Slugging Fight Urged by Few GOP Advisors

'Dewey Team' Urged High Level Campaign

ALBANY (P)—Some of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's top advisors urged him from the start to wage the slugging kind of campaign that helped elect President Truman.

They thought it would be a grave mistake to do anything else. But they were over-ruled by a majority of the "Dewey team," including the defeated Republican candidate himself, who favored a "high level" campaign based on a "unite America" theme.

None of the minority group is saying now that the stunning outcome of the election can be laid entirely to that decision. But they all believe it was a big factor.

And what does Dewey think? He says: "We waged a clean, constructive campaign and I have no regrets whatsoever."

That does not necessarily mean he would not go about it differently if he had it to do over again.

What was behind his decision to concentrate on such things as the dignity of man and the glorious future of America? While his Democratic opponent was talking about the Republican notions of "privilege" and the "radio" 80th congress?

Essentially, it was a decision born of complete confidence that Dewey's election could be taken for granted.

The reasoning was that Dewey did not have to slug this time—at least not very hard.

It was a strategy deliberately copied from the 1944 campaign of the late President Roosevelt.

The polls, as the campaign went on, convinced Dewey that his strategy was right.

But Mr. Truman kept flailing away with colorful headline phrases and fighting speeches that were drawing plenty of attention.

There were many conferences about that on the Dewey train and between trips, but the decision always was to stick pretty close to the original pattern.

AEC Leader Praises Iowa

DES MOINES (P)—The head of the U.S. atomic energy commission (AEC) last night asserted Americans should learn all they can about the atom and he praised Iowa education for helping in this job.

In an address prepared for delivery at a general session of the Iowa state education association convention, David E. Lilienthal declared:

"The greatest danger for the future of our country is not in the hazards of atomic warfare. The greatest danger lies in this: that the methods of democracy will be jettisoned (and) will not be applied to the public issues that center about atomic energy."

He said the AEC's program for atomic progress is based on the fundamental assumption that "atomic energy is your business."

He said the educational system has a big job to do in helping Americans understand what atomic energy is all about. Lilienthal praised Iowa efforts in this direction. He cited programs in Burlington and Marengo, Iowa, and referred to work done by the State University of Iowa, Iowa State college, and the state department of public instruction.

Duke Is Particular; He Won't Even Dunk

For Duke it's fresh chocolate-covered doughnuts or nothing. The young Dalmatian is one of the steadiest customers at one Iowa City restaurant. At least he is the only steady canine customer.

Accompanied by his master, Duke arrives at the restaurant promptly at 3 p.m. every day for his desert. He sits in front of the counter waiting impatiently until the waitress serves him with all the courtesy due a faithful customer.

But Duke has no need for a menu. Either he gets his favorite dish or it's no sale.

Chicago Paper Solves - Christmas Shopping Early - For Hawkeye Students

Charles C. Nickell and Christmas Presents Student Rounds Up 47 Copies of Chicago Tribune for Demo Friends

What might be called the "world's greatest blunder" by the "World's Greatest Newspaper" has been turned into a solution of the Christmas present problems for Charles C. Nickell, A3 of Upper Darby, Pa.

Like nearly everyone else in the world, Nickell was awaiting the outcome of the presidential elections Wednesday morning. When the announcement that Dewey had conceded the election came, Nickell went out to buy a paper.

He walked into the Jefferson hotel and found a stack of Chicago Tribunes, announcing to its readers that "Dewey Defeats Truman." Nickell, a former member of the United Press bureau in Philadelphia, saw that this was his chance to get some souvenirs so he purchased five of the papers.

Then, realizing that these would definitely be collector's items, Nickell bought the other 20 in the stack and set out to buy as many more as he could in Iowa City.

After his trip to all the newsdealers in Iowa City Nickell took a count and found that he had 47 copies, a substantial part of the Iowa City quota of Tribes.

He plans on sending the papers to his Democratic friends in traditionally Republican Upper Darby. "I might send one to Truman," he added.

One person offered him scalper's prices, $2.50 for one copy, but Nickell said no.

Nickell commented that he'd solved his Christmas shopping in 15 minutes and could make 47 of his friends happy with collector's items all for $2.35.

Thomas Won't Give Testimony

WASHINGTON (UP)—Rep. J. Parnell Thomas (R-N.J.) stood on his constitutional rights yesterday and refused to testify before a federal grand jury investigating charges that he was a political "smear" ordered by U.S. Attorney General Tom C. Clark with whom he had been feuding over Communist infiltration of the government.

Thomas was re-elected Tuesday, but he will lose his committee chairmanship when the Democrats organize congress in January.

The grand jury began two weeks ago an investigation of charges that Thomas put certain individuals on the payrolls of his congressional office but required them to "kick back" all or part of their salaries to him. According to the charges, these persons did no work.

Thomas said the investigation must have been made by a Philadelphia lawyer, the loser said yesterday. "I can't see any way to get out of it, but I'm holding off until the official election returns are in."

Faces Still Red as Election Bettors Pay Off

Bets include steak, 'short' beer, meal

Faces red with disbelief at the election returns were replaced by faces red with embarrassment yesterday as election bet winners began to collect their rewards.

One wagering student found an elderly cook in the restaurant in which he works who had never heard of pre-election polls.

"When the cook bet me a steak, cooked in butter, smothered in mushrooms, I felt that I'd found money in the street," the believer in polls said.

As the election returns began pouring in Tuesday night and Wednesday morning the Republican-bettor started pricing steaks, butter and mushrooms. He paid off last night.

An election wager involving drinking a can of beer on Clinton street garbed only in undergarments is causing dismay to another student who "bet his shirt" on Dewey. "The agreement we cooked up

Atom Control Voted by UN;

Ask Israeli to Leave Posts Recently Won

PARIS (AP)—The western powers won overwhelming approval in the United Nations assembly yesterday for their international atomic control plan.

This first major decision in the assembly's 1948 session was taken over bitter Russian protests. Soviet deputy foreign minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky said there was no point in new consultations on atomic control since no basis for east-west agreement exists.

By a show of hands the assembly approved the western plan 40 to 6. Four nations—India, South Africa, Afghanistan and Venezuela—abstained. Negative votes were cast by the Soviet bloc.

Meanwhile, the United Nations security council in a resolution called on Israel to withdraw from positions won in the recent offensive in southern Palestine. This action was taken after adoption of an American amendment to a resolution eliminating any threat of sanctions.

