Delay Seen In Answer to 'Peace' Move

WASHINGTON (AP)—Any American answer to Prime Minister Stalin's new "peace" gesture appeared likely yesterday to be a delayed and carefully thought out move.

Administration officials said there probably will be no response until the White House, state department and presumably congressional leaders get together on the best way of countering what the capital generally views as a Soviet tactical maneuver.

One idea reported under consideration is to use the occasion for a review of Russia's postwar dealings with the west, coupling this with a renewed demand for firm evidence that this time Moscow is acting in good faith. Meanwhile both the White House and state department shied away from comment on Stalin's press interview statement that he had "no objection" to a meeting with President Truman at some mutually acceptable place.

Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross noted that Mr. Truman's last word on such a meeting was his restatement this month that he is willing to meet the Soviet leader in Washington.

Meanwhile, United Nations Secretary Trygve Lie said yesterday he would be "most happy" to have UN facilities used for a conference of President Truman and Premier Stalin if the two leaders suggest it.

Lie said he would make UN facilities available to the two big power leaders if they express to him "a desire to that effect."

Sunny Skies Bring Temperature Rise; More Snow Today

Sunny skies and rising temperatures yesterday brought relief to Iowa City from the sub-zero cold of last week. Traces of snow fell in the afternoon and more is forecast for today.

The mercury rose steadily from a low of 10 below at midnight Sunday to a high of 18 above at 3 p.m. yesterday. Highs of 18 and lows of 10 are forecast for today.

Train and bus travel is normal out of Iowa City. All trains and buses were running on schedule last night.

Iowa City's airport was open for all types of air traffic. Normal flights were scheduled yesterday by United Air Lines. Station Manager Bernard D. McWilliams reported.

Nine semi-trailers were stalled on a hill east of Iowa City on highway 6 last night when one skidded on the ice, jack-knifed and blocked the road, police reported.

Yesterday's warmer weather provided another use for Iowa City's new ladder truck. Instead of fire, it was used to battle ice.

Thawing snow had caused a big icicle to form on the downspout of the Whetstone building, corner of Clinton and Washington streets. To eliminate the danger of this big chunk of ice falling to the sidewalk, firemen used the extension ladder on the new truck to reach the top of the building and chopped the ice away with axes.

Israel Gets U. S. Recognition

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Truman yesterday granted full diplomatic recognition to the new Jewish state of Israel and its neighboring Arab state of Trans-Jordan.

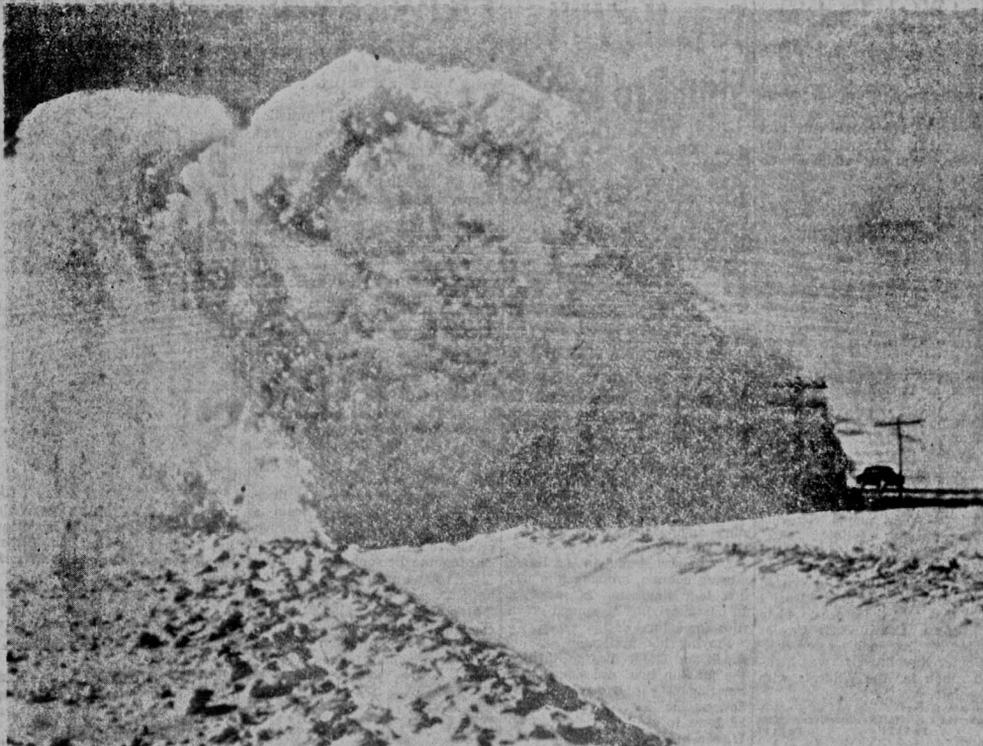

The long expected action followed closely official announcement of the outcome of Israel's first election. Britain and several other western European nations only last week announced de facto, or temporary recognition of the Jewish state.

The fact that Mr. Truman coupled the Israel action with recognition of Trans-Jordan may have been aimed at easing any Arab displeasure.

Full recognition by the United States is expected to improve Israel's chances for admission to the United Nations. Britain's action removed one of the greatest stumbling blocks.

The last general assembly of the UN tabled the Jewish request for membership until Israel's status as a nation was decided.

The White House issued two

Chinese Government Rejects 'Criminal' Detention Demand

NANKING, CHINA (UP)—The Chinese government yesterday rejected a Communist demand for the detention of "war criminals," including Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, and strong Communist forces were reported massing east and south-west of this capital.

Although the government has virtually stopped functioning in Nanking, there was no indication that the nationalists plan to abandon the city without a fight. Crack units of acting President Li Tsung-jen's personal Kwangsi troops arrived yesterday to bolster the capital's defenses.

All the government ministers, including Premier Sun Fo, and Deputy Premier Wu Te-Chen, have left Nanking for Shanghai, en route to Canton where the government is scheduled to resume operations beginning Feb. 5.

Cabinet Meets
Acting President Li and virtually the entire cabinet met in Shanghai yesterday after Li and his aides sounded out Shanghai business leaders on war issues and questions connected with the forthcoming peace talks.

On the military front, six Communist columns were reported at Yicheng, 25 miles east of Nanking, and four Communist columns were reported in the vicinity of Wuhu, 50 miles south-west of Nanking. One military source said the Communist columns were supported by artillery and that the government had moved some of its artillery units out to meet the Communist threat.

Communists in Peiping
Communist "peace preservation" troops marched into Peiping yesterday behind a brass band. Students, city government employees and representatives of various civic organizations lined the highway to greet them, waving gaily colored banners and shouting slogans of welcome.

Rebels Surrender After Burma Fight

RANGOON, BURMA (AP)—Government sources said a force of entrenched Karen rebels surrendered yesterday after a bitter nine-hour battle with Burmese troops on the outskirts of Rangoon.

Heavy machineguns and mortars blasted the Karens from trenches and concrete buildings in and about the suburban village of Thamaing, only eight miles north of the capital, the informants said. At times the battle raged at point-blank range.

Residents of the suburbs made a panicky rush toward Rangoon after the shooting stopped. Many Karens were said to have escaped in the confusion.

The fighting held up peace talks scheduled here. Saw Ba U Gyi, president of the separatist Karen National union, was able to get through the battle area to resume truce conversations started Sunday with Burmese government leaders.

Residents of the suburbs made a panicky rush toward Rangoon after the shooting stopped. Many Karens were said to have escaped in the confusion.

Committee Votes 'No Picture' Rule

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman John S. Wood announced yesterday that the house un-American activities committee had voted unanimously to bar radio recorders, newsreels, television and news photographers from future committee hearings.

The "no picture" rule vote was taken at the committee's first meeting since it was overhauled by Democratic congressional leaders.

Supreme Court Grants Execution Stay to Watts
MICHIGAN CITY, IND. (AP)—Robert Austin Watts was given a 30-day stay of execution yesterday by the U.S. supreme court a few hours before he was scheduled to die in the electric chair for killing a woman he tried to rape.

Watts, 27-year-old truck driver, learned just seven hours before his execution hour that Supreme Court Justice Frank Murphy had signed an order delaying death by a month.

Car Skids in Ruts, Hits Crandic Viaduct
An auto driven by R.F. Svejda, Coralville, skidded out of ruts in the ice and struck the Iowa avenue Crandic viaduct at about 7 p.m. yesterday, according to police reports.

Repairs estimated the damage at $250.

Hoover Says Taxes Now Have Reached A 'Saturation Point'
WASHINGTON (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover warned yesterday that taxes have reached the "saturation point" and urged congress to cut federal spending by unsmothering a half-century of government red tape.

He told the house executive expenditures committee it should grant President Truman's request for broad powers to reshuffle the government.

The 74-year-old former chief executive said that the burden of government is piling up on the average citizen and threatens to overwhelm him.

Head of the bipartisan commission set up to figure out how the federal government can best be streamlined, Mr. Hoover denied that his proposals would give the President "dictatorial powers."

"The sole purposes are to reduce expenses, gain efficiency and make life easier for the citizen in his dealings with the government."

"He vigorously opposed proposals for exempting quasi-judicial, quasi-legislative agencies such as the interstate commerce commission and the railroad retirement board."

"I think that if you start making exceptions, there will be no end to the exceptions that will be taken and this legislation will break down," he cautioned.

Labor Bill Fight Opens in Capital

Tobin Asks Its Enactment

WASHINGTON (AP)—The hot fight over the Truman labor bill opened yesterday in congress. Secretary of Labor Tobin called for its enactment, and Republicans immediately objected that it had "no teeth" to deal with union leaders like John L. Lewis.

Lewis, though absent, dominated the hearing before the senate labor committee on the administra-

Senate Approves Tobin

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senate gave unanimous approval yesterday to the nomination of Maurice J. Tobin of Massachusetts to be secretary of labor. Tobin was appointed by President Truman during the last recess of the senate.

tion bill, which would repeal the Taft-Hartley act, and replace it with an "improved" Wagner act.

Much of the discussion centered on an administration proposal to wipe out the Taft-Hartley law power to block "national emergency" strikes by means of court injunctions.

Tobin said this provision should be scuttled and replaced with a 30-day voluntary cooling off procedure.

Senator Aiken (R-Vt) protested. Talking about the chief of the United Mine Workers' union and its coal strikes, Aiken said:

"In the case of Mr. Lewis, that (the voluntary plan) would be hardly any teeth at all — unless you might say false teeth."

