Acheson Pictures Atlantic Pact As Warning to Any Aggressor

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson pictured the still secret Atlantic pact yesterday as carrying a strong warning to any aggressor that the United States would strike back in event of an attack on western Europe.

House Group Okays Removal of Federal Taxes on Margarine

WASHINGTON (AP)—The house agriculture committee yesterday overwhelmingly approved legislation to erase federal taxes on oleomargarine but the measure, approved by a vote of 24 to 3, would flatly prohibit the sale of yellow oleomargarine in interstate commerce.

That would leave it up to the individual states to decide whether to allow the sale of colored margarine.

Under the bill, yellow-colored oleo now could be sold only in the 12 states which have margarine plants and which allow sale of the pre-colored product. Thirty states permit the sale of colored margarine but most of them do not have plants.

Chairman Harold D. Cooley, (D-NC) who fought to remove all federal taxes and sales restriction on the spread, immediately announced he will not support the controversial measure when it reaches the house floor.

Rep. Thomas G. Abernathy, (D-Miss) another pro-oleo legislator, said the bill means that anyone who wants to sell pre-colored oleo nationwide will have to build a plant in every state.

"I want everyone to know I'm against it," he asserted.

The present federal tax is a quarter of a cent a pound on white oleo and 10 cents a pound on the colored variety.

The vote was a victory for Rep. August H. Anderson, (R-Minn) and other dairy-state congressmen who argued that the color yellow is the traditional trademark of butter and should not be used by oleo manufacturers.

Group Approves Bill Raising Minimum Pay

WASHINGTON (AP)—The house labor committee yesterday approved a bill to raise the minimum legal national wage from 40 to 75 cents an hour after reversing itself and knocking out Republican-sponsored restrictions.

The new wage-hour legislation was approved 15 to six, with four committee members abstaining.

As passed, the measure would raise the present 40 cent minimum wage rate to 75 cents. It also would tighten child labor laws and bring a few processing workers under the coverage of the act.

But it would exempt retail stores that gross less than $500,000 a year. Administration Democrats also eliminated a provision that would have brought about 2,000 large farms under the wage-hour act.

Radicals Walk Out —

Peron Party OK's Constitution

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Radical party opponents of President Juan Peron walked out of the constituent assembly yesterday, calling it a farce.

Left to themselves, Peron's followers then approved 101 to 0 a new Argentina constitution which permits the president to succeed himself in 1952.

Before executing their dramatic, prearranged exit, the radicals charged the Peronists had betrayed that the only purpose of the constitutional convention was to arrange for a Peron succession.

In reply, the president's supporters cited the example of the United States in electing Franklin D. Roosevelt four times.

Peronists hailed their chief as a modern-day San Martin (Argentine liberator and national hero), and a radical countered sarcastically: "Your praise of him does not go far enough. I would call him the Jupiter of America." Jupiter, in Roman mythology, was the lord of gods and the god of rain, lightning and thunder.

The text of the new constitution, replacing the 1853 charter, is yet to be approved article by article. But the vote on the text as a whole yesterday was considered decisive.

The result never had been in doubt. In the election of the constituent assembly on Dec. 5, the Peronista party captured 109 of the 158 seats. The radicals won 48, and a dissident Laborite who was a personal supporter of Peron won the remaining place.

Communists failed to win a single place. The other minority parties, the Conservative Socialists and Progressive Democrats, boycotted the election.

Peron was elected for a six-year term in 1946, and by the 1953 constitution could not serve again until another six-year term had intervened.

Highway 218 Closed; 14-Foot Flood Crest Expected by Tonight

Highway 218 was closed at 10 p.m. last night when rising water, 10 to 15 inches high, flooded about 150 feet of the highway.

High water moving down river had passed the Amana colonies late yesterday afternoon and is threatening Iowa City with a flood crest of 14 feet by tonight.

Flood waters that had inundated the low land around Marshalltown several days ago were moving

Aid for Evacuation

Any local persons who find it necessary to evacuate their homes because of high water can contact the Red Cross headquarters or Attorney William H. Bartley, Red Cross disaster preparedness chairman, and the Red Cross will assist them.

If necessary, the Red Cross will provide food, shelter, and clothing and help in the evacuation, officials said.

ing down stream and are expected to reach the Iowa City area by late afternoon or evening, officials of the Iowa institute of hydraulic research said yesterday.

An unofficial reading at 10:30 last night showed the level to be 12.8 feet, a rise of 3 feet from 1:30 yesterday afternoon.

Colder temperatures slowed the run-off of rain and snow that fell Tuesday night and yesterday morning, weather officials said last night.

There is a possibility of flooding in the south Iowa City residential section, particularly around the Ralston creek area, if the expected crest of 14 feet is reached, residents said.

Other highwater areas in Iowa are along the Des Moines and Mississippi rivers. High water has covered several roads and much of the low land around Tracy, Eddyville and Ottumwa. Keokuk, on the Mississippi, has been threatened with from two to three feet over flood stage for several days, according to weather reports last night.

Modern 'Jameses' Rob Train

MARTINSBURG, W. VA. (UP)—Four gunmen last night held up the Baltimore & Ohio railroad's "Ambassador" limited in daring old west fashion, shooting two persons and systematically robbing the train's crew and passengers.

Those wounded were a porter and a passenger whose names were not immediately available.

The men stopped the locomotive two miles west of here at gun point by forcing a crewman to pull the airbrake. They ordered the train backed up to a grade crossing at a point on the highway between here and Berkeley Springs where they made their escape.

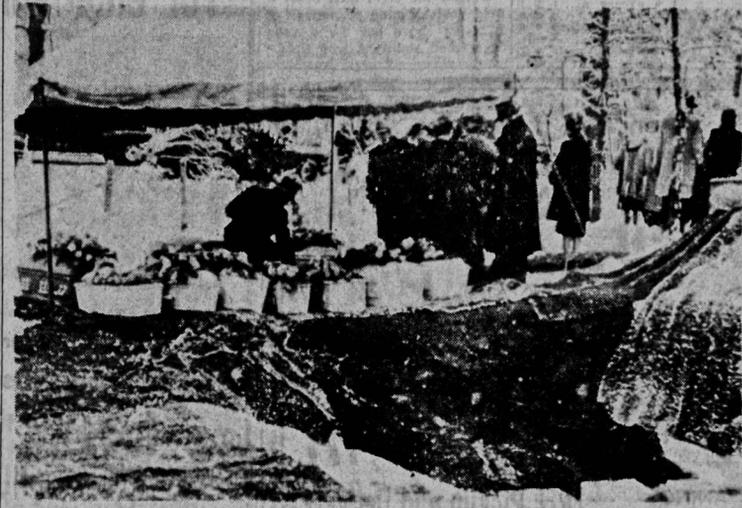

Two of the quartet riding the westbound streamliner as passengers went to the cab of the train brandishing .45 calibre pistols.

Stopping the train, they stripped three crewmen of their money, watches and personal effects of value and ordered them to lie down. The other two robbers went through the coaches, relieving the frightened passengers of their money and valuables. They warned against any outcry.

The alarm was sounded by a crewman who jumped from the floor of the cab and escaped by darting between cars. He hailed a motorist who drove him into Martinsburg where he notified police.

The holdup men left the train,

Farm Bureau Lawyer Gulps Serum To Prove It's Not Harmful

DES MOINES (AP)—A farm bureau spokesman startled Iowa legislators yesterday by drinking a bottle of hog cholera serum.

Carl J. Stephens of Des Moines, attorney for the Iowa Farm Bureau, gulped the contents of the bottle to demonstrate that it was not harmful to humans. Then he said:

"I'll be around tomorrow."

Stephens drank the serum shortly after another speaker had said:

"It could kill every hog in Iowa. If broken on the floor it could spread disease among a great many people."

The warning had been sounded by I.W. Meyer, of Des Moines, attorney for the Iowa Pharmaceutical association.

Stephens had a house of representatives committee chairman break the seal on the bottle of serum before he drank it.

Afterwards, Meyers said, "that's an old trick with lawyers. He probably got rid of it quickly."

Stephens remained on the speakers stand some little time after drinking the serum.

The farm bureau is seeking passage of a bill to permit its subsidiaries to sell serum and other products without supervision by pharmacists.

The Iowa supreme court recently ruled that pharmacists should be employed for this purpose.

Jews Deny New Attack

LONDON — Transjordan claimed yesterday that new fighting had broken out in Southern Palestine, menacing the British force based at Aqaba, Transjordan, but an Israeli spokesman discounted the report.

The Transjordan defense ministry announcement said:

"The Arab legion stopped Israeli forces proceeding toward Aqaba at a point 50 kilometers (32 miles) from Aqaba. A Jewish force has proceeded toward Aqaba since March 7."