It was the first American move in the Palestine case since Tuesday's election. An authoritative source said Washington was notified in advance and "presumably" the general principles embodied in the U.S. amendments were shown to President Truman.

An Israeli spokesman attacked the amendments, declaring they were the same "in spirit and effect" as the original British-Chinese resolution.

18 Airmen Killed; 34 People Missing In 3 Lost Planes

Eighteen U.S. airforce fliers were killed in the crash of their B-29 in the Azores Wednesday night and fear was felt yesterday for the lives of an estimated 38 other persons who were aboard three planes reported missing and believed down somewhere in the north Pacific.

One man was missing and another was injured critically in the crash of the B-29 superfortress, which was returning to MacDill airbase, Fla., its home field, after three and a half months duty in England.

Two navy planes, a four-engine navy PB4Y-2 Privateer and a P2Y Neptune, and a Pacific Alaska airlines DC-3 were reported missing in the north Pacific.

Fifteen persons were said to be aboard the airlines plane, which was overdue at Annette Island near Ketchikan on a flight from Sitka. The plane normally carries a crew of two.

The civil aeronautics administration said the plane had only enough fuel to last until 2 p.m. (Iowa time). A coast guard search plane from Seattle and a B-17 from Elmendorf field near Anchorage were dispatched to search for the DC-3.

The navy Privateer was lost in the Bristol Bay area in western Alaska. The navy said it carried a normal crew of 12. The Neptune plane, a long range patrol bomber which the navy said had "between seven and nine crew members" aboard, had not been heard from since 9 a.m. yesterday.

Rural Electricity 'Cheap' In Present Prosperity

OMAHA (P)—A wave of better living is sweeping the farm country, the third annual conference of the Nebraska-Iowa electrical council was told yesterday.

Because electricity is available, said Don Ross of the Meredith Publishing company, two out of three farmers prefer not to move to town when they retire.

At the Zeta Tau Alpha sorority house three Democrats ruled as "king of kids" as a result of President Truman's victory.

Three Truman supporters, Joanne Prokop, A3, Gary, Ind.; Jeanne Jiricek, A4, Riverside, Ill.; and Fran Franson, A3, Red Oak, were afforded the privilege of eating Wednesday night's meal at the table. The rest of the sorority and the house mother, Republicans all, ate the meal on the floor.

Ann Wilson, A3, Leighton, claimed to be a Democrat, but voted for Dewey. She ate the first portion of the meal at the table and the latter portion on the floor.

Amid the black crepe paper which was hung throughout the Zeta house was a banner which proclaimed, "Vote for Dewey and you'll get goosy."

To make the meal more difficult the victorious Truman-booster sang "On Iowa" and the "Star Spangled Banner" at irregular intervals, causing the floorsitters to rise each time.

"It really was quite a show," Jeanne Jiricek said.

Truman Won't Want Third Term, Reprisals

Truman Smiles at That 'Famous' Headline - PRESIDENT TRUMAN is shown holding up to the benefit of the throng that turned out to greet him at St. Louis yesterday a copy of the Chicago Daily Tribune published early election night with the headline, "Dewey Defeats Truman." The President told the crowd, "that is one for the books." St. Louis Postmaster Bernard F. Dickmann is at left.

Recruiting Office Hunting Recruiters

The Iowa City recruiting office is trying to recruit some recruiters.

Veterans who live in Iowa and Nebraska may now join the army or airforce for recruiting duty in those states, Sgt. O. A. McClung, commander of the Iowa City recruiting office, said yesterday.

Applicants must be eligible to enlist in the fourth grade or higher and must have had three years' service.

An average efficiency index and character rating of excellent is an additional requirement.

Trestle-Board Meet in Masonic-Lodge Tonight

The Trestle Board, the Masonic student organization, will meet at 7 p.m. tonight at the Masonic Temple.

President of the group, Keith McNurlen, said yesterday that there will be a degree in floor work. Advisors for the meeting are Dr. J. D. Wells, Prof. C. C. Wylie, Robert Ballantyne and Prof. Frederick Beebe.

RADIO, TYPEWRITER STOLEN

A radio and portable typewriter were stolen from the Kelley Oil company, 933 S. Clinton street, when thieves broke into the building some time last night. The theft was reported to police at 8 a.m. yesterday.

Chinese Evacuation Nearing Completion

NANKING, CHINA (P)—Battered Chinese armies yesterday neared completion of their retreat from Manchuria, amid indications that the government soon would resign en masse.

A nationalist military spokesman said that the evacuation of the Manchurian port of Yingkow was being completed yesterday. He said he had no late reports on the withdrawal from Hulutao, second "Dunkirk" beachhead in the vital northern territory recently abandoned to the Communists.

Other government armies were fighting southward along the Peiping-Mukden railroad in an effort to break through the Red cordon isolating them from north China.

Meanwhile, the entire nationalist cabinet was reported ready to resign despite the opposition of President Chiang Kai-Shek.

Truman Faces Heavy Battle On Taft-Hartley, Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (P)—Victorious Harry Truman marches in triumph back to Washington today to toss a 1948-model new deal program at the next congress.

From the new congress he can expect more sympathy and respect than he ever got from the 80th Republican congress he pounded all over the country.

The new house will have at least 262 Democrats, 172 Republicans and one American Laborite, New York's Vito Marcantonio. That was a net gain of 73 seats.

The Democrats also won nine more senate seats than they held in the 80th congress, giving them a clear-cut majority of 54 to 42.

But there could be trouble for the President from a congressional combination of Republicans and Southern Democrats.

The big Washington battles of 1949 seem certain to focus on the Taft-Hartley law and civil rights. It remained to be seen whether the President would go down the line on both issues at the risk of creating further war within his party, or try for compromises that might reunite it.

Alliance troubles probably wouldn't hold together on the hot civil rights issues—those measures proposed to curb racial segregation, lynching and poll taxes. Republicans generally have been pretty much for them.

But those were the issues that brought on a Southern rebellion, split the Democratic party, and swung 38 electoral votes of South Carolina, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama to J. Strom Thurmond.

A score of Dixie senators would filibuster if the civil rights program ever got to the senate floor.

A majority of the members of the 80th congress who voted for the Taft-Hartley law over Mr. Truman's veto are coming back in January—at least 221 of them in the house and 55 of them in the senate.

On foreign policy, President Truman seemed to have been given a clear vote of confidence, although both major parties endorsed a bi-partisan stand on the great international issues.

Mr. Truman, with the new prestige of an election won on his record, will make some changes in the top ranks of his cabinet, too.

