FCC, Winchell May Spoil Giveaways

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal communications commission put in a hard day's work yesterday, trying to find the answer to questions like this:

Does a person have the right, under our constitution, to give away refrigerators—and the kitchen sink—on radio programs?

This came up because the FCC doesn't like give-away programs. It has issued an order which would knock many of these shows off the air. But it held a hearing yesterday to see whether it was right in putting out such a regulation.

The answer: yes and no, depending on who was answering.

Bruce Bromely, the lawyer who successfully defended "Esquire" when it was about to lose its mailing privileges, appeared for the American Broadcasting company. He said no, as did many another radio lawyer.

Paul Porter, who used to boss the OPA, appeared for Radio Station WTHH, Baltimore. He said yes.

The American Broadcasting company has a Sunday night show, "Stop The Music," which sometimes passes out as much as $30,000 worth of booty in a single night. It would be barred if the order were strictly enforced.

Bromely argued that congress didn't give the FCC the right to rule on lotteries. If anything is illegal, he said, let the justice department draw up the charges.

If the FCC insists on putting out an order anyway, he said, it will in effect be censoring the programs, which might be a violation of the constitutional right of free speech.

Furthermore, said Bromely, these shows aren't lotteries. "The supreme court," he said, "has ruled that to gamble means to squander or fritter away money. All our listeners lose is the opportunity to listen to some other program."

Bromely said people don't listen to shows like this just in the hopes of hitting the jackpot. "Figures show," Bromely read from his prepared remarks, "that 29 and a half millions who had no chance to win listened to Miss Hush and the Walking Man." And then he added this aside, "Whatever that is."

FCC Chairman Wayne Coy said he couldn't see where any skill was required.

"All that is required is the ability to read. The answer has been published in papers. Or to hear. The answer also has been broadcast."

"Well, that's not part of our plan," said Bromely. After a moment's pause, he said, "I don't know what we're going to do about this fellow Winchell."

Walter Winchell, among others, has passed out tips on the correct tunes involved on "Stop The Music."

Most of the other attorneys for the broadcasters sided with Bromely and argued that the FCC has no power to halt the giveaways.

But Porter took the opposite view.

"I think it's not only the right, but the duty of this body to interfere," Porter said.

He called the give-aways "a cancerous growth on American broadcasting."

"If this sort of thing is allowed to continue," said Porter gloomily, "we're bound to wind up with still another show."

"It'll be called, 'You Ain't Seen Nothin' Yet.'"

Mrs. FDR Backs President; AFL Predicts Demo Senate

By THE UNITED PRESS

President Truman bid for the votes of southern Democrats yesterday, while his GOP opponent quietly planned the final stage of his confident campaign for the White House.

With voting only two weeks away, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt announced her "unqualified" support for Mr. Truman's candidacy in a letter made public at the White House. Her letter particularly urged Democrats and independents to elect liberal Democratic congressmen and senators.

Sen. Scott W. Lucas of Illinois, an administration spokesman, and officials of the AFL political league joined in predicting the Democrats will win control of the senate regardless of the outcome of the Presidential race.

Mr. Truman made his bid for the southern vote in two speeches in Raleigh, N. C. He said that a vote for the States Rights ticket would help only the Republicans—the same argument he used in a California speech recently urging liberals not to vote for Henry A. Wallace's Progressive party.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey mapped the remainder of his campaign while resting at his New York state capital from his latest midwest tour.

Lucas, who is Democratic senatorial campaign director, claimed that his party will seize GOP seats in seven states—Minnesota, Kentucky, Oklahoma, West Virginia, Wyoming, Illinois and Iowa. That would give the Democrats a four-vote senate majority providing they lose no seats they now hold—and Lucas said they won't.

He also said the Democrats have a good chance of capturing Idaho, Delaware and Michigan from the Republicans.

George M. Harrison, head of the AFL's political department, said in a confidential final report that the Democrats are certain of capturing four GOP seats—enough to assure them a one-man senate majority. He listed the states as Minnesota, Oklahoma, West Virginia and Wyoming.

Committee to Probe 'Illegal' Campaigning

WASHINGTON (UP)—A congressional investigation was ordered yesterday into charges that federal employees are campaigning illegally in New Mexico for Executive Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson, Democratic candidate for the senate.

The inquiry was set in motion by a house subcommittee on publicity and propaganda, headed by Rep. Forest A. Harness, (R-Ill.) It appeared to be aimed primarily at Secretary of the Interior J. A. Krug and a group of his department aides who are now in New Mexico on the last lap of a tour of western reclamation projects.

Word of the investigation came on the heels of a statement by Harness blasting the Krug tour as a "purely political trip" financed by the taxpayers.

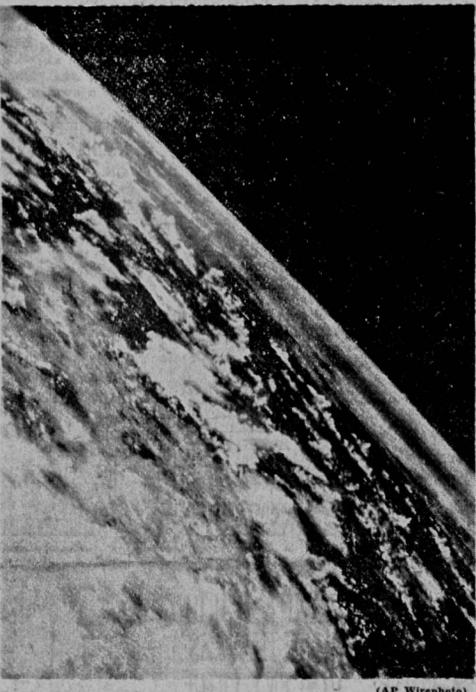

Harness demanded that the executive branch of the government look into the "highly improper and unlawful" trip to determine if it violated the Hatch Clean Politics act, which forbids political activities by federal employees.

Tour Was Not Political, Secretary Krug Claims

PHOENIX, ARIZ. (UP)—Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug denied yesterday that his tour of western reclamation projects was a political trip as charged by Rep. Forest Harness (R-Ill.).

"Rep. Harness has a complete record of our trip," Krug said.

