Price Drops Treated 'Healthy' By Federal Economic Advisor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, top economic advisor to President Truman, said yesterday the United States is going through a period of "healthy dis-inflation," but cautioned that jitters might lead to a recession.

Several business men meanwhile spoke out against President Truman's request for standby price-control controls as an irritant to business.

At the White House and on Capitol Hill, experts in taking the country's economic pulse were busy trying to diagnose the recent decline in prices and spell out what it portends for the immediate future.

Emerging from a conference with Mr. Truman, Dr. Nourse told newsmen that everything will be all right if people will avoid "getting jittery" over what he termed a "healthy" falling off in prices.

As he spoke, reports from Wall Street noted "indecision" in the New York stock market, with supply and demand closely matched and business skimpy. Prices went a bit lower yesterday afternoon. Traders were reported keeping a sharp eye on Washington events, watching for straws in the wind as to how Congress may act on President Truman's tax, labor and anti-inflation proposals.

Dr. Nourse, chairman of the President's economic advisory council, declared that too many nervous qualms could be "snowed into a recession."

Explaining his use of the word "disinflation," Dr. Nourse said it is quite different from "deflation."

He said disinflation takes the pressure off prices while deflation could mean a collapse of the price structure.

Army Backs Down On Story of Soviet Espionage in Japan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Army, under criticism for issuing its recent report on wartime Soviet espionage in Japan, virtually admitted yesterday that it had blundered.

Col. George S. Eyster, deputy chief of the army's public information division, said among other things that the division had no proof at hand to back up the charge in the report that Miss Agnes Smedley, American writer on far east affairs, was a Russian spy.

Miss Smedley has heatedly denied the accusation. A number of newspaper editorials and syndicated columns have contended the report was lurid in style, insufficiently documented, and of a character to arouse suspicion and fear.

Eyster said the form in which the report was issued was contrary to the usual public relations policy of the army.

"It is definitely not the policy of the army department," he told a reporter, "to pin any charge on anybody unless it has actually in hand, the definite proof."

The public relations officer said he also feels that the narrative style used for the report was open to question. He said the document's "philosophical" observations were out of place in a factual, official account.

Truman Tells Vets To Ease Demands

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman warned the nation's veterans yesterday that they must not demand too many costly benefits or they may bankrupt the government they fought to defend.

While he did not specifically mention the Rankin pension bill pending in the house, his guarded remarks appeared to be aimed at the controversial proposal to pay $80 monthly pensions to veterans of both world wars at age 65.

The President spoke informally to national officers of the Veterans of Foreign Wars who called at the White House after a policy meeting here.

Federal Aid to Schools Advocated by McGrath

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Earl James McGrath, President Truman's nominee as U.S. commissioner of education, yesterday declared he favored federal aid to schools from kindergarten to college.

McGrath, former dean of the college of liberal arts at the State University of Iowa, explained he spoke only as a private citizen as his appointment awaits Senate confirmation.

VA Payments to ISC To Resume this Fall

DES MOINES (AP) — Perry Fraser, state education division chief, said yesterday that the veterans administration will resume payments to Iowa State College for the 1949 fall and winter quarters.

VA payments to the college for veterans' education costs were suspended six months ago when the government's general accounting office said the school had received more than $500,000 in over-payments.

Under the new contract, Iowa State will receive about $500,000 when the papers are signed, Fraser said.

Investigator Claims U.S. Observer Killed By Greek Guerrillas

ATHENS (AP) — A U.S. investigating officer charged yesterday that Greek guerrillas lynched Lt. Col. Selden R. Edner, an unarmed American observer whose plane crash-landed behind guerrilla lines near Karpenisi four weeks ago.

The Communist "Free Greece" radio had declared at the time that guerrillas shot down the plane and both Edner and his Greek pilot, a Lieutenant Tsoukas, died in the crash. The stripped and mutilated body of Edner, recovered Feb. 16, was identified through dental and medical records.

The charge that guerrillas slew Edner was made by Lt. Col. Daniel F. Riva of East Hartford, Conn., who investigated the crash and talked with many witnesses.

"It is safe to conclude," Riva said, "that Edner was killed within two hours after the plane landed."

Edner, 30, was a decorated veteran of service in both the American eagle squadron of the British RAF and the U.S. airforce in World War II. He was serving in Greece under the American aid program. His home was in San Jose, Calif. He was a native of Fergus Falls, Minn.

Riva said he believed Edner was injured, but able to step out of the partly wrecked plane unaided. Witnesses were quoted as saying guerrillas killed "the passenger" and then forced a number of them to certify he was an American and that he was found dead.

A Greek RAF flight sergeant, Nicolaos Koutantakis, found the bodies of Edner and Tsoukas in a deep ravine on the outskirts of Karpenisi. Both had been stripped of their outer clothing. Edner's head was crushed and a noose was around his neck.

Year's Corn Goal Aimed at '48 High

WASHINGTON (AP) — The agriculture department yesterday urged farmers to plant the same corn acreage this year as last year, but asked the south to cut back cotton acreage by seven percent.

The farmers were asked to plant the same corn acreage to insure continued ample feed grains for expanding meat production next year. But to avoid piling up surpluses, southern cotton farmers were asked to reduce their planting.

They said it was a lucrative business. The illegal meat sold at 38 cents a pound and was made from 10-cents-a-pound horse meat and 13-cents-a-pound suet.

