Crossley Says Polls Shouldn't Pick Elections

Others Think It's OK; 'Disparity' Discussed

Archibald M. Crossley went on record last night as opposing the making of political forecasts.

Crossley, recognized as one of the nation's top three political forecasters, spoke at the Iowa conference on Attitude and Opinion Research session, "Should Political Forecasts be made?"

In contrast to Crossley's negative stand, the session's three other speakers, George Gallup, Paul Lazarfeld of Columbia university, and Gideon Seymour, Minneapolis newspaperman, were in favor of political forecasts.

Significant Failure

Crossley said that the pollsters' failure to account for the effect of the Truman campaign was significant.

"We did not know how to measure the impact of advertising that was brought to bear," he said, adding that in the future pollsters must "try to measure the imponderables of advertising and salesmanship."

Crossley compared the 1948 election to a childhood memory when he said, "They used to tell me as a youngster to go up and touch a red-hot stove — and I did."

"I am in favor of forecasting, but not political forecasting," he said.

Optimism

Yesterday afternoon two notes of optimism and another of a diverting character were expressed on "The Future Trends of Opinion Sampling."

Gallup said, "This work of ours is destined to grow. We know of no other way to gauge public opinion. No one has discovered a better way to find out what people are thinking than to go out and talk to them."

"What about the future itself?" Gallup asked. "Improvement will obviously be made in all departments of polling. I think the whole trend is in a multiple question direction."

More Money

"More money will be spent this year in polling research than in any year in history," Gallup said. In the future that amount will be doubled, all foreign countries will adopt polling techniques and congressmen will begin polling their districts to promote better and more efficient government.

J. Stevens Stock of the opinion research center, Princeton, N.J., said, "I don't know what the future of polling is, I only hope Gallup is right."

He said that bad publicity as the result of the election "will do us good." He referred to some critics of the pollsters as "Johnnie One - Techniquers" who profess that their particular method, if used by the pollsters, would have secured more accurate results.

Broader Lines

At this session Crossley stressed the point that political polls are "not the only ones," and called for those present to think of polling along broader lines which would include the fields of entertainment and juvenile delinquency.

In the morning session, "Causes of the Disparity between Poll Findings and Elections," Gallup said the result of recent election polls were "mistakes in judgment" not in the "basic procedure."

He criticized the polls for giving the people the impression that they "had reached the stage of absolute perfection."

Biggest Error

Gallup said the biggest error of the pollsters in the election was not taking a final poll. Another important factor was that the "undecided group" was not taken into consideration.

Crossley emphasized the failure of the polls was due to neglecting the possibility of a close election and the necessity of measuring preferences very accurately just before the election.

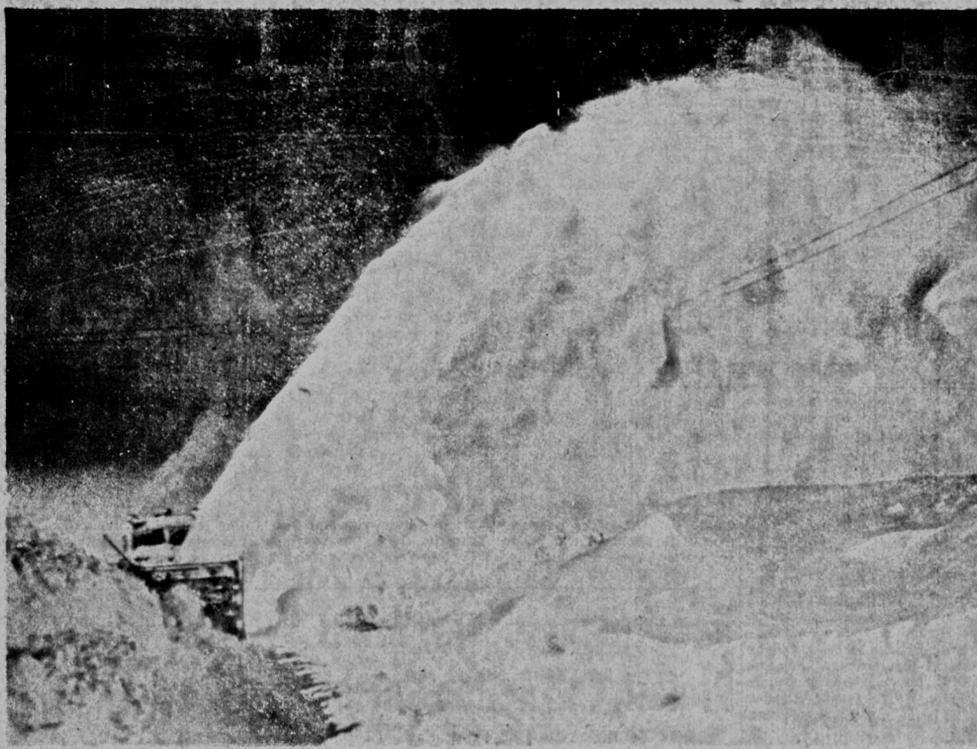

Closing sessions of the conference will be held this morning.

10-Year Sentences Given Couple who Swindled Farmers

MASON CITY (AP) — A federal judge yesterday sentenced William Stanley and his pretty blonde wife to 10 years in prison for swindling midwestern farmers in a confidence game with a romantic angle.

Federal Judge Henry N. Graven told Mrs. Stanley she "perjured herself" by saying she had intimate relations with five of the victims who testified against her.

He said he was "glad" to give the government witnesses complete clearance of accusations of immorality leveled against them by Mrs. Stanley in her testimony.

"Easy money has a high price and today pay day has arrived for William and Minnie Marie Dora year-old couple.

The judge pronounced sentence shortly after a jury found the Stanleys guilty on all three counts of an indictment charging interstate transportation of money obtained by fraud.

In addition to imposing three concurrent 10-year prison sentences on each of the Stanleys, Judge Graven also fined them $10,000 apiece.

Five self-styled victims of Mrs. Stanley had testified she talked them out of a total of $19,650 in cash.

The Stanleys' five children were present when the verdict was returned.

Columbia Captures Bergen, McCarthy

NEW YORK (AP) — The Columbia Broadcasting system yesterday added ventriloquist Edgar Bergen and his wooden assistant, Charlie McCarthy, to its talent fold.

Starting next fall Bergen, who had been on NBC for a decade until temporarily retiring from radio at the end of 1948, will be heard on CBS Sundays at 7 to 7:30 p.m. He will be sponsored by Coca-Cola.

Frank Sinatra announced earlier this week he was negotiating to switch to CBS and was leaving his NBC show.

'Assault' on Religion Decried

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States yesterday ordered the expulsion of a Hungarian diplomat, and charged that the Communist high command is driving to smash religious freedom all over eastern Europe.

Simultaneously, Great Britain issued a separate but strikingly parallel denunciation of what was termed a "concerted assault" on churches in western Europe.

The expulsion of John G. Florin, first secretary of the Hungarian legation, was in retaliation for the election of two American representatives from Hungary during the trial of Cardinal Mindszenty.

Statement

The state department issued a statement striking out against the impending trial of 15 protestant religious leaders in Bulgaria.

It said the similarity between the "fantastic accusations" made against them and those against Cardinal Mindszenty "strikingly emphasizes the concerted nature of the continuing Communist assault on religious liberties in eastern Europe."

Cardinal Mindszenty was sentenced to life imprisonment on treason charges. An indictment made public in Sofia, Bulgaria, Thursday night said 15 leaders of the United Evangelical churches are to be tried on charges of espionage for the United States and Britain.

Common Element

A common element in both Hungary and Bulgaria has been the accusation by the Communist prosecution that the churchmen were guilty of various crimes against the state through cooperation with American agents.

It was in connection with such charges that the Hungarian regime expelled Stephen Koczak, second secretary of the U.S. legation, and Robin E. Steussy, third secretary.

A spokesman for the British foreign office said yesterday, "The Communist governments of eastern Europe, having eliminated all democratic parties in their countries, now have launched a concerted assault on the churches in order to get a clear run for their Communist ideology."

Philadelphians Walk As Transit Workers Ask Wage Increase

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Men and women trudged the streets of Philadelphia like a vast army of ants yesterday as a strike of CIO transit workers choked off the main arteries of travel in the nation's third largest city.

Most of the 3,200,000 passengers who ride daily over the 1,500 miles of subway, trolley and bus lines operated in the city by the Philadelphia Transportation company lines were resourceful enough to reach their jobs.

Many were late. Some never made it. Snow-crusted streets heaped an extra hardship on the laughing, joking throngs who inched their way to town aboard slow-moving, jammed-to-capacity suburban railway trains, by foot or by flagging down the unending stream of passing autos.