Tobin argued that settlement recommendations by emergency boards under the cooling off procedure would be backed by the "powerful force" of public opinion. He said that would do the trick and prevent strikes affecting national health or safety.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey Jr., freshman Democrat from Minnesota, made the first effort to pin Tobin down on the national emergency section.

As drafted, the measure provides a 30-day pre-strike cooling off period while a special presidential emergency board investigates a dispute and recommends a solution. It does not spell out what the government could do if the parties rejected the board's finding.

Humphrey wanted to know if the president would have strike-seizure powers.

Tobin replied that he believed the attorney general, "the nation's highest legal authority," should answer.

In assailing the Taft-Hartley law and plugging for a new labor law "encouraging free collective bargaining," Tobin read a 20-page statement. When he finished there was less than an hour left for committee questioning.

South Korea Defenders Fight 'Invasion' Force
SEOUL, KOREA (AP)—South Korean defenders are fighting a north Korean "invasion" force in a "severe battle" along the zonal border and a revolt has broken out in the south Korean sixth army division, a government spokesman reported yesterday.

For Test Answer—

Girls Try to Call Joe

"Who would succeed to rule Russia if Stalin and the Politburo were all killed off?"

Enterprising Delta Gamma's tried to put a phone call through to the Kremlin Tuesday night to get the answer from the men who should know. The call got as far as London, but the operator there told them they could only get through at 2 p.m. or 7 a.m., Iowa time.

It looks as if the question will go without answer from the Kremlin because the test has been held and the girls do not plan to call again.

Prof. Jack Johnson of the political science department asked his Russian Foreign Policy class to ponder over the question to help them prepare for the final test in the course.

Johnson said, "I don't think there is an answer to it." Many different answers will probably appear when the tests are corrected—and one of them may someday be found correct, he added.

He said the situation would probably never occur and that the question was designed to be a "thought" question.

Delta Gamma's who tried to call the Kremlin were Martha Fry, A3, Oklahoma City; Jackie Fitch, C4, Clinton; Janne Tyler, A3, Ft. Madison; Patricia Fortune, A4, Cedar Rapids, and Marion Mahoney, A4, Sioux City. The call cost $12 plus tax.

URGING THE PASSAGE of the administration's new labor bill, Secretary of Labor Maurice Tobin appeared before the senate labor committee yesterday. The new bill would repeal the Taft-Hartley law.

Rusk Nominated for State Dept. Position

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman yesterday nominated Dean Rusk, director of the Office of United Nations Affairs in the state department, to be assistant secretary of state. This is a vacancy resulting from the resignation last summer of Norman Armour.

Rusk formerly was assistant to the secretary of war.

Librarian 'Explains' Studios Students

When Miss Mabel Gould, head of reserve library reading room, arrived yesterday morning to open the library, she had to fight her way through a huge crowd piled up at the door. And when she opened the door, "they swarmed all over the place."

Miss Gould can't understand why the library is so popular this particular exam week.

"Look at this place," she said gesturing toward the packed room. "It's been like this for a week. I've never seen the students so desperate during exams!"

"Saturday they checked out the most books all semester—600 in one day."

That figure doesn't include the books taken from the open shelves. No matter how carefully the checkers at the door go through notebooks and coats, the students are managing to sneak out with books which should be left on the shelves.

Miss Gould has a theory about the sudden popularity of reserve library. Tougher exams? No. Higher grade curves? No.

"You know what I think? They've been fooling around all semester—neglecting their studies. Now they have reason to be desperate."

No Registration Materials Today

Due to the overflow of work in the university treasurer's office on the first of the month, registration materials will not be available to students today.

Materials may be obtained again tomorrow through Feb. 8 in the basement of University hall.

In order to obtain registration materials students must pay all first semester debts. These include phone bills, Hawkeys, room and board and any other university debts.

Crowds Line Up to Beat License Purchase Deadline

BEATING THE DEADLINE FOR THE PURCHASE OF LICENSE PLATES, crowds lined the corridor and stairway of the county courthouse yesterday. Starting today a fine of five percent must be paid for all auto, truck and trailer licenses. Lamir Jansa, Johnson county treasurer, said approximately 400 people bought their licenses on the last day. Students and townspeople waited for hours as the line edged slowly toward the treasurer's office. One woman said that it had taken her 40 minutes to get from the head of the stairs to the door of the office.

Purdue Slashes Illini Leadership, 55-53

Boilermakers Drop Illinois From Big Nine's Undefeated

LAFAYETTE, IND. (AP)—Purdue's scrappy basketball veterans knocked Big Nine leader Illinois from the unbeaten ranks last night by upsetting the Illini, 55 to 53.

In a torrid ball game that was tied up eight times, Purdue's inspired team led by a slim margin all the way, except for a 20 to 19 count in favor of Illinois with five minutes to go in the first half.

Purdue's greatest lead was held only briefly at 37 to 27 early in the second half.

Purdue was hitting from all over the floor, but the Illini, also hitting well, were edged in the final minutes when the Boilermakers stalled.

Erickson's last-minute mid-court attempt for Illinois fell short, and Purdue, led by Howard Williams, with 21 points, and Andy Butchko, with 16, put the

Minnesota Regains First Place, Beats Northwestern, 61-40

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Minnesota climbed back into first place in the Big Nine basketball race last night by thumping Northwestern, 61 to 40, while Illinois was suffering its first conference defeat at the hands of Purdue.

A wildly screaming capacity crowd of 15,619 fans watched Jim McIntyre, Minnesota's six-foot, 9½ inch center, and Whitey Skoog, flashy Gopher forward, push the home team into an early 15-3 lead and from that point on the game never was close.

It was Minnesota's sixth conference win against one defeat. Illinois, in losing, 55 to 53, to Purdue at Lafayette, Ind., last night, slipped into second spot with a Western conference record of four victories and one defeat.

McIntyre hit from all angles as he notched 26 points including five field goals in each half. The usually high-scoring Skoog was used to 13 points by Bob Hughes, stellar Wildcat guard, but he fed McIntyre consistently.

Minnesota stretched its lead to 32 to 22 at halftime and started the second half with a 12-point spurt that sent the score to 44 to 22 before Coach Ozzie Cowles started sending in his reserves.

Center Ray Ragelis was high-point man for the Wildcats with 10 points.

Butler Outplays Irish

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Butler outplayed the luckless Irish last night to hand Notre Dame a 68 to 54 defeat, the first time Butler has won a game from the South Bend school since 1941.

Notre Dame made a game of it up until the last part of the tilt when Butler cashed in on some sharp shooting to go far out in front.

The Irish, obviously missing the services of Capt. Paul Gordon and John Brennan, both out with injuries, couldn't keep pace with Tony Hinkle's boy's final splurge.

Ralph Doran Says He Will Sign Pro Pact

Ralph Doran, Iowa's flashy right halfback of last season, said yesterday he "plans to sign" a $6,000 contract with the National Professional League New York Giants this week.

Doran, who graduates Saturday, said that he will receive a $300 bonus for inking the pact. "It sounded like a pretty good deal and I thought I'd try it," the 175-pound Hawk speed package said, "I don't have much to lose."

The 24-year-old former Cedar Rapids' half back topped all Iowa backs in rushing last year with a total of 342 yards from scrimmage. This gave him an average of 6.2 yards per try to rank among the Big Nine's best.

Doran was second in the Hawk scoring column, crossing into the yard four times for 24 markers. In pass receiving, he snared seven flips for a total of 126 yards.

Playing his first year for the Black and Gold, Doran thrilled the fans on two occasions with bursting 50-yard runs for touchdowns. The first, when he sparked Iowa to a 19-13 victory over Wisconsin, and again as the Hawks were dropped by Minnesota, 28-21.

The Hawkeye ace will join another former Iowa speed merchant, Emilen Tunnell and all-America Bill Kay, last year's standout tackle, on the eastern division professional club.

Michigan Eases By Spartans, 49-38; Harrison Sets Pace

EAST LANSING, MICH. (AP)—The University of Michigan basketball team dusted off Michigan State, 49 to 38, here last night before 8,791 fans for the second Wolverine win of the season over the Spartans.

Earlier this season, Michigan beat Michigan State by an overwhelming 66-33 score.

Michigan took the lead after the first six minutes of play and kept an average 10-point advantage through the game until the last few minutes when a desperate Spartan rally was blocked by a successful stall.

The Spartans had trouble breaking through the adhesive Michigan man-to-man defense. Michigan played a team game as Coach Ernie McCoy substituted almost as much as is the practice of the Wolverine football coaches. McCoy used 10 men in the first half.

Guard Bob Harrison was high man for the Wolverines with 12 points and was particularly effective with his long shots.

Michigan outplayed its intrastate rival in the first half dropping in 11 field goals to six for the Spartans. Michigan led 26-19 at the half.

MSC scored the first basket before two minutes showed on the block and the Spartans led briefly until Michigan Guard Hal Morrill dropped in a tying basket to make it 6-6 after six minutes had elapsed.

The Wolverines took command at that point and ran up the score until they had 20-10 with five minutes to go in the first period.

Practice Win Indicates—

Hawkeyes Shaking Off Slump

Iowa's cagers may be coming out of their shooting slump, Coach Pops Harrison observed yesterday.

Last Saturday's 115-71 practice win over a good freshman squad seemed to be the tip-off. The team showed good drive and passing, and its shooting showed marked improvement over recent performances.

One major development to come out of Saturday's game was the switching of Stan Straatsma from forward to guard. The Sioux Center senior showed up well as an alert player and sank some medium side shots.

Sophomore Dick West, Sioux Falls, S.D., who has seen little action so far—he appeared briefly in one non-conference contest—may perform at guard in some of the remaining conference games. West is a good driver and a fair shot.

Harrison summed up the situation by saying: "When a team is in a cold streak, there is no known remedy. I just have to keep shifting the personnel and trying to find some men who can hit the basket."

"It's time the players were coming out of it and when they do, we can make it tough for some of our remaining seven opponents."

Paul Brown Renews Contract

CLEVELAND (AP)—Paul Brown last night announced he had cast lot as a football coach with the Cleveland Browns for another seven years by signing to extend his present contract as coach and general manager for five years through the 1955 season.

Brown described his new contract as "a continuation of the same terms." The terms of the original contract, signed in February, 1945, were for a salary of $25,000 plus 15 percent of the all-America football conference club's proceeds. That contract has two years to run.

The new contract spiked rumors that Brown would quit professional football to become a college coach. It also represented an expression of his confidence that despite the feud between the AAF and the older National League, the play-for-pay gridders would make a success of the two-league setup.

