the sororities and Phi Kappa Psi in the fraternities.

Dormitories South Quadrangle and Currier came in second and third, while Delta Delta Delta and Delta Gamma took second and third for sororities and Delta Upsilon and Sigma Phi Epsilon received second and third among the fraternities.

If they knew it, Iowa fans weren't disturbed by the fact that the Purdue Boilermakers had broken a record yesterday. One of the two planes which brought the Boeing Stratoliner which airport authorities said was the first four-motored passenger plane to land at the Iowa City airport.

The Boilermakers, however, didn't spend the night in hostile territory. They went to Cedar Rapids where a photographer posed the team with airline hostesses and props which emphasized that the team didn't come here just for the airplane trip.

After all, SUI fans had received something via air also. Two SUI students in a new Stinson plane showered the campus and Iowa City yesterday with leaflets. The message was simple and demanding, "Beat Purdue."

Dancing pavilions surrounding this city felt a new surge in business last night as Homecomingers, failing to find facilities in Iowa City, were driven to the outskirts of town.

Iowa City tavern owners attested to the crowding. Business had been light during the pep rally, two proprietors said, but gained immediately after the Old Capitol celebration ended.

Other alumni headed for the Iowa Union where the Triangle and University clubs entertained and gave many an opportunity to meet friends of former days. Downtown streets had been the first to reflect the "bigger and better Homecoming" Thursday members of Tailfeathers, university pep club, aggressively began to sell Homecoming badges.

Their activity began early and will continue today.

Yesterday some merchants, not satisfied with the new "Herky" posters distributed by the Homecoming committee, painted the welcoming bird on the windows of their shops. One shop pictured Herky selling donuts. "Bottoms up on the Boilermakers" was the by-word in the window of a local tavern.

A Wild Homecoming? Ask Any Old-Timer!

By ELFREDA KOLSCH

Iowa's Homecoming just won't be what it used to be. Ask anyone who was on campus in the 20's and he'll tell you the same thing. That was the great collegiate or garterless era, and a rugged one. All Iowa was screaming that its new field house was the world's largest. Privolet was backing SUI's Dean Rienou for U.S. president. Delores Costello, was thrilling students in the first all-talking pictures down at the Pastime theater. All the boys were shooting their billiards at Racines. And for two bucks you could fly over Iowa City in an honest-to-gosh sister ship of Col. Lindberg's "Spirit of St. Louis."

Iowa's football stadium was less airtight than it is now. Wind could whistle up and down the aisles and turn spectators a royal blue. If it hadn't been for the coonskin coats — and that's another thing about 1948. No coonskin coats!

Back in the 20's a sheik (early campus for wolf) would rather be caught wearing garters than be seen at a game without a coonskin coat. Sure, the coonskins were often shaggy black dog, but any piece of hide that supported hairs was classed as coonskin.

One L. C. Cohn store in Iowa City carried a terrific line of furs for the campus celebrities. They advertised everything from "Seal Plush Mink" at $35 to "Sloppy Plush Seal" at $21.

Coeds went in for the coonskins, too, but they never achieved their boyfriends' high degree of sloppiness. Campus "beauts" wore pleated skirts, which got shorter as the great depression got nearer, and long sleeved blouses under loose sweaters.

Burt Ingwersen was the mascot of Hawkeye football during the bulk of the 20's. And what a team he helmed in '29! That was the year when Mayes McLain, Cherokee Indian fullback for SUI, practically eclipsed Hiawatha as the most famous Indian in American history. Why, not since the days of "Galloping Ghost" Red Grange had the Big 10 been so interested in a single gridiron luminary as that giant Indian line smasher.

Sports writers the country over practically forgot the Hawkeyes were Hawkeyes. Everyone talked of the Iowa "Indians" led by "Big Chief" McLain, "Little Panoose" Glassrow, "Running Deer" Pape and "Charging Bull" Arnis. Win or lose those boys were the campus heroes.

