School Election

Voters yesterday approved the $182,000 school improvement bond issue. School Board election totals at 1:30 this morning may be found on Page 8.

The Weather

Clearing and cold today. Increasing cloudiness and warmer tonight and tomorrow. High today 26; low 15. Yesterday's high 31; low 16.

'Battle Of Baskets' Opens Today

Ellender Sets 'Talk' Record; Senate Compromise Probable

WASHINGTON (Tuesday)—Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La) set a new record for individual senate oratory early today after completing a speech of 12 hours and 21 minutes.

Other senators have talked longer than Ellender but all had breathing spells from quorum calls and lengthy questions carefully phrased by friendly senators.

Ellender had no such advantages. He spoke continuously except for a very few brief questions which he answered quickly.

Ellender stopped talking to let the senate make up its mind whether it wants to adjourn and end the 15-day filibuster against a proposed "gag" on filibusters or recess while leaders make another try at a compromise.

Shortly after Ellender ended his speech, Democratic Leader Scott W. Lucas (D-Ill) announced he was willing to seek a recess to permit further efforts to reach a compromise. A recess would keep the filibuster issue before the senate.

With all legislation handcuffed, Lucas said that he was temporarily throwing in the sponge. He had planned to ask for an adjournment, instead of a recess so that the pending civil rights legislation would be shelved.

Shortly after 1 a.m. today, senators were still engaged in a discussion as to whether to adjourn or recess.

Sen. Robert Taft (R-Ohio) went into a huddle with the GOP policy committee which he heads. He announced afterward that the committeemen had decided to vote against an adjournment motion.

Earlier last night the Republicans denounced the Truman Democrat leadership for its "surrender." They said the fight to change the senate rules should be pressed.

As long as the talkathon continued, the administration had no chance to get an extension of the rent controls which expire March 31.

Likewise, the second installment of the Marshall plan and other major bills would be bottled up.

The southerners feared that Lucas, as majority leader, might attempt to return to the civil rights fight after other major legislation is passed.

There were reports that the Democratic leaders had made the decision to holler "uncle" after telephone consultation with President Truman at Key West, Fla.

Senate Committee Hits Coal Strikers, OK's Boyd Naming

WASHINGTON (AP) — John L. Lewis' protest strike of 471,000 coal miners boomeranged yesterday as a senate committee approved, 10 to 1, the nomination of Dr. James Boyd to be bureau of mines director.

The committee acted even as soft and hard coal miners east of the Mississippi started a two-week holiday, called by Lewis.

Boyd is bitterly opposed by Lewis, and until yesterday the nomination had been lying dormant on Capitol Hill for almost two years.

Although many regard the walkout as a maneuver to cut coal stockpiles and thus improve Lewis' bargaining position in forthcoming contract talks, Lewis has labeled it a protest over the Boyd appointment. He objects that Boyd, former dean of the Colorado school of mines, never worked in a coal mine.

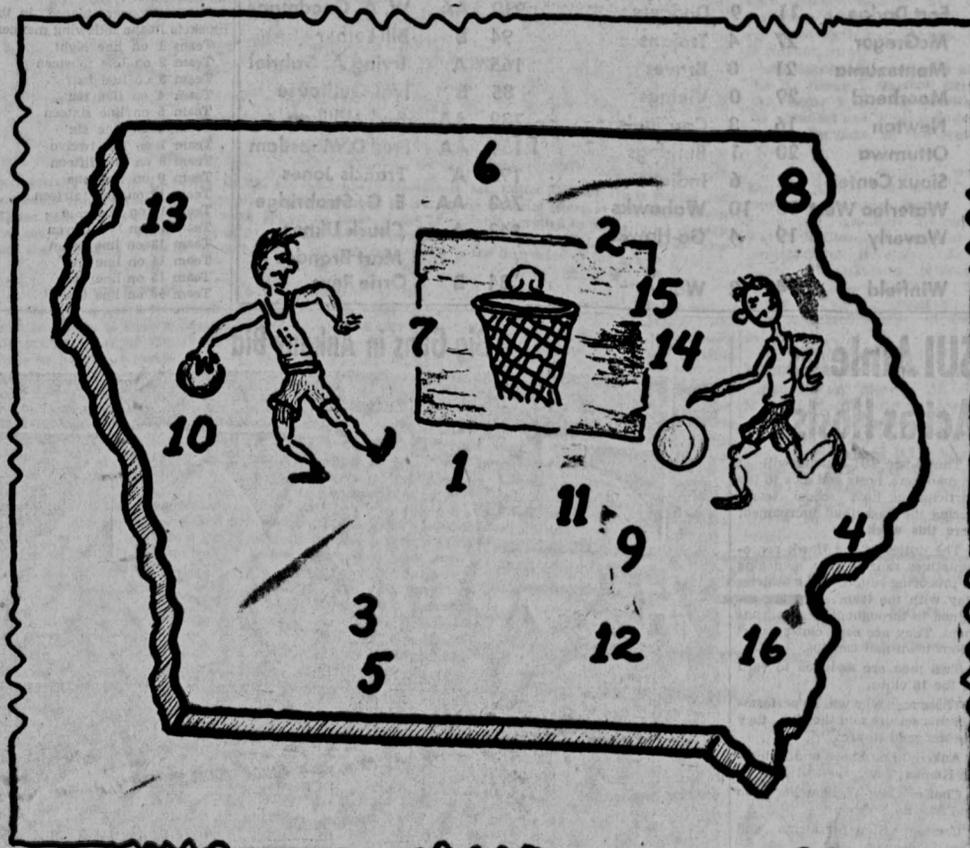

Besides voting favorably on President Truman's nomination of Boyd, the senate interior committee sidetracked a move to strip the task of regulating mine safety from Boyd's bureau. Boyd has been serving in the post almost without pay because the senate has not yet confirmed him.

Yesterday's committee action puts the Boyd nomination up to the senate for final action. But nobody knew when that would come, on account of the filibuster tie-up.

Serious Crime Every 18.7 Seconds Last Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said yesterday there were about three times as many major crimes last year as there were minutes. In a report on the nation's 1948 crime record, he estimates there were 1,886,670 major law violations — "a serious crime for every 18.7 seconds."

The 'Sweet Sixteen' and Where They're From

SIXTEEN SURVIVORS of sectional, district and sub-state tournaments are located on this map. A lighted map of the state will be hung in the fieldhouse to show spectators where the clubs are located. As the teams drop out, the lights indicating the teams will be extinguished. Towns shown above are: 1. Ankeny; 2. Charles City; 3. Creston; 4. Davenport; 5. Diagonal; 6. Forest City; 7. Fort Dodge; 8. McGregor; 9. Montezuma; 10. Moorhead; 11. Newton; 12. Ottumwa; 13. Sioux Center; 14. Waterloo; 15. Waverly, and 16. Winfield.

Evenly Matched Clubs Ready For 27th Annual Tournament

By NEAL BLACK

The Iowa High School Athletic association opens its 27th annual state prep basketball tournament in the Iowa fieldhouse today with the most evenly matched field in recent years.

From Ankeny on down the list through Winfield the "sweet sixteen" looks tough with nary a soft touch in the bunch. The first round pairings have matched the teams probably as evenly as would have been possible if the pairing had been done by any other method.

Today's Games

- 1:30 p.m. Montezuma vs Waverly
- 2:45 p.m. Winfield vs Creston
- 7:30 p.m. Waterloo West vs Forest City
- 8:45 p.m. Sioux Center vs Ankeny

Censorship Placed On Aerial Photos Of Truman Vacation

KEY WEST (AP) — The White House imposed censorship yesterday on air views of President Truman's vacation headquarters, including pictures of the chief executive in swimming. Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross attributed the action to "security" reasons.

Ross confiscated films of Tom Craven, Paramount news cameraman and Joe Vadala, representing NBC television news.

Still photographers Byron H. Rollins of The Associated Press, Milton Freier of Acme news pictures and Al Muto of International news photos destroyed their films rather than submit to censorship.

Later, Ross told a news conference he "requested" the pictures not be used because he considered them "a completely unauthorized invasion of the President's privacy" as well as for security reasons.

Reporters pressed for an explanation of the security angle. Ross said he meant pictures showing the exact location of the President's beach. He said he approached the security angle from the point used by the secret service which guards the life of the President.

Ross said that the President knew practically nothing about his action, that he accepted "total responsibility" and told the President about it later. He did not indicate Mr. Truman's reaction.

If the photographers had cleared their request through him, he said, some "mutually satisfactory arrangement" could have been made.

