Labor, 'Rights' Are Subjects Of Candidates

Truman Talks on Air; Dewey, at N.Y. Dinner

BY THE UNITED PRESS
President Truman renewed his charge yesterday that the Republicans will destroy the New Deal if they capture the White House in November.
Gov. Thomas E. Dewey urged a human rights program based on "equal treatment for all."

Mr. Truman interrupted his three-day campaign pause with a labor-sponsored radio address. He appealed for the liberal vote, and predicted that he will win Nov. 2.
"Hatchet Job"
Repeating his claim that the GOP will do a "hatchet job" on New Deal legislation if they get the chance, he implied that a recent book by Rep. Fred A. Hartley (R-N.J.) foreshadowed more restrictive labor laws under Republican rule.

He also referred to Dewey's ire at a railroad engineer who backed the New York governor's campaign train into a crowd.

Mr. Truman said his opponent doesn't mention that under great engineer (former President Herbert) Hoover we backed up into the worst depression in our history.

Actress Talks
The President was introduced by Tallulah Bankhead, scion of the Alabama Democratic family, who said Dewey is "trim and neat and tidy," but asked, "Is he human?" She urged that Dewey be left in "his cellophane wrapper."

The White House disclosed that the President's final campaign swing through the midwest and east will include side speeches in some 30 cities in addition to six major addresses. He begins his vote-seeking tour tomorrow.

At Testimonial
The GOP presidential nominee spoke at a testimonial dinner in New York City honoring the late New York Gov. Alfred E. Smith. He attacked what he called Russia's "biographical punch press" approach to human beings, which he said claims people are all "identical slaves."

In his first campaign discussion of civil rights, Dewey advocated the governmental principle of "equal justice and equal treatment for all." He said faithful adherence to it would enable meeting "even our most difficult problems of discrimination against minority groups."

Appeals to Nation
He recommended that the nation "deal with the problem of social injustice wherever it is to be found in America and solve that problem in 'American terms.'" He did not elaborate.

Dewey is due to return to Albany late today for a three-day stay prior to entering the home stretch of his campaign, which includes major speeches in Cleveland, Chicago, Boston and a windup in New York City, Oct. 30.

Rule Wallace Party Off Ballot in Illinois

WASHINGTON (AP) - The supreme court yesterday refused to order Illinois to place Henry A. Wallace on its Nov. 2 election ballot and the Progressive party candidate promptly appealed to the state to do it voluntarily.

The tribunal, acting with unusual speed on an appeal lodged by the Progressive only eight days ago, handed down a 6 to 3 split decision upholding the constitutionality of a 1935 Illinois law under which state officials barred the new party from the ballot.

Wallace immediately wired Gov. Dwight H. Green of Illinois asking that state officials reconsider their interpretation of the law and grant his party a place on the ticket.

Grateful Skunks Show Respect for the Law

NEW HAVEN (AP) - When Connecticut skunks get into a jam (lar), they're not "skunks" at all. They showed that three times this week. On successive days starting Monday state policemen from Westbrook and Stafford Springs barracks and a New Haven patrolman were called upon to pry skunks' heads loose from glass jars and then jump gingerly aside.

Not one of the rescued trio disturbed the atmosphere.

Cain Talks with Local Candidate

THE UNITED STATES HAS FAILED to make a distinction between Russia as an ally and communism as an enemy of the people, Sen. Harry P. Cain (R-Wash.), left, said yesterday at a press conference. Cain spoke last night to an SUI audience on "Is Communism a Red Herring?" Cain is shown here speaking with Attorney D. C. Nolan of Iowa City, Republican candidate for state senator from this district. (See interview on Page 5.)

Thomas Finds 75,000 'Secret' Communists

By SANDOR S. KLEIN

WASHINGTON (UP) - Chairman J. Parnell Thomas said last night that the house un-American activities committee has information indicating the U.S. Communist party has secretly registered 75,000 members.

Most of them, he said, do not carry cards. Furthermore, Thomas said, there are between 35,000 and 40,000 persons who have not been registered but are considered party members under strict discipline of its leaders.

Most in New York
The committee's information indicates the largest concentration of Communists to be in New York City, with Los Angeles, Chicago, Detroit and Pittsburgh following in that order, he said.

"All this emphasizes the need for legislation that will force the Communists above ground," the New Jersey Republican said in a telephone interview from his home in Annandale, N. J.

"I'm willing to predict that one of the first bills that will be introduced at the new congress will be one aimed at that objective."

Thomas believed the legislation would be "something along the lines of the Mundt-Nixon bill."

The so-called Communist-control bill passed the house earlier this year, but died in the senate. It would have required Communist organizations to register with the justice department and file the names and addresses of their officers. Any person who joined or remained a member of an unregistered organization would have been subject to heavy penalties.

Few Carry Cards
Thomas said very few Communists carry cards these days. Only self-admitted leaders of the party and members under specific orders to do so carry cards, he said.

"I have reason to believe that better than 90 percent do not have cards," he asserted. "Furthermore, the Communist party no longer requires its members to take an oath to support the cause. It's indicative of the Communist trend to go deeper underground in this country."

Decisive Victories By Korean Forces

SEOUL, KOREA (AP) - Loyal south Korean forces scored decisive victories over Communist-led rebels early today as President Syngman Rhee predicted the rebellion would be quelled "in a matter of days."

Yosu, scene of the outbreak Tuesday night and one of three rebel strongholds, was captured by loyalist forces early this morning.

A government spokesman admitted that Suncheon, another insurgent bastion, was still in rebel hands, but predicted it would fall sometime today.

Cain Says Dewey Victory Means Peace With Russia

Senator Slaps 'Appeasing' Of Russia

By ART WELCH

"If you want to have peace with Russia, vote for Dewey and Warren," was the challenge hurled by U.S. Sen. Harry P. Cain last night in Macbride auditorium.

Sen. Cain warned a group of about 75 people that they had better stop hiding from communism and go out and find it, if they ever hope to have peace.

"If you have read Karl Marx, or Lenin or Stalin, you can't help but see the folly of trying to do business with the Communists," Cain said.

Points to Posters

After he was introduced by GOP county chairman Hal Dane, Cain pointed over his shoulders at two posters, one of Dewey and one of Warren fixed to the stage curtain, and said, "I'm supposed to speak on the subject 'Is Communism a Red Herring?' We'll get to that later; right now I want to speak for Dewey and Warren."

He slapped at President Truman's recent talk before the American Legion national convention. It was there that Mr. Truman, he said, promised the people that "We will continue to do business with Russia on a basis of firmness."

Cites Airlift

"Is the Berlin airlift an example of firmness?" the southern-born senator asked.

Cain defended the 80th congress that the President attacked earlier in the campaign. "I don't think Truman's attack was justified," Cain said. "He vetoed our bills—and because we repassed them over his veto in the interests of the people—he said we were the worst congress in history."

"That Taft-Hartley bill the President called a 'terrible and diabolical attempt to strangle the rights of workers' was passed in an attempt to reestablish fairplay and equity between industry and labor," Cain asserted.

Mentions Martin

Spotting Congressman Tom Martin in the audience he said, "Tom Martin and I have been spending your money, sure, but we have strengthened the armed forces and that costs money. It'll cost you more too," he added.

