Man Leaps From Golden Gate Bridge

Span's First Survivor Parachutes to Safety

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Stuntman Robert L. Niles, a 22-year-old ex-paratrooper, made good an old vow yesterday by successfully parachuting off the Golden Gate bridge.

He was the first person ever to survive a deliberate and planned stunt leap from the 230-foot high span into the treacherous tides and cross-currents of the Golden Gate channel.

The 112 bridge leaps prior to yesterday cost 111 lives. All but one of the leaps were suicides.

The exception was movie stunt man Alfred (Dusty) Rhodes, who lost his life in an attempt similar to Niles'.

Niles was uninjured, suffering only rope burns on his hands from the line he dangled over the bridge railing to clear the superstructure before he dropped.

His leap was a well-kept secret in vindication of the pledge he made nearly a year ago and renewed three weeks ago when police blocked his first attempt to make the plunge.

Defying a police order to keep off the bridge, Niles apparently got out on the bridge in an automobile from which he made a hasty exit and hurriedly rigged his line and chute for the jump.

He leaped at 3:12 p. m. (CST) according to the Coast Guard.

He was picked up by the cabin cruiser Hobby cruising below the span and arrested at the Port Point lightguard station for disturbing the peace, a technical charge, police said.

"My only thought was whether I would go to jail for a second time," he said.

Local Airport Needs Improvements: CAA

Iowa City's airport should be improved in the opinion of the civil aeronautics administration. It is one of the 142 points in Iowa at which airports should be built or improved, the commission reports.

The recommendation was contained in the 1949 national airport program based on existing and anticipated demands for air service. The plan does not represent an allocation of funds for such improvement, however.

Iowa City's airport is now classified as a class three airport, a category in which runway lengths are between 3,700 and 4,800 feet in length.

Proposed changes would place it in the class four category with landing strips from 4,500 to 5,500 feet long.

Estimated cost of the construction and development for Iowa outlined in the general state plan would be $10.4 million. Of this amount, $9.1-million would be in federal funds.

Snow Giving Way to New Easter Bonnets

Iowa Citizens retrieved heavy overcoats from closets and eyed their Easter finery hopefully yesterday after a blustery snowstorm and temperatures which dipped down to 28 degrees.

After 1.2 inches of wet snow, the forecast was for fair and warmer weather today with high temperatures of 44 to 50 degrees.

Tonight's weather prediction is clearing and cool, with low temperatures near 30. The weatherman — probably with thoughts of his new Easter hat — says Sunday will be fair and warmer, with high temperatures around 65.

Iowa City wasn't the only locale plagued by snow, sleet, rain and cold winds. Storms extended from eastern Iowa to northwestern Ohio. Dubuque had five inches of snow and Mason City reported six inches.

Iowa state highway commission officials admitted they had retired snowplows from service for the summer. They said highways around Des Moines in the central part of the state became snow-blocked and were open later to one-lane traffic only.

The commission warned Iowa motorists to be alert for ice and slippery spots. Roads cleared in the western part of the state but became worse in the east.

The highway patrol in Des Moines said highway 20 west of Cedar Falls was passable last night but not recommended for traffic. It was closed east of Cedar Falls and will probably be open today.

Yesterday at 4 p. m., the state highway commission reported highway 218 blocked north and south of Waterloo. Number 150 was closed between Cedar Rapids and Independence.

Meanwhile, the east coast enjoyed mild temperatures, with 84 degrees reported at noon in Washington, Philadelphia and Raleigh, N.C.

U.S. Demands Vraz Release

PRAGUE, CZECHOSLOVAKIA (AP) — The United States embassy yesterday demanded the "early release" of an American woman held by Czech authorities for alleged "political" activities.

A note to the Czech foreign office also demanded an "immediate" explanation of the arrest of Miss Vlasta Adele Vraz, an American citizen from Berwyn, Ill.

The embassy charged that Miss Vraz, head of American relief for Czechoslovakia, was held incommunicado for three days following her arrest last Saturday.

It asked an immediate report on the "facts and circumstances surrounding the case, including the specific charges, if any." The note protested the arbitrary methods of Czech authorities in the arrest.

An embassy communique said Miss Vraz was "promised by the authorities who took her into custody at 1 p. m. that day."

"In spite of this," the communique said, "Miss Vraz was not only not permitted to return at the promised time, but was held incommunicado for three days."

Turbulent Greeks Delay Polk Trial

SOLINIKA, GREECE (AP) — Pro-government Greeks demonstrated in mass in Salonika yesterday, forcing cancellation of the afternoon session of the trial of Greek Communists accused of murdering American correspondent George Polk.

The anti-Communist demonstrators marched in front of the building where a Greek Communist and his mother are on trial for murdering Polk and authorities called off the afternoon session for fear serious trouble might develop.

Communist guerrilla forces meanwhile severed overland telephone lines between Salonika and Athens yesterday morning and American correspondents were forced to send their stories to Athens by plane when government cable company employees joined a civil servants' strike.

Crook at a Loss

DANVILLE, VA. (AP) — The crook who exhausted himself battering and mauling a safe at the Danville curb market gave up without reaching the money inside. Police thought yesterday he ought to know it wasn't locked.

China Communists Start New Assault

NANKING (AP) — The Communists were officially reported to have launched a heavy assault on Taiyuan, northwestern capital of old Marshal Yen Hsi-Shan, while an uneasy truce held sway along the Yangtze river.

Russian Ambassador Quits Iran

His Return Is Uncertain

TEHRAN, IRAN (AP) — Soviet Ambassador Ivan Sadchikov left Tehran for Russia yesterday in an atmosphere of strain developed by recent diplomatic exchanges and border incidents.

It was not announced whether he will return. However, sources close to the Soviet Embassy said the ambassador's wife remained in Tehran. Sadchikov, who has been stationed in the Iranian capital three years, spent two months in Moscow for medical treatment in 1947.

Tension between Russia and Iran, never long absent since the end of World War II, has increased in the last three months.

One factor was the wounding of Shah Reza Pahlavi Feb. 4 by a gunman police identified as a supporter of the Tudeh (Communist) party. The Tudeh party has been outlawed and its leaders placed on trial.

Two border clashes have occurred. Though casualties were light, Iranian army sources viewed the incidents seriously. The weekly newspaper Teherani Mosavvar, unofficial mouthpiece of the army, said yesterday the Russians moved up tanks in both cases. Soviet infantry now on the frontier was reported to have motorized support.

The Russians have closed their consulates in four Iranian cities and there are reports the consuls who remain are packed and ready to leave.

Another problem arose this week between the two nations. Russia announced that she intended to deport to Iran 150 persons she termed Iranian nationals. The Iranian foreign ministry refused to issue visas for them.

Soviets Forced Out Berlin High Court, Clay Report Says

BERLIN (AP) — The Russians created the final split in civil government of Berlin when they forced the Berlin supreme court to flee from the Soviet sector into the western part of the blockaded city, Gen. Lucius D. Clay reported yesterday.

In a monthly report, the American military governor said the Russians arrested the president of the court in February. About 85 percent of the court's personnel hastily moved to western Berlin and a new court was set up in the Soviet sector.

"This step marked the east-west division of the last city-wide civil function," Clay reported. He said the split of the Berlin supreme court occurred Feb. 4. His report covered activities only during that month.

The division of the court left only a few public utilities, among them the "El" operating on a four-sector basis, Clay said.