At a dinner party for sports reporters, Brown explained his newly signed contract.

"I have had a pleasant experience in professional football," he said. "The people I have been dealing with have been fair and good to me. Certainly this stage of development of things is no time for me to give it up. Knowing I am going to stay two more years' means I may as well go with it the route."

Arthur B. McBride, owner of the conference champions of three years, had this to say: "The league will continue, and professional football will continue as a two-league setup. I figure, as long as we are in the business, we might as well extend the contract. Neither of us will then have anything to worry about. I don't want to be out looking for a coach every year. You can get a lot of coaches, but you can't get a lot of coaches like this boy."

Former SUI Star Making Good as Coach

DANNER AS A COACH—Dave Danner (kneeling), former University of Iowa basketball star, gives his St. Mathias' quintet of Muscatine a few pre-game pointers before last night's game with St. Patrick's of Iowa City. Danner's former teammate, all-American Herb Wilkinson, looks on from the right. St. Mathias dropped out of the Diocesan title contention at the fieldhouse last night to St. Pat's 49-37.

St. Mary's, St. Pat's Stars for Japan Base Quintet

As the smoke cleared away last night in the Davenport Diocesan tournament here in the fieldhouse, Iowa City's two entries, St. Pat's and St. Mary's, still remained in the running for the championship crown.

The opening of the quarter-finals last night found St. Patrick's, Iowa City, downing a stubborn St. Mathias quintet from Muscatine, 49-37.

In its first round game yesterday afternoon St. Mathias pulled the upset of the tourney, nosing out St. Joseph's, Ft. Madison, 27-26.

Rev. R. J. Pacha's St. Pat's crew looked as though it were going to have easy sailing as, moving into a 14-7 lead against the Muscatine team. But the Gaels, led by Long Jack Doty with 12 points in the first half, narrowed the margin to 25-23 at the intermission.

Early in the third quarter, Coach Dave Danner's boys tied the score twice, then went before the Irish onslaught.

Doty led the scoring parade with 8 baskets for 16 points. Bob Grady notched 15 for St. Pat's.

The second battle of the evening saw the St. Mary's Ramblers bowl over a tall, tough St. Mary's of Clinton five, 36-26.

The Ramblers were cold as the weather the first period, with the Hilltoppers going out in front, 7-4. It was mid-way through the second quarter before Guard Paul Flannery found the mark for his first eight points of the game, which pushed the local club in front 13-12 at the half-way mark.

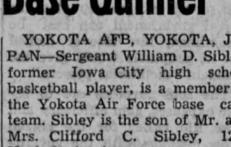

Flannery and Co. continued to run the Clinton club ragged in the last half with fast-break after fast-break. Besides scoring more than half of the Ramblers' fielders with his 18 points, the tall Flannery held mighty Jim Junker to a lone basket and two free throws.

These two Iowa City victories mean it will be a head-on collision between these schools in the semi-final round at 12:15 p.m. today.

The other semi-final fracas pits St. Paul's of Burlington against St. Peter's, Keokuk, at 1:30 p.m. today.

YOKOTA AFB, YOKOTA, JAPAN—Sergeant William D. Sibley, former Iowa City high school basketball player, is a member of the Yokota Air Force base cage team. Sibley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford C. Sibley, 1214 Keokuk street.

The rugged Yokota Attackers, with a season's record of eight wins against two losses, are competing in the Fifth Air Force league.

Sibley played prep ball for both Clinton high school and the Iowa City Little Hawks.

He was chosen on the Squadron all-star team last year as a forward. For this work he was awarded a berth on the base team this season.

Besides being an active player, Sibley is athletic director for the Third Maintenance squadron and aids in coaching the undefeated squadron cage squad.

Sibley entered the air force in June, 1946, and was assigned to the Yokota air force base in August, 1947. Yokota is located about 30 miles northwest of Tokyo and is the most prominent Japanese air installation.

Sergeant Sibley's cool-headed ball handling has made him the outstanding player on the Attackers club.

He expects to enter the University of Dubuque when he receives his discharge this June.

Kentucky Wins, 72-50

NASHVILLE, TENN. (AP)—Kentucky's cagey Wildcats won their 51st straight southeastern conference basketball game last night, drubbing the Vanderbilt Commodores, 72-50. Alex Groza, six-foot-seven center for the 'Cats, tossed in 31 points.

Rites for Hinchliffe Set for Tomorrow

Funeral services for Clyde E. Hinchliffe, 58, Tiffin, will be held at 9 a.m. tomorrow in St. Thomas More chapel. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery. The rosary will be recited at McGovern's funeral home Tuesday evening at 7:30. Hinchliffe, workroom foreman at the local postoffice, died Sunday at 4:20 p.m. at University hospitals after a brief illness.

Born May 24, 1895, he attended schools here and later studied at a local business academy. Mr. Hinchliffe was married to Lenora Louise Lalla of Iowa City, on October 7, 1915. The couple made their home here until 1928, when they moved to Tiffin.

WSU's 'Friends Around World' Praised

WSU's new radio program "Friends Around the World" has been received with enthusiasm by Iowa citizens.

Program Director John Highlander said he has received many laudable comments on the program aired every Tuesday at 7 p.m. Highlander said most of the people want to know who is going to be on the program next. The program is an informal chat with one or more of the foreign students of the university.

"We try to find the personal, common everyday things about the country which gives the color of the country's people," Highlander said.

Mr. and Mrs. Edilberto K. Tiempo from Dumaguete in the Philippines will be on the program tonight. Tiempo is working on a doctorate in creative writing. Highlander said most of the comments praised the program for the promotion of good relations and demands to continue the program have been numerous.

"Friends Around the World" is promoted in connection with the International Club. Previous guests have been Gunnar Sausjord, G. Haugesund, Norway; George Hanna Madany, G. Latakia, Syria, and Chi Pei Tseng, G. Nanking, China.

Former Mayor and Wife Married 50 Years

CELEBRATING THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY today are Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Willenbrock, 468 Grand avenue. Mrs. Willenbrock, 71, the former Sadie Lacher, was married to Mr. Willenbrock, 72, 50 years ago in Marengo. For the past 26 years they have made their home here. The Willenbrocks have three daughters, Mrs. Lester M. Tompkins, Burlington; Mrs. Sid Sankot, Belle Plaine, and Mrs. Carl Sauerman, Des Moines. Their three grandchildren include Henry Tompkins, C3, Burlington. They also have two great-grandchildren. Mr. and Mrs. Willenbrock's three daughters and their husbands will be here today to help their parents observe the celebration of their fiftieth wedding anniversary. Mr. Willenbrock is a former mayor of Iowa City, having served two terms, 1939-40 and 1941-42.

Two Traffic Mishaps Reported in Iowa City

A traffic accident at the intersection of College and Gilbert streets Sunday at 9:45 a.m. caused slight injuries to four passengers in the two cars involved.

Miss Eldiene Sojka, 28, passenger in a car driven by Vaughn Ernest Hansen, SUI graduate student from Layton, Utah, suffered a cut on the knee.

Three passengers in the other car driven by Paul Schmidt, Riverside grain elevator operator, received bruises. They were Hazel Schmidt, 40, and Donald and Lianne Schmidt, 5 and 8. Schmidt estimated $175 damage to his car and $150 to the Hansen car.

An accident yesterday at 8:30 a.m. near the University hospitals entrance on Newton road, caused an estimated $245 damage. Drivers of the two cars involved were LeRoy E. Schooley, box 482, Iowa City, and Jack C. Merriman, 302 Finkbine park.

Schooley estimated $145 damage to his car and $100 to Merriman's car.

Some Vacancies in University Chorus

Herald I. Stark, associate professor of music, yesterday announced try-outs for the SUI chorus will be held all this week through Saturday. There are about 20 vacancies to be filled.

Stark, conductor of SUI's chorus and symphonic choir, said there are vacancies in all sections, but particularly needed are first sopranos, second altos, first and second tenors and second basses. Townspeople are especially invited, he added, and students may receive one hour credit for their participation in chorus.

Rehearsals for the April 6 concert of Brahms' "Requiem" and Williams' "Benedicite" are being held every Tuesday and Thursday from 7:15 to 9:15 p.m.

MONEY SHOWER
The Pythian (Sister's) money shower for the Bredt triplets will be held tonight in the Community building following the regular meeting of the organization, Mrs. D. A. Siemer, chairman, announced.

Graduate Openings in Political Science

Three types of graduate appointments will be available in the SUI political science department for the next academic year.

Appointments will be open to students who have majored in political science and intend to do graduate work.

Scholarships are open to first year graduate students and fellowships are available to second year graduates and some first year graduate students.

A scholarship exempts a recipient from paying tuition while a fellowship pays between $40 and $100 besides tuition exemption.

By special arrangement, a graduate may apply for research assistantship which carries the same rate as a fellowship.

Interested students may obtain application blanks at the political science department office, room 201, Schaeffer hall. Applications must be on file by March 1.

Marriage of Nurse, Student Solemnized At Chapel Sunday

The Little Chapel of the Congregational church was the scene of the marriage of Mary Ella Lamb to Dean Kelvin Brown at 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

The bride, a graduate nurse at University hospital, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Lamb, Des Moines. Mr. and Mrs. James H. Brown, Batavia, N. Y., are the parents of the bridegroom, a graduate student here.

The Rev. John G. Craig officiated at the single ring ceremony. Henrietta Moershel, Homestead, was the maid of honor. The best man was William Lamb, Des Moines, twin brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony a dinner party was held at Ox Yoke inn, Amana. The couple then left on a wedding trip to Chicago.

Mrs. Brown was graduated from Urbana high school, Des Moines, and the State University of Iowa school of nursing. She has been employed as a graduate nurse at the University hospital.

Mr. Brown was graduated from Batavia high school and Syracuse university. He is now a graduate student in journalism at the State University of Iowa. He is a Phi Kappa Tau, social fraternity, and Sigma Delta Chi, national professional fraternity for men in journalism.

After Feb. 8, the couple will make their home at 804 N. Dubuque.

Jarrett Sentenced To Year in Prison

District Court Judge Harold D. Evans yesterday sentenced Ralph Jarrett to one year at hard labor in the penitentiary at Ft. Madison.

Jarrett, 45-year-old Iowa City laborer, was found guilty of assault with intent to inflict great bodily injury by a jury of eight men and four women on Jan. 19.