But little absenteeism was reported.

The strike began at one minute after midnight as 11,000 transport workers union members walked out in support of demands for a fourth round wage boost of 20 cents an hour. The PCT countered with an offer of three cents. The workers now average from $1.09 to $1.63 an hour.

"WHY NOT FOR MINDSZENTY?" That appeal is contained in the bottom two lines of this sign on a wall in Frankfurt's main square. The two lines above were painted by German Communists and ask "Freedom for Reimann." Max Reimann is the jailed Communist leader of western Germany. The appeal for Josef Cardinal Mindszenty appeared after news of his sentence was broadcast in Germany.

Eisenhower Called To Joint Staff Post

He'll Be an Interpreter Yet

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Big Boy, the St. Louis zoo's talking bird, is getting bilingual.

The bird, a Javan hill mynah, is being taught English because none of the zoo authorities can understand his fluent monologues in Malayan.

For his language lessons, Big Boy attends private classes each afternoon in a room above the monkey house.

Expression like "How are you?" and "Anybody home?" are already in the bird's vocabulary. Discouraging to his teachers, however, is a long, low "wolf whistle" that Big Boy uses indiscriminately on men, women and monkeys.

White House Says Position Is 'Temporary'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman disclosed yesterday that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has been recalled to the nation's service as chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

The White House gave no inkling of any new critical turn in world events in connection with the appointment.

Mr. Truman's announcement said Gen. Eisenhower had been assigned "temporarily" to his new role and it was planned that it would be of "relatively" short duration.

The joint chiefs of staff are the chiefs of staff of the army, navy, airforce and the chief of staff to the president.

Eisenhower, a five-star general who commanded American armies in Europe in World War II left the service early in 1948 to become president of Columbia university.

Officials said one of Eisenhower's chief tasks will undoubtedly center on ending the old "feud" among the army, navy and air force which has been variously described by congressmen as petty jealousy and healthy competition.

In connection with the inter-service rivalry, it was recalled that Eisenhower informally told a class of West Point cadets in 1945:

"The army, the navy and the airforce must be a unit, and if I had my way, they'd all be in the same uniform. Of course I don't suppose congress and the big brass hats would ever agree to that."

He did not expand then on those remarks.

In its more recent phases, the old inter-service row has developed chiefly between the navy and the airforce over how great a part each would play in aerial warfare.

Eisenhower undoubtedly will also deal with the military aid program for the western European nations in bulwarking their defenses against Communism. How much military equipment the U.S. can spare without impairing its own strength will be one of the prime topics, officials indicated.

The return of Eisenhower to the military scene drew comments of approval on Capitol Hill.

Columbia university announced on Monday night that it had given Eisenhower temporary leave to help the national military establishment for a period of several weeks.

RKO Plea Denied, Mitchum Stays In

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Robert Mitchum's studio got turned down cold yesterday on its plea that the handsome actor be released from jail to finish a movie.

Superior Judge Clement Nye took the view that RKO-Radio studios knew Mitchum was awaiting trial on a narcotics charge when it started the picture and should have realized the possibilities of his going to jail.

Mitchum doffed his county jail denim for the court appearance and wore the $200 gray pin-striped suit he had on when sent to jail.

"This motion is not on behalf of Mr. Mitchum but in the interests of hundreds of innocent people who are employed with him," said noted Criminal Attorney Jerry Giesler.

Giesler's plea met a chilly reception from the judge. He pointed out that Giesler himself had asked the court to treat Mitchum like any other defendant when he came up for sentence.

Disclose Plot Against UN Group in Korea

SEOUL (SATURDAY) (AP) — Korean police today disclosed a plot to dynamite the Seoul stadium at a welcoming rally for the United Nations commission on Korea later in the day.

Police Captain Park Po Yung said nine men were under arrest.

Three others who confessed the plot gave information leading to the apprehension of six more during the night, Park reported.

The officer said the trio was nabbed in the act of carrying 70 feet of wire in the vicinity of the stadium.

Just Arrived

The UN commission has just arrived here to see what it can do to unify Korea — divided into American and Soviet Russian occupation zones, with rival Korean governments in each sector.

President Syngman Rhee of the Korean republic — in the American zone — and UN delegates from China, France, Australia, the Philippines, Syria and India, and foreign diplomats planned to attend the stadium rally.

Time Bombs

Capt. Park said the trio arrested first said they were to meet their confederates to plant time bombs under the stadium grandstand. He said they identified themselves as members of the Communist-controlled South Korea Labor party.

Park said the three men also admitted they were involved in four to six political assassinations in south Korea during the past year and the shooting of a Seoul policeman.

In Tel Aviv ...

TEL AVIV, ISRAEL (AP) — United Nations observers said yesterday that a land mine had been discovered on the road leading to Government House in Jerusalem, where members of the UN Palestine conciliation commission are staying.

They said they followed wires leading from the mine to an Israeli outpost "some distance away" and that the mine was "well within the neutral zone surrounding Government House."

Report U.S. Gives Full Partnership to Norway in Alliance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States was reported to have assured Norway yesterday that it can enter the proposed North Atlantic alliance as a full partner and with assurance of substantial military backing from this and other member countries.

This summary of the basic American attitude toward Norway's defense problems is understood to have been given to Norwegian Foreign Minister Halvard Lange by Secretary of State Acheson in an 80 minute conference at the state department yesterday afternoon.

Earlier in the day, Lange had conferred briefly with President Truman, and after meeting with Acheson he would up his week-long visit to Washington with a call on Senator Vandenberg.

Acheson and Lange issued a joint statement saying they had held a "full and frank discussion of the objectives and nature" of the North Atlantic security project.

Lange subsequently told The Associated Press, just before he left by plane for New York, that he had had "a very good reception" and a "very good discussion" which had yielded "very frank information."

At the state department, Lange informed reporters he planned to meet British Foreign Minister Bevin in London Monday.

British Supporters Win Irish Election

BELFAST, NORTHERN IRELAND (AP) — Voters preferring to stick with Britain have easily turned back a challenge for control of Northern Ireland's parliament by backers of Eire's new Republic of Ireland.

Returns yesterday from the general election Thursday quickly clinched a majority for candidates pledged to keep Northern Ireland in the United Kingdom.

Eire's government announced in Dublin that Eire will officially become the Republic of Ireland on Easter Monday, April 18, the 33rd anniversary of the bloody Easter uprising against Britain.

Russia Claims Voice In Talks on Antarctica

MOSCOW (AP) — Russia put in a claim to a full voice in any discussions pertaining to the vast Antarctic continent yesterday through a resolution passed by the All-union Geographical society at a meeting in Moscow.

The geographical society held that Russian Explorers Fabian Bellingshausen and Mikhail Lazarev discovered the Antarctic continent in their expedition of 1819.

Four Hawkeye Teams See Action Today

Cagers in Return Engagement With Gophers at Minneapolis

By BUCK TURNBULL
MINNEAPOLIS—The sky-scraper and his platinum-topped buddy are entertaining the University of Iowa here tonight in the Minnesota fieldhouse.

Big Jim McIntyre, 6-foot, 10-inch senior center, and Meyer "Whitey" Skoog, 5-foot, 11-inch sophomore forward, head the dazzling Golden Gopher basketball team which collides with Pops Harrison's Hawkeyes at 8 p.m.

The Iowans, who arrived here by train last night, have been assigned the role of 19-point underdogs against Coach Ozzie Cowles' successful cagers, who rode the crest of 14 straight triumphs this winter before losing a one-point verdict to Illinois Jan. 29.

Four League Games Tonight

Iowa is currently struggling to stay out of the Big Nine cellar, a position it held for a few days in January until Northwestern's young quintet took back that spot. On the other hand, Minnesota is locked in a two-team battle with Illinois for the league leadership. These positions could be due for a shift tonight since all conference teams except Purdue are going to the post. Northwestern hosts Wisconsin in the Chicago stadium; Illinois tries to hold the Big Nine lead at home against Ohio State; Indiana tests Michigan at Ann Arbor, while Purdue plays out of the league with Michigan State.

As a sidelight to the Iowa-Minnesota match will be the return good-will expedition of 35 SUI students and two faculty representatives to the Gopher campus by chartered bus. They will have reserved seats for the game, be entertained at a dance and coffee hour, spend the night in housing units here and return Sunday. A similar plan was used when 50 Minnesota students saw the Gophers pummel the Hawks at Iowa City in January, 61-45.

That was the night the indefatigable Skoog had one of the greatest nights in his career, scoring 28 points. McIntyre chipped in with 15 to give Minnesota its first victory on the Iowa floor in five years.

