Truman Defends Vinson Trip; Dewey Finishes Second Tour

By THE UNITED PRESS

President Truman invaded the deep south yesterday with a speech defending his short-lived plan to send Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson on a peace mission to Moscow.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey returned to Albany, N. Y., promising to sweep the "cobwebs" out of Washington if he is elected president.

With only two full weeks remaining before election day, the campaign was in a comparative lull.

Mr. Truman spoke to the American Legion convention in Miami after a plane trip from Washington.

Explains Action

Wearing his legion cap, he said his only reason for suggesting that Vinson go to Moscow was to lift the "fog of distrust" between this country and Russia.

This was in answer to charges by Dewey and other Republicans that the President was undercutting American foreign policy by proposing the move.

Mr. Truman got a standing ovation from the 9,000 legionnaires when he concluded his speech in which he promised to keep fighting for peace.

The President continues his only thrust into the deep south today with two speeches at Raleigh, N. C. He is seeking to win back support from rebellious southern Democrats who split with him on the civil rights issue.

A Dewey Birthday

Dewey completed more than 13,000 miles of campaigning and returned to his state capital for his son John's 13th birthday party.

Stumping across New York state during the day, he repeated his proposal for a department of social progress in the government. A similar plan was put forth by Mr. Truman in his state of the union message this year, but congress took no action.

Dewey is slated to address the Herald Tribune forum in New York City on tomorrow, and will speak again Thursday night at a dinner honoring the late Alfred E. Smith. GOP headquarters announced he will make a nationwide broadcast from Cleveland Oct. 27.

Legion Begins '48 Meeting

MIAMI (AP) - The 1948 American Legion convention opened yesterday with an overflow crowd, flying flags, martial music and a roaring welcome for an old comrade in arms - President Truman.

Even before the arrival of the President in mid-morning, gay uniforms filled the streets and music filled the air.

When Mr. Truman flew in aboard his private plane, the Independence, plane formations roared overhead and military and Legion units marched in long processions.

The President later addressed legionnaires in Convention hall. Banners for seven candidates for national commander of the Legion were prominent in the hall, but five of them banded together behind James Green of Omaha in an effort to stop Perry Brown of Beaumont, Texas, the early leader.

The coalition includes Ben C. Hilliard, Denver; Robert Colfiesh, Des Moines; James F. Daniel, Jr., Greenville, S. C.; Bascom Jones, Nashville, Tenn., and Green.

They said they decided to support Green, 33, a World War II veteran, because two-thirds of the Legion's three-million members are veterans of that war.

Hearing Called for Radio 'Giveaways'

WASHINGTON (UP) - Radio "giveaway" programs will have their day in court today.

The federal communications commission has called a one-day hearing so the men behind the "something for nothing" shows can tell why they think their programs are not lotteries.

The FCC believes many of them are. It has proposed a set of rules which, if put into effect, would ban a large number from the air.

The hearing is designed to let those for and against the money shows air their arguments publicly.

Rep. Sam Rayburn To Address Local Democrats Tonight

Sam Rayburn, U.S. representative from Texas and house minority leader of the 80th congress, will speak in Iowa City tonight. State Democratic leaders will hear the Texas congressman talk at two affairs sponsored by the Johnson county Democratic central committee and the Johnson county and SUI Young Democrats.

Gillette at Kiwanis

Gillette will be a guest of the Kiwanis at the club's regular luncheon held at noon in Hotel Jefferson. He is not expected to speak here.

Rayburn will be honored at a dinner in Hotel Jefferson at 6 p.m. and will be the featured speaker at a Democratic meeting open to the public in the Community building at 8 p.m.

Rayburn will travel from Springfield, Mo., and will be met at Burlington by James D. France, Democratic candidate for U.S. representative from the first congressional district. They will proceed here by automobile.

Only Iowa Talk
Rayburn's speeches here will be the only talks he will make in Iowa. He will go from here to Quincy, Ill. tomorrow morning after staying at Hotel Jefferson overnight.

On hand to greet Rayburn will be his cousin, Ed Rayburn of Washington, Iowa, and Mrs. Harry Eicher, widow of the late Iowa congressman and a good friend of Rayburn.

Carroll Switzer, Democratic candidate for governor of Iowa, will not be here as previously announced because of a speaking engagement at Dubuque.

Welcome by Koser
Mayor Preston Koser will welcome the Texas representative to Iowa City. Other noted Democrats attending are Jake Moore, state Democratic chairman; Leroy Mercer, Democratic candidate for state senator from Johnson county and Judge James P. Gaffney.

The seating at the dinner has been increased from 50 to 100 persons because of a large demand for reservations. Ed Lucas, Johnson county Democratic central committee chairman, reported yesterday.

Because the dinner will be held on the second floor of the hotel next to the Johnson county Republican headquarters, Lucas asked Republican officials to take down their campaign banners in the dining room to avoid "embarrassment."

Lucas said that H. J. Dane, Republican county committee chairman, granted the political courtesy.

Court to Consider 'Quickie' Divorces

WASHINGTON (AP) - The supreme court agreed yesterday to spell out, at least a little more precisely, the conditions under which a "quickie" divorce is good throughout the United States.

The decision may shed further light on the question: when a person goes to such a state as Nevada and obtains a divorce, under what circumstances can his home state throw the divorce out?

The ruling may help to meet a demand last year from Justice Robert H. Jackson. He asked then that the court rewrite the interstate divorce rules so a man who remarries and crosses a state line can know "whether he has a wife or a law suit."