Jarrett had been indicted by the grand jury for knifing James P. Montgomery in a fight at the Mexi-Hot restaurant, at the corner of Benton street and Maiden Lane, last Aug. 8.

Deputy Sheriff Don Wilson took Jarrett to Ft. Madison yesterday afternoon.

Home Again After 3 'Armory Nights'

Things are back to normal for Sgt. Charles Jennings, 20, after spending three nights in the Iowa City armory.

He was able to return to the home of his parents three miles southwest of Iowa City, Sunday for the first time since leaving there early Thursday morning.

A snowstorm Thursday filled roads leading to the Jennings home, keeping the sergeant from going there after completing his day's work at the armory.

So, he made up a bunk in the armory, cooked his meals and phoned his folks that he might not be home for a few days.

Sunday the roads were open again and Jennings was able to return home.

Mildred Throne to Talk At Book Club Meeting

Mildred Throne, associate editor of the historical society's Iowa Journal of History, will be the speaker at the February meeting of the University Dames Book club Thursday.

Miss Throne's subject will be "Readable History." The club will meet at the home of Mrs. Merritt C. Ludwig at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Ludwig said any members who were not told of the meeting and wish to attend should call her at 8-0626.

'Bustles and Beaux' Is Title of Dance

"Bustles and Beaux" will be the theme of the informal dance in the river room of the Iowa Union, Feb. 11. The dance will be sponsored by the Town Men's and Town Women's associations.

Dancing from 9 to 12 will be to the music of the Gregg Franzwa Quintet, Rex Parks, Town Men publicity man said yesterday. The quintet was recently rated by Downbeat magazine as the best combo at SUI.

An added feature will be songs by Beverly Bragg, a popular campus song stylist, Parks added.

The Valentine day atmosphere will include a valentine backdrop and cupid programs, he said.

Parks emphasized that the dance is open to all students even though they do not belong to the associations. Tickets may be obtained at the Office of Student Affairs, room 111, University hall.

Youth Group To Study Arranging of Rooms

A training school on room arrangements for the 4-H girls' club leaders and the Johnson county committee will be held today from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Mrs. Arlene Hartle, extension service home furnishing specialist, will conduct the school in the Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric

Listeners Call 'Axis Sally' Skit 'Pure Corn'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The hysterical screams of "Axis Sally," broadcasting a melodramatic warning to American soldiers on the dangers of storming Hitler's Europe, were heard at the treason trial of U.S.-born Mildred E. Gillars yesterday.

The broadcast, entitled "Vision of Invasion," was sent out over the German radio four weeks before D-day in 1944.

Earphone-equipped spectators in the crowded federal courtroom promptly labeled the Nazi wartime production "pure corn."

Miss Gillars herself did not bother to put on her set of earphones to listen to the recorded skit, in which she allegedly played the role of an American mother whose son was killed in the landing on the French coast.

Testifying for the government, Adelfert Houben, 41, manager of the overseas division of the German broadcasting company during the war, identified the voice of the woman who played the stellar role in the drama as the voice of Miss Gillars.

The 48-year-old defendant, a native of Portland, Ore., faces a possible maximum sentence if convicted. She has pleaded innocent.

In the radio sketch heard yesterday—one of more than a score of "Axis Sally" broadcasts—Miss Gillars cried out against the then forthcoming invasion in a conversation with her actor "husband," as follows:

Axis Sally: "Everybody says the invasion is suicide. The simplest person knows that. Between 70 and 80 percent of the boys will be killed or crippled for the rest of their lives."

Husband: "What can we do about it?"

Axis Sally: "Bah! We could have done a lot about it. Have we got a government by the people or not? Roosevelt had no right to go to war."

The stage husband then cautioned her against making unpatriotic statements, but she retorts that she is an American woman and has a right to say what she thinks.

Houben testified that "no foreigner was forced to work" in his organization.

Houben, who repeatedly professed his high personal regard for Miss Gillars, made the statement under questioning.

Defense counsel at the treason trial had claimed that Miss Gillars broadcast for Hitler because she was under the "hypnotic influence" of the late Max Otto Koischwitz, her one-time teacher at Hunter college in New York.

The defense also said she was under the "constant threat" of the Gestapo.

BUSTLES and BEAUX

This semester TOWN WOMEN and TOWN MEN have decided to get together for one extra special evening of entertainment at the RIVER ROOM of the Union FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 11th, 9 to 12. This evening promises to be one of gaiety and fun for everyone with the dance BUSTLES AND BEAUX spreading the Valentine's Day spirit.

The dance will feature the smooth scintillating rhythms of the GREGG FRANZWA QUINTETTE and, as an added attraction, the "Sophie Tucker of the Campus," BEVERLY BRAGG, adding those songs to the evening's fun as only Bev. can do them. The PRICE?—$1.25 per couple—not bad, huh? Tickets are on sale at the OFFICE of STUDENT AFFAIRS. If you're not a member of Town Men or Town Women, get yourself a gal or fellow, for all are invited.

Frenches Set up Playhouse

Cedar Rapids Couple Act, Produce Plays

By BOB SENNISH
Every so often a couple of perfectly sane young people get the crazy idea that a "little theatre" can become a vital part of some nice mid-western community. As a rule the idea gets talked to death — after which the same young people go to New York and starve to death.

The residents of Cedar Rapids and vicinity should derive some satisfaction from the fact that such has not been the case with Burt French and his wife, Florence Healy French. Having no truck with talk, theory, or argument, the Frenches very unceremoniously rolled up their sleeves and went to work.

The fruit of their labors is known as the Burt French Playhouse. And they are now officially Cedar Rapids' baby.

It is during the infantile period that most community theatres collapse. Some of the growing pains prove fatal: an indifferent public, lack of capital, and insufficient people to aid in production are only a few of the obstacles. But the Frenches are determined to see community theatre in Cedar Rapids a full-grown institution.

Cleveland Playhouse

As "show people" the Frenches certainly seem equal to the job. Burt is himself from Boston, where he was introduced to little theatre. After a rather extended stint with a road company, he ended up at the Cleveland Playhouse, one of the very finest little theatres in the country.

A testimony to his abilities is reflected in some of the roles he has managed, among which are Tom in "The Time of Your Life" and Mio in "Winterset." Curiously enough, I had the good fortune of seeing him as Mio at the Playhouse and can certainly vouch for his talents.

Local critics did not differ in their opinions. It came as a delightful surprise to learn that Burt French was the same person who had so impressed me with his Mio.

His wife, Florence, is hardly overshadowed by her illustrious spouse. After five years of experience at the Playhouse, she can hardly be written off as "small time." To her credit are such imposing roles as Bessie in "The Corn Is Green" and Angelica in Congreve's "Love for Love."

Teaches Here

At the moment, Florence is instructing here at the university while Burt devotes all his time to their enterprise.

He quite systematically runs himself ragged from one group or club or lodge to another with the aim of keeping the Burt French Players in the public eye. Between times, he rehearses, directs, designs sets, and commutes a la Crandic between here and Cedar Rapids.

When able to find time and capital, he has been known to eat. Burt's organization in all of this has been, to use his own adjective, "unorthodox." Having decided upon working in community theatre, he first determined what the play should be. Next, he rented a hall. After a good long think, he remembered that a cast is somewhat necessary to any production. Quite miraculously the cast turned up, and "John Loves Mary" initiated the company's season.

On the agenda is the John Patrick play, "The Hasty Heart," which will run at the Coe College theatre from tomorrow through Saturday. As a penetrating insight into human hate, though not without its comic aspects, the play shapes up as a tailor-made hit for the talented Frenches.

Burt has been admonished more than he likes to remember about the apparent hopelessness of the little theatre. The argument holds that "people regard local theatre as unforgivably amateur, dull, a little bit beside the point, and a very poor second to the movie house around the corner."

TAKING UP THE BAGPIPE LATE IN LIFE is Burt French of the Burt Players. And watching on with some enjoyment is Florence Healy French, his wife who is an SUI instructor. Actually the bagpipe is used in "The Hasty Heart," a play to be produced by the Burt French players in Cedar Rapids tomorrow.

Argument Weak

This argument is weak when it is observed that the Frenches are not "unforgivably amateur," but that they are experienced trouper.

If theatre is "dull," then the life it reflects must be also. Anything but "beside the point" it deals (as in such plays as "The Hasty Heart" with the most urgent problems of the day. And the only advantage held by the movie house over the theatre is that the former encourages and approves on its premises; the eating of popcorn, passion in the balcony, and, mostly, sleep.

Sen. Mercer Asks For New Library

State Sen. LeRoy S. Mercer of Iowa City has introduced a bill in the senate to provide for an engineering and architectural library, according to L. E. Anderson, Des Moines, chairman of the library committee of the Iowa Engineering society.

The bill will provide for an engineering and architectural library similar to the ones now provided by the state for the medical and legal professions, Anderson said.

"The proposed library would be of great value to university students, teachers and young engineers and architects," Anderson said, "who, due either to location or financial inability, have been unable to obtain necessary information for projects of value to Iowa."

Though no specific location was named for the proposed library Anderson said that the library should be "centrally located" and have a system whereby the books and data in the library could be loaned to any individual in any part of the state.

Psychology Department Makes Schedule Change

The SUI psychology department yesterday announced two changes in the schedule of psychology courses for next semester.

A new class will be Seminar in Clinical Psychology, a two-hour course taught by the clinical staff. The course number is 31.361.

Physiological Psychology, 32:121, will not be offered next semester, although it is listed on the schedule.

March of Dimes Drive Reaches $616.15 So Far

Personal donations and mailing cards brought the "March of Dimes" total to $616.15, Mrs. J.K. Schaaf, Johnson county chairman, reported yesterday.

Reports on the drive will not be complete until the women of the Moose collect the donation boxes in Iowa City on Wednesday, Mrs. Schaaf said.

Trying to Grow Apple Tree in Quadrangle

WILL APPLE SEEDS GROW WITHOUT ENERGY from the meat of the apple? Gareth J. Wilkins, A3, Boone, thinks so. He is shown with the dixie cup (arrow) in which he has planted eight apple seeds as an experiment. He says that he will have to wait until spring to see if the project is successful.

Gareth J. Wilkins, A3, Boone, is literally "farming in a dixie cup." He is attempting to grow his own apple tree in his room in the Quadrangle.

On Nov. 17 Wilkins set up an experiment on the growth of apple trees. He calls it "experimental station A-1."

The amateur botanist put eight apple seeds into a dixie cup filled with dirt.

"I'm not using any fertilizer," he said, "just good old Iowa dirt." Two of the seeds are on top of the soil and are part of the experiment.

