Say Tientsin Peace Move Being Studied

Citizens Want Peace After Terms Rejected

NANKING (AP) — Tientsin's surrender was believed being arranged yesterday by representatives of citizens clamoring for peace after the garrison rejected Communist terms.

The peace move by the people of Tientsin was watched closely. Some believe it may cut the pattern for an end of the civil war. Regional generals may seek a similar way out if the Tientsin deal works.

(Associated Press Correspondent Spencer Moosa in Peiping said there were trustworthy reports the Communists refused to compromise, called for Tientsin's answer within 24 hours, and underscored their ultimatum by firing shells into the city, causing "quite a few casualties.")

Reports reaching Nanking by radio from Tientsin said the Communists sent these terms into the city:

All troops to down arms; all military supplies and equipment to be protected and turned over to the Communists; all soldiers to be protected if they obey these terms.

In reply, the garrison of 60,000 men is said to have agreed to give up the city if the Communists would let it keep its small arms and sail back to Nationalist China from the nearby port of Tangku.

(General Chen was quoted in the Peiping Daily News as telling Tientsin reporters there was a 50-50 chance for a peaceful settlement.

(Moosa reported that "all indications are the Communists won't modify their stand." He said the next 48 hours "are expected to be decisive.")

In the past month the possibility of ending the war has depended mainly on President Chiang Kai-shek. Now the continued loyalty to Chiang of his subordinates may be the factor.

There was a possibility the national legislature would be called into session to consider a push for peace on its own.

Acheson Selection For Hearing Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The senate foreign relations committee give Dean Acheson a chance today to state publicly his attitude toward Communist Russia.

Senator George (D-Ga.) said yesterday this is one of the reasons why the committee called for open hearings on Acheson's nomination to succeed Gen. George C. Marshall as secretary of state. George said it was only fair to give Acheson a chance to answer "rumors and charges" that he once favored a "soft" policy toward Russia.

Acheson will be the first witness when the hearings open at 9:30 a.m. Iowa time in the large caucus room of the senate office building.

Odom Attempts To Set Record

HONOLULU (AP) — Lanky Bill Odom took off over the darkening Pacific late yesterday on a projected nonstop flight to New York in an effort to set a new distance record for small planes.

Scrunched into the tiny compartment of his single-engine "Wai-iki Beech," Odom lifted the heavily-loaded Beechcraft off the runway at 6:32 p.m. (10:32 p.m. CST) on the 5,010-mile hop.

Odom had flown around the world twice. He had waited since Dec. 31 for a favorable break in the weather — across the Pacific and on the mainland. He estimated the flight would require about 34 hours.

The small plane distance record is 2,061 miles, established Sept. 23, 1937 by two Russians on a hop from Moscow to Krasnoyarsk. Odom hoped for help from tail winds. His flight plan calls for him to fly over Seattle, Bismark, N.D., north to Chicago to New York and land at Teterboro, N.J.

Odom's 185 horsepower plane took off with about 3,700 pounds, of which nearly 1,500 was gasoline.

Meters Solicit for March of Dimes

GETTING AN EARLY LESSON in how Iowa Citizens can help fight polio is Jane Fink, SUI physical education instructor. Patrolman Don Purvis is showing her how dimes can be placed in Iowa City parking meters as contributions to the March of Dimes drive which opens in tomorrow and runs through Jan. 31. Dimes placed in the meters will not provide for parking but will go to the drive.

Parking Meters Enlisted

Double Duty for Meters in March of Dimes; Toll Boxes Take Coins for Polio Drive

Your dime isn't worth a nickel when it comes to parking space in Iowa City, but it's worth a full ten cents to the March of Dimes.

The parking meters that line the streets of Iowa City have been enlisted by the Johnson county infantile paralysis committee to help support the local March of Dimes drive opening tomorrow and continuing through Jan. 31.

Authorization to use parking meters as March of Dimes collection boxes was made by the city council Monday night.

Each meter will be "dressed up" tomorrow with a sign explaining that all dimes entering its slot will help fight polio, Mrs. J. K. Schaaf, committee chairman, said yesterday.

The sign reads, "Dimes do not register on meter, dimes will not pay parking fee, all dimes go to the March of Dimes."

"We feel the meters will be handy for contributors," Mrs. Schaaf said. "They'll be convenient for everyone and we hope they'll be used."

Johnson county residents were urged yesterday by the March of Dimes committee to double their contributions to the 1949 campaign.

Last year $2,261.24 was contributed by Johnson county, Mrs. Schaaf reported. This averaged less than seven cents per resident.

"To pay the debts incurred last year and provide a reserve of funds for treatment of the disease during the coming year we must double last year's contribution," the chairman added.

Old Wrong Rankled; Slays Mail Worker

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A 65-year-old retired farmer shot a postal inspector to death in the lobby of the main post office here yesterday because he believed the postoffice department had cheated him out of two $20 money orders nine years ago.

Local officers, however, were not able to connect the slayer with the killing of former U.S. Assistant District Attorney Earl Pruet in his downtown law offices 16 hours earlier.

Frail Joseph Donnelly surrendered himself to a postoffice employee a moment after Ernest M. Harkins, 51, was shot in the back of the head as he stooped to open his mail box.

Donnelly, when arrested, told officers, "I had to take the law into my own hands."

Police found a .22 caliber pistol used to shoot Harkins in a postoffice ashcan.

"The mails lost two $20 money orders of mine, and when I asked for help, Harkins and three other postoffice men accused me of lying and cheating them," he said. "They even put it down on my record, and I couldn't get a job with the government during the war."

Donnelly pleaded innocent to a federal murder charge Wednesday afternoon in the death of Harkins. He denied steadfastly any connection with the killing of Attorney Pruet.

'Why Go to Iowa?' — Rumors Fly About Bess

A rumor that started in Iowa City and traveled to Washington, D.C., Tuesday evening, mushroomed into a national news story yesterday.

Tuesday evening The Daily Iowan heard a rumor from two sources that Mrs. Harry Truman was a patient at University hospitals. A call to the hospital revealed that a Mrs. Truman was a patient there but hospital officials would give out no further information.

In an attempt to establish the whereabouts of the Mrs. Truman who is the wife of the President, the Iowan asked The Associated Press to call Washington to learn if she was there.

The AP reported that the secret servicemen who customarily travel with Mrs. Truman were in the capitol city, as was the President's physician who probably would accompany her on such a trip.

Yesterday morning hospital officials said a Mrs. Harry Truman is a patient at University hospitals. She is Mrs. Harry P. Truman, 71, of Tipton.

Call Blair House

At the same time, in Washington, an Associated Press reporter telephoned Blair House, where the presidential family is staying, to check on the rumor.

Mrs. Reathal Odum, personal secretary to the President's wife, answered the telephone and repeated the reporter's question in surprise. "I don't know how that could be, Mrs. Truman is here in Washington," she replied.

A healthy laugh sounded from Mrs. Odum's side, and Mrs. Truman herself took over the telephone. "Definitely I'm not in a hospital," she said, still laughing.

"There are lots of us who may wish we were until after the rush of Jan. 20 (date of the President's inauguration) is over," the first lady of the White House said.

'Why Iowa?'

"Besides, why would I go to a hospital in Iowa? They have hospitals in Missouri," she added. The Truman home is in Independence, Mo.

Rehearsing Planned On Rutledge Case

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Iowa authorities will get a second hearing next Tuesday in their efforts to extradite Dr. Robert C. Rutledge for trial on a first degree murder charge in the fatal stabbing of another St. Louisan.

The physician is accused of killing Byron C. Hattman, engineer for a St. Louis electrical manufacturing company, in a Cedar Rapids, Ia., hotel room last Dec. 14. The two men had quarreled over Hattman's attentions to Mrs. Sydney Rutledge, 23, the physician's wife.

The date for a new hearing was set after Linn County Attorney William Crissman of Cedar Rapids came here yesterday with a new set of papers.

Former Gov. Phil M. Donnelly denied an earlier request for extradition on the grounds that papers brought here by Iowa authorities were incomplete.

Truman Pays Call; Surprise Air Trip To See Marshall

WASHINGTON (AP) — Without advance notice, President Truman slipped out of the White House yesterday, paid a surprise flying call on ailing Secretary of State George C. Marshall at Pinehurst, N.C., and returned home last night in time for dinner.

The whirlwind trip, made in the "Dewdrop," the airforce's new luxurious Constellation, was completely unexpected. Marshall was caught in his pajamas. And White House reporters caught up with Mr. Truman only when his plane returned to National airport here at 6:26 p.m.

The President left at 1:13 p.m. EST, for a "purely personal" visit with the 68-year-old general who recently underwent a kidney operation.

No one, except a few aides, knew he was flying south until an hour and a half after he had taken off. By that time, the President had landed at Pope field, N.C., and was driving to Marshall's Pinehurst winter home in an army staff car.

Marshall was in bed when Mr. Truman strode briskly through the door at 3:30 p.m. The general, who will retire from the cabinet on Jan. 20, got up and put on a dressing gown.

