Truman Signs New Rent Bill, Cites Strengthening Measures

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman yesterday forecast a crackdown on a "black market in rents" as he signed the new "home rule" measure extending rent controls 15 months longer.

Although it is not as strong as he had asked, Mr. Truman said passage of the act was a "crushing defeat for the real estate lobby."

The President signed the bill into law only a day before the old rent law was due to expire. Congress only Tuesday had approved the extension after weeks of bitter debate.

In a statement issued after the brief signing ceremony at the White House Mr. Truman picked out specific provisions which he said "strengthen rent controls."

These are the major ones he cited:

1. Authorizing the federal housing expeditor to regulate evictions, making it "possible" to curb a "black market in rents."

2. Empowering the U.S. rent boss to sue landlords for treble damages on the tenant's behalf in case of a rent overcharge.

3. Eliminating the "much-abused" procedure permitting so-called voluntary leases with rent increases up to 15 percent.

The President said this removed the "possibility of coercion by landlords to make tenants sign such leases in the future."

"This act," he said, "is the result of the joint efforts of the congress and the administration to find an equitable solution for a difficult problem."

Mr. Truman went on to say that "while affording more effective protection to tenants against illegal or unjustified increases, the act also facilitates the making of adjustments necessary to correct

The weatherman predicted a drop in temperature for Iowa City with marks as low as 30 degrees tonight.

Rising temperatures and more rain were predicted for tomorrow.

Egg-Tomato Barrage Greeted Ernest Bevin On Arrival in States

WASHINGTON (AP)—British Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin, having run an egg-and-tomato barrage in New York, arrived in Washington yesterday to join Secretary of State Acheson and 10 other foreign ministers in signing the North Atlantic treaty here Monday.

The pact, he told reporters at Union station, "will mean the creation of real solidarity of the west" and will provide the basis for "peace for a very long time."

Signing of the treaty by all 12 of the nations considered qualified for membership was assured only yesterday morning when Iceland's parliament approved that country's membership, and the foreign office at Lisbon announced definitely that Portugal would join.

Bevin came to the capital immediately after reaching New York aboard the liner Queen Mary. More than 500 pickets marched near the pier as the big ship was tied up alongside. They noisily protested Bevin's Palestine policies and when finally he left the pier for Pennsylvania station eggs and tomatoes were hurled from the crowd at his car.

Police here took careful precautions against a repetition of any such incidents. More than a score were on hand when his train pulled in and they roped off an area around his special railway car.

'It's Easy - Take This Ballot, Then This One, Then ...'

"IT'S A-B-C SIMPLE," claimed two student clerks yesterday as they helped explain the voting procedure to students who lined up at the Schaeffer hall, south, polling place for the all-campus election. Many students apparently weren't convinced, however, and bottlenecked the procedure by taking 10 minutes or so to vote. The clerks passing out the ballots above are Jim Argubright, A1, McAllen, Tex., and Barbara Dodge, A3, Des Moines.

Tornadoes Kill Three Persons in Oklahoma

CANTON, OKLA. (AP)—Tornadoes hit five times in north-west Oklahoma before dawn yesterday, killed three persons, injured a score and did property damage which may amount to a million dollars.

The death toll rose to three yesterday afternoon when Mrs. C.W. Godfrey, about 80, died in an Okene hospital.

Her home was in Canton, a town of 1,200, and the first one struck.

Twisters also struck Longdale, 400; Blackwell 12,000, and two rural areas — one near Enid and another near Medford.

Twelve-year-old Larry Arnold was killed in Longdale. Charles Stowers, 32, died in Canton.

Thirteen were injured in the Canton-Longdale area; nearly a dozen in Blackwell.

Alvin Adams, president of the Canton chamber of commerce, and Dr. C.L. Rogers, mayor of the town, estimated the damage there at $750,000.

Firemen and police in Blackwell, after surveying the wrecked homes, estimated damage would range from $100,000 to $500,000.

Damage in Longdale was estimated at $50,000.

Planes Damaged Charles Hirst, owner of a flying service near Enid, reported the tornado damaged ten planes at an estimated value of $20,000.

No estimate was available of the damage to a rural school and barns and outbuildings southeast of Medford.

All parts of Canton felt the force of the storm but the northwest residential section was hardest hit. Nearly every business building was damaged — but none was flattened.

All the damage in Blackwell was to homes and a school building.

No Housing Problem Disaster relief workers reported they had no housing problem. Neighbors took in the homeless; meals were served in cafes. The injured were taken to hospitals in nearby towns.

Ris Voted Tailfeathers Award; Voting Lighter than Last Year

By BILL HATTWICK Bob Tyson, Dick Dice, Mary Vande Steeg and Joan Tripp were elected to the four delegates-at-large positions on the Student Council in yesterday's campus elections.

Elected to the two two-year posts on Student Board of Publications were Don Guthrie and Max Sowers. Winner of the one-year position was Anne Smith.

Rainy weather and a multitude of slightly perplexed voters apparently reduced the expected number of ballots.

Bottleneck An unexpected bottleneck developed when some students took up to 10 minutes in the mechanical battle with the voting machines.

Total unofficial vote cast on the machines during the 13 1/2 hours of voting was 2,415. Last year's elections recorded a total of 3,199.

The Tailfeather's Athletic award was won by Wally Ris in a field of 14 candidates.

Candidates elected in the Women's Recreation association, University women's association, Town Women, and YWCA races will be announced today. A special recognition program for these winners will be held in Macbride auditorium at 4:30 p.m.

The outstanding senior man and woman (Hawkeye award) winners will be announced at the all-campus carnival to be held in the fieldhouse April 9.

Not Official Council President Evan L. Hultman said yesterday the elections would not be official until a check has been made of the campaign expenditures of each candidate. Some students have been complaining about the possibility that several candidates have exceeded the $25 limit act by the council, he said.

YMCA Officers Executive officers elected in the YMCA election were Walter McMahon, president; William Davis, vice-president; William Sharp Jr., secretary, and Thomas Burney, treasurer.

The man with the second highest vote in the presidential race automatically was elected vice-president. The YMCA treasurer was also automatically elected from the second highest total in the secretary slate.

Positions on the Union Board from the college of commerce were won by Jeanne Larson and Don Hays.

Senior Officers Executive officers elected in the liberal arts senior class officers race were: James McKenzie, president; Ralph Woodward, vice-president; Nancy Shuttlesworth, secretary, and Mary Vande Steeg, treasurer.

The class officer candidates receiving the highest total automatically became president, second highest became vice-president, third became treasurer and fourth became secretary.

Syrian Government Captured by Army To Halt 'Despotism'

DAMASCUS, SYRIA (AP)—The Syrian army overthrew the government without a fight yesterday and arrested many high officials.

Brig. Husni Zayim, chief of staff of the army, said the dawn coup was to deliver Syria from "despotism" and would not interfere with previous foreign engagements.

His statement was taken to mean that Syria will go ahead with negotiations for an armistice with Israel.

A curfew was clamped on the country at 6 a.m., the moment the revolt was successful. A government of undersecretaries carried on the administration while Zayim sought the advice of Faris El Khouri, president of parliament and former premier, on formation of a new cabinet.

Armistice At Rhodes the acting UN mediator, Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, said he assumed the Israeli - Syrian armistice negotiations would proceed as scheduled. Bunche's aides left for Damascus Tuesday to begin the work.

U.S. Minister James Hugh Keeley Jr. reported to Washington from Damascus that President Al Sayed Shukri al Kuwatly, Premier Khaled Bey Azem and the entire cabinet were arrested.

A high Syrian source in Cairo said the People's party of Syria proposed to the President two weeks ago that Syria be annexed to Iraq. The informant said he did not know whether Brig. Zayim's movement was for or against such a step.

Brig. Zayim was a colonel when he succeeded Abdullah Atfeh as chief of staff last May 24, soon after the outbreak of war in Palestine. He formerly was chief of security and of police.

Change "Compelled" Zayim told The Associated Press the army was "compelled to undertake this change of regime because of attacks against the army inside, as well as outside, the house of representatives." He said these attacks misrepresented the army.

In addition, he declared, the people were discontented with the government and the personalities in it.

"Our movement is purely local and has no foreign implication whatsoever," he said. "We are not power seekers or supporters of dictatorial rule. As soon as a new cabinet is formed which we are seeking at present with the advice of Faris El Khouri, we shall transfer power to them."

The Iowa City attorney said last night he plans to appear at the federal district court sometime tomorrow morning.

Hart will replace Maurice F. Donegan of Davenport, who has served since 1940.

Senator Says Briton Was in Spanish-American War

Churchill Denies Fighting Against U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Winston Churchill emphatically denied yesterday a statement that he fought against the United States during the Spanish-American war.

The statement was made Monday by Senator Langer (R-ND) during senate debate on the foreign aid bill.

The former British prime minister, in a telegram to Senator Connally (D-Tex.), declared the charge was "utterly devoid of truth."

Connally placed Churchill's reply in the Congressional Record.

During Monday's debate Langer interrupted a speech by Senator Jenner (R-Ind). He asked whether Jenner knew that during the Spanish-American war "the same Winston Churchill who brags that he is half American took up arms for Spain and fought against the United States and did all he could to defeat us?"