Secretary of State George C. Marshall is expected to quit soon after Jan. 1, and Defense Secretary James Forrestal is said to have a hankering for private life.

Secretary of the Interior J. A. Krug and Commerce Secretary Charles Sawyer also are on the list of cabinet members who may not be around long.

Smiling Chief Heading Back After Victory

WITH TRUMAN EN ROUTE TO WASHINGTON (P)—Word that President Truman is not interested in a third term or in any "reprisal" dismissals from his cabinet was passed to newsmen yesterday by sources close to the victorious chief executive.

These informants said he is content to let his record in history rest on his administration during the next four years.

The smiling President, in addressing a crowd at St. Louis, had voiced a plea that the people "stand behind me."

Meanwhile, persons close to the President gave this picture of his present feelings and plans:

He feels that he should concentrate on "securing the peace" and strengthening the domestic economy.

Mr. Truman's fighting spirit was kindled by those who tried to sidetrack him before the last Democratic convention. With all its burdens, he wanted a second term in his own right. He feels that he has been vindicated by his astounding upset victory.

He not only won a victory for himself, and helped elect a Democratic congress, but he restored a weak and sagging party.

He thinks he will have an opportunity during the next four years to revitalize that party and help build up leaders to carry it on in the years ahead.

As for his cabinet, there will be no abrupt dismissals based on lack of interest in the campaign.

John W. Snyder, secretary of the treasury and one of his closest friends, will be pressed to remain on.

James V. Forrestal, secretary of defense, will not be pressed to stay.

Nor will Robert A. Lovett, undersecretary of state, who is planning to leave soon anyway.

Secretary of State George Marshall indicated at Paris that he desires to retire at the close of the present administration. He and the President have a warm personal relationship.

Lovett's attitude during the hard-fought campaign caused some resentment among those in the thick of the president's battle.

A Palestine statement, issued by the President, and reported by Press Secretary Charles G. Ross as having been cleared with the state department, was the source of one difference.

Lovett's press conference reaction did not jibe entirely with his view in the opinion of some of the President's associates.

Mr. Truman rejected a suggestion yesterday that his opponents "eat crow" in public.

The rejection came as an aftermath of an invitation from Washington, (D.C.) Post to attend a dinner at which pollsters and bad-guessing writers would pay for their mistakes by eating crow.

The President had fun talking with trainee crowds about this invitation, but it may be said that he feels his responsibilities most seriously.

Popular Vote Won't Reach Record Total

Associated Press returns at 10:45 p.m. (Iowa time) yesterday with 9,890 of the nation's 135,864 polling places still unreported, showed the popular vote in Tuesday's election:

Table with 2 columns: Candidate Name and Total Votes. TRUMAN: 22,642,387; DEWEY: 20,786,173; WALLACE: 1,065,613; THURMOND: 821,477; Total: 45,415,620.

Truman still had 304 electoral votes, Dewey, 189; Thurmond, 38, and Wallace, none.

Joe Grothus Slated for Probable Duty in Illinois Game Saturday

Hawks Seek .500 Record

Iowa's football team, fighting for at least an even .500 rating in the Big Nine this year, will leave for Champaign, Ill., via Chicago this afternoon for its game with Illinois tomorrow.

Dr. Eddie Anderson announced yesterday that a squad of 36 players will make the trip, which is the last Western conference journey away from home for the Hawks this season. The Iowans will leave Iowa City at 4:15 p.m. today, spend tonight at the Morrison hotel and go to Champaign by special train tomorrow between 9:15 a.m. and noon.

Grothus Returns
One bright spot in the Iowa picture was the announcement by Anderson last night that Joe Grothus, who was absent from his left guard spot for the entire Wisconsin game last Saturday because of an injured knee, will probably play against Illinois.

Lou Ginberg, who twisted his ankle against the Badgers, will not make the trip. Much of the heavy duty at left guard will fall to Ray Carlson and Grothus.

A victory over the Fighting Illini could elevate the Hawkeyes into a tie for second place in the final Big Nine standings, something which was never anticipated. Their record is now two wins and two defeats in league play.

Can Assure Even Higher
With Minnesota as the only remaining Big Nine foe following the game with Illinois, the Hawkeyes would be assured of no worse than an even break in the league if they beat the Illini.

None of the present Iowa players know anything about a triumph over Illinois, since the last victory was scored back in 1941. On a day of snow flurries at Champaign, Tom Farmer passed to Bill Parker, despite a wet ball, and the Old Gold defeated Bob Zupke's team, 21-0.

Ray Eliot took over the coaching duties at Illinois in 1942. His teams have never lost to Iowa in six years, winning last year, 35-12.

Iowa hopes to offset the dazzling passing of Quarterback Bernie Krueger with its own aerial specialist, Al Dimarco, plus a running game which caught fire for the first time this fall in whipping Wisconsin last Saturday 19-13.

The Hawks must count on two halfbacks who led them to victory over the Badgers, Ralph Doran and Don Fryauf. Both were instrumental in overcoming Wisconsin's 13-0 halftime lead and boosting their team to its second Big Nine win.

Fryauf Averages 10.8
Iowa's coaching staff hopes Fryauf will be able to continue his fine performance. Although he has carried the ball only five times this season, all against the Badgers, he has piled up 59 yards for an average of 10.8 yards per carry.

Doran will have more responsibility placed on his shoulders this weekend since his alternate at right halfback, Mearl Naber, is on the injury list with a shoulder separation.

Behind Doran at right half will be Jerry Faske, whose running has slowed considerably since his amazing start early in the season. Another likely plug for right halfback offensive duty is Sophomore Dave Melvedt of Marshalltown.

Bill Greene, counted on for heavy duty at one of the defensive halfbacks tomorrow, turned up with an injury yesterday and Anderson said he would not know until this afternoon whether the Iowa City halfback will go to Illinois.

The Hawks plan an early workout at 12:30 this afternoon before catching their train to Chicago.

Illini Team in Peak Condition for Iowa

CHAMPAIGN, ILL. (P)—For the first time in three weeks the entire Illinois football squad was expected yesterday to be in first class physical shape for its game with Iowa here Saturday.

Sam Piazza, halfback, Marshall Smith, end, and Dick Mueller, tackle, were pronounced ready for action.

SAE and Phi Psi in Finals

Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Phi Kappa Psi advanced to the finals in the Social fraternity tough football playoffs yesterday by winning decisive victories. Sigma Alpha Epsilon downed Phi Gamma Delta, 30 to 7, and Phi Kappa Psi beat Sigma Nu, 13 to Aerial fireworks were featured in SAE's victory over the Phi Gams. Led by Wally Ris, who threw passes for all the touchdowns, it didn't take long for the SAE's to jump out into the lead.