"Part of the force crossed the mountainous area parallel to the Sena desert and was able to reach Ras El Nakab. The other main part crossed the Aqaba valley on its way to the gulf."

In Tel Aviv, Israeli spokesman Moshe Perlman said that he had no knowledge of any clash between Israeli and Transjordan troops. Earlier, Perlman had said that no Israelis had invaded Transjordan, or left Israeli soil at any other point.

Responsible British sources in Cairo, Egypt, were skeptical. One British informant said the report may have grown out of an incident about 10 days ago, when a patrol believed to be Israeli was sighted in the Southeast Negev. He did not know what happened to the patrol.

British officials, however, said that the fighting was the most serious incident in the holy land since Israel ended its October and December attacks on Egyptian forces in the Negev.

Aqaba has been an issue between Israel and Britain since British troops moved into the port last fall, by request of Transjordan's King Abdullah, under the terms of a mutual defense treaty.

To Tel Aviv observers, the danger of a truce-breaking battle between Israeli and Transjordan or British forces in the Aqaba zone had appeared to have blown over.

Two SUI Physicists Hit at Atomic Secrecy

Two SUI nuclear physicists said yesterday that scientific progress is definitely being hindered by the wall of secrecy surrounding work in atomic research.

Professors James A. Jacobs, in charge of the University's Van de Graaf atom smasher, and Arthur Roberts, both directors of nuclear research at SUI, criticized the secrecy imposed on certain research work by the atomic energy commission.

"It is almost impossible, for instance," Roberts said, "to do any work in uranium research without the blessing of the atomic energy commission."

Jacobs pointed out that atomic research under the AEC is often classified as "secret" and cannot be published in scientific journals. These journals serve scientists as the media for exchanging scientific data obtained in various research conducted throughout the United States.

"In other words," Jacobs added, "we might be hard at work for sometime on something which has already been achieved at Los Alamos or Chicago."

If scientific work could be more freely published," Jacobs said, "one could often make use of results from other institutions and do a more complete job in his own research."

Jacobs ventured the opinion that Russia does not yet have the atomic bomb, but that she "undoubtedly will come up with the answer in the next few years."

"The only point in favor of this temporary secrecy," Roberts said, "is that it may give us precious time to make agreements on permanent international control of the atomic weapon."

Roberts said secrecy not only hinders research but is highly undemocratic, and in the long run diminishes our security "since the American people are prevented

SUI Gets $20,000 Research Contract

The work of Physics Prof. Arthur Roberts and other SUI scientists in the field of micro-wave spectroscopy will be expanded by a $20,000 research contract with the navy which was approved by the Iowa board of education yesterday.

Roberts is in charge of the work which will be under contract with the office of naval research, the office of Pres. Virgil M. Hancher said in announcing the contract yesterday. The contract will run until Jan. 1, 1950.

Micro-wave spectroscopy work has been going on at SUI for the last two years under Robert's direction. This work is closely related to research on molecular structure being done in the chemistry department and to research in nuclear physics in the physics department.

From the work on micro-wave spectra of various molecules it is possible to gain knowledge of the structure of the molecules and of the spin of certain atomic nuclei. Both chemists and physicists at SUI are engaged in this work.

Adler to Co-Head Lee Newspapers

SUI graduate Philip D. Adler was named yesterday as co-head of the Lee syndicate of 10 mid-west newspapers and publisher of the Davenport Daily Times.

Adler, publisher of the Kewanee, Ill., Star-Courier, succeeds his father, the late C. P. Adler, and will share his position in the syndicate with Lee Loomis, publisher of the Mason City Globe-Gazette.

While attending the university Adler was editor of The Daily Iowan.

Report Says Civilian Control Set for Japan

WASHINGTON (THURSDAY) — The United States plans to switch from military to civilian control of Japan within six to nine months, it was learned authoritatively today.

This move is expected to be accompanied by the retirement of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as supreme allied commander in Japan. The transfer will not mean any reduction in American troops in Japan, although they will be changed from administrative to garrison status.

Knight Gets Jail Sentence

Austin "Jimmie" Knight was sentenced yesterday in Johnson county district court to serve one year in the men's reformatory at Anamosa and fined $300 and costs, after he had appeared in court and pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking jail.

Judge James P. Gaffney also sentenced the 27-year-old Knight to serve 93 days in the county jail on a larceny charge, but the sentence was ruled completed, since Knight had already spent that much time in jail.

Knight was arrested last Dec. 6 on the charge of stealing a camera from an automobile in an Iowa City garage. He was later bound over to the grand jury and indicted for larceny on Feb. 15.

While awaiting trial on the larceny charge, Knight sawed his way out of the county jail and escaped. He was apprehended three days later by county officers after Iowa City police had chased him into a downtown alley.

Judge Gaffney set bond on appeal at $2,000.

Gov. Dewey Signs Extradition 'Contract'

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York yesterday removed the last barrier preventing the extradition of "lonely hearts" killers Raymond Fernandez and Mrs. Martha Beck to New York.

Dewey signed an agreement at Albany binding the state of New York to return the lethal mail order Romeo and his 200-pound mistress and accomplice to Michigan if they are not convicted of first degree murder there.

The murder-for-money pair could die in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison for one of three slayings they confessed, but maximum sentence in Michigan is life imprisonment.

Michigan authorities had agreed to extradite Fernandez, 34, and Mrs. Beck if New York signed the return "contract."

Little Hawks, Imps Meet Tonight

Davenport ...

By HOBERT DUNCAN
(Iowan Staff Writer)
The long-anticipated and much-conjectured — about third clash of the season between Iowa City's powerful Little Hawks and the mighty Davenport Blue Devils will become a reality tonight on the Iowa fieldhouse hardcourt at 8 o'clock when the two clubs meet in the Class AA finals of the local sub-state tournament.

City High merited its berth in the finals with an overwhelming 70-19 rout of Roosevelt of Cedar Rapids Tuesday night and the Blue Devils advanced to the championship round with an impressive 47-31 verdict over Clinton the same evening.

Tonight's clash not only pits a pair of teams with a background of traditional rivalry, but also features a season long feud intensified by two Iowa City victories over Davenport. City High shaded the Imps 42-40 at Davenport in the early stages of the campaign, and then repeated the triumph with another two point victory, 38-36, on the City High court later in the season.

These two City High wins were the only defeats suffered by Davenport at the hands of an Iowa foe this season, and both the victories came in Mississippi Valley conference play.

Iowa City captured the Valley loop crown with a mark of 13 triumphs as opposed to no setbacks, and the Blue Devils were entrenched in second place with 10 wins and two losses.

Tonight's clash could easily develop into an individual scoring duel between Big Gene Hettrick, City High's all state pivot man who tallied a total of 279 points in 13 conference contests this season for an average slightly in excess of 21 markers per game, and Bob LeBuhn, Davenport center, who pushed in 153 points in 12 conference tussles for a 12 and three fourths point average per game. Hettrick paced Mississippi Valley scorers this season and LeBuhn placed third in the scoring column for loop play.

Many cage observers considered City High's chances of posting three successive victories over a Paul Moon coached Davenport club slight, but Iowa City's stock rose extensively on the basketball market Tuesday night with its impressive romp over Roosevelt.

Davenport displayed a listless, lethargic brand of ball in whipping Clinton Tuesday night and only superior accuracy from the field enabled the Imps to whip the River Kings who rebounded last year's run-

However, despite the difference in performances shown by tonight's opponents in their initial sub-state tests, many cage followers are reluctant to sell a Moon mentored crew short in tourney competition. Iowa fans have frequently seen, in previous years, a Davenport quintet catch fire and play inspired ball in tournament tussles.

Possibly over-confidence and not Davenport will be City High's most formidable opponent in tonight's game.

It is believed in many quarters that the victor in tonight's headliner will capture the state championship, but only time and the opposition will prove or disprove the validity of this belief.

The Little Hawk's onrushing victory train was derailed but once this season by a determined Newton crew and this type of success is likely to foster a sense of over confidence in any club notwithstanding persistent efforts to combat it.

Marion, Montezuma Gain Finals

Clash Friday in Meet Windup; Winfield Posts Class B Triumph

Two favored class A teams posted victories at the fieldhouse last night when Montezuma bypassed Mt. Pleasant by ten points and red-hot Marion dumped West Liberty, 55-25.

The wins moved both clubs into tomorrow night's class A final, with the two winners scheduled to meet at 8:45 p.m.

Winfield opened the second night of sub-state action with a class B triumph over Lowden, 43-31, sending the Wolves into the B finale, also tomorrow evening, against Wayland. Game time is 7:30.