Jenner replied that he did not blame Churchill, that "he was representing his country" and "was doing what he thought best for his country."

Churchill, who is now visiting in New York, said in his telegram:

"The statement made by Mr. Langer is entirely devoid of truth. I visited Cuba and was with the Spanish army as an observer during the months of November and December, 1895.

"There was then no question of the United States being involved in a war with Spain. This war did not in fact begin until February 1898, or more than two years after I had left Cuba.

"I should be grateful if you felt able to contradict this false charge by stating the facts to the senate so that the truth appears in your record."

Connally, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, told the senate he had notified Langer ahead of time that there would be something of interest to him coming up in the senate yesterday.

Langer leaped to his feet immediately after Connally finished. He started to speak but was reminded that Senator Malone (R-Nev) had the floor.

"I don't care who has the floor," shouted Langer, his face flushed,

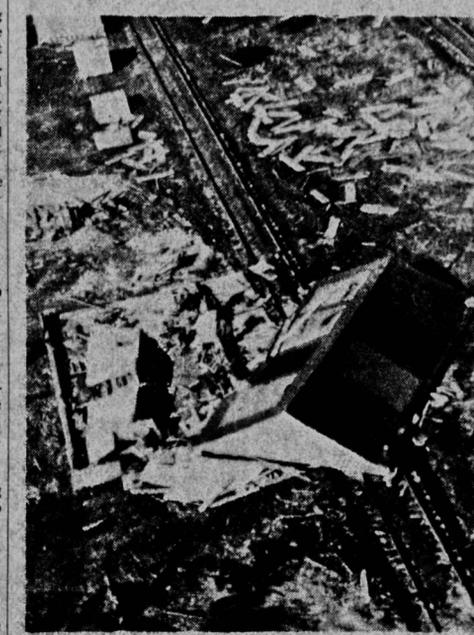

"I am going to reply." Malone apparently was willing to let Langer have his way, but he already had let Senator Williams (R-Del) interrupt to make a statement on another matter. Williams was nearly through and wanted to finish.

But Langer, impatient, suddenly shouted that "I am not going to beg anybody for a chance to reply."

With that he turned on his heel and stomped angrily up the senate aisle, flinging over his shoulder "I'll reply tomorrow."

He sat down at a desk in the rear of the chamber, banging a book on the desk. While Williams finished his statement, Langer stalked out of the senate chamber.

Indians Slug Chisox

TUCSON (AP) — The Cleveland Indians yesterday defeated the Chicago White Sox, 8 to 4, scoring their 11th victory in 19 games of the spring exhibition season.

Team physicians reported the Indians would have to do without the services of second baseman Joe Gordon for a while. They said X-rays showed his right arm was weak and strained. He was advised to take a short vacation. Gordon developed the arm trouble during a recent tour of the west coast.

In yesterday's contest the Indians slugged pitchers Fred Bradley and Al Gettel for 12 hits, including Dale Mitchell's fourth homer of the spring. Mike Garcia and Gene Bearden limited the Chisox to nine hits.

Giants Whip Pittsburgh

Debunk Possibility of Louis-Jacobs Confab

CHICAGO (AP) — The possibility of Joe Louis and Mike Jacobs conferring in New York this week ended purchase of The 20th Century Boxing club by the International Boxing club was discounted by an IBC spokesman yesterday.

"There's not a chance in the world" that Louis will be in New York, he said.

Louis is in Los Angeles now and it was said he would remain there for 10 or 15 more days.

It was rumored in New York that the recently retired champion and his new boxing promotion firm would negotiate with the aging Jacobs to buy his club, under whose auspices Louis won the heavyweight championship.

Tunney Fight Wasn't Last

Manassa Mauler Fought Again

HARTFORD (AP) — Nearly everyone thinks, says Arthur McGinley, sports editor of the Hartford Times, that Jack Dempsey's last fight was the one he lost to Gene Tunney, September 22, 1927 in Chicago.

But the one-time world's champ had another under his belt. The scene was a transport dock in the Pacific and the time midway through World War II.

There was no million dollar gate, no referee, no seconds and, strangest of all, it was between a 50 year old commander of the coast guard in one corner and in the other a husky young enlisted man who had once served as a sparring partner for heavyweights including Joe Louis.

Dempsey was in town the other day and told the story to McGinley:

"This bird was making himself pretty objectionable—bullying the other men," recalled Jack. "One day there was a boxing show and this guy knocked his opponent cold. So he began to boast that no so-and-so on that ship could lick him.

"It burned me, but naturally I didn't say anything—I was an officer and he an enlisted man but finally he walked up to me and said you're a great fighter, you're an ex-champ. How about you?"

"I knew I had no right to fight him—that it was strictly against regulations. But before I knew it I had stripped down and was in there with him.

"I said to myself, 'Are you going daffy at 50 fighting a fellow about 23 or 24' but there wasn't any time for thinking about it.

"This bird was pretty good and in the first round he batted me around, and I thought I was in for the licking I deserved for not having better sense. But then came the break. He came out for the second with his guard down. I could see he thought it was going to be pretty soft.

"I knew this was my only chance and I put everything back of that one 'shot.' It was a

Old DiMag Again as — Joe's Heel Improves

By JOE REICHLER

ST. PETERSBURG (AP) — "Well, I'm afraid I'll play another year. It looks like I'll have to work for my money."

That was Joe DiMaggio's way of saying that he was pleased with the first real test of his tender right heel.

Sitting half undressed in the clubhouse at Miller Huggins field, the New York Yankees' great outfielder discussed his six-inning stint against the Cincinnati Reds yesterday.

It marked the first game he started during the exhibition tour. Up to yesterday the Yankees' No. 1 question mark, had limited his playing to pinch hitting chores only.

"The pain has not completely gone," he told reporters, "but I'm very happy over the results. It hurt a little, but the pain is decreasing steadily, however. If it lessens a little more, I'll be in good shape."

Asked how much he expected to play, DiMaggio replied grimly "every blankety blank inning."

"Of course I'll know better tomorrow, although I don't expect any reaction," Joe said. "You see" he added ruefully, "I didn't do much of anything out there today."

In three times at bat, DiMaggio flied out once and went out on routine grounders the other times. He didn't exert himself at any time, just jogged to first on each of his ground outs. He accepted two routine flies in centerfield, hardly moving out of his tracks each time.

DiMaggio, whose $90,000 salary is the highest ever paid to a Yankee player, underwent a winter operation for the removal of a spur on his right heel. It apparently healed, but over-exertion on Joe's part in his first workout caused it to flare up again.

punch with a prayer riding with it if ever there was one.

"I landed flush on the fellow's jaw and he went down and out. There was never another peep out of this bird who had admitted he could lick the world.

"I expected to be court-martialed—an officer fighting an enlisted man. And I sure would have been if I had lost."

Des Moines Fighter's Plan to Quit — Thwarted by Death's KO

Thwarted by Death's KO

By PETE ELDRED

SAN JOSE (AP) — Young Billy Cornwell intended to get out of the fight racket — hang up his gloves for good.

A couple of good bouts on the coast — pick up some money fast —

But it didn't work out that way.

Tuesday night the Des Moines fighter, lightweight champion of Iowa, caught a straight right on the chin, smacked the canvas so hard that his head bounced several inches. The thud was heard all over the arena.

Never regaining consciousness, Cornwell died yesterday morning in a San Jose hospital. Brain concussion: the second such injury he had received in his ring career.

His was the fourth known ring death this year. Carl Byas, at Jefferson City, Mo., Art Jackson at Toledo, Ohio, and Ali Mekoui in Algiers, all had gone the same way.

Hazards of the fight game were well known to Cornwell. He had been in 38 professional fights, won all but five of them. On Oct. 18, 1947, he was knocked out by Nick Diaz in another San Jose bout, incurring a slight concussion.

He quit the ring briefly; then resumed fighting in his home state of Iowa, winning the lightweight title.

About a month ago he told a Des Moines newsman:

"I've got to get my money fast and get out. I'm going to the coast, get a couple of good matches and hang up my gloves for good."

Just like that, 25 years old and all caught up on the game he had been following since he was 15. He had done some fighting in the navy, then moved up into professional ranks in 1945. He did well even after he began fighting main events over the 10-round route.

He surprised experts by winning a technical knockout decision over a veteran Chicago fighter, Harman Mills, last January. Later he upset Del Cockayne of Des Moines, a long time rival, taking a TKO in the fifth round.

Then he came to the coast again. He had fought around California at various times in the past three years. Rude Rosenberg of Los Angeles managed him, lining up Tuesday night's main event against Tote Martinez. They went into the ring at 138 pounds.

Midway in the ninth round, Martinez connected with a straight right and down went the Iowan. Referee Vern Bybee counted him out and a doctor had him carried to the dressing room.

Police Chief Ray Blackmore, a spectator at the fight, said the padding was thinner than the law demands. "There was only about an inch," he said.

Frank Faulk, assistant manager of the auditorium, said: "When the padding on the ring floor was new, it was only one and one-quarter inches thick. It is even thinner now. We've been trying to get a softer rubber covering for it."

