Find Student Dead In His Room Here

Robert Thomas Elliott, 22, an SUI graduate student from Geneva, Ohio, was found dead in his room at a private rooming house in Iowa City about 8 p.m. last night.

Acting County Coroner George D. Callahan attributed death to suicide by hanging. Elliott had been dead since sometime after midnight Tuesday, Callahan said.

An acquaintance said the reason the body was not found sooner could have been because Elliott kept "odd hours." He was known to come in anywhere between two and four o'clock in the morning and sleep until noon, the acquaintance said.

A university student said last night that he talked with Elliott Monday and Elliott seemed to be in "good spirits."

A note addressed to his father, C. W. Elliott, was found in the student's room, Callahan said, adding that the dead man's parents had been notified.

Elliott received a bachelor of arts degree from Kenyon College in Gambier, Ohio, before coming to SUI.

The unmarried student, who would have been 23, Nov. 19, used his bathroom cord to hang himself.

Seeks Court Order On Dismissal Action By Education Board

Harry W. Reeve, former business manager and physical plant superintendent of Oakdale sanatorium, yesterday asked Johnson county district court for an injunction against the state board of education.

Reeve asked the temporary injunction to keep the board from moving him from the sanatorium payroll or decreasing his salary, and from removing his family and household goods from his living quarters in Oakdale.

Reeve claimed that when the sanatorium was transferred to the jurisdiction of the state board of education, July 1, 1947, board members told him he would always have a job there and would get no further demotions.

Contrary to this, he said, the board demoted him from business manager to physical plant superintendent. He claimed he held that job until last July 27.

Then, Reeve said, on July 28 the finance committee of the board of education served notice his job was over. They also told him to turn over all his keys and vacate his present living quarters, he said.

The plaintiff claimed that the board gave illegal transfer of authority to the finance committee. He said state law gives only to the board of education the right to hire or fire its employees.

Reeve charged that the finance committee not only illegally fired him but that the board of education had already carried out the illegal decision of the finance committee by ordering him fired.

Rush More Troops Into French Strife

PARIS (AP) — Sixty to 80 truckloads of troop reinforcements were rushed into the coal mine area of south central France to quell violence last night as France's strike troubles grew.

Fifty persons were injured when 1,200 factory workers and striking miners fought with police and troops at St. Etienne. Police and troops for a time were cornered under a bridge and were pelted with stones.

Miners' wives joined in the attack and five of them were among the 32 finally arrested.

From 6,000 to 10,000 troops already were in the area before additional troops were sent last night.

Housing Available To Single Students

After filling all applications received for housing this fall, the dormitory assignment office has not exhausted its supply of available space for housing single students, Mrs. Imelda C. Murphy, manager, said yesterday.

Housing is still available for a limited number of both men and women in boarding and non-boarding units, she said.

Mrs. Murphy's office has assigned 3,869 men and women to dormitory housing units this year.

Eggs Splatter Taylor As Shouts, Catcalls Halt Florida Speech

JACKSONVILLE, FLA. (UP)

A near-rioting throng of spectators unleashed a barrage of some two dozen eggs last night at Sen. Glen Taylor of Idaho, Progressive party running mate of Henry Wallace. They halted the vice-presidential candidate's address time and again with shouts and catcalls.

At first, the missiles came from a more or less concentrated area of the crowd estimated at 1,000. Then they came from throughout the audience. One egg hit Taylor in the chest. Two struck his picture on the backboard of the improvised stand in Hemming park from which he was speaking. A woman seated in the audience behind Taylor was hit in the shoulder.

Taylor clung doggedly to his prepared address, keeping a frozen smile on his face. At the climax, when an aide leaped to the microphone to lead the audience in singing, "God Bless America," someone splattered an egg across the aide's forehead. Taylor, still smiling, wiped the egg from his helper's forehead with a handkerchief.

Just after the first barrage, an envelope was passed through the crowd to Taylor, on the back of which was written: "I want to apologize for the minority in this city when so many of us want to listen to what you have to say. (Signed) a Jacksonville citizen."

Police arrested one man whom they caught in the act of throwing. No charges were made although he still clutched an egg in his hand when brought to police station.

The clamor reached its height when the Idaho senator said, "I'm in favor of catching spies but I will not rest until the un-American activities committee is a thing of the past."

Taylor had to be escorted to his car by policemen, who fought through the assemblage, some of whom yelled, "Turn his car over! Don't let him get out of here!"

A Taylor aide, who said he had not traveled with Wallace on any speaking tours, called the demonstration "the worst I've ever seen."

Pranksters Remove Democratic Posters

Pranksters yesterday tore down about a dozen Democratic party posters in the Riverdale housing area shortly after Henry Allan, president of the SUI Young Democratic, posted the bills.

Allan reported last night that he had posted the signs on poles outside the utility buildings and on bulletin boards in the area early in the afternoon. About 5:30 p.m. he noticed that all the posters outside the buildings had been torn down.

The placards were posted about six feet above the ground, Allan said, ruling out the possibility that children may have removed the posters.

Allan termed the incident shameful and added that "voters should at least be given a chance to see what the candidates look like before the election."

Russian Fliers Seek Haven In West; Sergeant Returns

VIENNA (AP) — Two Russian officers fleeing the Soviet Union for political reasons and a captive sergeant landed their twin-engine bomber at an American base near Linz 11 days ago, it was disclosed yesterday.

The plane and the sergeant have been returned to Soviet custody but the Americans have rejected a Russian demand for return of the two officers against their will.

THEIR HOME WAS BURNED after the Carl Christiansons (above) fled to the house of a neighbor. They said their lives were threatened by J. B. White, former mental patient, who allegedly set fire to their farm home. White was captured yesterday near Afton, Ia., the vicinity of the Christiansons' home. They lost everything in the blaze but the clothes they were wearing. The Christiansons plan to stay temporarily with neighbors while they remodel their garage for living quarters.

Victims of Arson Terrorized, Left Homeless—Dewey Talks Foreign Policy; Truman Plans Radio Address

Foreign policy issues highlighted the political campaign yesterday as the two major Presidential candidates prepared for a final round of appeals for voter support.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Republican nominee, disowned isolation as a theory of American government in an address to The New York Herald Tribune forum in New York City.

"... the bitter sacrifice of two world wars and the anxieties of a peace that is not peace have taught us once and for all that there can be no 'isolation for America,'" he said.

The New York governor's statement was regarded as an answer to criticism of his campaign support of GOP congressional candidates with isolationist records.

Democratic National Chairman J. Howard McGrath, speaking on the same platform, charged that a few Republican isolationists in congress had nearly "sabotaged" the European recovery program.

Pinch-hitting for Mr. Truman, McGrath said the nation could not afford a repetition of the circumstances which he blamed on the GOP-controlled 80th congress.

The President himself took a "between-speeches" rest, devoting his day to executive business and planning the windup of his campaign.

The White House announced he will make a seven-minute radio speech from the executive mansion at about 9:05 p.m. (Iowa time) today. He will be introduced by stage and screen star Tallulah Bankhead, on a program sponsored by the International Ladies Garment Workers union.

One neutral source said the framers of the proposal were hopeful of winning Soviet support by making the points recommendations and not submitting them as demands on the big powers.

This development followed a series of UN actions in which the western powers' plan for world atomic controls extending behind the iron curtain won overwhelming approval in the general assembly's political committee.

