Crusaders of Anti-Gambling Call Off Drive

They Tire of Fighting 'Someone Else's Battle'

(Special to The Daily Iowan) Moline, Ill. — Marie Van Muehlebrock, member of a mother-daughter anti-gambling team, called off her crusade yesterday "because of mother."
"There's too much disinterest in this whole thing," Marie said. "Besides it's interrupting my normal family life."
Decrying the lack of cooperation she received in her battle against slot machines, Miss Van Muehlebrock said that she was "tired of fighting someone else's battle. I can't fight it alone."

Season's First Snowstorm Blankets Denver —

West in Denver, which yesterday received a white blanket nearly four inches deep in the first major snowstorm of the season. This scene of snow-laden trees and shadows cast by a street lamp was taken in Denver's Sunken Gardens Sunday night, several hours after the storm began. While thinking about snowmen or your sacroiliac, depending on your age, don't forget rubbers and raincoats today. Showers are predicted for Iowa City.

DON'T RUSH to the window, it isn't snow shovel time in Iowa City yet. Winter is still out

Top Court to Rule On Taft-Hartley Act

WASHINGTON (P) — The supreme court yesterday decided to rule on important Communist control issues, including a major section of the Taft-Hartley labor-management law.
It agreed to review the split decision of a special three judge federal court in New York which recently upheld the constitutionality of the Taft-Hartley anti-Communist affidavit clause. The clause bars unions from the services of the national labor relations board until their officers swear they are not Communists.
The court also agreed to review the contempt of congress conviction of Gerhart Eisler, alleged top international Communist agent in America. He was sentenced to a year in jail and a $1,000 fine after he refused to testify before the house un-American activities committee in February, 1947.

Fear Tension in France After De Gaulle Victory

WASHINGTON (P) — Heightened political tension in France was forecast by government officials yesterday as a result of the election victory of Gen. Charles De Gaulle's anti-Communist forces.
These officials said increasingly bitter arguments between the De Gaullists and Communists are likely when the French assembly convenes Nov. 18.

Quail Shooters Scooter to Hunt

OFF TO JOIN IOWA QUAIL HUNTERS are Dr. and Mrs. Richard W. Nicholson, 607 Melrose avenue. The couple's equipment includes 20 gauge and .410 shotguns, hunting togs and a motor scooter. Dr. Nicholson is internist at University hospitals. This year's quail hunting season in Johnson county extends from Nov. 1 to Dec. 15.

Father Files Suit for $75,000 After Son Injured on Bridge

A suit for $75,000 damages involving an Iowa City boy's loss of an arm after an accident on the Benton street bridge was filed yesterday in Johnson county district court.
Alton Young, 1318 Marcy street, filed the suit for his son, Robert, against the Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric company and Robert H. Lind, manager of the company's Iowa City office.
The suit came as a result of Robert's coming into contact with high-tension electric wires July 21 on the old Benton street bridge. He had apparently grabbed the wires after climbing the bridge's steel superstructure.
Suffered Severe Burns
The boy suffered severe burns on the hands, body and arms and it was necessary to amputate his right arm between the wrist and elbow.
The plaintiff said the boy suffered much pain and incurred many medical and hospital bills and will need more medical aid in the future.
In requesting a jury trial of the case, the plaintiff charged the defendants were negligent in the following:
1. Allowing the electric wires to be improperly insulated and allowing them to become exposed.
2. Placing the wires so close to the bridge, and in failing to remove and isolate the wires so others might not come in contact with them.
The plaintiff also said the defendants should have regarded the attraction of the condemned bridge was to active boys.

