Bulgarian Ministers 'Confess,' Face Trial for Treason Today

SOFIA, BULGARIA (UP)—Fifteen Protestant church leaders who go on trial here today on charges of treason, espionage and black marketing have confessed and begged for clemency, a government spokesman said last night.

Deputy Justice Minister Iliya Timev showed newsmen three bulky volumes connected with the trial, including the alleged confessions of all the pastors in their own handwriting.

All 15 began: "I confess my guilt. . . I beg for clemency and desire to be permitted to work as an honest man. . ."

Timev said Dimitar Georgiev, Bulgaria's supreme prosecutor, would handle the state's case when the pastors step before a three-man court to answer charges that they engaged in "treacherous activities" including spying for Britain and the United States.

Sixteen Sofia lawyers have been engaged for the defense, including 14 who were hired by the defendants themselves, Timev said.

The government said in a 5,000-word indictment booklet issued Wednesday that all of the churchmen had been "caught red-handed."

Religious freedom is not involved in the trial, the government said, except that "religion happened to be the cloak for their criminal activity."

Sofia's gray palace of justice will be the scene of the trial. The building's largest courtroom, the marble-lined "solenn hall," will see a parade of at least 77 prosecution witnesses during the proceedings, expected to last a week.

Seven foreign correspondents representing British and American news services and newspapers are scheduled to cover the trial, in addition to 23 local correspondents of the foreign press and reporters for Bulgarian newspapers. A special press box has been set up in the courtroom.

Army Engineer Says Hospital, Dam Work To Start in Summer

Work on the veteran's hospital and the Coralville dam should start this summer, Col. R.L. Dean, army district engineer from Rock Island, said yesterday.

Dean spoke on flood control in Iowa and the army engineers' work in this area at a Rotary club luncheon yesterday noon in Hotel Jefferson.

He said the government will probably advertise for bids on the $10-million, 500-bed hospital either May 1 or May 15. Plans for the hospital are now in the corps of engineers office in Washington, D.C. and should be reviewed by March 20, he said.

Contracts for the initial excavation and road building operations for the dam should be let by early summer, Dean said. The engineers have between $300,000 and $350,000 to start this project.

Dean said the dam could be finished in two years but congress would probably space appropriations so it would take three or four years.

Yugoslavs Propose Slovene Self-Rule As Treaty Solution

LONDON (AP)—Yugoslavia asked the big four yesterday to set up a self-governing Slovene province in southern Austria as a compromise move to break the Austrian treaty deadlock.

A Yugoslav spokesman hinted that Premier Marshal Tito's government would cut its territorial and reparations demands on Austria if some 30,000 Austrian Slovenes are granted autonomy.

The compromise proposal was presented by Yugoslav Deputy Foreign Minister Ales Bebler to deputy foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France and Russia, who have been deadlocked more than two years in trying to write an Austrian independence treaty.

The long-standing Yugoslav claim for 800 square miles of southern Austria and $150-million in reparations has been the main stumbling block to east-west agreement.

The United States, Britain, and France have opposed the claims, Russia has supported the claims, despite the Cominform fight with Tito.

An American official source called Bebler's vaguely worded proposal "a movement in the direction of getting an Austrian treaty."

But he said U.S. Deputy Samuel Reber called for more specific information and indicated the western powers would insist that Yugoslavia drop all territorial and reparations claims — not just reduce them. He said the autonomy scheme "looked like a state within a state — and we know that hasn't worked in the past."

State Standards on Student Food Asked

DES MOINES (AP) — A bill to establish state standards on the serving of meals to students at schools under control of the state board of education was introduced in the Iowa senate yesterday.

The measure revises the present law covering dormitories at the state schools and adds provisions to cover dining rooms. It authorized the board to establish rules under which freshmen housed in dormitories would be served meals either on a 5-day or 7-day a week basis.

Students other than freshmen would be given their choice as to whether they wanted to take their meals in the dormitory dining room on a 5-day or 7-day basis.

The bill was introduced by Senators John P. Berg (R-Cedar Falls); John Hattery (R-Nevada) and Leroy Mercer (D-Iowa City).

Beardsley's Bonus Plan Backed by YRL

Gov. Beardsley's proposed method of paying the veteran's bonus received the support of the SUI Young Republican league last night.

The YRL unanimously passed a resolution calling the proposal, which would pay half the bonus from the sale of bonds and the other half from the state surplus, a "reasonable and satisfactory method of payment."

L. Curtis Wood, ex-president of the Cedar Rapids area American federation of labor, told the young Republicans at their meeting in Schaeffer hall that the Republican party must recognize that security is the primary drive of labor.

In order to get labor into the Republican fold, Wood said, the party must have a "practical application of the word security and see that labor gets its fair share of the consumer dollar."

The YRL passed another resolution urging support of the presidential primary system.

Iowa City Truck Driver Involved in Fatal Crash

CHARLES CITY (AP) — A Waterloo man was killed two and one-half miles north of Nashua last night when his car skidded into the path of a truck driven by James Laverne Ryan, 40, 1025 E. Fairchild street, Iowa City.

The victim was Irvin William Richtsmeier, 50, of 1005 W. Mullan, Waterloo. Ryan was not injured.

Fresh Air Fiend Wins

Eugene Coon Moves From Cottage to Quad, Finds Roommates Like 'Lots of Air'

By GREG FOSSELMAN

Eugene Coon's crusade for fresh air has finally paid off. He's now rooming with "guys who appreciate lots of air."

Coon, A3, Des Moines, is the chap who slept outside following an argument with his roommates over how warm their South Quad cottage should be kept at night.

His cottage — mates suggested that if he liked so much fresh air he could move outdoors. Out he went, bed and all, to spend the night in 15-below temperatures.

The argument was settled when Coon recently moved into Quad B-37 with Robert C. Turner, A1, and Wayne Jeffrey, A1.

"We get along fine together," Coon said, "because they also like plenty of air while sleeping."

As a result of Coon's one-night adventure he received nation-wide publicity. The Associated Press sent the story to all parts of the United States.

Coon said he has received ten letters and postcards from places as distant as New York City and Sacramento, Calif., commenting on his frigid experience.

After reading of Coon's plight, young Johanna Decker of Sacramento, Calif., wrote him a letter, asking him to be her "pen pal."

"Couldn't Forget" Florence Childs of St. Petersburg, Fla., read about Coon's crusade, then sent him a perfumed letter saying she "just couldn't forget" the night he spent in sub-zero weather.

"I had you on my mind all night," Miss Childs confided. . . In Baltimore, Ohio, Tom Bartlett clipped the story and sent it to Coon with an elaborate handbill saying, "we read about you. Now will you read about us?"

Bartlett, an insurance man, explained he has a hobby of clipping unusual stories and sending them to the persons involved, asking them to consider buying an insurance policy.

From Florida A. Hendrick of Tampa, Fla., sent Coon a picture postcard depicting one man basking in the sunshine and another man squirming under several blankets in a chilly bed. A poem below said: "Down here in Florida It has what it takes, While you up north Get the shivers and shakes."

Reader Hendrick suggested Coon "come down to Florida and you will not have to sleep in the snow. I'm from the north and I know."

But Coon has no intentions of heeding Hendrick's advice. In fact, as soon as spring rolls around, he plans to pick up his blankets and move out under the stars again.

"There's nothing like a lot of good, fresh air," Coon said.