Rent Bill May Have Local Veto Clause

WASHINGTON (AP)—A powerful drive developed in the house yesterday to let states, counties and municipalities throw out federal rent controls any time they please.

Crucial house voting on the bill was set for today. There will be a new effort to kill the controls completely. Voting will be close.

There appeared doubt that administration forces can turn back an amendment by Rep. Williams (D-Miss) proposing to give the state legislatures or comparable governing bodies of counties and cities power to veto federal rent ceilings.

Under Williams' amendment, which had strong bi-partisan backing, the federal controls must be withdrawn at any time a local governing body says so.

Early Morning Fire Calls Out Firemen

Iowa City firemen early this morning smothered a fire which threatened the Wesley Durham residence at 712 Fifth avenue.

The four room house was filled with smoke, the garage and a room above the garage were almost completely destroyed by the blaze. Telephone and electric service were cut off in the neighborhood by the fire, according to Sig Logan, a neighbor, who woke Durham and his wife.

Another of the reasons all the first round games are rated as toss-ups is because the railbirds haven't yet picked a tourney favorite. With sentimental favorites all over the lot the tournament observers still haven't gone out on a limb to rally strongly behind one club as the favorite.

It's a great change over last year's meet when Davenport was picked to win by the experts as far back as the sectional meets. And Davenport may be the favorite again this year but that hasn't been evidenced yet.

If the favorite, the Blue Devils, will be picked on the basis of their past tournament performances, their win over a strong Iowa City high team and their coach — Paul Moon — the tournament sage of Iowa high school basketball.

What about Newton? But if Davenport is rated high, what about Newton? The Cardinals also hold a victory over the Little Hawks. And those two clubs are matched in the first round.

Matched in the opening sessions this afternoon and tonight as the first round firing gets under way are five class A schools, one double A and two of the B's. The first round in the upper bracket is set for today with the lower bracket going into action tomorrow.

Montezuma and Waverly square off in the first game of the tournament at 1:30 this afternoon and the thrills and excitement of the annual affair begin. The Go-Hawks, with their tournament record and their tourney-wise coach, Mart Brandes, may be slight favorites in this one but Montezuma has a lot of support around Iowa City and is given a good chance to extend its 21-game winning streak. The game should be rated as a toss-up and one of the better games in the first round.

Winfield Strong The second battle of the afternoon's double-header finds Winfield and Creston going to the post in one of the two A-B battles of the day. Winfield, with a 242 record on games in and out of its class, is a pretty good bet to knock off the A club, Creston, however, has come along fast in late season and this should be another close one.

The first double A club takes to the court in the evening session at 7:30 when Waterloo West meets class A Forest City. The Indians, with a 23-2 record will be favored to knock off a West Waterloo club with a mediocre record and an eighth place finish in the tough Mississippi Valley conference.

Day's Big Game Then comes the big game of the first day. Ankeny and Sioux Center are slated to take up where they left off in the consolation game of last year's finals when they battled into an overtime period and a 73-63 verdict. Sioux Center topped the Hawkeyes in that one in a battle that set a new record for scoring in a tournament game and some observers are picking Ankeny to get revenge this year.

From here it looks like the Indians from the far northwest will do it again and thus administer the third defeat in two years to the Ankeny boys. Both of those other losses have been on the play.

'Operation Godiva' Ends In Great Britain Today

LONDON (AP)—The British government ended "operation Godiva" yesterday by announcing abolition of the clothes and textiles rationing system which has been in effect since June 1, 1941.

From this morning all Britons whose wardrobes have been sharply curtailed since the early war years will be free to buy any type of clothing or textiles without coupons from their ration books.

Bishop Disclaims Red Dean's Views

LONDON (AP)—The Most Rev. Geoffrey Fisher, archbishop of Canterbury and primate of all England, yesterday disassociated himself and the Anglican church from the pro-Russian views of the very Rev. Hewlett Johnson, "Red" Dean of Canterbury. Johnson declined comment on the archbishop's statement.

Flag Raising Opens Mecca Week

Mecca week got off to a jet-propelled start early yesterday with a flag-raising ceremony — a ceremony that SUJ's law students did not appreciate a bit. Having a little fun at the expense of the law students, the engineers secured their 1949 Mecca flag to the law building flagpole in the wee hours of the morning. Rubbing salt into the wound, they tied the chain high up the pole so the flag could not be lowered, then seared the pole with black, dirty grease. Being unhappy about the incident, the law students gathered in irate groups in and around the law building to discuss the situation.

About one o'clock in the afternoon, several law students made their way to the roof and began a series of attempts to remove the flag.

Partial success came about two o'clock when they reached the flag with a torch tied to a pole about twenty feet long. The lower half soon burned, leaving the upper half singed, but still waving defiantly in the stiff breeze sweeping across the open roof.

A half-hour later, their muscles rested and their determination strengthened, they again hoisted the torch and this time managed to burn away the rest of the flag. Though the flag is gone, hints of retaliation floated around the law building.

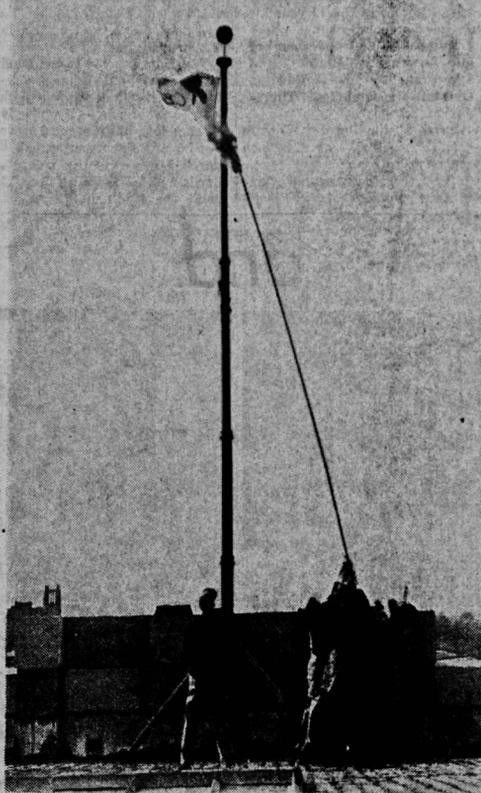

Also the chain is still tied and the pole is as greasy as ever.

The final success was not won without a great deal of effort, though. It was preceded by attempts by both custodian and students to loosen the chain with long poles and by an attempt to get fire to the flag with a series of wooden sticks, nailed together to form a crude pole.

But it turned out to be a little too crude. By the time they had nailed enough sticks together to reach the flag, the pole was so long and flexible that the addition of the cloth soaked with gasoline made it impossible for them to hold it steady in the face of the stiff breeze.

Their final triumph was brought about by finding three long pipes that could be screwed together, and which could reach the flag and yet be rigid enough to use.

At 10:15 in the morning a sound truck began to serenade the law students with a special program of Irish music. Though the engineers might deny any guilt, the finger of suspicion points to them. At 10:25 the serenade was stopped and the truck driver explained that he was sorry, but that Dean Mason Ladd of the college of law had ordered the halt.

For Delegates-at-Large —

Two File for SUJ Council Posts

First candidates to file their petitions yesterday for positions as delegate-at-large on the Student Council were Mary Vande Steeg, A3, Orange City, and Jack H. Pedersen, A3, Marshalltown.

PEDERSEN VANDE STEEG

Students will have until Saturday noon to file petitions at the office of student affairs for delegate-at-large positions in the March 30 all-university campus elections.

In presenting her platform, Miss Vande Steeg emphasized the need for having more students serve on subcommittees of the council. Her platform includes more publicity for SUJ throughout the midwest, strengthening the liberal arts placement bureau and the need for a cooperative bookstore benefiting the students.

Miss Vande Steeg is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority and Alpha Lambda Delta, national scholastic sorority. She was entertainment chairman during the 1948 Campus Chest drive and served as program chairman in the recent Religion-in-Life week.

Pedersen's platform emphasized the need for clarification of council powers and duties to strengthen cooperation between the council and students.

2. More publicity for the university and the student council throughout Iowa and surrounding states. This could be done through stronger alumni associations in this area, having more representatives from SUJ speak to Iowa high school students and having a council program of information and entertainment for high school students visiting the campus during debates or athletic events.

3. Strengthening the liberal arts placement bureau through contacts and publicity allowing students to use its facilities to their best advantage.

4. Establishment of a cooperative bookstore established through a subcommittee of the council.

Pedersen's platform includes:

1. Initiating a student advisory board of faculty members to instruct students before and during registration.

2. Sustain the enlarged freshman orientation week which was initiated during the past year with the reinstatement of a freshman week variety show comprised of upperclassmen.