On the subject of city finances, Alderman Clark F. Mighell proposed that a committee of the city council and Chamber of Commerce meet with the League of Iowa Municipalities on the subject of approaching the state legislature for more tax money for Iowa City.
Although no action was taken by the council, various councilmen backed up Mighell's proposal.
In other business the city council:
1. Discussed the downtown lighting system with representatives of the Chamber of Commerce. Robert Gage, chamber secretary, and Roy Ewers said the chamber is in favor of a new lighting system and that the new system should be the mercury-vapor type. The chamber also favors city-wide assessment to finance the new lighting system. The council was invited to a meeting tomorrow night at the Jefferson hotel on the lighting problem.
2. Set Dec. 13 as date for receiving bids on the sewer project on S. Riverside drive from the Benton street bridge to the south city limits.
3. Tabled a resolution to extend the city limits to include all property from the present city limits and the south line of the airport to the Iowa river. The motion was killed after objections by Attorney A. O. Leff who said the resolution would only burden the people living in that section.
4. Held the first reading of an ordinance raising the pay of all members of the police and fire departments $10 per month effective Dec. 1.
5. Purchased a 1948 Pontiac from the Mann Auto company for use as a police car at a cost of $495.58 and a used police car.

Council Asks Cost Of Automatic Signal At School Crossing

The city council last night called for figures at the next meeting on a proposed automatic electric stop sign for the Muscatine avenue and Court street crossing from the H. B. Allen company of Des Moines.
This action followed discussion of the council with Police Chief E. J. Ruppert and Allen on how crosswalks and signs should be placed. The Muscatine - Court street crossing was termed the most dangerous school crossing at a joint meeting of the city council, school board, PTA and Jaycees last week.
These signs give the green signal to vehicle traffic except when a button is pushed by a pedestrian.
On the subject of city finances, Alderman Clark F. Mighell proposed that a committee of the city council and Chamber of Commerce meet with the League of Iowa Municipalities on the subject of approaching the state legislature for more tax money for Iowa City.

UN Charges Satellites Hinder World Peace

Jury Arraigns Thomas Faces Payroll Padding Count

WASHINGTON (P) — A federal grand jury yesterday indicted Rep. J. Parnell Thomas (R-NJ) for alleged conspiracy to pad his congressional office payroll by setting up a list of "fictitious" employees.

The 55-year-old New Jersey legislator, who was re-elected in last Tuesday's election, is the retiring chairman of the house committee of un-American activities.
Court officials said that if convicted on all charges, Thomas would face a possible maximum sentence of 32 years in prison, $40,000 in fines or both.
Congressional authorities agreed, however, that his status as a member of the house would be left entirely to the decision of that body. The house is the judge of the qualifications of its own members.

The jury also indicted Thomas' former secretary, Helen Campbell, on charges that she joined with the lawmaker in the alleged conspiracy, involving accusations of salary "kickbacks." The plot, the jury said, was "to defraud the United States of its money and property" over a five-year period from Jan. 1, 1940 to Jan. 30, 1945.

The indictment cited 34 "overt acts" in the joint conspiracy complaint against Thomas and Miss Campbell. In addition, Thomas alone was accused on three other counts of filing alleged false claims against the government.
U.S. District Attorney George Morris Fay told newsmen that the trial, under normal procedure, would not begin before January. He said Thomas is scheduled to appear Nov. 16 for arraignment.

At his home in Allendale, N.J., Thomas told a reporter he had "nothing to say at this moment" about the charges, but might have a statement later. Thomas had refused to testify before the grand jury, after first demanding the right.
Thomas said later in a telephone interview that there was "absolutely no truth" to reports heard in state Republican circles in Trenton that the congressman planned to resign.

The indictment specifically cited 10 checks totalling $1,698.37 paid by the government for services which it said were never performed.

Continue Case Against Board

Hearing of a request for a temporary injunction against the Iowa state board of education was continued yesterday in Johnson county district court until after the regular meeting of the education board.
Harry W. Reeve, a State sanatorium employee, has asked the injunction to prevent the board of education from removing him from the state payroll, firing him and removing him and his family from their living quarters at the sanatorium in Oakdale.
Reeve claimed the defendants are acting contrary to their rights in demoting him from his position as physical plant superintendent and their later attempts to fire him and force him to vacate his quarters.
The plaintiff said the defendants told him the only work left for him was the cleaning of the septic tank. He claimed that when the board of education took over the Oakdale sanatorium he was business manager and that the board promised him he would not lose his job or be demoted.
Contrary to that, he said he was demoted to the physical plant job and later told to turn in his keys and vacate the house where his family is living.