If Dewey and Warren are elected they must have a sympathetic congress behind them, Cain said.

He said that while everyone wants peace only such a team as the east's Dewey and the west's Warren can give the White House two men who can see the problem together.

Dewey and Congress

Remarking that Dewey is "no miracle man" Cain charged that only a congress that can and will

Notre Dame-Iowa Haftime Program to Honor Ris and Scarpello - Nine Special Trains to Bring Football Fans

Nine special trains, loaded with Iowa-Notre Dame football fans, will converge on Iowa City this week-end.

Rock Island Passenger Agent F. E. Meacham, said yesterday that football enthusiasts from Des Moines will come on two of the specials. In addition, one special will come from Chicago, one from Omaha and one from the tri-cities.

Four "overflow pullmans" will be used to bring Kansas City and Sioux City fans to the game. A colorful halftime entertainment program featuring the presentation of athletic awards to Wally Ris and Joe Scarpello is planned for the game tomorrow.

Each athlete will receive a scroll from the university athletic board for his work in Iowa athletics.

Ris, holder of the Olympic record in the 100-yard free-style swimming event, and Scarpello, "handyman" of the wrestling squad, were members of the U.S. Olympic squad last summer.

As the men received the awards, the university band will form a large RIS. The Highlanders will spell out JOE.

Bill Adamson, pipe major of the Highlanders, said the group will give bagpipe renditions of two new pieces.

Fittingly enough, they will be "Wearin' o' the Green," and "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling." Two Highlanders, dressed in Irish costumes, will dance an Irish jig to "The Irish Washerwoman," played by the university band.

The dancers will be Bobbie Ginter, A4, Marshalltown, and Jean Miller, A2, Burlington.

Pershing Rifles, honorary military society, and the Billy Mitchell squadron also will provide color and entertainment for the sell-out crowd expected to watch the seventh meeting of the Irish and the Hawkeyes.

Clay to Get 66 More Planes To Service Blockaded Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Truman yesterday authorized Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American commander in Germany, to add up to 66 additional C-54 transport planes for service connected with the Berlin airlift.

The transports will be provided by the airforces as they are called for by Clay to keep blockaded Berlin supplied, a White House official said.

The official said he understood that more than 200 of the large transports already are in the airlift service, either directly provisioning the Russian-blockaded city or in sidelines to the so-called "operation vittles."

Visited President

Clay visited the White House yesterday morning with Secretary of the Army Royal for a half hour conference with Mr. Truman.

Later in the day, it was understood, Clay attended a session of the national security council at the White House. The council is made up of the secretaries of state, defense, army, navy and air, and other government leaders.

It was assumed that Clay had requested the additional transports in the morning session and had received approval of the request from the assembled members of the security council.

Announced by Ayres

The White House official who disclosed the new authority for Gen. Clay was Eben Ayres, assistant press secretary.

Ayres said the additional planes will be at the disposal of Clay as the general requests them and that some may not enter the airlift service directly, but be used instead in auxiliary operations.

Earlier yesterday, Gen. Clay told a news conference he had "no evidence" of troop activities in eastern Germany that might indicate Russian preparation for war.

TEN OF THE TWELVE COACHES of this Santa Fe California Limited were derailed yesterday when the engine jumped the tracks just west of Garden City, Kan. The baggage car at left was broken open by the crash. In the background rescue workers mill

Iowa Citizens Must Register by Noon Tomorrow to Vote

If you're an Iowa City resident and you haven't registered to vote in the Nov. 2 general election, you have only until noon tomorrow to do so, city officials warned yesterday.

For the convenience of persons who cannot register at any other time, City Clerk George Dohrer's office will be open during the noon hour for registration.

Voters who have changed their address since registering also are required to notify the city clerk before the deadline tomorrow.

Office Crowded

Long lines of prospective voters have been crowding the clerk's office for the past 10 days. At times yesterday afternoon there were 20 or more people waiting in line to register.

Students cannot register in Iowa City unless they are permanent residents, Dohrer said. If the students are from cities using the permanent registration system, they must be registered there before tomorrow's deadline.

Register Nov. 2

Other Johnson county residents, aside from Iowa City residents, register at the time they vote.

Most students will vote by the absentee ballot which may be obtained from the auditor of the county of residence.

Application for these ballots should be made immediately since the ballot must be returned to the auditor on or before Nov. 1.

Fear Soviet Refusal Of UN Compromise On Berlin Situation

PARIS (AP) - The United States, Great Britain and France accepted yesterday a last-hour proposal by small nations in the United Nations security council to end the Berlin crisis by a compromise.

But they believed Russia was certain to reject it, on the ground that the UN has no right to intervene in the situation, and there would be a showdown in the council today.

A series of secret conferences started last evening in anticipation of today's clash.

Delegates of the three western allies, certain of Russian rejection, met at the French foreign office, with Philip C. Jessup representing the United States.

Juan A. Bramuglia of Argentina, acting as chairman of the council during Berlin discussions, conferred with Andrei Y. Vishinsky, head of the Soviet delegation.

Though it is still subject to changes, if anybody has any to suggest, the small-power proposal is:

1. Russia shall lift her blockade of Berlin and the western allies shall remove restrictions they have imposed on travel to the Soviet zone in Germany.

2. The Russian-issued German mark shall be recognized as the sole valid currency for all four sectors in Berlin.

3. The Big Four powers should start a conference of foreign ministers on German problems as soon as possible after the Berlin blockade has been ended.

Films of Ironmen At Tonight's Rally

Movies of the 1939 Iowa-Notre Dame football game, which Iowa won, 7-6, will be shown at the pep rally at 7:15 tonight in Macbride auditorium.

Speaker at the rally will be Ironman Al Coupee, quarterback on Iowa's '39 team, and now sports director of radio station KRNT in Des Moines.

John Wherry, rally chairman, urged all students to attend the Tailfeathers-sponsored event.

Mother OK, Chances Of Quads "Only Fair"

EDMONTON, ENGLAND (AP) - Quadruplets—three boys and a girl—were born yesterday to the 27-year-old wife of an electrical mechanic.

Hospital officials said the condition of the mother, Mrs. Bessie Taylor, was "satisfactory" but described the chances of the babies, born six weeks prematurely, as "only fair."

The Taylors have two other children, Raymond, 7, and Peter, 5. The father is Robert, 37.

Jews Take Beersheba

TEL AVIV (AP) - Israeli forces yesterday claimed the capture of biblical Beersheba, key to Southern Palestine, in a final attack before the zero hour for a United Nations cease fire order in the Negev area.

Advices from the front said that after storming the ancient city yesterday morning, Jewish troops overcame the last resistance at noon after the main body of defending Egyptian troops fled northward.

Official spokesman Moshe Perlman said at 1 p.m. that commanders in the Negev had been ordered to cease fire and added:

"At this moment there is no fighting in the Negev or anywhere else."

(Other reports indicated, however, that scattered fighting might still have been in progress.)

Retaliating for the Jewish attacks in the south, Egyptian planes early yesterday dropped bombs near Tel Aviv and at Haifa, where it was said a few persons were wounded. These were the first air raids since the Negev fighting started last week-end.

LONDON (AP) - King George VI visited Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada at his hotel room yesterday. Mackenzie King, here for a conference of commonwealth prime ministers, has been ill.

