State Board Sets Stand On Tuitions

To Reveal Verdict In Letter to Blue

The state board of education yesterday reached a decision in regard to higher tuitions for state schools, but refused to disclose its stand until it had notified Gov. Robert D. Blue.

Board Secretary David Dancer said the board's position would be revealed in a letter to Blue Monday.

In the budget hearings last month, Blue asked the board to report by Dec. 20 on the advisability of tuition hikes to help relieve pressure on state funds.

Enrollment Limits

At the same meeting, Board President Henry Shull, Sioux City, said enrollment limits might have to be an alternative to increasing the budget.

Yesterday, as part of a two-day meeting held in Old Capitol, the board discussed the tuition question in closed session. At the end of the meeting, Dancer said a decision had been made, but declined to comment further.

The board also conducted hearings on two disputes, the first from Iowa State college at Ames, the other from the Oakdale sanatorium.

Olson Case

Prof. George E. Olson, who recently submitted his resignation as head of the engineering drawing department at Ames, presented his case in an hour-long executive session yesterday morning.

President Charles E. Friley of Iowa State was present at the hearing.

Olson's resignation followed a proposal to absorb the engineering drawing department into the mechanical engineering department of the school.

After the hearing, Dancer said the board had advised Olson to review the matter with the college administration.

Hearing 'Quiet'

He said the hearing, which had been requested by Olson, was "quiet," and that all cases "were fairly presented."

The board took no action on Olson's resignation.

The board failed to agree on the case of Harry W. Reeve, former Oakdale employee, who has brought suit against the board to prevent him and his family from being removed from their living quarters at Oakdale, Dancer said.

Reeve is a former physical plant superintendent and business manager of the sanatorium.

Claims Demotion

On July 1, when the sanatorium came under the jurisdiction of the board of education, Reeve said he was demoted from general manager to physical plant superintendent.

Recently his keys were taken from him, and he was notified that his services were no longer needed, he said.

He brought suit in Johnson county district court to prevent the board from removing his family and household goods from their home, but Judge James P. Gaffney suggested that he and the board attempt to reach a settlement out of court.

No Agreement

Wednesday Reeve and two attorneys appeared before the closed session, but Dancer said no agreement had been reached.

In other business, the board heard President Malcom Price of Iowa State teachers college describe the situation at the Cedar Fall school. Price said housing facilities were not adequate to handle all students desiring admittance.

His appearance, he said, was just "to keep the board informed on what's happening."

Miss Lindsey Resigns Post

The resignation of Lola I. Lindsey, acting director of the school of nursing of the college of medicine, and the appointment of her successor in the teaching of medical nursing were announced late last night by President Virgil M. Hancher.

Miss Amy Frances Brown, who received her nursing training at SUJ and is considered one of the school's outstanding graduates, was appointed instructor in medical nursing to take over the teaching duties of Miss Lindsey.

Miss Lindsey will become superintendent of the Douglas county hospital in Omaha after Jan. 1.

"Miss Lindsey retires after many years of faithful service to the university and her profession," Hancher said. "She has trained more than 2,000 nurses during her career and is known throughout the state and nation."

The resignation will mark the end of Miss Lindsey's 27 years of service to SUJ. She has been affiliated with the nursing faculty since her graduation from here in 1921.

When questioned about her resignation Miss Lindsey said she wanted to get closer to the patient and hospital field. "From now on I'll be applying the knowledge I've been teaching. I'm anxious to see

Crash Darkens Southeast IC

A 10-block-square area in southeast Iowa City was blacked out shortly after 10 o'clock last night when a car driven by a university student struck a guide wire on a high tension electric light pole near the intersection of Franklin street and Kirkwood avenue.

Two occupants of the car, Miss Frances Fannon, 27, 416 S. Clinton street, and Miss Margaret Voelckers, 48, 727 Grant avenue, were taken to University hospitals.

Miss Voelckers was admitted to the hospital, where her condition was described as "good." Information on the condition of Miss Fannon was not available.

The car was driven by William W. Voelckers, 1234 E. Davenport street. He is a nephew of Miss Voelckers. He was not injured.

Voelckers told Iowa City police he was driving northwest on Muscatine road and failed to see the turn onto Kirkwood avenue because of the lights of an oncoming car. The car rolled off a small embankment and struck the guide wire of the electric light pole on the north side of the intersection.

The pole was snapped in two and a power failure over a wide area resulted. Police said the power and light company expected to have the damage repaired by 2 a.m. this morning.

Fight Rages Near Peiping; Rumors Obscure Situation

NANKING (AP) — Government counter-attacks outside the walls of beleaguered Peiping and conflicting announcements over the escape or destruction of a trapped army group northwest of Nanking featured last night's rumor-wild Chinese war news.

Meanwhile a shipload of U.S. marines reached Shanghai, to guard American lives and property is needed.

Hysterical rumors swept Nanking and Peiping. They ranged from the probable to the absurd and obscured the true situation.

Newspapers, especially in Shanghai, banner all day that Communists had captured Peiping and the northern commander, Gen. Fu Tso-Yi.

Associated Press Correspondent Spencer Moosa reported direct from Peiping last night that these stories were not correct.

In a dispatch timed at 5 a.m. Iowa time, Moosa said General Fu's headquarters announced successful counterattacks just outside the Peiping walls.

Falling Coal Slows Search for Miners

ST. MEINRAD, IND. (AP) — Rescue workers hampered by continuing falls dug through debris in the Christmas coal mine yesterday, seeking four men trapped when a portion of the roof fell on them yesterday morning.