Col. David T. Gilmore and John Horan, who observed the fight for the State Athletic commission, said they had inspected the ring at 1 p.m. Tuesday and found the required two inches of padding in place.

An autopsy to determine the exact cause of Cornwell's death was ordered, according to Dr. Anthony Badami, the physician who attended the dying fighter.

Donald Shields of San Francisco, chief inspector for the State Athletic commission, said an investigation was being started immediately. The commission was called into meeting Monday at San Jose.

Police Chief Blackmore conferred with District Attorney N.J. Menard and they decided to delay taking any formal action pending the investigation results.

Seven Malmen In AAU Meet

Seven wrestlers from SUI, five representing the university, will compete in the National AAU wrestling championships in Cedar Rapids, April 8 and 9.

Two freshmen, with a possibility of others being announced later, will compete unattached.

Coach Mike Howard said yesterday that plans have been made for the men to compete in the AAU meet in the Coe fieldhouse.

The points scored by the five varsity men will count toward Iowa's score, but the freshmen are ineligible to score for the Hawkeyes.

Iowa entries are headed by Joe Scarpello, Olympic team member and three time winner of the Big Nine 175-pound title. He also has a first, third and second to his credit in the NCAA wrestling championships. Scarpello won the AAU 165-pound title in 1942 but hasn't competed since.

Bob Geigel, third in the NCAA 191-pound class last season, will compete in that AAU class, along with teammate "Junebug" Ferrin, also in the 191-pound division.

Other varsity men entered in the Cedar Rapids meet are Ralph Thomas, at 155-pounds, and Russell Tharp in the 145-pound class.

Freshmen entering unattached are Manuel Macias of Davenport, 115-pounder and Charles Muhlstok, Woodmere, N.Y., 175-pound class.

Former Hawk Captain Dies in Philadelphia

Dr. Carter C. Hamilton, captain of the 1921 SUI baseball team, and former Cleveland Indian baseball pitcher, died Monday at Philadelphia.

Elkader 'Flashes' Reunited

Former High School Stars, Dittmer, Drahn, Together Again on Hawkeye Diamond

With Jack Dittmer and Glenn Drahn, the Elkader "flashes," on the Iowa baseball diamond, any day might be called "Elkader Day."

Dittmer is getting ready for his third season as regular second baseman, the former Esquire all-American just a junior.

Drahn, better known for his football playing, is working out as a pitcher on Otto Vogel's squad. It's a common sight during practice to see Drahn pitching and Dittmer posted at his keystone position in the back-ground.

When Glenn put on an Iowa uniform this spring and reported for practice the two "flashes" were united again on the baseball diamond for the first time since 1946.

It was back in '46 when they pitched, batted, and fielded in standout style for Elkader high.

Drahn shared pitching chores for Elkader and both batted over .500 in their senior year. Iowa could use some of that.

Dittmer will be out to break the batting slump he went into last year. In his freshman year at Iowa he took over second base and hit a healthy .317. Last year he skidded to an anemic .200, but was slowed all year by a bad ankle.

Drahn will try to build up a Hawkeye weakness, pitching. In his high school career he lost only two games during three years of pitching.

Both were important members of the Iowa grid team last fall. Dittmer starred at an end position and Drahn was the regular

'Mr. U.S.A.' and 'Miss U.S.A.'

PICKED MOST NEARLY perfect specimens of American manhood and womanhood at Shrine auditorium, Los Angeles, were John Grimek, "Mr. U.S.A." and Shirley Terge, "Miss U.S.A." They were judged on symmetry of proportion of one muscle to another— even appearance of fingernails and toenails counted (that's what the publicity releases said). Note that "Mr." stands on tiptoe to be as tall as "Miss" in her high heels.

Weather Drives Hawk Baseball Team Indoors

The weatherman threw a dampener on Iowa's baseball team yesterday and forced it into the dry confines of the fieldhouse. Coach Otto Vogel's charges went through light drills with the pitchers getting the most attention. A lecture on some fundamentals followed the workout.

The coach hoped to be able to go outside today for some much-needed work. The season's opener with Bradley is only six days away.

Ris Seeks Fifth AAU Title Today

Final Bid for 'Clean' Sweep

Honors for Iowa's Wally Ris keep building up and today the Hawkeye, 1949's outstanding college swimmer, can add two big features to his crowded headdress by winning his fifth straight national AAU 100 crown.

Winner in 1945, '46, '47, and '48, Ris is seeking his fifth straight American amateur victory. A win today at Daytona Beach, Fla., would bracket him with Peter Fick as the only two sprinters ever to win five straight AAU 100-yard titles.

Even Johnny Weismuller could win no more than four sprinting championships in a row.

Today's race is also the final prize left in Ris' bid to sweep the Big Nine, NCAA and AAU championships for a second straight year, something never before accomplished by a swimmer.

In addition to winning the 100 yard free style in the NCAA meet last week, Ris was named the outstanding college swimmer of 1949 by the College Swimming Coaches of America.

Ford Now Professional There will be little more competition in the AAU race today than Ris met at the NCAA. Alan Ford, holder of that :49.7 record, has turned professional.

Ris' winning time last year of :50.4 seconds stands as the AAU meet record. In each succeeding meet since he first won the national 100 in 1945 in :51.3, Ris has cut his time for the event.

At the NCAA championships last weekend, Ris duplicated the :50.4 that stands as his personal record in winning the intercollegiate championships.

And as anchor-man on the Iowa four-man relay team that broke its own Iowa record, Ris was clocked officially in :50.1, for his 100-yard leg, only a finger-snap behind the world record of :49.7. Caught in :50 Flat

Iowa Coach Dave Armbruster caught Ris in 50 seconds, flat, just three-tenths off the record.

The relay team was timed in 3:29.1, breaking its own school record of 3:29.2, set at the Big Nine meet this year by the same team of Bobby Borch, Erv Straub, "Rusty" Garst and Ris.

OLYMPIC CHAMPION AND HIS COACH, Wally Ris and Dave Armbruster, are in Daytona Beach, Fla., for the national AAU swimming championships. Ris, in addition to winning the 100-meter sprint in London last summer, has annexed four straight AAU 100-yard free style titles and is out for his fifth. Armbruster is the only swimming coach Iowa has ever had, coming to the university in 1917.

Vitamin Lack Cited as Spring Fever Cause SUI Third in Granting Phys. Ed. Doctorates

Mrs. Miller Talks On 'Basic 7' Foods

Spring fever may be curable! Mrs. Corinne Miller, Johnson county extension home economist, told members of the Homemaking committee of the Women of the Moose and their guests that lack of or inadequate supply of vitamin C may cause the perennial spring fever.

Mrs. Miller, guest speaker at a nutrition class Tuesday evening in the Moose hall explained that since vitamin C is not stored in the body, persons should consciously plan to eat such foods as citrus fruits, tomatoes, raw cabbage and potatoes every day.

During the spring, fresh fruits and vegetables are hardest to obtain, she said. Since air destroys vitamin C, stored foods are of less value.

Mrs. Miller used a large food chart to explain the seven basic foods and their value in the diet. Describing each of the seven groupings, she advised a balanced daily diet to include:

1. Leafy, green, and yellow vegetables, one or more servings daily.
2. Citrus fruit, tomatoes, raw cabbage, and other foods high in vitamin C, one or more servings daily.
3. Potatoes and other vegetables and fruits, two or more servings daily.
4. Milk and milk products. Children through teen age should drink 3 to 4 cups of milk or the equivalent in milk products a day and adults should drink 3 or more cups of milk daily.
5. Meat, poultry or fish, one serving daily, if possible; four or more eggs a week; dried beans, peas, nuts, peanut butter, two or more servings a week.
6. Bread, flour, and cereals. (Whole-grain or enriched or restored).
7. Butter or fortified margarine daily.

"A good diet may add ten years more of efficiency to your life," said Mrs. Miller.

Mrs. Miller's talk was preceded by two songs sung by Anna Marie Suplee, accompanied by her sister, Pauline Suplee.

Later in the evening members and guests inspected a food exhibit by the Homemaking committee. Coffee and samples of the food displayed were given to all present. Mrs. Francis Wakefield and Mrs. Zoe Heacock poured.

Table settings for breakfast, luncheon and dinner, a new feature of the class this year, were on display during the evening.

The breakfast table was arranged by Mrs. James Herring, Mrs. George Thomas, Mrs. Frank Novotny, Mrs. Frank Machovec and Mrs. Milo Novy.

Yellow jonquils, acacia and pink snapdragons added color to a luncheon table set with Bird of Paradise Bavarian china and clear yellow Etoxia. The place settings of fork, knife, spoon and soup spoon, salad plate and soup plates were placed on individual hand crocheted place mats.

The luncheon table was arranged by Mrs. Francis Wakefield, Mrs. Ralph Wildman, Mrs. John Ludwig, Mrs. James Netolicky and Mrs. Zoe Heacock.

