Appropriation Committee Asks $8-Million for SUI, Hospitals

DES MOINES (AP) — The appropriations committee of the Iowa senate introduced yesterday a budget bill for state board of education institutions calling for $16,973,177 a year during the next biennium.

This would be approximately $3,624,471 more than Gov. William S. Beardsley recommended.

The appropriation for the University of Iowa and its hospitals would total $8,246,750. It was the appropriation for the university which had caused considerable controversy among members of senate and house sub-committees which handled the budget measure.

The total figure as reported out by the full senate committee is identical with that upon which the sub-committees finally agreed last Friday.

The board of education had asked a total of $25,558,936 for each year of the coming biennium. This compares with the 1947 appropriation of $12,605,400 a year.

The latter figure did not include a large amount of income which the University of Iowa and Iowa State college received from the federal government to cover tuition for veterans.

The appropriation for the university, exclusive of its hospital services, would be $8,200,000 a year. This compares with a figure of $5,250,000 a year which the appropriations committee recommended for Iowa State college.

The appropriation committee gave no explanation of why the recommended allotment for the university was less than that for Iowa State college.

It was reported, however, that the subcommittees took into consideration a report from auditors sent to Iowa City to examine the university accounts. The auditors reported that the university had a usable balance of more than $19,12,000 which reflected an increase over the balance that was available at the end of the last fiscal biennium of June 30, 1947.

Council Votes Pay Hikes for City Employees

Pay hikes for all city employees —10 percent across the board— were voted last night by the city council. The pay increases are retroactive to April 1.

The ordinance was introduced by Aldermen Frank Fryauf Jr., Gordon Webster and James Callahan. All three readings were given the ordinance last night before it was passed.

Iowa City will get a revision of the municipal code by action of the council last night. Aldermen passed a resolution to authorize Attorneys Borchard and Borchard to revise the code at a cost to Iowa City of $3,000.

After a third reading was given the proposed ordinance to lower gas rates to consumers, Aldermen Clark F. Mighell and Fryauf moved to postpone passage of the ordinance till the April 18 meeting. This would give new council members an opportunity to study the measure before passage, Alderman Charles T. Smith said.

Street paving in Iowa City came in for a large share of the council's time last night. Alderman Callahan proposed widening Capitol street between Prentiss and Lafayette streets.

Capitol street must bear much of the southbound traffic after the Benton street bridge is opened to traffic this summer. Widening it by removing the center island and improving the street bed is imperative, Callahan said.

The grades and bridges committee proposed hiring Engineer Ned L. Ashton to prepare cost estimates for improving the roadway of the Burlington street bridge and installing cantilevered sidewalks.

The council approved a resolution to annex to Iowa City the east side of Fourth street south of City high school.

The west side of the street is already in the city limits, City Attorney William H. Bartley pointed out.

Chase Osborn Dies; Wed Adopted Daughter

POULAN, GA. (AP) — Ex-Gov.

Chase S. Osborn of Michigan, who adopted a daughter at the age of 71, then dissolved the adoption and married her at 89, died late yesterday—two days after the marriage.

Reservoir Collapse Crushes Workman Under Wet Cement

SANTA MONICA, CALIF. (AP) — The crushed body of a workman, Robert Lacey, 63, was recovered late yesterday from beneath the collapsed roof of a reservoir.

Lacey was trapped when concrete forms collapsed, pinning him under 100 tons of fresh cement. The cave-in of the reservoir roof injured 11 other persons working above the forms.

Giant cranes and bulldozers, like the ones which little more than a day ago lost a 53-hour battle to save little Kathy Fiscus in San Marino, Calif., were used in the rescue operation.

Doctors who examined the body after it was brought out by firemen said Lacey had been killed instantly.

The victim had been shearing off excess cement from beneath the forms when they collapsed on him.

The rescue operation was slowed as workmen had to cut away wooden piers and steel bracing through the wet cement. Fire department pressure hoses were used to muck out the wet cement, which had just been poured and which workmen said would not set for at least 10 hours.

Although they embarked on a large-scale rescue operation, firemen and rescue workers held faint hope that Lacey would be found alive. They said unless he found breathing space between timber and steel he would have suffocated quickly.

SUI Officials Tell Med School Costs

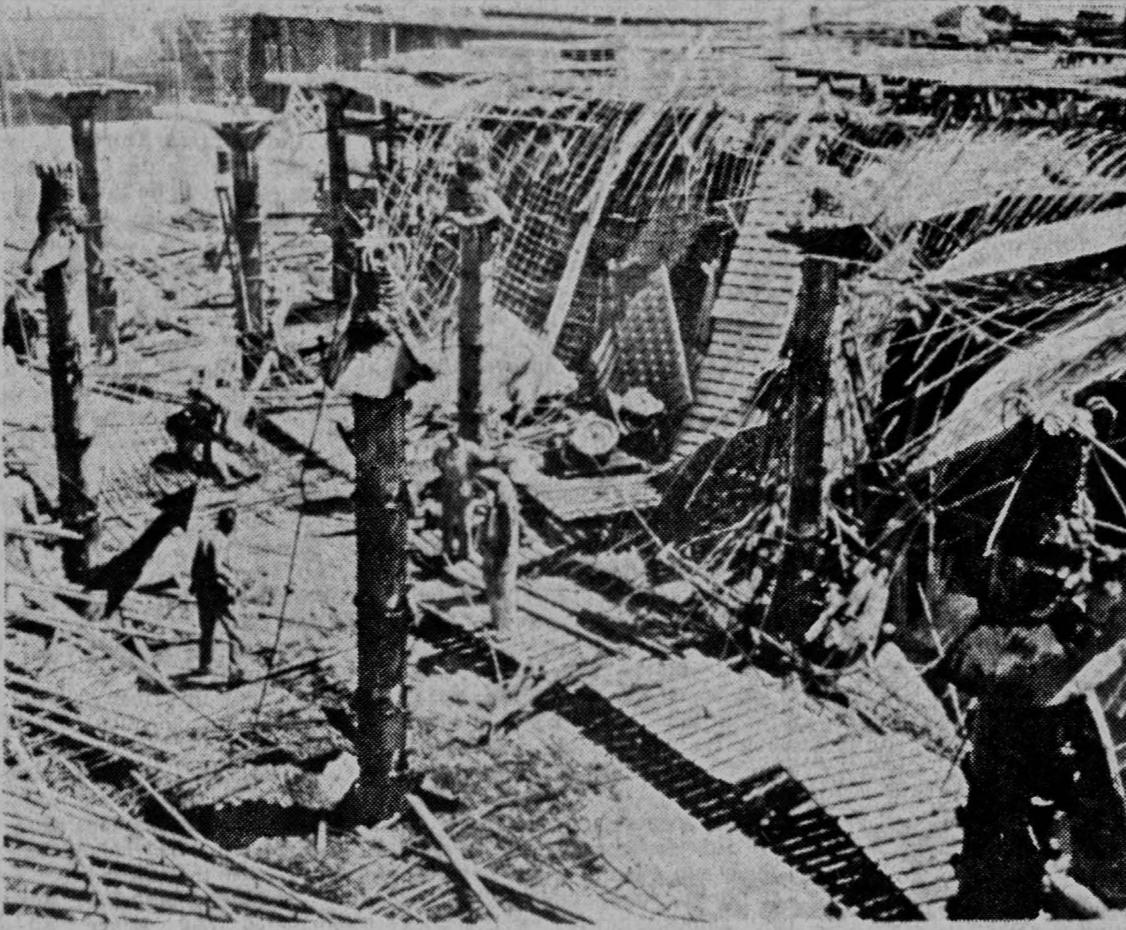

DES MOINES (AP) — State University of Iowa officials yesterday told a group of legislators that the cost of expanding the university's medical school would run into hundreds of thousands of dollars a year.