To Concentrate Defense

So it is natural that Pops Harrison plans to direct his defensive maneuvers at that deadly combination, spending only the bare essentials on the other three starters, Bud Grant, Harold Olson and Jerry Mitchell. Whether the scheme will be successful is questionable because the latter trio can score, too.

Illinois stopped the Gophers in a hectic brawl by sheer manpower and a few prayers. Ohio State, which gave Minnesota its only other defeat last Saturday, tricked the Gophers out of playing their usual game by combing their set offense with a zone defense.

Of the above stop-gaps Harrison, of course, will have plenty of prayers. If the manpower proves sufficient, the defense—it won't be a zone, merely a contention of weight in two spots—could be troublesome. But the Hawks will also have to put the ball through the hoop at better than the 19 percent season's average.

Harrison will definitely start Charlie Mason and Floyd Magnusson at forwards. Both are aggressive and will be used on the front line of defense. Sophomore Dick Rieckels falls into this category, too.

Since Bob Schulz and Stan Straatsma worked so well together as guards against Purdue, they will probably draw starting jobs. Tony Guzowski, the team's leading scorer in Big Nine play with 51 points, backs them up.

Who Will Play Center?

Who will play the majority of time at center is a question mark. Since a good defensive job on McIntyre is uppermost in Harrison's mind, Roger Finley could be the boy. Don Hays is needed for his scoring ability, while Frank Calsbeek, Al Weiss and Glenn Dille are all possibilities.

The Hawkeyes, who have not won here since 1945, will be playing before a sell-out crowd of more than 16,000. Approximately 200 fans will be on hand from Brainerd, Minn., to honor their hometown hero, "Whitey" Skoog, with a special "Skoog Night."

Skoog is third in Big Nine scoring with 119 points. Ohio's Bob Raudiger leads the loop with 126, followed by McIntyre's 124.

Thinclads in Opener Against Marquette In Iowa Fieldhouse

Indications are that the first Iowa-Marquette track meet since 1930 in the fieldhouse this afternoon may go either way depending on the results of a few key events.

It will be Coach Francis Cretzmeier's first appearance as Hawkeye pilot as he pits his athletes against the Hilltopper thinclads under the direction of Melvin Shimek, 1927 NCAA two-mile king from Marquette. Coach Cretzmeier has owned the Iowa individual point scoring record since 1936.

Pre-meet evidence suggests that the Hilltoppers turned in some creditable performances last week in overpowering Chicago university, 71-43. In the mile run, Gene Whalen was timed at 4:25.2; Tom Miller Tony Glazer traveled the distance in 9:52.1; Axel Johnson sprinted the 440 in :52.4; Jerry Plarr cleared the bar at 6-foot 1 1/2 inches in the high jump and IC4-A Indoor Champion Roy Po'ochnik vaulted over 13 feet.

The Hawkeyes will rely on Jack Simpson, sprinter and Russ Merkel in the hurdles. Other Hawks whom Coach Cretzmeier expects to pick-up much needed points are Dick Tupper, two mile; John Collins, mile; Half Millers Elliott McDonald and Jack Copeland; Tom Sangster and Keith Brown, 440; High-Jumper Dick Erdenberger and Clair Jennett in the pole vault.

Erdenberger has cleared the bar at nearly 6-foot 3-inches. Bobby Nelson, who recently put the shot 47 feet has been handicapped lately by a hand injury. The Hilltoppers' John Vishnevsky had a practice heave of 48 feet but dropped to 43-feet 9-inches last week.

The meet begins at 1:30 p.m. with the field events. The mile run, first race of the day, will start at 2:00 p.m.

Malmen Meet Michigan Here

Iowa's wrestling team will meet Michigan on the fieldhouse mat tonight at 7:30 in the first home dual meet with the Wolverines in 25 years.

Last week the Hawkeyes began the conference grappling season with a 19-9 victory over Northwestern.

Tonight's meet is only the fourth time the two schools have ever met in a dual wrestling meet. Iowa has been the winner in all of those meets, most recent being the 19-9 drubbing handed the Wolverines at Ann Arbor last year.

Michigan is led by Captain Bob Betzig, 165-pounder who was runner-up for the Western conference title last year, and Jim Smith, Smith was Big Nine 136-pound champion last year but has moved up to the 145-pound class this season.

To date the Michigan matmen have failed to score a victory. The Wolverines were soundly defeated by Illinois, 25-3, and by Navy, 21-10. However, they came close to upsetting the Big Nine's defending champion Purdue squad, losing out by a single point, 16-15.

Iowa will be strengthened by the addition of Olympian Joe Scarpello, conference champ last year in the 175-pound class. Scarpello was ineligible during the first semester but has been working out with the Hawks and will be ready tonight.

Delmer Lanphier, highly regarded 165-pound sophomore, also will be eligible for the Michigan meet.

Four Hawkeyes have perfect records for the present campaign. They are Captain Vern McCoy, 121-pound division; Ed Steinhoff, 136-pound class; George Tesla in the 155-pound division; and Heavyweight Bob Geigel.

Either Geigel or "Junebug" Perrin will face Byron Laskey, the Wolverine heavy tonight. The two have been alternating, Geigel scoring a fall last week in the Northwestern meet.

Three Michigan men are undefeated in conference matches this season. They are Phil Carlson, 155-pound class, Betzig and Jack Powers, 175-pounder who is scheduled to meet Scarpello tonight.

Probable opponents are:

- McCoy 121..... Cunningham
- Quinlan 129..... Keller
- Steinhoff 136..... Miller
- Keith 143..... Smith
- Tesla 155..... Carlson
- Lanphier 165..... Betzig
- Scarpello 175..... Powers

Pep Decisions Saddler, Recaptures World Title
NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Pep, his face a gory mess from cuts around both eyes, recaptured his world featherweight title from Sandy Saddler, spindly Harlem slasher, on a unanimous 15-round decision last night at Madison Square Garden. It was a sensational form reversal of his four-round knockout loss last October. Pep, who held the title for six years, weighed 126, Saddler 124.

A jam packed mob of 19,097 who paid $85,563 for the first Garden sellout since 1946, roared throughout the 15 savage rounds as the little gamester from Hartford, Conn., survived a furious last-round assault by Sandy.

Brechler Pleads Guilty by Mail
NEWTON (AP) — Athletic Director Paul Brechler of Iowa university pleaded guilty by mail yesterday to a traffic charge but he had a good word for the patrolman who nabbed him.

State Highway Patrolman Max Schmeling earlier this week charged Brechler with improper passing.

In a letter to justice of peace Fred Meredith, Brechler wrote that while he felt Schmeling might have been a little technical the patrolman treated him "fairly and courteously."

"In fact, his conduct was above reproach," Brechler wrote.

Justice Meredith fined Brechler $10 and costs.

Vecek Signs Player, Yanks Protest, Call Action Unethical

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Vecek of the Cleveland Indians and George Weiss of the New York Yankees squared off yesterday in a hot verbal duel over Vecek's signing of one Artie Wilson. The set-to culminated in a threat by Vecek to sue the Yankees general manager for terminating his action "unethical."

"I'm not sure that that's not a court word," the youthful Cleveland club president declared hotly. "He'd better be able to prove it."

The smoldering feud between the two American league clubs burst abruptly into flames when the Yanks announced they were protesting Vecek's action to Commissioner A. B. Chandler and other baseball officials and growled that:

"There is no place in baseball — major league, minor league or Negro league — for tactics of the sort encountered in this case."

Weiss in a lengthy statement yesterday accused Vecek of having cut some corners in flying down to Puerto Rico Thursday to sign Wilson after the Yankees had conducted lengthy negotiations with the player.

Weiss said the Yanks thought they had closed a deal to purchase Wilson from the Birmingham Black Barons of the Negro American league.

When informed of Weiss' remarks, Vecek, who returned here yesterday, threatened to blow a gasket.

"All that happened to Weiss was that he got caught at the switch and now is trying to cover up," Vecek declared. "So he's going to protest to Chandler is he? There's nothing I would like better. I'll do better than that. I'll be in to see the commissioner in Cincinnati in a few days."

Baseball to Revise Bonus Rule Setup
COLUMBUS (AP) — Baseball's bonus rule, under which kid ball players are paid fantastic sums of money and then shackled by special regulations, is being overhauled by Baseball Commissioner A.B. Chandler's office, it was disclosed yesterday.

George M. Trautman, Chandler's counterpart for the minors as head of the National Association of Baseball Leagues and a tireless "battler of the bonus," said new regulations are now being drawn and will be announced soon.

