Grand Jury to Get Evidence In New York 'Wire-Tapping'

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor William O'Dwyer yesterday disclosed a spectacular plot to get city officials' secrets by telephone wire-tapping. The district attorney later announced that evidence of the plot would go to a grand jury.

Two alleged wire-tappers were arrested early yesterday but one duped his captors by going out a window at city hall while they thought he was in a rest room.

Hours later the man, Kenneth Ryan, 45, a retired city detective, still was free. He reportedly fled to New Jersey despite a police net at all exits from Manhattan.

However, officials said last night they understood Ryan planned to surrender.

Enemies

Officials hinted the wire-tapping might involve prominent political enemies of O'Dwyer.

The office of District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said evidence would go to the grand jury Monday and among those subpoenaed was John G. Broady, attorney.

Broady was named by Police Commissioner William P. O'Brien as the attorney who hired the two men for the wire-tapping.

"I most emphatically deny ever having anything to do directly with wire-tapping," Broady told reporters.

He referred all further questions to Clendenin Ryan, wealthy former aide to the late Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia who recently has been an outspoken foe of the city administration.

Tells Employer

Broady said he had been employed by Clendenin Ryan to get information about the city government.

At his home at Allamuchy, N.J., Ryan declined to come to New York for questioning but told officials he would be available Monday or they could come to his farm.

Police said Edward Jones, whom Broady told reporters he had hired but not "to do anything illegal at any time," was cooperating with police and talking freely.

They said Jones, a former treasury department agent, was making "startling revelations, naming prominent names and organizations in public and business affairs."

King George Rests Following Surgery

LONDON (AP) — A gray-haired Scottish surgeon operated on King George VI yesterday in the hope of relieving his serious leg ailment.

The nine royal doctors who gathered around an operating table set up in a Buckingham palace bedroom reported later the king's condition was "entirely satisfactory."

A later bulletin last night said the king "had a restful day" and his recovery from the operation is "proceeding smoothly."

The operation was brief, but delicate.

The surgeon, Prof. James R. Learmonth, severed a nerve near the spine which controls the tension of the main artery in the king's right leg.

For five months King George has suffered from faulty blood circulation in the leg that might have caused gangrene and loss of the feet.

By cutting the nerve — an operation called lumbar sympathectomy — the doctor hoped to relax the artery and permit the blood to flow more freely.

Interurban Derailed On Iowa City Street

The lead coach of a two-car Crandic train jumped the track at the corner of Capitol and Court streets at 4:37 yesterday afternoon.

It was estimated by one witness of the accident that the big car traveled about 27 feet after leaving the rails.

Northbound passengers on the stalled cars were picked up about 5:30 p.m. by the regularly scheduled coach from Cedar Rapids.

A cable fastened to the right rear wheel and attached to the second car was used to pull the derailed coach back onto the tracks. The cable broke on the first attempt, but the second try was successful.

No damage was done to the big coach and emergency repairs made on the track allowed normal operation to be resumed early last night, the Crandic agent in Iowa City said.

Tommies Reinforce Trans-Jordan Port Near Israeli Forces

LONDON (AP) — Britain ordered reinforcements yesterday to Aqaba, Trans-Jordan's tiny Red sea port. Five miles away, across the gulf of Aqaba, Jewish armored columns are in possession of the Negev's short Red sea coastline. Trans-Jordan, which signed a cease-fire pact for the whole Palestine front Friday at Rhodes, has informed Britain officially of the Israeli advance to the Red sea shore. Israel says the territory is hers under the United Nations partition arrangement.

Although Israel disclaimed any intention of attacking or transgressing, Britain obviously is viewing the situation as dangerous. The British and their ally, Trans-Jordan, do not recognize the Israeli claim to the southern wedge of the Negev.

The Israeli armored columns had thrust through the bleak southeast desert for a week to reach the coast at Eilat, where the Negev forms a wedge between Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Trans-Jordan and touches the Red sea for five miles.

Amman quarters accused the Israelis of trying to grab what they want and present the UN with an accomplished fact, as they did with the seizure of Arab Beersheba from the Egyptians last October.