BLUE STAR HIGHWAY DES MOINES (AP) — Gov. William S. Beardsley's office announced yesterday he has signed a bill to designate U.S. highway 75 from Council Bluffs to Rock Rapids as "Blue Star" highway in honor of Iowa veterans in World War II.

Truman Considers Nationwide Tour

Senate Committee Passes Two-Party Housing Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The senate banking committee approved a bi-partisan, long-range housing bill yesterday after it refused to write in a proviso banning racial segregation.

The compromise bill calls for $10,000 government-financed low rent public housing units over the next six years. It also provides for a $1,500-million slum-clearance program and a $262.5-million rural housing program.

The full committee voted nine to three for the legislation after defeating, ten to two, the anti-segregation amendment backed by Sen. Harry P. Cain (R-Wash) and Sen. John L. Bricker (R-Ohio).

Supporters of the bill argued that its chances of passage would be killed by writing in the racial clause, but Bricker served notice he will carry the fight to the floor.

Chairman Burnet R. Maybank (D-S.C.) said the measure will be introduced in the senate today with bipartisan sponsorship.

Maybank said he insisted on a roll call vote on the amendment and the bill to get members of both parties on record and to show the committee's stand had strong Republican and Democratic backing.

The bill is a compromise between an administration plan to build 1,050,000 public housing units over seven years, and a bill sponsored by 14 GOP senators to provide 600,000 units over six years.

Grand Jury Calls Pro-Soviet Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Anna Louise Strong, 63, pro-Soviet writer who was kicked out of that country on charges of spying, is scheduled to appear tomorrow at a special session of the federal grand jury investigating Communist espionage in the United States.

The Nebraska-born Miss Strong, who has spent most of the past 30 years in Russia and been one of its staunchest boosters, went into seclusion after her arrival early yesterday.

Under the historic agreement signed at 10:30 a.m. (2:30 a.m. Iowa time) yesterday, Israel will retain virtually all the disputed Negev desert territory of southern Palestine. Egypt retains Gaza and a slim coast area about five miles wide.

The Israeli-Egyptian armistice, acclaimed as fair by both sides, was a personal triumph for Bunche, the American educator who succeeded the assassinated Count Folke Bernadotte of Sweden as United Nations Palestine mediator.

The armistice, signed after 42 days of negotiations, was purely military in character and this was emphasized yesterday in dispatches from Cairo. An official Egyptian communique said "this agreement has no political character. It dealt with purely military questions and absolutely did not touch the political future of Palestine."

Settlements . . . POINTS SETTLED in the general armistice signed yesterday by Egypt and Israel are located on the map. Egypt keeps Gaza and narrow coastal strip (A) from Deir Suneid to Beersheba (B), and Israel keeps Beersheba (B), Egyptian and Israeli forces are to be withdrawn from underlined towns of Faluja and Bir Asluj respectively. The Israeli forces will be withdrawn from El Auja (C) which will be demilitarized. The Egyptians will be allowed none but defensive forces east of the El Arish-Abu Aweigila-Qusaima line (D). Shaded area is Israeli territory as defined under UN partition of November, 1947, and black areas have been occupied since then by the Israelis. Other areas in Palestine are held by forces of other Arab league members.

Pledges Fight For Platform

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman said last night he may tour the country in a nationwide fight against "pressure groups" and "die-hard reactionaries" who, he said, are trying to kill his legislative program.

Mr. Truman lashed out against the "special interests" in a strongly-worded address prepared for delivery before a packed Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner, the Democratic party's annual fund-raising event.

He said these opponents are using lobbies, advertising space, editorial pages and columnists and commentators whom "they control" to "twist and misrepresent the measures the people voted for."

The President pledged himself anew to fight for Taft-Hartley repeal, social security expansion, new housing, higher minimum wages, river basin development, farm price supports, and full employment and production.

Foes of his program, he said, are raising the "old, worn-out bugaboo" of socialism.

The President said the "special interests" oppose repeal of the Taft-Hartley act. He declared the law is "an insult to the working men and women of this country and they will not rest until it is destroyed."

In a fighting mood, the President told his party he was happy once more to be talking to them "from the same old stand."

"Incidentally," he added, "this is right where I expected to be."

Some persons were making elaborate plans to "buy the Democratic party" last year he said, adding:

"Before you offer to buy a good Democrat, you better be sure he is dead."

Mr. Truman referred to "determined opposition" to his legislative program. To the "special interests," he said, the campaigns and elections are just "preliminary exhibition matches — the fight in congress is the main bout."

Activities of 'Goon' Forbidden by Board

WASHINGTON (AP) — Strike "goon squads" are forbidden by the Taft-Hartley law, the national labor relation board ruled unanimously yesterday.

The five-man board held that local and international unions, and their officers, which send such squads to block plant entrances or threaten individual employees are guilty of unfair labor practices.

The board also reaffirmed an initial Taft-Hartley ruling that the law protects "the right of employees to work in the face of a strike."

It ordered the united furniture workers (CIO), its local 309 at Salem, Ind., and eight officials of the two unions to discontinue goon squads and other "coercive conduct" at the Smith & Wainwright manufacturing company.

While the order was based on activities during a strike of 400 employees in September, 1947, the order will stay in effect permanently.

It can be enforced in federal courts. Refusal to obey a court enforcement order would make the unions and their officers subject to fines and jail sentences for contempt.

Two Persons Hurt In Head-On Crash

Two persons were injured shortly after midnight this morning when two cars were involved in a head-on collision on highway 6 near Coralville.

Police reported that Mrs. James Kinney, 30, of Oxford suffered a bruised chest. Kinney, 31, received a few face cuts.

Passengers in the other car, according to police, were Harold Larew, 18, North Liberty, owner of the car; Merritt Ewalt Jr., 18, Coralville, driver of the car, and Claude Williams, 18, Coralville. They were uninjured.

POST-OPERATION HANDCLASP was exchanged by Joe Lipani, 11, and Carol Ann Wenzel, 7. Joe is telling her that she soon may walk again now that bone strips from his amputated leg are grafted to her spine. Infantile paralysis crippled Carol Ann. Joe's leg, unusable since birth, was removed for an artificial limb. The children occupy adjoining beds in Jersey Orthopedic hospital, Orange, New Jersey.

Illinois Faces Two Tests

Play NU, Hoosiers As Race Nears End

Place Purdue (6-5) at Minneapolis Sunday. It will be the only contest for both teams this weekend.

The Minneapolis battle will feature a clash between Minnesota's deliberate style built around the shooting of Whitey Skoog and Jim McIntyre, and Purdue's fast-breaking race-horse style.

The Buckeyes upset the nation's number two team, St. Louis, 68-60, early last week, only to be tripped by Indiana several nights later, 65-45. Monday night Ohio State meets Michigan State in a non-conference clash at Columbus.

Rehfeldt Cinch Bet to Capture Big Nine Top Scorer Title

Wisconsin's Don Rehfeldt, by scoring 21 points in each of his last two games, has almost clinched the 1949 individual Big Nine basketball scoring championship.

The towering Badger's weekend work boosted his season's total to 179 markers, according to official Western conference statistics. By scoring 21 markers in the remaining two contests Rehfeldt will be over the 200 mark, which is higher than Bob Cook had in 1947 when he topped the league scoring.

Since the Illini have three remaining contests, both Erickson and Eddleman have a chance to crowd into the top 10.

