Representative Dads, Their Sons at Dance
 Together last night at the Iowa Union before the Dads day dance. The student dad is holding his three-month-old son, Billy, Tommy, 4, and Bernie (far right), 2, are Bianco's other sons. Ross C. Gray, Rockwell City attorney, was chosen by Omicron Delta Kappa, sponsors of the dance, as the alumni father. Two of his sons, Lynn (far left) and Jack, are now law students here. They are seated beside him. The other two sons are standing behind him. They are Ward, who attended SUI in 1939, and Dale, class of 1942.

Hawks Seek Revenge

Pep Rally, Dance Start Dad's Weekend

Donald Bianco Named SUI's Student Father

A pep rally in the Iowa Union bandshell and the Dad's day dance in the main lounge last night prepared State University of Iowa students and their fathers for the Iowa-Wisconsin game in the stadium today.

In keeping with the light (40,000) expected attendance for the game, the pep rally last night drew only about 350 persons to hear today's game captain, Dick Woodard, to cheer with 10 cheerleaders and to see the performances of two trampoline artists and a "dad" from the audience who volunteered to participate in the sport.

Want to Erase 46-14 Beating By '47 Badgers

Revenge is in the mind of every member of the University of Iowa football team as the Hawkeyes entertain Wisconsin here this afternoon before an expected Dad's Day crowd of more than 40,000.

One year ago the Badgers of Coach Harry Stuhldreher pacted Iowa with one of the worst, most humiliating defeats since Dr. Eddie Anderson took over the coaching reins here in 1939. The final score, pushed back in the memories of most Iowa fans, was 46-14.

The records fail to tell the story of the 1948 Wisconsin eleven. The Badgers are by no means as bad as their record of one victory and four losses might indicate.

Stuhldreher always gears his teams offensively, and Badger elvens usually have consistent scoring attacks. They proved this fact last Saturday in losing to Ohio State, 34-32, by driving for five touchdowns on the ground against a strong defensive opponent.

So the Hawks must concede a very definite edge in running power this afternoon. Wisconsin backs have averaged 5.3 yards per carry this year, compared to the meager 2-yard average of Iowa runners.

Hawk's Hope on Al
 Iowa once again must pin its conquering hopes on the right arm of diminutive Quarterback Al DiMarco and his pass-catching partners, Ends Bob McKenzie and Jack Dittmer.

Injuries will sideline two Hawkeye regulars, Left Halfback Bob Longley and Guard Joe Grothus. Longley has not played since Iowa's win over Ohio State, while Grothus received a knee injury in the Notre Dame loss last week.

The Badger crippled list is just as serious, the team leaving four members at home. And regular Fullback Ben Bendrick will see little action because of a bruised hip.

With Dick Woodard, Iowa center and game captain for the fifth straight game, back in top form, the middle of the Old Gold line is in good shape. Woodard was slowed considerably in the Purdue and Notre Dame games by an ankle injury.

Dr. Anderson will split Grothus' regular job between Louis Ginsberg and Ray Carlson. He said yesterday that Ginsberg would be in the offensive lineup with either Carlson or Center Bob Snyder as the middle line-backer when the Hawks use the 5-3-2-1 defense.

Officials Say Johnson County Election Vote to Top '44 Count

Republican and Democratic officials yesterday predicted that the total Johnson county vote at Tuesday's general election would be greater than at the election in 1944.

The total in 1944 was 15,000 votes. Although the Democratic officials would only predict a "larger vote," H. J. Dane, Johnson county Republican chairman, estimated between two and three thousand more votes would be cast this year.

Foreign Policy Rift Enters Campaign in New England Finale

The gentleman's agreement against dragging foreign affairs into the political campaign went by the boards yesterday as both President Truman and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey neared the end of their campaign trails.

Winding up his campaign tour in New England, Dewey criticized the Truman administration for appeasing Russia and then promised that he would not "pull the rug from under" any representatives he sends abroad.

Mr. Truman replied in a speech at Brooklyn, his last before leaving for his Missouri home. He said Dewey had attacked the conduct of foreign affairs in a manner that had "torn off the mask of bi-partisan ship."

Dewey's formal answer may come tonight at Madison Square Garden where he makes his last major speech. After that, he will go to his farm at Pawling for the weekend and return to New York Monday.

Defending his plan to send Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson to Moscow, Truman accused Dewey of deliberately trying to "misinterpret my private consultations with the secretary of state."

Two Bandits Escape After Clinton Holdup

CLINTON — Two youthful masked bandits yesterday afternoon held up the office of the Household Finance corporation, here and escaped with $1,200.

Witnesses said they escaped in a gray 1946 Ford with California license plates. Police said the car belonged to W. H. Mockridge, Clinton.

Paul Fleichman, manager, said the two youths entered the office about 2:30 yesterday afternoon and one held him at gunpoint while the other forced his cashier, Miss Shirley Henry, to go downstairs to get the key to the office safe. The bandits warned her not to scream or they would shoot.

Miss Henry said she opened the safe with the key and then was locked in a closet with Fleichman.

Collie-Kissed Kissing Prefers Wife to Canine

SAN FERNANDO, CALIF. (AP) — Dairy farmer Ernst Kissing prefers to be kissed by his wife instead of their collie dog.

Mrs. Kissing is suing him for divorce. His lawyer said Thursday in superior court the couple might reconcile if the dog were kept from licking his face while he sleeps. Kissing said his wife kept the dog in their bedroom.

Three Too Many, New York Dizzy

NEW YORK (AP) — For the first time in this campaign Harry Truman, Tom Dewey and Henry Wallace last night managed to be in the same place at the same time.

Concentrating their last-minute campaigning on the New York city vote, the three candidates caused a busy day for New Yorkers — especially cops.

And Joe Citizen — whether he's made up his mind or not — was momentarily confused by a profusion of torchlight parades, motorcycle escorts, cheering crowds — and talk.

Dewey arrived late in the afternoon to complete the trio, but left the speech-making to the other two last night. Instead he worked on his Madison Square Garden talk for tonight.

Woodard Thanks Students for Team

THANKS TO THE STUDENTS were given at the pep rally last night by Dick Woodard, 215-pound Iowa center and captain for today's game with the Wisconsin Badgers. Woodard, whose outstanding play this year has brought him the game captaincy five times, thanked the students for the spirit they have shown at the games this year and urged that they keep it up for the remainder of the season. Ed Smith, master of ceremonies at the rally, is at the right.