"I water the seeds every other day," he said. Wilkins estimates that he has used two and a half pints of water since he started.

If the venture works out, Wilkins explained, the seeds "ought to sprout by May." The experiment "won't need any light until the seeds sprout," he added.

The project is a "controlled experiment" to see if apple seeds will grow without nourishment from the "meat of the apple."

"The purpose of the meat of the apple is to provide food for the seeds to grow," Wilkins declared.

"Anyone," he asserted, "can plant an apple and make it grow."

He said that in the spring he is "going to divide the seeds up" and leave part of them in their present container. "I'll put the rest in another container with part of an apple to see which grows first—if the original grows."

Wilkins said he thinks the seeds in their present dixie cup will grow and that the ones on top will have the same growth opportunity.

"Warmth and moisture is what they need — and they're getting both by my able hands," the "gardener" said.

Shoben Writes New Textbook

Edward J. Shoben, SUI assistant professor of psychology and clinic counsel, is writing a new psychology textbook with the collaboration of Prof. Floyd Ruch of the University of Southern California.

The book will deal with college students' problems of personal and social adjustment.

Ruch, professor of psychology at USC, is now in Iowa City helping Shoben plan the new book.

Shoben is a specialist in clinical psychology, while Ruch deals mainly with applied psychology. Ruch yesterday said the book is still in the formative stage, and that the title is still undecided.

A native Iowan, Ruch was born in Guthrie Center. After graduating from the University of Oregon, he returned to Iowa and received his master of arts degree at SUI in 1926.

Ruch authored the widely used college textbook, "Psychology and Life." He was vice-president of the Opinion Research corporation before the present war.

At present Ruch is president of the industrial and business psychology division of the American Psychological association.

Petition Against Miller Filed in District Court

E.C. Kern, Washington county, yesterday filed a $35.67 judgment in Johnson county district court against Paris Miller, route 2, Kalona.

Kern claimed that amount is still owed to him for goods and merchandise sold and delivered to the defendant.

Kern also asked for interest on that amount at five percent from July 1, 1946 and for costs of the action.

T.R. Adams of Wellman is attorney for the plaintiff.

This is a diesel . . . a modern locomotive that means better service to you
Leaders of two unions think it's a feather-bed . . . a "make work" grab that means less service to you.

● Leaders of unions representing railroad engineers and firemen seek to force railroads to add extra, needless men on diesel locomotives. This is sheer waste — a "make-work" program which would mean fewer improvements and higher costs—for YOU!

Railroads use modern diesel locomotives because they are one of the means of giving faster, better service to you.

Two men compose the crew of a diesel. They occupy a clean, comfortable cab at the front. The engineer handles the throttle. The fireman sits and watches the track ahead. With no coal to shovel, he has practically nothing else to do.

No Benefit To You
Now the leaders of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen want to use the diesel locomotive as a means of forcing a feather-bedding scheme on the railroads. The extra men they propose to add to the diesel crews are not needed. There is no work for them.

The union leaders are fighting among themselves about which union should furnish these extra, needless men. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers have even threatened a strike. You may not be interested in this dispute of these two unions, but you would be vitally concerned if these groups succeed in putting through this featherbedding scheme, because it would mean a slowing up of the improvement program of the railroads—of which the diesel is the outstanding symbol.

Diesel crews are among the highest paid railroad employes—real aristocrats of labor! Their pay is high by any standard. Granting of these demands, therefore, would mean that the railroads would be paying out millions in unearned wages to those in the very highest pay brackets.

We'd Like To Spend This Money On You
You know how much the diesel has meant to you in increased speed, comfort and convenience. The railroads have many more of them on order for even greater improvement in service to you. But needless drains of money, such as this present demand of the unions for needless men on diesels, reduce the ability of the railroads to spend money on better service for you.

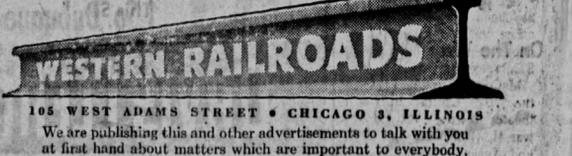

Proud as the railroads are of the diesel, it is only a small part of their improvement program. Since the War, literally billions of dollars have been spent on improvement of tracks and stations, on new passenger and freight cars, as well as on diesel locomotives, and on the many other less conspicuous details of railroading that contribute to improved service.

Feather-Bedding Means Less Service To You
But brazen feather-bedding schemes like the one now proposed would, if successful, divert large sums of money from our present improvement programs. Even worse, they make improvements like the diesel worthless, by making the cost of their operation prohibitive.

These demands are against YOUR interests—as well as those of the railroads. They are schemes to "make work." Neither you nor the railroads should be forced to pay such a penalty for progress.

That's why the railroads are resisting these "make work" demands to the last ditch—and why they are telling you about them.

We are publishing this and other advertisements to talk with you at first hand about matters which are important to everybody.

AEC Reports New A-Bombs Super Power

By FRANK E. CAREY
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is producing super A-bombs — substantially more powerful than the missiles that blasted Japan during World War II.

The atomic energy commission made this disclosure yesterday for the first time in an official report to congress.

The commission recorded "an expansion of effort in all phases of atomic energy development," both for arms and peaceful pursuits.

And it announced that emergency defense measures have been taken to safeguard the world's No. 1 secret against sabotage and "against attack."

A major objective, the commission reported, is a greatly stepped-up production of the two atomic fuels — uranium 235, which is found sparsely in raw ore, and the synthetic new element, plutonium.

To this end, officials said there is now under way "the biggest single construction effort in American peacetime history," which will eventually cost more than $700-million. It includes construction or major alteration of 20 plants centering around the plutonium plant at Hanford, Wash., where nearly 15,000 workers are now employed.

In its fifth semi-annual report to congress the commission further reported:

1. That the $3-billion atomic energy program has attained "a momentum which, if sustained, the commission believes will maintain and increase the nation's lead in atomic energy developments."

2. That a new office of "intelligence" has been set up by the AEC "to correlate and evaluate information on foreign atomic energy developments."

3. That continued efforts are being made to release as much still-secret information as possible without endangering the "common defense and security."

Chairman David Lilienthal at a news conference declared the present report represents a "turning point" towards the increased release of information because, he says, secrecy carried to extremes "could actually blacken out democracy."

He promised a number of additional reports, handbooks and other informational material in the next few months including special reports on research on atomic power for industry and aircraft.

He said that these, together with information already released, "should make it possible for most public issues (concerning atomic energy) to be decided in the democratic way."

In the same breath that it said the new and more powerful A-bombs had been developed, the commission declared that "further developments are now in progress."

Lilienthal amplified the "further developments" phrase by saying it meant work aimed at developing still newer models.

The already-developed newer weapons referred to were those tested at AEC's super-secret proving grounds on Eniwetok atoll, last April and May.

The commission revealed that subsequent analysis of the Eniwetok tests had established the fact "that a substantial gain in (explosive) energy release was obtained" with these bombs — as compared with those dropped on Japan and at Bikini.

Two River Spots Defy 'Big Freeze'

What does a swimming hole look like in midwinter? The answers are to be seen on both sides of the city park bridge where two spots on the Iowa river are defying the below-freezing temperature.

One oblong stretch of open water lies below the bridge on the south side while the other is located about a hundred yards upstream. Both appear to be in the middle of the river.

"It is a natural phenomenon," Assistant Supt. George R. Parizek of the university plans and construction division explained. There are no sewer lines running into the river at those points. Nor are there any warm springs around there, Parizek said.

Fluctuation of the river bed and the changing current level causes a break in the ice and you have an open spot in the river, he said.

McCullum Assigned to Supply Office Work

Sgt. 1/c Robert McCullum, 33, has been assigned to the supply office force of the SUI military department by the Fort Jackson, S.C., reassignment station.

McCullum spent 35 months in the CBI (China, Burma, India) theater during and after world war II while stationed at Calcutta and Karachi, India.

'Cook Your Own and Save' Is Their Motto

FOUR SUI STUDENTS "DIG IN" on a meal they prepared themselves. Alfred Mantegna, G. Honcoye Falls, N. Y., serves his special tossed salad while Cecil Kearns, El. Clinton; Richard Schuster, C3, Camanche; and Donald Newbrough, A3, Eagle Grove, help themselves to liver and onions. These men are beating the high cost of food by preparing all their own meals.

SUI Students 'Broil and Save'

You may think it's quite a trick to cook three meals a day on a hot plate, but have you ever tried it with the hot plate upside down?

Four SUI fellows offer this suggestion for tastier meat cooking when an oven is not available.

Donald Newbrough, A3, Eagle Grove; Cecil Kearns, El. Clinton; Alfred Mantegna, G. Honcoye Falls, N. Y., and Richard Schuster, C3, Camanche, room at 613 N. Van Buren street and do all their own cooking on an undersized hot plate.

Use as Broiler

This plate stands on a base so it can be used as a stove, but these boys turn it upside down and use it as a broiler. This practice results in more succulent meat, they explain.

The purpose of these men's domestic activities is to save money, and save money they do! Every Monday they each put $2 into a kitty and the total covers the whole week's grocery bills. Al does the shopping and "I go along to carry bundles," said Dick. Perishable foods are kept fresh in their out-doors ice box, a large wooden box lined with cardboard and suspended outside the window. When the weather is warm, the boys use a corner of their landlord's refrigerator.

Can Openers Important

Among their most prized utensils are three can openers.

"If we ever lost these we would starve," Cece pointed out.

Everyone helps get the meals. Al makes the salads with his special oil dressing. Don is the chief meat cook.

The other "chefs" prepare the vegetables, usually fresh from a can, and "instant" mashed potatoes, prepared by pouring some powder into water or milk. Sometimes they fix jello or pudding for dessert.

When dishwashing time comes around, there is no shirking. One fellow washes, one rinses and the other two wipe.

SUI Band to Play At Commencement

The special SUI band for Saturday's commencement will begin the exercises at 1:30 p. m. with a prologue concert of five numbers, Prof. C. B. Righter, director of university bands, said yesterday.

Righter will conduct the 60 member band in the prologue consisting of "El Relicario," "Song Without Words," "Hillbilly," "Salut d'Amour" and "Aguaro." This band, chosen from the regular concert band, will play a total of 17 numbers during the entire program.

Await Steel for Benton Bridge

Steel for the superstructure of the new Benton street bridge should be shipped to Iowa City Feb. 15, contractor E. V. Jensen said yesterday.