Rep. A.H. Avery (R - Spencer) criticized medical schools in general last week in the house for not turning out more doctors. He called the situation "serious."

President Virgil Hancher of the university met with the lawmen here yesterday. Accompanying Hancher were Carlisle Jacobsen, dean of the university's division of health sciences, and Dean Mayo Soley of the medical school.

Upwards of half a dozen members of each house attended the conference.

The medical school now is admitting 90 students a year. To increase the enrollment of each class by 30 students, or 120 in all, would cost perhaps more than a quarter million dollars a year, the officials reportedly told the legislators.

Man Crushed by Reservoir Roof Collapse

CONSTRUCTION COLLAPSE brought death to one man yesterday and injuries to 11 others in Santa Monica, Calif. The roof of a reservoir construction project collapsed on the workmen and the dead man, Robert Lacey, 63, was buried in wet cement. Arrow at left points to injured man being treated by a policeman. Cranes and bulldozers were used in the rescue attempt.

Police Arrest 27 As Students Strike On CCNY Campus

NEW YORK (AP) — Police and youthful pickets battled on the campus of the College of the City of New York yesterday as students struck in a mass demand for the ouster of two faculty members.

The professors were accused by the striking students of antisemitism and racial discrimination.

Twenty-seven young demonstrators, five of them women, were arrested. Police lifted 25 of them bodily and forced them into a patrol wagon in a flurry of fist-fights.

One student leaped on the back of a patrolman, who hurled the youth to the sidewalk.

Police rushed reinforcements to the picketed campus when early-arriving patrolmen described the demonstration as "a riot." Order was restored, but later mounted police rode through a ring of 800 students to break up an impromptu rally where speakers hurled charges of "police brutality."

Most of the pickets arrested, police said, were students who tried to block entrances to campus buildings. They were charged with disorderly conduct.

One demonstrator, Martin Dubin, was arrested on an assault charge. He was accused of slaming the door of a patrol car on a policeman's hand and then twisting the injured fingers.

They say Mr. Truman, after the 1948 upset election, feels more strongly than ever that he is on the right road with a national administration supported by more adherents than critics.

Policeman Looks Over Protest Signs

STUDENTS PICKET the campus of City College of New York demanding the suspension of two faculty members whom they accuse of anti-Semitism. Over 25 students were taken into custody by police when they refused to clear the sidewalks in front of the college entrances.

Calls Them The Hardest

By MERRIMAN SMITH

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman, completing his first four years in office, feels the next two years will see the peace of the world assured.

It was four years ago today that Mr. Truman, a mild-mannered man from Missouri, was minding his own business at the Capitol when he suddenly became President of the United States. It was a definite shock to him. He asked his friends to pray for him.

Today, after four turbulent years as chief executive, his attitude is about the same.

He feels his first four years were the hardest; that the hardest period of his presidency is over.

Now weighing 178 pounds and somewhat heavier than when he took office, he is in obvious good spirits as he ends his fourth year in office. He posed patiently for anniversary photographs.

In the wake of the election results, there were myriad reports of a "new Truman." But actually he is the same man, a little stouter and a trifle grayer, but essentially the same Harry S. Truman.

If there has been any change in the President since the afternoon of April 12, 1945, when he became President, it has been an increase in self-confidence. Some political opponents have called it "cockiness," but people lose to him say this isn't so.

They say Mr. Truman, after the 1948 upset election, feels more strongly than ever that he is on the right road with a national administration supported by more adherents than critics.

Zooman Suggests Return of Elephant

DES MOINES (AP) — The operator of a small, free zoo in Des Moines sought yesterday to bring the elephant "Baby Mine" back to Iowa.

"She will be happy here," Zooman Kenneth Sonderleiter wired Mrs. Freda Perry, Donora, Pa., who won the elephant Sunday night on the "Stop the Music" radio program.

"Baby Mine" was purchased by the state fair board in 1929 with $3,000 in nickels and dimes donated by Iowa children. The fair board sold her in 1942 to Cole Brothers circus for $750.

Scheme Didn't Work, But He Will

CHICAGO (AP) — George Herman Riedel, 57, got up a petition to President Truman asking him to cut the costs of living. Police said he obtained $1 from each signer and made at least $100 a week on the scheme.

Riedel was fined $200 and costs on a disorderly conduct charge in connection with the plan in municipal court yesterday. Court officials said he couldn't pay and would work it out in the house of correction.

SUI Council to Meet With New Members

Newly elected Student Council members will be introduced to the current representatives and the council's pending business at their regular meeting tonight at 8 in the house chamber of Old Capitol.

The new representatives will be invited to attend any council committee meetings which are held before the new council takes office April 28, Council President Evan L. Hultman said yesterday.

The council will also select campus chest chairmen to head the 1949-50 chest committee in preparation for next fall's drive, he added.

Award certificates in recognition of outstanding achievements in Student Council and campus activities during the past year will be given to council-selected students and organizations at the meeting, Hultman said.

Students to receive the certificates include:

Joan Bensell, A4, Siletz, Ore.; Dale Bingham, A3, Manning; Vince Brann, A2, Cleveland, Ohio; Jim Cochran, A3, Iowa City; Gerold Daniels, G, Phoenix, Ariz.; George Dembo, A4, Cleveland, Ohio; Dick Dice, C3, Marion;

James R. Dow, A2, Fort Madison; Reva Hatch, A4, Edgewood; Bill Hattwick, A4, Mill Hall, Pa.; Everett Hertel, A3, Amana; Ray Hill, G, La Crosse, Wis.; Harlan Hockenberg, A4, Des Moines; E.K. Jones, A3, Oscoda.

Bill Kracht, A4, Sigourney, Bill Molyneux, A4, Chicago, Ill.; Jack Moore, A3, Monticello, Ind.; Everett Munsell, C3, Boone; Larry Pike, A1, Brattleboro, Vt.; Joe Poulter, E4, Horicon, Wis.; Mary Quigley, A3, Des Moines.