SHOWN AFTER INDICTMENT, Rep. J. Parnell Thomas, chairman of the house un-American activities committee, appears completely unperturbed. He joked with the photographer making this picture in his home at Allendale, N. J., yesterday after a federal grand jury in Washington, D. C., indicted him. He was charged with conspiring to pad the payroll of his congressional office.

Floyd Won't Squeal Outright

Calloused Porky Only Hints He Will Stay After Iowa-Minnesota Game Saturday

By STAFF WRITER

Floyd of Rosedale probably will be rooting for Iowa Saturday when the Hawkeyes meet the Minnesota Gophers here in their annual football contest.

Although Floyd is, or was, an Iowan, he has been little of the Hawkeye state since 1935. In that year he became the "payoff" for a wager on the Iowa-Minnesota game.

Iowa's Gov. Clyde Herring and Minnesota's Gov. Floyd Olson beat a pig on the game. Iowa lost, 13-6, and Floyd of Rosedale went north. He's been there ever since except for the three seasons when the Hawks have licked the Gophers 1939, 1945 and last year.

"I was just an old trophy after 1935," Floyd explained. "In 1936 they cast me in bronze. And every year I go home — or stay home — with the winner."

(Fame isn't exciting for Floyd. He came from a championship family and his brother, Blue Boy, was at one time a movie star. Blue Boy is remembered for his role in the Will Rogers movie, "State Fair.")

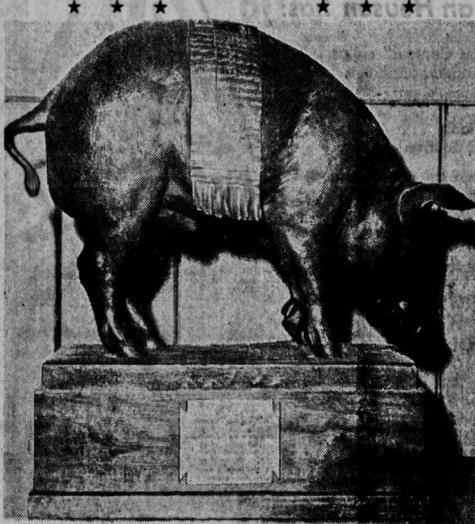

"It's going to be cold in Minnesota this winter," he granted. "I never did like cold weather — even a hog gets cold," he added.

Asked to elaborate on how it felt to be a trophy, Floyd gave a grunt. It sounded like disgust.

"The worst part of all is after the game," Floyd explained. "Did you ever have anyone chiseling on your epidermis? That's what they do to me every time — chisel in the winner's name. A thousand times worse than going to the dentist."

Pressed once again for a comment on Saturday's game, Floyd parried. "People might think me pretty brassy if I came out openly for one team. I think I'm supposed to be bipartisan or something."

"But I'm a native Iowan, as you know," he said. "And I never did like gophers very well. A hangover from farm days I suppose . . . and I'll say this . . . I had trouble enough learning English. Swedish is too much."

Truman Asks Dulles To Continue Position

PARIS (P) — The 58-member United Nations political committee, beating down stiff opposition by the Russian bloc, ruled last night that Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia were endangering peace by aiding Greek Communist guerrillas.

The three Russian satellite countries were called on to stop their aid to the guerrillas forthwith.

Russia, Yugoslavia and Poland resorted to filibuster, and shouted objections, at one of the most disorderly meetings on UN records in a vain attempt to prevent the action.

The banging gavel of Chairman Paul-Henri Spaak of Belgium, rated as one of the world's top parliamentarians, and an almost innumerable series of roll calls, combined to give the iron curtain countries an overwhelming defeat.

Voted by Paragraphs

The political committee spent 9 1/4 hours, except for a luncheon recess, in voting paragraph by paragraph on a resolution intended to show world denunciation of Communist attempts to overthrow the government of Greece and Bolshevise the country.

The final resolution may include an amendment, offered yesterday by the Dominican republic, to threaten Yugoslavia with being thrown out of the UN if she persists in her course. Albania and Bulgaria, as ex-enemy countries in World War II, are not members of the UN.