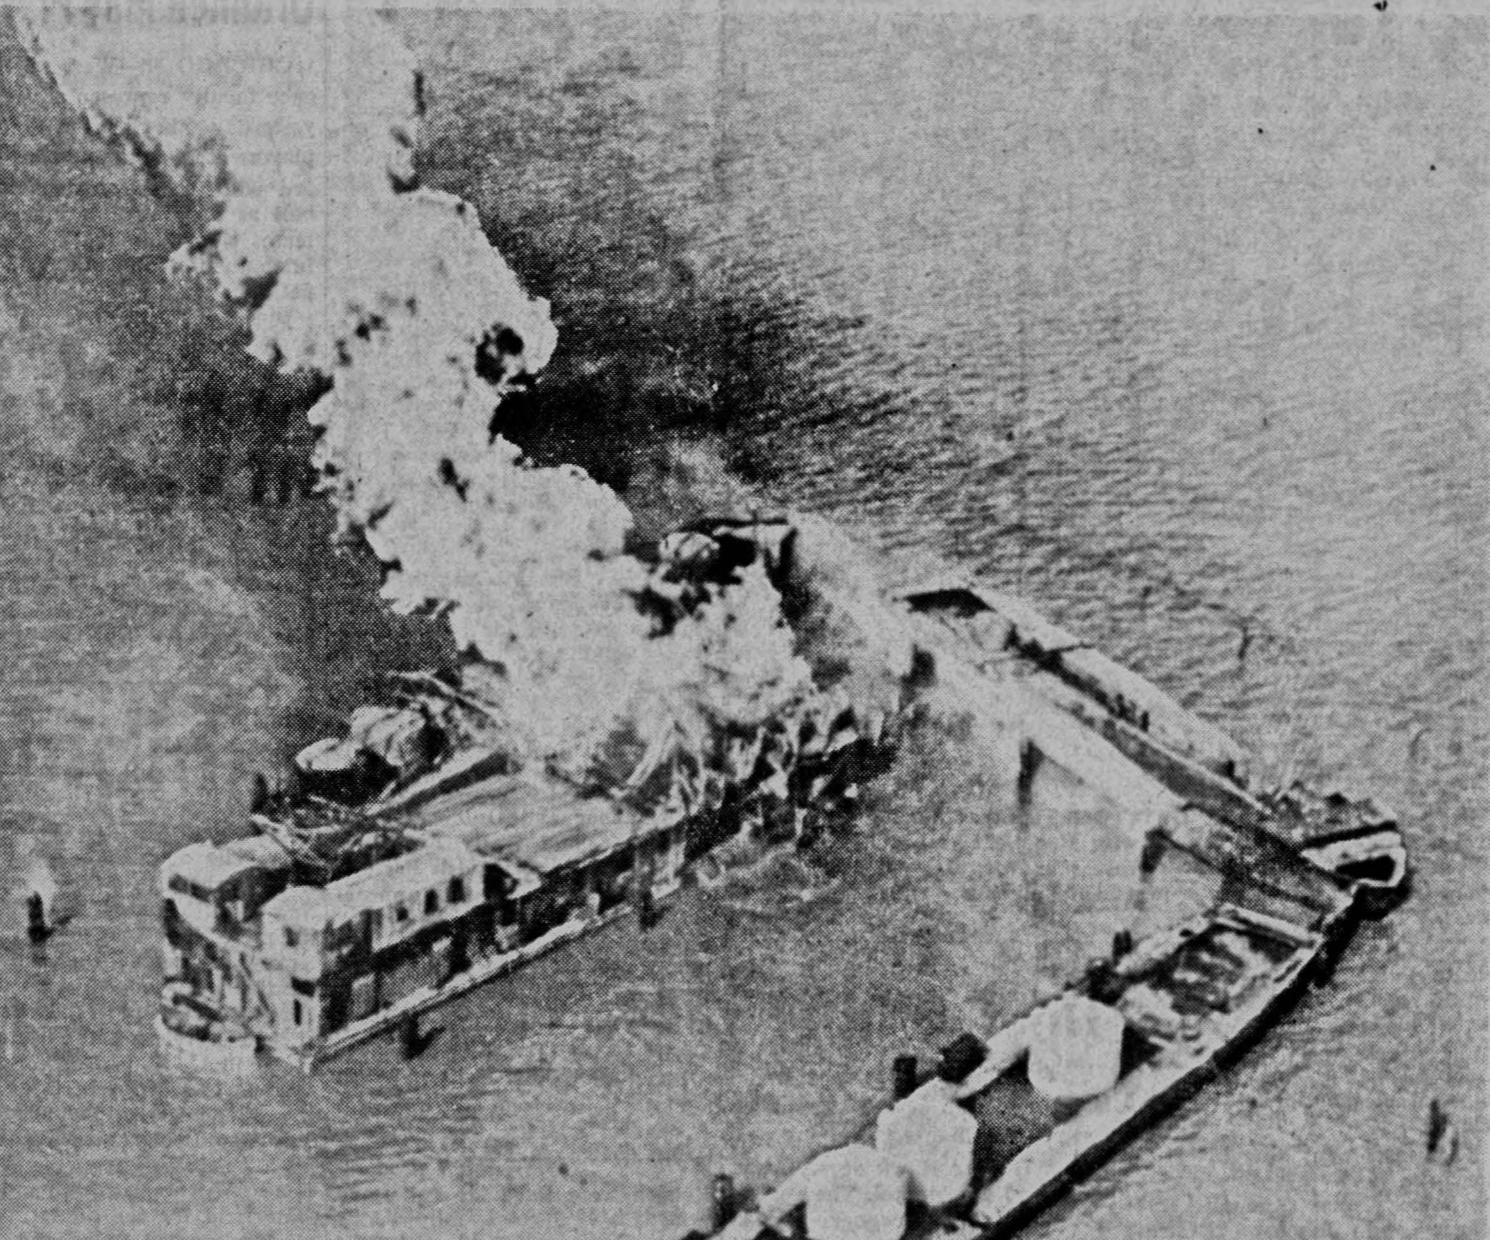

In London, the British war office issued this terse statement: "The war office announces that the British detachment at Aqaba is being reinforced." Britain has a treaty with Trans-Jordan which would require her to go to the aid of King Abdullah's nation if it should be attacked. About 1,000 British troops were sent to Aqaba in January at Abdullah's request.

British informants refused to tell the size of the reinforcements, where they would be sent from or whether Abdullah asked for them.

Distance Mark Set For B-36 Bombers

FORT WORTH, TEX. (AP) — A crippled B-36 Superbomber landed at Carswell airbase yesterday with a new distance record for these giant planes.

The great silver ship, with two of its six pusher-type engines dead, touched earth after a 9,600-mile non-stop, non-refueling flight over the nation. For 5,000 miles, the B-36 had carried 10,000 pounds of bombs.

Germ Warfare Called Practical, Overrated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Germ warfare is practical but it simply hasn't got a superweapon that can wipe out multitudes of people, the defense department said last night.

Biological warfare was called a thing of the future. Nevertheless Americans were warned of the possibility that saboteurs might try a "Pearl Harbor" attack on food sources with disease even before a war breaks out.

The department sought to "straighten out the public's exaggerated impression" about the potency and development of biological combat.

But, said Defense Secretary Forrestal in the first official statement on the subject in three years, "it would be folly to underestimate the potentialities of biological warfare."

General Agrees

He was backed up in that statement by one of the foremost authorities on bacteriological war, Maj. Gen. Alden H. Waitt, chief of the army's chemical corps.

Waitt, in a news conference based on Forrestal's formal statement, said:

"This method of warfare has great potentialities — but it is a weapon of the future. . . . I am satisfied that this is a most potentially important weapon. I have no doubt as to its practicability."

Forrestal warned we must guard against saboteurs striking with disease weapons before a declaration of war. He said our food supplies would be especially vulnerable to such a biological resistance movement.

(Rev. Muste appeared on the SUI campus earlier this month as a speaker during Religion-In-Life week.)

Muste described the Peacemakers as a "non-violent revolutionary pacifist group engaged in a campaign similar to that of the late Mahatma Gandhi in India." The organization has about 2,000 members, he said.

The 150 persons throughout the country who have joined in the tax resistance movement, Muste said, have either decided "to withhold all their taxes or just that part of them which proportionately would go to war preparations."

Muste predicted general resistance to war preparedness in the form of refusals to register for draft and the tax resistance movement would increase.

He said the Peacemakers organization is "completely non-political, opposed to totalitarianism in any form, including communism."

In Washington, a treasury spokesman declined comment concerning the Peacemakers organization's tax resistance move.

Cardinals, prelates, priests and diplomats assigned to the Holy See gathered in the great sistine chapel of St. Peter's for solemn pontifical mass marking the tenth anniversary of the coronation.

The mass was celebrated by Benedetto Cardinal Aloisio Maserla, the first of the cardinals now present in Rome to have been elevated by this Pontiff to the sacred college. At the end of the mass the Pope imparted his apostolic benediction to all present.

Miners' Strike Hits 50,000 Railroad Workers

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More than 50,000 railroad workers felt the impact yesterday of John L. Lewis' order directing his United Mine Workers to stay out of the nation's coal pits for the next two weeks.

Lewis has told his 400,000 miners to stay away from the mines starting tomorrow as a protest against President Truman's appointment of James Boyd as bureau of mines director.

Call Conference On Settlement of Filibuster Battle

President Gives His Approval to 'Secret' Compromise Attempt

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman last night signalled for a settlement of the senate filibuster.

The 12-day talkathon may be at an end. With his legislative program at an absolute standstill in the senate, Mr. Truman gave his blessing to a conference called for today to work out a compromise.

Any agreement would mean an end to his fight to smash the filibuster. The administration had won in a test vote. Its only weapon left is to try to wear out the southerners while vital bills gather dust.

Truman "Agreeable"

Mr. Truman talked to his senate lieutenants from Key West, Fla., where he is vacationing. Senator McGrath (D-R.I.) reported the President is "agreeable" to anything that will work out a solution.

The senate recessed abruptly at 6:51 p.m. (Iowa time) in the midst of a night session when it was announced that a solution was to be attempted. Leaders of administration Democrats, southern Democrats and Republicans will be in on the huddle today.