Dad's Day Activities to Honor Fathers from Two Generations

Representative fathers from two generations will be honored at the annual Dad's day dance Oct. 29 in the Iowa Union.

Ross Gray, Rockwell City attorney, has been chosen as the representative alumni dad by Omicron Delta Kappa, men's honorary fraternity, which sponsors the dance.

A student dad will be chosen from 11 candidates nominated by their respective campus married students' housing areas.

Candidates are Don R. Bianco, Finkbine park; George Peterson, Riverdale park; Robert Maloney, Westlawn park number one; Phillip Hassman, Newton park; William Mumma, Hawkeye village; Morris Boucher, Templin park; Charles Barker, Central park; Donald Kofron, Riverside park; Ralph Child, Quonset park; William McIntire, Stadium park, and Charles McElmurray, Westlawn park number two.

The dads will be presented at the intermission of the dance which will begin at 9 o'clock Friday night, featuring the music of Elliott Lawrence. The men will be introduced again between halves of the Wisconsin-Iowa game Saturday afternoon.

The campus dad will be chosen for scholastic ability, activity in his community and work for the welfare of his own and other children.

Gray, once a state representative, has two sons, Lynn and Jack, attending SUI now. Two more, Dale and Ward, went to school here previously.

Presentation of the dads will follow a program by the Quadrangle chorus during the intermission of the dance.

The Dad's day dance committee plans to have pictures of the 11 candidates for student dad in Bremer's window the week preceding the dance, chairman Mel Heckt said.

Vet Playschool Quits City Hall For Barracks

A barracks behind University hospitals will be provided by the university business office to house the Veteran's Playschool, Mrs. Lawrence Ely, school council chairman, said yesterday.

Grant of the building is expected as soon as the student affairs office notifies the business office that the organization has been recognized by the university, she said.

The council hopes to move the 25 children now meeting four days a week in the city hall council chambers to the barracks Monday, Mrs. Ely said.

Veteran students or staff members may enroll their children at three o'clock, Oct. 25, in the school building. School will begin Nov. 15.

Morning and afternoon sessions will be held with 35 children in each. Children may be enrolled for two, three or five mornings or afternoons a week.

Tuition will be charged at the rate of $3 per month for children attending two days a week, $4.50 per month for three days a week and $7.50 per five days a week.

Children attending two days a week will come on Tuesday, and Thursday; those attending three days, Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Preference will be given children of veterans, Mrs. Ely said, but if the classes are not filled, non-veteran students or staff members may also send their children to school.

Marshall Leaves Rome After Interviewing Pope

ROME (AP)—Secretary of State George C. Marshall left for Paris yesterday evening after a crowded 24-hour visit to Italy in which he conferred with Pope Pius XII, President Luigi Einaudi, Premier Alcide de Gasperi and Foreign Minister Count Carlo Sforza.

The American secretary of state, who came here from a week-end visit to Athens, Greece, was received in a private 30-minute audience by the Pope at the papal summer residence at Castel Gandolfo.

Marshall shed no light on his visit.

JAIL COP FOR HOLDUP

NEW YORK (UP)—Police-man William H. Schneider, 30, was sentenced to an indeterminate prison term yesterday for a $3 liquor store holdup. He admitted he stole because he had gone hopelessly in debt because of losses in poker games in the "back room" of police headquarters.

Legion Stages 'Riot of Music'

MIAMI, FLA. (AP)—Veterans of two world wars, thousands strong, changed midtown Miami into a riot of music, color and fun yesterday as they marched with bands playing and banners flying in the hour-long American Legion parade.

State Police Capt. Tobe Bass estimated the watching throng at between 350,000 and 400,000. Jet fighters, B-29s and a huge, six-engine B-36 roared low over the line of march as a marine corps detachment in white helmets and dress uniforms stepped along to lead off the spectacle which was to last for six hours or more.

Even Santa Claus was in the parade and he made a big hit with the youngsters. Sitting on a sleigh behind a pair of reindeer, Santa rode on a small motorized float of Post 242, Santa Claus, Ind.

Other than the parade, it was an off-day for most of the legionnaires. Committee meetings were numerous.

Another heavy session faces the convention today with Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder, Gov. Earl Warren of California, Republican vice-presidential candidate, and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, scheduled to speak. The convention will end tomorrow with the election of officers.

Rayburn Rips Into Republican Record In 80th Congress

HANDS IN HIS POCKETS, Texas Rep. Sam Rayburn warned of the consequences of a Republican victory in the Nov. 2 election at a Johnson county Democratic meeting in the Community building last night. The House minority leader spoke to an estimated 500 persons without the use of a microphone after the public address system went out of order.

UN Orders Truce In Negev, Studies Berlin

PARIS (UP)—The United Nations security council ordered Jews and Arabs yesterday to cease-fire immediately in the Negev area of southern Palestine and proposed a three-point basis for negotiations after the fighting stops.

It was believed here that the Israeli government would accept the order which carries the full authority of the UN, though it has said it would not give a ceasefire order until assured that the Egyptians would abide by UN rules. Egypt has already said it would cease fire if the Jews did.

The cease-fire order contained the following suggestions for negotiations:

1. Withdrawal of both sides from any positions not occupied when fighting broke out.

2. Acceptance by both parties of conditions set forth by UN truce supervisors on movement of supply convoys in the Negev.

3. Agreement by both parties to undertake negotiations through UN intermediaries or directly on outstanding problems in the Negev and on the permanent stationing of UN observers throughout the area.

Meanwhile the American delegate to the security council declared yesterday that Russia was intensifying her blockade of Berlin "even as the security council deliberates."

Russ Action a Reply

Dr. Phillip C. Jessup told the council that perhaps Russia's action in forcing vehicular traffic from the Soviet zone to detour around west Berlin to the Soviet sector was "intended as a tacit reply" to the six neutrals' request for delayed information on the blockade.

Andre Y. Vishinsky, Soviet deputy foreign minister, sat mute throughout the answers by British, French and American delegates to questions asked by the six neutrals of the council.

Ideal Fall Weather Predicted for Today

Iowa Citizens can expect another dose of typical fall weather today, with clear skies and moderately warm air dominating the local scene at least until Thursday.

