Princess Elizabeth, Prince Philip, Son

LONDON (AP)—The Buckingham Palace baby was baptised Charles Philip Arthur George yesterday. Already dubbed "Bonnie Prince Charlie" by the London press, Princess Elizabeth's first born "behaved beautifully" throughout his official christening, said an announcement. He didn't cry. "He just gurgled," said a spectator.

Before the ceremony the child who some day may be King of England received a ration book. His name was enrolled in the tattered red registration book of Westminster borough. And a national savings certificate for 10 shillings ($2) was brought in his name to give him a good start in life.

The ration book entitles him to extra milk, concentrated orange juice and cod liver oil, the same as any other baby of the realm.

Then came the glittering half hour ceremony in the music room presided over by the archbishop of canterbury in the presence of about 50 persons.

The month old prince was brought into the room in the arms of his nurse, Helen Rowe. She banded him to his 18-year-old aunt, Princess Margaret.

It was she who answered "Charles Philip Arthur George of Edinburgh" when the Archbishop said "name this child."

She handed him to the Archbishop for christening with water from the Jordan river which flows between Palestine and Trans-Jordan. The Church of England keeps some on hand for baptisms.

Waymack Resigns As AEC Member

WASHINGTON (AP) W.W. Waymack resigned yesterday as a member of the atomic energy commission.

The White House announced the resignation by making public an exchange of correspondence between Waymack and President Truman.

Waymack, former editor of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, told Mr. Truman in a letter dated November 9:

"My reasons for asking relief now are altogether compelling. I intend first of all, and for the first time in years that seem countless, to try to get some rest. It happens to be needed, for reasons not unrelated to a succession of attempts at public service, including this one."

Mr. Truman accepted the resignation in a letter dated last Monday. The resignation becomes effective Dec. 21.

Board to Discuss SUI Budget Issue

The state board of education will meet here today to determine their recommendation to Gov. Robert D. Blue as to whether tuition at state-owned schools should be raised.

The board met in committee sessions here yesterday with the heads of several state schools. Governor Blue has asked the recommendation by Dec. 20.

SUI President Virgil M. Hancher recently asked for state appropriations of $12,762,909 annually for the university and associated institutions. This is an increase of $6,164,409 over the present annual budget.

Some changes in the SUI faculty are expected to be approved by the board.

Hiss Indicted On Perjury Counts

Grand Jury Charges He Lied In Denial of Chamber's Claims

NEW YORK (AP)—A spy-hunting grand jury last night indicted Alger Hiss, former state department official, on two counts of perjury.

It accused Hiss of lying when he denied he gave secret state department papers to Whittaker Chambers, confessed Soviet courier.

The charges originally had been leveled against Hiss by Chambers, a former senior editor for Time magazine, at hearings of the house committee on un-American activities.

Hiss repeatedly had denied the charges. U.S. Attorney John F. X. McGohey said he expected Hiss to give himself up to authorities. Hiss probably will be arraigned today or Friday, McGohey said.

Hiss is liable to a $2,000 fine and five years imprisonment on each count of the indictment if convicted.

The federal grand jury said in its indictments that the statements it alleges were perjury were made before it yesterday.

Specifically the indictments said Hiss "unlawfully, knowingly, and willfully" lied when:

1. He denied that either he or his wife, Priscilla, gave any documents of the state department or any other government agency to Chambers.

2. Testified that he did not talk to Chambers during February and March, 1938.

The indictments were turned over to the press about five minutes after the jury was discharged by federal judge John J. Clancy.

The jury told the court it had been unable to finish the probe of everything turned up before it but that the uncompleted details will be taken over by a new grand jury which is to be sworn in today.

The jury, which had been sitting for 18 months, earlier indicted 12 top Communist party leaders on charges of advocating violent overthrow of the government.

Hiss and Chambers had appeared daily before the grand jury since it began its espionage probe Dec. 6.

Three days previously, Chambers had produced five rolls of micro-films from a hollowed-out pumpkin on his Maryland farm in connection with his charges. The microfilms purportedly bore approximately 200 pictures of classified documents, three of which allegedly were in Hiss' handwriting.

Gen. Li Tsung-jen, who earlier this year was elected vice-president despite Chiang's opposition, was represented as ready to take over the faltering government as president if guaranteed full power.

Soviets Use Veto Again, Deny UN Bid to Ceylon

PARIS (AP)—Russia vetoed Ceylon's bid for United Nations membership yesterday for the second time and the security council again postponed action on Israel's application.

This was the 29th time the Soviet Union had used her big power privilege to block a majority decision in the council.

Fog, Rain, Ice Predicted with Cold Weather

A heavy fog and intermittent rain continued to shroud Iowa City yesterday, cutting visibility to only one-fourth mile and grounding all planes at the local airport.

United Airlines cancelled all flights in and out of Iowa City both Tuesday and yesterday. Airports were closed at other points throughout the midwest yesterday due to the heavy fog.

The weather outlook for Iowa City promises more fog today, with the added hazard of occasional rain. Temperatures have been hovering just above the freezing mark, but the weather bureau last night warned that temperatures possibly will reach the freezing point in this area today.

Elsewhere in Iowa freezing mist continued to make highway travel treacherous. The state highway commission reported last night that Highway 30 was free of ice across Iowa, but other main roads remained icy.

Highway 20 was listed as icy through Woodbury county but clear east of there. Highways north and east of 141 and 59 are icy, the report said.

Freezing rain or drizzle is expected in the north portion of the state today. Snow flurries and colder is predicted for the west portion of the state. Students venturing to these areas by car this weekend stand a good chance of encountering bad conditions.

Judge Finds Spot For 'Old Timer'

The judge still has a warm spot in his heart left for the old clock that adorned the Johnson county courtroom wall for so many years.

Recently, a new electric clock was installed in the courtroom and the old eight-day pendulum-type clock was taken down. Judge Harold D. Evans estimated that the clock had hung in the courtroom since 1900.

Now, the old clock has found a new home — the judge's office. "I thought it would look nice in here," he said.

University Seeks Tree Snatchers

Identity of Thieves Known to Officials

They cut down the old spruce tree, and they hauled it away — to make a Christmas tree, probably.

A 14-to-16-foot blue spruce estimated to be worth about $30 was "requisitioned" from the slope west of the University hospital several nights ago. It was sawed off about five feet from the ground.

Saw Thieves

Men in a light tan 1947 five-passenger coupe did the job, according to a university official. The official said he was leaving Central park about 8:30 Thursday night when the car, with darkened lights, pulled out behind him, dragging a tree. The car followed him for about a block before turning on its lights.

The incident made him suspicious, the official said, but before he could stop and turn around on the slippery street, the other car was gone.

The following morning a groundsman, W.A. Sapp, 230 S. Dodge street, found the tree had been cut. He also discovered that two more small trees 3 to 4 feet tall had been cut farther down the gully.

Awaiting Proof

The university official said he is "quite certain" he knows "who the party is" but that no action can be taken until there is definite proof.

R.J. Phillips of SUI's physical plant department, to whom the case has been referred, said the university is checking the lead on the party in question.

"I am quite sure the university will take legal action when it has definite proof," Phillips said.

Ford Motor Plant Fire Destroys $500,000 Stock

DETROIT (AP) — An estimated $500,000 worth of Mercury automobiles and Mercury parts were destroyed last night by fire which swept through a portion of the Ford Motor company's huge Rouge plant.

Company spokesmen, who estimated the damage total, said that the materials destroyed would have been enough for 200 cars.

Enraged Husband Shoots Wife, Self

DAVENPORT (AP)—Cleata May Agnessen, 37, was shot and killed and her husband, Alfred Agnessen, 35, critically injured in a street shooting here yesterday.

