U.S. Delegate Stages Walkout In UN Attack on Gen. Hodge

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—U.S. Delegate Leroy Stinebower walked out of the UN Economic and Social Council yesterday in protest against a tirade by Poland attacking Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, former military commander of southern Korea.

Polish Delegate Juliusz Katz-Suchy called Hodge the former "gauleiter" of Korea. (Nazi Germany called commanders of German occupied areas "gauleiters.") Hodge now is commander at Fort Bragg, N.C.

A few minutes before he left, Stinebower had rebuked the Soviet delegate for "one of the greatest remarks of disrespect to the general assembly ever heard in any hall or chamber of the United Nations."

Katz-Suchy's attack on Hodge came as he accused the "military administration" of the Republic of Korea (south Korea) of being maintained there "against the will of the people, by U.S. dollars and U.S. bayonets. The government sits at the peak of American bayonets."

Stinebower jumped up, saying "the U.S. delegate does not intend to remain here while this type of insult is being thrown about."

Council President James Thorn of New Zealand made no move to interrupt Katz-Suchy, and Stinebower and an assistant, Walter Kotschnig, left the chamber. Both returned when Katz-Suchy had finished.

Just before the clash, Stinebower tangled with Soviet Delegate A.P. Morosov who charged the United States had "made use of the mechanical majority in the general assembly" to win recognition for what he called the "docile puppet government" of southern Korea.

Thorn told the delegates he hoped this kind of talk would not be repeated in the future. Katz-Suchy replied that the language was the kind usually used. He said he was surprised at the show of feelings by the United States delegate who, Katz-Suchy said, uses such terms as "satellite" in referring to minority delegates.

This was the first walk-out from a UN council here since Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko left the security council March 27, 1946, in protest against a decision to hear the Iranian case against Russia.

River Begins Fall After 13-Foot Crest

The 14-foot flood crest of the Iowa river forecast for the Iowa City area failed to materialize yesterday. The high waters were receding slowly last night.

High point in the river's rise was reached at 10 a. m. yesterday when a reading of 13-feet was registered at the hydraulics laboratory.

Although the water was receding, the rate of fall was very slow yesterday and last night. Muddy water still covered much of the low land along the river banks.

Highway 218 was still under water at 10 p. m. last night. All traffic to towns north was being routed through Solon on highway 261.

Forecasts of fair skies and warm temperatures for today were received from the weather bureau last night. However, cloudy skies with continued warm temperatures are in store for this vicinity tomorrow.

'Axis Sally' Found Guilty of Treason

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal jury yesterday wrote "guilty" to the name of American-born Mildred E. Gillars, branding her a traitor for broadcasting Nazi propaganda during World War II.

The jury deliberated 17 hours and 20 minutes, with time out overnight for sleep, in reaching its verdict.

The white-haired defendant took the verdict with outward calm. Her face paled and her eyes blinked to fight back the tears, but she stood rigid and made no sound.

Defense Attorney James J. McLaughlin immediately announced he will seek a new trial on the ground that Federal Judge Edward M. Curran gave "inflammatory" instructions to the jury. McLaughlin asserted that Judge Curran's instructions showed that he "believed this woman to be guilty and wanted her convicted."

Falling a mistrial, McLaughlin said he will continue to fight the case with an appeal to the U.S. circuit court of appeals.

Grand Jury Indicts Coplon, Gubitchev On Spying Counts

NEW YORK (AP)—Judith Coplon, pretty, Brooklyn-born justice department employee, and Valentin A. Gubitchev, Russian engineer, were indicted for espionage against the United States yesterday, less than a week after they were arrested together by the FBI.

A federal grand jury, which had heard only three hours and 15 minutes of testimony and evidence, charged them with criminal offenses on which the 27-year-old Barnard college honor graduate could be jailed for 35 years and the Russian employe of the United Nations imprisoned for 15 years.

Gubitchev was charged with two counts in the indictment, Miss Coplon with three. One of the accusations, that she attempted to deliver secret U.S. information to a foreign power knowing it could be used to the injury of her country, would have been punishable by death in wartime.

Jailed since their arrest beneath the Third avenue elevated her last Friday night, the pair will make their first public appearance since then this morning when they are brought to court for arraignment.

Union to Consider Publishers' $10 Bid

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago newspaper publishers yesterday submitted a full contract proposal, including a $10 weekly wage increase, to striking AFL printers and the union agreed to submit the terms to its contracts department for approval.

The union said that if the contract proposal is approved by the international union, it will be submitted to a vote of Chicago printers who have been on strike against five daily newspapers since Nov. 24, 1947.

The publishers' proposal came as negotiators wound up what were considered the final phases of the prolonged dispute.

The wage offer, a $1 boost from the previous $9 weekly raise proposed by publishers, was made in a letter from John F. O'Keefe, secretary of the Chicago Newspaper Publishers association, to John Plich, president of striking local 16 here.

O'Keefe said after the meeting that he "expected" the offer to be accepted. He said no further negotiation meetings were scheduled.

Modern 'Jesse James' Shot by Police in Gun Fight

CONFESSED TRAIN ROBBER Luman Ramsdell is shown being removed on an ambulance litter by Washington police. Ramsdell was shot yesterday in an attempt to fight it out with officers in a pawn shop six blocks from the White House. His companion, George Ashton, gave himself up. Both readily confessed the robbery of a Baltimore and Ohio express Wednesday evening.

Britain Hints Aid to Ally

LONDON (AP)—Britain hinted officially yesterday she would help Transjordan if Israeli armed forces invaded that country.

"An ally should be protected against an aggressor," Minister of State Hector McNeil told the house of commons in a discussion of relations between the Jewish state and the Arab kingdom, with which Britain has a mutual aid treaty. He did not specify what form the protection should take, whether direct military aid, economic or diplomatic support.

The discussion centered upon announcements that Israeli troops have moved south in the Negev desert of Palestine, which lies between Egypt and Transjordan, toward the Red sea gulf of Aqaba. Responsible informants said Britain is consulting the United States.

Spokesmen of Israel and Transjordan agreed there was an Israeli movement toward the gulf.

Jury Fight Renewed In Communist Trial

NEW YORK (AP)—Renewed friction between Federal Judge Harold R. Medina and defense attorneys broke out yesterday at a session of the conspiracy trial of 11 U.S. Communist leaders.

The lawyers declared Medina's questioning of prospective jurors did not bring out enough information "to get an unbiased jury."

But the judge sharply told one attorney, Louis F. McCabe, that he had just committed "a deliberate and willful contempt" and warned: "I just want you to realize it, I'm not going to start any contempt proceedings now, but what I may do hereafter I don't know."

Then the defense lawyers said they could not exercise their peremptory challenge properly because two of their number were absent.

The judge accepted this and adjourned court. But he directed that no attorneys "under any circumstances" should miss a session without his permission in the future.

One Wounded In Gun Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two young Ohio desperadoes sought over three states for a wild west train robbery in the Allegheny mountains were captured by police yesterday in a pawn shop six blocks west of the White House.

One was critically wounded when he went for his gun in an apparent attempt to shoot it out with officers. His companion, also armed, was taken into custody unhurt. Both quickly confessed, police said.

The men were identified as Luman Ramsdell, 23, a former reformatory inmate, and George Llewellyn Ashton, 21, who likewise had served time. Both are from Youngstown, Ohio.

A copper-jacketed slug from Officer Eldwood Lomax's revolver ripped through Ramsdell's side, missing his heart by about two inches. Hospital physicians said he is not expected to live.

Police Lieutenant John E. Winters reported the pair readily admitted the wild, gun-flourishing hold-up of the Baltimore Ohio's fast Ambassador express near Martinsburg, W. Va., Wednesday night.

The FBI immediately filed train robbery charges against both men. A search of their clothing turned up about $700 in small bills on Ashton, and $290 on Ramsdell.

Terrorized passengers on the train reported they were robbed of about $1,000 in cash, plus some jewelry.

The men were captured 15 hours after the hold-up, which was carried out with liberal helpings of dime novel technique.

Passengers reported that after bringing the train to an emergency halt, the robbers swaggered through the cars, mouthing curses and pistol-whipping passengers who tried to hide their valuables. A train chef suffered a wounded ankle when one of the men fired through a car door.

SUI Young Demos To Invite O'Malley, Sloane to Talk Here

SUI Young Democrats today will invite state representatives Ted Sloane (R-Polk) and George O'Malley (D-Polk) to speak in Iowa City in support of the Sloane-O'Malley FEPC bill now in the state legislature.

Plans were revealed last night at an executive board meeting of the Young Demos in the Iowa Union for an all-city rally in support of fair employment practices which will feature the co-authors of the Sloane-O'Malley bill as speakers.

The date for the city-wide rally will not be determined until it is known if Sloane and O'Malley will be able to appear in Iowa City.

Young Demos Sherwin Markman and Reid Digges will ask the city Democratic convention being held this morning to endorse fair employment legislation during their city campaign this spring.