TEL AVIV (UP) — Unidentified aircraft, presumably Arab, raided Haifa and a colony near Tel Aviv early yesterday a few hours after Israel ordered its forces in the Negev desert battle zone to cease firing.

Two high-explosive bombs and numerous incendiaries were showered on an area northeast of Tel Aviv in the first air raid on the Jewish capital district since fighting flared in the south. Residents of the Israeli coastal plain spent two hours in shelters.

The decision to cease fire in the embattled Negev in compliance with a United Nations security council order was taken at an urgent cabinet meeting at which President Dr. Chaim Weizmann look part for the first time.

Jewish troops were ordered to remain in the positions they now hold pending discussions with the UN and, possibly, the Egyptians they are facing, informants said.

It was believed here that it might take three or four days to effect a complete cease fire.

'Giveaway' Quarrel Leads to Shooting

RAVENNA (UP) — The controversy over radio giveaway programs took a new angle yesterday when it was disclosed a man was killed because he did not like to listen to them.

Sheriff George Shields of Ravenna said two elderly farmers, living under the same roof, had quarreled over the relative merits of listening to a Sunday night giveaway show or the Jack Benny comedy program.

Farmer J. A. McDonald, 76, of nearby Roostown township, admitted shooting Jackson W. Bailey, 68-year-old farmland, with a single-barreled shotgun last night after the radio listening feud erupted, Shields said.

Bailey preferred the Jack Benny show, while McDonald wanted to listen to "go for the house," an American Broadcasting system show, the sheriff said.

Rayburn Hits GOP In Illinois Speech

QUINCY, ILL. (UP) — Rep. Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.), asked voters last night whether they are tired of prosperity.

At a Democratic farm rally, Rayburn said the Democratic administration of the last 16 years brought prosperity to the country.

"No Republican candidate for major office has mentioned the last three Republican presidents," Rayburn said. "Yet some people now say they want a change."

"A change to what?" he asked. "Are you tired of prosperity? Do you want another Hoover-type prosperity?"

Capture Man Who Burned Farmhouse

Oil, Persuasion Free 3-Year-Old

Police and firemen were knights in shining armor yesterday for three-year-old Judy Stevens, 309 College court.

Held captive when she stuck her finger into an outdoor water faucet, Judy screamed, bringing her mother, Mrs. Dale S. Stevens, to the scene. After several futile attempts to release Judy, Mrs. Stevens summoned police and fireman.

Police officer Ollie A. White summed up the rescue in his report with, "hand released by oil and persuasion."

Anderson Case Ends With Insanity Verdict

Oscar Anderson, 58, was found insane in a verdict returned at 2 p.m. yesterday in Johnson county district court.

Judge James P. Gaffney turned the defendant over to Sheriff Albert J. "Pat" Murphy to place him in the state ward for the criminally insane at Anamosa.

Anderson, a former steeplejack, was charged with assault with intent to commit murder in connection with the shooting of Clifford Kelly, 221 S. Linn street, at the Strand cafe last April 22.

He changed his plea Oct. 13 from "not guilty" to "not guilty by reason of insanity."

Shortly after the trial started at 9:05 a.m. yesterday Judge Gaffney suspended further court proceedings on the county attorney's information to let the defense prove Anderson's insanity.

Four witnesses, Robert Eddy, 38, Albert Meaker, 35, Ralph Jarrett, 44, and Charles Brown, 23, testified that Anderson appeared "abnormal" to them by his recent actions in their presence. All four men are inmates of the county jail where Anderson was held.

Call Doctor to Stand At 10:30 a.m. immediately following the morning recess, Dr. Andrew H. Woods, former head of the state psychopathic hospital here and well-known psychiatrist and neurologist, took the stand for the defense.

He said he examined Anderson Oct. 12 and had made a complete case history of the defendant so far as possible.

The doctor said Anderson suffered a fractured skull eight years ago in Davenport caused by a blackjack blow on the left side of his head. He said the injury bled badly and after his recovery the defendant had trouble swallowing.

The psychiatrist said Anderson later had a stroke which partially paralyzed his right side. He said the defendant recovered the use of his right hand and his feet.

Fell From Smokestack In 1946 Anderson got a steeplejack job in Peoria and was working on a 45-foot smokestack when he fell. He was taken to the Mercy Hospital there where he remained unconscious 48 hours, according to testimony.

Arrested After 20-Hour Chase

Former Mental Patient Fired at Sheriff's Car

AFTON, IOWA (AP) — A former mental patient with a Nazi phobia who sought to kill a neighbor couple was captured yesterday after a 20-hour search.

He submitted meekly after burning down one farm home, threatening the occupants of another, firing six shots at a sheriff, and wandering around the countryside during an air-ground manhunt.

Sheriff J. R. Ewing said J. E. White, 25, was arrested under a railroad bridge five miles south of Afton at about 4 p.m.

White surrendered to Highway Patrolman Cletus Stangl of Creston. He offered no resistance but carried an unloaded rifle and had shells in his pocket, Stangl said.

A posse had surrounded White after a tip from the Rev. Ralph Hindman, Arthur Aungst and Herman Conard.

Conard, who lived near White several years ago but didn't know the man was being sought, had lent him his rifle.

The gun with which White sent a series of bullets through the windshield of a car containing Sheriff Ewing, Deputy William Hower, and White's father had been taken from him last night.

The sheriff said White was disarmed by A. E. Lacinia after White broke into the Lacinia farm home and poked a rifle into Lacinia's ribs.

Lacinia did not know White had been sought after burning down the Carl Christianson farm home. Lacinia "kicked him out" after taking the gun away, Ewing said.

Ewing said that in a note White left in his parents' home in which he penned the threat to kill the Christiansons, the young man made rambling comments to the effect he suspected some of his neighbors of being Nazis. White's parents notified the sheriff and the Christiansons on finding the note and the latter took refuge with a neighbor.

The sheriff said White, who graduated from Afton high school in 1942 with an excellent scholastic record, was committed to the Clarinda state mental hospital in 1945 after hitting his father with a jack handle. He later was released on parole.

Meaning Sought in Russ Berlin Purge

BERLIN — Berlin's two top Communists were replaced by men close to the Kremlin yesterday in a purge which may be the prelude, informed sources said, to establishment of a "people's republic" in the Soviet occupation zone.

A high United States official said Russia already has set up a German Communist administration capable of turning the Soviet zone into a state "any time Russia gives the word."

Guns were being handed out to Moscow-trained police throughout the eastern zone yesterday and anti-Communists said Communist rebellion in Korea should be a warning to Germany.

"Korea offers a parallel of what would happen in Germany if the western powers should accept Russia's proposal that all occupying forces withdraw from Germany," said Franz Tausch, chief editor of the newspaper Sozialdemokrat, when asked for his opinion of the situation.

What'll it Cost to Use the Transom?

NEW YORK (AP) — It's the little things that count.

A war veteran, who declined use of his name, told the Queens district attorney's office yesterday he read an advertisement for a three-room apartment at $85 a month.

He telephoned about it and was told it was true. Must he buy any furniture? No. Just one thing — the key would cost $2,000.

Young Republicans To Hear Sen. Cain Speak Here Tonight

Sen. Harry P. Cain (R-Wash.) will discuss the question, "Is Communism A Red Herring?" tonight before the Young Republican League of SUI in Macbride auditorium.

Cain, who is scheduled to speak at 8:15, recently returned to the United States after traveling through Europe studying ERP and the effects of the cold war.