Trautman declined to reveal specific details of the change since they must be released through Chandler, but he said they "will be more equitable both to the player and the club."

Before they are announced officially, the new rules must be put to a mail vote of the major and the minor league councils and then of the club owners.

Tankers Face Powerful Ohio At Columbus

By JOHN HOLWAY
COLUMBUS — Ohio State, legendary monarch of the swimming world, comes up against Iowa here today in what should be the tip-off on the Hawkeyes' chances of grabbing their first Big Nine title since 1936 and their second in conference history.

The beautiful Columbus natatorium has long been sold out for the matches that promise to put a lot of pressure on the Buckeyes as well as Iowa.

The Hawks arrived here a grim team, with an excellent chance, on paper, to do what only vaunted Michigan has done to Ohio State since the war.

The meet has been figured anywhere from a dead tie to a three-point margin for Ohio with the balance of power held by the backstrokers and sprinters.

A big portion of Iowa hopes of course, rests with Olympic Champion Wally Ris. He will be counted on for a first place in the 100-yard free style over Halo Hirose, and will probably have to go against Smith in the 220 as well as swim the anchor leg of one of the two relays.

Duane Draves reported for workouts after the hectic Purdue meet Monday with the effects of his earlier earache pretty well shaken off. Draves and Dick Maine are pointing to a victory over Bob DeGroot in the back stroke.

Bobby Busch made his first trip with Iowa to add strength to the Hawks' sprinting department, the most authoritative weapon Iowa brought here.

Ohio had two bad breaks on two crucial weekends last year that cost them first the Big Nine pennant, and then the international collegiate championship.

Bill Smith arrived at Iowa City for the conference races last year with a bad case of flu and lost three races he was counted on to win. Michigan edged Ohio State by three points.

At the NCAA meet in Michigan's home pool, DeGroot disappointed the Bucks in the back stroke and relays and again they were beaten, this time by six points. The next weekend everyone was in form and Ohio took its fourth straight national amateur title by a good margin.

But even then the Hawkeyes at Ann Arbor for the NCAA meet were sure they could set tracks in the once great Ohio squad. Reports Jim Councilman sent back after scouting the Bucks against Northwestern two weeks ago have lifted Iowa's belief that "Ohio State can be beaten."

Fail to Elect Stars To Cooperstown Hall

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's scribes whipped a third strike past Charley Gehring, Mel Ott, Hank Greenberg and other former stars yesterday when they failed to elect a single player into baseball's Hall of Fame.

In an annual Hall of Fame poll, conducted by veteran members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, no past performer was able to garner sufficient votes to join the 55 others already immortalized in the shrine at Cooperstown, N.Y. A candidate must receive at least 75 percent of the total vote cast.

Gehring, former star Detroit second baseman, drew the most votes, 102. However, he was 12 shy of election as 51 of the 153 voting writers left his name off their ballots.

Shoe Fashion Designers Look To The Past For Something New

A RIVAL FOR THE COED'S FIRST FASHION LOVE, the saddle shoe, are these forest green suede and leather combinations. Modeled by Martha Dawson, A3, Sigourney, they feature a clever side lace. Comfortable as well as eye-catching, these shoes for school are further evidence of the oxford's ever-present popularity.

Shoe History Repeats

Ribbon Ties and Straps Come Back From Gay 90's and 1910 Era

By SHIRLEY ELMAN
Style as well as history repeats itself!
Fashion designers are delving into the past for that "something new in a shoe" look.
The slim toes and ribbon ties of the gay 90's, Grandmother's high-buttoned styles and the 1910 versions of straps and combination shoes are being revived in the new footwear.

Pumps, still holding the fashion spotlight as dress shoes, are available in all shapes and styles. Today even the tall girl can be comfortable, well-dressed and entirely at ease in the dressy low-heels provided by shoe designers. Once fashion outcasts, low-heeled pumps have become favorites for everyone.

Simplicity has captured the limelight of this year's shoe-modeling barrage as closed-in pumps take over. New styles, creeping toward the ankles, are fastened in the demure button style of old or intricately-designed straps and front buckles.

Most new shoes boast the closed toe and heel, but fashion experts, accepting the American woman's "some like them open; some like them closed" decision, are making both styles available for spring. Always in the fashion limelight, oxfords for school remain tops among college coeds. Suede and leather combination oxfords, laced at the sides, may overtake the fashion-worn saddle oxfords which have been a campus favorite for many years.

Stadium boots have retained their prominence as cold-weather snow aids. Trimmed even more lavishly than before in fur, they are replacing the foot-bruising rubber boots.

The range of colors have been expanded. Forest green, wine and maroon are replacing the conservative blacks, browns and grays of last fall. Spring fashions promise even more daring colors in gay reds, greens and blues.

Suede still holds the spotlight in leather although late winter and spring fashions indicate that polished leathers will rival it for coeds' affections.

The longer dress in women's clothing fashions has inspired greater concentration on below-the-hemline appearances. Shoe-conscious coeds will toe the fashion mark again this year as they introduce the new shoe varieties to the American woman.

THE BUCKLES IN THE FRONT provide sparkle for these gray suede shoes belonging to Frances Henderson, A3, Oakland. From the 1910 fashion era, this version typifies the styles which are being revived by shoe designers for late winter and spring wear. The intricate design created by these straps testifies to the versatility of these fashions.

Tradition Suggests — Valentine Day Gifts

Along with the sending of sentimental verses, Valentine day has traditionally meant remembering loved ones with gifts.
Special Valentine gifts for every member of the family are still available in Iowa City stores.
Sweetheart roses in a bouquet or corsage are certain to please any feminine heart, local florists assert. A more imaginative male may find greater satisfaction in selecting his own bouquet and having it arranged to suit his taste. Violets, February's flower, are reminiscent of the Victorian era when arranged in a delicate nosegay especially for a mother or grandmother. Red and white carnations are the gayest of floral Valentines.

A gold or silver compact, especially in heart shape, will give that certain coed a romantic reminder of Valentine's day, 1949. A gold chain bracelet with a heart dangling is sure to capture her fancy.
Your Valentine will truly resemble a picture on an old fashioned Valentine card in her lace-trimmed organdy blouse. Pure silk shantung and fine crepe blouses are featured in many stores as ideal gift selections.
Fathers as well as their daughters are usually pleased with the succulent chocolates. A perennial favorite is the heart shaped box of candy. Few, indeed, are the children who are not delighted with the symbol of St. Valentine in solid chocolate.
Among other gifts suggested by local merchants are perfumes, lacy Valentine handkerchiefs and linens.

Speech Clinic Urges Stutterers to Stutter

Corrective Method Overcomes Fears

By GREG FOSSELMAN
If you were trying to cure a friend of stuttering, would you tell him to practice stuttering? Strange as it may seem, that's one of the methods used by the SUI speech clinic to help people who stutter.

"People stutter because they're trying too hard not to stutter," said Dean Williams, speech clinic assistant. "Encourage them to stutter, and they will stutter a great deal less," he said.

New Method
This new method of treating stutterers was introduced by Prof. Wendell Johnson, director of the SUI speech clinic.

Besides aiding people who stutter, the clinic also helps those who have articulation problems, impaired hearing and speech problems arising from organic defects.

Primarily a teacher - training and research organization, the speech clinic is designed to give supervised practice to student clinicians.

Many persons are referred to the clinic through various state agencies, such as the child welfare division.

After a person comes to the clinic he is given individual attention by a speech clinician several times a week.

"We operate on the theory that every person who comes to us has a different problem, and we give each one individual treatment," Williams said.

Besides the individual treatment, stutterers also attend classes, Williams said. This enables them to meet others who have the same speech problems, and to practice speaking to persons who are sympathetic toward their own problems.

Mirrors Used
Another method the clinic uses to help stutterers is that of using speech recorders and mirrors. The stutterer stands in front of a mirror while he speaks into a recorder. This enables him to observe his faults in detail and to get a realistic view of his problem, according to Williams.

Stuttering usually begins when a child is three or four years old, Williams said. At that age it is normal for children to speak with considerable repetition and hesitation, he explained.

If the child is reminded that he is not speaking perfectly, he will become confused and try too hard to speak better.

This usually results in increased tension and eventually leads to stuttering, Williams said.

"We believe that a person is never a stutterer until he is made to feel that he is one. The child who is told he is a stutterer will react with some uneasiness to people who evaluate him as such, and will make mistakes while talking to them," he added.

By way of illustration, Williams pointed out that a child, or even an adult stutterer, when placed alone in a room will almost always talk to himself or to a pet with no stuttering.