He and Mr. Truman talked for nearly an hour. Then the President drove back to the plane, and took off at 5:06 p.m. Mr. Truman was accompanied by his Airforce Aide, Brig. Gen. Robert Landry, and Press Secretary Charles G. Ross.

Ross said Marshall apparently was feeling fine.

State department officials brushed aside any suggestion that the visit was prompted by a turn for the worse in Marshall's condition. They said the general is "showing constant but slow improvement."

Ayers explained that Mr. Truman "wanted to see him once more while he (Marshall) is still secretary of state."

Negro Vote Curb Asked in Georgia

ATLANTA (AP) — Gov. Herman Talmadge's forces introduced a four-point white supremacy program in the Georgia legislature yesterday, including a revival of the poll tax.

To curb what Talmadge repeatedly has denounced as "Negro bloc voting," his legislative lieutenants submitted a series of measures which would revise completely Georgia voting machinery. The 1945 legislature repealed the old poll tax law.

The program, which brought warnings of "machining domination of Georgia" by one lawmaker, called for:

1. Wiping out the state's complete current list of 1,200,000 registered voters, including about 150,000 Negroes.

2. Undertaking a new registration under tightened machinery and procedure. Voters would be required to register again every two years — permanent registration lists would be abolished.

3. Each registration would require a one dollar fee from the prospective voter or he would be disqualified.

4. An amendment to the Georgia constitution inserting a requirement that applicants to vote must "explain in a simple, fair and reasonable manner" any section of the state or federal constitution.

Free Military Movement Requested by Forrestal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Forrestal asked congress yesterday for authority to send U.S. military missions anywhere in the world.

If the request is granted, it would revive a wartime authority. Members of the senate armed services committee, who received Forrestal's views in a report, said the missions would serve to bolster the defenses of democratic countries against the spread of Moscow-dictated communism.

A 'Dangerous' Bedside Manner

NOVARA, ITALY (AP) — Nemos Amisano, a 28-year-old merchant, yesterday was sentenced to nine months in jail for climbing into his next-door neighbor's bed "by mistake."

Luigina Anselmo, 18, testified that she thought it was her husband who came into the bedroom late one night and cuddled up close to her without snapping on the light. Later she realized it was not her husband.

Amisano claimed he was intoxicated and did not know what he was doing.

"Such a mistake is inadmissible," the judge said. "It would constitute a dangerous precedent."

Three Servicemen Charged With Rape-Slaying in Guam

GUAM (AP) — Three U.S. servicemen are under arrest and "are being charged" with the rape-slaying of pretty Ruth Farnsworth, former WAC, the American Governor of Guam announced yesterday.

Quoting "admissions" by two of the men, the governor said the trio carried her off into a jungle Dec. 11 and raped her after one man beat her into unconsciousness.

Rear Adm. Charles A. Pownall, governor of Guam, announced:

"The following persons have been placed under arrest:

"Pvt. Calvin Dennis, 26, Frederick, Md., Pvt. Herman T. Dennis, 20, Indianapolis, Ind., and Staff Sgt. Robert W. Burns, 22, Spokane, Wash.

Lt. Comdr. James T. Hackett, assistant police chief, said a factor in obtaining the admission and corroborative evidence was discovery of a smock belonging to Miss Farnsworth.

"It was found in a car of which Calvin Dennis was the driver," Hackett said.

"The use of the lie detector by Inspector A. Riedel of the Berkeley, Calif., police force was largely instrumental in narrowing the previous list of suspects and pointing the suspicion at the men now accused of the crime."

Miss Farnsworth died without regaining consciousness, 12 hours after she was found by soldiers and marines. As she died, her fiancé, Marine Staff Sgt. Sterling McGinnis, of Bell Center, Ohio, watched by her side at an army hospital. They had planned to be married in April.

Friends described Miss Farnsworth as "intensely religious." She was a member of the Latter Day Saints (Mormon) church. She had worked two years as a navy civil service employee on Guam, sending part of her earnings back to America to support a younger brother as a missionary in Mexico.

SUI Student Asks $35,000 in Damages For Train Injuries

Huldah O. Hittler, SUI graduate student in English, Tuesday sued the Northwestern and Union Pacific railroads for $35,000 for injuries suffered aboard the City of Los Angeles streamliner.

Her petition filed in the Linn county court states that at 2 p.m., Dec. 16, 1947, she was "thrown with great force against the side and onto the floor of the car she was passing through" as she returned to her coach from the diner.

She will be unable to resume work for an indefinite period because of injuries to her spine and her left hip and leg, according to the petition.

The plaintiff had boarded the streamliner on Dec. 14, 1947.

One percent of her claim was assigned to Robert Bettle of Racine, Wis., who was named a plaintiff in the suit with her.

Mrs. Hittler's attorney is William F. Morrison of Iowa City.

Gillette to Introduce Bill on Women's Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Miller (D-Idaho) said yesterday he will be one of the sponsors of the equal rights bill to be introduced by Senator Gillette (D-Ia.).

Arrested on Fugitive Charge

ARRESTED AS A FUGITIVE in New York yesterday, Dancer Vicki Evans, a defendant in the Robert Mitchell narcotics trial, confers with her lawyer, Martin Benjamin. Scheduled to appear in felony court tomorrow, the 25-year-old dancer said she failed to appear for trial in California, because she had no funds but was anxious to return and "clear my name." Benjamin, however, said she will fight extradition to California and that this information was telegraphed to the sheriff's office in Los Angeles.

Middle East Peace Talks Open Today

LONDON (AP) — The full British cabinet apparently gave its complete support yesterday to Foreign Secretary Bevin's Palestine policy.

A high government source said there will be no change in Britain's Middle East course. This was after the cabinet met for four hours. It heard Bevin report on why Britain has sent troops to Awaba in Trans-Jordan, instituted armed air patrols along Palestine's Trans-Jordan and Egyptian frontiers, and warned that Middle Eastern peace is threatened unless the UN security council's authority is reestablished.

Bevin and his policy came in for questioning and criticism in some British newspapers when five RAF planes were sent down last Friday while engaged in an armed reconnaissance over the Israeli-Egyptian battle area.

The British-Isreali situation also had repercussions in Washington and Lake Success.

Acting Secretary of State Robert A. Lovett conferred with British, Arabian and Israeli officials in Washington in efforts to safeguard the critical Palestine "truce" talks that get underway today.

The meetings were held after Lovett told a news conference that the United States has urged the British, Egyptian and Israeli governments to use the greatest restraint in the Middle East to prevent upsetting the delicate United Nations peace negotiations scheduled on the island of Rhodes.

At Lake Success, UN Secretary General Trygve Lie told a news conference he hopes "all parties will be helpful" so that the acting UN mediator, Dr. Ralph Bunche, may have a success in the Rhodes negotiations.

Move to End Filibustering

WASHINGTON (AP) — The senate rules committee voted yesterday to begin hearings January 24 on proposed rules changes which would make it easier to shut off filibustering talk.

These changes are expected to have an important bearing on the success or failure of southern senators' efforts to beat President Truman's civil rights program. The filibuster — time consuming talk which may continue for day after day — has been one of their most effective weapons in rebuffing similar legislation in the past.

The rules committee decided on the hearings after Mr. Truman had disclosed that bills are being drawn to carry out the civil rights program, and after 17 southern senators had organized to fight the program and any change in the senate's debate rules.

The committee decided to take testimony at the hearings only from senators. Chairman Hayden (D-Ariz.) said the hearings will last "as long as necessary."

No Frozen Pipes, No Water Either

MONROE, ORE. (AP) — Monroe residents, whose water pipes keep freezing, decided Tuesday night to stop the trouble by letting the faucets run all night.

They were pleased to discover none of the pipes froze at all. It would have worked fine, except for one thing:

So many faucets were left open the municipal water reservoir ran dry. There wasn't a smidge of water in all Monroe yesterday.

The people waited for springs to fill the reservoir again.

Taking Time Out

Blow-by-Blow Description of Big Nine Game —

One of Iowa's midget basketballers, 5-foot, 10-inch Charlie Mason, stalked off the practice floor yesterday afternoon and plopped into a chair on the sidelines. The little veteran, now in his fourth year of varsity competition, had just gone through a rugged scrimmage drill and showed no after-effects of a sprained ankle suffered in Tuesday's practice.

"You know, there are some days when you just can't make a nickel," puffed Mason. "Take me for instance . . . that game at Indiana Monday night and then yesterday afternoon with that sprained ankle."

While the Hawkeyes were absorbing a 50-39 licking at the hands of the Hoosiers, scampering little Charlie was having a much rougher time than anyone realized. He was finally helped from the floor with a little more than five minutes left in the game after being knocked unconscious by falling over top of a Hoosier defender.

"Oh, but that wasn't all," grimaced Charlie. "A blow-by-blow description would go something like this. First, Garrett (Indiana forward) knocked me flat on my back, but that wasn't too bad. You've got to expect a few bumps like that."

"Then, a little later on," he continued, "Meyer (Indiana center) kicked me in the stomach while I was on the floor. That was a little different, but then who am I to argue with a guy 6-5."

"So I thought, 'Charlie, why don't you get in there and give these boys a hard time?'"

