They Dared Him — Warm, He Slept Out

Because he likes fresh air and his roommates don't, at least in large quantities, Eugene Coon, A3, Des Moines, slept outdoors in 15 below temperatures Tuesday night. Coon's venture into the cold, cruel night was the result of an argument with his roommates over how warm their cottage behind South Quadrangle should be at night.

Old Argument

The argument was one of long standing and the climax came Tuesday night when Coon's roommates suggested that if he wanted so much fresh air he could sleep outdoors.

"Okay, I will," he replied.

With his bed, six blankets, and a sweatshirt, Coon retired. The heavens and all of the great outdoors formed his bed chamber.

By daylight he had supplemented his sleeping attire and equipment with four pairs of army socks, another sweater, a pair of trousers, and a blanket to wrap around his feet.

Hard Breathing

"I was warm enough after that, but it was a little hard to breathe and I woke up tired from the weight of the blankets," Coon said, describing his siesta.

By the time he had enough blankets to keep him warm, he had appropriated almost every extra one in the cottage. "I probably won't do it again," he said, "because the fellows will want their blankets back."

Because of the cold, Coon had to keep his head under the blankets, and "it got a little stuffy," by his account. A single blanket over his head "to filter the air" didn't work too well and he was forced to pull over more.

Up at 8

Sunlight awakened Coon about 6:30 a. m. yesterday, but "I didn't get up 'til about 8 o'clock," he said.

"There was a coating of frost on the top blanket where my breath had moistened it."

Coon's roommates said they would "consider his crusade" and perhaps allow him a little more fresh air in the cottage, "if he would sleep outside the rest of the week."

"I don't think it would be worth the trouble, so I probably won't do it," Coon said.

112 Killed in West By Jan. Weather

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Severe weather during January in the western half of the nation caused at least 112 deaths, possibly $50-million in damage to fruit and vegetable crops and untold millions of dollars in property damage, a survey showed yesterday.

Back in Washington from a tour of the blizzard-stricken areas, Assistant Army Secretary Gordon Gray said the "real danger" lies in possible new storms. Gray told newsmen state officials in Wyoming and South Dakota "are all most certain they will have some more bad weather."

The January blizzards, bringing one of the most damaging midwinters in history to western states, accounted for the principal damage.

Storms damage to personal property, transportation and communication equipment has not been determined. The livestock loss probably will not be known until spring.

Collision of B-25s Kills 2, Injures 5

SHREVEPORT, LA. (AP) — Two B-25 aircraft bombers collided in the air yesterday, killing two men and injuring five others.

First Lt. John W. Hassard, Barksdale field public relations officer, said one plane exploded and disintegrated while the other crashed into a field and was buried in the mud.

The injured parachuted before the explosion and crash, he said. The planes collided at about 4,000 feet while practicing simulated instrument flying about five miles southeast of Shreveport. One plane was from the instrument school and the other from the advanced pilot school.

Names of the dead and injured were not immediately known.

Nature Boy Has Nothing on Him

HE REALLY DID IT! After an argument with his cottage-mates over fresh air, Eugene Coon, A3, Des Moines, moved outdoors Tuesday night (temperature: 15 below) for his sleep. Coon started out as pictured above, later added six blankets, a pair of trousers, sweatshirt, sweater and four pairs of socks.

New Try in Rail Dispute

Fact-Finders Reconvening

CHICAGO (AP) — The nation's railroads and 16 unions yesterday asked members of a presidential fact-finding board to reconvene to help them settle their wage-hour dispute, and the members agreed to come here Monday.

The move was unprecedented under railway labor laws, but negotiators emphasized they were recalling the board as "individuals."

The move appeared to forestall any threat of a nation-wide strike by one million non-operating railroad employees represented by the unions.

No Agreement

The disputants earlier announced that in negotiations since Jan. 5 they were unable to reach an agreement on their own, and wanted the board to "clarify" some of its previous recommendations.

However, both sides said they were reserving the right to accept or reject any new views of the board in the dispute.

G. E. Leighty, chief negotiator for the unions, said the board members "will meet as individuals outside of the railway labor laws."

Leighty said the unions hoped for a "meeting of minds" in the dispute.

Private Citizens

A railroad spokesman also said the board members would be acting as "private citizens to come and tell how points over which the unions and carriers have been haggling should be interpreted and how they feel these items should be put into practice."

The points in dispute between the rails and unions were not revealed.

The board, appointed by President Truman last October, originally recommended a seven-cent hourly pay raise for the workers and a cutback in the work week from 48 to 40 hours. These proposals were used as the basis for renewed negotiations Jan. 5.

Bankrupt Strip Teaser Files Petition in Court

NEW YORK (AP) — Georgia Sothorn, night club strip tease dancer, said yesterday she had "no assets whatsoever" except $100 worth of clothing and $7 in a bank account.

In a bankruptcy petition filed in federal court, Miss Sothorn added that her debts total $7,806.

Canadian Plane Crashes In Trinity Bay, 6 Dead

RIMOUSKI, QUE. (AP) — A St. Lawrence airways plane crashed near Trinity Bay early last night killing the pilot and five of the nine passengers.

Four surviving passengers were brought to a hospital here. Two were said to be in critical condition.

His Truck Became Well Trained

DES MOINES (AP) — George R. Jordan, 36, Ankeny truck driver, was hit by two trains yesterday but wasn't hurt.

A Burlington passenger train hit the rear end of Jordan's truck at a Des Moines crossing. The truck spun around and hit the side of a moving switch engine on another track.

The switch engine knocked the truck back onto the street and it wound up still upright but headed in the opposite direction.

Tariff Bill Progressing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats overwhelmed Republicans yesterday to ram through a house committee, 17 to 8, a bill restoring full powers to President Truman to slash tariffs in return for trade concessions from foreign nations.

The bill, as OK'd by the ways and means committee, repeals the GOP tariff act of 1948, which restricted the president's power. It revives, until June 12, 1951, all the authority of the old reciprocal trade law, passed under the New Deal.

President Truman specifically requested the legislation. He said the Republican act puts hobbles on the negotiation of trade pacts that are needed to promote world commerce and peace.

On the vote 15 Democrats were joined in support of the bill by two Republicans — Reps. Kean of New Jersey and Holmes of Washington. Opposing were eight Republicans. Republican efforts to amend the legislation were beaten down on straight 15 to 10 party line votes.

The committee action sent the measure to the house floor.

Julius Appreciates Grinnell Hospitality

GRINNELL — "Come back again sometime, Julius!"

"That invitation might well express the sentiment of Grinnell residents toward Julius Weiss of Chicago."

Weiss graduated from college here Saturday, but before he left for home he bought an "ad" in the local newspaper which brought a glow of satisfaction from residents here.

His ad appeared Monday. It read:

"APPRECIATION: I would like to take this opportunity to thank the townspeople of Grinnell for helping make my stay at college a pleasant one. I appreciate the interest shown. — Julius Weiss."

SUI Students Get Invitation To Minnesota

A reciprocal invitation for 50 SUI student representatives to attend the Iowa-Minnesota basketball game Feb. 12 will be discussed at a special meeting of the Student Council at 4:30 p. m. tomorrow in the house chamber of Old Capitol.

Council President Evan L. Hultman said yesterday he has received a letter from George S. Arneson, president of the Minnesota All-University congress, inviting 50 SUI representatives to be Minnesota's guests at the game.

The invitation parallels the "good will" gesture made to Minnesota students who were SUI council's guests at the Iowa-Minnesota basketball game here Jan. 17.

"We hope we will be able to partially repay you for the fine time that was shown the Minnesota students at Iowa City," Arneson said in his letter.

Referring to the improved relations between the two schools, Arneson said, "The feeling here is that your kind invitation and reception has cleared much of the air, and we hope possibly we can completely kill off the strained relations that arose due to this past fall's football game."

Hultman, commenting on the letter, said, "This is an honest good will gesture on the part of Minnesota to better relations between the two schools. This is an exchange of ideas instead of skills where students from neighboring schools are treated as guests instead of athletic rivals."

Hultman said all Student Council members and representatives from campus housing units and student groups will be asked to attend the meeting. The group will consider the invitation and will make the necessary arrangements for the trip if the invitation is accepted, he said.

See Brief Relief; Then More Cold

Relief from the current cold snap was forecast for Iowa Citizens today. Cloudy skies and rising temperatures are predicted, with possible light snow or rain. Temperatures expected to rise as high as 30 degrees here during the day promise some relief from the ice and snow, but a possible 15 below is predicted for late tonight.

A low of 15 degrees below zero was recorded in Iowa City early yesterday, with a high of 17 above at 10 p. m. last night.

What Shadow? Bring on the Ice Cream!

THIS GROUNDHOG SAW HIS SHADOW yesterday (meaning six more weeks of winter) but that wasn't his real reason for coming out in the open. His name is Chuck and he lives in the Columbus, Ohio, zoo. He's an ice cream fiend and the offer of a cone yesterday was more than Chuck could resist. Zoo Superintendent Earl Davis says Chuck once ate 20 ice cream bars in one day.

Clark Says President Could Enjoin Strikers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney General Clark said last night the President probably has the power to obtain a court order to halt a national emergency strike even without specific authority from congress to do so.

Chairman Elbert Thomas (D-Utah) read a letter from Clark at a night session of the senate labor committee, which is considering the administration's proposed substitute for the Taft-Hartley labor act.

The attorney general said the President has "exceedingly great inherent power to deal with emergencies affecting health, welfare and safety."