Detective William Kruse said Agnessen shot his wife three times and then turned a 38 caliber foreign-made revolver on himself. He was not expected to live.

Kruse said the shooting climaxed marital trouble between the two. He said Mrs. Agnessen yesterday had filed for a divorce.

Cedar Rapids Slayer Leaves Meager Clues

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP)—A message scrawled on a panel of framed chicken bones was among the meager clues last night as police sought a solution to the stab-wound slaying of an aircraft armament expert.

The body of Byron C. Hattman, 29-year-old ex-marine from St. Louis, was found lying face down on the floor of his hotel room when a maid entered yesterday.

morning. Blood-spattered walls gave evidence of a struggle preceding his death.

In the trunk of Hattman's car was an 11 by 14-inch frame which contained two chicken bones mounted on a white cloth which bore the crudely printed legend: "Lest You Forget."

Hattman, who specialized in aircraft armament design for the Emerson Electric company of St. Louis, had parked the car in the hotel garage at 5:15 p.m.

Coroner Robert Brosh fixed the time of death at approximately 6 p.m.

Guests at the hotel said they heard sounds of a brief but violent struggle in Hattman's room about 5:45 p.m. The noise subsided so quickly they said, that they thought no more of it.

Hattman's billfold, empty of money, was lying near the body but his watch still was on his wrist.

Hattman's father, John, of Corapolis, Penn., said in a telephone interview that his son had the habit of carrying $300 to $400 with him and that the motive might be robbery. The father left for Cedar Rapids.

In St. Louis, officials of the Emerson company said that although Hattman perhaps knew parts of military secrets, they doubted this angle was connected with the case.

They said the FBI and federal armed forces intelligence officials had been notified purely in conformance with routine which requires a report of any unusual circumstances related to military contact work.

"CHICKEN BONE" clue found by police in the car of Byron C. Hattman, discovered slain in his Cedar Rapids hotel room yesterday, is held by Detective John Kuba. Two bones, apparently part of a chicken, were mounted against a cloth background. The words, "Lest You Forget" were written on the cloth in pencil. The whole was contained in a picture frame.

AT THE SCENE OF THE CRIME. Groundsman W. A. Sapp, 230 S. Dodge street, inspects the stump of the tree stolen from university property last week. The tree, about four inches thick at the point where it was cut, was dragged away by a car which has been identified by university officials. Farther down the gully behind the tree, two more smaller Christmas trees have also been "logged off."

Two SUI Professors Honored By Distinguished Service Titles

Dr. Arthur Steindler, head of the department of orthopedics in the SUI college of medicine, and Dean Emeritus Carl E. Seashore, former dean of the graduate college, yesterday received the title of "Distinguished Service Professor."

Conferred by the state board of education, the titles were recommended by SUI President Virgil M. Hancher.

The title becomes effective immediately for Seashore, who has been on the faculty of the department of psychology on a part-time basis for several years.

Dr. Steindler's title will become effective Jan. 1, when he retires from the headship of the department of orthopedics. At the request of Hancher and the board of education, Dr. Steindler remained head of the department for six months beyond his regular retirement date.

He will stay on the college of medicine faculty and his duties as department head will be assumed on an acting basis by Dr. Robert W. Newman, associate professor.

'Fine' Idea Brings $10 Fine in Court

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — James McCune figured out a way to beat those fast-starting trolley cars away from intersections.

After a trolley pulled away at five intersections before he could pass, McCune got out of his car at the next stop, marched to the rear of the trolley and pulled the pole from the overhead wire.

That stopped the trolley all right and McCune, too, who was hailed before Magistrate E. David Kesler.

The magistrate agreed it was a "fine" idea — and that the fine would be $10 on a charge of disorderly conduct.

House Group Hails Grand Jury Findings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The house committee on un-American activities last night hailed the perjury indictment of Alger Hiss as "vindication" of their espionage investigation and a rebuff to President Truman who had denounced their inquiry as a "red herring."

Acting Chairman Karl E. Mundt (R-SD) said the committee now can concentrate on "recent or current espionage" and the need for legislation to "prevent such disgraceful acts of disloyalty in the future."

Nixon said the indictment was "a tribute to the fine work of the FBI."

Mundt went even further. He congratulated the office of Attorney General Tom C. Clark, with whom the committee was in almost constant turmoil on its "diligent devotion to duty."

To Set Mid-Term Graduating Record

An estimated 709 students, comprising the largest mid-term graduating class in SUI history, will receive degrees at Commencement exercises Feb. 5.

The ceremonies will begin in the fieldhouse at 1:45 p.m. with the procession of candidates.

The approximate number of degree candidates in the different colleges are liberal arts, 271; commerce, 134; graduate, 213, and the professional colleges of law, pharmacy and engineering, 91.

The last figure does not include medicine and dentistry since these colleges will not graduate anyone at the mid-term.

All figures, however, are tentative, and the total number of graduates may be closer to 750.

The present mid-term graduation record is 628 students, set last year.

Unlimited seating in the fieldhouse will not require candidates to pick up guest admission tickets this year.

15 Iowa Cagers Named For Spartan Trip

Hawks Leave Today for First Test Against Michigan State

Fifteen Iowa basketball players will make the trip to Michigan State college for their game with the Spartans Saturday night. Coach Pops Harrison announced yesterday.

The Hawkeye traveling squad will leave for East Lansing by train this afternoon. The Hawks will stay overnight in Chicago at the Morrison hotel and continue to Michigan State tomorrow morning.

For Michigan State it will be the first competition against a Western conference opponent since being admitted into the conference fold on a tentative basis. The Spartans received a unanimous vote at the Big Nine meeting last weekend and are expected to be a full-fledged member by next spring.

Yesterday Harrison named seven forwards, three centers and five guards from his 22-man squad to make the trip. It will be the first test for Iowa's cagers this season after having battered four weak foes by wide margins.

"I think I will start the tall team against Michigan State," Harrison said yesterday. "This group has been working together well and the scoring has been satisfactory."

Therefore, Glenn Dille and Don Hays will be at forwards; Al Weiss at center, and Bob Schulz and Tom Parker at guards. This quintet averages a little more than 6-foot, 4-inches in height.

Weiss, Dille and Parker lead the Hawkeye scorers to date. Weiss has averaged 9.7 points in the four games; Dille has hit for 6.5, and Parker, 5.7.

Michigan State has also played four games this season, winning two and losing two. The Spartans opened their season with a home doubleheader Nov. 29, taking the measure of Alma, 46-33, and Hillsdale, 53-43.

They have not appeared on their home floor since that date and will be back on the East Lan-

Swim Records Made at SU

More national intercollegiate and American amateur swimming records have been created in the University of Iowa fieldhouse pool than in any other American tank, a summary of the marks listed in the 1949 edition of the National Collegiate swimming guide showed yesterday.

Ten national intercollegiate records, five of which also are American amateur records, have been made in the Hawkeye pool. Six were made in 1948. Michigan holds five of the best times, Iowa three. Purdue and Northwestern one each.

The long course, 150 feet, was the site of seven records, all except one made last season in the Big Nine championship meet. The three others were made in the 20 yard course.

National intercollegiate records made by Iowans in their own waters are 100 yard free style, 51.5, and 200 yard free style, 2:13.7, both by Wally Ris in the long course; and 400 yard free style relay, 3:33.4, by Kenny Marsh, Duane Draves, Ervin Straub, and Wally Ris, long course. The 100 and free style relay marks also are American amateur records.

These are the other records made at Iowa: 20 yard course—200 yard free style, 2:09.7; 150 yard back stroke, 1:30.9, (also American amateur); and 300 yard medley relay, 2:51.1; long course—440 yard free style, 4:56.7; 200 yard breast stroke, 2:24, (also American amateur); 150 yard medley relay, 1:37.5, and 300 yard medley relay, 2:58.5 (also American amateur).

