Say Chinese Army Out of Suchow Net

NANKING (AP) — The 110,000-man 12th army group—desperately needed to defend Nanking—was reported yesterday to have broken out of a Communist trap which held it fast for two weeks on the Suchow front.

There also were contradictory reports over whether the bigger Suchow garrison of 250,000 men still is trapped, as the Communists insist. A front line dispatch said this force again is moving south against "some resistance."

A big break for the government in the battle to save Nanking was the break in the weather.

Clear skies loosed the airforce bombers and fighters—the government's best weapon—which carried a storm of raids of the type which saved Suchow when the Communists first assaulted that bastion in November.

The planes were grounded by wintry weather while the Communists captured Suchow, 211 miles northwest of Nanking, and wove a net around the 12th army group and the withdrawing Suchow garrison.

Associated Press Correspondent Harold Milks in a dispatch from the front quoted military sources as saying the 12th army group broke free and joined up Tuesday with the sixth army group from the south near Kuchen, about 130 miles northwest of Nanking.

Milks wrote from Pengpu, headquarters for the new Hwai river line. Pengpu is 25 miles south of Kuchen.

Milks said Pengpu anxiously awaited confirmation from the field of the junction. Gen. Liu Chih, commander-in-chief of east China forces, was believed to have gone north to meet Gen. Huang Wei, commander of the 12th army group.

Marines May Help Evacuate Nationals

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government announced yesterday it is ready to use U.S. marines if needed to evacuate Americans from Shanghai.

Undersecretary of State Lovett told a news conference there are still about 2,500 American civilians left in the big China port.

He said there is enough shipping available in the area to evacuate them if necessary, along with adequate marines and naval forces to protect them.

All Americans in China have been warned to leave the country or risk grave uncertainties.

Iced Loon Doomed, Rescued, Doomed

DES MOINES (AP) — It took more than an hour to rescue a black and white loon from the frozen surface of a pond here yesterday, but maybe the loon would just have soon taken a chance on freeing itself.

The bird's fate to become a museum specimen.

The loon was found firmly frozen in the center of the Glendale cemetery pond.

Three men rescued the bird after lengthy efforts from shore with a long rope.

Jack Musgrove, museum director of the state department of history and archives, was notified of the bird and said he could use it, stuffed, of course.

Loons are protected by state law but Musgrove said this bird was badly injured and would have to be destroyed anyhow.

LA Seniors to Hold Election Of Class Officers Tomorrow

Liberal arts seniors will elect their class officers tomorrow. Student Council President Evan L. Hultman, whose group is sponsoring the election, last night urged all seniors to vote in order to make the officers chosen "representative."

Balloting will be from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. in the lobby of Iowa Union and first floor, north, Schaeffer hall. Members of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, will man the voting tables.

Liberal arts seniors will vote for four candidates. The candidates with the highest vote totals will fill the offices of president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer in that order.

Twelve candidates will be on the ballot. Eleven were announced yesterday at a nominating caucus of liberal arts seniors in the geology building. They were chosen by a Student Council committee on the basis of extra-curricular ac-

UN Move Asks New Members Be Admitted

PARIS (AP) — The United Nations general assembly decided last night to ask the security council to reconsider the membership applications of nations barred from the UN because of the east-west "cold war."

The assembly adopted an Australian resolution for council reconsideration of Portugal, Trans-Jordan, Italy, Finland, Ireland, Austria and Ceylon. It also approved a broader Swedish resolution calling for reconsideration of nations nominated for membership by Russia

Tivities, scholastic record, character and personality. The other, Robert Martin, Hamburg, was nominated at the caucus.

Candidates chosen by the committee were Dean Crawford, Iowa City; Lucile Dean, Valparaiso, Ind.; John Elliott, Ottumwa; Mary Jean Falk, Red Oak; Jean Ronsonsky, Centerville; Harlan Hockenberg, Des Moines; Janet Lauderdale, Tama; Sherwin Markman, Des Moines; Ginger McDonald, Lima, Ohio; Bill Munsell, Boone, and Ruby Scott, Waterloo.