The Y.M.C.A. Committee on Racial Equality last night voted to endorse the Sloane-O'Malley FEPC bill now in the state legislature. The Y cabinet will meet Monday to consider Y.M.C.A. endorsement of the bill, Executive Secretary Ralph Schleming said last night.

Senate Fight Looms Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—In an historic ruling, Vice-president Barkley said last night that the senate, by a two-thirds vote of senators present, can call a halt to the 10-day-old southern filibuster.

The ruling could have a tremendous effect on the whole future course of congressional legislation.

But Dixie legislators quickly challenged Barkley's decision. Fighting to preserve the right of filibustering—their key weapon against so-called "civil rights" proposals—the southerners demanded a test of strength on the closely fought issue.

The senate recessed at 8:06 p. m., a few minutes after Barkley handed down his dictum, with the preliminary showdown expected today.

That will come on the southerners' appeal against the Barkley ruling, with a simple majority of senators present on the floor required to uphold or over-ride the vice-president, who is also the senate's presiding officer.

Then, as the next phase, if Barkley is upheld, it would still require a two-thirds vote of senators present to break off the Dixie filibuster and permit the taking up of the Truman administration's resolution permitting curbs on future filibusters.

The proposed resolution, which would amend the senate's permanent rules, would permit a two-thirds majority to limit debate at any time.

Cries of "rule! rule!" swept the senate chamber, prompting Barkley to give his decision after earlier reports that he would have put it off until today.

Majority Leader Lucas of Illinois forced the issue, paving the way for the initial showdown, by filing a debate-limiting "cloture" petition. This simply meant that the signers, 17 Democrats and 16 Republicans, wanted to silence the present talk which centers on a motion to take up the actual filibuster-curving bill itself.

After carefully outlining the reasons behind his decision, Barkley ruled that the petitioners were in order.

Southerners had hotly contested any such ruling in advance, with Senator Russell (D-Ga) shouting that it would violate "every precedent" by the senate's presiding officers in the past.

Russell declared that the filing of the cloture petition at this stage when all of the southerners have not been heard "flies in the teeth of the express letter" of present rules on debate limitation.

But Lucas, also shouting, retorted, "There is no precedent. At no time has the chair ever been called upon to make a ruling on the set of facts now before the senate."

Then, in quiet tones, Lucas appealed to his colleagues, saying, "We should not blind ourselves to the fact that a determined minority is attempting to keep us from fulfilling our legislative duties."

The filibuster has effectively jammed the senate's legislative machinery since it began Feb. 28. No bills have been passed, no other measures have even been debated, and a heavy backlog of legislation has begun piling up.

'Queen Margie'

Margie Felter, Van Meter, Reigns at Premiere, Wins $100, Chance at Hollywood Trip

Margie Felter, 21, Van Meter, received a $100 check from 20th Century-Fox and reigned as "Queen of the Premiere" last night at the Englert theatre for winning the freshman beauty contest conducted by The Daily Iowan.

Bill McBride, Daily Iowan columnist, presented the check to Miss Felter on the stage of the Englert prior to the Iowa world premiere of "Mother Is a Freshman." 20th Century-Fox comedy starring Loretta Young and Van Johnson.

The Hollywood film company sponsored the contest in conjunction with the film in its search for America's most beautiful coed.

Similar contests were conducted on 25 college campuses. The winner at each school will receive $100 from 20th Century-Fox. Respective school winners will be entered in national competition.

The winner in national competition will receive a one-week all-expenses-paid trip to Hollywood this summer as the guest of 20th Century-Fox.

Miss Felter, the SUI representative in the national contest, was picked by 22 judges last Sunday in the river room of the Iowa Union. She was chosen from a field of 51 freshman coeds representing various women's housing units on the SUI campus.

Twenty-one judges representing men's housing units and one faculty representative cast preferential ballots.

Miss Felter, a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority, will be 19 years old next Monday.

She thanked the judges last night after receiving the check from McBride. She said winning was "terrifically exciting."

When asked what she would do with the check, she said, "I'm not going to do anything rash with the money. I'll wait until the controversy over the changing hemline is settled before I decide."

Spurt in Final Minutes Puts Davenport in State Tourney

By ROBERT DUNCAN

A state tournament bound Davenport Blue Devil quintet fashioned a thrilling last minute victory surge last night in the Iowa fieldhouse to shade the outplayed but not out fought Iowa City Little Hawks 43-39 in the finals of the Class AA division of the local sub-state tourney.

Half-time score: Davenport 19, Iowa City 19
Missed free throws: Lindsey, Stenger, LeBuhn 2, Erickson 4, Buckles and Neelson; Diehl, Hettrick 3, B. Fenton, J. Fenton 2, Hay 2 and Hemingway.

Bob LeBuhn, Hettrick's rival center, pushed in 12 markers to pace his mates to this all important victory.

Iowa City and Davenport each hit 14 baskets from the field, but the Imps converted 15 free throws to 11 successful charity tosses for City High to provide the four point margin of triumph.

Both clubs, who had played a cautious, deliberate brand of ball for over three quarters, launched a concerted attack with three minutes remaining in the hectic fray.

Knots Count Late in Game

Hettrick knotted the count 35-35 with two minutes and 55 seconds left in the game with a charity toss that struck the rim, bounced high on the back board and dropped through the twines. Bill Fenton, City High forward, furthered Iowa City's cause with a long one-handed push shot that rocketed the scrappy Little Hawks into a short-lived 37-35 margin with two minutes 10 seconds left. But a free throw by Willard Newman, Davenport guard, and a basket by Ken Buckles, Blue Devil floor general, gave the Imps a 38-37 edge.

A snarling City High club surged back and Rox Shain pushed in a long one handed shot with a minute and 15 seconds remaining to give the Little Hawks a 39-38 lead.

LeBuhn raced down the court and slammed in a one handed hook shot to give the Imps a 43-39 lead with a minute to play.

A desperate City High club, seeking to gain possession of the ball, fouled Ken Buckles with 35 seconds left in the game, and he calmly dropped in the gratis toss for a 41-39 Davenport edge. LeBuhn was awarded two free throws as a result of a foul committed with 25 seconds left, and the great Blue Devil pivot man pushed in both shots to insure the Imp triumph and a berth in the state tournament.

Hettrick Starts Scoring

Hettrick initiated the Hawklet attack in the opening minutes of the first stanza with a charity toss and fielder, one of the two he notched during the entire ball game. Davenport fought back with a bucket by Bob Erickson and a fielder by LeBuhn to knot the tally 3-3.

Whitey Diehl, who played a great game off both boards and put in 12 markers to share scoring honors, bucketed a one handed shot but LeBuhn dropped in another one to give Coach Paul Moon's charges a 10-6 quarter edge.

Iowa City's usual pin point passing deteriorated in the second stanza and Davenport's ever alert Blue Devils capitalized upon this to race to a 16-11 lead after four minutes had elapsed in the second stanza.

John Fenton pushed in a free throw to narrow the gap to 16-12 and Shain bucketed a shot to pull City High up to 16-14.

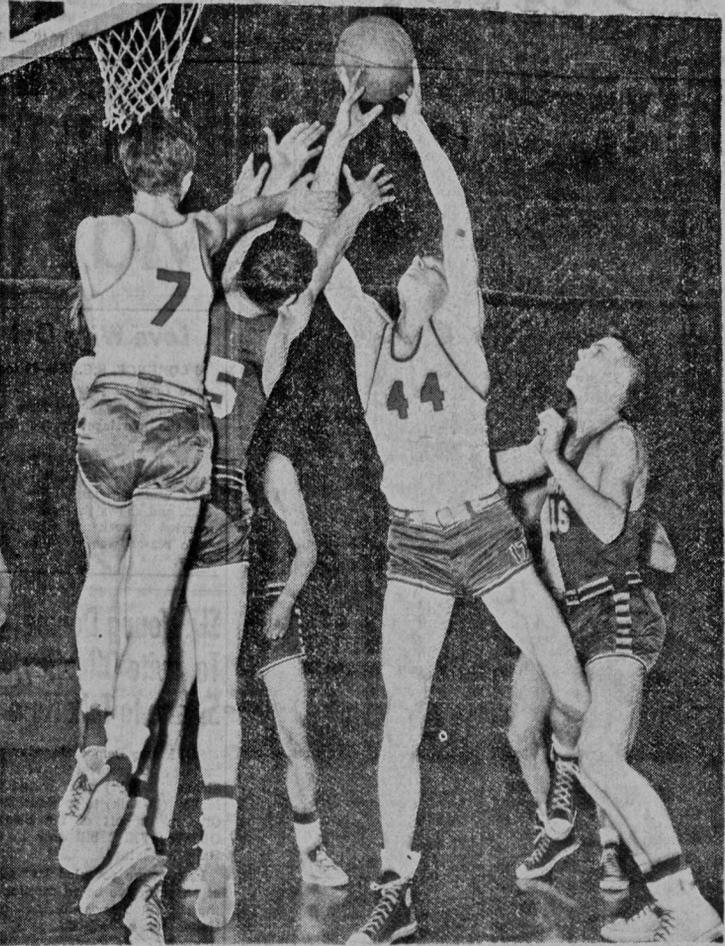

Lindsay hit from the free throw line but John Fenton and Keith Hemingway collaborated on a field goal and free throw respectively to deadlock the contest 17-17 with a minute and 10 seconds left in the half.