The cold air mass which moved in over Iowa City last weekend, shows evidence of leaving this area. Yesterday's low of 29 degrees was considerably warmer than Monday's record-breaking mark of 20 above zero.

High temperatures of near 70 are forecast for today. Near normal temperatures are expected to prevail in Iowa City for the next five days. Normals for this time of year range from 62 high to 39 low.

The weather bureau forecasts that it will be cooler Friday and Saturday, with light rain Friday.

GOP Victory 'Return to '33'

Texan Addresses 500 In Community Building

By LEN MOSER

Warning that a Republican administration would mean a return to "the bleak days of 1933," Texas Rep. Sam Rayburn prayed and pleaded last night for a Democratic victory in the Nov. 2 election.

Speaking before an estimated crowd of 500 persons in the Community building, the present minority leader and former speaker of the U.S. house of representatives ripped into the record of the 80th Congress and past Republican administrations.

"The Republicans took the country from the height of prosperity to its lowest point. And we took it back to its present level," he said.

Of the 80th congress he scowled, "They are butchers of the laws we passed."

"They are trying to slice the New Deal laws with such a keen knife that the victim won't know he's bleeding and has been cut."

Rayburn prayed for world peace and begged his audience to carry on the program of the late President Roosevelt by voting for President Truman in the coming election.

At a press conference later in the evening, Rayburn confidently declared that the Democrats expect to win a majority in the senate.

Iowa's Democratic candidate for senator, Guy M. Gillette, he said, "has a wonderful chance to be senator."

Appearing tired after a day of banquets and speeches, Rayburn passed off the Progressive party as "the weakest third party I ever saw."

Rayburn spoke earlier at a banquet in his honor in the dining room of Hotel Jefferson.

The meeting was sponsored by the Johnson county and SUI Young Democrats. Rayburn will speak in Denmark, Iowa, tomorrow as he continues a campaign tour that will take him across the eastern part of the country.

Coupee to Be At Pep Rally

Ironman Al Coupee, quarterback on Iowa's famous 1939 and 1940 football team which beat Notre Dame both years, and a movie of a winning Iowa team in action will highlight the pep rally program at 7:15 p.m. Friday in Macbride auditorium.

Pep fans will hear Coupee's testimony that "the great Notre Dame team isn't invincible," John Wherry, rally chairman, said last night.

The rally precedes the Iowa-Notre Dame game in the Iowa stadium Saturday.

Coupee is now sports director of radio station KRNT in Des Moines.

Introducing Coupee will be Frank Carideo, Iowa varsity football coach and former All-American player on the 1929-30 Notre Dame national championship team.

The rally program will also include yells led by the cheerleaders.

Misused ID Cards Picked Up at Game

Three ID cards were picked up at the Homecoming football game for "misuse" last Saturday, Walter R. Goetsch, director of the office of student affairs, said yesterday.

Goetsch said cards misused at athletic events will be invalidated for the remaining games of that sport.

Numbers of the cards picked up are 35688, 38099 and 6427. Officers can get them back at the office of student affairs, Goetsch said.

Taking Time Out

With Buck Turnbull

Student's View of Purdue's First Touchdown —

We have two reasons for printing the following letter received here yesterday. They are:

1. It concerns a puzzling situation from the Iowa-Purdue game last Saturday.

2. It also concerns the much discussed problem of Jerry Faske, Hawkeye sophomore halfback, and his status with the Iowa football team.

"To The Daily Iowan:

"In Buck Turnbull's coverage of the Purdue game in Sunday's Daily Iowan, it mentions that Faske was benched in the second half for his lapse on pass defense in the second quarter. No offense against Buck for his usual fine reporting, but I, as an insignificant fan in the stands (and sitting way down in the end zone at that) saw Capt. Woodard signal to the bench in regards to Faske, in the second quarter. I also saw Faske signal the bench.

"To me it looked like Faske was out on his feet, and I construed the above-mentioned signals to mean Faske should or wanted to be taken out of the game.

"Nothing happened along those lines, so maybe I got my signals crossed. But Bob DeMoss (Purdue quarterback) being the smart quarterback that he is, must have sensed something was up as he promptly heaved two touchdowns passes into Faske's zone.

"Faske may have lapsed, but I doubt it seriously. Could he be hurt. Could be a fresh man in his place could have had the gusto to break up those passes. Fortunately, the second touchdown was called back, but after all, wasn't it just one touchdown that won the game?"

Signed: Michael H. Cryder, C4
424 E. Market St.
Iowa City

To be truthful with you, we cannot recall either Woodard or Faske making any motions to the bench concerning Faske's physical condition prior to the first touchdown pass. We have heard no other mention of this, either.

However, here is our analysis of what did happen.

On the play previous to the Purdue tally, Ken Gorgal took an Iowa punt on his own 40 and returned to the Old Gold 45. He was hit by Faske on the eastern sidelines and knocked out of bounds, stopping the clock until the next down.

Thus, if Faske was hurt, there would have been no reason for him to signal the bench. Since time was out, he could have just left the field. Also to our knowledge, Dick Woodard was not in the game at that time.

The Boilerbakers scored their touchdown on a DeMoss to Norbert Adams pass behind Faske. And if you'll remember, Faske was relieved of his duties before the half ended with Ralph Doran taking his place.

Purdue came back to score just as the half ended after the Hawks had fumbled the next kickoff. DeMoss' second touchdown pass to End Bob Heck, this time behind Doran, was nullified because of a clipping penalty.

Now we come to the question many of the Iowa football fans are asking this week. Why was Jerry Faske, Iowa's leading ground-gainer and best runner, benched for the entire second half against Purdue?

Well, it was not just one error on pass defense which forced the Brooklyn sophomore to visit the pines for the remainder of the game. A series of incidents led the coaching staff to use disciplinary action.

We will say this. Admitting that it's hard to keep your leading runner on the bench, a coach can go just so far. Whether Faske plays at all against Notre Dame next Saturday will depend entirely on his actions in workouts this week.

He was at practice yesterday after missing the drill Monday. At present it looks like either Doran or sophomore Mearl Naber will get first crack at the right halfback spot against the Irish.