Ruby Scott, A4, Waterloo; Bill Shurtleworth, A3, Cedar Rapids; Fred Stines, C4, Newton; Bob Tyson, A4, Iowa City; Bob Nicol, A3, Osage; Denny Denese, A2, Sioux City, and Sally Stienstra, Whiting, who is no longer attending SUU.

Campus organizations receiving awards include:

Union Board; Alpha Phi Omega; National service fraternity; Gamma Alpha Chi, advertising honorary for women; Tailfeathers; The Daily Iowan staff, and the WSU staff.

The delegates to the convention will be chosen Wednesday night in the office of Ed Lucas, Johnson county Democratic chairman, by the 34 delegates to the state convention in 1948.

The basis of representation at the district convention, Lucas said, is determined by the number of votes cast in the last general election. Some 9,000 votes were cast in Johnson county, he said, and on the basis of one delegate per one thousand votes, Johnson county is entitled to send nine delegates.

Hart resigned as committeeman from the first district April 1, the day before he took the oath of office of district attorney. Under the provisions of the Hatch act he is forbidden to hold a political office while under federal appointment.

The explosion reduced the brick church to rubble a few moments before the Palm Sunday mass was to have started.

Forty-seven other worshippers were injured; 26 of them are still in hospitals.

State Fire Marshal W.M. Mueller of Pierre directed the investigation.

DIES GETTING MEDICINE

WORTHINGTON, MINN. (AP) — George Posheky, 63, Worthington, died of a heart attack yesterday after he made an unsuccessful suicide attempt in a local hotel room late Sunday night, according to police.

Investigating officers who answered a telephone call from Lyons at 12:12 a.m. yesterday said they found the man suffering from iodine poisoning and bleeding from cuts on his arms and a "fairly deep" gash on his face.

A personal note, written by Lyons to his wife and baby, and an empty tincture of iodine bottle were found in Lyons' room, police said.

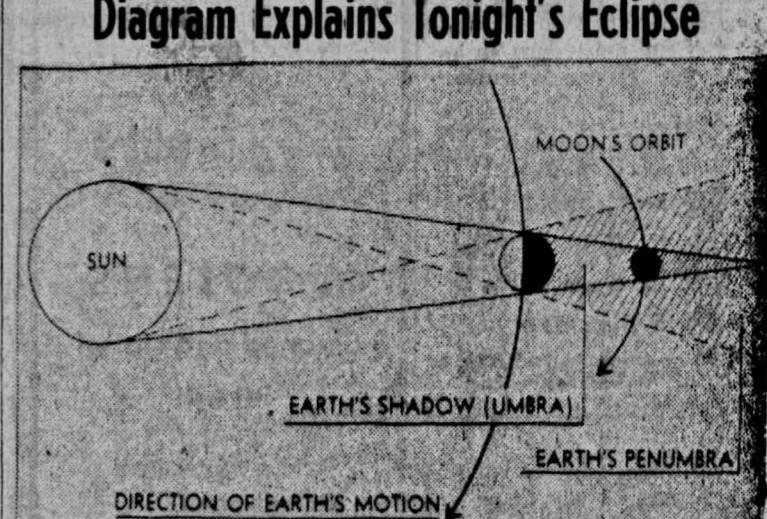

They also reported that Lyons made a phone call at 11:22 p.m. Sunday and told them of his suicide attempt, but hung up the receiver without giving his location.

Lyons was taken to University hospitals by ambulance. Enroute to the hospital the emergency vehicle was involved in an accident at the intersection of Iowa avenue and Riverside drive but no injuries were reported, police said.

INTRODUCES ROSE BILL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Alben (R-Calif.) yesterday introduced a bill to make the rose the United States' national flower.

Diagram Explains Tonight's Eclipse

TONIGHT'S ECLIPSE is explained in this diagram prepared by the Hayden planetarium in New York. The eclipse, which will be visible in Iowa City, will start at 7:32 p.m. (Iowa time) when the moon moves into the penumbra, or partial shadow. Total eclipse, when the moon is in the earth's umbra—complete shadow, will start at 9:28 p.m. and end at 10:54 p.m. The moon will leave the penumbra nearly two hours later.

Iowa's Orth Stops Irish With 3-Hitter, 8-1

Hawks Launch 16-Hit Attack

(Special to The Daily Iowan) SOUTH BEND — Iowa's Dick Orth hurled a three-hitter yesterday while the rest of the Hawkeyes were pounding out a 16-hit barrage against Notre Dame to beat the Irish, 8-1.

Three hits apiece rattled off the bats of John Sullivan and Arnold Espo in the Iowa attack on Irish hurlers Jack Campbell and Bob Nemes in the first of a two-game series with Notre Dame.

The Hawkeyes will play Notre Dame again today before moving on to Kalamazoo, Mich., for a pair of games with Western Michigan.

The Hawkeyes scored single runs in the first, fifth, eighth and ninth innings and two runs in the second and fourth innings. Notre Dame tallied its only run in the second.

Orth Fans Two Orth walked five and struck out two along the route. The Hawkeyes made three errors behind him while the Irish were fumbling four times in the field.

Pinky Primrose hit the longest blow of the afternoon, a triple, and also collected a single in five official trips.

The Hawks jumped into a first-inning lead on a single by Sullivan, a sacrifice by Keith Kafer and a single by Ed Browne for one run.

The Hawkeyes opened the second with successive singles by Dale Erickson and Primrose, a walk to Espo and an error on Orth's ground ball. Primrose was forced out at the plate but Espo scored on Kafer's fly ball to make the score 3-1.

Irish Tally in Second

The Irish got their only run of the afternoon in the bottom of the second. Ray Petrazelka, former Cedar Rapids prep star, walked to lead off the inning. Gene Laverty singled and after Petrazelka was forced out he scored on Campbell's single.

Espo singled to lead off the Iowa fourth. After two were out, singles by Kafer and Dittmer and an error in the outfield on Dittmer's blow gave the Hawks two more runs.

In the fifth, Murland Moran was safe on an error and scored on Espo's single to make the count 6-1.

Successive singles by Orth, Dittmer and Browne tallied another run for the Hawkeyes in the eighth.

Iowa collected its final run in the ninth when Primrose hit a booming triple and scored on Espo's single.

Eight SUI Wrestlers Who Finished on Top

Golfers Open Against Bradley

Six Iowa golfers will tee off at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning against Bradley University of Peoria, Ill., in the first dual meet of the season. The meet will also be the first for the Hawks under their new coach, Frank O. (Bucky) O'Connor.

Three men have definitely been selected for the Bradley meet, Coach O'Connor said. The three are Jim Rasley and Gene Matthews, both of Iowa City and Skip Carlson, Galesburg, Ill.

The morning half of the match will consist of three doubles, with the singles matches in the afternoon.

Tentative pairings for the doubles are Rasley and Carlson; Bob Graham, Kewanee, Ill., and Bob McKirahan, Wayland, Warren Strout, Milton, and Matthews.