Say Truman Request Results In UN Stall on Israel Talks

PARIS (AP) — The UN security council shunted to a subcommittee a proposed crack-down on Israel yesterday. Reliable informants said the action resulted from an overnight message from President Truman to the American delegation.

An informant in a position to know said the President had not sent a direct order to the delegation, but had asked for an explanation of the American position on a British-Chinese resolution permitting penalties against Israel if she refuses to withdraw from newly won positions in the Negev desert.

This was said to be in line with the President's policy of being informed on every delegation move in the Palestine case before it is taken.

Earlier, other sources in close touch with Palestine developments, said the President had reversed Secretary of State Marshall and ordered him not to support the resolution.

In New York, Charles G. Ross, Mr. Truman's press secretary, was asked to comment on reports that the President had ordered action on economic sanctions against Israel postponed until after next Tuesday's election.

(Ross declared "I categorically deny that. It is untrue." He declined any comment on the report that Mr. Truman had ordered Marshall not to support the British-Chinese resolution.)

Peru General Seizes Power

LIMA, PERU (AP) — The government of President Jose Luis Bustamante was overthrown yesterday by a coalition of army officers who named Gen. Manuel Odría, 51, leader of the revolt, provisional president of Peru.

The bloodless coup ended a three-day revolt which began in Arequipa, the nation's second largest city, and spread yesterday to the capital.

In a broadcast at 10:30 p.m. from Arequipa, Odría told the nation that the new regime would "reestablish order, convolve popular elections and eliminate the regime which spawned robbery and crime."

Bustamante left the presidential palace at 11:40 p.m. reportedly to fly into exile in Argentina.

Even with the presidential palace surrounded by revolutionary troops of the Lima garrison, he had steadfastly refused to resign, vowing to leave "only as a corpse or a prisoner." Shortly before 9 p.m., however, two officers arrived with orders to escort him to the airport.

Three Iowa Citizens Injured in Collision

Three Iowa Citizens were taken to University hospitals late last night following a head-on collision on Highway 6 west of West-lawn.

They were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Bane, both 25, 227 E. Park road, and Willis Carney, 40, route 3.

A hospital official would not state Carney's condition. Mr. and Mrs. Bane were in fair condition.

An Iowa City garageman estimated damage to the Bane's car, a 1941 Pontiac, at $700. Carney's car, a 1938 Chevrolet, received about $500 damage, he said.

Berliners May Get Short Coal Ration

BERLIN (AP) — Fifty pounds of coal may be the entire winter's ration for average households in the blockaded western sectors of Berlin, a three-power announcement said last night.

Last winter, when there was no blockade and the weather was mild, average west sector households received 55 pounds of coal.

"Every effort is being made to provide further allocations of coal, but so long as Soviet authorities maintain their illegal blockade, future issues must depend on the degree of success of the airlift," the American British and French commandants of Berlin announced jointly.

Decree Puts Greece Under Martial Law

ATHENS (AP) — All Greece was placed under martial law last night by a special decree which allows troops to enter any home without a warrant and imposes a strict censorship by mail.

Sources close to the premier said the decree requested martial law "for psychological reasons to make the nation aware of the critical period in its history."

Eight Unbeaten Teams Risk Records

Irish Winners, Navy Losers Tangle Before 64,000 Today

Here We Go Again, Flipping the Coin —

Last Saturday was another good day for the pigskin pickers. Only two upsets in games which involved Big Nine teams. Wow! What happened?

So we delve into the mystic future (mostly by flipping the coin and checking those green and white cards which are always helpful) to see what looms ahead for the fourteen teams on our schedule today.

Since our guest experts have dropped far behind the pace, we thought a football coach would probably be able to pick up their depleted average.

Leonard Raffensperger, who is doing a swell job as new coach of the University of Iowa freshman squad, has picked our seven top games this week in the guest's role. And if "Raff" can come through with seven winners he'll pull the guests' total up to an even 500.

Incidentally, we'd better explain WSUI Sports Announcer Spank Broder's strong hold on the experts' basement. Spank has been trying for five weeks to pick all the upsets. The only trouble has been his inability to get the right teams upset.

However, this week Spank gave us his word, in strict confidence, that he would deviate from the aforementioned procedure.

Our record after last Saturday is 20 wins and 15 losses. This gives the column an over-all slate of 84-91. Come on, experts, the season is almost over.

Iowa-Wisconsin — The Hawkeyes may be favored but only an outstanding performance, characterized by the excellent Iowa spirit, will bring them a victory. The Badgers have one of the best running units in the Big Nine as proven by their showing against Ohio State.

Northwestern-Ohio State — The Wildcats need this one to give them a virtual cinch trip to the Rose bowl. Ohio State is good and plenty capable of giving them trouble. But on overall strength we have to pick Northwestern. Final score: Northwestern 20, Ohio State 14.

Indiana-Minnesota — That Gopher line is just too big for the Hoosiers to go through. Indiana might make a game of it by hitting through the air. Final score: Minnesota 19, Indiana 7.

Illinois-Michigan — The Illini are on the up-grade but the Wolverine avalanche packs too much power. Final score: Michigan 27, Illinois 7.

Purdue-Marquette — We're convinced the Boiler-makers have a good team but they've only shown their capabilities against Notre Dame and Iowa. They shouldn't lose today. Final score: Purdue 33, Marquette 6.

Notre Dame-Navy — Look out, Middles, there's stormy seas ahead. Final score: Notre Dame 34, Navy 0.

UCLA-Nebraska — We give this game to the experts to make them a nice thinking. It looks pretty even but we'll pick Nebraska on the strength of UCLA's poor showing to date. Final score: Nebraska 13, UCLA 7.

The experts:

Iowa	Wisconsin
Northwestern	Ohio State
Indiana	Minnesota
Illinois	Michigan
Purdue	Marquette
Notre Dame	Navy
UCLA	Nebraska

Georgia Tech, Tarheels Have Toughest Foes

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
NEW YORK (AP) — Eight of the nation's nine major all-victorious football teams risk their spotless records today on a program crowded with games that will have a definite bearing on the championship picture in all the top drawer conferences.

The members of the all-winning fraternity who appear to be facing the toughest assignments, however, are the two Dixie powerhouses—North Carolina and Georgia Tech.

Each of these tough customers invades the other's territory for non-league engagements that will mean nothing in the conference standings but can play hob with their title aspirations if they should lose.

North Carolina, currently rated the third best team in the country and a topheavy favorite in the Southern conference, moves into Knoxville to battle a Tennessee team that has won three in a row after a slow start and has been pointing for the Tarheels all season.