Trackmen Post Good Time in Squad Meet

Varsity trackmen turned in exceptionally good times in an intrasquad track meet held yesterday afternoon.

Coach Cretzmeier was pleased with the results of the meet, especially some of the times turned in by freshmen.

Marcellus Brown, sprinter and Jack Davis and Bill Snook, quarter milers, were freshmen performers who Cretzmeier pointed out as outstanding.

Braves Get Pistol Pete Reiser

McCormick Traded With Minor League Player to Dodgers

CHICAGO (AP)—Branch Rickey, reputedly the smartest trader in baseball, got rid of one of Brooklyn's greatest stars yesterday, sending Pistol Pete Reiser to the National League Champion Boston Braves for centerfielder Mike McCormick and a minor league player to be named later.

It was Rickey's only move during the annual major league baseball meeting, and it came a day after the rest of the moguls had completed their business 24 hours ahead of schedule, packed up and gone home.

Rickey said it was a straight trade for players only and that no cash was involved in the transactions.

Observers believed that Rickey thought Reiser, once one of the game's brightest outfielders, was past his peak and through. Once before when Rickey held this opinion, he sold Dizzy Dean, a St. Louis Cardinal star pitcher, to the Chicago Cubs for $185,000.

The following season Dean was nearly useless with a bad arm. Reiser, whose "college try" for long files has carried him into the ball park walls many times, was only a part time player with the Dodgers last season. He played in only 64 games and batted .236, far under his usual average. At the same time he was unhappy with the Dodgers and asked to be traded.

His shift to Boston will put him again on the same team with Eddie Stanky, another Brooklyn great whom Rickey peddled to Boston before the 1947 season.

Stanky, although he was out with injuries the greater part of the season, was credited with invaluable advice and assistance which made the Braves' Rookie Shortstop, Alvin Dark, the Rookie of the Year.

McCormick played in 115 games with the pennant-winning Braves and batted .303. Previously he had played with the Cincinnati Reds.

Eagle Coach Respects Cards

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Coach Greasy Neale told his Philadelphia Eagles yesterday that if they make one mistake in Sunday's National football league title game "The Chicago Cardinals will slaughter us."

The graying Eagle mentor gathered his squad in the dressing room prior to a workout on rain-swept Shibe Park and gave out with a little heart-to-heart talk.

"We have to play 60 minutes of rough, alert football and above all we must think for 60 minutes, not 59, but 60 minutes. One mistake and believe me you'll be trying to catch up."

He turned to his pass defenders and solemnly warned them that the Card's Mal Kutner will present their toughest problem of the season.

"And you linemen, especially the tackles, are in for a rough afternoon of double teaming. If you charge they'll ram you into the stands and if you stand still, our doctor will come out and pick up the pieces. It's entirely a question of the smarter team and smarter individuals."

Referring to the fact that Jimmy Conzelmann's Western division champions have leveled the Eagles five straight times, Neale looked around the room and dryly commented:

"I don't know about you fellows but I'm a little sick of losing to the Cardinals. The chorus of 'me too's' would have been a great convincer for those skeptics who think pros don't care about winning."

Hawklets, Franklin And Davenport Tied For First in League

Mississippi Valley conference standings, released yesterday, reveal that Iowa City's Little Hawks, Franklin of Cedar Rapids and Davenport lead the loop with two victories apiece without defeat.

The Hawklets, who have also captured two non-conference wins this season, have tallied 100 points in their two Mississippi Valley outings to the opposition's 39 markers.

Davenport and McKinley of Cedar Rapids sophomores, with a pair of triumphs and a single win respectively, paces the sophomore division of the conference.

The Iowa City sophs have a single entry on each side of the won and lost ledger for a fifth place tie.

Mississippi Valley contests slated for this week-end are: (Friday)—Iowa City at McKinley (Cedar Rapids); Wilson (Cedar Rapids) at Dubuque; Clinton at West Waterloo; Davenport at East Waterloo. (Saturday)—Dubuque at Iowa City; Franklin (Cedar Rapids) at East Waterloo; West Waterloo at McKinley (Cedar Rapids); Davenport at Roosevelt (Cedar Rapids); and Clinton at Wilson (Cedar Rapids).

Taking Time Out

With Buck Turnbull

Cub Fans Ready to Root for White Sox — Iowa City was a sad town yesterday. You know, we never realized the Chicago Cubs had such a stronghold on this illustrious city of learning until they made the "flop deal of the year" Tuesday.

That, of course, was the trade which sent Eddie Waitkus and Hank Borowy to the Philadelphia Phillies for Dutch Leonard, of all pitchers, and Walt Dubiel. We didn't think the deal was the best in the world, but you should have heard the Cub fans. Such vile oaths! They ranged from P.K. Wrigley to the Cubs' batboy.

We didn't think the fans were that angry until Bill McBride of editorial page fame dropped us a hint to that effect. He'd been talking to Dave Cornell, graduate student, and Dave had been talking to "some of the boys" Tuesday night, and we gathered that "the boys" were all ready to shift their allegiance to the White Sox.

And when you've got Cub fans turning from Wrigley field on the north side to Comiskey park on the south side, there must be something definitely wrong.

Cornell dropped into our office last night. His account went something like this: "I stopped some of the boys on the street Tuesday night," he said. "I didn't think they'd heard about Wrigley's latest, so I asked them, 'Did you fellows hear about the Cubs trade?'"

"Trade," they replied as their eyes lighted up. "The Cubs," "Yeah," Cornell went on. "The Cubs traded Eddie Waitkus to the Phillies."

"No kidding," the boys said. "Waitkus for who? Del Ennis? Richie Ashburn? Dave, tell us who?" "So I told them, Dutch Leonard," Dave said. "Oh no," came the reply in unison. The last time I saw the boys they were heading for some nice quiet place to drown their sorrows."

It has been pretty well known that the Cubs were saving Waitkus for more than a year now as No. 1 trading bait. Their first base situation was solidified by Phil Caverretta, and Waitkus was the meat which was to bring one of the better pitchers in either league to Wrigley field.

But Dutch Leonard has been hanging around the big-time for quite some time now. Definitely past his peak, the 38-year-old knuckle-baller is hardly fair exchange for such a thriving ball player as the 29-year-old Waitkus.

Ah, the poor Cub fans. It doesn't look like their future is going to get any brighter for quite a few more years. But poor P.K. Wrigley. Just think of all the gum chewers he's going to lose.

You know, people never realize all the problems which confront their taller brethren. Take for instance the 6-foot, 9-inch and 7-foot basketball players. They have to buy special clothes, sleep in special beds, etc.

The university was faced with the bed problem when Chuck Darling, 6-foot, 9-inch all-state basketball player from Denver, Colo., enrolled here last fall.

Chuck was to move into South Quad last September but first the university had to find a bed long enough for his lanky frame. After many days of scouting from one dormitory to another, a seven-foot bed was finally found. Where? In Currier hall, of all places.

Perhaps Iowa basketball fans will get somewhat of an idea as to what kind of a team is being brewed here by Pops Harrison after the Hawkeyes meet Michigan State at East Lansing Saturday night. The first four trouncings over weak opposition haven't enlightened the cage followers too much.

It will do the Iowans good to get away from home on a foreign court against a team which ranks near their own class. Although an exceptionally big team, the Hawks lack the experience and savvy which is needed for a rough Big Nine campaign.

Their tremendous scores over Omaha, Colorado college, Creighton and Ithaca mean little in comparison to other conference teams. But Michigan State, and probably St. Mary's of California, will offer the yardstick to calculate Iowa's chances in what looks like one of the toughest Western conference seasons since pre-war years.