3. Promote a homecoming parade co-sponsored by campus student organizations and the Iowa

City chamber of commerce.

4. Continuance of student trips to other Big 9 universities to further cooperation between the schools. Eligibility for the trips would be determined by an alphabetical system similar to registration.

5. Clarify the councils powers and duties informing students as to what to expect from the council.

Publications . . .

Petitions for Student Board of Publication positions must be filed by 5 p.m. tomorrow in room N2, East hall, Prof. Leslie G. Moeller, chairman of the board, said yesterday.

Requirements for board candidates are:

2. Petition signatures of 25 students from the college in which the candidate is enrolled.

2. Statement of intention to remain a student in the university for the full term for which the candidate plans to run.

3. A statement from the registrar that the student has earned at least 26 hours of credit in the university, and that the candidate has a grade point average equal to that required for graduation in the college in which the credits were earned.

No statement outlining a platform is required, Moeller said.

Two board members are to be named for two year terms and one for a one year term, he said.

Candidates must specify on their petitions which position he is running for.

Official nomination petition forms are available at the school of journalism office, N2, East hall.

Tournament Fever Rises As Teams Arrive

Four Western Clubs Check In; Other 12 Due This Morning

By ALAN MOYER

Tournament fever began to rise in Iowa City last night as four of the 16 teams checked in and were ordered "early to bed" in preparation for today's opening games.

Ankeny and Creston arrived late in the afternoon, claimed their accommodations at the Hotel Jefferson and then went to the fieldhouse for light workouts. Sioux Center and Forest City pulled into town early in the evening but too late to get in any work at the fieldhouse.

Both teams drilled in the north wing of the fieldhouse, as the main floor received a refinish and varnish over the weekend.

All the clubs are scheduled to get a practice shot on the shiny surface this morning.

Both clubs that held light practice will see action today, Creston first, at 2:45, when the Panthers go up against Winfield. Then in the final game of the evening Center, the five that knocked the Hawkeyes out of third place last year in an overtime thriller.

Ray Fontana, leading scorer for Ankeny, doesn't know what it's like to play with a team that loses games. Last year the Hawks breezed through their season without defeat and again this year the little school is unbeaten.

Outside of the two tourney games they lost last year, Ray couldn't remember when they lost another game. "It was sometime when I was a freshman," he said, "but I can't remember who we lost to."

Most of the Ankeny players intended to see a movie last night, then go to bed early. All except Ray Fontana anyway. The lanky center said "movies make me nervous, I think I'll just stay around here awhile (hotel lobby) then go to bed."

Bert Evans, the Ankeny coach, thought he'd probably see a movie with his boys, an idea the fellows liked. They didn't think so much of his "soup for supper" idea though. When the moaning died down the former Drake student changed the order to "free choice."

All the Hawkeyes were in good health and ready to gain revenge on Sioux Center today. Vernon Herring, who suffered a shin injury in the sub-state final against Roland, kept his leg well wrapped. The regular guard didn't appear to limp though and is ready for tonight's clash.

This is the first season for Creston's coach, Don McDonald, as head coach. It's the fourth year he has been at Creston, but until this season he handled the junior varsity. Last year the Panthers were eliminated by Manning in the sub-state, long to the eventual state champs by a fairly wide margin.

Guard Glenn Hartley looks more like a football player than a basketball star. Just 5-feet, 8-inches tall, he isn't a big fat at 215 pounds. Last year he was converted from a fullback to a tackle on the Creston grid team.

Just 10 years ago the Creston five copped the state title, but Coach McDonald isn't thinking about titles yet. "The first problem to think about," he said, "is this game with Winfield tomorrow."

The 13 and 9 record of the Creston team is a fooler. McDonald said, "We played six one point games and lost four of them." He went on to say that his team isn't playing a lot better ball now than they were early in the season.

"The boys are playing steadier basketball now though," he said. "It got so we couldn't keep going strong in the close ones, then we lost to Shenandoah in three overtimes. It was the first time I'd ever even seen a game go into three overtimes, then we lost it."

The glass backboards had some of the players worried. Most of the high school gyms around the state have wooden backboards. Ron Fontana, younger brother of Ray, and who at 15 was third in Ankeny's scoring this year with 302 tallies, thought the glass backboards might "throw us off some."

Four of the Sioux Center boys were finishing up a card game in their room. They had just returned from a show and wanted a good night's sleep before seeing their "pals" from last year, Ankeny.

Winfield, only 50 miles from Iowa City, will get into town this morning. Most of Coach Orrie Rew's squad are farm boys who'll perform the usual farm chores on the same day that they will meet Creston.

It's a pretty safe bet though, that the cows will be milked a bit quicker than usual. Anything to speed up the takeoff for Iowa City.

Duane Hill, one of the Winfield standouts, is also something of a cowpoke. At the State Fair in Des Moines last summer he bulldogged himself a 4-H club calf.

The calf was turned loose in an arena full of 4-H boys, and with the aid of his football ability Hill captured the animal.

Fans who will attend the tournament at the fieldhouse this week have been asked to park their cars on side streets on the east side of the river.

Drivers of special buses have been asked by Major Preston Koser and Police Chief Ed Ruppert to discharge their passengers at the fieldhouse and park their vehicles across the river. These requests have been made in the interest of fire prevention.

Motorists have been cautioned not to park their cars on lawns of university and residential districts. Chief Ruppert said that hundreds of dollars damage had been done to soft lawn areas in past tournaments.

How They Paired The 16 Finalists

For fans that have been wondering just how tournament officials matched the teams competing in the state tourney, perhaps the system used would be of interest.

First, the teams were arranged alphabetically and numbered chronologically.

Then they were placed in the brackets in the following manner:

- Team 1 on line eight
- Team 2 on line fourteen
- Team 3 on line four
- Team 4 on line ten
- Team 5 on line sixteen
- Team 6 on line six
- Team 7 on line twelve
- Team 8 on line fifteen
- Team 9 on line one
- Team 10 on line thirteen
- Team 11 on line nine
- Team 12 on line eleven
- Team 13 on line seven
- Team 14 on line five
- Team 15 on line two
- Team 16 on line three.

Taking Time Out

With Buck Turnbull

Coach Bert Evans and Ankeny Return

The amazing young graduate from Drake university has joined the "Sweet Sixteen" again. Yep, Coach Bert Evans of Ankeny has brought the little Class B school back to the Iowa state high school basketball final round for the second straight year.

The coaching career of Bert Evans has been nothing but a string of successes. You've got to admire the gentleman who graduated from Drake in June of 1947, took over the cage job at Ankeny the following winter, and calmly produced a record of 58 wins and 2 losses these past two seasons.

In fact, Iowa City has been the only stumbling block along the Evan and Ankeny victory trail. The two defeats suffered by Ankeny under Evans were in the semi-final and consolation rounds of last year's state finals at the fieldhouse.

There isn't much difference between the '48 and '49 Ankeny quintets. The name of Fontana still dominates the box score. However, instead of three Fontanas as was the case last year, there will be just two.

Dick Fontana left the Ankeny crew by graduation. But hold-overs Ray and Ron Fontana, junior and sophomore respectively, have blazed through to the finals with 29 wins without defeat.

"Our team hasn't changed much this year," Coach Evans said yesterday. "The loss of Dick Fontana was not too serious. We do miss him on defense, though. He was an excellent guard."

Dick is now a freshman at Drake. He was a member of the Bulldog frosh cage squad this winter.

Yesterday certainly did not resemble the usual day which precedes the state tourney finals. . . . The town was actually quiet. . . . You could even find a place to eat and be reasonably assured of receiving your vittles within an hour. . . . Just wait until tonight!

The reason for the peaceful bliss yesterday was the fact that the 16 finalists could not use the main fieldhouse floor for pre-tourney practice. . . . The court was coated with another finish over the weekend and hadn't dried sufficiently for use.

Ankeny was the first squad to get here for the big show, arriving at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. . . . Creston's B school entry from the southwest pulled in soon after, and both teams worked out on the practice courts adjoining the fieldhouse.

Sioux Center, returning to the finals for the second straight year, and Forest City arrived in town last night. . . . None of the other teams were expected until today. . . . Davenport, continuing last year's policy, will commute back and forth between games.

Davenport, Ankeny and Sioux Center are three of the four 1948 semi-finalists back again. . . . Only state champion Manning failed to survive the elimination tests.