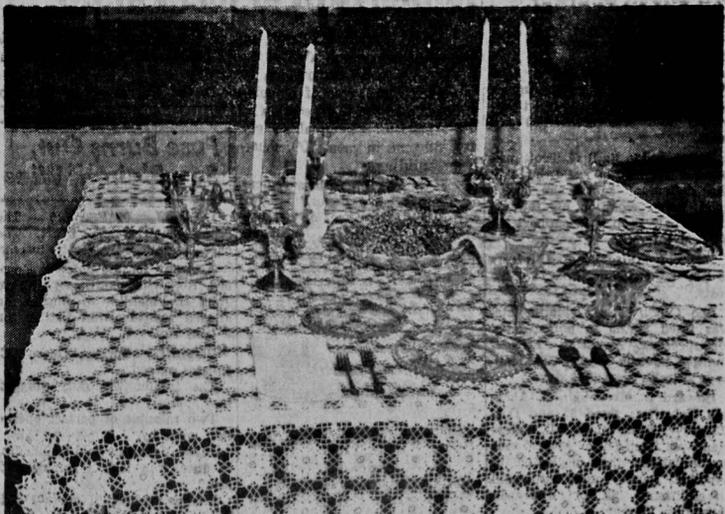

Mrs. Otto Dolezal, Mrs. Russell Cochran, Mrs. W.A. Vorbrich, Mrs. Emory Stagg and Mrs. Aubrey White arranged the dinner table.

Approximately 60 women attended the nutrition meeting.

Ethics recently informed Hall that the article would be printed in an "early publication." Published by the University of Chicago, Ethics is an international journal of social, political and legal philosophy.

CANDLEWICK CRYSTAL LENDS SIMPLE CHARM AND BEAUTY to this dinner table. Both silverware and crystal are displayed at their best on the dainty ecru tablecloth of the Queen Anne pattern, crocheted by Mrs. Emory Stagg. Place settings include salad fork, dinner fork, spoon, soup spoon and individual butter knife of Rosepoint sterling, and dinner plate, salad plate, goblet and sherbert glasses are of Fairmont crystal. Green candles and turquoise centerpiece filled with yellow acacia add color to the dinner setting.

The University of Iowa ranks third in the number of doctorate degrees earned in the physical education department from 1930 to 1946.

According to a list printed in the March issue of the Research Quarterly, published by the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation, students in physical education at SUI have written 45 of the 420 theses written during the 16 year period.

T.K. Cureton, University of Illinois, compiled the list of doctorate theses from responses to a letter of inquiry sent to all professional departments of physical education offering graduate work in the United States.

The list includes some theses completed in other departments which were partly sponsored or advised upon by one or more staff members in health, physical education and recreation because doctorate work in physical education has only recently been organized.

New York University and Columbia University, the only schools conferring more doctorate degrees than SUI, totaled 146 and 96 respectively.

Stanford university conferred 14 doctorate degrees and the Universities of Michigan and Pittsburgh tied for the fifth place with 13 degrees each.

The SUI physical education department began its program of graduate work in 1926. The first woman to receive a doctorate degree was M. Gladys Scott, now a professor in the department here, who received her degree in 1937.

Professor Scott's thesis concerned "The Assessment of Motor Abilities of College Women Through Objective Tests."

The first man to receive his doctorate degree here was George Wells, in 1932. Mr. Wells' thesis was on "The Effect of External Temperature Changes as Brought About by Water of Varying Temperatures on Circulation, Respiration and Body Temperature."

At the present time there are 13 women and 9 men studying for doctorate degrees in the SUI physical education departments.

College Orientation Classes in Summer Asked by Seashore

A proposal for the orientation of college students during the summer session was the topic of an article by Dean Emeritus Carl E. Seashore of SUI's graduate college in the March 12 issue of "School and Society" magazine.

Seashore proposed that a half dozen or more "exceptionally qualified universities" throughout the nation set up a program during their summer session for educational guidance for high school graduates.

He first proposed the program for the summer session at SUI in 1942, but because of war and post-war conditions the program was not followed at full scale.

The program for the college prospect called for a systematic testing program and a personally guided tour of interviews with the directors and specialists in various fields.

For the high school pupil, the program comes in at the most critical period in his educational and vocational adjustment, Seashore said.

An article, "Vocational and A-vocational Guidance in Music," written by Seashore, appeared recently in "Professional" magazine. The article discussed the problem of guidance for musicians.

Art Theatre Guild To Sponsor Movie

Mitchum Out After 50-Day Jail Sentence

By ALINE MOSBY
 HOLLYWOOD (P)—Robert Mitchum walked happily out of jail yesterday, along and almost unnoticed.

The husky actor clapped behind bars 50 days ago on a marijuana conviction, heard the cell doors clank behind him at 8:25 a.m.

"As jails go it was all right," he joked.

Then he brushed past the normal courthouse crowd, out of the jail into the sunshine. An elderly man at the door shoved a crumpled newspaper and pencil under his nose. Mitchum beamed and scribbled his autograph.

"Thank you very much," he said, and shook the man's hand.

The actor walked to the corner and stood a minute, smoking a cigarette. Workers hustling to their jobs pushed around him without a glance. The actor at last hailed a cruising taxi, hopped in, and sped home to his wife and two kids.

A few minutes after Mitchum was released, Lila Leeds, blonde starlet who was convicted with him after a smoking party at her hillside cottage, walked pertly out of jail and waved happily at photographers. They both got 10 days off their 60-day sentences as a credit for good behavior.

"You can see I kept my figure," she twitted, "thanks to that wonderful food in the jail — unquo!"

Mitchum, his faded prison dun garces gone, made his appearance in a snappy, pin-striped suit, white shirt and somber blue tie. That's the same outfit the husky actor wore last Feb. 9 when he failed to defend himself on charges of conspiring to possess marijuana and was hauled to the pokey. But the reporters agreed that from the neck up he looked to be different, happier guy.

"I could have got out last night," he said nonchalantly on his way out of the jailhouse door "but I told 'em I didn't want to disturb my sleep."

Mitchum joked that the prison honor farm, where he spent most of his sentence mixing cement blocks, was better than Palm Springs.

Miss Leeds confided that she snared a movie contract, but she wouldn't say who signed her up.

"It has to be approved by my probation officer first. But I can tell you it also calls for me to make a personal appearance tour."

A third member of the smoking party, Vickie Evans, cashed in on her fame, too, by dancing a boogie-woogie for a week in a local theater after her acquittal. The fourth, Robin Ford, is still behind bars.

Starlet Ends Seven-Week Run in Jail

SCREEN STARLET LILA LEEDS waves a farewell as she prepares to leave a Los Angeles jail after serving a 50-day sentence for a narcotics violation. Miss Leeds got ten days off for good behavior. Police Matron Frances O. Blumbeld sees the actress to the door.

Clean House for Beauty

'Word to the Wise' Suggests Floor Scrubbing For Health, Hips and Hubba Hubba

CHICAGO (UP)—Spring house cleaning can be beautifying, housewives were assured yesterday.

Scrubbing floors or any other household task isn't drudgery; it's a way to grow slimmer, healthier and more beautiful.

Or so the man said. He was Leo J. Kelly, executive of a national cleaning association.

"It's all a matter of correct breathing, correct posture and above all, stretching," Kelly said.

His daughter, Martha, 22, a curvaceous Irish lass, demonstrated for approving reporters the correct way to perform seven household chores. Here's how they go:

1. When you sweep or vacuum, stand erect and hold your tummy in. No! Don't walk over to that bit of paper five feet away. S-T-R-E-T-C-H for it. This is good for the hips and waistline and wonderful for tall girls who tend to have round shoulders.
2. Twist, bend up and down and use your abdominal muscles when scrubbing the bathtub or floors. This helps the waistline and is supposed to be far better than the touching-hands-to-floor exercise.
3. You may not know it, but you can prevent double chin while making beds. Don't walk around the bed to smooth a lump on the other side. R-E-A-C-H for it.
4. Don't stand on a chair to wash windows. Stand on tip-toes and reach for all you're worth.
5. Same thing for getting stuff off high shelves.
6. When you peel potatoes or other vegetables, hold them above eye-level, not down. This relaxes your nervous system.
7. Stand erect, bend the neck (not the middle) and breathe from the diaphragm when washing dishes.

House Drops Bill to Repeal Assessor Act

DES MOINES (P)—The two major parties split their votes when the house of representatives refused yesterday to repeal the county assessor act of 1947, against which many Democrats campaigned.

The measure, introduced to carry out a minority party campaign pledge, as defeated 71 to 34. Thereafter, Democratic sponsors withdrew a companion bill to reinstate the former township assessor system.

Some Democrats voted against repeal, and some Republicans voted for it.

After the house had spent considerable time yesterday morning on a senate-approved measure to amend the county assessor act, a switch was made to the repeal bill to give its proponents a good chance to have their say.

The house then resumed discussion of the senate bill but adjourned for the day without getting to a number of amendments which must be disposed of before a final vote.

The senate measure would provide for the appointment of the county assessor by representatives of mayors, boards of education and boards of supervisors. The assessor would be given a four-year term.

Under the present act, the assessor is appointed by the county auditor from a list of eligibles following an examination given by the state tax commission. The assessor's appointment is permanent, except for grounds for removal.

The objectives of the 1947 act were to equalize assessments and bring under taxation property which had been escaping taxation. Sponsors of the act said it would result in greater revenue besides equalizing assessments.