Ramblers Overpower Muscatine Quintet

By LELAND OLSON
A barrage of 23 points by Paul Flannery last night paced the St. Mary's Ramblers to a 58-24 rout of St. Mary's from Muscatine.

The Ramblers out-fought and out-classed their victims all the way. Before the Muscatine quintet could dent the scoring column the Ramblers had rung up nine points, and increased the margin to 19-7 at the quarter.

It was more of the same in the second stanza with Dale Seydel and the lanky red-head, Flannery, leading the way. At the intermission Flannery had garnered exactly half of the Ramblers' 30 points, while the visitors were able to muster only 12 markers.

The Dutchmen were unable to penetrate the home-towners' defense in the third period. Three charity tosses made it 15 for the losers. Twelve more points for the Ramblers increased the score to 42-15 going into the final period.

With the Rambler reserves going most of the way in the final quarter, the Muscatine five still found the going too rough. The best it could do was to notch nine points while the visitors hit for 16.

New Plan for Reserved Seat Basketball Games

THE ABOVE DIAGRAM shows the new entrance and seating plan for the reserved seat basketball games in the Iowa fieldhouse from Jan. 3 to March 5. This new arrangement gives the Iowa students 2,200 more seats than they had last year, according to Frank Havlicek, business manager of athletics.

St. Pat's Travels To Fort Madison

St. Pat's will try for its sixth victory of the season tonight when the Irish travel to Fort Madison to engage Central Catholic high school.

The Shamrocks will enter the game to revenge the two trouncings they suffered from Catholic Central last year, when the Fort Madison powerhouse enjoyed an undefeated season.

But this year Catholic Central has a new, and not so successful, squad. So the Irish hope that their fast-break and man-to-man defense can set the scoreboard in their favor.

Dochterman Given Post

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP)—Lew Dochterman, Cedar Rapids, former professional fighter and fight promoter, yesterday was named manager of the 1948 Cedar Rapids Golden Gloves, scheduled for Feb. 8-10.

Accepts Managership

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP)—Phil Seghi, high school basketball coach here, announced yesterday he has accepted the managership of the Green Bay Blue Jays of the Wisconsin State baseball league. He will succeed Roxy Lawson who resigned.

Seghi was manager of the Keokuk team of the Central Association for three years.

'Big 9' Editors To 'Size-Up' SUI Beauties

SUI lovelies vying to be the 1949 Hawkeye beauty queen will first have to charm a group of five Big Nine yearbook editors, Hawkeye editor John Tyson reported yesterday.

The yearbook editors from the Universities of Minnesota, Purdue, Ohio State and Indiana will judge the queen candidates in personal interviews here, Jan. 8. The editors' traveling expenses to Iowa City will be paid by a $3.50 fee to be required of all entries.

Selection by interview will be a change from the previous method of submitting photographs to national beauty experts like John Powers and Harry Conover. The change was made, Tyson said, because SUI students expressed the feeling that judgment on basis of one photograph by one person was unfair and not representative.

To be Point-Rated
Candidates will be point-rated on basis of their features, poise, personality and "overall beauty," Tyson explained. The young lady receiving the highest number of points will be adjudged the winner and honored along with five attendants at the University Prom, Jan. 14.

To insure that the judging will not be based on popularity, all candidates will be introduced to the board by a number and not by name, the Hawkeye editor emphasized.

All names of Hawkeye queen candidates along with the $3.50 entry fee must be submitted to the Hawkeye office by Jan. 6. Tyson requested that no photographs be included. The Hawkeye office was moved yesterday to the temporary barracks near the music building, MBTA.

The judges will be George Thiss of Minnesota, Douglas Lift of Purdue, Bill Jaynes of Ohio State and co-editors of the Indiana yearbook, Jane Young and Helen Say.

Alpha Phi Omega Plans Holiday Smoker Tonight

Alpha Phi Omega, honorary service fraternity, will hold a Christmas smoker at 7:30 tonight at the home of Robert Ballantyne, 111 Lusk street. All members are requested to bring a novelty gift costing not more than 25 cents. A pledge meeting will be held at 7 p.m.

Girl Scouts Entertain Handicapped Children

Sing Carols, Give Christmas Reading

Nine Girl Scouts, dressed as snowmen, entertained the children at the School for Handicapped Children Tuesday evening. The group was under the direction of Mrs. Dale Shymaker and Mrs. Edith Adams.

Mrs. Norman L. Kilpatrick accompanied the girls on a mandolin while they sang Christmas carols. Rita Gray gave the reading, "Twas the Night Before Christmas." Games were played, with the children taking part.

Red stove-pipe hats trimmed with bells and holly, and miniature mandolins were given to the children by the Girl Scouts.

Overholser, Peters Win Ping-Pong Tournament

Richard Overholser took top honors and Donald Peters the runner-up place in the ping-pong tournament. Final matches in the Union board-sponsored competition were played yesterday afternoon in the Iowa Union river room.

Union director Earl E. Harper presented Overholser and Peters with two gold cups. Robert Hogg took third place, and Richard Kahn ranked fourth in the competition.

Roberts Fellowships Available to Iowans For Graduate Work

Lydia C. Roberts graduate fellowships to Columbia university are now available to Iowans who have been graduated from a college or university in Iowa.

Application blanks for the fellowship can be secured by writing to the Office of University Admissions at Columbia university, Morningside Heights in New York City, Director Walter, R. Goetsch, office of student affairs, said yesterday.

March 1 Deadline
The applications and supporting material must be returned to Columbia before March 1 for consideration for the 1949-50 school year.

The Roberts graduate fellowships are awarded annually by trustees of Columbia university. Incumbents of the fellowships are eligible for reappointment.

Provide Transportation
The value of each fellowship at present is $1,100. Transportation cost from Iowa to New York and return is provided.

Scholastic training, seriousness of purpose, moral character and need of financial assistance are taken into consideration in making awards. Only persons of the Caucasian race are considered.

A Roberts fellow may not study law, medicine, dentistry, veterinary medicine or theology, unless such study will lead to a degree in some other field.

Each Iowa educational institution will be asked to furnish comparative ratings on its applicants after the March 1 application deadline, Goetsch said.

Three Active Polio Cases in Hospital

The active polio list at University hospitals increased from two to three yesterday when one new patient was reported by hospital authorities.

The new patient is Melvin Healey, 17 months, Victor. He was admitted to University hospitals Dec. 8 in "fair" condition.

Going "Y" Way

THE ANNUAL CHRISTMAS PROGRAM, co-sponsored by the YWCA and the YMCA, will be held at 4:30 p.m. today in the River room of the Union. Joan Perry and Ruel Bell are co-chairmen. Included in the program will be the YWCA chorus with Helen White, director, and Janet Albee, soloist; the YMCA quartet; Sylvia Haworth, John Pollock, Mary Doy Laura Lou Russell and Nancy Adler.

YWCA MEMBERS will be hostesses at a tea this afternoon from 3 to 4:15 in the Y rooms. Margaret Foster, Mary Lou Horner, and Marion Pfeiffer are in charge. Special guests will be sorority and fraternity housemothers and YWCA board members. Following the tea and Christmas program, a dinner will be served to Y cabinet and board members in the Union.

SHARPS AND FLATS, a choral group sponsored by the YMCA, will present an hour program of Christmas music at 5:30 p.m. today in the Union. The chorus is under the direction of Nat Williams.

A CHRISTMAS PROGRAM was given by YMCA for the children in two wards of University hospital last night. The committee included Jack DeRyke, chairman, Duane Harris, Lois Olson, Tom Greene, Jane Wykle and Joan Blair. Santa Claus distributed gifts, the Sigma Chi fraternity caroled, Tom Greene showed movies and refreshments were served.