Diehl Gives Hawklets Lead
Diehl went high into the air to bat in a tip-in for a momentary City High lead but Newman tallied on a long two handed set shot to tie the score 19-19 at half-time.

The pendulum of advantage swung equally between the two foes in the bitterly contested and indecisive third quarter.

Davenport raced to a 25-22 lead on four successive free throws by Lindsey and a basket by Newman. Shain tied the score for the fifth time in the game with a free throw 27-27 and the two clubs battled on even terms to a 30-30 stalemate at the end of the stanza.

Erickson started the hectic fourth period with a free throw, before Hettrick and Diehl hit from the field for a 34-31 Iowa City lead. Erickson and Buckles bucketed shots to give the Blue Devils a slim 35-34 edge.

BOTH TEAMS FOUGHT hard for rebounds in last night's thriller which saw Davenport emerge as kingpin of the double AA's in eastern Iowa. Here, Bill Stenger (7) and Bob LeBuhn (44) of the Blue Devils and Ken Hay (5) and Rox Shain (16) of Iowa City fight for the ball under the winner's basket. The Blue Devils won, 43-39, on a last minute spurt.

Imps Whoop It Up After Win

By ALAN MOYER
"We did it, we beat 'em, what a game!"

That was the first thing that hit the Davenport dressing room after the Blue Devils won the "biggest one of all" over Iowa City's Little Hawks, 43-39, last night.

Bob LeBuhn, the Davenport center who topped his team's scoring with 12 points, said he was sure he and his mates would win when he dropped in the first of two free throws with a scant 25 seconds remaining. "But it was rough," he added.

Bill Stenger, the fiery little forward, charged into the dressing room with big patches of lipstick on his face, collected from the cheerleaders who had swarmed over their heroes after the final gun.

When LeBuhn kidded him about it, Stenger shot back, "I love it, this is great, let's start over again," and with that was off to congratulate more of his teammates.

"They Were Tough"
LeBuhn, who had shot and rebounded his team into the lead during the opening half, was high on the City high club. "They were tough all the way," the blond junior said, then quickly added, "No team has ever beaten a Moon team three times in one season and this wasn't going to be the first!"

Coach Paul Moon, who earlier had, of course, wanted to win, but had said he just wanted to at least come within 10 points, praised the play of his boys and ordered "at least one day of rest," before getting ready for the first state tourney foe.

Moon, who saw his lads drop a pair of two-point decisions to Iowa City during the regular season, was plenty satisfied to get one out of three from the Little Hawks as long as "this was the one we got."

Stay on Hettrick
"I asked the boys at the half," he said, "if they wanted to keep playing the roving zone defense and take chances on City's long shots or change and take chances with Hettrick? The answer he got was a unanimous one; keep the zone and four men on big Gene! Early in the final quarter City high opened, what looked like might be the rush that would win the game when the Hawks pulled out 34-31.

At that point Ken Buckles threw his hands in the air and called for time and a talk with Moon. Talk he must have, for the Imps came back after the minute break and in two minutes were back in the lead, 35-34.

"He told us to keep with them and hustle, with emphasis on the hustle," Buckles said later. "We did it too."

Twenty minutes after the game Davenport fans waiting upstairs at the fieldhouse were still so overjoyed they didn't know how to express it.

"We beat Iowa City," one Davenport girl repeated over and over again. The cheerleaders were so happy that tears of joy streamed down their faces.

Eleven Iowa trackmen will leave this morning for Chicago to participate in two track contests over the weekend. Nine of the athletes will compete under Old Gold colors in the Illinois Tech relays tomorrow while the other duo will run in the Central AAU meet tonight.

The Hawks will be entered in the mile and two-mile relays besides three individual events for tomorrow's meet.

Russ Merkel, who nursed a sore knee early this week after hitting the first obstacle in the 70-yard low hurdles at the conference meet last Saturday, will run in his specialty tomorrow.

Iowa will be represented in the high jump by Dick Erdenberger. The Hawk jumper recorded his best leap of 6-feet 3-inches in the dual meet with North western.

Star Hawkeye dash man, Jack Simpson, will compete in the 70-yard dash. Simpson normally runs the 60 but was clocked in good time in trials this week.

Keith Brown, Hawk half-miler, will participate in both the mile and two-mile relays. Brown will be teamed with Tom Sangster, Elliott McDonald and Simpson in the mile and with Dick Tupper, Jack Copeland and Ray McCreery in the long course.

This meet marks the first appearance of Sangster in the Iowa lineup since he strained a thigh

Michigan State Out Until 1950 Season

CHICAGO (AP)—Michigan State, although a provisional member of the Western conference, will not be able to enter a team in any league schedule until the baseball season of 1950 at the earliest.

The conference decision to have basketball coaches meet Sunday to prepare the 1949-50 cage schedule dealt the Spartans out of hardwood play in the conference for one more season and meant that the first time Michigan State can play a league schedule will be in the 1950-51 campaign.

Even before announcement of the schedule meeting for basketball, it was apparent that Michigan State would have only a slight chance to participate. When schedules were prepared a year ago for the recent cage season, the coaches drew up a two year home and home program with the 1949-50 schedule to complete the period.

Although the Spartans became a provisional member of the league at its December meeting, a three man committee must travel to Michigan State and ostensibly inspect its athletic organization to make certain the school conforms to Big Nine standards.

This committee, composed of commissioner Kenneth L. "Tug" Wilson, Paul Blommers, Iowa faculty representative, and Chairman Kenneth Little, Wisconsin faculty representative, will visit the Spartan campus next month.

Giants Could Be Rough Club If They Had Some Pitching

By GAYLE TALBOT

PHOENIX (AP)—There has come to be almost a stock exclamation among baseball people when the New York Giants enter the conversation:

"What a great bunch of ball players they've got!" and then, after an instant's pause, "But no pitching—it's too bad."

Even the officials of rival National league clubs tuck on the last three words, and they aren't being facetious. They all would like to see the Polo grounders get back in the flag fight, because they own the biggest park in the league and it would mean added money in every club treasury if they could shake off the jinx which has gripped them for nearly a dozen years.

There isn't a team in baseball which wouldn't plaster a mortgage on its grandstand to possess the Giants' two brilliant young outfielders, Whitey Lockman and Bob Thomson, even though both slumped somewhat last year.

Willard Marshall, the club's third fly-catcher, would cause a rash of bidding if he ever were placed on the market. So would Third-Base man Sid Gordon, who boomed 30 home runs last year, and likewise First-Base man Johnny Mize, even if he is 36 years old and managed to hit only 40 homers in the past campaign.

Walker Cooper, providing his knee operation proves to have been entirely successful, still is the most valuable catcher in the game because of his slugging ability.

The six named make a batting array not approached by any National league rival. Each is a long ball hitter, capable of breaking a game wide open. Each is good enough in the field, too. Thomson and Marshall have exceptional throwing arms.

All that — and still the Harlemites finished fifth last year, back of the oncoming Pittsburgh Pirates. There is no guarantee they will do any better in the '49 race unless Manager Leo Durocher, starting his first full season at the helm, finds two game-length pitchers to go with Larry Jansen and Sheldon Jones.

There are a dozen hurlers on the Giants roster, not to mention a fine-looking group of rookie throwers in camp who are tagged provisionally for minor league delivery. Special pitching coach Dutch Reuther is striving valiantly, especially with Cliff Hartung.

And yet, all that Durocher can say for sure is he is going to give Monty Kennedy a starting job every fourth day — come base hits or high water — and he firmly believes Kennedy will deliver under those conditions. If the stylish lefty from Amelia, Va., rewards Leo's faith the Giants could become rough in a hurry.

Five Tankers in Final Duel

For five Iowa swimmers, Saturday night's meet with NCAA champion Michigan will be their final appearance in the home pool.

The seniors are Capt. Wally Ris, Dick Maine, Dave Brockway, Erb Straub and Ken Marsh. They represent the biggest chunk of water talent to leave Iowa in recent years.

The five-some scored or helped score 37 of Iowa's 51 points in the 1949 Western conference races.

Wally Ris finishes up three short but full seasons in the fieldhouse pool where he set three national records and helped in two relay marks.

The Iowa captain was never beaten in the Hawkeye pool.

It was in the Hawkeye tank that Ris blucked the last of Johnny Weismuller's American records in a dual with Minnesota Feb. 12, 1948, when he swam 100 yards, long course, in 51.9 seconds compared to Weismuller's :52.0 — regarded as an unofficial world record.