Majority Leader Lucas (D-Ill.) told the senate that these groups expected to work out a settlement. This would head off round-the-clock sessions which he had threatened to start tomorrow to break the filibuster.

Lucas, with a broad smile, warned that no definite agreement had been reached as yet but quickly added that a compromise is possible.

Southerners Wary

Senator Russell (D-Ga.), Dixie leader, and Republican Leader Wherry of Nebraska agreed cautiously, apparently wary about the bargaining yet to take place. Invited to the "secret session" today are Lucas and Deputy Democratic Leader Myers (Pa.), Republican Leader Wherry (Neb.) and GOP Senators Saltonstall (Mass.) and Knowland (Calif.) and Senators Russell and Byrd (D-Va.) from the Dixie group, as well as Senator Hayden (D-Ariz.), chairman of the senate rules committee.

Senator Byrd (D-Va.), a leader among the filibustering southerners, told a reporter he, too, was "pretty hopeful" of a compromise.

Earlier Lucas had threatened round-the-clock sessions beginning tomorrow in an effort to break the two weeks talkathon.

Cuba Given Apology For Insult to Statue

HAVANA, CUBA (AP) — An enraged Cuban crowd threatened to lynch three drunken U.S. sailors Friday night after watching them desecrate the statue of the Cuban national hero by indecent acts.

U.S. Ambassador Robert Butler apologized yesterday, ending a threatened international incident, and Cuban students called off plans for a "national day of mourning" at the affront to the statue.

All Havana was aroused. The newspaper Alerta, saying the nation's feelings were "deeply wounded," published huge pictures on its front page showing an American sailor perched on the head of the statue of Jose Marti, Cuba's apostle of liberty.

The stand came in a resolution adopted unanimously by the group's national executive committee.

The American Legion was criticized in the discussion preceding adoption.

The bill was termed the "cheapest form of political demagogery" and a "raid on the American treasury."

The controversial pension bill was introduced in congress by Rep. Rankin (D-Miss.).

Hawkeye Swimmers Defeat Michigan, 46-34

Disqualification in Relay Ruins Wolves' Chance to Tie Meet

By JOHN HOLWAY

Michigan stumbled over number thirteen last night and lost its first dual swimming meet to Iowa after twelve victories. A technicality in the final race knocked the Wolves out of a certain tie, and gave Iowa a 46-34 triumph.

Matty Mann III jumped too soon as third man on the four-man relay team and as a result his team was denied the virtually certain victory that would have tied the meet.

Mann, one of the top distance swimmers in the country, had beaten Iowa's Wally Ris in the 220 race earlier in the evening, but the unfamiliar relay take-off tripped him up.

But even though fate snatched a hard-fought tie away from Michigan, the Iowa swimmers had already seen to it that last year's intercollegiate champs would not chalk up their seventeenth straight dual meet win in three years.

Bowen Stassforth assured the tie, by duplicating his breaststroke victory over Bobby Sohl in the Big Nine meet. Just as he had at the conference races last week, Stassforth hung behind the Olympian until the last 50 yards.

Stassforth Powers into Lead

Sohl at one time had a lead of one and a half body lengths over the Iowa sophomore, but Stassforth powered even with him at the 150-yard mark and raced away in the final 50 yards to win by two lengths and establish a new pool and school record of 2:20.2.

Ris came up against his customary misfortune at the 220. Once again he turned in the best effort of his life, 2:09.7, only to lose to Mann in 2:09.4.

After that exertion he was broken for the 100 when Weinberg topped him in the relatively slow time of :52.1.

Mann took his lead at the 175-yard turn after pulling up with the Hawkeye captain on underwater turns. It was the first race Ris ever lost in his home pool, and came in his farewell appearance in the fieldhouse tank.

conference meet last week, by Hawkeye Sophomore Ed "Rusty" Garst in a very close finish.

Garst won the nod over Weinberg with Charlie Moss of Michigan a toss-up third and Iowa's Kenny Mark a wink behind in fourth.

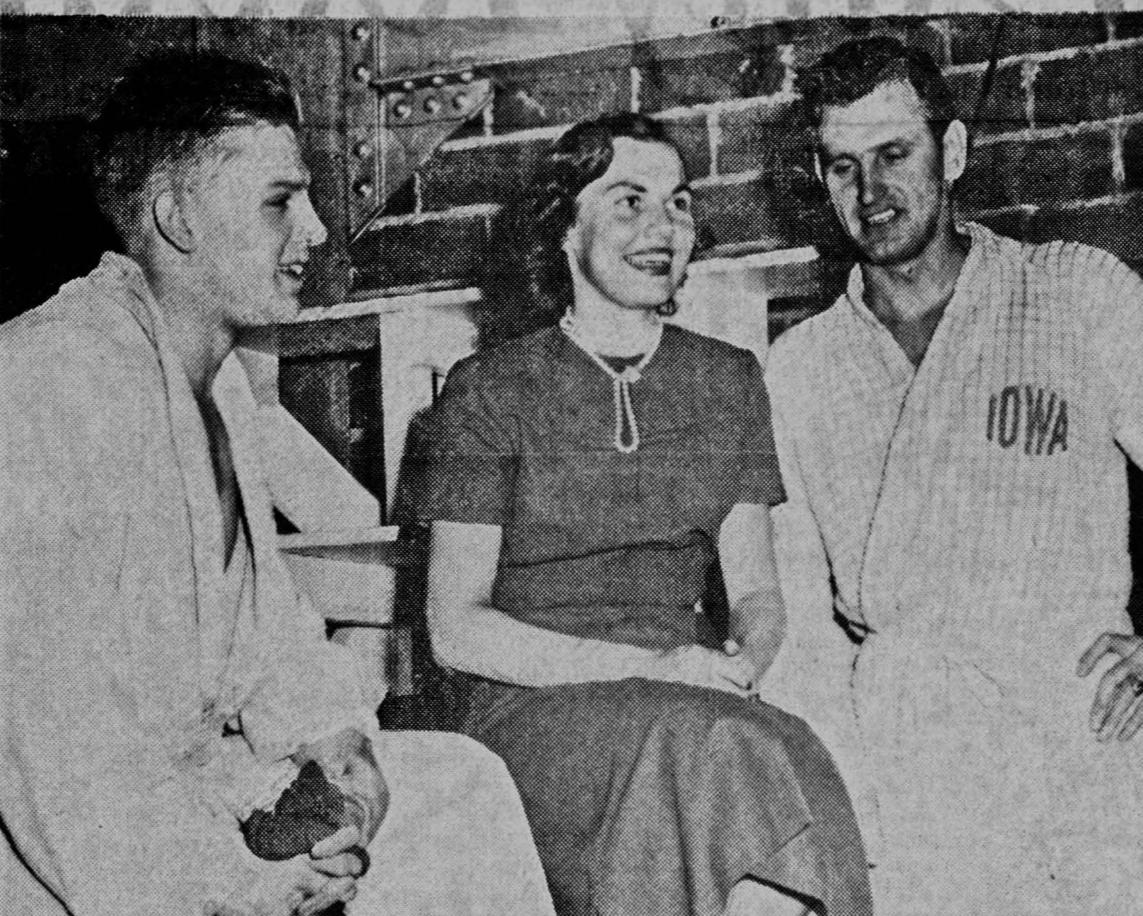

Dave Brockway closed out before the home fans with an uphill victory over Wolverine George Eyster on the high board. "Brock" lost the lead on the first few flights but came back to overtake Eyster at a time when Iowa held a fluttery one-point lead in the meet.

events to go.