Man Pleads Guilty On Check Charge, Fine Is Suspended

Charged with issuing a false check, Kenneth Rogers, Amana, pleaded guilty in police court yesterday and was fined $50 and costs.

Police Judge Emil G. Trot suspended the fine on condition that the defendant make the check good, go to work in his father's shoe repair shop, and support his wife and family.

The court also ordered Rogers to pay $5 for court and sheriff's costs.

Leo C. Smith, A1, Maquoketa, was fined $27.50 in police court for speeding. Arresting officers charged he was driving 50 m.p.h. in a 25 mile zone Tuesday.

Howard Lauderbaugh, G, Agalala Neb., was fined $5 and D.R. Hargrave, Rock Island, Ill., salesman, was fined $6 for several meter violations they neglected to pay for. Lauderbaugh also paid an additional $2 for a tow-in charge on his car.

Plaintiff Drops Suit Against Local Firm

A $139.40 judgment suit against the McNamara Furniture company, Iowa City, was dismissed yesterday in Johnson county district court.

The Jasper Seating company, Jasper, Ind., filed notice of the dismissal through its attorney, Emil Trot, acknowledging a compromise settlement of the account.

In the original suit, the plaintiff claimed the Iowa City firm owed $139.40 for goods and merchandise sold and delivered on Feb. 14, 1948.

Swisher and Swisher were attorneys for the defendant.

County Needy Get $26,000 for March

Old age assistance payments to 468 Johnson county cases averaged $49.94 for the month of March, the state department of social welfare said recently.

Fourteen needy blind cases received an average of $56.17 and 38 dependent children cases got an average of $61.04, for a total of over $26,000 for Johnson county.

The state total for this month was over $2.5-million, a slight increase over last month. There were 89 less old age assistance cases this month but 50 new dependent children cases and one new aid-to-the-blind case.

Harold Urey to Speak at SUI

Prof. Harold C. Urey, one of the nation's leading atomic scientists, will speak at SUI April 11, Harold Boaz of the chemistry department announced yesterday.

Urey, professor of chemistry at the University of Chicago, will address the Iowa section of the American Chemical society at 7:30 p.m. in room 300, chemistry building.

Speaking on the "Measurement of Paleo-Temperatures," Urey will discuss the effect of temperature on the distribution of isotopes of an element among different compounds. Isotopes are elements with the same chemical characteristics having different atomic weights.

During the war, Urey was engaged in research for the production of heavy water and uranium 235 for the atom bomb project.

He was awarded the Nobel prize in chemistry in 1934 for the discovery of deuterium, an isotope of hydrogen.

Urey was awarded the Willard Gibbs medal by the American Chemical society in 1934, the Davy medal by the Royal Society of London in 1940 and the Franklin Institute medal in 1943.

He has been honored by scientific societies in Ireland, France, Denmark, Sweden and Belgium.

Author of several treatises on physical chemistry and atomic structure, he was editor of the Journal of Chemical Physics from 1933 to 1940.

Since 1946 he has been on the staff of the Institute for Nuclear Studies.

He received his Ph.D. degree at the University of California in 1923 and holds degrees from three other universities.

POSTPONE SKATING

Roller skating at the women's gymnasium has been changed from tomorrow night to tonight. The day has been changed due to the Folk festival.

Orientation Leaders To Elect Executive Committee Members

Orientation leaders will meet with housing unit representatives tonight at 7 p.m. in 221A, Schaefer hall, to elect an executive committee to coordinate future orientation programs.

Quadrangle, South Quadrangle, Hillcrest and Town Men associations will each send two representatives to the meeting. The interfraternity council will send four to six students to serve on the committee Chairman James Packer said yesterday.

The representatives will serve with members from the Student Council and Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, to formulate the expanded program planned for next fall, he said.

Edward Luker, G, Grapeland, Texas, has been appointed editor of the committee's booklet, "Man About Campus." It will explain campus activities to new students, Packer said.

Additional meetings are scheduled for every other Thursday for the rest of the semester, he said.

Fuse Burns Out, So - Plaintiff Wins

LOWELL, MASS. (P) — The scene—small claims court. The case—an allegedly faulty toaster.

Attorney for the defense, Howard Rogowitz, petitioned Judge John H. Valentine to plug in the alleged temperamental toaster for a trial run.

Plaintiff's attorney, George C. Eliades agreed.

The toaster was duly plugged in.

Two minutes of perfect operation went by.

Judge Valentine said to Eliades, "I guess you took a gamble and lost."

Eliades replied, "I guess I did, but it wasn't the first time."

All of a sudden every light in the court room went out.

When the fuses were replaced Judge Valentine remarked: "I find for the plaintiff."

Two Traffic Accidents Cause $607 Damage

Two traffic accidents reported yesterday caused property damage totalling $607, police said. No personal injuries were listed in the driver reports.

Lynn E. Healy, A3, Boone, told police the car he was driving crashed into the rear of a parked car at 411 S. Lucas street at 10 p.m. Tuesday.

F.S. Orr, 411 1-2 S. Lucas street, owner of the parked car, estimated $100 damage to the rear of his car. Healy said $200 damage to his father's car resulted from the accident.

Another SUI student was involved in an accident Monday at 8 p.m., police said.

Howard O. Fosse, A2, La Porte City, and Leo Goss, 1026 N. Summit street, were drivers involved in the collision on S. Capitol street, north of College street, police reported.

Drivers said an unidentified third driver, attempting to park, was partly to blame for the congested traffic in which the accident occurred.

Fosse reported he turned north on Capitol street and Goss was driving south on Capitol street when the accident occurred.

"Mr. Shapiro is in court arguing a case."

"Oh. Then I'll talk to Mr. Shapiro."

"Mr. Shapiro can't come to the phone. He's in conference with an important client."

SUI Student Flew As Airline Hostess

By HUGH DOTY
Elaine Ellerbrock, A3, Ottumwa, has 3,165 hours — air hours, that is, as a Trans-World airlines stewardess.

She is now a political science major and Westlawn freshman advisor at comparatively unexciting SUI. Elaine is preparing for further service as a stewardess — this time with Pan-American in South America — law school or a career in the diplomatic service.

She started flying with TWA in 1944 between Kansas City and Albuquerque. When she "retired" in 1948, Elaine had compiled almost a million air miles, not counting "deadhead" and vacation flights.

Before taking to the air, she attended Iowa State Teachers college at Cedar Falls for two years, then taught for two years at Marengo and for a few weeks in Ottumwa.

"Flying is not all glamour as some people believe," Elaine said. "It's a lot of hard work."

The interesting people and the fact that she didn't always know where she was going next made each flight a new experience. "We had all the movie stars," the ex-stewardess said. "But the prettiest and most friendly woman was Donna Reed and I'm not saying that just because she is from Iowa, either."

"The nicest male star was Ozzie Nelson. He was so nice and down to earth. When he found out I was from Iowa he invited me out to his home because his wife (Harriet Hilliard) is from Des Moines."

"I didn't go out to the house but I did watch one of their broadcasts from the studio sponsor's booth."

Elaine said most of the flights were merely routine but usually someone would want to sit and talk. Once in a while something out of the ordinary would happen. "One time we picked up a New York to Los Angeles flight in Kansas City," Elaine recalled. "I didn't pay much attention to the passenger list except to learn that a Mr. Reynolds was the one strutting cigarette butts around the plane."

"I asked him if he wouldn't use the ash tray provided. When we got to Los Angeles a whole mob of reporters was there to greet my Mr. Reynolds whose first name was Quentin."

Another time a man boarded the plane and Elaine said he looked so familiar she thought he had flown with her before so she greeted him like an old friend.

"I finally found out why he looked so familiar," she said. "He was Grover Whalen, chief handshaker for the city of New York. He was very friendly and invited us (the crew) out to the United Nations at Lake Success."

"A lot of people think that a hostess either marries an airman or one of her passengers," Elaine said. "But it just isn't so. She usually marries the boy back home or someone she met before she began flying."

Airlines used to require their hostesses to have nurses training, but Elaine said that she only had one experience when the training would have come in handy.

"We were flying a 'blue baby' to Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore. It wasn't doing so well so we fed it oxygen," she said. "We finally had to land at Pueblo and let it off. The poor thing just couldn't take it. Nursing would have helped me there."

"Another time a lady died in flight but there was nothing any one could have done."

Elaine said she used to fly over Iowa City. Now she hears the same TWA flight passing over her once in a while. Even though it was hard to leave her job, she said that she doesn't get the urge to go back every time she hears an airliner.

KILLED IN CRASH
MONTGOMERY, IOWA (AP)—John Paul, 43, farmer living south of Montgomery, was killed yesterday in a car-train crossing collision on a gravel road south of here.

HER MIND MAY BE IN THE CLOUDS but both her feet are on the ground. A former TWA stewardess with 3,165 air hours and almost a million air miles, Elaine Ellerbrock, A3, Ottumwa, is now a Westlawn freshman advisor and political science student. She is shown answering the phone in the Westlawn lobby, part of her duties as an advisor.

U High Pupils Meet State Legislators in Day's Capitol Tour

Seventy-five students from University high school were formally introduced to the senate and house chambers of the state legislature Tuesday during a one-day tour of the state capitol in Des Moines.