John Harpenau, who with two brothers, Jacob and Sylvester, operated the mine on lease, said there seemed "no possibility" that the trapped men would be found alive. It may be today before they are reached, he said.

The brother Jacob, 40, was one of the four trapped. The others were William Huff, Thomas McAllister, and Robert Kellens.

Santa Visits Children's Hospital Early

"EARLY BIRD" SANTA stopped at University hospitals yesterday evening to pass out gifts to the hospitalized children. Dropping in about 6:30 p.m., he and his reindeer were just in time for the YWCA-YMCA Christmas party which featured games, movies, caroling and refreshments. Seven-year-old Treva Johnson, a patient in Ward F at Children's hospital, approached Santa rather gingerly to receive her gift. Treva is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy J. Johnson of Albert City.

President Again Calls Probes 'Red Herring'

Travel Space For Students Nearly Filled

Reports late yesterday indicated space was rapidly being filled on transportation vehicles leaving Iowa City today, but a limited number of seats were still available for students going home for the Christmas holiday.

French Blast Soviet Radio Tower

BERLIN (AP) — French engineers yesterday blew up the giant transmission towers of Radio Berlin but only silenced temporarily Soviet Russia's most powerful propaganda voice in Germany.

Twelve hours after dynamite brought the two tall towers crashing to earth in the French sector, Soviet Commentator Heinz Schmidt was back on the air on the same wave length and apparently with the same broadcasting power.

Radio Berlin's personnel refused to say how they managed it, but German engineers said they might be using another tower at Potsdam.

Schmidt told his radio audience the day-long interruption of powerful Soviet broadcasting was caused by an "order from Washington," not by the French.

Menaced Planes

The French said they blew up the towers in their sector because they menaced American and British planes flying into nearby Tegel airfield.

The Russians had ignored a notice last month that the demolition would be carried out. Radio Berlin's studio is in the British sector.

The Russian commander of Berlin, Maj. Gen. Alexander Kotikov, formally protested the French action, declaring the dynamiting was "illegal and arbitrary." He said he was not satisfied with explanations that the towers menaced aircraft planes.

More Than Hour

It took an hour and forty-five minutes to carry out the job. The towers—used before Germany's defeat to transmit the propaganda of Hitler, Goebbels and other Nazi leaders—were 282 and 393 feet high, respectively.

The action is expected to bring some retaliatory move by the Russians against the French or against all three western powers in the city.

Justice Dep't. Bickers with House Group

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman yesterday stuck to his low rating of the congressional spy hunt, and the justice department and the house investigators argued bitterly over alleged "bungling" in developing secret microfilm evidence.

This latest round of word warfare between the Truman administration and Republican members of the house un-American activities committee developed like this:

Opinion Unchanged

First, Mr. Truman told a White House news conference that the indictment of Alger Hiss, former state department official, on charges of perjury has not changed his opinion of the house inquiry. Thus it remains: He still thinks it is only a red herring.

Hiss pleaded innocent in New York yesterday. He was accused of falsely swearing he did not give secret government documents to Whittaker Chambers, self-described former Communist agent.

Say Truman Wrong

Second, Reps. Mundt (R-S.D.) and Nixon (R-Calif.) of the house committee said Mr. Truman has been and is still wrong in calling the probe a red herring. "He's 100 percent more wrong when he said it this time," said Mundt. "Mr. Truman is on the hook," commented Nixon.

The "bungling" argument was set off by a justice department official in New York who withheld the use of his name.

He said that one roll of microfilm recorded as evidence among the now famous "pumpkin papers" was ruined by a house committee investigator.

Hiss FBI

"So far the F.B.I. has been unable to produce what was on the (one roll of) film," the official said. "The bungling amateur investigator—and I use the word amateur advisedly—may have prevented the possible indictment of an entire wartime espionage ring."

This one of five rolls of film found in a pumpkin on Chambers' Maryland farm, the department official said, has "been exposed to such an extent that we fear it cannot be rehabilitated."

"Sneak Attack"

In Washington, the committee said in a statement that this is a "vicious sneak attack" and a "patent fabrication." Rep. Nixon called it a "falseness with knowledge," intended to cover up lack of diligence by the department in the past.

The committee statement said that when Chambers took committee agents William Wheeler and Donald Appell to the pumpkin hiding place, he told them that one cylinder of film had been mashed and he thought its contents would be worthless.

Lauds House Group

The committee noted further that the house group alone "provided the necessary documentary evidence which led to the breaking of this case and the indictment of one of the parties concerned."

Mr. Truman told his news conference that the attorney general for more than a year has been trying to tighten up espionage laws. He said it is a difficult thing to do, and at the same time stay within constitutional rights.

French Blast Soviet's 'Radio Berlin' Towers

BERLIN (AP) — French engineers yesterday blew up the giant transmission towers of Radio Berlin but only silenced temporarily Soviet Russia's most powerful propaganda voice in Germany.

Twelve hours after dynamite brought the two tall towers crashing to earth in the French sector, Soviet Commentator Heinz Schmidt was back on the air on the same wave length and apparently with the same broadcasting power.

Committee Declares U.S. Military Setup Cumbersome, Costly

WASHINGTON (AP)—A citizen's committee declared yesterday the nation's military establishment is cumbersome and costly, in spite of unification.

The members speculated that Russia may be trying to achieve "victory by bankruptcy," by forcing the United States into constantly increasing military expenditures.