In another phase of United Nations action, it was announced last night that the security council will meet secretly today to discuss a three-point proposal by Mediator Dr. Ralph R. Bunche to end the fighting in Palestine.

Bunche's plan, said to include an order for immediate and direct Arab-Jewish negotiations, will be taken up by the council this morning.

It was understood that an important prelude to the summoning of the closed session was the disclosure by United States delegates that they probably would not back Britain's proposal for ordering the Jews to withdraw in the north.

British Protest

The British protested against published reports of last week's conference among Bunche, U.S. Brig. Gen. William Riley and delegates of Egypt, Iraq, Syria and Lebanon, at which Riley was said to have told the Arabs here that the Jews were in "complete control" of the military situation.

Meantime in a move significant to Americans, John Foster Dulles, Republican member of the U.S. delegation, said President Truman had encouraged him to remain as a delegate despite the defeat of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

Greeks Condemn Australian Motion

ATHENS (P) — Members of the Greek parliament threw one of their colleagues out bodily last night for supporting an Australian proposal for peace talks between Greece and her three northern neighbors.

The angry parliament members were said by witnesses to have broken party lines to condemn almost unanimously the peace proposal. It was laid before the United Nations assembly in Paris by Australia.

The general attitude was that the Australian measure, submitted by Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, president of the general assembly, was an interference in the internal affairs of Greece and therefore was a violation of the UN charter.

Gale-Whipped Fires Drive 600 Families From Their Homes

SANTA ANA, CALIF. (P) — Gale-whipped forest fires drove nearly 1,500 persons from their homes in the Santa Ana mountain communities of Silverado and Modjeska canyons yesterday.

The residents later were forbidden by fire fighting officials to re-enter Silverado canyon to get personal belongings, lest they be trapped. Silverado and Modjeska are box canyons in which roadways deadened in the mountains, creating true fire traps.

Homes Threatened
Lt. Carl Pryor of the Orange county sheriff's office said there were about 300 families in each of the Silverado and Modjeska settlements, or 1,200 to 1,500 persons evacuated in all. Several hundred dwelling places were threatened.
Early last night the flames had not actually entered these two canyons but were burning all around them in side canyons and threatening to flip over into the residence areas.

Close to Marine Base
Flames licked to within about one-half mile of nearby El Toro marine base but it had considerable protection from open bean fields between it and the fire.

Ow's About House Getting Pub Permit

LONDON (P) — William House asked the court yesterday for a license to operate a pub in Belhall Green.

The judge asked for his qualifications.
" I have been a regular customer there for 24 years," House said.
The application was granted.

Prof. Ringo Is Proud Of Versatile Senora

By SHIRLEY ELMAN
Papa Elbert Ringo is outnumbered by three females in his family, but he probably doesn't mind it at all.

The tall, distinguished assistant professor in the romance language department towers above his wife, a slight senora, with reddish gold hair, and his two flaxen-haired "hijas" (daughters), Rolanda and Paula.

Mrs. Ringo, born in Matanzas, Cuba, came to this country when she was 12, but despite Americanizing influences she has retained a soft-spoken Spanish charm and a Carmen Miranda vivacity.

Prepares Special Dish
"Senora Georgina" demonstrated her cosmopolitan culinary arts when she told about the family recipe for a Viennese dish. The Spanish attraction enters in the guise of rice which forms the basis of the dish, Mrs. Ringo explained. The "Ringo Viennese Special" is made in this way:

Cut two pounds of lean veal steak into cubes and saute until slightly brown. Add salt for taste and one cup of hot water. Cook until veal is almost done. Add one wine glass of sherry, one mashed clove of garlic, one cup of sour cream and one cup of blanched almonds; simmer for about 15 minutes.

Served With Rice
This is to be served over rice cooked in the following traditional-Spanish way:

Wash and drain thoroughly two cups of rice; stir about five minutes in a heaping tablespoonful of fat until golden brown, mixing often with a fork to prevent breaking the grains. Add four cups of hot water and salt for taste. Cover and cook briskly for about 10 minutes. Remove the cover and let water evaporate. "Rice is often prepared this way," Mrs. Ringo explained, "by South Americans as a basic dish for Spanish rice."