Cooperation between east and west German officials in Berlin dropped to "the technicians level" in the operation of certain public conveyances, water and gas supply, sewage disposal and telephone systems, Clay said.

The American commander recalled that February marked the inaugural of Soviet barriers and road blocks at some streets which passed from the western sectors into the Russian district.

Reporting on the cropping out of nationalism in some parts of west Germany, the general said: "During February, the director of the office of military government for Bremen warned the political parties operating in that land (state) against an increasing tendency toward the revival of excessive nationalism in their party information sheets."

Wallace Says Visas Withheld By Acheson

NEW YORK (AP) — Henry Wallace yesterday charged Secretary of State Acheson with holding up visas for three European parliament members due to tour the United States with the Progressive party leader.

But the state department said two of the visas already had been granted, while the third was under consideration.

Wallace in a telegram to Acheson had accused him of attempting to "avoid and evade action" on the documents until after April 27, when the trio is expected here.

Estes Receives Tailfeathers Award

THE SUI SPORTSMANSHIP award presented annually by Tailfeathers is shown being presented to Johnny Estes (right) former Hawkeye grider who suffered a severe injury to his back last summer in a playground accident. Tailfeathers President E. K. Jones made the presentation yesterday at Estes' home in Des Moines.

Pope Pius Calls for Internationalization of Jerusalem Area

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Pius XII called yesterday for internationalization of the Jerusalem area and establishment of a "true peace" in Palestine.

Roman Catholic bishops throughout the world were asked in a papal letter on Good Friday to work for peace and Catholic rights in the Holy Land. The Pope said the armistice was welcome, but real peace was still to be achieved.

The United Nations partition plan of 1947 proposed international rule for Jerusalem, but war upset the arrangements. Trans-Jordan holds the old city. Israel controls the new city and claims a right to all Jerusalem.

Pope Pius also called for safe-guarding of holy places in Palestine, with free access for pilgrims and measures against profanation by the operation of "worldly and sinful places."

Liberty for Catholic institutions. Conservation of the "rights Catholics have acquired during many centuries in Palestine . . . solemnly and with virtue reaffirmed by the Popes."

The Pope made his appeal in the second encyclical he has written on Palestine in six months.

China Communists Start New Assault

NANKING (AP) — The Communists were officially reported to have launched a heavy assault on Taiyuan, northwestern capital of old Marshal Yen Hsi-Shan, while an uneasy truce held sway along the Yangtze river.

The government's military news agency said two Communist army groups (150,000 men) had been hurled at Taiyuan and fierce fighting was in progress. The scene is nearly 600 miles by air northwest of Nanking.

Military observers said the attack apparently had no relation with the general curb on other Communist operations.

Fighting had ceased along the Yangtze that divides Red North China from the Nationalist South.

This was taken in this capital as a strong indication that the government had yielded to the eight peace terms which the Communists have been demanding since January.

Sen. Bridges Criticizes Acheson's China Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH) sharply criticized Secretary of State Dean G. Acheson yesterday for saying that further United States military aid to Nationalist China would do more harm than good.

He demanded that the senate foreign relations committee conduct a "full dress" investigation of Acheson's assertions that the present Nationalist government is unfit to halt Communist advances or restore economic stability in China, even with large American aid.

Congress to Receive Truman Health Plan Next Week - Green

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman is planning to battle for his national health program, labor leader William Green said after a White House visit yesterday.

Green predicted that Mr. Truman will lay the compulsory insurance plan before congress next week and also may take to the radio to tell the people about it.

Green, president of the AFL, was one of a group which called on the President to submit a report declaring that organized medicine has "choked the development" of comprehensive health insurance plans.

The report was presented by the Committee on the Nation's Health, headed by Dr. Channing Frothingham, past president of the Massachusetts state medical society, James B. Carey, secretary-treasurer of the CIO, and Harvey Brown, president of the International Association of Machinists, accompanied Frothingham and Green to the White House.

The President has signalled plainly in advance that he wants compulsory medical and hospital insurance, financed in all probability by a payroll tax. Details of his program, however, were awaited with interest.

The American Medical association has been battling compulsory health insurance, contending it means socialized medicine. Two alternate health measures, stressing grants-in-aid to the states but minus the compulsory insurance features, have been introduced in congress.

One of them, introduced in the senate, calls for the spending of over $1,250,000,000 in federal money during the next five years to help the states develop health programs.

UAW Wins Chalmers Election Over UFEW

SPRINGFIELD, ILL. (AP) — The CIO united auto workers yesterday won a representation election at two Allis Chalmers plants formerly represented by the CIO united farm equipment workers.

The vote was 1974 for the UAW, 722 for the UFEW, and 26 for neither union.

The election was ordered by the national labor relations board. It marked the first triumph in the UAW drive to unite all farm equipment industry workers in one union.

The CIO executive board had ordered the farm equipment union to merge with the UAW, but UFEW leaders defied the order.

The election was the first of its kind since the UAW began an intensive organizing campaign late in January to take over all farm equipment plants after the CIO board's 60-day merger order went unheeded.

John W. Livingston, international vice-president of the UAW, said the election was "the beginning of the end of FE."

"It is also a triumph of CIO policy in the farm equipment industry," he said, "and a win for clean, democratic American trade unionism."

Tito Becomes Chief Balkan Strong Man As Dimitrov 'Quits'

LONDON (AP) — Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia emerged yesterday as the strong man of the Balkans with retirement from the Bulgarian scene of veteran Bolshevik revolutionary Georgi Dimitrov, premier and head of the Bulgarian Communist party.

Announcement of "home leave" in the USSR for Dimitrov was the most recent of several moves in the ideological conflict between Russia's Premier Josef Stalin and Tito.

Because Tito is now the undisputed big man of the Balkans, Yugoslav quarters expected even stronger attacks by the Communist Information Bureau (Cominform) against the excommunicated Tito and his supporters.

These attacks apparently started yesterday when the Cominform journal in Bucharest, Romania, charged that "American imperialists" had assigned Tito the task of harassing the "peoples democracies."

Hungarian Communist editor Josef Reval said Tito and his group "have become the agents of the American imperialists on the same footing" as British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, French Socialist Leader Leon Blum, Italian Premier Alcide De Gasperi, Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty and France's Gen. Charles De Gaulle.

"The Tito regime is an unofficial follower of the north Atlantic pact," the journal added, and Tito's "present task" is to "harass the peoples democracies, especially Bulgaria, Albania and Hungary."

The Tito-Stalin ideological conflict was emphasized in February when the Communist-dominated Bulgarian fatherland front conducted a purge of all "hostile and anti-peoples elements."

In March, Vice Premier Trajcho Kostov, long a pupil of the master old-line communism — the sin for which Tito was excommunicated from the Cominform.

Now — without explanation — it has been announced that Dimitrov himself is in the USSR and that he had been granted "home leave" from his important Bulgarian posts for medical treatment.

Clay Frees Woman Of Prison Term

FRANKFURT, GERMANY (AP) — Mrs. Wilma Ybarbo, 23, serving a five year prison sentence for slaying her soldier husband Sept. 21, was ordered freed yesterday.

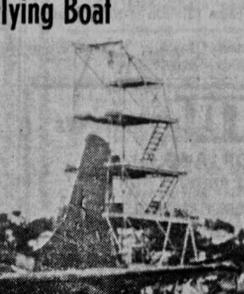

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, commander of United States forces in Germany, said, "the remorse of her conscience will prove punishment enough."

Clay added he could not separate Mrs. Ybarbo from her six-year-old son because she is not "a vicious person."

