Asks Abolition of Science Examiners

DES MOINES (UP) — Abolition of the state board of basic science examiners was recommended yesterday by the legislative interim committee.

The committee's report to the legislature convening Monday also will recommend that an office of state architect be established to meet "ever-increasing needs of the state."

The committee, at a session yesterday to approve its final report, declined to recommend an increase in tuition rates at state educational institutions.

The board of basic science examiners authorizes the practice of medicine, osteopathy and chiropractic. The law requires that no member of the board can practice the healing arts. The interim committee contends that since candidates to practice medicine, osteopathy and chiropractic also have to pass examinations given by boards whose members are competent specialists in those fields the board of basic science examiners should be done away with.

Other recommendations: Enlargement of the schools of medicine, dentistry and nursing at the University of Iowa, to "meet the needs of the people." Extension of vocational and occupational therapy programs to all board of control institutions. The committee said some institutions had commendable rehabilitation programs of this type, while some institutions "have practically none."

Removal of the $17 and $10 tuition limits for elementary and high school pupils. Imposition of a ceiling on state relief payments, and removal of "secrecy" involving the recipients of such payments.

The committee said it had approved expenditure of all but $92,000 of the $2-million allotted it by the last legislature, but that the board of education and of control, because of allotments from the committee, will not have to ask the legislature for emergency appropriations until the end of the fiscal year June 30.

The report commended administration of board of education institutions, the operation of the conservation commission and said the board of control institutions are "keeping step with progress."

Enlargement Study Already in Progress, Pres. Hancher Says

A study is already in progress to determine the possibility of increasing beginning classes in medicine and dentistry at SUI, President Virgil M. Hancher said yesterday.

The Iowa legislative interim committee yesterday recommended enlargement of the schools of medicine, dentistry and nursing at the University of Iowa, to "meet the needs of the people."

"University officials have been disturbed by the funds which would be required for any appreciable increase in numbers of students in medicine and dentistry," Hancher said.

He added that the state board of education has already granted the university authority to rehabilitate and improve the program in nursing education subject only to the appropriation of adequate funds for that purpose.

University officials indicated yesterday that there is nothing definite as yet on the study to determine the possibility of enlarging beginning classes in medicine and dentistry. The study is still in preliminary committee stages, they said.

In regard to the interim committee's recommendation to abolish the state board of basic science examiners, Prof. Joseph H. Bodine of the zoology department, SUI's representative on the board, said he expected a fight in the Iowa legislature on the recommendation.

Bodine said he had not known anything in advance of the interim committee's proposed abolition of the board, which authorizes the practice of medicine, osteopathy and chiropractic. He said the board examines candidates to practice these fields only in the basic sciences—atomy, chemistry, bacteriology, physiology and hygiene—and not in their specific fields.

Bodine is the examiner in physiology on the board. He indicated that chiropractors have been trying for some time to get the board abolished but said he expects a battle in the legislature before the recommendation actually passes.

The board was scheduled to hold a regular meeting Tuesday in Des Moines. Other members of the board are H. Earl Rath, Cedar Falls; Frederic F. Smith, Storm Lake; Benjamin H. Peterson, Cedar Rapids; U. A. Hauber, Dav- enport, and Frank G. Brooks, Mt. Vernon.

Marshall sat in the sunshine outside his Pinehurst home yesterday for this first picture (left) since his recent operation for a kidney ailment. In Washington, the new secretary of state, Dean Acheson (left) talked things over with his new undersecretary, James E. Webb. The conversation took place on a park bench in Lafayette Square, across Pennsylvania avenue from the White House.

Sets Goal of More Jobs

Chinese Await New Peace Talk Offer From Government

NANKING (AP)—This anxious capital yesterday awaited a second government offer to talk peace with the Communists, who have launched heavy attacks in central and north China.

The Nanking News said an authoritative source disclosed the government will issue a "second peace statement." A government spokesman said he knew nothing about it, but other sources thought it "quite probable."

The News said the second statement might indicate whether Chiang Kai-Shek will quit the presidency. It added officials hoped the statement would persuade the Communists to abandon their "militaristic tactics."

Chiang's New Year's offer to negotiate brought first a barrage of artillery fire from Communist gunners in the north and on the central front.

Associated Press Correspondent Spencer Moosa in Peking quoted pro-government reports that the nationalists were forced back on the south.

On the front north of Nanking, the former Suchow garrison was melting away under renewed assault by encircling forces, informed sources said. Hunger and bullets were forcing the soldiers to quit. Complete surrender was predicted by the end of the week.

The Band Played On

Herman's Herd Snowbound; Bill Meardon Plays for Interfraternity Formal

Marilyn Madson, a freshman from Sheldon, reigned as queen over the Interfraternity formal dance last night — a dance which had no band less than two hours before it was supposed to start.

Noted jazzman Woody Herman, who was scheduled to play for the dance in the Iowa Union, notified a hurried dance committee at 7:35 p.m. that he was stranded at Cheyenne, Wyoming. The dance was to start at 9 p.m.

Apparently "blue-flamer" Herman didn't have flames hot enough to melt the snows halting trains between Iowa City and Cheyenne the past week.

A hurried phone call, one of many during a frenzied five-hour period, secured Bill Meardon's campus band which assembled in time to play.

Miss Madson, a member of Zeta Tau Alpha, was selected along with four other finalists by a group of judges also hurriedly recruited.

The other finalists who were named as the queen's attendants were Phyl Eschbach, A2, Pi Beta Phi, Ames; Peggy Thompson, A4, Kappa Alpha Theta, Oakland; Rosemary Frazier, A1, Russell house, Missouri Valley, and Doris Anderson, A3, Delta Delta Delta, Cherokee.

Herman, scheduled to pick the queen, had aided in the selection of the finalists after viewing their photographs earlier.

Truman Asks 1-Million Hike

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman yesterday set a goal of 1-million more jobs and expanded production as he unfolded the economic chart he wants the nation to follow in 1949.

Here's a quick look at his economic findings and recommendations in his annual economic report to congress.

He wants: 60-million civilian jobs this year, a 1-million increase over 1948. A rise in production of 3 to 4 percent.

The same general economic and social program he laid down in his state of the union message, including a $4-billion tax boost, stand-by price-wage and allocation controls, 1-million-unit public housing program. He called for extension of rent controls for at least two more years, and recommended repeal of the oleomargarine tax.

The background as he sketched it: There is a "welcome" halt in the overall rise in prices, which is a sign that stable prosperity can be reached. Cost of living appears to be declining slightly. Wages can rise in some industries without inflationary price increases, the President said.

Consumer income was a record $211-billion in '48, but because of price rises, there was no appreciable gain in real income. Profits last year were $21-billion after taxes. In the President's opinion, that was too high.

To Ask Restoration Of Executive Power For Reorganization

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former president Herbert Hoover said yesterday that he will recommend restoration of the president's authority to reorganize the government through executive orders.

The only living former president went to the White House to get the President's view before disclosing his decision as chairman of the bi-partisan committee on reorganization of the executive branch.

Emerging from the President's office, Mr. Hoover told reporters he had conferred with the chief executive on only the one matter.

He recalled that President Roosevelt formerly had authority to reorganize the government subject to congressional veto, but that authority expired last April.

"We discussed whether the commission should or should not recommend that this authority be renewed," Mr. Hoover said.

He did not quote Mr. Truman, but said that the commission will recommend renewal. "That authority is very necessary if some 70 agencies, commissions, bureaus, agencies and entities now running around loose are to be brought into control of one of the departments," the former president said.

"These wandering agencies focus up directly to the White House now and if the President gave each one of them only one hour each a week it would take up 70 of his hours every week."

Marshall, Lovett Resign Positions

A Plaid State of Affairs!

Painters working in the military department area of the fieldhouse had to turn down a recent request by the Scottish Highlanders.

The painters asked the young ladies what color they wanted the organization's room painted.

The request by the group was refused. Sorry, said the painters, no plaid paint.

Secretary of State Post to Dean Acheson

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman yesterday assigned a new team to run American foreign policy. Emphatically he denied that this means any softening of the "tough" policy toward Russia.

At a news conference, Mr. Truman announced: General George C. Marshall, 68 and in ill health, has resigned as secretary of state effective January 20.

Dean Acheson, lawyer and former undersecretary who is 13 years younger than Marshall, will be the new secretary and number one man in the President's second term cabinet.

Robert A. Lovett, 53, Wall street banker and Marshall's undersecretary, will resign along with his chief January 20 for "personal reasons," meaning that he wants to get back to private life.

James E. Webb, 11 years younger than Lovett at 42, and now Mr. Truman's budget director, will succeed Lovett as undersecretary of state.

The immediate reaction to the Acheson appointment was mostly favorable. Cordell Hull, former secretary of state, called Acheson a man of "outstanding ability." Senator Connally (D-Tex.), new chairman of the foreign relations committee, expressed pleasure while calling Marshall's departure regrettable.

Senator Wiley (R-Wis.) said he expected some "concern" among senators over frequent changes in the state department which, he said, have prevented "consistency" in foreign policy.

The changes are subject to senate confirmation. In Britain, high officials expressed "nethusiasm," terming Acheson "a friend of Britain."

In accepting Marshall's resignation, Mr. Truman paid about the highest praise it would be possible for a president to apply to an associate. He said that Marshall was virtually an "indispensable man" and that he had hoped the general would be able to continue as secretary of state after recovering from the kidney operation he underwent Dec. 7.

Now, however, the President said in his letter to Marshall, he is "unwilling to assume the responsibility of further jeopardizing your health." Marshall is at Pinehurst, N.C., where he is slowly convalescing. He said he had no immediate plans for the future.

Reactions . . .

LONDON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin said yesterday that the world "and more especially Europe" owes a great debt to retiring Secretary of State George C. Marshall.

"His successor, Dean Acheson, is no stranger to us," Bevin added. "And he too may be assured to our continued cooperation."