Tech, Duke Tangle
Georgia Tech, holding sixth place in the rankings determined by the Associated Press poll, drops out of the Southeastern conference in which it is the favored leader to tangle with Duke at Durham.

Duke, unbeaten in five starts although tied by both North Carolina state and Tennessee, could become the only remaining threat to North Carolina in the Southern conference if it upsets Georgia Tech, whom they meet next week.

In the Big Nine, a three-way deadlock for second place is almost certain to be broken, but front-running Michigan, No. 1 team in the nation, appears in no danger of losing to invading Illinois. With Michigan slugging steadily toward its second Big Nine title but ineligible for the Rose bowl assignment, the scramble for the trip to Pasadena involves the trio tied for the runner-up spot with two victories and one defeat—Northwestern, Ohio State and Indiana.

Minnesota figures to erase Indiana at Minneapolis today, while Northwestern and Ohio State come face to face at Evanston. Wisconsin and Iowa, whose 1-2 records match Minnesota in the conference, play each other at Iowa City.

Texas, SMU Hook Up
Considerably less involved is the situation in the Southwest conference, where Southern Methodist and Texas hook up at Austin in what likely will be the title game. Like one-tied Baylor, both Texas and SMU are all-victorious in the conference but Baylor still has to face both of them.

Fourth-ranking California will be shooting for its seventh straight triumph and third in the Pacific Coast league at Southern California, while Oregon, the Bears' biggest conference threat, steps outside to entertain St. Mary's.

The other all-victorious teams—Notre Dame, Army, Pennsylvania and Nevada—are expected to breeze through their opposition tomorrow.

Princeton Wins Hockey
NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (AP) — The gentlemen of Princeton university broke a tie in the second half to defeat the ladies of the N. J. College for Women 5-2 at field hockey yesterday.

After the stiff contest, the girls entertained the Princeton boys at donuts and cider (sweet), served in cups of pastel shades.

Little Hawks Fall To Burlington, 15-6; Williams Runs 96

Burlington's Greyhounds combined breaks with a band of breakaway runners last night to remain undefeated as they ground out a 15-6 victory over Iowa City's Little Hawks on the local field.

Burlington's first score came after the Little Hawk's Francis Beaseley had gotten off a 20-yard punt from his own 20. On the first play Burlington was off side moving the ball back to the Iowa City 45.

From there Quarterback Murray Thompkins threw a strike to End Dan McBride on the 25. On the next play Fullback Bill Savage broke over his own right tackle, cut to the right and went over standing up. The extra point try was low.

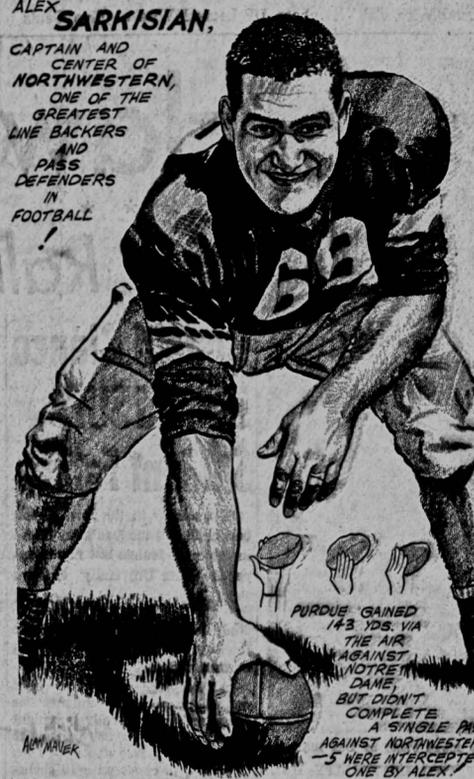

Then came the most beautiful play of the game. On the ensuing kickoff Dick Williams faked a reverse to Dan Dutcher, ran to his left and legged it down the east sideline for 96 yards until he was caught from behind on the two by Hugh Hines, the Greyhounds state dash champ. On the first play Doran scored on a quarterback sneak. The extra point try was wide to the left.

The Greyhound's Bill Savage got off a short slant to Dan McBride. Iowa City's Bill Fenton batted the ball down, but McBride took it in the air on the 14 and raced over. This time Savage, back to kick, picked up a bad pass from center and bulled over for the extra point.

The additional Burlington points, a safety, were sheer gifts. On a fake punt from the two-line Beaseley was spilled in the end zone.

Willie Pep Kayoed
NEW YORK (AP)—Sandy Saddler, spindly-legged Harlem Negro, scored a stunning fistic upset last night when he knocked out Willie Pep of Hartford, Conn., to win the world featherweight championship in 2:38 of the fourth round at Madison Square garden.

Wildcats, Bucks Match Rose Bowl Hopes Today

CHICAGO (AP) — Northwestern and Ohio State will match their hopes for the Big Nine bid for the Rose bowl today on the Wildcat gridiron in the Western conference game of the day.

The Wildcats, losers only to Michigan, were favored to defeat Ohio State, which has lost only to Iowa, by one touchdown.

Minnesota was favored to beat Indiana at Minneapolis by two touchdowns.

High School Title Race Here Today

Twenty-four Iowa high school cross country teams will bid for the state championship this morning over the university course.

The class, C, B, A and AA competition over the 1.9-mile course will open at 10:45. All team and individual winners will be new champions, snow and cold weather cancelling the meet last fall.

CLASS AA - Franklin of Cedar Rapids, Clinton, Lincoln and Jefferson of Council Bluffs, East, Roosevelt and Tech of Des Moines; Mason City, Ottumwa, West Waterloo, Davenport and Dubuque.

CLASS A - McKinley of Cedar Rapids, Fairfield, Iowa City, Keokuk and Oskaloosa.

CLASS B - University high of Iowa City, Marion, Nevada and Villisca.

Early Touchdowns Win For Blue Hawks, 13-7

(Special to The Daily Iowan)
New London, Iowa—Striking early and hard the University high Blue Hawks dumped the New London Tigers here last night, 13 to 7.

Dean Evans plunged over from the five-yard line for U-high's first touchdown, capping a drive that started when Holdeman blocked a New London punt. Fullback Ronnie Colden cracked the Tiger line for the extra point.

Later in the first quarter Colden snow pushed over U-high's second touchdown, product of another blocked kick.

It wasn't until the final quarter that New London scored, when Right Halfback Jack Elliot tallied on a 22-yard jaunt around end. Truesd rammed over for the extra point.

Notre Dame has whitewashed the Middles the past two years, 28-0 and 27-0.