As extenuating circumstances, Clay listed "unnatural environment, drinking parties, and a general looseness of home life under which normal behavior could not be expected."

The high-speed patrol plane is believed to be the largest built in this country to be powered by turbo-props.

Coed Receives Easter Bouquet of 29 Orchids

An orchid corsage is an "event" in any girl's life, but what does a girl do with 29 of the beautiful flowers? That's the problem of Janet Bliss, G. Berkley, Calif. She received the big bouquet of the exotic flowers when she returned to the dormitory yesterday afternoon.

"They're hardy flowers, and I'll have a couple of weeks to decide what to do with them," she said.

The unusual gift, an Easter present from her father, William W. Bliss, amateur orchid raiser in Berkley, arrived at Eastlawn about 2:30 yesterday afternoon.

Janet, who had been working on her thesis in education in the graduate room at East hall, didn't know of their arrival until 5:30.

She knew they were coming, however, because she had been forewarned in a telegram from her father on Wednesday.

Although her father is an amateur orchid raiser, a gift of the rare flowers is still a "thrill" to her, Janet said.

The big bouquet of orchids is the second such "shower" of the rare blooms Janet has received from her father while she has been at school in the university. Last year she received a bouquet of 21 of them on her twenty-second birthday, Feb. 28.

"My father was one short of the right number that time," Janet said.

ORCHIDS BY THE DOZEN were the Easter bouquet received by Janet Bliss, G. Eastlawn, yesterday afternoon about 5:30. A gift from her father, William W. Bliss, an amateur orchid raiser in Berkley, Calif., the orchids were originally intended as a birthday present, but unfavorable growing weather this spring delayed the blooming of the flowers long enough to make them a "wonderful" Easter bouquet, Miss Bliss said.

5 Homers As Tribe Rocks Giants, 16-11

RICHMOND, VA.—The New York Giants and Cleveland Indians engaged in their second straight slugfest yesterday, with the Indians again topping the National leaguers, this time 16-11. The wild and woolly ball game, which developed into a score-keeper's headache, saw five home runs and 14 doubles rattle the overcrowded field. More than 9,000 witnessed the game.

Thursday the Indians clubbed the Giants, 15-9, after the New Yorkers had gone on a batting spree a day earlier, winning 16-6. The two clubs now have scored 73 runs in three days, hitting 18 home runs in the process.

A high wind threatened to turn yesterday's game into a farce. The Giants jumped to a big lead by shelling Gene Bearden, Cleveland's ace southpaw, for seven runs and 10 hits in four innings. Sam Zoldak finished the game for Cleveland, holding the Giants tightly in check.

The world champions dribbled along until the seventh inning, when they ripped into Pitchers Sam Webb and Andy Tomasic for seven runs, including homers by Mickey Vernon and Ray Murray. Tomasic became the victim of another Cleveland explosion in the eighth when he gave up five runs on seven hits, four of them doubles into the crowd on the field.

All but three exhibition games were rained out yesterday.

Yanks Dip Bums, 6-1, Before Crowd of 27,000

NEW YORK (AP)—With 27,731 fans cheering them on, the Brooklyn Dodgers had an easy time defeating the New York Yankees 6 to 1 yesterday in the first of their three-game spring series. Singles by Jackie Robinson and Carl Furillo, a boot by Johnny Lindell and Billy Cox's infield tap produced the Dodgers' first two runs off Vic Raschi. They added three more at the expense of Tommy Byrne on two passes, Rex Barney's single and Col Abrams' double. Duke Snider pounded Wally Hood for a homer to account for Brooklyn's last run.

The lone Yankee run was the result of singles by Bobby Brown, Charley Keller and Billy Johnson off Barney. Harry Taylor and Irv Palica finished up for the Dodgers without allowing a run. Taylor had to quit because of a sore arm after pitching to five men.

Counting yesterday's crowd, the Dodgers have played to more than 200,000 in their spring exhibition games.

Athletics Tally in Ninth To Beat Phillies, 4-3

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—With two out in the ninth inning, the Athletics pushed over a run on successive hits by Taft Wright, Hank Majeski and Sam Chapman to give them a 4 to 3 victory over the Phillies in the first game of the city series yesterday.

The A's went ahead in the seventh when Ferris Fain was safe on an error, stole second, and scored on Majeski's single. The Phils tied it a 3-3 in the ninth on a pass to Jones and Lopata's double.

Patty Berg Chased Indoors by Snow

Billy Johnson Gets Yanks' Job at First

NEW YORK (AP)—Billy Johnson, last year's regular third baseman, will open the 1949 baseball season as the New York Yankees' first sacker, Manager Casey Stengel decided yesterday.

Stengel's decision followed an announcement by Manager Burt Shotton of Brooklyn that Gil Hodges, converted catcher, would be the Dodgers' first basemen opening day.

Thus, with only days remaining before the championship races get under way, the two pennant contenders apparently have solved their biggest problem.

Of the two, the naming of Johnson creates more of a stir. The 30-year-old veteran infielder was given no consideration for the post until as late as one week ago.

A .294-batter in 127 games last year, Johnson appeared headed for utility work this season, having lost his job to Bobby Brown. Then April 8, Stengel moved Johnson to first where four candidates already had failed. Johnson has been there ever since.

Joe DiMaggio 'Very Optimistic'

BALTIMORE (AP)—Joe DiMaggio said yesterday he didn't know when he might be able to get back in a New York Yankee baseball uniform but that "I'm very optimistic."

He stated emphatically he "never gave a thought" to retiring. The star center fielder said at a news conference that even if he had to sit out the entire 1949 season he felt he still "had a few more years in baseball."

DiMaggio called the conference in his hotel room where he is staying while receiving treatments at Johns Hopkins hospital for recurrent pain in his right heel. The heel was operated on for removal of a bone spur last November and he complained of it hurting throughout spring practice which he left to fly here Tuesday from Fort Worth, Tex.

DiMaggio said his return to play depends on response of the heel to X-ray treatments. The treatment, lasting one and a quarter minutes daily, will continue until next Tuesday. That's when the Yankees open and it will be the seventh inaugural in 11 years DiMaggio will miss.

He uses crutches most of the time to walk and a special block has been attached to his shoe to keep pressure off the sore heel. "I'm very optimistic or else I wouldn't be going through the treatments," he reported. "I definitely hope I will be back in the lineup (this season) if the heel responds to treatment."

Bone spurs "have been cured before and I guess it's just a matter of time," he added. No further operations on the heel are planned.

Lavelli Picks Music Over Cage Career

NEW HAVEN, CONN. (AP)—Tony Lavelli, Yale's all-America basketball star, decided yesterday to pass up numerous professional cage game offers in favor of a music career.

"It was the toughest decision I've ever had to make," explained the popular Lavelli, the smooth and deadly scorer who led the nation's major colleges this past season.

Recently, Tony was offered $11,000 by the Syracuse club. He also was the first choice of many Basketball Association of America clubs, with Boston given the league's rights to deal with him.

He brought his collegiate career to a close early this month as a member of the East's team in the East-West battle at New York. While at Yale, he scored 1964 points in 97 games—a major college mark.

The handsome Lavelli, an accomplished musician, made his decision shortly after the Broadcast Music corporation of New York bought three of his songs—"Cocktail Time at Dusk," and "Scottish Lad and his Lassie," ballads, and "You're the Boppiest Bee-Bop," a novelty tune.

"Selling those songs did it!" exclaimed Tony, an accomplished musician who plays the piano and accordion.