Marion and Marian Have Name Trouble

CEDAR RAPIDS (UP) - Marion Dye and his wife, Marian, of Marion, were name-hunting yesterday for a son born in St. Luke's hospital here.

Mrs. Dye said the boy will not be named Marion.

Two-Inch Snow in Pennsylvania

(AP Wirephoto)

SNOW FELL IN HAZELTON, PA., yesterday. And it was more than a token snowstorm - the wet, white blanket was two inches deep. This picture was taken in Hazelton's Memorial park. It was one of the earliest snowstorms on record in Pennsylvania. The snow came with a general cold wave which struck most of the nation over the weekend.

Chilly Day Record Low Set For Oct. 18

Warm and sunny weather is predicted for today after the mercury dropped to a chilly 20 degrees yesterday morning, the coldest temperature recorded here on Oct. 18 in 54 years of weather records.

Today's high is expected to reach 70 degrees.

A cold air mass descended upon Iowa City Saturday, giving this area its first killing frost when the thermometer dropped to 26 degrees early Sunday.

Sunday's low mark matched the all-time low for Oct. 17. It was 23 years ago when Iowa City last saw a 26-degree reading on that date. The coldest reading previously recorded on Oct. 18 was 23 degrees in 1923.

Iowa Citizens were not alone with the unusual weather. The season's first cold wave covered the entire midwest. Coldest spot in Iowa yesterday was Elkader, where the mercury dropped to 11 above zero.

And it could be and has been worse. On Oct. 30, 1925, an all-time record low for the month of four degrees above zero was registered here.

Truman Sets Board To Halt Rail Strike

WASHINGTON (P) - President Truman yesterday created an emergency board to head off a possible strike by one-million railroad workers.

Sixteen rail unions have already begun talking a strike vote. They are asking an eight-hour cut in the basic work week - from 48 to 40 hours - without a decrease in pay.

They have also demanded an increase of 25 cents an hour in basic wage rates. Non-operating workers are involved.

Mr. Truman said in an executive order that a strike would "threaten substantial interruption to interstate commerce" and "deprive the country of essential transportation services."

Under the railroad labor act, a work stoppage is forbidden while the emergency board is studying the dispute. The board has 30 days to make its finding.

Thereafter, neither strike nor lockout can be ordered within 60 days after the board's recommendations go to the White House.

Trans-Atlantic Hop For 15 Superforts

HAMILTON, BERMUDA (UP) - Fifteen superfortress bombers landed here yesterday as the second big postwar movement of U.S. bombers across the Atlantic ocean got under way.

The bombers are en route to Scampton airfield, England, where they will relieve planes of the 28th medium bomber group.

The trans-Atlantic movement, involving 48 superforts and 750 men, is scheduled for completion by tomorrow.

Violence in France As Police, Miners Clash in Coal Fray

PARIS (P) - The government's efforts to save France's coal mines from possible damage by action of Communist-led strikers erupted in violence yesterday.

Police clashed with 1,000 striking coal miners at St. Etienne in south central France, leaving wounded on both sides. The police used tear gas during the battle.

The government had dispatched troops and police to mines threatened by flood and explosion by strikers' refusal to work water pumps and other safety devices. The mines have been idle for more than two weeks, but crews still maintained pumps and other security devices.

Communist union leaders had ordered all security measures halted for 24 hours in protest against presence of police in the mine fields.

When news of the clash reached Paris the Communist strike leaders said they would retaliate by not authorizing any security measures whatsoever.

Egg Thrown at Wallace During Pittsburgh Talk

PITTSBURGH (UP) - Henry A. Wallace was given a reminder of his recent egg-spattered tour through the south last night when a single egg was thrown at him during a speech before 3,000 people.

The egg landed on his manuscript, while he was making an angry attack on President Truman, and splattered on the floor beside him.

Palestine War Brings Emergency UN Call

Jews Refuse To Halt Fire, But Will Talk

TEL AVIV (P) - Israel rejected last night the latest United Nations proposal for a cease-fire in the Negev fighting, but agreed to hold peace talks with the Egyptians.

Israeli infantry and armor, with air support, have already blasted open a supply road, to 23 Jewish settlements in the Negev - the southern Palestine desert.

Can't Accept

The Israeli foreign office said the Jews could not accept the UN proposal for a three-day truce in the Negev fighting unless the UN can guarantee that the Egyptians will refrain from taking advantage of the truce to improve their positions.

As to UN proposals for peace talks in Jerusalem, the foreign office said Israel was ready to meet the Egyptians any time and any place for such discussions.

The Jews launched their offensive in the Negev last Friday after the Egyptians attacked a Jewish convoy which had been dispatched for the obvious purpose of seeing whether it would draw fire.

Issue in Doubt

A strategist close to the Israeli high command said he believed that, in addition to opening the road to the Negev, the Jews had succeeded in throwing "the entire Negev issue into doubt and confusion just as it was to come before the United Nations."

Count Folke Bernadotte, the assassinated UN mediator, had recommended that the Negev be given the Arabs. The original UN partition plan made it Jewish territory. Israel has protested the Bernadotte recommendation.

Fire Again Takes Toll In Texas City

TEXAS CITY (UP) - An explosion followed by fire ripped through a butane gas tank here last night. At least three persons were known dead and 17 were known injured, most of them suffering burns.