No Vote Against Stuhldreher

MADISON, WIS. (AP)—University of Wisconsin students won't vote Nov. 11 on a referendum question "Shall Harry Stuhldreher remain as football coach?"

The deadline for submission of a petition to force the student board to conduct the referendum at the regular campus election passed at noon yesterday. Neither of two petitions circulating among the students was in the board's hands.

Petition circulators said they had not pushed the action since last Saturday's football game with Ohio State which Wisconsin lost, 34-32. But, they said, they had not abandoned their effort to obtain a special referendum at the end of the season. The petitions will be circulated "leisurely in the next few weeks," they explained.

Stuhldreher, athletic director as well as head football coach, has been under fire most of the season. The tumult reached a climax as Wisconsin was losing to Yale, 17-7, two weeks ago, when a large banner emblazoned "Goodbye Harry" was lifted in the student section of Camp Randall stadium. Wisconsin has won only one of five starts this year.

Home Ec Club Plans Drive For Members

A "kickoff" meeting launching the SUI Home Economics club's membership drive will be held Monday at 4:30 p.m. in the second floor dining room at Macbride hall, Sharon Judy, club president, said yesterday.

The club hopes to have a membership of 100 when the drive closes Dec. 1.

Kathryn Rathe, A4, who traveled in Switzerland this summer will discuss her trip and show slides during the meeting.

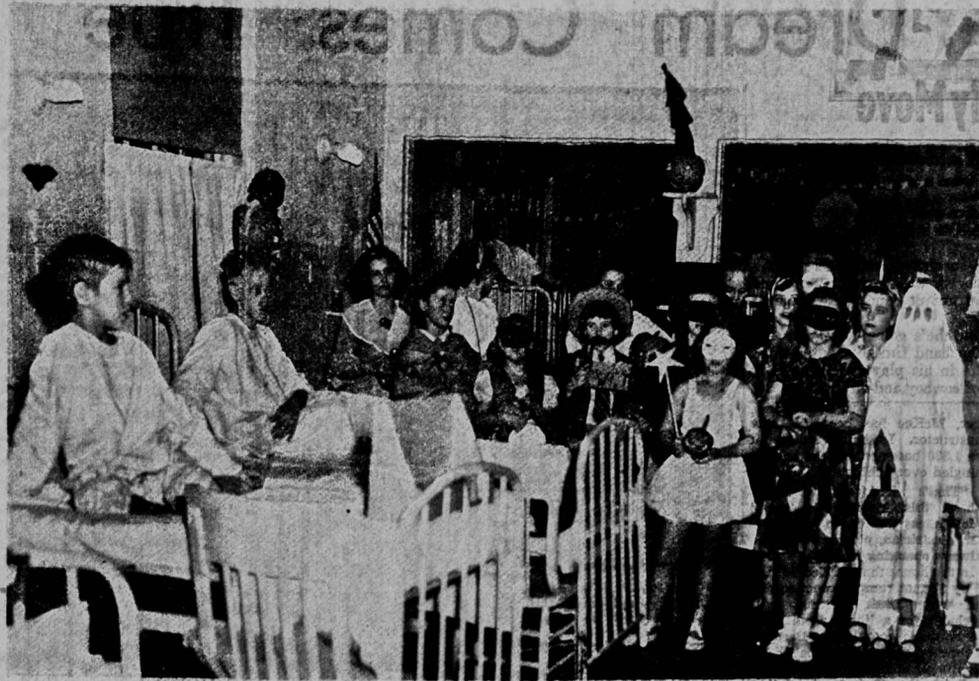

Membership in the Home Economics club, now 35 years old, is open to any women interested in the club's work, Miss Judy explained.

Representatives are sent annually to national meetings and to a regional meeting in Chicago in February. The local club is part of a province including Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan and Iowa.

Special social events are the Christmas banquet, at which a nationally known person of the field speaks, and a February baked bean supper for members and guests. Meetings are held each month.

Last year the club collected and sent relief boxes to Germans in the American occupation zone.

Panhellenic Council 'Adopts' Polish Girl

The SUI Panhellenic association has "adopted" a 14-year old Polish girl through the Foster Parent's plan for War Children, Helen Reich, local group advisor announced yesterday.

The girl, Maria Gajewska, is a war-orphan born in Luniniec, Poland where her father was killed in 1939 during the German-Polish war.

Maria's mother was deported to Russia and then to Africa where she died in 1942.

The SUI group's adoption of the child is financial, and carries with it no legal obligations. They merely promise to contribute $15 monthly towards the child's support, for at least a year.

Little Maria is at present in England with her grandmother under the foster parent's plan care.

Halloween Parade to Start with a Bang

An aerial bomb barrage fired from the Community building will announce the parade assembly of the Iowa City Moose lodge Halloween party at 6 p.m. tomorrow.

At 6:30 the parade will leave the Community building and proceed west on College avenue to Clinton street. It will then go north on Clinton and pass a reviewing stand in front of the Moose hall.

From there the parade will turn east on Washington street, pass another reviewing stand at the Hotel Jefferson and go to Gilbert street. It will turn south again on Gilbert and return to the Community building.

Frank Tallman, publicity chairman, said yesterday that children who do not have pledge cards will be able to obtain them at the door of the Community building after the parade.

These pledge cards will be tickets of admission to free refreshments, a professional vaudeville show, prizes and a dance, Tallman added.

Listener's Contest Has Record Prize

A music identification contest will highlight WSUI's program, "Music You Want When You Want It," Nov. 4, 5 and 6.

Excerpts will be played from records representing symphonic, choral, operatic, concerto and instrumental compositions for listeners to identify.

To win, contestants must list the names of the works from which the excerpts are played and write 25 words on what the "Music You Want" program means to them.

The prize is a RCA Victor album of the winner's choice.

Grant 23 Rent Hikes

The Iowa City rent control office granted increases to 23 units during the month of October, and one petition was denied.

A total of 16 leases and 16 petitions were received during the month.

Panacea Script Deadline Near

Monday is the final day for submitting scripts for the 1949 Panacea show sponsored by the student council.

About 12 scripts had been turned in at the information desk of the office of student affairs by late yesterday afternoon, E. M. Flood Jr. of the Panacea committee reported.

Script judging will start about the second week in November, Flood said. Faculty members of the dramatic arts department and student affairs advisors will do the judging, he added.

A $50 prize will be given the author of the winning script. The Panacea show will be staged the first week in March, 1949.

Committee members named Thursday include Flood, Keith McNurlen and Joyce Bahr from student council; Richard Peterson and Mark Meier from Omicron Delta Kappa, men's honorary fraternity; and Jean Gallaher and D. J. Meyer from University Women's association. Miss Bahr is chairman.