Bevin's official farewell to the father of the Marshall plan topped European reaction to the Washington announcement that Marshall is retiring Jan. 20 for reasons of health and will be succeeded by former undersecretary of state Dean Acheson.

Western official quarters appeared to be worried about whether the change will mean the removal of Marshall's strong restraining hand on President Truman's direct participation in international affairs.

Eastern European diplomats, expressing their views privately, hoped the change would mean a change in America's "cold war" policies and a less rigid attitude toward Russia.

In Paris, a French foreign office spokesman, recalled that Marshall played a major role in liberating Europe from the Nazis and then went on to originate the plan for European recovery through American aid. He described Marshall as a "great soldier and a great diplomat."

Mediator Proposes Wednesday For Israel-Egypt Peace Talks

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y. (UP)—Palestine Mediator Ralph J. Bunche proposed yesterday that Israel and Egypt begin their armistice talks on the island of Rhodes by Wednesday.

Representatives of the two countries indicated their governments would agree but said final approval would have to come from Tel Aviv and Cairo.

The UN, which expects to play a "strong role" in these first direct talks between the young Jewish state and one of the strongest of its hostile Arab neighbors, has headquarters on the little Mediterranean island.

Meanwhile, the cease fire, which was coupled with the agreement of the adversaries to negotiate an armistice, went into effect in the south Palestine desert.

Bunche revealed his suggestions for a prompt start on the truce talks at a meeting of a special security council committee named to oversee compliance with the council's Nov. 4 order for troop withdrawals in the Negev desert.

The meeting was an anti-climax in view of Thursday's bombshell announcement of Israel - Egypt agreement.

Bunche told the seven-nation committee it was pointless for the security council to consider new moves until the armistice talks begin.

The seven members — representing the big five plus Cuba and Norway — all noted the pleasure of their governments in the sudden peaceful turn of events.

The general feeling of optimism was underscored by the announcement from the UN's Haifa headquarters that the Negev war had stopped about 8 a.m. CST.

Bunche told the committee that the agreement brought "promise" that the whole middle eastern dispute could be settled permanently.

Under the terms of the agreement, Egypt and Israel will negotiate on: 1. The security council's order of Nov. 4 calling on the Jews in the Negev to withdraw from the large areas they had overrun since resumption of the desert fighting on Oct. 14.

2. The council's Nov. 16 order calling on the Jewish and all Arab states to negotiate a complete Holy Land armistice.

Woody in Wyoming - Meardon Takes Over

REPLACEMENT FOR WOODY HERMAN, campus bandleader Bill Meardon gives his autograph to an unidentified fan early in the evening at the Interfraternity dance last night. Meardon was called to play for the estimated 800 couples at the Iowa Union when jazzman Herman wired he was stranded in Cheyenne, Wyo., less than two hours before the dance was to start. (Queen picture on page 5).

Bell Ringer — Loses Steady Job

Mervin Belger, custodian of Old Capitol, is losing one of his steady jobs — ringing the bell about 19 times a day.

From now on the "bell - man" can sit back and watch the job being done — automatically.

Last year's senior class gift to the university, an automatic bell-ringer, is arriving on campus, University Architect George Horner said yesterday.

It will be installed as soon as all parts are here, probably in time for the second semester, he said.

Three parts, the program machine, master clock and bell-striker have arrived. The rest is expected soon.

The master clock will be the timing device, and the other two parts will be attached to it. Horner said, in the future, the clock and the program machine can be hooked up to clocks and bells in other campus buildings.

Currently, only the bell will be operated by the system.

To Belger, it will all be "very nice. It will save a lot of running back and forth," he said. At present, he has to drop whatever he's doing and dash to the basement of the building to pull a cord whenever duty calls.

Alumni Secretary Loren Hicker- son said the system cost the three graduating senior classes of 1948 "about $1,200."

Carpenters Vote For Wage Slash

SPRINGFIELD, MO. (AP)—Carpenters yesterday voted themselves a 20 percent slash in hourly wage "because high union wages are stifling the building of private homes" here.

The union said it would try to persuade other unions to make a similar reduction. If that fails, Tom McFarland, business agent of the united brotherhood of carpenters and joiners local, AFL, said carpenters would operate on an open shop basis and work side-by-side with non-union labor on residential building.

Hawks Battle Purdue In Big Nine Opener

Boilermakers Here to Launch 40th Iowa Conference Season

The University of Iowa opens its 40th Western conference basketball season here at the local fieldhouse tonight with Purdue's better-skilled cage team helping the Hawkeyes usher in the 1949 campaign. Game time is 8 p.m. with a sell-out crowd of more than 16,000 expected to be on hand.

In a preliminary contest Iowa's junior varsity will meet Muscatine Junior college beginning at 6 p.m.

Purdue brings an all-veteran starting lineup to battle Coach Pops Harrison's Old Gold quintet. The Boilermakers are virtually intact, the same five which lost to Iowa twice last winter.

Cornell Tips Ripon

MT. VERNON, IOWA (AP) — Cornell college roared back from a seven-point halftime deficit last night to defeat Ripon, 59-55, in an overtime Midwest conference basketball game.

It was Cornell's first win in conference play, and its third straight win after seven straight early-season losses.

Holmstrom led the scoring with 22 points, followed by Weiske with 20 and Brotherton with 19.

Michigan to Meet Gopher Title Threat

By ED SAINSBURY

CHICAGO (AP)—The Big Nine's defending champion basketball team, Michigan, meets its foremost challenger in the race to defend its honors, Minnesota, at Minneapolis Saturday night in the headline conference scrap of a four game bill.

Other conference contests match league-leading Illinois, victors in the only Big Nine game played so far, against Indiana at Bloomington, Northwestern at Ohio State and Purdue at Iowa.

But the Michigan at Minnesota game takes precedence over all. The winner probably will be the "team to beat" for the rest of the season, and it could be that when the two clubs meet again at Ann Arbor Feb. 19, they will tangle for the league title.

Today's game will pit two all conference guards from Michigan, Bob Harrison and Pete Elliott, against Minnesota's all conference center Jim McIntyre.

Harrison has led the Wolverines in scoring this year with 79 points, while McIntyre with 156 for a 19.5 point per game average has been the Gopher pacemaker. But McIntyre, in three previous games against Michigan, has averaged only 8.33 points per contest, and should the Wolverines defense stop him again, it will be up to other Gophers to keep their team in the race.

Slammin' Sammy Swings - Hooks!

SNEAD FINDS TROUBLE EARLY—Sam Snead bells a two-iron off a gravel road on Riviera's long first hole after hooking his drive starting the $15,000 Los Angeles Open yesterday. The shot left him a 75-yard approach and he got down in a regulation five.

Vines Finishes High In Los Angeles Open

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Elsworth Vines of Iowa City, Iowa, finished well up among the early finishers in the first round of the Los Angeles Open Golf tournament yesterday.

Vines fired a 71. Only one other contestant — Bob Gardner, Los Angeles amateur — had turned in a better score, but most of the big-name players had not yet come in. Gardner had a 70.

Browns Sign Evans

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Browns yesterday announced the signing of Ray (Sugar) Evans, 220-pound All-Border conference tackle who starred for Texas School of Mines against West Virginia in the Sun Bowl game on New Year's Day.

Conzelman Quits Coaching Job With Chicago Grid Cardinals

NEW YORK (UP)—Jimmy Conzelman, one of the outstanding tacticians in professional football, will resign his position as coach of the Chicago Cardinals in the National League today. The United Press learned last night from authoritative sources.

Conzelman, who has been connected with the D'Arcy Advertising agency in St. Louis, said he would quit pro football with that firm.

The veteran coach, whose Cardinals won the National league title in 1947 and were beaten in the championship playoffs this season by the Philadelphia Eagles, revealed that he had turned down an offer of $50,000 to coach another NFL club.

Conzelman, a former Navy boxer, professional baseball player, an accomplished pianist, and a master after-dinner speaker, just completed his sixth season as coach of the Cardinals. His contract with the club still had another year to run.

The massive, shaggy-haired Conzelman, a native of St. Louis, was named professional coach of the year in 1947 after guiding his team to the National league championship.

Long regarded as one of the most entertaining banquet speakers in sports, Conzelman's commencement day address at the University of Dayton a few years ago was read into the congressional record and made required reading at the Military Academy at West Point.

Conzelman, who attended Washington university at St. Louis, joined the Navy in World War I. He won the middleweight boxing title at Great Lakes Naval training station.

After the war, he played and coached professional football from 1919 to 1923 with the Decatur, Ill., Rock Island, Ill., Milwaukee, Detroit and Providence, R. I., entries in the National league.

U-High Blue Hawks Outpointed, 32-25, By Wilton Junction

By ALAN MOYER

A bad third quarter cost University high an Eastern Iowa conference game last night when it lost to Wilton Junction, 32-25.

The victory was Wilton's seventh of the season and third in the league. U-high has now dropped four straight conference games.

Curt Miller put the Blue Hawks in front in the first minute of play and went on to score nine points in the opening nine minutes of play.

Wilton, led by Center Jerry Hilgenburg, held a slim one point lead at halftime, but came back strong in the third quarter to outscore the Blue Hawks, 12-3, and lead 29-19.

Held basketless in the third period, the Hawks suddenly broke loose in the last quarter to come within four points, 29-25, but Wilton managed to stall out the remaining two minutes.

Bob Ojemann, U-high center, was pushed as the game ended and was awarded two free throws. However, the crowd was leaving so he was instructed to take the charity tosses at the "wrong" basket. When he made them a squeal arose. Fifteen minutes and two rule books later they were not counted.

New Plan for Reserved Seat Basketball Games

ENTRANCE & SEATING PLAN FOR RESERVED SEAT GAMES JAN. 3 TO MARCH 5

THE ABOVE DIAGRAM shows the new entrance and seating plan for the reserved seat basketball games in the Iowa fieldhouse from Jan. 3 to March 5. This new arrangement gives the Iowa students 2,200 more seats than they had last year, according to Frank Havtcek, business manager of athletics.