Hawks Sharpen Pass Defense

Also Stress Own Passing

Iowa's gridders continued to work overtime yesterday afternoon preparing for their game with the powerful Fighting Irish of Notre Dame tomorrow.

The Hawkeye coaching staff spent close to two hours of the practice session to sharpen the team's pass defense, and also to give Al DiMarco a chance to limber up his valuable throwing arm.

Later in the workout the freshman team ran through Notre Dame plays to familiarize the Old

IOWA'S BOB MCKENZIE, LEADING PASS SNATCHER — in the Big Nine, has hauled down eight of Al DiMarco's bullets for a total of 116 yards in three Western conference games. Both totals rank the Tonkawa, Okla., end as the leading receiver in the league. Bob gained two yards more than Michigan's Rifenburg, and has snagged two more tosses than any other Big Nine man.

Tomorrow's a Big Day For 90-Year-Old Berry

John Berry of North English has had lots of things happen on lots of weekends during his 90 years but tomorrow will be a novelty for him.

It's the occasion of his first football game. Some time ago he said he wanted to see what this football is all about before he dies. So his son last summer purchased tickets for the Iowa-Notre Dame game and the 100% Irishman will be in the stands.

Gold varsity with the Irish formations.

No Weak Spots
Dr. Eddie Anderson admits that he and his assistants have not been able to find any real weaknesses in the Notre Dame lineup.

Center Dick Woodard, who will be the Hawkeye game captain for the fourth consecutive week, stayed out of the rough contact work yesterday to rest the bruised left ankle which kept him out of the Purdue game.

Faske May Start
Anderson, in listing a starting lineup yesterday, indicated that Jerry Faske would stay at his right halfback position. However, Ralph Doran and Mearl Naber may see major duty.

Bob McKenzie, the Big Nine's leading pass receiver, and Jack Dittmer will be at the offensive ends, backed up by Tony Guzowski and Bob Phillips on defense. Don Winslow now seems to have the regular left tackle job cinched opposite Bill Kay, 60-minute performer against Purdue.

Joe Grothaus, Earl Banks and Ray Carlson are set to go at the guards with Woodard at center. Besides Faske, the rest of the backfield will have DiMarco at quarter, Jimmy Halliburton at full half and Johnny Tedore at full.

Five on Injury List at U-High

University high's doubtful list added Ronny Coldsnow's name yesterday when the Blue Hawk halfback was kept out of school for sickness.

Coldsnow thus extended the disabled list in Coach C. O. Green's locker room to six.

Fullback Bob Ojemann, with a sore muscle was not expected to start against Wilton Junction this afternoon until Coldsnow's absence left Green with three of his five backs injured.

Depending on Coldsnow's condition today, Ojemann may or may not start the game.

Halfback Bill Dinsmore, Tackle Jerry Blaha and Center Dick Wieneke complete the disabled members on the Blue Hawk squad.

Wilton Junction has won two of three games. U-High has an even 2-2 record for the season.

The Wilton Junction was came over Columbus Junction and Muscatine's "B" team. The Beavers suffered their loss to West Branch last weekend.

Four Irish Injured To Make Iowa Trip

SOUTH BEND, IND. (UP)—Coach Frank Leahy yesterday announced the makeup of the traveling squad of 36 men for Saturday's game with the University of Iowa.

Included were four men who have been on the injured list but their participation in the game was questionable. They were Capt. Bill Fischer, left guard; Mike Swistowicz, fullback; Terry Brennan and Ernie Zaleski, left halfbacks.

Michigan

ANN ARBOR, MICH. (UP)—The Michigan football team, at peak strength for the first time this season, boarded a train last night for Minneapolis, two days before Saturday's battle with Minnesota.

First-string Back Gene Derricotte, who was injured Sept. 25, and End Ed McNeill, injured Oct. 9, returned to the active lists. Derricotte probably will be used sparingly against the Gophers.

Minnesota to Open Up Against Strong Wolves

MINNEAPOLIS (UP)—The University of Minnesota football team last night appeared on the verge of unleashing its "most passing" attack in years against Michigan's Wolverines here Saturday.

Coaches said that since the Gophers virtually have crawled along the ground so far this season, and the fact that Michigan's pass defense has not been outstanding, they have stressed aerial attack all week.

Indiana

BLOOMINGTON, IND. (UP)—Indiana's football Hoosiers held a lengthy passing drill yesterday before they trained for Pittsburgh, where they will meet Pitt's Panthers Saturday.

Greene Stands Out In Hawkeye Races

The weather was cold yesterday, but that didn't keep the Iowa varsity and freshman trackmen from competing against each other in their annual fall intrasquad track meet. Coach Francis Cretzmeier said that he was pleased with the results of the events.

Five events were run off with the rest scheduled for today. In the best race, Greene outdistanced Sangster by a hair to win the 300-yard run.

50 yard run — won by Boston; second, Greene; third, Hays. Time :5.6.

60-yard high hurdles — won by Merrel; second, Brown; third, Trissel. Time :7.9.

300-yard dash — won by Greene; second, Sangster; third, Deets; time :33.

Shotput — won by Nelson; second Darling; third Rielly. Distance 44-feet, 4-inches.

High jump — won by Brown; tied for second, Boston and Ford. Height, 5-feet, 7-inches.

Paul Brown to Leave Pro Ranks!

Cleveland Coach to Return to College Ball, Friend Says

CLEVELAND (AP) — Paul E. Brown, coach and general manager of the Cleveland Browns, will resign as chief of the All-America Football conference champs and return to the intercollegiate field in 1949.

That's a flat statement, and probably "Precision Paul" would not confirm it, but folk closest to the former Massillon high, Ohio State and Great Lakes mentor know that it is true.

A source as close to Brown as a source can be declared today: "If Paul is offered a worthwhile intercollegiate coaching job, he will make a move after this season. And that 'worthwhile' offer need not be in terms of money. He'll take the first job that's worthy of his talents."

"Paul's reaction to some advances by unauthorized alumni of those schools was that he couldn't discuss the matter unless contacted by someone in authority," the speaker said. "But I have a hunch Paul would be interested, for I know he wants to get back into the inter-collegiate field."

Asked why Brown would give up his lucrative job with the Browns — his contract calls for $25,000 annually plus a portion of the "gate"—the spokesman said:

"Paul never reckoned on getting into a football war, and he has no stomach for such things. He's not a muscle man with the idea of running someone out of business."

Badgers Cheered in Send-off

MADISON, WIS. (AP)—Some 2,000 cheering students heard the University of Wisconsin football captain promise last night that "things are going to happen Saturday," when Wisconsin meets Ohio State.

Game Captain Clarence Self, a senior halfback from Cicero, Ill., told the group, "If you feel half as mad as we do, things are going to happen Saturday. The Badgers are glad you turned out."

And the students yelled their approval as they gathered to give the team a rousing send-off for the Big Nine game at Columbus.

The enthusiastic rally came at the end of a week of hot debate, which followed the appearance in the Wisconsin stands last Saturday of a 10-foot banner reading "Good Bye, Harry."

The banner was aimed at Head Coach and Athletic Director Harry Stuhldreher, now in his 13th year at Wisconsin. The incident took place as the Badger squad was losing, 17-7, to Yale—the team's third loss in four starts this season.