Four of these six men may be substituted by Bob Bergquist, Sioux City; Les Fields, Clear Lake; Bob Phillips, Arlington, W. Va., and Jim Twogood, Waterloo for the singles competition in the afternoon, O'Connor said.

The Hawk mentor stressed the fact that all of the lineup except the first three is subject to change.

Rasley and Graham have been selected as co-captains for the 1949 Hawkeye links season. O'Connor announced. Rasley's 291 was low score in the varsity intra-squad tournament last week.

Six of the top ten on the Hawk squad won major letters last year.

The first conference meet of the season is against Minnesota at Minneapolis May 2. The Hawks have four other conference duals this year besides the Big Nine championships at Ann Arbor May 26, 29 and 30. The other duals are with Purdue, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan.

Homers Help Cleveland To Victory Over Giants

TEXARKANA, TEX. (AP) — Homers by Mickey Vernon and Rockie Orestes Minoso helped the Cleveland Indians to a 9-3 victory over the New York Giants in an exhibition game before an overflow crowd of 8,500 yesterday.

Joe Gordon doubled in the first run for the Indians in the second inning, and Vernon's homer came in the third.

It is being offered on a voluntary basis with no credit. Candidates must be 19, must have passed the senior Red Cross life saving test and must show an immediate need for an instructor's certificate, such as the offer of a job as instructor in a summer camp.

Plans June Wedding

THE REV. AND MRS. T. N. ABODEELY, CEDAR RAPIDS, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Victoria E., to Robert Sedlacek. Mr. Sedlacek is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Leo B. Sedlacek, Cedar Rapids. Miss Abodeely was graduated from McKinley high school, Cedar Rapids, and attended the State University of Iowa for two years. She is now employed at the Iowa Mutual Insurance company in Cedar Rapids. Mr. Sedlacek was graduated from McKinley high school, Cedar Rapids, and is a sophomore in the college of liberal arts at SUI. He is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon, social fraternity. The wedding will take place June 26, Cedar Rapids.

Exploratory Society —

Cave Group to Form

Ever had a hankering to explore caves? If so you will probably be interested in a new organization soon to be formed on the SUI campus.

Bill L. Petrie, G, Arlington, Va., Saturday headed a six man expedition to northwest Iowa caves to arouse interest in forming an SUI Grotto (chapter) of the National Speleological society.

Several caves in Maquoketa Caves state park and a fault cave in Bellevue state park were explored by Petrie, Dallas Bossert, Tabby Grove, Ill.; Herb Kane, Chicago; Ivor Langstroth, A3, Fort English; Arnold Jennings, A3, Iowa City, and Ami Traske, Black River Falls, Wis.

The group also visited Muenster cave on private property near Dubuque, but found that its mouth was closed. Petrie said they hope to return there to open it up at some future date.

Petrie said the proposed society's cave explorations should prove fascinating to geologists, biologists or anyone thrilled by the prospect of investigating the unknown.

The national organization includes two types of members — spelunkers, those in it for scientific reasons, and "spelunkers," those who join for the "fun of it," Petrie said.

The group will begin with commercial caves and then branch out to wild, little known caves, discovered by questioning people who live in cave areas. There are only a few caves in Iowa in the northeast section. There are many in Missouri, however, and several trips will probably be made to that state, Petrie said.

Petrie said he thought that he and his wife were the only Iowa members in the national society, probably because of the scarcity of caves here. Several members of the national group are from foreign countries.

A meeting will be held in room 106, geology building, at 4:30 p.m. next Tuesday for anyone interested in the society, Petrie added.

Hairdressers See Shorter Styles

New Hair Fashions Displayed at Benefit

Short, easily combed hair styles are the thing for spring, Mrs. Mae Willimack said Sunday at the Iowa City hairdressers' benefit style show in the Community building.

Approximately 300 tickets to the show were sold. Half of the proceeds will go to the Cancer society.

Forty models previewed the spring hair fashions for the small fry, teen-ager, college coed and matron. Operators in local shops and guest cosmetologists designed the styles.

Mrs. Willimack, an individual hair stylist from De Witt, designed a "cocktail hour" fashion shown by her daughter, Mrs. Joan Harrington. The model's red hair was built to an extreme height on the right side with bangs on the same side adding the spring touch.

"A beautiful hair style is more important to a woman's beauty than her clothes," Mrs. Willimack said. "Hair styling is an art — therefore a woman should select her shop according to the operator's past experience and skill."

Other guest cosmetologists were Mrs. Pauline Brown, Clinton, a member of the executive board of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association, and Frances Jones, Burlington, a member of the Hair Fashioning council of America.

"The spring styles feature soft curls in the back with perhaps a shadow wave," Miss Jones said. "These back curls are built much lower than in the past. A variation of the bang is usually added — but above all, the styles are easily combed and fussiness is out."

Donna Jean Coon, youngest model in the show, displayed a Grecian styled hair-do. She is the 17-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Coon, 1409 Yewell avenue.

Four men's housing groups were selected last night as winners in the men's semi-finals of the University Sing, "Spring Serenade."

They were Hillcrest, Phi Kappa Psi, Pi Kappa Alpha and Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

The semi-finals of the sing, sponsored by the University Men's Association, was held in MacBride auditorium.

Hillcrest sang "Hallelujah" and "Little Old Lady." The group was led by Gene Thomson.

Organist will be Mrs. G. W. Buxton, 1708 E. College street.

County Office Issues 4 Marriage Licenses

Marriage licenses were issued yesterday in the Johnson County clerk's office to John C. Kacere, Iowa City, and Joan Frances Brierly, Waverly; Samuel C. Damon, Indianapolis, Ind., and Meffie Scales, Iowa City; Donald K. Schultz, Yonkers, N.Y., and Carol Lee Grandfield, Creston, and to Carl William Burns and Patty Jean McGrann, both of Cedar Rapids.

Fred Eyres was chairman of the men's semi-finals and Gilbert Pearlman was the master of ceremonies.

The finals of the University Sing will be held May 8 on the banks of the Iowa river.