During the war he served with an airborne combat group in Africa, Italy and the European theater. He was discharged with the rank of colonel and returned to Tacoma, Wash., to take up his duties as mayor.

He was elected to the senate in 1946 after serving in the short term session in 1946.

The senator is expected in Iowa City about noon today from Rockford, Ill., where he spoke last night.

Say 33 Dead In Air Crash

PRESTWICK, SCOTLAND (AP) — A New York-bound Royal Dutch Airlines (KLM) Constellation crashed into a field near here early yesterday and thirty-three were unofficially reported killed.

KLM officials issued no statement on the casualties, but other authorities fixed the death list at that number. Seven of the thirty passengers and ten crewmen were reported to have survived the flaming crash.

Among the survivors were five men and two women — one an American. All were seriously injured.

The American woman was identified as Mrs. Mathilda Rohs of New Jersey. She was taken to the nearby Kilmarnock Royal infirmary. Hospital attendants said she was badly hurt.

An eyewitness said "her clothes were on fire when she was dragged out of the plane. They pulled her clothes off and beat out the flames." The infirmary said she was in a "dangerous condition."

Washington State Tackle Niemi Lineman of Week

Also Nominate Northwestern's Alex Sarkisian

NEW YORK (AP)—Lauri Niemi, Washington State college tackle, is the collegiate football lineman of the week.

He was selected on the basis of his sterling performance in State's upset victory over the University of Washington. He received the most votes of the 35 players nominated in the Associated Press poll. Niemi played the full 90 minutes against Washington and was in the middle of every defensive play as State stopped Washington's rummy attack. On offense much of State's 224 yards were made through holes opened by Niemi.

The star from the Pacific northwest thus joins Alex Sarkisian, Northwestern center, who a week ago was named lineman of the week.

Sarkisian was nominated again this week, but many observers of the Northwestern-Michigan struggle thought Michigan's center, Dan Dworsky, had a wee bit the better of their duel. Dworsky, whose specialty is line backing, was given the major credit for halting Northwestern's ground attack.

Chuck Bednarik, Pennsylvania's all-American center, played a whale of a game against Columbia. He achieved the ambition of every lineman—to score a touchdown. It came on a blocked kick. Bednarik's play was outstanding in the east. In the southwest Dick Harris, Texas center, earned high praise. He spearheaded a hard charging line which limited Clyde Scott of Arkansas to 47 yards in nine tries.

In the south Bill Healy, Georgia Tech guard; Bill Wardle, North Carolina guard; Abner Wimberly, Louisiana State end; and Bernie Watts, North Carolina State guard, were pointed out as outstanding.

Most Accurate Arm

STAN HEATH (39), University of Nevada quarterback, and the nation's top collegiate passer, is about to let a pass go against St. Mary's college last Sunday. Nevada won, 44 to 20. If he keeps up his present pace Heath may surpass the 1,457-yard passing record set by Davey O'Brien of Texas Christian in 1938. In four games the Nevada has heaved the ball 1,031 yards.

Woodard Ready to Play ND; Hawks Stress Pass Defense

Iowa's gridders concentrated on pass defense and protection for the punter in practice yesterday in preparation for the Notre Dame game here Saturday.

The game with the Irish will attract a capacity crowd of 53,000 to the Iowa stadium, the fifth sell-out in SUU stadium history. Notre Dame's football powerhouse, unbeaten in 23 straight games, will be playing before its 21st consecutive full house.

The Hawkeyes will enter the game in top physical condition except for regular Left Halfback Bob Longley. He missed the Purdue game last Saturday because of a knee injury and is definitely out for the Irish game.

Game Captain Dick Woodard is running full force on his left ankle again after being hampered in the Purdue loss. Guard Joe Grothuis is also back in form after his sacroileal trouble.

It is possible that there will be no changes in the Iowa starting lineup this week. With Grothuis and Woodard ready to go full time, only the right halfback spot is questionable.

Anderson plans to start either Jerry Fiske, Ralph Doran or Mearl Naber and bring Bill Greene in for defense.

Taking Time Out

With Buck Turnbull

Iowa Upset Wouldn't Be First Time

When you delve into past football records, you never seem to get any concrete facts on which to base some sure-fire conclusions. So we pass this on for what it might be worth. It proves, anyway, that other Iowa football teams were able to conquer the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame.

The record books show that Iowa has played Notre Dame six times since the famous Hawkeye aggregation of 1921, the team which won Iowa's only undisputed conference championship. The Hawks captured the first three games, the Irish the last three.

After going a little deeper than the mere scores, one wonders if maybe this won't be Iowa's year again. The stage is certainly set for an upset.

Let's check the first three victories of Iowa teams over Notre Dame, all in years when the Hawks were accorded "no possible chance."

1921—The year of the famous Devine brothers, Aubrey and Glenn, Gordon Locke, Duke Slater and Craven Shuttleworth. The Irish carried a 20-game winning streak into the game against Iowa, their captain that year being the present Iowa coach, Dr. Eddie Anderson. The battle of 1921 has been classed as "one of the fiercest football games of all time." Iowa won, 10-7.

1939—The year of the now legendary Iowa "Iron Men." Notre Dame boasted an unbeaten string of seven games. The late Nile Kinnick wrecked Irish dreams that year, scoring the lone Hawkeye touchdown. Iowa won, 7-6.

1940—Once again Notre Dame took a victory streak of seven games into the Iowa game. The Irish didn't reckon with the underdog Hawkeyes, falling in defeat 7-0.

Actually it took Notre Dame 24 years from the time the series opened to beat an Iowa football team. And during those years Iowa was the only school in the country to hold an edge over the Irish.

Since 1945 the series picture has changed considerably. The last three years Notre Dame has won by scores of 56-0, 41-6 and 21-0.

This is the rubber year for both schools. The Irishmen are odds-on favorites, naturally, to add the Hawks to their list of scalps. They will enter the game here Saturday trying to protect an undefeated skein of 23 straight games.

Iowa goes into the contest as a three-touchdown underdog, nothing new to the men of Dr. Anderson. As unpredictable as the Old Gold has been, you never can really count them out of a ball game.

Here's the best story we've heard in quite some time. It just goes to show that the business manager of any athletic plant is a mighty tedious task.

With all the ticket troubles which go with the job of Frank Havlicek, Iowa's business manager of athletics, you can probably appreciate this little ditty:

"All I ever think about is tickets, tickets, tickets," Havlicek said yesterday. "Now that the Notre Dame game is a sell-out, I still get calls from people who want tickets. I see tickets, tickets, tickets in my dreams."

"The funniest thing happened the other night," he continued. "I woke up in the middle of the night in a cold sweat. You know what I was dreaming? I dreamed that Iowa was on the way to the Rose bowl, and I had all those darn tickets to get rid of."

Ris Ranked 1st in Freestyle; Six Hawks Rate All-American

Iowa's 1948 swimming team, practically the same squad which will wear the Hawks' trunks again this winter, was revealed yesterday as one of the powerhouses of the nation.

Iowa men won six all-American berths, and the Hawks, with three records, led the country in the number of new records approved, the National Collegiate Athletic association guide, just published, disclosed.

Wally Ris, first in the 100 yard freestyle and second in the 220 yard freestyle, led the Hawkeye all-Americans.

The 300-yard medley team of Backstroker Duane Draves, Breast stroker Dick Lake, and Ris were rated second in their event. The 400-yard freestyle relay team of Kenny Marsh, Draves, Ery Straub and Ris, which set a new collegiate long course record, was ranked third.