Wayland opened the four day tourney Tuesday night by slipping past Wellman, 49-41.

Friday night's winners automatically move into the select circle of 16 prep fives that begin the state finals next week at the fieldhouse.

Only one game is scheduled for tonight, that being the much discussed third meeting between Davenport and City High. The single contest will get underway at 8 p.m.

The Marion Indians earned their way into the final heat of sub-state play last night in the fieldhouse by scalping West Liberty 55-25.

Lloyd Olmstead and Bernie McGowan wielded the tomahawks, by racking up 15 points apiece, giving Marion its 23rd win of the year without a setback.

In the opening seconds, Gable hit a charity toss for the Indians and from that point on they were never headed. Otting followed with a jump shot and Lloyd Olmstead hit his first bucket shortly after. The winners went out in front 6-0 before Don Chelf could tip in a rebound to put the Comets in the scoring column.

By the end of the first period the Indians had jumped into a 14-5 lead.

The second quarter was practically a repeat performance of the first, with West Liberty contributing only five more points to its side of the ledger, while the opposition hit 11 more to make it 25-10 at halftime.

Marion really went on the war path in the third period against Johnny Hunter's boys, socking in 7 counters and racing to a 42-19 lead.

Barrie Gable provided what proved to be all Marion needed to ice the game when he sank a freethrow in the opening minute of the third quarter, setting the score at 26-17. From then on, Marion coasted.

The speedy Marion offense drove under the basket time after time to score against the ring West Liberty boys.

Coach Les Hipple inserted his experienced warriors in the final minutes of play, but they too found the Comets to their liking, scoring 13 points and holding West the score stood at 36-21. Although Moxley quickly dumped in two pivot shots before the quarter ended, seven points by Thorber and a circus jump shot by Bob Van Cleve helped move the score to 38-25 by the end of the period.

Moxley was high scorer for both teams with 17 markers, followed by Dutch Van Cleve's 16 and Thorber's 15.

Winfield 43, Lowden 31

Art Chrissinger led his Winfield mates into the class B finals of the sub-state tourney last night as the Wolves smashed the Lowden Go-Hawks, 43-31.

Clyde Lange dropped in a charity toss at the outset of the game to put the Go-Hawks into a momentary 1-0 lead, the only time they were in front. Ronnie Kester dumped in a lay-up seconds after to make the score 2-1 and the Wolves continued the barrage to push the score to 12-3 at the quarter.

The Wolves' Duane Hill opened the second period with a lay-up and Winfield landed four more points before Lowden was able to find the range again.

At the mid-point Winfield held a comfortable 22-6 lead over the Go-Hawks.

Midway in the third stanza, Lloyd Steffens went on a three bucket scoring spree, but two baskets by Hill and one by Chrissinger voided Steffens' effort as the Wolves raced to a 34-15 count at the end of the third quarter.

Go-Hawk Ken Meyer and Chrissinger traded buckets to start the final period and the two teams played on nearly even terms during this quarter.

The Wolves took advantage of Lowden's ragged ball - handling to steal Go-Hawk passes throughout the contest, while Kester's height advantage kept Lowden at a disadvantage constantly.

Chrissinger led both clubs in scoring, rapping in seven fields for 14 markers. Lange and Steffens tied for Lowden's high scoring with nine points each.

Hawkeye Swimmers Face Michigan Here

For the thirteenth time since the two schools began swimming against each other, Iowa and Michigan meet here Saturday evening at 7:30.

Michigan will seek its thirteenth straight victory. Matt Mann's swimmers also want satisfaction for being knocked out of second place in the Big Nine meet Saturday. Iowa pushed them down to third, 51-49.

The triumph over Michigan at the conference races was only the second time Iowa swimmers have ever bested Michigan. The other time was 1936 when Iowa was conference champions.

Dave Armbruster and his Hawkeye swimmers have every expectation of gaining their third decision over Michigan and spoiling the Wolves' bid for number thirteen.

Michigan, national intercollegiate champions last year, own a 45-39 dual meet victory over Big Nine champion Ohio State. Iowa lost its dual meet at Ohio, 48-36.

UP Names All-Big Nine Team

CHICAGO, (U)—Eight hot-shot scorers who have averaged 13.4 points per game per man through the conference season were picked by the Big Nine coaches yesterday for the United Press all-conference basketball squad.

The team combines height, speed, shooting ability and court know-how to the extreme, and six of the nine league clubs placed at least one man on the honor roster.

Only League Champion Illinois and runner-up Minnesota were able to place two representatives.

The Illini stars were forward and Captain Dwight Eddleman and Guard Bill Erickson, while the two Gophers were Center Jim McIntyre and Forward Whitey Skoog.

Other stars on the team were Forward Dick Schmittner of Ohio State, Center Don Rehfeldt of Wisconsin, and Guards Howard Williams of Purdue and Bob Harrison of Michigan.

Overall the eight men boast a field goal shooting percentage of .322, far above par for a good cage team. McIntyre, who finish-

Mason Voted Most Valuable

Charlie Mason, Iowa's diminutive forward, has been selected the Hawks most valuable player for 1949 as the result of voting among team members.

The squad also elected Guard Tony Guzowski and Center Roger Finley honorary captains for the past season.

The honor given Mason makes him eligible for the Chicago Tribune award given to the most valuable player in the conference.

Mason was the Hawkeye's leading conference scorer as well as for the whole season. The former Muscatine prep star bagged 123 points in conference competition and had a total of 146 for all games.

The Hawk senior's charity toss with 15 seconds left in the Wisconsin game gave Iowa a 61-60 win and a repeat performance last Saturday allowed the Hawks to shade Michigan, 63-62.

Coach Pops Harrison started Mason in the last seven games. In six contests he led his mates in scoring while marking up his personal record against the Badgers by dumping in 19 points.

When Mason was at Muscatine he teamed at forward with Iowa's all-America Murray Wier, winner of the 1948 Tribune trophy, who graduated last spring.

Guzowski, who graduates this year, was runner-up in the scoring race for Iowa and his set shots from far out kept the Hawks in several ball games. Finley, who still has one season remaining, shared his center slot with Don Hays and Frank Catsbeek. He was recognized for his defensive ability and handoffs from the pivot post.

Two Gophers on Third

Ernie Vandeweghe of Colgate, Kevin O'Shea of Notre Dame, Dick Schmittner of Ohio State and Jim McIntyre and Meyer Skoog, of Minnesota, make up a third team. Thirty-five additional players received honorable mention.

Two 'Cats on All-America

NEW YORK (AP)—Two players from Kentucky's national champions and one each from St. Louis, Yale and DeWet were named yesterday to the 1949 Associated Press all-America collegiate basketball team.

Selected by a vote of 404 sportswriters and broadcasters, in the wake of a season involving the heaviest intersectional tours on record, were Alex Groza and Ralph Beard of Kentucky, "Easy Ed" Macauley of St. Louis, Tony Lavelli of Yale and Vince Boryla of Denver.

Macauley and Beard are repeaters from the 1948 all-America. Groza and Lavelli moved up from last year's second team while Boryla is a former Notre Dame player re-first with 1,735 points to Groza's 1,731.

Groza, six-foot-seven senior from Martins Ferry, Ohio, is rated 85 percent better this season than a year ago by his coach, Adolph Rupp. He is especially adept on tapping in rebounds. In last week's southeastern conference tourney, he set a single game scoring mark of 37 points, in addition to a tourney mark of 94.

"Graceful as Kreisler" Macauley, who at six-feet-eight has a one-inch advantage in height over Groza, is regarded as one of the smoothest players in action today because of his unusual muscular coordination. Ed Hickey, St. Louis coach, declares Macauley "handles a basketball as gracefully as Fritz Kreisler a violin." Only criticism, is that he doesn't shoot often. He has close to 500 percentage on the shots from the field that he does take.

Beard, the smallest man on the team at five-feet, is noted for his speed, set shots and all-around floor ability. He is winding up a four-year career in which he has won virtually every major cage award.

Lavelli, one of Yale's greatest cage stars, is finishing a four-year Eli career that has brought him national prominence. His hook shot has brought him more than 1,900 points to put him among the four highest all-time scorers. He is the son of a Somerville, Mass. contractor.

Boryla is the only junior, although he has perhaps more experience than the others. He enlisted in the army while at Notre Dame. He was stationed at Denver as a recruiting sergeant and played two years with the Denver (AAU) Nuggets. He played on the U.S. olympic team last year with Groza, Beard and Jones.