Defects Exaggerated
Stutterers usually exaggerate their defects in their own minds, Williams said. While talking to another person, the stutterer will think, "Oh, my gosh! I stuttered again," and increase his tension.

Actually, Williams explained, everybody "stutters" a little bit in normal conversation.

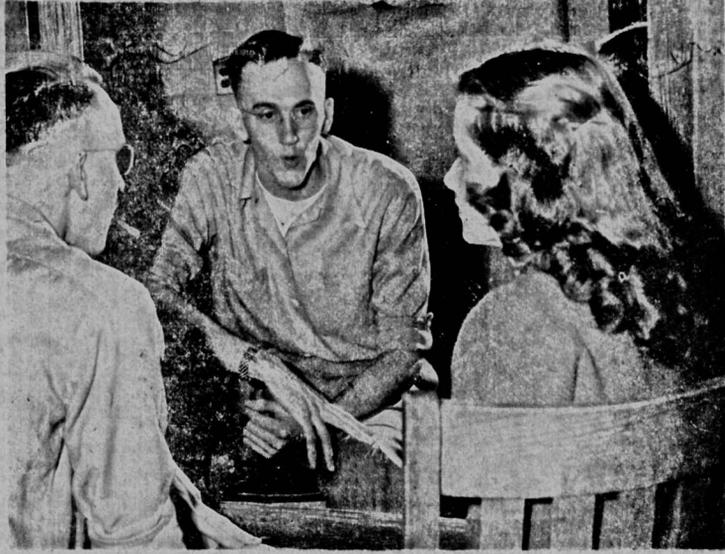

Besides operating during both semesters of the school year, the clinic runs a special session during the summer. This is primarily for Iowa school children with various speech problems who are unable to attend the clinic during the school year.

These children are brought to Iowa City and housed here while attending the six-week clinic session.

PRACTICING BEFORE A MIRROR, a stuttering student (left), observes movement of his lips in an effort to eliminate unnecessary signs of stuttering from his speech. Student Clinician Kathleen McCormac makes suggestions and guides him during his attempts to achieve smoother and more relaxed speech habits. Clinicians believe that practice before a mirror gives the stutterer a more realistic view of his difficulty. Mirror work is tedious and tiring, but after three months of daily work in front of a mirror, the stutterer can speak with much less tension.

Music Workshops Scheduled

Ensemble workshops, sponsored by the SUI department of music and the extension division, are scheduled again this year for Feb. 19 and 26.

These workshops are planned as a service to the high school music instructors throughout Iowa. Invitations to attend are sent to school administrators, music directors, teachers and students.

It is the second such event to be held at the SUI school of music.

The program consists of auditions and concerts presented by groups from the various Iowa schools. These performances are discussed and criticized.

The first event, beginning Feb. 10, at 9:00 a.m., will feature brass and woodwind groups. Discussion leaders in these fields will be Lloyd F. Swartley, supervisor of instrumental music, Duluth, Minn., and George E. Waln of the conservatory of music at Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio.

Vocal and String ensemble workshops will begin on Feb. 26. Discussion leaders will be Henry Veld, conductor of the Augustana choir, Rock Island, Ill., and T.

Frank Coulter, president of the National Band, Orchestra, and Vocal association.

Last year a crowd of four hundred instructors and students from representative schools throughout the state gathered for these events. Himie Voxman, chairman of this year's series, expects an equally large representation.

The following program is scheduled for Feb. 19:

9:00 a.m.—Auditioning of ensemble performances north rehearsal hall.

12:00 noon—Luncheon Iowa Union, River room.

1:30 p.m.—Concert by wind ensembles of the SUI music department . . . north rehearsal hall.

2:50 p.m.—Continuation of high school ensemble performances.

A program for the vocal and string workshops will be announced at a later date.

Janitor's Day

School Gives Party Fit for 'Lincoln'

An Iowa City man who: (1) was born on Lincoln's birthday; (2) lives on Lincoln avenue; and (3) is janitor at Lincoln school, was given a surprise birthday party yesterday.

C. R. Carson, 31 Lincoln avenue, is 71 years young today. To make February a month of coincidences, he has a son, George Washington Carson, 26, who was born on Washington's birthday.

The 84 children at Lincoln school surprised Carson with a birthday party at 2 p.m. yesterday. They assembled in the school gymnasium and waited for him to arrive.

"They're a great bunch of kids and I never suspected they were planning a party for me," Carson said. "Two boys came down to the furnace room and said they wanted me to fix a basket in the gym. When I came upstairs, there they all were — singing 'Happy Birthday'."

Duane Petsel, 815 W. Park road, said Carson "was really surprised when he saw all of us. We gave him a birthday cake and a magazine subscription."

Carson has been employed by the school board for 18 years. He was born in Tennessee and has lived in Iowa City for 53 years.

"I like the younger children best and we all get along fine. I've been here at Lincoln for six years," he said.

Mrs. R. G. Wilson, 428 N. Riverside drive, is principal of the school. She explained, "Mr. Carson has been with us a long time and we all like him so much that the children wanted to surprise him with the party."

Carson said, "My wife will be almost as surprised as I was when she hears about the party. I've never had anything like this happen to me before."

The Carsons have three sons and two daughters, none of whom live in Iowa City.

Red Cross Claims Trouble Peak Set

January was one of the worst disaster months in the history of the American Red Cross according to information received by Mrs. Lorna L. Mathes, executive secretary of the Johnson county chapter.

The floods and blizzards in eight states during January resulted in more than 24,000 people being fed, sheltered and brought medical aid, according to compilations made at midwestern Red Cross headquarters in St. Louis.

Five major blizzards and as much as 10 feet of snow in several places of the great plains region resulted in the Red Cross giving widespread relief in five states.

Floods in Arkansas, Missouri and Illinois resulted in the Red Cross giving aid to about 4,000 people in these three states.

Nebraska remains the worst hit of all the storm states, officials said. Over 60,000 people were affected by the blizzards and some 10,000 people were given Red Cross aid.

Local Scouts 'Take Over' City Offices

Boy Scout week will reach its climax in Iowa City this morning when 13 scouts "take over" the offices at city hall.

Jack McDavid, scout field executive for Johnson district, said yesterday the young "officials" will take their oaths of office from Mayor Preston Koser at 9 a.m. From then until noon they will "run" the city.

The Scouts' Citizen party made a clean sweep in the recent election as Jim Pearson, Jr., was elected mayor.

Other scouts who will sit in the chairs of the city officials are Jack Gibson, chief of police; Karl Vorbrick, fire chief; John Nolan, police judge; Pete Pollock, city attorney, and John Rossie, city clerk.

The aldermen are John Gambrell, Don Kobes, Bill Bartley Jr., Richard Boyle, John Parsons, Keith Jones and Micheal Cunningham.

McDavid said the boys will study the duties of the officials they represent. Sometime during the morning there will be a council meeting with both regular city officials and scout "officials" attending.

City hall offices will be closed today to regular business in observance of Lincoln's birthday, a state legal holiday.

While the scout friends at home are "running" the city, Jerry Holland, Iowa City eagle scout, will represent all of Iowa's scouts when he reads a report to Gov. William S. Beardsley in Des Moines.

Funeral Services Today at 1:30 for F. Ray Harper, 67

Funeral services for F. Ray Harper, 67, an employee of the SUI grounds and building department since 1925, will be held today at 1:30 p.m. in the Oathout chapel. The Rev. P. Hewison Pollock will officiate.

Mr. Harper died Thursday at his home, 509 E. Jefferson, after an illness of several months.

He was born July 29, 1881, at Warners, N.Y., the son of William and Amelia LeClaire Harper. He married Pearl M. Tranter of Oxford in 1905 and established a home there. He later lived at Armour, S.D.

Mr. Harper moved to Iowa City in 1925, and since November of that year had been employed as a carpenter at SUI.

He was a member of Oxford lodge A.F. and A.M. He is survived by his wife, Pearl; two sons, Harold, Des Moines, and Lyle, Reno, Nev., and three grandchildren.

Burial will be in Oxford cemetery.

Three SUI students will speak tomorrow at Washington, Iowa, on the YMCA "peace caravan."

The students are Bhagwat P. Singh, Begusarai, India; Simon Ince, Istanbul, Turkey, and Yutaka Nakahata, Honolulu, Hawaii.

The "peace caravan" has been organized by the YMCA to promote international understanding.