Davenport Coach Paul Moon continues to build an impressive record with his Blue Devils. . . . The overall record for Moon at Davenport is 436 victories and 90 losses in 21 years. . . . The Blue Devils hold tourney records for most times in the state finals, 13, and most state championships, 4.

Moon's first basketball team in the coaching ranks was an undefeated girls' quintet at Walnut, Ill., high school.

Naturally, with the coming of the state meet, the barbershop and cigar store rumormongers produced one rumor worthy of mention. . . . The story circulated around town that the four Associated Press high-ranking poll teams would meet in an elimination tourney of their own Friday and Saturday afternoons, since only Ankeny was able to wind up in the state.

If true—and it wasn't—Iowa City from the southeast, Charles City from the northeast, Roosevelt of Des Moines from the southwest and Webster City from the northwest would meet in the tournament. . . . That would be a humdinger of a meet. . . . Throw in Marshalltown and Mason City and it would be even better.

Reasons it can't be done—1. Most of the teams have already completed their legal allotment of games. 2. Such tournaments must be sanctioned by the high school athletic association. 3. The IHSAA wouldn't do it.

SUI Athletes Act as Hosts

Thirty-two SUI athletes will act as managers, hosts and aids to the participating high school teams during the basketball tournament here this week.

The duties of the Hawk representatives range from managing to procuring supplies. The athletes stay with the team they are assigned to throughout the tournament. They are each club's escort about town and campus.

Two men are assigned to each of the 16 clubs.

Those men who will be performing this service and the clubs they are assigned to are:

Ankeny: Len Shope and Ruldolph Kamps

Charles City: William Ferguson and Wayne Freshour

Creston: Stan Straatsma and Tom Stenger

Davenport: Joe Paulsen and Skip Greene

Diagonal: Dallas Queck and John Hargrove

Fort Dodge: Max Sowers and Dick Woodard.

Forest City: Gene Slack and Bob Clifton

McGregor: Gerald Wagner and Bob Freshmeier

Montezuma: Clayton Colbert and Bucky Harris

Moorhead: Richard Riley and Dick Riecks

Newton: Robert Dotson and Jack Spencer

Ottumwa: Fred Ruck and Jerry Long

Sioux Center: Mearl Naber and George Hand

West Waterloo: Floyd Magnusson and Ned Viiquain

Waverly: Duane Brandt and Jim Clark

issued an order yesterday directing leaders of the national game to show cause at 10:30 a.m. today why Danny Gardella, former New York Giants outfielder, should not be reinstated immediately.

Scheduled for hearing at the same time is an application by Max Lanier and Fred Martin,

Big Guns in Ankeny Bid

THESE THREE PLAYERS are the chief reason for Ankeny high school running up a 29-game winning streak this season and entering the state finals for the second straight year. Left to right, they are Guard John Johnston, Center Ray Fontana and Forward Ron Fontana. Between them they have scored 1,218 of Ankeny's 1948 total of 1,865 points. Ray Fontana is the individual high scorer with 520 points. Ankeny meets Sioux Center at 8:45 tonight.

Favorites Defeated in NIT

NEW YORK (AP) — Upsets broke the National Invitation basketball tournament wide open yesterday as all four seeded teams were bounced out of the quarter finals.

Loyola beat first-seeded Kentucky, 67-56; Bowling Green smashed second-seeded St. Louis, 80 to 74; San Francisco bowled over third-seeded Utah, 64 to 63; and Bradley shocked Western Kentucky 95 to 86, in the greatest rash of upsets in the 12 year history of the tournament.

And so, to the wonderment of all, Loyola plays Bradley and San Francisco meets Bowling Green in the semi-finals Thursday night.

It was a stunning day — with enough basketball at Madison square garden for the most fanatic of spectators. Kentucky and Western Kentucky got theirs in the afternoon — and surely that seemed enough, until first Utah and then St. Louis tumbled ignobly before the sometimes hilarious, sometimes shocked 15,587 customers.

Perhaps the St. Louis loss was even more surprising than Kentucky's — and this even though the Kaintucks were favored to win both this and the NCAA tournaments — because the Billikens at least started out last night as if they would walk away on schedule.

The Bills jumped to the front at the start and seemed comfortable enough at the half with a 38-35 advantage — it was only three points, but it seemed more considering the superior polish the St. Louis crew displayed. St. Lewis had led by as much as 13 points that first half.

But this orange-clad Bowling Green troupe, led by a 6-foot 11-inch snaggle-toothed giant named Charley Share, wanted to get in on the upset act and started a mighty second half drive that produced eventual victory.

Kentucky, which lost only one game in 30 during the regular season, had been heavily favored to sweep through the invitation tournament and the NCAA tourney, in which they are also entered.

But inspired Loyola, led by rugged Center Jack Kerris, upset the applecart after going into the game as 12-point underdogs.

The rollicking Ramblers from Chicago, 15 to 1 shots to win the tourney, engineered the upset, one of the greatest in the 12-year history of the NIT event.

State Tourney Brings Tears and Cheers . . . As Part of Color

TOURNEY FANS can expect to see these scenes enacted over and over in the state prep cage meet. These pictures were snapped during the recent Iowa City-Davenport game in the sub-state.

AAUW to Sponsor Annual Coffee Hour

The local chapter of the American Association of University Women will be host to SUI senior women at a coffee hour from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Saturday. The annual event will be in the University club rooms in the Iowa Union.

Senior women graduating in February and June with accredited degrees become eligible for membership in their local A.A.U.W. chapters. University seniors are being feted at this time by hundreds of chapters in the United States which are located in college or university towns.

Approximately 100,000 members comprise 1,077 chapters in America today. There are about 200 members in the Iowa City A.A.U.W. chapter.

Mrs. Paul Huston, local president, will welcome the guests at 10 and 11 a.m. She will explain briefly what membership in A.A.U.W. means and outline the aims and privileges of the organization. "A.A.U.W. and the Years After College" will be her topic.

Materials explaining phases of the local, state and national A.A.U.W. will be displayed during the coffee hour. The organization has worked for 60 years to improve living and academic conditions for the undergraduate woman.

The local chapter of A.A.U.W. sponsors monthly luncheons, lectures, study groups in education, music, drama, international relations, creative writing and social studies.

Mrs. W.F. Loehwing, hospitality chairman for the coffee hours, will be assisted by Mary Parden and Helen Focht. Prof. Sybil Woodruff, Mrs. H. Dabney Kerr, Mrs. E. K. Maples and Lucille Dahlgren will pour.

Dining room hostesses are Mrs. Richard L. Holcomb, Mrs. C. L. Fagan, Mrs. Robert Featherstone, Mrs. Ralph Kemp, Mrs. J. L. Casey, Mary Love, Tacie Knease, Mrs. F. J. Davis, Mrs. C. E. Cousins, Mrs. Margaret Ashby and Mrs. John Russ.

Guest reservations have already been made, but members, whether serving on committees or not, must make reservations by Thursday night, Luella Wright, publicity chairman said.

Reservations can be made by calling Jane Condon, 2666, or Mrs. L. R. Fitzgerald, 80379.

Oxford Professor To Speak Friday

Prof. Cecil Roth of Oxford University, England, will be in Iowa City this weekend to speak at Hillel foundation services Friday night at Hillel house.

Roth is making a lecture tour of American universities. Prof. Judah Goldin of the SUI school of religion said.

While in Iowa City Roth will speak on "The Making of the Modern Jew" as the last in Hillel foundation's series of four lectures which began last fall on "The Intellectual Pilgrimage of Judaism."

Roth is one of the great Jewish historians of the world, Goldin said. He attended Oxford University and has been teaching there since 1939.

Roth has written many books, among them "The Last Florentine Republic."

Students Learn to Combine Art with News

NO SHORTAGE OF LAUGHS HERE. Literally up-to-his-ears in art, Editor Gail Myers is having considerable trouble these days deciding which cartoons to use on the editorial pages of The Daily Iowan. Those littering his desk above were drawn by some of the 20 students enrolled in an editorial cartooning course recently inaugurated at SUI's school of Journalism. Dick Spencer (right), a cartoonist himself and managing editor of the university's information service, is the instructor of the course.

By LYNN BAILEY
Combining a knack for drawing with an ability to analyze news is the primary task of the 20 SUI students in a new course in editorial cartooning.

The course, originated and taught by 28-year-old Dick Spencer, SUI journalism instructor, cartoonist, and managing editor of the university information service, is the first of its kind in the country.

About half the members of the class are art students and the other half are from the school of Journalism. They produce on the average one cartoon a week aimed for publication.

Several of the cartoons have been published in The Daily Iowan and some are to be published in the Iowa City Press-Citizen.

