B-50 Travels 23,000 Miles In 94-Hour Continuous Flight

FORT WORTH, TEX. (UP)—The first non-stop round-the-world flight ever made ended here yesterday when the proud B-50 bomber "Lucky Lady II" touched the same runway from which it took off 94 hours before.

A perfectly kept secret and the feat was achieved by refueling the big Boeing ship in the air at four points on its approximately 23,452-mile course. Capt. James Gallagher of Melrose, Minn., 26-year-old plane commander, was at the controls when the silver bomber flashed over the Carswell air force base control tower at 9:22 a. m. Iowa time and landed eight minutes later.

He and 13 other crew members had crossed seven bodies of water and four continents since 11:21 a. m. Iowa time Feb. 26. They averaged 249 miles per hour over a route which lacked only about 1,500 miles of equalling the distance around the earth at the equator.

If they were tired, they concealed it. Clean-shaven and smiling, they stood by their four-engine ship and received the plaudits of Air Secretary W. Stuart Symington; Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, chief of staff; Lt. Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, strategic air commander, and Maj. Gen. Roger M. Ramey, 8th air force commander.

Symington described the achievement as evidence that all air force medium bombers now had "inter-continental" range. Lemay put it more bluntly. He said that B-50's flying from American bases could "deliver the atom bomb to any part of the world where it may be required."

Fore "diplomatic" reasons, the route followed a zig-zag course, officers said. The B-50, modeled after the famed wartime B-29 superfort, was refueled over the Azores, Dahrain in Saudi Arabia, the Philippines and Hawaii. The legs were 3,884 miles, 5,305 miles, 4,989, 5,464 miles and 3,810 miles respectively. There was always an ample fuel reserve. The refueling was done from B-29's converted into tankers.

Having vastly increased performance over that of its antecedent, the B-50 is rated a 6,000-mile bomber with a five-ton bomb load. Over shorter ranges it will carry 10 tons. Its top speed is about 400 miles per hour.

The "Lucky Lady II" was drawn from the 8th air force's 43rd bomb group at Tucson, Ariz. At a news conference, Gallagher and his crew mates faced 54 correspondents who had been brought here Tuesday night without fore-knowledge of their destination. The plane commander assured the questioners that there now "isn't any limit to the time we can stay aloft" other than mechanical difficulties.

"You can go anywhere you want," he said. Gallagher described the flight at altitudes of 10,000 to 20,000 feet, as "quite normal. There was no serious trouble. Refueling worked very well."

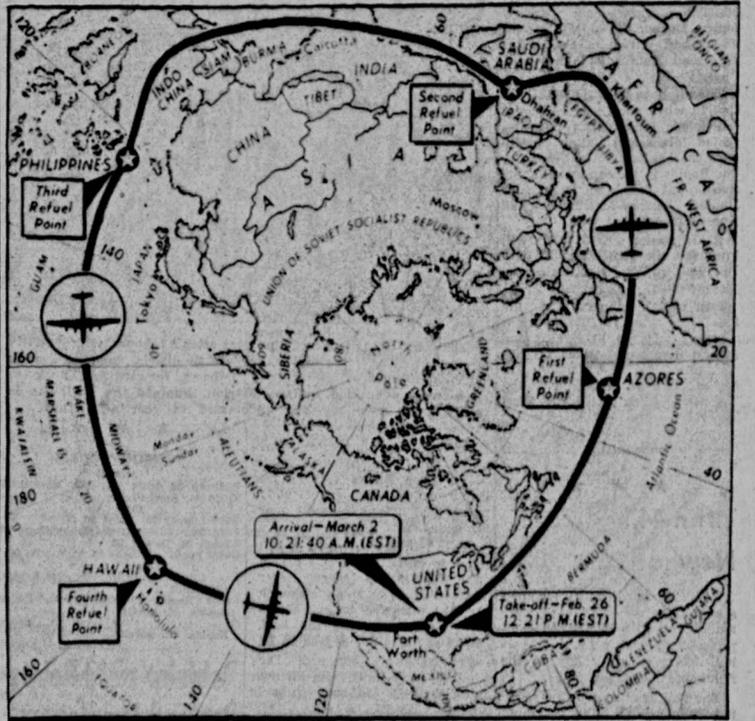

He and his companions said that given a little rest they would be ready to do it again. To six-hour shifts getting ample sleep.

The crew comprised three pilots, two navigators, two radar officers, three flight engineers, two radio operators and two gunners. All were war veterans, most having served under Lemay and Ramey in the Pacific.

Weather was excellent throughout, Gallagher said. The plane had to be flown on instruments only four of the 94 hours it was aloft. The wisdom of the secrecy which shrouded the project was evident when it was revealed that a prior attempt was started last Friday only to be cut short in the Azores by engine trouble.

Secrecy prevailed despite the fact that hundreds of airforce officers and men must have known of the project, or at least parts of it. Lemay explained that a "few tricks" were used to prevent the word from spreading. But Fort Worth, headquarters of the 8th air force, and Omaha, headquarters of the strategic air command, of which the 8th is a part, never lost track. Their reports, no matter how distant the air craft was, reached them in one-half to one hour after transmission.

Senators Tydings (D-Md) of the senate armed services committee said the flight "offers some measure of what another world war would mean to all peoples of the earth." He told a reporter the successful test of long-range refueling operations shows the "increasing importance of air power in national defense."

AROUND THE WORLD IN FOUR DAYS. This map traces the general route of the airforce B-50 bomber, Lucky Lady II, on its four-day non-stop flight around the world completed yesterday. The bomber, carrying a crew of 14, was refueled in the air at four points on the flight of more than 23,000 miles from Caswell field, Fort Worth, Texas, around the world.

New Credit Controls Ease 'Time' Buying

WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal reserve board last night relaxed installment credit controls, effective next Monday, making it easier to buy products on time.

The chief change allows 21 months to pay off the credit balance due after a cash payment. The time limit in force now is 18 months where the credit amount is more than $1,000, or 15 months when it is less.

The 21-month pay off limit applies to all items affected by the controls—automobiles, refrigerators, radios and television sets, washing machines, furniture and other household appliances valued above $50.

The cash down payment for automobiles will remain one third of the price. For all other controlled goods, however, it will be reduced to 15 per cent from the present 20 per cent.

The reserve board action followed closely a report it issued showing the amount of installment credit outstanding had dropped in January for the first time in three years.

The board has been under mounting pressure to ease the control terms, chiefly on the ground that they were slowing up sales of automobiles and forcing many prospective buyers out of the market because of high monthly payments.

Rep. Patman (D-Tex.), a leader among congressmen protecting the tightness of the controls, had called for a 24-month limit on pay offs.

The 21-month allowance newly ordered by the board is mid-way between the figure Patman advocated and the board's old 18-month top limit.

The reserve board said its "modification" of control terms is based on "continuous study of the operations of the regulation since it was re-instated last September, and on the experience of federal reserve banks and their branches in administration in the field."

The board is still seeking permanent authority from congress for imposing credit curbs in place of the present limited authority, due to expire next June 30.

The retail automobile dealers association has been one of the principal advocates of a relaxation of the controls. One auto manufacturer, Kaiser-Frazer, recently cut back its production and explained that it did so because the installment control regulations were slowing up sales.

Reduction would involve passing an ordinance, so the recommendation was referred to the ordinance committee and city attorney.

Most time-consuming business was canvassing the tally sheets from Monday's primary election, declaring the totals correct and the election verdicts official.

Emanuel P. Adler Dies in Davenport

DAVENPORT (AP)—Emanuel P. Adler, 76, who rose from a $1-a-week printer to publisher of the Davenport Daily Times and president of the Lee syndicate of 10 mid-western newspapers, died yesterday.

Funeral services will be held at Temple Emanuel in Davenport at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow. Burial in Mount Nebo cemetery will be private.

(Adler was a charter member of the board of trustees of the school of religion at the State University of Iowa and a vice-president of that body since its beginning.)

Airforce Lists Crew Of 'Lucky Lady II'

FORT WORTH, TEX. (AP)—Fourteen men of the airforce wrote their names into history in the 94 hours ending at 9:22 a. m. (Iowa time) yesterday.

They were the crewmen of "Lucky Lady II," the B-50 which circled the world non-stop.

Members of the crew were Capt. James Gallagher, Melrose, Minn.; 1st Lt. Arthur M. Neal, Visalia, Calif., second pilot; Capt. James N. Morris, San Antonio, Tex., third pilot.

Capt. Glenn E. Hacker, Eldorado, Kan., first navigator; 1st Lt. Earl L. Rigor, Corvallis, Ore., second navigator; 1st Lt. Roland B. Bonner, Bakersfield, Calif., and 1st Lt. William F. Chaffrey, Boston, radar officer.

Capt. David B. Parmelee, Guilford, Conn.; Staff Sgt. Robert G. Davis, Niles, Mich., and Tech. Sgt. Virgil L. Young, Cranesville, Pa., flight engineers.