STURGEON BAY, WIS. (AP) — Maybe it's cheaper by the pound. Butcher Francis Ripp advertised his 1837 model automobile for sale. He asked "11 cents a pound."

DUNBAR, ILLINOIS (AP) — The principal marketer, the medical association said, is the Westwood Pharmacal Corporation of Buffalo, N.Y., which sells the substitute under the commercial name of "Westal."

"The lithium in such cases is retained in the body and causes the poisoning."

In Washington, the food and drug administration asked all persons who have purchased lithium chloride to "stop using this dangerous poison at once."

Senate Group Doesn't Object

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Senate foreign relations committee yesterday raised no objections to Secretary of State Dean G. Acheson going ahead with negotiations on the north Atlantic security pact after Acheson gave the group a secret preview of the treaty.

Committee members were pledged to secrecy on the closed-door talks but said the secretary was given "a general impression" that he could go ahead with final negotiations with assurances of senate support.

The treaty, an alliance between the United States, Canada, Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg, must be ratified by the senate before the United States could participate.

It was made clear that the committee, headed by Sen. Tom Connally, (D-Tex.), made no formal promise of support for the sweeping undertaking, but members said there was no word of dissent at Acheson's plan to push the negotiations to completion.

Connally was asked by reporters whether the committee and Acheson reached tentative agreement as to the United States position. He replied "I can't say that." He added that it had been agreed that "none of us" would discuss the meeting.

Some senators indicated that while the pact promises U.S. support in meeting an attack in Europe, there is no pledge of automatic military aid.

Farmers are unable to market thousands of tons of potatoes at prices one-fifth of those which prevailed two years ago.

Eggs are at the lowest level since 1946. Black market butter is selling only slightly higher than the legal controlled price. Meat, wine and poultry prices declined.

Industrial prices still were not seriously affected. But for the first time in 10 years production and stocks on hand exceeded the demand. Retail stores are holding big clearance sales.

Four Die After Using Salt Substitute

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Medical Association announced yesterday at least four persons have died recently after using a substitute for common table salt in seasoning foods.

Three of the deaths occurred in Cleveland, Ohio, one in Ann Arbor, Mich., and "there is one case in Baltimore that's suspicious," the AMA said.

"It is to be expected that many more cases will be reported within the next few weeks," Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the AMA Journal, said. "We do not know how widely the product has been distributed but the U.S. food and drug administration has ordered it withdrawn from the market."

"The lithium in such cases is retained in the body and causes the poisoning."

In Washington, the food and drug administration asked all persons who have purchased lithium chloride to "stop using this dangerous poison at once."

He said injections of sodium chloride by a physician may have some counteracting effect.

Dr. Paul B. Dunbar, commissioner of food and drugs, said three firms manufacturing the lithium salts have withdrawn them from the market.

The products and the companies involved, Dunbar said, are:

Westal, Westwood Pharmaceutical division, Foster - Millburn Co., Buffalo, N.Y.; Food-Sales Foods Plus, Inc., New York City and Salisburia, Luethis Bakery, Kansas City, Mo.

Dunbar said symptoms of the poisoning are drowsiness, weakness, loss of appetite, nausea, shakiness of the limbs, blurred vision and unconsciousness.

He said injections of sodium chloride by a physician may have some counteracting effect.

Dr. Fishbein said symptoms of the poisoning are similar to those of uremia. Persons with high blood pressure, he added, are usually restricted in their salt diet.

The AMA council on pharmacy and chemistry found by tests, he reported, that it is "poisonous to animals in low doses and more poisonous when animals or people are taking a low sodium diet."

Dr. Fishbein said that other similar salt substitutes "occasionally marketed by other agencies are being recalled from the market."

An AMA spokesman described the salt substitute as a "slow acting poison" but said the exact time it requires to take effect is not known.

Tankers Rip Badgers

Hawks Win Without Ris

By JOHN HOLWAY

Iowa swimmers took advantage of Wisconsin to break four Iowa records and whipped the Badgers, 57-27, in the fieldhouse pool last night.

Wally Ris was kept out of the meet with a case of ptomaine poisoning, but Duane Draves, Bowen Stassforth, Kenny Marsh and the medley relay team clipped university marks last night.

Draves took a tenth of a second off his own pool and SUI record with a time of 1:35.5. He was followed by Dick Maine who won by a good margin over the Badgers.

Bud Griesbach, swimming unofficially, also beat the Wisconsin men with no contest.

Breaks Own Record

Bowen Stassforth, who last week gave the highly regarded Keith Carter a scare in the Iowa-Purdue meet, last night went 2:22.9 to break his own Iowa record by almost five seconds and come within seven-tenths of a second of tying Carter's pool mark.

In his first conference appearance since a back injury took him out of the water early in January, Kenny Marsh came back strong in the 50-yard spring last night to clip Ed "Rusty" Garst's pool record.

Marsh thrashed to a 23.7 against Garst's 23.9 and Carter's pool record of 23. flat.

The medley relay team of Draves, Stassforth and Erv Straub beat its own pool records though it had no competition from Wisconsin. The trio was clocked in 2:54.9, a second under the Iowa record set at Ohio State last Saturday and three full seconds below its pool record against Purdue.

Loses Only Two Races

Iowa lost only the 220 and 440-yard races, though John Boyd and Herman Lehman rescued second and third in the 220 and Lehman took second in the 440.

While Stassforth swam officially in winning the breaststroke, Larry Larimore was the official winner by overtaking his old high school rival, Dick Keith, in the last yards, as three Iowa men again outshone the Badgers.