FIVE-YEAR-OLD David Garland tearfully clings to trainman John J. Keating after the youngster gave up his plan to make a trip alone to visit his sister in Camden, Me. David boarded a train alone in Portland, Me., but his youth led railroad officials to question him in Waterville, Me., and trainman Keating was detailed to escort the lad back to Portland.

Maritime Commissioner Grenville Mellen earlier had termed the move by the Economic Cooperation Administration a "sell-out" of the U.S. merchant fleet. He said the action will make the United States "a second-rate maritime power without a prayer of meeting military shipping needs if another war develops."

ECA, in announcing its shift in policy, said the action came because the use of higher-cost American shipping for such recovery commodities as grain and coal is cutting into dollars appropriated for European recovery.

NY Transport Union To Demand Flat $2

CHICAGO (AP) — President Michael J. Quill of the CIO transport workers union said last night that the union will demand a flat $2 an hour wage for public transportation workers in New York City.

Quill said that an executive board report, which will be made today the last day of the union's convention here, will recommend the $2 an hour wage for a 40-hour week.

The wage for surface and subway workers now is approximately $1.50 an hour, Quill said. The work week varies between 40 and 48 hours, he said.

The demands will be submitted with the city next spring. The union does not have a contract with the city administration, but negotiates wage agreement, Quill said.

Earlier, the Brooklyn delegates bolted the convention protesting that a right-wing victory had turned out to be a "perversion of democracy."

PARIS (AP) — Garry Davis said yesterday he and his friends have no more money to sponsor their world-government idea and are going to accept outside contributions. Davis told a news conference 1,500,000 francs (about $5,000) had been spent already.

Pirates Swap Gustine to Cubs

McCullough,
Chambers to Pittsburgh

MINNEAPOLIS — Pittsburgh swapped Third Baseman Frank Gustine and Pitcher Cal McLish to the Chicago Cubs yesterday for Catcher Clyde McCullough and Pitcher Cliff Chambers in a major deal that should help both clubs.

No cash was involved in the trade, which overshadowed all other business at the official opening of the annual convention of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues. In these days of inflation, the over-the-counter price on the four players probably would approach $200,000.

Help at Third

Gustine, a 28-year-old Pirate regular and McCullough, who is 31, are the two established major leaguers in the deal. It was a "Natural" for Pittsburgh badly needed a first string catcher with extra base power and Chicago was so desperate for infield help that Outfielder Andy Pafko was drafted to play third for the 1948 cellar team.

Off their 1948 performances, Gustine is the better buyer. He hit .268 in 131 games while McCullough batted only .212 in 68 games. Gustine, always a great spring hitter, was up among the leaders in May and June but faded with the hot weather. McCullough was No. 2 behind Bob Scheffing most of the way and even took a seat behind Rookie Rube Walker in the Cubs' youth experiment.

Playing under Manager Bill Meyer, who was his boss in the minors years ago, McCullough may be just what the doctor ordered for Pittsburgh. Despite his poor 1948 season he was picked by Leo Durocher for the National league all-star team in July.

Pitchers Key

Actually the two pitchers may be the key to the success of the trade. Chambers, a 29-year-old rookie southpaw, won only two and lost nine for Chicago last summer. However, he was a 24-game winner for Los Angeles in 1947 when he had a better record than Bob Chesnes who did so well for the Pirates last summer.

McCullough, former Brooklyn Dodger phenom who can pitch with either hand, went to Pittsburgh in the big trade involving Kirby Higbe in May of 1947. Higbe, Dixie Howell, Gene Mauch, and McCullough were sent to the Pirates for Al Gionfriddo and a reported $100,000.

With Indianapolis in 1948, McCullough won 12 and lost nine for a pennant winner. He had a 4.13 earned run average and walked only 57 men in 172 innings. At one time Branch Rickey was very high on McCullough, a 23-year-old Oklahoma boy who appeared in 23 games for the Dodgers during the war years of 1943.