Tech. Sgt. Burgess G. Cantrell, Pound, Va., and Staff Sgt. Robert R. McLeroy, Alvarado, Tex., radio operators.

Tech. Sgt. Melvin G. Davis, Long Beach, Calif., and Staff Sgt. Donald G. Traugh Jr., Danville, Pa., gunners.

Neal was pilot of "Lucky Lady," a B-29 which completed a round-the-world training flight last July.

Police Officer Shot In Tama Gun Fight

TAMA (AP)—A middle-aged carpenter, forced into the open with tear gas, and a highway patrolman were wounded seriously yesterday in an exchange of shots over an insanity warrant.

Ivan Elliott, about 55, fired a rifle bullet which wounded Patrolman John Willson and fell later with two wounds of his own, one of them self-inflicted, police said.

A shotgun shell fired by a policeman pierced Elliott's body, but before the carpenter fell he raised his rifle and shot himself once through the head, authorities said.

Elliott, who was alone when officers approached his home to serve the insanity warrant, was forced from his house with tear gas.

The warrant was signed by Elliott's wife, Thelma. It was issued shortly before the shooting. She told authorities her husband threatened her during a quarrel.

Vote to Legalize Liquor in Kansas

TOPEKA, KANS. (AP)—A bill to legalize liquor in Kansas, for 69 years a stronghold of prohibition, was passed yesterday by the legislature.

The act now needs only the signature of Republican Gov. Fra Carlson and publication in the official state newspaper to welcome whisky into the 46th wet state.

When the act becomes law, probably either Saturday or Monday, only Oklahoma and Mississippi will remain with statewide prohibitory statutes.

CHINESE PEACE TALKS

NANKING, CHINA (Thursday) (AP)—Premier Sun Fo said today that the Communists have agreed to talk peace with the Nationalists some time after March 15.

U.S. Communists Would Aid Russia in War with America

NEW YORK (UP)—The two top American Communists said yesterday that in event of war between the United States and Russia the Communist party in this country would try to "defeat the predatory war aims of American imperialism."

The statement, issued at Communist headquarters by National Chairman William Z. Foster and General Secretary Eugene Dennis, followed the pattern of pro-Russian military pronouncements recently made by French Communist Leader Maurice Thorez and Italian Leader Palmiro Togliatti.

Dennis and Foster said they did not regard war as inevitable and that they believed the Russian and American systems could exist separately and peacefully, but that if "Wall Street" should plunge the United States into war, the Communists would oppose it as unjust and aggressive and "destructive of the deepest interests of the American people and all humanity."

"Even as Lincoln while a congressman opposed the unjust annexationist Mexican war and demanded its termination, so would we Communists cooperate with all democratic forces to defeat the predatory war aims of American imperialism and bring such a war to a speedy conclusion on the basis of a democratic peace."

Neither Foster nor Dennis appeared in person when the statement was issued. Dennis now is being tried for conspiracy to advocate and teach the overthrow of the U.S. government by force.

Foster, along with Dennis and 10 other members of the Communist national board, was to be tried on the same charge but he was excused, at least temporarily, because of a serious heart ailment.

The Communist leaders said they had been asked for comment on the American Communist attitude following the statements by Thorez and Togliatti. They said those statements "emphatically serve the cause of universal peace."

They said the Marshal plan and the Atlantic pact threatened peace and that while an invasion of the United States was improbable, there was a war threat from "cartel-connected trusts" which seek to stampee America and the world into an atomic war.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Francis Case (R-SD) said last night that the pro-Russian stand taken by leaders of the U.S. Communist party would be "strictly treasonable" if the nation were at war.

His assertion typified the angry reaction of both Republican and Democratic congressmen to the statement issued by top U.S. Communist leaders, William Z. Foster and Eugene Dennis.

Rep. Richard M. Nixon (R-Cal) said the statement is "all the more reason to relentlessly expose all of the Communist traitors in our midst."

The justice department, which is prosecuting Foster, Dennis and 10 other top U.S. Communists on charges of conspiring to advocate overthrow of the government by force, declined to comment on the statement.

Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa) second ranking Democrat on the un-American activities committee: "Dennis and Foster are following the line of the European Communist leaders, and their statement probably was inspired from the same source. Communists are all alike the world over."

POPE MAKES APPEAL

NEW YORK (AP)—Pope Pius XII in a special Lenten radio message yesterday urged American children "to think of their more unfortunate brothers and sisters throughout the world."

WESTERN diplomatic sources were still hopeful of finding a compromise. The treaty discussions started two and a half years ago.

Cardinal Says He'll Help Bury Bodies; Blasts at Strikers

NEW YORK (AP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, announced last night that he is going out to Calvary cemetery today and help bury the 700 bodies which have accumulated there during a seven-week strike of grave diggers.

He said he would take 100 seminarian students with him and they would do any work the foreman at the Long Island cemetery told them to do. Another group of students will be sent to Gate of Heaven cemetery in Westchester county, which also has been strikebound for seven weeks.

He said the strike by the United Cemetery workers (CIO) was Communist inspired and an immoral affront to the church. The detachment of students is being sent, he said, as a last resort before the 300 striking grave diggers, gardeners and chauffeurs are replaced with other workers.

Calvary, one of the largest cemeteries in the country, is the scene of 50 to 60 funerals every day, and the cardinal said the situation there is getting critical.

The union has struck for higher wages and walked out after two negotiating sessions, Spellman said. He offered to arbitrate the issue, he said, but was refused.

Slovene Province Gets Russ Backing

LONDON (AP)—Russia lined up with Yugoslavia yesterday behind a plan to create a self-governing Slovene province in southern Austria.

Soviet backing of Yugoslav claims, renewed despite the communist's fight with Premier Marshal Tito, sharpened the east-west disagreement in big four talks on an Austrian independence treaty.

U.S., British and French deputy foreign ministers at the treaty conference here joined in opposing creation of an autonomous province. The Yugoslavs said such a province was needed for "fair treatment" of Slovenes in Austrian Carinthia.

U.S. Deputy Samuel Reber described Yugoslavia's further claim for annexation of an unspecified amount of Austrian territory as "unwarranted and unjustified." Russia supported the territorial claim, too.

Western diplomatic sources were still hopeful of finding a compromise. The treaty discussions started two and a half years ago.

MID-AIR REFUELING of Lady Lucky II was done in this manner. A B-29 tanker plane (above) is shown refueling the B-50 bomber in the air on a practice flight over Texas prior to the bomber's non-stop flight around the world. On the world flight, the Lady Lucky II refueled in the air four times.

Tiffin, Marion, Wilson Win District Tests

Hawklets See Action Tonight

Last night's second spurt of firing in the high school district tournament in the fieldhouse saw two A teams and a B club play even games until nearly midway in the final period and then pull away to win by fairly safe margins.

In the opening game last night Tiffin's B club beat Newhall, 44-36. The A games saw a highly touted Marion five down DeWitt, 53-38, and Wilson of Cedar Rapids send Monticello to the sidelines, 55-44.

The big boys go into action here tonight when two Class AA games scheduled, Iowa City's once-defeated Mississippi Valley conference champs face Franklin of Cedar Rapids in the top game of the tournament at 8:45 and two Cedar Rapids teams—McKinley and Roosevelt—meet at 7:30.

Radio station KSUI-FM will broadcast the games tonight with Bill Wolf and Hal Hart airing the play-by-play.

Last night's winners and the first round winners Tuesday night will get together in final round games tomorrow night. Tiffin will meet Wellman, Wilson of Cedar Rapids will face Marion and University High will play West Liberty for the right to go on to the sub-state tournament. The AA winners automatically qualify for the sub-state.

Tiffin 44, Newhall 36

With Forward Murl Wenman showing the way as floor leader and scorer, Tiffin's Yellowjackets pulled away from a fighting Newhall team to win easily at the fieldhouse last night, 44-36.

The Panthers' zone defense held the score down in the first half, which ended with Tiffin leading, 21-19. Only three minutes before the half ended the score had been 14-11. A late flurry of baskets by Wenman and Guard Bill Verry gave Tiffin its margin.

The game got under way slowly and with both teams using a tight zone defense, the first basket was not scored until Jim Bierschenk tallied for Newhall with almost four minutes gone. After a time-out, Wenman and company started clicking to cut a 5-1 Newhall lead to 11-9 at the quarter.

With about three minutes to play in the first half, Wenman's free throw put Tiffin ahead and they were never behind after that. The second half was almost all Wenman. He got 13 points and led his team until he fouled out with 45 seconds left in the game.

Tiffin broke the Panther's defense wide open and led at the three-quarter mark, 34-28. The third quarter was the best played period of the contest as Harlan Weekly played a valiant floor game to keep Newhall in the game.