"It is my belief that, in appropriate circumstances, the United States would have access to its own courts to protect the national health, safety and welfare," Clark wrote.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) promptly took sharp issue. "I disagree with the attorney general and think he is certainly wrong," Taft declared.

"I don't know of any inherent right of the President to get injunctions in a national emergency. If you want to do that, you ought to say so in so many words. You ought to say it in clear law."

Thomas read Clark's letter as Secretary of Labor Tobin testified against the Taft-Hartley act and in favor of the administration's proposed measure.

The proposed bill contains no authority to get injunctions in emergency disputes. The 80-day injunctions of the Taft-Hartley law would be thrown out.

Earth-Shaking Incident Just a College Spider

NEW YORK (AP) — It looked like a violent earthquake, the way City college's instrument jiggled, but it was only a spider in the seismograph.

Investigation of the incident, college officials said yesterday, showed the spider had jumped on the sensitive pendulum and caused the seismograph to register a violent earthquake-like reaction. It then spun a web and stopped the recording apparatus entirely.

Lohengrin Echoes Down Hospital Halls as —

Mom Hears Daughter's Wedding

Mrs. Francis Miltner, Solon, couldn't see her daughter's marriage but had the next best thing — a wire recording of the complete ceremony played at her bedside at Mercy hospital.

Recuperating from a recent operation, Mrs. Miltner was confined to the hospital and unable to attend the marriage of her daughter, Geraldine, to Jack E. Lynch at St. Mary's church Tuesday morning.

"I could almost see them. It was so clear," Mrs. Miltner said in describing the recording.

"It was just like I was right there," she added. "The music was perfect, just lovely, and I could even hear the 'I will's,' even though they were a little weak." After the marriage performed by the Rev. Carl Clems, the bridesmaids, ushers, guests and the newly betrothed couple took the four-hour recording to Geraldine's mother.

Included on the record were interviews of the bridesmaids and bride shortly before the wedding. "My daughter said in the recording that she was just as cool as a cucumber, but she didn't sound like it," Mrs. Miltner said.

Mrs. Miltner was admitted to Mercy hospital Dec. 30 and learned three weeks ago that the operation she underwent would prevent her from being present at her daughter's wedding. Geraldine was the last of four Miltner children to be married.

"I was disappointed but it was wonderful hearing it," Mrs. Miltner said.

Reply Given To Russians By Acheson

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States yesterday rejected Premier Stalin's bid for a "peace" talk with President Truman behind the iron curtain.

The new secretary of state, Dean Acheson, stated the U.S. position emphatically at a news conference, in which he indirectly accused the Soviet leader of playing politics with peace hopes of hundreds of millions of people.

Acheson blasted the Russian leadership on the ground that it had consistently blocked all efforts in the United Nations looking toward disarmament, control of the atom bomb, and creation of a UN police force.

In Washington

The White House stood by its position that President Truman would be willing to see Stalin in Washington. But Acheson emphasized that, even in Washington, there would be no discussions which left other interested nations out in the cold.

Stalin claimed that his health would not permit him to travel abroad, so the matter apparently had reached a dead end.

Acheson came to his news conference primed to reply, in detail, to Stalin's latest moves — moves which many Washington officials regard as jockeying for an advantageous propaganda position in the cold war.

Answers Stalin

Referring to voluminous notes, Acheson replied point by point to statements Stalin made last Sunday in response to questions from an American news correspondent, Kingsbury Smith of the International News Service. Stalin followed up yesterday with a wire to Smith bidding for a meeting with Truman in Russia, Poland or Czechoslovakia.

The substance of Stalin's statements Sunday was that he would be prepared to consider joint issuance of a "peace declaration" with the United States, that he had no objection to a meeting with President Truman, that the United States would cooperate with the United States in disarmament under such a "pact of peace" and that the Berlin blockade would be lifted on certain conditions.

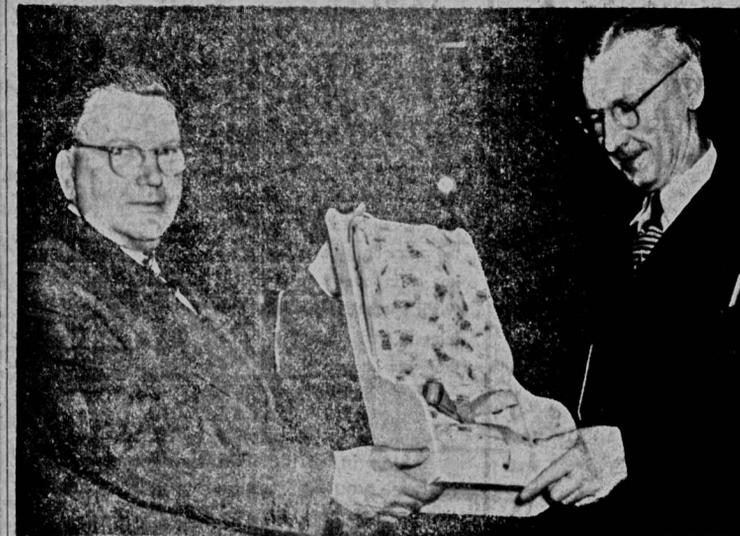

In reply Acheson made two major points:

1. He asserted that the United States would "not discuss with any nation any matter of direct interest to other nations without the participation of the representatives of those other nations."

This ruled out any direct Truman-Stalin meeting on any of the great issues of the cold war, since all of them involve the interests of other nations.

2. As for a "peace" declaration, Acheson said he found this suggestion "puzzling." Russia, the United States and all other UN members are all already pledged "by most solemn treaty commitments not to engage in war with one another," he said.

Iowa City's Mercer Presents an Unusual Gift

IOWA CITY'S STATE SENATOR LEROY MERCER (D) (left) presented this gift to Sen. Robert C. Reilly, Dubuque, yesterday, for use sometime in the future. Reilly became a father the day the state legislature convened. The gift is a chair, donated by Paul McGinn of Des Moines, and presented to assure Reilly's young son a place to sit when he grows up a little more.

Gopher Stars Lead Big Nine Scoring Race

CHICAGO (AP)—Jim McIntyre and "Whitey" Skoog of Minnesota's first-place Gophers have reduced the Big Nine basketball scoring race to a two-man affair.

McIntyre's 26 points against Northwestern Monday night slipped him into the conference lead with a 112-point total. Skoog, held to 13 points the last two games, has a 111 total.

Each has scored 43 field goals in their seven games. Forward Skoog has made one less free throw than Center McIntyre. But his .833 percentage marks him as the league's deadliest shot.

Skoog passed up Purdue's Howie Williams, who has slipped to .815, but who rated third in total scoring with a 104-point record.

Ohio's Bob Radtger ranks fourth with 88 points in six games, and his teammate, Dick Schnittker, is fifth with 75 for four games. The next five are Andrew Butchko, Purdue, 70; Ray Ragelis, Northwestern, 66; Bob Donham, Ohio, 64, and Don Rehfeldt, Wisconsin, and Bill Berberian, Purdue, each 63.

The conference is loaded with good floor-shooters, eight of the top 15 having better than a .300 average. Schnittker leads the field with .421, and McIntyre is second with .371.

The Gophers have the best team average, hitting .338 per cent of their shots. Ohio State is second with .313, Purdue third with .271, Northwestern fourth with .255, and Illinois fifth with .254.

Virginia Cager Tops All Scorers; Ohio's Dick Schnittker 3rd

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Noertker of the University of Virginia, who hasn't scored a point in the last two weeks, was installed again yesterday as the top scorer among the major college basketball teams.

It was a case of backing into the top slot, which Noertker temporarily lost to Tony Lavelli of Yale last week and the credit goes to Dartmouth's doughy defense.

Here's the way it happened: Noertker and his Virginia Cavaliers still were busy with mid-term examinations last week. Lavelli and Hale played only one game, defeating Dartmouth, 62 to 41. In that one game, Lavelli canned 16 points, but it wasn't enough to maintain his average of 22.2 points per game.

While Lavelli's average dipped to 21.8, Noertker found himself back on top with his flat percentage of 22 points per game. Noertker's average was based on 107 field goals, 115 free tosses and 349 points, including games played Jan. 29.

Dick Schnittker of Ohio State maintained third place with an average of 20.5 points, based on 75 field goals and 55 free throws.

Chet Giermak of William and Mary still was the prolific point-pourer. Giermak boasted 408 points, but spread over 20 games it left him with only a 20.4 average and fourth place.

FEATURE OF THE IOWA-PURDUE TANK MEET in the fieldhouse Monday will be the 100-yard free style duel between Iowa's Olympic Champion Wally Ris (above) and the Boilermaker's Keith Carter (left). When the two sprint aces square off in the Hawk's new 75-foot course, Carter will be seeking to snap Ris' unbeaten string for the distance.

Ben Hogan Hurt in Collision; Doctors Say He'll Play Again

EL PASO (AP)—Ben Hogan, king of the golfers, suffered a fractured pelvis, broken collar bone, and possible fracture of a rib in an auto-bus collision yesterday.

His injuries were enumerated in an official bulletin issued by physicians last night. The physicians expressed confidence that Hogan would be able to play golf again, but would not venture a guess as to when.

The bulletin said Hogan was out of shock and much improved.

It listed his condition as "fair." The links bantam, leading money winner of the nation, was hurt in the collision of his automobile and a bus near Van Horn, Tex., 200 miles southeast of here, yesterday morning.

They call Ben's little giant. His links magic brought him the National Open and National PGA titles last year.