At The Carnival

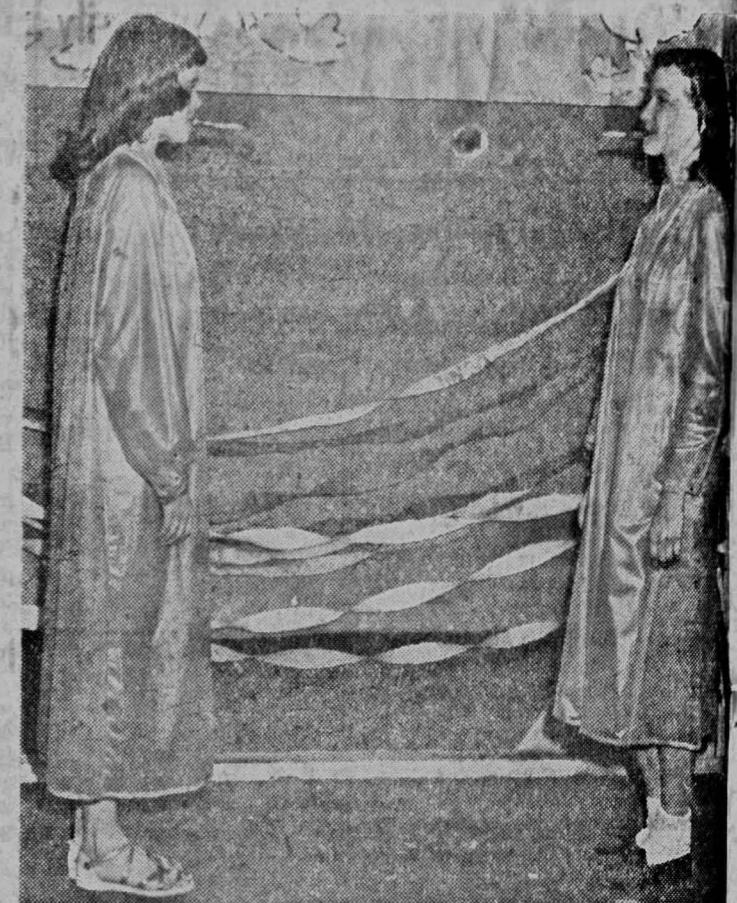

GIVING WITH ONE OF HER BLUES SPECIALTIES is Beverly Bragg who helped provide the music for the Sigma Chi Side Show. The show also featured the music of Nat Williams during the five performances presented Friday night.

TRYING TO GUESS WHICH SUI HOME THE RAT would choose, entertained these onlookers at Currier's booth Friday night. The booth contained the names of campus housing units and presidents along the rim and corresponding holes inside the glassed-in case.

The object of the game was to guess which hole the rat would choose when let loose. The rat above looks as if he'd rather watch the people instead of performing for them.

PLAYING WILLIAM TELL WITH CIGARETTES INSTEAD OF APPLES were these two Pi Beta Phi's who bravely dared contestants armed with water pistols to "put out their lights." The girls were prepared for "April Showers" in their bathing suits and raincoats.

PERFORMING A PERSIAN DANCE DURING THE SIGMA CHI SIDE SHOW were these four veiled beauties. They were a part of a carnival presentation that also featured the Masked Marvel Weight Lifter. The Sigma Chi's borrowed talent and beauty for their show which featured the music of Beverly Bragg and Nat Williams through five performances.

HEADLINING THEMSELVES OR THEIR FRIENDS in a satirical newspaper, visitors at the All-Campus Carnival kept members of Sigma Delta Chi busy. The journalism fraternity members set names in type for such headlines as "So and So Called S.O.B. by Truman" or "Jo Doe Expelled from S.U."

YOU CAN'T MISS! WIN A LEI FOR THE LADY! That's the kind of talk the girl between the sandwich boards and the fellow who is concentrating on winning a lei got when they stopped at the booth of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity. The girl is advertising the University Women's association booth which sent telegrams to and from the carnival goers. Names of telegram receivers were announced over a public address system and the messages picked up at the booth.

'One World' Not Possible Now; Porter

Prof. Kirk Porter, head of the SUI political science department, said yesterday he sees no prospect in the immediate future of anything resembling world government.

The SUI professor returned Sunday from the 53rd convention of the American Academy of Political Scientists in Philadelphia. The convention had as its theme "World Government."

As delegates from SUI, Porter joined with about 350 other delegates from the United States and several foreign countries in the discussion of world government.

Porter said the convention was "overwhelmingly in favor of world government now" but said it is his own opinion that world government now is not possible.

"It was apparent at the convention," Porter said, "that they were unable to face a main problem of world government — that of determining an equitable representation in a world government."

"It is obvious," the SUI professor said, "that there will be great difficulties in determining the representation. What representation, for instance, should Haiti be given in proportion to the United States? Or should representation be based on population giving India, Russia and China the advantage?"

The convention, Porter noted, was "sparkplugged" by Cord Meyers Jr., president of the United World Federalists.

Meyers wants the United States to pass a resolution asking the UN to appoint a committee to draw up a world constitution this year, Porter said.

The UWF leader wants pressure put on congressmen by people in their district to get such a resolution proposed and adopted. Porter said.

"Ultimately we must have world government" the SUI political scientist observed, "but there is no possibility of adopting a constitution for the world during the next generation."

Iowa Files Protest Over Kansas State Shooting Meet Win

Iowa has filed a protest over the Kansas State victory in the national rifle association's inter-collegiate district meet Saturday at Lincoln, Neb., SUI Rifle Coach J.P. Anderson said yesterday.

Iowa will be awarded first place instead of second if the protest is allowed. Kansas State fired 1,360 to Iowa's 1,348 in posting the victory in the team shooting.

The protest, filed with meet officials Saturday afternoon, claimed Kansas State was not a member or in any way affiliated with the national rifle association which sponsored the district meet. Anderson reported that State had failed to send its entry to either meet or national headquarters by deadline time, April 2.

Alfred B. Kearney, P2, Oakland, finished in a tie with Willis of Kansas State for first place in the individual firing Saturday morning. Both shot 277 out of 300. Kearney also led the team scoring in the afternoon with 282.

Iowa was the defending champion in the district meet.

Policemen to Take Advancement Tests

Police promotional examinations will be held tonight at the city hall, Delmar Sample, chairman of the civil service commission in Iowa City, said.

Police Chief E.J. Ruppert stated that all members of the police force will take the test which is held every two years, at which time a new promotion list is made from the examination results.

He also said that although no promotions are pending, policemen must take the test in order to qualify for future advancements.

Two Bonds Forfeited In Local Police Court

BASKET BAWLERS' Sue Jones, Rae Jean Amish and Ann Eaker, all sophomores at Iowa City high, won Herb Nipson, graduate student and Daily Iowan photographer fifth prize at the Iowa Press Photographers association convention in Cedar Rapids last weekend. The picture, one of the three that won Nipson prizes, was taken after Iowa City lost to Davenport in the basketball tournament last month.

Herb Nipson Wins Photography Prizes At State Convention

Herb Nipson, an SUI graduate student in English and a Daily Iowan photographer, won three prizes for photography at the Iowa Press Photographers association convention in Cedar Rapids during the weekend.

He won third prize in the feature division with a photo entitled "The Duke's Weary Men." It shows two members of Duke Ellington's band resting between concerts at the Iowa Union.

Nipson also won fifth prize in the sports feature division with a photo called "Basket Bawlers'" which shows three Iowa City girls crying after Iowa City lost to Davenport in a state tournament basketball game at the fieldhouse.

Four former members of the Daily Iowan also won prizes at the convention.

They are Bob Thompson, who won fourth prize in the spot news division; Joan Liffring, first prize in the feature division; Don Padilla, first prize in the sports feature division, and Bob Long, third prize in the pictorial division.