REHFELDT

Getting those 21 markers shouldn't be too difficult for the rangy Rehfeldt. The Badgers engage Iowa at Madison Feb. 28 and entertain Minnesota March 5. Rehfeldt scored 21 points against the Hawkeyes last Saturday but was held by the Gophers to eight markers, his lowest of the season.

Even though Coach Harry Combes' outfit does not have a standout like the tall Badger, their well-balanced scoring has been a factor in their success. Seven Illini have carried the team's load.

Offer Louis $300,000 To Box Lee Savold

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis yesterday was offered a minimum of $300,000 to fight Lee Savold for the title. Frank Palumbo, night club owner and co-manager of Lightweight Champion Ike Williams, made the offer.

Ed Hickey's Bills will be out to avenge an early season defeat by the Aggies at Stillwater, Okla. Hank Iba's squad took that one in overtime, 29-27.

First Indian Wants More Wampum... Second Relaxes with Squaw

TWO MEMBERS OF THE CLEVELAND INDIANS sweat it out under the hot sun as spring practice draws near. Joe 'Flash' Gordon, second baseman for the world baseball champs, adjusts a cowboy boot for his son, Joe Jr., at Tuscon, Ariz. Gordon is holding out for more pay from the Indians' president, Bill Veeck. Unless an agreement is reached soon, Gordon may miss the first days of spring practice which starts at Tuscon next week.

Prep Cage Round-Up —

Little Hawks, Davenport Lead Tourney Bidders in Southeast

This is the last of a series of articles on leading high school basketball contenders for the prep state cage championship.

Only twice since 1940 has a prep quintet from southeast Iowa failed to at least get into the championship game. Four times since 1940 southeast fives have taken state title honors.

Again this year the indications point toward a powerful bid, spearheaded by Iowa City's Little Hawks and Davenport's Blue Devils. A third team to watch, as City high will testify, is Newton.

With one more AA team, Ottumwa's Little Six champions, the field of tournament powers levels out to include several A and B clubs that are good, but not rated as real threats to upset the high-flying double A's.

On a basis of games won and lost, Coach Gil Wilson's Iowa City lads should go right out and sweep the opposition off its feet. A look at what has happened in past years instead of what happened in single seasons tells a different story.

A factor the Hawks will have to overcome is the habit Paul Moon, the Davenport coach, has of not being beaten by the same club three times in one season. In '46 and '47 the team that won both regularly scheduled games lost the third. Last year the two clubs split, then the Blue Devils went on to the state final where they were downed by Manning.

Iowa City took two thrillers from Davenport this year, the first a 42-40 battle in Davenport and the second another two-pointer, on the City high floor, 38-36. The Hawks had to come from behind twice and if history repeats itself Paul Moon's quintet will come up with a victory in a third game, if and when the two meet again.

Davenport lost two other games besides the two to Iowa City. The Blue Devils dropped a three-point decision to Moline and another close one to Rock Island. On the other hand, most of Iowa City recalls the startling 36-32 upset City high suffered at Newton recently.

City high sewed up the Mississippi Valley conference title with 13 straight wins, the arch-rival Blue Devils copping second place on 10 successes and the aforementioned two losses.

Biggest star in the conference and the boy who makes the Hawks click is Gene Hettrick. The all-state center broke his own league scoring record this season with 279 points.

On the other side of the picture, Davenport's players are relatively inexperienced. On numerous occasions Moon has started five juniors on his Blue Devil quintet.

Of the other AA schools Ottumwa has the best record. The

Hawk Thinclads Meet Illini

At least four and possibly seven meet and fieldhouse records are likely to be cracked tonight when Iowa's track team engages a powerful Illini club in a Big Nine dual meet at 7:00 p.m. in the fieldhouse.

In addition to these seven, three other meet marks will definitely be set.

The Hawks, unbeaten in league competition this year, have never won a dual meet from Illinois. Iowa lost their opener to Marquette two weeks ago but came back to edge Northwestern last Saturday, 57 1/2-56 1/2.

Illinois will field a squad that is undefeated so far this season. The Illini won the Michigan State relay and captured a triangular meet from Michigan and Purdue besides downing Drake and Minnesota in dual engagements.

Norman Wasser, Illini weight man, has not put the shot less than 51-feet 5 1/2 inches this year and has recorded a 53-foot 6-inch heave. The present meet record for the shot put is 47-feet 1 1/2 inches and the fieldhouse mark is 51-feet 4-inches, set by Dick Hoerner in 1947.

Another mark likely to topple is the meet record of 23-feet 3 1/2 inches for the broad jump. Don Leuthold of Illinois leaped 23-feet 10 1/2-inches against Minnesota this year.

In the pole vault, Don Laz is a good bet to eclipse the 13-foot 7/8-inch meet mark set by Iowan Henry Canby in 1929. Laz has previously vaulted 13-feet 9 1/4-inches.

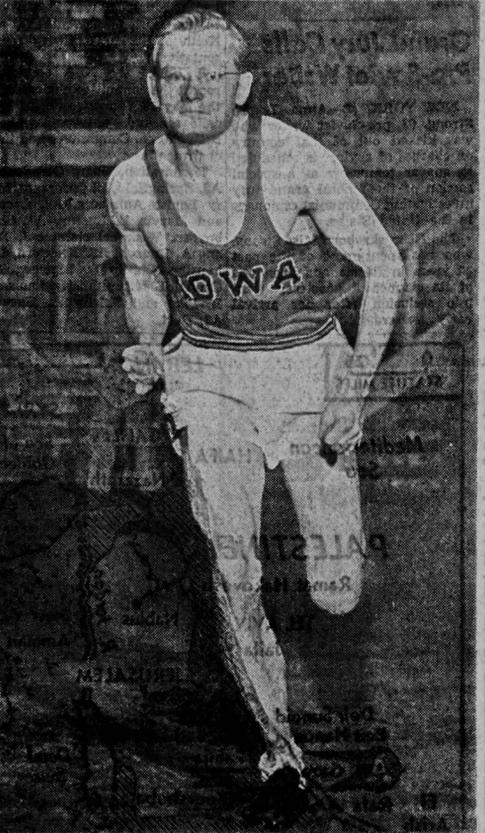

Other marks could be broken in the mile and two mile runs. Both meet and fieldhouse times can be bested in the two mile. Walt Jewsbury, Illini sophomore sensation, has traveled the two-mile in 9:25.5.

The winners of the 60-yard dash and both hurdle events are sure post meet records. There are no meet marks in these events because they were not run at the present distances before in an Iowa-Illinois dual.

The Hawk's strength will come in the 880-yard run, 60-yard dash and the hurdles.

Jack Simpson, Hawk 60-yard dash man, has recorded 16.3 which is one-tenth of a second off the league's best this year. Timber-topper Russ Merkel's 198.2 for the low hurdles is a shade lower than Illini Bob Hinkle's best time.

The Hawk's top quarter-mile, Tom Sangster, strained a leg

ACE HAWKEYE SPRINTER, Jack Simpson shows the form he will use when Iowa meets the powerful Illini in a Big Nine dual engagement in the fieldhouse tonight. The Hawk veteran runs the 60-yard dash and is a member of the mile relay team. Simpson's time of 16.3 for the 60 ranks him among the league's best. This is his last year of competition under Old Gold colors.

muscle in practice Wednesday night and is a doubtful entry tonight. Illinois milers, Bill Downey, Bob Downs and Paul Huston will probably score a grand slam in that event. The visitors also have power in the mile relay. In the Drake meet, the quartet of Herman Warich, Tom Briggs, Leroy Vranek and Dick Upton ran the relay in 3:29.6.