Ris accounted for the other two Iowa records, all of which were set in Iowa City last year.

Ris established a :51.5 time for the 100-yard freestyle, and was timed in 2:13.7 for the 220.

Draves received a fourth rating among collegiate backstrokers. Dave Brockway was given honorable mention in diving.

SMU's Gil Johnson Tops U.S. Tossers

DALLAS (AP)—Santa Clara will face the most accurate passer in college football when it meets Southern Methodist here Saturday night in one of the nation's top inter-sectional games.

Gil Johnson has completed 33 passes out of 44 attempts for an average of .750. And broken down further it reveals these startling statistics:

Johnson has played 48 minutes in four games and passed for seven touchdowns, thus he averages almost a point a minute.

He also has rolled up 574 yards with his tosses, so that's almost 12 yards per minute. And it's better than 17 yards per toss.

Veteran observers in the southwest are calling him the most accurate passer this area, noted for its passers, has ever known—even better than Sammy Baugh, the old master: Davey O'Brien and Bobby Layne.

Michigan in Aerial Drill

ANN ARBOR, MICH. (UP)—The Michigan varsity team held its usual mid-week heavy scrimmage yesterday and battered the scrub squad which was trying to run through Minnesota plays.

Gene Derricotte was the focal point of the varsity attack in Coach Bennie Oosterbaan's preparations for a tough struggle to retain possession of the "Little Brown Jug," symbolic of the intense rivalry between the Wolverines and the Gophers.

Derricotte and Chuck Ortman did most of the pitching to Walt Teninga and Dick Rifenburg. The four are expected to spark an aerial attack against Minnesota's heavy line.

Gophers Drill Pass Defense; Bye Back

MINNEAPOLIS (UP)—Secret practice for the third time in as many weeks was ordered for University of Minnesota football players yesterday.

Coach Bernie Bierman closed gates on all spectators as he began an intensive two-day drill for the Gophers, decided underdogs in the tilt with Michigan Saturday.

Minnesota backs appeared likely to be in the best physical shape of the season against Michigan.

Panelli Returns to Notre Dame Lineup

SOUTH BEND, IND. (UP)—John Panelli, Notre Dame, senior fullback, returned to contact yesterday to strengthen the Irish for the Iowa game.

Panelli suffered a bruised back in last Saturday's victory over Nebraska, and Mike Swistowski suffered back injuries the week before against Michigan State.

Capt. Bill Fischer, left guard, probably will not play against Iowa. Terry Brennan, left half, is still in the doubtful class.

Dick Dunkel's COLLEGE FOOTBALL POWER INDEX

EXPLANATION—The Power Index provides a direct comparison of the relative strength of any two teams for this season to date. Thus, a 50.0 team has been 10 scoring points stronger than a 40.0 team on their comparative records, in which scoring margin has been weighted against strength of opposition. This does not necessarily mean that a 50.0 team should defeat a 40.0 team by exactly 10 points in the future. Teams rarely follow past performance that closely. The Dunkel system correlates records of all college teams and was started in 1929.

'Football Fans Aren't Human' Claims Wife of Wisconsin's Criticized Mentor

MADISON, WIS. (AP)—Mrs. Harry Stuhldreher, with 20 years as the wife of a big time coach behind her, told yesterday why she thinks "football fans aren't human."

The wife of the University of Wisconsin mentor, now embroiled in the most violent controversy of his 13 years here, told the family side of it in an article with that title in the current Saturday Evening Post. The article was written last winter, but couldn't have made a more timely appearance.

Harrassed Harry's latest trouble, a product of local "Good-Bye Harry" clubs, broke into the open at last Saturday's game with Yale, which the Badgers lost, 17-7. A banner reading "Good-Bye Harry" was unfurled in the Wisconsin student section and a goodly portion of the crowd chanted a ditty set to the air of "Good Night Ladies."

His Big Nine entry this year has beaten Illinois, lost to Indiana and California in addition to Yale.

Support for Stuhldreher who also is athletic director, came immediately, however from team members and many others. T. A. Cox, a fullback, termed the banner having a "sickening display of sportsmanship." The team members bought the coach a billfold inscribed with the words "we are behind you Harry." The student union board censored the banner wavers for unsportsmanlike conduct. And President E. B. Fred of the university apologized to members of the team for the "regrettable demonstration."

Mrs. Stuhldreher, writing in the Post, said that she had enjoyed life as a coach's wife until 1946, when "criticism of Harry hit a new high — or low, and the 'Good Bye Harry' club' sprang into being."

Vets' Children Get Barracks For Playschool

School begins for veterans' children two to five years old Nov. 15, in barracks number 67.

Assignment of the building to the Veterans' Playschool was announced yesterday by Theodore M. Rehder, director of dormitories. The barracks is south of University hospital across the road from the Quadrangle.

Registration Monday

Registration of children for the school will begin at three p.m. Monday. Veterans' children will be given preference but children of non-veteran students and staff members will be accepted if the classes are not filled, Mrs. Lawrence Ely, school council chairman, said.

The building, furnished rent-free by the university, provides a home for the school which for months has met in the city hall council chambers and in various churches.

Cooperative Project

The school will be a cooperative project supervised by mothers of the children. Painting and carpentering in the school will be done by interested fathers.

Half of a double-unit barracks and utilities have been supplied by the university. If more room is needed, additional barracks will be rented to the group, university officials said.

Red Cross Office Has CARE Blanks

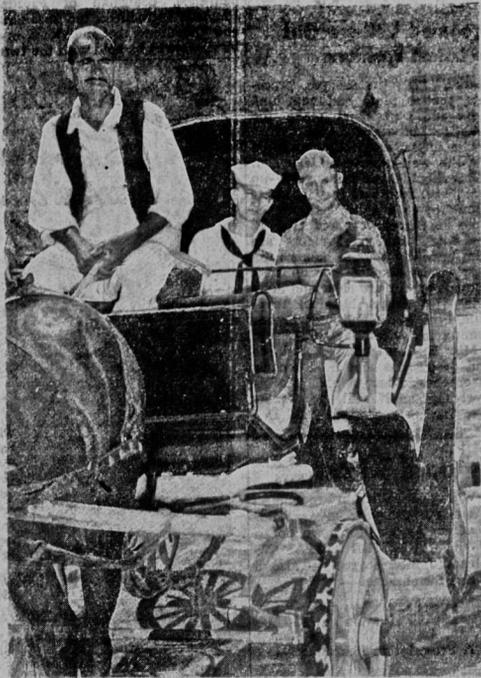

CARE blanks are available at the Johnson county Red Cross chapter, 15 1/2 S. Dubuque street, Mrs. Lorna L. Mathes, executive secretary of the chapter, said yesterday.

All packages are admitted to Europe without duties or taxes and recipients will lose no part of their regular rations, the national bulletin received by Mrs. Mathes stated.

CARE, the Cooperative for American Remittances to Europe, is composed of 26 welfare agencies whose purpose is to provide a non-profit gift package service to individuals and groups in war-devastated countries.

The organizations is prepared to deliver 16 types of packages to 15 countries. Prices, types of packages, names of the countries and additional information may be obtained from the local office.

Miss Camp Says Teacher Demand Still Tops Supply

"The demand for teachers is greater than the supply," Frances Camp of the educational placement office told 275 seniors at a meeting in 221-A Schaeffer hall at 4:30 p.m. yesterday.