When Barbers Talk About Home Shaving— THAT'S NEWS

IOWA CITY, IA., Mar. 10—Remember when the barber treated you to the old fish-eye when you said you shaved at home? Not any more—our demon interviewer recently asked barbers what they recommended for shave-at-homes. 86% said "use a blade that's Hollow Ground like my razor." That means PAL Hollow Ground, the blade that's ground like a barber's razor, for keener, quicker "feather-touch" shaves. PAL still gives you 4 blades for 10¢, 10 for 25¢, 21 for 49¢ and 44 for 98¢—for Single and Double Edge razors. Try PAL—today. Your dealer stocks them.

Spring Brings New Ideas in Feminine Wear

SPRING-WEAR IDEAS are presented above by Elaine Plath, A3, Logan, (left) and Dona MacNaughton, A3, Eagle Grove, (right). Elaine estimates she saved $12 by making the Mexican embroidered jacket herself rather than buying a costly imported one. Of bright blue wool tweed, the boxy coat is embroidered with Mexican figures on the back, sleeves and two front panels. Dona's spring ensemble features a beige tweed suit of the new three-quarter length coat and straight skirt. Five buttons outline the pockets of the swing back coat. With the suit Dona wears a matching stitched-brim hat, brown suede opera pumps and white fabric gloves.

The visit was in answer to an invitation extended to the degree staff of the Carnation Rebekah lodge to initiate 14 persons into the Mount Vernon lodge.

After the initiation the Mount Vernon group entertained at a social hour and refreshments were served.

Among the Iowa City lodge members who made the trip were Mrs. R.W. Hughes, degree staff captain; Mrs. Mayme Axen, pianist; Mrs. W. O. Potter, noble grand; Lena Thomsen, vice-grand; and Mrs. Roy Mackay, mother and advisor of the Old Gold Theta Rho Girls Club No. 1.

Pi Alpha Delta to Hold Initiation Dinner for 28

Pi Alpha Delta, legal fraternity, will have a dinner and initiation in Hotel Jefferson at 6:30 p.m. tonight.

About 28 SUI students will be initiated into the fraternity in the ceremony preceding the dinner, Tom Olson, social chairman, stated.

Prof. Frank Kennedy will address the group.

Several local attorneys, Frank Messer, Bill Meardon, Bill Jackson, and Jack White, and Jack White, and Russell Hatter, Marrengo, have been invited to attend the initiation and dinner.

Fraternity Entertains Pledges of Sororities

Phi Kappa Sigma, social fraternity, entertained approximately 25 second semester sorority pledges at a dessert open house Tuesday night at the chapter house. The women were pledges of Alpha Delta Pi, Delta Gamma, Kappa Kappa Gamma and Gamma Phi Beta.

Floyd Freerksen, A2, was in charge. Entertainment included dancing and bridge.

Theater Production of Shakespeare to Open

The University theatre production of Shakespeare's play "Much Ado About Nothing" will open tonight at 8 p.m. in the dramatic arts building.

The play, a light comedy of Elizabethan courtly love, was written by Shakespeare in the last half of the 16th century and deals with Elizabethan convention, wit, manners, music and dancing.

The comedy centers around two lovers, Benedick and Beatrice, who never have a kind word for each other. They are very much like Petruchio and Katherine in Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew" — the butt of their friends' schemes to get them married.

Shakespeare wrote a great deal of low and high comedy into the play. The low comedy is "the Lauri and Hardy kind of slapstick." But the high comedy is sophisticated and there is a balance of both kinds.

Director E.C. Mabie has tried to get the Elizabethan spirit by setting up a replica of the Old Globe theater in London where Shakespeare's company played and by copying the costumes of that period.

The male cast includes William Countryman, A4, Eugene, Oregon; Douglas Wells, A4, Little Rock, Ark.; Johnny Johnson, A4, Sonoma, Calif.; Willis Otto, A3, Rock Island, Ill.; Thornton Klos, A2, Indianapolis, Ind.

Henry Lee, G, Lincoln, Neb.; Lawrence McKune, G, Washington; Forrest Brown, G, West Branch; Thomas Heimann, A1, Altadena, Calif.; Robert Paulus, A1, Iowa City; Herbert Boland, G, Cedar Rapids; Charles Jacott, A3, Miami, Arizona.

Norman Carson, G, Beaver Falls, Penn.; Albert Klein, A2, Council Bluffs; Emory Windrem, A4, Oxford; Stanley Watt, A1, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Ralph Borek, A4, Detroit, Mich.

Gwen Davenport, A3, Sturgis, S.D., and Marcia Mary Henly, A1, Duluth, Minn., are alternates in the role of Hero, the daughter. As Beatrice, Ardis Kresensky, A4, Algona, and Mona McCormick, A1, Lakewood, Ohio, will alternate.

Julia McCarthy, A1, Erie, Pa., and Mary Dunlap, A4, Iowa City, will play Margaret. Jane Leckberg, more, both of Iowa City.

Playschool to Buy Outdoor Equipment

Plans are being made to purchase outdoor playground equipment for use this spring in the veterans' playschool, Council Chairman Mrs. Douglas Eastwood said yesterday.

The playschool, located in backtracks No. 671, was opened last November. Children between the ages of two to five whose parents are university students or veterans of Iowa City attend.

Ninety children are enrolled in the school at present. Mrs. Eastwood said, but no more than 20 or 25 are there at one time. One teacher and her assistants instruct the children and two wives are there each morning and afternoon.

Money for the new equipment will be partially raised by a bake sale Saturday morning in Aldens' appliance store. Mrs. Merle Mason will be in charge of the sale.

MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED — Marriage licenses were issued yesterday in the Johnson county clerk's office to Marvin Barney Vernace and Arlene LeVora, both of Iowa City, and to Bobby Dean Hellyer and Barbara Jean Gris-

Dakin Announces Guest List For Finkbine Dinner Tonight

Names of students who have been invited to the W. O. Finkbine dinner at 6:30 tonight were announced yesterday by Allin W. Dakin, SUI administrative dean.

Sixty-five men students who are on campus now and more than 225 SUI graduates who attended the dinner during their college days are expected to attend. The dinner will be held in the River room of Iowa Union.

The dinner was started in 1917 to honor representative men on campus. Finkbine, an SUI graduate and successful Des Moines businessman, was co-sponsor of the first dinner and kept it going annually after that.

Convinced that student leaders became community leaders later in life, he got them together at these dinners to make their acquaintance. He became so interested in this project that he endowed a fund before he died to have the dinner continued as an annual affair.

How true Finkbine's convictions were will be seen tonight when results of questionnaires sent to men who attended dinners in past years will be announced.

Part of the program is traditionally announced, Dakin said. It will be provided mainly by the 5-H Quintet tonight, he added.

Prof. F.P. Ensign, education department, has consented to serve as toastmaster again tonight, Dakin said. He was toastmaster at the dinners from the beginning to the late '30's.

Thirty-six senior men will make up the majority of student guests attending the banquet tonight. Sixteen juniors, eight graduate students, four freshmen and one sophomore will also attend.

Students invited are:

Charles E. Becker, A4, university orchestra; Robert J. Berens, A4, cadet colonel; Fred E. Bissell, A4, president of Newman club; Gerald M. Clancy, E4, student chapter president, American Institute of chemical engineers.

Robert L. Coats, E4, student chapter chairman, American society of civil engineers; James P. Cochran, A3, president, association of town men; Darrell J. Cox, E4, student chapter president, American institute of electrical engineers.

FOR GOODNESS SNAKES

JACKSON, MISS. (P) — There's nothing like a nice, warm bed to put a snake in an agreeable mood, in the opinion of Clifford S. Unkrich, of Jackson, who raises reptiles for commercial purposes. He had engineers of the Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Co. rig up a control system to turn on the heat at 82 degrees and turn it off at 83.

Professor Advises 'Natural' Education

SUI Prof. A.H. Moehlman, college of education, yesterday told the Lions club that "getting away from it all" in the mountains, woods, or at sea, helps make a man more decisive in planning his life.

"Wilderness hiking is a way to get back to the roots and sources of things," he said. "It helps relieve the pressures of modern city living."

He told how mountain climbing and skiing as a student in Switzerland and jungle hunting during army service in India had helped "broaden his perspective."

Farmers Contour 1,392 Acres Here

Contour farming techniques were applied to 1,392 acres of Johnson county farm land in 1948, the annual report of the county's three conservation commissioners reveals.

Commissioners Kenneth M. Wagner, chairman, West Liberty, Ray Cummings, North Liberty, J. P. Burns, Oxford, and Secretary Emmett C. Gardner, Iowa City, said in their report "the program during 1948 is going to be held back by lack of funds and technical assistance."