Spencer said that artistic ability was not required for admittance to the course. He said naturally the art students "are better at getting ideas."

The ability to read and analyze the news, make an analogy and draw it up are prerequisites of good editorial cartooning, Spencer said.

When Spencer was gathering material for the course, he consulted with some of the nation's leading cartoonists. Some expressed their doubts about the value of the venture, but have since changed their minds.

Davenport Mayor Speaks at Annual Fraternity Banquet

Arthur Kroppach, mayor of Davenport, spoke Saturday at the annual Founder's day banquet of Delta Tau Delta, social fraternity. One hundred fraternity members, including 30 alumni, attended the banquet, held at the chapter house, 724 N. Dubuque street.

E.B. Raymond, 416 Grant street, chapter advisor during the past 15 years, was presented an award by David Daner, Des Moines, secretary of the state board of education. Raymond, who has been actively associated with the fraternity for 45 years, will be succeeded by Wilbur Cannon, 602 S. Summit street.

At installation ceremonies after the banquet, Marshall Berg, A3, Cedar Falls, was installed as president and William Rader, A3, Storm Lake, as vice president.

Other officers installed were Kenneth Alsager, A3, Story City, treasurer; William Britton, A2, Sioux City, assistant treasurer; Wayne McCloy, A4, Ida Grove, corresponding secretary; Louis Suiter, A3, Oskaloosa, recording secretary; Allen Divine, E2, Larchmont, N.Y., sergeant at arms, and Dana Kasner, A1, Avoca, guide.

Committee heads named include Richard Colville, A3, Cedar, Rushing; Jay Storey, A3, Des Moines, athletics; Robert Leachman, A3, Des Moines, social; Robert Connor, C3, Keokuk, scholarship; Henry Jaeger, A1, Clinton, activities; Paul Goodland, A1, Davenport, alumni; Louis Suiter, A3, Oskaloosa, publicity, and Wayne McCloy, A4, Ida Grove, rules.

Bartley Denies GOP Charge On Delay of Swimming Pool

City Democratic Chairman William Bartley yesterday denounced a Republican convention statement that the Democrats have delayed the construction of the municipal swimming pool.

Bartley said such a statement was "pure demagoguery" and that the pool will be finished next month.

The opening date, he said, has been set for about May 15, but this is due only to weather conditions which make swimming before that date unlikely. The actual construction, Bartley said, will be completed by April 15.

At their convention the Republicans promised completion of the swimming pool and said that "if the present city administration is continued in office our children can look forward to another season or two of hitch-hiking to West Liberty."

Bartley invited voters to look at the records for the real facts behind the construction of the swimming pool.

"The records show that in 1941 a Democratic council passed the first bond issue for the pool and that a Republican council which followed did absolutely nothing about the pool," Bartley said.

"The present Democratic council," he continued, "got the present bond issue passed and acted as its own contractor when firm bids couldn't be obtained. Members of the council, through the Community Dads, raised the additional money needed to complete the pool."

Bartley said he "was amused" when he read of the Republicans' promise to "study" the city manager plan. He said he wondered why the Republicans under former mayor Teeters hadn't studied the plan while the Republicans were in power.

Democratic campaign headquarters will open today at noon, the city chairman said, with Mrs. Mable Fitzgerald in charge of the office located in room 501 of the Iowa Bank and Trust building.

The Democratic headquarters, he said, will be glad to furnish applications and a notary for any sick, aged, or absentee voters who will not be able to come to the polls on election day.

County Red Cross Fund Drive Soars

Johnson county's 1949 Red Cross fund drive soared to a new high yesterday to bring the total money collected to $10,075.79, General Chairman Dorr H. Hudson said.

The drive, with a goal of $14,550, opened Feb. 28 and has been extended through March 31.

The break down of money collected into sections was: business, $3,826.19; residential, $3,984.48; university, $1,448.95; hospitals, $759.17.

Mens organizations, $90; women organizations, $168.50; fraternities and sororities, $17.25; Tiffin, $100; Oakdale, $171.25, and Union, $10.

Janice Hull's Program Radio Contest Winner

Janice Hull, 1947 SUI graduate, is promotion manager of Des Moines radio station KIOA which won first place for new stations in the Billboard's 11th annual radio and television promotion contest.

Miss Hull edited and produced the KIOA program presentation which gave the complete promotion story of the station for 1948.

ROTC Riflemen Win Chance to Compete In National Finals

ROTC riflemen will compete in the national ROTC postal meet during the next two weeks.

Coach J.P. Anderson said yesterday the squad was in the upper third of fifth army area ROTC teams recently firing qualification tests.

As a result of this, Anderson said, the team won the right to compete in the national meet.

The team would fire the first two of four position this week and conclude its firing next week, Anderson said. The firing will be done from prone-sitting, prone-kneeling-standing positions.

Results received through the mail yesterday showed victories for both the varsity and ROTC over Duquesne in Saturday's postal firing.

The varsity posted 1,862 to Duquesne's 1,848. The ROTC team outshot Duquesne, 1,847 to 1,840.

Voters Can Begin Absentee Balloting

Voters who will be absent from Iowa City on general election day, March 28, may begin voting by absentee ballot today, City Clerk George J. Dohrer said yesterday.

Ballots for the general election came in yesterday, Dohrer said. He began sending out ballots to voters who had requested them for absentee voting. Dohrer said 7,600 ballots had been received.

Only four days remain to register for the general election, Dohrer warned. After Friday, no one can register because voting lists are closed to registration for 10 days preceding an election, he reminded.

Livezey Released From County Jail

George Livezey's 510 day sentence in the Johnson county jail was suspended Saturday by Judge Harold D. Evans on the condition that he obtain immediate employment and contribute support money to his divorced wife and two minor children.

Livezey had already served 68 days of the 510-day sentence resulting from 17 counts of contempt of court. He was arrested and confined Jan. 6 for failing to contribute support money to his former wife and children as ordered in the original divorce decree last April.

EARLY TO BED was the order of the day for the four tournament teams that got into Iowa City yesterday. Here four Sioux Center cagers play cards before retiring for the night. Left to right they include Forwards Wayne Vermeer and Cap Wabeke, Guard Bob Vermeer (a cousin of Wayne's) and Earl DeZeeuw, a forward.

... late conception of Charles City, all making their first appearance in the modern era.

They're all great teams and one of them will emerge as the greatest when the firing ends with that final gun Saturday night.

Thrill after Thrill Promised

There'll be many a tear shed and many a shout of joy before the field of ... is narrowed down to that one survivor. And more than that there'll be thrill after thrill, the type that packs the Iowa fieldhouse for every session of every day of every tournament.

The fans come from all over the state to see their favorites in action or just to see the top teams in the state. They'll pick a team and jump on the bandwagon, they'll root for the underdog, and they'll add to the color and excitement which always surrounds this annual extravaganza.

They'll sit around hotel lobbies and reminisce on the thrills of bygone tournaments. They were here yesterday to get that first line on the entries and try to pick a favorite.

The fans will talk about those spectacular finishes. Manning's great win over a heavily favored Davenport team last year; the sensational overtime battle for third place staged by Ankeny and Sioux Center last year, and the unexpected win by Iowa City in the final minutes over LeMars in the 1946 tourney.

Remember Back When . . .

The little schools, the class B clubs that furnish a great deal of the color and many of the upsets, will be much discussed. You'll hear the tales of the Loras Gubs and their tremendous battle against Davenport last year.

You'll hear Steamboat Rock mentioned for their upset just a few years back. And of course Danbury will be the topic of discussion in many groups. The wonder team that knocked off a fine Clinton team in '46 and then lost to Iowa City. The club that returned the next year to scatter class A schools right and left but fall short of a championship trophy.

The old-timers will talk of Diagonal in 1938 and Melrose in '37. They'll remember Dunkerton in '33. And they'll remind you that the little schools can't be counted out. They win 'em. And this might be the year they'll do it again.

U.S. Supreme Court to Define Legality of Segregation Laws

WASHINGTON (AP)—The supreme court agreed yesterday to decide whether segregation violates the basic rights of a Negro. It will review the contention of a Baltimore Negro that "inequality invariably accompanies segregation."

The action comes at a time when a filibuster is raging in the senate as a part of a southern effort to forestall any administration effort to push civil rights bills, or anti-discrimination bills through.

The decision the high court will review was handed down by a special three-judge federal district court in Baltimore involving a damage suit filed by Elmer W. Henderson in 1942.

That court upheld, two to one, a policy adopted by southern railroads of setting aside for Negroes a table or two in a curtained or partitioned section at the kitchen end of dining cars.