McKee's Five-Year Dream Comes True Today

SUI Doctor, Family Move Into New Home McKee Built

A MAN OF MANY TRADES is this bacteriologist who works with test tubes by day and carpenter tools by night. Dr. McKee switches medical "whites" for Levi's after an eight-hour day at the university laboratories and goes to work building his ranch home.

Today a dream comes true — five years of planning, five months of manual labor and Dr. McKee builds his dream house! Well, at least the first part of it.

In the midst of lumber shavings, insulation and tools Dr. Albert P. McKee, university bacteriologist, will move his wife and three boys into the first section of a unique ranch-style home he has built himself.

Mrs. McKee is wondering just how she's going to manage the three spunky youngsters while her husband finishes his building. Rex, 1, is fairly satisfied with life in his playpen. Preston, 6, and John, 4, have a tree swing and of cowboy-and-Indian space but they're more interested in Daddy's chisels, saws, nails and hammers. "Those two are always carrying off the tools," Mrs. McKee says. "Then we have to stop everything and chase them."

The modest Dr. McKee just won't accept praises for his building achievements. "Anybody can build a house," she says. "All you have to do is read a book or two."

True to his word he read the books and he's building the house—a one story, eight-room, three-bath, structure complete with rumpus room, solar heating and even a fish hatchery. But he doesn't convince you that the formula is that ABC simple.

McKee and his father-in-law, H. N. Weart, started drafting dream houses about five years ago. In the spring of 1947 the McKees bought six acres, three-tenths of a mile north of Iowa City on the Solon highway. Accordingly the two men went to work planning a unique country house. On July 1 McKee started pouring the concrete.

McKee does his nail pounding in the evenings and on Saturday afternoons after work at the medical laboratories. He looks as natural in his carpenter clothes as in his laboratory "whites." During an interview he'll pick up a stray piece of lumber, whip out a pencil and quickly sketch details of anything from his self-constructed sewage system to his self-planned solar heating set-up.

"You see, this is an expansion house," he explains. "Right now I'm completing the kitchen, bathroom, basement bedroom and rumpus room so we can move from 324 E. Fairchild street. Then I'll sit back for a while and wait for prices to drop."

Dr. R. C. Miller and a dental student, Glen Peterson, pitched in with the building occasionally. With few other exceptions, however, McKee has been the sole constructor. He laid every one of the 1,320 basement blocks and he shingled every shingle.

"That's what's so interesting about this building business," McKee says. "Mason, carpenter, electrician, plumber—you're always changing trades."

In the house that McKee built, a 15 by 27 foot rumpus room equipped with flash lighting will pinch-hit for a living room until the house is completed. Because of time pressure McKee called on the Burger company of Iowa City to finish the 42 inch circulating fireplace in this room. Like the rest of the room, it will be finished with knotty pine paneling with four inches of brick forming a pattern around the opening.

Perched on a pile of these knotty pine boards, Mrs. McKee outlined the possibilities of the rumpus room.

"We'll probably install a ping-pong table, piano, nicelodeon, snack bar, all the things that go into a rumpus room," she said. "We hope the boys will bring their friends home and maybe we can peek in on them when they're not looking"—a statement which brought the retort from Mr. Weart, her father, "That's what you think. I tried that with you, remember?"

Mrs. McKee is the supply agent for the McKee contractors.

"If this were the army, she'd be the quartermaster," the doctor said. "I haven't time to take care of the buying angle so I give her an idea of what we need and she keeps the things rolling in a month or so ahead. That's the only way you can beat this building game nowadays."

Through its solar heating feature the McKee home will take advantage of the Iowa sun which, McKee says, shines only 47 per cent of the time it could. The house was planned so that the sides facing east and south are a maze of windows. A roof extension accurately calculated will keep the rooms flooded with sunshine even on Dec. 31. On the hottest summer days no rays will enter. Since the windows do not open all ventilation comes through louvers built beneath each window.

The little McKees like their new home so well that Mom and Dad can hardly get them to leave.

"We just turn them loose," McKee says. "They wander in occasionally with a load or grasshopper and out occasionally with a tool or two."

There will probably be plenty of fishing for the boys in a few years. McKee plans on building a pond and hatchery on his land. A four-foot eight-inch dam and natural drainage will form a pond one-half acre in size. He'll stock it with bluegills and big-mouth bass.

Mrs. McKee hasn't decided definitely on a decorating scheme. "We both like the soft modern style," she says.

"We'll have pull drapes across the window expanses. I'm afraid all these windows will be quite a problem to wash. Rex is just big enough so he can put little finger marks along the bottom edges."

Plumbing has been the toughest job for McKee. However, with helpful suggestions from Gordon Webster, 502½ Clark street, he found a way to partly beat plumbing costs which "really bleed you through the nose" by building his kitchen and bathroom right next to each other.

The kitchen, Mrs. McKee claims, is "small but handy" and has "ample cupboard space."

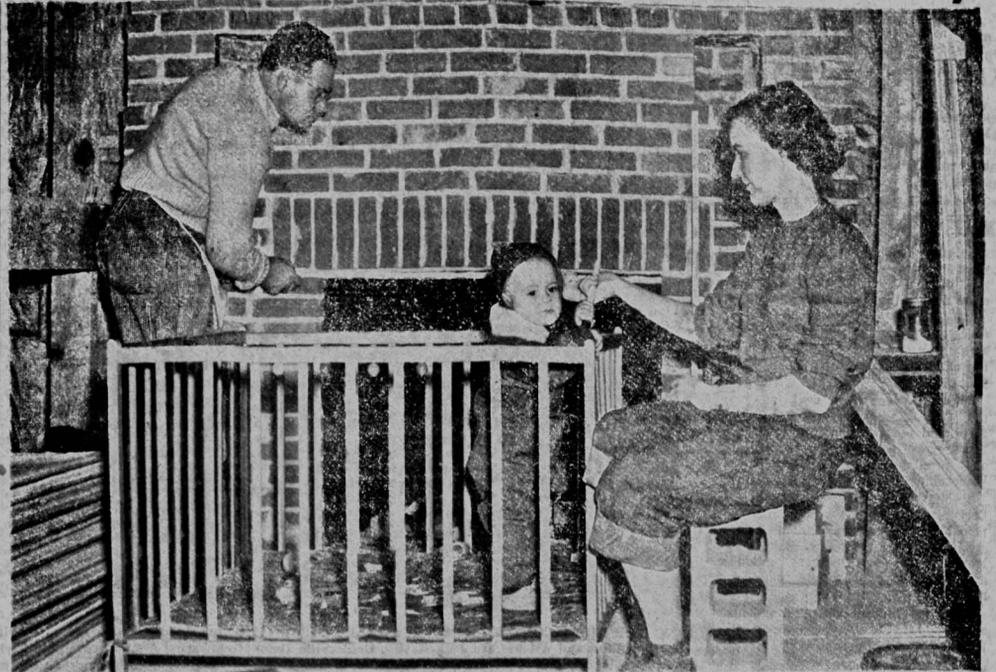

While doing her kitchen tasks, Mrs. McKee can look out on the 180-foot expanse of lawn which slopes down to the highway.