Feddersen Receives Oak Leaf Cluster

An SUI graduate, Maj. Richard T. Feddersen, 250 Black Springs, was decorated by Maj. Gen. John P. Lucas in Des Moines Friday afternoon.

Feddersen's citation, which resulted in his receiving a second oak leaf cluster, was given for meritorious achievements in ground operations against the enemy on or about Sept. 12, 1943, in the Pacific theater of combat.

Feddersen, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Nall, 350 Hutchinson street, previously had been awarded the bronze star. He graduated from SUI in 1941.

Beer Busts 'Embarrassing'

Park Official Warns Picnickers

SUI students were warned yesterday by Macbride Park Supervisor Roy Reed against violating regulations governing the use of Lake Macbride state park.

"All offenses are punishable by a fine up to $100 or 30 days in jail," Reed said.

Reed, a member of the land and waters division of the state conservation commission, said three fires were started Sunday outside fireplaces at Macbride park and that each could have caused serious damage or destroyed the area.

He added that last week it had cost $100 to pick up broken glass, bottles and beer cans, which in the past had caused serious injuries to children.

Fires are to be built in the steel and concrete fireplaces, he said. All litter is to be disposed of in the receptacles provided for it.

He warned that picnicking should take place only in the picnic areas where tables and fireplaces are provided. Automobiles are to be parked in the parking areas, he said.

Reed said the speed limit in the park is 15 m.p.h. and the park is to be vacated by 10:30 p.m.

"Blanket parties and beer busts are becoming a very embarrassing situation in the park," Reed said. "Numerous complaints have been received from families visiting the area."

Since the Iowa law prohibits drinking in public places, Reed warned picnickers not to come to the park for beer parties.

Plane Reservations Scarce —

Train, Bus Seats Available for Easter Rush

If you are planning a trip home for Easter, here are your chances of getting a seat on a train, a bus or a plane.

Rock Island lines have scheduled a special train into Chicago. It leaves Iowa City at 2:45 tomorrow afternoon. A special agent will be on the train to take reservations for the return trip, Rock Island officials said yesterday.

All other regularly scheduled trains will have extra coaches added and every effort is being made to accommodate all students planning to travel home by train, F.E. Meacham, station agent for the Rock Island lines said.

Additional sections will be added if advance ticket sales today warrant it. Today is the last chance to make reservations, he said, because requests for extra sections on regularly scheduled runs must be made in advance.

Chances for a seat on an airplane either east or west bound are pretty slim, according to the United Air Lines agent. One special flight east to Chicago has been scheduled, but it leaves the Iowa City airport at 9:30 tomorrow morning. There is a possibility of a "special" flying west leaving at 5:15 tomorrow evening, however. Any one interested in a seat on such a flight may check with the air lines today, the station agent said.

The only other chance is a possible cancellation. There is a waiting list for these seats, however.

Of course, as a last resort there is the waving thumb and a hope for a kind hearted traveler on the highway.

Iowa City Must Settle Garbage Issue

By JIM ROBINSON

Trying to find stuff in the notebook this week is beginning to chaff at armpits a bit. Jeanne is now a full-fledged housewife for the first time in seven years, and she has all day to sit around the house and hide things.

But then seven years is a long time to support a man, and she deserves a chance to rearrange our belongings.

I'm convinced there is a little pack rat blood in every woman. They try to excuse their actions on the basis of housekeeping, but I prefer to have my property out where I can see it.

At the carnival in the fieldhouse Saturday night I seem to have picked up the wrong hat. The one I wore over there was brown felt, but I now have a blue wool bonnet with strings which tie beneath the chin.

This bonnet does not fit me, and friends are beginning to laugh, so if the mother of the baby race entrant who lost the bonnet will call, I'll gladly return it.

I wonder how that baby looked, wearing my brown hat home. If he put his feet into it, I reserve the right to do the same to his before returning it.

A letter from an unidentified agent expresses the following tender sentiments. "Your writing stinks, but the cartoons are bearable — more cartoons and less writing, please. The person who draws them shouldn't waste his time playing second fiddle to your prose."

Well, Mr. Anon, I have you right where the . . . right where I want you. The art work (journalistic license) in this panel is rendered by the same fellow who writes it — mainly me.

This drawing business is a talent which had managed to escape my attention until I was short 20 lines one day and decided to fill in with cartoons to save time.

My only previous experience in the drawing field had to do with eggs, and has proven little or no help. That accounts for the fact that hands and feet in the cartoons often resemble salmon patties or jai alai rackets.

One of my most diligent agents submitted the story this week about the local woman who asked a friend if he could get her "a little manure" for her lawn.

The friend said he could, and he woman supposed he would bring a few pounds, which was all she needed.

That evening when she returned home the manure was there — a whole truckload dumped in the middle of her landscape. Even when she had forked the fertilizer over her lawn, the huge pile quite offensively remained.

About this time a neighbor boy walked by, and the woman asked him if his father would like to fertilize his lawn, offering the use of the pile free of charge.

Not only did the father take enough to cover his lawn, but other neighbors heard of the bonanza and carted the stuff away to encourage every lawn in the neighborhood.

The moral here seems to be, if a friend unloads a pile of manure on you, don't underestimate your neighbors' ability to spread it.

CARE Offers Film Telling of Parcels Sent to Europeans

A new 20 minute CARE film telling the story of CARE packages from the time they are ordered by a school in America until they are delivered in Europe is now available free of charge.

CARE, Cooperative for American Remittances to Europe, is a non-profit organization made up of accredited overseas relief agencies.

The film, "A Letter of Thanks," will be loaned to church groups, civic organizations, schools and clubs that request it. It is available in both 16mm and 35mm, black and white, with sound.

Information concerning the film was received by Richard E. Weitzer in the office of student affairs. Interested groups should contact his office or write directly to the CARE Film Unit, 50 Broad Street, New York, 4, N.Y.

The city council will have to take action soon on the question of garbage collection in Iowa City. The contract the city has with Ira Montgomery expires May 1 and unless a new contract is negotiated by then, the city will have to go into the garbage business on its own.

This puts Iowa City's new council in pretty much the same position the old council was in a year ago. Some of the council favored putting the city in the garbage business, but the majority held out for a private contract to take care of collection and disposal of garbage.

A LAST MINUTE action on April 26 negotiated a contract with Ira J. and Ira W. Montgomery to collect and dispose of Iowa City's garbage at a cost to the city of $19,285 for the year.

Smith said such action might involve a bonded indebtedness of first but this indebtedness could increase revenue the city would provide.

One bill proposes raising the millage rate from one mill to one and one-half mills as the amount that can be levied for garbage collection purposes in cities of Iowa City's size.

The other bill proposes to give cities power to enforce the collection of fees for garbage collection and disposal by making unpaid fees constitute a lien on property, thus subjecting the tax to collection like any other property tax.