The spring relay team of Ris, Straub, Marsh and Duane Draves in 1948 took more than three seconds off Michigan's American record of 1941.

Straub, overshadowed by Ris as a 100 man, would be a standout on any other team. He had an important part in Iowa's two 1949 Big Nine champion relay teams.

Marsh was out most of the 1949 season with a strained back, but swam twice; once to set the Iowa record for the 50, and again to place fifth in the furious 50-yard sprint at the conference meet last week.

Brockway closes out his long competition with Iowa after a dramatic high board performance at the Big Nine championships where he came in second and made possible Iowa's second place finish.

Maine is another four-letter winner for the Hawks. He was rated No. 2 college backstroke in the country by the college coaches association in 1946 when he set the American freshman backstroke record.

LEAVING THE HOME ROOST, Capt. Wally Ris leads five Hawk-eyes in their last appearance here Saturday night against last year's national intercollegiate champion, Michigan. Besides Ris, Iowa will lose Erb Straub and Ken Marsh, members of the American record-holding sprint relay team; Backstroke Dick Maine, and Diver Dave Brockway.

Ladies Club Observes Saintpaulia Day

CARE IS ESSENTIAL IN THE GROWING OF AFRICAN VIOLETS. Mrs. C.C. Erb, route 6, chairman of the Garden department explained to Mrs. Frank Danner, 420 S. Lucas street, Saintpaulia, African Violet day, was observed yesterday by the Garden department of the Iowa City Woman's club. Eighteen violets in pink, white, blue and purple colors were on display.

An Old African Custom — Club Has 'Violet Day'

Pink, blue, white and purple violets filled the club rooms of the Iowa City Woman's club yesterday in anticipation of Saintpaulia, African Violet day, by the garden department of that club.

Eighteen plants of ten varieties of African violets were displayed. Mrs. Clarence Fieseler, 582 Patterson, Coralville, who displayed six plants, received a prize for the largest collection of African violets.

For the plant with the most blooms, Mrs. Clarence Koser, 1016 Newton road, was given a prize. Mrs. Koser's Pink Lady violet was covered with florets of a dainty pink color.

Mrs. H.H. Gibbs, 529 S. Lucas street, won the prize for the most unusual plant.

Mrs. E.F. Wickham and Mrs. J.W. Anderson judged the plants. Facts about the Saintpaulia, which she termed the most popular house plant, were given by Mrs. Frank A. Danner.

The African violet was displayed 50 years ago by Baron Walter von Saint Paul, Mrs. Danner stated. There were only one or two known varieties of the plant when it was brought to American in 1893, but now there are over 100 varieties.

Mrs. J.W. Howe gave a review of "The Flower Grower." Women who raised the violets told about their care of the plants. One member said that she talks to her favorite specimens to encourage their growth.

Mrs. C.C. Erb, chairman of the Garden department, said that this display will probably become an annual event.

Faculty Member to Go To Conference in Ohio

Marguerite McDonald, supervisor of SUI's occupational therapy department, will attend a conference of the American Occupational Therapists association opening next Friday in Cleveland.

The four-day conference will discuss the current shortage of occupational therapists in the nation. Miss McDonald, a member of the school and education committee, said the association will reinstall in schools the shorter occupational therapy course which was offered during the war.

'GI Look' Out, 'Bold Look' In

BY PAT LOUNSBURY

If you Iowa males think the spring style spotlight has ignored men's clothing, check the "bold look" fanfare for new collars and colors.

"The bold look" which was probably contrived to give men something comparable to the "new look" for women, has emerged in Iowa City clothing stores with somewhat favorable acceptance by the masculine population.

What's the bold look? Briefly, said one local men's store salesman, it's new colors, brighter fabrics and accessories like heavy cufflinks and tie chains.

Lavender, pink and chartreuse have heretofore been colors which only the women have worn. But 1949 marks a golden — or shall we say pastel — era for colors in shirts and sweaters for men.

Proudly displaying the latest lavender "bold look" in shirts, a salesman pointed out that collars are "wider, with set-in stitching. French cuffs are THE thing this year."

"This shirt here," he mumbled, "is an — rose, I guess. No — let's face it — they call it pink."

How have males reacted to pastels?

"Very favorably, of course," he said.

Sweaters in pale green, baby blue and a mild pink seem to be selling well, the salesman reported.

Neckties with vertical stripes are recommended for wear with the bold look, another salesman disclosed.

"It's about time men depart from the usual dull fabrics and colors. The olive-drab, navy-blue and forest-green influences have worn off," he said.

One SUI male student had an answer to the bold look movement when he said, "I don't see why the girls have to monopolize the more appealing colors. I sorta like this bold look idea. We can say that pastels are the latest and wear 'em without being different."

One unhappy note in the male style horizon is that suits, alas, haven't departed much from the traditional modes of tailoring.

"The low roll lapel, one-button suit is the best bet this spring," a clothing store employee related.

Sportcoats have caught the bold look trend, according to the same gentleman. Solid colors harmoniz-ing with pastel dress and sport shirts occupy the clothing racks in his store.

THE "BOLD LOOK" RATES AN ADMIRING LOOK! Sporting the "bold look" is Bill Metcalfe, C3, Des Moines. Heavy cufflinks, new wire collar, bright plaid jerkin, brown vertical striped tie and pink shirt make up Bill's equivalent to the feminine "new look." Corene Studdt, A2, Belle Plaine, wears conventional campus attire.

Overcoats, too, have strayed from the usual tans and deeper shades of blue. Peppy tweeds and checked wool are relieving the monotony for many male buyers, the salesman announced.

Another SUI man whose father owns a clothing store in another city gave the "inside dope" on hats versus caps.

"The tweed wool cap, worn either in 'full bob' or 'half bob' will be a good college style this spring. Watch it and you'll see," he predicted.

"All in all," one male summarized, "we men have been completely liberated from stereotyped styles. We've got the Windsor necktie, the bold-look collar, ir-resistible shades of color — and our GI wear, if it still holds out."

Iowa High Schools Invited to Visit SUI

Letters of invitation are being sent to 950 Iowa high schools welcoming their students to the state-wide basketball tournament March 15 to 19 and Mecca week exhibits March 18 and 19.

The invitations are being sent by the Student Council and the Associated Students of Engineering through the office of the registrar, James Packer, council orientation committee chairman, said yesterday.

Myrtle Kitchell to be Head Of New College of Nursing

Plans for a new college of nursing and the appointment of Myrtle Kitchell as director of the school of nursing and dean-elect of the new college were revealed yesterday by SUI President Virgil M. Hancher.

The new college will replace the 50-year-old school of nursing. Transition to the new status will be made when the faculty organization and curriculum are completed during the academic year 1949-50. Dean-elect Kitchell will direct this work.

Miss Kitchell is currently on the staff of the University of Minnesota as an instructor in nursing. She will begin her new duties here next September as director of the school of nursing until the formal organization of the new college.

Amy Frances Brown and Evelyn Cray have already been added to the staff as assistant professor and associate in nursing, respectively.

The college will be a part of the university's division of health sciences and services, which includes the colleges of medicine, dentistry and pharmacy, University hospitals, psychopathic hospital, the hospital - school for severely handicapped children and the state bacteriological laboratory.

Training of nurses will be on three levels as outlined by the general program of February, 1948, according to Carlyle Jacobsen, executive dean of the health sciences and services division.

They are:

(1) A three-year curriculum open to high school graduates leading to the certificate of graduate nurse.

(2) A program combining liberal arts and nursing and leading to a bachelor of science degree in nursing.

(3) A series of post-graduate courses in several specialized areas of nursing service, such as public health, orthopedics, pediatrics, psychiatric nursing, and nursing education, with the possibility of study for a master's degree.

Students now enrolled in the school of nursing will be permitted to transfer to the new collegiate program, Jacobsen said. He also indicated the status of present students wishing to transfer to the new program will be reviewed individually.

Miss Kitchell was born in Van Meter in 1917 and attended the Ada, Minn., high school and the University of Minnesota. She received her B.A. cum laude in 1939 and a M.A. in educational administration in 1947.

She served on the Charles D. Miller hospital staff, St. Paul, and was an instructor in the St. Mary's hospital school of nursing in Minneapolis before entering military service in 1942.

As assistant chief nurse in the 26th general army hospital, Miss Kitchell served in England, Africa and Italy. She was chief nurse of the 52nd station hospital in Italy when she left the service.

Two SUI Graduates Get New Positions In State Department

Two SUI graduates were recently assigned to new positions with the state department, officials announced yesterday.

Jack Y. Bryan, who received a Ph.D. from SUI in 1935, will soon leave the United States to become cultural officer of the United States information service in the Philippines, the state department said yesterday.

Bryan, formerly the director of public relations for the Welfare Federation of Cleveland, Ohio, was more recently the head of the school of journalism at the University of Maryland.