The little guy's wife, Valerie, said his injuries might have been worse had he not thrown himself across her to protect her. This got him out of the way of their 1949 Cadillac's steering wheel, which was jammed back into the driver's seat.

Ben was conscious but "suffering from shock" when he was brought to the hotel Dieu, an El Paso hospital, by ambulance from Van Horn.

Hogan, last year voted "Golfer of the Year" by the PGA, resides in Fort Worth, although he plays golf out of Hershey, Pa.

Mrs. Hogan said she saw an approaching bus, traveling the opposite direction from their car, start to pass a truck shortly before the accident. Her husband tried to avoid a collision but could not because of a culvert, she recounted, and the two vehicles met squarely. None of the bus passengers was injured.

Yanks Sixth Big League Club to Sign Negro

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees yesterday signed their first Negro baseball player—Outfielder Luis Marquez of the Baltimore Elite Giants—and became the sixth major league club to hire a Negro athlete.

Marquez, 23-year-old center-fielder, is hitting "about 330" with the Aquadilla club of the Puerto Rican winter league. He will report to the Newark Bears, a Yankee farm, next month at their Haines City, Fla., spring training base.

Negotiations are almost completed by the Yanks for another Negro star, Artie Wilson, 28-year-old shortstop-manager of the leading Mayaguez team of the Puerto Rican league. The Birmingham Black Barons own his contract.

Since Branch Rickey of the Brooklyn Dodgers broke baseball's unwritten law by signing Jackie Robinson for Montreal in 1946, the other club owners have followed his lead. The New York Giants, Boston Braves, Cleveland, Brooklyn and Yankees now employ colored players.

Preps Gird for Tournaments

Iowa high school basketball teams will go into the last two weeks of competition next week in preparation for state tournament play which will begin with 96 sectionals, Feb. 21.

Pairings were announced yesterday for the first round of tournaments which will, in four weeks, narrow a field of some 378 prep cage teams down to that last one—the state champ.

Manning, last year's prep king, will begin defense of its title Feb. 22 when the Bulldogs square off against Dunlap at Denison.

The state's 40 largest schools will bypass the sectional tournaments and will have their first test in 20 of the 24 district meets. Each of these schools will play one contest with the winner qualifying for the sub-state tournament.

Two of the 40 class "A" schools are the Iowa City Little Hawks and the Davenport Blue Devils. These two prep powerhouses will level their scoring guns at each other for the second time this year Friday night in the Little Hawk gym. Last December Iowa City topped Davenport on the Blue Devil floor.

The first of the Iowa City fives to go into action in the sectional meets is St. Patrick's. The Irish take the floor against Stanwood in the Tipton high school gym Feb. 21.

On Feb. 22, St. Mary's of Iowa City will battle Mechanicsville while University high's Blue Hawks must wait until Feb. 25 to play the Tipton quintet in a class A sectional engagement at Tipton.

Other tournament finalists last year who may return this year to seek top laurels are Ankeny, Ottumwa, Carroll, Sioux Center, Ames, Boone and Loras (Dubuque).

According to the latest Associated Press poll, Iowa City and Mason City are the two strongest clubs in the state. Both the Hawks and Mason City are sitting comfortably at the top of their respective sections.

The Little Hawks, with 100 points, are 20 points in front of the runner-up Blue Devils, with Ottumwa in the third place spot with 48. In the northeast, the poll shows Mason City ahead with 70 points.

The other two sections are a close race with the widest margin held by Thomas Jefferson of Council Bluffs leading Shenandoah by three votes. In the northwest, Alta was voted a slim margin over its closest rival, Albert City.

When the smoke clears away from the sectional meets, the 96 class B survivors and 80 remaining class A teams will be assigned to 24 districts which begin Feb. 23.

The winners of the districts will vie for berths in the sub-state tournaments which start March 7. The victors in the sub-state will journey to Iowa City to participate in the state finals beginning March 15.

This year the state finals will be played over a period of five days instead of four as was done last year.

No season tickets for the state finals will be sold, but those who request tickets for all sessions will be given preference, according to the Iowa High School Athletic association.

The total attendance of 374,029 for last year's state series of tournaments is expected to be broken this year.

Already the tournament fever has hit Iowa City. The largest hotel in town is completely sold out for the five days of final play here. Preparations have been made to house 500 non-competing high school cagers in the fieldhouse.

Majors List Many Holdouts

NEW YORK (AP)—It comes as no great surprise to learn that these lush times in baseball brought about by an abundance of cash in sports' fans pocket-books, have produced nearly two dozen known holdouts.

All are eager for a bit of that ready money poured into the pockets of the big league club owners by last year's record turnouts which passed the 21-million figure.

Holdout is a word abhorred by the owners. They contend that a player is not a holdout unless he fails to report to spring training.

Be that as it may, the fact remains there are at least 20 grumbling and dissatisfied athletes getting more money than the amount offered by their respective bosses.

The most publicized are, of course, Joe DiMaggio of the New York Yankees and Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians. When Joe and Bob finally come to terms, as they eventually will, they undoubtedly will rank among the highest salaried men in the game.

Three other Cleveland stars, besides Feller, said "nix" to salary proposals for 1949. Pitchers Bob Lemon and Gene Bearden and Third Baseman Ken Keltner returned unsigned contracts, all demanding around $20,000.

Although no official statements have been issued, it is known that Larry Doby, Dale Mitchell and Jim Hegan, among others, have not yet come to terms.

The New York Giants have three stubborn holdouts, headed by Captain Walker Cooper. The Giant catcher is balking over a maximum 25 percent slash from his $30,000 contract of 1948 and threatens to stay away until an adjustment is made. The other two are Pitchers Andy Hansen and Clint Hartung.

Detroit's holdout brigade is led by Pieher Freddie Hutchinson. Hutch returned a pact calling for the same $18,000 salary he received last year.

Dom DiMaggio, fleet-footed centerfielder of the Boston Red Sox wants more money. So do Don Kolloway, Chicago White Sox infielder; Del Ennis, Philadelphia Philly fly-chaser, and Phil Marchildon, Philadelphia Athletics righthander.

DeWitts Purchase St. Louis Browns

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A pair of brothers who once sold peanuts at Sportsman's park—Bill and Charlie DeWitt—purchased controlling interest in the St. Louis Browns yesterday.

The DeWitts announced at a press conference last night that they bought the 56 per cent of the Brownie stock which President Richard C. Muckerman owned. The DeWitts held two per cent themselves.

No official sale price was announced, but it is believed that they paid close to $1-million for the stock.

The DeWitts were born in St. Louis, not too far from Sportsman's park, which they acquired with the Browns. Their first job in baseball was selling peanuts at the park 35 years ago.

When they announced the purchase the DeWitts declared: "As long as we have anything to say about them the Browns will stay in St. Louis."

He stated that they plan no changes in personnel. In their statements the DeWitts added: "We are in this by ourselves. We have no backers."

In a written statement, Muckerman said he sold his interests in the American league club because he wanted to devote "all of my time and attention to the City Ice and Fuel company, of which I am executive vice-president."

Muckerman bought into the Browns in 1942, and came in controlling possession in 1946. Under the new setup, Charley said, Bill, who is 46, will be president, and Charley, 44, will be vice-president. Bill has been general manager of the American league club and Charley has been traveling secretary. Muckerman has been president.

This is the second change in ownership of a St. Louis major league club in six days. Last Thursday Fred M. Saigh, Jr., bought out Robert C. Hannegan's interest in the St. Louis Cardinals. Saigh is now president with 99 per cent of the Redbird stock.

Allow Christopher One More Season

CLEVELAND (AP)—Lanky Russ Christopher can pitch one more season for the Cleveland Indians but he'll have to take it easy because of a bad heart, the Tribe management said last night.

For Christopher, the world champions said, that will mean: pitching only a few innings in any one game; skipping spring training; physical checkups every six weeks by specialists hired by the club, no "violent exercise."

Christopher's physician said there was no doubt the 31-year-old relief hurler had an enlarged heart as the result of a childhood case of rheumatic fever. But he also said it would be all right for him to pitch one more season—but no more—providing he went slowly.

Koo Leaves SUI on Tour; Will Lecture in Seven States

T. Z. Koo, who is completing a semester as guest professor in the SUI school of religion, will leave Iowa City today to begin a four-month lecture tour of American universities.

The Chinese educator said yesterday he and Mrs. Koo will go to Kentucky State college at Frankfort, Ky., from here. After one week there, and until next June, Koo will lecture at colleges and universities in Florida, Oklahoma, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Arkansas, Texas and New Mexico.

Koo said he will spend an average of about a week at each school. The lecture tour is sponsored by the Federal Council of Churches.

Completes Tour in June
Completing the tour in June, Koo said he and Mrs. Koo will then rest "awhile" and "perhaps return to China," depending on the situation in China next summer.

During the last semester, Koo has taught Chinese Culture at SUI, Coe college in Cedar Rapids and Cornell college in Mt. Vernon.

While her husband has been busy teaching and giving lectures to Iowa City groups, Mrs. Koo has taken a cooking course in the SUI home economics department.

Makes American Pies
She learned to make American pies which, Koo said, "were a little harder than the pies we get in shops." Mrs. Koo protested that her pies "were fine" and that her husband was only teasing.

Mrs. Koo says she "isn't brave enough to take the final examination" in the cooking course. She added that she had taken the midsemester examination and declared, "I was actually worried about it." It was the first examination she had taken in 40 years. The couple said they were "very happy" about their experiences in Iowa City and their work at SUI.