Grimm's first reaction to the trade was to announce that Pafko will return to centerfield next season with Gustine taking over at third.

Tripucka Gets Cake, Autographs from USC Players, in Hospital

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Quarterback Frank Tripucka of Notre Dame marked his 21st birthday yesterday, confined to a hospital bed, but four Southern California players made sure it was not a lonely celebration.

The brilliant leader of the undefeated Irish was injured against SC on the last play of the first half Saturday, and he has been in the hospital since.

Yesterday, four stars of that SC team which tied the Irish visited Tripucka. Headed by all-coast Halfback Don Doll, the delegation included Fullback Ralph Pucci, Quarterback George Murphy, and Tackie George Schutte. For their Saturday gridiron foes they brought an elaborate birthday cake. The players said that an SC monogram blanket and an autographed ball also will be given the injured player.

Good Samaritan hospital attendants reported Tripucka's condition to be satisfactory, but did not know when he would be released to return to South Bend, Ind. Notre Dame Backfield Coach Bernie Crimmins has stayed in Los Angeles to return with Tripucka.

'Pops' Answers SOS Of Foreign Coaches

Emergency calls from two foreign coaches have been flashed to Iowa's court coach, Lawrence "Pops" Harrison.

South America and New Zealand have appealed to the accommodating Harrison for information and suggestions, and "Pops" says he will answer the requests as well as he can.

Victor Zaballos of Guayaquil, Ecuador, wrote for details on the American fast break and man-to-man defense, and Len Towers of Auckland, New Zealand, asked for help in forming new basketball leagues in his country.

13 Iowans at Big 9 Meeting

Schedules and special sports forums will occupy the Big Nine in its annual meeting in Chicago Friday through Monday, with 13 Iowa representatives on hand.

Football schedules for the next three years will be worked out with Athletic Director Paul Brechner, Head Coach Dr. Eddie Anderson, and Coaches Frank Carideon and Pat Boland sitting in for Iowa.

Spring schedules in baseball, tennis and golf are to be arranged as well.

Other SUI representatives at Chicago will be Paul Blommers, chairman of the athletic board; Coaches Francis Cretzmeier, Mike Howard, Otto Vogel, Frank O'Connor and Donald Klotz; Business Manager Frank Havlicek, Intramural Director Frederic Beebe and Publicist Eric Wilson.

Louis' Crown may Toft Before Conn

CHICAGO (UPI) — A champion draws the crowds and the heavyweight titleholder, Joe Louis, can look forward to his second standing room only Chicago house in his exhibition against Billy Conn Friday.

Promoters Harry Mendel, Louis' former publicity man, and Frank Harmon said yesterday they were expecting a mob of more than 12,000 with a gate of more than $50,000 for the six-round scrap with 14-ounce gloves in the International amphitheater.

Ring observers believed there was every possibility that Conn could surprise the titleholder.

"Billy's turned into a puncher," one cigar-chewing manager said. "He used to be a fancy boxer with no punch, but now he hits to the body with both hands, and they seem to carry steam."

JIMMY BROWN JOINS BRAVES MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Jimmy Brown was appointed coach of the Boston Braves yesterday, replacing Freddy Fitzsimmons, now switched to the New York Giants in a similar capacity.

Veterans, Sophomores Please New Track Coach with Spirit

By JOHN ROSSI

With 10 lettermen as a nucleus for the Hawkeye indoor track team, Francis X. Cretzmeier begins his first year as coach at Iowa. Coupling these 10 lettermen with several good sophomore prospects the Hawk squad is intact for this year's schedule.

Returning lettermen are

Springers Jack Simpson, Otis Finey, and Dick Washington. Quarter Milers Eric Wilson Jr. and Tom Sangster, Distance Runner John Oxley, Hurdler Russ Merkel, High Jumper Dick Erdener, Pole Vault Clair Jenett and Shot Putter Bob Nelson.