A 1942 SUI graduate, now employed as a foreign service officer by the state department, Arthur LeRoy Paddock Jr., has been transferred from Genoa, Italy, to Addis Ababa, Ethiopia. He will serve there as second secretary and vice-consul, the state department said.

Paddock served as a captain in the European theater during World War II, and received an M.A. from the University of Louisville in 1946.

MARRIAGE LICENSE ISSUED

A marriage license was issued yesterday in the Johnson county clerk's office to Sylvester R. Ryan Jr., Chicago, and Domenica Miraglia, Geneva, Ill.

SUI's 1948 Crawling Champ

LAST YEAR'S BABY RACE WINNER, Karen Sue Blackman, 22-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nahum W. Blackman, 107 Templein park, seemed happy about her victory when this picture was taken after the race last year. She'll probably be just as happy to congratulate the winner of this year's baby crawler race when it's held at 8 p.m. April 9 at the fieldhouse.

Race May Reveal Future Track Star

Baby might need a new pair of shoes after the race but what fun it will be for mother's little darlin' who wins the All University carnival baby race at 8 p.m., April 9 at the SUI fieldhouse. Only baby crawlers are eligible for the baby race. Lucie Dean, in charge of the baby race, said mothers wanting to enter their baby or babies should contact her (phone 9641) by next Wednesday. The All University carnival is sponsored by the Mortar board and Omicron Delta Kappa. Forty booths will be set up at the carnival.

FINED IN POLICE COURT
J. B. Seeley, 41, Mt. Pleasant, was fined $12.50 in police court yesterday on a loitering charge.

Iowa State College Professor to Speak Here

Dr. Frank Schlenk, professor of bacteriology at Iowa State college in Ames, will speak on "Transamination" next Friday at a meeting of the Iowa section of the American Chemical society. The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. in room 300, chemistry building.

Transamination is one of the processes involved in the metabolism of proteins, Prof. Clarence P. Berg of the biochemistry department, said yesterday.

Schlenk was at the University of Texas in Houston for four years before going to Iowa State college in 1947.

At the same time he was biochemist at the M.D. Anderson Hospital for Cancer Research and was part-time consultant for John Sealy and affiliated hospitals.

In 1940 Schlenk became assistant professor of public health and preventative medicine at the University of Texas school of medicine in Galveston.

Born in Munich, Germany in 1908, he received his Ph.D. at the University of Berlin in 1934. Three years later he became research associate at the biochemical institute of the University of Stockholm, Sweden. He left Sweden in 1940 because "the political conditions in Europe no longer permitted independent scientific work."

No World Unity —

UN Is Failing, Says Roberts

If the United Nations fails we will have a third world war, Herb Roberts, associate professor of education, told an Information First audience yesterday afternoon.

Speaking to about 200 people in the senate chamber of Old Capitol, the widely traveled professor said the UN appears to be failing. It has not brought unity to the U.S. and Russia or to Russian satellite powers and U.S. satellite powers.

The UN can be made effective, Roberts said, by putting the power and prestige of the great nations behind it. The Australian born lecturer said the function of the UN is to defer war until it is impossible to fight it or unnecessary to fight it.

All this is possible only if the great powers clear up the issues by going to work, making decisions and then all parties abiding by them, he added.

The UN cannot be made effective by a police force, Roberts said, because no one power would permit the UN to have the power to destroy them.

He added that there is no use in talking of a UN police force until the people are prepared to set up a super state.

The tall, dark-haired professor claimed that communism cannot be stopped because communism is an idea. "I know of no way of stopping an idea," Roberts said.

Therefore, Roberts explained, the issue before us now is not us and communism but one of national aggressive warfare.

Our policy should be dedicated to stopping aggression by one power over another, Roberts said. To achieve this the Atlantic pact and other pacts of the same type should be made UN pacts instead of nothing but military pacts, Roberts said.

People must get interested in the UN and develop a sentiment of respect for it and loyalty to it so it can be supported, Roberts concluded.

Forensic Honorary Enrolls 8 Students

Eight SUI speech students yesterday were elected new members of Delta Sigma Rho, national honorary forensic society.

They are Evan Hultman, A4, Waterloo; William Suttleworth, A4, Cedar Rapids; Harlan Hockenberger, A4, Des Moines; Sherwin Markman, A4, Des Moines; Henry Clark, A4, Ames; Georgianna Edwards, A4, Richmond, Ind.; Herman Cohen, G, Rock Island, Ill., and George McBurney, A3, Council Bluffs.

The new members of Delta Sigma Rho were named by present members of the SUI chapter.

To be eligible for membership in the national society, the student must be an upper classman who has done outstanding work in intercollegiate speech activities.

Farm Youths Raise $55 at Box Supper

The Junior farm bureau raised $55 in its box-supper Wednesday night in the Iowa City community building, Emmett C. Gardner said yesterday.

This money will be sent to the state office in Ames as the Johnson county rural youth donation to the international farm youth exchange program, Gardner, farm bureau director, said.

The exchange program will bring European youths to America to study living conditions and will send at least one rural youth from Iowa to Europe to study conditions there, Gardner added.

Market Basket Index Reveals —

Local Food Prices Hold Firm

Little change was registered this week in the Daily Iowan market basket index. This week's figure is $16.19, just one cent above last week's.

Prices on five items changed this week, but three were up and two were down, making the resultant difference negligible.

Two changes in meat prices served only to offset each other. Choice round steak rose four cents but first grade bacon dropped the same amount.

Prices on butter and eggs also changed slightly. Butter rose one cent over last week's price, while eggs declined two cents from the mark of a week ago.

White cane sugar, the fifth item to change, was up a penny. The current stability in food prices has been present for nearly three weeks now and most local grocers foresaw no great changes in the next few weeks.

A few of the grocers said they expected a rise in fruit and fruit juice prices due to the early winter storms in Texas and California which destroyed some of this year's fruit crop in those areas.

Bill Hall, tireless student of the works of A. Conan Doyle, dismisses as a foul canard the report that Sherlock Holmes once confronted Dr. Watson with the statement, "Ah, my dear Doctor, I see you have donned your long winter underwear."

"Amazing," Watson is supposed to have replied. "How did you deduce that?" "Elementary," explained the peerless Holmes. "You have forgotten to put on your pants."

Looking over all the obituary notices of 1948, an editor in New York discovered that the year's fatalities included Percy Truesdell of Columbus, O., the inventor of the gum drop; George McConnell of Los Angeles, who pitched the first curve in baseball; Isaac Meyers of New York, who persuaded Steve Brodie to jump off the Brooklyn bridge; Richard Huseh of New York, who wrote the lyrics of "Sweet Adeline"; and Charles Ingersoll of South Orange, who produced the first inexpensive watch (Remember his slogan: "The Watch That Made the Dollar Famous?").

IF YOU attended the premiere of "Mother is a Freshman" last night, you know by now that Miss Marg Felter was acclaimed Queen of the Premiere, and that she is as lovely as a receipt from the finance company marked paid-in-full.

It might be, however, that you are one of the eight persons in this vicinity who didn't make it to the Englert last night, and in that case I would suggest that you turn to the story of the evening's events elsewhere in this morning's Iowan as soon as you have finished here... it'll wait... finish the column first.

WHILE WE'RE on the subject of reading the morning paper, I would like to say that the fellow who can read and eat at the same time gets nothing but the most profound admiration from me.

I place reading a newspaper and eating simultaneously in the same category as navigating an airplane completely on instruments.

As a matter of fact, it is even more laudable than instrument flight inasmuch as the fellow who reads at the breakfast table more or less eats by the seat of his pants, as the saying goes.

TO READ and eat requires excellent coordination and the possession of highly sensitive automatic reflexes — to say nothing of an uncanny knowledge of exactly where in your head your mouth is located without peeking.

There is no sense thrashing around in the brush about it. I simply do not possess those attributes.

I suppose I shouldn't even try, but every three or four days the business of reading and eating presents itself as a sort of challenge. After all, if a simple little problem like this can't be solved, what will happen when I am faced with something really poignant? (That's the wrong word, but the neighbors have our dictionary).

Sunday morning is when the urge to read and eat comes the strongest. It is on that day that I feel sort of William Powellish, what with my $8.95 bathrobe and all.

There is something cosmopolitan about sitting down to the breakfast table with the morning paper propped between the sugar bowl and the catsup bottle. I like catsup on my eggs, and no slurring remarks are needed on this point.

Reading while eating lends a man-of-the-world atmosphere to what is otherwise a rather unromantic occurrence.

BUT SOMEHOW I never make out very romantically. No sooner do I get interested in a page one story when it jumps to page five. This necessitates unfolding and folding several times, and likely as not our weak-kneed cream pitcher will become a casualty at the first rattle of page one.

After one or two tries at turning to page five, I compromise by making a neat, but small, square of the whole paper so that two, or possibly three front page stories are visible.

