House Passes New Tax Bill: No Rate Boost

DES MOINES (AP) — The state income tax payment rate will remain at 75 percent in 1950 and 1951. The house of representatives passed a senate-approved bill yesterday afternoon calling for retaining the present rate. The vote was 99 to 6. The governor is expected to sign the bill.

Just before the final roll call the house defeated 61 to 43 an attempt of Rep. C.J. Burris (R-Maquoketa) to increase the exemptions for dependents beyond the present amounts.

The exemptions will remain $15 for a single person, $30 for a married couple and $7.50 for each dependent child.

Passage of the bill followed soon after passage of a house measure authorizing the state tax commission to provide a "short form" state income tax return.

Just before that speaker Gus T. Kuester (R-Griswold) had ruled out of order an attempt by Rep. Harold Nelson (R-Sioux City) to attach to the short form bill Gov. Beardsley's proposal to repeal the sales tax on food.

The income tax payment rate measure did make one adjustment from the present system. At present a single person earning $1,250 a year need not make a state income tax return. The bill increases the exemption to $1,500 a year. At present a married person with an income of $2,000 a year need not file a return. The measure increases the exemption to $2,350.

Speaker Kuester ruled out of order a proposed amendment which would have given property taxpayers a credit on their income tax payment of up to half of their real estate tax payment.

Kuester also threw out a proposed amendment which would have provided that husband and wife could split the husband's income and each pay tax on half of it.

Next came the amendment proposed by Burris. He sought to increase the deduction for a single person from $15 to $20, the deduction for married couple from $30 to $40 and the deduction for each dependent child from $7.50 to $10. Kuester ruled this amendment was in order.

Driscoll Leading In N.J. Primary

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll took a commanding lead last night in his bid for renomination as results of yesterday's state primary election began rolling in.

Returns from 1,254 of the state's 3,710 election districts gave Driscoll 51,585 votes to 13,870 for Robert L. Adams, his opponent for the Republican nomination.

Tallying of the vote was slow. The final tally is not expected to be complete until today.

New Fish Story Tells Of Meeting Honest Fish

WENATCHEE, WASH. (AP) — There wasn't any stretch to Mr. and Mrs. Chester Parker's fish story, even if they were fishing from a rubber boat.

Parker lost his billfold overboard in the murky waters of Rat lake.

Fifteen minutes later Mrs. Parker felt a "nibble" and reeled in the billfold. Parker said the fish hadn't taken a cent of his $90.

GERMAN YOUTH PARADE

BERLIN (AP) — About 6,000 German boys and girls staged a torch light parade under Communist auspices in the Soviet sector of Berlin last night on behalf of the Paris "world peace congress."

Truck Breaks Down —

Students on Tour Stranded in East

Truck trouble will be the excuse of 12 SUI students who failed to arrive in Iowa City for their classes yesterday. The students participated in the YMCA-YWCA "Know Your Government" tour to Washington, D.C.

The group was on its way back to Iowa City Sunday when their special truck began "acting up" and finally stranded them in McKeesport, Pa., 20 miles east of Pittsburgh.

Twelve students and Ralph Schlomg, executive secretary of the YMCA, stayed behind with the truck while Mrs. Schlomg and five students returned Teddy saw Betty fall and gave the alarm.

Dr. Stephen S. Wise, U.S. Jewish Leader, Dies in New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Stephen S. Wise, president of the American Jewish congress and one of the outstanding Jewish leaders in the United States, died yesterday in Lennox Hill hospital. He was 75.

The hospital had announced earlier in the day that Rabbi Wise was failing rapidly and had sunk into a coma. Death came at 4 p.m.

Rabbi Wise, who devoted his life to the creation of a Jewish homeland in Palestine, freedom of the pulpit and social and political reform, had undergone an operation on April 7 for a stomach ailment and had been in critical condition since then.

He was admitted to the hospital on March 30. Dr. Wise's life-long dream of a national Jewish state was realized in the creation of Israel on May 15, 1948. He had planned to visit Israel this summer for the first time since it gained independence. He had been there many times in the past.

He is survived by his son, James Waterman Wise, and a daughter, Justine Wise Polier. His wife, the former Louise Waterman, an artist whom he married in 1900, died two years ago.

Bill Asks $500,000 For SUI Hospital

DES MOINES (AP) — A proposal to allow the State University of Iowa an extra appropriation of $500,000 for its hospital for handicapped children was introduced yesterday by Sen. John R. Hattery (R-Nevada).

Hattery offered it as an amendment to a bill which would appropriate $2,450,893 to the state board of education as an addition to its capital improvements fund.

Introduction of the amendment delayed action on the bill until today.

The last legislature gave the university $500,000 for the new children's hospital building but the construction work never was started. Hattery said it was held up for various reasons, including high building costs, and that additional money was needed.

LANCASTER, PA. (AP) — For years Wayne Rodney Barrow, almost four years old, wore his hair long and curly (left). A promise of baseball equipment paved the way for his first visit to the barber.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Wesley Barrow, said her husband wanted Wayne's hair cut because it showed signs of being thick and curly.

Monday Mr. Barrow agreed the time had come for a real boy's haircut. (Right photo shows young Mr. Barrow as he appears now.)

Smog Reproducing Experiment Now Called 'Serious Hazard'

DONORA, PA. (UP) — A Monongahela valley civic group declared last night that an experimental reproduction of the death smog which swept the area last year had become a "serious hazard."

The Society for Better Living of Webster, a small community on the east side of the valley, reported that more than 100 persons had claimed ill effects from the experiment, with 25 forced to seek medical treatment.

The anti-smoke organization urged parents to keep school children in their homes, or evacuate them from the area.

The test, supervised by the U.S. Public Health service, started Monday morning and was scheduled to end tomorrow night. The scientists sought the cause of the death-smog dealing smog which gripped the area for four days last October.

Furnaces of the American Steel and Wire company's zinc plant here stepped up operations 20 percent to the level that prevailed at the time of the smog tragedy.

Steady winds have kept the air in Donora clear, but heavy banks of yellowish smoke piled up in Webster, which lies across the river, yesterday afternoon.

SUI Medical School Discussed at Meeting

Demands for increased enrollment of medical students at the State University of Iowa were among subjects discussed yesterday at the Iowa State Medical Society convention in Des Moines, the Associated Press reported.

"In an emergency the medical school can meet any need but at present we are up against certain bottlenecks," said Dr. N.G. Alcock, head of the university medical school's urology department.

He said these bottlenecks lie in obtaining anatomical material and in getting enough women to come to university hospitals to have their babies.

Rescue Tot After Fall In 40-Foot Iowa Well

DES MOINES (AP) — A 37-year old mother was the heroine of a well-shaft rescue yesterday—and had to be rescued, herself. Mrs. Norine Jamison entered the 40-foot well to save Betty Johnson, 4, who had fallen in while playing. A rope holding Mrs. Jamison broke as she tried to loop another line around Betty.

Another rescue worker — a man whose name was not learned — then was lowered into the shaft head-first. He pulled Betty to safety. Then another rope was lowered to Mrs. Jamison and she was brought out.

"You'd have done the same thing," Mrs. Jamison told admiring neighbors. "I don't consider it an act of heroism; it was a case of necessity."