The fourth quarter saw Tiffin gain control of both boards and aided by two successive baskets by Wenman, one on a stolen ball, the other on a pivot from the foul line, the winners pulled into a 10-point lead with two minutes to go.

At this point Tiffin started an effective freeze. Newhall fouled several times but Tiffin took the ball out and continued its freeze to the final gun.

Marion 53, DeWitt 38

Marion's basketball team racked up its 20th straight victory this year, rolling over an outmanned but stubborn DeWitt quintet in the second round of the district cage tournament in the fieldhouse last night, 53-38.

The underdog Dehawks played the powerful Indians on even terms for the first half but the strong Marion five began to roll midway in the third period, dumping in seven points before DeWitt was able to hit.

The Indians continued the surge to a 45-27 score before the Dehawks could find the range again.

Lloyd Olmstead began the night's scoring for Marion on a tip in. Seconds later Jack King dumped in a jump-push shot from the side and the Indians led, 4-0. Both sides traded markers until Dick Capper pushed the Dehawks ahead, 7-5, and followed that with another two-pointer for a 9-6 lead.

A free throw by Ken Otting leveled the score at nine all until Watching are the Dehawks forward Joel Hinek (6) and two unidentified Indians. Marion thumped the Dehawks in a fast game, 53-38, to remain undefeated this year in 20 games.

Dick Wallace's charity toss shoved DeWitt into the lead again, 11-10. Then Barrie Gable's free throw evened the count at 11 apiece just before the first quarter ended.

Bob Williams dropped a gift shot to open the second period and the Indians were never headed from then on although DeWitt managed to pull up to 21-20 shortly before the half. Score at the midpoint was 23-20.

The Dehawk's forward, Dick Wallace, sank shots from all over the court. He led both clubs in scoring with 22.

Wilson 55, Monticello 44

Wilson high of Cedar Rapids ran away from a scrappy Monticello team at the fieldhouse last night, 55-44, as Larry Ramsey scored 17 points, 10 of them in the second half.

The losing Panthers led until 30 seconds before the end of the third quarter, when Guard Eldie Svoboda tallied on a pivot shot and a free throw to put Wilson's Ramblers ahead, 38-37. Monticello never caught up after that.

Forward Paul Schneider put on an amazing shooting exhibition in the first 10 minutes of the game, sinking six of his team's first seven baskets. On the strength of Schneider's marksmanship the Panthers pulled into a 15-11 first quarter lead. Schneider led both teams in scoring with 19 points.

Both squads played hard but ragged in the first half. The ball was stolen often, but the Panthers' inability to cash in on their set-ups under the basket held their half-time lead down to 25-24.

Wilson Center Jack Fulton controlled the boards throughout the major portion of the contest in addition to scoring 14 points. When he committed his fourth personal foul midway through the third quarter, Bernie Ehrenberger came in and took over. He scored seven points in the final quarter to assure the game for Wilson.

With two minutes left in the game the Ramblers went into a freeze to protect a 50-42 advantage.

On Sex, Basketball, Cowles and Officiating —

People don't compare basketball to sex very often. But they tell you at the University of California that sex is the more popular of the two. Not even a sports writer can argue against that.

Anyway, as proof of the popularity, 9,000 "fans" attended a recent lecture on sex by Dr. Alfred Kinsey at Berkeley, Calif. You've all heard of Dr. Kinsey. He's the former Indiana professor who skyrocketed to fame with books on males and females.

Where does basketball come in? Well, the auditorium in which Kinsey gave the lecture jammed in 7,000 persons for the most popular California basketball game—this was 2,000 less than heard Kinsey expound the merits of birds and bees. "That's kind of an unfair comparison for basketball, isn't it?"

Ozzie Cowles, Minnesota basketball coach, took a busman's holiday Monday night and watched Wisconsin slam Iowa at Madison, 70-47. It was part work, though, since Ozzie's quintet closes the season against the Badgers Saturday. He wanted to see how they operate on the home floor.

Undoubtedly he wasn't too pleased with what happened. Wisconsin took the Hawks for everything but their uniforms in the second half. After the Hawks trailed by two points, 36-34, with five minutes gone in the final period, Wisconsin outscored Iowa in the remainder of the contest, 34-13.

Wisconsin's Don Rehfeldt was an artful performer. His 34-point output was well earned. There wasn't one easy shot in any of the 13 field goals he produced—the majority were unstoppable left and right hand hook shots.

We asked Cowles before the game about next year's Gopher team. Minnesota loses 6-foot, 10-inch Jim McIntyre by graduation, and we wanted to know if Cowles thought the team would be better off with Wally Salovich in the pivot.

"I doubt whether Salovich will even make the squad next year," was his point blank answer. That is an extremely surprising statement. Although McIntyre was always useful for rebounding, Salovich tended to speed up the Minnesota offense. He stands 6-5, but can move up and down the floor much faster than McIntyre.

Cowles also says he has no big boys coming up from his freshman team, and he has no idea who'll play center. McIntyre is Minnesota's only loss. Whitey Skoog, Bud Grant, Jerry Mitchell and Harold Olson will all be back.

We talked with one Big Nine basketball coach recently—not Cowles—who said he has stopped mailing reports on referees to the Western conference office. It is customary for each coach to send in reports on officials following every game.

"It's not worth taking the time anymore," said the coach. "It doesn't do any good."

THOUGHTS AND NOTES—Why don't the Big Nine and other conferences hold yearly referee schools? . . . They should set up rigid standards for gaining a diploma. . . Main gripes against officials now are that they don't know the rules and the lack of consistency in calling fouls. . . The last two Iowa games against Indiana and Wisconsin were representative of this.

Why not have three or possibly four referees officiate each conference game? . . . Have one on each sideline and one under each basket. . . It might mean that a lot more fouls would be called for awhile, but the players would soon realize there are a few things they can't get away with—especially centers.

Why not open the fieldhouse on week nights during the state tournament finals so the high school kids will have a place to sleep? . . . This was the policy in other years, but has been changed because high schools are afraid it leads to hokey. . . We're willing to bet right now that the same number of kids will be here regardless, but will be denied a safe place to sleep.

Some people are already saying Iowa has a good chance to win the Big Nine baseball title. . . Could be. . . Bill Garrett, Indiana center, is only the fourth Negro basketball player to make a Big Nine team. . . Others were at Iowa, Ohio State and Chicago (during Big Ten days).

Reggie Kaiser and George Nichols, two of the four North Des Moines high school runners who collaborated to set two National scholastic relay records, are now at Drake. . . Both were at Iowa for a short time.

Rehfeldt's 213 Points Bag Scoring Honors

CHICAGO (AP) — Wisconsin's Don Rehfeldt, 6 foot, 6 inch center, has clinched the 1949 Western conference basketball individual scoring championship. He becomes the sixth player in conference "modern era" history to score more than 200 points during a 12-game schedule.

Rehfeldt scored 13 field goals and eight free throws against Iowa Monday night for 34 points to boost his 11-game total to 213 with one game left against Minnesota at Madison Saturday.

These are the Big Nine players who have surpassed 200 points during a 12-game conference schedule:

- 272 points—Murray Wier, Iowa, 1948
- 255 points—Andy Phillip, Illinois, 1943
- 215 points—Jim McIntyre, Minnesota, 1948
- 208 points—Dick Ives, Iowa, 1944
- 204 points—Dick Schnitker, Ohio State, 1948

Draves Set for Waves

HE'S NOT THROTTLING A RIVAL—that's Iowa's Duane Draves pushing off backwards at the start of a backstroke race. Soft-mannered Draves is too likeable a person to take such violent action against any foe, but he spares no man when it comes to winning a backstroke race. He's a key man in Iowa's Big Nine strategy in three events: the backstroke, individual medley and three-man medley relay team.

Iowa Guns for Swim Title

This is the big weekend for the Iowa swimmers who left for Purdue yesterday morning in determined search of the school's second Big Nine pennant in 34 years.

Not since their lone title of 1936 have the Hawk-eyes entered the championship s h i p s — one of the four major prizes of swimming — with as well grounded ambitions as the 1949 team has taken to Lafayette.

But even with a squad more powerful than the 1936 champs, Iowa is figured only number-three team in a triangular dog-fight with NCAA champion

Michigan and American amateur champion Ohio State.

So keenly are the three schools matched, that four points might cover first and third places if all swimmers go according to their performances to date. No less than six Olympic swimmers are entered to put pressure on all but one event, the backstroke.

Tonight, Iowa sends Herman Lehman out to attempt to break into the all-star 1500-meter field. Sophomore Lehman will be up against such national standouts as Olympian Bill Heusner of Northwestern, Big Nine Champ Matty Mann and Gus Stager of Michigan—and possibly the fabulous Buckeye, Bill Smith.

The battle resumes tomorrow with the key race, from Iowa's standpoint, the always unpredictable 220-yard duel between the two Olympians, Wally Ris and Smith.