Police Report $272 Damages in Three Collisions Tuesday

Three traffic accidents Tuesday caused a total of $272 estimated damage, according to Iowa City police reports.

An accident at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday occurred on West Washington street on Engineering hill. Drivers involved were Oran Kennel, taxi-cab driver, and Fred Ruppert, 444 Wales street.

Kennel estimated $2 damage to his rear bumper and $100 damage to the car driven by Ruppert.

A second accident occurred on Iowa avenue near Johnson street at 2 p.m. Tuesday. Miss Donna Marie Holland, SUI student from Boone, and Ken Thomson, 515 E. Washington street, were drivers of the cars involved. Miss Holland estimated $80 damage to the car she was driving.

Robert Long of near Solon, and R. J. Collins, 1304 Kirkwood avenue, were driving cars involved in an accident on Grand avenue at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday. Long estimated $90 damage to the car he was driving. No estimate of damage to the car driven by Collins was reported.

Earl Harper to Attend Annual Careers Meet

Earl E. Harper, director of the school of fine arts, will attend the 15th Annual Careers conference, Feb. 9, at Carleton College, Northfield, Minn.

He will speak and consult with students on the various fields in fine arts as a professional career.

SUI Students 'Suffer' Anticipation, Suspense

HEY, WHAT'S THE ATTRACTION HERE? H. Vernon Price, associate professor of math, was practically mowed down by students yesterday afternoon on a third floor hallway of the physics building. Several hundred students pushed and shoved their way toward Price. They weren't attacking the professor; they were just eager to see if they passed math skills. Price, who got a bit bushed by it all, was just posting the alphabetical grade lists.

History Dept. Gets Fellowship Offers Valued at $20,000

Offers for advanced study worth more than $20,000 were made to SUI students yesterday in bulletins received by the history office.

The offers came from Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Columbia university.

MIT is offering $1,500 fellowships to 12 students working for doctorates of philosophy in economic analysis, and industrial economics or relations. These may be renewed after the first year.

In the same fields MIT has fellowships worth $2,500 each from the Westinghouse Educational foundation and the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company.

Other MIT offers include a $2,500 fellowship for an outstanding student of economic theory and several teaching fellowships and scholarships worth up to $800.

A bachelor's degree is necessary to qualify for any of these offers. Deadline for applications is March 15, 1949.

Columbia is making several offers worth $600 to $1,500 to students studying for the degree of master of international affairs. No deadline was set for applications but study begins Sept. 26, 1949.

Vacancies in Army For 18-Year-Olds

The Iowa City recruiting office has eight vacancies for 18-year-olds who wish to enlist in the army and airforce for one year, Sgt. O.A. McClung, recruiting officer, said yesterday.

McClung said that all three-year enlistments were filled for the airforce until Feb. 18, but that there are two openings in the one-year class for airforce unassigned. There are also six vacancies, unassigned, for 18-year-olds in other sections of the army.

SUI Gets Student Trust Fund

A $2,000 trust fund in honor of Lt. Col. Zedford W. Burriss, SUI alumnus who died on Guam Oct. 9, 1944, has been received by SUI. Authorization to accept the fund was granted recently by the finance committee of the state board of education.

The fund, to be known as the Lt. Col. Zedford W. Burriss Memorial fund, will be used for loans to students in advanced ROTC at the university. Students applying for loans from the fund must be recommended by their commanding officer. In addition, they must meet the scholastic requirements of the committee of student aid and have its approval. Only juniors, seniors or graduate students are eligible for loans from the fund.

Burriss entered SUI in the fall of 1933 and was graduated in 1937. In his senior year he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic society, and was named cadet colonel of the troops at the university.

Burriss joined the Marine corps after his graduation. He served for three years in the corps seeing service on Guadalcanal, Rendova, Munda, Bougainville, Pearl Harbor and Guam.

Burriss received several awards, including the Legion of Honor with the Presidential Citation. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. John A. Burriss of Des Moines.

Pox, Mumps Show Slight Gains Here

Contagious disease in Iowa City showed a trend upward in the last two weeks.

Chicken pox was the greatest gainer with 19 new cases as compared to 22 in the first three weeks of the year. Two new cases of mumps showed an increase over the one case listed during the first three weeks of the year. There was only one case of measles during the last two weeks compared to two cases in early January.

The same two-week period a year ago listed 22 cases of chicken pox, six cases of measles and four cases of mumps.

EARTHQUAKE REGISTERED

BERKELEY, CALIF. (AP) — A moderate earthquake was registered at the University of California seismograph at 11:48.32 a.m., CST., yesterday.

Thompson, Smith To Attend Annual Sales Conference

Professors C. Woody Thompson and Wendell R. Smith, SUI college of commerce, will attend the third annual Davenport sales clinic tomorrow.

A number of local businessmen are also planning to attend. Robert Gage, Iowa City chamber of commerce secretary, said yesterday.

The clinic, sponsored by the sales manager's bureau of the Davenport chamber of commerce, will be held in the Blackhawk hotel. Theme of the clinic is "In '49—You'll Sell or Decline." It is designed to aid businessmen in meeting the problems of the buyer's market which shows signs of becoming a reality.

Alfred Schindler, chairman of the board of the national federation of sales executives, will be the main speaker. Six other men, active in marketing education or practice, are also on the program. Registration for the clinic will begin at 8:15 a.m. Friday in the Blackhawk hotel.

WSUI to Present New Radio Series

"Going Places," the first in the new series of Listen and Learn programs, will be presented over WSUI-KSUI Friday at 2:15 p.m.

Dave Stashower, WSUI announcer, will take the radio audience by wire recorder into the cab of the diesel locomotive on a Rock Island Rocket. From here, he will describe the trip between Iowa City and Des Moines and interview the engineer, Charles Stafford.

The series of programs is designed to supplement the curriculum in the rural school of Iowa. In weeks to come, students will be taken by radio behind the scenes of such places as the post office, telegraph office, movie theater and airport.

Two fifteen minute shows are broadcast every day Monday through Friday in the Listen and Learn series.

West Coast School Offers Grad Posts

The SUI sociology department has received information on additional graduate awards being offered by the State College of Washington, Pullman, Wash.

Half-time counseling assistantships are available there for graduate students in sociology, social work, education, psychology and related fields.

The assistantships are worth $1,200 the first year and $1,300 the second year. Students with masters degrees will receive an additional $100 each year.

Applications should be mailed by March 15, 1949. Winners of the awards will be announced shortly after that date.

Further information is available at the SUI sociology office, 212 University hall.

Mrs. Bye Resigns Position in League

Mrs. Howard Bye has resigned from the executive board of the League of Women Voters. As Republican candidate for mayor, Mrs. Bye is barred from participating actively on the board.

Her resignation does not mean that she is no longer a member of the league, however.

Mrs. Bye's former position was that of chairman of the committee on "Government in Operation." She will be succeeded as chairman by Miss Ruth Updegraff.

Haynes' Portrait on Exhibition at Union

The portrait of Professor E. Haynes, department of sociology, is being exhibited at the Iowa Union. He has been teaching at SUI since 1915.

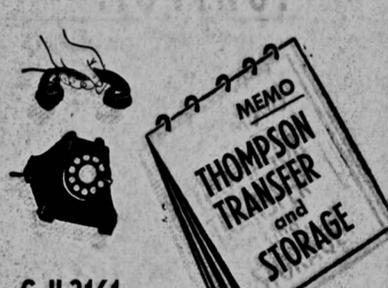

The artist, former SUI graduate student Shirley Briggs, is the daughter of Prof. John E. Briggs, department of political science. The painting was a gift to Haynes on his eightieth birthday in December.

Miss Briggs received her bachelor of arts degree in 1939 and her master's degree in fine arts in 1940. At present she is chief of graphics in the reclamation bureau of the department of interior in Washington.

Young Toddlers Do Their Springtime Shopping Early

Springtime and new clothes are synonymous, even to toddlers. This year the pre-school set will be smartly dressed in garments which emphasize color, comfort and washability, according to fashion forecasts.

Shopping early for additions to their spring and summertime wardrobes recently were Diane Carr, 4½, and "Ripper" Murry, 1½.

Diane is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Carr, 320 Finkbine park.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Murry, 208 Riverside park, are the parents of "Ripper," whose real name is Charles Jr. Clothes modeled by Diane and Ripper were by the courtesy of Aldens department store.

"DO I LOOK ALL RIGHT?" asks four-year old Diane Carr as she makes a last minute check on her appearance. With a red velvet jumper she wears a white cotton blouse. The jumper is fashioned with a fitted bodice, slightly flared skirt and a sash that ties in the back. Eyelet lace trims the Peter Pan collar of the blouse and edges the puffed sleeves.

"WHO DO YOU S'POSE THOSE OTHER FELLOWS ARE?" wanders tiny Ripper Murry. "They're all wavy, too." For playtime, Ripper wears a shorts-and-shirt outfit. Navy blue is the color of the boxer style shorts; cotton gabardine is the material. Gay plaid checks of blue, red, yellow and white contrast with the dark shorts. The outfit, cool and comfortable for summertime wear, is easily laundered, too—a fact which pleases Ripper's mother.

EVEN LOOKING AT A PICTURE BOOK CAN BE FUN. Ripper finds, with a girl like Diane to tell you about the three little kittens. Diane wears boxer style slacks of royal blue corduroy with her Donald Duck tee shirt. Ripper's tee shirt is red and gray and white stripes. Brown corduroy of his play suit matches Ripper's big brown eyes.