Married When a Freshman
Married when she was a freshman at Middlebury college in Vermont, Mrs. Ringo met her husband while both were studying Spanish there. She also studied folk music and dancing in Mexico for a year and a half, formerly gave illustrated lectures in universities and schools in the United States.

Actively interested in pottery-making, academic affairs and politics, Mrs. Ringo remarked that she "would have appreciated seeing a complete record of candidates' voting in congress publicized in the newspapers. Perhaps in a diagram form," she added. "I think it would help many voters in their decisions to know how the candidates voted on certain issues."

College Graduate
Prof. Ringo, a graduate of Park college near Kansas City, Mo., took his graduate work at Middlebury college, the University of Illinois and the University of Madrid, Spain.

Rolanda, the 14-year old junior miss of the Ringo family, is interested in the piano, singing and dancing. Paula, the blue-eyed, dimpled cherub, is "almost five" and interested in a 5-year old's world: toys, almonds, and questions.

But It Works Over Here, Joe . . .

Ready, Aim, Backfire . . .

Some hasty GOP post-election calculations got another jarring Sunday. Sen. George Aiken (R-Vt.) in a personal letter to President Truman offered "full cooperation" with the Democratic administration on forward-looking legislation.

Aiken lists his forward-looking legislation specifically: social security expansion, development of national resources, federal aid to education and a permanent long-range federal farm support program.

With him in the liberal wing of the GOP are Sen. Milton R. Young (R-ND) and Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.). They have pledged to "throw out the old guard leadership of the party."

And the GOP revolt doesn't stop with three senators. A similar revolt of "freshman" senators flared in 1946 in protest to the way the old guard was running congress.

Connecticut's Raymond Baldwin and New York's Irving Ives were in the thick of that feud. They and a few others would probably join in another attempt to liberalize the GOP.

Such a move is a blow to GOP hopes to tie up congress with a coalition of southern Democrats who may be inclined to shy away from Mr. Truman.

But southern senators like McKellar and Johnston are leading the parade back into the Truman fold. The GOP will not be able to unite with states' righters en masse.

Now it appears that the GOP will lose the support of a liberal Republican for every conservative Democrat it picks up. The liberal wing of the GOP is up in arms. They wanted to fight the old guard via a Dewey victory.

Dewey failed so they now want to rebuild a more enlightened Republican party out of the ashes.

Their efforts within the party may fall through. And many southerners may desert the Democratic majority over labor or civil rights. Americans may see a liberal-conservative alignment cutting across party lines yet. Watch the "Young Turks" and Dixiecrats.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT

A Twenty-Year 'Once'

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

It seems to me that many observers of the election are still trying to fit what happened neatly into their former conceptions, instead of realizing that these conceptions need changing.

Thus we have one school which intones that Truman won, after all, by only a small majority, less than two million votes, that a slight change of sentiment in a very few states would have put Dewey in, etc., and that therefore Truman has no mandate to be stridently liberal, and had better go easy; that is, act as if he had lost.

THE MEMBERS of this school are entitled to whatever comfort they can obtain by hugging a small, cold statistic to their breasts, but the plain truth is that in a campaign as heavily given over to defeat from the beginning as this one was, every vote in Truman's majority has the significance of ten in normal races, for this majority had to be built from the bottom up, in blood, sweat and tears.

While you can say, if you want to, that liberalism did not win overwhelmingly, a somewhat fairer interpretation would be that it can win a national election under the hardest possible circumstances.

There are other schools which hold that the Republicans lost because they did not write good

High Schools Plan Armistice Programs

Patriotic Armistice day programs will be held Thursday morning at University and City high schools.

University high's assembly will begin at 9:30 with Col. W. W. Jenna, head of SUI military science and tactics, speaking on leadership and responsibility of coming citizens. Special music will be directed by Charles Luckenbill and Lois Brandt, instructors. Parents are urged to attend.