Garst and Bobby Busch once again finished one-two for the Hawks in the 100, and Dave Brockway took the diving by a 37-point margin over Wisconsin's Captain Bruce Fellows.

Russia Takes Step Toward Competing In Olympic Games

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Russia has taken another step toward participation in the 1925 Olympic games by applying for membership in the International Amateur Ice Hockey federation, a Soviet sports official told the United Press yesterday.

I. Wagapov, who came to Stockholm accompanied by two of the USSR's leading hockey trainers to observe the current world championships, said the Russians hoped to tour abroad next year with our best teams."

Although he made no mention of the next Olympic at Helsinki, Finland, it is generally known that Russia has been seeking admission to the various international sports associations to satisfy the prerequisites for participation in the games.

The Soviets already have been admitted to four federations, including wrestling and swimming, and have applied for membership in at least 10 others.

"Ice hockey is becoming very popular in Russia, especially in Moscow," Wagapov said. "The youngsters in particular like hockey very much."

"We hope to tour abroad with our best teams," the Soviet observer continued, "but we will never be able to beat the United States and Canadian teams with their own weapons. They will always be too tough."

The Russian officials said that the world championship tournament "was very interesting" and that they had "learned a lot."

Savold Will Fight Charles if Conditions Met

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Daly, manager of heavyweight Lee Savold, beat Joe Louis' Monday "deadline" last night by announcing that Savold was willing to meet Ezzard Charles in a challenging battle on two conditions.

Those conditions were: (1) that Charles must beat Joey Maxim impressively in their Cincinnati fight on Feb. 28, and (2) that Louis must put up a forfeit of $50,000 guaranteeing a June title defense against the Savold-Charles winner.

Louis previously announced that he would demand a guarantee of $400,000 if he decided to defend his championship again this year.

Daly made his announcement after a half-hour conference with Harry Markson, managing director of the 20th Century club.

Meanwhile in Cincinnati, Promoter Sam Becker, a clothing manufacturer here who makes boxing his hobby, offered Louis a $400,000 guarantee to defend his title this summer against the Charles-Maxim winner.

UN Peace Attempts Fail, Students Say

SUI students are not satisfied with the United Nations' attempts for world peace, according to a recent poll sponsored by the SUI United World Federalists chapter.

Only 17 percent of several hundred students questioned agreed with the UN's tactics to achieve peace, UWF President William Shuttleworth said yesterday in announcing the results of the poll.

The poll showed instead that students favor strengthening the UN by giving it jurisdiction over the production of atomic bombs, biological weapons and other armaments. About 80 percent of the students polled favored such controls.

Over 37 percent said they would back a world federation to gain peace — the UWF objective — by joining the local UWF chapter. About 52 percent are familiar with UWF objectives and of these, 85 percent agreed with them, the survey showed.

The poll was not aimed at determining conclusive student opinion on world government but rather at measuring the interest in it, Shuttleworth explained.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THIS story must be told about a Scotch terrier. His mistress, off for a five-day vacation, gave the pooh five shiny pennies and said, "Now, Mac, take one of these pennies in your mouth every morning while I'm gone, trot down to the bakery, and buy yourself a nice hot bun."

Mac did no such thing, however. He took all five pennies in his mouth at the same time and got six buns for a nickel.

Definitions from a freshman's chemistry examination paper:
Chlorine—A dancer in a night club. Copper—A man who guards fire escapes at the girls' dormitory. Antimony—Fee collected by ex-wives smart enough to leave their husbands. Carbon—Storage place for streetcars. Catalyst—A western ranch owner. Boron—A person of low mentality. Electrolyte—A thing which when it is dark you turn on and it gets bright. Tension—An Army order. Mischief—Unhappy. Barium—What you do to dead people.

22 Schools to Audition Here

The first of two music workshops to be held at SUI will open today in the north rehearsal hall at 9 p.m. with 22 Iowa high schools auditioning in brass and woodwind ensemble performances.

This is the second of the annual series of small ensemble workshops to be held at SUI. The program will consist largely of auditioning and criticism of the 12 ensembles in the brass division and the 16 appearing in the woodwind section.

Today's workshop will be directed by Lloyd F. Swartley, supervisor of instrumental music at public schools in Duluth, Minn., and George E. Waln of the conservatory of music, Oberlin college, Oberlin, Ohio.

The program will begin with the auditioning of ensemble performances from 9 a.m. until noon. Discussions on these performances will be led by Swartley and Waln. A noon luncheon in the River room of the Iowa Union will follow.

A concert of wind chamber music will be presented by 1:30 p.m. in the north rehearsal hall by

Iowa City Youths See World Sights In Army and Navy

Three Iowa City servicemen are seeing the world in the service.

Pfc. Vernon A. Eggenburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Eggenburg, 419 Second avenue, is serving with the Eighth army in Kumamoto, Kyushu, Japan.

He was recently transferred to 2nd Battalion headquarters of the 21st Inf. regiment, a unit of the famed 24th Inf. "Victory" division.

Joseph L. Hartzler, radioman second class, whose wife lives at 1832 Muscatine avenue, is currently making a cruise of Mediterranean ports aboard the destroyer, USS H.J. Thomas, a part of the sixth task force.

Seaman apprentice Harold L. Meeker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Meeker, 712 Kimball avenue, participated in extensive fleet training recently in the Caribbean area while serving on the submarine, USS Corsair. The sub forms part of carrier division 17 of the Atlantic fleet.