"It wasn't much after that when we went back on defense. Sticking by our rule of calling out a man to guard on defense, I saw Lou Watson (Indiana forward) coming towards me and shouted, 'I got shorty here.'"

"Watson rushed past me," Charlie said, "and grumbled, 'Aw shut up.' Then he let me have an elbow right in the mouth."

"See," he pointed and exhibited a swollen lower lip.

"Of course, the payoff was that flop I took over Stuteville (Indiana guard). I was going like a madman towards the basket and went up for a shot when Stuteville stepped in front of me. Down I went for the count of ten."

"Yeah, don't kid yourself. This Big Nine ball is rough."

Mason's life-time ambition is to start a Big Nine basketball game. In four years of conference play he has never been in at the opening tip-off. After scoring 10 points and leading Iowa's point-getters at Indiana, Charlie may realize that ambition when the Hawks meet Ohio State Saturday night.

This is strictly unofficial, but someone said yesterday that a look at Iowa's offensive rebounding chart against Indiana produced a horrible sight. The Hawks supposedly garnered one offensive bounce off the board in 11 minutes of action, and that by Mason. The boys 6-4 and 6-5 must have really had a bad night in Bloomington.

Jack Spencer, star guard of Iowa's basketball teams since 1943 and who finished collegiate play last winter, was in town yesterday. Like Herb Schoener, former Hawk griddler, Jack is also apartment-hunting in preparation for returning to school next semester.

Spencer has 14 semester hours remaining in order to get his Phys. Ed. degree. At present he is playing basketball with the Cedar Rapids Raiders' professional team.

The Cedar Rapids' five, which boasts such former Iowa greats as Herb and Clayton Wilkinson, Dick Ives and Red Metcalfe, meets the Tri-Cities Blackhawks and Hawkeye all-American Murray Wier at Cedar Rapids Friday night in an exhibition.

Dr. Eddie Anderson, Hawkeye head football coach, denounced all rumors last night which were in effect that he'd be leading the gridiron destinies of another team next fall, possibly the professional Chicago Cardinals.

"Not interested," was Anderson's comment when learning of the rumors tying him up with the job recently vacated by Jimmy Conzelmann. "And furthermore," he said, "I'm not interested in the UCLA job, either."

Coach Bert LaBrucherie quit at UCLA following the 1948 season. Anderson did not say whether he had received offers from either team, but was emphatic in statements of not being interested in leaving Iowa.

It had been rumored here that Paul Brown, Cleveland Browns' professional coach and former mentor at Ohio State, had visited Iowa City in December. Anderson said he knew nothing of that, but had seen newspaper stories of a reported visit here by Brown.

Brown had announced late last football season that he was ready to get out of the professional sport and back into the college coaching ranks. The gridiron war between the All-America conference and the National league were reported as his main reason for desiring to make the switch.

Cincinnati Tops US Scoring

NEW YORK (AP) — Cincinnati university, sporting a 79.2 point-per-game scoring average, remained well out in front yesterday as the national offense leader among the major college basketball teams.

Figures of the National Collegiate Athletic bureau, which include games through Jan. 8, show Cincinnati has tallied 475 points in winning six games without defeat.

Manhattan college, with a 7-2 record, is second, having a 74.3 average, with Bradley third, and Western Kentucky fourth, although both the latter show a 70.5 average. Bradley (13-2) is rated third for having maintained its pace in 15 games, while Western Kentucky is unbeaten in 10 starts.

In the defensive department, Oklahoma A and M tops the list, allowing 35.5 points for a 35.5 average in compiling an eight and two mark to date.

Columbia is second in defense, giving up 39.2 points while winning four of five games. Kentucky (8-1), rates third in defense, 39.3; Idaho (11-7), fourth, 41.3; and Michigan (7-2) fifth, also 41.3. Other offense leaders: 5-Rhode Island State (3-4), 70.3; 6-Bowling Green (8-5), 69.5; 7-New York U. (6-3), 69.2; 8-CCNY, (10-2), 69.0; 9-Illinois (10-1), 68.8; 10-Yale (6-4), 68.6.

Other defense leaders: 6-Siena (10-2), 41.4; 7-Alabama (7-2), 41.9; 8-Loyola, Ill. (10-1), 42.2; 9-Minnesota (9-0), 42.8; 10-Washington State (15-1), 43.6.

"A record in every event," promises Swimming Coach Dave Armbruster for Saturday's freshman-varsity meet to christen the new 25-yard course in the pool.

The new partition that divides the 50-yard pool into 25 and 20-yard pools was put in place yesterday — the first 25-yard swimming length in fieldhouse history.

Lottery Players Expelled

Campus Cage Pools Halted

STORRS, CONN. (AP) — President A.N. Jorgensen said yesterday that two students, arrested with five New London men in connection with the alleged operation of a basketball gambling pool on the University of Connecticut campus, "will be expelled."

The two, Theodore Hendel, 21, and Emanuel Gottesdiener, 21, both of New London, were arrested shortly before midnight Tuesday after state police followed them about the campus for several hours.

State police Commissioner Edward J. Hickey said a cardboard carton they were carrying contained 3,000 basketball "prediction type" lottery tickets.

Arraigned with them were Isadore Brickman, 30, described by Commissioner Hickey as a "professional gambler," and Ralph Levine, 30, both of New London.

Commissioner Hickey said the arrests resulted from a complaint by University of Connecticut authorities that "professional gamblers have invaded the campus," and asking that "their activities be wiped out at all costs."

At a special session of Mansfield town court yesterday, Hendel and Gottesdiener waived examination on charges of violating the state gaming laws and were bound over to the next term of Tolland county superior court under bonds of $1,000 each.

Indict Gambler On Charge of Bribing Philly Court Star

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A 33-year-old poolroom operator was indicted yesterday on a charge of trying to bribe Joe Fuiks, high-scoring star for the Philadelphia Warriors.

Fuiks swore out a warrant against Morris (Moxie) Fleishman on Dec. 10, asserting that Fleishman offered him "easy money" if he would "throw games" in the professional Basketball Association of America.

Americo V. Cortese, assistant district attorney, said the case will be prosecuted "vigorously." The trial probably will be held in April.

At Fleishman's arraignment before Magistrate Fred Schwarz, Jr., Dec. 10, the six-foot-five Fuiks testified that Fleishman told him: "Other people are making easy money by off-setting (throwing games). Why don't you make some easy money while you are able? You can't go on playing professional basketball all your life."

At that hearing, George F. Richardson, assistant superintendent of police, described Fleishman as a "small fry" gambler. He said he had evidence that Fleishman fronted for "racketeers who are getting into both professional and amateur sports in this city."

Name Ike Williams 'Boxer of the Year'

NEW YORK (AP) — Ike Williams, the busy lightweight champion from Trenton, N.J., last night received the Edward J. Neil memorial award as the man who did the most for boxing in 1948.

Williams, who plans to go after the welter crown if he gets past Enrique Bolanos in California this winter, defended his title three times last year.

The capable 135-pound king also received a special Ring magazine medal as "Boxer of the Year."

Chandler Fines Durocher, Fitzsimmons $500 Apiece

CINCINNATI (AP) — Baseball Commissioner A.B. Chandler hung fines on Leo Durocher, Freddie Fitzsimmons and the New York National league club yesterday for violating the tampering rule and warned that more severe penalties will be inflicted if anyone does it again.

Durocher, manager of the Giants, and Fitzsimmons, last year a Boston Braves coach, were fined $500 each for negotiating a 1949 contract while Freddie still was employed by the Beantown club. Fitzsimmons also was suspended from March 1 to April 1.

The New York club was fined $2,000.

"Clubs and their personnel are warned that future violations of the tampering rule will be accompanied by more severe penalties than those imposed in this instance," Chandler said in his finding.

"Coach Fitzsimmons and Manager Durocher both professed ignorance of the tampering rule. Such ignorance is not excused now and will not be in the future." The rules say a player or coach must have the written consent of his club before he may negotiate with another outfit.

Chandler said that "except for the fact that Frederick Fitzsimmons has had long and honorable service in baseball, the commissioner would deprive the New York club of his services for the 1949 season."

Furthermore, baseball's head man wants the Giants' management to certify that the fines of Durocher and Fitzsimmons are paid solely out of their own funds and that they are not reimbursed "now or hereafter."

It was the second time Chandler had slapped Durocher, but yesterday's fine was a caress compared to the year's suspension given him in 1947 when he was manager of the Brooklyn team.

Tony Guzowski

Guzowski is both a varsity football and basketball player from Iron River, Mich. He has earned three varsity letters in football and was awarded two major "I's" for his hardcourt work.

An odd turnabout is that he was awarded a basketball scholarship from prep school but now has become a top-flight footballer.

On the grid team, Guzowski plays end and last fall proved himself able as a defensive wingman. When winter comes, Guzowski moves inside to take up the court guard position. His long set shots are a thrill to watch.

Guzowski spent four years as a leatherneck in the South Pacific as a gunnery sergeant with the rank of technical sergeant. While in the marines, he played football with the mid-west service club composed of Marines and Navy men.