William Kayser of radio station KTLW reported that 15 injured had been received at Danforth Memorial hospital here and that two persons had been taken to John Sealy hospital in Galveston.

The flash fire which followed the explosion threw a mass of flames across the Texas City-Galveston highway, enveloping more than two dozen passing automobiles, Kayser reported.

Bring Your Own Bicarbonate

CIRCLEVILLE, O. (UP) - Ohio's rival to the New Orleans Mardi Gras - the Circleville Pumpkin show - will open here tomorrow but no one really knows what will occur outside of the consumption of tons of pumpkin pie at a nickel a slice.

Cigar-chewing Robert Colville, who has pumped the vegetable extravaganza along for 42 years but doesn't know what will happen this year, said, "Heck, if we had any organization the show would flop."

Colville said he believed 200,000 people would be here for the four-day event featuring a five-cent slice of pie, non-alcoholic "pumpkin-jack" and pumpkin soup.

ECA Asks More Aid To Europe and China

WASHINGTON (P) - More U.S. dollars for European recovery and a bigger long-range program for China were urged yesterday by two officials of the Economic Cooperation administration.

Roger Lapham, chief of ECA's $275-million China aid program, suggested a four-year recovery plan for China as well as Europe.

"If it is going to take four years for Europe, it probably won't take any less for China," Lapham told newsmen on his return from the orient.

"It is my personal view that we should plan at a longer range than our present one-year try. I don't think they (the Chinese) are going to get back on their feet in a year."

He declined to estimate China's help beyond the present one-year program.

Another ECA official, Edward T. Dickinson, said congress will be asked for more money to pay for European recovery until mid-1949. He did not say how much more.

Dickinson told a news conference that ECA's present fund of $5,055,000,000 will be committed sometime before April 1, 1949. The money, authorized by congress, was intended to last until next July 1.

Dickinson said ECA administrator Paul G. Hoffman will ask President Truman to authorize the use of the entire present appropriation by April 1, instead of spreading it out to July 1.

Congress has specified that the President might authorize use of the funds in 12 months instead of 15 if necessary.

Quit Liquor at 70, He's Lived to 103

HAMMOND, IND. (UP) - Mike Kwiotwolski, who gave up drinking 30 years ago because he was getting "too old" observed his 103rd birthday yesterday.

Kwiotwolski still smokes a pipe and takes a daily walk of several blocks. He attributes his longevity to hard work as a boy in his native Poland.

Greek Honor Guard Turns Out for Marshall

Yesterday Marshall flew to Rome for a one-day visit before returning to the United Nations meeting in Paris today.

Israel, Berlin Issues to Be Argued Today

PARIS (P) - The United Nations security council last night was ordered into emergency session to cope with the new war in Palestine. The session was set for 4:30 a.m. (Iowa Time) this morning, only a few hours ahead of another meeting on the Berlin situation.

Ralph Bunche, UN mediator requested the special meeting after Israel rejected his plea for a three-day cease-fire in the Negev, southern Palestine desert region where Israeli and Egyptian forces are battling.

'Breach of Truce'

In an emergency report to the council, Bunche declared that a "serious breach of the truce is involved in the new Negev outbreak" and demanded "prompt intervention" by the council.

"It would seem clear," Bunche said, "that the military action of the last few days has been on a scale which would only be undertaken after considerable preparation and could scarcely be explained as a simple retaliatory action for an attack on a truck convoy."

This apparently was a reference to an Israeli complaint earlier last night that a Jewish convoy has been attacked by the Egyptians on its way into the Negev.

Fourth Session
The Berlin session will be the council's fourth since the United States, Britain and France charged that the Soviet blockade of Berlin is a threat to world peace.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei V. Vishinsky was expected to continue his verbal boycott, but there was a possibility that he might answer questions posed by the council's six neutrals in writing. The western powers planned to reply orally.

Argentina sources reported that the Kremlin was offering a "new Soviet stand" for settlement of the Berlin dispute outside the council. These sources regarded it as "providing more flexibility" but added that Russia still is refusing to discuss Berlin in the council.

No Comment
Bunche declined to say what he expected the council to do to halt the Jewish-Arab fighting. The 11 delegates have before them from a previous session a joint British-Chinese resolution ordering both sides to cooperate more fully with UN truce personnel.

The council already has passed a series of resolutions calling for an end to fighting and to go beyond that it would have to vote economic sanctions or some penalties against violators.

"It looks to me," Bunche said, "that somebody will have to move back. It wouldn't be the first time, both the Jews and Arabs in the past have moved their position at our request."

Bunche declared an "indispensable condition to a restoration of the situation (in Palestine) is an immediate and effective cease fire."

After that he suggested these conditions:
1. Withdrawal of Arabs and Jews to positions occupied before the new outbreak.

2. Acceptance by Arabs and Jews of UN conditions covering convoys in the fighting area.

3. Agreement to negotiate through the UN problems such as the return of Arab refugees, crop harvesting, evacuation of Jewish settlements held by Egyptian forces, and the stationing of UN observers throughout the area.

Duchess Stays Behind As Duke Visits Mother

LONDON (UP) - The Duke of Windsor arrived by boat from France yesterday for a short visit with his mother, Queen Mary, at Marlborough house.

The Duchess of Windsor, who is not recognized by Queen Mary, remained in Paris. The Duke plans to return to Paris Thursday.