YOU CAN'T get much of an idea about trends in current events by reading the same story four or five times, but it's better than losing two out of three falls to that illegitimate creamer.

Reading the same story over and over again is not without its compensations. I am probably the best informed man on morning weather reports in this section.

HOW SOME people manage to concentrate on a newspaper and eat an egg at the same time is a point of envy. At our house it is a question of eating the egg while it is hot, or following daily news. A cold egg is about as appetizing as a pair of pickled tonsils. While the egg gets goose pimples I grope for a slice of toast... coffee cup — salt shaker — marmalade — sugar bowl — Ooops! Damn that creamer.

IN THE meantime, the bathrobe has it taken upon itself to fraternize with the egg yolk and a gob of marmalade has managed to creep up to my armpit.

And then too, there is the idea that if you concentrate on that paper you can't possibly concentrate on food with the proper relish.

You might learn all about the Chinese Communists, but what good does it do if you stuff your breakfast down without knowing whether you eat bacon or sparrow feet.

As Vote Percentages Drop —

New Ways Sought To Increase Voting

DISINTEREST — Less than 25 per cent of eligibles pick president.

By HENRY C. NICHOLAS
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Students of government have reached a startling conclusion. The United States, they say, is suffering from a menace which is more threatening to the future of the nation than any danger from outside sources.

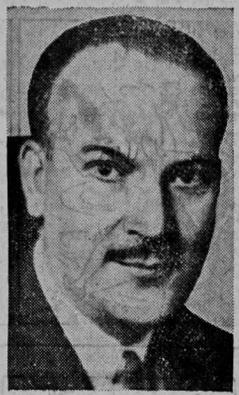

This menace is the growing indifference of the citizens in exercising their right to vote, an indifference which has changed this nation from the democracy envisioned by our founding forefathers.

About 95,000,000 of our citizens were eligible to vote in the last presidential election. With the nation facing perhaps the most crucial period of its existence only 48,680,416 voters, about one-half of the electorate, took the trouble to go to the polls and vote, according to one tabulation of the official returns.

TRUMAN received some 23 million votes. The president was thus elected with less than one-half of the votes cast and less than 25 percent of the total electorate. While we have had minority presidents in the past, never before has the indifference of the citizens allowed the head of the government to be elected with such a small percentage of the total electorate.

While the Democratic party profited in the last election, leading members of both parties recognize that this indifference of the citizens is one of the greatest dangers now confronting this nation.

HISTORY has shown that when citizens do not value and fail to use their rights there is always danger of losing these rights, and there is a growing movement in congress to discover some means of forcing the citizens to vote.

During the early days of this nation the right to vote was regarded as a precious privilege. According to the best data available about 90 percent of the citizens exercised their rights, in spite of the transportation difficulties in reaching the polls. Even as late as the presidential election of 1896 the number of votes cast amounted to about 80 percent of the registration.

The percentage has been dropping ever since. In the last election only 51.2 percent of the electorate cast their votes. There is no way of knowing what the result would have been if an additional 20-million or 30-million votes had been cast.

It is futile to speculate whether the half of our citizens who did not vote were or were not the more intelligent and responsible half.

There is, however, general agreement that democracy is a dismal failure when one-half the citizens fail to vote. This failure becomes more glaring and disgraceful when compared with the voting records in other countries, where the percentage of voters often runs above 80 percent.

THE RECENT election in Berlin's western zones showed certainly to the American people to shame. In this election over 86 percent of the electorate went to the polls. In Australia between 95 and 99 percent of the voters turn out regularly on election day.

Two years ago, 80 percent of the electorate in France and 90 percent in Italy cast their votes. In Canada and Britain in 1945 three-fourths of the voters went to the polls.

In Australia the failure to vote brings a penalty. The compulsory voting law is accepted by the Australians as no less democratic than compulsory education, compulsory taxation or compulsory social benefits.

IF A CITIZEN fails to appear at the polls an election day or fails to present a valid and sufficient reason (merely because a voter does not like any of the candidates is not a good reason) he is required to pay $7. While this sum may not seem a heavy fine, it has proved effective in bringing out a heavy vote.

Before this compulsory law was enacted in Australia the situation was about as it is now in this country. The number of voters dropped to about 50 percent of the electorate.

TODAY the percentage is often as high as 99 percent and the successful candidate assumes office knowing he has received a mandate from the people.

This cannot be justly claimed by most elected officials in the United States, when one-half of its citizens remain away from the polls. Representative Arthur G. Klein (D-NY) is one of the members of congress who plans to introduce a bill designed to increase the size of the vote.

Klein's bill proposes to reward the American voter if he votes while the Australians penalize their citizens when they do not vote.

Upon casting his ballot the American voter would receive a certificate of the local election board, which certificate will be accepted as the equivalent of $30 in payment of federal income taxes.

If this reward to the American voter should bring out a total of 80-million votes it would cost the government $2.4-billion in tax exemptions.

Representative Klein regards the present situation as such a threat to the future of the nation that he considers this huge sum as a good investment in democracy.

Other members of congress are working on a bill similar to the compulsory voting bill of Australia, feeling that the citizen should be penalized if he does not vote rather than be rewarded for voting. They state they are greatly impressed with the remarkable results accomplished in Australia at no cost to the government.

Amvets to Reconsider Stand on Rankin Bill

DES MOINES, IA. — The national executive committee of the Amvets will review the organization's stand on the Rankin bill to provide pensions for veterans when the committee meets here Saturday and Sunday, Past National Commander Edgar Corry Jr., said yesterday.

Corry said National Commander Harold A. Keats has asked the committee to reconsider its stand in favor of $100-a-month pensions to World War II veterans at age 65. Corry said Keats has been subjected to a "barrage of criticism" in connection with the Amvet position.

It Is, After All, an Idea (Novel) —

The Chicago Journal of Commerce is labeling as Communistic in its news columns all groups and organizations listed as such by the house committee on un-American activities. Any reference to such organizations in news stories will be followed by a parenthetical identification of them — news item.

Without a doubt, the Journal of Commerce's innovation is something new in journalism — new if you're willing to overlook the old standby (R-Ia) after congressmen's names.

In announcing its new policy, the paper said the move was designed to force such groups "out in the open", and to "protect businessmen from unwitting exploitation by these subversive elements."

The question immediately arises: is that a newspaper's duty, especially when the paper circulates among a supposedly enlightened audience? The Journal of Commerce thinks that its readers need protection. Without challenging the Journal further on this point, we turn to another question: do Journal readers need

The Heir Is Reluctant —

How much trouble would you have trying to give a man $100 a month at age 65? The first reaction is to accept the hundred and no questions asked.

But veterans and politicians alike are asking many questions about Rep. John Rankin's blanket pension bill.

The national chief of staff of the Veterans of Foreign Wars said his organization was opposed to the bill. It would bankrupt the country, said the VFW spokesman, and the organization members were citizens first and veterans second.

AVC suggested the congress might turn these talents for aiding veterans into other channels — veterans' housing for instance.

Cuba on Towing The Marx —

Cuba, with the largest Communist party in the western hemisphere, has said "nothing doing" to reported Soviet pressures.

Even during the recent rash of protestations from Italian, French, Mexican and such national Communist groups, the Cuban Communist party's president avoided saying that the Cuban members would fight for Russia. He confined his remarks to opposition to war.

Little Cuba with no diplomatic representatives in Moscow has said in a few words any more protection? For instance, the Journal of Commerce (conservative) could point out for its readers (conservative) that Governor Dewey (Me-Too Republican) is a Me-Too Republican if it so chooses.

Leaving the guidance of the un-American affairs committee (conservative Democrat), the Journal (conservative) could possibly venture into dangerous fields. Take Governor Dewey (Me-Too Republican), for instance. Who's to say that he's a Me-Tooer. He may be just plain (Republican) or even (Old Guard Republican). It seems to be all a matter of opinion.

When a Republican congressman finds he's vice-president of an organization listed as subversive by the house un-American activities committee (Republican—at that time), the area of one-man's opinion seems to be quite large.

All we can do is sit back and let the Journal (conservative) remind its readers that the Bomb Throwers Conspiracy of America (Communistic) is Communistic. Sit back, that is, and hope that things do not become too arbitrary.

Politicians, pointing at the one hundred billion dollars needed for this measure over the next fifty years, have called Rankin's bill a spiteful move to put the administration on the spot.

The Amvets, who officially endorsed the proposal, are now planning to review this stand at the national executive committee meeting. A spokesman said the national commander has been subjected to "a barrage of criticism" in connection with the Amvet position. This implied criticism from members.

So it goes, Rankin standing belligerently on his right to give the veterans enough money to break Fort Knox — and the veterans stubbornly refusing to accept.

The bigger countries have only hinted at. The USSR has three accredited representatives in Cuba and their position is anything but secure after Cuba rejected a Russian protest and made a countercharge against Soviet propaganda offensives.