Pfc. Eggenburg enlisted in December, 1946 and Seaman apprentice Meeker entered the service in November, 1947.

83-Year-Old Victim Of Heart Disease In Fair Condition

Miss Belle Durant, 83, who collapsed in her home Thursday evening, was reported in fair condition at Mercy hospital last night.

They said Bach and several other neighbors were clustered around Miss Durant's front door when they arrived. Miss Durant could be seen lying on the floor

She lives alone at 917 Bowery street.

Police were summoned to her home at 6:30 p.m. Thursday by Marcus Bach, a neighbor, when she failed to answer the door, police reported.

Patrolmen Fred Lewis and Emmett Potter said the doors and windows were tightly locked. They broke a small window pane to gain entrance.

Dr. E.W. Paulus said Miss Durant has a heart disease and, in view of her age, probably became too weak to nourish herself properly and collapsed.

By BILL McBRIDE
A GROUP OF Madison, Wisconsin mothers descended upon the Wisconsin state senate the other day full of righteousness and fairly bursting with the civic fadots.

When women get an idea about legislation they think should be passed, they really work themselves into a lather. This is not meant to be a slam at women's groups in general, because our local league of women voters has proven what fine community services can be rendered by an assembly of females.

THE WISCONSIN GROUP tried to persuade its law makers that radio programs featuring blood, lust and crime should be banned legally. The mothers claimed such programs tend to distort the pliable minds of their children.

I can't believe that adolescent minds are susceptible to corruption only by radio. That's overestimating the powers of that instrument considerably.

I RECALL my mind being distorted at an early age by the friendly old fairy tale of Hansel and Gretel. The only radio we had access to at the time was a crystal set with but one set of earphones for the family. I got my mind corrupted at school, which, I suppose, is the difference between good and bad corruption.

On this particular instance my mind was corrupted in two entirely different manners. When story time came all the youngsters seated themselves on the floor around the teacher.

BEING A SHY lad, I took a place on the periphery of the gathering. The teacher didn't like that, so she told me to slide up closer. That caused the first corruption.

The floor of our classroom was an ancient affair, probably made of hand hewn oak. In the process of obeying the teacher's order my little sister made harsh contact with a six-inch splinter.

I bear the scar of that wound to this day, and I've been pretty eccentric on the subject of rough floors since then.

FOR THE REST of the day (I repeat—I was a shy lad) that splinter harassed me on end. Sitting there in misery, listening to the teacher tell us about Hansel and Gretel being lost in the woods, I began to envy those fictional characters.

They might have been lost and hungry, but at least they could sit down in their suffering.

When the teacher came to the part about pushing the evil old witch into the oven, a new thought entered my mind . . . why not push teacher into an oven?

If there had been an oven handy, I'd have tried it too. In fact, I still would . . . pretty corrupt, huh?

WELL, SO MUCH for the blood department. Now to get into the lust area. Most kids are supposed to learn about sex and lust and such stuff from the old birds, bees and flowers routine.

It was not so with me. I learned the facts of life from a hybrid seed corn man. This fellow was fresh out of (excuse the expression) Iowa State college. He was one of the first to attempt raising hybrid seed corn on a commercial basis in our neck of the woods.

Because he was a pioneer in the field, he was looked upon as some sort of a crackpot by the local citizenry.

WITH NO ONE else to listen to him, he would tell me all about the corrupting sex life of an ear of corn.

I don't recall how I thought little ears of corn were born, but at the time I certainly had no idea there was even such a thing as boy and girl corn plants . . . such innocence.

It turned out that corn does have a sex life, and a lusty one at that. When the proper time of the year arrives the little girl ear gives out with a love call only audible to other ears of corn.

When that happens the little boy plant gets all excited and puffs a cloud of powerful pollen all over the girl plant. There's nothing romantic about that. It's positively indecent, and even now I can't look an ear of corn in the face without blushing.

Three Million for Education —

Three million dollars goes to work today to educate the American public. The American Medical Association's crusade against compulsory health insurance started with an assessment against all AMA members and with this money the association hired a nationwide advertising firm.

Not all the doctors went along with the association. Iowa doctors for a while were split on the issue of following the AMA's program of fighting compulsory health insurance.

As one doctor put it, "The people feel they want health security . . . they'll probably get it. By spending millions to oppose this social desire, the doctors are merely losing out — they won't be in the driver's seat."

Peron Losing in His Own Game —

Argentina's Gen. Juan Peron is retreating from his robber-baron stand — he is backtracking on his plans to write his own economic ticket on the markets of the world.

When the Argentine strongman came into power he initiated an ambitious five-year plan for building an industrial economy. To finance this, he created the State Trade organization (IAPI) to monopolize the country's export business. The idea was to sell desperately needed Argentine beef and grain to the world at artificially high prices. This in turn would help finance the five-year plan.

As a result, Argentine cattlemen and farmers were allowed a slim profit margin by the IAPI while it in turn was accumulating large revenues. But there was one major snag — Peron could not force the world in line with his ideas.

Argentina has virtually out-priced herself on the world's markets. The country has deprived itself of Marshall plan trading dollars it could have gotten from Europe to spend in the U.S. The economic strangulation killed all talk of the five-year plan. In recent months, crop surpluses have been rotting in Buenos Aires warehouses and elevators. Farmers are reducing acreages and cattlemen are refusing to ship cattle to packers.