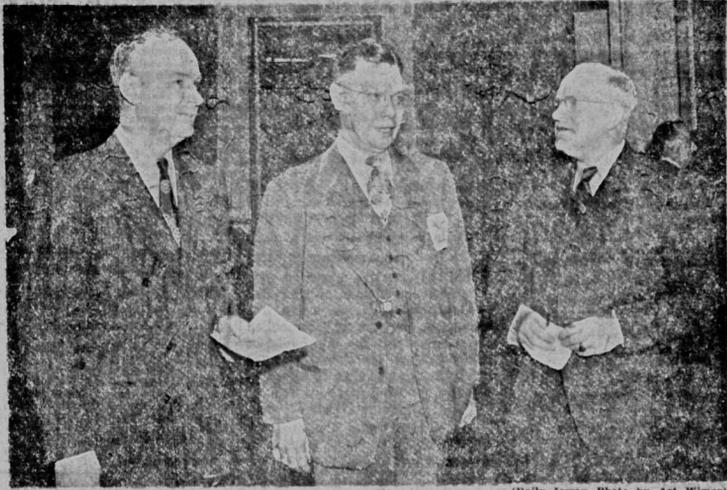

The three speakers will describe student life in their countries at a county youth rally at the Washington YMCA in the afternoon.

In the evening, they will talk at the Presbyterian church on "How to Prevent a Third World War."

Singh will discuss the emancipation of backward peoples. Ince will stress the importance of economic security and Nakahata will talk about peace in the Pacific.

Ralph Schloming, YMCA executive secretary, will be moderator.

Pollsters Investigate 'Black Tuesday, 1948'

THE "WHY'S" FOR DIFFERENCES between poll findings and election results, was the focal point of attention yesterday for these three participants in the Lincoln Conference on Attitude and Opinion Research. Dewey B. Stuit (left), acting dean of SUI's liberal arts college, presided at the 9:15 a.m. session. Henry J. Kroeger (center), director of research for the Des Moines Register and Tribune, and Archibald M. Crossley, one of the nation's "big three" pollsters, look part in various symposiums.

Petersen Tells About Abe Lincoln in Iowa

Abraham Lincoln's associations with Iowa and Iowans was the subject of a speech given yesterday to the Iowa legislature by William J. Petersen, superintendent of the state historical society.

The speech was a feature of the legislature's observance of Lincoln's birthday today.

Petersen told of land "Abe" owned in Iowa, speeches he made and friends he had in the state.

Petersen said that the material for the speech came from his and J.A. Swisher's articles on Lincoln in the January, 1948, issue of the Iowa Journal of History and Politics.

Farm land owned by Lincoln included 40 acres near Toledo and 120 near Denison. This land was granted to him for service as an infantry captain in the Black Hawk Wars.

He later bought small pieces of land in and around Council Bluffs. These were all sold by his heirs.

Even though he had to turn down many speeches in Iowa because of conflict with business, Lincoln made speeches at Grimes hall in Burlington, Dubuque and in Council Bluffs, Petersen said.

Among his friends were Greenville M. Dodge, early Council Bluffs engineer, Gov. James W. Grimes and John Francis Rague, designer of Old Capitol in Iowa City, Petersen added.

Another early connection with the state was when he served as a lawyer for the Rock Island railroad.

In 1856 he opposed steamboat interests represented by Jefferson Davis, who wanted the railroad bridge across the Mississippi between Rock Island and Davenport removed as a hindrance to river traffic.

Petersen also pointed out how Lincoln's history paralleled Iowa's. He was elected president the same year that Iowa became a state.

U of Oregon Seeks Aid Of Iowa Union's Head

R. C. Williams, director of the Student Union at the University of Oregon, will arrive today in Iowa City to confer with Prof. Earl E. Harper, director of Iowa Union and the student union board.

Williams is making an extensive tour of "the better school unions in the country," according to a letter sent here.

The information he collects about the organization of the Iowa Union, its cafeteria system, and its student activities will be used for the new Union recently built at the University of Oregon.

IC Votes Soon on School Bond Issue

The Iowa City school board voted in an extra session yesterday noon to submit the proposed $182,000 bond issue for elementary school additions to voters March 14.

Petitions asking for the vote were signed by 631 residents of Iowa City and presented to the board last Tuesday. The preliminary drawings of building plans for Lincoln and Longfellow schools were approved by the board in January.

Iowa City voters will fill three vacancies on the board in the March 14 election.

MVA Greatly Aids Iowans, Gage Says

Robert Gage, Iowa City chamber of commerce secretary, said yesterday that the Mississippi Valley association is doing much to meet Iowa's needs.

"Two of the primary purposes of the association are soil conservation and flood control," Gage said. "Nothing could be more in line with Iowa's interests."

Gage returned Thursday night from St. Louis where he attended the annual meeting of the association. The two-day convention featured army and government leaders as speakers.

The purpose of the association is to further general improvement of conditions in the Mississippi valley area, Gage said. It is composed entirely of private interests and is not a government association, he added.

WHILE DIGGING into a stack of old newspapers to find something in which I might wrap garbage yesterday I came across an interesting story about glyphs on Easter Island.

This is one of the reasons why the business of wrapping garbage at our house is a long-term process.

The glyphs and a passle of 68-foot stone images have been puzzling scientists for years. Don't scientists get puzzled about the strangest things?

UNTIL RECENTLY about all anyone knew about Easter Island was that it occupied a small portion of the Pacific and that it had an ample supply of stone images. All this has changed now. A psychologist at Bard college, New York has finally deciphered a number of glyphs found on the island.

Glyphs are little images carved out of stone or wood, which is what people used before the advent of alphabets and typewriters.

READING GLYPHS doesn't seem like much of an accomplishment to me. Any professor who has been reading essay tests could probably decipher a simple set of glyphs with no trouble at all.

But to get back to the article, it said the psychologist determined how Easter came to be populated in the first place by reading glyphs.

According to the picture writing, a tribe of natives on an island near Easter got into a fight over a woman (wouldn't you know it) with another tribe and finally packed up bag and baggage, paddling their canoes over to Easter Island.

Theoretically the island which had been their original home sank soon after the glib glyphs were carved away. They certainly could thank their lucky stars they got off that shaky island when they did.

WHEN THEY ARRIVED at Easter and got everything unpacked the natives discovered a member of the enemy tribe had stowed away in one of the canoes (imagine being stowed away in a canoe) and was going around making a general nuisance of himself.

You know how upset things get when you move. You can sympathize with these people, then, for having to put up with a pest who went around pinching the ladyfolk while they were trying to set up housekeeping in a new neighborhood.

THE STOWAWAY finally got to be such a stinker about it all that the man of the group formed a posse to capture him.

One day they caught the outlaw in a net (must have been some manhunt) and klobbered him with clubs until he expired from acute contusions.

With the ladies' minds free from worry about clandestine pinches, they completed the business of making happy homes for their families.

WITH PEACE reigning again the menfolk settled down to get fat and watch their wives make coconut traps. It was about this time the 68-foot stone images began to appear.

The scientists pass them off casually as idols, but it seems to me there is more to it than that.

In the first place these stone heads are all over the island, and they all look the same. Most idol makers try to get some touch of individuality into each creation.

This looks more like the work of an early mass production to me.

WHAT PROBABLY happened was this; an islander was fiddling around with a big rock and a chisel one day when a friend walked up and said, "Houtumata, I'd like to buy that big rock, which you have chisled to look like a head, to use as a door stop."

Houtumata, being a man who liked to pick up an easy buck, sold his rock, and immediately set up a production line.

He failed, however, to survey the demand for 68-foot door stops, and soon flooded the market.

And so, today Easter Island is cluttered up with a lot of 50-ton door stops that nobody wants.

Is There Any Doubt?

Sure It's A "Peace Offensive"

There is no reason to sneer at the current Soviet cold war "peace offensive". Actually it is just that, a cold war offensive launched behind the smokescreen of a clamor for "peace".

Item. Following on the heels of the Mindszenty case in Hungary, 15 top leaders of the United Evangelical church in Bulgaria were indicted on charges of acting as spies. The charges stacked against them: treason, violation of the foreign currency law, espionage. The charges are almost identical to those which "convicted" Mindszenty.

Item. The Communist regime in Czechoslovakia is working up steam for a crackdown on the Roman Catholic church. A popular protest is being trumped up complaining that the hierarchy does not take action against priests accused, and even indicted, of anti-state activities. Protests are also directed against the suspension of two Catholic clergymen who went along with the Communist political program.

Item. Without offering to settle the basic disagreements over international atomic control, Russia has been demanding in the UN security council that the U.S. reveal how many atomic bombs it has. This move was beaten down in a vote taken Thursday.

Item. Russian snarling and pressure are still aimed at Norway for toyng with the idea of joining the North Atlantic pact. There is no indication that Russia would allow the Scandinavian states to form a three-way security alliance.