J.R. Skretting, social studies instructor at University high, said yesterday the eleventh and twelfth grade students traveled by buses. They left Iowa City at 8:45 a.m. and returned at 6 p.m.

Robert Ojemann, president of the student council at the high school, said the house debate on the local option beer bill was "really interesting to hear because there were some heated arguments."

The students were accompanied on the tour by Skretting, John Haefner and C.C. Hansen, all of the University high school teaching staff.

RICKEY ETTER DIES

Two Dixie Coeds Win Contest

Two southern belles took top honors in the most popular freshman coed contest sponsored by Twentieth-Century Fox, Sid Blumenstock of the movie firm announced yesterday.

Marilyn Overby of the University of Florida was judged most popular. In second place was Mary Haskell, University of Texas, and Claire Molzen of the University of Syracuse placed third.

SUI's entry was Margie Felter, A1, Van Meter, introduced during the Iowa City world premiere showing of "Mother is a Freshman" at the Englert theater on March 11.

Judges in the national competition were Mrs. Dan Poling, United Council of Church women; Mrs. Mary Looman, International Federation of Catholic women; Mrs. Constance Sporborg, General Federation of Women's clubs.

Miss Ruth Harley, dean of women, Adelphi college; Mrs. Jesse Bader, Protestant-Motion Picture council; Miss Helen Havener, International Council of Women.

Mrs. Lou Gehrig; A.J. Balaban, managing director, Roxy theater; George Hurrall, photographer, and Marge and Gower Champion, choreographers.

Preliminary contests were conducted on 25 college campuses where a "Queen of the Premiere" was chosen by each college and announced during the world premiere of "Mother is a Freshman."

Miss Felter won from among 51 entries from different women's housing units on campus to become SUI's "Queen of the Premiere."

She was picked by 21 judges representing men's housing units and one faculty representative five days before she was introduced to the public at the Englert theater.

All campus winners received $100 from the movie firm. The national winner, Marilyn Overby, will receive a one-week all-expenses-paid trip to Hollywood this summer.

The contest was conducted on the SUI campus by The Daily Iowan.

Expect 100 at SUI Physics Colloquium

Recording Companies Prepare for Price War

NEW YORK—The phonograph record war gets to the trench fighting stage today when the Radio Corporation of America presents its 45 revolutions per minute record and record player to the public in retail stores across the country.

Perhaps by coincidence, its arch competitor, Columbia Records, Inc., chose the day to announce it was lowering its prices on its standard, 78 RPM records approximately 20 percent. The rest of the industry, including RCA, will be compelled to follow suit in order to be competitive.

Heretofore, the record war has been largely verbal—while RCA's Victor division readied its answer to Columbia's long playing microgroove record which retunes at 33 1/2 RPM and also requires its own special equipment. Columbia brought out its departure from the 78 RPM record, standard for decades, last spring.

RCA Victor accompanied its introduction with a lavish advertising campaign aimed at overcoming its rival's head-start. Its records are less than 7 inches in diameter (as opposed to 10 and 12 inch standard records), are made of flyweight plastic, come in a variety of bright colors, and are claimed to be the finest records ever made from the standpoint of reproductive qualities.

Starting today, the customers of music shops will choose between three-type records—78 or RCA-Victor's special 45 RPM turntable plus a new fangled one that can be made to revolve either at 78 or 33 1/2.

There is a rather sordid bit of news from the community aquarium in Biarritz, France. According to reports, the dogfish and an octopus called Rene have had double-barreled falling out.

The first release carried practically nothing but the word that Rene had crawled over into the dogfish department, and before he could get back to his own quarters one of his tentacles was bitten off.

Perhaps you had better wait until after you have finished your breakfast before reading more.

BIARRITZ officials failed to tell the whole story in their first report, but since then taxpayers in that community have demanded a complete investigation.

After all, Rene and the dogfish were not hired to act as gladiators. People like to have an aquarium to visit on bright Sunday afternoons. If it's a fight they want, they can stay home and participate in their own free-for-alls.

The Biarritz league of women voters protested that Rene and the dogfish violated their contracts and called in the gendarmerie to install order.

ACCORDING to Inspector Louis Frontenac, the whole affair could have been averted by furnishing Rene with a mate. It seems to me the league of women voters has no one to blame but itself then.

Had poor lovesick, lonesome Rene had a mate, he wouldn't have gotten involved with the wife of one of the leading dogfish in the tank.

I'd say that society is at fault here.

INSPECTOR Frontenac's report shows that relations between Rene and the dogfish colony had been nothing but the best until recently.

So far as Frontenac could tell (and there is no reason to doubt his word), Rene and the dogfish were good friends. It is true they had spat from time to time, but nothing serious.

The dogfish occasionally accused the octopus of being somewhat of a bore, and said he was given to belching during his sleep. In turn, Rene sometimes complained that the dogfish howled at night, keeping him awake.

But these are hardly sufficient motives for the fracas which cost Rene one of his tentacles.

SEVERAL months ago, while Rene was mooning around in his private compartment (the only thing worse than a mooning octopus is an octopus with bronchitis), a cute little girl dogfish winked at him, flitting away before he could even learn her name.

Life took on new meaning for the octopus in the days which followed. His appetite picked up, and he took more care in grooming his tentacles than he ever had before.

THIS CONFESSION comes straight from the octopus' mouth, so don't accuse me of fabrication. No one seemed to notice the flirtation until one night Rene slipped over into the dogfish department and wooed the girl of his octopus dreams.

You know those things can get around. Before long everyone in the aquarium knew about Rene's nightly sorties. The pitiful part is that Rene claims he didn't know the girl was married.

WELL, a thing like that can't be kept quiet forever, and when the dogfish husband heard about it he vowed to square things with his wife's suitor. That night when Rene came sneaking over the fence, an irate group of dogfish ambushed him. It was then that he lost his tentacle. He's lucky that's all he lost. I feel sorry for Rene, but it has taught him a lesson he won't soon forget... a dogfish's bite is worse than his bark.

Political 'Hot Potato' — FEPC Is Working In Various States

By CHARLES DONNELLY
If you are a Jew, a Negro or a Catholic, you probably know what the initials FEPC stands for.

If you're not and don't know what it means, it can be summed up in a few words: FEPC means the difference between getting or not getting a job for a member of a race or creed discriminated against by employers.

FEPC, or fair employment practices commission, is a group established by law in many progressive states to prevent discriminatory hiring methods which keep qualified persons unemployed.

House bill 348 written by Rep. Sloane and Rep. O'Malley, Republican and Democrat respectively, is an FEPC bill for Iowa. It seeks to establish Iowa statutes prohibiting discriminatory hiring practices in employment, especially by state agencies and by labor unions in refusing membership.

THERE ARE many people against this bill. They are against it when they say, "it looks good and we want minority groups to be treated fairly, but it won't work" and then lapse into that time-worn refrain, "you cannot legislate against prejudice."

But various states and cities have proved the possibility of legislating against prejudice to a point where a qualified Negro bricklayer or steel worker can work at his trade and not be sitting idle and useless because his skin is not white.

The Iowa FEPC bill is part of a national attempt to make it illegal to keep a man from his work because he is a Catholic, a Jew, a Negro, or one of any other minority group.

There are similar laws in a score of states, and a national FEPC law forbidding discrimination in federal hiring agencies.

It is a local application of President Truman's civil rights program.

WORKING FOR PASSAGE of the bill is the Iowa Committee for FEPC. This group is comprised of members from CORE, YMCA, Young Democrats, Young Progressives, AVC, and independent students.

This group will present speakers tonight at a rally who will explain the bill discrimination in Iowa. This rally is being held tonight at 7:30 in the Community building.

NEW YORK STATE, one of the first to enact a state fair employment practices law, is almost 5 years ahead of Iowa.

The New York state commissioner for anti-discrimination, Caroline K. Simon, says that in New York the "law does not dictate to an employer whom he shall employ."

"He himself decides the qualifications of the employee; the law does not usurp this prerogative of an employer."

"It merely provides that race, creed, color or national origin, factors which are not related to job competency, should not be a barrier to employment."

THE SLOANE-O'MALLEY bill, closely resembling the New York statute, would not hurt Iowa retail businessmen either. The bill will not regulate employment of any concern employing less than 8 persons and is chiefly pointed to state jobs and industrial hiring.

The bill is not unreasonable as it allows for the natural exemptions — such as an organized religious congregation or an institution limited in its membership hiring someone of another faith to work in that church.

SECTION SEVEN of the bill provides for the setting up of the commission. The employment commission would have the duties of effectuating the purposes and policies of the act; a sub-department would be created under the direction of the employment securities commission composed of one deputy and such other as may be needed who, under the bill, would:

1. Receive complaints of violations of this act, and investigate into the merits thereof.
2. Promote cooperation among all groups for the purpose of effectuating the purposes and policies of this act.
3. Conduct studies, surveys, and projects and disseminate information concerning job discrimination and related problems.
4. Aid in the enforcement of this act.
5. The commission shall make reports of its activities under this act to the governor of Iowa annually or more often as requested by said governor.

The bill will punish labor union leaders who in many instances deny a man employment when they deny him union membership.