The shaft, 30 inches wide, contained 30 feet of water.

A clothesline supporting Mrs. Jamison broke as she tried to tie a line around the body of Betty, who was chin-deep in water, pinned fortunately between a pipe and the well's side. Mrs. Jamison braced herself similarly after the rope snapped.

Betty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Johnson, suffered a bump on the head but no bones were broken. She was in the well about 25 minutes.

Mrs. Jamison entered the shaft before firemen arrived — because two men who hurried to the scene were too large for the opening.

"Betty had been in the well a while when I got there and was crying 'Mother, help me; Mother, get me out of here,'" Mrs. Jamison said.

When Mrs. Jamison was lowered into the well, a clothesline was tied about one ankle. She

Chinese Spurn Peace Demand; Nanking Tense

Battle for Control of Yangtze Valley May Be Only Hours Away

NANKING (Wednesday) (AP) — The fateful battle for the Yangtze valley and control of all China may be only hours away.

The government last night spurned a Communist demand for unopposed crossings of the mighty river, an official source said. This is expected to be the signal for a Communist smash to the south bank.

Waggin' Tongue

DES MOINES (AP) — Elmer L. Albaugh, 24, of Des Moines stuck his tongue out at Chief of Police Lorin Miller Monday night and yesterday he was sentenced to 10 days in jail on a reckless driving charge.

The chief said that when he attempted to halt Albaugh after the latter had passed him "the driver stuck out his tongue at me and drove off."

In court, Albaugh said: "I didn't know he was the chief. I am guilty, however, of reckless driving."

Truman Signs Bill Giving Second Sum For European Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman yesterday signed into law a $5.43-billion "second installment" foreign aid bill to carry the European recovery program full speed ahead through the "critical" period between now and mid-1950.

The bill authorizes the program almost exactly as the administration requested, and provides for a $1-billion Reconstruction Finance Corp. advance to cover immediate spending.

The rest of the funds must be voted later in a separate appropriation bill, and economy-minded congressmen are planning a fight to cut the total of actual cash.

Truman signed the historic measure at a White House ceremony attended by Secretary of State Dean G. Acheson, Foreign Aid Chief Paul G. Hoffman, Roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, the ranking members of the senate and house foreign relations committee, and other officials.

Scrawling his name a letter or two at a time, Truman used eight pens during the signing ceremony, and distributed them as souvenirs to the witnesses. He set aside one pen for Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg (R-Mich), who was unable to attend.

The Communists had set up a new list of conditions for peace. Among them were the unopposed crossings. They told the government to agree by today or take the consequences. No hour was set.

The government reportedly made a counter proposal, but most observers predicted its quick rejection by the Communists.

Shortly before the government decision, the Communist radio declared 400,000 Communist veterans had finished all preparations to strike across the river in the Nanking-Shanghai area.

In all the Communists are believed to have 1-million veterans in position to attack along some 650 miles of the Yangtze river front. The government has possibly 500,000 troops to meet the assault.

Nanking was deep in gloom. Police sentries were doubled. Reinforced garrison patrols moved through the capital with full combat equipment. Families of officials were leaving town.

The official source said the government was handing the Communists a counterproposal that was loaded with all the concessions the government thought it could make. But few believed they would be enough.

British Ship Hit . . .

NANKING (Wednesday) (AP) — A British naval sloop on the Yangtze river was reported hit by shore fire today and forced aground between Shanghai and Nanking.

There was nothing in the telephone reports to indicate whether it was Communist or nationalist batteries which had fired on the sloop.

Ceiling in Theater Collapses; 40 Hurt

HOUMA, LA. (AP) — The interior ceiling of the Park theater collapsed last night as a movie performance was about to begin. Heavy hunks of plaster plunged down on approximately 200 persons, injuring at least 40, some perhaps seriously.

The sheriff's office said it had been advised 25 persons were injured and possibly more. The Ellender Memorial hospital, where the injured were being treated, said 32 had been admitted. Some of the injured were said to be in serious condition.

No deaths had been reported and the sheriff's office said it didn't think anyone was killed.

Rescue workers, aided by police and firemen, were searching the debris, which covered the floor of the theater.

Radio stations in the Houma area broadcast appeals for doctors and nurses to assist at the over-crowded Ellender hospital.

Ambulances from nearby towns were rushed here after word of the collapse had been broadcast.

Two Plead Innocent To Forgery Charge

Everett and Betty Ayers, St. Louis, pleaded not guilty in district court yesterday to county attorney's informations charging them with forgery.

The couple appeared in court yesterday afternoon with their attorney for arraignment on the charges. Judge Evans set the trial for the May term of court. He fixed bail bond at $5,000 in each case.

Ayers and his wife were arrested by Iowa City police on March 3 for allegedly cashing bad checks. Marcella Ayers, his minor daughter by a former marriage, and James B. Scott were arrested at the same time. The girl was later paroled in custody of her mother and Scott was released on bond.

Cubs Shut Out by Sewell, 1-0

Pirates Tally In 9th Inning

CHICAGO (AP)—Rip Sewell, always a Chicago nemesis, won a pitching duel of 40-year-olds yesterday as the Pittsburgh Pirates nicked Emil (Dutch) Leonard for an unearned ninth inning tally and an opening-day 1-0 win over the Chicago Cubs.

A crowd of 29,392 watched the Wrigley field inaugural in which Leonard's five-hitter wasn't quite as good as Sewell's eight hit shut-out.

The games only tally came after shortstop Roy Smalley bobbled Dixie Walker's ground opening the ninth.

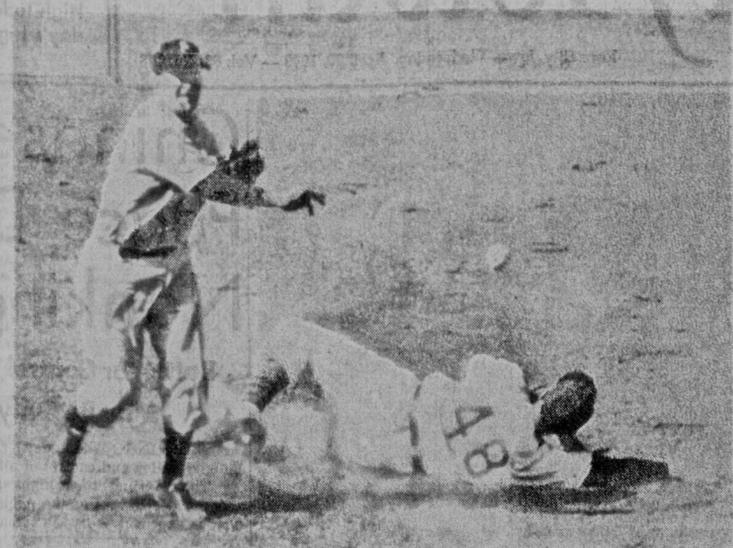

Ralph Kiner who collected two of Pittsburgh's five singles, rifled a hit to left, an intentional walk to Ed Stevens filled the bases.

Jack Cassini, who ran for Walker then scored on Les Fleming's fielder's choice. Fleming, who pinch batted for Bockman grounded to first and the Cubs just missed on a double-play try which would have ended the inning scoreless.

Leonard scattered three hits the first seven innings.