Four Teams Advance to Cage Finals

Delta Upsilon and Loyola heavyweights and Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Quad Lower D lightweights won semifinal games in the All-University intramural basketball tourney last night in the fieldhouse.

Delta Upsilon will meet Loyola in the championship heavyweight contest Monday night. The lightweight championship between Quad Lower D and Sigma Alpha Epsilon will also be played the same evening.

Consolation matches will precede the final games. South Quad II will meet Quad Upper C in the heavyweight bracket and Hillcrest C plays Black in the lightweight consolation.

In a thrill packed contest, Loyola's fast breaking outfit downed South Quad II, 34-28. After being held to a 17-17 deadlock at half time, Loyola dumped eight points through the hoop in less than three minutes to lead 25-17. South Quad II tried to get back in the game but Loyola expertly stalled out the last five minutes.

Carey Wright, with 12 points was high scorer for Loyola. Delta Upsilon, social fraternity champs, advanced to the finals by beating a game Quad Upper C outfit, 32-16. Dick Wagner with 11 points paced the winners. John Sheek scored six points for the losers.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon, led by Jim Kenworthy's 12 points, beat Hillcrest C, 31-24 in a lightweight contest. The "SAE" five held a slight lead throughout the game. Jim Curran paced the Hillcrest C attack with nine points.

Quad Lower D squeezed by Black, 23-18 in the other lightweight contest. At half time Black held a 9-5 lead, but couldn't hold it. Clarence Miller was high pointer for Lower D with 14 points.

Williams Signs With Red Sox

BOSTON (AP)—Sluggler Ted Williams last night agreed to sign his 1949 Boston Red Sox contract, during a telephone conversation from Everglades City, Fla., with General Manager Joe Cronin.

Ever since the 1948 salaries of Joe DiMaggio and Lou Bourque were estimated at $90,000 and $85,000 respectively, the baseball folk have assumed that Williams would become the highest salaried player in baseball history.

The Red Sox policy is to refrain from discussing financial matters with players and Williams, in the past, always has respected it. But several persons close to both parties have predicted that Williams' 1949 salary would be in the vicinity of $100,000.

When Cronin was asked if such predictions were accurate, he sidestepped neatly by replying: "It's the best contract Ted has ever had and he's very happy about it. He told me he was very eager to get to Sarasota and start taking his cuts at the ball."

Asked if Williams had agreed to sign for more than the reported $80,000 he received last season, Cronin said, "Ted is very, very happy about his new contract."

Recently, from his favorite Florida fishing spot, Williams advised Boston friends that he was unwilling to come to terms with the Red Sox until the club straightened out a few "minor technicalities."

"I've never had any financial disagreements with the Red Sox," Williams explained then.

His remarks at the time indicated he was delaying his final agreement until one or more bonus clauses, probably concerning attendance, were changed to his satisfaction.

Library, Shops Bids Opened; Des Moines Firm's Bids Low

Bids were opened yesterday afternoon on the physical plant shops and university library projects in the house chambers of Old Capital.

Bids were on revised plans for the library and original plans for the shops.

Weitz company, Des Moines had the lowest bid on the general construction phase of the library with $1,108,130. Next came C.C. Larsen and Sons, Council Bluffs, with a bid of $1,111,500 followed by the James Leck company, Minneapolis, Minn., with their bid of $1,137,000. Five companies entered the bidding.

Funds allocated by recent legislative appropriations were $1,580,000 for general construction.

Carstens Brothers, Ackley, posted the lowest of two plumbing and heating bids for the library at $203,973. The only other bid on this phase of construction was placed by the J.W. Darragh company, Cedar Rapids, at $217,513.

Davenport Electric construction company, Davenport, had the lowest electric bid on the library at $75,765. Keith Electric Construction company, Des Moines, followed with a bid of $97,129. The third lowest bid was posted by the Southwest Electric company, Amarillo, Tex., at $103,588. Six companies bid on this phase of construction.

Johnson Service, Des Moines, led the temperature control bids with their low of $11,603 followed by the Minneapolis-Honeywell company, Des Moines, with their bid of $12,088. The only other company to bid on the temperature control phase was Barber-Colman, Moline, Ill., with $13,000.

Kucharo Construction company, Des Moines, had the lowest bid on the physical plant shops with $129,200. The Virgo M. Jensen company, Albert Lea, Minn., placed a bid of $134,169 and the M.D. McCreey Construction company, Iowa City, a bid of $136,037.

The bids were announced by Roy Loudon, Fairfield, chairman of the building and business committee of the state board of education.

The bids will be analyzed and submitted to the building and business committee at an early date, George L. Horner, university architect, said yesterday.

After the board of education has made an award of contracts, Horner added, approval must be made by the interim committee.

Original bids on the library plans were rejected in May, 1948, by the state board of education. At that time, bids on the first unit exceeded appropriated funds by $1.2-million.

Approximately 50 contractors and representatives of various firms attended the opening of bids.

The business and buildings committee has approved plans and specifications on the new gymnasium floor for the fieldhouse, Horner said.

Reeve Drops Injunction Suit

Harry W. Reeve, former business manager of the Oakdale sanatorium, yesterday dismissed his suit in Johnson county district court against the Iowa state board of education for allegedly removing him from his position illegally.

Reeve filed suit last October, asking an injunction restraining the board from removing him from his current position as superintendent of the physical plant at Oakdale.

Reeve charged the board had over-stepped its authority in demoting him from business manager to superintendent of the physical plant, and in seeking to remove him from his current position as superintendent.

At a hearing Nov. 8 the action was postponed until after the December meeting of the board on agreement by both parties.

Terms for the settlement, if any, or reasons for the dismissal yesterday, were not given.

No Dice, Beer, Guns —

'Life' Was 'Off Limits' At SUI 102 Years Ago

An SUI student suddenly transplanted to the university campus shortly after its founding just 102 years ago would find little resemblance to 1949 college life.

He would probably resent the early university regulations prohibiting visits to "saloons, gaming houses, billiard rooms and theatres."

Also taboo a century ago was playing cards or any game of chance for money or any kind of wager. Rules then forbade the wearing of firearms and other weapons.

A pleasant surprise would be in store for today's student upon discovery that his semester's tuition would be from $3.75 to $8.50 instead of the $65 now paid by Iowa residents.

He wouldn't escape a fine for late payment, however. One dollar was charged for not paying tuition on time.

Instead of the large variety of courses offered now, there were only nine departments dealing mainly with languages, philosophy, history and science. Each student was required to do work in three of these departments.

A bachelor of science or bachelor of philosophy degree could be earned after two years of college study. It took four years for a bachelor of arts degree and six years for a doctor of philosophy degree.

The 19 students, 15 males and four females, enrolled in 1857 would barely fill one class today. And the ratio of seven professors to these nineteen students can be only a dream under present crowded conditions.

SUI Faculty Men to View Manufacturing At Maytag Company

Two SUI faculty members will be among members of the American Society for Quality Control, State University of Iowa section, who will view the application control at the Maytag company in Newton today and tomorrow.

Prof. Lloyd A. Knowler, chairman of the mathematics department, will moderate a round table discussion of the plant tour. Robert V. Hogg, Jr., mathematics instructor, will speak on the "Theory of Runs."