Observers have been predicting an economic crash if the present trend continues. Peron's rule could crash along with the economy. He has taken steps at last to reverse the export trend and recover lost markets.

This week the IAPI announced that it was prepared to accept world market prices on 30,000 tons of linseed oil. The state trading organization was reported to have authorized quebracho tanning extract producers to reduce their price from $260 to $215. Barter deals are in the wind between Argentina and the U.S. in which Peron is pricing his wares below world market prices.

The Argentine dictator has learned a lesson. The world was helpless to stop him from coming to power. But in a country that depends on trade with the world, outsiders can come close to pushing a dictator off his throne.

Reveals Tax Dodging Scheme —

Tobey Asks Crackdown on 'Charity Trusts'

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Charles W. Tobey, (R-N.H.), asked Congress yesterday to plug "loopholes" through which he said American business men were dodging hundreds of millions of dollars in taxes each year.

This dodging, he said, comes through the use of so-called charitable trusts. It was revealed in a three-month investigation of Textron, Inc., of New York by a Senate subcommittee of which he is chairman, he said.

Tobey's son, Charles W. Jr., subcommittee counsel, said the investigation of the company revealed the "pattern" of operation of hitherto unchecked trusts which, he said, may have cost the government as much as $1-billion in less than five years.

Tobey said five trusts created by or for Textron actually aided the textile empire rather than their purported beneficiaries. He charged they failed to pay federal income taxes though their profits were used mainly in "fantastic" financial manipulations with Textron aid its subsidiaries.

The report urged congressional pressure to force internal revenue commissioner George J. Schoeneman to collect "several million dollars" in back taxes from three Textron-linked trusts and millions more from other "so-called charitable foundations" throughout the nation.

Tobey's report, made to the Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, said the trusts were able to increase original contributions of $1,100 to a net worth of more than $6-million within a few years.

He said there was a complex maze of negotiations among the trusts and Textron in which manufacturers would be purchased and their assets liquidated.

The cash thus obtained, he said, would be distributed in dividends to the trusts.

"This cash, received tax-free by the trusts, was then available to Textron for the purchase of Textron securities or physical assets," Tobey said. He claimed only an "infinitesimal" amount was paid to charities.

With the start of the national-wide campaign, the association announced that representatives of the principal voluntary hospital and medical insurance agencies have been invited to a conference.

TO THE EDITOR:

In his Information First talk Nat Finney made the statement that we have decided on a welfare state. That is both obvious and desirable. In fact, it seems inevitable in an age when "common man" is so much in the grip of circumstances over which he has little control. It is desirable if we still believe in the "general welfare."

Second, if we desire to prevent state absorption of industry, cooperatives are an excellent method. Control is private and more democratic than in most American corporations. While particular benefits are the primary purpose, profit is not disdained and is returned to the original investors. In addition, cooperatives have the effect of reducing and controlling monopolies; a traditional American concept.

Provision of work opportunities by the government is a type of activity which certainly is a necessity for any state in time of economic stress. In short, social security is accepted by the people as one of the purposes for which the government is established.

How are such assurances achieved? One answer is the totalitarian state. Adherents of this system believe any administration of private control means the thwarting of plans for the good of the whole people. No opposition is therefore tolerated.

Then there are those who claim state planning is necessary but that it is possible to maintain democracy in the process. While we have never had a thoroughly tested example, the British are at least running a test case on this approach. Indications seem to support the belief that the Labor government finds it increasingly necessary to acquire further control to satisfy its program.

But there is another method of providing for the general welfare which seems more in line with traditional American ideas. It is the hybrid Swedish, "middle of the road" way.

The Swedes save combined use of cooperatives and state-and-private partnerships in a manner which has given them an apparently acceptable apportionment of the fruits of modern technology. Of course there are factors which have contributed to this success; among them profitable neutrality in war and relative smallness of the economy.

But it seems to me there are valuable lessons to be learned here. First, it is obvious private capital is going to have to accept more direction and advice from the government, i.e. people.

Second, if we desire to prevent state absorption of industry, cooperatives are an excellent method. Control is private and more democratic than in most American corporations. While particular benefits are the primary purpose, profit is not disdained and is returned to the original investors. In addition, cooperatives have the effect of reducing and controlling monopolies; a traditional American concept.

Third, where it appears desirable government can exercise a voice in industrial matters by partnership with private capital and still avoid dictatorship. In Sweden, government enters into various enterprises as a business affair with individual investors, putting up so much capital and acquiring representation on boards of directors.

Thus the general welfare has its voice through government and yet does not demand absolute obedience by well-known police state methods. Private enterprise still has its chance, but is more accountable, in line with modern goals for a synthesis of freedom and security.

Something of this type appears to be the only alternative to absolute and complete state control of the economy and lives of the people. We want to be assured that shifting tides of prosperity and depression will not leave half of us desolate and freedom. Unless it is.

We also want a place for private sources come up with solutions to the problems of security it seems likely government will. In the effort, government is very apt to destroy our liberty.

If adopted soon enough cooperatives and state-private partnerships can save personal freedom and initiative enterprise.

John Elliott.

'The Doctor' Gets a Slogan —

AMA Opens Drive Against 'Insurance'

CHICAGO (UPI) — The American Medical Association started a $3-million campaign yesterday against what it says is "socialized medicine."

The tight-knit group representing most of the nation's doctors issued directives to units in all states to oppose government compulsory insurance proposals.