Ris is defending champ for beating Smith in year . . . But Smith is favored after edging Ris—again in record time—at Ohio in a dual meet last month. An upset by Ris would scramble all the per-meet dope on the outcome and send Iowa's chances surging.

Of the nine championships to be settled, Iowa has strong designs on four of them, including the two relays.

Ris is favored to hold this title in the 100, but even at his specialty, the Hawk-eye captain expects no easy race. Halo Hirose of Ohio State has already nicked him this year and Michigan's Dick Weinberg has been a steady threat down through the years.

Backstrokers Duane Draves and Dick Maine are regarded as one-two favorites in their event. Hawk-eye Bud Griesbach also rates among the league's first five, so that Iowa has good prospects of hoarding three of the five places in the backstroke.

Sprinters Ery Straub, Ken Marsh, "Rusty" Garst and Bob Busch; Breaststroker Bowen Stasforth, and Draves, who will enter the new individual medley event, all figure to mix things up at the expense of Michigan and Ohio and are all key men in the two crucial relays, the sprint four-one and the medley trio.

Louis Gets Two-Year Pacts With Top 2 Title Contenders

MIAMI (AP)—Promoter Joe Louis, who learned about contracts from Mike Jacobs, revealed yesterday he had tied up the NBA-version of the heavyweight championship for his International Boxing club. He has exclusive two-year agreements with Ezzard Charles and Jersey Joe Walcott.

"Charles or Walcott, whichever wins in June, has agreed to fight only for us for two years."

said Louis on his return from another successful exhibition at Nassau, "that was part of the deal by which they will fight for the title. The winner has to fight either Lee Savold or Gus Lesnevich in 90 days."

When Louis won his crown from Jim Braddock in 1937 he signed a 10-year exclusive contract with Uncle Mike. That contract was a most important factor in the rise to power of Jacobs' 20th Century Sporting club.

Louis appears to be in the promotional game to stay with the substantial financial backing of his new partners, Arthur M. Wirtz and James D. Norris.

"I'll handle the big bouts," said the retired champ. "I will suggest the matches I think are the best. We'll still work with the local matchmakers in each city when we come in. We don't want to hurt anybody."

Louis sent out a batch of wires and air mail letters yesterday, informing all promoters and matchmakers of his official retirement.

"We don't want any fight with Mike Jacobs," said Louis when informed of Jacobs' decision to return to active direction of the 20th Century. "There ought to be room in New York for more than one promoter."

Actually, the new organization has enormous resources to finance any prolonged war with other boxing promoters. It controls five arenas and already has the skeleton of a local staff in operation.

The James D. Norris who is one of the three partners in the International Boxing club is the son of James Norris, Chicago grain operator. Wirtz, the third partner with Louis, is a partner with the two Norris men in a vast mid-west entertainment empire.

The Wirtz-Norris combination owns the Chicago Stadium, Detroit Olympia, and St. Louis arena and holds a season-long lease on arenas at Omaha and Indianapolis. In addition to numerous other sports ventures, they are landlords and percentage partners in local fight promotion both at Chicago and Detroit.

Religion-in-Life-Week To Terminate Tonight

"How many spirits can be put in a shoebox; how many angels on a pin?"

Questions like those are the result of people reducing the concept of heaven to geometric, biological and mathematical terms, the Rev. C. Vin White, Religion-in-Life-week speaker, said yesterday afternoon in the "Skeptics Hour."

The "Skeptics Hour" seminar will be conducted for the last time this afternoon at 2:30 by Rev. White and the Rev. Victory Murtland.

"Heaven is spiritual and we should stop thinking of it in biological and mathematical terms," Rev. White said.

In answer to a question from the audience Rev. White said psychologists place too much emphasis on environment shaping a man's life. A man begins to shape his own destiny when he becomes Christian, Rev. White said.

"We are not pawns in the hands of our environment," he added. SUI students may go to church but religion is not an important part of their living processes, Harold Ehrenspenger, religious journalist, said in his 3:30 p.m. seminar on "Conscience on Stage."

A culture that does not have religion as its core is superficial, he said. Art without religion has little harmony and little music in it.

Religious dramas do not show religion in its true light, Ehrenspenger said. They tend to show characters as all good or all bad, while in reality people aren't like that, he said.

Afternoon seminars were also conducted yesterday by the Rev. A. J. Muste, "Application of Ghandism to International Relations," and the Rev. George Kelsey, "The Church — Economics and Politics."

Religion-in-Life week closes tonight with an evening convocation by Harold Ehrenspenger in the Congregational church.

Mobile Unit X-Rays 158 Persons Here

Johnson County Nurse Elizabeth Budreau yesterday reported 158 persons were X-rayed for tuberculosis Tuesday through the state health department's mobile unit at the city hall.

Persons X-rayed Tuesday can pick up the results from their family physicians in about 30 days, she said.

The X-rays climaxed a six-week drive in Johnson county to contact all persons known to have been around persons already having the disease.

Miss Budreau said the response and cooperation of the persons involved was excellent. The number of persons having X-rays taken this year topped last year's total by 85.

Girl Scouts Examine Gifts from Holland

A SMALL WALL SHELF AND SEVEN BRASS MINIATURES sent to Girl Scout troop 15 from the Alex Leo Limays' family in Holland are being examined by two members of the troop. Kitty Nolan, 513 S. Summit street, reads the letter sent by the family as Sally Zimmerman, 1203 Sheridan avenue, examines one of the miniatures, a pipe holder.

Knows Her Onions —

Gets Paid for Crying

— but Has Problem

NEW YORK (AP)—Nothing makes Gina Holland happier than a good cry.

It's a lucky thing, too, because she is an onion taster for a produce company, and the more she cries the better both she and her boss like it.

Miss Holland, 23, who sobs her heart out at the drop of an onion, thinks maybe she has the best paid tear ducts in the world. She gobbles up at least 12 onions every day to make sure they are up to standard, and the rest of the time she slices, pokes and squeezes them to see that they are in proper condition for the American dinner table.

"I know my onions all right," she said, "and I eat 'em even when I'm not working. My only problem is bad breath. I've tried candy, chewing gum, mouth wash, salt and water, cloves, and none of them helped."

"Finally, I started using an Inhaler Bing Crosby sent me, so even my best friends don't turn the other way when I open my mouth."

Until two years ago, Miss Holland was a receptionist at the produce company. When she saw all the complaints rolling in about onions being improperly classified or graded or suffering from one of the various onion diseases, she told her boss he ought to hire a taster. He promoted her, instead, and she's been crying ever since.

From 9 to 5 every day, she examines onions to make sure they have been properly cured on the farm before shipment to distribution centers. If they haven't had time to dry off, they are too soft and soggy and the skins aren't crisp enough. A lot of them come from Bermuda, Egypt, and Spain and suffer from travelling ailments that make them inedible, and it's Miss Holland's job to find that out.

She has a great deal of respect for her job, which has meant reading countless books on the life and times of the onion, and she speaks almost reverently of her globular charges when she tells about how the ancient Egyptians made a sort of a god out of onions and drew pictures of them on tombs.

"The name onion," she said, "comes from as far back as 170 B.C., from a city built by a fellow named Onias in Egypt near the Gulf of Suez. People have been eating them like mad ever since, but I do wish someone would leave the atom bomb alone for awhile and figure out how to drown out the onion's smell."

Girl Scouts Display 'Friendship' Gifts From Dutch Family

The friendship of Iowa City Girl Scout troop 15 was rewarded this week when a gift from a family in Holland was put on display in the Girl Scout office.

The family of Alex Leo Limays, Luikerweg g Maastricht, Holland, sent the troop a wooden wall-shelf with seven brass miniatures of Dutch household ware.

The tiny pieces are exact models of a lantern, mortar and pestle used for grinding meal, water containers and carriers, skillet and bowl.

Last June, troop 15 prepared boxes of clothing for families in Europe. Jean Fontain, 803 S. Lucas street, then a member of the troop, suggested that the extra clothing be sent to the Limays. The Dutch family had befriended her uncle when he was in Holland during the war.

Several gifts have been sent by another Dutch family in appreciation of boxes from the Iowa City Girl Scouts. Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Zward and their 11 year old daughter of Rotterdam, Holland, sent wooden shoes, pictures, a pair of costumed dolls. They also write letters regularly.

The Girl Scouts are now preparing an Easter outfit for the Zward's daughter.

Summer Camp — Jobs Open For Girls

Many requests for university women to work at girls' camps this summer have been received by the women's physical education department, Prof. Louise L. Roloff said yesterday.

A variety of jobs are open. In one camp, specialists are needed in handicraft, horseback riding, hiking, nature study and camp craft. Program specialists, dramatic directors, music directors and sports directors are also in demand, as are counselors, business managers, handy men, nurses, dieticians and cooks.