Jack Simpson, who took third in the Big Nine 60-yard dash last year and Russ Merkel, who finished fifth in the low hurdles, have looked exceptionally good after two weeks of workouts.

Another booster to the Iowa track hopes is Eugene Freels who lettered in 1945. He will compete as a hurdler.

John Collins and Bill Remmes have been the best sophomore prospects to date and are improving rapidly.

Coach Cretzmeier, former North high of Des Moines mentor, said he is pleased with the spirit and all around improvement the boys have been showing.

Approximately 25 men are reporting daily for practices in preparation for the first indoor track meet, tentatively scheduled for Feb. 12, with Marquette university furnishing the opposition.

Straub Wins Medal In Intra-Squad Swim

Iowa men swam their first intra-squad races of the training season yesterday, and Erv Straub was presented with a medal for winning the 100-yard event.

Coach Dave Armbuster was pleased with what he learned from the afternoon's races.

The veterans are coming along fine," he said, "and some of the sophomores are improving, but we still got a lot of work to do."

The first action scheduled for the team is the Iowa AAU meet at Ames Jan. 15. The conference season opens in Feb.

In addition, 17 of the swimmers will take part in the National Collegiate Aquatic forum at Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., during the Christmas holiday.

The winners in yesterday's races were: Erv Straub, 100-yard freestyle; Don Watson, freshman, 440-yard freestyle; Larry Larimore, 200-yard breast stroke, and Dick Maine, 100-yard backstroke.

The Cardinals won the divisional title last season over the same club with a secret pass formation which sent the ball from Quarterback Paul Christman to Halfback Boris DiMancio for 80 yards and a touchdown on the first scrimmage of the afternoon.

That gave the Cards an edge they held for a 30-21 triumph. This week Jimmy Conzelman has had his club working daily behind closed doors and it was common knowledge that they would come up with some new devices for the title scrap.

Meanwhile George Halas kept his Bears in regular workouts and admitted only a few trusted guests to the sessions. The Bears were six and one half point favorites in the early line, but most observers believed the odds would narrow before the kickoff.

SUI Junior Law Club Men To Argue First Case Tonight

The first case of the 1948 Junior Law club arguments will be held tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Sixteen junior law students with the highest scholastic standings are selected to argue the annual arguments. Four cases are argued; the first case tonight.

The second and third cases will be argued Dec. 13 and 14, while the final case will be argued shortly after Christmas vacation.

The cases are argued before district court judges of Iowa.

Decide Constitutionality

The case conducted tonight will try to decide if the new Iowa Motor Vehicle Drivers' Responsibility law is constitutional.

The case involves a man who earns his living by driving a truck. His truck was struck by another car which was obviously in the wrong.

The Iowa Department of Public Safety requires, under present laws, for both parties involved in the accident to either show proof that they have insurance coverage, or put up cash security for the damages in case one party refuses to release the other from any liability for the accident.

In this case, neither man had insurance, couldn't put up the cash and wouldn't give a release for the other party.

The trucker's operator's license and auto registration were cancelled by the safety commission.

The trucker brought action to nullify the cancelled license and registration. He claimed the law was unconstitutional on the basis that it deprived him of the right to his livelihood.

The lower court found for the trucker on grounds that the law deprived the trucker of property without due process of law.

Decision Appealed

The safety department appealed to a higher court.

Judge R. G. Yoder of Sigourney will preside over this case. Donald D. Paul and William M. Tucker will argue for the appellee (the trucker) and Charles A. Kintzinger and John R. Byers will argue for the appellant (safety department).

Cedar Rapids Man Receives Slight Cut

Wayne Chadima, 20, Cedar Rapids, suffered a slight cut on his head at 3 p.m. yesterday when the car he was driving failed to make a curve two miles east of Iowa City on highway 6.

J. F. Dytrt, 21, Cedar Rapids, the only other person in the car, escaped injury.

The two men, both Cox college students, were brought to a local doctor's office by a passing bus.