Marquette Drubs MSC, 68-48

EAST LANSING, MICH. (UP)—Marquette university romped to an easy 68 to 48 basketball victory over the Michigan State Spartans before 9,000 fans at Jenison fieldhouse.

The Hilltoppers dominated the game throughout. They led at half-time, 37 to 22.

Only once, when Michigan State crept to an 11-10 lead in the first quarter, was Marquette behind. The best the Spartans could do after that was to knot the count twice.

The victory gave Marquette four wins against five defeats. It was Michigan State's fourth loss in eight starts.

Lanky Frank McCabe, six-foot-eight-inch center, led the Marquette scoring avalanche with eight field goals and one free throw, for a 17-point total.

Forward John Granack and Guard Jim Snodgrass shared State scoring honors with 12 points each.

Marquette led by 24 points midway in the fourth period.

Bevens to White Sox

NEW YORK (AP)—Pitcher Floyd (Bill) Bevens, loser of a one-hitter in the 1947 World Series, was sold conditionally yesterday to the Chicago White Sox by the New York Yankees.

The Sox have until opening day to make up their minds on Bevens.

Bevens, 31, was troubled with a sore shoulder during the 1948 season and pitched only eight innings after he was optioned to Newark of the International league in mid-season.

Tennessee Football Coach Bob Neyland as "the finest line coach in the country," said yesterday he has accepted a similar position at West Point.

The victory gave Marquette four wins against five defeats. It was Michigan State's fourth loss in eight starts.

Parlay card listings place the game as an even-money match.

Hettrick's 25 Leads Triumph

By ROBERT DUNCAN

The power-laden Iowa City Little Hawks extended their season victory string to nine games and maintained an unblemished mark in Mississippi Valley play last night by whipping a determined Franklin of Cedar Rapids quintet, 57-48, at City high gym.

Big Gene Hettrick, the Hawk-let's all-state center, scorched the nets for 25 markers to pace his mates to victory and cap scoring honors for the game.

John Culver, Franklin forward, pushed in a fielder in the opening moments of the game to give the Thunderbolts a short-lived 2-0 margin before Hettrick notched a bucket to knot the score. Culver and Hettrick exchanged gift tosses and Bob Diehl scored a free throw to give the Hawkelets a slim 4-3 lead. The two clubs battled on even terms until a bucket by Culver and three free throws by Dick Offringa gave Franklin a 14-9 edge late in the first period.

Rox Shain and Hettrick collaborated on field goals to shorten the gap, 14-13, but Frank Kwach pushed in a basket at the close of the first stanza to give Franklin a 16-13 quarter lead.

The Little Hawks maintained a blistering scoring pace to jump into a commanding 33-24 halftime lead.

The Iowa City scoring machine rolled to a 57-44 lead near the conclusion of the final quarter, but two quick buckets by Mackey and Prouty reduced the City High lead to the nine point margin of victory, 57-48.

Dick Offringa topped Franklin point getters with 18 markers.

The Iowa City sophomores downed the Franklin sophs 47-24 in the preliminary game.

The Little Hawks journey to Clinton tonight for a Mississippi Valley encounter.

Louis' Future Bouts In 'Three Rings'?

CHICAGO (AP)—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis has been offered a $500,000 guarantee to travel with the Dailey Brothers circus from April 16 to Nov. 16, Louis' publicity man, Harry Mendel, announced yesterday.

Mendel said that Louis wanted some time to think over the offer.

Should he accept, it was doubtful that he would be able to defend his title during the summer, Mendel said.

"He never said he would defend the title this summer, though," Mendel said. "Just that he would if he had a satisfactory opponent."

The circus offer was made to Mendel, he said, in a telephone conversation with Ben C. Davenport of Gonzales, Tex., owner of the show. The circus is rated as the third largest in the Nation.

Louis would travel in a private car with the circus and appear twice a day in exhibition bouts.

Tickets for the play may be obtained at room 8A Schaeffer hall. Students may get tickets by presenting their identification cards.

Offer Fellowships In History at Two Graduate Schools

SUI's history department has received information on additional fellowship offers from two universities.

Rochester university graduate school is offering five fellowships for the academic year 1949-1950.

The program is open to students who wish to work on a doctorate degree in American history and who intend to teach history at the college level.

The fellowships will provide an $800 cash award and tuition exemption up to $500. Upon completion of the first year, the fellowships may be renewed for two more years.

Rochester will announce winners of the five awards on April 1, 1949. Applications must be filed by Feb. 1.

A limited number of fellowships are offered by the University of Minnesota for study of a variety of subjects related to the Scandinavian countries.

To be eligible for the awards, students must have a bachelor of arts degree in a social science field.

The Minnesota fellowships provide students with $1,200 in cash and exemption from all tuition fees. They are renewable.

Two scholarships for undergraduate students who intend to take graduate work are also offered by Minnesota. They are valued at $500 each, plus tuition exemption.

Persons who wish further information on the fellowships may contact the SUI history department office.

Dr. Bradbury Takes Position in Kentucky

Dr. James T. Bradbury, who terminated his service as research associate professor in the department of obstetrics and gynecology at University hospitals, left for Louisville, Ky., this week to accept a similar position at the University of Louisville.

Dr. Bradbury will direct an endocrinologic research laboratory at the University of Louisville. Dr. E.D. Plass, head of SUI's department of obstetrics and gynecology, said yesterday.

Mrs. Bradbury and sons, Jim, 17, and David, 11, will remain in Iowa City until Jim's graduation from City high school this spring. They reside at 622 Brookland Park drive.

Dr. Bradbury had been associated with University hospitals since July, 1944. He received his degrees from Montana State college and the University of Michigan.

Sprout, Hanson Wed In Home Ceremony

Two university students, Verna Sprout and Joseph L. Hanson, were married Dec. 20 in the home of the bride's parents near Graettinger.

The bride, a liberal arts junior here, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Richardson, Graettinger. Mr. Hanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Hanson, Estherville, is a senior in the college of liberal arts.

Mr. and Mrs. Hanson are residing at 114 N. Gilbert street.

Court Grants Divorce To Coralville Woman

M. Laverne Herdliska of Coralville was granted a divorce from Melvin Herdliska, an army recruiting officer in Iowa City, yesterday in Johnson county district court.

The plaintiff was awarded custody and control of a minor daughter with the defendant being given the right of visitation.

Cold Weather Brings Rise in Socks

Plain or Betasseled Knitted Knee Socks Keep Coeds Warm

Bright, warm knee socks took the campus fashions by storm this year as soon as winter winds started blowing.

Iowa coeds have become fond of these new leg coverings that reinforce the warmth of long winter coats and dresses. The latest addition to the "covered up look" the socks fit snugly and reach just below the knees. They are especially attractive when they match mittens, sweaters, scarfs or stoles.

Decoration at the top with tiny bells or tassels of multi-colored yarn, makes some stocking unique. Iowa City stores have a large selection of knee socks in red, green, yellow and bright blue; plain or cable stitched; cotton or wool.

An ambitious coed might try knitting herself a pair of argyle knee socks. Very expensive in stores, they are different and comparatively cheap when knit by hand.

At first SUI's male population condemned the stockings heartily. Now they are admitting "the socks are pretty 'snazzy'."

One male student commented, "I like those new long socks. Girls' legs usually look so cold and white in the wintertime. It's a wonder they don't all catch colds."

"On gals with nice legs the socks are O.K." was the emphatic remark of another male fashion critic. He said he has been "noticing" the new style for the last two weeks.

give the opening ceremony. Parents of third grade students will be in charge of the social hour. Committee members are Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Memler, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Lien, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Wade, the Rev. and Mrs. P. Hewison Pollock, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hershberger and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Webster.

C.D.A. — Catholic Daughters of America will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Knights of Columbus hall. A business meeting will be followed by a social hour. Mrs. Mary Condon is committee chairman. Co-chairmen are Mrs. John Leonard and Mrs. George Pechous. Committee members are Matilda Brugman, Marguerite Hesser, Nell Kennedy, Agnes Monaghan, Aloisie Pazdera, Mrs. Adelaide Bulgarelli, Mrs. Tom Kelly, Vera Kendall, Mrs. Mary Mattes, Mrs. Ursula Murray, Mrs. Joe Pechman, Mrs. Dean Shannon, Mrs. Bessie Stockman and Mrs. Alma Zeman.

CANTERBURY CLUB — Canterbury club will meet for 6 o'clock supper tomorrow at the Trinity Episcopal parish house, 320 E. College street. Evensong services will be held at 5 p.m. President Charles Crane will report on the ecumenical student conference which he attended at the University of Kansas during Christmas vacation.

Personal Notes

A baby girl weighing 7 pounds, 4 ounces was born yesterday in Mercy hospital to Mr. and Mrs. George Phillips, Coralville.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kramer, 440 Riverdale, are the parents of a girl, Linda Marie, born Dec. 30 in University hospital. The baby weighed 7 pounds, 7 ounces.

Merle Frey to Attend Y Planning Conference

Merle Frey, C4, president of the SUI YMCA cabinet, will attend the Iowa area planning conference at Cedar Rapids today.

YMCA representatives from throughout the state will plan and discuss social action day, the bible study conference, the faculty "Y" conference, the annual fall conference at Boone and an Easter trip to Washington, D.C.

They will also make recommendations for area commissions for effective citizenship and Christian faith.

Crane to Address Canterbury Group

Charles T. Crane, an SUI engineering student from Hawaii, will report to members of the Canterbury club of the Trinity Episcopal church tomorrow night on the Ecumenical Student conference in Lawrence, Kansas.

Crane is president of the local Canterbury group and represented Iowa City Episcopal students at the meeting, Miss Janet Kedney, Episcopal student center director, said yesterday.