Six City high students will speak during their hour-long observance beginning at 10 a.m. Their addresses are preliminary tryouts for the "I Speak for Democracy" contest being sponsored by the National Association of American Broadcasters.

Winners at the high school will participate in city finals. The program will close with a minute of silence at 11 o'clock.

Piper to Boost Flying At Kiwanis Luncheon

John Piper, owner of Piper's candy shop, will address the Kiwanis club at a noon luncheon today at the Hotel Jefferson.

Prof. Robert Bowman, club program chairman, said yesterday that Piper, a flying enthusiast and a booster for the Iowa City airport, will speak to the group on "Why Don't You Take up Flying?"

SUI Yearbook Sales Set New Record

A record for sales of Hawkeye, SUI yearbook, has been set this year, Harold Sorenson, A4, of Omaha, Neb., business manager of the yearbook said yesterday.

A total of 3,022 Hawkeyes have been sold thus far and sales are still open, Sorenson said. This surpasses previous sales of any year by more than 500, he reported.

Sorenson said two sales campaigns have been conducted this semester with 80 volunteer salespeople working in the first campaign and 35 in the second.

Several Hawkeye sales staff members have won awards for their sales efforts.

Winners in the first campaign were Pat Wells, Irving Cirks, Mark Putney, George Wittekind and Daryl Jones.

Second campaign winners were Catherine Kelly, Killen Diddy, Joan Van Alstine, Jeanne Strauss, Katherine McTigue, Dick McKay, Elizabeth Sackett, Greta Grossman, Marlys Young, Pat Wells, Doris Horslund, and Frank Wallis.

Polio List Remains Steady, Despite Six New Hospital Cases

Six new polio patients were reported at University hospitals yesterday. One discharge and four transfers to the inactive ward, kept the total number of infectious cases from mounting above 18.

A new patient reported in "serious" condition by hospital authorities is Carol Peters, 3, Oelwein, who was admitted to University hospitals Saturday.

Other new patients in "fair" condition are Ervin Strotman, 19, Readlyn, admitted Friday; Marilyn Swensen, 18, Scarville, admitted Thursday; Clayton Reeds, 8, Sheffield, admitted Saturday; and Jack Pierce, 3, Alpha, admitted Nov. 3.

Discharged yesterday was Doris Valenta, 22, Dubuque, who was admitted to University hospitals Oct. 30.

The four patients transferred yesterday to the inactive list are Lee Waters, 15, Birmingham; Bonnie Crandall, 6, Chapin; Roger Philpot, 6, Chapin and Phyllis Rutledge, 18 months, Clinton.

McBride's Haul

By BILL MCBRIDE

Recently a young boy said to me, "What is a lightning rod?" I am not Bon Motting when I tell you that question came as no little shock. Until he asked that question our conversation had been flowing along nicely on the subject of raising rabbits. The youngster's agile little mind had changed gears so quickly that it caught me off balance.

I'm afraid the answer I gave wasn't satisfactory, but if he asks about lightning or lightning rods again, I'm prepared thanks to our Home University Bookshelf collection.

In volume three, there is a complete dissertation on lightning listed under "Activities of Nature."

The writer has taken a patronizing attitude toward nature's activities. The whole section seems to say, "Although nature seems quite active most of the time, we don't necessarily approve. However, there really isn't much that can be done about it."

The lightning subject is opened with a question which asks, how did lightning get into the clouds? That sounded like a legitimate question. Reading on, I learned that the author wasn't sure of his ground, but had a few theories which went off on a tangent about hot air and ice pitchers. In short, the author didn't know, and should have stayed away from the subject entirely.

After failing to show definite evidence that lightning got into clouds in the first place, this expert queries, "Why doesn't electricity want to stay in the clouds?" This sounds incongruous in the light of his first failure.

I think he realized his mistake because the problem was dealt with hastily, being less than one half page in length and winding up in utter confusion.

After relating "many tricks" which lightning plays, he finally gets around to the lightning rod question. Right at the beginning he shuffs it off by telling us there are many kinds of lightning rods. He drops the subject, failing to tell just what a lightning rod is, but digresses into why people distrust them.