The majority of the Baltimore court ruled that racial segregation is not forbidden by the constitution, the interstate commerce act or any other act of congress "as long as there is no real inequality or treatment of those of different races."

The two judges who so ruled were William C. Coleman and W. Calvin Chestnut. Judge Morris A. Soper dissented, declaring, "Discrimination exists whenever a member of one race is denied service available to a member of another."

A similar case was presented to the supreme court March 3, but the court has not yet said whether it will review the case.

G.W. McLaurin, a negro student at the University of Oklahoma, asked the court to order the school to permit him to study with white students on a non-segregated basis. He is the first Negro to attend the school.

Car Accident Costs Local Man $65 Fine

Charges of failing to have his car under control and not having a driver's license were filed against John Banes, route 6, Iowa City, Sunday after his car was involved in an accident late Saturday night, police said.

Banes was fined $52.50 on the first charge and $12.50 on the second charge in police court yesterday, police reported.

The charges were filed after Banes' car went out of control in the 2000 block on Muscatine avenue and snapped off a light pole.

Banes was taken to University hospitals with a possible back injury, but was released after examination, police said.

University Hospital Reports 3 Deaths

Three deaths were reported by University hospital officials over the week-end.

Mrs. Christy Swalley, 68, Cedar Rapids, died Monday at 3:05 a.m. She was admitted March 5.

Harry Sawin, 69-year-old Davenport resident, died Saturday at 6:55 p.m. He was admitted Feb. 25.

Verne Peterson, 60, of Oelwein, died Sunday at 10:15 a.m. He was admitted Feb. 28.

IC Man's Car Stolen Near Home Yesterday

Report of a car stolen from C.J. Michel, 1103 E. College street, was received by local police yesterday at 10 a.m., police reported.

Michel said the black tudor Chevrolet, 1938 model, was stolen from a parking place near his home between 1 a.m. and 8 a.m. yesterday.

Every Year at This Time it Comes from Iowa...

THE FIRST item cleaned out of the black notebook from last week is a drawing of a door-knob. This is such a handsome drawing that I may have found a secret talent here. There must be a demand for door-knob artists in these days of heavy housing construction.

As much as people use door-knobs, you'd think that device would gradually progress from the said old round, smooth style. Present door-knob designers seem to be in a rut. I'd like to see someone with a little fortitude go off the deep end and build a door-knob with personality.

When I build a house, all the door-knobs are going to be in the shape of noses. When you're feeling low, there's nothing better than the thought of tweaking a big, bulby nose.

I'd have Jimmy Durante's nose on the front door, George Washington's at the pantry and Winston Churchill's on the bathroom portal.

WHILE ON this artistic door-knob binge, I also designed a new type toilet tissue dispenser. Here too, is a relatively virgin field. For years toilet tissue dispensers have been of the type which shows absolutely no initiative in that area.

Because I hope to get a patent on this design, I can't reveal all of the details. I can say, however, that the Ajax Ball-Bearing Dispenser will eliminate the old, time-consuming spool system. No stoop, no fuss, no squint... when one roll is gone, simply open the lid and drop a new roll in.

My new model will also be equipped with a music box which will play "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star."

FROM THESE notations, you can see that I got off to a fine intellectual start in the notebook last week.

The Minnesota Daily carried a short story recently revealing that one of M.U.'s English professors would give the monologue, "Casey at the Bat," at a coffee hour in the Union women's lounge.

The prospect of a male professor reciting "Casey at the Bat" in a women's lounge is grounds for considerable meditation.

On the next page of the notebook I find something which looks like "Get Margaret Truman to sing 'Gigarettes and Whiskey and Wild, Wild Women' in the faculty locker room at the fieldhouse."

I don't recall writing this, so it may be the work of (excuse the expression) comnies.

FROM AGENT Harvey Talmadge Jr. comes a clipping which tells of a bobby-soxer and her first date getting into quite a predicament when they attempted a good-night kiss.

It seems that both parties wore braces on their teeth, and the ensuing dental entanglement necessitated the calling of a dentist to straighten things out.

There must be a moral there somewhere, but it escapes me for the present.

ANOTHER AGENT reports that someone stole a headlight from his automobile in the city parking lot. Because of this he says he was de-lighted.

This notebook seems to have a faint stale odor... that last pun must be the source.

FROM NOTES taken at the party for Duke Ellington and his band after the Friday night concert (sparked by Nat and Nancy Williams) it appears that sleep and showmanship have little, if any, correlation.

That band could walk into the Library of Congress and have the place standing on its ear within 15 minutes.

Iowa Representatives To Hear Dunnington

Dr. L.L. Dunnington of the Iowa City First Methodist church will speak today in Des Moines in favor of a proposed law that would revoke for one year the licenses of any establishments that possessed gambling devices.

He will appear before a subcommittee of the Iowa house of representatives judiciary committee.

Long Road Ahead, But —

Bizonal Recovery Outstripping Goals

BERLIN (AP)—Western Germany's economic comeback is outstripping official forecasts. Industrial production already has roared past the target for June, 1949.

German coal miners are setting new production records even as the Communists strive to stir resentment against the allies in the Ruhr.

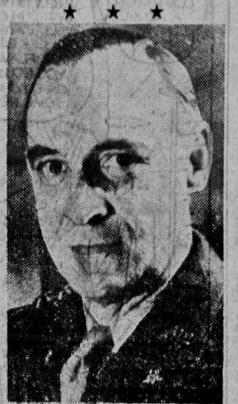

German foods are flowing into world markets at the rate of about $800-million a year—four times what they were a year ago.

Imports purchased from the proceeds of German exports are running well over $400-million a year or about seven times what they were in 1947.

The German people have what some areas in the world still do not have—a stable currency. American officials say the German Deutsche mark compares favorably in buying power with the Swiss franc, one of Europe's soundest currencies.

West German stores are crammed with all kinds of goods: clothing and automobile parts, fruits and bicycles, cooking utensils and radios, electric appliances and furniture.

This is the positive side of the western German recovery picture. But American officials are pounding home to the Germans the prodigious problems that lie ahead of them.

GEN. LUCIUS CLAY A One Billion Deficit

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, the American Military governor, says: "There is still a long road ahead to self-sufficiency."

The deficit between imports essential to life and exports being borne by the United States during the present fiscal year (ending June 30) exceeds $1-billion. While this deficit will be substantially less during the next fiscal year, there will remain a large deficit for several years.

And Norman H. Collison, deputy chief of the European cooperation administration in western Germany says:

"We should not delude ourselves into thinking that the goals of the European recovery program in Germany can be achieved or even approached without the strongest efforts on the part of the Germans themselves. What lies before Germany is the necessity to carry on an arduous export program and at the same time limit domestic consumption to the barest minimum."

Under the ECA program living standards will rise in western Germany by about 10 percent during the year beginning July 1—but they will still be about 27 percent below 1936.

The "arduous" export program outlined by Collison is in full swing—and it's already evoking squeals of protest from some foreign competitors.

Britain's automobile manufacturers are expressing concern at the mounting exports of the German Volkswagens. A tiny car which sells for about $750 in Germany.

Volkswagen agencies are now operating in Holland, Denmark, Switzerland, Belgium, Luxembourg and Sweden.

Harold Wilson, president of the British Board of Trade, says some British engineering and shipbuilding firms are concerned about what he calls "unfair competition" from German industries. And Czechoslovak exporters are complaining of increasing competition from German goods.

Recent trade negotiations reveal a strong market for a wide range of western German exports, Gen. Clay says. Western Germany already is linked with 21 countries in trade agreements calling for an exchange of a billion dollars in goods.

These export demands he says, consist of both raw materials and manufactured goods such as coal, timber, iron and steel products, scrap, chemicals, machinery and equipment, optical products and precision instruments, paper and paper products, and building materials.

Gen. Clay points out: "This demand for such a wide range of products from the Bizon is indicative of the extent to which other European nations depend on western Germany for the reconstruction of their economies."

After gripping the paint brush for 27 years, Probst retired and took a vacation. It was then that the stocky, bespectacled little man found he was probably the only man in the world who can rub his hands over his oval face, and presto — music.

Don't ask the Perryville, Mo., native how he does it. Probst doesn't know for he's just discovered the musical genius which has been hidden in his epidermis a half century.

He said he happened upon his musical fate just by accident and then began practicing for his own amusement.

But since then, he has demonstrated his mysterious new music in four states, baffling newspaper, radio and entertainment men in the process.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT

An Ice Cube in a Safe...

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

The defense of freedom has become one of the most complicated trades in the history of the world. It seems to require in our day the most awkward skills, many of them running against nature, like the singular skills of the contortionist.