Requirements as well as jobs differ with the various camps. Some camps require their workers to be at least 21 years old. In other camps the workers must have a junior standing in college. Women who have had previous camp training or experience and women who have had teaching experience are especially desired, Professor Roloff stated.

"A camp job is a good opportunity to save money," explained Professor Roloff. "Salaries range from $50 to $200 a month plus board and room, depending upon the camp and the experience of the worker, and the little chance to spend money."

Women applying for such work should have a real interest in people and know how to work with them. Professor Roloff emphasized. They should enjoy people of various racial and religious backgrounds. Spanish-speaking, Negro and Oriental counselors are desired in some camps.

Professor Roloff has received pamphlets and letters from about 20 camps in Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska, Illinois, Wisconsin, New York, Connecticut and Colorado this year.

Women interested are urged to contact her at her office in the women's gym.

Rent Office May Close

If federal rent control is allowed to expire March 31, the Iowa City office of the housing expediter will close at that time, Area Rent Director T.J. Wilkinson said yesterday.

Employees of the office are on notice that will terminate their duty on that date if no further rent legislation is passed by congress, Wilkinson said.

However, if new rent control legislation is enacted the office of the housing expediter will continue operation if sufficient funds are made available to maintain present personnel, he said.

"Through March 31 the housing and rent act of 1948 is the law of the land and we will continue to administer it without change," Wilkinson said.

"On April 1 we are prepared to come to grips with a new rent program, if any, or to liquidate, if there is no further federal rent control," he added.

"Business as usual" will be conducted by the office until March 31. Tenant and landlord inquiries about any rental problem under the existing federal rent law are invited and will receive the same consideration as before, the rent official said.

Mr. Donohue, who formerly operated a farm near Oasis in northwest Johnson county, moved to Iowa City five years ago.

He was born in Killea county, Tipperary, Ireland on Sept. 16, 1892, the son of John and Margaret Donohue. He came to the United States in April 1911 and began to operate the farm near Oasis in 1916.

He is survived by his wife, Mary; three daughters, Mrs. Delbert Pedersen, West Branch; Mrs. Gerald Neuzil, Cosgrove, and Ann, 120 Evans street; one sister, Hannah Donohue, Chicago; four brothers, Patrick, Solon; John and Thomas, both of Chicago, and William, Tipperary, Ireland, and one granddaughter.

He was preceded in death by a daughter, Mary, three sisters and one brother.

The body is at McGovern funeral home. Rosary will be recited there at 8 p.m. tomorrow. Friday the body will be taken to his residence where rosary will be recited at 8 p.m.

Acheson Says Big Issues in Atlantic Pact Settled

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson indicated yesterday that all major issues involved in writing the North Atlantic security treaty have been settled.

The seven countries drafting the pact, however, have not yet determined what other nations should be brought in as original signers, he disclosed. The question of inviting Italy is receiving especially careful study.

Late yesterday American officials were cheered by a news dispatch from Copenhagen saying diplomatic informants predicted that Denmark may decide today to join in the talks.

Acheson told a news conference that he did not know of any outstanding differences on the text of the treaty. He expects to meet with the ambassadors of Britain, France, Canada, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg today and possibly again early next week to try to wind up details of drafting.

The treaty would commit the United States and all other member nations to resist an attack against any one of them, but each country would decide what steps it would take in fulfilling the commitment.

Acheson said he hopes to make the text public before it is signed. Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the senate foreign relations committee had declared earlier that it should not be made public until after signing, lest some unforeseen question arise and cause trouble.

While not commenting directly on Connally's view, Acheson said that before the text was released it would have to be agreed to by thereby appeared to rule out the probability of some unforeseen issue coming up.

On the question of Italy, Acheson declined to go into any detail.

Dr. Plass Reports No False Solicitors Noted in Drive Here

Magazine solicitors falsely representing themselves throughout Iowa as workers for the Cancer drive have not been reported in Iowa as workers for the Cancer drive have not been reported in Iowa City, Dr. Everett Plass of University hospitals said yesterday.

"No reports have been made here, but that doesn't mean it hasn't occurred," Dr. Plass, vice-chairman of the Iowa division of the American Cancer society, said.

Some solicitors have been telling prospective subscribers that half or part of their profits go toward cancer research, according to a report from H.B. Hook, state chairman of the society.

"The American Cancer society wants it clearly understood that no magazine solicitors have any authority to collect funds in the name of the society. No such tie-ups with merchandise sales have been sanctioned by the society," Hook said.

The annual Cancer society drive will be held in April which gressional resolution. In Iowa City is cancer control month by con-the drive will be headed by Robert Knoepfler, 1617 Wilson street.

Magazine Features Johnson Co. Farmers

Three Johnson county farmers are featured in the March issue of Capper's Farmer, a nationally-circulated farm magazine. Two of the men are Iowa City residents, John L. Thomas and Fremont Isaacs.

A third man, Donald Snider, lives in Kalona. Snider and Thomas are cited in the magazine as two of the 25 Iowa Master Swine Producers in 1948.

Snider is reported in the article to have raised the biggest litter of any of the Master Swine Producers last year. His nine sows averaged 9.77 pigs.

The manner in which Isaacs feeds alfalfa to sows and little pigs draws comment in the magazine. Isaacs, the article says, believes fermented grain helps prevent the disease necro.

Exchange Student To Give Speech

Hans Umstaetter, German exchange student, will speak on "Life in Germany" tonight at a meeting of Delta Phi Alpha, German honorary fraternity.

Prof. F.L. Fehling, fraternity president, said yesterday Umstaetter's talk will be in German. Anyone who speaks German and is interested may attend the 8 p.m. meeting in 315 Schaeffer hall, Fehling said.

Blondes, Boilers Pose Riddle

Engineer Broods on Problem for 25 Years, Wants to Design a Dependable Woman

By CLAIRE COX

NEW YORK (AP)—Bennett F. Terry figures he'd be the richest man in the world, if he could design a woman as dependable as a freight train locomotive.

"I'd be a millionaire overnight," he said, "if I could only draw the blueprint for a gal a fellow really could count on for better or for worse."

For 25 years, now, Terry has been brooding over the problem while painting portraits of shapely women and designing beautiful machines. He has come to the conclusion that boilers and blondes have a lot of charms in common, especially when they start spouting steam.

An Understatement

"But even a washing machine is more reliable than a woman," he declares, "and that's the understatement of the year! Whether a car or a carburetor, a machine is always there when you want it, but you can't say the same for women."

According to Terry's artistic gleanings, a diesel engine and a girl both are beautiful, functional, operate smooth—and are packed with just a mite of dynamite. Both operate, except for the spirit sometimes found in women, on the same fundamental ingredients, he said.

In an engine, the battery is the heart, the wires the nervous system, the distributor the brain, the carburetor the lungs and the gasoline the blood," he explained. "Both machines and women have souls, too. My 11-year-old car has as much soul as our horse or housemaid ever did."

Like a Linotype

Terry, who keeps two printing presses in the bedroom of his home in Stamford, Conn., along with paintings of winsome women, said that the structure of ladies a press as well as a pulchritudinous girl must have regular lines and balance, he said.

"An unbalanced machine shakes itself to pieces," he said. "A woman can shake herself to pieces if she gets nervous enough, like the front wheels of a car, but either will outlast a man, if properly taken care of."

One of the advantages Terry has found in women is that they still are moulded along the same lines as Helen of Troy, while automobile styles change every year. Females still are around to reproduce and be looked at, and anything else they do is purely extraneous, or so Terry says.

Need More Care

"But women require a lot more care than a good motor," he said. "You have to keep telling them you love them or the bearings in their emotions start knocking."

Despite all this talk about aesthetic engines, however, Terry admitted he's as vulnerable as the next guy to the wiles of a pretty woman.

"I'd rather be cast upon a desert island with a girl than a machine any day," he added, "but then I guess I'm just a little weak."

Truman Asks Filibuster Halt; Southerners Continue Debate

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman called for a quick decision in the three-day-old filibuster in the senate yesterday, but there was no sign of the talk-fest running out.

Administration cries of "shame" only spurred southern orators in their fight against a Truman-backed proposal under which senate debate could be cut short any time two-thirds of those present so vote. The southerners assailed this as a preliminary move to "crucify" the south with civil rights bills.

Long Filibusters
Sen. Russell B. Long, (D-La.), son of one of the most famous filibusters of all time, said yesterday the senate should remove, not tighten, its anti-filibuster rule.

The 30-year-old son of the late Sen. Huey P. (Kingfish) Long was the southern opposition's lead-off man for the third day of debate on the administration's anti-filibuster drive.

It was the young senator's maiden speech in the senate. The public galleries were filled with visitors curious to hear the offspring of a man who once tied up the senate for 15 and one half hours with quotations from the Bible and the Constitution, and recipes for chickens and oysters and pot likker. The son's speech lasted only 55 minutes and was confined to the subject under discussion.

The Dixie bloc, originally 22 strong, actually gained strength as the debate went on.