The campaign was under the direction of Whitaker and Baxter, a nationwide advertising firm, and was being financed by assessments of $25 against each AMA member.

Clem Whitaker, member of the firm, said the object of the drive was to avert the "creeping paralysis of bureaucratic regimentation of the people's lives."

In Washington meantime, Federal Security Administrator Oscar Ewing said President Truman "means to do everything possible" to get his national health insurance program enacted. He told a luncheon sponsored by the Committee for the Nation's Health that there is no subject on which Mr. Truman "feels as deeply" or "is more emotional." Ewing previously denounced the AMA's drive in circulation and issuing their objections.

The action of the association's board of trustees was unprecedented in AMA history.

A group of 136 doctors protested against the $25 assessment and charged the AMA with "unwillingness fully to acknowledge the need for improvement" of medical care in the nation.

The rebuke, published in the Journal of the American Medical Association, said the protesting doctors did "an unfortunate disservice to the cause of the medical profession of the United States" in circulating and issuing their objections.

The officials said that the new 12-point plan shows the board objectives which the association has for wider and better distribution of medical care and disproves the allegation that the AMA has no forward-looking plan for improvement.

The AMA reply said the $3-million fund "is not for lobbying nor in any way a 'slush fund'" but would be used for "education" of the nation regarding medical care available.

The protesting group included Dr. George Baehr, former president of the New York Academy of Medicine, and Dr. Edward Park, pediatrician, both of Baltimore and Dr. W. Barry Wood, St. Louis, and Dr. Hugh Morgan, Nashville, Tenn.

She said the picture will carry the caption, "keep policies out of this picture" and will carry a text that will say, "compulsory health insurance is political medicine. It would bring a third party — a politician — between you and your doctor."

AMA official said their campaign will be educational and will support voluntary health programs and voluntary pre-paid insurance.

Burial Rites Today For Miss Einig, 72

Funeral services for Miss Genevieve Einig, 72, 210 1-2 N. Linn street, will be today at 9 a.m. at St. Mary's church.

Miss Einig died Thursday afternoon at Mercy Hospital after a lingering illness.

She was born in Solon and came to Iowa City as a young girl and had lived here since.

Miss Einig is survived by one sister, Mrs. Joe Faber, Hills, three nephews, George and Louis Goss, Iowa City, and Ed Goss, Oxford, and one niece, Mary Casey, of Denver, Colo.

I Friends Give Blood to Fire Victim

Fred C. Moore, reported in "serious condition" at University hospitals, is being aided by blood donations from former army "buddies," friends, relatives and Iowa City coach company employees.

Moore was dragged from a burning trailer located on the George Myers farm, a quarter mile east of Iowa City Wednesday afternoon. He suffered severe burns about the head, arms and chest and "is doing as well as can be expected," hospital officials said yesterday.

Eighteen pints of blood have been donated for Moore, who had undergone 27 transfusions by yesterday morning.

Iowa City Coach company employees, where Moore worked as night service man, gave more than ten pints yesterday. J.E. Negus, employee at the bus company, said, "The boys are anxious and willing to help Fred out, seeing that he needs it."

Mrs. Clarence Mahanna and her son, Harold, donated blood yesterday afternoon. Harold explained that his Dad, employed at the bus company, couldn't give blood "so mother and I gave ours."

Former army friends of the 34th division, with which Moore fought during World War II, and the local chapter of the V.F.W. 2587, had already given blood, Mrs. Roy Lenz, his sister, said.

Ray Floerchinger, operator of the Deep Rock gas station, who fought with Moore in the 34th division, said he expected about 15 of the boys were going to give Fred the blood he needs so badly." Ray had been to the hospital yesterday for his donation.

Mrs. Florence Moore of Coralville, mother of the burned victim, explained that relatives and friends had "responded wonderfully."

Vet Housing Pamphlet Offered Future Owners

If you are a veteran of World War II and are planning to buy a house, there is a government pamphlet available in the office of the area rent director for your guidance.

Announcement of the availability of this pamphlet was made yesterday by T.J. Wilkinson, area rent director.

Information about the veterans' emergency housing program is included in the pamphlet. In addition, steps a veteran may take in filing complaints with the rent office are outlined. Violations of the law concerning priority built homes and non-observance of veterans' preference on new homes built for sale or rent are included, Wilkinson said.

"Because of the limited supply of these pamphlets, it will not be possible to distribute copies, but they may be seen at the rent office and at the public and university libraries here," Wilkinson said.

The publication is a veterans' guide to government assistance on homes bought or built under GI guaranteed loans, FHA insured loans and VEHP priorities. It is intended as a guide to self-help and protection in any home purchase transaction," the area rent director said.

The pamphlet is published by the office of the housing expediter in cooperation with the housing and home finance agency (including FHA) and the veterans' administration.

Additional copies are available through the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, 25, D.C., at five cents each, Wilkinson said.

Gustaf Peterson, SUI Graduate, to Edit Paper

"FREE AMERICA IN IOWA" is the name of the new newspaper edited by Gustaf G. Peterson, 34-year-old SUI graduate. The first issue of the five column tabloid will appear this month. The newspaper, with offices in Iowa City, will be based on economic tenets in the book "Free America" by L. R. Henry. The shaded area on the map shows the area of eastern Iowa in which the paper will circulate.