Dodgers Overpower Giants

BROOKLYN (AP)—Brooklyn treated a record opening day crowd of 34,530 onlookers at Ebbets field to a power attack that all but buried the New York Giants under a 10-3 drubbing yesterday.

The homer-conscious Brooks lapped Righthander Larry Jansen for only five hits in five innings but three of them were home runs by Carl Furillo, Jackie Robinson and Roy Campanella to account for the five runs scored off the Giant ace.

Hank Behrman, former Dodger, took over for the Giants in the sixth, and was roughed up for six hits, including a triple by Billy Cox, which were good for five more tallies.

In the meantime, Lefty Joe Hatten went all the way for the Dodgers.

A hectic fourth inning in which the Dodgers joined Jansen for four runs decided the issue. Robinson opened the Dodger half of that frame by belting a homer into the left center field seats. It was his second of three hits. A walk to Carl Furillo, a forceout and a single by Gil Hodges, set the stage for Campanella's three-run clout. That put the Dodgers ahead, 5-3.

The Dodgers added another run in the sixth on Cox's triple and Behrman's wild pitch. They scored four in the seventh on hits by Peeewe Reese, Robinson, Cox and Hodges and a three-base miff by Bobby Thomson of Campanella's towering fly. The Giants started in a hurry. Billy Rigney picked Hatten's second pitch into the left field stands for a leadoff home run. Marshall's single, Cooper's double and a base-clearing one-bagger by Buddy Kerr accounted for the Giants two tallies in the fourth.

NEW YORK (AP)—Danny Gardella, a wartime outfielder with the New York Giants, lost his bid yesterday for immediate return to baseball, from which he was suspended in 1946.

Federal Judge Edward A. Conger denied Gardella a temporary injunction pending trial of his suit against organized baseball for $300,000 damages and a permanent order lifting the suspension.

In denying the motion that baseball be restrained from enforcing the suspension, Judge Conger said he invoked all the reasons employed April 1 when he denied similar applications filed by Max Lanier and Fred Martin, former St. Louis Cardinals pitchers.

The three players are among several erstwhile major leaguers who were suspended for five years by Baseball Commissioner A.B. Chandler for jumping to the Mexican league.

Lanier and Martin have sued baseball for damages totalling $2,500,000. Like Gardella, they are seeking damages on the ground that officials of the game are denying them a livelihood.

Browns Rout Indians, 5-1; Feller Loser

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Those upstart St. Louis Browns walloped the world champion Cleveland Indians, 5-1, yesterday in a season opener featured by the pitching of Baby-Faced Ned Garver.

Veteran Bob Feller, the losing pitcher, had trouble finding the plate and was jerked after two innings by Manager Lou Boudreau. The only hit off him was a triple to the right center fence by Rookie Jack Graham, leading to the first Browns run, but Feller walked three.

The 23-year-old Garver, who may prove to be the strong man of Manager Zach Taylor's weak pitching staff, was effective when it counted most. He gave up only seven hits in going the route and had six strikeouts.

The Browns nicked Early Wynn, the second of four Tribe pitchers including Ancient Satchel Paige, for their four other runs.

Singles by Jerry Priddy and Dick Kokos with a free pass to Graham and an outfield fly by Paul Lehner were good for two in the third.

The Browns added two more in the fourth on a safe hit by Eddie Pellagrini, a sacrifice, and singles by Priddy and Graham, the latter the 1948 Pacific Coast league home run king.

Based on balls to Larry Doby and Boudreau at the start of the fourth helped the Indians to their lone counter. Doby advanced on an outfield fly by Joe Gordon and rode home on another by Mickey Vernon.

One of the features of the contest was the two-inning stint by Paige, who struck out three of the six men he faced. Sherman Lollar, the former New York Yankee, started as the Brownie catcher but pulled an arm muscle while at bat in the second and was replaced by Les Moss.

CINCINNATI (AP)—Two costly errors by Nippy Jones and Tommy Glaviano led three unearned Cincinnati runs across the plate yesterday as the Reds opened their 1949 National league baseball season with a 3-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Ken Raffensberger, veteran left-hander, set the Cards down with only five hits. Enos Slaughter's home run in the seventh was the only damaging blow.

Harry Brecheen worked the first seven innings and gave up all of the Reds' eight hits.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians admitted concern over shoulder trouble last night but vehemently denied any intention of temporarily retiring.

The Cleveland fire-ball ace lasted only an inning against the St. Louis Browns yesterday and then was removed by Manager Lou Boudreau.

Philadelphia Athletics Tip Boston Red Sox On Joost's Homer

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Lou Brissie, Philadelphia Athletics sophomore left-handed pitcher with the war-shattered leg, started the 1949 baseball season yesterday just as he did last year—beating the Boston Red Sox—3-2 at Shibe park.

Eddie Joost hammered a homer into the left-field stands for what became the deciding run.

After wasting three hits in the second, the Athletics put together singles by Joost, Ferris Fain and Taft Wright with two walks off Joe Dobson to score their first two tallies in the third.

The Red Sox got to Brissie for three of their seven hits and a run in the third.

DIMAGGIO "ON THE BENCH" was the situation yesterday when the New York Yankees opened the season against Washington. The ailing Yankee center fielder, flanked by teammates Tommy Henrich (left) and Phil Rizzuto, sat on the bench in Yankee stadium while his mates won a ninth inning thriller from the Senators. DiMaggio has been undergoing treatments for his ailing heel in a Baltimore hospital. He flew to New York to see the game.

Card Errors Costly As Cincinnati Wins

Hawks Face Clinton in Final Test Before Big Nine Opener

The Iowa baseball team will take to the diamond today in its final test before the Big Nine season opens Friday. The Hawks will meet the Clinton Steers of the Central association at 3:30 this afternoon on the Iowa diamond.

Jack Dittmer will be at second. Pinky Primrose will be on the field. John Sullivan and George Hand are likely to get the nod for the other two garden spots, but that is subject to change, depending upon whether the Steers start a left or right hander.

The Steers should present some formidable opposition for the Hawks. The last two years while the club was part of the Chicago Cub farm system, the Clinton outfit won the Central association playoffs and last year won the pennant.

Today's game with the Steers will be the first clash between the Hawks and a professional club since the early twenties. The Hawks are scheduled to meet another Central association team, the Rockford Rox, May 2.

Iowa Coach Otto Vogel said yesterday he would probably start either Wes Demro or Dick Orth on the mound for the Hawks.

Demro has appeared on the mound twice this year for the Hawks, both times in relief roles. He came on in the ninth inning on the season's opener against Bradley and allowed one run to score to tie the game. The Hawks got a run in the ninth to win and Demro was credited with the victory.

Demro's other appearance was against Western Michigan when he relieved Al DiMaggio. Demro allowed three runs to cross in the ninth as the Hawks lost, 4-3.

Orth's only appearance was a fine three-hit performance against Notre Dame, which Iowa won, 8-1.

The rest of the Iowa lineup will see either Ed Browne or John Tedore behind the plate with Tedore possibly going to right field if Browne is the starting catcher. Arnold Espe will probably be at first but Vogel may start either Dave Dickson or Murland Moran at the initial sack.

Braves Sweep Pair From Philadelphia

BOSTON — Boston's National league champion Braves snapped out of their inability to score runs yesterday and twice bumped the Philadelphia Phillies, 4-3, and 11-2.