Late in the day, Chairman Taft (R-Ohio) announced that the senate Republican policy committee had agreed to keep hands off on the voting of individual GOP senators in the filibuster controversy.

Previously, Senator Wherry of Nebraska, GOP floor leader, had predicted that "quite a few" Republicans would vote against any ruling to choke off debate until the issue has been thoroughly aired.

Change of Tactics
In a change of tactics, Senate Majority Leader Lucas (D-Ill.) told reporters he will not circulate or file a cloture (debate limiting) petition today as originally contemplated. Such a petition, signed by 16 senators, would call for Vice-President Barkley, the senate presiding officer, to rule whether such a move is acceptable.

Even if Barkley ruled in favor of the petition, the issue would still be subject to a two-thirds vote of the senate before the filibuster could be choked off.

Meanwhile, on the other side of the capitol, Republicans and Southern Democrats teamed up in the house and defeated a proposal that would have ended racial segregation in Washington schools. The decision was taken on a standing, non-record vote, 106 to 64.

Rep. Powell (D-NY) a Negro, offered the proposal as an amendment to the annual District of Columbia appropriations bill. It would have withheld federal funds from any municipal agency practicing discrimination because of race, creed, color or national origin.

Gaffney Asks Finish Of Will Case Today

District Court Judge James P. Gaffney yesterday instructed the jurors in the Ipsen vs. Ruess will contest trial to be prepared to return a verdict today, if necessary, to wind up the case. In the case, several relatives of the late J.W. Ruess, West Liberty, are seeking to break his will. County jury declared the will invalid but the Iowa supreme court later reversed the decision, referring the case back to the lower court.

The case has been before the jury since Thursday. Judge Gaffney yesterday asked the attorneys for both sides to call the remaining witnesses today and wind up the case.

Judge Gaffney said more than 40 witnesses have already testified and several more are scheduled to appear today when court convenes at 9:30 a.m.

He came to the SUI campus as a Religion-in-Life - week speaker and is conducting seminars on "Conscience on Stage."

Ehrensperger will be introduced at the lecture by Mary Louise Anneberg, A2, Carroll. The lectures are sponsored by the university women's association.

Harlan Suggests Goodwill Training

Because an employee's actions reflect the character of a business firm, employers should train their employees in public relations, Eugene B. Harlan, SUI advertising professor, said in a talk before the Lions club yesterday.

Too many employees still have the war-born attitude of "take it or leave it" he added.

Harlan showed slides of erroneous newspaper advertisements from the Iowa City area and pointed out how careless advertising can hurt the retailer.

Forrestal's Resignation May Be OK'd

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman may accept the resignation of Defense Secretary James Forrestal within a day or so, and name Louis A. Johnson of West Virginia to succeed him, it was reported yesterday.

There was no immediate confirmation of the report, which circulated in usually well-informed channels.

Forrestal's office had no comment.

Johnson was chairman of the Democratic finance committee in the 1948 presidential campaign, and raised funds for Mr. Truman's stumping tours when Democratic prospects looked bleak. From June 28, 1937 to July 25, 1940 he was undersecretary of war in Roosevelt regime.

Some of Forrestal's close associates have said he expected to remain in office through this session of congress, or at least until action was completed on legislation to "strengthen" the Unification Act of 1947.

With Japan the Switzerland of Asia -

America Can Defend Pacific, MacArthur Says

BY G. WARD PRICE

(Copyright by United Press in North and South America) TOKYO (AP)—General Douglas MacArthur told me yesterday that if Russia attacks Japan "we should certainly defend her."

But he added that he did not believe Russia would attack Japan. In a long interview at his headquarters, the supreme allied commander in the far east discussed candidly Japan's place in Anglo-American strategy in the Pacific.

In case of another war "we do not want Japan to fight," he said. "Japan's role is to be the Switzerland of the Pacific," MacArthur explained.

"BUT SUPPOSING she were attacked?" I asked.

"In that case we should certainly defend her," MacArthur said. "But I do not believe Russia will attack Japan."

"Even if the Soviet government had aggressively intentions toward Japan Russia would be incapable of carrying them out unless she could secure mastery of the air and either had a far eastern fleet of her own or possessed the means of neutralizing any action by our fleet."

"Russia could not obtain air predominance. On Okinawa I had constructed at the end of the war 25 air fields with the capacity to dispatch B-29s, then our largest

DURING THE past five years the statement "wait'll things get back to normal" has been ringing in my ears on a day to day schedule, and the same question comes to my mind every time I hear it. What is normal?

I have looked at charts of business statistics and cycles, but about all they reveal is a series of uphill or downhill trends. You'd think there would be some significant plateau in these charts which we could point to and say that here was a spot where civilization just sat for a spell - things were normal then.

Normal is just a short way of indicating the way you would like things to be, I guess.

A COLLEGE professor I suppose would think of normal in terms of 20 or less students in each class with essay examinations every Friday.

To an old soldier normal means Wednesday and Saturday afternoons free of duty and another chevron every nine years whether he deserved it or not. (Until he made corporal, that is.)

Republicans probably are inclined to think anything would be normal if they could just get one of their boys into the White House again.

THE WOMENFOLK look with stary eyes on the days when they could buy a girdle for $4.95 and make it last for two years. And then there are some women who look back to the time when there was no need for a girdle in their lives and sigh, "Ah normalcy."

If you can remember back to the first part of 1933 you will recall that a group of Iowa farmers threatened to lynch an insurance company representative because he was foreclosing mortgages rather persistently.

I don't imagine that would mean normalcy to either farmers or insurance men, but it was the day of the $25 suit with two pairs of pants and a necktie thrown in. I've heard a lot of people wish things would get back to the good old normal $25-two-pants-suit days.

THE BEST indication that things are getting back to normal that I can think of is that companies are beginning to give luxury items away again.

With one box top and 10 cents you can get a pair of adjustable spurs which can be seen in the dark. Secret code deciphering rings with built in two-way radio sets and microscopes are once more available to those who can stand nutty-flavored sawdust for breakfast... with cream, sugar and some kind of fruit.

A CIGARETTE manufacturer is again putting coupons on the back of his packs, and with only one or two mild cases of nicotine poisoning you will have enough coupons to get yourself a genuine electric clock absolutely free.

If we had a dog, I would have a set of the New American Encyclopedia by this time. A dog-food company has gotten so normal that it is giving this bona fide eight-volume set for only 48 labels from the cans.

Oh yes, send along $3.50 for packaging and mailing charges too. That's normal.

AN AUTOMOBILE dealer in this vicinity is advertising his wares over the radio and is including the price as part of the sales talk. Of course the price is still outrageous, but he at least tells you how much a new car will cost.

Another good, healthy normalcy sign showed up in a grocery ad the other day when a merchant said he had hamburger for sale. It has been going under the alias of ground beef for so long that I thought hamburger was a thing of the past.

Before you know it we'll have completed the present riches to rags cycle, and then we'll gripe for things to get back to normal again.

B-50 Superfortresses in Flight 'Singapore to Vladivostok Would Lie Within Range...'

bombers, on 3,500 missions a day. "The whole of eastern Asia from Singapore to Vladivostok would lie within range of those machines."

When I asked him the function of Japan in the American strategy of defense, MacArthur said:

WE NEVER INTENDED to use Japan as an ally. All we want her to do is to remain neutral.

"We are helping her to become self-supporting because that will relieve us of the burden of supplying her."

"I believe that in three or four years she will be able to feed herself either by native production or by paying for imported food with exports."

MacArthur was confident that Anglo-Saxon interests in the Pacific were entirely secure despite the recent communist victories in China and he was not worried about Communist gains in the recent Japanese elections. He said he did not think Japanese Communists had any direct link with Moscow.

But MacArthur said the strategy of the United States had been completely transformed by the war.

OUR DEFENSIVE dispositions against Asiatic aggression used to be based on the west coast of the American continent," he said.

"The Pacific was looked upon as the avenue of possible enemy approach. Now the Pacific has become an Anglo-Saxon lake and our line of defense runs through the chain of islands fringing the coast of Asia."

"It starts from the Philippines and continues through the Ryukyu Archipelago, which includes its main bastion, Okinawa. Then it bends back through Japan and the Aleutian island chain to Alaska."

"Through the advance of the Communist armies in China places them on the flank of that position, this does not alter the fact that our only possible adversary on the Asiatic continent does not possess an industrial base near enough to supply an amphibious attacking force."

"WAR INDUSTRIES in Russia are in the region of the Ural mountains, from which their output, I believe, of weapons and mu-ditions would have to be hauled over 4,000 miles of mainly single-track railroad to Vladivostok."

Regarding the suggestion that Japan should be "allowed" to raise a home defense army, the supreme commander said:

"That is a premature proposal. It is a matter that could be decided only when a peace treaty with Japan is drafted. Till then the army of occupation will remain there, not to hold down Japan—that is unnecessary—but owing to the unfortunate split between powers that were allied during the war."