Throughout the week, student and athletic leaders have fired verbal blasts at the banner wielders for poor sportsmanship, and Dr. E. B. Fred, university president, made a visit to the practice dressing room to apologize to the squad on behalf of the university.

Stuhldreher addressed the crowd of 2,000 saying, "You are fine and loyal. The results recently have not been too pleasing to the fellows you honor tonight. They need your wholehearted support. Beyond the expression of words, we appreciate your help. Thanks a thousand times."

In its final practice session here, the squad worked out on defense against freshmen using Ohio's ground and aerial plays, and also brushed up on its own pass defense.

Dear Joe & Jane,
Don't know when we've had such fun watching the crowds come out after the movie. They unanimously say "It's terrific. I want to see it again."
Gosh, that's just the way we feel. When a theatre manager sees a movie 3 times in 2 days it must be good. Really shouldn't be putting this statement in print cause tho if my wife, Bette, finds out I took time off to see the Mikado 3 times after promising to go home and help hang pictures and bric-a-brac I may be in the dog house. . . Hawkeye Harriers Meet Notre Dame

Notre Dame and the University of Iowa will be racing rivals Saturday morning when their cross country teams meet over the three-mile Hawkeye course as a curtain-raiser to the afternoon's football game.

Coach Francis Cretzmeier said that the Iowa team probably would be strengthened by the addition of John Oxley, who has recovered from a knee ailment.

Jim Murphy, Jim Kettel, and Bill Leonard who lead the Notre Dame team are considered to be three of the best harriers in the country.

Clinton Stands in Little Hawks' Path to Possible Title Tonight

A City high victory over defending champion Clinton here tonight might let the Little Hawks take the Mississippi Valley crown.

Tonight is the Hawkeye's final league contest. A win would give Iowa City a 5-1 record.

Davenport, the current leader with a 3-0 slate, could lose the title by dropping one of their remaining two games. If the Blue Devils sweep their card with East Waterloo tonight and Dubuque later in the season, they will finish with a 5-0 mark. But a loss in either game would pare their record to 4-1.

The Hawkeye's Dan Dutcher, co-captain against Marshalltown last week, has a charley horse and may not get into the Clinton game.

Center Dave Crumley and

Halfback Hal Snook have been appointed co-captains for tonight.

Clinton's River Kings, last year's champions, have run up a disappointing 1-3 record for 1948. Clinton was handicapped by the injury of several regulars in losing last week to Wilson of Cedar Rapids, 12-0.

Game time is 8 p.m. at the City high field.

Two to Debate British Team

FOCUSING THEIR ATTENTION on the matter of a planned economy are Herman Cohen (left) and Kenneth Thompson, SUI debaters who will face a British team Nov. 5 in MacBride auditorium. These two graduate students will defend the negative side of the question "Resolved: that modern society would benefit most from a planned economy."

Cohen, Thompson To Represent SUI

Herman Cohen and Kenneth Thompson will represent SUI in an international debate with a British team Nov. 5 in MacBride auditorium at 8 p.m.

The two Iowa debaters will take the negative side of the proposition "Resolved: that modern society would benefit most from a planned economy."

The British team will be composed of one student from Bristol university and one from Birmingham university.

Cohen is a graduate student in speech from Rock Island, Ill. Before the war he debated two years at Augustana college in Rock Island. After service in the army, Cohen came to SUI. He is now associated with the news department at WSUI.

Thompson is working for his doctor's degree in economics. His home is at Cedar Falls where his father, Merle R. Thompson, is a professor at Iowa State Teachers college.

Thompson was an active debater for SUI until 1943 when he received his bachelor of arts degree and entered the service. He returned to the university in 1945 and received his masters in June, 1946.

During 1947-48, Thompson attended the Massachusetts Institute of Technology under a scholarship in industrial relations. He is a member of Delta Sigma Rho, honorary speech fraternity; the Order of Artus, honorary economics society, and Phi Beta Kappa.

Pick Amateurs for Heidt Show Nov. 6

The five local amateurs who will appear on the Horace Heidt show Nov. 6 were announced yesterday by Heidt's talent agent, Frank Reeves.

Winners are Leo Cortimiglia, a 1946 SUI graduate; Milo Hamilton, A4; Lea Spivak, A1; Jacqueline Fitzgerald, A3, and David McAdams, A1.

Cortimiglia will play the piano and accordion. Hamilton will impersonate Jimmy Durante, Jimmy Stewart, Mr. Whipple and Digger O'Dell.

Lea Spivak will play the piano. Miss Fitzgerald and McAdams will perform as a singing team.

Mahan Appointed To Take Part in Youth Discussions

Dean Bruce E. Mahan of the SUI extension division will be in Washington, D. C., Oct. 29 to participate in a discussion of how comic books and other media affect the nation's youth.

Comic book publishers and radio, television, and movie executives will attend the meeting.

Mahan was appointed by Mrs. L. W. Hughes, president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, to represent the congress at this meeting. Mahan is chairman of the committee on motion pictures and visual education of the NCPT.

Children's Media

He will preside at one of the sessions of the conference at which ways and means of realizing standards in media patronized by children will be discussed.

Top officials in the industries involved will participate in these discussions. They include Justin Miller, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, Phil Keenan, president of the association of Comic Book publishers, and Francis Harmon, vice-president of the Motion Picture association of America representing Eric Johnston who is still in Europe.

The conference will concern itself with how to give children the quality of comics, movies, and radio-television programs that are compatible with their needs.

Senator Cain Says U.S. Largely To Blame for Berlin Crisis

U.S. Sen. Harry P. Cain (R-Wash.) told reporters yesterday that the United States has failed to make the distinction between Russia as a military ally and communism as an enemy of the people of the world.

Because of this failure, the United States is largely to blame for the Berlin crisis, he asserted.

"It is not a nice situation, either," Cain declared, "as we are faced with the prospect of financing the delivery of coal into Berlin by air at a cost of one dollar per pound."

Cain, in Iowa City to address the SUI Young Republican League, said the Communist menace in America is being underplayed in our newspapers.

Russians Take Credit
The one time mayor of Tacoma, Wash., told reporters Marshall plan aid is now helping to counter Communist propaganda in Europe. But he added that his trip abroad a year ago showed him that Europeans didn't realize what was coming from America.

He explained that the USSR had taken ERP material and labeled it with USSR markings, then sold it to the French at high prices.

He railed at the idea that we might stop communism in Berlin now with force because, he said, we are "totally unprepared." We destroyed our military machine through disarmament commitments at the Potsdam conference, he said.

Won't Outlaw Communists
Cain said he refused to support legislation which would outlaw the U.S. Communist party. The Swiss tried it before the war and the party grew by leaps and bounds, he added. "After the war the Swiss replaced the law and the party lost most of its members," he said.

"If all Americans knew what it means to be an American," he said, "there would be no need to have a Communist coup here at any time."

A reporter asked Cain why he switched his allegiance from the Democratic party. Grinning, he replied, "I inherited my politics in the deep south. I realized later, sometime after 1942, that the Democratic party was violating all that it was supposed to stand for."

Concerning the national elections next month, he said, "It will be a close one. Whichever party wins will find the going tough, and more so if the voters fail to choose their congressmen from the same party as the president."