The Braves delighted 30,000 fans with a ninth inning rally that counted four runs in the first game. Curt Simmons, the Phillies pitcher, held the Braves to one hit, a single by Shortstop Alvin Dark, until the final frame.

The Tribe assured themselves of the second decision by scoring four times in the third inning and six times in the fourth session.

Darkness Nets Purdue Win Over Wisconsin

LAFAYETTE, IND. (AP)—Purdue won its fifth straight baseball game yesterday 11-9 after the tying runs pushed across by Wisconsin in the top half of the ninth were nullified when the contest was called because of darkness.

With two out in the ninth, Wisconsin scored twice to deadlock the game but the score automatically reverted to the eighth inning when umpires called the contest.

222,264 Fans See Opening Tilts

NEW YORK (AP)—A turnout of 222,264 fans, including record-breaking opening day crowds at Detroit and Brooklyn, got the big league baseball season off to a flying start yesterday in seven major league parks.

Counting Monday's two openers at Washington and Boston, the two-day program drew a total of 257,459 customers. The other seven home openers, including Cleveland, which should pack in over 70,000, are set for Friday.

The double opening schedule failed to equal the 1948 total of 331,733 for the first two days. However, the expected 230,000 additional in Friday's games should send the total for the 16 home openers well over last year's figure of 492,180.

Off On the Long, Long Grind

OVER 26 MILES TO GO as the international field of 142 marathoners took off yesterday noon in the 53rd Boston Marathon. The runners started from the village of Hopkinton, while the goal was at Baxter street, Boston, 26 miles, 385 yards away. Karl Gosta Leandersson of Sweden won the annual Patriot's day event in two hours, 31 minutes and 50.8 seconds.

Swedish Runner Victor in Boston Marathon

BOSTON (AP)—Long and smooth striding Karl Gosta Leandersson (CQ), the 31-year-old Swedish champion, ran a front race for the last 15 miles yesterday to win the Boston A.A.'s 53rd Hopkinton-Boston marathon in two hours, 31 minutes, 50.8 seconds.

He finished about a half mile ahead of the closest of his 14-rivals, Vic Dyrvall, a New York accountant making his first start over the 26 miles, 385 yards grid. Dyrvall was clocked in 2:34:42. Those two were the only serious contenders from start to finish. Lou White, the Boston A.A. Negro star, placed third in 2:36:48 and three recent winners followed him home in succession.

Two-time victor Johnny Kelley of Boston, was fourth in 2:38:07, Joe Smith of Medford, who won in 1942, was fifth in 2:38:30 and little Gerry Cote of St. Hyacinthe, Que., last year's winner who was striving for his fifth triumph since 1940, was sixth in 2:42:55.

The non-English speaking Leandersson, a resort caretaker in his native land, won a marathon in Czechoslovakia last October. A foot injury prevented him from competing for Sweden in last summer's Olympics.

As soon as the bulky field straggled away from the starting line, Leandersson settled down in third place, behind Jones and O'Connell with Dyrvall fourth.

After five miles, Leandersson was second, about 400 yards behind Jones, who set the pace for about 11 miles. Then the powerful Swede took over and pulled away with the greatest of ease.

Graduate Student Marries

Mrs. Alvin H. Schild

Joyce Mc Kercher Weds Alvin Schild In Church Service

Two SUI graduate students were married Thursday when Joyce Jeanette Mc Kercher became the bride of Alvin H. Schild in the Evangelical Reformed church near Norwood, Minn.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A.P. Mc Kercher, Sioux City. The Rev. and Mrs. P. Schild, Norwood, Minn., are parents of the bridegroom.

The Rev. P. Schild, father of the bridegroom, performed the double ring ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Mrs. John C. Adams, Sioux City, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Mark A. Schild, New Holstein, Wis., brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Mrs. Schild was graduated from East high school, Sioux City, and received her B.A. degree from Iowa State Teachers college, Cedar Falls.

Mrs. Schild is now doing graduate work at the State University of Iowa and is an instructor in the art department here. She is a member of Delta Phi Delta, local social sorority at Iowa State Teachers college.

The bridegroom was graduated from Delmont high school, Delmont, S.D. and received his B.A. and M.A. degrees from SUI. He is now doing graduate work here and is a teacher at University high school. Mr. Schild is a member of Phi Delta, honorary education fraternity, and Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity.

The couple are now at home at 105 N. Clinton street.

Urge Careful Fit of First Shoes

Worn Shoes Give Indication of Fit

By JEAN McFADDEN

A child's health begins at his toes, according to podiatrists.

The fact that children depend on their parents for a solid foundation in life can also apply to the care with which parents fit their children's shoes.

Different children develop differently so it's hard to make rules for shoe-fitting that apply to all children, podiatrists say.

If your child is large for his age, remember that his bones and muscles develop according to his age, not his height. The strength of his foot may be lagging behind his size, and for this reason he will need lightweight shoes with soles of more than average pliability.

On the other hand, your child may be small for his age, but with foot bones and muscles more maturely developed. In this case he will take a sturdier shoe than the boy or girl of average height.

A chubby boy or girl may have a predisposition to "weak feet," podiatrists say, because of the strain of extra weight. Their shoes need plenty of spread-room at the toes, to prevent impinging of muscles.

An underweight or wiry child generally has a long, bony foot with loose ligaments. Such feet elongate very easily, and it is most important to measure size for shoes in a standing position.

The parent should make sure of a good heel-to-ball fit, by seeing that the break of the shoes comes exactly at the big-toe joint of the foot.

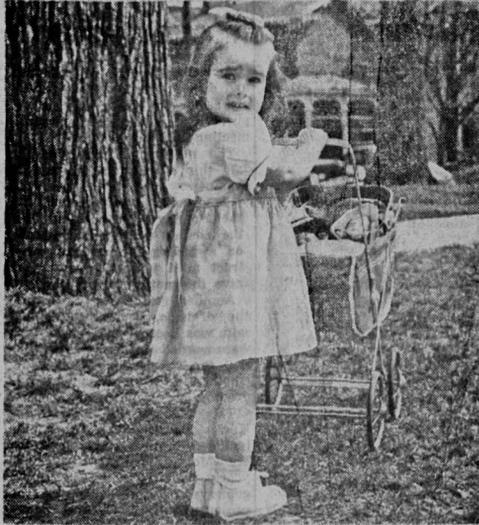

Parents may get a picture of the condition of their children's feet by examining their shoes. Look at the bottoms first. If the wear covers the entire sole area, with greater wear evident along the margin of the sole, the shoes fit correctly.

If the forward portion of the sole shows excessive wear, the shoes are too short. Toes are being cramped. This might effect gait and posture, and can lead to back pains in later life or "crankiness" right now.

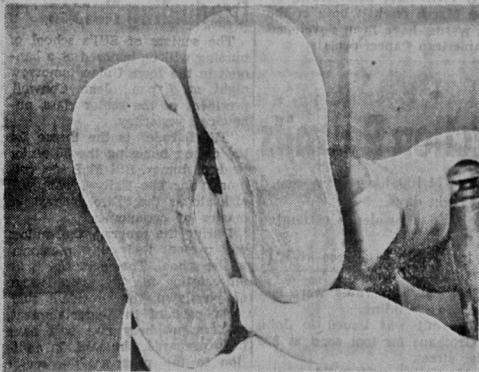

If wear especially heavy on the inner margin of the sole, chances are the upper part of the shoe is misshapen, too, with the inner side bulging unnaturally. This adds up to "pronation," beginning of flat feet.