Matt Mann II, Wolverine coach, played strategy by holding Charlie Moss out of the breaststroke and keeping son Matty out of the 400 to swim in the final 400-yard relay.

This master-minding let Larry Larimore take third for Iowa in the breaststroke, although Gus Stager and Johnny McCarthy breezed in first and second in the 440.

Mann's plan paid off as expected as the relay team of Moss, Kogen, Mann and Weinberg out-sped Iowa's Big Nine record-holding team until Mann got carried away with the heat of the race and jumped too quickly.

CHICAGO—Iowa athletes captured three places in the university section of the Illinois Tech relays held in the Chicago university fieldhouse yesterday.

The leading Hawk scorer was Hurdler Russ Merkel. The speedy obstacle course runner placed third in the 70-yard highs and fifth in the 70-yard lows.

Jack Simpson, star Hawkeye dash man, was the other Iowa entrant to gain a place in the meet. Simpson took fourth in the 70-yard dash.

Iowa's only other individual contest, High Jumper Dick Ederenberger, failed to place in the event. The Hawkeyes could not gain a place in either of the two relays entered.

The Fighting Illini gained first in both the distance medley and two-mile relay events plus first and third in the shot put.

Big Nine Declares Gridmen May Play

CHICAGO (AP)—Western conference faculty representatives ruled yesterday that seven football players at Indiana and Northwestern who played amateur basketball as members of independent teams should not be barred from further intercollegiate grid competition.

Players involved were Nick Sebek, Lou Kasonovich and Milan Sellers of Indiana, and Joe Zuravleff, Chuck Hagnan, Don Burns and Dick Price of Northwestern.

The Northwestern players participated in a local AAU cage tournament as members of an independent team and did not know they were violating a conference rule. The three Indiana players played in one independent game at Indianapolis.

Chandler Scolds Robinson

Call Dodger Second Baseman on Carpet After 'Rough' Talk, Flare-up with Teammate

MIAMI (AP)—Jackie Robinson, second baseman of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was called on the carpet yesterday by Baseball Commissioner A.B. Chandler about his recent flare-up against a teammate at the Dodger's spring training camp at Vero Beach.

Chandler expressed annoyance over a statement attributed to Robinson quoting him as saying: "They (rival players) better be prepared to be rough this year, because I'm going to be ready on them."

Robinson denied making such a statement and minimized the talk with his teammate.

"It wasn't anywhere as serious as the newspapers made it appear," he said. "We just jockeyed each other as players do once in a while, and I lost myself in the heat of the moment and said something I shouldn't have. I was sorry a minute after I said it."

Chandler accepted Robinson's word for it, but warned him to avoid any unpleasantness hereafter.

The altercation was between Robinson and Chris Van Cuyk, a rookie Brooklyn pitcher, in last Thursday's intra-squad game.

What started out as a good-natured jockeying between them turned into some harsh words before they were through.

Incensed over some of the pointed remarks made by Robinson, Van Cuyk threw a couple of close pitches at Robinson's legs.

St. PETERSBURG, (AP)—George Stirnweiss doubled to break a tie in the eighth inning and the New York Yankees shoved across six more runs in the ninth yesterday to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals, 10-3.

Ed Lopat and Fred Sanford pitched scoreless ball for the last six innings.

Stirnweiss drove in three runs, and Catcher Ralph Houk and Shortstop Bobby Brown got four singles apiece for the Yanks. Gene Woodling, filling in at centerfield for the ailing Joe DiMaggio, singled twice and drove in two runs.

A'S WALLOP SENATORS, 7-1

WEST PALM BEACH (AP)—Extra base hits by Elmer Valo, Hank Majewski and Taft Wright helped the Philadelphia Athletics defeat before 2,511 fans.

Joe Coleman, Lew Brissie and Charlie Harris limited the losers to four hits, all singles. Valo chipped in with a triple while Majewski and Wright each banged doubles. Ferrel Fain of the A's drove in three runs.

REDS WIN IN TENTH

SARASOTA, (AP)—Hank Sauer's single with the bases loaded in the 10th inning gave Cincinnati's Reds a 5-3 victory over the Boston Red Sox in the opening Grapefruit league game for both teams yesterday.

Young Maurice McDermott was the Red Sox pitcher. After getting the first two men down in the 10th, singles by John Lane and Bobby Adams plus a walk to Lloyd Merriman filled the bases. Sauer's single scored Lane and Adams.

PHILLIES TOP DETROIT

CLEARWATER, (AP)—Helped by a pair of errors by Dick Wakefield, the Philadelphia Phillies handed the Detroit Tigers a 5-3 licking yesterday in their opening Grapefruit circuit clash.

The phils won the game in the fifth, scoring three times. With two out and two on, Eddie Miller hoisted a foul fly to Wakefield. The Detroit outfielder dropped the ball.

Miller then rapped a single to left and the final run scored as Wakefield tossed wildly to the in field.

'Spring Serenade' Rules Announced

"Spring Serenade" will be the name of the annual University Sing program which will be held Mother's Day, it was announced yesterday.

The program, made up of musical selections by the various housing units on campus, will include a water pageant.

Time limits for each election are seven minutes minimum, 10 minutes maximum.

Contestants must obtain accompanists and directors from within their own group. The only accompaniment allowed is a piano. All rehearsals must be conducted by a member of the group. Use of accompaniment is optional.

Judges will base their decisions on intonation, tone quality, blend of voices, diction, interpretation, stage presence, and deportment, and variety and arrangement of songs. Any variance from stated rules will disqualify the group.

If a solo or a small vocal group within the group is used, a vocal accompaniment by the rest of the group will be required.

Old Wax Turns to Wild Roses

Woman Expresses Art with Candles

By ELAINE LAMPROS

Softly tinted wild roses made from old-wax candles are an expression of artistry from the hands of Mrs. Fred L. Clark, 108 S. Linn street.

Mrs. Clark has fashioned delicate wax blossoms into both centerpieces and candle sticks. The process of making wax duplicates is Mrs. Clark's own, although they are patterned after ceramic flowers.

Only a few hours are required from Mrs. Clark to make the flowers. Outside coloring is removed from the candles before melting because inside wax is usually white. Beeswax candles aren't used because Mrs. Clark has discovered that they harden too soon.

Candles are melted in tin cans set in a pan of water. Wax often will be discolored if it's melted directly over the flame. To give the wax the tint she desires, Mrs. Clark adds outside coloring previously cut from the candles or the color from wax crayons.

Small quantities of the wax should be poured out to test for the right color because it appears to be a different shade in the can, Mrs. Clark said.

As soon as the right color is obtained, Mrs. Clark pours the wax into a dish with a flat bottom until it is about 1-8 inch deep. If the dish and the surface it is set on are not flat, the wax will have uneven thickness.