Item. As part of the window-dressing for her "peace offensive", Russia agreed to a foreign ministers conference to draft an Austrian peace treaty. But on the first day of negotiations, Russia took up her former uncompromising stands which bogged down talks on Austria in the past. There is no reason in the world to believe that Russia will settle the Austrian account and evacuate at this time. After all, the native Communist party is too weak to control the Soviet zone — or the entire country. The Red army, therefore, must remain.

This discouraging run-down of "peace" moves indicates only one thing: if the Soviets want peace, it is still on their "whole world or none" basis. No letup in the cold war is in sight.

You Can't Reinststate a Reputation

William W. Remington said he was going to work this morning. He had a long vacation — since late last June — from his post as director of the export program staff of the office of international trade.

But now in spite of Elizabeth Bentley's accusations against him and in spite of the bad publicity he received as a "suspected" accomplice in a Communist spy ring — in spite of that, Remington got his job back.

It isn't as simple as that. Here is the case of another man like Dr. Edward U. Condon who was considered a "bad risk" for government work. Here is another case of a man who was guilty — guilty in the eyes of the public and in the eyes of his prosecutors — guilty until he was declared innocent.

Being cleared by a loyalty board is only part of the pronouncement of innocence. Employees working around the accused man as well as the general public have a tendency to view Remington with a reluctant forgiveness.

At the same time that Remington passed the inquisition, General Douglas MacArthur released a spy story that puts the pumpkins and the Bentley spy queen serial to shame.

The accused — labeled directly as "spies" by the army — were quick to deny the charge that they worked in a Communist spy ring in Japan.

However ridiculous Elizabeth Bentley may have looked to some observers when she released her spy stories, she succeeded in convincing many people that Remington and others were spies.

Possibly many who doubted Miss Bentley will not doubt MacArthur. And so for the sake of these Japan-spy-ring operators let's hope they are guilty — the Supreme Commander has announced that they are and that's just about the last word to be said.

Babson Forecasts New Depression by 1953

Roger W. Babson, nationally-known economist who forecast the 1929 market break, says the country is in for another depression and figures it will hit about 1953. In the following dispatch he explains why.

LAKE WALES, FLA. (AP)—Another depression, probably about 1953, is unavoidable primarily because "the last one never was cured," in the opinion of economist Roger Babson.

"All we ever did in the thirties was put on a few plasters to stop the pain," he said.

"We are making the same mistakes today that were made before every depression in our history and the reason is plain. We never learn from the mistakes of others. Every generation has to get its economic thumping, it seems to me."

TALKING TO reporters a few miles from his winter home at big part in lifting American living standards and are going to do a lot more to better conditions for labor. But the leadership is going to have to change."

Babson found no cause for alarm in the most recent break in stock market prices, although he did anticipate further weakness in farm commodity prices. The reason is that commodity prices still are too high and must come down, he said.

A PRIMARY REASON for price dips in securities in spite of evident prosperity lies in the placing of orders by investors to buy stocks at prices one, two or even three points under the existing price level. Such buyers aren't interested except at the prices they want to pay and stocks have to seek that level, he pointed out.

The general level of business in 1949, however, will be good he assured reporters, although not quite up to the level of 1948.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT

The Solution Was Verbal

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

You cannot make yourself into a liberal in the late forties by endorsing the legislative programs of the early thirties. That is what Governor Dewey tried to do in his Lincoln day speech, and it is not enough. He came out flat-footedly for a number of measures which were first passed ten years and more ago — "farm price supports, unemployment insurance, old-age benefits, slum clearance and other such programs."

But that's not liberalism in 1949; that's just offering a bundle of accepted concepts hardly less trite than old-time references to the rock-bound coast of Maine and the sun-kissed shores of golden California. There's been a price change in this field, as in all others; two dollars will no longer buy a hat, and an endorsement of unemployment insurance will no longer make you a liberal.

TO BE A LIBERAL in 1949, your liberalism must have some of the content of 1949 in it. But the only current and controversial measure Governor Dewey mentioned was the Murray-Wagner-Dingell bill for compulsory health insurance. He opposed it.

The governor's speech had everything in it except the year 1949. He left that out. The most important measure now before us is repeal of the Taft-Hartley act. Dewey didn't mention it. There is a great controversy as to whether we ought to build 1,050,000 new low-rent housing units, or only 600,000. It is not enough to come out for "slum clearance". How many houses are you for? Choose your number! The governor didn't choose.

ON THE VERY DAY on which he spoke there had been a shuddering decline in farm prices, with wheat falling 10 cents, corn 8 cents, etc. Liberalism, as of that night, required some mention of this, the opening of some perspective for easing the coming period of adjustment. The governor made no mention of the subject. The body of his speech could have been given the year before—and a really liberal speech can never have been given the year before.

To be liberal you must at least be current; your words must carry proof that you are marching with the men and women of your day and as of today, and if the subjects you find yourself compelled to raise are painful, that is one of the ways you know that you are really trying to be an effective liberal.

ACTUALLY, what the governor seemed to be trying to do was to rescue the Republican party, not by changing the facts, but by changing the terms we use to describe the facts.

He was reaching for a verbal solution. And to do this he had to lay violent hands upon his political orientation. He shoved the Republican party over to the left—verbally—and called it liberal; having done that he found he had to shove the Democratic party still further to the left, and call it totalitarian. As to where that left the real totalitarians, he didn't say. Nor did he explain why Mr. Truman is engaged in such a bitter fight with the Communists, if his policies are as much like theirs as this speech hinted.

Maybe the truth of the matter is that this whole attempted rearrangement is invalid, that Communists are still Communists, that Mr. Truman is a pretty good liberal, and that Mr. Dewey is, on the whole, a remorseful conservative.

BUT I HAVEN'T written this piece to attack Mr. Dewey. I've written it to raise the whole issue of verbalistic politics, of playing games with the names of things at a time when problems are real. It is true we live in a difficult and confused time. But we never show our confusion more, I think, than when we try to produce clarity through a new form of words, or try to cure our problems, not by altering facts, but by altering definitions.

The world and its problems remained the same after Mr. Dewey's speech; that is the answer, the unanswerable answer.

Interpreting the News—

Mindszenty Becomes a Symbol

By J.M. ROBERTS JR. AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Hungary's treatment of Cardinal Mindszenty has made his name the focal point for one of the great forces which may wipe communism from the face of Europe.

His sentence to life imprisonment, in its effect on people everywhere, is a decree that he shall spend his full time from now on — and perhaps even after death — doing just what he was accused of doing in fighting communism.

The peoples court — how strangely its members differ from the people to whom Abraham Lincoln attributed all power — has not only helped to solidify anti-Communist sentiment everywhere. From a very practical standpoint the Hungarian Communist government has outraged a vast proportion of the people of Hungary and advertised its own weakness in this frenzied reaction to opposition.

Communists' clear up to the Kremlin may come to look back on this deed as the worst mistake they ever made.

In Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Poland most people are Roman Catholics. They are bound by a tie that is very close to other millions of Catholics everywhere. They will not rest until this treatment of a prince of their faith is atoned for.

Thus, aside from the utter immorality of the court procedure, the Communists have turned a hard core of largely passive opposition into an active force. From it they will hear a great deal more than they ever heard from Mindszenty.

The circumstances of the case itself are hard for Americans to understand. How can a man of such stature be reduced within a few weeks from bold denunciation to pathetic surrender. What made him repudiate in open court the letter he had written weeks before warning his friends to pay no attention if he should make damaging confessions later?

The cardinal's fate is not a religious issue in the ordinary sense of the word. He said two years ago "my enemies can take from me no more than my life and that has already been given to God."

But they did take more. They took the right, which the United Nations has proclaimed for all men in its new declaration on human rights, of "freedom of thought, conscience and religion; (which) right includes freedom . . . to manifest his religion or belief in teaching, practice, worship and observance." They took another of these newly-endorsed rights, "to receive and impart information and ideas through any media and regardless of frontiers."

They took, as they seek to take from everyone, his right to be a man.

Political Union Not ERP Aim, Acheson Says

WASHINGTON (AP) - Secretary of State Dean G. Acheson said yesterday that Marshall Plan aid is not and will not be used as a club to force western Europe into a political union.

He told the senate foreign relations committee the main aim of the recovery program is to put the European democracies back on their feet economically and that it will stick to that aim.

Any decision on forming a United States of Europe will be up to the recovery nations themselves, he added.

Acheson outlined this country's attitude in testifying on the need for a second-year installment of $5,880,000,000 to carry American aid to Europe through June 30, 1950.

He said he would meet with the committee later behind closed doors to answer questions on the proposed North Atlantic security pact for possible aid to China.