Tony's plans are to enroll at the Julliard school of Music in New York next fall.

Hawks, Spartans Snowed Out

EAST LANSING—The first of Iowa's two game series with Michigan State was snowed out yesterday, and a doubleheader has not yet come up to expectations.

The Hawkeyes, on an eight-game road trip, had played every day this week until winter suddenly reappeared. To date Otto Vogel's men have played six games, winning two and dropping four. One of the victories was the home opener against Bradley University.

Brightest development of the Iowa season so far has been the hitting. The Hawks have hit well even while losing, but inability to hit with runners on the base paths has cut heavily into Iowa's run production.

Outside of Dick Orth's three-hit performance in beating Notre Dame, 8-1, the Hawkeye hurling has not yet come up to expectations.

Wednesday the Hawkeyes will be at home when they meet the Clinton Cubs of the Central association.

Monday the Hawks go to Monmouth, Ill., for a single game with Monmouth college, winding up the spring trip.

SOX SELL WEIGEL

CHICAGO (AP)—Catcher Ralph Weigel was sold outright to the Washington Senators yesterday, General Manager Frank Lane of the Chicago White Sox announced. Lane said the sale was made for an undisclosed amount of cash and no other players were involved.

Tourney Champs Despite Handicaps

HANDICAPPED GOLF WINNERS, Field Marshal Earl Wavell (right), former Viceroy of India who lost an eye in France during World War I, and his son, Major Viscount Kerren, who has only one hand, won the Father-Son golf tournament at Brookwood, England. They are shown walking toward the first green during the tourney. Wavell's son lost his left arm in the African desert battle in World War II.

Frick Names Umpires For National Openers

NEW YORK (AP)—President Ford Frick of the National league yesterday announced the opening day umpire assignments, lining up the four arbiters "sams which probably will work with each other through most of the season."

For the Monday Bunker Hill holiday starter between the Phils and Braves at Boston he named Bill Stewart, Jocko Conland and Lon Warneke. Warneke, the old star pitcher is a rookie umpire, having moved up from the Pacific Coast league.

The Tuesday opening assignments:

New York at Brooklyn — Babe Pinelli, Art Gore, Scotty Robb, Frank Dascoli.

St. Louis at Cincinnati — George Barr, Lee Ballanfant, Al Barlick, Pittsburgh at Chicago — Beans Reardon, Larry Goetz, Lou Jorda.

Stranahan Shoots 64 To Lead by 3 Strokes

VIRGINIA BEACH, VA. (AP)—Amateur Frank Stranahan paid little attention to a strong wind yesterday and fired a five-under-par 64 to take the 18-hole lead in the 54-hole $10,000 Cavalier Specialists tournament.

Deadlocked for second place and three strokes behind were Bobby Locke and Cary Middlecoff.

Dutch Harrison shot a one-under 68, the same score made by Toney Penna.

Bobby Feller Gets Nod for First Tilt

Iowa's Bobby Feller yesterday drew the opening day assignment for the world champion Cleveland Indians with the St. Louis Browns Tuesday.

'Minor' Job

Local Police Operate Lost and Found

A place for paying parking meter violations isn't the only function of the local police station. One of its lesser known jobs is operating a lost and found department.

Automobile license plates, auto and house keys, eyeglasses, tie clasps and billfolds are some of the items waiting to be picked up. All that is needed is proper identification, police said.

Among the cigar-box-full of lost auto keys is one set numbered 441, another tagged with a 1948 license number 58-257, and a ring with a little white elephant.

All in all, there are about 60 separate keys and 23 key sets.

If your initials are WLR, there is a tie clasp at the station that you might have lost. And if you are missing a pair of eyeglasses, there are at least five sets there that you can look at.

The license plate numbers are 52-1114, 52-3414, 85-5321, 77-24272, 52-7284, 52-2212, 52-1032 and 52-147.

Weather Delaying UMSO Gardening

There will be little gardening in the married students' housing areas garden plots during Easter vacation because of the weather, George N. Haffner, UMSO chairman said yesterday.

But one hundred and fifty 20-foot by 10-foot garden plots, located on the corner of Fersen avenue and Park road, are staked out and ready for the gardeners, Haffner said. The ground was plowed and harrowed last week.

About 10 or 12 garden plots are left for any persons desiring them, J. Robert Cotter, manager of married students housing, said yesterday. Persons desiring gardens this year paid an assessment fee of 50 cents at the time they registered.

Postcards assigning gardeners individual plots are in the mail Haffner said. Gardeners may begin planting when they receive their assignments and the weather clears up, he added.

Suffers Christ's Agony

Thousands Flock to Bavarian Village to See Peasant Woman's Grief on Good Friday

KONNERSREUTH, GERMANY (UP)—The streets of this tiny Bavarian farming village were jammed yesterday with thousands of persons who came to file by the bedside of a 51-year-old peasant woman who suffers the physical agony of Christ on the cross every Good Friday.

Police lines kept order as inside her stucco cottage, Therese Neumann sat bolt upright in her bed from early morning until mid-afternoon, bleeding profusely from her eyes, wrists, feet and head. The phenomenon has occurred every Good Friday since 1926 and has baffled medical authorities.

Thousands of the devout and the curious, including nearly as many Americans as Germans, waited in line for hours to see this woman who is regarded by the townsfolk as a saint.

Therese wore a white shroud which, like the bed linen, was bloodsoaked. She waved her arms gently and chanted unintelligibly in a low monotone, oblivious to the throngs who filed by and the hubbub of those who waited outside in the streets.

Father Franz Nabor, Paris priest who has had Therese under his care for 20 years, was at her bedside. He refused to allow pictures to be taken inside the room.

Neighbors say Therese, a tailor's daughter has suffered the agonies of the crucifixion every Good Friday for 23 years. It dates from 1926, they say, when she had her first vision of Christ kneeling on a mountainside. At that moment she felt blood pouring from her heart, and later from her hands and feet. The following year she also bled from her head and eyes.

Village folk say Therese has lived for the past 23 years "on the wafers she receives at daily communion."

They say she falls into a coma early each Good Friday and suffers until 3 p.m., the hour when Christ died. Then she slowly reawakens and by Saturday night is completely recovered.

She goes to holy communion on Sunday and by Monday is again behind a plowhorse in the fields.

They Do It In Togoland

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

The other day I remarked that there is a difference between mere bland approval of the United Nations, from the outside, and a real, warm personal feeling of identification with the UN, a feeling that the UN is part of the furniture of the world you want to live in, a feeling of joy in its successes and gloom over its failures.

I suppose you could call the feeling I have in mind "UN loyalty", an emotion which in no way conflicts with one's national loyalty, and in fact is based on it.

J.M. Roberts — Cold War To Drag On

BY J. M. ROBERTS, JR. AP Foreign Affairs Analyst Secretary Acheson has formally joined the ranks of those who foresee no immediate possibility of ending the cold war.

"I should like to say our troubles are, in my opinion, only temporary and that they will shortly disappear," he told the council of the Inter-American Defense Organization. "But I cannot in honesty say this."

Winston Churchill didn't say it either, in his recent Boston address. Very few do say it.

Churchill said the west "may" not fall "if we persevere steadfastly together." Acheson says "the outcome will be decided by our courage and by unending diligence."

Russia calls it a part of the class war, and teaches its children that there can be no compromise, that it must go on until "capitalist" governments have been wiped out, and until the world has become a soviet.