"JAPAN HAS BECOME an outpost which we are entitled to occupy in defense of American interests."

MacArthur said that if Japan ever were attacked it would be easy to raise an army to "co-operate with us."

"The Japanese are about the stubbornest infantry soldiers in world," he said.

I mentioned the suggestion made in Russia that the Japanese police were the nucleus of a future army. MacArthur dismissed the idea. He said:

"There are 125,000 of them, whose task is simply to preserve internal order and not more than 20 percent even have pistols."

MacArthur does not believe that communism is a danger to Japan despite recent increases of Communist members in the house of representatives from four to 35 out of a total of 466.

"That proportion probably reflects more than their actual strength in the country," MacArthur said.

"I DO NOT THINK the Japanese Communists have any direct connection with Moscow. Communism is unlikely to spread in a country where 48 percent of the people are small farmers."

"Land reform, by which we transferred properties of the landlords to the tenants, has given many more people a stake in the country. I do not regard communism in Japan as more formidable than in America or Great Britain."

The general believes the Japanese are grateful for the new social ideas and greater freedom the allied occupation has brought them.

"Labor used to be ruthlessly exploited here," MacArthur said. "Wages were only a couple of jumps ahead of starvation. We have given the Japanese workers trade unions, an eight-hour day, the right to collective bargaining and other advantages. I fully expect to see a labor party come into existence in Japan."

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT A Slogan or An Instrument

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

By the way it reacts to the senate filibuster on civil liberties this country will show the world whether it has a passion for freedom or is only using the word as a slogan.

The senate filibuster must be greeted not merely with opposition for the sake of the record, but with something in the nature of a moral explosion - one of those inspired outbursts in which the calendar itself seems to do a dance, while the destiny of man moves forward by decades in a day.

THE ACTUAL, technical question before the senate is of the narrowest. Senate rule no. 22 says that the senate can limit debate on any pending measure by a vote of two-thirds.

The point raised by some of the southerners is that while 22 applies to debate on a measure, it does not apply to debate on a motion to take up a measure, and this is that those who admire such distinctions will admire this one very much indeed.

But the real question before the country is whether we are going to let our march toward freedom and dignity be stopped by this pebble on the road, this wrinkle in the national sock.

There are times when the purity of the law must be maintained for the sake of human dignity. But there are also times when the dignity of man must be maintained if there is to be respect for the law, and this is one of those times. The spectacle of this nation stopped in its search for progress by the doctrine that what applies to a measure does not apply to a motion is not good for the law; it is bad for the law, and for a society which seeks to prove that men may find freedom under law.

THE POSITION is made difficult by the fact that Mr. Vandenberg, as president pro tem of the senate last year, felt himself compelled to uphold the obstructive interpretation of 22. Some Republicans may hesitate to sustain a contrary ruling by the new senate president, Mr. Barkley, for fear of seeming to rebuke Mr. Vandenberg. But here, too, it must be said: The issue is not Mr. Vandenberg's dignity, or the GOP's dignity; the issue is that of maintaining the dignity of this nation in its search for the substance of human freedom.

Mr. Vandenberg's sincerity is beyond question, and he may perhaps have seemed more nearly right last August in the curious, muddled period before the clarifying election.

But there has been that election, and the people have expressed their will, and there have been seven more months of that cold war which probes into men's insides to see what beliefs they are made of, and interpretations do change with events, and the time is now.

AND FOR ALL of us, as of today, the issue is whether we have a passion for freedom, or are only making a slogan of the word. There is massive work to be done in our country for the betterment of man, and only a passion will do it.

There are men to be set free of the fear of lynching, there are human beings to be given the vote, there is corroding in justice to wipe clean, and only a majority and a passion can do it. It cannot be done by limply and flaccidly repeating the word "freedom", with shibboleth-like smugness, in a conversational echo of the genuine agonies of the forefathers.

The issue is whether we are to use freedom as a slogan or whether freedom is to use us as an instrument to help bring about the lasting improvement of mankind.

This nation will render a judgment on the filibusterers, or the filibusterers will render a judgment on the nation. It is that clear.

China: Our Silence Is Uncomfortable -

In recent weeks, the prevailing American public attitude toward China has been a hopeless shrug and a renewed interest in events elsewhere—the Atlantic pact talks, for instance.

There is the feeling that our snubbing of the Chinese scene is only a sedative to ease the pain of seeing the country go Communist. And turning to our bold program envisaged by the Atlantic pact is a sort of rationalization of our loss in China.

Businessmen with interests in China have settled back into a wait-and-see position wistfully hoping that the new Communist regime doesn't want to play rough with foreigners.

It's not the bravest way to take a major cold war loss. And news of events form China—penetrating through our shield of disinterest—do not make our position any more comfortable.

The Communists declared themselves a government with their capital in historic Peiping. U.S. reaction: stone silence. A week or so later, the Communists informed all foreign newsmen in Peiping they had to stop gathering and filing news or otherwise engage in newspaper or magazine work.

It was the first such action in any Chinese Communist area. It should have disturbed a lot of Americans who are counting on the Communists not getting too rough with foreigners. U.S. reaction: stone silence.

After a long military stalemate, Communist troops totaling about 60,000 men have moved into the Yangtze river area about 48 miles northeast of Nanking. The Communists are reported building and commandeering small craft in preparation for a Yangtze crossing.

The prospect of a Communist sweep from the Yangtze through south China should be terrifying Americans who want the Nationalists to retain some ground. U.S. reaction: stone silence.

U.S. aid chief in China Roger D. Lapham told a news conference in Washington he favored continued aid to the Nationalists, excluding military supplies. He said continuing the aid program at current levels another year would cost $240-million. There should be a lot of comment about the advisability of spending that much money gambling on the Chinese Nationalists. U.S. reaction: stone silence.

The painful thing is that sooner or later we shall have to break our stone silence and face Chinese reality. We may have to write off China and seek to strengthen her revolt and chaos-torn southern neighbors. In any event, stone silence is no substitute for a firm, rock-like policy for Asia.

Hoover Group Cites 'Flaws' in VA Setup

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Hoover commission said yesterday the Veterans administration should remedy "serious" flaws in its organizational setup and overhaul its education and insurance programs.

The commission, a bipartisan group headed by former President Herbert Hoover, is studying general government reorganization. It reported these criticisms of VA:

"Serious internal organizational defects" with conflicting lines of authority and a structure that "has become too complicated."

Poor management and waste in the education setup with the VA somewhat slow to recognize existing problems and recommend changes in the law.

Inefficiency and delay in handling insurance problems with a specific finding that VA "service on death claims has been slow and a cause of great irritation."

The Veterans administration had no comment on the commission's recommendations.

The report, the ninth of the commission's series is to congress, said carrying out its proposed "major improvements" in VA would result in "considerable savings."

Among recommendations for improving VA, the report said the agency should turn over to the federal housing and home finance agency its program of guaranteeing home loans for veterans.

On insurance, the report said VA should separate this program from its other functions and set up a veterans insurance corporation. It said such a corporation could "employ the practices of private insurance companies."

It pointed out that one private company with insurance activities much like VA's has an average work load of 1,762 policies to an employee—four times the VA average.

On education, the report suggested that VA set up its own list of certified schools in addition to state lists of accredited institutions. It said VA should refuse to pay GI tuition to any school not on its list.

The commission found the federal government has too little control over the quality of training provided veterans in many schools. It suggested using grants to states to promote better job training and prevent abuses in related school training.

Former Resident's Funeral Services To Be Held Here

Funeral services for Robert Nethermark Carson, 78, former Iowa City resident, will be held in Davenport at 10 a.m. and at Trinity Episcopal church here at 2 p.m. today with burial in Oakland cemetery. Mr. Carson died Tuesday afternoon at a Davenport hospital after being in ill health for several years.

Mr. Carson was born in Iowa City, Oct. 27, 1870. He was the youngest son of Thomas C. Carson, Iowa City banker and civic leader, and Mary Oesphine Carson. He married Cora May Carson, Nov. 3, 1896.

Mr. Carson was known as an early advocate of air mail and air parcel post and marked interstate and national highways.

His wife and four brothers, T.B., George S., H.H. and Frank C. Carson preceded him in death. Mrs. Carson died Dec. 1, 1946. Surviving Carson are two daughters, Grace Carson, Chicago, Mrs. Kenneth Burt, with whom he made his home in Davenport, and nieces and nephews.

Farmer Restrains Iodine's Progress

LAWTON, OKLA. (AP)—Iodine the cow, who likes to climb stairs, has been grounded.

Farmer Glen Fuqua is going to keep the door to his hayloft shut. Fuqua came home to his 360-acre farm to find Iodine sticking her head out the second story window of the barn, looking at other calves.

"We had a deuce of a time getting her down. Those stairs are 45 degrees, and we had to poke her with an electric shocker with one hand and hold her back with the other."