INVESTIGATION of infringements would be made by the fair employment commission and prosecution would be made by the attorney general if violations were proved.

If the Sloane-O'Malley FEPC bill is passed, the state would have to include in all contracts the provision that the contractor, and all subsequent sub-contractors, must not discriminate against qualified workmen because of race, creed, color, national origin or ancestry.

The bill, if made law, would not be perfect — long-standing prejudices of many persons will not let it be this, but it is a start. It may be, and probably will be generations before the present unfair condition in employment discrimination is eliminated.

Still such a law would provide legal recognition of the situation, and if you will, a pass-the-buck mechanism for those who want to hire minority groups but haven't the courage or who are simply not in a position to do so.

We Need Different Horizons —

A man said recently that Russia has the "secret" of the atom bomb. He also said that the United States was kidding itself if it thought that other countries did not have the industrial ability to produce atom bombs.

This man who dropped this discouraging note in American laps is David Bradley. He has a disturbing habit of upsetting American complacency.

A book came out last year titled "No Place to Hide." This book was written by David Bradley, and in it the author gives a Geiger-counter view of the Bikini atom bomb tests.

Anyone reading the book soon gets the awed, helpless feeling a blind person must feel in new, strange surroundings. The writer has a cynical, matter-of-fact attitude toward the lingering contamination that marked the underwater blast. "Here is the atom bomb," he seems to say, "we made it — we have to live in a world with it. We are smart enough to make an atom bomb, but we're not smart enough to solve the problems that come with it."

That may seem to be an old indictment against society — that its sociological and moral advance is far behind its scientific horizon. But it is disturbing.

One big trouble may be that we do not have enough disturbing influences like David Bradley. Frightening people into hysteria is bad; but disturbing people into motivating thought is good. Many people at no times have tried to tell people that no man or nation has a patent on the atom bomb. Prof. Arthur Roberts over a year ago in the atomic lecture series here gave a talk on the "secret" of the atom bomb — no such secret exists, he said.

And now, Bradley insists that Russia certainly has the know-how and probably the ability to produce atom bombs.

Eventually this hammering at the fact may produce results. This country may one day decide that any and all atom bombs in the world do not have a Made-In-U.S.A. label.

Someone has suggested that the world must find a legal system to replace the military one for settling international disputes. Perhaps when the day comes that this nation does not feel that it has a bigger and better weapon than anyone else, then that day will be more receptive to a powerful, binding international legal system. International government is fostered in the minds of the people and if these minds can be conditioned to atomic age realities then the first step is taken toward catching up with the world's science.

Atom bombs, said David Bradley, did not change our problems, only made the solution more urgent — the atomic bomb has only changed the tense, from future perfect to present imperative.

Gilmore Did, Shostakovich Didn't —

The Associated Press correspondent in Moscow, Eddy Gilmore, scored more or less of a journalistic triumph recently — he travelled through Russia. His account of it, in a four or five part series, was printed in many American newspapers. He had made news... he had travelled in Russia.

Last weekend, delegates from Russia and Soviet satellite states were admitted to the United States for a "world peace" conference. The state department waived a law excluding Communists from entering the country.

As predicted, the controversial "peace" conference was a sounding board for the Communist party line, for the most part. We are not concerned with that here. What's disturbing us was the attempt by groups of iron curtain delegates to make tours to various American cities. A two-week itinerary of tours and "peace rallies" was reportedly drawn up and the delegates were to visit Philadelphia, Baltimore, Detroit, St. Louis and Los Angeles.

Before the tour could begin, however, the state department stepped in to remind Russian, Czech, Polish and Yugoslav embassies that the conference delegates were admitted to the country solely to attend the New York meeting.

Now that the conference is over, the state department said, your nationals are expected to leave the country within a "reasonable time." In other words, the U.S. government was telling the delegates they were not at liberty to observe the land of liberty.

The view the Communists will take back behind the iron curtain is hardly one representative of America: the Waldorf-Astoria and Madison Square Garden. Throw in a few scraps of Manhattan, too. The state department waived an American law to show how tolerant Americans could be. Sure, we would let Communist delegates into the country for a conference, controversial or not. But by drawing a rigid line right there, we may have done ourselves more harm than good.

Imagine some Tass correspondent — a Soviet Eddy Gilmore — slipping away from Washington or Lake Success to make a reporting tour of the United States. And suppose he writes it up in a four or five part series, entitled, perhaps, "I Pierced the American Veil of Secrecy." And suppose Pravda and the other Russian papers play it all over their front pages like American papers did the Gilmore stories... won't we feel silly?

Nurse Says 'Old Man Inflation' Is Not Dead

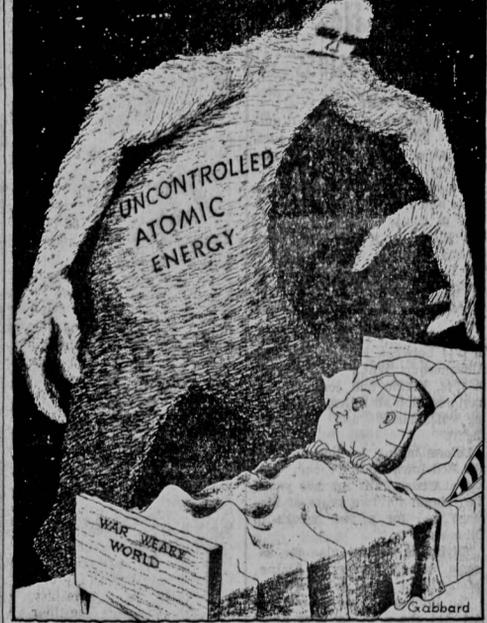

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, chairman of President Truman's Council of economic advisers, said yesterday there still is a threat of "new inflationary dangers" despite widespread price reductions.

He told reporters after talking with President Truman that any number of things could send prices shooting skyward again. The inflationary spiral might be kicked off again, he said, if congress increased federal spending sharply, if there were a crop failure resulting in higher farm prices, or if labor achieves its goal of new wholesale wage increases.

Student Groups Plan Mental Hospital Jobs

A co-educational unit of ten men and six women will be employed this summer as regular attendants at Mount Pleasant State hospital. The institutional service unit is co-sponsored by the YWCA and YMCA.

Ursi Dawson, A2; J. Richard White, A3; Conrad Wurtz, G, and Gene Krause, A4, members of the student committee, met yesterday afternoon in the YWCA rooms of the Union to organize the group.

A group of faculty members and townspeople was chosen as an advisory committee. The objectives and requirements were set up and reasons for working as a unit were explained.

State institutions care for 87 percent of the mentally ill in the nation, White said. The hospitals are inadequately staffed and short of funds.

Last summer about 325 college and university students worked in 25 service units throughout the country in connection with the programs sponsored by the American Friends Service committee and the Mennonite and Brethren churches.

Three of the committee members worked in AFSC units last summer and began organizing a smaller unit for SUI students. Gene Krause and Conrad Wurtz worked at Rockland State hospital, Orangeburg, N.Y., and Richard White worked at Overbrook County hospital, Cedar Grove, N.J. Wurtz also worked at the Glenwood State school for feeble-minded, Glenwood.

The committee said working in the unit will relieve the personnel shortage in state mental hospitals and give pre-professional experience to majors in psychology, sociology and other related fields. Students will receive experience "that will enable them to be alert citizens and active leaders with a humanistic approach to future responsibilities and will encourage better employment conditions and standards in our state institutions."

The unit will plan its activities through meetings, worship programs, recreational events, trips and guest lectures. The hospital staff will provide about 30 hours of work each week. The committee will plan its activities through meetings, worship programs, recreational events, trips and guest lectures. The hospital staff will provide about 30 hours

AAF's Bissell Charged With Coffee Dealing

FRANKFURT (AP) — Maj. Gen. Clayton L. Bissell of the U.S. air force has been charged with dealing illegally in coffee in Germany, his attorney disclosed here yesterday.

The attorney, John E. Hughes of Washington and Chicago, denied the charge and predicted a military inquiry now under way will prove it to be utterly unfounded.

"The whole thing is only a tempest in a teapot," he said. "The only coffee Gen. Bissell ever sold was in the legal barter market set up by the army to alleviate the economic conditions in Germany."

The U.S. air force announced earlier yesterday that charges had been filed concerning "acts allegedly committed while Bissell was military and air attaché at the United States embassy in London from May, 1946, to July, 1948."

It said these were being investigated to determine whether he should be brought before a court martial. The investigation is being made by Maj. Gen. Edwin B. Lyon.

Hughes said the formal charge against Bissell is "conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman." This is in accord with routine procedure when allegations against an officer are to be investigated.

Hughes said the investigation was based on a letter, signed by "ambassador employee," accusing Bissell of selling 1,200 pounds of coffee illegally in Germany. Copies, he said, were sent to high governmental and army officials.

The unit is co-sponsored by the YWCA and YMCA on the SUI campus.

Three Judges to Recount Votes Tonight in Fifth Ward Election

A recount of votes cast for fifth ward alderman in Monday's general election will be held tonight at 8 p.m. This action is scheduled to follow the last city council's meeting before the new council takes office Monday.

Chief feature of the council meeting is a public hearing on re-zoning property at the west edge of Iowa City.