The accident occurred when the car turned on to the shoulder of the road, Chadima said. The car rolled on one side, but was sitting on its wheels when it came to a stop. The left side of the car was badly damaged.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A couple of centuries ago, England's poets and essayists kept body and soul together by persuading wealthy patrons, or groups of patrons, to subscribe to forthcoming volumes in advance. The publishers thus were guaranteed against loss — a practice that many a publisher today looks back to with nostalgic longing.

A minor hack named Hefferman joined 20 other guests for dinner at Lord Foote's and drew forth proposals for a new translation of Horace. The subscription price was two guineas, half to be paid in advance, half on delivery of the book. Lord Foote and his friends reluctantly plunked down a guinea apiece, but as Hefferman was pocketing the plunder, Foote declared sharply, "Hefferman, this is about the thirty-fifth time I have subscribed to your Horace, but for heaven's sake never think of printing it. It is hardship enough to be obliged to throw away a guinea, but the further punishment of reading your vile translation would be intolerable."

There being no record of any translation of Horace by a man named Hefferman, it is probably safe to assume that the gentleman took Lord Foote's advice.

SUI Tests Given Half-Million Pupils During Past Year

Eighteen tons of testing books passed through the hands of about a half million elementary and high school students tested during the last academic year by the Iowa Testing program.

Directed by Prof. E.P. Lindquist of the SUI college of education, the testing program consists of three tests given each year to students in Iowa and adjacent states.

Purpose of the tests are to determine whether students are being properly informed on current social problems. The program was started in 1929 and now employs 90 persons on the office staff during the heavy fall testing season.

Lindquist said that the fall test was given to 150,000 high school students in Iowa and neighboring states last year. Given only in this state, the midwinter test was taken by 145,000 elementary students and the spring examination, now nationally used, tested 170,000 students from the 10th to the 12th grades.

UWF Dream: Castle Built on It's

World federal government—as drawn up and preached by United World Federalists—has generally been looked upon as an idealistic, too-far-in-the-future venture.

Maybe it is. People say: "If the UN is having all these troubles striving for peace, how can world government be any different?"

But the truth of the matter is that UN and a world federation are not as different as day and night. UWF proposes to keep the UN and to use its framework as a "bridge to peace,"' By amending the UN charter or (in case the amendments are vetoed) by supplementing the action of the UN through a partial world federation within the charter framework, UWF sees a brighter hope for peace than in the present UN.

Working with the idea that "at least, it's worth a try," UWF proposes a definite plan. At present, it seems to have crystallized into a "don't ask for too much" attitude.

The results of the last election gave UWF new encouragement. UWF now claims 12 senators and 45 representatives—and President Truman—as supporters.

The immediate UWF objective is the passing of a congressional resolution. This resolution would authorize the U.S. delegation in the UN to propose the calling of a conference to amend the UN charter. (Article 109 of the charter says such a conference can be called after two-thirds of the members of the general assembly and seven members of the security council approve. Thus no one-nation veto could prevent a conference.)

A UWF national officer predicted here recently that the passing of such a congressional resolution is possible in either the first or second session of the 81st congress. Once this obstacle is cleared, he figured, the calling of a conference by the UN—with no veto to bar the path—is almost a certainty.

In line with its "don't ask for too much" policy, UWF has channeled its most urgent demand for amending the UN charter into one field—the control of armaments. Controlling the techniques and weapons of war, UWF maintains, is the first step to peace.

But in the extent of control, UWF points to the "inadequacy" of the Baruch plan, which is acceptable to most UN members but which deals with the control of the atom bomb only. UWF demands the control of all armaments with enforcement against individuals rather than against nations.

It is in the ratification of such an amendment that UWF has to say its biggest IF. Article 108 says ratification requires the approval of two-thirds of the UN members, including all permanent members of the security council. This means a veto is possible.

Obviously, a Russian veto could prevent ratification. But UWF also has an answer to this—make a direct appeal to her on the basis of self preservation. A direct appeal on such a basis has never been made, UWF claims. Then if Russia . . . IF . . .