He is majoring in physical education and has hopes of coaching in a middle west high school or junior college.

Guzowski says that his greatest joy was scoring 35 points to help down previously unbeaten Crystal Falls, Mich., when he was in prep school. Crystal Falls was riding on the crest of a 32-game winning streak at the time.

Roger Finley

A 6-foot, 5-inch center, this is Finley's second year as a Hawk regular. He is a junior and played on the junior varsity team during the 1946-47 season.

Finley is 23 years old and comes from Franklin, Minn. He earned a major "I" last year.

A commerce major, Finley hopes to do personnel work when he finishes school.

Finley served 30 months in the infantry. He was in the First infantry division which was part of Gen. Simpson's Ninth army.

He played both football and basketball while in the services overseas. The First division hoop squad was European theater and Ninth army champs.

In football, the 71st division, led by Dick Hoerner, SUI and Los Angeles Rams fullback, defeated the First division for the Ninth army championship. Finley also played against Hal Shoener who was on the 69th division squad.

In basketball, Finley played opposite such stars as Gene Vance and Ken Menke, of Whiz Kids fame; Dale Hall, all time All-America from Army, and Bill Towrey, all-pro center of the Ft. Wayne, Ind. Zollners and now with the Indianapolis Jets of the Basketball Association of America.

TRESH PEDDLED

CHICAGO (AP) — Frank C. Lane, general manager of the Chicago White Sox, announced yesterday the sale of veteran catcher Mike Tresh to the Cleveland Indians for an unannounced sum.

ARCARO SPANKED AGAIN

ARCADIA, CALIF. (AP) — Eddie Arcaro, the nation's stake riding champion, yesterday was suspended for 10 days at Santa Anita by stewards who said he caused interference in Tuesday's sixth race.

SOOS GET PILOT

SIoux CITY, IA. (AP) — Don Ramsey, who piloted Erie, Pa., of the Mid-Atlantic league last summer, yesterday was signed as manager of the Sioux City Soos in the Western league.

Clinton Backers Seek Chicago Cub Support

CLINTON, IA. (AP) — Adam Pratt, former Sioux City baseball operator, and Byron Pinney, president of Clinton Baseball, Inc., will leave for Chicago today in an attempt to get support of the Chicago Cubs for a team here next summer.

Pratt holds the franchise for the proposed Cedar Rapids entry in the Western league, also, but expansion of that league still is tentative.

Boston Yanks Accept NY Offer

National Grid Loop Team Offered Polo Grounds or Stadium

NEW YORK (AP) — Owner Ted Collins of the National football league Boston Yanks accepted the strings-attached invitation to operate his team in Yankee Stadium yesterday when he came to tentative terms with Yankee President Dan Topping.

It was another step toward peace in the three-year-old professional football war, but not the final one by any means.

Topping opened the door Tuesday when he said he would fold up the All America conference Yankees and rent Yankee Stadium to the Collins interests if it meant peace in the football war.

Collins lost no time stepping in to the opening. "I met with Topping, Horace Stoneham who owns the Polo Grounds and the Mara brothers, who operate the New York football Giants, Tuesday night," Collins said yesterday.

Here is the result of their conversations: If the Yankees do not operate in the All America conference next season, the Boston Yanks will move into Yankee Stadium and take over the name, "New York Yankees."

If the Yankees do operate, then the Boston Yanks will go into the Polo Grounds on a "long-term lease" and will take over a new name not yet selected.

City High Seeks 7th Tonight

The Iowa City Little Hawks, current pace setters in the Mississippi Valley conference, seek their seventh consecutive loop success here tonight when they meet Roosevelt of Cedar Rapids.

The Hawks have compiled a ten-game winning string without setback this season. Coach Gil Wilson will start an all veteran crew composed of Whitey Diehl and Rox Shain in the forward spots. Gene Hettrick at the pivot slot and the brother combination of John and Bill Fenton at the guard posts.

Roosevelt is winner of but two games in eight outings this season and victor in only one conference tussle in five starts.

Hettrick, Hawklets Top Valley League

Gene Hettrick, Iowa City high's big center, is leading the Mississippi Valley conference scoring race with a per game average of 19.1 points, and looks now like a clinch for the scoring title.

In seven conference games the six-foot five-inch senior has tallied 134 points to outdistance

Joe Louis Assures Eagan He'll Defend Crown Next Spring

NEW YORK (AP) — Col. Edward Eagan, chairman of the New York state athletic commission, said last night he had received definite assurance from Joe Louis that the Brown Bomber would defend his heavyweight boxing championship next June.

"I talked with Joe in the mid-west by telephone," Eagan told the dinner meeting of the Boxing Writers Association of New York.

"I asked Joe if he planned to fight again. He said, yes, he did. Louis said he planned to fight next June and there are two possibilities — Ezzard Charles and Lee Savold.

Dentistry Has A History

You'd scarcely expect to find the skull of a tiger shark in a dental museum. But the college of dentistry's museum has one.

Dentists are interested in any collection piece having to do with teeth. The zoology department may have a claim on animal skulls, but the dentists also have them to show the teeth.

There's a woodchuck who got his head in the museum just because his two front incisors grew down and then curled back up. The woodchuck starved to death because he couldn't get his mouth closed to chew his food.

Care of the teeth must have been important to savage people. One exhibit shows two toothbrushes used by primitive men.

The savages took a slender branch of soft wood and chewed the end down to a ragged nub, much as a modern man worries a toothpick. This frayed end was then used to go over the teeth, one by one, in a slow brushing manner.

Oddities in teeth attract the dentists. There's one card mount showing nine teeth, each three times as big as a normal tooth, and they're all from the mouth of a 17-year-old boy in Montana.

Playful dentists added the caption: "They grow them big in Montana."

Another oddity is a group of mastodon teeth. Since the end of the ice age in North America was the end of the mastodons, the age of mastodon teeth can be placed at somewhere between 25 thousand and one million years.

The dentists have a few back teeth from a parahippus. The parahippus was one of the ancestors of the modern horse. His size was somewhere between a pony and a sheep and his age is something over one million years.

Quite a collection of old-fashioned dental chairs rests in the museum. The exact age of some of them is unknown but a few date back almost 100 years.

One floor above the museum the reverse is true. The dental clinic on the top floor is one of the four most modern in the United States, according to Dr. J. D. Wells, curator of the museum.

The Old

Life in a dentist's chair in a gentler age was no gentler for the patient. The age of this old dental chair is not known. It is one of the oldest in the museum, and some chairs date back almost 100 years.

The New

Nowadays a guy has a break when he climbs into the dentist's chair. Gone are the days of red plush and the "Police Gazette." This chair is one of many in the top-floor dental clinic where future dentists mechanics get practical training.

Starved

The woodchuck on the right below starved to death. He couldn't shut his mouth to chew. If he had, his curved upper teeth would have gone through the roof of his mouth and on into his brain. At left is a normal woodchuck skull.

Giant

The four mastodon teeth at left are a little bigger than a man's hand. Also on exhibit at the museum are some giant human teeth, contributed by a 17-year-old Montana schoolboy.

Brushes

History of the toothbrush is sketched in this exhibit. At the bottom of the picture are two brushes used by primitive man (the one at right came from a tribe of African headhunters). Steps in the evolution of the modern toothbrush also are shown.

SUI Council To Hear Ring Report Tonight

Possible prices and a design for an SUI senior class ring will be presented to the Student Council tonight by its National Students association committee. The council will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the house chamber of Old Capitol.

The report will be based on bids submitted to the committee by two nationally known jewelry firms. Ruby Scott, NSA senior ring division chairman who will give the report, yesterday said tentative plans include:

1. Type of ring. The companies offered both a silver and a 10-karat gold ring with a choice of three stone settings for each — black onyx, ruby or sapphire.

2. Prices. One firm quoted prices of from $25 to $35 for men's rings and the other, $14.50 to $23.50 for men's rings and $8.50 to $15.50 for women's rings, depending on the type of metal and stone.

3. Design. The ring would have "State University of Iowa. Org. Feb. 25, 1847" engraved around an oval-shaped stone in the center of the ring. A replica of Old Capitol would be engraved on one side of the ring and a replica of the hawkkey in the university seal on the other.

4. Sale of the rings. All SUI seniors and graduates could buy rings. The rings would be sold by the SUI alumni office which has been working with the NSA committee on the project. The rings could be ordered at any time from samples in the office.

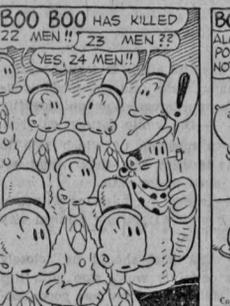

The senior ring project was started last spring by the Student Council after a survey of about 4,000 SUI students showed strong sentiment for the plan.

Also at the meeting tonight, Council President Evan L. Hultman will appoint a committee of council members to make final arrangements for the reception of about 50 University of Minnesota students who will be the guests of the council at the Iowa-Minnesota basketball game Monday.

FINED IN POLICE COURT

Students to Receive Six Hours Credit For Tour to Europe

Prof. O. E. Nybakken said yesterday the classics department has arranged to accredit the classical background tour to Europe, which he will conduct this summer.