Here is a big International Truck doing a big job—taking huge logs out of the woods to a sawmill where they will be cut into lumber for much-needed homes.

Applied social science

1. Customers 2. Employes 3. Stockholders

IT TAKES big companies to turn out and service equipment like this. At International Harvester we have the idea that when a company grows beyond a certain size, it becomes a social as well as business institution. And that as a social institution it has certain well-defined responsibilities.

So we like to think that this picture is an illustration of applied social science. The employes built the truck, but it would not have been built if the customers had not wanted to buy it, nor would it have been built if the stockholders had not furnished Harvester with the necessary capital.

At International Harvester we believe that our business should be run not for any one of these groups alone, but for all of them together... customer, employe, and stockholder.

For our employes, this policy means providing well-paid jobs to the largest number of men and women who can be productively employed. Today we have more than 90,000 employes. Before the war we had 60,000. The average straight-time hourly earnings of our factory employes have increased 92.6% since 1941.

For our customers, it means producing the best possible goods and services at the lowest possible cost. Our margin of profit on sales today is one-third less than in 1941.

For our stockholders, it means a fair return for the savings they have invested in our Company. Dividends on common stock in 1947 were equivalent to 5% on the book value, as compared with 4% in 1941.

The Company as a whole had profits, after taxes, in 1947, of 5 1/2 cents from each dollar of sales. We believe most people regard this as a reasonable rate of profit.

We know it is our continuing ability to earn a reasonable profit that has made it possible for International Harvester, again in this past year, to serve more people—customers, employes, and stockholders in greater measure than ever before.

Profits mean progress for everyone.

We hope to be able to continue to make a reasonable profit with each succeeding year in the future.

U.S. Appointed To Investigate In Costa Rica

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States was named last night to a commission of five American countries to make an on the spot investigation of Costa Rican charges that its territory has been invaded by armed forces from Nicaragua.

Paul C. Daniels, director of the state department's office of American Republic affairs and U.S. representative on the council of the organization of American states, was named the U.S. member.

Other Members

The other members are Ambassadors Jose Maria Bello of Brazil, Silvio Villegas of Colombia, Luis Quintanilla of Mexico, and Juan Bautista Delavalle of Peru.

Lavalle was named commission chairman.

The commission was appointed by Ambassador Enrique V. Corominas, president of the council which has made itself provisional consultative organ under the Rio de Janeiro defense treaty to take measures to preserve hemispheric peace.

Leave Washington

Corominas said the commission will leave Washington late today by airplane furnished by the state department.

It will go first to San Jose, Costa Rica, and immediately afterward to Managua, Nicaragua.

Commission members said they would go everywhere possible in the two countries to gather facts on the Costa Rica's charges.

No Public Hearings

They indicated they would take all the time needed to complete their investigations but did not plan to hold public hearings on the scene.

They indicated they would confine their activities to fact-finding by personal investigations.

The council authorized the commission to have military advisers with them if they wished.

Daniels said he would ask for a military adviser if one could manage to go on such short notice.

Bello said he definitely would be accompanied by Maj. Gen. Duncan, Brazilian military attache here.

School Board Votes To Consider Protest Of W. Benton Paving

The Iowa City board of education voted Tuesday night to reconsider a petition it signed for paving Benton street. The board had voted to sign the petition at its November meeting. It acted last night as a result of protests from residents of the area.

Roosevelt grade school is located on W. Benton street.

Three West Benton street residents appeared before the board, protesting the paving now because assessments for graveling and oiling done this summer are just coming in. They also stated that property there is not of sufficient value to support paving costs.

The board will consider withdrawing or leaving its signature on the petition for paving at its next meeting.

SUI Engineering Professor A.P. Boehmer, 130 Quonset park, also appeared at the meeting to describe what he termed poor ventilation in the Lincoln school first grade where his daughter is a pupil. He said this is a temporary situation "which just shows the greater problem of needing a larger school building."

Architects' plans and cost estimates for additions to Lincoln and Longfellow buildings are being made preliminary to a petition and a possible bond issue election.

Honor Professor On 80th Birthday

Prof. Fred E. Haynes of the sociology department was honored at a party Tuesday night at the Iowa Union to commemorate his 80th birthday.

Prof. Harold W. Saunders, sociology department chairman, served as toastmaster at the party, which was attended by members of the sociology department and a few invited guests.

President Virgil M. Hancher, Prof. Chester A. Phillips, dean of the college of commerce, Prof. John E. Briggs, political science, and Prof. John Gillin, former head of the sociology department at the University of Wisconsin, were among those invited.

Mrs. Eleanor Brown Injured in Accident

Mrs. Eleanor Taylor Brown, 518 1-2 S. Dubuque street, was slightly injured Tuesday when the pickup truck in which she was riding collided with a car driven by Nicholas E. Welter, 421 Bayard avenue.

Her husband, Irving M. Brown, 26-year-old SUI student, was driving the truck when the accident occurred at the corner of Dubuque and Court streets at 5:20 p.m.

According to reports filed with police, damage was estimated at $115 to the Welter car and $50 to the truck driven by Brown.

Mrs. Brown suffered a scratched knee and a bump on the head.

fessor of orthopedics on Dr. Steindler's staff.

"The distinguished service professorship has been created to honor those whose outstanding achievements at the university are paralleled by their equally great contributions to the world in their respective fields," President Hancher said.

"Both of these men have assumed great national and international stature by virtue of their untiring work and unexcelled leadership through many years of faithful service," he said.

The two new distinguished service professors were honored at a dinner by the board of education and university officials yesterday evening in the Iowa Union.

Born and educated in Vienna, Austria, Dr. Steindler recently completed 33 years as a professor at the university. He became head of the department of orthopedic surgery in 1920, and since that time has been largely responsible for the growth and success of Children's hospital, as well as exercising a tremendous influence in the development of the entire medical college.

Dean-Emeritus Seashore came to the university as an assistant professor of philosophy in 1897. He became a full professor of psychology in 1902 and head of the psychology department in 1905. He has held the positions of dean of the graduate college, dean-emeritus and in 1942 he was named dean pro tem. The American Speech Correction association, with which he has been affiliated since its origin, once referred to him as the "Dean of Deans" in the field of psychology and education.

Postoffice Seeking Unknown 'Jud'

Someone named Jud has a lot of food waiting for him at the assistant postmaster's office here, Claim Clerk Bob Shea said yesterday.

A package containing small tins and bottles of food, mostly imported, was being held at that office because the address had come off.

Inside the package was a card saying "to Jud from Esther."

Also inside there were food items—sour Holland onions, cod liver paste from Norway, labeled as high in vitamin content, lumpfish (correct) caviar from Iceland, antipasto from Italy; creme de foie gras from Hungary, and smoked oyster slices and maraschino cherries, both from the U.S.

The package was mailed from Chicago, probably to an Iowa City address, Shea said.

SUI Snow Fences Have Dual Purpose

The new feature on the SUI campus these days is snow fence — approximately 1,500 feet of it.

For the past week, university workmen have been stretching the snow fence over several wind-swept spots on the campus.

The fence has two purposes, Supt. R.J. Phillips of the physical plant said yesterday.

First, it will keep snow in many places from drifting over the sidewalks. Secondly, it will prevent people from cutting across the lawns.

"Most people don't realize that walking on grass this time of the year is very, very hard on it," he said.

Areas receiving the snow fence include the campus along Clinton and Madison streets, the University hospitals section and the grounds around the fine arts building.

Commend Hancher for Aiding Faculty Freedom, Pay Boost

SUI President Virgil M. Hancher has been commended by the local chapter of the American Association of University Professors for his protection "of freedom of the faculty" and "faculty salary adjustments."