The conference was held from Dec. 27 to Jan. 1 and was attended by over 1,000 student church delegates from all over the nation, Miss Kedney said. Tomorrow night's meeting at 6 o'clock will be the first meeting of the Canterbury club since Christmas vacation, she added.

MRS. McDONALD DIES

Mrs. Margery McDonald, 72, died at 8:30 a.m. yesterday at a local nursing home after an illness of about two years. Funeral arrangements will be made when her son, Richard J. McDonald, Chicago, arrives in Iowa City. The body is at the Oathout Funeral chapel.

Householders Reply To Housing Appeal

Householders yesterday had responded with 31 rooms for students seeking off-campus housing for the second semester.

Manager Richard E. Sweitzer of that office termed the response "gratifying" following an appeal made last Tuesday for housing for single men or women and married couples.

"Private home listings are still needed for all three categories, but particularly for single women and married couples," he added. Persons are inquiring every day about housing for the second semester which begins next month, he said.

He asked townspeople who will have rooms available in February to call X2191. The office is in 111 University hall.

FLACH TO SPEAK

Michael Flach, G. of Prague, Czechoslovakia, will speak on "Our Cold Stricken Peace" Tuesday at Parsons college in Fairfield. He will be the guest of a student assembly organized by the International Relations club there.

PLEATS AND MORE PLEATS!

Wyoming Still Holds Three SUI People

Two SUI students and an instructor — snowbound since Sunday in the western storm area — still had not been heard from late yesterday.

Two other students, delayed by the storm, arrived in Iowa City early yesterday morning.

Freshmen Larry and Jimmie Doan, of South Pasadena, Calif., and Sgt. Clarence F. Taylor, military department instructor, are still somewhere between here and Wyoming.

Military department officials said Sgt. Taylor would not be considered AWOL if he did not arrive before his leave ran out last night.

It was reported early this morning that a train carrying SUI students was to arrive in Cedar Rapids at about 1 a.m.

Train's Location Unknown Cedar Rapids railroad officials said last night they did not know the location of the City of Los Angeles on which the Doan boys are known to be passengers.

Dorothy Page, A4, of Oakland, Calif., and Roderick D. Sage, A4, of Burlington, arrived by Cranick at 1:30 a.m. yesterday.

They were both on the City of San Francisco which arrived in Cedar Rapids at 9:45 Thursday night. Neither knew the other one was aboard.

Miss Page and Sage said they had "a lot of fun" during the three days they were stranded in Cheyenne, Wyo.

'Like Vacation' "It was like another vacation," Miss Page said. "Everyone was very friendly and the railroad was wonderful to us."

Sage said the adventure was an interesting experience. "We were one big happy family."

The astounding thing to Miss Page was that no one complained about the inconvenience caused by the delay.

Sage said he submitted an excuse written by the Cedar Rapids station agent to the liberal arts advisory office. He was told he would not be penalized for missing his Monday classes.

Saw Northwestern Show "There wasn't much to do in Cheyenne at first," Miss Page said, but she saw "quite a few" movies and also the Northwestern student show.

Sage said he missed the student show but passed the time playing cards and bowling.

The City of San Francisco was the first passenger train out of Cheyenne early Thursday morning. It was also the first one snowbound there.

Bridge Construction Halted Temporarily

Work on the new Benton street bridge has halted for the present, city officials said yesterday, because of delays in the shipment of steel from the Gary, Ind., steel plant.

Construction began in the fall on the bridge and completion is expected by July of this year.

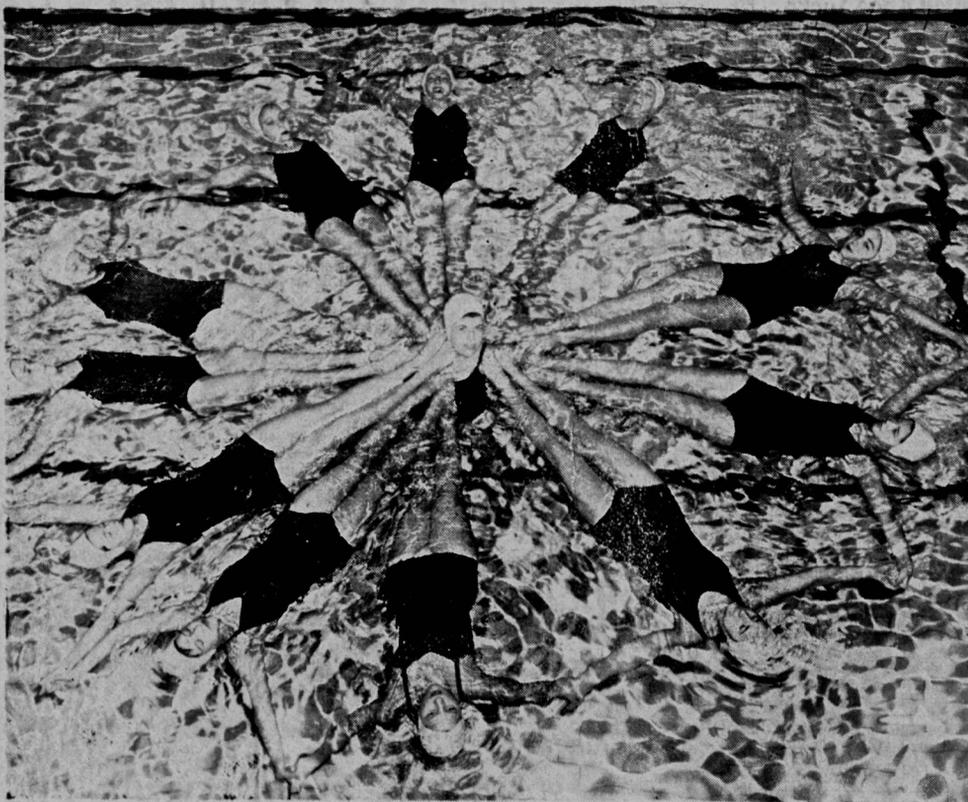

With favorable weather conditions aiding the work, the contractors were able to complete all the concrete work on the four bridge piers and the two abutments before the cold weather began. No more concrete work will be done until much of the steel has been installed.

Officials estimated yesterday that the delay may last for three or four weeks.

INSTALL NEW INCINERATOR

A new incinerator has been installed in the medical laboratories, University Architect George Hornor said yesterday. It will be used for all types of refuse from the building.

SUI Mermaids Practice Formation for Spring Presentation

YOU WON'T FIND THE NAME OF THIS WATER FLOWER in any botany book! It's one of many formations Seals are practicing for their swimming exhibition this spring. Members considered AWOL if he did not arrive before his leave ran out last night. Cedar Rapids railroad officials said last night they did not know the location of the City of Los Angeles on which the Doan boys are known to be passengers.

Bathing Cuties

These Girls Actually Get in the Swim

By JEAN McFADDEN

Sleeke as a Seal! This description fits members of Seals, women's honorary swimming club, who combine bathing beauty loveliness with real swimming ability.

Moving with smooth coordination, the Seals make swimming seem as easy and simple as blinking your eyes. But it takes talent and lots of practice to make a scissor stroke look so natural.

The Seals get together every Thursday evening at the Women's gym, alternating their meetings between business sessions and swimming practice. Probates practice every Wednesday night.

Emphasis recently has been on ballet and formation swimming in preparation for a swimming exhibition in May. Plans for the show are still under discussion, so in the meantime more experienced swimmers are teaching synchronized swimming and water stunts to the other girls.

Synchronized swimming is a new form of water travel requiring endurance, not speed, the use of all strokes, a keen sense of rhythm and the ability to adjust to a group pattern. In this type of swimming the movements of all individuals are synchronized with the other swimmers as well as the musical accompaniment.

Stunts range from floating formations and the swimming of common strokes to hybrid strokes and special tricks.

Besides performing at public swimming exhibitions, the club participates in various intercollegiate telegraphic meets and sponsors a G.A.A. project at University high school.

Presiding over the Seals this year is Meg Auner. Other officers are Rae Lynch, vice president, Elaine Viquin, secretary and Sue Funk, treasurer. Jane Fink is the faculty advisor.

Mauna's Lava Flows Nearer Hawaiian City

HILO, HAWAII (P) — Famed Mauna Loa volcano, erupting with a violent burst of gas, sent streams of lava down its slope yesterday toward the coffee fields and resorts on this island's western coast.

And as a score of sightseeing planes circled the most spectacular volcanic display since the peak blew her top in 1914, a light Stinson cabin plane with three persons aboard was reported missing and last seen flying into the turbulent column of smoke that towered upward thousands of feet.

Another aerial mishap, perhaps caused by the acrid and sometimes poisonous fumes belched forth by craters, occurred when a light Piper cub cruiser was forced to crash land on a small emergency strip on the slopes.

Two men, who had been hovering in the cub along with some 30 other planes around the boiling crater, were aboard.

Schools were dismissed at the villages of Honouanau, Hookena and Alae in the path of the westward advance of lava, but the slowness of the flow eased fears the villages would have to be evacuated.

Four streams of lava spilled from the snow-crowned volcano, which rises 13,680 feet above the sea. Sulphurous smoke boiled 18,000 feet above the peak when the volcano erupted Thursday.

Lava streams — 12 to 15 winding miles long and as much as two miles wide on the west slope — oozed through the wilderness land of old lava beds.

There were three streams on the southwest and a fourth — as yet but two miles long — on the northeast slope. The northeast flow is the one worrying this city of 25,000. Hilo is 34 miles northeast of the summit.

If the lava reaches the sea it probably will do so near Honouanau. In that case it would cut through the coffee lands and sever the west coast highway.

The eruption was a spectacular sight. Pilots taking off from Honolulu's airport more than 200 miles to the northwest could see the glowing crater plainly.

Airliners en route to the United States from Honolulu detoured south so passengers could get a good look. Pilots said the red lava against the blanket of snow was "a beautiful spectacle."