Concrete mixing is the hardest task in building a house from the manual point of view, McKee says. He used an electric mixer to lighten this load.

The McKees will get their water from a 248-foot well drilled by D. E. Edwards. An automatic pump in their basement can supply them with as much as 360 gallons per hour.

Looking to the future, McKee built a six-inch casing in his well instead of the usual five inch casing. With this he may some day install a heat pump to heat the house in the winter and cool it in the summer. The portion of the house now finished will be warmed by an oil furnace.

"I'm just a novice at this," said McKee as he started to clarify the heating pump syssuggestions while amusing their one-year-old baby, Rex, who adds his approval in "goo-goo" language.

DADDY'S LITTLE HELPERS, 4-year-old John McKee (left) and Preston, 6, aren't always so helpful. They often scamper off with the tools that Dr. McKee and his wife are using to finish off the first section of their new ranch home. "That means we stop work and chase them," Mrs. McKee said.

BUILD YOUR OWN HOME is the motto of Dr. Albert P. McKee, university bacteriologist, who is busily constructing a ranch home after hours at the medical laboratories. Today the doctor, his wife and three youngsters will move into the first section shown above. The ranch home is located three-tenths of a mile north of the city limits on the Solon highway.

Last Obstacle Soon Cleared For Hospital

The botany building, built in 1936, is coming down. Thursday, workmen began razing the structure, the last building to be removed from the site of the $10 to $11-billion veterans hospital to be built here.

The building occupies part of the 12 acre site, located north of University hospitals, along highway 6.

Already most of the windows and doors have been removed. The inside brick partitions have been torn down and much of the material moved to the site of the new botany building, being built west of the hospital.

Takes Short Time
Yesterday, A. E. Meedel, in charge of the wrecking crew, estimated it would take "two or three weeks" to completely clear the modern brick building away. Monday, a two ton ball will be swung against the walls of the building to crumple them.

The greenhouse attached to the building will be dismantled and moved to the new botany building. The smaller plants, and shoots from the larger ones have been transplanted in other houses.

Banana Trees Die
The larger banana trees and coconut palms will be allowed to die, a botany department official said yesterday.

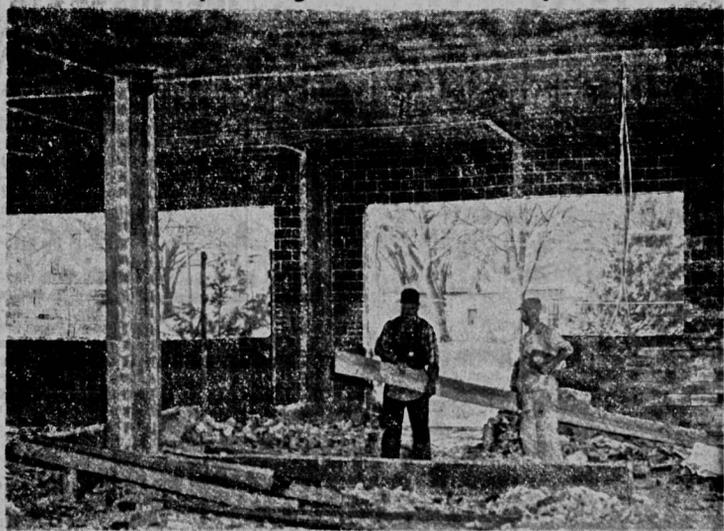

Work is now underway on the new botany building. University architect George Horner said it will have about one third the laboratory space of the old building, but more will be added later. Much of the equipment from the razed building has been moved to a temporary headquarters behind the chemistry building.

Three Buildings Cleared
Three other buildings have already been cleared from the hospital site: the Kellogg school, an old home and a small building and grounds structure.

Construction bids on the 500 bed hospital probably will be accepted before next February.

The botany building is being wrecked by the American Lumber and Wrecking company.

Students Test Diets with Rats

Four rats are the center of attention at University high school today.

The property of seventh and eighth grade home economics classes, the two pairs of white rats illustrate comparative growth during an experimental three weeks period.

Fed a diet of milk and bread, one pair gained approximately five times as much as their less fortunate relatives who received soft drinks and bread.

The rats which ate the calcium-sufficient milk diet also exhibit softer and whiter fur, better bone structure and pinker eyes, the class reports.

The effects of their diets was so severe that Monday the soft drink-fed rats were apparently dying. Since then they have been receiving milk and have gained 10 and 11 grams in three days.

Fourteen seventh and eighth graders under the instruction of their teacher, Emma Jaques, and student teacher Helen Danner began the project Oct. 6.

During the experimental period, the milk-fed female gained from 47 grams to 118; the male, from 48 to 139 grams. The other pair both weighed 49 grams on Oct. 6. Yesterday the female weighed 70 grams and the male 68.

Progressives to Hold 'White Elephant' Sale

Proceeds from the sale will go to the local Progressive party, she pointed out. The books, baby cribs and other incidentals will be furnished by party members and Students for Wallace.

Don't miss the Iowa band's pre-game show. Righter advised.

Red Cross Plans Membership Drive In County Schools

The annual membership drive of the American Junior Red Cross will begin Monday in Johnson county public and parochial schools, Mrs. Ellis Crawford, chairman, announced yesterday. Mrs. Leslie M. Hays is enrollment chairman.

"We want to see 100 percent enrollment in all Johnson county schools," Mrs. Crawford said.

"We believe that our children, realizing the vast accomplishments of young Red Cross members in the past, will want to join the youth organization that has such a fine record."

Conducted on a county-wide basis, the drive will be opened with Junior Red Cross members signing up fellow students in classroom units.

Regular fees are 50 cents for each classroom in elementary schools and one dollar for a group of 100 or less in secondary schools. No individual fees are required. Mrs. Crawford said, and no child is excluded because he is unable to contribute toward group enrollment.