SUI students who successfully complete the tour sponsored by the bureau of university travel in Newton, Mass., will be granted six semester hours credit through the registrar's office.

However, before credit is granted, students will be required to pass an examination on the tour. The exam will be held upon return to the SUI Campus, Nybakken said.

Only 25 persons may take the tour, and Nybakken advised those interested to see him at once.

Students who arrange to take the tour now but later find it necessary to change their plans will be granted refunds, he added.

A total of eight European tours will be conducted this summer by the bureau of university travel.

Two are in art appreciation and one each in English history and literature, government, music appreciation, education, French workshop and Nybakken's classics tour.

A ninth tour to Mexico is also planned.

Anyone interested in any of the nine tours may contact Prof. Nybakken, 111 Schaeffer hall.

Man Arrested on Contempt Charge

Winfield Scott was in Johnson county jail yesterday awaiting a hearing on a contempt of court charge after Sheriff Albert J. (Pat) Murphy arrested him in Coralville Tuesday night.

Judge Harold D. Evans had issued a bench warrant for Scott's arrest after he failed to appear at a contempt of court hearing Jan. 5.

The defendant's former wife, Eileen Scott, had asked that he be cited for contempt, claiming he failed to make alimony payments to her.

Millions Spent for Atom Research -

Atom Smashers Are Tools to Probe Unknown

By RUSS PAULDING

FROM THE TIME I was old enough to recognize the scrape of snow shovels on cement...

These heavy cold weather enthusiasts get nothing but deep seated growls from me...

SINCE FIRST learning there are places in the world which never see a snow shovel from one year to the next...

Outside of throwing a comparative few semi-skilled snow shovel makers out of work this seems like a good idea...

WITH A LITTLE work in the field of history it can be proved beyond any doubt that most of the trouble in the past years has been caused by people who were cold.

Take a look at the Eskimos... what a bunch of trouble makers. For all we know there may be a council of war going on in a secret igloo this very moment.

I shudder when I think of bands of fierce Eskimo troops plundering Iowa, pushing howitzers mounted on small glaciers ahead of them.

IT IS ONLY human to think, "This couldn't happen to me," but I have definite proof that it did happen once, and Iowa City was one of the battle fields.

I guess that will shake you out of your lethargy. I'll wait for you while you check your heating facilities and fill your lighter...

THE FELLOW who was behind that battle in Iowa City was a powerful Eskimo warrior called Big Kack Yanuck. One day he and his army got to feeling pretty gritty about garrison life up near Kiska and decided they'd go on maneuvers.

They picked on Iowa because they'd been just about every place else. Big Kack Yanuck called his men together and said, "Men, how'd you like to go down and scare the jabbers out of these Iowans?"

CARRYING EXTRA mittens, shovels, snow balls and rations (Eskimo pies), the army from Kiska moved into I.C. several weeks later, riding huge glaciers down Dubuque street.

All able bodied men in this area answered the call to arms, but trying to fight a glacier loaded with ice-throwing Eskimos was too much for the valiant citizen army.

The local boys gave them quite a show, however, and the ruins of those glaciers dug up around here are still in evidence. The geology department will verify this.

AFTER A BRIEF, but lively, battle the Eskimos won out and settled down to occupy Iowa City. They parked their largest glacier over where Hawkeye village is today. At that time it was referred to as simply "Iowa Field."

For awhile things looked pretty bad. Big Kack Yanuck and his boys lived off the fat of the land besides the fat which they imported from Kiska and in general made life miserable for everybody.

THINGS BEGAN looking up one day, though, when a dispute between Big Kack Yanuck and Big Kack Napkip, who was second in command, broke out. (The two men looked very much alike. The only way you could tell them apart was that Yanuck wore trousers while Napkip favored kilts which he had picked up on a trip to Glasgow.)

The reason for the argument was the fact that the glacier parked in Hawkeye village had started to melt, making a big puddle there. Big Kack Napkip (in kilts) wanted to go home before the big glacier melted into the body of water which was later to be referred to as Lake Calvin.

TO WIND UP the account, Big Kack Yanuck agreed to go back Kiska, but not before throwing G Kack Napkip in the deep freeze... which certainly showed no more the trousers. The moral of this story is: let's have a little warm weather around here before we have to put up with another Big Kack in the state.

A man piloting a new jet plane can travel a mile in four or five seconds. A rifle bullet can hit the same speed.

Although these speeds are many times faster than speeds of the horse and buggy era, they do not compare with velocities attained by atom smashing particles accelerated in smashers.

Physicists in the near future plan to speed particles 150 thousand miles in less than one second. That's equivalent to six times around the earth in one second.

Increasing the speeds of atom smashing particles is deemed so important by the U.S. government, that millions of dollars were spent last year on atom research projects and atom smasher development.

Since the U.S. is leading the world in atomic energy development, desiring to increase its lead - by planning to expend millions more - it is necessary that the tax paying public knows what it is buying.

Safety and security are the major purchases. You and I are paying for a secure future by giving science resources a hand in development. Through scientific development the U.S. is keeping ahead of those whose intentions lean toward war.

Secondly, tax payers dollars are paying the way into the new atom era where a new and better life is envisioned.

Atom smashers are one phase of taxpayer purchase. They are tools used by scientists to crack the atom nut - the hard shell that surrounds the meat of the atom era - nuclei.

The scientist does not always know what to expect when he cracks atom nuclei. He may get a reaction already observed by the science world or he may crack deep enough into the mysterious atom core to reveal hitherto unknown facts.

Atom smashers stand on the frontiers of atomic knowledge. Scientists do not know exactly what lies beyond. The latest smashing techniques, however, are the tools for pushing back those frontiers.

The cry, "bigger and better smashers," is heard from all corners of the world. A new machine planned by the atomic energy commission, for example, will require 10,000 tons of steel - nearly enough to build a heavy cruiser.

Although atom smashers may weigh thousands of tons, they must be constructed with the precision of a fine Swiss watch and handled with the care a mother shows her new-born babe. The bulky machines must control particles speeding thousands of miles per second, weighing only one in 17 million billion billion parts of an ounce.

There are two fundamental types of atom smashers - linear and non-linear. SUI's two smashers are linear, while the Iowa state smasher will be non-linear.

Linear accelerators function in a manner comparable to a baseball pitcher, batter and catcher combination. The pitcher's body represents potential power with which to throw the ball. The catcher is the target and the bat might be the atom nucleus struck by the pitched ball or particle.

Just as the pitcher might throw many balls at the target which are never hit, the atom smasher fires millions of particles at the target which never hit atom nuclei.

Checking the atom smasher (figure one, type used by SUI physicists) the following comparison can be made:

1. Unit E is the power source - the batter's body - which sprays an electrical charge on belt D.

2. Belt D - pitcher's wind-up - carries the charges to unit F, where the smasher's energy is stored - pitcher's body readied for the throw, after all his potential throwing power is built up for the toss.

3. Unit F is the particle source and power electrode - ball in pitcher's hand which expresses the pitcher's tossing action - ball release.

4. Vacuum tube C accelerates and guides fired particles - path followed by pitched ball toward target. (Differences in this portion of the analogy fail to tell all the truth - since the atom smashing particles speed is increased as it shoots through the tube, while a pitched ball or rifle bullet continues to slow down after the initial burst of power.

5. Target position G - catcher's glove. Fired particles may strike atom nuclei and the result observed by scientific methods, just as baseball spectators watch the result of a hit ball worth two or three bases.

Atom smasher type 2 includes machines named cyclotrons, synchrotrons, betatrons and proton-synchrotrons. These particle accelerators employ large electromagnets and oscillating devices which determine a particle's speed and course. Particles in this type of smasher are accelerated in closed or spiral orbits.

It is with this type of atom smasher that scientists are speeding particles to velocities approaching that of light.

Checking figure 2, differences between the two types in particle acceleration, may be seen.

Where the linear accelerator fires its smashing particles like rifle bullets, the non-linear or cyclotron type, accelerates particles by whipping them around in orbits before shooting them at a target.

This may be compared to a discus throw. The athlete twirls his body around before letting the discus fly. If he was given a rope to tie on the discus he could throw it much farther, since he could increase the speed of the missile, giving it greater power.

Comparing the discus throw - plus the added length of rope - and a cyclotron, we now see that they are one and the same. The atom smashing particles are emitted from point G in figure 2, and are spiraled toward the perimeter of the dees. (Units E and F in the cyclotron figure.) It is only a matter of one or two seconds before the particles have whipped around the course thousands of times.