Miss Camp explained the work of the educational placement office and its method of registration for jobs.

She pointed out that there are no signs of a lessening of the demand for teachers, particularly in the elementary schools.

"In 1946 we had 1,496 registered at our placement office," she said, "and we had 3,146 calls for jobs. In 1948 we had 1,112 registered and 6,500 calls."

Miss Camp said that Iowa has increased teachers' salaries recently and Iowa schools can now compete successfully with other states.

"Last year 52 percent of Iowa seniors stayed in Iowa," she said. "My advice to you is to pick the locality you wish to develop in and then stick to it."

Foreign teaching jobs are available but very difficult to secure because almost all require two to three years of experience and have exacting requirements.

Miss Camp emphasized that in order to secure the aid of the placement office students must register.

A meeting for graduate students interested in teaching will be held today at 4:30 p.m. in room 221-A Schaeffer hall.

Good Day May Hurdle Community Chest Goal

A "good day" today in the Community Chest's fund-raising campaign is all that is needed to hurdle the chest goal of $19,732.76, Mrs. J. L. Records, permanent secretary, said.

Mrs. Records was positive the drive had passed the $18,000 milestone yesterday but exact figures were not available.

Law Students Select 'Independents' Officers

The "Independents," a group of unaffiliated law students, elected officers in an organizational meeting yesterday.

Dick Schlager was elected president; Bob Brown, vice-president; Bob Lawson, secretary, and Leo Ziffren, Stanley Kalender and Paul Beckman, delegates to the Law Students' association.

Two Polling Places Moved

City Clerk George Dohrer yesterday announced changes in the polling places for the first ward, second precinct, and the second ward, second precinct.

First ward, second precinct voters will cast their ballots at the Hawkeye Tent and Awning company, 29 W. College street. This precinct's polling place has been moved from the company's former location at 221 S. Capitol.

Firemen Summoned For 2 Small Fires

Iowa City firemen were summoned to the Moraveck paint shop, 600 S. Gilbert street, at 10:30 a.m. yesterday where a small fire, started by a cutting torch, had broken out in the wall of the store. No damage was reported.

At the same time another fire department truck was called to the James Bradley residence, 525 Iowa avenue, to extinguish a fire in a radio set.

The main lounge of the SUI fine arts building on North Riverside drive will be the new location for the second ward, second precinct. The change was made because the former location, the city park pavilion, is being torn down.

The city clerk's office will remain open during the noon hours today and tomorrow for persons unable to register during regular office hours. Deadline for registration is Saturday noon.

Iowa Press To Meet Here

The 1948 annual Iowa publishers' newspaper conference will be held in Iowa City Friday and Saturday.

The conference is sponsored jointly by the State University of Iowa and the Iowa Press association.

About 100 editors and publishers are expected to be on hand for the various meetings and forums scheduled, and to attend the Iowa-Notre Dame football game.

Following a banquet at the Memorial Union, Friday night, Robert Gunning, nationally recognized authority on readability, will present an illustrated speech entitled "Making Newspapers Readable."

Polio Cases Drop At Local Hospitals

Chinese Wife Prefers Chopsticks, 'Chaiotse'

A KNITTING FIEND, but still challenged by American cooking, is Mrs. T. Z. Koo, wife of a guest professor in the school of religion. She's learning how to cook American foods in an introductory foods course at the University of Iowa, but at home she prefers to whip up dishes she learned in her China homeland.

By MARGE HARRINGTON
Though already an expert at knitting, diminutive Mrs. T. Z. Koo still can't cook American foods.

The tiny lady says she'd rather "cook by intuition" than use exacting measurements, a rule she finds binding in a University of Iowa foods course she takes.

Her nimble fingers knitted and purled automatically as she spoke, and only occasionally did her glances through plastic rims catch sight of the sweater she's making for a friend.

She and her husband, Dr. T. Z. Koo, a guest professor in the school of religion, find chopsticks from their native China much handier than forks. Since their arrival in Iowa City Labor day, they've had "no potatoes" in their apartment at 114 N. Gilbert street. And they haven't used over one cup of sugar since they came.

Fish dishes are a popular menu item at the Koo home, Mrs. Koo said. Though Dr. Koo doesn't have time to do it often, she exclaimed, he has a touch all his own when he cooks. They both prefer Chinese food to American menus—but "we do like ice cream," she beamed.

Salads — "An American dish, isn't it?"—never find their way to the Koo table, though "we sometimes salt our cabbage," she said. "Something sweet" in the afternoon or between meals takes the place of desserts.

Though she likes to cook and sew better, Mrs. Koo can whip up dishes deluxe simply by "throwing something in." She gets results by adding "a little bit of this and a little bit of that."

Chaiotse, one of the favorite dishes at the Koo home, can be made easily without exacting directions.

Ingredients: flour and water dough. Raw pork and cabbage, slightly cooked, ground together. Roll the dough flat to a diameter of 6 inches. Put a portion of the minced pork and cabbage on each piece of dough and fold the sides up to form an enclosed ball. Drop the balls in boiling water and boil until they float. Serve hot.

Beauty Show Begins

Offers Hints for Well-Groomed College Girl Models Demonstrate Latest Fashions

Two speakers opened the first session of Profile Preview yesterday afternoon in the senate chamber of Old Capitol with talks on beauty care and fashions. They were Mrs. Frank Pitzenberger, Waterloo, and Bonnie Hurlburt, Des Moines.

"Beauty is nine-tenths care," Mrs. Pitzenberger told the group. "For this reason, girls should give their hair, nails and face a great deal of attention."

"Brush your hair a wee bit every day," she suggested, "to bring out its life and lustre, because these are the things people notice most."

"Hair-shaping and hair-styling are two of the most important 'little things' for a well-groomed appearance," Mrs. Pitzenberger emphasized. "Therefore, a professional hair stylist should be consulted for these jobs."

The president of the Waterloo School of Beauty Culture for 20 years also suggested that girls wash their hair with three solutions of shampoo and rinse it well about once a week to have "the lovely hair that is in reach of all of us."

Your fashions should be selected because you like them and not because they appeal to your friends, the second speaker said. Miss Hurlburt suggested perusing the fashion magazines before shopping and then choosing those fashions that can be "individually yours."

Stating there is nothing permanent in fashions but good taste, she added that the college girl needs simple, practical clothes which are easy to care for and easy to wear.

"This is an important year for 'little things,'" Miss Hurlburt declared. "It's the scarves, bracelets, scatter pins, and matching belts and shoes that make the fashions individually yours."

She offered the following hints for the well-dressed college girl: shoes should have the covered-up look, with heels and toes in; skirts should be 13 to 14 inches from the floor for school wear and 11 or 12 for dates usually; shoulders are slim but need pads to balance the hips; waist lines are minimized, and colors now are clear and definite with bright hues in royal blue, lipstick red and Kelly greens coming in for holiday wear.

Miss Hurlburt showed sketches and accessories and used models to emphasize her points. Models were Colleen Newell, A3, Carthage, Ill.; Sue Stevens, A2, Des Moines, and Mona McCormick, A1, Cleveland, Ohio.

Dad's Day Programs Are Ready

Ten thousand fathers may be surprised to receive printed programs of activities planned for Dad's Day weekend, Oct. 29 and 30, if their sons and daughters are on the ball.

Blue-inked on a gray card, the programs are standard envelope size and are free to students, Dr. Walter R. Goetsch, director of the office of student affairs, said yesterday.