Where collegiates really did show flash was in their Homecoming parades. Everyone threw themselves into the business of decorating broken-down tin lizzies. Only an occasional frat man owned a new Whippet Six sedan or a Willys-Knight.

Ted Ames and his Play Boys was the band the campus danced to down at the Valencia ballroom. To the tune of "Don't Bring Lulu" the agile Anns and supple Sams kicked out their feet in the Charleston and through the din of "Don't Bring Me Posies," "Ava-

'Straw Stack Case' Story Wins Award For Ex-Iowa Citian

A former resident of Iowa City, Mrs. Helen Guertin, will receive a $500 journalism award for her newspaper story on the "straw stack murder case," written while she was a reporter for the Dubuque Telegraph-Herald last March.

Mrs. Guertin's story has been selected by Prockter Radio Productions, Inc., for use on "The Big Story," NBC radio program heard every Wednesday at 9 p.m. The broadcast of her story is tentatively set for Nov. 10. Stories selected are based on actual cases covered by reporters in the last 15 years.

Mrs. Guertin's winning story concerned a murder in Kiefer, Wis., 12 miles from Dubuque. She covered the arrest, confession and trial of the murderer sentenced to life imprisonment at Waupun penitentiary within 72 hours after discovery of the crime.

While in Iowa City Mrs. Guertin lived at 604 S. Dubuque. Her husband, Wilson H. Guertin, at that time completed his work for a masters degree in psychology. Since April 1 Mrs. Guertin has been a reporter for The Rock Island Argus. Guertin is now acting head of the department of psychology at Lincoln State school and colony, Lincoln, Ill. They live at 1342 42nd street, Rock Island.

He Teaches Musicology

Albert T. Luper

Musicology Arrives at SUI

A new field of study and a new professor to teach it were added to the SUI music department at the beginning of this semester.

The man is Prof. Albert T. Luper, (pronounced "Looper") formerly of the University of Texas. The study is called musicology.

Luper has defined musicology as a method of investigation and research into the various component fields of music.

Students may earn master's and doctor's degrees in musicology, he said.

These in musicology will be dissertations showing results of original research rather than the composition theses required for degrees in creative music, Luper explained.

Courses in musicology include studies in history of music, musicological methods, and seminars in musicology which comprise group studies and individual projects.

Intensive surveys of various periods in music history will also be given, Luper said.

The first course in the series, a musicological survey of the 17th century, is now underway.

Luper said he has made a hobby of the study of Portuguese and Latin American music. He has written "some half dozen" articles and monographs on the history of music in Portugal and Latin America.

His principal research field has been Portuguese music of the 16th and 17th centuries, he said.

Luper spent most of his boyhood in Portugal and Brazil because his father was a Baptist missionary in those countries. Born in Texas, Luper left this country at the age of six, and was "abroad most of the time" until he was 16.

"Portuguese is like a native language to me," he said. "I also get along fairly well in Spanish."

During the war, the navy made use of Luper's familiarity with these countries by making him naval observer at Santos, Brazil, assigning him to the office of the naval attaché at Lisbon, Portugal and finally appointing him naval liaison officer at the port of Manzanillo, Mexico.

In addition to being a musicologist, Luper plays the violin. He is also a family man, with a wife and two children, Frances, 10, and James, 9. The Luperes live at 317 S. Dodge street.

SUI Grads Author 3 Published Stories

Three SUI graduates have short stories included in the 1948 edition of "O'Henry Prize Stories." They are Wallace Stegner, Ray B. West and Katharine Shattuck.

William R. Shelton, another author represented in the collection, will come to study at SUI in Feb., 1949.

Wallace Stegner won the second prize of $200 for his story, "Beyond the Glass Mountain." The action of the story takes place in Iowa City.

Stegner received his masters degree here in 1932 and his doctorate in 1935. He won the second prize in the O'Henry contest in 1942.