"JUST ONE MORE STEP," encourages Diane as she and Ripper start off, properly attired for Sunday school or a special birthday party. Diane wears a blue cotton dress with white eyelet trim and white edging on the duchess collar and sleeves. Ripper's toddler wash suit of pale yellow has a brown horse embroidered on the pocket.

"NINETY-NINE, A HUNDRED," counts Diane as her mother, Mrs. Don Carr, brushes her soft blonde hair. Especially practical is Diane's two-piece dress. When she attends pre-school she wears a starched white cotton blouse beneath the jumper. In summertime, the ruffled pinafore, of black and rose and green print, can be worn separately for cool comfort during play hours.

Last 'Family Night' Scheduled Tonight At Methodist Church

The last in a series of three "Family Night" programs will be held at the First Methodist church tonight at 6:15.

The meeting was not held last Thursday as planned due to bad weather conditions, the Rev. Robert B. Crocker, Wesley Foundation annex director, said yesterday.

Tonight's meeting will begin with a potluck supper, followed by group singing. After the singing, the adult group will divide for classes, the Rev. Mr. Crocker said.

Prof. Robert S. Michaelson of the SUI school of religion will teach a class on the 10 commandments as they relate to everyday life. The Rev. Robert R. Sanks, Wesley Foundation director, will teach a class on "Personalities of the Bible." The Rev. Mr. Crocker will conduct a class on "The Bible Comes to Life."

During the class periods for adults a nursery will be provided for children under six and a movie and short story program for older children, the Rev. Mr. Crocker said.

Another series of "Family Night" programs will be held during the Lenten season, the Rev. Mr. Crocker said.

Lutheran Society Reelects A. Drews

Albert Drews, 617 E. Brown street, was reelected to the executive committee of the Southeast Branch of the Lutheran Welfare Society of Iowa, at a meeting here recently.

Attending the meeting held in the First English Lutheran church here, were representatives from Cedar Rapids, Oxford Junction, West ranch and Iowa City.

Evelyn Yordi Weds Washington Man in Two Ring Ceremony

Evelyn Yordi became the bride of Elmer Sojka yesterday at 1 p.m. in St. Paul's Lutheran chapel.

Mrs. Sojka is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Yordi, Riverside. Mr. and Mrs. Yaro Sojka, Washington, are the parents of the bridegroom.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. J.F. Choltz. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Nadyne Sojka, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor.

Charles Yordi, Riverside, brother of the bride, was the best man.

A wedding reception was held at 4:30 p.m. in the Rose room of Hotel Jefferson. Following the reception the couple left on a short wedding trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Sojka plan to make their home on a farm near Riverside.

One Position Open On School Board

County Superintendent Frank J. Snider announced yesterday that only one position will be open on the five-man county school board this year.

Snider said the term of Joseph Paulus, route 6, will expire in March. Paulus is representative of area no. 4, which comprises East Lucas, Scott, Pleasant Valley, Lincoln and Fremont townships.

Snider warned that candidates for the position must file nomination papers 20 days before the Mar. 14 election.

Donations Total $894.30 For 'March of Dimes'

Collections from the "March of Dimes" donation boxes in Iowa City, totaled $894.30, Mrs. J. K. Schaaf, chairman of Johnson county, announced yesterday.

In addition personal contributions amounting to $21.25 were received by the chairman, bringing the new total for Johnson county to $1,768.90.

Donation boxes were collected in Iowa City by the Women of the Moose; the chairman said. Boxes in surrounding towns have not been turned in.

AGA KHAN ILL

CANNES, FRANCE (AP) — The Aga Khan is expected to leave his villa near Cannes next week to go to Paris for an operation. The nature of his ailment was not made known.

Plan Audio-Visual Conference Here

Audio-visual directors, coordinators and school administrators will come here this weekend for a two-day conference on problems in audio-visual instruction.

Sponsored jointly by the extension division and the college of education, the conference opens tomorrow morning and continues through Saturday afternoon.

The meetings have been especially slanted for the audio-visual directors, Lee W. Cochran of the extension division said. The conference is the first of its type to be held in Iowa, he said.

The purpose of the conference is to assist those in the audio-visual field with their problems, and to plan a coordinated audio-visual program for Iowa schools.

Bid for Peace By Li Hinted

NANKING (AP) — Acting President Li Tsung-Jen may dare all and fly to Communist territory in a dramatic bid for peace, his friends said yesterday.

The Communists have marked him as a "war criminal" but these sources say he is ready to take his chances if there seems no other way.

There is a growing belief in Nanking that Li at most will be able to speak for Nanking, Shanghai and Hankow. The move for a deal covering these cities is already underway.

A group of professors from Nanking is in Peiping getting Communist terms for Nanking. Li has picked a second group for Shanghai.

The surrender of these three cities would follow the Peiping pattern in many respects.

Most government officials, over which Li has no control, have moved south to Canton. Canton is scheduled to become the new capital Saturday even though Li intends to stay in Nanking.

Meanwhile, Ambassador N. V. Roschin of Russia and his staff flew off to Canton to join the Chinese government. He was the first chief of a diplomatic mission to leave for Canton. The heads of other missions are remaining in Nanking, at least for the present.

Two SUI Faculty Members to Meet With Poll Experts

Eleven men have been added to the list of participants in the Iowa Conference on Attitude and Opinion Research scheduled here Feb. 10, 11 and 12.

Two SUI faculty members are among the additional 11 men who will take part in the conference which features the "big three" in the polling field, George Gallup, Elmo Roper and Archibald Crossley.

They are Frank R. Kennedy, SUI associate professor of law, and Norman C. Meier, director of the SUI bureau of audience research.

Others added to the list of participants include J.W. Albright, head of the department of sociology and anthropology, University of Illinois; Dean Bernard Berelson of the graduate library school, University of Chicago; Don Cahalan, director of the opinion research center, University of Denver; F. S. Chapin, head of the department of sociology, University of Minnesota; Carroll Clark, head of the department of sociology, University of Kansas.

Stuart Dodd, director of the Washington public opinion laboratory, University of Washington; Henry Kroeger, director of the research department, Des Moines Register and Tribune; Thomas McCormick, head of the department of sociology and anthropology, University of Wisconsin; and Francis H. Russell, director, office of public affairs, department of state, Washington, D.C.

U.S. China Forces To Leave Tsingtao

TSINGTAO, CHINA (AP) — Vice Adm. Oscar Badger revealed yesterday that within another 10 days he and the headquarters of the U.S. forces in the western Pacific will sail for Shanghai.

He indicated only a token force of marines would be left behind in Tsingtao.

The western Pacific commandant said the entire staff will sail aboard the flagship U.S.S. Eldorado.

But he made it clear that wherever the flagship goes, whether to Shanghai or Hongkong or any other China coast port, the western Pacific fleet will still be ready to carry out its duties as a servant of the state department in protecting American nationals and essential property.

Badger said this has been the United States' policy all along and that the current situation in China had brought no change.

SUI Gets $35,000 Grant to Continue Cancer Research

American Cancer society officials announced yesterday that SUI has been granted $35,000 to continue cancer research at University hospitals and to expand present research facilities.

A $35,000 grant was also given to SUI last year. It is being used for the purchase of radiological laboratory equipment. Work in the laboratory is being conducted by a staff of three under the direction of Dr. Titus C. Evans.

the Iowa division of the society, said SUI had requested $37,800, plus an additional fund of from $10,000 to $15,000 to provide for problems.

Prior to the recent grant, the radiological laboratory requested $5,000 for the purchase of equipment, and $15,000 for lab partitions and walls. The cancer committee asked for $7,500 for the development of housing for animals used in research.

The department of obstetrics and gynecology asked for $6,500 for the development of a tissue culture laboratory.

A total of $1,800 was requested by the department of anatomy for research in evaluating the Beard and Harris tests for cancer and for experiments involving malignant changes in certain breast tumors in rats.

The department of surgery and pathology asked for $2,000 toward a collection of colored lantern slides.

The Iowa division of the American Cancer society has also given $600 to SUI as part of its professional education program. This provides for lectures on cancer to be included in this year's college of medicine lecture series.

Motorists Warned To Remove Autos

Motorists who stalled in the wake of the recent snows must move their parked cars before tomorrow. Police Chief E. J. Ruppert announced yesterday.

The cars prevent the street department from clearing snow from streets in the residential sections. Complaints have been received by police that motorists must some times drive around the parked cars, creating a traffic hazard.

Chief Ruppert said if the cars are not moved they will be towed in and the towing fee charged to the owner.

By Bill McBride

THESE ARE PROBABLY the most trying times in a student's life. At this time each year comes a welter of confusion, misunderstanding and yards of well-meant advice.

In academic circles this period is known as End of Semester. In semi-academic circles it is known as Blivett Time, and in non-academic circles it is not known at all.

IT IS NOT only the weight of semester examinations which is responsible for this situation, but the need for adjusting one's self to a new and strange schedule of classes.

There are numerous ways of going about lining up a new set of courses. One of them is to go to the registrar's office and discover what you need to complete before graduating.

This is frowned upon by the sports on campus. They say it shows a distinct lack of gaming instinct. On the other hand, the registrar's office is sometimes so busy it becomes more or less of a game to learn what requirements are yet unfulfilled.

BY CAREFULLY surveying the field, it is possible to learn through interviews with other students what courses will best fit into your schedule.

When you have your opinions formed, take them to your advisor and he will say a short prayer and guide you into a dark corridor of unfamiliar courses. This is known as Advising.