The commendations came in the form of two resolutions passed by the AAUP in a meeting at Old Capitol Monday night. The local chapter of AAUP is made up of all full-time SUI professors and instructors, numbering about 400.

Thank Shull

Henry Shull, president of the state board of education, was also thanked for recommending university faculty increases in legislative askings for the next biennium.

AAUP President Dr. S.B. Barker of the college of medicine yesterday said the resolution on faculty freedom grew out of the fact that two professors were active in a political party and were not hampered in any way.

The two professors are Seymour M. Pitcher, who ran for U.S. senator from Iowa on the Progressive ticket, and Bernard Baum, Johnson county Progressive chairman.

Dr. Barker said Hancher and the state board of education affirmed that "there should be freedom of the faculty as long as it does not interfere with their duties to the university."

The local chapter resolved to place its full support behind the recommendations made by Hancher and Shull regarding faculty salary adjustments for the university, Dr. Barker said.

Offers Services

The chapter offered its services in securing data regarding the relationship of salaries to:

1. Cost of living.
2. Salaries paid by other universities of comparable rank and significance.
3. Procuring and retaining faculty members.
4. Other information pertinent to the subject of this action.

Speaker to Discuss Canadian Geology

A Canadian geology expert will discuss features of Canada's geological structure which have been revealed by aerial photography, in the geology building lecture room today at 8 p.m.

The lecturer is J.M. Harrison of the Canadian geological survey. His slide-illustrated talk is titled "Structural Geology in the Canadian Shield as Revealed by Air Photographs."

He has spent twelve field seasons in a mapping program in the pre-Cambrian area of north-eastern Canada, and since 1946 has been in charge of work of the geological survey in Manitoba.

The speaker formerly was an instructor of mineralogy at Queen's university, Kingston, Ont.

His lecture tour was arranged by the Distinguished Lecture Committee of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists and is presented here under the auspices of the SUI geology department and graduate college.

Prof. Davis to Give Ohio Graduation Talk

Prof. Harvey H. Davis, executive dean of the university division of research and teaching, will deliver the fall quarter commencement address at Ohio State university Friday.

Davis will speak on the "Values of a College Education" to a group of more than 1,000 students receiving degrees. Davis' son, Philip, will be one of the graduating students.

Davis served as head of the department of education and as vice-president of Ohio State university for 20 years before coming here last September.

Rifle Team Elects Bill Olson Captain, Fills Other Offices

Bill Olson, A3, Iowa City, was elected captain of the varsity rifle team for the coming season at a recent meeting of all men trying out for the team.

Kay H. Black, A2, Des Moines, was named range manager and Charles Kelly, A2, was elected public relations officer.

This year's rifle team will lose five lettermen from last year's squad, including All-Americans Gerald Echardt, Davenport; Charles Rogier, Iowa City, and William Voelchers, Iowa City.

The squad will depend upon last year's juniors and seniors, and sophomores from last year's freshman and ROTC teams.

Competition for the team will begin in January with the shooting of several postal matches. The team plans to take at least three trips for snoulder-to-shoulder matches with other schools.

Coach of the team is Sgt. James P. Anderson, who took over after the retirement of Sgt. Herbert Wendland.

Tahmisian to Speak At Zoology Seminar

An SUI alumnus, Dr. Theodore Tahmisian of the Argonne laboratory, will speak at a zoology seminar, tomorrow at 4:30 p.m. in room 205 of the zoology building.

The Argonne laboratory is an atomic energy commission laboratory connected with the University of Chicago.

Tahmisian, who received his doctors degree here, will speak on the effects of irradiation on cells. This study is pointed toward controlling growth of malignant cells such as cancer.

During the war Tahmisian served as a captain in the army air physiology division and before going to Argonne laboratory was with the department of internal medicine at the University of Chicago.

Five More Cases Assigned to Court

Five more civil cases have been assigned for trial during the November term of Johnson county district court, Judge Harold D. Evans announced yesterday.

The petit jurors for the November term were ordered to report back in court at 2 p.m., Jan. 3, 1949.

Evans also said the criminal case assignments are scheduled to begin Jan. 10.

The new civil cases in their order of trial are: McInnery vs. Bennett; Smulekoff vs. Murray; Marlas, et al vs. Snyder; Beuter vs. Larew, and Goslin, et al vs. Snyder.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A navy doctor named Oster up New London way won a reputation for working convalescent sailors harder than they toiled in their regular assignments. When they weren't, policing the grounds and mowing lawns, he had them out harvesting hay or slaving in the vegetable patch.

One seaman complained of an upset stomach. Doctor Oster looked him over and said, "Sorry, son, but I'm afraid I'll have to send you over to the hospital."

The seaman groaned, and said, "Good grief, don't send me there, Doc. I'm a sick man!"

The progress of Napoleon's return from Elba can be gauged with perfect accuracy by the headlines in successive issues of a prominent Paris weekly. Issue one proclaimed, "The Corporal Escapes From Elba." The next announced, "The Corporal Lands at Nice." The third read "Napoleon Assembling Forces at Marseilles." The fourth told its readers "General Bonaparte Marching Toward Paris." And the fifth—and biggest of all—blazoned "The Emperor Back Home in Tuileries. Vive l'Empereur!"

Advertising Majors To Hear Manager

Budd Gore, advertising manager of Marshall Fields department store in Chicago, will explain retail store advertising to five university advertising classes today.

Gore, an administrator on the atom bomb project at the University of Chicago during the war, is the third lecturer in a series of speakers appearing before the advertising classes this semester.

Gore was made a member of the university chapter of Alpha Delta Sigma, advertising fraternity, when he visited the campus a year ago.

$300 Damage to Cars in Burlington Street Crash

Glennys Fisher, Sui student from Cedar Rapids, was the driver of a car involved in an accident at 5 p.m. yesterday in the 100 block of Burlington street, police said.

The other vehicle involved was a cab driven by Harold Eggenburg, 1411 Yewell street. Both cars were traveling east on Burlington street.

Damage was estimated by Eggenburg as $100 to the cab and $200 to the car driven by Miss Fisher.

YMCA Truck to Carry Students to New York

The YMCA travel truck will be taking about 20 students to New York for the Christmas holidays, Y President Merle Frey said yesterday. Two licensed chauffeurs are still needed to drive the truck.

Five foreign students are included in those planning to make the trip. The truck may be available to the students for sight-seeing in New York, Frey said.

Publish 3rd Edition Of Research Book

Prof. Ralph M. Barnes, SUI engineering instructor and an authority on motion and time study research, will have the third edition of his book, "Motion and Time Study," published Jan. 3. Motion and time research is a relatively new field of industrial engineering that deals with saving time and effort among industrial workers.

The findings of an 80-factory survey, which Barnes made throughout the country, and revised material of the previous edition is presented in the book.

The Marengo Experiment -

Work of Radioactive Isotopes Told

(This is the seventh in a series summarizing the Marengo lectures on the atomic age.)

By RUSS PAULDING Isotopes — like trained dogs for the totally blind — give scientists chemical eyes.

Sensitive radioactive isotopes for example, can be traced through the body, if they are incorporated in food.

Indicating the small amount of "tracer" needed for observation, biochemistry Prof. Joseph I. Routh explained that "one millicurie of C14 (one form of radioactive carbon) can be detected in a quantity of material 10 million times its size.

"If there was only one teaspoonful of it in 5,000 tons of carbonate we could still trace it," he said. The same amount would be enough to enter the tissues of fifty million rats, and could be located in one rat without killing it.

Cancer location is a current use of radioactive isotopes, Routh pointed out. "Tracers have a habit of collecting or forming concentrations in tissue of this type. A concentration will cause quicker and louder reactions of a Geiger counter, localizing the infected area.