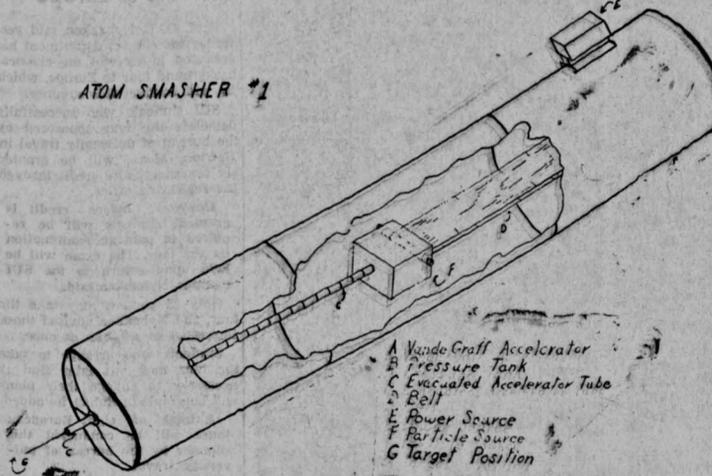

If you can now vision a discus thrower, starting to whirl the missile with the rope tied to it, you can see that at first he twirls the discus in close to his body. As the object picks up speed and energy, the length of the rope is increased. With the length of the rope ever increasing, the course of the missile is a spiral - like the atom smashing particle, which is released in the center of the dees.

When the desired length of rope has been let out, the discus will be farthest from the athlete. At this time - power source remaining constant - the discus will have picked up the greatest amount of energy, and if released, should fly out with the maximum amount of power.

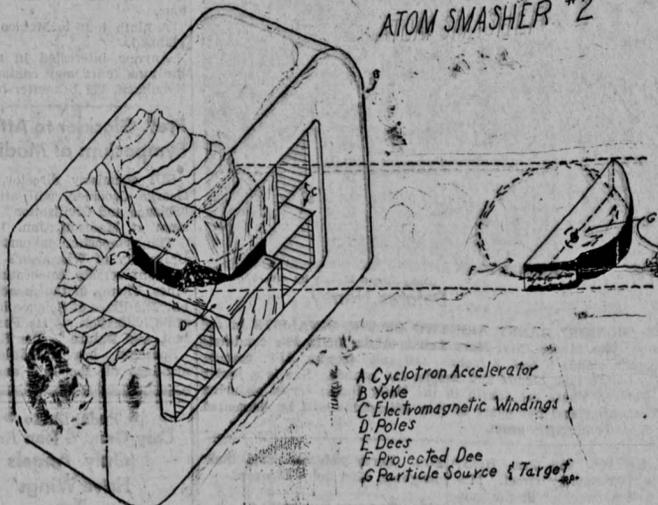

Particles used for smashing, gain their power in the same manner. Those used are farthest out in the dees of the cyclotron. They are speeding faster than all others in the machine. Consequently, they will strike with the greatest force.

The greater striking power, developed by improved smashers, may determine much which will extend the advent of the atom era.

Score One for the Anti-Lynching Team -

Civil rights legislation, which promises a stiff fight in congress, received an unwitting boost this week from one of the areas ostensibly opposed to anti-lynching laws and anti-segregation laws.

An all white jury in Lyons, Ga., acquitted a man who had been accused of the murder of a Negro. Jurors were called to testify as character witnesses for the defendant. This was unusual, admitted the Georgia attorney general, but it had been done before.

It has been done before. A juror may be called to testify in a trial, sometimes is called on immaterial matters. But should a juror testify and the judge feels that his testimony indicates his position on the jury is prejudicial to the course of justice then the judge may have the juror withdrawn.

This was not the first irregularity in the Mallard murder case. At first, the widow of the slain man was afraid to come out of her hiding place in the woods. She was also afraid to testify against the white men although she said she could identify her husband's murderers. She did identify one man in court - the white farmer on trial.

Then it became a question of which side to believe. Two jurors testified that they would not believe the widow even under oath.

These jurors were called as character witnesses for the accused. It seems a tragically comical way to conduct a murder trial.

The outcome of this trial should be closely watched - justice certainly won't stop with this mockery. Perhaps Mallard's widow has good reason to be afraid. The orders issued by Georgia Governor Talmadge that he wanted to see justice done seem to have slipped by with the first headlines.

People who live in this land of the free and home of the brave should now be aware that in some instances one group gets to be free while the other group just has to be brave.

These Glasses Don't Aid Middle East Vision -

Britain is finding herself in an embarrassing middle eastern position. Her Arab allies began negotiating an armistice with Israel yesterday, but she is still fighting the Holy Land war.

The whole Palestine affair could have been ended several truce violations ago. Israel has been a reality since early last summer. The infant state asked only direct peace negotiations with the Arab powers.

Such negotiations might have been held - and concluded - months ago. Probably because of Britain backing for the crumbling Arab League alliance, they weren't.

Americans tend to look at the Holy Land upheaval as an argument between Jews and Arabs, one which unfortunately has to be resolved by force. But Britain has made the two-way affair a complicated triangle.

Most military observers had not given Israel much of a chance to stand up against the combined armed forces of her Arab neighbors. And Britain - trying to hold onto at least one sphere of influence - lined up with the Arabs.

The situation is reversed today; the military observers were dead wrong. Israel is on top of the heap, one of the few middle eastern states that is not torn by internal chaos.

Trying on Britain's imperialist-colored glasses and looking at today's middle east, we can see what Britain is too near-sighted to see.

We Iowans Will Defend Our Popcorn -

We don't want to throw fuel on the Minnesota-Iowa controversy, but - Minnesotans are prejudiced against popcorn.

A Minneapolis radio station fired a disc jockey because of perfectly good popcorn. Of course... may as well admit... he insisted on crunching on it while broadcasting.

What's Britain's stake in the middle east? The Suez canal, Arab oil, African holdings farther south are the most important.

Are her stakes endangered? Through our colored glasses, the answer may be yes. Israel has upset the power balance in the far east. An empire needs a tranquil setting. The new state, if hostile, could threaten Suez, could pinch off the easiest route to Arab oil. Israel might conceivably endanger African colonies farther inland.

Now, the scene becomes blurred. Is Britain staying on the losing side in the Israel-Arab squabble in the belief that the Jewish state is only a mirage, that it can't possibly fend off Arab military might?

That doesn't seem realistic. Is she siding with the weakest side to offend a strong Israel? That wouldn't seem worth the price of U.S. friendship.

No doubt, many American diplomats have wondered why Britain remains a chief stumbling block to peace in the middle east. With Egypt and Israel negotiating an armistice and most other Arab states waiting for peace talks, we are faced with another incongruous prospect.

We may find the middle east at peace with Britain thrashing around fighting a middle eastern war all by herself. But then, when you wear glasses made according to a long discredited prescription, things will happen.

Fortunately, some other Minneapolis radio station was more broadminded. They caught the disc jockey as he bounced out on the pavement and gave him a job. If they hadn't, we loyal Iowans could have made him head usher in one of our best movie houses.

University Hospitals to Install New System of Refrigeration

The central system of refrigeration in University hospitals is being replaced by a modern automatic system, University Engineer George Parizek said yesterday.

The move will make three separate processes of ice making, refrigeration and water cooling. Under the central system, ammonia carrying pipes have cooled a salt brine in centrally located storage tanks. The brine has been used to freeze cakes of ice for hospital use.

The cooled brine was then piped through the hospital and used for refrigeration and water cooling.

All cooling processes were tied up to a central system and any breakdown in the central area meant all three functions were halted.

In addition, Parizek said, "serious deterioration and the hazard of ammonia leaks" has made extensive repair work necessary.

The new system will use a "non-toxic cooling agent for the sake of safety," he said.

Ice will be frozen by "completely automatic" electrically driven machines. They will produce crushed ice and do away with the present crumbling and storing processes.

Work on the ice making machinery will begin "about the last of this month," the engineer said.

Refrigeration for coolers and ice boxes will be provided by "about 60" individual units that will operate independent of each other.

U. High Speakers To Attend Festival

A group of University high school students will travel to Burlington Saturday to take part in an annual speech festival.

Included in the group are Bob Ojemann, Mary Ladd, Dennis Hager, Marge Kuriz, Tom Brown, Elizabeth Enggrav, Hal Larew and Bob Helmer. They will be accompanied by Dr. Hugh Seabury, associate professor in the SUI speech department, and Charles Balcer, speech instructor.

The festival is sponsored by the Burlington high school advanced speech class under the direction of Jonan Haskell, head of the speech department.

Speech students from many high schools in southeastern Iowa have been invited to participate in the four divisions of the festival: discussion, debate, oratory and extemporaneous speaking.

Members of the Iowa City group will enter the discussion division with "Federal World Government" as their topic, and the debate section with the topic "Resolved: That the United Nations should now be revised into Federal World Government."

Prof. Van der Zee Gets Church Post

Prof. Jacob Van der Zee of the SUI political science department was appointed historian for the First Presbyterian church at the annual congregation and corporation meeting Tuesday night.

New church officers were elected and reports from all church organizations were given at the meeting.

Mrs. Owen Sutherland, church representative, announced yesterday that Stephen Darling, Robert Ebel, Elmer Schmidt and Robert Stevensen were elected as elders for a three year term. Seth T. Hills, G. and Philip Pollock Jr., A4, were re-elected as student elders.

Mrs. M. E. Barnes and H. E. Dow were elected to the board of deacons for three years, Mrs. W. H. Yakish for two years and Betty Kirby, A2, and Marshall Milligan, G, as student deacons for one year.