Iowans to Have New Tabloid

The first issue of a new tabloid, "Free America of Iowa," will appear this month, Editor Gustaf G. Peterson of Iowa City said.

Offices will be located in Iowa City but present plans call for distribution of the paper in smaller communities of Iowa.

A graduate of SUI's school of journalism, Peterson has been organizing the five-column paper since last summer.

Economic principles advocated by L.R. Henry's book, "Free America," will determine contents of the paper, he said. The book favors decentralization of government to practical autonomy at the county level.

Peterson said "Free America" is an appeal to thinkers. Appeals to "take government out of business" and "return to the democracy our original government intended" will be advocated, he said.

Peterson believes people are influenced by political machines in larger metropolitan areas and it would be better to start in smaller communities where people are politically more free.

The paper will try to organize a group from those who are not paid members of any political parties.

Peterson studied journalism at the University of Missouri before the war. He was formerly advertising manager of the Washington Citizen, Washington, Mo., news editor of the Rockwell City Advocate and worked on promotion projects for the Iowa Press and Minnesota Editorial associations.

'Thrill Killer' Leopold To Get Parole Hearing

SPRINGFIELD, ILL. (AP) — Nathan Leopold, who with Richard Loeb was convicted of the sensational "thrill" murder of a kidnapped boy in 1924, yesterday was granted a parole hearing because he served as a "guinea pig" in wartime malaria experiments.

State authorities said Leopold will be given a hearing here April 12, despite the urging of the sentencing judge that he never be paroled. He is serving sentences of life and 99 years.

Leopold and Loeb, both sons of wealthy Chicagoans, were convicted of the kidnap-slaying of 14-year-old Bobbie Franks of Chicago. They were defended by Clarence Darrow, the famed criminal lawyer of that era.

The Illinois parole board said that Leopold and 44 other prisoners who took part in the wartime experiments had applied for special consideration and that some have had their sentences commuted.

Witness for 'Sally' Turns Against Her In Treason Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — An ex-GI called as a defense witness, turned against Mildred (Axis Sally) Gillars in her treason trial yesterday and told the court she "threatened" U.S. soldiers in a wartime German prison camp.

The witness, Gunnar S. Drangsholt of Chicago, shouted angry accusations at Miss Gillars over her record of "messages" from American war prisoners for use on her broadcasts over the German radio.

Drangsholt testified that as leader of U.S. prisoners at a German prison camp, he asked Miss Gillars when she came to interview the GI's in March, 1944, whether she was a Red Cross representative.

She replied that she was not, he said.

Then, with his voice rising in anger, he went on to say that Miss Gillars was driven out of the camp by the prisoners who "shouted defiant and vile names at her."

As she left, he said, she called back:

"You are most ungrateful Americans and you will regret this."

"She threatened us — that woman right there!" Drangsholt shouted, glaring at Miss Gillars.

Under cross-examination by Prosecuting Attorney John M. Kelley Jr., the witness said Miss Gillars told him "she was an American citizen" who was broadcasting from Germany "out of loyalty and patriotism for America."

State authorities said Leopold

Minister Denies Plot For Mass Evictions

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Oklahoma preacher yesterday called for rent control "un-Godly, un-American and unconstitutional" but denied that the landlords association which he heads ever planned a mass eviction of tenants.

The Rev. Wallace J. Murphy, an ordained Baptist minister, testified to the house banking committee which is considering President Truman's request for extension and strengthening of the rent control law now due to expire March 31.

Murphy is honorary president of the Property Owners Association of America, and executive secretary of the Tulsa (Okla.) Property Owners Association. He announced some time ago that he was withdrawing his rental property from the market in protest against continued rent controls.

As a result, he told the committee, "millions of people all over the United States who felt as I did, individually and according to the dictates of their own judgment, decided to do likewise."

Murphy insisted, however, that there was "positively no conspiracy" to carry on a mass eviction campaign "or to throw people out in the streets."

He declared there isn't any housing shortage in America — that the so-called shortage "exists only as a figment of the imagination of an administration-appointed housing expediter and his employees who are desperately trying to save their jobs."

SNOWBOUND SKIERS

TIMBERLINE LODGE, ORE. (AP) — Wind-swept snow 225 inches deep was piled over this Mount Hood lodge yesterday as marooned skiers settled down to more waiting. Ten inches of snow fell overnight on the lodge, where 43 skiers have been snowbound since last weekend.

Students may contact the YMCA and Schromling for further information about membership.

FIREMEN DISLodge ICE

CITY FIREMEN were called to the community building at 6:45 p.m. last night to dislodge a huge chunk of ice hanging from the eaves. Firemen said the ice was "20 to 25 feet long" and dangerous to passing pedestrians.

Relax, Farmers —

Corn Defies

Sol's Spots

Farmers who have been worrying about the effect of sunspots on the weather and corn can sit back and relax.

Prof. Charles C. Wylie, SUI department of mathematics and astronomy, said recently the use of hybrid corn has practically eliminated the danger of lower yields caused by "sunspot weather."

In a recently completed survey of sunspot and temperature relationships, Wylie showed that when sunspots were numerous Iowa temperatures hit corresponding lows, and vice versa.

He also ran statistical tests which showed a direct relationship between the yield of corn and the overall average temperature for the year.

An earlier Wylie survey covering the period 1871-1925, and completed in 1927, showed that temperature changes which averaged about two degrees made a difference of about four bushels of corn per acre.