That appraisal came from a committee of the commission on organization of the executive branch of the government, established by the last congress. Former President Herbert Hoover heads the whole commission.

The committee said that while unification had made the United States "far better prepared," the costs of defense preparations are alarmingly high in terms of money, manpower and drain on resources.

The report cited mistakes it said had been made by the armed forces — and there were some red faces in the Pentagon building.

One of the errors was described as a "mistaken intelligence estimate, prepared by a departmental intelligence agency."

An official source, discussing that point in the report, said that President Truman might well have asked for almost complete mobilization if he had followed the estimate that "an immediate military move was afoot abroad, rather than an intensification of the 'cold war.'"

The agency which made the mistake wasn't identified in the report, but there was speculation it originated in the airforce's intelligence section.

It also appeared that the army somehow had lost track of about 9,000 of its tanks. The investigating committee said the army estimated it had 25,000 tanks left over after the war's end, but was able to account for only 16,000.

No-Cut Rule in Effect At 12:20 p.m. Today

Students will have one semester hour added to their graduation requirements for each class missed after 12:20 p.m. today—unless they have been excused, university officials reminded students yesterday.

The "no-cut" university ruling, effective for 24 hours preceding and following a holiday, applies to colleges of liberal arts, commerce, pharmacy and engineering.

Christmas recess begins at 12:20 noon tomorrow and ends at 7:30 a.m. Jan. 3.

Predicts All-American Loop Will Quit

N.Y. Paper Says Cleveland, San Francisco Will Join NFL

NEW YORK (AP)—The three-year-old All-America football conference will decide to quit at its annual meeting this weekend in Cleveland, the New York World Telegram predicted yesterday.

Staff Writer Joe King forecast one major professional circuit next fall—the National league. He said the league would include Cleveland and San Francisco from the present eight-club All-America conference and would exclude Boston. The Boston Yanks franchise, owned by Ted Collins, would be moved to Yankee stadium, New York, King declared.

There was no immediate comment from the All-America conference.

The World Telegram suggested that NFL franchises would be available for the asking to Cleveland and San Francisco.

Earlier, Alexis Thompson, owner of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National league said he was willing to investigate the possibilities of peace between the two leagues.

But late yesterday, George Preston Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins, scoffed at the idea of a truce. Marshall said he thought it might be a little difficult for the National league to add Cleveland and San Francisco even if they wanted to join.

The World Telegram said "the All-America owners know no peace, or deal, is possible."

It added that James Breuil of Buffalo and Ben Lindheimer of Los Angeles might buy into National league clubs.

Thompson says he lost $32,000 this year, even though his team won the eastern division of the National league.

"I'd be a fool," he said, "if I didn't try and resolve a situation in which most of us are losing money."

Thompson's argument for the merger:

If the two leagues form a pool from which they draft college players, it will cut out competitive bidding and keep down players' salaries.

All of which leaves the Redskin owner cool, but conversational.

"The thing wrong with that argument," said Marshall, "is that we have lots of expenses besides players' salaries. They're too high, no doubt about it. But less than a third of our budget goes to players' salaries. Cutting them won't solve the problem."

Then what is the problem? "The real trouble, my boy, is simple: not enough people will pay enough money to see professional football games."

Is the All-America conference taking in enough money?

"Knowing nothing of the financial details of the other league," said Marshall, "except what I read in the papers, it appears on the surface that the only two teams doing sufficient business are Cleveland and San Francisco." "The Redskins," added the man who knows, "made money."

(Special to The Daily Iowan)
FT. MADISON — St. Patrick's Irish of Iowa City romped to an easy victory over Catholic Central high school here last night, 74-42.

The Shamrocks, out to avenge two defeats by the powerful Maroon quintet of last season, ran roughshod over their opponents in tying the all-time school record of 74 points. The triumph was St. Pat's sixth of the campaign against three losses.

The Irish started rolling at the opening tip-off and pulled away to a 25-13 first quarter lead. They jumped the total to 41-19 at the half time intermission, slowed down in the third period with only eight points and then spurred for 25 more markers in the final quarter.

Says New Seating Scheme Aids SUI Basketball Fans

With the new seating and entrance arrangements at the fieldhouse the athletic department hopes to be able to handle basketball crowds better this year than ever before, Frank Havlicek told members of the Rotary club yesterday noon.

Telling the Rotarians the job of the athletic department in seating basketball crowds, Havlicek, business manager of athletics, said the bleachers do not hold 16,000 people but only hold 12,354.

Havlicek said due to the enlarged university enrollment 2,300 seats have been added for students. Surveys have shown that from 85 to 90 percent of the students attend conference basketball games and with the addition to the student sections only 1,800 seats are left for the public, he said.

Havlicek said the job of filling public ticket orders is a big task. Ticket orders are being filled for conference games for the general public now and each customer is limited to two tickets to each of two conference games, he added.

Havlicek read letters requesting tickets for games from people all over the country. He also read letters from people stating how the tickets should be distributed and how the athletic department should be run.

He explained that ticket orders are filled on a lottery basis, giving the applications priority according to the order they are received. He said the department even had an order from a dead person this year.

Havlicek said that up until this year it took two employees two weeks at the beginning of each season just to open the letters requesting seats. With the addition of an automatic letter opener Havlicek said he hoped to expedite the handling of requests.

During this basketball season, Havlicek added, students will sit in the permanent stands on both the north and south sides in the bleachers and at both ends of the court. "I" book holders will sit in the bleachers on the south side, bleachers on the north side and in the court-side chairs.