Under no circumstances should you make a move without the aid of an advisor. Don't feel shy about this... even Dante had a guide.

RATHER THAN this system, I think it would be better to have a qualified committee of students and faculty members monitor every course in the university for one year.

At the end of that time the committee would supervise the publication of a schedule of courses. Each course would be listed and beside it a code.

The code would offer the basis for selection; (a) units of education to be received from the course (b) units of worry expending in obtaining those units of education.

THIS WOULD REQUIRE testing each student at the beginning of each semester to determine how many units of education he would be capable of absorbing and what his worry capacity would be for the ensuing four and one half months.

Suppose a student were declared to have 14 worry units left at the end of his first semester. It would then be necessary to recommend to that student that he transfer to Minnesota University where he could major in tuck pointing, expending no worry units whatsoever.

IN SOME CORNERS it has been said that the examination system is a blight upon true education. This has been debated pro and con, and many will agree the blight has varying degrees of intensity.

The generally accepted theory about tests is to discover how much a student has learned.

That theory doesn't always hold true, since some professors get interested in Thought Questions. A Thought Question is one to which no answer is determined until the test is corrected.

BY UTILIZING The Scientific Method of thinking, students are supposed to reason their way through Thought Question tests.

Such tests do not necessarily take into consideration various factors which tend to distract from Thought. For example: the fellow behind you kicking your chair with a steady Bolero beat; clumsy phrasing in the question itself which leads to the double load of answering the question while at the same time trying to discover just what the question says.

Frequently this type of test is scheduled at 7:30 a.m. or 7:30 p.m. Most students have difficulty remembering their own names at these hours.

UNFORTUNATELY there are two sides to the testing problem. Professors grow round-shouldered under such strains as students who forget to write their names on answer sheets.

Another source of strain is the scholar who plays peek-a-boo... with his neighbor's paper. Playing peek-a-boo is especially criminal if the player is detected.

Detailed instructions on where to place answer sheets when finished are often ignored, and there are usually one or two hand-wavers in each class who specialize in asking bone-head questions every four minutes.

With all of this derogatory evidence accumulated, I have a suggestion... refrain from giving examinations.

A New Century of Forty-Niners

The forty-niners who rushed across the continent to settle California and hunt for gold were a glamorous lot. They staked their claims, fought each other, drank raw whiskey and paid hundreds of dollars for staple foods.

Colorado miners were told this week that they could be riding around in gold-plated limousines — if they just strike uranium.

Status Counts in Status Quo

In both cases, the intervention was indirect. But in both, democratic doctrines tempered the actions of rightist governments.

The first instance was in Greece. The military dictatorship set up within the Sophoulis cabinet to run the civil war felt uncomfortable under the searching light of a free press.

Censorship was clamped down. Foreign correspondents complained, and the government was forced to alter its stand. It announced that foreign correspondents were exempt from the censorship ruling, that only Greek reporters would get the blue pencil.

The logical thing would be for foreign newspapers to send editions into Greece. How else will the Greek people know what is happening in their country?

The second incident occurred in "President" Peron's Argentina. A Peron-dominated constituent assembly was considering a constitutional amendment compelling foreigners to become naturalized Argentines after a two-year residence or leave the country.

Austrian Peace Parley: West Willing to Move Out

The time has come for the occupying powers to leave Austria. The western powers agree to this — and possibly even the Soviets.

The French, American and British forces have wanted to pull out for some time. The occupation has cost them more than they expected. In contrast to the Russians who live off the land wherever they keep armies, the western powers brought in their own supplies.

Austria's economy, although well on its way to recovery, is stifled by the zone set-up which keeps the four corners of the little state from working as an economic unit.

It is not the Austrians who suffer from this; the American taxpayer foots the bill. ERP has kept the Austrians going; and with eastern European countries not trading as much with Austria as they did before the war, the burden the west-carries is ever greater.

As long as a ghost of a chance remained for the small Austrian Communist party to grow sufficiently to take power, it paid for the western armies to remain, no matter what the cost may have been.

With the insignificant Communist party having but four representatives in a parliament of 165 members, and with Soviet blunders in occupation policy making that party more hated every day, the western powers have come to feel that it may be safe to leave now. That was the view until recently. Some flies have been thrown into the ointment since.

The French — consistent supporters in the past of the western pro-treaty view — have now decided that they would like to stick around till after the Austrian October elections. This is a direct outcome of the civilian-military controversy in French policy-making circles.

The British dropped a political bombshell when London dispatches last week reported a plan by which the British Labor party positis. We are mainly dependent on foreign uranium, and as yet don't know how much ore there is here.

So the forty-niners are out again; with gieger counters instead of pans. Very little uranium has been turned up in the ten-year search and the government doesn't want miners to be discouraged.

There is a thought here for the government which made atomic bombs and looks to a world of atomic transportation and power — man can do a lot of things but a long time ago it was decided on how much uranium this continent should have and where it should be hidden.

Americans and British in Argentina — the biggest group in Argentina to be affected — protested. The Peron government quickly assured them that the constitutional provision would not be retroactive.

Then the assembly retreated a step farther. Its new proposal would give the new arrivals to Argentina the option of becoming citizens automatically after a five-year residence or declaring formally their desire to retain their original nationality. In the latter case, they would not be required to leave the country.

In both instances, rightist regimes were forced to retreat to more democratic grounds. The "blame" in both cases falls on the western democracies.

The world's self-styled dictators may begin to think that the west is not interested in maintaining the status quo — no matter what that status happens to be.

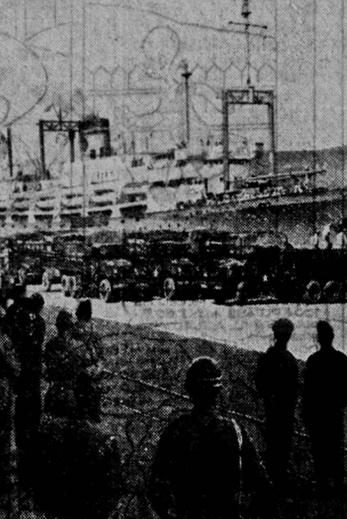

The happy possibility arises that maybe the west is trying to make the world both stable against communism and unstable for fascism.

would send some of its members to campaign for the Austrian Socialists next fall. This would set an interesting precedent which the politically conscious Soviets could seize upon to advance their aims.

The Austrian Socialist leaders have gone on record as favoring the British plan, but when it was suggested to them that the Americans may campaign for the conservative People's party, their faces clouded considerably.

These defections in the formerly solid western front, which dates back to past negotiations, may push the Soviet sins into the background. Western prestige in Austria may topple from the high position it has held since the end of the war.

It has been the west that the Austrian people have been

Out of the Caves

TO THE EDITOR: The frat boys are emerging from their caves to find that it's fashionable now to be decent. A howl of public protest went up when the national Phi Kappa Psi executive council suspended the Amherst chapter for pledging a Negro member.

The bigoted members of Johnstown Alumni of this fraternity could "find no words equal to the deep indignation and justifiable wrath that they feel toward the inconsiderate, willful, dishonest, oath-breaking members" of the Amherst chapter. Then, using many hundreds of words, they conclude that "the damage done to our fraternal body is extremely severe, perhaps fatal."

They're right in that damage has been done to their fraternal body and it may well be fatal but not for the reasons they suggest. Not only has public attention been called to racial and religious discrimination in many fraternities but the whole question of whether secret, exclusive, societies are out of step with the purpose of education and democracy.

The pro-frats, of course, would say that one ought to be free to choose one's associates. Which the Amherst chapter unanimously did. As the New York Times says, "National offices are out of step with undergraduate sentiment, we believe, when they deny to local chapters the right to pledge whomever they please."

Personally, we'll use our freedom to choose as cosmopolitan and wide a group of friends as time, space and their acceptance of us will allow. And regret all the exciting people we're missing. We can't help but feel sorry for those who get so few satisfactions that they need the prestige of fraternity caste.

Fraternities practically died out during the war and haven't revived much in the surge of ex-GI's back to school except among the professional College-Joes.

But the frightening fact is that among the so-called "educated" we should find proponents of "white Gentile supremacy". Scientifically, politically, or morally, there's no basis for their position. Such prejudice is a kind of emotional anesthetic to help dull the frustrations

After an Exam

TO THE EDITOR: After having taken one of these electrographic exams, it comes to my mind again to question the value of these tests. I even wonder whether these tests are pertinent to the courses.

In a zoology final we were asked a series of questions about minute details which I do not think were related to the objectives of the course, which are an understanding of fundamental life processes and ability to study these first hand.

The course should aim to teach the student to use the details and to do creative work in the field. Even introductory courses shouldn't fail to be creative. A course that enables the student to be creative is also apt to be more interesting.

I am not directing this letter against this particular course, but against the whole system of such exams in any course.

The unfortunate thing is that, although grades and exams are irrelevant to what one gets out of the course, they are very relevant when one applies for a professional school or a job. It seems to me that there could be a closer relation established between what the course aims to teach and what the test measures.

If the present emphasis is maintained, we will end up not with thinkers, but machines.

"The prams of Britain are filled with the bonniest babies in living memory" — caption under a picture of the "postwar" British baby as shown in campaign leaflets circulated by the Labor party. The party withdrew the leaflets when the Conservative party pointed out the picture was of the young Duke of Kent, a nephew of the King — and was taken in 1935.