U.S. Fighter Planes Keep Combat Alert In Occupied Zone

By JOHN B. MCDERMOTT
BERLIN (UP) - A group of U. S. fighter planes has been kept at continuous combat alert since last winter because of forays by foreign aircraft over the American zone of Germany, pilots at Frankfurt said yesterday.

Thunderbolts of the 88th fighter group, commanded by Col. C. T. Edwinton of Topeka, Kan., are maintaining a 24-hour vigil to inspect strange planes whose flights over U. S. occupied territory average one a day, the pilots said.

American radar stations which can identify "friendly" and "enemy" craft by the plane's radio signals are constantly sweeping border areas searching for maverick planes. Most of them come from the Russian occupation zone and from Austria, the pilots declared.

Pilots are on 15-minute call and the men have proved that the entire fighter group can be airborne in 18 minutes. One night 13 planes were sent up.

Two planes are on standby duty, armed and ready for combat, along landing strips of the group's base at Neiberg in southern Germany, it was reported.

Many of the planes checked by the American fighters may have been jet propelled fighters because they are so much faster than the Thunderbolts, the pilots said.

These were the other developments in Germany today:
1. A C-54 airlift plane was severely shaken by a ground explosion while flying over the Soviet zone, setting off reports it had been fired upon by anti-aircraft artillery.

2. The British said the Russian representative at the four-power air safety center in Berlin had protested alleged western allied violations of regulations, charging that planes on Saturday flew below the authorized height over the Soviet zone's Dallgow airfield.

Marshall in Rome For One-Day Visit

ROME (UP) - United States Secretary of State George C. Marshall arrived yesterday by air from Athens for a one-day visit.

Grim, he stepped from his plane to say he would talk with Premier Alcide De Gasperi and other top Italian leaders about "what we hope will be a prolonged peace."

He will return to Paris and the United Nations general assembly tomorrow.

Foreign Minister Count Carlo Sforza, American Ambassador James Clement Dunn and the economic recovery program administrator for Italy, James Zellerbach, greeted him at the airport.

Marshall first paid a 30-minute "cordial, private visit of homage" to President Luigi Einaudi at Quirinal Palace.

Speeches, Tea, Style Show Slated for 'Profile Preview'

Speeches on fashions and beauty care will highlight Profile Preview's first session tomorrow at 4:30 p.m. in the senate chamber of Old Capitol. Speakers will be Bonnie Hurlburt of Norman Cassidy department store, Des Moines, and Mrs. Frank Pitzenberger, Pitzer's Beauty salon, Waterloo.

The two-day program, a grooming clinic and style show, is sponsored annually by the University Women's association.

Miss Hurlburt, a graduate of the school of journalism here in 1938, has been associated with Norman Cassidy for the past ten years. Advertising and promotional manager originally, she has been buyer of accessories, sportswear and junior fashions for the last eight years.

Travels Extensively
To gather information on resort wear and playclothes, Miss Hurlburt has traveled to Bermuda, Nassau and Havana. Her position also requires visits to New York fashion markets at least six times a year.

"My most interesting buying trip and promotional planning," she says, "is for the college girls' annual August back-to-school shopping."

"There is always something new in fashion," she contends. "That's why I believe it's the most fascinating and exciting business for women today."

Prior to her cosmetology career, Mrs. Pitzenberger graduated from Iowa State Teachers college, Cedar Falls, and taught elementary grades for five years.

Plan Interviews
Interviews with the two speakers will be held all day Thursday. Women may sign up before and after the talks.

Thursday's program will feature a 4 p.m. tea in the home economics department, Macbride hall, and an 8 o'clock style show in the river room of the Union with freshmen and transfer women modeling their own clothes.

A special event of the program this year will be the presentation of a model chosen by the judges as having the perfect profile.

48 hours pay for 40 hours work

Total 1 1/2 BILLION DOLLARS

1 1/2 Billion Dollar Road Block!

RAILROADS MUST OPERATE around the clock every day and night of the year.

Although they know this, leaders of 16 railroad unions are demanding a five-day, Monday through Friday, week for one million railroad employees.

They want 48 hours pay for 40 hours work—in itself a 20% wage increase.

They also demand a minimum of 12 hours pay for any work performed on Saturdays, and 16 hours pay for any work performed on Sundays and holidays.

On top of all this they want an additional increase of 25c an hour for every employe!

You'd Pay the Bill!

Summing up these demands, they mean that these union leaders seek to force the railroads to give one million employes an annual raise which would average $1500 per employe!

The total cost of this would be no less than 1 1/2 billion dollars per year, which is more than twice the expected net income of the railroads this year.

You'd pay the bill, because if these increased costs are forced on the railroads, they must have still further rate and fare increases.

Demands Unreasonable

These employes have had substantial raises during and since the war. Their average weekly earnings are higher than the average weekly earnings of workers in manufacturing industries. They have more job security than the average worker in American industry. They also enjoy paid vacations, a retirement system and other advantages more generous than the average worker receives.

In contrast with the demands of these 16 unions, which add up to the equivalent of 48c an hour, the Conductors and Trainmen recently settled their wage request for an increase of 10c an hour.

Railroads Run for Everybody—Not Employes Alone

The railroad industry must serve not one but many groups—producers, businessmen, shippers, passengers and the general public—night and day, every day of the year. These unions are proceeding in utter disregard of this important difference between railroads and other industries. Industrial plants can be shut down over weekends and holidays, but freight, mail, express and passengers must continue to move. Everybody who enters railroad employment knows this.