William H. Grandrath, defeated Democratic candidate for the fifth ward aldermanic position has petitioned for a recounting of the votes cast in the city general election.

He filed his request Tuesday with City Clerk George J. Dohrer. The victorious candidate, Republican Gordon Webster, consented to waive the time requirement in order that the matter could be straightened out before the new council takes office Monday.

According to the Iowa Code, a waiting period of not less than 20 days nor more than 30 days is required. By waiving the time requirement, both candidates facilitate organization of the new council.

Mayor Preston Koser and two judges, one selected by each candidate will preside over the recounting of the votes.

Gordon Webster yesterday selected Atty. Edward F. Rate to represent him. William Grandrath chose Atty. Edward Lucas, according to County Attorney Jack C. White.

Webster's victory over Grandrath was by the slim margin of nine votes. Final accounting by the board of canvassers made the total 687 to 678.

Dohrer added it would be necessary for Grandrath to pick up 10 votes among discarded ballots to gain five votes Webster lost on a recount to win the alderman position.

The business before the city council meeting which precedes the recount is the rezoning of a lot from residential to business property. The lot is located on highway 6 at the west edge of Iowa City.

A public hearing was scheduled at the council meeting March 21 to give interested parties an opportunity to voice their opinions.

The property is owned by Mr. and Mrs. John Kobes. They propose to sell the property to Robert O. Schmidt to build a dairy barn.

The petition for rezoning was brought before the council in February and referred to the zoning and planning commission. The commission reported the petition out favorably and two readings on the proposed ordinance have since been held.

If 20 percent of the property owners in the immediate area objects to the rezoning, the council may change the ruling by a three-fourths majority.

Program Set to Honor Outstanding SUI Women

Recognition Day ceremonies honoring outstanding women on the campus will be held at 4:30 p.m. today in Macbride auditorium.

New officers, some of them elected yesterday, will be announced for the University Women's association, Women's Recreation association, Young Women's Christian association, and Home Economics club.

Winners of the UWA scholarship awards and Adelaide L. Burge award will be introduced.

Officers for housing groups, Currier association, Madison court association, Student Nurses association, Independent Town Women and Panhellenic association will be presented.

Women elected to the student council, the two women delegates-at-large, women elected to the board of publications and 1950 senior class officers will be announced.

Army Day Display To Show Weapons Of 2 Military Units

Two Iowa City military units will celebrate Army day Wednesday with public displays of weapons and equipment.

The university's ROTC unit will have all-day displays on the east grounds of Old Capitol and in the show windows of Woolworth's five-and-ten department store in downtown Iowa City.

The national guard's display will be in the show windows of the Iowa-Illinois Gas & Electric company located in the business district. Radio and field equipment along with weapons will be shown, Sgt. Ed Windrem, administrative assistant reported yesterday.

Weapons and military equipment will also be featured in the ROTC's outdoor display along with several small scale models of bridges, UI military department officials said. The Pershing Rifles honorary military fraternity will give two drill demonstrations as part of the program.

The ROTC will also have a public display in the fieldhouse armory Saturday morning, April 9. Officials said the display will be more thorough than the one held outdoors. In addition to military equipment and weapons, a cut-away airplane engine model will also be shown.

Army day originated in 1928 and has been observed annually since that time.

Army to Celebrate On Theme of Unity

The theme for Army day next Wednesday is "Unity — the U.S. army, part of the team for security," Sgt. O.A. McClung said yesterday.

"This year," McClung said, "the army is making a sincere effort to demonstrate to the American people that it stands for unity and places national security above all other considerations."

McClung, Iowa City army and airforce recruiter, urged the townpeople to display flags next Wednesday and veterans to wear their discharge emblems.

The recruiting station will hold open house for Army day and McClung said all citizens are invited to visit and familiarize themselves with the work of the army.

Red Cross Drive Nears Conclusion

All but two sections of Johnson county's 1949 Red Cross fund drive will close today with $13,180 collected by yesterday, General Chairman Dorr H. Hudson said.

The drive, which opened Feb. 28 with a goal of $14,550, was originally scheduled to close March 12 but was extended through today.

All the sections but the mens organizations and rural and small towns have passed their quotas, Hudson said. The drive will continue in these two sections.

Tornadoes Leave Trail of Damage in Oklahoma

ONLY WALLS STAND after a tornado gutted this frame residence in the smart residential area of Blackwell, Okla. yesterday. Damages in this city of 12,000 were estimated between $100,000 and $500,000. Red Cross officials estimated 40 homes damaged in Blackwell from one of the tornadoes that hit five times in northwest Oklahoma and southeastern Kansas.

A HIT AND A MISS was made yesterday in Canton, Okla. by a tornado that killed one person and injured eight others in Canton and took a toll of three persons dead and 32 injured in three Oklahoma towns. The house on the left was severely damaged while the house on the right was by-passed. The third series of twisters to strike in southern and southwestern states in a week, the tornadoes did property damage which may amount to $1-million. Officials there estimated damage at Canton between $200,000 and $300,000. (See Story on Page 1)

Group to Stage FEPC Rally

The Iowa Committee for FEPC will hold a city-wide rally tonight with speechmaking, music, and entertainment at the Community building beginning at 7:30.

Master of ceremonies for the demonstration for support of the Sloane-O'Malley FEPC bill will be Iowa City Police Judge Emil Trott. Ken Everhart of Des Moines will be the main speaker, according to John Sherer, rally chairman.

Everhart is secretary-treasurer of the Iowa State Industrial union council (CIO) and is an active union lobbyist at the state legislature. He was recommended as a rally speaker by a co-author of the Iowa FEPC bill, Rep. O'Malley.

Other speakers on the program include Eddie Carroll, national student program director of the YMCA, from New York, Ralph Schlomling, executive secretary of the SUI YMCA, Prof. Robert H. Talbert, SUI department of sociology, and Sherwin Markman, secretary of the SUI Young Democrats.

Rally chairman Sherer said Everhart is bringing films on discrimination which will be shown through today.

Sherer urged townpeople and students to support the rally, to sign petitions available at the rally which will to the state legislature.

'World Peace' Rally To Travel in U.S.; Russians Prohibited

NEW YORK (AP) — A "world peace" rally will go on the road across the U.S., its sponsors said yesterday, but there will be no Russians in the cast.

Immigration officials gave 18 eastern European delegates "a week at the most" to leave the country.

The 18 came here with representatives of other nations last week for a cultural and scientific conference on "world peace" in New York. The state department now says the visas of the "iron curtain" delegates were good for the New York meeting only.

The sessions at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel were sponsored by the National Council of Arts, Sciences and Professions. It drew several thousand delegates and almost as many pickets.

The state department's "go home" order, the council said, will "convince more and more Americans that the department does not want and will not tolerate a truly free exchange of information between the American people and cultural leaders from the eastern European countries."

In the face of the ultimatum, the council said it would cancel "a number of lectures and concerts" but would carry out a series of "report meetings" without the 18 delegates. A report on the New York conference will be given to groups in other cities.

Eviction Suit Filed In District Court

Marion Ward, route 2, filed suit in Johnson county district court yesterday to evict Ben Abbott and Shirley Abbott from property they now occupy one mile north of Iowa City on Linder road.

Ward claimed the defendants had failed to pay rent for the property for February and March 1949, as specified under terms of a written lease dated Nov. 12, 1948.

He claimed an eviction notice was served on the Abbots on March 19, but they are still in possession of the property. He asked the defendants be removed from the property and the costs of the action taxed against them.

William F. Morrison is attorney for the plaintiff.

Financial Experts Agree —

Declare Prosperity to Continue

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two of the administration's top-bracket financial experts agreed yesterday that current price adjustments are a "healthy" sign of continued prosperity—provided citizens don't get panicky.

But they differed, to a degree, over the danger of inflation which President Truman says must be forestalled with "standby" federal controls.

The two men — Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, chairman of the White House council of economic advisers and Secretary of the Treasury Snyder — expressed their views at separate news conferences.

This is the way Snyder put it: "For the last three years it has been our aim and goal to halt inflation and adjust prices. Now, when we are approaching the outer fringes of accomplishing that goal, I see no need to get panicky, as some of our people are."

"I think we can be assured we're going to have continued prosperity. There have been some adjustments which I consider healthy and helpful. Each has caused us to stop, look and listen and has helped us to progress toward stabilization in an orderly fashion."

Nourse, who has just returned from a month's cross-country tour surveying economic conditions, said he found nothing on the trip to change his diagnosis that the price declines are a "healthy disinflation."

"I found no sense of panic" he said, "but rather a realistic facing of local problems in lumber, shipping and other industries."

tries." Nourse talked with reporters after a half-hour's conference with Mr. Truman during which he said he gave the President a report on the state of the nation's economic health.

He confirmed reports that he had submitted his resignations as chairman of the economic advisory council a couple of months ago but said he plans to stay on the job "as far as I've heard."

The three-man council is known to be at odds over Mr. Truman's anti-inflation program, with Nourse opposing the type of standby control powers the President repeatedly has asked of congress. These wage, price and allocation powers have been backed strongly by Vice Chairman Leon Keyserling and John D. Clark the other council members.