Bob Primrose and Jim Doran scored two touchdowns apiece by catching Ris passes, some of them traveling over 30 yards in the air. William Bower was the standout for the Phi Gams, who were previously undefeated.

Defensive play predominated in the Phi Kappa Psi-Sigma Nu tilt. The game started out to be a heated contest until the Sigma Nu defense lapsed for a few moments and allowed the Phi Psi's to score two touchdowns.

Sigma Nu seemed to lose most of its power in the face of the Phi Psi's excellent pass defense. Bill Shuttleworth and Sid Craiger were the standouts for the Phi Psi team, while Tom Clithero played good ball for Sigma Nu.

There are no intramural football games scheduled for today.

Powell, Ex-Yank, Commits Suicide

WASHINGTON (P)—Alvin (Jake) Powell, 39-year-old former New York Yankee baseball player, shot and killed himself while being questioned about bad check charges.

With Powell at the time was Josephine Amber, 35, an attractive Deland, Fla., blonde, who told police she and the one-time big league outfielder were to have been married until she changed her mind.

Powell was being questioned at the check and fraud division of police headquarters when he asked permission to speak privately with Miss Amber.

He walked into an adjoining room with the woman and detectives David E. Higgins and F. E. Dodson stood in the connecting doorway. Suddenly Powell shouted to Miss Amber: "To Hell with it, I'm going to end it all."

U-High Meets Winfield in Third-Place Battle

Third place in the Eastern Iowa Hawkeye conference will be at stake tonight, as University High travels to Winfield for a 7:30 battle.

U-High must win this game to retain its third place ranking in the loop over Winfield which trails the Blue Hawks by a few percentage points.

St. Mary's to Start Cage Season Monday

St. Mary's will launch a 21-game basketball schedule when it meets Cosgrove here Monday night.

Francis Sueppel, athletic director, is anything but satisfied with the prospects of having at least an average season. Last year the Ramblers lost only six games while racking up 18 victories.

Six key men were lost through graduation last evening, and only big Paul Flannery remains to lead Sueppel's squad.

Sueppel says the squad lacks over-all speed, but the St. Mary's boys, who are famed for their fast-breaking offenses will be trying more of the same.

Game time Monday is 8 p.m. on the junior high floor. A preliminary contest between the reserves of Cosgrove and St. Mary's is scheduled for 7 p.m.

Hardly Elliot in Cast May Play Despite Leg

MINNEAPOLIS (P)—Minnesota's football workout yesterday in preparation for Saturday's battle with Purdue was upset by announcement that Fullback Bill Elliott has suffered a broken bone in his leg.

Elliott was just returning to action after being laid up for some time with a sprained ankle. He bumped his leg in practice Tuesday and said it bothered him. An x-ray showed a break in a small bone behind and below the knee, but Dr. George Hauser said a special cast may permit Elliott to run against the Boiler-makers.

Little Hawks Conclude Season with Ottumwa

The Iowa City Little Hawks conclude the current grid campaign here tonight against a much improved Ottumwa Bulldogs eleven of the Little Six conference. Game time is 8 p.m.

If comparative scores can serve as an accurate measure of the clubs' abilities, tonight's game should pit two evenly matched teams, for a common foe, Burlington, captured victories over each by identical scores 15-6.

Iowa City fans will divide their attention between the local tilt and the Davenport-Dubuque game, where a Dubuque triumph would award the Little Hawks the Mississippi Valley conference crown.

Ottumwa, usually a tower of strength in the Little Six, has won but two victories in six loop outings this season, but has been increasingly more impressive as the season progressed.

Quarterback Don Free, Halfback Bud Selix and Fullback Sam Long, brother of the former Bulldog luminary, Jerry Long, have guided Ottumwa down the comeback trail.

The Bulldogs under the mentoring of Don Newell, has but one regular returning from last year's club, but the speed of the light backs in part compensates for the lack of experience.

Sophomore Mickey Moore and Senior Harold Snook are candidates for the Hawkeyes fullback slot, vacated by the injured Fox Shain. If Snook gets the starting call, Iowa City will field an all senior eleven in the season's finale.

Dan Dutcher will start at the left halfback post, with Dick Williams and Dick Doran rounding out the Iowa City backfield. Henry Rate will be at right end, with the rest of the Little Hawks' lineup, which has started recent games, remaining unchanged.

Gophers in Privacy

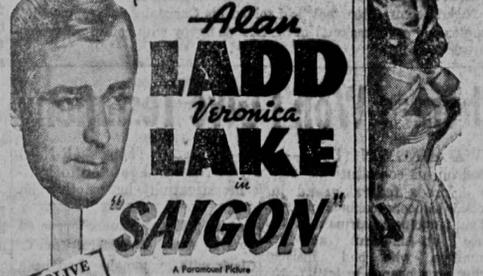

MINNEAPOLIS (P)—Coach Bernie Bierman held practice for his Minnesota footballers in the university fieldhouse yesterday, a move that afforded both privacy and shelter from the rain.

Bierman's secret drill further emphasized the wariness of his approach to the Purdue game.

Trend Continues — Food Index Skids Again

Iowa City food prices have skidded for the second consecutive week, yesterday's Daily Iowan market basket survey determined, sending this week's food index to its lowest point since March 18.

The index stood yesterday at $17.21, eight cents short of last week's figure and 19 cents below recordings of Oct. 21. This is an estimate of the amount a student family of three will pay for food this week.

Averages of prices posted by the seven representative Iowa City grocery stores survey showed declines on butter, first grade bacon, center-cut pork chops, coffee and canned salmon.

Increases were partially offset by a sharp price rise on grade-A eggs and a negligible gain on flour.

Continuing to reflect a nationwide trend, butter dropped again this week, breaking the market basket low set only a week before. Iowa brand butter sold yesterday at 65 cents a pound, four cents shy of last week's listing and 27 cents under the 92-cent all-time market basket peak.

Meat items surveyed showed a four-cent decline on first grade bacon and a price fall of two cents on center-cut pork chops. The two items retailed at 75 and 73 cents a pound, respectively.

With a seven-cent-a-dozen price hike, grade-A eggs registered this week's only significant increase. Yesterday's retail price for grade-A eggs was 68 cents a dozen, compared to 61 cents a week ago.