Joe Louis Says He Will 'Definitely' Defend Title

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Louis changed his mind again yesterday and said he will defend his heavyweight championship again next June.

The Brown Bomber said "definitely" when he announced his decision to newsmen yesterday afternoon. First he conferred with Mike Jacobs, president of the 20th Century Sporting Club, and Harry Markson, recently appointed managing director of the fight promotional outfit.

The site will be Yankee stadium and the opponent likely will be either Ezzard Charles, Joe Basko or Lee Savold.

Badgers Maul Fresh

MADISON, WIS. (UP)—Wisconsin's football squad demonstrated its support of Coach Harry Stuhldreher yesterday by mauling the Badger freshmen in its first scrimmage in two weeks.

"That's a good job" was Stuhldreher's comment after the best Wisconsin practice of the year, and probably many a year, was wound up under lights.

Faske Fifth in Loop Rushing

Quarterback Al DiMarco and End Bob McKenzie of Iowa's gridiron squad are now the leading passing combination in the Western conference.

DiMarco, by virtue of his eight completions in fourteen attempts against Purdue Saturday, pitched his way to the top of the Big Nine passers, the conference bureau announced yesterday. His record in three league games is 19 completions in 44 times for 250 yards.

McKenzie snagged four of DiMarco's tosses Saturday to take the conference receiving lead with a total of eight receptions for 116 yards.

Faske, Koceski Tied

Jerry Faske, Iowa's sophomore halfback, is tied for fifth in individual rushing with an average of 4.5 yards per carry. Another sophomore, Michigan's Leo Koceski, has the same average as Faske.

Only two other Big Nine backs, Northwestern's Art Murakowski and Purdue's Harry Szulborski, have gained more ground than Faske. The Iowan has a total of 184 yards in 41 carries, while Murakowski has 192 in 41 and Szulborski has 196 in 52.

Ken Gorgal of Purdue took Faske's kickoff return leadership away from him, mainly through his 54-yard return of the second half kickoff here Saturday. Gorgal has returned two for 73 yards, Faske five for 151.

DiMarco Third

In total offense DiMarco is third behind George Talaferro of Indiana and Bob DeMoss of Purdue with 248 yards gained. Faske is ninth with his rushing yardage of 184.

Two other Hawkeyes are also listed in the figures. Glenn Drahn's punting average of 38 yards ranks him seventh in the league. Dike Edleman of Illinois, who leads with 43.2, is above the "modern era" conference record of 43.0 set by John Galvin of Purdue in 1946.

Jack Dittmer, Iowa end, ranks tenth in pass receiving with four catches for 33 yards.

Intra-Squad Meet For Iowa Runners

Francis Cretzmeyer, Iowa track coach, announced yesterday that an intra-squad track meet will be held next Thursday and Friday. In connection with the meet he pointed out that all students interested may enter the events.

"They don't have to be members of the track team or upperclassmen," Cretzmeyer said. The meet is to determine individual fall championships of the Iowa squad.

In the discus throw to be held on Friday, the Dutton Discus traveling trophy will be presented to the man throwing the discus the greatest distance. The Dutton trophy was presented to Iowa by W. L. Dutton of Cedar Rapids in 1938 and has been used for this purpose.

The starting time for the first event on each day will be 4:15 p.m.

All university men interested in participating should see Coach Cretzmeyer or be present the day of the event they wish to enter.

The schedule of the individual events is as follows:

Badger Students May Offer Referendum On Stuhldreher

MADISON, WIS. (UP)—The University of Wisconsin student newspaper, The Daily Cardinal, said yesterday it appears certain that a student body referendum will be held on whether Harry Stuhldreher should continue as football coach.

Tom Engelhardt, president of the student board, said a board meeting would be held last night to discuss plans for including the referendum in the student elections Nov. 11. Engelhardt said the referendum could be instigated either by the filing of petitions or by a vote of the student board. It would not be binding on school officials, however.

The controversy over Stuhldreher's status was brought into the open during the game last Saturday in which an underdog Yale team defeated Wisconsin, 17 to 7. Students in the Wisconsin cheering section hoisted a huge sign saying "Goodbye, Harry."

In a front page editorial yesterday, the Daily Cardinal said that Wisconsin "lost a great deal more than a football game on Saturday."

"The Yale visitors saw a student body which insisted on displaying its dirty linen in public," the paper said. "They saw a Wisconsin football team so demoralized by cat calling and a 'Goodbye Harry' banner that the players were as ready to fight in the stands as on the field.

"And finally, they saw the worst bit of sportsmanship that any student body has ever accorded its teams. No matter what grievances students have against Stuhldreher, the football field is not the spot to air them. The loss to Yale will be easy to live down, but the spectacle that the 'grandstand coaches' made of themselves and of the university will not."

President E. B. Fred made a special visit to the team dressing room Monday to apologize for Saturday's anti-Stuhldreher demonstration and to express his confidence in the coach. Members of the squad applauded. They also gave Stuhldreher a leather billfold inscribed, "We are all behind you, Harry."

Nevada Has Chance For All-Time Mark

NEW YORK (AP)—The University of Nevada, generally overlooked in the ranking of major football powers, leads the nation in total offense with a chance for an all-time record.

The combination of a powerful team and a none-too-potent schedule has resulted in an average total gain by rushing and passing of 503.5 yards for each of its first four games.

The great 1945 Army array with Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis setting the page, holds the record of 462.7 yards per game for the entire season. No other team has averaged better than 500 yards per game for as many as four games.

Coach Joe Sheeketski's lads up the forward pass as their chief weapon. They average 276 yards through the air as compared to the all-time record of 233.9 set in Tulsa in 1942.

Moose Lodge To Hold Party On Halloween

Fun, frolic, costumes, a parade, free refreshments, a professional vaudeville show, prizes and a dance will mark this year's Iowa City Moose lodge Halloween party on Oct. 31.

Frank L. Tallman, publicity chairman, said yesterday the Moose lodge will finance the big event. The Community Dads and the recreation center will assist in planning and giving the party. The party will be for all school children in the community and everything will be free, Tallman added.

Parade to be Featured
The big event will begin at the Community building and parade through town with the Iowa City Moose Grenadiers in the lead. An aerial bomb barrage will be fired from the Community building to announce the parade assembly.