Prof. John E. Briggs of the political science department and S. Lysle Duncan were re-elected for three year terms as church officers.

other. A breakdown in one machine will not throw another area out of refrigeration.

Work on the automatic unit refrigeration should be completed sometime next week.

Parizek said the water cooling system will remain as is, except that it will become an independent unit. The change-over here should be complete in February.

According to Parizek, when the hospital was built in 1926-27, the centrally operated system was the "most suitable construction."

Removal of the old equipment will make room for emergency power generating equipment, Parizek said.

Methodist Church Plans Family Night Meeting for Tonight

The first in a series of "Family Nights" will be held at the First Methodist church tonight at 6:15. The "Family Night" program will be held in Fellowship hall each Thursday night this month.

At each meeting the congregation will gather for a potluck supper which will be followed by a period of singing. After the singing the adult group will divide into classes, the Rev. Robert B. Crocker, Wesley foundation annex director, said yesterday.

Prof. Robert S. Michaelson of the school of religion will teach a class on the ten commandments as they relate to everyday life. He will use D. Elton Trueblood's "Foundation for Reconstruction" as the basis for his discussions, the Rev. Mr. Crocker said.

The Rev. Robert R. Sanks, Wesley Foundation director, will teach a class on "Personalities of the Bible" and the Rev. Mr. Crocker will direct a class on "The Bible Comes to Life."

During the class periods for the adults, the Rev. Mr. Crocker said, a nursery will be provided for children under six and a movie and short story program for children over six.

Hoffa Elected Head of Delta Sigma Pi

Dan C. Hoffa, C3, Grundy Center, was elected headmaster of Delta Sigma Pi, professional commerce fraternity, at a recent election.

Election and installation of officers was held last week in University hall. Among those elected were John Howes, C3, Davenport, senior warden; Frank Harle, A2, Des Moines, junior warden.

Virgil Harder, C3, Otis, Kansas, was elected scribe and Wayne Harger, C3, Cedar Rapids, treasurer.

DAN C. HOFFA

Prof. John E. Briggs of the political science department and S. Lysle Duncan were re-elected for three year terms as church officers.

SUI Journalists to Have Projects Exhibited

(Daily Iowan Photos by Jim Showers)

Executives to See Advertising Works of Five Students

Five SUI advertising students will have their term projects exhibited at a convention of newspaper advertising executives in Chicago next week.

The meeting of the Newspaper Advertising Executive Association will get underway Sunday and will run for five days at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Projects which will be shown are those of Robert M. Heaton, C3, Cluter; Kenneth M. Quafe, A4, Ames; Norma Jean Bedell, A4, Cedar Rapids; Everett W. Munsell, C4, Boone, and Herman Weinstein, A4, Sioux City.

The five term projects, selected from a retail advertising course, taught by Instructor Eugene Harlan, deal with a market research, yearly newspaper and radio advertising schedules, preparation of layouts and copy for advertisements and determination and control of budgets for retail stores.

A panel of four local judges selected the winning projects. Judges were Kenneth Green, advertising manager of the Iowa City Press-Citizen; Prof. Leslie G. Moeller, director of the SUI school of journalism; Prof. Philip W. Burton, school of journalism, and Kirk Wickersham, manager of Alden's department store. Harlan and Burton will attend the five-day conference.

Guard Inspection Dates Scheduled

The annual federal inspections for Iowa City's two national guard units have been scheduled for Jan. 24 and April 4, the guard said yesterday.

Col. Edward P. Wadden, Fifth army, Chicago, has notified the 34 reconnaissance company that he will inspect personnel, equipment and records later this month. Sgt. Eddie Windrem urged all members of the unit to attend the inspection.

The other unit, the 109 medical unit, will not receive its inspection until April, Sgt. Bob Lee said.

Chilean Women Given Equal Political Rights

SANTIAGO, CHILE (AP) — President Gabriel Gonzalez Videla yesterday signed into law a bill granting women full political equality with men.

The measure gives women the right to vote in any election and to run for any public office, including congress and the presidency. Heretofore women could vote only in municipal elections and hold only municipal offices.

An Evening of — Pleasant Listening

By DONALD KEY

The SUI symphonic band under the direction of Prof. Charles B. Righter presented its first concert of the season in the Iowa Union last night and the overall effect was an evening of very pleasant listening.

Especially well-liked by the audience was the popular music which made up most of the second half of the program. The "Pavanne" of Morton Gould, "Rhapsody in Rumba" by Bennett and "El Relicario" of Padilla were given enthusiastic approval.

The program opened with "Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring" by Johann S. Bach arranged by Erik Leidsen, and the band immediately demonstrated a beautiful balance, especially in the brass section.

The "Allegro" from the first movement of the Schubert "Symphony No. 5" was the second number. This work, expertly arranged by Righter, was given, what seemed to me, an indifferent reading. Perhaps it was the lack of contrasts in dynamics that gave this effect.

The most worthy and ably presented work on the concert to my ear, was the "Petite Suite" of Claude Debussy. This suite lends itself well to band because of the predominance of woodwinds in the original score. All four sections of the work were done with understanding and a professional attitude. Special tribute should be paid to the alto saxophone solo who has a pleasing tone and plays his solos with competence. Also, the baritone horn solos were well done.

From the work, "The Planets," by Gustaf Holst which the SUI orchestra presented last summer the band played the movement, "Jupiter." This number is extremely difficult and very demanding on the French horn section. It was performed with a hesitant approach which does not fit the nature intended by the composer.

A pleasant surprise of the evening was the "Legend" by Paul Creston. A freshness of rhythm mixed with modern harmonies gives this work spirit and enthusiasm. The band kept it in this mood and the effect was striking. The "Victory Chant" which has been heard at times on the football field and which was written by Prof. and Mrs. Righter, was sung at the end of the program, both the band and the audience participating. As an encore, the "Pavanne" by Gould was repeated.

Henry Kadgihn, 84, Dies at Son's Home

Henry Kadgihn, 84, portrait photographer for 67 years, died at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday at the home of his son, J. Leo Kadgihn, 411 S. Summit street. At Mr. Kadgihn's request there will be no funeral and the body will be cremated.

He was born Jan. 8, 1865 in Bloomington, Ill., and was married to Miss Otillia Stautz in Bloomington in 1889. Mr. Kadgihn began his photography career at 17 years of age in Bloomington. In 1891 he went to Cedar Rapids where he operated a studio for 43 years.

He was associated in business with his son for several years in Cedar Rapids. In 1933 he moved to Iowa City where he continued in business with his son. The studio was established in 1928.

In 1882 he joined the Photographers Association of America when the association was just beginning. He was also a member of the Elks lodge.

Surviving are his son, three grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Truman's Budget Calls for $282 Per Capita

"Nothing is certain in this world except death and taxation."

Some such statement was made years ago by the American statesman and homely philosopher Ben Franklin. Come March 15 many Americans will agree with him.

Monday President Truman asked congress to pass a national budget of $42-million for the 1950 fiscal year beginning July 1.

Now, if the proposed budget was divided by the nation's total population so that everybody paid an equal share, it would amount roughly to $282.82. That's if you use the latest U.S. population estimate of 148 million men, women and children.

Naturally, that isn't the way the government collects its revenue since there are very few one-year-olds collecting $282.82 these days.

But if such a system was used, how would it affect SUI people and other Iowa Citizens?

An instructor at SUI receives a top monthly salary of approximately $283.33. After paying his share of the tax he would have a grand balance of 51 cents from a month's check to spend recklessly.

A single vet student depending solely on his government checks for subsistence would have to cough up with almost four of his monthly $75 checks to meet the per capita tax figure.

A married vet with children and receiving $120 a month from Uncle Sam would have to return two checks and then some to the man with the whiskers.

The stalwart males who preserve law and order and put out the fires in Iowa City wouldn't bother collecting their salary for about five weeks if they had to pay the per capita levy. Our police and firemen receive $210 monthly.

Actually the government has what is called a "graduated" tax schedule with the burden of paying revenue increasing according to the income.

Citizens who earn less than $600 a year can laugh at the internal revenue bureau. They pay nothing. Also taxpayers are allowed a number of deductions for families, state taxes, charitable contributions and whatever else a good income tax lawyer can uncover.

There are some persons who wouldn't mind the per-capita system at all. Under the 1948 tax schedule a wealthy magnate accumulating a quarter-million dollars a year has to pay the government 80 percent of that or $200-thousand, not counting deductions.

The load would be heavier on everyone if the country depended only on personal income taxes for revenue. Under the proposed budget only 43 percent of the $42-billion called for will be paid by the income tax. The rest will come from levies on corporations, excise taxes and custom duties.