THE HOUSE of representatives saved freedom the other day by passing a spy bill without debating it or asking for an explanation of its contents. It was simply told it would be dangerous to discuss its provisions. The house accepted this theory, and waved the bill through. Freedom now requires that congressmen shall, sometimes, not ask questions, and, sometimes, act without knowing what they're doing. As I say, the defense of freedom has become a strange trade.

AND IT HAS BECOME a trade for specialists. The house has also passed a bill setting up a radar screen around the country and a 3,000 mile proving range for guided missiles, both to protect our freedom. These, too, will be more or less secret activities, conducted by the skilled professionals of the defense of democracy. Freedom requires that we accept their estimates of what is needed, and give them the money, and let them do it, for the safeguarding of human freedom is now the job of a reserved class of experts.

AND THESE THINGS also require, in our day, a certain orthodoxy, enough unanimity so that the needed measures can be put through as required. You can't make free with freedom any more. A sneeze at the wrong time, an awkward "no," might precipitate a difference of opinion and wound freedom. You'd better agree; don't you want to be free?

AND AS THE defensive structure grows, with its experts and its secrets and its special skills and its taxes and its passions, one sometimes has a funny feeling that it's getting a little cramped inside.

AND, SOMETIMES, one even has the feeling that maybe freedom isn't protectable—that way; that maybe the effort to save freedom the way we've been doing it is a little like an effort to protect an ice cube by putting it in a safe. The only way to make sure of having ice is to keep on producing it, and maybe that's the only way to make sure of having freedom, too.

FOR WE ONCE used to look to freedom to protect us—to protect us against any dominant orthodoxy, against a rise in the power of the military, etc. There has been a complete reversal of roles;

Rubs Face, Gets Music

MEMPHIS, TENN. (UP)—A bewildered commercial painter from Missouri has had a musical instrument right under his nose for some 55 years and is just now finding out about it. It's his face.

C.E. Probst thinks he's the only man in the world who can rub his hands over his oval face, and presto — music.

Don't ask the Perryville, Mo., native how he does it. Probst doesn't know for he's just discovered the musical genius which has been hidden in his epidermis a half century.

After gripping the paint brush for 27 years, Probst retired and took a vacation. It was then that the stocky, bespectacled little man found he was probably the only man in the world who can rub his hands over his oval face, and presto — music.

He added quickly, "There's nothing phony about it!" and paused to demonstrate with the strains of "When It's Springtime in the Rockies" emerging from behind his two-day-old growth of reddish-gray beard.

And Probst wanted it known that it's not the whiskers which do it. "Fact is," he said, "the prettiest music comes just after I've had a clean shave."

The overall-clad Probst, with his lumberjack coat and locomotive engineer hat, described the phenomenal sounds that come from his hide as "pretty as a violin — of course, they're not so loud."

He said he happened upon his musical fate just by accident and then began practicing for his own amusement.

But since then, he has demonstrated his mysterious new music in four states, baffling newspaper, radio and entertainment men in the process.

we now look to these to protect freedom. But I don't know if philosophically freedom can be protected that way. It isn't like cheese, or gold, or apples, or like anything else that can be stored and guarded. Freedom is unique, it is not like anything else; it has its own rules of being, and maybe it has to be used to keep from being used, and maybe you need more all the time to make sure you have the same amount.

I KEEP THINKING of how, the other day, the United States spoke up against the Dutch at the security council, and demanded freedom for Indonesia. And suddenly there was a freshness in the air, as if a window had been opened, and a free breeze let in. There was freedom in the room... more than there had been before, a whole new current of it, created without secrets, without military appropriations, without yielding to orthodoxy, created, in fact, by division and difference of opinion.

Because we had tried to make a little more freedom for someone else, ours was a little safer than it had been before, and a whole new perspective opened up, of the things that we and freedom could do together, in Asia and the world. Maybe if we do that, we won't need quite so much of that other kind of protection for it. Maybe the way to safeguard it is not to have it in a box, under watch, but lying all over the place, so that you can always reach out and grab a handful.

Interpreting the News —

Russia Throwing Weight South

By J.M. ROBERTS JR. AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Russia, having failed to keep Norway out of the Atlantic alliance, now seems to be concentrating a large portion of her propaganda effort against extension of American influence in the Mediterranean and middle east.

Although the Italian government apparently is determined to join the pact, considerable nervousness is indicated by the violence of police reaction in Rome demonstrators.

American observers described the force exerted Saturday by police clubs as "unnecessary." The fact that it was directed against demonstrators and American press representatives indiscriminately gives an indication of the police state of mind.

which demonstration might be the signal for a major effort. Turkey, through inquiries in Britain and the United States regarding the possibilities of a Mediterranean pact, also has attracted increased Russian fire.

The Soviet government has asked an explanation, just as it did of Norway and Denmark in connection with the Atlantic pact. Even before the note arrived, however, the Turkish answer had been given.

On Feb. 28 her major opposition party announced support of the government's foreign policy and of cooperation with the United States. She is welcoming an increase in the number of military instructors attached to the American advisory mission, and looking forward to receipt in a few weeks of two American destroyers, and of two more during the summer.

Meanwhile, Turkey is maintaining such balance as possible in her relations with Russia. The two countries are cooperating on construction within Russia of a dam on the Aras river controlling water in both countries, with the Turks paying their share.

Efforts to obtain the release of Turkish fishermen seized recently by Russia near the Black sea border are being conducted in a non-hysterical atmosphere.

But the minister of defense has recently reiterated the emphasis Turkey places on enlarging and improving her armed forces with American aid, and their determination to defend the country's territorial integrity under "any and all conditions."

Iran reports an intensification of Russian propaganda against her since Feb. 15, when she rejected Soviet complaints against her ties with Britain and America. Her ambassador to the United States reports great anxiety, but gives no indication of any backdown.

Iran is receiving military supplies from the U.S. regularly under a $26-million surplus property credit.

Boy Locked in Room Ten Years

Mom's 'Secret Sin' Is 14-Year-Old Boy

BOSTON (AP)—The fantastic story of a 14-year-old boy who was locked up for more than 10 years in a tiny room and who looked like a "wild animal" as the result, was revealed in Roxbury district court yesterday.

Not knowing whether he was a boy or girl, Gerald Sullivan's sole view of the outside world was a patch of sky he could see through his barred window. His mother, it was revealed, kept him prisoner because he was illegitimate.

He was dressed in the tatters of two girls' dresses when the police found him playing in the street. He was barefooted.

Everything told him with wonder. He was wild animal, "like a first time an orange, an apple, a cat."

Out of the child's escape came a fantastic tale of a 45-year-old woman's long and careful guarding of her secret from the world and her other children. The mother was quoted as saying: "I wouldn't sleep if a secret so it others."

Police Capt. Francis W. Russell said Mrs. Anne F. Sullivan told her the boy was illegitimate. She child and was neglect of the $2,000 bail or hearing tomorrow.

From the time of Gerald's birth and time of his father's death, his mother was out with a family. Mrs. Sullivan's husband left years after his birth.

Then the other died and the support ended.

That was when the four-year-old boy hid secretly back to the first of his prison rooms.

The family moved from time to time but wherever they did there was always a room of mystery.

The prison room from which Gerald escaped was a darkened room only a cot and square. There was its single window. The curtain on and held in place almost to the bottom.

Yesterday police dressed the boy as a boy.

(AP Wirephoto) CLOTHED ONLY IN TWO TORN DRESSES, 14-year-old Gerald Sullivan stood in police station yesterday after his escape from a locked room where police said his mother had kept him prisoner for ten years because she wanted to keep "her sin a secret." Police Captain Francis W. Russell quoted the boy's mother, Mrs. Anne F. Sullivan, 45, as saying the boy was illegitimate.

'Flying Boxcar' Stops at Iowa City Airport

A Conestoga transport plane, better known as a "flying boxcar", spent an hour and a half at the Iowa City airport Sunday night before taking off shortly after 10 p.m. for Washington, D.C. Airbase, R.W. (Bud) Cochran of the Iowa City flying service said last night.

The big plane, one of the type used in the recent airlift operation in the blizzard area of the northwest, was enroute to Washington, D.C. from an Alaska base. Aboard the plane were 16 airforce crewmen and some cargo.

The only other stop for fuel had been made by the plane at Seattle, Wash., on the long flight from Alaska, Cochran reported.

Council Sets Hearing for Rezoning Plan

A public hearing on rezoning property from a residential to a business area was scheduled for March 31 by the city council last night.