Strike Threat

On September 18, 1948, the leaders of these 16 unions began taking a strike vote. But the threat of a strike will not alter the opposition of the railroads to such unreasonable demands!

Realism from Palestine

Palestine—the dilemma force was supposed to have fixed—is on the police docket again.

The brawl began last Friday. The Jews dispatched a convoy into the Negev desert supposedly to supply isolated Jewish settlements.

The Arabs figured the convoy was dispatched only to see if it would draw fire—so they fired. Refreshed Israeli forces quickly advanced into the disputed land. Soon they opened supply roads to approximately 1,000 Jews in 23 isolated settlements in the desert.

The capital of Arab Palestine—Gaza—was threatened. The UN truce observers were thrown off guard.

If allowed to go unchecked, the Jews will recapture the Negev and disrupt Arab Palestine, the UN truce commission and the Bernadotte plan.

But the United Nations security council is meeting today in emergency session to do something about it. Up to this time, the UN has done every conceivable thing a world organization without teeth can do.

Under the original UN partition plan, the Jewish state was to get the southern Palestine strip of desert. Later, the Bernadotte plan assigned the land to Arab Palestine and gave the Jews a new chunk of northern Palestine.

The Israeli government protested this portion of the Bernadotte plan.

Living space and past Jewish development are the arguments the Jews advance for retaining the Negev desert. Military force now adds to their argument as the UN is forced to take up the Holy Land dispute.

Once again, we must witness an international watchdog with no teeth try to bite the prowler, force.

Armed Philosophy for the Future?

In ivy-covered halls and quiet retreats on many American campuses academic minds are projecting the cold war into the future. The pattern of thought cropping up is new . . . almost revolutionary.

In a recent convocation address, President Morrill of the University of Minnesota stated that the nation needs a compulsory national service system for young men.

He proposed that all young men reaching a certain age "should be classified and assigned to specific kinds of work." Such a scheme would involve from 700,000 to 800,000 youth each year.

Similarly, but with a more drastic note, Harvard's President James B. Conant sounded the same theme in a recent New York address.

He suggested that the nation's military needs be filled by enrolling every boy of 18 into a national militia for ten years. To pull such statements out of the isolated realm of sensationalism, a little probing is needed.

Conant hit a main line of thought squarely when he said the United States must assume an "armed truce until at least the middle fifties and a divided world for a long time to come."

This new line of thinking, this projection of the present cold war does not feel that either war or appeasement is necessary. Nor is the feeling one of futility.

Armed peace and divided world—these are the cold-steel prospects the university presidents and professors are contemplating. Perhaps President Eisenhower of Columbia will soon add his voice as the nation's most eminent general-scholar to the chorus.

Our philosophers of tomorrow realize that the U.S. and Russia will not find peace overnight. They also believe that a war between them or the collapse of one of them is remote.

The problem then is how to live together in a carved up world. Can our democracy survive? Can civil rights? Is a peacetime draft enough, or must we seek more drastic measures?

There are no answers yet. There are only a few scattered suggestions . . . and a few idle atomic bombs for inspiration.

Well, What Did They Do in Congress?

Wilson, Gillette, Martin Bring Records into Campaign

Republican candidate, Senator Wilson and Representative Martin will be up for reelection in November. Democrat former Senator Gillette is in the race. An examination of their voting records in congress will provide some insight as to their abilities both as legislators and as elected agents of the voters they represent.

Congressional voting records, it is true, cannot be judged solely by surface appearances. Logrolling and other motives are behind the picture and frequently cause an individual voting record to assume a contradictory character. But on major items of legislation any congressman will tend strongly to show his true colors.

Senator Wilson's voting record assumes the general hue of the Republican majority of the 80th congress.

He has voted for all the major Republican measures to cut federal budgetary appropriations, reduce personal income taxes and economize on such projects as the TVA. He has voted for all measures reducing European aid to a minimum figure of four billion dollars.

He did not vote to restore excess profits taxes or to repeal the federal tax on oleomargarine. The senate did not repeal the latter because of strong pressure by farm organizations. Wilson voted not to cut flood and river control funds which are a corollary of soil conservation.

On issues of foreign trade Wilson practiced caution along with the Republican majority. The reciprocal trade agreements act was extended for only one year and Wilson went along with the majority in settling on that period.

The 80th congress has shown a tendency to revert to tariff protection. Wilson has seemingly fallen in line with the tendency.

He voted against extending the reciprocal trade agreements act without changes. The changes that were made allow tariff discriminations at least on commodities not covered by the act.

In labor matters Wilson has voted for the Taft-Hartley act, curbing of industry-wide bargaining, banning of postal-to-postal suits, outlawing of union and closed shops and allowance of private injunctions in jurisdictional strikes.

All this would indicate a conservative leaning towards labor, yet he voted against a bill which would allow no employer-financed, union-controlled welfare funds.

The senator stood with the moderate Republicans in providing for defense. He voted for only a two-year draft revival and voted against the Greek-Turkish aid bill. He voted for a 70-group air force.

On the matter of communism Wilson voted for the Vandenberg foreign policy resolution and the atomic commission loyalty check. He voted against the appointment of Lillenthal to head the atomic energy commission.

He voted for the admittance of 200,000 displaced. Wilson voted against the 12-month rent control extension and voted for the fifteen percent rent boost agreement by tenant and landlord.

The senator voted against a public housing program and federal aid to education. His vote was not reported on the question of federal aid to church schools.