The steel is being fabricated at the American Bridge Building company plant in Gary, Ind. Previously, it was announced that the steel was due to be shipped by Jan. 15.

Steel webbing of the under-structure arrived in Iowa City last week, but it was only a partial shipment. One truck arrived and two more are due from a Kansas City steel company as soon as roads are clear enough for shipment.

Ned L. Ashton, consulting engineer on the bridge project, yesterday spent the afternoon conferring with Jensen. They discussed plans for the street lighting on the bridge and the laying of gas mains and conduits for telephone connections.

Four conduits will probably be laid, Ashton said. Two will be used for street lighting and telephones, and two for future traffic signals and more telephone connections.

A water pipe must also be laid across the structure to provide residents in the southwestern section of Iowa City with water.

Completion of the $265,000 project late this summer will provide a fourth usable path across the Iowa river here for motor traffic. It will relieve the congestion of traffic across the Burlington street bridge.

Their Best Friends Won't Tell Them

Birds of a feather don't necessarily flock together.

Two northern mallards have been ignoring the hospitality extended them by their brothers in City park. These "birds" arrived in Iowa City about two weeks ago and have set up housekeeping under the city park bridge, according to an Iowa City bus driver.

Fortunately for the ducks, the water hasn't frozen solid under the bridge and daily the "quacks" go in for an icy dip. By swishing their wings in the water, they manage to keep the warm water near the surface so that the ice does not form.

Their food supply is strictly charity from passers-by and folks who live in Riverdale barracks. Apparently this is generous, for the ducks so far have not accepted any meal invitation from their relatives in city park.

AAUW to Change Broadcasting Time

The monthly program of the American Association of University Women will be heard over WSUI on the first Thursday of each month instead of the first Wednesday it was announced yesterday.

The new time for the program is 2:30-3:00 p. m.

The program was formerly listed for the first Wednesday of each month at 4:00 p. m.

A panel discussion on mental hygiene will be held on the AAUW program, Thursday.

The panel will be headed by Dr. Frank E. Coburn, associate professor of psychiatry. Others to appear on Thursday's program are Prof. R.H. Ojemann, associate professor of education and psychology, and Henrietta Safely, chief social worker at the psychopathic hospital.

Broken Steam Pipe Causes False Alarm

Iowa City firemen answered a call to the Uptowner cafe at 7:45 yesterday morning, but found it to be a false alarm.

A broken steam pipe in the basement was the cause for the alarm, according to Ray Morgan, assistant fire chief.

Mistaking the steam for smoke, an employe called the fire department. No estimate of damage was made.

By BILL McBRIDE

SEVERAL FACTS brought to my attention recently convince me that we had better start watching opossums more closely.

Did you know that the gestation period for opossums is only 11 days? That means 'possums can reproduce almost three times as fast as rabbits . . . and everyone knows how over-populated the world is with rabbits.

I'm all for sending a petition to the un-American activities committee asking for an investigation . . . perhaps even a bill making 'possum control mandatory.

IT DOESN'T seem impossible (at the rate those animals multiply) that some morning we may wake up and discover 'possums in control of everything, including bound dog kennels.

For all we know they may be sitting out there gestating every 11 days, and grouping great 'possum armies for movement.

OPOSSUMS HAVE lived in trees for centuries, but that doesn't mean they like to live in trees. Maybe they'd like to live in houses. How would you like to perch in a tree all winter long, knowing that a 'possum family was holding raucous parties in your living room?

I can see a big fat 'possum loafing in our Easy Chair, playing our Bunk Johnson records and insolently kicking cigar ashes on our shag rugs. I don't like it a bit.

THIS WOULD be a good time to think about repealing the 87 law. Some time ago a law was made saying that twins will only appear once in every 87 births.

It has never been made entirely clear just who it is who makes such laws as that, nor is it clear who checks up to see if they are obeyed.

I suppose somebody in every hospital is charged with the duties of investigating maternity wards for violators. Possums don't seem to fret much about the law of 87.

IN AT LEAST one area, the 'possum is more clever than the man. When the streets get icy you don't see 'possums out trying to drive automobiles and scurrying about on slippery sidewalks.

They stay up in their trees and laugh at human beings who break clavicles and sacroiliacs in efforts to reach houses which dispense cups of hot, olive drab liquid at five cents a cup (in some instances ten cents), calling it "coffee."

THE BEST books on opossums will tell you they are largely nocturnal animals. This means that they carouse around a lot at night, so their social life is chiefly an after dark affair.

In this respect they are quite similar to man. The big difference is that opossums have enough sense to sleep during the daytime.

A BAD THING about 'possums is that they are pacifists. We all know what a blight in history pacifists are, but no one has ever told 'possums about it.

In all the printed matter I could find about opossums, not once was it ever mentioned about their going to war. Lions have done considerable fighting, and eagles are notorious for getting involved in noisy brawls, but a cursory glance at 'possum history shows nothing but dull, unromantic and monotonous peace.

How can they stand it?

THE DISGUSTING part of all this is that 'possums simply refuse to fight. If some forest despot (such as a Russian bear) sticks his nose into a 'possum's quarters, do you know what that 'possum does? He shamefully rolls over on his back and plays dead . . . the coward.

From that you can see it wouldn't do at all to have 'possums in charge here. If they haven't enough sense to stand up and fight . . . well . . . they'll just naturally kill themselves off with all that peace.

GAS TAX DIPS

DES MOINES (P) — State gasoline tax collections declined slightly this month compared with last month and a year ago, the state treasurer's office reported yesterday.

The collections this month of $2,201,385, compared with $2,683,454 last month and $2,336,976 in January a year ago.

Refunds on gasoline purchased for non-highway use this month were $520,309, compared with $437,817 last month and $716,017 in January last year.

Employment Prospects for SUI Midyear Grads—

Job Outlook Spotty, but Good, Survey Shows

By TOM BUCK

SUI's midyear graduates face a spotty employment scene with tightening prospects in some fields, a survey revealed yesterday.

This was the consensus of opinions at four university placement bureaus concerned with placing SUI job seekers in the face of a mild national employment slump.

The four bureaus interviewed were business and industrial, engineering, educational and local placement.

AT THE business and industrial placement office, director Helen M. Barnes agreed that in her department the employment curve is rounding off.

She backed her statement by a pamphlet entitled "Trends in the Employment of College and University Graduates in Business and Industry — 1949."

The pamphlet was a survey of 173 well-known business and industrial concerns. It included reports by such big hirers as the automobile industry, machinery and heavy equipment manufacturers, drugs and chemical companies, banking and insurance firms, steel manufacturers and retail sellers.

GENERAL IT seems that most of the concerns have reached a "leveling off" stage in the employment of fresh-out-of-college workers, Endicott deduced.

Here is a typical comment: "Our company has completed a three-year program for re-establishing a force of younger college graduates. A total of 359 were employed to make up the deficit from the war period and earlier years, and to cover our postwar expansion program. Next year's program is primarily for replacement purposes."

The companies reported a strong demand for technicians, general businessmen, accountants and salesmen.

Here is a breakdown of the survey: The companies expect to need 2,889 college-trained engineers next year, compared to 3,194 last year — a 9.6 percent drop.

Chemical and air-minded engineers, however, escaped being snipped off by the employers' leveling employment graph. Seven percent more college-trained chemists and 30 percent more aeronautical engineers will be hired this year.

HIRING OF job-hunting businessmen, according to the report, will be cropped a little closer than the engineers. Last year, 8,472 college graduates were snatched up by the 173 companies. This year, they expect to use only 7,586 — an 11 percent drop.

In heaviest demand are general business trainees. Last year the companies hired 1,504; this year, they expect to need only 1,321. Accountants, sales personnel, advertising specialists, economists, insurance men, personnel workers, physicists, and production managers might have to dig around a little for jobs, too, the report indicated.

Merchandisers, chemists, marketers, secretaries and statisticians, meanwhile, will be more in demand than ever.

WOMEN GRADUATES, too, will suffer a slight drop in their employment popularity. Female accountants, chemists and sales personnel will be slightly less in demand, while they will hold their own in advertising and will be called on for merchandising, personnel and secretarial work more than last year.

All in all, their popularity this year will drop off 11 percent, reported 61 companies that were polled for employment of inexperienced college women.

But don't be a slave to hard, cold statistics, Miss Barnes suggested. If students would analyze themselves and select the proper field for their personality and abilities, they would have a good chance of being placed.

Last year, reported Ralph M. Barnes, director of personnel and engineering placement, there were six to eight jobs for every engineering student who requested placement.

Even the students who flunked out, he declared, were in heavy demand.

"WE HAVE no placement troubles now and we don't expect any in the immediate future," he said. "That goes for all kinds of engineering."

Future teachers have a bright job outlook, too, reported Miss Frances Camp, director of the educational placement office.

"Last year," she said, "almost everybody who wanted a job was placed." The "almost everybody" was 920 students.

"It will take a long, long while

HELEN M. BARNES, director of the business and industrial placement office, confers with February graduate Harlan Chamberlain. His prospects of getting a job are good, but the demand for labor is stiffening slightly.

to catch up to the shortage of teachers."

ELEMENTARY schools will have the longest wait for school teachers, she prophesied.

"The shortage in high schools and in social studies, however, is not so acute," she back-stepped.

"There are too many babies being born and too many crowded college classrooms to have an over-supply of instructors."

Another reason for the field being under-populated was the marriage rate of women college students in the educational field.

Robert L. Ballantyne, manager of the Student Aid and Placement Bureau, summed up the "help wanted" sign situation by a terse, "There are fewer openings now, but more jobs."

In other words, he explained, there are more students employed now, but fewer jobs that need to be filled.

The more students enrolled at SUI, the more jobs there are in Iowa City, he said.

BALLANTYNE told of the case of one Iowa City theater that now employs three ushers, while before and during the war, when SUI's enrollment was still in the four figure bracket, it hired only one.

Now, as then, he pointed out, the jobs are filled.

"No vacancies now; no vacancies then — but two more students with jobs," he said.

"In Iowa City," he added, "there is definitely no downward trend of jobs."

Inflation has boosted the number of students applying for work, he said, pointing to a file of yellow cards marked "not placed."

"Why?" he asked.

And answered — "You have to work to live."

But still, there is a record number of students working. Ballantyne guessed the number to be about one-third of the student body, or about 3,300.

In general, the employment prospects for SUI midyear graduates follow the stiffening nationwide trend. But the outlook is still fairly bright.

Women May Need Licenses To Fish

DES MOINES (P) — Iowa women may get "equality" with men in a new field — fishing licenses.