MARKET BASKET: This week, $17.21, Last week, $17.29. The Daily Iowan market basket INDEX is not an added total of the prices listed above. That is, the index figure takes into consideration both the costs of the items listed above and the amount of each item the student family of three uses in one week. The amount of each item the family of three uses in one week was arrived at in a survey conducted in cooperation with the university bureau of economic and business research.

Election Predicted by British Men

Debaters Saw GOP Campaign Misfiring

Truman's election was "no surprise" to the two British students who will enter SUI's 21st international debate tonight.

In clipped British tones Reginald Galer, Birmingham university, and Anthony J. Cox, Bristol university, told a press conference yesterday that they predicted Truman's victory while debating at the University of Wyoming shortly before the election.

"It wasn't a scientific decision," Cox hastened to say. "While traveling around America we merely got the impression that the Republican campaign was beginning to misfire. It was irking the people."

"I guess the students at Wyoming thought we were stupid," Galer smiled. "But we were quite sure that the press was giving a wrong impression."

The two Britishers, scheduled to face 26 American debate teams in 14 states, enter their 8th debate tonight in Macbride auditorium at 8 p.m.

They will take the affirmative side of the question "Resolved: that modern society enjoys the greatest benefits under a planned economy" against Herman Cohen and Kenneth Thompson of SUI.

Galer and Cox hold a one-win, one-loss score on their debates so far. Decisions have been drawn at Stanford and Southern California only.

Turning to comparisons between British and American schools, Galer and Cox agreed that American students tend to work harder than British students.

"No one has a part-time job during the school year in England," Galer said, lighting an American brand of cigarette.

"And we were amazed to find classes at Southern California, from 8 in the morning until 9 at night," Cox added quickly.

The size of American colleges also "amazed" both debaters. Oxford with its 6,000 students is the largest in England, they said. Political interest on British campuses is high, Cox claimed. He accredited this to the presence of older veteran students and the state of world affairs.

Both debaters expressed regret at having to constantly "move on too quickly." They arrived in New York Oct. 14 and have never stayed in one place more than five days.

Back on the subject of politics, Galer and Cox hesitated to answer how the English people might feel toward the outcome of Tuesday's election.

"They were undoubtedly surprised," Cox said. "All the press reports indicated Dewey would win."

A Republican victory might have meant an edging toward isolationism, Cox said. This would not be looked upon favorably in England because of the great interest in ERP.

Traveling under the auspices of the Institute of International Education, Galer and Cox will leave New York Dec. 9 on the Queen Elizabeth.

They will debate tomorrow at Iowa State college, in their only other appearance in Iowa.

Halloween

Male Students Raid Girls' Dormitory

WINNEPEG, MAN. (AP) — Male students invaded a girls' dormitory at the University of Manitoba on Halloween, dumped the girls, some sleeping in the nude, onto the floor and covered them with soap flakes, mud and feathers, it was revealed yesterday.

Dr. A. H. Gillson, university president, said yesterday it was just a "student prank" and there was no truth to reports of a mass expulsion of the boys involved.

"It may have gone a touch too far in the matter of good taste," he said. "But it was a thing performed without malice or forethought."

The Manitoban, university newspaper, said the raiders discovered a number of co-eds sleeping "sans everything."

The raid was described as an annual Halloween stunt. About 80 young men hiding their faces in masks, participated.

A decoy squad lured the night watchman from his post while the other members of the raiding party crept into the dormitory. They took up strategic positions near the beds of the sleeping girls and then began dumping them when one of the "raiders" whistled the signal.

One co-ed confirmed that two girls near her were sleeping "raw."

"But it all happened so quickly I'm sure the boys didn't even notice," she said.

Fortune Magazine Man To Speak Here Monday

Don MacMaster, western advertising representative of Fortune magazine, will speak on the advertising phase of that publication in Macbride auditorium Monday at 7:30 p.m.

He will address members of the Collegiate Chamber of Commerce and faculty and students in advertising, Bob Sweany, Collegiate Chamber publicity director, said yesterday.

ELECTIONS AFFECT CHINA NANKING (AP)—It was freely predicted yesterday that the U.S. presidential result had knocked one of the last props from under the faltering Chinese government of Chiang Kai-Shek.

Says Siamese Easy Going, Friendly Race

Dorothy Ward, former SUI graduate, yesterday told an Information First audience of 250 persons that she found the people of "Little Known Siam" tolerant, easy going and friendly toward Americans.

Having spent the past two years with the U. S. information service in the American embassy at Bangkok, Miss Ward said Siam is important to the allied countries for two reasons: (1) because of its strategic position in southeastern Asia, and (2) because its chief export is rice which is needed by people of surrounding countries.

Purpose of the information service center in Bangkok is to interpret U. S. foreign policy to the Siamese, facilitate student exchanges, and serve as a cultural center.

"Fairly large groups of Siamese are now coming to the U. S. for their education, Miss Ward said, "and there are two American students in Siam."

Telling about the Siamese people, she said they like American movies, especially Tarzan, Abbot and Costello, Esther Williams and cartoons.

Apple Receives Nation's Honors Special Week Is Proclaimed

The apple, "America's favorite fruit," is receiving nation wide recognition this week. Oct. 30 through Nov. 6 has been proclaimed National Apple week.

To celebrate this week and to serve a traditionally American dessert that's a family favorite, Marjorie Buchanan, A4, Tipton, and her niece, Sara Lee Whipple, 3 1/2, yesterday baked an apple pie. The recipe that Sara Lee and Marjorie used is that of Sara Lee's mother, Mrs. C. J. Whipple, 24 Highland drive.

Here is Mrs. Whipple's recipe for Plain Apple pie:
5 to 7 tart apples
1/2 to 1 cup sugar
2 tbs. flour
1/2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 tsp. nutmeg
2 tbs. butter
recipe for plain pastry

Peel the apples and cut in thin slices. Add the sugar mixed with flour, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. Fill a nine inch pie tin already lined with pastry. Dot with butter. Cover with top crust.

Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees F.) for 10 minutes. Adjust the oven to a moderate temperature (350 degrees F.) and continue baking for 40 minutes.

Variations in the recipe insure the popularity of apple pie as a favorite dessert in the Whipple home.

Cinnamon dots are often sprinkled over the apples before baking to the delight of Sara Lee. When seen afterward, the once pale apples have assumed a rosy hue and a new flavor supplements their own juicy goodness.

If the apples aren't tart, Marjorie adds a tablespoon of lemon juice before she places the top crust on the pie. Lemon rind, grated, also lends distinction to the dessert.