After Iodine did that the second time, Fuqua decided to keep the door closed.

Henrietta Getchell Files Suit for Divorce Here

Henrietta Getchell, 115 1/2 S. Dubuque street, has filed suit for divorce in Johnson county district court from Marshall F. Getchell. She charged cruel and inhuman treatment in her petition. She asked $100 monthly alimony. Arthur O. Leff is attorney for the plaintiff.

Prof. Wylie Says Palomar Findings Not Too Conclusive

Prof. Charles C. Wylie of the astronomy department said yesterday he was unimpressed by the findings of the 200-inch Palomar telescope which Tuesday looked twice as far as man ever has seen before.

The California Institute of Technology said the giant telescope showed the presence of star families a billion light-years distant. This indicates there is no outer edge to the universe of stars at least that far away, and may mean a restudy of Einstein's theory that the universe is limited, an Associated Press dispatch said.

The giant telescope is not completely adjusted and Tuesday's use of it was only a test.

In its bearing on Einstein's theory, this is getting out of the field of science into the field of theology, Wylie said.

Our knowledge of the universe is too limited in time and space to draw many conclusions at this time, Wylie explained.

In the time of two ticks of a watch, light can travel almost twice around the world, he added. It seems unbelievable to the average person that stars could be so far away their light would take one billion years to reach the earth.

Ivan Bender Fined On Driving Charge

Ivan I. Bender, route 1, Kalona, was fined $27.50 in police court yesterday on a charge of failure to yield one-half of the travelled portion of the highway, police reported.

Highway Patrolman J.L. Smith filed the charge after the Bender car was involved in an accident four miles southwest of Iowa City on highway one yesterday, the patrolman testified.

Lester Beck, 729 Ronals, was fined $4.50 on a charge of running a stop sign, according to police records.

RIO CARNIVAL ENDS

Testimony in Treason Trial Comes to End

SOFIA, BULGARIA (AP)—Taking of testimony ended in the treason trial of 15 Protestant ministers yesterday. Both prosecution and defense wound-up the presentation of witnesses.

Prosecutor Dimitar Georgi cancelled the scheduled appearances of 42 of his 53 witnesses, saying: "The evidence is abundant and clear. We need not hear any more."

He referred to the fact that all 15 had made public confessions in court, amplifying on depositions obtained from them while they were prisoners for three months of the Communist-controlled security police.

Prosecution witnesses testified against the chief dependants and then spent most of their time attacking American church foreign missions. They charged that these missions had given money to the Bulgarian protestants to pay for espionage under the guise of genuine church aid.

One witness, named Evin Zarev, swore he had homosexual relations with a defendant, the Rev. Ladin Popov, 36, a pentecostal pastor.

The prosecution introduced Dr. Boris Pashev, organizational secretary for a peasant party leader, the late Nikola Petkov, for testimony against the chief defendant, the Rev. Vassil Ziapkov. Petkov was convicted in 1947 of plotting against the government and was executed. Pashev identified Ziapkov, a congregational pastor, with Petkov's anti-government activities.

Pashev quoted Ziapkov as having remarked: "The Russian army could not have won the victory without American equipment. . . . The United States and England will actively intervene in Bulgaria and I can promise you financial aid in your opposition to communism. America has enough money."

Seven defense witnesses appeared.

Former Foreign Minister Georgi Kulishev testified that, contrary to previous statements, Ziapkov was not an official member of the Bulgarian delegation to the Paris peace conference in 1946.

Gas in Well Explodes, Iowan Badly Burned

SIOUX RAPIDS (AP)—John Bushey, 51, suffered second and third degree burns yesterday when he lit a cigarette as he was looking down a well at his home at Cornell, near here.

Escaping gas from the well exploded as Bushey struck the match, causing bad burns about his face, neck and left hand.

Stomach in Chest

TWENTY-FOUR HOURS after John O'Donald, son of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Donald, Altoona, Pa., was born, doctors had to perform a major operation on him. The boy's stomach, intestines and spleen had formed in his chest instead of the abdominal cavity, and doctors eased them back in place. Yesterday, aged two weeks, the little fellow happily drank his formula in his plastic incubator at Pittsburgh Children's hospital.

Music Critic Says —

Symphony 'Too Difficult'

— For SUI Orchestra

By DONALD KEY

The "Symphony no. 9, in D minor," of Anton Bruckner, one of the most difficult works in orchestral literature, seemed to be almost too much for the SUI symphony orchestra last night.

Exact and grandiloquent, this work is often shunned by most of the professional orchestras and it is a rare occasion when any orchestra attempts to perform it.

It is music by a master craftsman who seemed to have little regard for the endurance of musicians. Bruckner's writing is filled with passages which build suspense to a climax or false climax, which demands a large powerful string tone. This element seemed to be lacking in the SUI orchestra during the Bruckner symphony last night.

Of the three movements in the symphony, the second, or scherzo, movement was probably done the best. Here, the strings found a precision that was not present in the other sections of the number.

The most outstanding work of the evening seemed to be done by the horn section under the able leadership of Paul Anderson. Bruckner is noted for writing demanding passages for the French horn, and they were excellently played by the SUI hornists.

As a companion number to the symphony, Professor Clapp and the orchestra played "Suite in F sharp minor," by Ernst von Dohnanyi. What a change!

Medical Group to Take Steps Against 'Coercive' Insurance

The Johnson county medical society discussed measures for "educating the public to the evils of a compulsory health insurance program" at their closed business meeting last night at the Hotel Jefferson, according to Dr. R.C. Hardin, secretary-treasurer.

The American Medical association, of which the Johnson county chapter is a member, is in favor of voluntary rather than compulsory health insurance, while President Truman's state-of-the-union address called for compulsory insurance.

A five man committee was appointed to "plan and direct measures in educating the people," Dr. Hardin said. The committee, under the chairmanship of Dr. George Scanlon, will also cooperate with the state medical society.

Other appointees to the newly formed committee are Doctors A. W. Bennett, M.L. Mosher, R.H. Flocks and R.C. Hardin.

Following the dinner, nine new candidates were unanimously accepted to the local society, which numbers over 250 members. Dr. William B. Bean, head of internal medicine at University hospitals, gave a talk on "Vitamins, Facts and Fallacies" in the scientific portion of the meeting.

Young Progressives Elect New Officers

SUI's Young Progressives elected new executive officers and planned action on local racial discrimination at their membership meeting last night in the geology building auditorium.

Executive officers elected were Charlotte Levitt, chairman; Lawrence Kaplan, vice chairman; Frank McGreen, treasurer; Robert Barrett, recording secretary, and Paul Newman, executive secretary.

A proposal to work with other campus groups in attacking racial discrimination in Iowa City and the university was approved by the members. Similarly interested groups such as the Young Democrats and the YMCA will be contacted to join in formulating a program to combat local discrimination, especially in barber shops.

MAY JOIN TALKS
COPENHAGEN, DENMARK (AP)—Diplomatic informants said last night Denmark may formally accept today an invitation to join talks on the projected North Atlantic defense treaty.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

IN "You Bet Your Life," Leo Guild, publicist for Warner Brothers, tells about the day a writer studied the rushes of some scenes he had written. They went on in the projection room, Jack Warner asked the writer to see him in his inner sanctum.

A violent electric storm was raging outside. The writer, dejected, walked down the hall with two friends. Suddenly all the lights flickered and faded. "What's that?" asked one of them. "That's Warner testing the chair," said the writer grimly.

O. Henry's great ambition, according to Vincent Starrett, was to write a full-length novel, and many of his stories were begun with that purpose in mind. Inevitably, however, he had to tack a hurried ending to them in order to fulfill some particularly pressing obligation. One editor got angry because of late copy and sent O. Henry a message reading: "If your copy is not delivered today, I promise to arrive in person and kick you downstairs. P.S. I always keep my promises." O. Henry replied: "If I worked with my feet, I would keep mine, too."

Christian Approach To Soviet Relations Is Seminar Subject

Three SUI faculty members will participate in the YMCA-YWCA seminar on the "Christian Approach to Soviet-American Relations" Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the YM conference room.

A. J. Muste, national director of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, will be leader of the conference.

Muste is a lecturer of the Gilbert L. Stark foundation in the Yale Divinity school and the theological seminary of the Reformed Church in America, New Brunswick, N.J.

HE HAS BUILT A BRAND NEW CITY

The "telephone man" is mighty busy these days!

Since the war, among many other things, he has built or enlarged 2,800 buildings . . . scores of them large enough to fit into the skyline of a modern metropolis.

These buildings are more than brick, mortar and telephone equipment. They are jobs for thousands of men and women . . . more and better telephone service for millions of people . . . more business for the towns and cities in which they are located.

But most important of all, they are an indication of the Bell System's earnest efforts to keep up with the nation's ever growing needs for communications service.