This will be the eighth industrial plant to be visited by the SUI section of the society during recent years. Knowler said.

Quality control by statistical methods is used in many types of industries, from those making candy bars to large metal foundries. The idea of this method is that quality should be built into the product, not inspected into it, he added.

By keeping a record or control chart of the manufacturing process, products of higher quality may be produced.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

CONSTANCE BENNETT is generally considered the shrewdest business woman who ever starred on the screen. She has made almost as much in outside ventures as she did when she was one of the highest-salaried actresses in Hollywood.

"I don't know why Connie works so hard," said a friend. "After all, she can't take it with her."

"If Connie can't take it with her," replied one of Miss Bennett's sisters grimly, "she won't go."

A long-time inmate of an insane asylum was pronounced cured by the examining board and came to bid the director goodbye before faring into the outside world. "What are your plans?" asked the director. "I haven't quite made up my mind," confided the ex-patient. "I may resume my medical practice. I've been thinking of becoming a newspaper reporter. Then, on the other hand, I may be a tea-kettle." Copyright, 1949, by Bennett Cerf. Distributed by Kinz Features Syndicate.

Food Price Index Up 32 Cents

The Daily Iowan market basket did an about face this weekend for the first time since Nov. 18, 1948. This week's figure is $16.20, an increase of 23 cents over last week.

Meat prices were largely responsible for this week's gain in the market basket index. Choice round steak and center cut pork were both six cents higher and lard moved up a penny over last week's figures.

A five cent gain in the price of Idaho potatoes also helped swell the basket total.

Two items—Kraft Velveta cheese, and Baker's unsweetened chocolate—registered losses this week. The cheese was down five cents from last week and chocolate was down one cent.

The Daily Iowan market basket index is based upon a survey conducted in September, 1947, by the Daily Iowan in cooperation with the SUI bureau of economic and business research. It attempts to determine the amount a student family of three spends for food in one week.

Prices on 24 staple items in seven downtown grocery stores are used in compiling the index figures.

This week's rise in local retail food prices reflects the recent gains in Dun and Bradstreet's wholesale food price index which has risen in the last two weeks.

Grocery business in Iowa City was "very slow," most grocers said. The weather, and the fact that this is the last week in the month were two of the most common reasons cited for the current sluggishness.

Item	This wk.	Last wk.
1 lb. Iowa brand butter	59	58
1 doz. grade A eggs	49	49
1 lb. Hills Bros. coffee	55	55
1 doz. med. size oranges	49	49
10 lb. Idaho potatoes	65	60
No. 2 can Tenderloin	19	19
No. 2 1/2 can Van Camp pork	18	18
No. 2 can Del Monte peaches	35	35
1 can Campbell's soup	11	11
1 lb. Spry	39	39
1 lb. can red sockeye salmon	75	75
Large size Ivory Flakes	29	29
5 lb. white cane sugar	50	50
10 lb. Gold Medal flour	59	59
1-1 lb. 4 oz. box Quaker Oats	18	18
One-half lb. pkg. Baker's Cocoa	43	44
2 lb. Kraft Velveta cheese	98	98
1 lb. lard	19	18
1 lb. ground beef	49	49
1 lb. "Choice" round steak	75	69
1 lb. center cut pork chops	59	59
1 lb. fine grade bacon	69	69
12 oz. loaf white bread	17	17
1 qt. grade A milk	18	18
Totals this week $16.20. Last week $15.95

The Daily Iowan market basket INDEX is not an added total of the prices listed above. That is, the index figure takes into consideration both the costs of the items listed above and the amount of each item the student family of three uses in one week. The amount of each item the family of three uses in one week was arrived at in a survey conducted in cooperation with the university bureau of economic and business research.

Knight Pleads Not Guilty to Charges Of Breaking Jail

Austin "Jimmie" Knight yesterday pleaded not guilty in Johnson county district court to a grand larceny indictment and a county attorney's information charging him with breaking jail. The 27-year-old Negro sawed his way out of the county jail and escaped late last Friday night. He was recaptured by county officers in a down town alley late Monday night.

Last summer Knight was arrested and charged with stealing a camera from a car in an Iowa City garage.

Judge Gaffney set bail at $2,000 on the escape count and $1,000 on the larceny charge.

If convicted, Knight faces a sentence of five years or less in the state penitentiary on the larceny count, one year in the county jail, or a fine of not more than $1,000.

The breaking of jail charge carries a maximum penalty of one year in the state penitentiary, one year in the state reformatory, or a $300 fine.

Michigan Priest to Speak Here

Rev. Frank J. McPhillips, director of the Catholic chapel at the University of Michigan, will be at SUI next week as speaker and retreat master for the Newman club.

The Newman club retreat is a part of Religion in Life week activities here. Rev. Leonard J. Brugman, pastor of St. Thomas More chapel, said yesterday. The retreat will begin Sunday night at 7:30 p.m. with a conference led by Father McPhillips at St. Thomas More chapel.

Conferences will be held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at 7:30 p.m. and also on those mornings at 6:45 a.m. in the chapel, Father Brugman said.

In the conferences Father McPhillips will discuss the revelation of Christianity, Father Brugman said.

All SUI students are welcome at all the conferences, he added.

Father McPhillips was selected as retreat master because of his association with student work. Father Brugman said. Father McPhillips was national chaplain of the Newman club federation for two years. He has been at the University of Michigan since 1941.

Father McPhillips has given talks on three national broadcasting networks, including a series of four talks on "The Hour of Faith" last September and four in August, 1947.

Some SUI students heard Father McPhillips at the University of Michigan last September when he presided at the Newman club federation meeting there, Father Brugman said.

While at SUI Father McPhillips will also speak at all Sunday masses at St. Thomas More chapel.

Union Leader Says Worker Frustrated

The lack of understanding of the human side of labor-management relations was cited by Austin E. Finnessy at his Information First lecture yesterday afternoon as one of the great problems in achieving industrial peace.

The director of education and public relations for the Iowa Federation of Labor told about 200 persons in the senate chamber of Old Capitol that the worker is frustrated, insecure, and fearful.

"The transition of America from an agricultural society to an industrial society is largely responsible for this," Finnessy said.

He implied that this waste of the workers' talents, techniques, and personality can be stopped by an organized system for better selection and placement of workers by management.

Labor and management should work together to determine long range labor policies, he pointed out, because in this way more democratic processes would be developed in our industrial society.

Increase in the production of the worker, an increase in capital, and a good day's work by the worker are problems posed in achieving industrial peace, according to Finnessy.

On Its 102nd Birthday —

SUI's Colorful History Is Recalled

The following article is based on the article "Locating the State University of Iowa," by History Prof. H. J. Thornton, which appeared in the last issue of the Quarterly of the State Historical Society.

By CHUCK KROUSE

Anyone wishing to attend the University of Iowa around the middle of the last century was faced with a confusing problem. He had to decide which one.

At one time, at least five different Iowa towns could claim to house at least a portion of the state university.

THE MAIN UNIVERSITY—the one that today celebrates its 102 birthday—was located in Iowa City. But there were "branches" at Fairfield, Andrew (home of the governor), Oskaloosa, Mount Pleasant and Keokuk. A bill before the state legislature called or another "in or near the city of Dubuque."

This overpopulation of state universities brought with it a host of headaches, and finally all but the Iowa City venture had to be abandoned—as state schools.

The early history of the university is full of ups and downs.