Young Demos Plan Big Rally Before SUI Straw Vote

Instructions on the coming campus straw vote were given to SUI Young Democrats at a meeting held in Schaeffer hall last night.

Henry Allan, the group's president, reported that the Young Demos will participate in a rally Oct. 27, the night preceding the straw vote.

Each student political organization will have 15 minutes to present their issues at the rally. The Young Democrats will speak first, followed by the Young Republicans and the Students for Wallace.

Demonstrations following the speeches, he said, will be limited to 20 minutes. The rally will be held at the west approach of Old Capitol, or in case of rain, the Chemistry auditorium.

Polling places for the straw vote will be in the Quadrangle, Currier hall, Memorial Union, Schaeffer hall and East hall.

Allan selected members to be on hand at the voting booths during the straw vote election.

Topic for the rally speakers were discussed. Sherwin Markman and Allan will be two of the three Democratic speakers. The third has not been selected.

'Profile' Judges Name — Sue Stevens Winner

Sue Stevens, A2 of Des Moines was selected Miss Perfect Profile last night at the Profile Preview held in the River room of the Memorial Union. Miss Stevens, who is a pledge of Pi Beta Phi, was selected from the 26 models by Wally Ris, Connie Amend and John Tyson.

"Around the Clock" was the theme of the show which was sponsored by the University Women's association. Date dresses, fall coats, formals and campus wear were shown. Commentator was George McBurney.

Practical and smart were the key words for choosing a fall wardrobe; clothes must also be feminine yet simple.

The styles were presented with the presidential campaign as the theme. Shirley Krause's comic entrances added humor to the show.

The two girls in charge of the preview were Katherine Klotzbach and Anita Schiller. Anne Smith wrote the script and Phyl Jordan provided mood music.

Models for the style show were Marilyn Blotky, A1; Bonny Campbell, A3; Sue Corley, A3; Bobby Elliott, A2; Margaret Felter, A1; Sally Pinkbire, A1; Joy Fouts, A3; Helen Hays, A1; Helen Hewitt, A1.

Doris Horslund, A2; Nancy Kroeber, A2; Peg Berkeley, A3; Carolyn Miller, A1; Marilyn Miller, A1; Mona McCormick, A1; Kathy McTigue, A1; Colleen Newell, A3; Jackie Phillips, A1.

Elaine Regan, A1; Shirley Rook, A3; Florence Schuck, A1; Sue Stevens, A2; Shirley Summerville, A3; Carol Sutton, A3; Martha Teach, A2 and Martho Young, A3.

Only One Man Survives Dutch Airliner Accident

TARBOLTON, SCOTLAND (AP) — Only one of the 40 persons aboard survived the crash early yesterday of New York-bound KLM Royal Dutch airliner which overshot a runway at Prestwick airport and hit a power line.

Officials said last night that Willem Hendrick Philippo, a Dutch passenger, was the only survivor. Nine Americans were among the 39 persons killed in the crash.

Zawodny Wins Financial Aid

By CHARLES CARROLL
A goodwill mission with international implications was set into motion yesterday when the Interfraternity council announced the first recipient of a financial pool to aid foreign students.

Janusz Zawodny, 26, from Warsaw, Poland, will receive the financial help, which will be administered jointly by the Interfraternity council and the office of student affairs.

The permanent fund will be maintained through contributions from the 16 social fraternities on campus. In Zawodny's case, the council will underwrite the Polish student's room bill, with an additional sum for his spending money.

It was at this point that the Interfraternity council, entered the picture. Jay's case came to the group's attention and he was selected as a recipient of the fund.

"This is really the grandest thing that has happened to me," Jay said when informed of his selection.

Zawodny started college at the University of Warsaw but the uprising in Warsaw in 1944 interrupted. An eight month period in a concentration camp resulted from Jay's participation in the revolution.

The U.S. Fifth Army liberated Zawodny. He immediately went to Rome where he joined the British Eighth army. Rising to the rank of first lieutenant, Jay was an instructor in an underground movement school.

He also went to the University of Rome until his regiment was transferred to London where he attended the school of foreign trade. Demobilization interrupted that fling at college.

Wins Interfraternity Student-Aid Fund

JANUSZ ZAWODNY SMILED happily yesterday when informed of his selection as the first recipient of a financial fund to aid foreign students. Zawodny, formerly of Warsaw, will receive the aid which will be administered jointly by the Interfraternity council and the office of student affairs. The 16 social fraternities on campus will furnish the contributions for the newly-created fund.

Jay estimates his scholastic standing as "about a junior" in the college of commerce.

"I hope I'll be able to finish okay this time," Zawodny said wistfully.

Somehow during the war, Jay's underground activities attracted the attention of the Gestapo. Unable to find Zawodny the Gestapo tracked down his mother and 12-year-old sister. They spent a year in a concentration camp as a result.

When asked how he happened to choose SUI as the spot to finish his college work, Jay answered, "The industrial management courses and the wish to see if you Americans are as the British said you are. Americans aren't really savages, y'know?"

Urges Early Job-Seeking

"Register early for jobs," Frances Camp, educational placement director, advised about 250 graduate students at a 4:30 p.m. meeting in 221A Schaeffer hall yesterday.

"Calls for jobs next year are coming in already," she emphasized, "and the college demand is heavy the country over."

She pointed out that last year the placement office received calls for teachers from 46 states and the District of Columbia.

"There are openings for graduates now in every area of college teaching and administration," she said. "The supply of teachers is slow in coming up and there are many jobs open."

Miss Camp pointed out that last year the medium beginning salary for graduates from Iowa was $3,050 for masters and $3,900 for students with doctors.

She emphasized a second time that in order to secure the aid of the placement office students must register there, and the sooner the better.

ISC Alumni Group Plan Picnic Dinner

The Iowa State College Alumni association will sponsor a picnic Sunday at noon in the upper shelter at City park.

Bruce Brown, vice-president of the association, said all graduates and former students at Ames are invited.

Picnickers are asked to bring table service and food for themselves and one extra person. Ice cream and coffee will be furnished.

Guests from Ames will be W. E. (Red) Barron and Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Vifquain.

Tweddledee and His Friends

It is pretty difficult for a speaker on foreign or domestic affairs to divorce himself entirely from politics.

This is an election year, there is much political activity, and people's minds naturally turn to the election a short time away.

Some impetus has been given the problem of sorting out political philosophy from ordinary lecturing by a state board of education ban on political speakers in campus facilities. Here at this university we are much more attentive to political overtones in speeches because we have been told that it is forbidden.

The muddled terminology and interpretation of the state board ban has further confused the issue of political speeches until no one can predict which man is a political speaker and which is not. Besides being negligent about clarifying the political ban, the state board has deferred the ban to a faltering and uncertain standstill.

So when a politician from Oregon speaks in Macbride auditorium he is naturally suspected of sneaking in under the ban. As near as we can tell from here the man is allowed to speak there because he is not a political candidate using state facilities for the furtherance of his own political fortunes.

The ban does not specify political speeches—and the assumption follows that it is a political candidate who cannot speak on campus.