Even the casual observer can see that Cuba, still bewildered by its "liberation" years ago by the United States, is not ready to be "liberated" again by the Communists.

First Supersonic Wind Tunnel Is a Success

BERKELEY, CALIF. — The University of California yesterday announced the successful operation of the world's first supersonic wind tunnel designed to study the actions of rocket models under conditions found 50 to 80 miles above the earth.

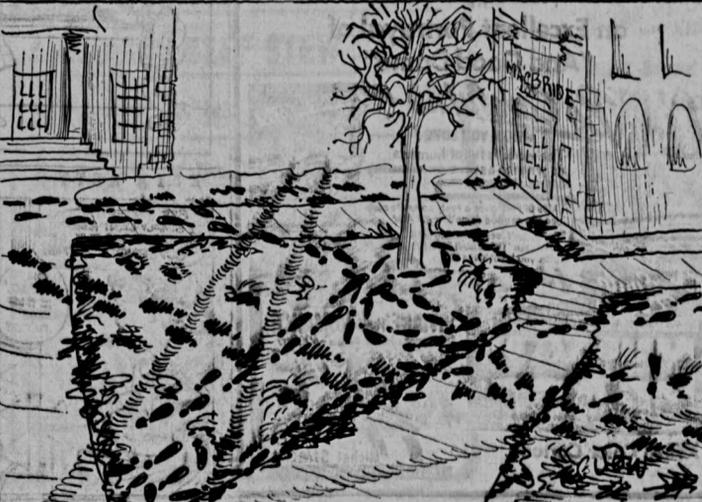

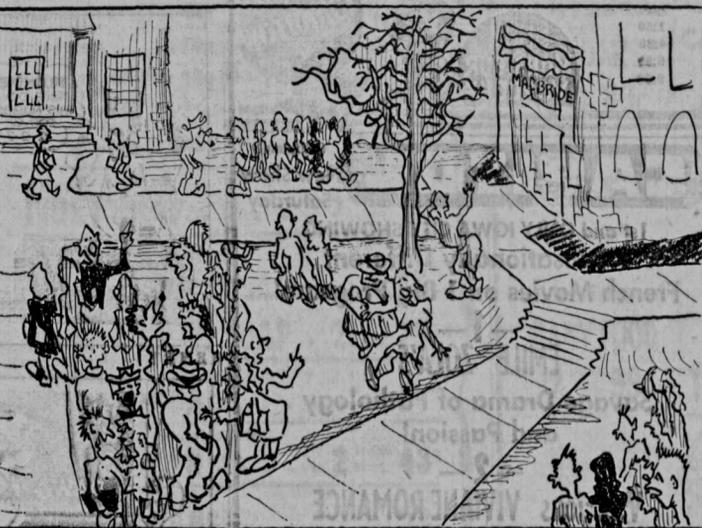

Scientists believe it may open up the hitherto unknown regions of the stratosphere by providing a preview of what happens to man's rockets as they hurtle upward from the earth at speeds of up to 5,000 miles per hour. The problems of "super-aero-dynamics," or what happens in supersonic flow in the rarified atmosphere and extremes of temperature above the 50 mile altitude have been virtually unexplored, according to the tunnel's developers, Dr. R. G. Folsom, professor of mechanical engineering, and E. D. Kane, research engineer.

The test chamber of the tunnel, where the models are suspended to study the flow of air about them if five feet in diameter and seven feet long. The test nozzle, which blasts the air stream at supersonic velocity against the models in the chamber, is four inches in diameter.

Atlantic Pact Breaks with Past

By J.M. ROBERTS JR.,
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Only a decade ago the mere suggestion that the United States had a frontier on the Rhine was enough to stir up a great argument.

Today the state department, congress and a number of European nations are moving rapidly and smoothly toward signature of the greatest military alliance in history, and there is relatively no dissension.

Such a break with tradition before World War I would have been impossible. Because of isolationism, the Washington government had to tip-toe in every move it made, right up to Pearl Harbor, to prepare for what was to be a most fateful struggle. Only that war brought full realization that, since this country could no longer escape involvement in the affairs of Europe, it had best keep a hand in them at all times.

The new Atlantic pact is principally aimed at two things:

- 1— Convince Russia that aggression in Europe would not pay.
- 2— Convince western Europe that this insurance is sufficient to permit renewed confidence in its own future and renewed investment in economic recovery.

Approval by the governments involved, subject to final parliamentary action, is expected this week. Signature is expected within a month. Then the United States, Canada, Britain, France, Norway, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg will be bound to mutual defense. Italy, Denmark, Portugal and Iceland probably will be included by that time or slightly later. Denmark's adherence would settle the problem of Greenland.

Western Germany's reviving industrial power will have a direct if ex officio connection through the occupying powers. Latin-America will be connected through the western hemisphere defense pact; Turkey and Greece through their agreements with the United States; North Africa through French sovereignty and British occupation of the former Italian colonies.

All these interconnections do not call for mutual defense under exactly the same circumstances, and some of them do not specify it at all, but the general lineup is obvious. Never has there been anything like it before.

A corollary of the North Atlantic pact is rearmament and the preparation of a mutual defense plan. The core of military cooperation already has been formed by the Benelux nations which are now being joined by Norway, Canada and the United States.

'Shakespeare Not at Fault'

'Much Ado' Turns into Comedy of 'Errors'

By BOB SENNISH

"Much Ado About Nothing," Shakespeare's otherwise delightful comedy manners, opened last night at the University Theatre. The production was largely a disappointment. The fault, I make bold to say, lies not with Shakespeare.

Taking first things first, cues were muffed, covering in group scenes was committed, and lines were botched beyond recognition. With few exceptions, most scenes were either lost or badly lamed by a general uneasiness which showed itself in over-projected voices, extreme gesticulations, and a dizzy pace which indicated a violent desire to hurry-up as much as possible the final curtain.

Not Total Failure

This is not to say the production was a complete failure. There were saving graces. And Shakespeare, no matter how hard an individual production tries, cannot be mutilated in toto. And the forementioned defects can be ascribed either to lack of preparation, first night jitters, or incompetency on the part of the director. Take your pick.

Set and costumes lend themselves very nicely to the feeling of Shakespeare's stage. The design is, in general, that of the Globe and the costumes are endemic to Elizabethan upper classes. Since the play is largely a comedy of manners, these physical fundamentals get the production in question off to a promising start.

Battle of Wits

The key roles are those of Benedick and Beatrice. They are a man and woman of "sense." They steer clear of Petrarchan romanticism, unlike the others, and wage a war of wit between their sexes. They know love for what it's worth and will not soil their reputations of "sense" by succumbing to it outright. Their lines, in fact, may be defined as a running exegesis on the manners of their age.

Thornton Klos gives his role a broad and thoroughly delightful interpretation. This is particularly true of his garden soliloquy. Mr. Klos has made an intelligent study of his character and its soundness is borne out by the audience reaction. In short, he knows his man.

The same cannot be said of Miss Kresensky. Beatrice is supposed to be quick and resourceful and a source of laughter, true—but she is at the same time a woman of sense who knows that she is really play-acting according to a code of manners.

Director At Fault

While Miss Kresensky is good enough an actress, she gives her Beatrice a sincerity which does not ring true. A word from the director might very well have answered, for the real weight of proper interpretation rests squarely on his shoulders. She might also have been advised to slow down her rate, since many of her lines are hopelessly rushed.

The "love interest" is carried off by Willis Otto and Gwen Davenport. Miss Davenport's interpretation, though somewhat school-girlish, is generally whole some and sincere. Mr. Otto, while good enough in his role as romantic lead, is rather inadequate as Don Pedro's sidekick. He seems more of a lad contemplating hockey than a gentleman playfully framing a man of sense. He too might have been advised to temper his enthusiasm somewhat.

Charles Jacott, who has Kempe's prized role of Dogberry, constitutes a strong saving grace. His pantomime is excellent. He is appropriately power-conscious and and coarsely pedantic. The scene in which he orders the watch is one of the funniest I've seen on the stage of the University Theatre.

Special notice goes also to William Countryman who, as Don Pedro, seems at home with Shakespeare.

Lines were in general, however, badly garbled. It remains a shame that Mr. Mabie didn't advise his cast either to swallow or savor down.

Students to Attend Annual Wisconsin Speech Tournament

Six SUI students will take part in the annual University of Wisconsin debate and discussion tournament March 18 and 19 at Madison, Wis.

They are William Shuttleworth, A4, Cedar Rapids; George McBurney, A3, Council Bluffs; Sherwin Markman, A4, Des Moines; Harlan Hockenberry, A4, Des Moines; Gilbert Pearlman, A2, Des Moines, and Charles Thodt, A3, Walcott.

SUI students will compete in debates on federal aid to education. They also will discuss civil liberties in the United States.

Markman will compete in original oratory and McBurney will take part in the radio newscasting event.

About 38 midwest colleges and universities are entered in the tournament.

Two Deaths Reported At University Hospitals

Two deaths were reported at University hospitals yesterday.