Tallman said all civic, business and fraternal organizations have been invited to enter floats in the parade. The parade will be followed by refreshments, a vaudeville show and a dance at the Community building.

Pledge Cards
J. Edgar Frame, director of the recreation center and general chairman of the party, will describe the program to all school children before Oct. 31 and present each one with a pledge card. Tallman said the pledge cards, which the children will sign, are pledges not to do any damage or property harm during Halloween week. The signed cards will also be tickets of admission to the party.

To Award Prizes
All children are asked to come in costume. Prizes will be awarded for many classes of costumes and floats that are entered in the parade. Local merchants and civic organizations are asked to design floats to carry small children in the parade.

The idea of giving children a big Halloween party originated with Walter Beuse, Davenport, sheriff of Scott county. It proved so successful there that the local Moose lodge adopted the idea as one of its major community activities.

Orchestra's First Program Tonight

"Only 30 or 40" tickets for tonight's concert by the university symphony orchestra were left last night at the Iowa Union desk, officials said.

The orchestra, directed by Prof. Philip Greeley Clapp, will present its first concert of the season at 8 p.m. in the main lounge of Iowa Union.

An all-Brahms program, "Tragic Overture," "Variations on a Theme by Josef Haydn" and "Symphony No. 1 in C Minor," will be played.

Free tickets are available at the Iowa Union desk while they last.

By JEAN MEGGERS
Plain gold wedding bands are passing out of fashion.

No, the institution of matrimony isn't being discarded, but New York brides who set the styles are turning toward white metals instead of yellow for the mounting of their diamond engagement rings and matching wedding bands.

Iowa Citizens disagree. A survey of local jewelry stores revealed the Midwestern bride still prefers the yellow band although several jewelers admitted that the demand for the white has increased in the past two years. Only one of the local jewelers stated he thought white gold would have a prominent place in the future.

According to Sigmund Amstel, leading New York ring designer,

Pool Fund Grows; Dances Scheduled

The Community Dad's swimming pool fund has climbed again with a $50 donation from the Iowa City business district.

This gives the swimming pool fund a total of $11,378.10. The fund is still $1,122 short of its $12,500 goal. The Dad's club hopes to make up this deficit at two benefit dances they are staging in the near future.

The first of the two dances will be held Oct. 29 in the Community building. Ray Memler's band will furnish the music.

The second benefit dance, featuring a "battle of bands" between Hal Webster and Bill Meardon, is scheduled for Nov. 10 in the Community building.

According to co-chairman William E. Hoffer, all services for the dances, including the orchestras and facilities, have been donated. "Absolutely all ticket proceeds will go into the swimming pool fund," Hoffer stated.

The price of admission will be fifty cents per person.

Heard Over BBC

During World War II Swing was heard in the U.S., over BBC throughout the British empire and over shortwave in Latin America.

Swing began his journalistic career in 1908 at the age of 19 as a reporter on the Cleveland Press. At 23 he became managing editor of the Indianapolis Sun. Four years later he took the job of Berlin correspondent for the Chicago Daily News.

Revealed 'Big Bertha'

During World War I, he broke the first details of Germany's mystery gun, the Big Bertha. In 1914 he was entrusted to carry Germany's peace feeler to England.

His method of getting news out of Germany is now a journalistic classic. He paid $25 to a traveling American student to memorize a 600-word dispatch and deliver it personally to the Chicago News office in London.

Swing is the author of "In the Name of Sanity," "How War Came," "Preview of History" and other books. He was chairman of the board of Americans United for World Government. He is now vice-president of the merged world government organizations, the United World Federalists.

Dean Ladd to Work With Safety Council On Intoxication Test

Dean Mason Ladd of the law college is in Chicago to attend the annual meeting of the National Safety Council.

Ladd is chairman of the executive committee of the council which is working on new scientific tests to determine intoxication.

The dean said many scientists are on the executive committee making a nationwide study of the problem of intoxication tests.

The executive committee meet this morning. In the afternoon public safety session will speak at a general meeting.

Ladd and Dr. Robert B. Gilman, associate professor of biochemistry at SUI, have collaborated on several articles about the medical and legal angles of the blood test determining intoxication.

Ladd said great concern is being expressed over the weakness of present laws governing blood tests for intoxication.

Under present law, a person arrested for drunken driving cannot be forced to submit to a blood test.

Hawkeye Press Box Warrior — 'Spank' Broders

VOICE OF THE HAWKEYES is Forrest "Spank" Broders, A4, who takes a beating trying to announce football and worry about his boys at the same time. Broders is the WSUI sports announcer for all Iowa games, and handles the interviewing of sports gentry at half time.

If there is such a thing as a 12-man football team it's the Iowa team, for each Saturday as they go to battle, the twelfth teammate, Forrest "Spank" Broders, and his fighting heart, goes along.

Broders, a rangy guy, says, "I love football, but I can't play it so I announce it as the next best thing."

Once Broders played tackle for City high in Iowa City, but a game injury during his senior year ruined his legs for college football.

Sweats and Fusses

So now each Saturday as the Hawkeyes warm up, high in the glassed radio booth, big Spank Broders sweats and fusses with his gear and worries about his boys.

"It is tough to be nonpartisan when your heart is pounding and the Hawkeyes are master of the field, or to have zip in your voice when the team is on the short end of the score," reminded Broders.

No matter what the outcome of a game, brown haired Broders is always the star to his wife Ruth. Spank and Ruth met in Iowa City and they were married five years ago. They live at 105½ S. Clinton street.

"Wife Scared"

"My wife is as scared as I at each broadcast, for she never knows when I'll do something new," laughed Broders.

"I guess it will always be radio for me, come rain, sleet or snow, if a Hawkeye team is playing ball, I'm living."

Broders has seen and announced a lot of ball since 1946 when he began. He helped Bob Brooks as sports director and, as he likes music, he spun the platters for the Rhythm Rambles show last spring and summer.

So the next time the Hawks are straining to beat their opponents, Spank Broders, high atop the stadium, will be peering down excitedly and hoping that his boys will come through.