The commissioners set a goal of 40 farm conservation plans to be written for 1949, five more than were done in 1948.

Spelling Bee Entries Received by Snider

Over 35 entries have been received for the Johnson county spelling contest which will be held in the courthouse Saturday afternoon, County Superintendent Frank J. Snider said yesterday.

Pupils from each rural and city school are eligible to enter the contest.

Two winners, one from a rural school and one from a city school, will be selected to represent the county at the state contest in Des Moines April 9, Snider said.

Women to Discuss Plans, Taxation at Tonight's Meetings

Eight discussion meetings will be held during the remainder of March by the League of Women Voters on the topics of taxation and the local program for their next fiscal year.

Four meetings are scheduled for today. Mrs. R.G. Mohr will be hostess to one group in her home at 181 Riverside Park. Mrs. John Whiting will be the discussion leader at the 7:30 p.m. meeting.

Mrs. Allyn Lemme will be discussion leader for a group meeting at 7:30 p.m. in her home at 603 S. Capitol street.

At 8 p.m. today Mrs. T.M. Rehder will lead a discussion at the home of Mrs. A.C. Kern, 409 E. Market street. The final meeting tonight will be at the home of Mrs. David T. Sisto, 431 Rundell street, at 8 p.m. Mrs. E.W. Ringo will lead the discussion.

The final two meetings will be held March 24 with Mrs. Ringo and Mrs. Rehder leading the discussions. The times and places for these meetings have not been announced.

Addison Hayne Fined For Improper Passing

Police Judge Emil G. Trott fined Addison R. Hayne, 127 Riverside drive, $12.50 in police court yesterday after Hayne pleaded guilty to a charge of improper passing.

Highway Patrolman J.L. Smith filed the charge after he arrested Hayne 17 miles west of Iowa City last Sunday.

Noted Religion Writer — Trueblood to Speak at Vespers

Prof. D. Elton Trueblood, a native of Iowa now teaching at Earlham college, Richmond, Ind., will be speaker at University Vespers Sunday night in Macbride auditorium at 8 o'clock.

The author of many books, Trueblood was born in Pleasantville and attended Penn college at Okaloosa. Among his books are "Foundations for Reconstruction," "The Predicament of Modern Man," "The Essence of Spiritual Religion," and "The Knowledge of God."

D. ELTON TRUEBLOOD

The professor's books have been best sellers for many years and have often been book club selections. Prof. M. Willard Lampe, director of the SUI school of religion, said yesterday.

Trueblood is a leading member of the Quaker group, Society of Friends, Lampe said.

Trueblood is a brother-in-law of Miss Lenore Goodnow, head of Scattergood school near West Branch. Scattergood school is a secondary school operated by the Society of Friends for refugees and displaced persons.

Residential Section Tops $2,700 Quota In Red Cross Drive

The 1949 Johnson county Red Cross fund drive had netted $4,207.22 toward its goal of $14,550, by yesterday afternoon, General Chairman Dorr H. Hudson said.

The drive opened Feb. 28 and will close Saturday.

The Iowa City residential section went over its quota of $2,700 with $2,836.42 collected, Hudson added.

"Residential Chairman Mrs. B. V. Crawford and all of the sub-chairmen and workers are to be complimented for their splendid organization and for the good job they have done," Hudson said.

Other sections still below their quota are Iowa City business section, $3,500 quota, $789.30 collected; university, $2,000 quota, $438 collected.

Women's organizations, $200 quota, $85.50 collected; men's organizations, $400 quota, $55 collected, and small towns, $4,850 quota, $3 collected.

The small towns section has collected a small amount, Hudson explained, because the condition of the roads makes soliciting difficult.

Education Taken in Small Doses

TWENTY-TWO YEARS AGO 43-year-old Walter Secrest, E4, entered SUI to major in chemical engineering. Today, after a 20 year interval of farming, he is 20 semester hours from his goal. Along with a full eight hour schedule as a storekeeper in the chemistry department he is taking a three hour course. Forming a manostat, shown above, is one of his jobs as storekeeper.

Man Swaps Plow For SUI Degree

It might be taking 43-year-old Walter W. Secrest, E4, a long time to get his B.S. degree in chemical engineering, but he is still determined. He's been at it for 22 years and doesn't expect to graduate until 1952. Secrest, now a storekeeper for the chemistry department, began his college education at SUI back in 1927. After seven semesters of majoring in chemical engineering, he decided a college education wasn't for him. So he quit. Swapping his engineering books for a plow, he and his brother William operated a 450 acre farm at Downey. Then in 1946, Secrest changed his mind again and returned to SUI and chemistry — this time as a chemistry storekeeper. Last fall he decided to try classrooms again, and enrolled in physical metallurgy. Sandwiching the three-hour course between his 8-to-5 o'clock schedule, he made up his classroom time by working weekends and during lunch hours. Secrest continued his slow process of education this semester by enrolling in chemical process industries, a three-hour course. He is still making up work at noon and by working "some" evenings. Picking up the 20 credits which he needs for graduation is his "bachelor's pastime," he said. He expects to graduate "in about three years."

List Campus Election Rules

The Student Council election committee yesterday listed the rules governing student campaign posters and named the committee members who will handle the March 30 all-university elections. Campaign regulations, which will be given to the candidate when he obtains his petition form, include:

1. No posters allowed within 100 feet of the polling booths.
2. The use of painted or adhesive signs on buildings or grounds is forbidden.
3. No campaign literature is to be posted on the Iowa Union premises.
4. Candidates must not use the trees in front of Old Capitol for posters or signs.

The petition forms and regulations may be obtained from the Office of Student Affairs beginning Saturday. Committee members named and the organizations they represent are:

George McBurney, chairman, Daniel Dillinger and Robert Crumley, Student Council; John M. Hess, Alpha Phi Omega; Alfred Grady, Tailfeathers; Carolyn Ladd, Mortar Board; Merle Frey, YMCA; Dorothy Hertel, Town Women.

John Tyson, Union board; Richard Dice, Student Board of Publications; Barbara Wright, Women's Recreational association and Jean Gavronsky, University Women's association and Association of Senior Class Presidents.

M. B. Dvorsky Dies In Florida; to Hold Services Saturday

Mathias Benjamin Dvorsky, 98, a Johnson county resident for many years and a retired farmer, died early Tuesday at the winter home of his son, Robert, at Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. Funeral services for Mr. Dvorsky will be at 10 a.m. Saturday at Beckman's with the Rev. E.W. Neuzil officiating. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery. Mr. Dvorsky was born May 1, 1850, in Prague, Czechoslovakia, and came to Iowa City at the age of nine. He was a resident of Johnson county since that time. During the last several years he lived part of the time with his son, Robert, at McHenry, Ill. He was preceded in death by his wife in 1895, and a son, George, in 1927. Mr. Dvorsky was a member of the C.S.A. for 55 years. For many years the Dvorsky family lived on Kirkwood avenue. He is survived by two sons, Fred, Iowa City, and Robert, McHenry, Ill.; five grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Rock Island Man Charged with Murder

ACCUSED OF MURDERING HIS WIFE, Joseph Matusik, Rock Island, (right) is served a warrant by Detective Sergeant Claus C. Miller, (left) making the charge against him official. Matusik is charged with fatally wounding his wife in a shooting resulting from a quarrel over the supposed activities of his wife and a roomer in the Matusik home. After the shooting Matusik slashed his own wrists. He is in a Rock Island hospital under police guard.

SUI Surveys Engineering Grads

In an effort to keep in touch with its alumni, the SUI chemical engineering division has made a survey covering its graduates of the past 10 years. The survey shows their location, the kind of industry they are working in, and the kind of work they are doing. Most of the graduates are located in the larger industrial areas. Prof. James O. Osburn of the chemical engineering division said yesterday in announcing the results of the survey. The survey shows graduates are working in areas near Chicago, in Texas and California, and along the eastern seaboard near New York City. Of the graduates who could be located, 70 percent are now working in chemical industries. About 16 percent are still in school working on advanced degrees, and 14 percent are in government or private research laboratories or teaching. About 30 graduates could not be located because they moved during the war and left no addresses. The largest group of graduates is now employed in the petroleum industry which has taken 24 percent of the graduates for the past 10 years. Companies producing inorganic chemicals employ 15 percent of the men. The organic chemical industry employs 12 percent, metallurgical industry 7 percent and plastics industry 4 percent.

Jap Movie Shown To Naval Reserve

The fury of Japanese suicide plane attacks on navy ships in the battle of Okinawa was shown to the personnel of Naval Electronic Warfare facility, U.S. naval reserve, in an official war film last night. The film, "The Fleet That Came to Stay," told with vivid realism the heroic defense the navy put up against the frantic Jap pilots who tried to crash their planes into the navy ships and sink them. John Louthan, 91, Mt. Pleasant, died Monday at 7:45 a.m., University hospital authorities reported yesterday. He was admitted March 3.