This theory, in Russian hands, has now become a part of the historical pressures which actuate nations regardless of ideologies. It is a part of the expansionism which has marked Russian policy for hundreds of years.

This has seen the men and lands of many races and many languages incorporated into what is called Russia, which was once a relatively small state lying between Europe and Asia.

The theory is what makes the east-west conflict one for control of the world. Such a conflict may move in phases, may be broken by periods of truce or by indecisive wars. But it is not decided until one idea or the other is accepted by people everywhere, or until developing history has produced modification—compromise—or both.

There has been a great deal of talk recently about the possibility that Russia may be "cooled off" by the growing economic and military strength of the west. Acheson says "the forces of liberty have gained the initiative." High British and American observers have predicted privately that there will be some move from Russia to lessen the tension, such as a lifting of the Berlin blockade.

Russia still makes propaganda war on Finland, Iran and other neighbors, as well as on the western powers. But there have been no overt acts by the Communists since the Czech coup more than a year ago.

This can hardly be accepted as a change in policy. Growing resistance makes such moves more and more dangerous. Lenin reminded his followers that mountains should be climbed by zig-zagging, not by straight-up assault.

Western leaders constantly point out that they have no intention of closing the door on Russian cooperation, but admitted any conciliatory gesture from Moscow would be examined with skepticism.

Overseas Appeal Granted by Court

WASHINGTON (UP)—The U.S. court of appeals ruled unanimously yesterday that aliens or Americans imprisoned overseas by U.S. authorities have a right to appeal to federal courts in this country.

The decision upset previous lower court rulings that they lacked jurisdiction to appeal by persons convicted and imprisoned in occupied Germany or Japan.

It is subject to review by the supreme court. That tribunal ruled in the case of Japanese war criminals that it could not hear direct appeals from aliens sentenced by military courts, but it left open the question whether it eventually might rule that lower courts could consider such appeals.

The appeals court decision came in the case of 21 German civilians who were convicted by U.S. army authorities for allegedly fighting for the Japanese in China after Germany surrendered.

One wants the best for the UN precisely because one wants the best for one's country. I have been collecting data on instances of UN loyalty around the world, and it is beginning to make a story.

THERE IS Western Togoland, for example, off the African Gold Coast. Togoland is a British-administered UN trusteeship, and when the people learned that they were connected with the UN, they wrote to Lake Success for information, and set about organizing a United Nations association.

Mr. Gerald Awuma, the secretary-general, traveled through the country, covering 2,000 miles, mainly by tramping, establishing local branches through native chiefs. He hung his posters on trees, and, after a short time, the association had a head office in the town of Ho, and a number of regional offices.

Last summer, the natives raised $1,800 to send a Togoland delegation to the primary assembly of the World Federation of United Nations associations in Geneva. A three-man mission went to Switzerland—the first time Togoland had ever been represented in any international conference.

IN IRAN, last October, there was a Mohammedan day of prayer for the United Nations and peace, celebrated in every mosque.

THE UN seems to make an especially strong appeal in the new and still undeveloped countries. The United Nations association of India is having a great success, with new chapters forming almost weekly, in Delhi, Madras, Mysore, Hyderabad, etc. Apparently the suspicions entertained by such countries regarding the motives of single great powers, do not apply to the UN as a whole—a very important point. It's the kind of point you can build a world around, if you keep focusing on it.

THERE ARE UN associations in Czechoslovakia, Poland, Hungary, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia, maintaining organizational contact with the World Federation of United Nations associations.

EVEN IN South Africa, where there is opposition because of the UN's 1947 resolution on the treatment of Indians, the UN association has been growing. Recently it opposed a boycott of Indian shops in Johannesburg.

IN ARGENTINA, in the face of official frowning, the UN association published 10,000 copies of the UN's declaration of human rights.

OBVIOUSLY, it can be said that there is something here, something that shows it has the power to touch an action nerve in many different kinds of people around the world. Those who may feel that something other than the UN can build a new world, those who may believe that some kind of lastingly successful alternate apparatus can be constructed, leave out nothing in their thinking except the hopes and ambitions of mankind.

If you listen, you will hear a ripple around the world, not merely of voices approving of the UN, but of UN voices, a very different thing, a new sound on earth.

174 Years After Lexington and Concord — Modern Paul Reveres Still Needed

By H.D. CRAWFORD Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Time changes relations of men and nations. In April 1775, American colonies broke from the British empire; in April, 1949, the United States, Great Britain, and Canada are the English-speaking members of the North Atlantic security pact.

Citizens throughout the nation who help the people of Massachusetts celebrate their Patriots' day on April 19 may well hope that after 174 years Paul Revere's still are ready to ride and Minute Men still are vigilant and prepared for action to warn freedom-loving peoples against their enemies.

PAUL REVERE'S famous ride on the night of April 18, 1775, has been told since to every generation. In the turbulent state of today's world affairs, however, it is easy to forget the significance of events long ago that marked first struggles of American independence.

April 19, 1775, has been called the most fateful day in Massachusetts' history. Certainly it was one of the fateful days in American and world history.

Minute Men at Lexington and Concord fought British soldiers seeking to capture colonial leaders and military stores. First blood was shed in the Revolutionary war.

Colonial desire for individual rights and independence, and resentment against prolonged injustices, armed into courage to resist with arms the regimentation and oppression of a mighty empire.

Bronze and marble markers and statues today preserve for visitors to historic sites around Boston the highlights of those stirring events. Among these are Minute Man statues at Lexington and Concord, the Paul Revere equestrian statue near famous Old North Church in Boston, and markers along routes of galloping messengers and of the running battle of the British back to Boston.

PAUL REVERE was a skilled gold, silver, and copper plate engraver. He was active in the "Army of Observation," formed to watch suspicious movements of British troops. After the Boston Massacre on March 5, 1770, Revere had made an engraving of the dramatic event.

Colonial - British tensions had mounted for a decade. The British regarded Massachusetts, particularly Bostonians, as the most troublesome colony. In 1773 the Boston Tea Party irked the British. Bostonians tempers flared over "taxation without representation." The British decided that rebellious episodes at Boston were bad examples to other colonies.

On April 19 the British cracked down, and the Minute Men cracked back.

British troop movements, assembling of boats, and their preparations aroused suspicion. General Thomas Gage, British commander-in-chief, believed his plans to seize John Hancock and Samuel Adams near Lexington and military supplies at Concord were a well kept secret.

GAGE'S "SECRET," however, became public knowledge. Revere warned friends at Concord three days earlier that the British might march and that military stores had better be moved. Revere arranged with Col. William Conant at Charlestown, across the Charles river from Boston, that "if the British went out by water we would show two lanterns in the North Church steeple—and if by land one as a signal."

William Dawes rode out Boston Neck on the evening of April 18 to warn the countryside that the British were going to march. Revere crossed the Charles by boat in the moonlight. Two of Revere's friends hung two lanterns in the North Church, and watchers at Charlestown had a fast horse ready when Revere arrived.

Lanterns hung in the North Church were signals from Revere, not to him, as some poets have told us.

REVERE aroused most households between Boston and Lexington. He warned Adams and Hancock, who were staying at a parsonage near Lexington. Dawes joined Revere at Lexington sometime after midnight, and a young Dr. Samuel Prescott asked if he might ride along to Concord.

Revere soon was captured by British officers, and later released. Dawes had to turn back to escape. Prescott jumped his horse over a wall and was the only one of the three to reach Concord to warn Minute Men and citizens that the British were coming.