Alpha Delta Sigma To Meet at Union

Alpha Delta Sigma, professional advertising fraternity for men, will hold a meeting at 7:15 p.m. today in the Iowa Union to have pictures taken for Hawkeye.

After the pictures have been taken a business meeting will be held in conference room one. Plans for pledging ceremonies of new members who were rushed last week will be made at the meeting, said ADS President Fred Stines, C4, of Newton.

Hancher to Direct Medical Discussion

President Virgil M. Hancher will lead a panel discussion at the Association of American Universities meeting in Philadelphia on Oct. 28-30. Hancher will lead the discussion on Medical Education at the Friday afternoon session of the conference.

Also representing SUI at the Philadelphia meeting will be Dean Harvey Davis of the division of research and teaching and Executive Dean Carlyle Jacobsen of the division of health, science and services.

At a meeting of the Association of American Medical colleges on Oct. 25-27 at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., SUI will be represented by Dean Mayo Soley of the college of medicine and Executive Dean Jacobsen.

November 12 Date Of Spinsters' Ball

The Spinsters' Spree, annual girl-take-boy university dance, will be held Friday evening, Nov. 12, in the Iowa Union.

Committee members include Gloria Kersbergen, Des Moines, publicity; Nancy Seligsohn, New York City, backdrop; Jeanne Shearer, Ames, and Shirley Thompson, Fargo, N. Dak., intermission tea.

Jaycees Hold 'Bosses Night'

Our hats off to the past, our coats off to the future, state Junior Chamber of Commerce president Dick Kemler charged Iowa City Jaycees last night.

Kemler addressed a "bosses night" dinner meeting of the local Junior chamber at Hotel Jefferson on the aims and purposes of the Jaycees.

The speaker, who is an SUI law graduate and now practices in Marshalltown, described junior chamber purposes as twofold.

The individual Jaycee, through participation in the organization's activities, gains self-reliance, develops leadership qualities and becomes a better citizen, Kemler asserted.

"At the same time," he added, "civic betterment projects are carried out."

He said the Jaycees are pledged to combat juvenile delinquency, promote public safety, encourage fire prevention, stimulate interest in sports and sponsor other worthwhile community projects.

Following the state president's address, Frank Nye, one of the two national directors of the U. S. Junior Chamber reported on Iowa Jaycee memorial fund.

Nye, a 1936 Iowa graduate and associate editor of the Cedar Rapids ids Gazette, said Iowa Jaycees were the second in the nation to reach their memorial fund quota.

The fund would provide for the building of a national junior chamber headquarters building as a memorial to Jaycee members who died in World War II.

Files Petition, Says Mortgage Overdue

Frank Spratt, 1801 Morningside drive, filed a petition for $800 yesterday against Paul H. Puckett, now of Illinois, and the Interstate Finance corporation, Dubuque, in Johnson county district court.

Judge James P. Gaffney then ordered a writ of attachment issued describing the property listed in the plaintiff's petition.

Spratt claims he signed a promissory note for Puckett Jan. 28 for which the defendant gave Spratt a chattel mortgage on a 1947 automobile.

The plaintiff said the mortgage is now past due and asks to foreclose. He said the corporation was made a defendant because they also have an interest in the automobile.

Saint . . . and Patron

You've heard perhaps about government strong men who appointed themselves minister of defense, minister of interior and all such posts.

Argentine President Juan D. Peron has out-exalted the entire world. October 18th was set aside—by Peron's own decree—as a national holiday called "St. Peron's Day."

Here is a man with a nation under his thumb. Newspapers which oppose him have found it difficult to operate; internationally-known La Prensa has been hit hard by several Peron actions. The latest is a government decree this month on conserving newsprint which will cut their publication in half.

This suppression was recognized in Uruguay. The newspaper union there announced that "the spiritual independence of journalism has been drastically annulled" in Argentina. They urged newspapermen of the continent to join to "carry out intense action tending to bring about the recovery of these journalistic liberties which have been abolished."

A plot to assassinate Peron was "uncovered" late in September and an American embassy official was accused in the plot. This helped stir up anti-American feeling which strengthened the Peron position and the Argentine nationalism.

Eva Peron, world-hopping wife of the strong man, has spread the Peron type of cheer through Spain, Italy, Switzerland and France. At the end of her jaunt she announced that "Peronismo is fated to triumph far beyond our borders."

Reports from Argentina have characterized that nation as living in a mood of aggressiveness and fear—in a belief in itself as a first-class power.

Peron's attitude toward the United States has been notoriously hostile. He has played his big brother to the north for all his own ends, competed with the U.S. in a world market where we sometimes haven't liked it.

The opposition which U.S. ambassador Braden gave to Peron's rise was ultimately a point in strengthening the Peronistas' position. Peron himself looked on Braden's intervention as a good thing, and went so far as to say, "If Braden had not existed I should have had to invent him."

The existence of Franco in the world also makes it unnecessary for Peron to invent a friendly ally. Peron has nearly everything else he wants, including his own saint day.

Neither Slow nor Dainty . . .

When Syngman Rhee set up his republic in south Korea, the world expected a Communist brand of fireworks to shower down from the Soviet-held north.

It didn't take long for the sparks to fly. A north Korean puppet government was quickly formed. It vowed to control all of the country.

The techniques of undermining a government have become an art with "native" Communists. The Korean group methodically went to work.

On the weekend Communists and Korean rightists clashed at Ulsan City in south Korea. Five Communists were killed; one policeman and four rightists were wounded. The incident might have seemed insignificant.

But radio Moscow described it to the world as an "uprising against the government." Yet only five other Communists escaped from the scene. A ten-man uprising!

President Rhee was scheduled to fly to Tokyo for conferences with General MacArthur. He drove to the airport via a different route than usual.

Later six sticks of dynamite were discovered in a water main under a street he was expected to travel. Police have proof that an elaborate system of spotters were on guard to detonate the charge. This attempt against south Korean leadership failed.

But it won't be the last. Korean Communists cannot afford to be slow or dainty about their work. Not when the UN is scheduled to score Russia for fixing an election and fostering a puppet Korean regime.