After the wax is cool but not hard, Mrs. Clark cuts out a petal with a paring knife. She then molds the wax until it has the shape and appearance of a stouter petal.

A toothpick is Mrs. Clark's tool to draw veins in the leaves and lines in the flowers.

Petals are joined to each other by dipping the end of each in hot wax and allowing it to cool joined to the other.

For the base of the centerpiece, Mrs. Clark uses a circular cardboard disk which she covers with wax to harmonize with the blossoms and leaves.

Stamens are set in the flowers with a match dipped in hot colored wax. The wax is placed in the center of the petals and allowed to harden there.

After the wax hardens, the flowers are quite fragile and must be handled carefully. The centerpiece of wax is one that will remain lovely for a long time, Mrs. Clark has found.

Just like their real counterparts, some of these wax flowers will float. Placed in a low bowl they have a more realistic appearance.

Mrs. Clark finds fall or winter is the best time to make the blossoms for in summer the wax has a tendency to soften. At this time she gratefully accepts the beauty of garden flowers for her centerpiece.

Delta Chi, social fraternity, announces the pledging of three University of Iowa students.

New pledges are Robert Dietmeyer, C3, Waukegan, Ill.; Robert Cooper, A1, Grinnell, and Noel Kelly, A2, Cedar Rapids.

One of the new pledges, Dietmeyer, has been elected to serve on the rushing board.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fiala, 305 1-2 S. Dodge street, are the parents of a daughter, Dayle Jean, born March 7. The baby weighed 7 1-2 pounds at birth in the University hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Rouse, 601 Finkbine park, spent yesterday with Mr. and Mrs. George Harris, West Branch.

FLOWERS WHICH RIVAL THE ORIGINALS FOR BEAUTY are these of wax created by Mrs. Fred L. Clark, 108 S. Linn street. Ceramic flowers provided the model and old wax candles the material for these delicate artificial roses. For an unusual centerpiece Mrs. Clark sets more buoyant wax blossoms afloat in a low bowl of water.

BEAUTY MUST BE MOLDED into wax leaf, Mrs. Fred Clark explained. Petals and leaves are cut separately from molten wax and shaped to resemble real flowers. Mrs. Clark uses a cardboard disk as a base for the candlesticks. The base is covered with wax to harmonize with the leaves and blossoms.

Personal Notes

A 5 pound, 10 ounce girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Warren Carpenter, route 6, in Mercy hospital Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kyle, 1032 Finkbine park, are the parents of an 8 pound, 15 ounce girl born in Mercy hospital Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. N.F. Schramm and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hagerly, Burlington, will spend today with Mr. and Mrs. E.M. Rodin, 1018 Finkbine park.

Nurses to Open Recruiting Drive

Recruitment Team To Visit Schools

A nurse recruitment team from SUI will present first hand information on careers in nursing to junior and senior girls at Wapello high school tomorrow.

Recruiting teams from University hospitals will visit 75 Iowa communities during the next six weeks informing junior and senior high school women of the requirements for entering nurses training and the program of study offered at SUI.

Frances Falk, R.N., the graduate nurse on the team visiting Wapello, will outline the requirements of SUI's school of nursing and explain job opportunities in the nursing field.

Accompanying her will be Ruth Tennerman, a senior in the school of nursing. She will discuss the life of a student nurse on-duty and off-duty including highlights of campus activities.

Two movies, prepared for the recruitment program, will be shown by the team. One depicts the academic and clinical training of a student nurse and the other shows athletic and campus activities at SUI.

In addition, an exhibit of approximately 50 photographs taken at University hospitals will be on display. The photographic panels show episodes encountered by student nurses in their training.

A similar recruitment program was conducted by University hospitals last year with excellent results. Gerhard Hartman, superintendent of University hospitals, said in announcing the recruitment program.

Two Students Fined On Conduct Charges

Two SUI students were fined on the charge of disorderly conduct yesterday, police reported.

Charles E. Vidas, C3, Centerville, and Mark E. Sloan, A2, Waterloo, were fined $17.50 each on the charges in police court.

RECRUITERS FOR SUI'S SCHOOL OF NURSING are Ruth Tennerman (left), N4, and Francis Falk, R.N., who will talk tomorrow with junior and senior high school girls in Wapello about entrance requirements for the school of nursing. Approximately 75 Iowa towns will be visited by recruiting teams from University hospitals during the next six weeks.

Red Cross Drive To End March 31

The 1949 Johnson County Red Cross fund drive which was scheduled to close yesterday will be extended through March 31, General Chairman Dorr H. Hudson said yesterday.

Only $8,817.94 had been collected in the drive since it opened Feb. 28. It was $5,732.06 short of the $14,550 goal, Hudson added.

The division totals yesterday were: business, $2,632; residence, $3,861; university, $1,422; hospitals, $551; mens organizations, $80; women's organizations, $156; and rural and small towns, $113.

Aydelotte Praises Success of History Teachers Meeting

SU's 27th annual conference for Teachers of History and the Social studies which closed yesterday was called the most successful in many years by Prof. W.O. Aydelotte, history department chairman.

"This is unquestionably the most successful conference we have had in many years, both in respect to the number of persons attending and in the quality of papers delivered," Aydelotte said.

"The conference revealed the vital current interest in the role of history in liberal education. It also shows the strong sense of solidarity among the schools and colleges of Iowa and neighboring states," he said.

In the final session yesterday morning, attended by about 250 persons, "Offerings and Enrollments in the Social Studies" was discussed by Howard R. Anderson of the U.S. office of education.

A discussion of "The Study of History in High School and College" by SUI history Prof. Robert S. Hoyt closed the two day conference.

190 Women Attend Smarty Derby Luncheon

About 190 women attended the Mortar Board Smarty Derby luncheon yesterday honoring women students with 3.0 grade averages or above.

'Queen' Margie Felter chooses her new spring coat at WILLARDS

All ready for spring, Margie picks out a brown python purse to go with her new coat from WILLARDS. Lilli Ann styled the beautiful all wool sheen gabardine coat with a yoke back and a single full length unpressed pleat. A "three-way" stiffened Empire belt makes this coat a versatile and practical one — a coat you'll want to wear every day.

FASHION TIP . . . THIS WEEK

Memo to Men!

PASTEL COLORS IN BOLD LOOK SHIRTS

"Something bigger than both of us" has taken hold in men's shirt fashions this spring . . . and there's nothing you can do about it. Men's stores and clothing departments have already started featuring "Bold Look" shirts with French cuffs, and regular cuffs, in pinks, light greens, canary yellows, and all colors of the rainbow.

Fashion experts claim that these new shades for men will free the poor male from his rather limited choice of colors.

Some fellows who have already blossomed out in pastel creations claim that they will never again go back to their previous drab existence. They say that there is a wide enough choice of colors now available to give you a perfect match for any suit . . . We'll see you in pastels, fellows. P.S. Pastel ties are on their way too!

SPRING . . . AS YOU LIKE IT

This spring fashion is the way you want it. Your greatcoat can be worn loose, or belted with a dog-leash, as you please. Neck lines are either high, framing your face, or they plunge to a deep V.