While the printed programs will be distributed to housing units, any student or student group may pick up additional programs at the office of student affairs, he said.

Events listed on the Dad's day program include a student pep meeting at 7 p.m. Friday, Oct. 29, on the Iowa Union grounds.

Following the rally will be the Dad's day dance at 9 p.m. in the Iowa Union. All dads will be admitted free of charge. Music by Elliott Lawrence will be featured, and representative alumni and student dads will be introduced at the intermission. Omicron Delta Kappa will sponsor the dance.

Saturday morning open houses will be held in housing units, the Iowa Union, university libraries, university museum and in all colleges and departments of the university.

The two representative dads will be introduced again at half-time of the Iowa-Wisconsin game Saturday.

Ross Gray, Rockwell City attorney, who has two sons attending SUI this year, was chosen by ODK to represent alumni dads. The student dad representative will be selected from 11 candidates nominated by students in the married student housing areas.

Heidt Talent Agent To Name Winners Of Auditions Today

Horace Heidt's talent agent, Frank Reeves, listened to about 25 persons audition last night for the Heidt show which will be here Saturday, Nov. 6.

Reeves is a professional "good listener." "I try to send everyone home happy whether they are winners or not," he said.

Most of the talent come from the SUI student body. Singers outnumbered instrumentalists even though Reeves had sent out a special appeal for anyone who played an instrument.

Those who auditioned were Leo Carimiglia, Jack Nelson, Gusto Rodriguez, Victoria Abodeely, Robert Raven, Offie Leeper, Milo Hamilton, Delores Lazio, and Jim Doyle.

Warren Thompson, James Waery, Esther Baumer, Sol Baumer, Richard Hiescher, Leq Spiwak, Val Mungar, Beverly Bragg, Margaret Talmadge, Kenneth De Klotz, Jacqueline Fitzgerald, and Mary Carmichael.

The Star Dusters Quartet from Winton Junction, John McGaffey from Washington, and Sandra Petzel from Lone Tree.

Reeves will announce his choice sometime this morning.

Lola Has First Word

"SAY 'MOMMA' FOR LINDA," urges Actress Linda Darnell as her six-month-old foster-daughter, Charlotte Mildred Marley, poses for her first picture. Linda and her husband Pev Marley, a cameraman, adopted the child when she was two weeks old and have nicknamed her Lola. Just now Lola seems to have the microphone confused with a new rattle.

St. Mary's Church To Hold Services For Mrs. E. Kelley

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth A. Kelley, 86, 619 Iowa avenue, will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow at St. Mary's church. Burial will be in Mt. Calvary cemetery in Oxford.

The rosary will be recited at 4 p.m. today at the McGovern funeral home.

Mrs. Kelley, who lived alone, died sometime Sunday but her body was not discovered until Tuesday night when neighbors notified authorities that they had not seen her for two days.

Born March 1, 1882, in Cosgrove she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Murphy.

In August, 1884, she was married to John W. Kelley. The couple made their home on a farm northeast of Oxford. After her husband's death in 1940, Mrs. Kelley moved to Iowa City.

She was a member of St. Mary's church and the Altar and Rosary society.

Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. Macrina Findley, Portland, Ore., Marie and Gertude Kelley, both of San Francisco, Mrs. Katherine Hart, Toronto, Iowa; two sons, Frank J. Kelley, Oxford, James J. Kelley, Tucson, Ariz., and six grandchildren.

At UWF Meeting —

Harlan Miller to Speak Tonight

Des Moines Register columnist Harlan Miller will pour his coffee into the channels of world government tonight. His talk on "World Government or World War III" will highlight an open meeting of SUI's United World Federalists at 7:30 p.m. in room 309, Schaeffer hall.

The "Over the Coffee" columnist in an interview here earlier this week called world government "the most important single crusade" now on earth.

The stocky columnist with thinning reddish hair emphasized at that time that world government is not just a vague concept but is well-grounded in principle and can be worked out.

The SUI chapter of UWF can best aid the worldwide movement by "exerting pressure" on Iowa representatives in congress and on local Democratic and Republican leaders, he pointed out.

Miller suggested a systematic letter-writing schedule worked out by UWF members as a good way of "exerting pressure." Each member should write at least one letter a week, he said.

A world federation now should include all democratic countries, he explained. That excludes Russia for the present, he added.

But that doesn't mean Russia could never fit into a world federation setup, the columnist continued. "As soon as her government is based on democratic principles she will be eligible."

Miller also willingly explained his technique for writing "Over the Coffee." Most important, he pointed out, is "lots of experience" and "being in the right mood."

"You have to feel like you're sitting on top of the world in order to write a bright column," he remarked. And then what makes the good column, he continued, is "your own slant" on a wide variety of things—experiences garnered by living a "full life."

Harry P. Cain was first elected mayor of Tacoma in 1940 to fill an unexpired term. He was re-elected in 1943 to a term of 4 years. He took a leave of absence in 1943 to enter the army and was assigned to airborne troops. He was in the campaign in Africa, Sicily, Italy, England, France, Belgium, Holland, and Germany. He left the army in Dec. 1946 as a full colonel and entered the Senate for the short term and was seated in Jan. 1947 for the full 6-year term.

Senator Cain was decorated twice with the Bronze Star, Croix de Guerre with cluster, and Legion of Merit. At 42, he is one of the youngest members of the Senate. He had a close working experience with the Russians while in the army and returned to Europe this past summer to glean first hand information on the cold war. He is a fluent and talented speaker whose audiences listen intently as long as he will tell of his experiences.

Two Ways to Stagnate

Two expressions of opinion in the past few days have caused us to take stock of the political year overtones.

The first is a theory, advanced by a local political figure as a well-considered guide to voting. This man said he would much rather have a government run by all one party—legislative and executive branches both of the same stem—than to have the people represented by a minority party member. His argument was that the minority man could not accomplish much for his constituents because the majority party won't give the guy a chance.

For that reason, he says what good does it do Johnson county to go Democrat when the rest of the state is going Republican? The man from Johnson county will not get on any committees or do any of the things the Republicans don't think he should. Well, that's this man's argument.

It seems a stodgy, complacent, short-sighted outlook on the precepts of democratic government. Of course, it depends on how far this man would pursue the attempt to install a completely "unified" group of people in government. But this man does deplore the "voting for the man, not the party" as a lot of hokey.

That precludes an assumption that only one party at a time can bring out adequate candidates. It assumes a natural superiority for the one party on the basis of how the party functions rather than how the elected officeholders handle their jobs. It glorifies machines. It means that in the old "bad apple in the barrel" word-picture, to get some good apples the voter must accept the whole barrel—bad ones and all, simply because they come with the party barrel.

The weakness of any government has not come from internal dissension half so often as it has from loss of a protest party. To vote only a party into government is to admit the nation has no changes to make; to admit the nation is stagnant.

The other point is an attitude expressed by some held by many. It is usually expressed like this: "I don't think I'll vote—there's nobody running that I like well enough to vote for."

This is a symptom of lazy judgment, and of decaying thought processes. It means the voter does not care to consider the alternatives deeply enough to make a selection. Voting should be like an offer of a thousand dollars; the political parties offer that sum to you in paper money, hard cash, non-negotiable securities or in pumpkin seeds. You certainly would know how to pick one of the alternatives.