British troops and dawn arrived about the same time at Lexington. After a skirmish the British marched on to Concord. They failed to find many military stores.

Just Don't Hit Them Over the Head —

Sex Can Get by the Hollywood Censors

HOLLYWOOD—The movies are growing up for the grown-ups. Hollywood has discovered sex can get by the censors after all. Just so the audience isn't hit over the head with it.

Today's expert on this is producer Jerry Wald, the senior genius at Warner's studio. His movie about the attack on a deaf-and-dumb girl, "Johnny Belinda," proves all the sin doesn't get chopped out of the cinema.

There's nothing that can't be shown on the screen, even rape, just so it's done with finesse," he says. "The audience still gets the point."

"A picture is censored only when it's in bad taste."

Thus his "unfaithful" violated a censor's rule by letting an unfaithful wife, Ann Sheridan, go unpunished. "Mildred Pierce," the book, had Mildred's daughter in love with her stepfather. Wald's movie just showed them kissing, but nobody missed the point. He even got another best-seller, "Serenade," okayed for the movies by changing the questionable theme to that of a young man who's "kept" by an older woman.

Other movie-makers are giving fans a whiff of life unwavering by the censors, too. Gary Cooper's "Girl on the Via Flaminia" is about an unmarried Italian girl and American GI who decide two can live more cheaply than one.

The script for "Champion" had its ears slightly clipped but the ideas still got across. Carl Foreman, the writer, penned a love scene for Ruth Roman and Kirk Douglas at the beach.

"The censors insisted I add a scene which showed them leaving the beach," he says.

Mr. Douglas acquires a second gal friend, Marilyn Maxwell, who is shown in his apartment.

He was asked to indicate by a line of dialogue that she did not reside there. "So he says, 'Hello, Grace, what are you doing here?' But everybody got the idea."

Douglas' third crush was on Lola Albright. And to clear her fair name, she says to her husband, "Yes, I love him but it's not what you think."

"Anna Lucasta" was a play about a Negro prostitute. On film Paulette Goddard is a white waitress. Philip Yordan, however, has no beef about his prose getting watered down. "It's obvious to every movie goer that she's a prostitute," the writer says.

Even a ghost has a love-life in "Portrait of Jennie." The censors objected, though, to one scene indicting Jennifer Jones stayed all night in Joseph Cotten's apartment.

'Something to Stand On' —

Dunnington's Book on Sale

Dr. L. L. Dunnington, pastor of the First Methodist church, has written a new book, "Something to Stand On," which went on sale in Iowa City yesterday.

The book deals with the many questions SUI students want answered about religion, Dr. Dunnington said.

Twenty sermons designed to give 20 "straight-from-the-shoulder" answers to students' queries about miracles, the second coming of Christ, the virgin birth and many other questions appear in the book.

Earlier this year, Dr. Dunnington asked students to drop a list of questions about religious matters troubling them into a box at the First Methodist church.

The response was overwhelming, Dr. Dunnington said. Immediately he decided to devote the next 20 Sundays to answering these questions and to include these answers in his book.

Dr. Dunnington said he feels that all evidence in the Bible about Christianity should be examined with an open mind. That is the purpose of his book, he said.

The simple but dynamic personality of Jesus almost has been buried beneath a load of theological dogma, he said.

Published by the Macmillan company, the book will not go on sale throughout the nation until Tuesday. This is Dr. Dunnington's fourth book. He is the author of "Handles of Power," "More Handles of Power," and "Start Where You Are."

Full Service Must Go with Rent Raise, Rent Director Says

Any increase in rent granted a landlord must be accompanied by an assurance from the landlord that all services required in connection with the rental will be maintained, T. J. Wilkinson, area rent director, said yesterday.

"Before ordering an adjustment in the rent ceiling on any rental unit, we ask the landlord to certify that he is maintaining all services required by the rent regulation, and that he will continue to maintain those services so long as the proposed rent adjustment remains in effect," Wilkinson said.

This certification is mandatory before any rent adjustment can be granted under the housing and rent act of 1949, the rent director said.

This regulation applies to petitions for rent increases filed before the enactment of the new law which are still under consideration by the rent office, Wilkinson explained.

Titled English Pick Up Cash

Get Around Crippling Taxation Selling Vegetables, Pottery, Opening Mansions to Tours

LONDON (UP) — The Sixth Lord of Bath pocketed his 600th half-crown yesterday and said business was good.

Three weeks ago, the Marquess opened his 100-room Elizabethan mansion to sightseers at half-a-crown (about 50 cents) per person.

"Taxation is crippling me and I just can't afford to live here anymore. I don't enjoy seeing the public trample all over this wonderful old place, but I have no alternative," sighed the 44-year-old Tory aristocrat.

Six veteran guides show tourists through the mansion at Longleat in the county of Wiltshire. They point out the white oak staircase, once washed with home-brewed ale to keep it white, and bet visitors they can't count the number of windows and get them right. There are 365.

Eighty miles north of Wiltshire, Lord Bath's neighbor, the Earl of Shrewsbury, runs a roadside vegetable stall "to earn more cash."

Seven days a week, except when state matters take him to London, the premier earl of England, and high steward of Ireland, sells produce off his 800-year-old estate.

The earl has been hawking vegetables for nearly a year. "I enjoy my work immensely, and financially it has been very satisfactory," he said.

Those two noblemen are not the only British blue-bloods who have gone into business to ease the financial pinch.

An earl and his countess are running a boarding house in London.

A baronet is growing mushrooms in Hampshire, and Lady Alice Clifford and her three daughters are making pottery for sale.

Sir Mark Annesley Norman, third baronet, hopes to earn $1,200 a week taking American tourists on Mediterranean cruises this summer in his 126-ton boat.

Sir Mark, a former Coldstream Guards lieutenant, and three former navy friends, have filled the boat with food, 288 bottles of gin, and several cases of other kinds of liquor.

"Each American passenger will be charged about $148 a week, and I don't mind calling anyone 'sir' if he pays me," said the baronet.

ROOM AND BOARD

By GENE AHERN

A new recipe to add to your homemade candy repertoire this Easter is peanut brittle.

A favorite with all candy lovers, peanut brittle is as easy to make as it is good to eat. Prof. Miriam Taylor of women's physical education department, asserts.

At holidays, Professor Taylor often gives boxes of the homemade candy to her friends with whom it has become a favorite.

The recipe for the candy is:

3 cups white sugar
1 cup white corn syrup
1-3 cups water
2 tablespoons butter
1 pound raw Spanish peanuts
1 heaping teaspoon soda

Combine sugar, corn syrup and water and bring to a boil. Place a lid on the kettle for a minute, then remove the lid and allow the candy to boil slowly for 10 minutes without stirring.

Add peanuts and one tablespoon of butter and stir until the temperature reaches 310 degrees Fahrenheit (hard crack) on a candy thermometer.

Add another tablespoon of butter, and soda dissolved in a small amount of water. This will cause the candy to foam up. Stir, then pour out on a hard flat surface which won't be affected by the heat. Pull and stretch the candy out thin while it is still warm.

Raw peanuts can usually be purchased from any local candy maker.

The character answered, "Just till the end of this cold snap." In Rochester, N.Y., a gentleman named Flannigan was picked up by the police on two successive Saturdays and charged with intoxication. Little Shirley's Statue Ceases Strange Crying

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — The broken statue of St. Ann, which brought the devout, the curious and the skeptical in large numbers to the home of little Shirley Ann Martin, stopped shedding "tears" yesterday.