A sturdy shoe with soft uppers and pliable soles, with a firm counter at the heel and plenty of length to give the toes lots of wiggling room is needed.

Podiatrists caution against the practice of youngsters wearing hand-me-down shoes. Even though the size seems to be right, a different shape of foot may render an old shoe a health hazard.

MODELING HER NEW PLAY SHOES is Judy Lupini, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lupini, 308 Clinton street. The continuous sole up the back is designed to keep Judy walking with her toes pointed straight ahead. Both the upper portion of the shoe and the sole are of flexible but firm leather with ventilation provided through the natural pores in the leather.

(Daily Iowan Photo by Miriam Showalter) THE SOLES OF JUDY'S OUTGROWN PLAYSHOES show that her shoes have been well fitted. The area of wear is even over the sole with the borders showing the most scuff. Outer edges of the heel are also worn, showing that Judy walks in the correct manner.

Worms May Aid Cancer Work

SUI Zoologists Use Worms in Research

The lowly worm has been grown with two heads and no tail — and he's making a contribution to cancer research at the State University of Iowa.

Dr. Gordon Marsh and Dr. H. W. Beams, university zoology department, have cultivated two-headed worms by means of passing an electric current through regenerating "planaria" or flat worms.

This trick of science has a bearing on the differentiation of tissues, and the American Cancer society will finance further research by the two scientists.

One of the properties of tumor tissue is its lack of any specialized function in the body. It merely grows in useless and ugly masses.

Dr. Marsh and Dr. Beams have shown that worm tissues can be grown into forms and uses contrary to nature's normal results. Eventually, the scientists may explore the chances of causing differentiation of cancer tissue, though much preparatory work must first be done. The two men won't even speculate on the possible results.

Flat worms regenerate — that is, if their tails or heads are cut off, they will grow new ones. In their tests, the SUI scientist showed that the rate and direction of growth and type of tissue could be changed by use of electrical forces.

All this work with the almost-neglected worm started two years ago. The Iowa scientists decided to test the effect of electricity on pollen grains. Their research extended later to chick embryos — and on to the worm.

They applied direct current to cut pieces of flat worms and found that the regenerating piece reversed its normal growth. A head appeared where the tail should be, and vice-versa.

When a tail was cut off and the amputated end turned toward the cathode (negative pole of electric current; another head appeared — and so the two-headed worm.

The scientists haven't been able to develop a two-tailed worm as yet, although they have stopped growth of a single head by turning the amputated part of the worm toward the anode (positive pole of electric current.) Similar experiments are now in progress, using fresh-water anelid worms, which are more complex in form and higher in the animal scale.

WSUI Announces New Disc Emcees For Radio Shows

New emcees for the "Rhythm Rambles" and "Tea Time" disc shows took over those programs yesterday, Richard Setlerberg, WSUI assistant program director, said.

Milo Hamilton, A4, Fairchild, relieved Sports Director Bill Wolf, A3, Keokuk, on the "Rhythm Rambles" program. Walt Reno, A4, Des Moines, and Roberta Wallace, A3, Rockford, Ill., now have the "Tea Time" show.

The openings were created when Wolf discovered that his job as sports director, which he took over March 21 following the resignation of Spank Broders, left him with too little time to continue as host on "Rhythm Rambles."

With Hamilton taking the "Rhythm Rambles" program and Fran Whisler, A4, Washington, Iowa, his "Tea Time" partner, leaving to get ready for her May wedding, both spots on "Tea Time" became open. Appointment of the new "Tea Time" emcees were selected recently after auditions at WSUI.

City Council to Act On Contract Award At Second Meeting

Awarding a garbage collection and disposal contract to a private contractor for Iowa City is the purpose for a second city council meeting this week.

The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 this evening in the council chambers.

Four bids were received at the Monday night meeting but the council postponed decision on awarding the garbage contract until tonight in order to give the matter further study.

Another reason for postponing the decision, several aldermen said, was because one of the bids was worded in such a manner that the councilmen didn't know whether the bidder meant his figure for one year or two.

This bid was the one by Ira Keefe for $23,696.78. Other bids included that of Ira J. and Ira W. Montgomery for $21,213.50 yearly for two years. The Montgomerys are the holders of the present contract. Clifford Esterday submitted a one year bid at $19,480, and Dona Ayers, a one year bid at $17,000.

Banquet to Honor Graduating Nurses

The seniors of SUI's school of nursing will be honored at a banquet in the Iowa Union tomorrow night at 7 p.m. Jean Conwell, president of the senior class, announced yesterday.

"Hit Parade" is the theme for the dinner honoring the 50 senior student nurses. Bill McBride, columnist for The Daily Iowan, will officiate as the "Disc Jockey" or master of ceremonies.

During the program the seniors will present their class memorial to the school. The memorial is an oil painting for the main lounge of Westlawn, the president said.

As part of the entertainment, a class prophecy and will have been prepared, she said. In addition to the program, the senior class paper, "Closed Chart," will be distributed to the guests.

Local Man Freed Under $500 Bond

Charged with drunken driving on Monday, John Phillips, 122 S. Dubuque street, was released under $500 bond to await grand jury action, police said yesterday.

Benny Abbott, South Riverside drive, paid $12.50 in police court Monday on a charge of disorderly conduct filed early Sunday morning.

Police Judge Emil C. Trott Monday fined John V. Guckin, Camden, Ind., $12.50 after highway patrolmen arrested Guckin for improper passing on a public highway.

Reich's Cafe — As It Looked 40 Years Ago

From Candy Shop to Cafe

Reichardts Follow Transition Through 50 Years; Business Sold in 1947 But Couple Stay

Back in April, 1899—April 15 to be exact—Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Reichardt came to Iowa City from Omaha, Neb., and opened a little candy shop on Iowa avenue between Clinton and Dubuque streets.

Two years later they moved their shop to 21 S. Dubuque and began a business enterprise which still persists as Reich's cafe.

Mrs. Reichardt, now in her late seventies, still works at the cafe as night cashier although the business was sold to George Potiriades in 1947.

The growth from candy shop to full-fledged cafe was a slow, almost evolutionary process, recalled Mrs. Reichardt.

"One winter morning a couple of boys from the university stopped in the shop and asked if they could buy a cup of coffee. J.D. had to refuse them that morning but that afternoon he bought a coffee pot and Reichardt's candy shop also became Reichardt's coffee shop," she related.

Later the Reichardts started selling doughnuts with their coffee and through the years the added sandwiches, malts (which they mixed by hand), hot lunches, and later full meals.

The cafe was a familiar, favorite spot for SUI students and J.D. became an Iowa City institution in himself. A huge, jovial man, J.D. was featured by Robert Ripley as the "world's greatest pancake eater."

The name change from Reichardt's to Reich's was a slow one too, according to Mrs. Reichardt.

"People started calling it Reich's for short so we finally changed the name officially to Reich's," she said.