It is therefore worthy to note the potential uses of tracers in studying body diseases, Routh said.

Tracers can also be used in studying plant life, he continued, both healthy and diseased plants. We can trace what is happening in the leaves of plants without cutting up the leaf or killing the plant.

It is possible that someday tracers will be used as cures, since they destroy some cells or glands in plant or animal life, without destroying surrounding organs.

Scientists are discovering many new applications for tracers. Side by side — peacetime and defense developments of atomic energy, are proving their value.

There are a number of major developments in agriculture, for example — important to society as well as the farmer:

- 1. Possibility of growing better plants.
2. Prevention of plant disease.
3. Improvement of soil.
4. Indicating proper or best planting time.
5. Result: increased world food supply.

These points are all-important, since the problem of overpopulation is as prominent as atom bomb destruction. They may help stabilize a strained world economy bent under overpopulation burdens.

Routh said the mysterious process of photosynthesis in the lives of plants is beginning to be explained with the help of radioactive isotopes.

Leaves of plants take up carbon dioxide and water from air.

Under the influence of sunshine they turn this into plant food by making many complicated chemical compounds. Plant food becomes animal food — cash for human beings.

The biochemist said that we have not been able to recreate this process artificially, "but we have been able to make some of the complicated compounds synthetically.

"Now we can put these in the soil, trace them through the plant, and find out what happens."

Just as we can study the complex processes of growing plants we can also study and interpret functions of the human body, Routh continued.

Some of the modern medical applications are as follows:

- 1. Possible cancer and hyperthyroid cure.
2. Malnutrition prevention.
3. Understanding death from shock.
4. More accurate diagnosis of amputation necessity.
5. Study metabolism in human beings and animals.
6. Measurement of bone knitting.

Routh noted that there are forty metabolism experiments in operation now with the radioactive isotope C14. The presence of C14 in the food which is eaten makes it possible to study the tissues and the blood. We hope to find out how blood proteins are made, he continued, "why they break down and why some diseases prevent the body from making them at all.

"Starvation and malnutrition ultimately result in a breaking down of the proteins. The body uses up its stored fat and carbohydrates and finally begins to use the proteins.

"This is why prisoners of war in some of the Japanese camps lost not only their spare fat but much of their muscle. By using isotopes to find out what occurs when protein breaks down, we will vastly increase the possibility of preventing malnutrition.

"Radioactive iodine (I131) can already be used, both as a tracer and cure. It is so sensitive that the presence of one billionth of an ounce can be detected in the system. Since ordinary iodine accumulates in the thyroid gland, radioactive iodine will eventually end up there also.

"Conditions such as hyperthyroidism can be cured with radioactive iodine," Routh said. It has been found, by studying rabbits, that it is possible to destroy the thyroid gland completely without upsetting the other natural processes in a rabbit's body.

It is hoped, Routh added, that the "same processes can be extended to destroy cancerous growths in the body without effecting the healthy parts. Radioactive iodine is given free by the atomic energy commission to centers of research and treatment of such diseases.

"We are now able to handle serious accident cases with greater accuracy," Routh stated. X-rays have told us how badly crushed or shattered the bones may be after an accident, "but they did not tell us how far the circulation has been effected.

"Amputations are usually necessary because of the stoppage of circulation which results in the disease called gangrene — so common among wounded soldiers in the past.

"Tracing radioactive sodium in the blood stream, we can now find out if any circulation remains and to what extent it is restricted."

Routh pointed out that the process of bone knitting — its speed and strength — can be measured with radioactive strontium.

The biochemist asked the Marengo class to remember that there are over 400 such isotopes, and that more may be discovered. We can imagine, he added, "What tremendous strides may be made in the future of the study, prevention and cure of diseases which have so far defied medical science.

"The peacetime uses of isotopes seem to be unlimited but the world has not yet grown wise enough to solve the problem of its own wartime use — violent death.

Isotopes — for medical and agricultural work — are readily available to hospitals and experimental stations. They are all made at Oak Ridge. Because of the big developments during the war they are made in great numbers and shipped to over 300 laboratories here and abroad.

There are stable and radioactive isotopes. C13 is stable. C14, C10, and C11 are unstable — they want to break up, discarding or adding neutrons until they form a stable isotope.

In breaking up they give off atomic energy. There are more than 800 isotopes from the 96 elements, and more than 400 of these are radioactive. You could make small atom bombs out of any of these isotopes.

Work with radioactive isotopes today is but a fraction of what it could be if it hadn't been subordinated to military research.

The uncertain international situation is the only thing that slows down greater production of isotopes for peacetime use.

The atomic energy act of 1946 states that the development of peacetime application must — at all times — be subject to the needs of common defense.

Peace uses — therefore — have been side-lined.

Washington — Russia finally has agreed to return 31 American ships loaned to her during the war and appears ready to resume off-stalemated negotiations on her $11-billion lend-lease account, Acting Secretary of State Robert A. Lovett disclosed yesterday.

Diplomatic officials were at a loss to explain the Soviet move at this time except to speculate that steady state department pressure is getting results.

Lovett told a news conference that Russia agreed in a note received Dec. 9 to send back the vessels — three icebreakers and 28 frigates.

Medical Expert Claims - We Should Live To Be 115

CHICAGO — A human being should live from 100 to 115 years, a specialist said yesterday, but worry and poor eating habits take their toll with other causes in cutting down the life span.

Viewed as a biological machine, the human body should last at least a century, Dr. Smith Freeman, professor of experimental medicine at Northwestern university, said.

Medical science is making headway against the assaults from within and without the body which prevent man from living as long as nature intended, he said.

Among the causes which shorten life are poor nutrition and emotional and psychological disturbances, Freeman told a group of university associates.

"Inadequate nutrition predisposes to tuberculosis, rheumatic fever and probably, to nephritis, and some infectious diseases leave conditions which predispose to degenerative processes in later life," he said.

"On the other hand, over nutrition, through excess calories stored as fat, may contribute materially to physical deterioration and the aging process," he added.

Aging is not purely physical he said. It's emotional and psychological too.

"The notion that excess work and fatigue lead to premature aging may be partly correct," he said. "But it should be emphasized that the capacity of an individual to accept work and responsibility without their contributing to bodily deterioration depends on the emotional response of a person to environment and undertakings."

Causes of death from outside the body are being eliminated, Freeman said. These include reduction of the hazards of birth and development, control of virus diseases and elimination of industrial accidents.

But other causes come from within the body, cancer and arteriosclerosis, for example, he said.

An Open Letter

TO THE EDITOR:

This is meant for an open letter to the University of Iowa athletic department.

This letter was written just after the Ithaca college of New York slaughter had come to an end which I don't think is a credit to the Iowa non-conference victory skin.

I attended the Creighton fiasco Saturday evening which was the most rotten basketball game I ever sat through and I've sat through many of them.

I would think that you would feel guilty taking a $1.50 from the fans who see nothing more than a footrace. For less than half that they could see Podunk play Mudville in a game that would be more exciting than most of the Iowa non-conference tilts.

Do you think that the Iowa players particularly enjoy routing their non-conference foes like they do? How many people witnessed the game Monday night? Something like 3,000 wasn't it? Does that prove my point?

What does it take to make you see that more money will jangle in the till when better non-conference opposition is secured for the Hawks.

I think that this letter speaks for many other true basketball fans besides myself.

Defense Plan Recommends Air Merger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Forrestal yesterday announced plans for a slow but steady tightening up of the armed forces to stop wasting men, money and machines on duplicated duties.

He also said he had recommended to President Truman that the air national guard be merged with the air force reserve, a move almost certain to be protested by the state groups.

Forrestal at the same time announced that a "brain trust" of military and civilian experts will be created to study the question of what weapons should be used by the various services.