At the same time, Recovery Administrator Paul G. Hoffman told a meeting of congressional wives that Europe must have military as well as economic help to remain free.

In an obvious reference to the Atlantic pact, he said, "We are wise in building up military strength—if for no other reason than to dissuade the poliburo (Russia's top policy-making body) from any rash military ventures of their own."

He said the United States and the free nations of Europe working together can flourish "in prosperity and peace." Between them, he added, they have most of the world's strategic resources.

"Most importantly, because we are a free people, the dictators know only too well that we can out-produce and out-fight the victims of police states," he asserted.

N.H. Collison, deputy chief of the ECA mission to western Germany, told the senators that Europe can never recover without Germany.

He said it is a paradox that recovery aid is being funneled into western Germany while restrictions prevent occupation authorities from storing up industries essential to Europe's recovery.

Collison said German steel and coal production must be built up at least to the levels now authorized and that German foreign trade must have a hefty shot in the arm.

Married Students Delay Rent Survey

Final decision on the rent survey made by representatives of the United Married Students' organization will be postponed until the next meeting of the UMISO.

At a meeting last night in the office of student affairs, members decided to drop all action against rent increases in the barracks and council areas.

However, the UMISO will not make a final motion on the rent survey until it is discussed by barracks and quonset councils, Chairman George N. Haffner said.

The UMISO is dropping all action because the total increase is so small, Haffner said.

Plans concerning a campaign designed to encourage married students to conserve utilities, ultimately reducing rent, was also discussed at the meeting.

Local Amvet Leaders To Attend Vet School

Commander Richard R. Knudson and First District Adjutant William Parkins of the SUI and Iowa City post 32, Amvets, will leave Iowa City Monday to attend an Amvets training school in Des Moines.

The three day school will train Amvet officials to give better service to Amvet members and other veterans on various problems.

Young Zionists Convene Here; From 10 Cities

Representatives from at least 10 Iowa cities will come to SUI this weekend to attend a Youth Zionist conference sponsored by the Iowa chapter of Intercollegiate Zionist Federation of America.

The conference will be held today and Sunday. The purpose of the conference is to introduce the purposes of Zionism to young people of Iowa and to inspire them to continue Zionist work at colleges and at home, Group President Shirley Elman said yesterday.

Co-chairmen of the event will be Hilda Greenberg, A2, Cedar Rapids and Burton Wiener, A2, Dubuque.

Approximately 40 representatives are expected from Dubuque, Cedar Rapids, Washington, Ottumwa, Burlington, Marshalltown, Mason City, Fort Dodge, Waterloo, and Newton, Wiener said.

Featured speaker at a 7 p.m. dinner at Reich's cafe today will be Rabbi Herman Shaalman, Cedar Rapids. He will speak on "The Place of American Jewish Youth Now That a Jewish State Has Been Declared."

Following the dinner, there will be social dancing at Hill house. A cantata, "What is Torah?" will be presented at the dance by Ben Shlaes, C3, Rock Island, Ill., and Judy Fein, A1, and Annette Feigenbaum, A1, both of East Chicago, Ind.

Tomorrow morning a folk dancing and song program will be held at Hill house with Mrs. Herman Worton of the local Hadassah organization in charge.

Four SUI professors will speak tomorrow afternoon at Hill house, Wiener said.

Prof. Jack T. Johnson of the political science department will discuss "British Foreign Policy in the Near East" and Prof. Judah Goldin of the school of religion will speak on Jewish literature.

Prof. Leo Levin of the law school will discuss the recent elections in Israel and Prof. Arnold Fox of the English department will speak on the colonies in Palestine.

Women Voters Plan Luncheon For City Primary Candidates

City primary candidates will be feted by the Iowa City League of Women Voters at a luncheon and reception at the English Lutheran church Monday noon.

Invitations have been sent to all candidates, according to Mrs. E. L. DeGowin. Most of the candidates, including Mayor Preston Koser, Mrs. Howard L. Beye and Carl E. Redenbaugh, candidates for the Republican nomination for mayor, have indicated that they will attend.

At the luncheon the candidates will be introduced to the league members. Informal discussion is planned. The planning committee expects nearly 100 league members to be present.

The group will be addressed by Mrs. Robert Iversen, Iowa's delegate to the national league conference on the United Nations at Lake Success.

The Iowa delegate returned to Iowa City two weeks ago. She plans to report on the conference and her experiences at Lake Success where she met Warren Austin, the U.S. delegate to the Security Council; Phillip Jessup, Austin's alternate, and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, U.S. delegate-at-large.

Mrs. Iversen will also discuss methods to be used by league groups throughout Iowa for the spread of information about the UN.

The League of Women Voters has been directing its activities on a national scale this year to the general theme of better understanding of the UN.

The handbook committee will present a skit pointing out the duties and responsibilities of the mayor and aldermen in Iowa City.

According to the committee, reservations may no longer be made for the luncheon, but the general public is invited to attend and participate in the activities following.

Minus Headlines

Lincoln's Death Story Found in Paper

No screaming headline told of the death of Abraham Lincoln in the New York Tribune in 1865.

In the far left hand corner of the paper the words, "Important—Assassination of President Lincoln," announced the tragedy to the people of the United States.

A well-preserved copy of the paper dated April 15, 1865, was found by Mrs. A. J. Younkin, 309 S. Linn street, while she was going through some old papers several years ago.

The paper has not yellowed with age and is not torn. Only the front page of the four-cent paper was saved. A large woodcut of Lincoln appears in the middle of the front page. Black column rules approximately an eighth of an inch wide separate the news stories.

The entire front page deals almost exclusively with the death of the president. John Wilkes Booth is mentioned as the "alleged assassin," and the paper reports that Secretary Seward was "daggered."

The paper has been in the possession of Mrs. Younkin's family for many years. Her father, Ezra Thompson, saved the paper. He was a Civil war veteran from Ohio. Mr. Younkin's father also was a veteran in the war.

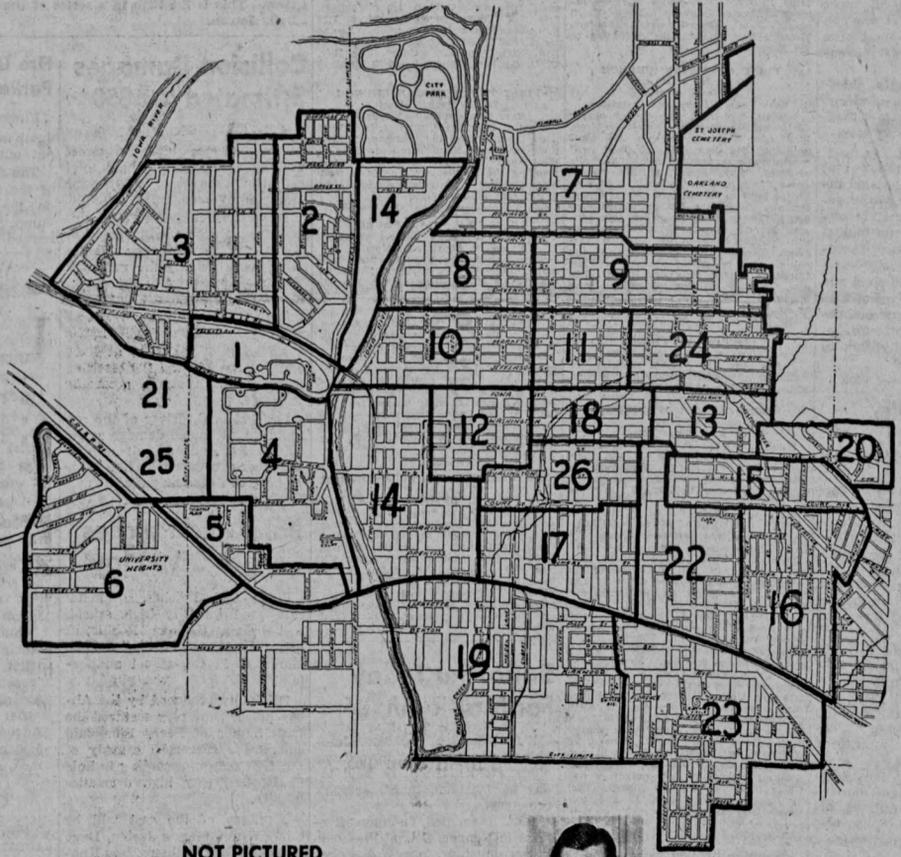

Mr. and Mrs. Younkin have lived in Iowa City for many years. Younkin is now retired, but was formerly in the grocery business.