Ushering in New Legislature

AT THE STATEHOUSE in Des Moines, W. H. Nicholas, former state representative, yesterday opened a pre-legislative orientation session.

Report Mme. Chiang 'Slips' into New York

WASHINGTON (P) — Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, first lady of China, who came here over a month ago to appeal for more U.S. aid to her embattled country, left Thursday for New York, it was disclosed yesterday.

A member of her household confirmed that she had gone but refused to say why, where she is staying in New York, or when she might return here.

In New York, friends of Mme. Chiang said they understood that she had "slipped" into New York for a quiet visit with her sister, Mme. H. H. Kung, at Riverdale, N.Y. Mme. Kung reportedly is ill. Mme. Chiang's personal appeal to President Truman for immediate, large-scale military support to the beleaguered Chinese nationalists has thus far produced no results.

Administration leaders also greeted with cool silence a report in which former Ambassador William C. Bullitt urged this country to send $800-million in military and economic aid to China.

A group of Republicans, led by Sen. Styles Bridges, (R-N.H.) served notice that they will put up a fight for Bullitt's plan.

'New Look' Adorns Business Publication

The Iowa Business Digest gets the "new look" in the current January issue on entering its 20th year of publication at SUI.

The biggest change is in content, Director C. Woody Thompson of the bureau of business and economic research claims. Beginning with the January issue, each digest will have a special article of concern to Iowa, a general article, and a new center spread feature showing "Iowa Trends."

The new center spread of "Iowa Trends" in the current issue presents six charts with supporting copy and figures on department store sales, bank deposits, Iowa sales and use tax collections, farmers' cash receipts, construction contracts awarded and farm products and consumers' goods prices.

During succeeding months different kinds of data of interest to Iowans will be presented in the "Iowa Trends" section.

Non-Voters Must Re-Register Here

Registered Iowa City voters who have not voted in the last four years will receive notices from George J. Dohrer, commissioner of registration, in the next few days advising them to register again if they intend to vote in any future elections here.

Dohrer began sending out the notices yesterday. Voters who do not vote in four years are taken off the registration rolls, Dohrer said. Deadline for registration is 10 days before the election.

The next election in Iowa City is the city primary which will be held Feb. 28. Nominations for various elective city offices will be decided at the primary.

"The city general election will be held March 28.

Put Up Proof Or Shut Up, Condon Asks

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Dr. Edward U. Condon, director of the U.S. bureau of standards—charged with being a "weak link" in the nation's atomic security—yesterday said an ex-Pennsylvania congressman should either "put up or shut up."

Dr. Condon, in an interview, said he was referring to John McDowell, of nearby Wilkesburg, McDowell, a newspaper publisher, was defeated in his bid for reelection last November. While in congress he was a member of the sub-committee of the house un-American activities committee. Last March the sub-committee said Condon was "one of the weakest links in our atomic security."

"John McDowell... should either put up or shut up," Condon said.

He has been taking potshots at me in his newspaper. He and his committee made a personal attack on me March 1, 1948.

"I have never called for a hearing. John McDowell now accuses me of keeping silent since the Hiss-Chambers affair. If they don't have the hearing it looks like they have nothing. I have not personally asked for a hearing. However, I am willing to have one at any time.

"If I had done anything improper, I should have been put out of my job a long time ago. I hold a very important position with access to vast information and it's unfair to the American people not to wind this up."

Condon came here to deliver an address Thursday night. McDowell was not available for comment.

Find Frozen Body Of Dakota Farmer

VALLEY CITY, N.D. (AP)—Authorities yesterday found the frozen body of Arthur Hill, 45, Valley City, beside a haystack in a field near here.

Hill, victim of the blizzard which raged the early part of the week, had been the subject of a two day search by the Barnes county sheriff's office and the Valley City national guard. Hill apparently left his stalled car to seek shelter. He walked about two miles, missing two farmhouses along the way.

A Happy Holiday Ends with Death

VINTON (AP)—Richard Sanquist's long and happy Christmas ended yesterday.

Richard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Sanquist, put up a Christmas tree at his bedside long before Christmas because they believed their five-year-old boy would not live until the holiday. He was slowly dying of a cancer that already had destroyed his eyes.

People around the country heard about Richard and sent him hundreds of letters and many presents. A little boy in Cedar Rapids gave up his own toy train because he heard Richard wanted one. The presents and letters kept coming in and Richard and his mother were kept busy writing thank-you notes. The toys were piled around his bed and the tree stayed up, because Richard refused to let Christmas be over. It was still Christmas, as far as he was concerned, when he died this morning.

Chief U.S. Moose To Speak Locally

Henry Engleman, grand governor of the Loyal Order of Moose, will be the principal speaker at the installation ceremonies of 50 new members from the Mississippi valley legion of the Moose at the local club rooms tomorrow. Engleman is from the Roseland lodge in Chicago.

Frank Strub, local Moose official, said yesterday that about 400 Moose lodge members from Davenport, Clinton, DeWitt, Tipton and Muscatine will gather here tomorrow for the ceremonies that begin at 2:30 p.m.

The degree staff of the Iowa City lodge under the leadership of Robert W. Graf will be in charge of the initiation of the new members, Strub said. A 6 p.m. banquet and entertainment program will follow the initiation ceremonies.

Recovery Acclaimed By Austrian Diplomat

By BERTHOLD GASTER

Having made large recovery strides, Austria is the most stable country in central Europe today, according to Fritz P. Molden of the Austrian diplomatic service in the United States.

The tall, young Austrian official was in Vienna two months ago. Interviewed recently in his simple New York office, he was enthusiastic about Austrian production recovery.

Steel, iron and chemical production has reached prewar levels. As of October, consumer goods have reached 78 percent of prewar. This could have been higher, Molden said, but Austria must concentrate on heavy industrial production at this time to pay for its imports.

As Molden continued in his Viennese flavored English, a secretary brought in coffee. Political stability, he observed, is greater than at any time in the republic's history.

The two major parties, the People's party and the Socialists, polled 96 percent in the 1945 elections, with the Communists getting only four percent. The two parties are practicing a bi-partisan foreign policy.

Molden stated confidently that "no matter who wins the November elections this year, bi-partisan government will go on."

The present parliament contains 65 People's party members, 76 Socialists and four Communists. This gives the conservative People's party an absolute majority.

Molden emphasized, however, that even should either of the major parties get only a plurality in the next election, it will definitely "not form a coalition with the Communists."

Austria's new-found economic strength lies in the Zistersdorf oil fields, the largest oil fields in Europe outside of the Ploesti fields in Romania, Molden said.

The construction of new electric power plants is in progress. One of these, near Zell-am-See in the U.S. zone, will be the largest power station in Europe, he confidently added.

The effects of the new electric power developments will be twofold. By 1951 Austrian railroads will be run by electric power exclusively.

The Russians make trouble, and it is estimated that from 500 to 1,000 persons have been kidnapped since the end of the war. The most notable of those kidnapped was Inspector Marek, head of the de-Nazification office.

Foreign policy is still the biggest headache, Molden complained. However, Molden stressed that he does not fear a coup such as the Czech coup last year. He pointed to the insignificant size of the Austrian Communist party to qualify his statement.

Furthermore, "the Czechs depended on an eastern economy, while the Austrians do not," Molden explained.

Molden admitted that Austria's future depends on the signing of the state treaty that comes up for consideration at the London peace conference starting Feb. 7.

One of the points of disagreement between the Soviets and the western allies has been removed. The other still remains.

Until recently the Soviets supported Tito's claim to a section of Carinthia. This area voted to stay under Austrian rule in 1921, and the western powers have supported the Austrian claims at every previous conference.

Now the Soviets have abandoned Tito and his claims, possibly as punishment for his recent "deviations" from the Cominform line.

The one issue that has been a thorn in the side of the powers at every conference so far has been the German assets controversy.

The Russians contend that all former German assets in Austria — even those stolen by the Nazis from Vienna's defenseless Jews — are subject to use as German reparations materials.

The western allies feel that only pre-1938 German assets should be considered. Observers believe strongly that Austria's independence is riding on the London negotiations next month. They feel that present Austrian resistance to any further Russian pressure is based on the hope that the signing of the state treaty will end the occupation.

These observers stress that the failure to sign a state treaty at London will split Austria within six months, a la Berlin. If the treaty is signed, it will push the Soviets 300 miles eastward. This would result in the first postwar Soviet retreat on the European continent.

A Nine-Year-Old Reviews 'Sam and the Superdroop'

(SAM AND THE SUPERDROOP — by Munro Leaf — Viking Press — $1.50)

The reviewer today is 9-year-old Bobbie Dreckman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo A. Dreckman, 923 Iowa avenue. Bobbie attends Longfellow school and has as many hobbies as a boy his age can handle.

He builds scale model boats and airplanes with diligence and mature precision. He likes sports, being one of the Hawkeye's most avid followers. When games are broadcast he keeps a running score on a blackboard in his folks' livingroom.

Not content to listen and not participate, Bobbie spends much of his playtime at sandlot football and other athletics. Recently, in a game of touch football, the husky 9-year-old crawled out of the bottom of a pile-up with a broken left wrist.

He views his injury philosophically, and expects to be back running touchdowns as soon as the snow clears enough for playing space.

Although he likes to read, Bobbie is emphatic in his reading tastes. He considers comic magazines unworthy of his time, but read Sam and the Superdroop several times before writing his review.

How would you like to ride swoosh through the air on a dragon-like animal, a jet engine on his tail, a sixshooter around his middle, and smelling like old used matches. That's Superdroop, a peculiar character of Comicbookitis.

Sam Martin, a boy about my age, spent all his allowance on comics, and one night Superdroop crawled out from under his bed. They had many impossible adventures together.

Sam's parents realized that something was bothering him. They felt that they were at fault because the times of reading together had been neglected.

Mr. Martin gave Sam a library card and promised to help him find good books to read instead of comics.