THE CONSTITUTION of 1846, which called the state of Iowa into being, also granted authority to create an institution of higher learning. (A penitentiary had already been provided for.)

In January of the following year, the battle over where the school should be located began. Two measures introduced into the house suggested Mount Pleasant and Fairfield as ideal spots for higher learning.

Soon, Washington, Yellow Springs (in Des Moines county) and Iowa City were added to the list of suggestions as legislative "pork barreling" hit its stride.

THERE WAS PROBABLY some idea for compensation in Iowa City's nomination since it was soon to lose its title "capital city" to Des Moines.

A month of debate was climaxed when the legislators decided to establish the university at Iowa City where the Stone Capitol building and a small piece of land was available.

Feb. 25, 1847, the act became law. But the good folks included a curfew clause in section 1 of the document that for ten years threatened to rock the infant school from its tottering foundation.

SECTION 1 established the university at Iowa City, but made provision for "such branches as public convenience may require."

The door was wide open! Legislators, with an eye to the voters, sought to set up a "branch" in or near their home town.

Plans calling for the division of SUI's meager funds among the several "state universities" were drawn up. What this really amounted to was nothing for everyone, since only one sum of money was set aside for the state university.

The idea of "fair play" in establishing universities went rampant. In short, everyone was trying to "get into the act."

SEVERAL PERSONS, however, saw the necessity for establishing one university, in one city, and with sole access to the state university fund.

Thomas Hart Benton, chairman of the committee on schools, pointed out the ridiculous situation that gave sparsely populated Iowa five state schools, while New York, with 2.5-million inhabitants, had one.

Governor Grimes, in 1857, "reported with alarm" bills under consideration for establishment of more schools at Glenwood, Fort Dodge, and Delhi, in addition to those set for Dubuque, Fairfield, Andrew, Oskaloosa and Keokuk.

HE VETOED an act which called for $5,000 slice of the university's fund to be turned over to the Keokuk medical branch.

There was still agitation to move the main university from Iowa City when a convention to draw up a new state constitution met here in 1857.

One delegate complained of the city "influences" most parents would not want their "children" exposed to. He was holding out for "a quiet rural place."

BUT THE CONVENTION backed Iowa City. The town which had come into existence only 18 years before won out. Furthermore, a portion of the new law the legislators drew up, called for the university to be located here, "without branches at any other place."

But even then SUI's troubles weren't over.

Lack of funds, adequate buildings, and qualified students led President Amos Dean to ask the board of trustees, in 1858, to shut down the university. They did.

WHILE THE "closed" sign hung on the door of Old Capitol, the trustees attempted to revise university policy. They decided to abolish foreign languages, "theoretical mathematics" and women from the university.

A howl of protest followed. And when the school reopened that September morning two years later, foreign languages and mathematics were back, and three members of the fairer sex were among the nine students that gathered in the president's office to begin the new school year.

ALTHOUGH 1860 is really the beginning of the continuous history of SUI, we today put 102 candles on the cake because of that beginning in 1847—the beginning that called for a university with "branches."

It probably put some to wondering just what and where is the State University of Iowa.

38 Sq. Mi. 'Battleground' — San Marino Has a Cold War

SAN MARINO — Some 5,000 voters will go to the polls Sunday to choose a grand council for San Marino after what has been the hottest campaign in the tiny mountain republic's long history.

Politics has never caused much of a stir in the 38 square mile republic which is the oldest independent state in Europe — San Marinense claim it was founded in the fourth century. Nestling in the heart of Italy's "reddest" zone — San Marino lives almost forgotten by the rest of the world.

It is the only foreign nation to celebrate regularly the United States independence day and honor Abraham Lincoln's birthday. Democracy is the whole reason for its being — and the reason that 1949 has brought a political awakening.

San Marino is governed by a 60-member grand council, named by popular vote. In the last election in 1945, 18 Communists, 18 Socialists, 18 Rightwingers, four Republicans and two independents won seats.

Each year the council elects two men to serve six months as the "captain regent," or executive of the republic. And for the three years, the regents have been picked with cold impartiality — one leftist, one rightist, one leftist, one rightist, and so on.

But things have changed. Ermeneildo Gasperoni, a former mechanic who fought in the International brigade in the Spanish civil war, is the Communist leader. He is a good natured man who smilingly calls the San Marino party "Rose-water red."

He is sorry that the issues of the moment have made communism seem such a bad thing to non-Communists and has girded for the electoral fray by creating a bloc with left-wing Socialists.

Opposed to Gasperoni is the "popular alliance." This bloc includes Liberals, Christian Democrats and other non-Communists.

San Marinense are careful about distinctions. They want it understood that "when we say Communists, we mean our Communists — and not those Communists in Italy."

"This is peaceful communism based on local interests," they say. "There are no international ties here."

The popular alliance, however, accuses the present government of being linked with the Italian Communists. This is because Gino Giacomini, presently secretary of state, is a left wing Socialist and a friend of Italian Socialist leader Pietro Nenni. Nenni was the only Italian permitted to hold a political meeting in the republic last year to campaign for the vote of Italian residents of San Marino.

What happens Sunday will be interesting because San Marino is surrounded by Italy's Communist strongholds and can never claim isolation from its big neighbor on any issue.

San Marinense laugh, though, at reports that 1,500 men are armed and ready to descend into Italian territory if communism calls them. They think that with an army of only 900, and a population of 15,000, a private army that size would be too much.

SUI Rings to Go On Sale in Union

SUI's new graduation rings go on sale in the lobby of the Iowa Union today — the 102nd anniversary of the founding of the university.

First day orders will be taken by the Alumni association from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at a special table placed in the lobby.

Orders placed after today will be handled by the association's office in Old Capitol.

Bill McBride's column will be resumed in this Sunday's Daily Iowan.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT But Are We Being Tough?

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

The North Atlantic defense pact represents, in part, an effort to find a more modern form in which to dress up an old-fashioned armaments race. It is as bad or as good as any other armaments race.

It is got up like collective security, but the emphasis is not really on consultations, not really on enriching our characters and personalities by close association with other nations; the emphasis is on the question of how American arms are going to be distributed, and to what nations, and under what circumstances.

IT WILL BE costly. It will thus put Russia in a position to strike a deadly economic blow at us, merely by the elementary expedient of not making war.

BUT IT WILL also provide her with all manner of local excuses for continuing control over satellite and subject nations, and also for extending such control. And it will allow her to make use of patriotic slogans and motherland arguments in prosecuting her quarrel with the west, whereas if we kept that quarrel on an economic basis, she would have to confine her arguments to the economic field, in which she is at a clear disadvantage.

BY CHOOSING an armaments race as the solution for the Russian problem, we are, with incredible shortsightedness helping Russia to wipe out her economic disadvantage. Every pound of metal that goes into guns comes off the living standard of the west; every soldier who does perpetual sentry-go must be fed, and he feeds no one.

It is as if we were helping Russia to equalize the economic position by lowering our living standard toward her level, rather than by compelling her to raise hers toward ours.

WE DO SO just at the moment at which the world at last stands ready to judge communism on the basis of what it can produce. Vast areas, from the Balkans to China, are waiting to see what communism will do to fulfill the oratory of a century. It is at just this juncture that we, by means of an armaments race, allow Russia to move the arguments sideways, into the realm of regional patriotism.