Cheese, served in slices with apple pie, is an American tradition. Grated cheese sprinkled over the apples beneath the crust is equally delicious, Marjorie asserts.

TO MILWAUKEE MEETING

Elizabeth Halsey, head of the women's physical education department will attend the Milwaukee Business and Professional Women's meeting Saturday. Miss Halsey will give a talk, "Leisure—the vanishing point in American life," at the annual state night banquet held by the group.

TINY SARA LEE WHIPPLE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Whipple, 24 Highland drive, peels the apples as her aunt, Marjorie Buchanan, A4, Tipton, prepares the crust for an apple pie. Housewives throughout the United States will be serving apple pie during National Apple week, Oct. 30 - Nov. 6.

Explorer to Address Iowa Mountaineers

Explorer Carl von Hoffman headlines the second program presented by the Iowa Mountaineers in Macbride auditorium Sunday at 8 p.m.

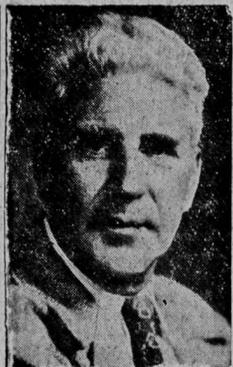

Hoffman will give a running commentary to a movie, "Bush-Tracking Around Australia."

In 1946-47 Captain von Hoffman went to Australia and made a color motion picture of the Australian hinterland.

He is the author of many syndicated news articles. During World War II, he was consultant on Bonin, Formosa, and other islands for the Office of Strategic Services.

The picture Sunday will recreate scenes in Queensland, New South Wales, Victoria, West Australia, and Northern Territory, all states in Australia.

The Northern Territory is of interest, for it is the home of 15,000 square miles ranches, crocodile infested streams, water buffalo, kangaroo hunters, and, the stone age men, the aborigines.

What's Being Said -

"The hard campaigner from Missouri has staged one of the most stunning upsets in our political history. What happened? ... Was Governor Dewey's 'high level' campaign a flop? Or is the real answer that the people simply were not sold on the New Yorker?"—Washington, D. C., Evening Star.

"... reports on the death of the Democratic party were, to borrow from Mark Twain, somewhat exaggerated."—Louisville Times.

"There is something awesome about this display of democracy in action. Right or wrong, the people spoke."—Des Moines Tribune.

"Truman's long and angry denunciations against the congress gained him many votes and his party much support. Dewey's fence sitting refusal to discuss events and issues and his attempt to coast into the White House cost him hundreds of thousands of votes."—News Orleans States.

"What we have witnessed is evidence that the socializing trend in American government did not end with the death of Roosevelt or with the election of 1946."—Richmond, Va., News Leader.

"And so the Democratic party recovery gets under way ... The New Deal, which some people thought dead as a dinosaur, moves on. The seed that Franklin Roosevelt sowed bears a new crop."—Milwaukee Journal.

From overseas, the Italian Communist organ La Repubblica said—"There is no doubt Stalin's interview with Pravda several days ago had a great influence on American voters." It said Americans voted for Truman because he planned to send Chief Justice Vinson to Moscow for peace talks.

Renaissance of the Individual

"The Democratic candidates in local races carried Truman into the White House."

"The labor vote was quietly and effectively marshalled in the support of President Truman and swung the election into the Democratic camp."

"The rural areas were responsible for the reelection of President Truman and a Democratic Congress."

Such are the answers given to the American public by the red-faced poll takers. In subdued voices these opinion experts excuse themselves and slip quietly for the back door and obscurity. It is strange to remember the bland self-assurance of the Gallups, the Ropers, etc., only a few short days ago.

Then the American public was an uncomplicated organism with simple "yes" and "no" reactions. By merely prodding this great, slumbering mass with well chosen questions you could get the most amazing predictions of the future. The poll-takers did the prodding in a highly scientific manner, but the results were wrong.

Some way or other the American public said one thing and did another. At any rate, we have all learned once more what we should not have forgotten in the first place—no one can tabulate with accuracy what action the American citizen will take. The failure of opinion polls to predict Mr. Truman's reelection is a happy verification of that fact.

There has been a trend throughout our socio-economic structure to catalogue, pigeon-hole and sort out people as one would so many different sized apples. Sociology is continually attempting to introduce science (including prediction) into the broad field of human activity.

Psychology is striving for the same end in the area of man's mental make-up. Political factions speak in terms of solidified class interests. The "Individual" as such has been losing ground rapidly as the "Statistic," the "Average," and the "Graph" take over.

The failure of Gallup and Roper to forecast the results of the recent election is a hopeful sign. The Individual may be showing new evidences of strength—a desire to escape from under the spell of the opinion prophets.

Perhaps the "Statistic" is only retreating to a more moderate position. In either event, we have learned to rely less heavily on those who would have us believe in the simplicity of American thought.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT Prejudices for Decency

By SAMUEL GRAETON (New York Post Syndicate)

Chiang Kai-Shek's new military defeats punch several holes in the theory that it is all right for us to give help to reactionaries, so long as they will fight communism. What's wrong with this theory is that reactionaries lose.

It is awkward and inconvenient that it should be so, but it is so. And while it is jauntily of us to say that we don't care whether a foreign potentate whom we are helping is reactionary or not, the people on the spot do care. And it is on the spot that the battles are fought, and that armies either hold fast or go over to the enemy.

IT IS A pity, perhaps, that the people on the spot will not share our indifference to the question of whether the local government is corrupt and autocratic. We have explained that it does not matter, but for some reason the explanation does not seem to carry.

We have, in effect, pointed out to the Chinese peasants that it is not really important that their government sweats them unmercifully, and boils them to the bone between inflation and taxes, but they don't seem to get it. They persist in their illusion that the kind of government they have and the kind of lives they lead matter very much, even though most of our congressmen and commentators have plainly said it isn't so.

It may be hard on us, but I'm afraid we're going to have to deal with the deep-rooted prejudice that people everywhere have in favor of decent government and meaningful personal lives. The Russians know about this. That is why they peddle "the new democracy," and bread, and land. Maybe they are quite cynical about what they're offering, but at least they don't offer anything that can't be sold. They don't try to sell Chiang Kai-Shek, for example. They leave that to us, and I suspect, gladly.

IN MORE THAN one case, the Allies whom we are so happy to have are leftovers whom the Russians wouldn't touch with a long pole, and yet the obvious fact that it must mean something that nobody is trying to take these choice partners away from us, or win them over, seems to escape our attention.