But even if Russia doesn't approve, UWF suggests another alternative. It proposes the establishment of a partial federation within the UN framework since article 52 provides for regional unions within the UN.

Such a federation wouldn't bar the door to Russia, but would be the strongest possible threat to an uncooperative Kremlin to keep the peace, UWF says.

A partial federation—with its members working in close harmony, especially in regard to armaments—would be stronger than the present U.S. bloc in the UN, UWF maintains. With such an impressive alliance ready and willing to stamp out all aggression, Russia would have to cooperate on the basis of self preservation, UWF figures.

Whether the UWF proposals are any more feasible than the current U.S. tactics in the UN is hard to say. We run into the same barrier that makes it almost impossible to judge right or wrong in the sphere of U.S.-Russian relations and world peace—we don't know how the minds inside the Kremlin operate.

But it is hard for us to criticize only in a destructive way—which has been a common practice—the "at least, it's worth a try" UWF proposals. We know they are aimed in the right direction—peace.

Calculating a Risk

Boosters of the United Nations have taken considerable pride in the fact that Russia did not walk out of the Paris sessions—not even with the west's Berlin indictment on the books and a long record of roll call votes against her.

The really big issue—overuse of the veto—will not be considered until next April when the UN reconvenes.

All Russia can lose today is the favorable sentiment of the western world. That's more than a calculated risk. But when the UN begins to threaten Russia's equal footing by revising the veto power, the not-so-United Nations of today could become a UN without Russia.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT

A Fly Was in His Grapefruit

BY SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

He wakes up disturbed and unhappy and after breakfast he calls his broker and orders him to sell some stocks. He does not quite know why he does this, except that a lot of other people are doing it. Also, there was a fly on his grapefruit, and the last time there was a fly on his grapefruit stocks went down. Anyway, he sells.

On his way to his office, he has a conversation with someone about new cars. It seems there are several brands which can now be bought right off the floor, without waiting. He assesses this information sourly. He wonders if this is an indication that business is going to dip. The prospect of enough new cars for everybody frightens him; he considers it ominous.

He asks himself if he shouldn't sell the new car on which he had delivery only seven weeks ago; after all, he hadn't really needed it, and had bought it only because everybody else was buying new cars.

Maybe if he made a quick sale, he could still get out at what he had paid, or a little more.

HE HAS LUNCH with a friend, and they discuss how best to stay afloat, in a time that is perhaps growing a bit uncertain. His friend recommends watching for selected chances to buy real estate at a little below the market; he feels that the shortage of enclosed space is going to be the longest-lasting shortage in the country. He himself disagrees. He feels that real estate prices already reflect all the facts.

He sits long with his friend, trying to outguess the rest of the world, to figure out what "they" are going to do, "they" being all other persons. But tomorrow he will sit with another friend, and they will talk in much the same way, and the friend of yesterday will already have merged with the "they", with that world, dim, ominous and foreboding, whose course he is so feverishly trying to foretell.

He stands by his desk and tries to fit this piece of information into all the rest of his information, to make everything come into focus, so that he will know what to do. He stares out of the window at streets crowded with people, all apparently purposeful and busy, but he does not see them; the eye within is fixed on the "they", on the "it", on the situation; and somewhere inside him concern registers; it scratches on the lining of his stomach, as on the recording drum of a seismograph.

BEFORE HE LEAVES, he calls his broker, and sells a little more. Again, he does not quite know why he does this; the stocks are good, and bringing sufficient return. And tomorrow, at lunch, he will tell his friend, and then the lining of his friend's stomach will register the news.

But that night just before he goes to bed, he writes a letter to his favorite newspaper, denouncing the proposal to institute nationwide health insurance. That kind of government interference, he says, destroys the confidence of men like himself and it is a well-known fact that we can make progress only on the basis of rock-like faith and courage on the part of men of his own type.

What does the government want to do, scare everybody, he demands. He stamps the letter with a bang of his fist, in his most positive gesture of the day.