OUR GREAT MISTAKE has been to regard our problem, from the beginning, as primarily a war problem, and our chief danger as primarily the danger of losing a war. We sold the Marshall plan to our own congress as, basically, a means of strengthening western Europe against possible war. Now we have the Marshall plan, but, influenced by our own arguments, we are distorting it in the direction of preparedness against war. This cramped, one-dimensional approach may succeed in preparing us adequately for war. But if war doesn't turn out to be the problem we are going to be left adequately prepared for nothing at all.

WE HAVE, in plain truth, taken the military defensive, in a situation which calls for the economic offensive. Let's not be fooled by our own lusty and sometimes belligerent noises. We are on the defensive.

Tough speeches do not necessarily indicate tough policy. A policy of putting our resources, not into arms, but into a real rebuilding of western Europe, plus a bland offer of economic cooperation with all comers, even with the Balkans, even with Russia, even with Communist China, would have had about the disconcerting quality of a true offensive.

That would have been a real reaching out, quieter than our present policy, but actually tougher — a relentless assertion of power in the one field in which Russia can't win.

THE QUESTION is whether we are really being tough with Russia at all. Oh, we mean to be. But, by concentrating on the military problem, we have split Scandinavia. Is that being tough with Russia, or does it give her a victory she hasn't earned?

TO THE EDITOR:

I was very pleased to see the response to my letter on Ezra Pound, and encouraged by the space allotted to this very ticklish and vital problem on the editorial page.

It is a splendid and healthy sign — one of the few I've seen around here — to see people taking an active interest in controversial issues. It is refreshing also to hear myself accused of being a "flag-waver" and 100% American — that should insure my chances for getting a job when I leave school — for I have been labelled a "Marxist" by others who disagreed with my belief in dialectical humanism, and have reacted against my previous letters of "emotionality."

Some points, however, need to be reiterated: first, I did not condemn Pound's ability as a craftsman nor the judges as critics of poetic art; second, the "Communist" actor and the "Fascist" publisher do not refer to people "in their own environment," as Mr. Creekmore thinks, but rather to the alleged actors who of late were placed on trial, and the utterances of such "pillars of society" as Hearst, Patterson, and McCormick.

My protest was not at all an attempt to foster the status quo or reactionary conservatism. It was rather a demand that we realize the full implications of Pound's contribution with a total, social-ranging view. If my expression be considered "emotional" rather than indicative of emotion, I trust that the critics of my "emotionalism" will heed their own admissions and not commit the same "misdemeanors." The province and status of art has many cross-implications which cannot be elaborated here. I shall be happy to do this with anyone who wishes any evening of the week.

TO THE EDITOR:

For the sake of what I consider clarity, let me add to the uproar over Ezra Pound and the Bollingen award.

It seems to me that the off-to-the-barricades - to - defend-the-cause - of - unfettered-art letters of Mullin, Gillis, and Creekmore suffer from a common confusion. There is no book-burning involved here. No one has proposed that Mr. Pound be prohibited from publishing, at least in the present controversy.

Bennet Cerf once became sufficiently inflamed to leave Pound out of an anthology, but I suspect he's sorry now; if he's not, he is, after all, only Bennett Cerf.

Let Mr. Pound be heard; by all means let the prize volume be printed in four colors and distributed free with packages of All-bran, to demonstrate our freedom of expression.

But there's a great difference between letting Mr. Pound be heard and his beatification by a group of writers who presumably represent our best creative thought. In the summer of 1942 my wife and I heard a number of the Pound short-wave broadcasts from Italy, and one of these contained a line which I will never forget.

The section from the new Cantos quoted by Mr. Creekmore is good verse, God knows — but it was written by a man who advised Americans on a summer night that they were delivering their destinies into the hands of a "bunch of blob-headed kikes."

I am unable to read one without thinking of the other, and the people who can have the benefit of the most self-sealing, neatly compartmented minds of our time.

The Klan Meets Some Grass Roots Opposition —

Following on the heels of several Florida moves against the Ku Klux Klan, three separate incidents occurred this week that indicate further that the south is beginning to clean house in earnest.

Incident one — While Grand Dragon Samuel Green was making a white supremacy speech in West Columbia, S.C., University of South Carolina students heckled the meeting and pelted the speakers platform with stench bombs.

Local police and Klan strongmen kept the students off at a distance. But the students' remarks — and missiles — found their marks.

Incident two — Grand Dragon Green put in an appearance in the South Carolina legislature. Appearing in the gallery, he was introduced by a legislator as "one of our good neighbors from across the Savannah river." As Green bowed and smiled, the legislators applauded.

Incident three — Alabama's Gov. James E. Folsom called for a crackdown on 'robed and hooded men' after two Talladega citizens intimidated by the Klan sold their homes and prepared to leave town.

When is Science Not Science?

If anyone doubts that we are living in an age of science, let him watch genetic theory marry itself with political theory.

The world's leading geneticists favor what is known as the Mendelian theory of heredity in plants and animals. A Russian named Lyenko who is in high favor in Russia advocates the Minchurin theory which is more in accord with the Soviet's beliefs in the advance of man.

The result of the Russians choosing one theory to make a state theory was simply to outlaw the other. When the Mendelian theory was denounced by Communist Russia the scientists who still supported it were denounced too.

Science had bowed to political expediency and the scientists with it.

Yesterday the president of Oregon State university announced he had dismissed an associate chemistry professor for supporting Lyenko's genetics teachings.

The professor is appealing to the American Association of University Professors.

with legal technicalities similar to the ones which got the Klan into trouble in Florida. He said "robed and hooded men are using their cars over the streets and highways with tags removed or concealed in violation of the law."

Before these three incidents occurred, it was possible only to generalize and say "the south is cleaning house." The suspicion arose that maybe the south was cleaning house only because the threat of federal civil rights legislation hung over Dixie.

But, happily, this week's three incidents show that the urge to reform is deeper than that. If the sudden rash of indignation against the Klan was just a political maneuver, it would be the political machines which would be most feverish.

It was not the South Carolina legislature or the West Columbia police force that dared defy infamous tradition. It was instead a group of college students and a governor who is pretty thoroughly discredited by his state's machines... they were the ones who turned on the Klan.

The indications — while still sketchy — seem to point to a grass roots effort to weed out some deeper than grass roots trouble.

The question naturally arises whether Oregon State is doing the same thing Russia is doing — outlawing a theory and its supporters — or if that college is acting in good faith in trying to establish a curriculum of most widely accepted theory.

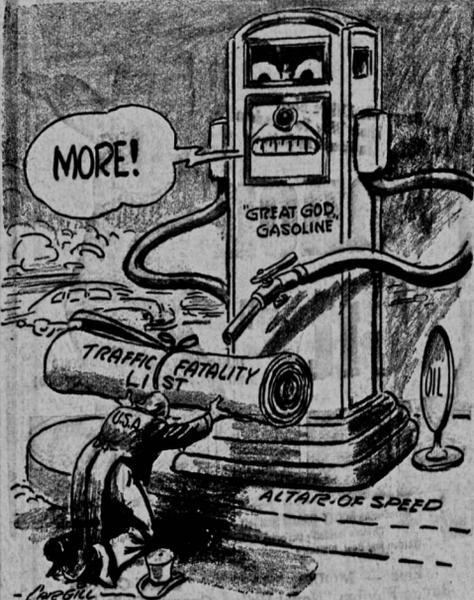

The professor in question, together with an Oregon economics professor had earlier been notified that their contracts would not be renewed. At that time they said it was because they were members of the Progressive party.