Last summer when I was at Camp Fairwood some of the boys wasted too much time with their comic books. Our head counselor had all the comics turned in, and everyone was so busy with camp activities they did not even miss the comics.

There are so many good books written for boys and girls, and I am sure Sam will have exciting adventures with Tom Sawyer or Huckleberry Finn. Maybe Sam will be as lucky as we are at Longfellow school. We have library books brought to us by the city librarians.

THIS IS THE LAST call for entries to the Unusual Christmas gift contest. Letters must be dated Jan. 8 or earlier to be eligible for judging.

The only limitations are that you must have actually received the gift (no fibs) and the entry must be legible. If you received an Unusual gift for Christmas, don't delay. There are ten (10) prizes for the winner.

BY LISTING a few of the entries here, you may get the idea of what is classified as an Unusual gift. If you have made an entry and it isn't mentioned here, don't feel badly. I just pulled these out of the pile at random.

KEITH C. GRIMES says he has a gimmick which so far is unidentifiable. His letter is accompanied with elaborate drawings of the object. It is made of "cotton and blue string" and stretches.

He suggests that it may be a strapless bathing suit top or a lamp shade cover... people don't cover lamp shades like they used to, so that's ruled out.

From the looks of the drawings, Keith, I'd guess that it is supposed to be a body snood for a cat. Better check with the postoffice... they may have a cat in the del letter office.

MARIAN DUNLAP writes that her mother-in-law sent six aprons. With the gift came a verse which said: "When a housewife you must choose, Clothes that keep you like a muse, Twenty guesses before you use These things I made for you (se)"

The reason Marian was puzzled by her six aprons were they were small enough to fit only an adolescent penguin. At first she thought they were bibs for a baby, but the dearth of little ones in the Dunlap family ruled that out.

Investigation revealed the six aprons are meant to be placed on soft drink bottles. This eliminates coasters, knit sox for glasses and pop spots on vests. That's certainly better than the old method of putting bibs on all your friends as the drinks are passed around.

JOHN CONNOR got a Chinese back-scratcher in his yuletide stocking, and reports that this has improved his wife's reading no end. Previously she had to scratch his back with ordinary fingernails. Now she can utilize this long-distance scratcher while at the same time read a best seller on the other side of the room.

BERNIE ROSENBERG received a gift which obviously was sent by one of his former army drill sergeants. Although physically normal in every respect, Bernie's Unusual gift came in the form of a pair of slippers... both for the left foot.

FROM GRETA GROSSMAN comes word that some one sent her a pound of cold cream (cosmetic spelling) to be used for keeping cool during final exam week.

Marshall Stopped Vinson Trip

R.H. Shackford, general European news manager of The United Press, accompanied Secretary of State George C. Marshall to all international conferences including the UN assembly in Paris. Now that Marshall has resigned, Shackford has disclosed the following account of the proposal to send Chief Justice Vinson to Moscow.

LONDON (U.P.) — Secretary of State George C. Marshall blamed Democratic party campaign leaders, rather than President Truman, for the ill-fated attempt to send a special mission to Premier Josef Stalin last fall.

It can be disclosed now that Marshall stopped the proposed trip of Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson to Moscow at the last minute.

Vinson was virtually ready to leave Washington and was to halt en route to Paris, where Marshall was attending the United Nations general assembly.

Marshall's version of the incident goes something like this: On Oct. 5 Marshall received in Paris from Washington, word that the President wanted to talk to him on the American embassy teleprinter. There was no word about the subject.

Marshall and his chief assistant, Marshall Carter, went to the embassy code room in Paris for the "conversation."

Meanwhile in Washington Undersecretary of State Robert A. Lovett, who has now resigned with Marshall, was asked to go to the White House to take part with the President in the exchange.

Lovett tried to find out what it was all about and failed. Then he called the President directly to ask what documents, if any, he should bring. The President told him he did not need any because it was only about a message to Stalin.

Marshall Stopped Vinson Trip

Lovett flashed that word to Marshall immediately. It arrived in Paris while Marshall was waiting for the exchange with the President to begin.

While still waiting for the President, Marshall drafted in pencil about 300 words stating why no kind of message should be sent to Stalin at that time. The security council was in the midst of a debate on Berlin and the west had vowed it never would leave Berlin voluntarily.

When the President came on the teletype he sent a 400 word message to Marshall proposing to send Vinson to see Stalin.

The President explained his concern that the Russians maybe did not understand American policy, especially our atomic energy policy and our offer to put the secret under international control by stages.

Mr. Truman proposed that Vinson would attempt to convince Stalin that the United States wanted only peace and also to convince him of the awful consequences for the world if war started in this atomic age.

Marshall answered Mr. Truman with his pencilled draft statement that he had written in advance. He made only one change. Where he had objected to the dispatch of any message to Stalin he scribbled instead "or envoy."

The President answered immediately by agreeing with Marshall's arguments against the project.

The Guiding Spirit of George Marshall Stays in Office

In January of 1947, General George C. Marshall hastened home from a year-long mission as Chinese peacemaker to assume a bigger job — secretary of state.

In the space of two years, Marshall steered U.S. foreign policy out of its fog of disillusionment and onto a course of readiness for the postwar power struggle.

From his first assignment — the 1947 Moscow conference — until his last as secretary of state — the 1948 Paris UN meeting — Marshall has given U.S. foreign policy force and direction.

The job of state department quarterback goes to Dean Acheson, Marshall's first undersecretary of state. Acheson has had experience similar to retiring Undersecretary Robert Lovett. While Marshall was concerned with top-flight policy considerations, Acheson carried on all the routine work of the secretary of state. He knows his job.

Acheson's appointment came as a surprise. Most experts had their fingers on ECA's roving ambassador, Averell Hartiman. Acheson himself — who resigned as undersecretary to resume his private law practice — was surprised.

As the cold war developed, Secretary Marshall assumed the attitude that it will be better to rebuild western Europe before trying to settle the power account with Russia. President Truman has pledged a continuance of this policy. It is up to Acheson to take it from there.

When James Byrnes became secretary of state the international scene was in flux; so was U.S. policy. Marshall found the same conditions. Acheson faces a different scene. The architects have designed the policy and now skilled diplomatic engineers are needed to carry it out.

His first major test will come at the Austrian treaty negotiations next month. When Mr. Acheson unzips his brief case at that conference, the spirit and ideas of George Marshall will be released to guide his hand. Marshall will continue to be the U.S. foreign policy voice in the future.

While Mr. Truman coolly asked for $4-billion more in taxes this year, certain congressmen were getting hot under the collar. Where in our over-taxed, over-strained economy are we going to extract $4-billion dollars, they asked.

Well, the bureau of internal revenue — keeping its composure — waited for the furor to die down and then told them. Restore our appropriations sufficiently to employ a full force of tax collectors and tax-dodger detectives and we'll get you your extra $4-billion.

The President will present a 1949-50 budget calling for $41.9-billion. The BIR claims that full collections under the present tax rates could just about hit that figure.

The Truman budget will draw a lot of political fire pro and con. Charges of socialism and bureaucracy will pierce the air. And just because someone cut an insignificant item out of a wrong part of last year's budget, a lot of shady people are walking around with $4-billion of Uncle Sam's revenue.

It's almost enough to make the average legislator stop in his tracks. And that's the time to set — while the big boys are off guard. By big boys we mean legislators, officials, agency chiefs and the federal employers working in top-heavy jobs.

As the various units of the Hoover commission are revamping the federal government have made

Aly Khan Asks Blackout On His Romp with Rita

GSTAAD, SWITZERLAND (U.P.) — Prince Aly Khan took steps yesterday to blackout the spotlight which has followed his round-the-world romance with Rita Hayworth.

The handsome son of the croesus-rich Aga Khan declared that he and the flame-haired Rita would leave any hotel which gave any comfort to newsmen publicizing their presence. Employees of the luxurious Hotel Palace here, where the lovers are stopping, were threatened with immediate dismissal if they are caught talking with reporters.

Other gifts were blue-tinted glasses for "blue Mondays," a Phi Beta Kappa key hole, a calendar with wings for people who say "Time Flies," a pair of dice with which to game with a blind uncle and a rose petal-filled embroidered pin cushion to a man who obviously has no use for such an object.

That's all there's space for today. If you have an Unusual Christmas gift at your house, drop a line and tell what it is. Today is your last chance at those prizes.

Sad Noose for Him SYRACUSE, ITALY (U.P.) — Giuseppe Schembri, of nearby Pachino, tried every way he could to persuade his 19-year-old girl friend to marry him. She refused. His family twitted him about it and yesterday he hanged himself. He was 89.

ASK MERCY DEATHS NEW YORK (U.P.) — A petition by 379 Protestant and Jewish ministers in New York state yesterday asked for a state law to allow mercy death at the request of persons suffering incurable diseases.

Truman Says No Change in Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman told the press with considerable emphasis yesterday that American foreign policy is undergoing no change.

He labeled without foundation in fact a published report that he is trying, against cabinet opposition, to soften our policy toward Russia in a new approach to peace.

His blunt words were spoken at his first 1949 news conference. He first announced the appointment of Dean Acheson and James E. Webb as secretary and under-secretary of state to succeed the resigning George C. Marshall and Robert A. Lovett.

Did this presage a shift in foreign policy in line with a Life magazine article by Columnist Jay Franklin? a newsman asked.

It does not, Mr. Truman replied sharply. He went on to say the Franklin article is without foundation in fact in nearly every instance and every paragraph.

Franklin, who would not comment on the President's remarks, had written in an earlier article that the election blasted the "whole Byrnes-Marshall-Forrestal program." He referred to former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, General Marshall and Secretary of Defense James Forrestal.

To this, Mr. Truman replied with continued emphasis that our foreign policy was inaugurated by the President, that it was carried out by the secretary of state, and that he, the President, stands behind the secretary.

Franklin wrote in Life yesterday that the conclusions he reached "flowed from the President's own campaign statements and from my private conversations with him."