The overall tone of his approach to federal legislation is neither liberal nor conservative, but moderate, according to his voting record.

He follows strongly in line with Republican promises to reduce taxes and practice economy in government and extends this to his voting in foreign as well as domestic bills.

On the matter of the national debt he voted for using surplus funds for debt retirement. Having been sent to Congress by a farming state the senator's record will be examined closely for farm support. Luckily for all congressmen from any farm states, the 80th congress allowed major farm programs, instituted under the New Deal, to emerge without substantial change.

Representative Martin tends to follow the same voting groove as Senator Wilson. In fact, his voting record could almost be marked as a repeat where major legislation is concerned.

He has gone along with the Republican majority in its program of government economy by voting for all major tax and appropriation reduction bills. He voted against the six billion dollar foreign aid bill and the Greek-Turkish aid bill. He has voted for the limiting of foreign aid to 200 million dollars and was against the European recovery program.

On rent control Martin was against a one-year extension and voted for the bill decentralizing rent control to local boards.

In agriculture he voted for restoration of cuts in reclamation and farm funds. He voted against repeal of the federal oleomargarine tax and against shelving the wool protection bill. He was for increasing loan funds for rural electrification.

Martin voted in favor of states rights to tidelands oils but was against a new steam plant for the TVA.

He has voted for funds for congressional Communist probes but failed to vote for funds keeping the Voice of America program on a full-time basis. He voted for the subversive control bill.

He voted against the Wolcott housing bill. His vote was cast for the reduction of social security coverage to one percent.

Martin voted for the admittance of limited numbers of displaced persons. He was in favor of only a one-year extension of the reciprocal trade agreements act.

On defense he voted for a 70-group air force. A complete judgment of a congressman's voting record must take into account the forces at work behind the legislator.

Wilson and Martin are both from a traditionally farm, Republican state. In the popular mind, Iowa is predominantly agricultural in its modes and outlooks.

Yet economic figures show that nearly half of Iowa's income is derived from industry. Of course these industries are mainly ones like meatpacking, farm equipment and food processing which depend to a large extent upon agriculture for raw materials and markets. Yet the workers in the industries form a strongly organized branch of industrial labor and account for a considerable vote with interests divergent from the farmers' at many points.

Wilson and Martin will have to contend with powerful lobbies like that of the farm bureau and the labor fronts.

The George A. Wilson-Guy M. Gillette senatorial race appears to be a close and hard-fought one this year. The possibility exists that Gillette could be elected and help toward the four seats that the Democrats need for a senate majority.

A recent Des Moines Register poll showed Wilson with only a one percent lead over the Democratic candidate Gillette. An early October poll of farm sentiment by Wallace's Farmer and Iowa Homestead magazine shows that Gillette is now favored by 44 percent of the farm vote compared to 50 percent for the Republican incumbent Wilson.

This is a 10 percent gain for Gillette over last month's poll. The September poll gave Wilson 50 percent and Gillette only 34 percent.

The importance of a thorough scrutiny of the merits of both candidates cannot be over-emphasized in a race as close as this one.

The usual amount of accusations and insinuations are being thrown out from both sides, especially from the Democratic camp.

Senator Wilson is being pictured as an absentee senator, an isolationist, an anti-laborite, and stories are circulating concerning his personal behavior.

The Democrats have great confidence in Gillette's vote-getting ability. The confidence is well placed. In the past Gillette has consistently run ahead of the rest of the Democratic ticket.

Gillette served in the senate for two terms. He went out in 1944 when he was defeated by Hickenlooper, Iowa's junior senator.

His congressional record shows him to be a friend of the farmer; he headed the senate committee to secure new markets for farm products in industry, he served on the senate committee for development and protection of the rural electrification program and in general backed Roosevelt's farm program. He also appears to be in favor of more rights for labor and to be anti-monopolistic.

Gillette incurred the wrath of the late President Roosevelt when he opposed his court plan. For this reason Gillette was one of the congressmen on Roosevelt's purge list in 1938. In spite of this, Gillette was reelected and returned to the Senate.

There he opposed many of FDR's measures which he felt were edging us closer to war. He voted against the lend-lease bill and against neutrality legislation.

His isolationistic views began to change as the war progressed however and in the latter part of his senatorial career he served as a member of the bi-partisan Senate committee which helped draft the United Nations charter.

He was a senior member of the senate agriculture committee and if re-elected it is likely that he will be given the chairmanship of that committee. He is also the highest ranking member of the small business committee.

Community Chest Drive Tops $15,000 Mark

The end of the Community Chest drive loomed nearer yesterday, as total returns received were described as "over $15,000" by Mrs. J. L. Records, Community Chest permanent secretary.

This would move chest totals to just $4,732.76 shy of the goal of $19,732.76.

Exact tabulations of funds that came in yesterday were impossible as chest headquarters was swamped by an avalanche of late-evening returns.

But Mrs. Records said she was positive the drive had topped the $15,000 mark.

Yesterday was the first day of the chest's "overtime" period. The campaign was scheduled to end last Saturday, provided the quota was reached in the previous two-week period.

This is not the first year the Iowa City community chest drive has been extended.

Last year was the first time that the quota was realized within the time allotted.

The campaign last year netted a surplus of $7,000 over its set goal.

The surplus funds of last year will be held as a reserve for years when business and economic conditions are not favorable to large contributions, according to D. B. Williamson, community chest campaign director.