Try and Stop Me By BENNETT CERF OLD MAN WARTELS, weighed down with business worries, consulted the family physician, who prescribed a two-month rest in the sunshine of the Arizona desert. "Can't afford it," snapped Wartles decisively. "All right," said the doctor. "So you use psychology. Close your eyes tight for two hours every day, and imagine you're lying naked under that burning Arizona sun." Three days later, Wartels' wife phoned the doctor from their Washington Heights apartment. "Come quick," she begged, "my husband is wrapped up in all the blankets with his eyes shut, hollering he's dying." "What of?" asked the doctor. "Sunstroke," said Mrs. Wartels. Edward Laycock, a Boston literary editor, claims he knows a wonderful way to improve the flavor of salt. "All you have to do," says Laycock, "is take a pinch in your hand and spread over a fat juicy sirloin steak." Copyright, 1948, by Bennett Cerf. Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Gov. Beardsley's Inauguration, Initial Message Set for Today

DES MOINES (AP)—The Iowa general assembly marked time yesterday and completed last minute arrangements to receive Governor-Elect William S. Beardsley's legislative program today.

As Governor Robert D. Blue his four year tenure, Beardsley will be inaugurated for his first term with the usual ceremony and fanfare in the house chamber.

The inauguration is set for 2 p.m. It will be followed by Beardsley's message to the legislature in which he will sketch the broad outlines of a program he hopes the general assembly will adopt.

The new chief executive indicated in advance that he will confine his inaugural message to the same general issues which he discussed in his primary campaign last spring. Later he will dwell on detail on state financial policy.

Workmen were busy yesterday festooning the rotunda of the statehouse and arranging floral decorations for the inaugural ball which will be held tonight.

The lawmakers established something of a record by getting a bill introduced, passed and signed by Blue before the inaugural.

It was an emergency measure extending the life of the state office building commission for 30 days so that final bids from contractors could be received next Tuesday.

There is another building matter temporarily awaiting completion — one which directly concerns Governor-elect Beardsley.

The 1947 legislature appropriated $75,000 to buy or build an executive residence. When Blue came to Des Moines from Eagle Grove he had to buy a house in order to have a place to live.

A legislative committee, headed by Senator Fred Maytag (R-Newton) finally decided, in conjunction with the state executive council, to buy a residence on West Grand Avenue and to remodel and furnish it.

Maytag said the committee had hoped to have the house ready for the Beardsleys tonight but encountered some delays. Painters are just now finishing up the interior decorating.

When they have cleared out, the carpets will be laid and the new furniture will be moved in.

SUI Bands Begin Auditions Monday

Mid-year auditions for both the varsity and concert bands will be held next week, Prof. C.B. Righter has announced.

Try-outs for the concert band will be held Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Auditions for varsity band positions are scheduled for Monday and Wednesday from 7:15 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Interested students may make appointments for auditions at the band office, room 15 in the music studio building, or call X2322 for more information.

Positions are open in both bands for students who can play alto and bass clarinets, french horns, oboes and bassoons and tubas, Righter said.

Mid-year auditions are held so that students who are too busy to play in the bands the first semester may have an opportunity to participate at concerts.

Student Engineers Hear J. A. Green

John A. Green, Cedar Rapids engineer, spoke to student members of the Institute of Radio Engineers and the American Institute of Electrical Engineers yesterday in room 103 of the electrical engineering building.

Green, head of the broadcast division of Collin's Radio company, spoke on "Audio-Switching Devices."

He dealt with problems in switching operations in a broadcasting station where there is more than one studio. To emphasize his point, he demonstrated the importance of accurate switching.

Reactions of a First-Night Crowd

MIXED REACTIONS of the audience were caught in this picture taken last night, the opening night of "Beggars on Horseback" at the University theater. Part of the audience roared with laughter, others chuckled with glee and many assumed a pensive look. The play drew almost a full house.

Hancher Announces Sears' Resignation From SUI Position

Robert R. Sears has resigned as professor of child psychology and director of the Iowa Child Welfare Research station at SUI to accept a post on the Harvard University faculty SUI President Virgil M. Hancher announced yesterday.

Sears will assume his duties as professor of education and child psychology in the Harvard graduate school of education at the beginning of the next school year.

Hancher expressed his personal regret and that of the university faculty in confirming the resignation of the director of SUI's nationally famed child welfare research station.

Sears explained his resignation in a statement yesterday saying, "Most of the satisfaction I've ever had from my professional life has come from research and teaching. I haven't found it possible to be administratively responsible for the Child Welfare Research station twelve months a year and still have time and energy left to do the kind of research I want. I have therefore decided to withdraw from administrative work."

"This was a hard decision to make. It has been a great privilege to work with the staff of the Child Welfare station, and to share the stimulation of their outstanding accomplishments."

Curriculum Report Featured in Frivol

A complete curriculum report of the various classes offered to SUI students is one of the main features in the January issue of Frivol being distributed today.

A survey of SUI instructors, their particular traits and abilities, is also a part of the report.

Frivol again requests students to enter their contest that was announced in last Tuesday's Daily Iowan. Three cash prizes will be awarded each month to students who submit the best entries.

Services Today for Mrs. Ida Stackman

Funeral services for Mrs. Ida Stackman, 80, 517 Iowa avenue, will be held at 2 p.m. today at the Oathout Funeral chapel. The Rev. Leon C. England, pastor of the First Christian church, will officiate. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

Mrs. Stackman died Tuesday morning at her home.

Born April 9, 1868 in Iowa City, she was the daughter of Rachael and Michael Zimmerman. She taught rural school in Johnson county for several years. In 1911 she was married to Frank Stackman of Iowa City.

Surviving are one niece, Mrs. Howard Carl, Des Moines, and one nephew, C. W. Scholefield, Whittier.

Students' Response Slight to Fellowship, Scholarship Awards

A check on student response to over $25,000 in fellowship and scholarship offers received by SUI departments in recent weeks shows little interest thus far.

Students who intend to apply for the various financial aid offers were urged yesterday by the departments concerned to make their applications as early as possible.

The field offering widest choice for assistance is history. Bryn Mawr college, the University of Missouri, William and Mary college, Rochester university and the University of Minnesota all offer aid to graduate students of history.

A selection of fellowships, scholarships and grants in aid of research are available through these schools.

Students in other social science fields may qualify for fellowships at Wayne university, Harvard and the University of Michigan.

Aid offers to graduate students of foreign languages and the classics have also been extended by Bryn Mawr college.

Complete information on the offers may be obtained through history, political science, romance languages and classics departments, all in Schaeffer hall.

Nobody Goes Away Mad

— From the 'Beggars' —

By BOB SENNISH

Certainly one of the most hilarious things ever to appear on the stage of the University theater, "Beggars on Horseback," the Kaufman-Connelly farce, opened last night before a full house of satisfied customers. The comedy is fresh, the sets are startling, the good, the exaggeration frequently mounts, by means of rhythmic chanting and mechanical pantomime, to rather terrifying proportions.

A run-down of episodes in the dream sequence includes, for example, a jazz-age wedding, a mock trial, an evening "at home" with a dozen butlers and the in-laws, and a ballet stint. The pace is quite maddening, and the poor artistic son-in-law eventually commits mass homicide on the whole family, a scene which is good for laughs galore.

The roles of the Cads, which are by no means difficult, are all handled adroitly. As Cady, Irving Brown is indeed the N.A.M. with its golf pants down. Mrs. Patricia Lannert, is properly unabashed. As Gladys, Virginia Huffman is the typical spoiled deb, innerspring soles and gray cells attached.

Tom McBride, as brother Homer, is provocatively dead-pan.

Theodore Paul gives us the detachment his role requires. As his muse, deliveress, and true love, Gwen Davenport is somewhat more innocuous than she might be.

The wedding scene could use improved timing. People are out of step, and Miss Huffman and the chorus boys seemed jarred by the piano background. An "art factory" episode is a subtle way of letting us know that it could happen here.

The newspaper gag is altogether ingenious. And if the stories were locally contrived, this critic rates the parodied play review as embarrassingly accurate.

HUMPHREY HEADS ADA WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) yesterday accepted the chairmanship of Americans for Democratic action.

A protracted dream sequence, in two parts, takes up most of the action. Lightning-fast changes by back-stage technicians enable the dream fantasy to come off convincingly. Because it is a dream, the middle-class traits become more absurd than the first scene draws them. While uproariously received yesterday at the office of student affairs.

Farm Supply Store To Open Tomorrow

Two radio broadcasts will mark the opening tomorrow of the Hapell's Inc., new farm supply store, 1031 S. Riverside drive. Manager George Conrad said yesterday.

Dean Landfear and Tom Owens' Cowboys, radio stars of station WMT in Cedar Rapids, will conduct special shows originating at the new store.

Landfear will air his regular "Voice of Iowa" sidewalk interview program at noon. A 15-minute broadcast featuring the cowboy group will be heard at 2 p.m.

Movies to be shown tomorrow evening and the serving of the coffee and doughnuts are other events planned, Conrad said.

The new store is situated in a recently constructed brick and concrete building.

Firemen to Occupy New Station Today

Firemen move into Iowa City's new sub fire station on South Gilbert street for the first time today.

Due to insufficient heating facilities, the building has been vacated since being constructed last winter.

Fire Chief J. J. Clark said yesterday that two firemen will be on duty in the building at all times. The men will have access to a kitchen and sleeping quarters.

The fire department's new aerial ladder truck and the La France 1,000 gallon pumper truck will be housed in the station.