Skirt fashion is left completely up to you . . . wear them pleated, gathered, or straight. Dresses will look newer if you add to them some polka dots . . . a beret, or shoes. Speaking of shoes, special pairs for certain costumes are almost a must this spring . . . it's the details that count . . . watch for them!

In 1630 men started wearing watches in their pockets. Before that date they were worn around their necks on chains. Nowadays, smart men and women too, wear watches that weigh no more than the rings on their fingers. See the large display now at Herten and Stocker. Speaking of rings . . . we have just the ring for your baby, whether she is two or twenty at Herten and Stocker in the Hotel Jefferson.

At least half the heredity-environment issue has been settled by an L.S.U. professor who says, "The chances are that if your father and mother didn't have any children, you won't either."

Then there's the Currier gal who was so naive she thought a neckerchief was the head of a sorority house.

Strub's Aldens

THE OTHER morning I stopped into an Iowa City cafe for a cup of coffee and a roll. As I entered the establishment I noticed two friends seated at the counter.

Although there were no stools empty near these two friends, it seemed only right to stop and exchange a few good morning pleasantries with them. Morning is such a dull part of the day, and conversation makes it seem a trifle less drab.

AS WE GOT into our third sentence a pert little waitress bustled up behind me, threw a rather amateurish shoulder block, which nearly banked me into a plate of scrambled eggs, and growled, "Why doncha find a seat?"

I did . . . in another establishment with male waiters. You see, what that waitress didn't know was that, although I don't figure waitresses should curtsy and bow their heads when I enter a cafe, I do hold a few old fashioned beliefs about ordinary courtesy.

B&O Robbers Captured; Odom Sets Flight Mark

While the big news events loll'd last week, the bizarre and the sordid came forward to claim the front page headlines.

Train Robbery — Two gun-wielding bandits halted the crack Baltimore & Ohio Detroit-bound "Ambassador" west of Martinsburg, W.Va. For 45 minutes, the pair slugged and robbed passengers, shot — but not seriously — two dining car employed and made off with $1,500.

The pair eluded police and made their way to Washington, D.C. They were cornered in a pawn shop five blocks from the White House. One of them, Lumas Ramsdell, was shot when he tried to beat a policeman to the draw. The other, George Llewellyn Ashton, surrendered meekly.

Less than 12 hours after the robbery, the pair had confessed to the crime, surrendered $562 in loot and were charged by the FBI with "theft of interstate commerce".

Odom Flight — World-flier Bill Odom broke the world's non-stop distance record for light planes when he flew his single-engined Beechcraft 5,000 miles from Hickam field, Hawaii, to Teterboro, N.J. Odom used $75 worth of gasoline and had enough left to fly about 300 miles farther.

Earthquake — A quake apparently stemming from the same source that caused the disastrous 1906 earthquake shook a 200-mile stretch of California, rocking buildings in downtown San Francisco and claiming one fatality — a middle-aged woman who died of a heart attack brought on by fright over the quake.

Cleaned-Up Gary — Aroused by the murder of a high school teacher who tried to resist a bandit, 2,000 women stormed the Gary, Ind., city council chambers and "imprisoned" the mayor and city council, pumping the officials with hours-long demands for a cleanup of gambling and vice.

The next day, Gary police threw axes on gambling equipment and arrested a few small-time gamblers and prostitutes. The high-powered operators closed down before police got to them.

Wet Kansas — When its governor signed the bill making Kansas a wet state for the first time in 69 years, there was general — but sober rejoicing. A Wichita man marched into a police station with bottles of champagne and rye building from his pockets and a case of scotch in his arms. He happily explained, "I got a big kick out of walking in, carrying stuff we used to have to carry so carefully down back alleys."

LAST WEEK I drove into a filling station and ordered the usual one dollar's worth of Ethyl. While the attendant pumped gasoline into the tank I decided to splurge and buy two dollar's worth of fuel.

By this time, however, the attendant had taken the nozzle out of the tank, and when I told him of my decision he mattered, "Make up your mind, buddy."

I did . . . one dollar's worth of gasoline was enough. As a matter of fact, one dollar's worth of gasoline from that fellow is enough for all eternity as far as I'm concerned.

If his children got Bright's disease, and the roof of his house caved in, and his mother's nose fell off, I still wouldn't stop there again to fill up my tank free of charge.

WHEN YOU look at the situation from a neutral corner you can see that the fault doesn't lie with the waitress, clerk or filling station attendant.

They still labor under the warped delusion of "take it or leave it; there's a long line behind you."

The answer is couched back in the little office where the boss sits on his big, fat swivel chair, trying to figure how to advertise his way out of a 15 percent retail sales slump.

The boss is going to have to get out of his swivel chair and educate or fire his employees back to civility again before he can call on me to help relieve that slump.

Fire at Kelly Residence Causes Minor Damage

A short in ceiling light fixture caused firemen to be called to the Kelly residence, 730 S. Dubuque street, at 11:30 a.m. yesterday.

The fire burned the insulation from the wiring in the light fixture but caused no further damage. Assistant Fire Chief Ray Morgan said, JUDITH COPLEN (above) was formally indicted on charges of espionage after she was arrested in New York City with "planted" Justice department papers she allegedly intended to pass on to a Russian UN employee. The Russian, Valentine A. Gubitchev, was indicted also.

POLICE remove on an ambulance Luman Ramsdell, one of the confessed B&O train robbers, after he was shot in an afternoon gun duel with police in a Washington, D.C., pawnshop.

WITH KANSAS officially ending its 69 years of liquor prohibition, a Kansas citizen changes his license plates to read "Wet" state instead of "Wheat State." Snow plastering the plate makes the change easy as he rubs away, leaving the proper letters.

Congress

South Scores Triumph In Filibuster Showdown

Administration forces in the senate tried — and failed — to revise congressional working rules to push through a filibuster curb — and civil rights legislation later on.

Thursday, Vice President Barkley ruled that two-thirds of the senate could break the southern talkathon which was preventing consideration of a filibuster-curbing resolution.

Friday night, Sen. Russell (D-Ga) challenged the Barkley interpretation. In a historic vote, the senate backed up the challenge 46 to 41. This apparently doomed administration plans to have Barkley's ruling accepted by majority vote. Had these steps been successful, the senate would still have to vote for the original bi-partisan rules resolution curbing the filibuster.

Cold War — If the sequence of events was a parliamentary nightmare, its implications weren't. Administration officials decided to try to fight on, but their chances of overcoming the two-week-old southern talkathon seem futile. Jubilant southern forces are claiming that the Truman civil rights program is as good as dead.

At the moment, the fate of rent controls is uncertain; the filibuster fight is confused, future Democratic voting solidarity is a question mark — but the south is on top.

Soviet Bloom — The veteran representative from New York who was chairman of the foreign affairs committee and a Democratic wheeler, died suddenly in a Washington naval hospital just two days before his 79th birthday.

Cold War — The senate foreign relations committee unanimously approved 15-month extension of ER-1 at an authorized cost of $5,580,000,000. The committee also informally approved the provisions of the highly-secret North Atlantic defense pact. Rep. Francis Walter (D-Pa) introduced a subversive-control bill which would deprive native-born Communists of their citizenship and make them liable to deportation.