McBride's Haul advertisement featuring a cartoon illustration of a man with glasses and a typewriter, and the text 'McBride's Haul By BILL MCBRIDE'.

Friday morning I gathered up enough nerve to peek into the room in the basement of Schaeffer hall which is labeled by a well-varnished shingle over the door stating, "English Reading Room. Rainey and Springer Collections."

It took considerable nerve to make that first peek. A typewritten notice on the door explains in perfectly good English that the interior of that room is for the exclusive use of English majors and honor graduate students.

I am not an English major, not a graduate student and (I can prove this with a probation slip) positively and without doubt am not an honor student.

That honor student business used to be the bane of my academic efforts, but lately I have developed a philosophy about being an honor student. Some of us have it, and others are completely without.

It is beginning to look like the only key I'll ever have on my pocket chain is the one to my GI footlocker. How much does it cost to have a footlocker key gold plated?

Disregarding the yellowed typewritten note, I summoned sufficient courage to walk in. Never have I been so utterly surrounded, engulfed and immersed into such a delicate bath of literary silence. It was so quiet I was ashamed by my hair growing noisily without regard for the dozen or so scholars bent over books therein.

A pleasant young man in charge, Eugene Talmadge by name, met me with his eyes, which moved inaudibly in my direction. It was a large hole which appeared in the reading room stillness when I whispered to Eugene that I had come to nose around.

I never supposed such a small whisper could create so much racket.

We left the room quickly. Once out in the hall I learned reading room silence is of a peculiar variety. While it is delicate and easily broken, at the same time it is thick and syrupy.

It still clings to you after you leave. The first 10 sentences of our conversation were whispered before I thought to brush the silence off and use my normal, vibrant, speaking voice.

Eugene and I got along famously from the start. He agreed to show me through the reading room, and carefully explained the history of the place before we went in.

At first I suspected he was being nice because of what I had seen him reading when I first entered. It turned out that he wasn't buying my silence with kindness, but is just naturally a good fellow.

However, I would like to know how he managed to turn to this column in Friday morning's Iowan without completely disturbing every one in that aphonic room.

After a thorough briefing in the hall, we made a path through the delicate, syrupy silence and tip-toed over to the nearest bookshelf. I thought about removing my shoes, but noticed everyone else had left theirs on, so abandoned the idea.

We looked at an enormous "Currier and Ives," and dabbled momentarily in art as we thumbed through a book on mediaeval painting. The engravings in a book entitled "Ireland Illustrated" held the same misty, entrancing qualities that an Irish tenor's rendition of "Danny Boy" puts forth.

Time permitted only a hasty inspection of the room and its contents, but the bindings of the books alone made the trip worthwhile. All of the golds, reds, yellows and greens of autumn, for example, are to be seen protecting volumes of Thackeray's works.

In a glass case, among other things, there is a Charles Dickens signature. Another case holds several locks of Keats' hair. I don't know why anyone, even an honor student, would care to have stray locks of Keats' hair around. Might come in handy as a conversation filler. "Did you know Keats' hair was a sort of dull, reddish brown color?"

Just before I left for class, Eugene presented me with a gem of philosophy from a book of interpretations from the Talmud. I quote the gem: "One cup of wine is good for a woman, two are disgracing, three demoralizing and four brutalizing. . . . No comment."

Recess Trial Of Anderson; Jury Selected

The trial of Oscar Anderson vs. the State of Iowa was recessed until 9 a.m. tomorrow shortly after the jury was sworn in at 4:37 p.m. yesterday in Johnson county district court.

The recess came after it was learned that one of the defense attorneys, Edward L. O'Connor, must appear before the supreme court in Des Moines today on another matter.

Thirty-two petit jurors of the September term of court were questioned before the twelve who will try the Anderson case were selected.

Charged With Shooting
Anderson, a 58-year-old former stepfather, is charged with the shooting of Clifford Kelly, 221 S. Linn street, at the Strand cafe in Iowa City last April 22.

After an early plea of not guilty, Anderson changed his plea Wednesday to not guilty by reason of insanity.

Jurors selected for the trial are: George R. Dane, 1st ward, Lillian M. Keyser, 2nd ward, Vincent Grablin, Oxford, Myrtle Conklin, 1st ward, Aaron Rowe, Clear Creek, Fred Gegenheimer, Oxford, and Vance Spratt, Oxford.

Clark J. Sloan, 4th ward, Glen D. Cochran, 4th ward, Josephine Gillette, 2nd ward, Agnes Morse, 1st ward and Jacob W. Kadera, 4th ward.

Boost Press Run Of SUI Yearbooks

An unprecedented advance sale of the Hawkeye, SUI's yearbook, has boosted the previously set press run, Hawkeye editor John Tyson reported yesterday.

SUI students have purchased 140 Hawkeyes, exclusive of those awarded free to seniors.

To handle the demand, the press run, formerly set at 4,600 copies, has been increased to 5,000 or more, Tyson said. The Hawkeye staff plans to have the 1949 book ready for distribution by May 16. Seniors who have received a free copy of the 1948 book will have to buy the 1949 issue, Tyson explained.

The final sales campaign will run from Oct. 25 to Nov. 4.

Moving Color Gives — Emotional Response

— Much Like Music —
By DONALD KEY

Color can create a response in much the same way as music or the other fine arts. This was proven to an Iowa City audience last night in the university theater.