All funds over enrollment fees will go into the Junior Red Cross service fund. This will finance local, national and international programs which are not connected with disbursements of the adult Red Cross membership.

Junior Red Cross members have contributed to the health of children abroad through the national children's fund, Mrs. Crawford said. In addition to $75 contributed locally to the fund last year, members here packed over 200 gift boxes with educational and health supplies for war-impaired children overseas.

Plan 'Mechanics Brawl' At Hillel House Sunday

Fun, parties, dances and entertainment will be the theme of the activities at Hillel house this weekend.

Married students will have a party tonight at 7:30, Mrs. Ernest Kipnic, chaperone, announced yesterday.

Tomorrow night at 7:30, Hillel house will become a garage for a "Mechanics Brawl" with an evening of entertainment and dancing planned by Dorothy Klawans, social chairman.

Theta Xi Pledges Choose McAllister

Jack McAllister, C3, Vinton, was elected president of the Theta Xi social fraternity pledge class at the pledge meeting Monday. Mary Luehrs, A1, of Sheboygan, Wis., was chosen vice-president.

The fraternity also named McAllister their candidate for the most eligible bachelor to be chosen at the Spinster's Spree, Nov. 12.

McAllister, 22, is a junior transfer from Iowa State Teachers college where he earned letters in football and basketball. He served in the navy for three years.

SUI Billboard Ban Studied by Faculty

The campus billboard situation, created when students were asked to refrain from posting signs on trees in the Old Capitol area, is being studied by a faculty committee, Dean Dewey B. Stuit, director of the student counselling office, said yesterday.

Recommendations will be made to the campus planning committee for installation of facilities needed to give students opportunities for publicizing the activities of their organizations, he explained.

AAUW Sponsors Grants to Women From 16 Countries

Fifty-five foreign women students are now receiving training to be applied directly to the most acute problems of their war-devastated homelands through grants from the American Association of University women. This was announced yesterday by Luella Wright, publicity chairman of the local branch.

These women are now enrolled in colleges and universities chosen by the A.A.U.W. to fit the special training for which each student expressed a need.

The Iowa City branch of the association last year contributed $100 to the international fund to bring these students to America. Miss Wright noted.

The students receiving 1948-49 grants are from 16 different countries where educational opportunities have been drastically reduced because of the war—Belgium, France, Italy, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, Finland, Norway, Denmark, Czechoslovakia, Germany, Greece, Burma, Siam, China, Japan and the Philippines.

Improvement of the physical and mental health of children is the objective of many of these A.A.U.W. international students. In the group are medical physicians, psychologists, social workers and teachers intent on specialized studies in various fields of pediatrics and child welfare. Public health is also a subject of particular concern.

Other homeland problems these women wish to help solve are indicated by their choice of such courses as dairy production and poultry farming methods, nutrition, new methods in the biological sciences, civil engineering, methods of combating venereal diseases, modern economic planning and its application, and American methods of teacher training, Miss Wright said.

Besides the A.A.U.W. study grants which cover expenses for an academic year in a college or university here, nine short-term grants were issued this year for projects directly related to reconstruction. Ten of the 1947-48 study grant holders also received new grants to extend their studies through the summer.

No End in Sight for Berlin Deadlock

APRIL 1: The Allied airlift begins to fly essential supplies through blockade to beleaguered Berlin.

JUNE 18: Western allies announce new currency. Russia bans all ground traffic from the west.

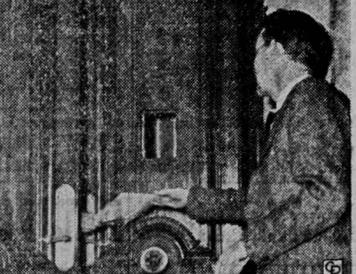

AUGUST 21: U. S. military police posted on Potsdamer Platz, east-west boundary line in Berlin.

SEPTEMBER 9: Rioting anti-Soviets, smash into city hall, demand surrender, viet flag at Brandenburg gate, telling Moscow that Berlin crisis goes to UN.

SEPTEMBER 26: Red embassy gets U. S. note.

SEPTEMBER 26: Red embassy gets U. S. note telling Moscow that Berlin crisis goes to UN.

OCTOBER 25: Russia's Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky raises right hand as he registers Russia's veto of the plan submitted by six "neutral" members of the UN security council for ending the blockade and resuming four power negotiations. It was the Soviet Union's 28th UN veto.

Blockade, dual currencies, rioting, disagreement, UN neutral's compromise plan, veto—in a nutshell, this is the history of the Berlin dispute between Russia and the west.
As the deadlock drags on and the words "Berlin crisis" become numbing on the ear, it is easy to lose track of the developments of the situation.
The accompanying photos trace the developments since the blockade was clamped down last April. The Soviet veto this week in Paris marks another milestone in trying to solve the problem.
Since the deeper problems that led up to the blockade have been dodged by both the Allies and Russia, no solution has come up yet. And none is in sight.

Clouds on the Sunny Horizon

Some students used pen. Pencil is the accepted writing instrument. Some students marked lines. An X is the proper mark.

Erasures are forbidden on a ballot. Probably the biggest error was the judgment that it was "silly" to vote in a straw vote.

Most of the students in school today will be voting in the next general election whether they vote this year or not. These students should not divorce themselves from national affairs simply because they don't vote. They will some day, and whatever ideas and information they can pick up in the college years prepares them to meet their obligations as mature citizens.

Participating in political activities should be as much a part of university life as pep rallies and social events. Attempts to dampen political interest or any moves which accomplish the same end are successful in keeping the student from intelligent understanding of his nation.

Perhaps what is happening to the country is not the concern of students but then there's the story of the hermit who didn't mend his roof because it wasn't raining right then.

Smart-Sounding Trouble . . .

"Rebarbarization and enslavement of Europe" . . . "a pile of garbage" . . . "blackballed in Moscow." The vernacular of the psychological cold war may sound crude and colorful, but the persons employing it mean business.

Winston Churchill, speaking before parliament on foreign affairs said only the American atomic bomb is preventing the "rebarbarization and enslavement of Europe by Communist forces directed from the Kremlin."

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vishinsky demanded that all "foreign troops" be pulled out of Greece and denounced the report of the UN Balkans commission as "a pile of garbage."

Sen. Arthur Vandenburg, in a GOP campaign speech reaffirming the Republican party's belief in the bi-partisan foreign policy, said "peace is possible unless it has been permanently blackballed in Moscow."

All three statements play up significant undercurrents on "the morning after" a Soviet veto at Paris and on the eve of the U. S. elections.