The fish and game committee of the Iowa house yesterday approved for passage a bill which would require women anglers to have fishing licenses, the same as men.

The law now gives women the right to fish licenseless in natural lakes and streams. But if they fish in artificial lakes (state-owned lakes), they must have a license. The committee's bill would wipe out that distinction.

The committee also approved for passage a bill which would permit meat markets and others to sell pheasants as food. The birds would have to come from licensed game breeders. Representative Gene Poston (D-Croydon) is sponsor of this bill.

TO THE EDITOR:

In view of the interest taken in the discussions held by the Science and Social Philosophy Club, as was demonstrated by the meeting of Dr. Mosse, Mr. Maloff, and Dr. Cobitz, I feel a need to give expression to a vital problem confronting the organization at this particular time.

Up to the present time all the speakers and topics have been determined by the club's council without any factual knowledge of what SUI students actually would like to hear. This has been unfortunate, in that we can have little way of knowing beforehand whether or not we are fulfilling the principles upon which the club was founded. However fortunate we may have been in the past, we are much more concerned with success in the future.

It is the desire of the club to make possible those discussions which are of utmost interest and importance to the students at large. This task is impossible unless we know what is really wanted. To those students who have attended in the past, and to those who wish to do so in the future, I request, in behalf of the club, that you notify us through the mail or at our future meetings, as to topics and speakers desired.

The club is anxious to present whatever is of general interest to SUI students. Letters should be addressed to Miss Ruth Koenig, Carrier Hall, or to myself at 722 Dearborn.

It goes without saying that comments and criticisms are as welcome as recommendations. I hope the students will take up this call and give it some direction.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT

A Nationalized Deflation...

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

Stories of price reductions now make the front pages, like stories of price increases two and a half years ago. A ten dollar bill which I left in a summer suit last September would buy 15 pounds of steak today. It would have bought only 10 pounds when I hung the suit up.

That's the pleasant side of the price decline. There are other sides, not so pleasant.

Several hundred thousand Americans who had jobs the day I hung that suit up do not have jobs today. They may not have been buying much meat lately, which may be one reason why the lost ten spot will now buy more. There are business men in many fields, from truck tires to clothes, who are being forced to sell at prices which bear no realistic relation to costs.

And every price decrease is being hailed as an argument against the wage structure, so that sometimes one feels that news of rather moderate average reductions is being greeted with a kind of leer.

THIS IS WHAT the beginning of a deflation looks like. And suddenly I have a feeling that the greatest political issue in America today is not the North Atlantic Defense pact, nor the President's scheme for investments in backward lands, but simply this question: Who is going to pay for the deflation?

It's a vital question, for deflation, usually, operates in exactly the opposite way to an income tax: It takes the most from those who have the least. A man who loses his job pays a tax of 100 percent of his income to help carry the deflation, less whatever small benefits he may receive. Someone else, with his assets in cash, may actually make a profit on a deflation, for the value of his money will go up.

Yet it's the same national experience, shared by both. And it seems to me that in this relatively enlightened year of 1949, we are about ready for a new social and political axiom, and it goes like this:

DEFLATION is a national crisis, and its cost should be nationalized; that cost should be spread, and borne equitably by all segments of the population, in accordance with their ability to bear it.

For the thing as it now stands is truly intolerable on any scale of human dignity. Deflation is like a weird windstorm, rearranging our possessions and our lives; stripping a third of the value off a herd of steers, and depositing it to the credit of every bank account in the country, whipping one man out of a job, and blowing five unexpected pounds of sirloin into my clothes closet.

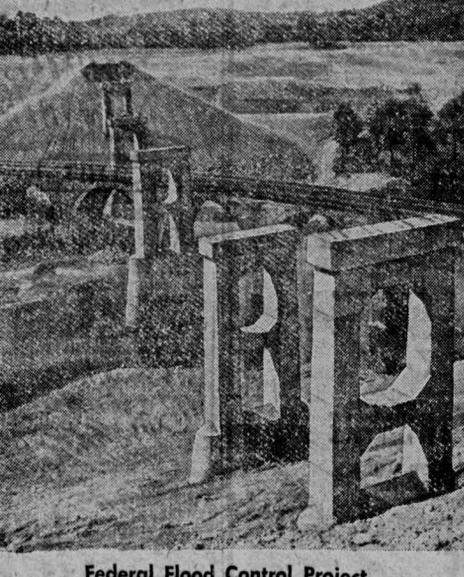

To nationalize the cost of this necessary readjustment, so that it does not bear too heavily upon anyone, and is shared by all, seems like the most ordinary common sense.

ACTUALLY, we have begun to move in this direction. The farmers, by winning a structure of price supports for certain crops, have made it clear that they do not intend to carry the cost of deflation without assistance. And when we murmur hopefully that a big military program might keep business activity up, we are indirectly subscribing to the idea that it isn't so bad when one community expenditure replaces the individual losses of a period of decline.

But the important step is for the government to make the axiom outlined above its own, to announce that it will use a special program of tax - supported public works and assistance to whatever degree may be necessary to keep the price decline orderly, and under control, and to prevent it from hitting one man more than another.

Let it say, in words that may yet someday be put up in a Freedom Train, that in our country the cost of a community emergency is borne by the community as a whole, and is not palmed off on individuals.

Federal Flood Control Project "The Axiom Outlined Must Be Adopted" . . .

Editorial Notes from Quotes

"They can bring out all the facts and figures they want to about declining costs, but we homemakers have yet to see this evidenced when we actually go out and buy" — Mrs. Velma Perk, Indianapolis housewife who last year led a "petticoat rebellion" against labor prices. Mrs. Perk refutes labor department claims that the dollar is gaining or holding its own in buying power.

Chairman of the house banking committee, Brent Spence of Kentucky added his comment — "I can say those (buying power) statistics haven't affected my pocketbook."

Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., vice-chairman of the joint economic committee wondered why bread prices rose when wheat prices fell — said Patman: "The (goods) that require manufacturing are not going down; the down trend is mostly in meat and eggs and such things."

The government's optimism on cost of living seems to be met with a jaundiced buyer's eye. "Crazy! Why, we even export them. Maybe the English are jealous" — Paul Derval, impresario of nudity in French show world. He commented on an English newspaper story that the French had to go to England to find cuties who would run naked across the footlights. There are no American girls in the Folies Bergere, said Derval, because they won't work for French francs which can't be exchanged for dollars.

Miles Vaughn Dies In Bay

TOKYO, JAPAN (AP) — Miles W. Vaughn, 57, United Press vice president and general manager for Asia, was drowned Sunday when his sampan capsized while he was hunting ducks in windswept Tokyo bay.

The bodies of the veteran Far Eastern correspondent and of Maj. T.R. Haddock, U.S. army dental officer, of Cape Girardeau, Mo., were identified yesterday at the 4th general hospital.

They had been recovered from the water after being spotted by an army helicopter which was taking part with other army planes, air-sea rescue units and the Japanese harbor patrol in a 24-hour search of the bay.

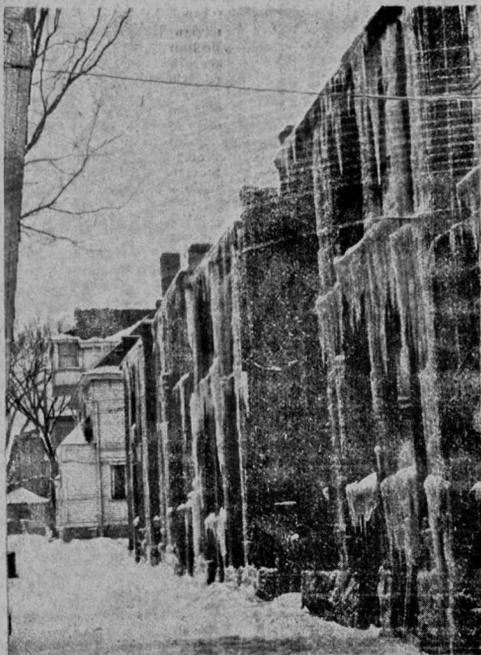

Two Japanese in the sampan also were drowned. They were Sekizo Uyeda, former president of the prewar Nippon Dempo news agency, and Vaughn's Japanese hunting guide, Kenji Horiuchi. The guide's 11-year-old son was missing and believed drowned.

The bodies were brought to the Tokyo harbor master by Japanese maritime safety authorities and taken to the hospital, where they were identified.

The hunters' sampan evidently was swamped by a squall shortly after noon Sunday.

A Japanese found the capsized boat about 3:30 p.m. Sunday in choppy water about three miles off Funabashi. The boat was towed in and identified as the one Vaughn had rented.

Icicles Give Building Winter Dress

WINTER'S WORST DOES ITS BEST to make an ice palace out of a prosaic brick structure east of the law building. Water from snow melting on the roof drips from the eaves to make icy balconies on every window ledge, lacy fringes hanging from every balcony. To literal minds they are just further evidence of winter's strange hold on Iowa, freezing windows shut. (Imagine anyone wanting to get them open, with temperatures at zero or below!)

ROTC Rifle Teams Enter National Meet

Two ROTC teams from SUI have entered in a national postal rifle meet conducted by fifth army command headquarters in Chicago.

ROTC teams throughout the nation and Hawaii and Alaska will compete through the mail for the William Randolph Hearst Trophy which will be awarded the first place winner, Feb. 15.

The two Iowa teams will complete their firing before Feb. 10, so that the scores can be forwarded to meet headquarters, Sgt. J. P. Anderson, rifle squad coach, reported yesterday.

The varsity squad has cancelled its match with Presbyterian college on Saturday because of semester exams, Anderson said.

The team will compete against the Quantico, Va., marine squad, San Francisco university, Tennessee university and the University of Toledo in a postal meet on Feb. 12.

Request 'No Calls' On Power Failure

R.J. Phillips, SUI grounds and buildings head, yesterday requested the public not to telephone the university power plant when heating or electrical failures occur in university buildings.

During the recent power failure affecting the west campus, Phillips said the power plant's telephones were tied up by people telephoning to find out what happened.

At that time, the phones were needed for emergency calls, he said.

"Anyone wanting information," said Phillips, "should telephone us here at the grounds and building office. Often we are in a better position to give the desired information."

Bender Heirs File Stipulation in Suit

The heirs to the estate of the late Saloma Bender yesterday entered a stipulation of settlement in Johnson county district court in their eviction suit against Mr. and Mrs. Glen Brenneman.

In the original suit, the plaintiffs asked the removal of the defendants from a house and shop they now occupy in Washington township near Amish.