How to Pack in Three Easy Lessons

WHICH SHALL I PUT IN FIRST? wonders Janis Colby of Hamilton. Packing to go home for vacations becomes a bigger problem every year, thinks Janis, a senior. She strikes a thoughtful pose while trying to decide whether or not she'll need a second suitcase for her vacation clothes. For travel comfort, Janis will take only a minimum of luggage.

"THIS DOESN'T TAKE LONG AT ALL!" Janis finds after she gets started. She makes the most of the space in her suitcase by filling in with small items such as hose, belts and jerseys rolled to occupy a minimum of space. She wraps shoes in tissue and packs them at the bottom of her case. Her heavy dresses will also be packed at the bottom.

Leaving?

Packing Space Limits Vacation Clothes

By MARGE HARRINGTON
Will your wardrobe be ready to start going places the minute you step off the train?
It can be. Careful choosing of the clothes you'll take home and artful packing are the answers. Consider the things you'll be doing and the places you'll go as you decide what will stay in your dormitory closet over vacation. Chasing a minimum of clothes that will go a maximum of places is an art which takes only careful consideration.

Basic Needs
Basic needs for any holiday season include a dressy dress, a casual dress and a skirt. Two or more blouses and the same number of sweaters can be packed to add variety to any suit or skirt.

Wearing the suit on the trip home saves valuable packing space. By choosing a different blouse and accessories, it can be worn on many occasions afterward. Do wear heels on the train, but remember to pack flats for informal wear. You'll also want to be wearing a hat and carrying a purse at your homecoming. The coat you wear will be appropriate for any occasion while you're home.

Include Accessories
Don't forget to include accessories as you pack. Choose jewelry that will go well with the clothes

(Daily Iowan Photos by Lloyd Olson)

JANIS NOW CAN LOOK FORWARD to a two-week holiday vacation at home. She remembers to tie the ribbons in the case to keep her clothing in place. She has tried to prevent wrinkles by putting plenty of tissue paper between layers and folds. Her jackets and dresses are folded at the waist with sleeves neatly turned in. Lengthwise folding will help eliminate wrinkles in her skirts.

you're packing. If formal occasions remember your formal gown, evening bag, slippers and evening bag.

Santa Visits Handicapped Children Here

With a "ho, ho, ho," and a bag chuck full of presents, Santa Claus paid a visit last night to 11 pupils in the Hospital-School for Severely Handicapped Children.

Santas visit highlighted a Christmas party for the handicapped youngsters arranged for them by the Iowa City Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Competing with St. Nick for the excited attention of the youthful audience were entertainers Judy Hill, tap dancer; Dr. Robert Bickford, magician, and Leo Cortimiglia, accordionist.

Following a reading by Don Graham of the traditional Christmas poem, "Night Before Christmas," it was announced that an "unexpected visitor" had arrived.

Santa Claus appearance and his presentation of gifts were received with a variety of emotions ranging from awed looks of wonder to squeals of delight.

Presents included such gifts as a teddy bear, a doll and a fountain pen, but they were especially selected to suit the individual needs of each recipient.

The party was climaxed with the serving of decorated ice cream confections.

STUDENTS AREN'T THE ONLY ONES WHO ENJOY an "after hours" Christmas party. Employees in the office of the registrar held their third annual Christmas fun last night after five o'clock. Inspecting the packages under the tree are Receptionist Betty Sedlak; Jan Enburg, registration clerk; Marie Smith, office supervisor; Virginia Knotts, registration clerk, and Statistician Barbara Fulton. After five acts of surprise entertainment by employees, gifts were distributed and refreshments served.

CAROL SINGING before Old Capitol attracted about 300 persons who braved last night's cold. The group circled around Prof. Harold Stark, song leader for the event, who told them, "Move in closer, it will keep me warmer." The group also received an invitation to go to the Iowa Union after the carol singing for doughnuts and a social hour.

Porter Notes Need For GOP Changes

Prof. Kirk Porter last night said three major changes in attitude are necessary for a Republican party come-back.

Porter, addressing a meeting of SUI young republicans, said the Democrats have sold the voter on the idea that free enterprise and private initiative benefits only big business men and industrialists.

"You will have to tell the man in the streets that the standard of living he enjoys is dependant upon production. And that that production is what you mean when you talk about free enterprise and private initiative," Porter warned.

The head of SUI's political science department told the YRL its party made a tragic mistake in letting the opposition steal the anti-monopoly theme.

"You must tell the voter that monopoly is the very opposite of the free enterprise system you advocate," he said.

Answering a suggestion that the GOP should "toss out the old-timers and put in young men," Porter warned that the idea would be very dangerous.

"The national committee should welcome younger men and give them responsible positions, but that does not mean they should step aside completely," he said. "Young men can be too conservative also," Porter added.

Miss Brown is a former student of Miss Lindsey's and was acclaimed by Miss Lindsey on the occasion of the recent observance of the fiftieth anniversary of the SUI school of nursing.

Miss Lindsey was honored at the anniversary celebration and was presented an opal ring and a gold jewel box by her colleagues in the school.

In 1923, Miss Lindsey was appointed educational director of the school of nursing and an instructor in nursing arts. She was one of the first full-time nursing arts instructors appointed to the SUI staff.

Following the resignation of Miss Lois B. Corder in February, 1947, Miss Lindsey became acting head of the school of nursing.