Churchill was expounding the "get tough" policy and boosting its latest twist. "Now when the risk of war is on the lips of all leading ministers we trust that military arrangements now being made will have the fullest support from the great republic across the Atlantic."

He was referring to the proposed north Atlantic pact in which the U. S. would supply military aid to western Europe.

Vishinsky was covering up a Soviet weak spot. The UN Balkan report blames Russian satellites for supporting the Greek guerrillas. Russia has no intentions of confessing, backing down. Harmony in the UN is therefore sacrificed. Russia is in no mood to kiss and make up anywhere in the world.

Vandenberg's statement is another assurance to the western world and warning to Russia that American policy will not do an about face after January, 1949.

Behind smart-sounding phrases, east and west continue to snarl at each other. Who knows when the fur will fly?

—Married to the World's Richest

There are strikes and then there are strikes. One walk-out which may escape popular notice is a strike of soap opera script writers.

They plan to start picketing major radio programs early next week.

Then listen for the troubles to roll in. Jason's Other Cousin will not only have a mortgage coming due, lost the family job, and heard that a relative is arriving from Burma — but now there's a picket line to cross.

Besides that, the writers (who want a minimum wage agreement and ownership of their material) will probably not put out a line of script until the strike is settled.

If the writers get their demands it may mean a new type of program. The script men may have such a good deal they will find it difficult to produce the hurried, misfortune-beset soap opera characters that now haunt the day-time networks.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT Going Up In Smoke

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

Ed noticed the election poster as he left the railroad station to walk home, and it made him think of all the presidential elections he had seen in his time.

It also made him feel a little old, because when a man has lived through six or seven presidential elections he is not, Ed thought, a young fellow any more.

Many of the trees were bare already, Ed noticed as he climbed the long hill, though there was one maple which was belatedly making a spectacle of itself, its leaves a yellowy fire color.

Ed stopped and regarded the tree. It looked like a bonfire. They'd had wonderful bonfires on election night in the old days, he remembered. There had been a huge bonfire one year, on a hill much like this. When was that? Twenty-eight, he thought; Hoover and Al Smith.

Or could the big fire have been in twenty-four? Coolidge and Davis.

THERE HADN'T been much in the way of bonfires the last few elections. Not when Roosevelt was running. You were really too interested in the elections, those years, to think much about fires.

They went with an earlier period, those bonfires, when election day was just a kind of holiday, and there weren't many issues that you thought about too deeply. The bonfires went with the age of innocence, thought Ed, the era of big talk at the barber shop, when elections were more like remote sporting contests than anything else.

Things had changed since the bonfire days, Ed thought. Elections now were pretty serious things.

HE HOPED TRUMAN would win this time. It would be so kind of significant to have Truman win, if only to upset so many of Roosevelt's former enemies who now thought they had the country neatly lined up, in a situation in which it couldn't do anything except elect Dewey. It would be important to disappoint Dewey; there was an annoying something about the way Dewey was so sure he was going to win that he talked generalities in his campaign speeches. Disappoint Dewey. Not a bad way to appeal for votes, Ed thought.

But there was also something so apathetic about the election this time, Ed thought. Almost no campaign buttons; almost no quarrels on the commuting trains. Dewey called it unity; it was really just a kind of bewilderment. The issues were there, all right; but it was oddly hard to get at them.

AS ED TOPPED the hill he came upon a middle-aged man pushing an empty barrel down the road in front of him.

"Hi," said Ed, recognizing a neighbor.

"Hi," said the other man. "We're getting some stuff together for a bonfire election night, on the sand lot. You want to help? We heard some of the kids were going to do it, so we thought," he smiled insincerely, "the older men ought to supervise it, and keep it safe."

"How are you going to vote?" asked Ed.

"Vote?" said the other. "Oh, I don't know. I guess I'll vote for one of them, when I get in there. Want to help me get some of this stuff over to the lot?"

Interpreting the News — War Plans Are Long-Range

By J. M. ROBERTS JR., AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Barring an accident which both sides will seek to avoid, there will be no war in Europe this year and probably not next year.

But there are indications that the Cominform is spreading rumors of war, even to the point of fixing dates, as part of its effort to keep the western Allies off balance and interfere with the Marshall plan.

Whether it was so intended, Joseph Stalin's statement Thursday fits into such a program. Although he said he would foil the attempts to make war he attributed to everyone else in the world, his words taken all together served to heighten the feeling of unbridgeable difference which surrounds east-west relations.

Not long ago there was a rumor in Europe that Dec. 12 would be M (March) day for the armies. Other dates have been set in various untraceable rumors.

For a long time the last week before the U. S. elections was expected to be a critical period, with hints that Russia might choose to make a move at a time when she thought American officials would be unable to move swiftly.

That period is here. Nothing has happened. Nothing like it is going to happen.

But the threats are having their effect. I was in Paris when the east-west negotiations over Berlin broke down. You could almost feel the French slumping into fatalistic futility. Why rebuild to be rededicated?

But premeditated war is not yet imminent, and the position of both sides is such that "accidents" are likely to be avoided studiously or even by-passed if they occur. There is still time, if the western nations will really work together, to face Russia with a force which might persuade her of the folly of attack at any time. The real danger time is not now, but when the Communist imperialists see the unattainable stage. Then they might lash out in a desperate effort to accomplish their aims before it is too late.

There is not the slightest evidence that Russia is planning to do so now, or that she could do so if she wished. Her military strength is not disposed at a striking force. It would take her months to move from her present positions into an offensive formation.

Russia is preparing for war, just like everyone else who cannot find sure signs of peace in the future. But her troop dispositions indicate clearly that she still thinks there is time; that the western world will knock itself out economically, permitting her to do a mere cleanup job on the pieces. She wants the west to waste its substance in rearming, in expensive reaction to her prodding. She doesn't think we can stand it.

But the determination of whether or not there is to be war, and when, is likely to come in a matter of years rather than months.

HELPFUL HINTS for the PREPARATION of GOOD CLASSIFIED ADS

1—Full descriptions arouse interest. Do not try to save too many words. Brief descriptions often fail to give the selling points. When possible give price.

2—Make it easy for the prospect to contact you. If phone number is given, indicate what hours you will be around to answer calls.

3—Do not expect to secure results with one or two insertions of your ad. A six-day order is best and cheapest. You can always step the ad and be rebated for unused insertions.

4—If you do not receive inquiries the wording of your ad probably needs changing. Our ad dept. can help you in writing your ad.

5—Shape your ad to definitely draw the attention of the reader. Make your ad read the way to like to see other ads.