The Oregon president denied this when he dismissed the chemistry professor. He made no mention of the economics professor.

If all depends on how a college administrator looks at a follower of an ideologically opposed belief. Does he consider him a crackpot and hence undesirable on the faculty? Or does he label him a Communist follower?

The danger is that we could do exactly what the Russians did, to "purify" their teachings of genetics. We could stifle freedom of thought to the point where it would become universally apparent that there is no room for difference of opinion.

Drop Charge Against Lange

Elmer Lange, Pocatantas, yesterday was cleared by District Judge Harold D. Evans for aiding the escape of an inmate from a state institution as charged in a grand jury indictment.

Lange was indicted last Oct. 4 for assisting Bonnie Chaney to escape from University hospitals where she had been taken for treatment from the state training school for girls at Mitchellville.

Later Lange filed a demurrer to the indictment claiming the incident was not a crime under Iowa statutes, although he admitted the facts as charged. Judge Evans took the matter under advisement after a hearing on the demurrer Jan. 24.

Judge Evans ruled yesterday that Lange had not been charged with the violation of any criminal statute except that of "aiding the escape of an inmate of a state institution."

For the purpose of criminal procedure, the Code of Iowa defines a state institution as one being under the management of the board of control of state institutions, Judge Evans pointed out.

Since University hospitals are not under the management of the board of control, Lange could not be prosecuted, Judge Evans ruled. He had not assisted an inmate to escape from a state institution as charged in the indictment.

Judge Evans ordered the demurrer sustained, dismissal of the grand jury indictment, and exoneration of Lange's bail bond.

Prof. Porter to Speak At Masonic Luncheon

Prof. Kirk H. Porter, head of the SUI political science department, will speak this noon at the Masonic service club luncheon on "The Atlantic Pact and the Balance of Power."

This is the fourth talk in a series of problems confronting the United Nations given at the service club luncheons.

YMCA to Sponsor Speaker

The Rev. A. J. Muste, New York, director of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, is coming to SUI this weekend as speaker for Religion in Life week opening Sunday.

The Rev. Muste is being brought to the religious emphasis week by students of the YMCA.

He will speak on "American Citizenship Is World Citizenship" at the Religion in Life week conference here, Schloming said.

All day Saturday before Religion in Life week begins, the Rev. Mr. Muste will conduct a YMCA statewide Bible study conference here, Schloming said.

This year's appearance at SUI is not the first for the Rev. Mr. Muste. He was Religion in Life week speaker here in 1938. Prof. M. Willard Lampe, director of the SUI school of religion, said yesterday.

The Rev. Mr. Muste is a member of the National Commission on a Just and Durable Peace of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

He is author of the books "Non-Violence in an Aggressive World" and "Not by Might—Christianity—The Way to Human Decency."

He attended Hope college, Holland, Mich.; the Theological Seminary of the Reformed Church of America, New Brunswick, N.J., and Columbia university.

The Fellowship of Reconciliation, directed by the Rev. Mr. Muste, is the largest peace movement in America, Ralph Schloming, director of the YMCA here, said yesterday.

The Rev. Mr. Muste is also

Jury Picked to Try Disputed Will Case

The Ipsen vs. Ruess will-contest suit in Johnson county district court continued yesterday, after a jury had been selected to try the case.

Last October, a jury declared the will of J.W. Ruess, West Liberty, invalid on the grounds that Ruess was mentally incompetent at the time the will was made.

The Iowa supreme court later reversed this decision, referring the case back to the lower court for retrial.

The 12 jurors selected yesterday to try the case are Irene Eckhardt, Grace Robertson, Myrtle Siemer, Max Bayer, Grace C. Mabie, Edith Ranshaw, Lyle Lenz, Mae Ewalt, Neola W. Marietta, R.E. Roberts, Charles McComas and Lewis Maske.

Plan Interviews for YWCA Job Seekers

Irma Sundling, staff member of the national YWCA, will be in Iowa City tomorrow through Tuesday to interview SUI students interested in vocational opportunities in the YWCA.

Positions for recent graduates with only limited experience of former beginning salaries of $2,000 to $2,400 a year. Positions are open to a limited number of this year's graduates with good basic qualifications, Mrs. Bonnie Wilson, executive secretary, said yesterday.

Anyone interested may contact Mrs. Wilson at the YWCA office in the Iowa Union to make an appointment.

ERP Time May Be Cut, Truman Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman raised the possibility yesterday that Marshall European recovery plan aid can be discontinued sooner than expected because it is succeeding so well.

But he emphasized that it must be continued until economic recovery in all of western Europe is assured, even if it takes the full four years, the original goal.

His news conference statement was prompted by the report of Christopher P. Mayhew, British undersecretary of state, that Britain's economic recovery is nearly complete.

Meantime there were reports that the Atlantic powers are near agreement on a defense clause in the proposed north Atlantic treaty.

Though the wording still is secret, the key clause is understood to provide that:

1. A military assault on any of the seven powers shall be considered as an attack on all, and each country shall assist in meeting the attack as a matter of self defense under the United Nations charter.

2. Each country will decide for itself the steps it will take, military or other, to meet the attack.

Mr. Truman did not discuss the Atlantic pact at his news conference, but foreign affairs and this country's role of world leadership dominated it.

Declaring himself "immensely gratified" by the Israeli-Egyptian armistice announced Wednesday, the President offered the further assistance of this country in bringing peace between Israel and all the Arab states.

The President's views were given to an unusually large turnout of reporters, many interested in what he might have to say about his "S.O.B." speech denouncing critics of his staff.

Mr. Truman said he would not retract a word.

Iowa River Overflows After Three-Foot Rise

ROCKS WON'T FLOAT ON WATER, not even in Iowa as Kyle Reneau, Al, Law Commons, discovers upon closer inspection of the seeming phenomenon. Boulders had to be placed on the end of the boat dock by the Union to keep the rising Iowa river from sweeping its planks downstream. According to boathouse keeper Melville Fitzgerald, the river rose nearly three feet Wednesday night and yesterday, spilling water almost 50 feet over the southern bank of the river.

Room for 3 More On European Tour

Three places are still open for the classical backgrounds European tour to be conducted by the Bureau of university travel this summer, according to Prof. Oscar E. Nybakken of the SUI classics department.

Students planning to take the trip are urged by Nybakken to make definite plans with him at room 111 Schaeffer hall.

The tour is limited to 25 persons, Nybakken said, and the remaining three places have been held open so SUI students may have first chance.

Stewart Says Good Lawyer Is Active

The lawyer who succeeds in any community is one who takes an active part in community affairs, Attorney Walter L. "Stub" Stewart told law students and law faculty members last night in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Stewart, past president of the SUI Alumni association (1944-46) and former football star (1907-09), spoke on the subject of "The Young Lawyer's Relationship to His Client."

He received his B.A. degree here in 1910 and was graduated from the law school in 1912. He is now a member of the law firm of Gibson, Stewart and Garrett in Des Moines.

Stewart stressed the importance of "extra-curricular" activities in the community and the importance of integrity in winning the confidence of prospective clients.

"Too many lawyers today have their eyes on the dollar rather than on the client," he said. "Much of the criticism leveled against the legal profession today is the result of strained relations between lawyers and their clients."

Persons needing legal advice usually go to lawyers who have a reputation for integrity, competence, and an interest in their clients and in their problems, Stewart pointed out.