In the stipulation filed yesterday, the plaintiffs agreed to dismiss the suit and pay court costs if the defendants would vacate the property by Feb. 9 and pay $12.50 rent for the month of January.

3 Deaths Reported At SUI Hospitals

Three deaths were reported at university hospitals over the weekend.

Hugh Cooper, 68, 130 E. Jefferson street, died Sunday at 8 a.m. Cooper, a widower, was admitted to the hospital Jan. 28.

Miss Ruth Wessler, 37, from Washington, Ia., died Jan. 29 after being admitted to the hospital Jan. 27.

Clyde Hinchliffe, Tiffin, 53, died at 4:20 p.m. Sunday. He was admitted to the hospital Jan. 15.

Textiles to Be Shown

Finished products of the textile design class will be on display in room 119, Macbride hall, today and tomorrow. The exhibit will include wool scarves, wool fabrics in yardage lengths for suits and coats, and linen and cotton place mats.

What makes it worth having?

BY ITSELF, a Bell telephone is useless. What makes it so valuable to you is that it brings the world within easy speaking distance when connected to the Bell System network.

This network has billions of parts. All had to be designed and manufactured to work together for good telephone service.

To assure a dependable source of good equipment that will work together with all other parts of the nation-wide telephone network, Western Electric long ago was made the manufacturing unit of the Bell System.

As members of the Bell System, Western Electric people can work most closely with Bell research people who design equipment and Bell Telephone company people who operate it. Result: You get the most dependable, most valuable telephone service on earth.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

MAURICE STERNE, the artist, said that his most embarrassing moment came when he tapped a lady on the shoulder at an exhibit and remarked, "You look a great deal like my old pupil, Dorothy Yardley. Are you any relation?" The lady regarded him coldly and said, "Mr. Sterne, I am Dorothy Yardley."

Harpo Marx pointed out that Sterne's embarrassment was nothing like his, the night he lugged his harp 12 miles to a party—and never was asked to play!

Gene Fowler once conducted a contest for "embarrassing moments" on a tabloid newspaper, offering a dollar each for letters printed. One contestant wrote, "I came home early last night and found my best friend kissing my wife. I was terribly embarrassed. Please send me two dollars, as my wife also was embarrassed."

Fowler sent a check for three dollars. "I have an idea," he wrote, "that your best friend was embarrassed too."

Just a Serenade for the Ladies

"WHEN YOU AND I WERE YOUNG, MAGGIE," SING THESE MEMBERS OF THE triangle club who Sunday night serenaded ladies of the University's Women's club meeting at the Iowa Union. Vocalists (left to right) are Eugene Oliver, manager of the university statistical service; Col. W. W. Jenna, head of the ROTC department; Robert Ballantyne, manager of student aid and placement bureau, and Col. E. L. Titus. Dr. Earl Harper, director of fine arts, accompanied the singers.

Gas Mask 'Boom' Hits Local Store

Is Iowa City rearming? A downtown war surplus store reports the sale of about 60 gas masks since August. At 29 cents apiece in children's and adult sizes people seem to go for that smart, snout-like look. The store recently had to order a new lot of masks.

Clerk Lenard Cooney doesn't know why they're so popular, but surmises that "college students with an idea" and kids account for a large proportion.

One fellow bought one because he worked in a laundry and the soap dust irritated his nose, Cooney said.

Cooney, who served in Germany during the war, wouldn't have one himself. He said, "The only one I ever had, I threw away."

Numerous veterans and readers of Bill Mauldin's "Up Front" cartoons will understand. In one cartoon Joe, wandering up a lane littered with gas masks, says to Willie, "I see company E got the new type mask."

Arnold Joins Army

Merle Monroe Arnold, 26, 304 Ronalds street, left yesterday to serve an indefinite period of enlistment as a regular army sergeant.

Arnold went to Davenport for a physical examination. From there he will go to Fort Riley, Kans. for assignment.

China Wants Peace, Stability

New Student Tells Of Chinese Attitude

Most Chinese people want peace and a stable life—and they don't care what form of government achieves that end.

At least that's what Pei Wei Cheng thinks.

Cheng arrived in Iowa City Sunday afternoon, 30 days after leaving Shanghai. He will begin graduate study in journalism at SUI next week.

"The majority of the people have no political feelings," said Cheng yesterday. "All they want is peace and a stable life."

Sick of War
"China is sick of war. The Chinese won't be too disappointed if the Communists take over. The Nationalist soldiers are tired of fighting and morale is low."

Cheng said Madame Chiang Kai-Shek's failure to obtain military aid from the United States did not prove disappointing to the Chinese.

"The Chinese would have appreciated food more than arms anyway."

He said most Chinese are not afraid of the Communists.

"Those that hear the Communists are the land-holders. They are afraid that the Communists will enforce a policy of equalized property holdings."

He was non-committal on whether China would be better off without Chiang Kai-Shek, but he said China experienced little progress when Chiang was in power.

Ran Traffic Restored
"The general feeling in China is that some changes may result when the Communists rise to power. Factories in north east China which were idle in government hands are now open and rail traffic in that section has been restored since the Communists moved in."

Cheng's wife, Szu-tung Gao, will also enter SUI for graduate study in voice. She was graduated from Ginling college, Nanking, in 1947.

Cheng received a bachelor of arts in English at Nanking university in 1946.

A MONTH AWAY FROM NANKING. Pei-wei Cheng, 28, and his wife Szu-tung Gao, 25, enjoy a cup of Chinese tea and peace and quiet as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick Yu, SUI students living at 106 Fairchild street. The Chengs arrived here Sunday after leaving Nanking early in December.

O'Connor Seeks Judgeship

Iowa City Attorney Edward L. O'Connor, former state attorney general, is among the prominent Iowa Democrats being recommended for appointment to the federal judgeship in southern Iowa.

Johnson county Democratic chairman Edward W. Lucas said last night that O'Connor has his support and that "I think all local Democrats are supporting him." He said no official action has been taken by the county committee.

Lucas said O'Connor was "for Truman all the way" during the fall presidential campaign, and it is only natural that local Democrats would support him. He said Senator Gillette has not yet stated a preference for any of the possible appointees.

O'Connor said he would like to get the appointment and that he has been "receiving support from judges . . . before whom I have tried lawsuits."

Speculation about a successor to Judge Charles A. Dewey, 71, Des Moines, arose from the judge's announcement last week that he had asked President Truman's permission to retire from the $15,000 a year job on March 1.

Other men being supported for the appointment by various state Democrats include Carroll Switzer of Des Moines, Democratic candidate for governor last fall; J. D. Reynolds, Democratic member of the state conservation commission; District Judge Glenn K. Kelly, and E. C. Hallbach, a Clinton county attorney.

O'Connor headed the Iowa committee dealing with veterans under the National Democratic Central committee last fall. He has been a practicing lawyer since 1920 and has been in Iowa City most of that time.

Senate Passes Bill To Extend Division Of Scarce Materials

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill to continue for seven months a program of voluntary agreements by industry for dividing up steel and other scarce materials was passed by the senate yesterday.

The program is contained in a law passed by the 80th congress, under Republican leadership. The Truman administration moved to extend it temporarily pending action on its own program. The President has asked congress for materials to essential uses, where necessary.

The extension measure now goes to the house, where it is slated for debate tomorrow.

During yesterday's senate debate, Republicans gleefully ribbed Democrats because the first of the administration's anti-inflation bills called for a new lease on life for a Republican law.

The extension was approved on voice vote after the administration had beaten back, 48 to 31, a Republican proposal to extend the voluntary controls for 13 months.

The longer extension was proposed by Senator Bricker (R-Ohio) in an obvious effort to take the steam out of any later drive for compulsory controls. Bricker was beaten on a vote that largely followed party lines. Senators Langer (R-Ind.) and Morse (R-Ore.) joined with 46 Democrats to oppose the Bricker amendment. The present law, unless extended, expires Feb. 28.

General Phonetics to Be Offered Next Semester

One of the new courses being offered at SUI next semester will be "General Phonetics" under the instruction of Prof. Erich Funke, head of the German department.

Funke yesterday said the course would stress the practical use of experimental equipment in the study of phonetics in at least six languages besides German.

This course was previously reported as "General Semantics."

First Law Student at Oklahoma's Langston U.

OUT OF A SUPREME COURT ORDER of last year came the creation of Oklahoma's Langston University Law school to provide equal and immediate educational opportunity for Negroes. First student, T. M. Roberts, 34, a waiter, is shown with his instructor, Dean Jerome Henry (right). The school, which has been open for a year, has three instructors. It holds classes at the state capitol, Oklahoma City.

Communists Suffer New Trial Setback

NEW YORK (AP)—Counsel for U.S. Communist leaders suffered a new setback yesterday in their effort to get federal Judge Harold R. Medina to disqualify himself from hearing their challenge to the federal jury-picking system.

For the fifth time since the conspiracy trial opened Jan. 17, Medina denied a motion that he disqualify himself and all other jurors in the district from hearing the challenge. The motion had been pending since last week. The defense contends that the method of selecting jury panels discriminate against the poor and members of minority groups and in favor of the rich.

Therefore, they argue, the indictment against the 11 Communists, all members of the American party's national committee, should be voided.

District Court Grants Local Woman Divorce

Hattie Herdlicka, 314 First street, yesterday was granted a divorce by default in Johnson county district court from Walter Herdlicka.

She was awarded her household furniture and personal belongings.

Roland Smith Gives 1949 Program for Iowa City C. of C.

Roland Smith, Iowa City Chamber of Commerce president, told chamber members last night at their annual meeting that as long as there is any difference between what Iowa City is and what they would want it to be, there is work for the chamber.

Smith, who received the gavel of leadership from Robert H. Lind, 1948 president, outlined the 1949 program in his speech following acceptance of the token of leadership. His talk highlighted the program attended by 125 members in Hotel Jefferson.

Bond Issue Needed
Dan Dutcher, head of the community parking committee, told the members in an address describing parking problems, that Iowa City needs a bond issue of $300,000 to solve its parking problems. He added that the reserve fund obtained from parking meter collections is enough to finance such a project.

Dutcher said that some friction has developed as a result of attempts of his committee to provide a solution for Iowa City's biggest problem — parking.

"Whatever friction has developed is a result of our failure to get our story across to the public," he said.

Dutcher plans an expanded program of education and publicity next year.

Robert Gage, chamber secretary, reported the chamber spent $13,955.72 last year. This year's budget calls for an outlay of $16,500, according to Gage.