The property to be rezoned is on highway 6 at the west edge of Iowa City.

Two ordinances received first readings at the council meeting. One concerned the proposed rate decrease for gas users, a lowering of about three percent, according to Robert Lind of the Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric company.

The other ordinance receiving first reading proposed to raise the mayor's salary from $1,500 to $2,400 annually. The pay hike would take effect with the new term beginning in April.

In other actions the council: 1. Approved, for university student council use, voting machines jointly owned by Iowa City and Johnson county.

2. Voted to pay $78,044.72 on the fourth estimate for the Benton street bridge.

3. Received a revised bid from the Modern Pest Control company, Cedar Rapids, for termite extermination at the community building. Alderman Max Hawkins said he will probably recommend its approval at the council meeting March 21.

4. Heard a complaint from James Alling Benson, 206 E. Bloomington street, and James Wilkinson, 832 Roosevelt street, on plumbing inspections. This was referred to the sewer committee.

5. Referred to the zoning and planning commission a petition to rezone from a residential to a business area property at the Dodge and Jefferson streets intersection.

6. Appointed Bernard Redlinger, 627 Orchard street, to the police force, and Dr. C.H. Millikan, 5 Riverside court, to the playground commission.

Last Rites Today For J. F. Meade, Burial at Cosgrove

James F. Meade, 84, of 323 S. Dubuque street, died early Sunday at Mercy hospital after an illness of a few weeks. He was a retired farmer and a lifelong Johnson county resident.

Funeral services will be at 9 a.m. today at St. Patrick's church where he was a member. Burial will be in St. Peter's cemetery, Cosgrove.

Mr. Meade was born in Iowa City, Dec. 25, 1864, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Meade Sr. He moved with his family at the age of 10 to a farm near Cosgrove.

He remained there until his retirement from farming in 1920. On Nov. 25, 1890, he was married to Jane Flannery, who preceded him in death in January, 1936. Also preceding him in death were two sons, Emmett and William, and one daughter, Beatrice.

Mr. Meade is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Cyril Rohret, Cosgrove; Mary, at home, and four sons, James and John, Iowa City, Leo and Cletus, Cosgrove.

Also surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Margaret Bevins, Van Horne; Mrs. Agnes Lincoln, Iowa City; Miss Jennie Meade, Oxford; two brothers, Ed, Iowa City; William, Oxford.

English MP Lauds World Government

Over one-fourth of the British parliament is pledged to support world government, James C. Joyce, Labor party parliamentary member, told a United World Federalist meeting last night.

He said high British government officials are outstanding exponents of world government as contrasted to the few American officials who actively support the movement.

Citing the advantages of world government, Joyce said the movement would be a new experience because defense would not be needed.

Millionaire Leaves DA's Office After Questioning

MAYOR WILLIAM O'DWYER'S millionaire foe, Clendenin J. Ryan, leaves the district attorney's office in New York yesterday morning after being subpoenaed to appear before the New York grand jury later in the day for questioning in the city hall wiretapping mystery. Ryan said he had been offered to ambassadorship to France if he would "lay off" O'Dwyer.

Voters Approve $182,000 School Bond Issue

Iowa City voters yesterday approved the $182,000 bond issue for building additions to two elementary schools by a vote of 1,491 to 247.

Charles S. Galiher, official election clerk, said the total number of voters was 1,772, including eight absentees. He accounted for "the heavy vote" as an indication of interest on the bond issue question.

In the race for the one-year unexpired term on the school board, Mrs. Kenneth Greene was leading L.R. Beals by a vote of 820 to 621 at 1:30 a.m. last night. Alva B. Oathout and Irving Weber were ahead in the election for three-year terms on the school board. Oathout had 595 votes and Weber 622 by Iowa City voters in the independent school district.

Other vote totals for candidates early this morning were George Dworsky, 376; Mrs. C.L. Gillies, 451; and Robert Osmundson, 555.

The official tally on the bond issue does not include 19 spoiled ballots and 25 ballots which were not voted. Galiher last night pointed out that ten ballots were "evidently carried away" by voters, since the number of ballots cast was ten less than the total number of voters.

Joe Paulus was elected a member of the county board of education for area four. He defeated

Printer Pounds Piano During Leisure Time

KIOWA (AP) — The weekly Kiowa "Divide-Review" hasn't missed an edition in more than 28 years, but Publisher F.H. Lemon doesn't appear impressed. He'd just as soon talk music. He has a piano in one corner of the shop. He thinks maybe he's the only country printer in the weekly newspaper field who can sit down and beat out "Peg O' My Heart" when he gets tired of pulling proofs.

Seven Students Pay Fines Totalling $98 For Traffic Errors

Seven SUI students paid fines totalling $98 in police court yesterday, according to police reports.

Police Judge Emil G. Trott fined Verdell A. Bruemmer, C3, La Crosse, Wis., $32.50 on a speeding charge and $4.50 for failure to stop for a red traffic signal.

Bruemmer was ordered to post a $10 bond to appear in police court next Monday on a charge of failing to heed an arterial stop sign.

Donald G. Bridges, Law Commons; Kathryn J. Kelly, A1, Iowa City, and Paul Buntz, A1, Des Moines, were fined $17.50 each on speeding charges.

Robert D. McDonald, A1, Dubuque, forfeited a $4.50 bond after failing to appear in police court yesterday to answer a charge of driving through a stop sign.

Two students from Dubuque, Joseph C. Locher, D1, and John R. Scheller, D2, were fined $2 each on charges of parking their motorcycles on a public sidewalk.

Police Judge Trott dismissed charges of operating a motor vehicle with inadequate brakes and without a driver's license against George Weiss, A1, Dover, Ohio.

Hillel House Plans Coffee Hour Mixer

Prof. Isadore Farber of the SUI psychology department will be guest speaker this afternoon at the first of Hillel foundation's Tuesday afternoon coffee hours.

The coffee hour programs will be designed to introduce students to university professors, Co-chairman Esther Baumer, A2, Omaha, said yesterday.

The coffee hour will be from 3 to 4 p.m. in Hillel house, she added.

Co-chairman for the coffee hours is Herb Lavine, A3, Sioux City.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

WILLIAM DANA ORCUTT came home one evening from a conference with George Hecht, manager of the Doubleday retail shops. "Hecht told me," he reported to his wife with relish, "that in their Wall Street shop, patronized almost exclusively by men, solid, serious books outsell frothy fiction almost 10 to 1."

"In uptown branches, however, where the customers usually are women, it's the inconsequential love stories and murder tales that get the big play. Interesting commentary on the sexes, isn't it?"

"Quite right," snapped Mrs. Orcutt. "You are aware, of course, that the men are buying the good books to take home to their wives, and the ladies, wise to the ways of keeping peace in the family, are acquiring the trash to give to their husbands."

Somebody once defined "honorarium" as a "twenty-dollar word designed to dress up a ten-dollar editorial fee."

SUI Demos Invite YRL to Debate FEPC

SUI Young Democrats last night challenged the Young Republican League to a public debate on the Sloane-O'Malley fair employment practice bill now in committee at the state legislature.

The Young Demos offered to meet the YRL "any time, any place" to debate the merits of the Sloane-O'Malley bill. The Young Republican group had previously refused to join Young Demos in a lobbying trip to Des Moines on behalf of the FEPC bill.

Going ahead with their plans for a city-wide demonstration for the bill, the Young Demos set March 29 as the date, with the

In a speech entitled "Life or Death," Dean Teeters will tell of his experiences as a toxicologist.

Firemen Answer 3 Calls over Weekend

An automobile fire, a fire in a basement, and a fire started by an oil stove were the three types of fires which the Iowa City firemen answered last two days.

Damage to the wiring resulted from a fire in the automobile of Ralph B. Nichols, at the corner of Burlington and Summit streets at 3:30 p.m. yesterday.

Soot burning of an oil stove caused some damage to the ceiling around the pipe in the home of Francis Droil, 408 Crescent street, at 10:08 yesterday morning. Assistant Fire Chief Ray Morgan said.

Some smoke damage occurred in the Ellery Morgan residence, 1212 Broadway, when an old mattress stored in the basement sparks that fell caught fire from a stove being on it while ashtray. Firemen taken from the fire at 12:15 a.m. Sunday morning, Morgan added.

Recent deliveries of new passenger equipment have added sufficient seating capacity to meet all normal requirements.

Rocket Reservations No Longer Required

Reservations are no longer needed for the Peoria Rocket, the coaches of the Des Moines Twin Star Rocket railroad have announced. Recent deliveries of new passenger equipment have added sufficient seating capacity to meet all normal requirements.