We are going to have to change our approach, and realize it was a deceptive spring which seemed to be dawning when, early this year, we looked at each other, as if in sudden awakening, and said gaily: "Why, it doesn't matter what sort of ruler Chiang is!" That is the kind of discovery one makes at midnight, when tired, and should forget by morning. The truth is, it does matter, very much.

If we had unlimited men, and unlimited money, and could blanket the world with our force, we might, though only for a limited time, get away with our new theory to the effect that reaction doesn't matter. Since we do not have unending resources, and since we must depend upon political factors, we had better stop babbling about things not mattering.

PERHAPS, obscurely, what is happening to us is that in the course of our effort to save democracy, we are learning what democracy is, and learning the hard way. We have just discovered, for example, that you can't prop up a reactionary indefinitely by giving him pocket money.

That is not, on the whole, a discovery which hurts democracy very much. Democracy would have been more severely damaged, perhaps, if we had discovered that you could prop up a reactionary indefinitely.

We may now perhaps go on to other findings, such as that the way to get good allies is to give up poor ones, and the way to enlist the kind of support that makes the difference is not to accept everything that comes along.

Under Observation-

Vienna Vulnerable in Event of Blockade

By BERTHOLD GASTER

The recent murder of an American citizen in the Soviet sector of Vienna has brought that city into focus again. There is no telling when such incidents, if repeated more and more, may lead to a Soviet blockade of Vienna.

Were the western powers faced with such a blockade tomorrow, how would they cope with it? Could they fight it as they are doing in Berlin?

It must be understood, as a basic premise, that Vienna, though itself under four power administration, is in fact completely surrounded by Soviet territory. The city is divided into American, British, French and Soviet zones, with the first district, called Innere Stadt, under joint administration.

Three of Vienna's main railroad terminals are in the Soviet zone. The other two terminals are in western sections of the city, but they lead into Soviet territory.

The province of Lower Austria completely surrounds Vienna. It includes the city of Wiener-Neustadt, the aircraft and automobile center of Austria. The province also serves as the border with Hungary and Czechoslovakia.

As to river traffic, much of it is under Soviet control, since the entire eastern shore of the Danube in Vienna is Soviet-controlled, and so is a good part of the Danube Canal in the center of the city.

There is only one established airport in the city of Vienna, Aspern Field, and that is in the 21st district, Soviet zone. As the surrounding province of Lower Austria is Soviet territory, this makes the nearest western-controlled airfield a hundred miles away, in Graz, Styria, or Linz, Upper Austria. Therein lies the chief difference in the situation as it pertains to Vienna as compared with Berlin.

Berlin's airport, Tempelhof, lies in the western zone, and even though the surrounding territory, as in Austria, is Soviet-controlled, there is a good enough air supply line between western Germany and Berlin to keep the west portion of the city fairly well stocked with food and essential fuel. Such a solution would be impossible in Vienna.

After careful investigation of the geographic approaches to Vienna and an analysis of communication lines into and out of the city, western officials must come to only one conclusion. Should Vienna for any reason be put

McBride's Haul

By BILL MCBRIDE

Right at the peak of excitement Wednesday morning when Dewey's telegram to Truman was read over the radio (and radio certainly did itself proud in the matter of public service Tuesday and Wednesday) an IC policeman with an eye for the correct psychological moment walked into the newsroom and sold me a ticket to the Policemen's ball Nov. 18... perfect timing.

It was 3 o'clock in the afternoon before I realized what had happened and thought to tell Jeanne that we had a date on that evening. The $2 was well spent because I've never been to a Policemen's ball and had anything but a gay time.

I find there is now an opportunity to hear a minimum of three professional concerts (and maybe more) this winter at the City High auditorium.

The Iowa City civic music association has around 100 workers out trying to drum up membership this week, and the price you pay for a whole year's membership wouldn't cover one of their concerts if you were to pay regular boxoffice prices. The drive is only going to be pushed this week, so if you want in you'd best come to a decision now.

An agent (female) reported Wednesday that KXIC's Herb Olson was more than a little excited over the election Tuesday night. His state of mind was reflected at the Jaycees' minstrel show where, while Colonel Jenna played and sang "Muddy Water," Herb blundered into the ladies dressing room, finding therein just what you'd expect to find in a ladies dressing room.

Word has it that Herb had a large hat on his head, which slipped down over his eyes, thus accounting for poor judgment in door knob reaching.

Only recently did I learn there are such things as cosmetic parties going on right here in IC. An Agent's wife recently described a make up binge she attended at a friend's home. There seems to be an air of commercialism at such parties, but that doesn't hinder guests from letting their hair down.

The details of the party, as they were related, weren't meant for my ears. However, a cosmetic party is something everyone should be familiar with due to the widespread influence it seems to be gaining.

It starts with the guests seating themselves around a room, maybe 10 or 12 persons all told. Then someone hands out mirrors. While cotton swabs and cold cream are distributed, each person surveys herself in her mirror, cocking head to one side and peering out of the corner of the eye to check profile.

After a thorough inspection by reflection, worrying about a blemish and wondering if it has been noticed ("my complexion has been a mess this year") all old make up is removed. This may seem odd, since the "old" make up was applied just before going to the party. Oh well... off with the old.

When everyone's face is shiny and completely naked of any cosmetic, potions of skin freshener (a mild aftershave lotion) are applied. Following that is a powder base. You don't just arbitrarily put powder on—first you need a base—being applied first, it is sometimes called first base, which tends to turn the conversation toward baseball, but not for long because the powder is on its way.

After powder comes rouge and lipstick. The process of putting on lipstick is a touch and go proposition. First of all the correct shade must be selected... Rose, Flame, Bronze, Copper, (sounds like a course in sheet metalwork) and Two Dollar Pistol and some of the favorites.

In applying lipstick the mirror is used. The applicator rubs the stuff on carefully, following the contour of the upper lip. Then the lower lip (untouched by lipstick as yet) is rolled up so that it overlaps in a Popeye fashion. The lips are then pressed firmly together and oiled until the stuff is evenly distributed.

Cotton swabs are handed out again, and everyone takes a swipe at her mouth with one. The finished product would seem to be removed, but apparently it isn't.

The guests then are supposed to put down their mirrors. Congratulations are made all around, and statement of how nice everyone looks are in order. After that they eat.