DEWEY

Correction

Due to an unavoidable transposition in a story yesterday, the following was listed as part of former Sen. Guy M. Gillette's record in congress. It should have been included as part of Sen. George A. Wilson's congressional record:

He was a senior member of the senate agriculture committee and if reelected, it is likely that he will be given the chairmanship of that committee. He is also the highest ranking member of the small business committee.

No Compensation for Childbirth, Court Says

DES MOINES, IA. (UP)—The Iowa supreme court ruled yesterday that a woman who quits work to have a baby is not entitled to unemployment compensation benefits.

The high court held that the action of Mrs. Dorothy Moulton, a keypunch operator for a Des Moines insurance firm, was entirely "voluntary."

Dewey, Warren Have Enviably Records

The polls and the experts say that it is a Republican year. If such is the case Thomas E. Dewey will find himself with a bigger job and beset with more problems than he has ever had in his expanding political career.

"A smooth operator" is what the popular mind would label him and it is no mean title. His past successes as a district attorney and governor of New York have revealed great abilities in governmental administration and political organization.

At the Republican national convention Dewey had a staff of publicity and polling experts that worked like clockwork. It is said that the staff came within very close margins in predicting the delegate votes that Dewey could expect during any particular period of the convention.

In his roles as special prosecutor, and finally as district attorney in New York, Dewey piled up a magnificent record for racket busting. As a special prosecutor he made a record of 72 convictions out of 73 indictments.

He did equally well as district attorney with 95 percent of those he indicted being convicted or pleading guilty. In that time his gangbusting zeal caused one major blunder. One man, later proved innocent, was wrongly convicted for forgery, but Dewey rectified the mistake after becoming governor.

As governor of New York Dewey, with the aid of a Republican legislature, made an enviable reputation for himself as an administrator. He managed to overhaul many defective portions of the state government and still

McBride's Haul

By BILL McBRIDE

My little black notebook is bulging with suggestions, quotations and such stuff as accumulates every few weeks. Most of these notations sounded worth passing on when I penned them down, but I just never found a place to fit them in.

Today is clean-the-notebook day. Going clear back to the summer session notes, I find a quote made by one of my professors who said, "If you will go around with the knowledge that you are physically decaying every moment of your life, you won't feel so haughty."

That applies to faculty members as well as students. Jeanne only allows me about one haught a month, so I have little need for the system. It's nice to keep in mind, though.

And then getting into something with meat on it, I find a memo stating that one of my friends has a friend who is employed as a professional rest room inspector.

The fellow goes from city to city looking into filling station toilets . . . some profession. You can see how that sort of thing is difficult to work into a column.

Early this fall Harlan Miller of the Register said something about politics that I wished I could have said. This much I have pencilled in the book. I have forgotten what it was he said, so the notation is worthless. Must be more systematic in the future.

Incidentally, Miller mentioned in Sunday's Register that there are 10,000 lonely girls in Des Moines and mused about SUI (and other) students making week-end sajours to DM.

I don't think our coeds would like that . . . or maybe they'd be indifferent. The only way to find out is to give it a try. If DM girls are really lonely, they might pay part of the expenses or such an expedition. Wouldn't that be nice?

Something I can hardly make out . . . must have been written in the dark, or maybe on horseback, says to make a list of professors I have liked best.

On closer inspection I discover that it doesn't even look like my writing. Who wrote that in there?

I can't make a list of best liked professors. The less said about best liked professors, or least liked professors for that matter, the better I like it.

And I'll ask whoever writes such ideas in my little black book to keep their trouble-making notations to themselves.

There is something scribbled about upswept hair-dos, ankle-length skirts and flat feet. I suppose that was prompted by the number of style slaves who returned to school with the shmoo look and ballet inspired foot-wear.

A reminder to thank the kind agents who remember to call 8-1283 or drop a card when they run across material. Thank you, kind agents . . . thanks to unkind agents, too. At least you're interested enough to read.

Don't put Scotch tape on walls at the Quad . . . I don't know why, but it must be against the rules. Maybe flour and water paste won't damage the structure. Would be interested in a complete report.

Printed, not written, in blue pencil are the words Daylight Saving Plan. According to reports, the plan is over for another year, so this isn't exactly current.

What happened to the daylight saved all summer? I hope it hasn't fallen into the wrong hands.

John Drew and his candles have been taking up a whole page in the book. The story on John is that he spent his vacation around Cape Cod this summer where many candles are made, and so did his wholesale Christmas shopping early.

John is another IC business man who always treats each customer with $10 courtesy whether or not it is a 15-cent transaction involved.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT

Bipartisan Infallibility . . .

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

Ed saw Martin come striding down the aisle of the commuters' train. He half-expected Martin to pass him by, because they had quarreled the last time—on the subject of national unity, he remembered—but Martin sat down beside him amiably enough.

"Well," said Martin, "your president sure pulled a boner, wanting to send Chief Justice Vinson to see Stalin."

With a kind of shock, Ed suddenly realized how many years he and Martin had been discussing foreign policy on this train. Twelve, maybe more. Hitler's earlier years, the re-arming of the Rhineland, Austria, the Munich crisis, the war. Bitter days; much hard and bitter talk.

"What's so bad about wanting to send someone to talk with Stalin?" asked Ed.

"Why, it was just terrible for bipartisan unity on foreign policy," said Martin. Ed found himself aware of something faintly superior in Martin's manner.

"LOOK, MARTIN," SAID ED. "Suppose somebody, anybody, had a perfectly brilliant idea on how to solve the foreign affairs mess, and suppose the bipartisan leaders turned the idea down, what would you do?"

"Do?" said Martin. "Why, I'd be against it. If an idea hurts bipartisan unity, it's dangerous and I'm against it."

"But suppose it was a good idea?" insisted Ed.

"The most important thing is bipartisan unity in foreign affairs," said Martin, elevating his gaze slightly. "Without that, we can't get anywhere."

"Does that mean there are whole sets of ideas we can no longer even consider?" asked Ed. "Doesn't that tie us up?"

"Politics stops at the water's edge," said Martin firmly. "We need bipartisan agreement."

"SEE HERE, MARTIN," he said, "if bipartisan harmony is so important to us and the world, would you Republicans wreck it, just because you disapproved of something the President did?"