The prospect of overcautious administration of the state board ruling makes the ramifications of such a prohibition seem rather contradictory. President Truman's address was not recorded and aired over the university radio station. At the same time the address was read by an announcer almost word for word. Political activity for a while was jeopardized by the possibility of a strict interpretation of the ruling. It could go so far as to prohibit political discussion entirely.

The ban was not carried that far. But in the absence of a clear-cut definition of what the ban includes and how it is to be administered anything could happen. The affair is left open to arbitrary decision on what is actually forbidden and what is not.

The "non-political" talk by a man who is not "an avowed political candidate" was sponsored by a political group. The end result is simply to point out to the state and its board of education that there is a fine line to be drawn.

That line should be drawn by the state board itself. It should have been drawn many months ago. While it will be of no use this year, that line should still be set down clearly for the benefit of future students and Iowa's various state campus administrators.

But for now, if you're planning to hear a speaker on the campus—just listen to him and take your choice.

Both Fast and Crude . . .

"Korean Communists cannot afford to be slow or dainty about their work. Not when the UN is scheduled to score Russia for fixing an election and fostering a puppet Korean regime."

The above prediction appeared in these columns Wednesday morning. That afternoon Russia began evacuating troops from Korea and a Communist revolt was on.

Korean Communists were neither slow nor dainty. They had a deadline. Russian troops would not vacate a country they intend to absorb without making sure the stage is set.

The Red army couldn't linger until the south Korean government of Syngman Rhee was overthrown. The UN is getting ready to air the case and the Soviets want to look as innocent as possible.

If the south Korean revolt doesn't succeed, it will be because the Communist rebels were pushed too soon. Their "cells" had not penetrated deep enough into the army.

The 40 insurgents in the Yuso garrison—where the fighting broke out—could only persuade around 800 other troops to join them. The threat is not serious.

Korean rightists led by Kim Koo, who opposed Rhee in the recent elections, may have their fingers in the revolt. That has yet to be proved.

It was not rightists, but Communist prisoners who were freed from the Yosu jail and armed. The zero-hour was not set by a rightist army clique; departing Russ troops gave the cue.

Spasmodic outbreaks and a recent attempt upon President Rhee's life are all on the books. The Communists mean business. Here is a conservative, middle-of-the-roadish government freely elected. It's good business to discredit it and plan its overthrow.

The present revolt may be short-lived. But its significance will be long lasting. There is a Communist puppet regime controlling the half of Korea north of the 38th parallel.

There is no indication that the Communists will draw the line there.

Frost Is on the Pumpkin

In This Corner - Wallace, Taylor Lead 'Protesting' Elements

Throughout his political career Henry A. Wallace has been the center of some of the most bitter controversies in federal politics, especially during the years of the New Deal.

As presidential candidate of the Progressive party he does not have a too-cohesive following. His position would be defined by some observers as a rallying-point for a conglomerate of left-wing elements.

At 60 he is a crusader attempting to put his ideas into concrete political form. For this reason many minority elements seeking a pet reform of its own has joined the diversified following of the third party in hopes of seeing its project put into legislation.

In his presidential campaign Wallace has advocated abolition of the poll tax, broader rights for labor and straight repeal of the Taft-Hartley act, closer understanding with Russia, international disarmament and a farm program to encourage a stronger national agrarian element.

On the latter point he is especially strong and it stems from his experience as former secretary of agriculture.

Wallace wants price control, a dollar minimum wage, control of rivers, expanded social security and increased benefits under it, national health insurance act, outlawing of racial discrimination, long-range housing programs, a worldwide agrarian program under the United Nations—and strengthening of cooperatives.

Under the Roosevelt administration Wallace was appointed secretary of agriculture in 1933. The New Deal policies of crop control and "the plowing under of six million little pigs" made him the target of bitter criticism by conservative elements.

He remained in office as secretary of agriculture until 1941 when he was elected vice-president.

He was ably fitted to fill the office of secretary of agriculture. He brought to the office a wide and practical agricultural experience gleaned from the rich corn and hog state of Iowa.

He supervised notable experiments in genetics which resulted in a greatly improved hybrid seed corn. For a long period he had been editor of his family's magazine, "Wallace's Farmer." His father, Henry C. Wallace, had been secretary of agriculture under Harding and Coolidge.

He lost the 1944 vice-presidential nomination because party leaders thought his left-wing leanings were detrimental to the Democratic ticket. The southern Democrats distrusted his friendliness with labor. If he had been elected vice-president at that time he would be president now instead of Truman.

After the 1944 election Roosevelt appointed Wallace secretary of commerce. He retained the office for nearly a year after Roosevelt's death.

On September 20, 1946, Truman forced him to resign his office after Wallace had made a speech which criticized the "get tough with Russia" policy. At that time Secretary of State James Byrnes was having a difficult time negotiating with Russian diplomats.

Truman insisted that no discussion could afford to be shown in the cabinet and the federal government at such a critical time without impairing American strength in foreign affairs.

Wallace became editor of the "New Republic" after resigning and kept up a barrage at the Truman doctrine and the foreign policies of the administration.

In July, 1946, a Democratic faction in California led by Robert W. Kenny, national chairman of the Progressive Citizens of America, organized a Wallace-for-President movement. The movement was repudiated by the California Democratic state committee and a third party was born.

After being nominated presidential candidate by the Progressives, Wallace started an intensive campaign in which he hoped to lure votes away from both major parties. His main theme in cam-

Schedule Elections In Western Berlin

BERLIN (U.S.—U.S. and German officials declared yesterday that municipal elections will be held in western Berlin Dec. 5 as scheduled, despite a Russian "veto" on voting in their sector.

The scheduled election was expected to divide the government of Berlin permanently into eastern and western divisions.

Acting Mayor Ferdinand Friedendurg said he "deeply regretted" the Russian election boycott, but that it would have no effect on plans for a western election.

aign speeches is decrying the domination of Wall street.

He says it formerly ran the country and now wants to run the world by grabbing markets through the foreign aid programs.

Wallace denounces the Truman doctrine to aid Greece and Turkey against communism as a step towards war.

He has neither the friendly, personal approach of Truman nor the calm, confidential air of Dewey in his campaign speeches. He speaks in a rather tight-voiced style and his platform mannerisms leave him looking disheveled.

In spite of all this he has the ability to throw phrases around like "century of the common man," "full employment" and "the ever-normal granary" that draw cheers from his audiences.

His biggest drawback and the most serious accusation against him is the support accorded him by the Communist party in the United States. Since he believes that a reliable peace can be achieved with Soviet Russia the Communists have thrown their full energies into his campaign.

The mere presence of Communists in the Progressive ranks is enough to scare away conservative and moderate voters.

Wallace hopes to make the greatest inroads on votes in the Democratic party. Jim Farley himself has estimated Wallace's maximum political support at five million votes.

This is almost enough votes to equal the record of the late Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin and his third party.

The public opinion polls vary in allotting Wallace anywhere from 5 to 10 percent of the total presidential vote in November. According to such figures there is no chance of his being elected but he will have succeeded in drawing votes away from both Dewey and Truman on a significant scale.

The post-election future of the Third party is a highly speculative one but Wallace says that he will keep it alive.

In case of war or an internal collapse of the Soviet government Wallace's party would lose a large share of its following. Wallace claims that the United States government is inciting Russia to start war and that Wall street is in control of the government. Under such circumstances no matter who started another war—America or Russia—the United States would be at fault.