The program is another step toward unification of the army, navy and air force and includes:

1. Plans for the navy to take over operation of all military sea transport. The army at present operates about 260 ships plus some chartered vessels. The navy will take these over "gradually" and be responsible for supplying men and materials to overseas points, Forrestal said.

2. A plan for the army to take over all land transport. This has not been definitely set up.

3. Joint use of recruiting facilities and services by all three services at many places immediately, and in the future a single recruiting service for all branches. This will include joint use of office space, medical examining facilities and lodgings and mess halls used for enlistments.

Forrestal said these unification steps must be taken slowly to make sure they are wise ones and do not interfere with the ability of the military defense organization to be ready for any emergency.

The merger of the air national guard with the air force reserve program is the most drastic step reported yesterday.

The air force reserve program has not been doing too well, air force officials concede. Officially there are 659 organized units in the reserve, but only 353 are operational.

The air national guard has 491 units either organized or in the process of being organized. It is authorized to have 514 units by 1952.

Judge Graven Talks To Law Students in Old Capitol Lecture

Inertia, not atomic energy, is the greatest force in the world today, Judge Henry N. Graven of Greene told members of the Law Student association last night.

Graven, United States district judge for the northern district of Iowa and a graduate of the University of Minnesota law school, told of judges "Observed On and Off the Bench."

Speaking in the senate chamber of Old Capitol, Graven condemned lawyers who maintain a "What's the use?" attitude toward their work. Signs of inertia, he pointed out, are keeping irregular office hours, failing to answer letters promptly, failing to read important law literature and being hostile to new ideas.

Satisfaction from the law field does not come from money, the judge observed. "There is no liberty where there are no lawyers," he said. "Their real work may not be rewarded." He referred to abstracts as one example of work for which the lawyer is usually not rewarded financially.

Graven reviewed general law practices and advised students to "stand your ground with firmness but politeness." Clients have a "right to your services," he said, "but don't sell your soul or your conscience."

The lecture was the third in a series sponsored by the Law Student association.

Jam Iowa City Postoffice As Christmas Nears

HEEDING THE POSTMAN'S WARNING, many persons yesterday crowded the Iowa City postoffice to get their gifts on the way. Long waiting lines will probably become more frequent during the next week as many Iowa Citizens send gifts to friends in other parts of the nation.

Christmas Oratorio

— Aply Performed

By LOUIS BUFFINGTON

Last evening the University chorus, under the direction of Prof. Herald Stark, presented the Christmas concert. This marks the second in a series of concerts given by this group during the 1948-49 season.

The opening and major work on the program was Camille Saint-Saens' Christmas Oratorio for orchestra, chorus and soli. In this performance, the orchestra was replaced by two pianos very ably played by John Simms and Robert Chapman. The work is pleasant but innocuous, and has none of the religious or fervent qualities that other Christmas oratorios, such as Handel's "Messiah" possess.

The major portion of the work is given over to the soloists, who, for an amateur group proved themselves quite capable of handling difficult and expressive passages. The duet, "Blessed Is He Who Cometh," was particularly well done by Henrietta Dykstra, soprano, and Frank Poole, baritone.

The chorus in their turn, showed a full, sonorous tone that was most apparent in the section, "Wherefore Do the Heathen Clamor?" Remarkable for a group so large was the fact that their enunciation was nearly flawless—a quality usually lacking in singing organizations.

In the second part of the program, the chorus presented a group of 'a cappella' Christmas selections. First, a seventeenth century motet by Jan Sweelinck, "Born Today," followed by a very simple and moving early American carol, "A Virgin Unspotted," in which the chorus achieved a controlled expressiveness lacking in some of the other songs.

"In Dulci Jubilo," by Robert L. Pearsall, a selection without any particular musical attributes, was handled quite well by the four soloists. This was little importance or interest, although the Vaughn Williams song had that appeal to the senses that is found in nearly all of his music.

The remaining portion of the program was devoted to the singing of popular and well-known Christmas carols and developed into what might be called a community sing. The audience seemed to enjoy this participation for they sang with a great deal of gusto.

Girl Scout Office Plans Open House

Open house is planned for all members and friends of scouting at the Girl Scout office, 119 1-2 E. College street, today.

A display of scout projects will be exhibited at 3 to 5 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m.

The theme of the exhibit is "World Friendship" to indicate the contacts by the girls with other nations throughout the world.

Mrs. David Braverman, 615 S. Capitol street, and Mrs. H. Dabney Kerr, 454 Lexington street, and Prof. George Hartman of the department of geography helped with the Christmas decorations.

Progressives Choose Officers

Mrs. Annette Zykofsky of Iowa City was elected chairman of the Johnson county Progressives at their regular meeting in the Community building last night.

Other officers elected are Dean Doner, vice-chairman; Mrs. Rose Lechay, treasurer; Mrs. Marilyn Schuchman, secretary; Dean Doner, chairman of the activities committee; Mrs. Daphne Scott, chairman of the organizational committee; Mrs. Marilyn Schuchman, chairman of the civil rights committee; and Mrs. Marjory Pitcher, chairman of the legislative committee.

The state central committee of the Progressive party has delegated the Iowa City group to publish a bulletin for distribution to all state members of the party. The articles, outlining the Progressive aim, will be contributed by members. It is scheduled to be published sometime in January.

YMCA to Manage 'Sharps and Flats'

Sharps and Flats, married students' chorus, will be under new management next year. The chorus will be sponsored by the YMCA, Executive Secretary Ralph Schlomig said yesterday, and expanded into a "couples' club" for both married and single students.

Mrs. Henry Good, Sharps and Flats president, said the couples' club would hold a dinner dance once a month for all students.

Mrs. Good said the atmosphere for the dance would be one of checkered table cloths, "garlic bread, ravioli and drippy candles" stuck in bottles.

Couples' club-ers do not have to be members of the chorus but they are invited to join. Male voices are particularly needed, Mrs. Good said. The chorus, directed by Nat Williams, rehearses at 8 p.m. Thursday in the YMCA rooms of the Iowa Union.

YMCA sponsorship will provide the chorus with rehearsal rooms, printing facilities, mailing services, space to store music and aid in recruiting singers.

ISSUE MARRIAGE LICENSES

Marriage licenses were issued yesterday in the Johnson county clerk's office to Paul Edwin Opstad, Iowa City, and Arlene Anfinson, Nevada, and James E. Dunley, Des Moines, and Alice Lotridge, Centerville.

SUI Young Demos Hear Sen. Mercer; Re-Elect Allan Head

Henry Allan, A4, Iowa City, was re-elected president of the SUI Young Democrats at a meeting last night in Schaeffer hall. He was unopposed for the office.

Other officers elected were Bill Eads, A2, Ida Grove, vice president; Virginia Schnoebelen, A1, Iowa City, secretary, and Sherwin Markman, A4, Des Moines, treasurer.

Senator Mercer Speaks
In an informal talk before the election, State Senator Leroy Mercer of Iowa City told the group he favored a state appropriation to cover most of SUI's budget needs before allowing the tuition to be raised here.

(At a state budget meeting held in Des Moines last month two possible alternatives were discussed to meet the university's budget request. One suggested decreasing the size of SUI's scholastic programs, and the other considered raising the tuition.)

Vote for Truman
Monday Mercer cast his vote for President Truman as one of Iowa's ten electors. He reported that the electoral group received a telegram from some person urging them to vote for Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Mercer is considering going to Washington next week to attend the presidential inauguration ceremonies. He said that hotel accommodations in the nation's capitol were hard to get because "Republicans had reserved most of the rooms before the election."

Bob Cosgriff reported on the Young Democrats state executive meeting in Des Moines last month. A discussion on a state fair employment practice commission was given by Sherwin Markman.