Eleven-year-old Shirley Ann, member of a devout Catholic family, reported at 9 a.m. that no moisture has come from the eyes of the plaster replica since she made a television appearance with the image Thursday night.

Meanwhile, Rev. Robert E. Dillon, chancellor of the Syracuse Catholic diocese, said, "It is certain that drops of liquid appeared on the face of the statue when the young girl held it and kissed it."

However, Father Dillon added that "whether this phenomenon is an instance of supernatural power at work has not been established."

International attention was focused on Shirley Ann when scores of witnesses said they saw "tears" drop from the eyes of the statue when she kissed it.

Moisture appeared in the painted eyes and ran down the face of the image when Shirley kissed it during the television appearance.

She has repeatedly kissed the statue since but without bringing "tears" to the statue's eyes.

The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Martin, refused to allow any further interviews or pictures of Shirley Ann and her statue.

"It's a sin to carry it too far," the father said. "Anything pertaining to the Lord shouldn't be."

Hundreds of persons gathered outside the Martin's modest home yesterday morning in hopes of seeing a Good Friday "miracle."

The crowd began dispersing shortly after the child returned to her home after spending the night with relatives. It was then that she announced that no "tears" had appeared in the statue's eyes since Thursday.

She said she thought the statue had stopped "weeping" because Holy Week was ending.

Andrew C. Howell Dies After Illness

Andrew C. Howell, 83, 447 S. Summit street, died in Mercy hospital yesterday morning after a long illness.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. on Monday at the Masonic temple. The Rev. Elmer E. Dierks, pastor of the First Baptist church will officiate. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

Mr. Howell had been an Iowa City business man for more than 60 years. In 1899 with W. E. Shrader and D. I. Hoover he founded the Shrader Drug Co. This company, manufacturers of livestock mineral feeds, became what is now the Howell-Shrader Co. with Mr. Howell senior member for the last 25 years.

Survivors are his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd A. Howell, 505 River street; a grandson, Rate A. Howell, Washington State college student at Pullman, Washington; a sister, Gertrude, Oakland, Calif., and a brother, Lloyd Howell, Houston, Tex.

Weather Postpones Life-a-Bike Program

The Scotch-Lite-a-Bike program, scheduled for 9 a.m. today at the junior high school, has been indefinitely postponed because of bad weather, Robert L. Snider said yesterday.

Snider, chairman of the junior chamber of commerce safety committee, said the unexpected return of winter weather has made the task of applying the scotch-lites to 1,000 bicycles too difficult. An absolutely dry surface is needed for application of the Scotch-lites, he said.

The Scotch-lites — small pieces of luminous tape — were to be applied to the bicycles to make nighttime riding safer, Snider said.

Sponsors of the program are the Jaycees, American Legion and the Iowa City PTA.

New England Mayor Uses His 'Political Pull'

TAKING TIME OUT FROM TROUT HUNTING to haul in 15-year-old Chester Berg of Lynn, Mass., is the New England town's mayor, Stuart A. Tarr. The trout fishing season opened yesterday. Berg's canoe capsized in Sluice pond, near Lynn, to necessitate the dramatic rescue.

SUI Doctors' Exhibits to Be Shown at Meeting

Ten scientific exhibits prepared by SUI doctors will be displayed at the annual Iowa State Medical society meeting in Des Moines Monday through Thursday.

Dr. W.E. Brown, associate professor of obstetrics and gynecology, headed the committee which selected the exhibits to be sent to Des Moines.

Tumor Exhibit

The urology department at University hospitals will enter a display on "Cytology of Kidney Tumors" which has been in preparation since February under the supervision of Dr. R. C. Bunge, assistant professor of urology.

Cytology, Dr. Bunge explained yesterday, is the diagnosis of cancer of the kidney by finding abnormal cells in the urine. In the department's six-paneled photographic display, Dr. Bunge has used selected cases from the 300 to 400 that have appeared at University hospitals in the last 30 years, he said.

The exhibit will also be shown at the national meeting of the American Urological association in Los Angeles on May 15, he added.

Dr. R.G. Carney, assistant professor of dermatology, has prepared an exhibit entitled "Skin Grafts." It consists of color photos showing the simplified skin grafting method of treating ulcers on the leg.

A rag weed pollen exhibit will be among SUI's exhibits at the Des Moines meeting.

Protective measures for reducing pollen — using suitable mechanical filters in homes, cleaning homes with vacuum cleaners, and the use of sterile masks by the individuals — are shown in the exhibit prepared by Doctors Roland Rooks and M.E. Barnes, assistant and head respectively of the department, hygiene and preventive medicine.

An exhibit representing SUI's biophysical laboratories has been prepared by Dr. Titus Evans, research professor of radiology. It demonstrates the general use of radiation in medical research and the equipment and protection methods used in SUI's radiation laboratory, Dr. Evans said yesterday.

One mechanically operated demonstration, employing the use of a "plaster-cast patient," will be displayed to show the use of radio active iodine and a geiger counter in the study of thyroid disease, Dr. Robert Virtue said.

Describes Aneurysm

Medical men at the Des Moines meeting will also see an exhibit, "Aneurysm of the Nervous System," prepared by Dr. Adolph H. Sals, SUI professor and head of neurology, and Dr. Clark H. Millikan, assistant professor.

This exhibit concerns the investigation of the cause of aneurysm and the method of diagnosis and treatment, Dr. Millikan explained yesterday. Aneurysm, he said, is the secular dilation of blood vessels in the head that break and cause bleeding in the head and around the brain.

An exhibit on "Psychosomatic Medicine," prepared by Dr. Frank E. Coburn, assistant professor of psychiatry, will be on display before the state medical society next week.

It concerns the unproven hypothesis that many physical symptoms are produced by changes in bodily functions which accompany emotions, Dr. Coburn said.

Cartoons illustrating the theoretical manner in which duodenal ulcers and high blood pressure are caused by emotional problems are shown in the exhibit along with more scientific approaches, Dr. Coburn added.

Cocaine Poisoning

From University hospitals' division of anesthesia will go an exhibit on "Cocaine Poisoning" prepared under the supervision of Dr. Robert Virtue, resident doctor in anesthesia.

Four cartoons depicting the proper treatment of cocaine reactions are featured in the exhibit, Dr. Virtue said.

SUI's biophysics and physiology departments will sponsor an exhibit which is divided into the following four parts, according to Dr. S.B. Barker, associate professor of physiology:

1. A display on protein-bound iodine in the blood plasma prepared under the supervision of Dr. Barker.

2. A nutrition display prepared by Dr. W.W. Tuttle, professor of physiology, and Dr. Kate Daum, director of nutrition at University hospitals.

3. A display on blood alcohol prepared by Dr. Robert B. Gibson, associate professor and supervisor of the biochemistry lab.

4. A pictorial exhibit explaining briefly the analysis of proteins in blood plasma with Tiselous equipment.

Work for the latter display was carried out by graduates Walter Giffie and Mrs. Walter Budde under the direction of Biochemistry Prof. Joseph I. Routh.

The display compares the effects of various diseases upon proteins in blood plasma with normal plasma. It also shows how these patterns are broken down and interpreted.

Hospital School

An exhibit from the Hospital School for Severely Handicapped Children has been prepared for the Des Moines meet by Dr. R.R. Rembolt, school director.

Thirty to 35 slides of the school will be shown, Dr. Rembolt said, along with pictures depicting "A Day in the Hospital School." The exhibit will also feature information on the crippled child, crippling conditions and the services provided by the school.