And Reich's it has been and Reich's it shall be for many years to come, said present owner George Potiriades.

Senators Find Filth, Squalor In Slum Tour

WASHINGTON (AP)—Five shocked senators toured filthy, evil-smelling slums within sight of the capitol yesterday, then returned to scrub themselves in the spic and span senate washrooms. The only trouble with that, remarked Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich) is that "you can't scrub out your soul."

The see-for-yourself tour was arranged by Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill) during senate debate on a bill to provide $1.5-billion for slum clearance and federal funds to help build 810,000 public housing units in the next seven years.

Douglas first showed the senate huge pictures of dirty hovels in the shadow of the capitol dome, as well as in other major cities including his native Chicago. Then he called for volunteers for the on-the-spot investigation and rounded up Ferguson, Sens. Theodore Francis Green (D-R.I.) Wayne Morse (R-Ore) and Raymond E. Baldwin (R-Conn). All, with the exception of Ferguson, are outspoken supporters of the bill.

Returning, the senators drove along tree-lined streets of a low-rent public housing project for Negroes. Children played on green lawns. Neat curtains hung at the windows.

That is what the housing bill would do, Baldwin commented. He said it would take care of about one-fifth of the nation's worst slums.

Two SUI Students Eligible for Regular Army Commissions

Two SUI students are included among the 392 distinguished military graduates recently approved by Pres. Harry S. Truman for commissions in the regular army, the SUI military department said yesterday.

Robert J. Berens, A4, Neola, and Frederick J. Haesemeyer, C4, Rockford, Ill., will be eligible for second lieutenant commissions following confirmation of the appointments by the senate.

The distinguished military graduates were selected by professors of military science and tactics in various colleges and universities throughout the nation and recommended to the army for the commissions. They are students in the upper third of their military classes who demonstrate leadership in the different fields of campus life.

Berens is cadet colonel of the university ROTC regiment. Haesemeyer holds the position of battalion executive major in the same unit.

Boy Bitten by Dog; Take Drying Wash

Reports of a five-year-old boy bitten by a dog and a clothesline theft were filed yesterday, according to Iowa City police.

Mrs. Elmer Olney, 1133 N. Dodge street, told police her son was bitten by a dog yesterday, but investigating patrolmen reported the animal could not be found.

Richard D. Hanson, C4, Fort Dodge, said someone stole part of the family laundry from outside his home at 133 Templin park, police reported.

Hanson said the theft took place sometime between midnight and 7:30 a.m. yesterday and that part of the washing was left hanging on the line.

Advertising Students to Take Des Moines Tour

MEMBERS OF ALPHA DELTA SIGMA, professional advertising fraternity, put their heads together in preparation for the presentation of a theoretical advertising problem to be given at the Des Moines Advertising club luncheon April 26. The presentation will climax a two day tour of Des Moines magazines, newspapers, radio stations and advertising agencies as guests of the Des Moines Ad club. SUI admen pictured standing are (left to right) Bill Munsell, Nino Giarratano, Dene Carney, Herb Holland, Wayne Goltz, Ralph Muma and Harold Arkoff. Fred Stines, Alpha Delta Sigma president, and Harold Shillito are seated at the desk.

Des Moines Club Invites Fraternity On Two-Day Trip

Twenty senior members of Alpha Delta Sigma, professional advertising fraternity, and Prof. Philip Ward Burton of the SUI Journalism school, will be guests of the Des Moines Advertising club in Des Moines next Monday and Tuesday.

The group will tour the Meredith Publishing company where production of Better Homes and Gardens and Successful Farming magazine will be observed.

Visits to various Des Moines advertising agencies, newspapers and radio stations will be made to tour their plants and observe routine operations.

At a luncheon of the Des Moines Ad club on April 26, the group will present a theoretical advertising problem to their hosts.

The professional presentation, intended to demonstrate the advertising training at SUI, will include the promotion, advertising and marketing for a mythical popcorn company.

The 20 men of Alpha Delta Sigma making the trip include: Fred Stines, C4, Newton, president; Dene Carney, A4, Ames, vice president; Harold Arkoff, A4, Ft. Dodge, secretary; Wally Ross, A4, Des Moines, treasurer; Paul Kettering, A4, Iowa City; John Kottman, A4, Sheffield.

Phil Crom, A4, Ida Grove; Herb Holland, C4, Sioux City; Ralph Muma, C4, Sioux City; John Holm, C4, Davenport; Bob Kenne, A4, Remsen; Wally Votroubek, A4, Cedar Rapids; Bob Daneke, C4, Great Falls, Mont.

Harold Shillito, A4, Des Moines; Hal Sorenson, A4, Omaha, Neb.; Gerald Rovner, C4, Marshalltown; Nino Giarratano, C4, Marshalltown; Wayne Goltz, C4, Decorah; Don Reed, A4, Cherokee, and Bill Munsell, C4, Boone.

AIR GROUP TO MEET
Flight one of the 211th composite squadron will meet tonight at 7:30 in room 214 field house armory. Dr. Hugh Seabury of the SUI speech department will give another lecture on the air university at Maxwell Field, Montgomery, Ala.

City Gets More Parking Space

Iowa City will soon have another municipal off-street parking lot less than a block away from the present lot in the 300 block on East College street.

Francis Cox of the Watson Brothers Trucking company told city councilmen Monday night that his company will soon return the empty lot they have used next to the community building to the city.

Mayor-at-Large Clark F. Mighell yesterday announced the council would probably use the lot as a parking lot and would put in improvements to make the area a regular parking lot.

Mighell emphasized he was not speaking for the parking committee but as one of several aldermen who had discussed the situation and agreed to use the area as a parking lot.

He also advanced the idea at Monday night's council meeting to answer objections to changing from diagonal to parallel parking on Clinton street from Burlington street south to Harrison street.

The council changed parking regulations on Clinton street in order to give Watson Brothers a thoroughfare to their terminal on Lafayette street and their parking lot on Kirkwood avenue.

When widening improvements on Capitol street and the Benton street bridge are completed, the Clinton street thoroughfare will be withdrawn.

Highlanders to Play at Veterans' Hospital

SUI's Scottish Highlanders, all-girl bagpipe band, will give a concert for patients of the Veterans' hospital at Knoxville, May 22, Director Bill Adamson reported yesterday.

The famous touring troupe will play a concert in the hospital auditorium in the afternoon. Following their performance, Adamson said, the Highlanders will parade on the hospital grounds for the benefit of patients too ill to leave their quarters.

It will mark the ninth time the Highlanders have performed at the hospital. They most recent appearance was in May, 1948, the director explained.

He added that the American Red Cross will sponsor the ladies' appearance.