So the parties offer you a Missourian with glasses, a New Yorker with a mustache, an Iowan with an unruly forelock. Those physical characteristics are only the beginning, however.

The records of each man, his personality and his aims are before the voter every day in articles, news reports and word-of-mouth judgments. So think it over—how do you want your thousand dollars?

To neglect your voting right is to admit the nation has no changes to make; to admit that you and your nation are stagnant.

Communists or 'Monarcho-Fascists'?

Who killed George Polk in Greece? Communist guerrilla or "monarcho-fascists"? The Greek government says the Communists; guerrilla chief Markos says the "fascists."

The rightist Greek government popped the unsolved murder onto the scene earlier this week with the announcement that it had been solved and the Communists responsible were either under arrest or being hunted.

The guerrillas, shattered militarily, opened fire with counter charges. Their defense in depth reached to Moscow where the official radio called the Greek government's charge a "crude forgery."

George Polk was an American correspondent who didn't mind denouncing government corruption as well as the guerrilla terror tactics. Last May, he arranged to be taken behind the lines to interview General Markos. He disappeared. Several days later, his body was found in Salonika bay.

The Greek government promptly pinned the blame on the guerrillas and snubbed American efforts to investigate the murder further. Other U.S. correspondents had reason to believe that someone other than Communists wanted to kill George Polk.

Polk was to return to the United States and had planned to write a book. It's possible that Greek rightists didn't like some of the things he had observed and was prepared to report on.

The Greek government invited George Polk's family to Greece to attend the trial of the accused Communists. Polk's younger brother—echoing the opinion held by many—accepted by saying he thinks the case needs "impartial investigation. I don't think the Greek government is impartial."

Mussolini Saw Public Trial In 'Garden'

NEW YORK (UP)—Benito Mussolini feared that he might be tried publicly in New York's Madison Square garden if he fell into American hands after Italy's surrender.

He said so himself in his own story of the last days of fascism, written after German paratroopers rescued him from Italian imprisonment atop the Gran Sasso Sept. 12, 1943.

The story originally appeared as a series of 19 unsigned articles in the newspaper Milan Corriere Della Sera, starting on June 24, 1944. The newspaper then was the voice of Mussolini's German-sponsored Fascist republic.

TRANSLATED INTO English, the story will be published in the United States by Farrar, Straus and company next Monday under the title of "The Fall of Mussolini." Throughout Mussolini referred to himself in the third person.

Safe in German hands after his rescue, Mussolini wrote:

"A Greek philosopher, Thales, used to thank the gods for making him a human being and not a beast, a man and not a woman, a Greek and not a barbarian.

"Mussolini thanks the gods for sparing him a glamorous trial at Madison Square garden—a fate worse than being hung in the Tower of London—and for letting him, along with the best of his countrymen, live out the fifth and last act of the drama that involves his native land."

MUSSOLINI BLAMED France and Gen. Charles de Gaulle for starting the chain of events that led to his downfall.

"It was France, that so-called Jewish-Masonic-Bolshevik 'independent', that opened the gates of the Mediterranean to the Americans," he said.

"The landing of the first cargoes of men and tanks (in Algiers) met no resistance, but indeed was claimed by a triumphal greeting from their accomplices. This betrayal on the part of De Gaulle was a prelude to that perpetrated by Badoglio; these two were links of the same chain . . .

"America's appearance on the scene disheartened many cowards, increased by millions the already large number of those who listened to enemy radio broadcasts, and provided to traitors who had not shown their hand an alibi for future behavior."

MUSSOLINI WROTE his own version of the fateful Fascist grand council meeting July 24, 1943, which read him out of the government, and of his dismissal next day by King Victor Emanuel with a promise for his "personal security."

Not until nearly three hours after he had been taken away in an ambulance by heavily-armed police, Mussolini said, did it dawn on him that he was being held a prisoner.

Truman, Barkley Push Fast-Paced Fight

With a major party break behind him and the polls predicting a Republican victory right and left, President Truman is putting up a terrific, pace-making campaign.

Rated as one of the "traveling-est" presidential candidates in American history, he is making a supreme effort to retain his office in the face of one of the closest-run election races in recent decades.

The piano-playing Missourian's personal touch in speeches is one of his major campaign assets. He has the ability to address a crowd on a friendly, man-to-man basis and explain his policies in language understandable to the average voter.

On campaign tours he frequently takes his family along and introduces them to his audiences. It is a personable touch that goes over well.

For a man of 64, he has exceptionally good health and seems to take the burdens of his office in good stride. In the face of all the political bad breaks of the past months, including the Wallace movement and the Dixiecrat revolt, he has managed to retain a front of fighting confidence.

When Franklin D. Roosevelt died, Truman found himself heir to the New Deal program and administration. He has consistently tried to expand and develop the program to its logical limits in the teeth of a strong Republican congress.

His economic policies of continued high taxation and price control have been balked by an economy minded congress. The main theme of his presidential campaign speeches have been what he terms the failure of the 80th congress to reduce the cost of living.

McBride's Haul

By BILL MCBRIDE

Now they've gone too far . . . toy manufacturers I mean. Tuesday night while visiting friends I read a toy catalogue from cover to cover and was quite pleased with the headway made by the industry.

There was an "electric" razor which is guaranteed not to shave, and I'm in favor of that for youngsters, since it will keep them out of daddy's whisker removing equipment.

The little vacuum sweeper that actually sweeps is a good idea and so is the midget lawn mower.

The shock came when I shifted from the toy catalogue to Life magazine of Oct. 18. Pictured in that publication is a group of "Facts of Life" dolls. I'm against waiting until a child is 19 years old before telling him or her that maternity wards are more than lively stables for fictitious storks, but the line has to be drawn somewhere.

Contrary to rumors, our marriage is a childless one and some might say, therefore, that this is none of my business. When a toy called a "Potty Doll" is placed on the market, I hold that it's anyone's business, and may the best man win.

Is nothing sacred? It was bad enough when they invented a doll which promptly dampened itself after a meal of tap water, but this new toy waits until it is placed in the proper position over a doll-size mug.

Imagine that! Children will take this thing for granted after a few of the FOL dolls are on the market, but what about hard-working fathers?

A busy day at the office . . . many trying problems . . . 5 p.m. crawls around and father rides a jammed bus home where he expects a warm meal and proper relaxation for his ragged nerves. What's the first thing he sees as he steps into the living room? Potty Doll! Nothing could be more upsetting.

You single men think this won't affect you . . . wait and see. You drop in on an old college chum who has married since you last saw him and has a 3-year-old daughter. His charming wife asks you to stay for dinner. While dinner is being prepared you and your friend discuss old times.

You talk about purely male subjects . . . the market, football, your job, and then . . . Potty Doll!

The stock market, athletics, your work, all leave the conversation and all that's left is a life-like doll perched in the middle of the floor.

The sweet faced child of your friend peers up at you and gurgles, "Wanta know about the facts of life?"

What are you going to say then, Mr. Bachelor? This thing affects us all, married and single alike, and the only way to whip it is to put our foot down . . . have to be careful where, though. Not telling what would happen if you stepped on a FOL toy.

An agent reports that a local tobacco shop has on its counter two boxes of cigars. One of them is a "vote for Dewey" box and the other is for Truman supporters.

The report says that more Dewey cigars have been purchased than Truman. So nearly as I can figure, this situation is indicative of very little. It might just be that Dewey supporters smoke more than Democrats. At least there were more smoke-filled room stories during the Republican convention.