A new manhole has been installed in a main sewer just south of the fieldhouse. According to workmen, the manhole will make cleaning of the 400-foot long sewer easier, since the "roto-roooter" tool used to remove sewage does not have sufficient power to clean the whole 400-foot distance.

Market Basket — Food Prices Continue to Fall; Reach Lowest Level of Year

As far as the grocery bill goes, it will be a Merry Christmas this year for the Iowa City housewife. Yesterday's Daily Iowan market basket survey showed that food prices are down to their lowest level since last Jan. 8 and are considerably lower than at Christmas time a year ago.

center cut pork chops and grade A eggs highlighted a 16-cent decline in this week's market basket index. Falling to $18.71, the figure compares with $18.50 last Jan. 8 and $17.36 Dec. 18, 1947.

The index is an estimate of the amount a student family of three will pay for food each week. It is tabulated from a weekly survey of prices on 24 food items in seven representative Iowa City grocery stores.

Hitting a new market basket low point, center cut pork chops fell in price for the sixth consecutive week. During this period, pork chops have registered a 16-cent decline and sold yesterday on an average at 59 cents a pound.

Grade A eggs continued the downward trend which started three weeks ago by skidding to 55 cents a dozen, a drop of 4 cents since last week. Eggs, however, were still selling eight cents higher than they were last year at this time.

Shoppers during last year's Christmas season were paying 92 cents a pound for butter; 69 cents for 10 pounds of potatoes; $1.05 for Velveeta cheese and 85 cents a pound for bacon.

Most other food items have held fairly steadily to their prices of a year ago.

MARKET BASKET: This week, $18.71; last week, $18.57. The Daily Iowan market basket index is not an added total of the prices listed above. That is, the index figure takes into consideration both the costs of the items listed above and the amount of each item the student family of three uses in one week. The amount of each item the family of three uses in one week was arrived at in a survey conducted in cooperation with the university bureau of economic and business research.

HERE'S A BUS THAT TOOK THE OVERLAND ROUTE by mistake. The Gray Coach Lines bus went out of control on slippery pavement and skidded up on the arch of a bridge near Bronte, Ont. ## Boys Shoot It, but — Gophers Enjoy Lead

— As Teething Ring

By LLOYD OLSON

The gophers living in Finkbine golf course and sharpshooters youngsters have WSUI technical engineers in a dither.

The gophers and the youngsters threaten the radio stations new cable. If the engineers bury it, the gophers will chew on it. If they string it on short poles, they must trust little boys with rifles.

It's all because the cable that carries WSUI's programs from the studio on campus to their sending station out of town once ran underground through the golf course.

At least it ran underground until the gophers began chomping on the lead that encases the cable. Something about the quality of that lead attracted the little fellows and they ate holes in the cable — and then came trouble.

Moisture seeped in through the holes, fouled the cable for broadcasting and engineers had to fix it frequently.

The engineers dug up the line and patched it. The gophers chewed more holes. And so it went.

Two Men Receive Building Permits

Two building permits, including a $13,000 residence and garage to be built in north Iowa City, were issued by the city engineer's office recently.

The other permit was issued to Albert Kondora, Jr., who will build a $10,000 house at 911 Rundell street.

Examination Results Mailed to Students

Prof. Robert L. Ebel of the SUI examination service said yesterday that entrance examination report slips have been sent to all students who took the tests at the beginning of the semester.

With the tests were sent explanations of why the tests were given, how the student may determine his standing on the tests, what the tests measure, and how to analyze them.

Students who were rated in the highest or lowest one-fourth of the group taking the exams were sent special notices explaining their chances in succeeding in college work.

High scoring students were warned not to try to "just get by" and leave their work at that. Low scoring students were told that they may have to work harder than other students to make satisfactory college grades.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A GULLIBLE soul on the Wall Street Journal would have us believe that the beautiful daughter of doughty sea-captain Cephus Murphy spent so much of her life with her daddy on the bounding main that she was completely innocent in the ways of Romeos on shore.

One night, he says, she went motoring with one of them while the Murphy ship was in dry-dock in Portland, and didn't get home until four in the morning.

Her explanation, given to her father with a perfectly straight face, was, "Dad, we were becalmed. The wind died in one of our tires, and John convinced me we had to wait for it to spring up again."

Whether or not Captain Murphy fell for this tale, the Journal man could not, or would not, say.

Mezz Mezzrow, the blues specialist, claims there is one musician in his new quartette who's gotten so swell-headed his hat is now too big for his trumpet.

Day and Night in the Far East

Taking a quick glance beyond China to other parts of the far east, two events pop up immediately to provide a day-night contrast:

The Netherlands is debating on whether to issue a decree forming a federal interim government of Indonesia without participation of the Indonesian republic.

Last-minute Indonesian assurances that the native republic will recognize Dutch sovereignty in Indonesia during the interim period has stalled the decree.

Center of the controversy is the proposed United States of Indonesia to be a full-fledged partner in the Dutch empire. The Dutch can't bear to see Indonesia cut loose from her apron strings—even if a few threads of unity are to remain.

The natives of Indonesia have a republic functioning and are demanding sovereignty. Dutch slowness has caused all the friction; everyone is supposedly working toward the same goal.

Now the Dutch are considering setting up a native government without recognizing the existing native government. This would make the members of the present Republican government outlaws. With all those "outlaws" hanging around, warfare would be certain.

History probably has never recorded a better example of good intentions being carried out by such bad tactics. The Dutch might observe that the British Commonwealth is built on mutual faith, not mutual suspicion. And it was up to Britain to establish that faith initially.