"It's his responsibility to keep it going by not doing anything we might object to," said Martin.

"But would you wreck it? Could you, if it's as important as you say? What would you do, punish the world and the nation because Mr. Truman got your dander up?"

"It'd be his responsibility," said Martin, stubbornly. "Everybody would know that."

ED STARED OUT of the window at the houses slipping by. Boys in them, probably, who'd been everywhere from Oran to Two Jims.

them into a working unit—abilities that speak well for any presidential candidate.

Dewey's running mate, Governor Earl Warren of California, shares many of his characteristics as an able administrator. In addition, Warren has the close, personal touch both on the platform and in private meetings.

He capitalizes on a personal touch in politics with his big family of six children and their charming, blonde mother.

Warren is an active joiner and lodge brother belonging to many organizations including the American Legion, Elks, Masons and the Native Sons of the Golden West.

He accepted the vice-presidential nomination with the provision that he would be more than just another gavel-thumping president of the senate. If the recommendations of the Hoover planning commission are put into effect, Warren will have the opportunity to put his abilities as an administrator to work in combination with those of Dewey.

Dewey and Warren both share in having enviable reputations as racket-busters in their early careers. Together they can lay claim to having been elected to governorships by overwhelming majorities—a fact which voters of the nation will not be likely to overlook.

HARMON TO MOREHEAD
Harold D. Harmon, former instructor in the SUI music department, has been appointed head of the department of music at Morehead State Teachers college, Morehead, Minn.

President Truman has a natural gift for down-to-earth talk with the average voter that Dewey will probably never quite equal or attain. Dewey compensates for this by having a rich, natural baritone voice that gave him pocket-money from singing during his college years.

His voice teacher, Percy Rector, steered him away from the concert stage by telling him that his voice sounded "too intelligent."

Dewey is liberal in his thinking and in his actions as an administrator. He is for most New Deal reforms and a moderate farm support program. He wants lower federal taxes, a balanced budget, universal military training and strong national defense.

Speaker Asks More Aid For Iowa Schools

B. S. Moyle, public relations director of the Iowa State Education association, last night advocated state aid grants as a major goal for 1949 school legislation.

Moyle, Jackson county representative of the state legislature in 1941 and 1943 spoke at a dinner meeting of Johnson county teachers in the Iowa Union.

"State aid already has saved the property taxpayer an average of four mills in school taxes," Moyle said. His organization wants state aid increased to finance 25 percent of all school costs — a proposal outlined by school code commissions in 1943 and 1945.

Under the ISEA proposals, increase in general equalization, transportation and handicapped children's appropriations would be made. These are direct grants, Moyle explained. Money passes directly from the state treasury to the school district.

Definite progress has been made in educational legislation, Moyle said, adding that the ISEA is advocating minimum yearly salaries of $2,400 for the four-year trained teacher and $2,000 for those with two years of college.

Matters of tenure, retirement and sick leave for teachers also will be brought before the general assembly, the speaker said.

Moyle was superintendent of Maquoketa schools for 16 years.

Little White House To Be Re-Opened

WARM SPRINGS, GA. (AP)—The Little White House, closed to the public since the death of President Roosevelt in April, 1945, will be officially re-opened Thursday, Oct. 28.

Upon Roosevelt's death, the Little White House was closed and placed under guard. A constant pilgrimage by visitors started, and has been continuing since, with visitors limited to viewing the house from the front gate.

A total of 3,200 acres of surrounding land will be developed into a memorial.

Riesman Hits Comics In Humanities Talk

Comics, movies and popular novels took a beating Monday at the hands of Prof. David Riesman, University of Illinois, who opened the Humanities society lecture series in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Speaking on "Realism and Fantasy in Popular Culture," Riesman lashed out against these arts which add to the conformity of society.

"We have moved," he said, "from a conscious directed society to a radar directed society. We have exchanged instinct of workmanship for cult of effortlessness."

The comics are an invasion of a child's life by adults, Riesman charged. They are realistic in detail but actually a "swindle."

Society today is concerned with what Riesman calls "marginal differentiation—the constant search for novelty."

Comics, movies and popular literature have become "time killers" for American youth, he said. Emphasis is on consumption, not production.

PTA Meeting Planned At Henry Sabin School

"Know Your School" will be the topic discussed by parents and teachers at the Henry Sabin school Parent-Teacher association meeting, at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow, in the gymnasium of the school. Fifth grade mothers will be hostesses for the social part of the meeting. Two girl scouts will care for the young children during the meeting.

Fitzgerald to Speak on Mapping Methods

Gerald Fitzgerald, a director of the American congress on surveying and mapping, will speak on "Modern Mapping Methods" tonight at 8 o'clock in the geology lecture room.

Fitzgerald comes to SUI by request of the department of geology and graduate college. He is sponsored by the American Association of Petroleum Geologists and is a speaker for their lecture tour.

He is past president of the American Society of Photogrammetry, a member of the Geophysical Union, the panel of cartography of the research and development board, the Institute of Navigation, Washington Society of Engineers, the Cosmos club, and the Explorers club.

Offers Information On 1948 Candidates

The Iowa City public library has begun a collection entitled "The Men and the Issues," designed to familiarize the general public with the candidates and what they stand for.

Miss Joyce Nienstedt, head librarian, said that she hoped everyone would avail himself of this material so that voters may make more intelligent decisions at the polls this November.

Among the books included in this collection are, "Toward World Peace," by Henry A. Wallace, "Where I Stand," by Harold E. Stassen, "Harry Truman, President," by Frank McNaughton and Walter Hehmer, and "Taxation for Prosperity," by Randolph E. Purl. Other issues deal with Communist infiltration, how to predict elections, biographies of the candidates, and recent Gallop polls on the campaign.

Local Club Elects Two New Officers

Officers were elected by the Dizzy Dozen euchre club, Sunday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Olin Hauth, 1824 Muscatine avenue.

Edgar Vassar, 715 Iowa avenue, was elected president, while Truman Slager, 748 Rundell street, is the new secretary-treasurer.

The club, beginning its 22nd year of euchre, plays two series annually. High scorer of the evening was E. V. Welcher, 1120 Sheridan avenue.