If war does occur, no matter who attacks first, Wallace's lesser leftist supporters would likely be inclined to take a note of caution and remain silent under the tighter wartime speech restrictions.

If internal collapse comes to the Soviet government the United States would no longer be threatened by a "worldwide plot" centered in Moscow. Wallace would then have to focus the attention of the public on domestic issues to keep political interest alive on the Progressive party; peace would no longer be a major issue.

The highly divergent elements of the third party are another drawback to its ability to survive after November. Wallace will have to center public interest strongly on the foreign policies of a Republican congress and White House to retain any degree of cohesion.

Foreign issues are broad and general enough in nature to assure of some agreement but on domestic issues and their specific fulfillment the diversified units of the Progressives would find plenty of opportunity for disagreement.

Wallace has teamed up with Senator Glen H. Taylor of Idaho in the presidential race. Although practically all the polls and the experts give them only a slim chance, nevertheless they are gaffles to the major parties and have kept Dewey and Truman on their toes especially in wooing the labor vote.

Taylor is one of the most colorful vice-presidential candidates in the present race. In his early political career he campaigned in Idaho as a cowboy complete with horse, ten-gallon hat and guitar. He has pulled the act out again in his present campaign.

Only last week he rode into Iowa City on a figurative steed as a stopping-point in his national tour from California to Washington. In Iowa City he made a bid for labor votes by stating that a majority of Democrats in the 90th congress voted for the Taft-Hartley act—a fact which Democrats are not likely to advertise.

Wallace and Taylor are presenting one of the most colorful and stimulating third party campaigns in many a decade. Even if they do not win in November they will have kept the major parties on the defensive and brought serious issues before the voters.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT

Still Time for Peace . . .

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

Mr. Dewey will be entitled to whatever rejoicing he can base on the fact that he will have been elected by a country which did not know quite what to do.

The content of his speeches indicates that he himself realizes he is not being elected because of a specific, detailed, concrete program, but because he happened to be in a spot where a trend could pick him up and carry him along. His chief political problem during the campaign has been not to set up a movement in his favor, but so to conduct himself as not to interfere with a mood that was already operating and with the making of which he had had comparatively little to do.

IN THESE circumstances, the fact that there may be a Democratic senate, and thus another mixed administration, seems to me to be not altogether a matter for rejoicing.

There are those who feel that this may be a kind of tragedy, that it may lead to confusion, etc.; there are even some who believe that if the Democrats do win the senate they ought to decline to organize it, and should turn the committee chairmanships over to the Republicans, for the sake of order, logic, clarity, and the like.

I happen to believe that the people have a deep wisdom of their own about these matters. There are perhaps more checks and balances in the checks-and-balances system than get into some of the books.

In an election like this one, not based on clarity of program, but on tendency and trend, on uncertainty and even disappointment, there is really no compelling reason for outfitting one party with entire power, and this is particularly true in an election in which there has been so much boasting about bipartisan harmony.

TO KEEP ONE corner of the legislature Democratic may accurately represent just that lack of complete dedication to the Republican cause which, in reality, obtains among the voters today. There is no sound reason why a doubt, if one does exist in a democracy, should not find organizational expression.

And Mr. Dewey has done so much talking about unity, and about his ability to work with almost anybody, that the voters are perhaps not worried about allowing him to try these talents in connection with a Democratic senate.

But there are deeper meanings involved. The great questions of our time, the questions of peace and war, are still open; no one in America and no one on earth knows how the cat will jump.

This curiously low-keyed, unenthusiastic election, this period of decision which so remarkably wears the air of a period of waiting, dramatizes the fact that these questions are still open, that the country does not know. This is the most important thing the election says. It murmurs to all who will listen that we are feeling our way.

By electing a president who has not much in the way of program, and perhaps with an opposition senate, and, in any case, without massive enthusiasm, the country will be announcing that, as yet, no die of any kind is cast, that it is waiting for signs and portents of the future, waiting as well as it is possible to wait during a national election.

HERE, THEN, IS opportunity, for ourselves, for the world, for Russia. For everything about this election proclaims that ours is not a country which has, in violent spirit, taken irrevocable decisions; everything about the election announces that this is a time before decisions.

If the Russians will alter their methods, if they will stop dealing with Americans as if we were feudal barons, they can have peace, and we can have peace. If they will read the signs right they must see that ours is not a country which has embarked upon a definite, destructive course, that the world crisis has not been produced by our tangled political situation, but that our tangled political situation has been produced by the world crisis.

This election says that we are waiting, and that there is still time for peace. That is the most important announcement this election will make, more important than the name of the winner, when it comes.

Ten Families To Receive SUI 'CARE'

There will be 10 winners of CARE food packages instead of only 3, the Campus Chest committee decided yesterday.

By increasing the number of winners to 10, the committee was forced to decrease the benefit period from 10 to 3 months for each winner.

The committee has available $300 channeled to CARE from 1948 SUI Campus Chest funds.

The plan drawn up yesterday calls for 10 families each receiving one $10-dollar food package every month for a period of three months.

Under the old scheme, three winners would have received 10 $10-dollar packages each. These would have been spread over a ten-month period.

Biggest reason for boosting the number of winners to 10 was a letter from the SUI International club received yesterday by the Campus Chest committee.

The letter said, "As we think that the main interest of your committee is to put this amount ($300) to the best possible use, and as we know the European situation rather closely, may we suggest that the pattern of distribution be changed so as to permit 10 families to receive 3 parcels each."

The letter gave two reasons for altering the original plan.

1. "The packages will be of considerable help, especially now during the cold months. The more persons receiving the packages this winter, the more functional the help will be."

2. "Various restrictive measures in free parcel post exchange are likely to occur in the near future. Therefore, a 10-month program may meet with possible technical difficulties."

Deadline Set

Seventy-four names had been turned in at the office of student affairs for these benefits by late yesterday afternoon. Deadline for applications is tomorrow noon.

The drawing of the 10 winning names will be Tuesday.

Anyone wanting to contribute to the CARE fund can do so by taking or sending donations to the Campus Chest committee in the office of student affairs, McBurney said.

Find Couple Dead In Hotel Bath Tub

CHICAGO (AP)—Clasped tightly in each other's arms, the nude bodies of a couple who planned to be married this week were found yesterday, submerged in an overflowing hotel bath tub.

The victims were Mrs. Jessie Beck, 31, of Chicago, mother of two children, who was to have been divorced tomorrow, and her intended bridegroom, George Reading, 40, Detroit precision machinery salesman.

Chief Deputy Coroner Anthony C. Prusinski said the couple apparently swallowed pills from several bottles found in the room, got into the bath tub in Reading's hotel room, and turned on the water. Water dripping into the room below led to the discovery of the bodies.

Police said the couple's clothing was folded neatly over chairs in Reading's room in the Croydon hotel, 616 Rush street, and they found a note saying: "May God forgive us. To our friends and love."

"Jessie and George."

World Unity Plea by Miller

UN Stepping Stone To World Federation

Harlan Miller brought his crusade for world government to the SUI campus last night when he pleaded for an "extension of God's kingdom to this earth."