An ardent Democrat tells me with a political smugness that it just proves that Republicans have the support of vested money interests, because everyone knows that capitalists smoke big, black cigars.

On the other hand, a Republican said Truman voters, feeling certain that the President will be re-elected, are afraid to fritter away money on tobacco because they know another Democrat administration means more and more money spent for foolish government agencies.

Progressives must not smoke. There are no Wallace cigars to my knowledge.

You politicians go ahead and have it out. I'll hold coats.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT

Unknown President-Elect

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

I do not have the feeling, after six weeks of his second campaign for the presidency, that the country really knows Mr. Dewey very well.

He remains a somewhat cold and baffling figure, and although attempts are made to explain away these qualities, and to show that he has warmed up and become a little more chummy over the years, nobody has yet suggested that he would make an ideal smoking room companion on a slow crossing to Europe.

It is possible, even probable, that he would come equipped for such a trip with a good selection of jokes and funny stories, but one has a feeling that these would have been collected for him by a special joke-writing staff, and slipped into his hand, neatly typed, as he mounted the gang-plank.

NOR DO HIS current speeches help us much to get to the core of the real, the essential Dewey. It is not of great assistance in understanding a man, his dreams, his hopes, his personal quality, to hear him say that "we need a rudder to our ship of state" and, in addition "a firm hand at the tiller."

Such declarations do not draw aside the curtain that separates man from man, and permit us to peer inside at what constitutes the mystery of personality.

It is startling, of course, that a man who is presumably about to be elected to the highest office in the land should be so remote, cool and baffling a figure. If there is any time when a man should be a puzzle, it is two weeks before he is named the next president.

And yet I have a peculiar feeling that it is precisely because of what might be called the enigmatic elements in his make-up that Mr. Dewey is about to win the victory everybody expects him to win.

For it is strangely characteristic of the present period that in it we have been looking for men about whose politics we do not know very much to run our public business for us. This is the period in which we have been turning increasingly to high military figures, with almost no records on public issues, for important administrative and policy-making posts.

It is the period of the walloping demand for Eisenhower to run for president, a demand fervently shared by many who could not have said where the great commander stood on most public questions.

IT MAY SEEM odd to put Mr. Dewey somehow into this category, since he has spent much of his life in politics. But, if you think it over, it is not so odd. Here is a public figure who is almost exactly as old as this century, one who came to maturity in the Thirties and Forties, when the greatest issues were being decided.

Yet if you try to associate Mr. Dewey's name with any of these issues, you will find yourself strangely thwarted. You certainly cannot call him a New Dealer, yet he was not one of the big anti-New Deal leaders, either. He was not a conspicuous interventionist, nor a conspicuous isolationist. He does not figure in our memories as a defender of price controls, nor as an opponent of them. Almost always his touch has been glancing and cool; he has been around, without being associated, in any really positive way, with the movements which have made two decades for us. The memory of the issues is there, and the memory of Dewey is there, but they are not decisively joined.

AND SO A somewhat baffled people turns to him, in an election in which the choice of candidate serves more to illustrate the nature of our problem than to promise a solution for it. And Mr. Dewey solemnly plays it the way it figures, in speeches in which he brings the changes on the more abstract nouns. He is perhaps lacking some support thereby, Mr. Truman's crowds are growing impressively.

Republicans in a number of state and local races no longer feel that Mr. Dewey is of major help to them. But he will probably win, after a few more speeches about the dignity of man to an electorate which he probably feels he has in his pocket.

Orchestra Presents — 'A Good First Concert'

— Says Reviewer
By DONALD KEY

The inspiring music of Johannes Brahms drew a large audience to the opening concert by the SUI Symphony orchestra last night. Symphony in C minor, Variations on a Theme by Haydn, and Tragic Overture, comprised the all Brahms program.

Frequently Played
The "Tragic Overture" which opened the concert is a number frequently played and seldom appreciated. It is a sister composition to the "Academic Festival Overture," which the orchestra played as an encore. Both of these overtures were well presented by the orchestra. In fact, I think they were done better than the other numbers on the concert. "Variations on a Theme by Haydn," was performed as the second number. Here was the chance for the woodwinds to sing, and they did not disappoint us. The music, warm and flowing, was performed excellently. Special laurels should go to the first oboe and first flute, who both played exceptionally well.

Symphony Disappointing
The performance of the symphony was the biggest disappointment of the evening for me. It seemed that the orchestra had let down during the intermission. The intonation, in some passages, was far from what it should be, and the string section lost its former precision. The last two movements, however, were presented much better, and the orchestra began to sound like the SUI symphony we are used to hearing.

Not a Bad Concert
As a whole the program was not a bad first concert. In fact, it was a rather good one, considering that these young musicians have played together only four weeks. There is room for a lot of improvement, but I think, that as the season progresses, we will have an organization that will be presenting some very enjoyable concerts.

Driver Fined $52.50 For Leaving Scene
Police Judge Emil G. Trott fined Robert L. Quinn, Washington, $52.50 in police court yesterday on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident without giving his name, address and license number to the other driver involved.

Anderson—

and tests showed him to be blind in his left eye, it was brought out in the testimony, and the defense claimed a brain injury resulting from the skull fracture caused Anderson's strokes and blindness in his left eye.

Dr. Woods then diagrammed on a blackboard where Anderson's skull had been indented on the left side, damaging the brain.

He said he felt sure the damage to the brain had reached the point where the defendant has lost his sense of sensation, which, he said, indicates how far the damage to the brain tissue has progressed.

Defense attorney Edward L. O'Connor then asked, "Has he lost control over his actions?"

Dr. Woods answered, "Yes. Over the thing ordinarily called 'will.'"

"Not Responsible"
O'Connor then asked the doctor's opinion on Anderson's responsibility for the Kelly shooting, based on the examination he made of Anderson Oct. 12.

Dr. Woods replied, "In my judgment he is not responsible for his actions so far as psychiatric opinion goes — as far as public safety goes I feel he ought to be restrained."

O'Connor asked, "Then at the present time you feel he is insane?"

The doctor answered, "I do." He further advised that Anderson be sent to the state ward for the criminally insane at Anamosa.

County Attorney Jack C. White then told the jury the state was willing to leave the question of Anderson's sanity in their hands.

Judge Gaffney instructed the jury to return a verdict of "sane" or "insane" against Anderson.

The jury retired at 11:25 a.m. At noon the jurors were taken out to lunch. They retired again at 1:23 and returned the verdict at 2 p.m.

Sheriff Murphy will take Anderson to Anamosa sometime today, he said.

SENTENCED IN THEFT
DES MOINES (AP)—Accused of stealing a metal cash box containing $100 from a downtown restaurant, Darrell Dean Wilson, 20, Des Moines pleaded guilty in district court yesterday and was sentenced to 90 days in jail at hard labor.

HELLO SON, HOW'S YOUR NEW CAR AND CHAUFFEUR?
OKAY POP? — I GUESS?
YEAH! — EXCEPT TONIGHT WE BOTH GOT DATES.
WHAT DO YOU MEAN BY "I GUESS"? DOESN'T DOUG DRIVE YOU AROUND? THAT WAS THE ARRANGEMENT, WASN'T IT?
IS THAT BAD? YOU'VE GONE OUT ON DOUBLE DATES BEFORE.
IT KINDA FOOLS THINGS UP, THIS TIME.
WE BOTH GOT DATES WITH THE SAME GIRL.