Quarter-Million Houses Built by British in 1948

LONDON (AP) — Government reports show 227,616 permanent houses were finished in Britain last year for a total of 425,729 since the war. The reports — from the Ministry of Health and the Department of Health for Scotland — showed 157,161 temporary houses also had been completed in the postwar period. Last year, in one way or another, 284,230 families were provided with housing.

Ruppert Advises Correct Traffic Light Use

Police Chief E.J. Ruppert had a word of advice yesterday for Longfellow school children using the new pedestrian-operated traffic light at the intersection of highway 6 and Court streets. He warned pupils not to press the control button and proceed to cross the street without waiting for the "walk" sign to flash on. When pedestrian traffic is heavy, Ruppert said, an automatic timing mechanism creates a 50 second interval between light cycles before the signal can be used again. Pedestrians often mistake this interval for the signal being out of order, Ruppert said, when actually it still enables traffic to move through the intersection. When the signal hasn't been used for a period longer than 50 seconds, it will work immediately, the police chief added. Pedestrians have nine to 10 seconds to cross the street. Donald Seavy, principal of Henry Longfellow school, said the school faculty is cooperating with the police department in instructing their pupils to use the traffic signal properly. Chief Ruppert said anyone may use the signal — it is not confined to the use of pupils only. When street conditions return to normal the traffic department will mark the crossing with yellow lines. Only Muscatine avenue motor traffic will be affected by the new signal, Ruppert declared. Court street traffic will continue to be controlled by the arterial highway signs. "Push the button, wait for the 'walk' light to flash on, and then cross the street."

WHAT'S NEW ON THE CAMPUS?
MOTHER is a FRESHMAN!
Did someone say today's college campus has the new look? You said a megaphone-full, brother. Our old rah-rah brethren of the raccoon twenties and frantic thirties would hardly recognize it.
THESE days, Joe College and Betty Co-ed are frequently Mr. and Mrs., with junior minding the Quonset hut.
20TH CENTURY-FOX has come up with a novel and delightful twist on the new theme with a charming contribution entitled "Mother is a Freshman." And this 1949 version of Alma Mater turns out to be Loretta Young.
Hold that wolf-whistle, Fraternity Row! Because what we didn't tell you is that mother—the college widow—has a full-fledged sophomore daughter attending the same school. Okay, wolves... whistle!
INTRIGUING? The plot really starts to perk when they both go after the same guy. Who's the lucky boy? He looks like Van Johnson! He is Van Johnson! And when you see what comes off, you get a liberal education in an institution of higher yearning! Even the Technicolor tells tales out of school.

Stalin's Cold War Insomnia

IN A RATHER off-hand manner it came to my attention Tuesday evening that I have volunteered to act as some sort of M. C. at the collegiate world premiere of "Mother is a Freshman" at the Englert theater Thursday p.m.

In the event you have been out of town or in a coma for the past week I'll explain what will transpire at the premiere. A young lady will be declared "Freshman Co-Ed Beauty Queen." She will have been one of 51 contestants for the title, and, incidentally, will receive a check for $100. For $100 I'll be a beauty queen for 20th Century-Fox or Hal Roach, for that matter.

If she wins the national contest (to be announced at a later date) Iowa's freshman queen will get an expense-paid trip to Hollywood... where movie stars grow like grapes in an arbor.

BUT TO get back to the M. C. business; by the time Thursday evening rolls around, I'll have the worst case of nervous cow hocks this side of Hoover's birthplace.

Someplace along the line I seem to have missed out on the fundamentals of public speech making, and it has been my Achilles arch ever since. I can expound detailed theories to a group of intimate friends for hours on end, but let three tourists ask me the way to the nearest rest room, and I bungle the job every time.

WE MIGHT as well face it. Some people are cut out to speak in public and others should refrain from addressing anything but envelopes.

There have been three speech courses in my life, and each wound up with teachers getting high blood pressure and me getting flunked.

The only fellow I ever knew who did a worse job of speaking in class than I, and still passed the course, had a double hernia, and the professor gave him a C- out of sheer pity.

IT ISN'T that I don't know all the rules of good public speaking, because I can put more of them down right here in black and white than you can shake at a stick.

First of all, there is the matter of hands. A good public speaker makes his hands as unconscious as possible. He doesn't flap them around in mid-air like a B-50 getting refueled over Saudi-Arabia.

As a matter of fact, the best public speaker I ever heard had both arms cut off just above the elbow.

With me, however, hands are a problem. They're just ordinary hands until the crucial moment arrives and then they turn into canoe paddles with fingers.

WHILE YOU speak and remember about not making hands conspicuous there is also the matter of feet. They aren't to be shuffled, twitched or scratched during a public talk.

Although my feet usually behave themselves, it never fails that they suddenly get animated during an address. All day long they go about the business of transporting me from one spot to another without a hitch.

When I get up to speak, however, they get the deluxe fidgets and I might as well have a pair of wild guns hanging off the end of my ankles.

AFTER THE feet and hands come Action of the Eyeballs. If you will watch any expert public speaker you will see that he handles the eyeball business with no little dexterity.

The trick is to glance at the notes and back to the audience without letting the audience know that is going on. This is like trying to pat your stomach and rub your head at the same time (an uncomfortable pastime), and I usually end myself with two misplaced or misplaced eyeballs at the end of a speaking session.

Oh, Well, drop down to the Englert Thursday night, and we'll see how it comes off.

The Man Behind the Dinner - Finkbine Believed in 'School Spirit'

By CHUCK KROUSE

Sixty-five students will sit down to a free dinner in the Iowa Union tonight, thanks to an SUI student of the last century who was a firm believer in "school spirit."

The men will be attending the annual William O. Finkbine dinner, co-sponsored in 1917 by two men who decided that money wasn't anything unless it did somebody some good.

The men were Carl Kuehnle, a Denison banker, and William O. Finkbine, who received his final degree from the university in 1886, went out an "made a million" and then sunk a big share of it back in the school he liked so well.

After receiving his degree in law, "Will" Finkbine plunged into—the lumber business. He was highly successful.

He was a great friend of several presidents of the university and since he had so thoroughly enjoyed himself at SUI he, along with Kuehnle, began the annual dinner.

After a few years, Kuehnle was forced to drop out of the sponsorship and Finkbine carried on alone. Until his death, in 1930, he sent down a yearly check, all the time building up a fund to be used later on.

Finkbine always had an active interest in the activities of the school, and usually enjoyed school functions with a host of friends.

One tale has it that when Finkbine came to the Homecoming games in later years (He seldom missed one) he provided for the many friends he would bring along in a novel way.

To beat any housing shortage, Finkbine would get a special pullman car, pull it off in a siding here in town, and use it for sleeping quarters while his company enjoyed Homecoming festivities.

But Finkbine wasn't the "good guy" type that did little more than slap your back and pump your hand. He was a doer, always willing to help the university in a tight spot.

WILLIAM O. FINKBINE (center) viewed the dedication ceremonies of the golf course that bears his name back in 1926. "Will" and his brother Charlie gave the university the course. Others in the picture are: (1 to r) Charles Kennet, recently retired SUI golf coach; B. J. Lambert, former head of the civil engineering department; Kennet's son, and an unidentified person.

When Prof. F.C. Ensign was acting secretary of the alumni association, the Iowa Union was in the planning stage. But at first meeting, he relates, things were going kind of slow and a motion came to adjourn.

"Let's not adjourn until we get something done," Finkbine roared, and then plunked down the first $10,000 donation for the Iowa Union.

The husky Finkbine loved one sport in particular—golf and in the last year of his life, at 73, was still active on the greens. As might be expected, his love of the "gentleman's game" led him to make provision for SUI students who might like to shoot an occasional 18 holes.

In 1926, he and his Charlie (Charlie is reported to have made three million) gave the university Finkbine golf course. "Will," said Prof. Ensign, was quite an athlete himself, back in the days when "they were trying to prove that a curved ball could be pitched," Ensign recalled that "the boys were out throwing curves while the physics professor was in the building proving that it couldn't be done."

However, Finkbine never really exerted himself, being contented to play nine holes of golf and then retreat to the clubhouse to indulge in conversation—his one weakness. Finkbine's fund for the annual dinner was "wiped out" in the recent war years, and the occasion was discontinued until two years ago.

The cash in the fund today has come about through donations from "Will's boys," students who have attended the dinner, left the university and then sent back money.