That's the bad side of the ledger. On the other hand, allied headquarters announced the other day it has approved a $60-million trade agreement between Japan and Siam.

Allied economic officials in Japan hailed the agreement as "still another step in the expansion of occupied Japan's peacetime commerce and foreign trade, designed to make the nation self-sustaining and economically sound."

They could have added that the move was also giving Siam an economic shot in the arm. They could have patted each other on the back for helping re-establish normal commercial activity in the far east.

After all, the western world's solution to the instability that invites Communist expansion is to create stability. Things like a $60-million trade agreement help. And please note: the prospect of an American dollar dole does not enter the picture.

But western policy in the far east is still day-night, hot and

What's Being Said —

As a testimony to labor-management understanding, A. F. Whitney, president of the brotherhood of railway trainmen announced the union leaders want congress to approve a closed shop on the railroads, adding "Of course I realize a lot of railroad officials would have apoplexy if a closed shop was authorized on the railroads—but it might be a good thing if some of them did."

"Promote voluntary health insurance and alert the American people to the danger of a politically controlled compulsory health system" were given as the aims of the American Medical association in hiring a public relations firm to press its multi-million dollar campaign against socialized medicine.

"If he had any doubts about winning, he kept them to himself. He inspired us all to believe that he would win"—presidential press secretary Charles Ross telling of Truman's confidence during the campaign.

"We must make very sure that the farmer is not made the goat"—Secretary of Agriculture Brannan speculating on a drop in the national economy.

"My testimony before the grand jury was entirely truthful"—Alger Hiss after his indictment on two counts of perjury.

The government-busting Central American states are going under the scrutiny of an investigating commission from the council of the organization of American States and Jose Figueres, head of the Costan Rican ruling military junta, dropped this added note: "It is a good possibility the enemy is getting money and arms from dictator Trujillo of the Dominican Republic."

Acting chairman of the un-American activities committee Karl Mundt who has been tomabawking at the justice department for several months buried the hatchet by remarking that he is confident the justice department will prosecute "vigorously." Rep. Nixon added his congratulations to the FBI "for a splendid job of compiling the evidence."

Costa Rica Is Test Case —

Can Rio Pact Stabilize Americas?

Along with Latin America's sudden rash of revolts and coups comes a possible cure — the Rio pact for hemispheric defense.

Costa Rica ratified the pact two weeks ago, putting it immediately into effect. The machinery being set up to administer the pact — in existence only eight days — was promptly called upon by Costa Rica to intervene in its "invasion."

The Organization of American States (OAS) met in Washington, heard Costa Rican charges that Nicaragua was supporting the invasion, listened to Nicaraguan denials and quickly dispatched a special investigation committee to study the situation on the spot.

If it is proven that the Costa Rican war involves other American republics, the Rio pact will get its first test. But if the commission decides — as Nicaragua has maintained — that it is an internal revolt, provisions of the pact will not be imposed.

When the United States proposed a western hemispheric defense pact, it wasn't thinking of Latin American instability. It had a wary eye on Soviet Russia and wished to line up its sister republics in a regional bloc.

The Rio defense pact was adopted by 19 American republics at the Inter-American Defense conference in Rio de Janeiro on Aug. 30, 1947. The pact went into effect following Costa Rica's ratification.

The Rio pact states that in the event of a conflict between members of the agreement, the impartial signatories "shall call upon the contending states to suspend hostilities and restore matters to the status quo ante bellum, and shall take in addition all other necessary measures to re-establish or maintain inter-American peace and security and for the solution of the conflict by peaceful means."

The "teeth" in the treaty empowers the impartial nations to intervene by "recall of chiefs of diplomatic relations, breaking of consular relations, complete or partial interruption of economic relations or of rail, sea, air, postal, telegraphic, telephonic and radio telephonic or radiotelegraphic communications and the use of armed force."

The pact states that the impartial states will work under the UN charter, informing the security council of the trouble and yielding to its directives.

Costa Rica is the test case. Aimed at the Rio pact was designed mainly at hemispheric security against outsiders, it's first application will be internal.

PD RATHER BE RIGHT Are We Still In the Jungle?

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

Like everybody else, I have been trying to figure out why business is going, and I have accumulated some bits of information, which I pass along.

1. THERE ARE layoff rumors scattered almost all over the map. The layoff rumor is the chief conversational tidbit of December, 1948. It has replaced the shortage rumor of the war years. If some of my more sheltered subscribers want to know what working people are talking about right now, the answer is they are talking about their fears of being fired.

2. MOST OF the layoff rumors are exaggerated. Employment generally is far above the wartime peak, let alone the prewar level. But some of the layoff stories are true. In this connection a leading financial writer has said there is a suspicion that layoff stories have been deliberately publicized by some business circles. He points out that news of layoffs would take the steam out of the drive for a fourth-round wage increase. If this is true, it is certainly a clear example of fouling one's own nest. When one considers what layoff stories can do to general business, the idea of deliberately using them to head off wage increases has in it an incoherent and self-destructive element which almost passes understanding.

3. PURCHASING power remains at a record level, though it is flattening off. This indicates that if we were to have enough price cuts, right now, on a voluntary or enforced basis, demand for goods could be kept up. The choice is between doing that way, at the cost of shaving

Claiming an invasion by Nicaraguan troops (arrow), Costa Rican officials at San Jose report their troops firmly entrenched, though the invaders are in control of La Cruz. San Salvador reports say Calderon Guardia, former Costa Rican president, leads the attack.