Says French Coal Strike Only a Symptom In Threat to European Recovery Plan

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR. AP Foreign Affairs Analyst Paul G. Hoffman, economic cooperation administrator, covered only part of the ground recently when he referred to the French coal strike as the key to the whole program of sabotage of the Marshall plan in Europe.

Certainly it is a major manifestation of the Communist campaign. But the strike is only one symptom of a sick French economic and political situation which seriously threatens the entire European recovery program. The Communists in the coal fields have merely taken advantage of it.

Not that France should be accused of sabotage. But there is a negativism about her situation which might in the end produce a closely similar effect.

She has not buckled down as has England, to make domestic recovery.

She still has a highly unfavorable trade balance, without anything like the British austerity program to overcome it. Many of her plants are still turning out luxuries for which there is no demand abroad. Other manufacturers are not expanding and investors are keeping their money idle because of fear of war.

Many French tax laws are antiquated. But the great trouble in this field is that the French people don't like to pay taxes and no government for years has had the guts to really go out collecting.

With re-armament a prime consideration at the moment, France has permitted her aviation industry to come apart. It employs a dangerous number of Communists.

One of the great problems which ECA meets in France is the fear that Germany's ghost will rise again. This seems to exclude a full realization of present dangers. It leads to lack of co-operation in efforts to make use of Germany's productive capacity for European recovery.

While the United States is working feverishly to set up a government of all western Germany and put the area on a more self-sustaining basis, France is busily stripping her own occupation zone of everything which might contribute to economic balance when Bizonia becomes Bizonia.

Realizing the tremendous difficulties under which France is working and remembering what the war did to her, American officials view this situation in sorrow rather than in anger. But they are gravely worried lest she prove unequal to her required role in ERP.

Close 'Mom Lehr's' Canteen

Famous Hollywood Guild Canteen Loses Lease, Wreckers to Tear Down Mansion

BY ALINE MOSBY
 HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Some veteran had changed the movable letters on the menu signs to read, "Goodbye, Mom Lehr. God bless our happy home, if we can find one. (Signed) two million boys."

Before the sign, her eyes warm with tears, stood Mrs. Anne Lehr, who was mom to more than two million servicemen during the war at her Hollywood guild canteen.

The place is closed now; the canteen's home was sold from under it. Second-hand furniture dealers stared coldly at the canteen furnishings on the auction block. And next week a wrecking crew will wipe out the place, another shrine to old Hollywood.

The sprawling mansion, with stained windows and closets bigger than an apartment, was built by Dustin Farnum, the silent star.

Furniture Sold
 "Seventy-five cents!" was all the auctioneer could get apiece for the wooden benches and tables that warmed the pants of soldiers, sailors and marines.

They began to cram the place in 1942. Mrs. Lehr, wife of a retired movie mogul, rented the house for charity cases until the war boom took care of that.

So one day she cooked dinner for 50, corralled some young hostesses, and charged to Sunset and Vine to nab G.I.s.

"They wouldn't come at first," she recalls. "They thought there was a catch to it."

Fame Spread
 There wasn't, and the canteen's fame spread from Salerno to Guadalcanal. Bette Davis sponsored it at first. Then her secretary got sore because Mrs. Lehr wouldn't close the home at 11 p.m. and talked her boss into opening the "rival" Hollywood canteen

Article About SUI In Campus Parade

The article, stressing the individual creative work at SUI adds, "There are ample opportunities in many departments to embark on 'unexplored, undeveloped' phases of education."

Icy Winter Sidewalk Brings Pipe Railing

On icy winter mornings this winter Hillcrest and Quadrangle students won't have to pick their way down the steep sidewalk that leads to Newton road at the bottom of the hill.

Yesterday, four university workmen finished installing a 168 foot pipe rail along the very-often slick pathway.

As one workman remarked, it "will probably save the boys a fall."

T. S. Eliot Given Nobel Literary Prize

STOCKHOLM, SWEDEN (AP) — T. S. Eliot, former Boston bank clerk who became one of the world's most famous and least understood poets, was awarded the Nobel literature prize by the Swedish Academy of Literature yesterday.

At the same time, the Academy of Science announced two Nobel scientific awards: the physics prize, to British cosmic-ray researcher Patrick M. S. Blackett, and the chemistry prize to Swedish Professor Arne Tiselius.

The three men will receive their prizes — worth about $44,500 each this year — at the Nobel awards festival here Dec. 10.

Eliot, a naturalized British citizen, was honored for "his remarkable achievements as a pioneer in the field of modern poetry." He is the fourth Briton to win the literature prize. The others were Rudyard Kipling, playwright George Bernard Shaw and Novelist John Galsworthy.

Blackett, who has been professor of physics at Manchester university for 17 years, received his prize for discoveries about cosmic radiation. He was the 12th Briton to win the physics award.

Tiselius, a faculty member of Sweden's Upsala university, received the chemistry award for his work in the fields of electrophoresis and absorption analysis. Four other Swedes have won the chemistry prize since the awards were begun in 1901.

Ever since the publication of his first book, "The Sacred Wood," in 1920, Eliot has been the focus of a fierce critical battle. Evaluation of his work have ranged from the highest praise to the blunt "it's tripe" of the late Amy Lowell.

The famed poet describes himself as a "classicist in literature, royalist in politics and Anglo-Catholic in religion."

In addition to his poetry, Eliot is noted for religious plays. The best known of his dramatic works is "Murder in the Cathedral," inspired by the assassination of Thomas A. Becket in Canterbury cathedral in the middle ages.

Three other polio cases were discharged from University hospitals and one new patient was reported dropping the total number of infectious cases to 17.

The new patient is Charles Henry, 28, Burlington, admitted Nov. 1 in "fair" condition.

Fay Crawford, 32, Northwood was discharged yesterday. Two patients discharged Wednesday are Elizabeth Werner, 11, Fort Madison and Willard Patterson, 5, Fort Dodge.

Simmons Arraigned, Bond Set at $2,000

Malvern Simmons, Cedar county, entered a plea of not guilty yesterday in Johnson county district court when he was arraigned on a county attorney's information charging him with breaking and entering.

The information charged Simmons with breaking into Clear Creek No. 1 rural school July 16 "with intent to commit a public offense."

Simmons is accused of being one of a gang who broke into rural schools and other establishments in Johnson, Cedar, Muscatine, Washington and Scott counties last July and August. Stoves or their cast-iron parts, radios, machinery and many other items were among the goods reported stolen.

Simmons is the second man to be formally charged with the thefts in Johnson county. Albert Meaker, Tipton, has been held in county jail pending trial for his alleged participation in the series of thefts.