In his second survey (1925-1947) just completed, he was interested in the size of sunspots as well as number because astronomers assume that one large spot equals several small ones in determining so-called sunspot numbers.

Wylie said sunspots can be compared to cyclonic storms on the surface of the earth. Sometimes they are large and numerous enough to be seen through a fogged film.

Solar energies that produce sunspots also throw off electrical charges which we can see sometimes as the northern lights or aurora borealis, he said. They can affect radio reception and cause earth currents on telephone and telegraph lines, he explained.

Co-op Offers Plan For Saving Money On Book Purchases

Students who want to save money on their book purchases should join Books Unlimited, Ralph Schromling, YMCA executive secretary, said yesterday.

Books Unlimited is a national mail order book cooperative through which members get books and magazines at the national retail price. Cooperative savings amounting to about six percent are refunded every six months, Schromling said.

Membership dues are 50 cents. The organization is democratically controlled by mail balloting for the board of directors which sets policies. It handles all books in print and places any magazine subscription, new or renewed.

Members receive "Pine Cones," a monthly news sheet about books and Books Unlimited. No minimum purchase is required.

The co-op is financed by a $5 returnable share invested by members to build the operating capital. At the present time, about 1,200 book buyers across the nation cooperatively own Books Unlimited.

Students may contact the YMCA and Schromling for further information about membership.

Medina Calls Tune; 'Five Minutes More'

NEW YORK (AP) — Federal Judge Harold R. Medina halted the arraignment of a government witness yesterday, but yielded to defense demands for a little more time.

He gave it five minutes more. With Federal Jury Clerk Joseph E. McKenzie on the stand for the fourth day, Medina had ruled that the cross-examination would halt at 3 p.m. Attorney A.J. Isserman began a plea at 2:30 p.m. for the court to reconsider its ruling and give the defense more time.

"All right," Medina said. "I will give you an additional five minutes. You can repeat all you want between now and 3:05 p.m."

When the hands of the clock reached 3:05, the judge ended the cross-examination and told the five defense attorneys he would now hear their protests on that point. They objected that he had violated due process of law and Isserman enumerated points he still wanted to make in question.

The trial, now five weeks old, was adjourned until Monday.

High School Students Cease Two-Day Strike

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP) — A two-day strike by 1,000 high school students was forgiven and forgotten officially yesterday.

The students had asked higher pay for teachers. They marched around city hall shouting "we want the raise."

J. Harry Adams, superintendent of schools, said there will be no punishment for them, since they returned to classes without disorder yesterday.

IC Teenagers Examine Local Transit Plight

Modern science and the ancient idea of group discussion were used this week by students at City High in an effort to solve bus transportation problems.

In the rush to board special city buses at dismissal time each day, overcrowding and jostling have created a difficult situation for students and bus drivers.

Three meetings of the City high student council have been held to discuss the problem. An all-school assembly Thursday featured a panel of students and adults, Principal R. A. Austermiller said yesterday.

A tool of present day science has also been used to help solve the problem, according to Austermiller. Tape recordings were made of the entire panel discussion by John W. Walker, science instructor at the high school.

Principal Austermiller said the student council will listen to the tape recording Wednesday morning. Letters of recommendations to students and the bus company will be written by the council, he stated.

"Loading, spacing, parking of buses and proper control of crowds" are the main problems to be considered, Austermiller commented. He termed the student efforts to solve the situation as "the best workings of democracy."

Adult speakers on the panel were Joseph E. Negus, manager E. J. Ruppert, police chief; Mayor of the Iowa City Coach company; Preston Koser; Arthur Pickering, bus driver, and Ivar Opstad, city superintendent of schools.

SUI Speech Team Plans Debate Trip To U of Nebraska

Four SUI debaters will participate in the University of Nebraska invitational forensics conference, Feb. 25 and 26.

LeRoy Cowperthwaite, SUI speech instructor, said yesterday the four students will compete with representatives from a large number of midwest colleges.

In the debate division the SUI students will engage five different colleges on the intercollegiate topic, "Should the federal government grant financial aid to education?"

Affirmative speakers for SUI will be Henry Clark, A4, Ames, and Murray Kniffen, A3, Rock Rapids. Negative debaters will be Edward Diekmann, El, Ottumwa, and Charles Thoedt, A3, Walcott.

The students will also participate in four periods of group discussion on the question, "How can civil liberties be guaranteed to all those living in the United States?"

Charles Thoedt is entered in the original oratory contest and Edward Diekmann will compete in extemporaneous speaking.

Pittsburgh Minister Coming as Speaker For Religion Week

One of ten speakers for Religion in Life week will be the Rev. J. Victor Murland, Lutheran campus pastor at the University of Pittsburgh.

The Rev. Mr. Murland will speak at the "Skeptics Hour" every afternoon of Religion in Life week, Feb. 27 through Mar. 3.

The Lutheran minister is being brought here by the Lutheran Student Association.

During the week he will participate in seminars and informal discussion groups and will do personal counseling.

The minister is a graduate of Washington, Pa., and the Lutheran Theological Seminary, Philadelphia, Pa.

Before going to the University of Pittsburgh he served as pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church, Latrobe, Pa., and St. Stephen's Lutheran church, Pittsburgh.

Twenty-six orphaned European children have been placed in Iowa homes by the society in the past year, Mrs. Fitzgerald said.

The society also provides Lutheran chaplain services at Iowa state institutions and hospitals, conducts a child placing agency and finds foster homes for dependent or neglected children, she said.