21 AMERICAN REPUBLIC foreign ministers — the council of the organization of American States — have acknowledged Costa Rica's plea for aid to halt an invasion Costa Rica claims was launched from Nicaragua. Costa Rica demands invoking of military clauses of the Rio de Janeiro pact, claiming the invasion is under leadership of Calderon Guardia, backed by Communists, Nicaraguan national guardsmen and Costa Rican exiles. Guardia is a former Costa Rican president kept from office last May by Jose Figueres, military junta leader who disbanded Costa Rica's army recently.

Costa Rica leader Jose Figueres leads defense. He kept Calderon Guardia from presidency in May, also disbanded Costa Rica army.

Sen. Morse Calls T-H Law 'Dead Duck'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Morse (R-Ore) said yesterday the Taft-Hartley labor act is a "dead duck."

He made his comment as the CIO invited the American Federation of Labor and the railroad brotherhoods to join in a united front for repeal of the law in the new congress.

Morse told a reporter that "liberal Republicans" will join the Democratic majority in the new congress to knock out the labor act.

President Truman and most Democrats called for its repeal. Morse predicted that the "real fight" over labor laws in the next congress will center upon revisions of the original national labor relations or Wagner act.

"We want to make sure that the legislature pendulum does not this time swing too far in the opposite direction," he said.

Morse was one of three Republican senators who voted against passage of the Taft-Hartley act and then supported President Truman's futile veto of it. The others were Senators Langer (K-ND) and Malone (R-NV).

CIO appeal for a united front was made by its president, Philip Murray. He wrote to the heads of the AFL and independent railroad unions urging an early conference "for the purpose of coordinating our efforts in support of a common program of legislative measures."

McBride's Haul

By BILL MCBRIDE

By 8 p.m. this evening the campus will be an empty shell, and most students will be on their way to hometowns from Minot, N. D. to Corpus Christi, Texas. Before everyone takes off, the Agents and Ed and I would like to pound a hearty MERRY CHRISTMAS to you all. One of my presents to myself is to stay no less than 10 feet away from a typewriter for the holiday season, so there will be no Haul until the morning of Jan. 3.

Christmas vacation never comes but what it brings to mind other yuletide holidays in the gone era of brown ribbed stockings and knee length knickers. In those days there was no such thing in the whole world as a Christmas budget.

Christmas was a time of unbearable suspense and taunt juvenile nerves due to the strain of attempting to "be good" so jolly old Santa would not ignore your chimney. Tongues took on an almost permanent hue of pink or green from eating so much hard, striped candy. There were as many as seven drafts made of the letter to St. Nick, and each one gained at least four new suggestions as to what a seven-year-old would like to find under the gigantic spruce, groaning under tons of tinsel and colored paper rope. There was magic in every whisper.

Even the classroom at school took on an entirely different meaning. The teacher didn't seem to mind so much if you whispered to the girl across the aisle, and spitballers weren't rebuked with much harshness.

The snipping of scissors and the swizzle of paste brushes became frantic as the deadline drew near. Thirty mothers would all receive a combination match holder and match sereater to hang in their kitchens. On Christmas morning there were thirty "surprised" and "it's-just-what-I-wanted" mothers to show for a week of mass gift-making activity.

Those match holders may look pretty shabby, in the dull gleam of a 40-watt bulb in the attic today, but on the day they were presented you waited with barely suppressed excitement for the recognition which was bound to come.

The last afternoon of school was the time for the Christmas PARTY. Ten-cent gifts were exchanged and the teacher received 50 handkerchiefs and 10 thin boxes of stationery. In return she gave each member of the class a handful of candy and nuts.

Composition paper red and green baskets had been made during the week, and it was in these that the teacher's gift was to be carried home. If you were an old hand at it, you ate your candy right away because the paper handles on those containers could not be trusted. There was nothing particularly wrong with candy spilled in the snow except sweet-toothed classmates might not return all they helped you pick up.

The sand table was the pride of the class. Each member had a hand in constructing a miniature Bethlehem. Toy boxes at home had been scrounged for contributions which it was thought would add just the right amount of realism to the tiny city. The room smelled of the wet sand. Celluloid cows twice as large as the manger stared stoically at fully equipped leaden doughboys.

Two wise men and a belligerent Indian rode across the barren wastes in a east iron truck, bearing incense and myrrh toward the tinofal star pushed above the Nativity scene with a long slender dowl donated by the High school manual training department.

After singing "Jingle Bells" and "Silent Night" you were dismissed one half hour early, and instead of dallying down by the playground swings as you usually did, it became important to scamper home as quickly as possible. As you opened the door and speculated the handsome decorated tree, a warm feeling crept up inside you... and I wouldn't be a bit surprised if some of that warmth returns when you open that door soon and shout, "I'm home, Mom."

It's Rough . . .

TO THE EDITOR:

In Tuesday's Daily Iowan you printed a letter from Joseph J. Baron Jr. accusing the Iowa basketball team of "disgusting exhibitions" here against our opponents.

He implied that Iowa was un-sportsmanlike and play a low caliber type of basketball.

I agree with Joe in saying that the Iowa team plays rough, but I think he overlooked some of the more important details of the game. Iowa is playing in one of the toughest conferences in the nation, a conference that plays rough and hard; not necessarily dirty.

If our team expects to win any conference games this season, they are going to have to play the brand of basketball that previous Iowa teams have played and the brand that their Big Nine opponents play.