Miller, who has been authoring "Over the Coffee" in the Des Moines Register for 22 years, spoke to 90 persons at Schaeffer hall in the membership kickoff meeting of the United World Federalists.

"Jefferson, Washington and Franklin were radicals in that they preached unity. We carry the same message on a larger scale," Miller said.

OVER THE COFFEE HARLAN MILLER last night plugged for world government to open officially the SUI United World Federalists chapter's membership drive. "I'd be willing to give up dessert the rest of my life for world government," the Des Moines Register columnist remarked at the outset of his talk on "World Government or World War III."

Cites UN

Outlining the background for a proposed world government, Miller cited the UN and the Pan-American union as stepping stones toward the larger organization which would embrace the world.

Russia, with its group of 20 men who rule one-sixth of the globe, could hardly be admitted to the world federation until the present Soviet regime crumbles. Time will be the healer of the current danger the Russians pose, Miller said.

When the present Russian political leaders pass from the scene, Miller pointed out, the make-up of the Soviet will change, just as Franklin Roosevelt's New Deal program was altered under the hands of President Truman.

Miller predicted that when "Tom Dewey becomes president, Russia will probably make concessions to the U.S. which, conceivably, will eliminate the Berlin blockade. For that concession, we will have to give the Russians some points."

The meeting was cut short because the columnist had to dash to catch a train.

Plan Entertainment For Editors' Wives

A coffee hour for wives of editors attending the Iowa Press Association conference here today and tomorrow will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow in the home of Mrs. Leslie G. Moeller, 623 E. College street.

Sponsored by the journalism faculty wives, the coffee hour is part of the entertainment arranged for the visitors.

Special tours have been planned. They include a tour of University hospitals at 3 p.m. today and the University theatre, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. today.

Other interest spots open to guests are the museum of natural history in Macbride hall, University art building, Iowa Memorial Union, newspaper production laboratory, The Daily Iowan and university radio station WSUI.

Locally the sightseers may visit "Plum Grove," home of Robert L. Lucas, first governor of the territory of Iowa; Hoover Birthplace park, West Branch; the "Amarna colonies, 21 miles west of Iowa City and the Iowa City municipal airport.

Starzel Appointed AP General Manager

Frank J. Starzel, who formerly attended the State University of Iowa and worked on The Daily Iowan, has been appointed general manager of The Associated Press.

Starzel's appointment was announced by Kent Cooper, executive director of all operations of The Associated Press.

Since 1943 the tall Iowan, 19 years an AP man, has been assistant general manager in charge of all news traffic.

He first started working on a newspaper at the age of 13 on his father's semi-weekly paper, the LeMars Globe Post.

Starzel later attended the University of Iowa and Notre Dame, playing football at both. He left college to embark on a newspaper career.

After a year on the Iowa City Press Citizen he was briefly assistant managing editor of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, news editor of the Bloomington, Ill., Pantagraph, a Chicago Journal copyreader and ad manager for a Chicago cement maker.

In 1929 he moved to New York as promotion man for Associated Press' newly-formed feature service, and has held various jobs with that news association ever since.

The Starzels have a son and daughter, Robert, 8, and Suzanne, 10.

Pledge Class Officers Elected by Delta Chi's

Dick Duncah, Iowa City, was chosen president of the pledge class of Delta Chi social fraternity at a recent meeting.

Other officers are Al Glotfelty, Fairfield, vice-president; Al Bruce, Ottumwa, secretary and treasurer; John B. Harris, Humboldt, S. Dak., social-rush chairman, and Don Gossard, Council Bluffs, pledge trainer.

Minister Forsakes Pulpit, Superintends School for Crippled

By CHARLES KROUSE

A 35-year-old native Iowan who gave up the ministry to help crippled children get started in life is directing activities at the new dormitory type hospital school now occupying the ground floor of Westlawn nurses' home.

He is W. B. Schoenbohm, on a one year leave of absence from his position as superintendent of the Jamestown, N. D., crippled children's school.

Schoenbohm became director of the North Dakota school in 1938 when it was almost in a state of collapse. Today it cares for 70 severely handicapped children.

Lutheran Pastor

Schoenbohm served a Lutheran pastorate in Bryant, N. D., prior to accepting the superintendency. A trustee for the national society for crippled children and adults, he is a director of the North Dakota chapter.

The new school director received his education at Wartburg college, Clinton, and Wartburg seminary, Dubuque. He took graduate work at the University of Berlin and the University of Erlangen and spent a year studying at the famous Boledschwingh institution in Germany.

Special Staff

Schoenbohm, Grace Chenoweth, principal at the Jamestown school, and a special staff are working under Executive Dean Carlyle Jacobsen, division of health sciences and services at SUI.

Assisting Schoenbohm in the role of medical director of the school is Dr. Raymond Rembolt, member of the pediatrics department staff of the SUI medical college.

Rembolt received his bachelor of arts and doctor of medicine degrees from the University of Nebraska. He interned in pediatrics at the University of Minnesota hospital. Since 1938, with the exception of a four year navy hitch, he has been in private practice in Lincoln, Neb.

He was a volunteer assistant resident at Iowa from June, 1946, to June, 1947, and was certified by the American board of pediatrics in 1948.

Elect Three Members To Barracks Council

Three members have thus far been elected to this year's barracks council, Bob Maloney, chairman, said yesterday.

Gordon Lounsbury, 103 Newton park; T. L. Lowry, 120 Westlawn park, Number 1, and William Lewis, 411 Finkbine park, are representatives for those areas.

Market Basket Index Shows Week's Increase of 17 Cents

Higher food prices were back in Iowa City grocery stores yesterday, after sinking to their lowest level since March 25, according to The Daily Iowan market basket survey.

The market basket index climbed to $17.40 yesterday following last week's seven-month low of $17.23.

The $17.40 figure is an estimate of what the average student family of three will spend this week for food. Prices on six of the 24 items included in the survey went up during the week, accounting for the 17 cent increase.

Bacon Goes Up

First grade bacon, with a gain of six cents a pound, was the only meat item to show a price rise. Ground beef, center cut pork chops, and choice round steak all held to their levels of last week.

Most local butchers agree yesterday that meat will remain steady for the next few months.

One meat department manager said meat prices were not likely to go higher because livestock receipts are usually higher at this time of year. He also noted that meat would probably begin to feel competition from poultry soon, especially during the heavy demand through the holiday seasons.

Cheese Price Varies

Prices on this one item posted by individual stores varied considerably. A two-pound carton of Velveta cheese sold from 95 cents to $1.18. The mean average price was $1.09.

A two-cent a dozen jump in grade A egg prices was responsible for a three-cent increase in the index tabulations.

Three other commodities registered small increase during the past week.

Quaker Oats were up one cent on a one-pound four-ounce box. Van Camp pork and beans went up one cent on number 2 cans. Ten-pound sacks of Gold Medal flour were selling at one cent more than last week's price listings, but the gain was not significant enough to affect the market basket index.

Yesterday's index of $17.40 is comparable to that of last July 8, when the index stood at $17.39.

The Daily Iowan market basket index is not an added total of the prices listed above. That is, the index figure takes into consideration both the costs of the items listed above and the amount of each item the student family of three uses in one week. The amount of each item the family of three uses in one week was arrived at in a survey conducted in cooperation with the university bureau of economic and business research.