"This is something new to me. I have always had infinite faith in a lightning rod. When thunder rolled and bolts brightened the sky, I felt perfectly safe under our lightning rods.

Now he tells me there is a good chance our lightning rod is a fake. He breaks the bad news abruptly, pulling no punches in the first paragraph. "About 40 years ago thousands of agents went about the country, selling fake lightning rods for large sums of money and cheating people in a way which they will not soon forget."

The book was published in 1927, so you can see what a deplorable condition the lightning rod business found itself in about 1887, what with crooked agents unloading bogus rods from coast to coast. It's time this scandalous era was brought out in the light.

Re-establishing my shaken faith somewhat with an explanation that the bureau of standards comes out in favor of lightning rods every so often, the author plunges into a question with some meat on it. "How Can Lightning Kill Anyone?"

I can tell you right now, it isn't encouraging. He has definitely established that lightning can kill just anyone it pleases, showing no discrimination whatsoever.

I welcomed the part of the chapter telling where to go during a thunder-storm. Trees are bad, according to the writer, and another thing to avoid is a wire fence. He doesn't have to tell me to avoid wire fences. I've had dealings with them before . . . it is a good practice to shun wire fences even on sunny days.

After a selection of "don't," including don't lean on the screen door, and don't answer the telephone, the author says, "Above all, don't worry. Lightning is very beautiful; you can enjoy looking at it. Don't place yourself in lightning's path; then forget the possibility of danger."

Well . . . why didn't he say that in the first place? If that isn't enough assurance, he closes with, "More people are hurt every year by falling downstairs than by lightning."

I wonder how exploding pressure cookers compare.

Forum to Review '48 Election

Four SUI professors tonight will tackle a problem that has been puzzling 150 million Americans for a week.

They will discuss "The Effect of the 1948 Election on the Future of American Political Parties" in a Student Council-sponsored forum at 8 p.m. in 221A Schaeffer hall.

Professors Kirk Porter, Norman Meier, Robert Hoyt and A. Craig Baird will give their views in 10 to 15 minutes each on the forum's subject.

Council President Evan L. Hultman yesterday explained the purpose of the forum. "The results of the Nov. 2 election undoubtedly will have a tremendous effect on American political parties and on the whole economic, social and political structure of the United States and the world.

"In view of this, the Student Council is presenting this forum of university professors who have been studying these conditions for a number of years."

Hultman yesterday named George McBurney of Council Bluffs, a SUI forensics member, as moderator for the forum. McBurney said that those attending the forum should get an "authoritative viewpoint" on the "trend American politics can be expected to take in the next two to four years."

A 20 to 30-minute question period will follow the regular discussion. The forum will be open to the public.

Dad's Club Plans To Meet Tonight

The Community Dad's club will meet tonight at 7:30 in the women's lounge of the Community building. All members are urged to attend.

A report on the recent benefit dances and the Halloween party will be presented at the meeting.

William Hofey, co-chairman for the benefit dances, estimated that about $50 was taken in at the "pool fund dance" last Friday night.

TO LEAVE FOR WASHINGTON
Prof. J. H. Bodine, head of the SUI zoology department, will leave Thursday for Washington, D. C., to attend a meeting of the atomic energy commission fellowship board Friday. Bodine is a member of the board which will distribute fellowships to students in the biological sciences.

ISSUE MARRIAGE LICENSE
A marriage license was issued yesterday in the Johnson county clerk's office to William Seager, Danville, and Janet Wiederrecht, Burlington.

NO WONDER HE'S SPENDING THE AFTERNOON DOWN IN THE BASEMENT!

Wealthy Ames Business Man Fatally Shot

AMES (AP) — Henry W. Chavis, 55, Ames business and civic leader, was shot to death at his farm home yesterday and authorities said last night the pre-dawn slaying remained a mystery.

Chavis was hit by three .32 caliber pistol bullets, apparently as he was entering his house a mile south of here. An autopsy showed he was killed by a bullet that entered his jaw and passed through his head.