Asked about this, Mr. Truman said Franklin was one of his campaign assistants who helped in preparing speeches. But he added the columnist had never had an interview with him on any subject. The only time he had seen him at the White House was when Franklin called about a job.

He said as long as he had been President Franklin had never seen any top secret messages.

In New York, Life's managing editor, Joseph J. Thormdike, Jr., said yesterday's article was published as the views of someone who has been close to the President, along with a note stating the magazine's own "reservations and disagreements" with Franklin's views.

Mr. Truman started the conference by announcing the resignation of General Marshall because of health and of Lovett for "personal reasons" with which Lovett said the President was familiar.

Both resignations had been expected for some time, but the announcement had not been expected yesterday.

Art School to Offer Two New Courses

Two new courses will be offered by the art department next semester, the department reported yesterday. Both courses will be taught by Instructor Byron Burford.

Nitro-cellulose lacquer painting will be a studio course, and a course in oil painting will be a prerequisite. It will be a course in painting with Duco, a type of color used to finish automobiles. It will combine a study of the aesthetic concepts with the technique and chemistry of the color.

The second new course will be techniques and materials of painting, a lecture and laboratory course. It will cover all the standard techniques and how they may be applied to contemporary painting. The course study will go into the experimental and technical phases, especially in regard to new discoveries coming about in the organic and inorganic chemistry of paints.

Fraternity Names Poulter President

Joseph C. Poulter, E4, Hoicon, Wis., was elected to his third consecutive term as president of the Iowa Beta chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon Tuesday night.

Dennis Wagoner, A3, Rockford, Ill., will serve as vice-president during the spring semester.

Others elected were James F. Nunn, A3, Perry, treasurer; Harold Showers, A4, Galesburg, Ill., recording secretary; Phil S. Berg, C3, Cedar Falls, corresponding secretary. Thomas C. Brooke, C3, West Liberty, chronicler.

He's Got Time on His Hands

CHECKING UP on the device which keeps all university electric clocks accurate is H. Hatcher, assistant engineer of the university power plant. University clocks are synchronized with the speed of the plant's generators which must turn at 60 cycles a second to keep the clocks accurate. A governor and a master clock control and check the generator's speed.

Generators Keep University Clocks At Correct Minute

A little device about the size of a hat box keeps every electric clock on the university campus accurate.

The device is the governor which controls the speed of the university power plant's huge turbo-driven generators.

The clocks are synchronized to the generators and turn at the same speed. Without the governor the clocks would speed up when the generators speeded up. If the generators slowed down the clocks would be slow.

H. Hatcher, assistant engineer at the university power plant, said

Doctor Asks Judgment For Dental Services

An Iowa City dentist, Dr. John L. Donohue, asked a judgment of $83 against C.M. Karsten, 313 College court, yesterday in Johnson county district court for dental services rendered to the defendant last Feb. 14.

The plaintiff said the reasonable value of the dental work done was $133 and said the defendant still owed him a balance of $83. He claimed the defendant refused to pay the amount.

D.E. Borchart is the plaintiff's attorney.

Blue Jeans Didn't Hide Teaching Ability

The only woman on the SUI chemistry faculty, Pat Griswold, graduate assistant, was "discovered" by Dr. George Glockler, head of the department, in 1945. She was standing atop a ladder, swinging a wrench, as she repaired a converter she was using in her work with atrazine at the National Aniline war plant, Buffalo, N.Y.

In spite of Miss Griswold's wearing blue jeans and a man's shirt, she impressed Dr. Glockler as a teacher material. She came to Iowa to teach qualitative analysis for two years while working toward her doctorate.

Miss Griswold, blonde, slender, the governor prevented this error by controlling the amount of steam that goes to the turbos. The turbos drive the generators.

He said the power plant operates the generators at 60 cycles per second and that electric clocks were designed for that speed.

A mechanical master clock is used as an added check against the governor.

Hatcher said the university clocks might vary a trifle during the day from the master clock, but that for each 24 hour period they averaged out correct.

Hatcher added that Iowa City's electricity comes from the power plant in Coralville and the town clocks are synchronized to those generators.

Prof. Hall to Attend Philosophy Meeting

Prof. Everett W. Hall, SUI philosophy department head, will participate in a philosophy conference Wednesday and Thursday at the University of Mississippi.

The two-day conference, celebrating the centennial of the University of Mississippi, will center on the role of philosophy in general education.

Hall will present two papers and participate in a round table discussion. He will read papers on the "Grounds of Ethics" and "Philosophy and the Professional Schools," in the round table discussion.

Gets Lost Purse From Post Office

Marjory Blanshar, C4, recovered her lost purse, and the $25 that was in it, thanks to an unknown but honest person and the Iowa City post office.

The purse was found in a downtown mailbox Tuesday afternoon, but it took postal authorities until 10 p.m. that night to locate its owner.

Marjory said she lost the purse between the dime store and a department store Tuesday noon. Besides the money, the purse contained her ID card, drivers license, and social security card, all of which were returned.

AAA Seals 255,210 Bushels 1948 Corn

A total of 255,210 bushels of the 1948 Johnson county crop were sealed under federal loan and purchase agreements during November and December.

County AAA Committee Chairman Ray E. Smalley yesterday said the AAA office had disbursed $320,075.30 on 153 corn loans and had made 10 corn purchase agreements amounting to $34,666.60 during the two months.

The sealing price on the 1948 corn crop is $1.39 a bushel. Loans and purchase agreements on 1948 corn may be made until June 30, 1949.

THE ONLY WOMAN on the chemistry faculty, Pat Griswold, is shown taking a spectrum on an infrared spectrometer in the chemistry department. Miss Griswold is working toward her doctor's degree at SUI. She plans to teach after receiving her degree.

Instructors to Aid In Business Clinic

Four SUI professors and instructors will give tips on the operation of a business enterprise to Iowa professional women Jan. 16 when they meet in Des Moines for the Iowa Small Business Clinic.

The SUI educators will conduct a manufacturing session at the clinic. They are David W. Day, a service associate in SUI's bureau of business and economic research, Prof. James F. McRath, Prof. Wendell R. Smith, all three instructors in commerce, and Journalism Instructor Mrs. Patricia M. Sneed.

The clinic, sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's federation of Iowa, will provide information, counsel and discussions on the phases of starting and conducting a small business.

Representatives from Drake university and Iowa State college will conduct sessions on retailing.

Tailfeathers' President Requests Flock to Rally

President Dean Crawford announced Friday that Tailfeathers pep club would have a special section in the west bleachers at tonight's Purdue-Iowa game.

Crawford requested all members to wear their white hats and sit in the reserved section, inasmuch as Hawkeye pictures will be taken following the game.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE proprietor of a dusty and dilapidated bookshop south of City Hall appeared at the old publishing office of Horace Liveright one day and pleaded desperately for an extra 3 percent discount. Jack Clapp, Liveright salesman, stopped him later in the reception room, and said, "Why are you so anxious for that extra 3 percent? You know and I know that you'll never pay your bill anyhow."

"Liveright's always played ball with me," the bookseller explained, "and I'd like to keep his loss on me as low as possible."

Richard Tregaskis, author of "Guadalcanal Diary," could eat more than any other four correspondents put together. One evening he could not quite put away a four-pound steak single-handed, and remarked despondently, to Ward Greene, "I think I've lost my appetite." "I hope," said Greene, "no other newspaperman has found it. It would ruin him in a week."

2-Act Tragedy

Murder and Suicide Follow Prayers

NEW YORK (AP) — A father took his nine-year-old son and three-year-old daughter to church yesterday and knelt with them before the altar. Twenty minutes later he threw the two children off a 150-foot bridge and jumped after them.

Gabriel Nicoletti, 37, and his boy, Arthur, were killed. The little girl, Gabrielle Claire, was near death in a hospital.

Horrified motorists jerked on their brakes on the busy Kosciusko bridge, linking Brooklyn and Queens boroughs, when they saw the man lift a boy above the railing and throw him to the ground far below. Before they could act, Nicoletti had raised the girl in his arms, dropped her and then leaped over the railing himself.

The Rev. Harold Buetow, a priest, was called to administer last rites. He revealed that the father and children had been in St. Cecilia's church less than half an hour before.

The father had patiently shown the little girl how to kneel. Father Buetow said, and shown her the Christmas manger which still stood before the altar. They stayed only a short time, he said, and walked slowly from the church toward the bridge.

'March of Dimes' Starts as Shank Shows Improvement

Six polio patients including James Shank of Iowa City plugged for the March of Dimes drive last night by demonstrating treatments being used in their recovery at University hospitals.

The demonstrations held in the medical amphitheater highlighted the "kick-off" meeting for the local March of Dimes drive running from Jan. 14 through Jan. 31.

Shank, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Shank, 903 E. Burlington street, showed an audience of approximately 80 persons how he is progressing with weight lifting and walking on crutches.

A former City high football player, Shank was admitted to University hospitals' polio ward Sept. 1. He has been released but returns daily for treatment.

Other patients included in the demonstration were William Meyer, 10, Riverside, admitted to University hospitals Dec. 26; Jean Hughes, 22, Mason City, admitted Oct. 27; Lester Topp, 29, Sumner, admitted Aug. 10; Leo Wagner, 32, Wayland, admitted Dec. 16; and Norman Grummer, 16, Denver, admitted Dec. 24.

Various types of apparatus used in the treatment of these polio patients were shown to the audience.

They included devices to help them walk, a tilt table to teach them to stand, a reading projection machine, a portable respirator and devices attached to their beds to help them exercise themselves.

Throughout the demonstration, Dr. W.D. Paul, SUI professor and chairman of the division of physical medicine, stressed a "we need money" theme.

Urging that all persons support the March of Dimes drive, he pointed out that in 1948, Iowa had more polio patients than ever before in its history.

University hospitals have cared for 229 of Iowa's 1,260 polio patients this year, Dr. Paul said. This is an increase over the 64 patients treated at University hospitals in 1947, and the 168 in 1946.