Many alumni members are expected to be on hand for tonight's dinner, at which Prof. Ensign, who was a close friend of Finkbine, will be master of ceremonies. Although Finkbine was a fun-loving easy going sort of person, he wanted to see men leave the university who were "serious workers."

Prof. Ensign said he looked at the dinner as a place where grads, students and university officials could sit down together and talk about how an education could help make a successful citizen.

Although Finkbine liked to tell stories, Ensign said, "I never heard him swear or tell an off-color tale. He never saw him drink a glass of beer or smoke. It seems that William O. Finkbine was interested in making clean citizens and was willing to set himself up as an example.

What Rights Are We Protecting?

Anyone here on campus who heard Sen. Harry P. Cain speak last October 21 probably remember that he had a straightforward manner and a friendly, almost folksy, approach to his talk.

There is nothing friendly about his latest speeches in the senate. There is nothing straightforward about his allegations against former Washington governor Mon Wallgren. Cain demanded an investigation on the report that Wallgren had won $50,000 in a crap game with Johnny Meyer, contact man for Howard Hughes. He reiterated his charges that Wallgren is "soft" toward Communists.

Cain talked for six hours and 45 minutes. An aide helped him change shoes. Cain's estranged wife watched from the gallery. The southerners, intent on breaking the back of the filibuster stoppage rule, sat back and relaxed while the westerner took over.

The dice game charge Cain had picked up, he said, from Drew Pearson. Pearson denied this, as did Wallgren who claimed he'd never rolled a game with Meyer "even for a niece." This case opens up the interesting problem of how far can a senator, protected by immunity, go in his charges against an individual. Cain is exercising his right to free speech, even though he has maligned another citizen.

Cain exercised his right of free speech here on the campus and it stirred up a local political war—he had broken no rules about political candidates speaking on the campus because he was not a candidate.

The southerners, as well as some Republicans, are using their rights of free speech in the senate. They claim to be using that right to protect free debate and kill the anti-filibuster bill.

But intemperance is most often an evil—even over-talking. And when the right to talk interferes with the right to vote, a choice must be made.

And the cries about protecting the voting minority must therefore be drowned out in the noise of the actual vote. We still have a concept of government that decrees we are free to vote and will not be obstructed by a willful minority.

Labor's Outlook: Fourth Rounds, Cutbacks, Uncertainties -

Recent price drops, the T-H repeal battle in congress and an unemployment figure inching up to the 3-million mark have slackened, but not stopped, labor's drive for fourth round wage increases.

A quick survey of the labor press finds the following arguments for pay increases in coming contract talks: The drop in the cost of living index in the last four months has been too small to warrant a delay in hiking wages.

And if there is a downturn in the boom this year, the unions are ready to counter it with welfare proposals and other job security guarantees. For instance, the CIO auto workers will press for $100-a-month pensions and the CIO lumbermen are asking for a six-hour day to counter growing unemployment.

The unions' statements reflect the current uncertainty about business conditions. Clinging onto demands for a new pay raise for fear of renewed inflation, labor is also fishing around for ways to protect its jobs in the face of rising unemployment and slumping production.

The AFL has flatly announced that its affiliated unions will seek at least a five percent boost in wages. At the same time, the National Foremen's institute, a management organization, surveyed nearly 1,000 "fourth round" contracts drawn up to date and found that pay increases have been slightly higher than five percent. If these statistics are encouraging for labor, there are other experiences surrounding "fourth round" contract talks that aren't too pleasing.

General Motors and a large shoe manufacturing firm cut wages under cost-of-living adjustment clauses in existing contracts. In an arbitration case, the CIO textile workers were refused a demand for a 10-cent increase. AFL textile workers also settled for no increases.

Production cutbacks are cropping up to worry unionists. The United Mine workers, faced with overproduction in the coal industry, are talking about a 30- or 35-hour work week. Auto firms are cutting back production in response to slackening demands. Electrical equipment manufacturers and shipbuilders are slowing down output.

In the face of tightening job openings, union members probably will become increasingly reluctant to strike. All these considerations point to a cautious, uncertain approach to major contract talks shaping up (see chart below).

A lot depends on cost of living and unemployment figures in the next two or three months. Capitol hill will be watched closely; so will purchases on Main street. If anything, the lush postwar boom days have lost their steam. The old economic axiom about what goes up must come down has labor concerned.

Sex Life of a Watermelon - Senator Hits U.S. Publications

WASHINGTON (AP)—Economy-minded Sen. Styles Bridges, walked onto the senate floor with an armload of books yesterday and asked if any of his fellow senators knew "how to tell the sex of watermelons."

If they didn't, he said, they could find out about it in a government publication.

He also asked if they knew anything about the economic status of the band-tail pigeon.

He admitted that he didn't know that said pigeon had an economic status until he found a government booklet on "Habits, Food and Economic Status of the Band-tailed pigeon."

Bridges suggested that the book was—or at least might be—one of the reasons why congress should shorten the "1,000-foot shelf" of government books. He said he wasn't criticizing any particular publication but that congress ought to do something about "Uncle Sam's book of the minute club, unlimited."

No one can estimate the overall cost, he said, but the appropriations committee, which he headed in the last congress, collected 83,000 different publications when it asked each federal agency for one copy of each publication.

Bridges hoped that senators and house members would try to supply only useful publications to their constituents.

"Let's continue to send them 'Infant Care' and let's think twice before we send them publications on 'Eliminating Bats from Buildings,' he suggested. He disclosed, incidentally, that bats are evicted by closing all but one or two escape hatches in a barn in the daytime. At midnight, when all the bats are presumably gone through those two outlets, they are plugged too.

"Remarkably simple," said Bridges, "but do we need a government brochure?"

He said he would not comment on the complaint of a woman who told him the interior department's book, "How to Control Vagrant Cats," undermined the purpose of "National Cat Week" sponsored by the commerce department.

Sen. Owen Brewster, (R-Me), wanted to know if there was anything on "Maternity Problems of Dogs and Their Descendants." Bridges replied that he could quote from "Fleas of North America," which "has to do with the dog situation."

Then he reeled off other titles and read chapter headings from an unidentified pamphlet which concerned "Changing the Name of the Japanese Blue Magpie" and "How to Cross a Goose with a Swan." The cross-breeding, Bridges reported, produced a "swoose."

Names of Three Grads Left Off February Lists

The names of three February graduates were omitted from commencement lists last month, the SUI information service said yesterday.

Graduates omitted were Joe Henry Byrd, Iowa City; Bernard William Webster, Cedar Rapids, and Asoke Kumar Gupta, Patna, India.

Lost-Found Articles — Council to Investigate Problem

The Student Council will begin its investigation of the problem of lost and found articles on campus at their regular meeting tonight at 7:30 in the house chamber of Old Capitol. A committee will be formed to investigate the need for a centrally located agency to handle missing articles and to find an office to handle the items, Council President Evan L. Hultman said yesterday.

Until now misplaced articles have been collected in libraries, janitors' offices and many other places where it is virtually impossible for the student to find them, Hultman said.

"Numerous faculty members have expressed the need for such an agency and many students have complained they cannot find an office in which to register lost articles," he added.

Mrs. Sarah S. Edwards, head of the university library reference department, said the main library attempted seven or eight years ago to collect articles found in Macbride hall but the library did not have the facilities to handle them.

"I would be very glad to see the Student Council do something about this situation because a central agency has been needed for a long time," Mrs. Edwards said. "I have felt the Student Council would be a good group to handle the problem because it is a student affair," she added.

ANSWERS FIRE CALL
The fire department answered a call from the Wilson Sporting Goods Co. at about 5 p.m. yesterday, but there was no fire. A defective furnace was the trouble source, firemen said.

UWF Brings Joyce To SUI to Discuss World Government

The British view of world government will be presented by James A. Joyce, Labor party parliamentary candidate, Monday at 8 p.m. in 225 Schaeffer hall.

The English speaker is being sponsored on campus by SUI's United World Federalists as part of their program to acquaint students with world government. UWF President William Shuttleworth said yesterday. Joyce's talk here is a part of a national tour under the auspices of the American Friends Service committee, he said.

Joyce is active in many British and international organizations promoting world government and labor movements such as the Fabian society and the World Citizenship movement. He has had 20 years experience in public speaking including educational programs over the British Broadcasting company.

The British speaker is the author of several social welfare books and is a regular contributor to British and American journals dealing with law, social reform and international affairs.

He made a 12,000 mile lecture-tour through the United States and Canada last summer, addressing conventions and college forums and participating in radio broadcasts and debates.

THIEF GETS $22
Gerald Baum, 825 Hudson avenue, reported to local police yesterday that a thief broke into his car Tuesday night and stole $22 worth of nickels.