The house shouted its approval of two bills to start work immediately on a vast radar warning screen and a 3,000-mile-long test range for guided missiles.

Rent Control — Administration forces narrowly beat down a GOP proposal to extend rent controls only 90 days. A vote on the bill to extend controls another 15 months beyond March 31 was postponed.

Two directors of nuclear research at SUI, Prof. James A. Jacobs and Arthur Roberts, charged that atomic research is being hindered by the wall of secrecy dividing U.S. scientists. Rising River Closes Road, Chases Families

The Iowa river fell short of an expected 14 foot crest by a foot last week. But it rose enough to close highway 218 north of Iowa City and to drive two Johnson county families from their Picnic Point cabins.

The Iowa board of education approved for SUI a $20,000 navy research contract for work in the field of micro-wave spectroscopy.

Two directors of nuclear research at SUI, Prof. James A. Jacobs and Arthur Roberts, charged that atomic research is being hindered by the wall of secrecy dividing U.S. scientists. "We might be hard at work for sometime on something which has already been achieved at Los Alamos or Chicago," they complained.

The railway express agency "abolished" the jobs of its 9,000 New York workers and placed an air and rail embargo on all its shipments to, from and through New York City. The action followed a "slowdown" by AFL workers who are demanding a pay increase and a 40-hour instead of 44-hour week.

Swisher Girl Wins Contest

Frances Lewis, eighth grade pupil from the Swisher school, spelled down Mary Edwards, eighth grader from Oxford, to win the Johnson county rural school spelling contest yesterday afternoon at the courthouse.

Carolyn Michel, 1220 E. Burlington street, an eighth grade pupil from St. Mary's school, was the only Iowa City entry in the contest, and therefore, the city winner.

The rural and city winners will represent Johnson county in the state contest to be held in Des Moines April 8-9, County Superintendent Frank J. Snider said yesterday. The state contest is sponsored by the Des Moines Register and Tribune company.

Mary Edwards, the winner of the written spelling examination, slipped an extra "I" in the word "personal" to lose the final oral spelldown to Frances Lewis, the oral examination winner.

All of the 35 contestants received spelling certificates, Snider said. The winners received special championship certificates.

THIS WEEK'S music

By DONALD KEY

This week will be Erica Morini week. Her recital in Iowa City will follow her performance as guest soloist with the New York Philharmonic orchestra this afternoon.

Her Iowa City recital will be this Wednesday evening at eight o'clock in the Iowa Union. It is a presentation of the University concert course.

Miss Morini is a violinist known to audiences all over the world. Her career began at the age of eight in Europe, and she was in her early teens when she was summoned to the United States to make a debut in Carnegie hall.

Since then she has had many years of triumphs, both in Europe and America.

Some strange things have happened to this great feminine artist. Once, after a concert in Palestine, she received seven proposals of marriage. During a snow storm in 1947, she rode to Carnegie hall in a meat-truck, and gave a concert despite the bogged-down transportation.

Highlighting her program here will be the "Concerto in G minor" by Max Bruch, one of the better known and best liked of violin concertos. It is short, but filled with melody and delightful innuendos.

Bruch is known mostly for this work. He also wrote another violin concerto, "Concerto No. 2 in D Minor," which is played often.

The New York Philharmonic concert, broadcast over CBS at 2 p.m. today, is featuring Morini in the Beethoven "Violin Concerto." The other half of the program, conducted by Bruno Walter, will consist of the "Symphony No. 8" of Beethoven.

Two recitals are scheduled this week at the SUI music department.

The first will be at 7:30 tonight in the north music hall. It is a joint recital presenting Charlotte Wolford, soprano, and Warren Shelton, piano.

A second recital is listed for 7:30 Friday evening, also in the north music hall, and will be played by Blandina Steinbrink, piano.

This Friday the University orchestra will travel to Davenport to present a program for the conference of the north central division of music educators. The concert will take place in the hall at the Masonic temple.

Next Saturday afternoon the Metropolitan Opera will broadcast Verdi's "Rigoletto" at one o'clock over NBC stations.

Iowa Play Production Festival To Include 63 Dramatic Groups

Fifty-one high schools and 12 community groups have enrolled in the Iowa play production festival scheduled here March 28 through April 5. Festival Secretary Paul W. Davee announced yesterday.

The 21st annual festival, to be held in the dramatic arts building, is sponsored by the SUI extension division, department of speech and dramatic art, and the Iowa federation of women's clubs.

It will include demonstrations and round table discussions of staging, playwriting and the educational aspects of dramatic art, as well as actual play productions.

Group rating plan of judging will be used, in which the achievement of each group of players is described as either superior, excellent, good, average or below average.

At the conclusion of each series of performances, judges will critically evaluate each production.

The high school division groups will present plays March 28 to April 2. They are classified according to enrollment size of each high school.

Plays in class A include "Angel's Surprise," Franklin of Cedar Rapids; "Balcony Scene," McKinley of Cedar Rapids; "Brilliant Performance," Davenport; "The Wonder Hat," Marshalltown; "Finders — Keepers," Muscatine; "Grenachka," Newton.

"Londonderry Air" and "Dust of the Road," West Waterloo; "Enter the Hero," Amex; "The Flatting Word" and "If Men Played Cards as Women Do," Ottumwa; cutting from "Jane Eyre," Cedar Falls; "Senor Freedom," East Sioux City; "The Marriage Proposal," Dubuque, and "A Sunny Morning," Abraham Lincoln of Council Bluffs.

In class B are "I'll Eat My Belmond;" "Sparkin' Grunby Center; "The Red Velvet Coat," Mareno; "Indian Summer," Missouri Valley; "Happy Journey," Pella, and "Dark Wind," Sacred Heart of Waterloo.

"Antic Spring," Tama; "The Man in the Bowler Hat," Tipton; "The Pipes of Dunbar" and "Privately Printed," Emmetsburg; "The Rising of the Moon," Lyons of Clinton; "Grenachka," Le Porte; cutting from "The Doctor in Spite of Himself," Clear Lake.

"Special Guest," Oelwein; "The Farc of the Worthy Master," Waverly; "Resurrection Ezra," and "To Kill a Man," University, Iowa City; "Which is the Way to Boston," Spencer; "Minor Miracle" and "The Gypsy," Estherville.

"Enter the Hero," Maquoketa; "I'm a Fool," Nevada; "The Murders of Miriam," Cresco, and "The Trysting Place," Sac City. Knoxville has not yet registered its play.

Class C includes:

TYNDALL TO SPEAK

Prof. E.P.T. Tyndall of the physics department will speak on "The Measurement of Color" at a physics colloquium Monday. The meeting will be at 4:30 p.m. in physics building room 301.

Duke Plays in Jam Session Joins Students After Concert

By DICK KRITZER

About 2,800 people saw Duke Ellington play two concerts Friday, but only a select 200 were privileged to witness the third.

After playing two concerts in the Iowa Union, Ellington and his band were entertained by Nat Williams and his band until 3 a.m. yesterday morning at the Amvets club. Special permission was obtained from the city for this purpose.

Nat introduced Duke to the crowd and Duke, in turn, introduced the band. Dancing and refreshments followed.