Katharine Shattuck studied at SUI under the direction of Prof. Paul Engle. She received her masters degree here in 1941. She is represented in the collection by "The Answer."

Ray B. West, author of "The Ascent," taught here as an English instructor during the academic year 1944-45. West received his doctor's degree from SUI in 1945.

University Theater Announces 3 Plays

Three plays that the University theater will produce following the presentation of "Life with Father" were announced yesterday by E. C. Mabie.

First production of the trio will be "Beggars on Horseback" by George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly from Dec. 3 through Dec. 14.

Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing" will be presented Jan. 7-18, followed by "The Devil's Disciple" by George Bernard Shaw, Feb. 19 through March 1.

Announcement will be made later of the three plays which will complete the theater's program of plays for the year.

Iowa River Scouts To Usher at Game

Boy Scouts from the Iowa River council will serve as ushers at the football game again today.

The scouts, representing troops in Johnson, Iowa and Washington counties, help seat the spectators and following the game form lines to keep fans off the playing field.

The "knothole club" will also be fortified with scouts and scout leaders. Professor Walter L. Daykin of the college of commerce will be in charge of the knothole club supervisors.

Herky's 'New Squawk' Cheers Team Today

"Herky Squawk" will be introduced at today's game by Iowa cheer leaders. It's a new yell that goes like this:

O—rah, rah, rah.
W—rah, rah, rah.
A—rah, rah, rah.

Open Center For Education About Cancer

"To Know is to Live!" That is the motto that faces you when you enter the cancer information center which opened Wednesday at 103 1/2 S. Clinton street.

The center is part of the yearly educational program of the Johnson county chapter of the American Cancer society, Mrs. Albert Husa, educational chairman, said yesterday.

Statistics Available

Materials about cancer and statistics from research laboratories throughout the country are available at the center. A physician will be there every Wednesday, 1 to 5:30 p.m., for free information service, Mrs. Husa said.

Cancer information centers of this type are doing much to reduce the number of cancer deaths, according to the Metropolitan Life Insurance company. Through public education women particularly have become more alert to danger signs and have sought medical care earlier in the course of the disease when chances of cure are more favorable, statisticians of the company say.

State Meeting

The annual state meeting of the American Cancer society will be held Nov. 21 at Des Moines, Mrs. Husa added.

Iowa Citizens to attend the meeting are Dr. E. D. Plass, vice-chairman of the state executive committee; Dr. H. D. Kerr, a member of the board of directors of the state organization; Dr. C. O. Parks, a member of the Johnson county education and service committee; Mabel Krofta, county secretary; and Mrs. Husa.

Men Style-Shy

Bold Look Doomed Tailor Believes

"The bold look in men's clothing is doomed to fail," said Dewey Robshaw, 1909 Morning-side drive, a life long tailor in men's wear.

"I've been in the tailor trade since a boy," he said, "and my experience is that men are by nature conservative. Through the years their tastes for clothing style vary little."

He pointed out that his 14 years tailoring in Iowa City has taught him that college boys might wear anything.

"But even the college boys," he added, "are choosing more conservative styles."

"Men come in everyday to have their full-drape, one button roll, double breasted suits cut down. It seems to me the full drape is going fast."

"Maybe the men are trying to make amends for the 'new look' in their women's clothing," he laughed.

Robshaw pointed out quickly that he thought women's styles were good today, but that "the dresses are too darn long."

"One thing I'm positive about on this campus," he said smiling, "and that is the G.I.'s have almost worn out all their service clothing."

Probably Left a Bad Penny in the Pocket

HOBART, TASMANIA (AP) — Back in 1941 Angus Bethune, farmer and politician, did a flying course with the RAAF. When it was finished he turned in his flying suit at the quartermaster's store.

The other day Bethune bought at a war disposals store a flying suit to wear as overalls on his farm. Yes, it was the same one he had turned in seven years before. He found his old regimental number in the suit.