TO SHOW HOW EASY IT IS to become an Agent, I'll cite the case of Jeff Fleece. Jeff admits he is a little schizophrenic, and tries to lay it on one or two errors in Iowa City's only morning newspaper.

If you think you're schizophrenic, Jeff, you should see the fellow who works down in the newsroom until 3 a.m. and then crawls out of bed four hours later to attend classes.

Actually schizophrenia is not caused by either working on, or the reading of a newspaper. A hasty peek into Webster reveals schizophrenia is characterized by the loss of contact with environment. I hope the psychology department and Webster agree on this point, because I'd hate to be the cause of a rift between the two.

I heard of an excellent example of contact losing in Britt, Iowa years ago. It was a clear-cut case of self-inflicted contact loss, but the fellow later retrieved it by advertising in the classified section of the local newspaper. That shows what a position of importance newspapers can have . . . finding lost children, selling used cars and locating lost environmental contacts.

TO GET ON WITH THE FOLLOW UP in Britt; one day he decided environment just wasn't worth having contact with. In the light of that, he systematically set about to find the best way possible to lose contact.

At first he thought he would pretend to be an instrument called The Plumbers' Friend. After being squashed several times over stubborn kitchen sink drains Tom soon gave up that idea. (Tom is a fictitious name used here to save the person involved any possible embarrassment. His real name is Halibut Spots.)

Tom tried several other ideas. One he had a fling at being a rucksack, and it developed nicely until a cub scout found him and took off on a hike into the woods for three days. Spending three days in the woods with a cub scout taught Tom a lesson he didn't soon forget. There was a heap of environment in those woods.

For a long time afterward he could be heard mumble disjointed phrases about breadsticks, rice pudding and square knots.

The last fling Tom had at losing contact with environment was when he became a box kite. If there is anyplace where environment is not, it is 75 feet over Britt, Iowa. That is not to say that there is entirely a lack of environment there, but it certainly isn't as full of environment as 75 feet over Detroit.

But even being a box kite over the friendly little city of Britt didn't culminate in much satisfaction for Tom. When he learned he was being frequently identified with alcoholics (being that object which drunks are always higher than), Tom gave up completely trying to lose contact with his environment, and settled down to a life of teaching psychology.

Student Council to Hear Plan Of Iowa Colleges Conference

Student Council President Evan L. Hultman will submit a plan to the council meeting tonight for a student government conference of all Iowa colleges. The conference would be held at SUI next spring.

Student governments of all Iowa colleges will be invited to participate in the conference with SUI. Student council if the plan is accepted, Hultman said. The purposes of the conference would be:

1. To create better cooperation among all Iowa colleges and SUI.

2. To pool ideas on mutual projects and problems.

The tentative plan has already been okayed by President Virgil M. Hancher, Student Affairs Dean Walter R. Goetsch and Acting Liberal Arts Dean Dewey B. Stuit, Hultman said.

Tentative plans call for a two-day conference, probably on a Friday and Saturday in April.

If the council approves the idea tonight, a committee will be appointed to make plans for the conference, he said.

Also at tonight's meeting:

1. These committees will report — Christmas sing, Panacea, NSA, liberal arts seniors election and library.

2. Appointment of a council publicity committee will be considered.

The council will meet at 7:30 p.m. in room 7 of Schaeffer hall.

Hoover Commission Drops Salary Hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Hoover commission has changed its mind about asking Congress to double the president's salary, partly because of the high taxes he would have to pay.

The commission on reorganization of the executive branch, headed by former president Herbert Hoover, previously had agreed to urge that the president's salary be raised from $75,000 to $150,000. Other top men in the government would have been given specific increases ranging from 25 to 150 percent.

The decision against specific increases was based on the fact that doubling the president's salary would put him in a higher income tax bracket, leaving him little more "take home" pay than he now has.

One source said Mr. Hoover favors giving the chief executive some salary increase, plus a sizeable hike in his tax-free expense account. The president now receives an expense sum of $3,000 which many consider to be inadequate.