By 3 a.m. this writer had a jam session going in full swing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allyn Lemme, 603 S. Capitol. The local musicians playing were Gene Hart on drums; Jack Davis, A3, Fort Dodge, on alto sax; Stan Van Osdal, A3, Manilla, on tenor sax; Mitchell Southall, G, Tulsa, Okla., on piano, and Chuck Sloan, A3, Iowa City, on trumpet.

So — just as the Amvets party was breaking up, this writer with the aid of Mrs. Lemme and her husband, persuaded Duke and the boys to go down to Lemme's and "listen" to the music and have some refreshments.

We all arrived there about 3:30 with 150 people or so following. There ensued the finest in jazz music that has ever been heard in Iowa City.

First Ray Nance came in and borrowed Sloan's trumpet and he played few choruses in his usual torrid style — then Johnny Hodges took a chorus or two. It makes no difference what tune was being played, for it was unrecognizable to the layman after one or two choruses. The music was fast, hot and progressive. For the record, I can remember "Perdido" being played at least twice.

Frankie Williams took the trumpet from Nance and he joined in on the next tune. Short pause — refreshments — and we were on our way again.

The next man to come in was Webster, Ben being the first name. This man you have to see to believe. You saw him play tenor sax at the concert. At the session he would play no tenor. He sat down at the piano and gave out with an "advanced Fats Waller" — in this writer's opinion. And this he kept up until about 5:45 when he was the last to leave.

Oh yes, he was relieved for a while by a man they call Duke. Ellington jammed about three numbers or so and Webster played alto sax. Hodges had stopped because he wanted his own instrument which was locked in the Iowa Union.

Sloan and Davis joined in on trumpet and alto sax, respectively, and did extremely well although in awe of the men they were playing with. Sloan played all night long and was very fine. Gene Hunt, on drums, also played all night and was complimented by several Ellington men, notably Ben Webster.

The party thinned out about 5 a.m. Duke, several others and myself were having coffee and listening to Mitch Southall's playing. Definitely one of the finest pianists in Iowa City.

The next thing we heard was

BEN WEBSTER, one of Duke Ellington's top sax men, gave out with some keyboard jazz at a jam session yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Allyn Lemme's, 603 S. Capitol street. Ellington's band played last night at the Panhellenic dance in the Iowa Union. The "Duke" also gave two concerts here Friday night.

Ben Webster back at the piano and so we all walked in to listen. Duke then sat down and ripped off a medley of tunes among which was an especially fine rendition of "Body and Soul." It should be mentioned that Webster and Duke were kidding each other all during the evening about who was the better pianist. Seriously, though, several members of the band remarked that the Duke was "really in there this morning."

His playing was superb and after listening to him solo for 15 or 20 minutes you could have picked us all up with an ink blottedter.

His chord progressions, modulations and ideas were absolutely surrealistic. Duke himself considers Art Tatum the finest pianist he's ever heard.

Duke's cab driver had been back and forth for him twice and decided to wait this time. Duke finally left. Was the party over? No — for the cab left without Webster — the last man to leave and one of the first to sit down to play.

Another cab was called and he waited until it arrived. When that man got finished he was wringing wet. His final words were — "see you tomorrow afternoon."

Those were the final words of the early morning session but the band members were due back yesterday afternoon for another session.

University Vespers To Include Speech By Prof. Trueblood

Prof. D Elton Trueblood, native of Iowa, will speak on "The Reformation of Our Time" at University vespers tonight at 8 o'clock in Macbride auditorium.

An instrumental quartet composed of Joanne Dempsey, A1, Seattle, Wash., Mary Franz, G, Alton, Ill., Ralph Smith, G, Iowa City, and Arthur Meyer, G, Cedar Rapids will present the prelude at the vespers.

Faye von Draska, instructor in the SUI music department, will be vocal soloist and the Rev. John G. Craig of the Congregational church will give the invocation. Prof. M. Willard Lampert of the SUI school of religion said.

University vespers are under the direction of the university committee on religious education and vespers. The service is open to the public and no tickets are required.

While in Iowa City Trueblood will speak at a 12:15 luncheon tomorrow at Iowa Union. The luncheon will be sponsored by the Iowa City Ministers' association.

Ministers, laymen and women from Iowa City and Johnson county will attend.

Trueblood will also conduct a roundtable tomorrow at 4:30 p.m. in the senate chamber of Old Capitol on the theme of his vespers service address. The roundtable is sponsored by the YMCA and is open to the public.

Each housing unit on campus has been asked to nominate one or more candidates for the award which was established last year. Nominations must be presented on or before Wednesday.

In order to be eligible candidates must have an accumulated grade average of 2.35 and have been outstanding in some phase of university service. Members of Mortar Board and Omicron Delta Kappa are not eligible, the groups said.

The names of the finalists will appear on the all-campus election ballot March 30.

Business BRIEFS

A remodeling process, designed to give more display space for major appliances, is now underway at Jackson's electric and gift shop.

A new, slim line lighting system will be installed in the gift and appliance shelves. The store is being painted and repapered in a rose and gray color scheme. The new colors will accent the display items to a better advantage, Owner Floyd E. Jackson said yesterday.

John Wilson's sporting goods store has been enlarged to include the front part of the former Fruit Basket store.

The store's fishing tackle department has been expanded and is now one of the largest departments of its kind in the state, Wilson said.

New book shelves, gun racks and display cases have been added to the store's equipment, he said.

Work is now beginning on the upstairs, Wilson said, which will comprise a new athletic team equipment department and coaches lounge when completed.

A number of local retail stores were busy yesterday readying themselves for this week's expected state tournament rush. Several book and gift store managers reported that the annual tourney rush is second only to the Christmas rush in volume of sales for a short interval.

'My Vocation' Set As Vespers Topic

Elkan V. Kemp, A3, Iowa City, will lead a discussion on "My Vocation" at Westminster vespers at the Presbyterian church this afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The service will include a description of summer service opportunities in work caravans for young people, Mrs. Brainerd N. Covert, student director, said yesterday.

Several Presbyterian students have already applied for summer service at the Labor Temple in New York and a New Jersey mental institute, Mrs. Covert said.

Outstanding Seniors to Receive Awards

An outstanding senior woman in the office of student affairs and senior man will receive special recognition awards of $75 at the All-Campus Carnival April 9, the carnival sponsors, Mortar Board and Omicron Delta Kappa, announced yesterday.

The spectrometer finally arrived during the summer of 1946.

No sooner was it in operation than it was made obsolete by the manufacture of a new model. It was returned to the factory to be converted and was returned here the middle of last year.

Built of delicate optics and electronic circuits, the spectrometer cost about $7,500. Evans explained two different ways that it may be used in research.

It can be used either to determine the chemical composition of an unknown compound, or to study the structure — arrangement of atoms — in a known compound.

Practically all the research we are doing now is with molecular structure," Evans said.

He described the operation of the instrument as "basically simple." The sample to be analyzed is exposed to infrared light (heat) and the amount of infrared light absorbed by the sample is measured.

This information is recorded on a graph, and must be interpreted by a research chemist skilled in infrared interpretation.

H. Tice Hoffman and Wade E. Hall are now doing graduate work for advanced degrees with the spectrophotograph under Evans.