BOTH THESE MEASURES would provide Iowa City with more revenue for garbage collection and disposal. Alderman Charles Smith said recently he thinks the amount Iowa City could gain if both these bills are made law would be enough to permit the city to go into the garbage business and make the proposition pay.

Parizek, local civil service secretary, said the yearly pay ranges from $2,284 to $3,351 for medical technicians; $2,284 to $2,974 for x-ray technicians, and $2,974 to $5,232 for tobacco inspectors.

Parizek said, further information may be obtained at the civil service window in the Iowa City postoffice, he added.

Since the current session of the Iowa legislature is expected to adjourn this month, Iowa City's garbage question should be solved soon.

If the two bills don't pass this session the city will be forced to negotiate another private contract for garbage collection and disposal. No money was provided in the 1949-50 budget to put Iowa City in its own garbage business.

IF THE BILLS pass, Alderman Smith has said he will push a measure in the council to put the city in the garbage business. Several other aldermen have said they will support Smith this time. Meanwhile a not too optimistic city council has ordered City Clerk George J. Dohrer to advertise for bids for private contractor garbage collection and disposal.

Politically, we seem to be on the way back to the mood of last summer, to the atmosphere of the strawberry months of last year, when the whole liberal movement seemed caught in a bath of warm glue.

No neon lights surround Mr. Truman anymore when he appears in public nowadays, and Washington observers note a "changed" political climate. It is pointed out that if the Taft-Hartley question were to come before congress again right now, the act would probably be strengthened rather than repealed. The brief period of fluidity which came to Washington with Mr. Truman's unexpected election has ended.

Initial German reaction to the Allied occupation statute under which they are supposed to govern themselves has thrown a damper on the optimism which surrounded the agreement of the western powers last Friday.

The members of the parliamentary council trying to agree on a constitution for western Germany already were at odds among themselves and with the allies over centralization of authority in the proposed government.

Already they were suffering from the fact that many Germans would take anything they did as recognition of a divided Germany.

Then came Friday's announcement that the allies had agreed on their own attitude toward Germany. The German federal state, subject only to the limitations of the occupation statute, was to exercise full legislative, executive and judicial powers. A great step was to be taken toward democratic German self-government. Although military occupation would necessarily continue, military control would end with establishment of the new government. At the same time, or before, diverse allied administrative methods in the western zones would end. An allied high commission would be established to work with the German government.

We just didn't know. It looked for a while as if the postwar world were going to be an extremely peculiar world, one in which the people would blithely be led to believe that they were going to win.

To be sure the Ruhr was to remain under international control. But allied agreements were being worked out to save for Germany a large part of the remaining industrial plants originally scheduled for dismantlement.

The allies and Germans, working together, would present the Russians with a situation which might tempt them to renew negotiations for revived four-power control, creating new possibilities for German union.

Every power possible, with due regard for security and international obligations, was to be delegates to the western German government. France was to have a veto in a limited field, and the high commission would have a veto over the German government in certain cases, but the real objective was to retain supervision, not directive, control.

This sentiment is repeated in the text of the occupation statute itself.

But in reality the board terms of the statute mean that the allies, if they wish, can nullify any action of any German parliament merely by holding that it contradicts the purposes of the occupation.

Every act will be subject to allied review. It can go into effect only if, after 21 days, the allies have not disapproved. But the statute also provides for "conditional" disapproval, apparently meaning that this time can be extended indefinitely, and that legislation can be vitiated even without formal disapproval.

There is every reason why the allies should maintain close control over Germany. Their entire program in Europe depends on it, and perhaps even their very lives.

But there is a definite conflict here between the security requirements of the situation and the political effect which the allies have been trying to create by inaugurating self-government. What has been evolved may be an important step in this direction, as advertised. But it is self-government in form, not in fact.

At the first session of the constitutional convention in Bonn last fall I thought I sensed a lack of virile leadership among its members. Many of them were old. Many looked back to the ruins of Weimar rather than forward to a truly new Germany. I somehow doubted that they could run the course, even though the hurdles didn't look quite so formidable as they do now.

Suppose, for instance, they turn out a smelly propaganda film "ridiculing" the degenerate home life in degenerate America. Will the smell of the exhaust from the family car or the sizzling aroma of meat cooking in the kitchen really make comrades scornful of Americans?

Then comes the complicated problem of deciding which smells are "formalistic" and which are representative of the glorious new Soviet culture. It would be terrible if some major film producer had his Stalin medal taken away and was shipped to Siberia for not following the current party-line odor.

If Soviet genius does produce smelling motion pictures, it's possible that invention will disrupt party ranks and create a major stink.

Washington with Mr. Truman's unexpected election has ended.

Initial German reaction to the Allied occupation statute under which they are supposed to govern themselves has thrown a damper on the optimism which surrounded the agreement of the western powers last Friday.

The problem is infinitely simpler than that of last summer.

Then it was one of navigating through the unknown. Today it is one of mobilizing a known force.

We might start by deciding not to wait for the President to make a speaking tour to rouse us up;

we might start by sending him a letter of support, today, as if he had already made the tour.

In doubtful districts, especially,

the people can, by letting their sentiments be known, send Republican members running to their own steering committees with tears in their eyes.

In a sense, they have given up party for power. Their grasp on the legislative situation is purely technical. This is pretty thin stuff, compared with the ineffable sense of well-being and political prosperity which surged through their veins last summer.

NO, THIS IS NOT a new springtime for reaction. Too many bubbles have burst for that. This stale revival of a last year's show can be ended. It will end when the people learn, somehow, to make their will known between elections as they do on election day, when they give up the habit, acquired under Roosevelt, of always letting the President carry the ball for them.

Twelve-Day Art Conference, Exhibition Open Here Tuesday

The 19th Annual Art exhibition and conference of Iowa high school art will open next Tuesday at the SUI art building and run through April 30.

The Art conference will be held from April 21 to April 23, inclusively. The general public can attend both the exhibition and conference.

Drawings, paintings, and two and three dimensional art will be displayed. Special art panels will demonstrate the development of student work during one teaching experience.

Visitors will be taken on guided tours of SUI art studios and there will be demonstrations and panel discussions in design, sculpture, print workshop, oil and watercolor paintings and drawing.

During the conference, art historians, critics, artists, and members of the university faculty will lecture.

Participants will include Yasuo Kuniyoshi, noted contemporary artist; Serge Chermayeff, director of the Chicago Design Institute and Viktor Lowenfeld, professor of art education at Pennsylvania State College.

Reservations for the dinner on April 22 and the luncheon on April 23 both at the Iowa Union River room should be made with SUI Art Professor Shirley Hammond. The dinner and luncheon will cost $1.50 and $1.00, respectively.

Starts at 1 p.m.

The three day conference will start April 21 at 1 p.m. with registration and an exhibition of student works from Iowa high schools, the Chicago Institute of Design and the State University of Iowa at the art building east foyer. The SUI permanent art collection will still be showing at the Iowa Union lounge.