Authorities said the Chavises recently reported that a .32 caliber pistol had been stolen from their home.

No Witnesses

No witnesses were found. Authorities estimated Chavis had been dead three to four hours when his body was found near the back door of his home at about 7 a.m. by Betty Alber, the Chavis' maid, and a cab driver who was taking her to work.

Mrs. Chavis said her husband was not home that night and she did not know where he went. She said she was asleep at the time of the slaying and heard no shots.

Car Nearby

There was no sign of a struggle. No wallet was found on the body but it was not known whether Chavis was carrying one Sunday night. His car was parked nearby.

Authorities said an inquest probably will be held today. State bureau of criminal investigation agents were helping Story county officers in the investigation.

Operated Canning Company
Chavis operated the Ames canning company, which he bought after coming here 15 years ago from Fowler, Ind. It employed up to 500 persons during peak periods.

Chavis was chairman of the Ames Chamber of Commerce Agricultural committee, a past president of the Iowa-Nebaska Canners association and a director of the National Canners association.

AAUW Fellowship Program Receives $40,000 Contribution

A new fellowship has been added to those offered by the American Association of University Women through a bequest of $40,000 from a deceased member, Luella M. Wright of the local branch said yesterday.

The late Mary Andersen of Madison, Wis., a former president of the Madison A.A.U.W. branch and the Wisconsin state division, left the largest single gift yet made to A.A.U.W. fellowships.

Her bequest of $40,000 brings the association's million dollar fellowship fund to within one tenth of its completion, with contributions reaching a total of $953,250.

The A.A.U.W. has carried on a fellowship program for 58 years to help women scholars conduct projects in advanced research, Miss Wright stated. The program started in 1890 with a single fellowship carrying a stipend of $500.

For the academic year of 1949-50, the association offers 27 fellowships totalling $42,000. Endowment funds for most of these fellowships have been raised by A.A.U.W. branches. Last year the membership raised $103,358 for A.A.U.W. fellowships and international grants.

Prominent Iowan Shot to Death

THE BODY OF HENRY W. CHAVIS, 55 year-old Iowan canning executive, was found near the back door of his father's farm house south of Ames. Blood on the ground where the body was found can be seen just off the sidewalk to the right of the tree.

Police Hunt Man Who Wrote Bad Checks

Iowa City police have issued a warrant for the arrest of a man using the name 'R. Allen' who wrote at least 14 false checks here last Wednesday.

Police Chief Edwin J. Ruppert expected the checks to total several hundred dollars after all merchants have reported them to police.

Allen came to Iowa City Wednesday and deposited a check for $500 with a local bank. The check was drawn on a bank in Kansas City, Mo. Bank officials here told him not to cash any checks until the Kansas City bank verified his account.

The Kansas City bank has reported that they have no account for an R. Allen and police have found that there are 19 persons in Kansas City named R. Allen.

Local Demos Ask Gov. Hunt To Luncheon

Senator-Elect Lester C. Hunt, present governor of Wyoming, has been added to the list of guests invited to the Democratic victory luncheon Friday noon.

Previously Senator-Elect Guy M. Gillette of Iowa and Senator-Elect Hubert M. Humphrey of Minnesota had accepted invitations. An invitation also was sent to President Truman but no answer has been received yet.

According to Ed Lucas, Johnson county Democratic chairman, a wire was sent to Sen. Howard McGrath, Democratic national chairman, in connection with the invitation extended to the President.

The committee in charge of the luncheon announced yesterday that the scene of the celebration has been moved from the Iowa Union to the rose room of the Jefferson Hotel.

The move was made in order to accommodate the 250 persons expected to be present. The union could hold only 150 persons, committee members said.

Small-Stake Poker Wins Wife Divorce

CHICAGO (AP) — An 18-year-old wife divorced her husband yesterday because, she told the court, he played high-stake poker with the boys but set a three-cent limit when playing with her.

Mrs. Elsie Eberhardy said her husband, Harold, 23, lost his pay playing table-slakes in taverns, but struck her when she complained of the three-cent limit at home.

"I wanted a chance to win as much from him as his friends," she said.