The average cost of treatment for a polio patient in Iowa is $1,400, Dr. Paul said. This is below the national average cost of $2,300 per patient.

Iowa now has a $150,000 polio debt from 1948, the SUI doctor stressed. The emergency fund of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has also been completely exhausted, he said.

Mrs. Olive Farr, technical director of occupational therapy at University hospitals, aided Dr. Paul in last night's demonstration.

North Atlantic Pact Against Soviet May Be Completed Soon

LONDON — The proposed North Atlantic security pact binding Western Europe and North America against possible Soviet aggression may be completed this month, it was learned yesterday.

Agreement on all major parts of the pact has been reached by the United States, Canada, Britain, France, the Netherlands, Belgium, and Luxembourg.

May Expand Pact Last minute efforts are now underway to expand the original signatories of the pact to include Norway, Portugal, Eire, and Iceland, it was learned.

An invitation to Norway to be an original signatory, and that country's known desire to join the pact eventually, was the primary reason for the super-secret, top level Scandinavian conference at Karlstad, Sweden, which ended Thursday. The conference was hurriedly called by Norway.

Drafts Being Studied Drafts of the pact are now being studied by all the foreign offices concerned after months of work on the project in Washington by Acting Secretary of State Robert Lovett and the ambassadors of the other interested nations.

Throughout the demonstration, Dr. W.D. Paul, SUI professor and chairman of the division of physical medicine, stressed a "we need money" theme.

Urging that all persons support the March of Dimes drive, he pointed out that in 1948, Iowa had more polio patients than ever before in its history.

University hospitals have cared for 229 of Iowa's 1,260 polio patients this year, Dr. Paul said. This is an increase over the 64 patients treated at University hospitals in 1947, and the 168 in 1946.

The average cost of treatment for a polio patient in Iowa is $1,400, Dr. Paul said. This is below the national average cost of $2,300 per patient.

Iowa now has a $150,000 polio debt from 1948, the SUI doctor stressed. The emergency fund of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has also been completely exhausted, he said.

Mrs. Olive Farr, technical director of occupational therapy at University hospitals, aided Dr. Paul in last night's demonstration.

GOP Group Adopts Resolution

The adoption of a resolution open meeting to be followed by meeting was the main business central committee meeting last night in the assembly room of the Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric company.

The resolution, proposed by committeeman William F. Morrison, was that a letter be sent to the district GOP chairman, Al Douds, asking that an open committee meeting be held in order to form a more definite future GOP policy.

Asks Second Letter The resolution also asks that a second letter be sent to state GOP chairman Whitney Gilliland calling for a state central committee open meeting to follow the district meeting. The results of the district meeting are to be discussed at the state meeting, the resolution stated.

The resolution was adopted by a vote of 13 to one.

Resolution Follows Discussion The resolution was submitted by Morrison following a discussion concerning statements he made last year concerning the leadership of the GOP in Iowa.

Morrison, who had differences of opinion with a member of the Iowa delegation to the national convention last summer, had made public his belief that the party leadership in Iowa needed "revitalization."

Last night he made it clear that he had no fault to find with the Johnson County central committee leaders.

Committee Woman Resigns In another matter of business, committee woman J.E. Negus' resignation from the central committee was accepted, following a discussion by chairman Hal Dane on the November election results.

After the central committee meeting adjourned, members who are also on the city GOP committee set Jan. 11 as the date for

Store Room Becomes Modern Micro-Wave Lab

Before

After

An old store room in the electrical engineering building has recently been made over into a modern micro-wave laboratory to be used beginning next semester. For 20 years the store room in the northwest corner of the building has been the final resting place of odds and ends and nondescript equipment.

Some of the equipment dated back to when SUI's chemistry department was housed in the building.

About a year ago Prof. A. V. Donnelly of the department of engineering began looking for space to set up a new micro-wave equipment he was to receive. He decided to remake the old store room.

The university's physical plant workman began the job under Donnelly's direction about a year ago last September.

They cleaned everything out from the floor to the ceiling and repainted and relighted the room.

"It's the brightest spot in the building now," beams Donnelly. The old store room is now a spacious laboratory, about 28 by 20 feet in size, painted a soft green and all ready to serve again as a class room for students.

Appreciative Letters —

Praise 'Splendid Effort'

— of Campus Chest

SUI students can take pride in the part their 1948 Campus Chest contributions are playing in aiding worthy charities, judging from letters of appreciation received recently by the Campus Chest committee.

Typical of all the letters expressing gratitude for the support of SUI students was the one received from CARE, non-profit organization handling food shipments to Europe. It read:

"Please extend our heartfelt appreciation to the students of the State University of Iowa for their wonderful spirit of generosity. We especially appreciate the splendid effort of the student council. We look forward to a continued relationship with you in our mutual anxiety to relieve the suffering abroad."

The American Cancer society promised the Campus Chest money will be spent "to promote a comprehensive program of research, education and service, in the hope that something can be done to alleviate suffering and reduce the present high death rate from cancer."

The executive director of the Iowa division of the society commended the work of Mrs. Albert Husa, Iowa City, chairman of the Johnson county chapter. He said 60 percent of all funds contributed in Iowa will remain in the state to further the cancer research program.

The money collected in the Campus Chest drive was divided among six organizations on a percentage basis. Other benefiting groups were World Student Service fund, United Negro College fund and the Salvation Army.

Because of a recent ruling which prohibits participation in joint-fund drives, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis returned its share of the Campus Chest money. The amount was divided among CARE, World Student Service fund and United Negro College fund.

Canadians Stake Uranium Claims

SAULT STE. MARIE, ONT. (AP) — A trainload of prospectors, spurred by new reports indicating increased uranium deposits, left yesterday for Agawa canyon, scene of a recent discovery of radioactive ore.

The prospectors, undaunted by heavy snows and nearly impassable terrain, planned to stake claims along the north wall of the canyon, located about 100 miles north of here.

They plotted operations in an 80-square-mile area. The claims will be unworkable until spring because of weather conditions.

The renewed activity came after reports that Geiger counters indicated large deposits along the canyon wall.

First discovery of uranium ore in the canyon area was revealed last November. It is located on high, rugged ground overlooking Lake Superior.

Dean Acheson--Not an Appeaser

BY J.M. ROBERTS, JR.

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst WASHINGTON (AP)—The choice of Dean Acheson to succeed Secretary of State George C. Marshall slaps down suggestions that President Truman is going into the appeasement business.

Acheson, an early new deal appointee as undersecretary of the treasury, split with Franklin D. Roosevelt over revaluation of the dollar and resigned in 1933. He returned to the government as assistant secretary of state in 1941. He has been accused at times of leaning too far left.

But he was one of the earliest proponents of intervention in the war against Hitler at a time when the Communist line was all the other way. And he is the wearer of what is, in my book, one of the proudest of all medals, having been the object of a formal protest by the Soviet government for his views on present Russian policy. He described it as "an aggressive and expanding one."

Weeks ago, when it became apparent that Marshall would retire, Washington experts, going over the list of possible successors, quickly picked Acheson. He had originated much of the current policy, including the Truman doctrine of Soviet containment, and helped draw up the Marshall plan before leaving the department for private law practice in 1947.

Previously the offices of wartime economic affairs and the office of economic affairs, dealing with postwar planning, had reported to him, and he also had supervised policy for the foreign economic administration which conducted economic warfare against Germany. He was chairman of the United Nations relief and rehabilitation council at Atlantic City in 1944. He helped draw up the original United Nations protocol, in 1942, and the American atomic bomb control proposal for the UN in 1946.

The latter activity brought criticism because he wanted to offer the program as a basis for discussion rather than as a motion for direct action. He was willing to proceed under the security council veto procedure.

The President had to call in elder statesman Bernard Baruch to straighten that one out, and to see to it that, if any control was agreed upon, it should be one with real teeth.

This and some other incidents brought down on Acheson the accusation that he "liked the way of the lawyer-compromise."

But even those who disagreed described him as one of the cleverest and shrewdest of lawyers, at that.

He also has been criticized for some of his associations, particularly with Alger Hiss, one of his former right hand men who had a hand in the atomic business and who is now under indictment for perjury in connection with the investigation of pre-war Russian spy activities.

But Acheson never claimed to be a detective, nor even an economist or a career diplomat.

"Get the best technical advice available and then apply common sense" is his own formula. Former Secretary Byrnes, preoccupied with his many postwar conferences abroad, said:

"I could not have devoted myself so completely to the task had I not known the work of the department was being efficiently carried on under the direction of a man with the unusual ability and energy of Undersecretary Acheson."

Dutch Action Denounced by UN Delegate

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. (AP) — Fiery Carlos Romulo of the Philippines denounced the United Nations security council yesterday for letting the Netherlands squander the Indonesian republic, and warned the west that Asia never will be won to democracy unless freedom and equal partnership with the rest of the world.

Romulo declared that the 1.1 billion people of southeast Asia — half the world's population — already are being forced to consider collective, non-military action to combat the Dutch campaign against the Indonesian republic.

Romulo joined with spokesmen for Indonesia and Australia in urging the security council to order the Dutch to withdraw their troops from the land swept up in the December blitzkrieg against the republic.

He characterized the issue as one affecting all Asia.

"No matter what narrow self interest may ordain, no matter what short-term expedience may dictate and no matter what propaganda may say," Romulo declared, "the only way to save Asia for democracy is to give it freedom and to accept it as many nations and numerous people as co-equal partners in the making of a freer and better world."

Romulo heaped invective on the UN's two big powers, the United States and Russia, for their positions in the vacillating security council debate of the Indonesian case.

The United States, he charged, refused to "vote its own conviction" when the chance came last month for the security council to order an American — proposed withdrawal of the victorious Dutch troops in Java and Sumatra.

He said that Russia "has posed before the whole world as the defender of weak and oppressed nations, and reaped a rich harvest of favorable propaganda in the process."