Try and Stop Me
By BENNETT CERF
MACKINLAY KANTOR, making a round of military flying fields for a series of articles he is preparing, alleges that he encountered one Air Force captain who was sixty-one years old.
"Yes, sir," boasted the captain, "I'm the oldest junior officer in the whole Air Corps, and if you'd like to know why, here's my story."
"During World War Two I was based for months on one island where the C. O. delighted in getting us out of our beds every night for an 'alert.' After it had happened thirty-two nights in succession, I got a great idea. I got hold of a tame orang-utan that hung outside the canteen begging for food, dressed him in an officer's uniform, and trained him painstakingly to run to my plane whenever the 'alert' sounded, climb in, close the plexiglass dome over his head, switch on the engine, turn over the propeller, and keep his hand on the throttle until he heard the 'all clear.'"
"It worked like a charm for weeks. One night, however, the 'all clear' never came. I jumped out of bed, dressed, and rushed over to the field, just in time to see my plane, with the orang-utan at the stick, take off in perfect alignment with the others. When the last plane zoomed into the sky, there were only two people left on the whole field: me and the C.O. He gave me a withering look but never said a word."
"Well, sir, that's why I'm the oldest captain in the corps. And I wouldn't mind a bit—if it wasn't for the fact that that damn orang-utan is now a lieutenant colonel!"

I HAVE noticed that moth activities are on the increase, and it looks like they are up to their usual grubby tricks.

It is the moth mating season, and our house seems to be filled with winged creatures bent upon matrimony.

Trying to run the little rascals down is both unsatisfactory and exhausting.

IT IS high time we assume a realistic view of the moth problem. For quite some time now, we have been fighting the wool-eating varmints with crystals, cakes and balls of chemicals.

We've got to get off this defensive approach and meet moths on their own grounds.

That may not be such a bad idea... give 'em a taste of their own medicine.

THE SITUATION got completely out of hand in Rhode Island recently when a housewife in that state turned renegade and went over to the moths.

The whole sordid affair was aired in a divorce proceeding when the woman's husband claimed she had not only led quadrants of moths to his closet, but actually incited them to mob action by biting the first hole in her husband's vest.

I am happy to report that woman got her just desserts. Her husband was given a divorce; she was called a Communist no less than 23 times by prominent Rhode Island politicians, and in the end she was ostracized by the entire community.

WHAT IS needed is some form of drastic action which would let the moths know, once and for all, that we will no longer put up with this wool-devouring tomfoolery.

Year after year, moths return from wherever they spend the winter, knowing full well that the same houses and the same closets await their coming fearfully and without much of a defense.

We are in luck here, since they have grown indiscreet in their lack-sureness.

HERE IS one novel idea which would certainly throw them into quandary. We'll need volunteers.

When the first moth pokes his nose over the window sill, the family should spring into action. Everyone should race outside and imb into the family automobile except one previously designated individual whose job it is to set to be draperies and anything inflammable before vacating.

Once this is done, the entire household drives as quickly as it can to another neighborhood, setting up housekeeping again as though nothing had happened.

Another idea which is not so shaming as the fire treatment, but may be nearly as efficient, is the spray system.

With this plan, you go about your business as though nothing had happened when moths enter your house. Leave closet doors open and hang 100 percent woolen garments in plain sight as a lure.

After being thoroughly saturated with gin, the creatures will come inebriated. You may then use the closet door and rest assured the moths will kill each other off in a greedy, drunken brawl over choice woolen tidbits.

Spring, Tra, La... But Not in Diplomacy

One of the most tangible souvenirs of the cold war — the 8-month-old Berlin blockade — is now becoming one of the most uncertain.

Uncertain because of a new crop of rumors, many coming from the U.S. state department, that Russia is sorry she shut off the land route to Berlin from the west and will soon lift the blockade.

Analysts and speculators have compiled an imposing list of reasons why the Soviets should end the blockade and stop the drama of the allied airlift.

Then, too, the allied counter blockade which has sealed off the western zones from commerce with the Russian zone has seriously hurt Soviet Germany.

It's a fact that the airlift is costing the U.S. $5-million a month over and above the $1-billion occupation bill the U.S. pays annually.

This appetizing argument is garnished with such tidbits as "Russia wants to ease the cold war pressure" and "Tito has Stalin plenty worried."

Having shaken well and served chilled, the reasoning that Russia will stop blocking the railroad route into Berlin any day now looks pretty good.

We could, of course, worry about the fact that Russia has torn up those very railroad tracks in an effort to make the blockade stick.

Fishing around for other clinkers, we find the "peace" conference now in session in Paris and the fiery anti-west invectives it is producing.

Some rather fantastic things happen; the price of potatoes stays up, during a potato surplus, while other food prices are going down.

The whole point is, no one knows what Russia is going to do at Berlin, not even the U.S. state department.

But even these effects are not the worst; the worst is that the consumer pays twice; he pays once in taxes to support the buying program, and again in the form of the higher prices his own program secures for him.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT A Choice of Farm Plans

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

Most of the argument against the Administration's new farm price support plan is argument in a vacuum. It is being said that the plan will cost a great deal of money.

Some plan there must be, and it might as well be a good one. They'll all cost like crazy; and the question is not whether we're going to spend or not spend, because we will spend.

THERE WILL BE a farm support plan of some kind, for a lot of reasons. One, to be crude for a minute, is that the farm states swing the last election, and both parties know it.

Depression in the cities is horrid enough, but there is a special quality of ghastliness about depression in the midst of fruitful fields, the kind of depression that leaves crops unpicked, spills milk, and dumps "surpluses" on fires or into rivers.

SO OUR CHOICE is between plans. Under the present setup the government supports the prices of certain commodities simply by going into the open market and buying. It has spent many millions of dollars, for example, buying potatoes at better than 2.5 cents a pound.

This supports the price of potatoes effectively, but then the government is stuck with the potatoes. It can't sell them as eating spuds, because it would then be competing with the same farmers it has gallantly rushed in to save.

Some rather fantastic things happen; the price of potatoes stays up, during a potato surplus, while other food prices are going down.

But even these effects are not the worst; the worst is that the consumer pays twice; he pays once in taxes to support the buying program, and again in the form of the higher prices his own program secures for him.

the new plan, put forward by Secretary of Agriculture Brannan. Under this plan, the prices of certain perishable commodities, such as meat, milk, eggs, and, I suppose potatoes, would be allowed to fall as they pleased, to whatever natural market levels they might reach.

And the government, without interfering with these prices, would keep farm income up by paying cash subsidies to the farmer. Any consumer bright enough to know on which side his bread is buttered will instantly perceive that while, under this plan, he would still be paying taxes for farm relief, he would be paying only once; he would at least get the benefit of low prices in the store.

THERE ARE OTHER advantages. The government proposes to reserve most of the benefits under the new plan for small, family-sized farms, thus giving aid specifically where it is needed, instead of spreading it around, whether needed or not; and inflating the whole economy in the guise of price support.

Also, if you start with low prices on the farm, the percentage markups of distribution come to less, in dollars and cents, than the same percentage markups come to when, as under present support schemes, you start with high prices on the farm.

But the best feature of the new plan is that it doesn't tuck food away, where you can't get at it. While the government's current methods of buying and storing and finding new uses for foods are not in any way as bad as the actual food destruction of the depression years, they bear some of the same coloration of artificially - contrived shortage.

The new plan lets growers grow and eaters eat, and that is good. To a degree, at least, it allows food surpluses to be good news for the people, an approach which would seem, in its own way, to be as natural as the touch of sunlight on an expanding leaf.

Survey of Unemployment Figures Shows —

Europe's Economy Fairly Stable -- but Brittle

In view of the wide discussion of the possibility of a depression, The United Press has made a survey of conditions in 12 countries in Europe and Asia Minor. The following article is by C. T. Hallinan, who for years has specialized in European economic and financial problems.