An exhibit on "Liver Disease" will be presented by the department of medicine under the sponsorship of Dr. Murray Franklin, instructor in internal medicine, and Dr. W.D. Paul, associate professor of internal medicine and chairman of the division of physical medicine.

Loyalty Check Leads To Arrest of Employee

WASHINGTON — The Federal Bureau of Investigation confirmed yesterday that a loyalty check on a New York City post-office employee named Robert Sneed had led to his arrest on a 10-year-old Chicago murder charge.

The FBI said inquiry into Sneed's background identified him as Douglas McMiller who had been indicted on Jan. 30, 1939 on charges of having murdered Garnett Hicks of 204 E. 47th street, Chicago.

Rev. Craig Suggests Plan to Aid Europe

A community plan to help Europe's needy and to celebrate Easter in keeping with religious tradition was suggested yesterday by the Rev. John G. Craig at a local Masonic club luncheon.

Rev. Craig suggested that clothiers and grocers adopt a version of the "one-cent sale."

In his plan, the clothiers would give a suit for each suit purchased at the regular price plus one dollar. The grocers would give five dollars worth of groceries with each five dollar purchase and one dollar.

The clothing and groceries purchased in this manner would be given to CARE for distribution to Europe's needy. This would be a gesture of friendship and neighborliness, Rev. Craig said.

Local Police Court Business Is 'Slow'

Business was "slow" at police court yesterday as Police Judge Emil Trott collected only $39.50.

Gene H. Jeys, 2139 Rockford road, was fined $12.50 for operating a motor vehicle without a valid chauffeur's license.

Bill L. Dinsmore, Dinty's trailer park, Coralville, was fined $4.50 for failure to stop for an arterial stop sign at Market and Linn streets.

A fine of $12.50 was levied against Glenn O. Frazier, 2300 Muscatine avenue, for operating a motor vehicle faster than the 25 miles per hour limit on East Burlington street.

This Dog Leads The Life of Riley

BLOOMINGTON, ILL. (AP) — A dog named "Brownie" and a rich man with a house full of servants have one thing in common. When they want their dinner, they just ring for it.

The people who provide the food, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman K. Stephens, hung a small cow bell under the kitchen stove. When "Brownie" is hungry, she puts the bell in motion with her nose.

"At first she rings the bell lightly," Mrs. Stephens says. "She waits a reasonable time and then rings a bit louder. If this brings no one, she bangs the bell violently with her paws."

The Weather Wouldn't String Along

THE CATFISH SEASON OPENED yesterday and John B. (Tug) Wilson, A2, 503 Kimball road, was prepared—but the weather wasn't. A layer of snow from yesterday's belated blizzard greeted Wilson as he stepped out of his home in pursuit of his favorite summer sport—fishing. He decided the fishing would be a bit too cold and stayed home to tie casting flies for use on some better day.

His Easter Comes Everyday

Local Bre'r Rabbit Raiser Offers To Conduct Tours Through His Bunny Hutches

Easter wouldn't be the same without that little fellow who fetches the eggs, the bunny. Bre'r Rabbit is as necessary as colors and kiddies on this festive morn. And for some folks like Irving Justice, 1221 Kirkwood avenue, it is Easter all the year around. Justice is one of those who makes sure that a supply of bunnies is always available.

For those who would like to give themselves and their youngsters a treat, Justice states that he or his son De Wayne will be happy to conduct tours through his bunny hutches on either Sunday or Monday.

Realizing the kids' anxiety about whether the bunnies are taking care of their end of things, Justice said, "Don't you worry about those rabbits. They know Easter is almost here, and they'll see to it that there are enough eggs to go around."

In Justice's row upon row of hutches may be seen long-ears of all sizes and colors. Some are full grown and some are babies and they range from white to gray. There are about 150 now, although the owner says he has had as many as 400 at one time.

Starting in the business in 1939, Mr. Justice has sent rabbits to 30 states and Nova Scotia. He has won prizes and cups at innumerable shows in the Midwest. One of the animals was shipped as far as England.

As would seem to be proper, this Easter will touch off the National Rabbit Week. This period has occurred for the last ten years and is backed by the American Rabbit and Cavy association. The purpose of the week is to acquaint American people more fully with knowledge of rabbits, their uses and their background.

Winter Takes Final Crack at Accidents On Local Highways

Winter took another crack at traffic collisions yesterday involving two semi-trailers in one accident and a truck and two automobiles in another.

A semi-trailer driven by Bruce Long, Cedar Rapids, and a Rock Island Motor Transit Company truck, driven by Wayne R. Knudson, Clear Lake, crashed about three miles east of Iowa City on highway 6, police reported. Total damage was estimated at $900. Long suffered minor bruises, police said.

Snowy windshields was the cause of another accident on highway 218, south of Iowa City, yesterday.

Herbert J. Hicks, Minneapolis, and Raymond Jenkins, St. Paul, parked their cars alongside the road to scrape snow off the windshields. A semi-trailer, which had swerved to avoid hitting another truck, bumped one of the cars into the other, police said.

Damage was estimated at $400. Two local accidents were reported to police Wednesday.

Cars driven by Jay M. Wieder, 21 Prospect street, and John Horst, of the Deluxe Cab Co., sideswiped on University Hospital road, west of the lower entrance. One of the cars brushed a bumper of a parked car belonging to Dr. Milton Barrett, assistant in general surgery at the hospital, police said.

Wieder estimated damage on his car at $133.

A collision at a Dubuque street stoplight, causing damage estimated at $105.93 Wednesday night, was reported to police yesterday.

Don L. Reece, 601 Melrose avenue, estimated damage on his car at $105.93. A.C. Cahill, 215 Koser street, reported damage to his machine.

Freed Bees Buzz Passing Drivers

SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA (AP) — When a five-ton truck overturned at Tailem Bend, South Australia, recently with 4-million bees aboard, valued at $1,300, traffic on the road had to run a gauntlet of stings for nearly a week.

A breakdown gang had to sneak under cover of night and right the truck to tow it away. But the owner of the bees got tired of waiting for them to settle and sold them on the spot to local buyers.

The bees were part of large mobile apiaries which follow the flowering of eucalypt forests from district to district in Australia.

"Where can I get a job with a chance to get ahead?"

MANY a young man, looking forward to graduation, is asking that question. He wants a job that will allow him to make full use of his abilities. He wants an opportunity to advance to higher responsibilities—to win the success he wants in the business world.

Here at Harvester we are sympathetic to ambitions like these. Any young man taking a job at Harvester can rise as far as his knowledge and abilities will take him. We believe in keeping the door of opportunity open for all.

Our company follows the policy of promoting men from within our own ranks—both as an inducement to good men to stay with us, and as a reward for outstanding performance.

You need only to glance at the records of the men in our top management group to see how this policy has worked:

Of our 15 executive officers, six started in our sales operations—as warehouse clerk, salesman, service man, clerk and two as parts department helpers.

Four others started in the head office, as industrial relations man, accountant, clerk and office boy.

Three were professional men—a lawyer, an engineer, and the third who had had a distinguished career outside the industrial field.

Two began in our factories—as student employe and clerk.

So you can see how this policy of promotion from within has worked out today for these executive officers. In earning their present positions they have had an average of 28 years of service with the Company. The path these men followed to their present positions is open tomorrow to others. Every young man who joins our organization can be sure he can go as far as his capabilities will take him.