Carol Ann Hiatt, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thelma Hiatt, of Council Bluffs died Tuesday at 12 noon. She was admitted Dec. 28.

Rome Smith, Ottumwa, died Tuesday at the age of 48. He was admitted Feb. 10.

Traffic Accident Causes $75 Damages to 2 Cars

Council Begins Work on Lost, Found Agency

The Student Council named a committee at its meeting last night to begin work on establishing a lost and found agency for students.

Purpose of the agency would be to create a central office where books and articles lost on any part of the campus could be collected for the student's convenience in claiming them.

Committee members named were Daniel F. Dillinger, Quadrangle representative, and Robert A. Kramer, South Quadrangle representative.

In other actions the council: 1. Heard the election committee report that YMCA candidates and the outstanding man and woman award candidates sponsored by Omicron Delta Kappa and Mortar Board have been added to the all-campus election ballot.

The committee also reported the Johnson County Board of Supervisors has given the council its permission to use the city-county owned voting machines. Final approval must be obtained from the Iowa City council Monday before the machines may be used in the student elections.

2. Approved a motion to hold a council forum orienting candidates running for council positions on Student Council responsibilities and functions.

3. Heard the NSA committee report a tentative program has been planned for the May 13-14 conference of Iowa colleges and universities. Pres. Virgil M. Hancher will speak to the delegates at the opening of the conference.

Farmer, Land Both Need 'Reclamation,' Expert Tells Rotary

Improving the outlook of the people on a farm is as important as reclaiming the land, J.D. Wallace, manager of the Iowa State College Agricultural foundation, said yesterday at the Rotary club's annual rural-urban luncheon.

Wallace said the foundation took over 12 Iowa "problem farms" in 1938 and turned them into productive and profitable businesses using methods practical for use by the average farmer.

A tenant on a farm taken over by the foundation in an isolated southeastern Iowa community threatened to move because he didn't want any "college professors" telling him how to run his place," Wallace said.

Pictures of the farm displayed by Wallace yesterday showed great improvement, and a chart showed the farm's income had multiplied several times since "the college professors" started running it.

One of the farms operated by the foundation is near Cosgrove, 15 miles west of Iowa City.

Four-Point Students To Get Recognition

Fourteen 4.0 students will receive special recognition at the Mortar Board Smarty Derby tomorrow, President Jeanne McDonald said yesterday.

The women are Mary L. Anneberg, A2, Carroll; Marjorie Borland, A4, Iowa City; Constance Fippinger, A4, Iowa City; Jean Gallaher, A4, Appleton, Wis.; Dorothy C. Hoppe, A2, Washington; Jo Ann Humphreys, A1, Iowa City; Mary Lampe, A4, Iowa City; Velma L. Miller, A3, Montrose; Grace E. Milroy, C3, DeWitt; Juanita Mortimore, A3, Iowa City; Mary Sayre, A4, Iowa City; NaConn., and Shirley Ann Spence, A4, Iowa City.

Girls attending the Smarty Derby in the River room of the Iowa Union at 12:30 tomorrow should wear campus clothes, Miss McDonald said.

A 'Smart' Male, But to No Avail

One "smarty" on campus might claim fame for being the first male to attend SUI's annual Smarty party.

Lynn Laflin, P3, was mistakenly invited to tomorrow's Smarty Derby and was even slated to get special recognition for his four-point grade average, Miss Helen Reich, assistant director of student affairs, said yesterday.

As of yesterday, Laflin hadn't sent his R.S.V.P. to party officials. However, it's doubtful that he'll attend since the party honors "female brains" on campus.

Authorized Sellers Get Game Licenses

New hunting, fishing, and combination hunting and fishing licenses are now being mailed to more than 1,500 authorized sellers, state conservation commission officials reported yesterday.

Licenses will be on sale April 1, and may be purchased at any county recorder's office, from all conservation officers, sporting goods stores, banks and other business establishments, officials said.

Resident hunting and fishing licenses are $1.50 each. Combination hunting and fishing licenses are $2.50. The revenue from license sales supports the activities of the fish and game division of the state conservation commission, officials said.

Annual Finkbine Dinner

SUI Leaders Gather

The spirit of William O. Finkbine filled the River room of Iowa Union last night where over 100 undergraduates and alumni gathered for the annual dinner perpetuated by him.

It was an easy, informal spirit, like the unseen host used to bring to the dinners when he was living, Prof. Stephen H. Bush of the romance languages department explained.

The program centered around the 5-H quintet with Ringmaster Forest C. Ensign, education department professor, in the hub. Short talks by the quintet, Hancher (Virgil M.), Harold (Newcomb), Harper (Earl E.), Hickerson (Loren L.) and Hultman (Evan L.) were given.

Newcomb gave the response to the welcoming speech, telling that the dinners were like in the old days. Student council president Evan Hultman responded for the students promising to carry on the humble but courageous spirit of Finkbine.

Hickerson, executive secretary of SUI alumni association, revealed results of questionnaires mailed to over 1,500 alumni who attended the dinner during their undergraduate days.

More than 800 replies were received in about three weeks. Figures showed that most of the Finkbine men who replied have achieved success. Those who are not in a position of leadership yet are mostly recent graduates, Hickerson said.

"Billy Finkbine thought it was a good thing for strong men to know each other," President Virgil M. Hancher said. Grasp the opportunity for leadership when it comes because a strong democracy needs you, but like Finkbine, don't grasp it for personal gain, he urged the men present.

Harper, director of the school of fine arts, led the group in song to start the program and also led them in singing "Old Gold" to end the evening's program.

Rudolph A. Kuever, dean of the college of pharmacy, told guests of the origin of Finkbine's picture placed in the Iowa Union and Wallace W. Butler, Waterloo attorney, gave a short talk on Finkbine.

Red Cross Reaches $6,589; Goal $14,550

A jump of $2,382.30 in the 1949 Johnson county Red Cross fund drive since Wednesday increased total collections to $6,589.52, General Chairman Dorr H. Hudson said yesterday.

The 11-day-old drive which closes tomorrow has a goal of $14,550.

The business section collections climbed to $1,751.30 — over $1,000 better than yesterday's collections, Hudson said.

The residential section, which reached its goal of $2,700 Wednesday, had collected $3,603.72 yesterday.

All but the rural and small town section showed a gain yesterday, Hudson said.

Wolfson Car Struck By Hit, Run Driver

Police are looking for a motorist who left the scene of an accident Wednesday, according to their reports.

Tom Wolfson, route 1, Iowa City, complained to police that a vehicle struck his parked car on west Iowa avenue and the driver neglected to leave proper identification.

Wolfson said about $20 damage was done to his car.

History Teachers Meet Here

SUI will be host to the 27th annual Conference for Teachers of History and Social studies today and tomorrow in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

The conference will open at 2 p.m. today with a welcoming address by Prof. H.H. Davis, dean of the SUI graduate college. Prof. H.J. Thornton, SUI history department, will preside.

High school and college teachers from Iowa and several neighboring states are expected to attend.

History Professors A.E. Bestor Jr., University of Illinois, and H.K. Beale, University of Wisconsin, will present papers following the welcoming address.

Bestor's paper will be, "Intellectual History: Its Problems and its Contribution" and Beale's paper will deal with Historian Charles Beard.

Dinner tonight for the group will be at 6 o'clock in the River room of the Iowa Union.

Tonight's session is at 8 o'clock with Prof. W.O. Aydelotte, SUI history department chairman, presiding.

Prof. Charles H. Taylor, chairman of Harvard's division of history, government and economics, will discuss "The Freshman Course in History."

Prof. C.H. Matterson, chairman of Iowa State college's history department, and Prof. R.H. Norton, Grinnell college, will discuss Prof. Taylor's talk.

Tomorrow morning's session is at 10 o'clock with Prof. J.H. Haefner, head of social studies at University High school, presiding.

Howard R. Anderson, SUI graduate now with the United States office of education, will talk on "Offerings and Enrollments in Social Studies, Grades Seven to 12" in tomorrow's session.

The final talk will be by Prof. R.S. Hoyt, SUI history department, entitled, "The Study of History in High School and College."

How Modern can Jazz get?

Listen to Skitch Henderson's latest waxing of "CRAZY RHYTHM" — a Capitol Recording... and you'll know the answer!

One of the hottest of the oldies, "Crazy Rhythm", comes back with a sock, the way Skitch and his band revive it! Skitch Henderson is great at putting a smooth-modern touch on an old favorite. And when it comes to cigarettes, Skitch has another long-time favorite — Camels! Here's how Skitch plays it: "Camels are mild and full flavored. I've smoked Camels for years."

How Mild can a cigarette be?

SMOKE CAMELS FOR 30 DAYS — and you'll know!

In a recent coast-to-coast test of hundreds of men and women who smoked only Camels for 30 days — an average of one to two packs a day — noted throat specialists, after making weekly examinations, reported