Thomas Wilfred, director of the Institute of Light at West Nyack, N. Y., demonstrated an instrument called the clavalux. By the use of form, movement, and color he expressed and developed moods and a new type of tone poem on a screen.

'Swan of Tuonela'
His first effect, a scene created in his mind by the "Swan of Tuonela," was very successful in arousing audience response.

He explained each effect to the audience as he proceeded with the recital. The colors are projected on the screen by the use of a series of lens, or of mirrors.

Called 'Lumia'
This medium of expression, perhaps a new fine art in infancy, is called "Lumia." It has no relation to the other mediums except as a fine art, and it does not rely on any of them for support.

It seems that the biggest problem in the production of these paintings is the problem of production.

During the third dimension. To obtain this, the clavalux is equipped with a special lens arranged in tubular fashion. Another sequence made use of a diaphragm which opens and narrows a beam of light.

Constant Interruptions
Only one thing spoiled my complete enjoyment of these light pictures. The constant interruptions of light from other sources and the voice of the lecturer explaining the illusion made it impossible for me to concentrate on the screen.

This demonstration, however, is well worth seeing and experiencing.

Matchan Says Labor Unions, Common People Help Europe

A former North Dakota newspaper owner and editor, who was forced out of business last October by an advertising boycott of businessmen last night told an audience of about eighty persons how the common people, led by the labor unions, are rebuilding war-shattered Europe.

The newspaperman, Don G. Matchan, former owner of the Valley City, N. D., Times-Record, rambled through at least 15 European countries in his Students for Wallace sponsored talk in the geology auditorium.

Matchan told how he spent his time talking to "plain people" during his recent nine-month tour of Europe.

Led by Unions

Led by trade unions, the plain people are forming "a new pattern" in Europe, he said.

He lauded "socialistic" governments that are now "practically complete" in eastern Europe.

As "the Nazi armies retreated," he explained, the industrialists who had collaborated with Hitler were thrown out.

Trade unions, in the eastern European countries especially, then played "the decisive part" in nationalizing Nazi overrun nations.

This socialization means better wages, shorter hours, paid vacations, better living conditions and special privileges for the working people, he continued.

Feeling of Freedom

He told how the people have "a feeling of freedom for the first time" with governments drawn from the ranks of labor.

"It is not possible for 11 union men to go to jail as it is in Iowa," he emphasized.

The workers have "real enthusiasm," too, he said. "I saw workers singing as they hauled concrete" in Yugoslavia.

"I liked their papers," he said, because they are "bent on telling what other people of the world are thinking and doing" rather than sensationalizing. Newspapers there have a "much broader ownership" than in the U.S., he added.

Agents Killed Polk

Matchan climaxed his rambling talk by telling an interested audience that "agents of the Greek military or the Greek government killed" CBS correspondent George Polk in Salonika bay last May.

An Associated Press story yesterday said the Greek government named a top Communist as the trigger man.

"I'll never believe George was killed by a Communist," Matchan exclaimed. He told of being with Polk the night before the slaying. Polk had a "lot of dope" on the

Sharps and Flats To 'Mix' Tonight

Square dancing and "Carousel" music will be featured at the Sharps and Flats mixer in the river room of the Iowa union tonight.

The "doings" will be open to all married students, said Mrs. Henry Good, president, and will start at eight p.m.

Nat Williams will play, Mrs. Ina Copeland will call the square dances and the Sharps and Flats, married students' chorus, will sing a medley of songs from "Carousel."

Mrs. Good said guests at the mixer will be invited to join in the singing, and later, to join the 30-voice chorus.

Farmers Irked by Parking Problems

Farmers have been urged by the Madison township farm bureau to patronize small towns until the parking situation in Iowa City eases, according to a letter received by the chamber of commerce yesterday.

The letter contained a resolution passed by the bureau at its Oct. 7 meeting stating, "We recommend that all farmers patronize small towns or outlying places of business as much as possible to relieve the parking situation in Iowa City until the authorities find parking facilities or show more courtesy to the farm trade."

Madison township is in the northwest part of the county, west of North Liberty. It does not include North Liberty, however.

The Iowa City parking situation has been a common topic of conversation for the farmers in that area, Carl Snively, president of the township farm bureau said.

He was the son of Lawrence Kerns and was admitted to University hospitals Oct. 15. Eight new polio patients were admitted to University hospitals and four were discharged. ## City Officials to Observe Burlington Lights

The joint city council-chamber of commerce light committee will travel to Burlington tomorrow night to observe an incandescent lighting system installed recently there, Alderman W. H. Grandrath said yesterday.

Grandrath is chairman of the city council's light committee. The group visited Rock Island Oct. 7 to observe the mercury-vapor type of street lighting. Both trips are in connection with the Iowa City lighting problem. A survey taken last month revealed that over 30 of the 71 downtown lights were not working.

The city engineer has made temporary repairs of short circuits in the wiring of the business district lights but city officials say that all the wiring must be replaced before the lights will operate satisfactorily.

A completely new lighting system has been proposed and the committee from the chamber of commerce was appointed because this would call for an assessment of the adjacent property owners.

Members of the city council committee, besides Grandrath, are Aldermen Frank Fryauf Jr. and James Jones. The chamber of commerce committee includes Roy Ewers, Joe Cilek and W. J. Jackson.

Other officials making the trip will be Mayor Preston Koser, Robert Gage, chamber of commerce secretary, City Attorney William Bartley, City Engineer Fred Gartzke and Police Chief E. J. Ruppert.