At 4 p.m. in the art building auditorium, Yasuo Kuniyoshi will lead an informal discussion with students and visitors and at 8 p.m. he will discuss his own paintings and his views on contemporary art. Lester D. Longman, head of the SUI art department, will preside.

On April 22 there will be an open house at the art building. Visitors will meet members of the SUI art faculty at the art annex, 112 Iowa Avenue. In the art building auditorium at 10 a.m., a general discussion will be held by Kuniyoshi and Serge Chermayeff. Students and visitors will meet with Chermayeff in the design workshop, room 10, or Kuniyoshi in the mural studio, art building north wing, at 11 a.m.

Luncheon tables will be reserved at 12:15 p.m. for visitors and faculty at the Iowa Union cafeteria north end.

Sul Art Professor Claude Marks and Instructor Margaret Meigs will speak on "Costume and Style" and "A Problem in 15th Century Landscape" respectively at 1:30 p.m. in the art auditorium. Professor William S. Hecksher will preside.

Conducted Tours

From 3:30 p.m. to 5 p.m., guides will conduct visitors on a tour of art studios. They will meet and discuss student works in prints, sculpture, and drawing with Art Professor Mauricio Lansky, Humbert Albrizio, and James Leachay.

An informal dinner will be held at 6:30 p.m. where L.A. Van Dyke, director of Iowa City University high school, will speak on "Art in Education." Earl E. Harper, director of SUI School of Fine Arts, will preside.

Viktor Lowenfeld, prominent art educator and author of "Creative and Mental Growth," will speak at 8 p.m. in the art auditorium on the "Crisis of Adolescence." Professor Shirley Hammond will preside.

The program for April 3 will begin with two guided tours. One tour, starting from the art auditorium at 9 a.m., will visit the SUI painting studios; the second tour will form at the auditorium at 9:30 a.m. and cover the design studios.

Chermayeff, the visiting designer, will speak at 10:30 a.m. in the art auditorium on "Design in

Struck by Lightning, Clock Strikes Early

WICKERSLEY, ENGLAND (AP) — There's nothing slow about Wickersley (population 1,000). The village clock keeps it one jump ahead.

Since getting hit by lightning, the clock has struck every hour five minutes fast.

Now, says schoolmaster Ralph Rawlinson, Wickersley boys are seldom late.

"They can hear the clock strike nine," he explains, "and run to school in time."

Scientist Discusses Earth Temperature

Harold C. Urey, one of the nation's leading atomic scientists, discussed his work in ancient earth temperature measurements at a meeting of the Iowa section of the American Chemical Society last night.

Speaking before about 500 persons in the auditorium of the chemistry building, Urey described the methods he used to measure temperatures that existed 65 to 125 million years ago.

Urey is now a professor of chemistry at the University of Chicago. He won the Nobel prize in 1934 for his discovery of "heavy water."

Urey will speak on "Costume and Style" and "A Problem in 15th Century Landscape" respectively at 1:30 p.m. in the art auditorium. Professor William S. Hecksher will preside.

FARM WAGE RATES DROP

WASHINGTON (AP) — The agriculture department reported yesterday that farm wage rates on April 1 dropped below the preceding year's level for the first time since July, 1939. Wage rates weakened from Jan. 1 to April 1, instead of strengthening as they normally do.

Burton commented in his article on the difficulty he had in getting a job for the graduate and before Burton had received his copy of the magazine, an offer of a job in advertising was received.

"I'm sorry, but this is a small town, and we're struggling for good-will. I can't take a chance of stirring up social problems along with business problems," was one of the answers Burton received from prospective employers.

SUI 'Tourists' Invade Capitol

By MAUREEN AUBURN
(Iowan Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON — SUI students on the YMCA - YWCA "Know Your Government" tour to Washington and the UN yesterday swarmed over Capitol Hill, visited the Philippine embassy and dined at the International student house.

Sunday they were guests of the students at Howard university, a college established for colored students after the Civil War. At Crancall hall on the beautiful campus, Helen Fuller, Washington editor of the New Republic, explained why President Truman is having difficulty getting his fair deal enacted. She blamed Dixiecrats and Republicans and said Southerners will soon have to declare themselves loyal to liberal Democrats or form a new party.

Sherwin Markman, A4, Des Moines, and Julie Jensen, A2, Harlan started a lively political discussion during the question period.

Yesterday the Iowans heard William Galloway of the State department, discuss the Atlantic pact and Economist Fred Waugh explain current economic trends. They also lunched in the supreme court building and watched the senate consider unanimous consent bills. Some visited the house which was considering the ECA bill. They expressed disappointment at the confusion on the floor.

Senator Pepper (D-Fla) held a conference for the group and answered questions. The conference was cut short when the group had to leave for the embassy and the entertainment there.

Today the group will hear Senators Hickenlooper, Gillette and Humphrey and then attend committee hearings.

On the trip to Washington from Iowa City, Jack Thomson, A3, Cresco, and an unidentified coed were left behind in one town but were retrieved when the group missed them. The pair was found hitchhiking on the highway.

"Honestly, we only stopped for a cup of coffee," Thomson explained.

SUI's Hoyt, Warren Receive Guggenheim Foundation Awards

Two SUI professors have received fellowships from the John Simon Guggenheim foundation for research during the 1949-50 academic year.

History Prof. Robert S. Hoyt received his fellowship for research in England for a book on medieval origins — ideological and institutional — of the modern national state.

English Prof. Austin Warren, now on leave of absence to the University of Michigan, received a fellowship to prepare a critical monograph on the poet, John Donne.

Hoyt will do his work in the British Museum and the public record office in London if given leave of absence by the state board of education.

He, his wife and two children will leave for England shortly after summer session and will return to SUI in the fall of 1950.

Hoyt received his B.A., M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Harvard and has been at SUI since 1946.

His research in England will be his second major research project having recently completed a book on the "Economic Basis of the Medieval English Monarchy."

Warren came to SUI from Boston university in 1939 and went to Michigan in 1948. He holds degrees from Wesleyan, Harvard and Princeton universities.

He has previously received fellowships from the American Council of Learned Societies, the Rockefeller foundation and Kenyon college.

Occidental Books Popular in Japan

TOKYO (AP) — The first dozen allied books under the occupation translation program have reached bookstores throughout Japan.

Two, Lloyd Douglas' "The Robe," and former Ambassador Joseph C. Grew's "Ten Years in Japan," were sold out before they reached the shelves.

Advance orders for the Grew book exceeded 92,000, and for Douglas' novel, 10,000.

In all, 40 translations of allied books have been cleared by the translation committee of the Japan publishers association. All are to reach the shops in a few weeks.

Calm Returns to the Scene of Kathy's Death

THE PLOT OF GROUND that held the nation's attention was returning to a peaceful landscape yesterday as bulldozers smoothed over the huge holes made by rescuers seeking for two days to free Kathy Fiscus from the depths of an abandoned well shaft.