"We have been endeavoring to the best of our ability to stave off the situation with which we were faced in 1921, and in 1931. And to some extent I think we are succeeding — President Truman, busted merchant of 1921 crash, in support of proper economic planning. More angles were considered in the plans to set the Republican party up in business. GOP doings will get plenty of publicity from a promotion committee aimed at the 1950 election. But it took a Democrat, Rep. Michael Kirwan, from Ohio to get to the point — "It is true that a 'selling' campaign can help a good product. But no amount of canned speeches, radio recordings and fine words can sell a bad product." Kirwan suggested the GOP make a good record for themselves before they advertise.

The Danger Leaks Out...

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

The split atom — the thing we're not allowed to look at — the thing that's kept in the secret pockets of the atomic energy commission — is more and more invading our lives.

GOVERNOR Dewey asks for an appropriation of $6,900 to train doctors, health officers and sanitary engineers "in the problems of radioactivity... as a measure of preparedness." Thus the part of the world which lies outside the atomic energy commission tries to keep up with what it knows to be going on inside it, and inside the atomic energy commissions of other lands.

The danger leaks out, even if the secret doesn't. It's a divided world we live in, one part spending $3-billion (and as much more perhaps in foreign lands) to break the atom, and another spending $6,900 to keep the process from hurting anybody.

European history since 1917 has proven rather conclusively that the Communists know just what to do with dissatisfied people.

THE ATOMIC energy commission announces the discovery of a cheap substitute for radium — cobalt 60 — which promises to be very valuable in cancer treatment. This, of course, will come to our doctors like a gift from a mysterious uncle; they will know little about the process that has produced it, or about what else may be coming.

It is a present from that other world, within which only a selected part of the human race can today be allowed admittance. Again one has that same strong feeling about how oddly divided is the world we now live in.

IT IS ANNOUNCED that the atomic energy commission now has its own intelligence service, to take note of what other countries are doing about the atom — and that it also has its own defense force, complete with armored vehicles and planes. It is becoming a little like a world unto itself, and it is even, of necessity, taking on some of the subattributes of sovereignty.

It already has its own citizens, certified as safe and screened for loyalty.

THIS NEW world — within a world — is not a small one. The atomic energy commission's building program is, in the wording of

Communists Can't Prove Jury Loading

NEW YORK (AP)—Federal Judge Harold R. Medina said yesterday counsel for 11 Communist leaders have failed thus far to prove their contention that the jury-picking system here is discriminatory. He said their evidence "seems to wind up in utter confusion."

Not only that, he told defense lawyers, but it would be impossible to pick any juries at all on the basis of a data presented by the defense.

The defense attorneys charge that the method of picking juries in the New York federal district favors the rich against the poor and members of minority groups, including Jews and Negroes.

To prove their claim, they have submitted a long series of charts and tables showing the geographic representation of jurors on panels over the past 10 years.

The charts and analyses were designed to prove that jurors have been picked from certain wealthy sections out of proportion to the less rich areas. Because of the alleged discrimination, the defense contends the indictment against their clients should be voided.

When the defense made presentation yesterday of further data, Medina commented: "The speculative data presented indicates the utter futility of any selection of juries based on your material. You'd never be able to select juries if you went on the basis of that system. It seems to wind up in utter confusion."

Richard F. Gladstein, a defense lawyer, then said that if the selection was made "fairly and squarely you'd have no trouble." He added, "You'd get representation from all groups."

Baltzer to Lecture At Washington U.

Friedrich Baltzer, visiting professor in the SUI zoology department, said yesterday he will lecture on biology this week and next week at Washington university, St. Louis, Mo.

Baltzer, who is lecturing in embryology here until the end of next semester, will discuss work done in embryology and heredity at the University of Bern, Switzerland, where he is head zoologist.

Baltzer is replacing his countryman, Dr. Emil Witschi, who is on leave from SUI for one year. Baltzer lives at Witschi's home, 311 Wolf street.

Advisors Study Latest Rules

While students are finishing first semester studies, advisors are busily learning the latest rules and regulations governing student registration and counseling for the second semester.

Each student in the college of liberal arts has been assigned an advisor for the entire college program. If the student changes his major and desires an advisor in a new area, he should stop in at the liberal arts advisory office, 109 Shaeffer hall.

Prof. H. Clay Harshbarger, the executive secretary of the liberal arts advisory commission, said students are assigned to advisors in their particular area or to general advisors.

Each advisor receives a folder containing information on each of his advisees. The information consists of entrance test scores, a record of the skills requirements and a personal data form. The personal data form is a record of the student's high school activities and present college activities.

If a student receives more than two delinquent grades at the midterm, a report is sent to the advisor. He is responsible for notifying the advisory commission what action he believes should be taken. The theory concerning advising at SUI, Harshbarger said, is

Lilienthal May Tell Number of A-Bombs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman David E. Lilienthal of the atomic energy commission yesterday agreed to consider telling the world how many atom bombs the United States has.

He made his statement after a dispute over atomic secrecy broke out in the congressional atomic energy committee.

Lilienthal also said that headlines reporting development of a "super-atomic U.S. bomb" were unjustified. He said our atomic weapons have been "substantially improved" but that does not warrant a conclusion the bombs are now 1,000 times more powerful than those used against Japan.

Committee Chairman Brien McMahon (D-Conn.) who called the hearing to consider "America's atomic policy," asked Lilienthal to think about lifting the veil on the number of atom bombs. In a Detroit speech Monday McMahon had said that such a disclosure might prevent a "disastrous war."

The committee broke into angry dispute over that and over the atomic commission's quarterly report which Lilienthal called "one of the hottest documents yet assembled."

Sen. Millard E. Tydings, (D-Md.) who is also chairman of the senate armed services committee, termed the report "an open invitation to disaster."

"This report shows atomic apparatus and its location with considerable particularity," he observed. "I don't see the sense in keeping some things secret and revealing others. This is a question whether we're going to survive on this planet. I don't want to give a potential enemy any more information than he gives me."

Local Group May Begin Constructing Synagogue in 1949

Construction of a synagogue in Iowa City may begin this year, Eli Braverman, president of the Agudas Achim Congregation church, said yesterday.

Braverman said the church four months ago purchased a lot located at the corner of Washington and Johnson streets.

"We intend to build—and we hope to build this year," he said. He added that raising the money for the synagogue and actual plans for the building have only begun. Tentative plans include a recreation room and kitchen, he said.

For over 25 years, Braverman said, the congregation, composed of about 35 families, has held services each Saturday in a house at 432 S. Clinton street.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE editor of a weekly newspaper in the Catskills found that some prankster had stolen all the letter "S's" from his type cabinet, and inserted the following apology in his next issue:

"Thome thneaking thcoundrel hath tholen into our comppothing room and theedaddled with all our etheth. We mutht therefore apologethe to our readethr for the inthipid appearance of thith week'th 'Thentinel'.

"We would altho like to thtate that if at any time in the yearth to come we thee thith dirty thnake in the grath about the premitheth, we will thooth him th full of holeth, he will rethemble a thithweth cheethe. Thank you."

Two Broadway characters were discussing their near-sighted pal Irving Hoffman. "He never recognizes me," complained one. "Do you have the same trouble?" "Not at all," said the other. "I just knock on his glasses and say it's me."

Senate Delays Filibuster Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—Southern senators opposed to outlawing the filibuster won a week's postponement on the issue in the rules committee yesterday.

But Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) announced he will ask the senate tomorrow for an immediate decision.

"I want the senate to stand up and be counted on this question," he said.

A short time earlier, the rules committee, of which Knowland is a member, voted 7-5 to adjourn until Feb. 9 without acting on a filibuster-curbing rules change.

Three members, Senators Gillette (D-Iowa), Hunt (D-Wyo.), and Withers (D-Ky.), said they hadn't made up their minds on the question and wanted more time to consider it.

Chairman Hayden (D-Ariz.) and Senators Green (D-R.I.), Stennis (D-Miss.), and Long (D-La.) joined in voting for the postponement. Senators Myers (D-Pa.), Lodge (R-Mass.), Jenner (R-Ind.), Ives (R-N.Y.) and Knowland wanted an immediate vote.

Senator Wherry (R-Neb.) was absent. He left a proxy to vote for cutting off debate on any matter at any time by a two-thirds majority, but no instructions on how to be recorded on a motion to adjourn.

Five anti-filibuster resolutions are before the committee. They would permit the senate to cut off debate by a two-thirds, or even a majority, vote of the senate on any question, including a motion to take up a bill. The present rule has been held to apply only when a bill is actually up for consideration and not to a motion to take it up.

Such a change, for practical purposes, would eliminate the filibuster. Filibustering is simply unlimited talk, usually by a minority, to delay senate action.

City Issues Permits for Remodeling

An estimated total of $37,000 worth of remodeling was authorized by the city engineer's office this week.

One building permit for an estimated $20,000 was issued to C. A. Giblin for remodeling eight apartments and four garages at 600 West Benton street.

The First Capital National bank of Iowa City received a permit authorizing remodeling estimated at $15,000.

Frank D. Williams, president of the bank, said yesterday the work should be done by April 1. The new addition occupies a 20 by 50 foot space at the back end of the old fruit store.

Work began about a week and a half ago by M. D. McCreeby Construction company and has progressed to the point of plastering which is due to begin tomorrow.

Henry L. Fisk is the architect. Remaining space in the fruit store is to be occupied by the John Wilson Sporting Goods store, just north in the same building.

The third remodeling permit was issued to Ray G. Dauser to remodel a basement into four apartments at 526-528 S. Dubuque street.