Baum said the theft occurred shortly before midnight Tuesday while his car was parked near University hospitals.

Anti-Filibuster Leaders Claim GOP Aid in Senate Showdown

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate anti-filibuster leaders claimed "unexpected" Republican support last night for a showdown attempt to break the southern-led talkathon today.

The debate, directly involving the right of filibustering and indirectly keyed to the bitter civil rights controversy, has jammed the senate's legislative machinery for nine days.

Majority Leader Lucas (D-Ill.) told newsmen late yesterday afternoon that 33 senators so far had signed a petition to end the Dixie filibuster against a proposed change in senate rules. The change would open the way to curbing filibusters and thus make it easier to pass civil rights legislation.

Only 16 names are required on the so-called cloture (debate limiting) petition, which Lucas said he will file today.

But if Vice-President Barkley rules that the petition can be entertained a majority of those present will be necessary to uphold his ruling. To put an actual limit on debate requires a two-thirds majority. The senate has 96 seats.

Lucas said the number who signed the petition in the first hours indicated that the administration is "gaining."

Meanwhile, the flow of southern oratory rolled on unchecked, with Senator McClellan (D-Ark.) telling his colleagues that the Communists will be "elated" if the fight to save the filibuster is lost.

Lucas issued a statement "congratulating" Republican and Democratic signers of his petition.

"I hope this may be the beginning of bringing a majority of the United States senate to a successful decision to plug up the loopholes in the present senate rules," he said.

Lucas announced today's critical test after a closed-door session of northern and western democrats.

Southerners fear that a time limit on debate would clear the way for passage of President Truman's anti-lynch, anti-poll tax and other "civil rights" proposals.

Chance for Study In Britain Offered

LONDON (AP)—Scholarships for young Americans for study at the Old Vic theater centre — world-famous repertory group — will be offered by trustees of the Thomas Wall trust.

The scholarships will be administered by the Transatlantic foundation, started two years ago to create opportunities for Americans between 20 and 35 to study in Britain.

Sir Robert Mayer, founder of the foundation, recently visited the United States for talks with the American committee. Mayer says the idea met with great interest and approval in the United States. Negotiations now underway may also result in scholarships in America for young Britons.

Saroyan, Wilder, Stein Blasted as 'Decadent'

MOSCOW (AP)—William Saroyan, Thornton Wilder and Gertrude Stein are described in a current issue of the Literary Gazette as "decadent writers." Literary Gazette says of Saroyan:

"He belongs to the peculiar group of 'decadent optimists.' Some bourgeois critics assert he does not follow the majority of decadent writers but possesses a 'positive ideal.' This, of course, is an impudent falsehood."

Harlan Harr Sues Yellow Cab Owner For $1,748 Damages

Harlan H. Harr yesterday filed a $1,748.37 damage suit in Johnson county district court against Earl Y. Sangster, owner of the Yellow Cab company in Iowa City.

Harr claimed his auto was damaged in a collision with a cab driven by Jess Fulton, an employee of the Yellow Cab company, on Jan. 27 at the intersection of Woolf avenue and highway No. 6.

He charged the defendant with negligence in failing to operate the cab properly and in leaving the scene of the accident without checking on the damages received by the plaintiff.

Harr asked $210.87 for damages to his auto, and $837.50 for the loss of the use of his auto during the time it was being repaired.

He also asked damages in the amount of $1,300 for injuries received by his wife and two children as a result of the accident.

Albrecht, Knox and Taylor are attorneys for the plaintiff.

Japanese Simplify Trade Procedure

TOKYO (AP)—The Japanese government, by occupation direction, has moved to simplify foreign trade transactions.

Export licenses — with certain exceptions — no longer will require occupation headquarters validation if the export is on the approved list and the price in dollars or British pounds is above established minimums.

Only those export contracts negotiated under open account agreements will require occupation validation.

Frank E. Pickelle, chief of foreign trade and commerce for the occupation, said validation will be required for such items as scrap metal, ships, machine tools, textile products and raw materials on the import program, but that the new procedures would considerably reduce paper work.

FEPC Opposition Disguised by YRL, Say Young Demos

SUI Young Democrats yesterday charged the Young Republican league with attempting to disguise their opposition to fair employment legislation in Iowa with ambiguous "endorsements."

Hank Allan, A4, Iowa City, president of the Young Democrats made this statement yesterday after the Young Republicans turned down an invitation by the Young Democrats to join them in lobbying for the Sloane-O'Malley FEPC bill now in the state legislature.

At the time the YRL turned down the Young Demos' invitation, they endorsed "any program which insured fair employment treatment for all citizens."

They said they felt that the Sloane-O'Malley bill was "not a practical solution" to the problem.

Allan criticized the Young Republicans for making "vague endorsements" of any program for fair employment legislation and then refusing to support a program closely patterned after working laws in New York, Minnesota, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Connecticut and Massachusetts.

In answer to a statement by the Young Republicans that the Young Demos sought publicity, Allan commented that publicity "is essential to any program attempting to mobilize public opinion." He went on to say that "any progressive undertaking by the Young Democrats would naturally be the object of Young Republican smear efforts."

The Young Democrats will send six to ten members to Des Moines sometime this month to try to lobby the Sloan-O'Malley bill out of a house committee.

AVC Vote to Urge Action in Filibuster

The Johnson county American Veterans committee last night voted to send night letters to Iowa's senators in congress urging them to vote on the Barkley ruling in a manner consistent with stopping the filibuster.

The AVC also agreed to send a delegate or delegates to the lobbying force being organized at the instigation of SUI's Young Democrats. The lobbying force would go to Des Moines and urge passage of the Sloan-O'Malley fair employment practices bill.

Acts as Chairman of Foreign Affairs Committee

REP. JOHN KEE ACTED AS CHAIRMAN (left) of the house foreign affairs committee yesterday when he met with Selden Chapin (center), U.S. minister to Hungary, and Rep. Charles F. Eaton (R-N.J.). Chapin was called to discuss conditions in Hungary. Kee (D-WVa) is most likely to take over the position held by Sol Bloom of New York until his death Monday night.

WSUI to Broadcast Music by Ellington

WSUI will broadcast 30 minutes of the Duke Ellington music from the Pan-Hellenic dance in the Iowa Union Saturday night, WSUI Program Director Richard Seterberg said yesterday.

Broadcasting from 9:30 to 10:00 p.m., the program will replace the second half-hour of the regular Saturday night "Campus Shop" broadcast. Master of ceremonies will be Bill Wolf, regular host on "Rhythm Rumbles."

Gertrude F. Dennis To Hostess Supper

Members of Nathaniel Fellows chapter, D.A.R., will meet at the home of Gertrude F. Dennis, 412 N. Clinton street, for potluck supper tomorrow at 6:30 p.m.

Assistant hostesses will be Mrs. Ada F. Geertz and Mrs. Lucille B. Willits.

The program will be sponsored by Sylvia A. Noffsinger and will be given by Rosa Izagabal, Uruguay, and Berta Gutierrez, G. Mexico. Miss Gutierrez will speak on "Native Education for Women."

Rotarians to Hear ISC Agriculturist

J.J. Wallace, manager of the Iowa State college Agricultural foundation, will speak on soil conservation and farm management and restoration this noon at the Rotary club's annual rural-urban luncheon.

Geology Professor Allen Tester, Rotary program chairman, said yesterday 45 farmers will be the club's guests at the luncheon. The agricultural foundation at ISC is a group of farms managed by the college, Tester said.

Hill Gives Final Law Lecture

The layman is to the lawyer what the proverbial goose that laid the golden egg was to his owner, Luther L. Hill told the students and faculty last night in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Hill's address on the "Layman Looks at the Lawyer as a Citizen" was the sixth and final lecture of the current Law Students association series. Hill is manager of the Des Moines Register and Tribune company.

"The lawyer's influence is far greater than that of any other of the so-called public servants," he told the law students.

"The layman looks to the lawyer for leadership, but he expects the lawyer to put the making of money second to serving the public, in general, and himself in particular."

Changes in the nature of a lawyer's work have made it difficult for him to see his own profession in the proper perspective,

Hill said. Continued specialization in the legal profession has made some lawyers servants of the market place rather than servants of the public.

Unpublic conduct by a few has tended to discredit the entire profession in the eyes of the public, he declared.

A survey of a cross-section of the Iowa public recently taken by the Des Moines Register research staff showed that most of the people rank the public trust of the legal profession below that of the medical, ministerial, teaching and business professions, Hill pointed out.

The young lawyer's job is to help change public opinion by being honest and public minded, serving the public instead of the pocket, he declared.