I like to see a good clean game of basketball and I don't think a team has to play dirty to win. The winners of these games will be decided by the score books and not by Emily Post. I'm rooting for Iowa to win by playing the brand of ball they have played in the past. How about it, Joe?

Mr. Baron also accused Iowa coach, "Pops" Harrison of doing a poor job of coaching. The record speaks for itself. I don't think that it is up to laymen like Joe and me to pass judgment on the ability of our coaches.

'Relations' Agency Gets AMA Drive

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Medical association announced last night it has hired a public relations firm to press its multi-million dollar campaign against socialized medicine.

The AMA said it has engaged the firm of Clem Whitaker and Leone Baxter, San Francisco, to handle a "broad program of public education."

The purpose of the campaign, the AMA said, will be to "promote voluntary health insurance and alert the American people to the danger of a politically-controlled compulsory health system."

The move implemented policy adopted at the AMA's recent meeting at St. Louis when it was voted to assess each of 140,000 members $25 to finance a nationwide education program.

Dr. George F. Lull, general manager of the AMA, said the assessment was the first in the 100-year history of the organization and would bring in between $2-million and $3-million.

The AMA especially has been fighting the national health program proposed in the report by Federal Security Administrator Oscar Ewing.

Lull said a planning committee named at St. Louis to direct the campaign already has begun organization work at Chicago. The campaign will be directed from here and Washington, he said.

CROP Shipments So Heavy Must Split Trains in Sections

DAYTON (AP)—Americans laden with food and the Yuletide spirit flooded the Christmas trains for 43 nations with gifts yesterday.

Officials of Christian Rural Overseas program said the outpouring of national generosity was so great that in many states trains must now be split into sections.

Contributions are coming in from areas where formal organizations had not been set up to handle the gifts. Small quantities of such wide variety of commodities have been contributed that processing is necessary before trains can be assembled.

Sponsors said a total of 2,000 carloads still is expected, with corn leading the contributions and wheat and soy beans following in order.

The sponsors also announced activities of crop campaigns will be beamed to Europe, Latin America and the Far East through seven programs on Voice of America, beginning Dec. 20. The Voice of America is the state department's overseas radio service.

Each state has planned one or more dedication services as its train is assembled for movement to a port. Then simultaneous dedications will be held Christmas day at each of the ports from where relief goods will be shipped overseas.

Once the relief shipments reach their overseas destinations, the goods are distributed through church channels, solely on the basis of need, with no regard to race, religious, or political affiliation.

Crop officials listed these mid-west state dedications, subject to last minute changes:

- Illinois — Champaign and Effingham, Dec. 23.
- Indiana — Indianapolis, Dec. 20.
- Iowa — Waterloo, Dec. 21.
- Kansas — Wichita, Dec. 21.
- Minnesota — Albert Lee, Dec. 20.
- Mankata, Dec. 21.
- Missouri — Jackson, Mt. Vernon, Kirksville, Palmyra, Dec. 20-21-22.
- Nebraska — Lincoln, Fremont, North Platte, Grand Island, Dec. 21.
- Fall City, Dec. 22.

'Jud from Esther' Package Claimed

The package of food sent to "Jud from Esther" was claimed at the postoffice yesterday by Prof. Judson S. Brown of the psychology department.

The Daily Towan carried a story yesterday explaining that the package was at the postoffice but couldn't be delivered because the address had been lost and the postal clerks didn't know who "Jud" was.

Containing such exotic foods as sour Holland onions and Norwegian cod liver paste, the package was sent here from Chicago.

Brown said the package was mailed by his sister, Esther Brown from her home in Hartford, Conn. The food items must have fallen from the original container in Chicago, he said.

Truck Trip

SUI Students Take 'Yacht on Wheels'

Twenty-two SUI students will be able to go to New York City for the Christmas holidays in grand style tonight through the generosity of Ralph Schlomg, executive secretary of the YMCA here, and the efforts of James T. Morris, junior from Gary, Indiana.

They will make the trip in Schlomg's specially equipped truck. The vehicle, which was built for sightseeing tours, has all the comforts of home, including beds and a kitchen.

During the Thanksgiving recess, Morris noted that many students here could not get home because transportation was unavailable and expensive. This was especially true for many married students who could not afford to make the trip by train or bus.

Morris scouted around the campus for students with car going east for the Christmas. He was moderately successful in working out a number of share-the-ride and expenses arrangements.

A week ago someone suggested, "It sure would be swell if some one could get Mr. Schlomg's truck."

Morris acted. He presented the case to Schlomg who immediately agreed and even had heating and lighting installed in the truck.

Passing the word around, Morris soon had the maximum load of twenty-two passengers signed up. Most of them are married students. Expenses were estimated, and it was agreed that each member of the group pay $25. Morris said if expenses are less than estimated, the riders will get a refund. The truck will leave Iowa City this evening and is expected to make New York City by Sunday. During the holidays the truck will be parked on a New York City lot owned by one of the members of the group. The party hopes to return here on the morning of Jan. 3.

The vehicle is practically a yacht on wheels. On a 1947 Studebaker one-and-a-half ton chassis, Schlomg built a special enclosed body. It has four double beds, a kitchen with cooking utensils, camping equipment and even closets for clothing. This will not be the first long trip for the truck. Schlomg made two trips to Mexico City with it when he was working in California. This spring he hopes to take a tour of students on a visit to United Nations headquarters at Lake Success, N.Y.