Mulherin died yesterday at Mercy hospital from a disability received in World War II combat action with an airborne engineer unit.

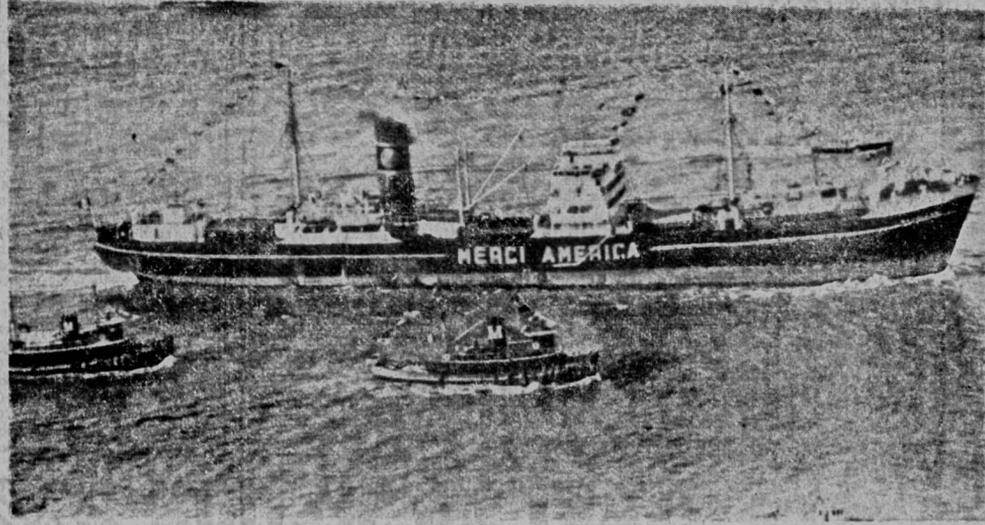

He was born Nov. 28, 1909, at Williamsburg, and had been an Iowa City resident for 25 years.

After graduating from St. Patrick's high school here, he joined the Iowa City police force January 21, 1938 and served until he entered the army April 7, 1942.

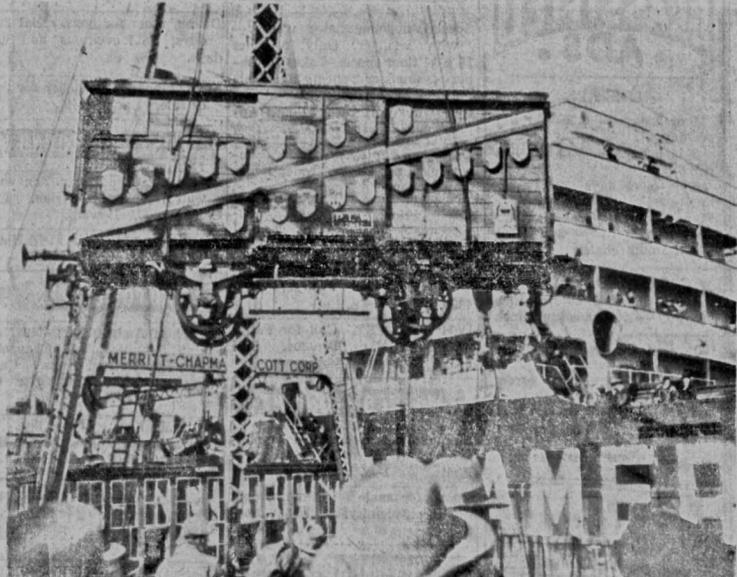

Mulherin served with company C, 887th airborne engineers, and reached the rank of staff sergeant. He took part in the Normandy invasion and was wounded March 17, 1945.

He is survived by a brother, Clement, Lafayette, Ind.; two sisters, Mrs. Gordon W. Elliott, Des Moines, and Mrs. Arthur D. Shepard, Denver, Colo., four nieces and two nephews.

French 'Merci Train' Reaches New York

FRANCE'S ANSWER TO THE FRIENDSHIP TRAIN. 49 railroad boxcars of gifts, reached New York yesterday aboard the French ship Magellan, shown here steaming up New York harbor. There was a railroad car aboard for each of the 48 states and for the District of Columbia.

NEW YORK'S CAR WAS FIRST to be unloaded. All cars will be delivered next week along virtually the same route that the Friendship Train took last year. The French Gratitude Train contains tapestries, vases, stained glass and many other priceless cultural and historic gifts.

Panties Hang on Army Line

West Pointers Surrender to WAC Invaders As 'Operation Silk Stockings' Begins

WEST POINT (UP)—Nine pairs of khaki panties hung on a clothes line at the austere United States military academy yesterday and this arsenal of masculinity surrendered without a whimper to femininity.

A shock force of nine frightened WACs invaded the 147-year-old academy where young men are trained to be officers and gentlemen and women used to do nothing more strenuous than sip tea.

But the male population of the historic fortress knew they were licked the minute they saw the whites of the sparkling WAC eyes, and gave the girls a chivalrous, if grim welcome.

The nine women, plus two officers who came earlier to establish a beachhead, are the first dough girls ever appointed to the West Point. They came to work

But the girls had thoughts only of flirtations with cadets along flirtation walk after officers announced that they could fraternize with any student they could interest.

The invaders came fresh from basic training at Camp Lee, Va. Some of the academy top brass was at the station to meet them — an honor seldom, if ever accorded a raw recruit.

Enlisted men tried to make a hasty impression before the cadets could outmaneuver them and had a nice hot meal ready for the girls. They shovelled snow so the WAC oxfords wouldn't get wet, and even made up the WAC beds.

Iowa High Schools Get Faculty Names For Commencement

Lists of 29 SUI faculty members who will be available as commencement speakers for spring high school graduations were mailed to superintendents and principals throughout Iowa this week, according to Carol Beals of the extension division office.

A schedule of speakers and their topics are sent to schools each year as a service of the extension division.

"Last year we supplied speakers for 80 commencements," Mrs. Beals said. "We usually try to schedule speakers for two or three commencements in the same area to facilitate transportation."

In the past, as many as 26 speakers have traveled to make commencement addresses on the same date, she said.

Among those included on the list of speakers are Professors Robert G. Bowman, Walter Daykin, Ralph E. Ellsworth, H. Clay Harshbarger, Orville A. Hitchcock, Richard L. Holcomb and Robert S. Hoyt.

Other available speakers are L. L. Hickerson, director of the Alumni Service; Col. W. W. Jenina; Paul I. Lyness, instructor in the school of journalism; Dean Bruce E. Mahan; Major Irvin M. Parsons, and William J. Petersen, superintendent of the state historical society.

Per person costs for Iowa City government were up $1.69 in 1948 over 1947, figures released Tuesday by the Iowa taxpayers association showed.

Cost to the taxpayer in 1947 was $12.07 but in 1948 the cost jumped to $13.76. This was an increase of 20 percent over the 1947 total.

Miscellaneous expenses, such as the costs of bonds, principal and property improvements, are not included in these figures.

Total operating costs for Iowa City's government were $236,423. The street department spent $35,733 of this total, or $2.08 per person.

Per person costs for government operation were highest in Burlington where they reached $21.02. Chariton was low with per person costs at $7.39.

Communists Urge Mass Protest

BERLIN (AP)—Communist agents in Germany are urging mass demonstrations against the western allies' occupation policies even as new reports of Soviet peace moves come out.

Soviet support, "in word and deed," was promised yesterday by the Russian-sponsored German Communist People's council.

Throughout Soviet-occupied eastern Germany, trade unions sent out statements protesting the three-month jail sentence meted out by a British court Tuesday to Max Reimann, western Germany's Communist boss, for making an inflammatory speech.

Even the Moscow radio joined in. A Moscow broadcast said "Reimann was only waging a selfless fight in the true interests of the German people."

Reimann had told Germans that any Germans who cooperated with the western allies, particularly in the establishments of an international authority for the Ruhr, would be regarded as quislings.

The People's council, which takes its orders from Moscow, is recognized only in the Soviet zone, but hopes to extend its influence to the zones occupied by the United States, Britain and France. It urged protest demonstrations in cities and towns, factories and mines.

"The time has come for Germany's men, women and youth to enter the field themselves," said the council's manifesto. "It is up to you to stop those politicians who pour poison of imperialism, anti-Soviet hatred into the wounds of our people."

Bonn is the site of a convention drawing up a constitution for western Germany. Frankfurt is the headquarters of the German economic council, handling affairs of the combined British and American zones.

Information relative to where rural families go to secure various types of services and merchandise will assist the county board of education in determining the need for reorganization of school districts, Snider said.

Snider said representatives of each school district will begin tomorrow to distribute questionnaires to all families concerned in the survey.

The questionnaire consists of checking the name of the town to which the family most frequently goes for each of 58 services and commodities.

This information will help the board in planning boundary lines for new school districts if reorganization is necessary, Snider explained.

Directors and sub-directors of 68 rural school districts yesterday discussed plans for an area survey of all families living in the county outside of Iowa City.

County Superintendent Frank J. Snider said he survey will be taken to determine natural community interests of the people in the county.

Service Tomorrow For G. J. Mulherin; Was Police Officer

Funeral services for Gerald J. (Danny) Mulherin, 39-year-old former Iowa City policeman, will be held tomorrow at 9 a.m. at St. Mary's church.

Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery. The rosary will be recited at 8:15 p.m. today at the McGovern Funeral home.

Mulherin died yesterday at Mercy hospital from a disability received in World War II combat action with an airborne engineer unit.