BY C. T. HALLINAN

LONDON — Europe on this side of the iron curtain is going through a period of relative economic stability, a survey of 12 key countries indicated today.

Economic conditions have stopped getting noticeably worse. Employment in some countries has improved a bit. The general economic position, however, is still somewhat brittle.

It seems generally agreed that Europe has made some progress since the Marshall plan went into effect a year ago.

Italy with 2-million registered unemployed out of about 15-million available workers, is worst off. There is virtually full employment in Scandinavia. In Turkey fruit is rotting on the trees and bushes because of the man power shortage due to the necessity of maintaining a big army.

The survey was taken on the basis of unemployment figures as an indication of the general situation. It showed:

Great Britain — Registered unemployed in mid-February totaled 360,000 or 1.8 percent of those registered under the national insurance act. The actual figure is probably about 2.4 percent of available workers, because members of the armed forces, government employes, domestic servants and white collar workers generally are on the insurance register.

However, there is virtually full employment even at the latter figure. What concerns the government is that the unemployment totals for January, 375,700 and February are higher than for any month last year.

Ireland — registered unemployed numbered 80,416 in March out of an estimated working population of 3-million. That means the unemployed in the new republic number close to the postwar peak of 81,765 in February 1946. There are complaints by some in Ireland that the unemployed total is swelled by 10 to 15 percent of unemployables who have been added to the register by politicians.

France — Unemployed numbered 29,366 on February 1, including 21,000 in Paris. In February, 1948, the figure was 8,566. Economists say that high prices and raw material shortages are forcing some small one-man businesses to close.

Italy — The stubbornness of unemployment is the biggest source of worry for the government. The present figure of 2-million compares with a postwar peak of 2,679,000 in February, 1947. The lowest level reached since the war was 1,752,000 in October, 1948.

Belgium — The country feels more hopeful. The country has been fighting a recession for more than two years. Unemployment totals 225,350, about 10 percent under the peak of 252,750 reached last December.

Netherlands — There were 53,900 workers fully unemployed January 31. This compares to 36,700 a year ago. Some employers give small unemployment pay to workers whom they cannot immediately employ. These are registered separately and totaled 2,200 in January. In addition 29,800 get part time work on government projects such as reclamation.

Switzerland — There were 12,046 unemployed March 1. This means virtually full employment, as almost all of those idle are among the seasonally unemployed and will get jobs when tourists arrive.

Austria — There were 138,000 unemployed in February compared with 131,000 in January and only 51,600 in January, 1948. But experts say employment actually is rising because new workers, especially women and persons formerly ly engaged in black marketing, are flowing into the industrial field.

Denmark — Seasonal factors brought the total of unemployed to 60,348 in January, or 9.9 of those gainfully employed. The figure compares to 65,553 or 11.2 percent a year ago. In February, 1947, the percentage of unemployed reached 15 percent. There is no anxiety now.

Norway — In January there were 13,918 unemployed. This was the lowest total for January since the war. The governments reconstruction work is absorbing as much as available manpower.

Sweden — There is practically no unemployment. The 2,900 on the register as unemployed are in the process of changing jobs. Both agriculture and forestry are crying for workers. Foreign workers are regularly imported.

Turkey — There are no unemployment statistics. Employment in industry varies. There is an acute shortage of agricultural workers because of the big army. The government does not dare to reduce its army strength because of Russia.

UN Invites Discussion On Trials

LAKE SUCCESS (AP) — The UN invited Hungary and Bulgaria yesterday to tell their stories of the imprisonment of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty and Protestant churchmen.

The Russian delegation indicated the two satellite countries would not accept. Both have filed protests with the UN against any discussion of the trials, contending they are internal matters and no business of the UN.

Last week, however, the 58-nation general assembly voted 34 to 7 to put the church cases on its agenda and go on with full discussion of them.

Russia also told the assembly's 58-member special committee she would firmly oppose efforts to invite representatives here from the Vatican, the state of Israel, or any other religious bodies, as suggested by Bolivia.

In a 90-minute speech, Adolfo Costa du Reis of Bolivia assailed the trial of Cardinal Mindszenty as a "parody of justice." He also brought up the subject of trials in Romania and said: "Six hundred priests have been jailed in Romania in a systematic violation of human rights."

The assembly's political committee heard Egypt lay claim to portions of Eritrea and Cistena.

Premier Ahmed Mohammed Khechabi Pasha said Egypt wants a small corner of Cistena adjoining Egypt and a piece of Eritrea which would be annexed to the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

Iowa Veterans May Apply for Bonus May 2

Application forms for the Iowa veterans bonus will be available in Iowa City May 2.

The forms may be picked up at the veterans administration office, 110 Iowa avenue, the Johnson county courthouse, or any Iowa City service organization after that date.

Actual payment of the bonus will be deferred until the Iowa supreme court hands down its decision on whether the method of financing the bonus is valid or not.

If the decision is favorable, many claims will be ready for immediate payment if they have been processed and received by the bonus board before the decision is reached.

The VA office will notarize and process the forms Monday through Friday, May 2-6, from 2:30 until 4:30 p.m. for eligible veterans who are students, members of the faculty or employees of the university, William L. Coder, director of veterans service, said yesterday.

The VA office, including the issuance of requisitions office, will shut down during the 2:30 to 4:30 processing period each day, Coder said.

Read Forms

After picking up the application forms, Iowa veterans are urged to read and study the instruction pages before filling out the necessary sections of the form.

Coder stressed that these sections must be filled out before bringing in the application for processing.

Every veteran, after picking up his application, must have a full size copy of his discharge when bringing it in for processing.

Navy, Coast Guard and Marine veterans should secure an additional form, No. 1-N, for computing overseas service. They should also bring their Navy Form 553 with their discharge when getting their application processed.

Items 8, 10, and 14, on the application form may cause veterans some trouble, Coder said.

Terminal Leave

Item eight deals with terminal leave. Terminal leave is unused leave time which remained to the veterans credit when he was discharged or separated from active duty.

Leave accrued at the rate of 2 1/2 days for each month of service, or 30 days per year.

If a veteran had served for a period of 16 months he would accrue 40 days leave time. If during his service he had leave totaling 14 days his terminal leave would then be 26 days which would be written in under item 8.

Item 10 on the bonus application deals with the veterans attendance at school during his period of service.

The bonus law denies credit for time spent in a college or university where the veteran was a duly enrolled student and took regular school subjects where he received credits leading to a degree or toward graduation.

Veterans who attended a college or university taking purely military or naval subjects not leading to credits toward a degree or graduation are generally considered to be eligible for bonus payments covering this period as a student.

Conscientious Objectors

Item 14 deals with conscientious objectors. The bonus law states that those who refused service on the grounds of religious, political and other conscientious beliefs are not eligible for compensation.

Those conscientious objectors who served in non-combatant assignments and were classified 1-AO are, if their separation documents were honorable, generally considered to be eligible for the bonus.

To be eligible for payment, a veteran must have served any time between Sept. 16, 1940, and Sept. 2, 1945, and must have been a resident of Iowa six months prior to entering the service.

The veteran will be paid for service between Sept. 16, 1940, and Dec. 31, 1946, and must have served 120 days between those dates to be eligible.

The rate of payment is $10 a month for domestic service and $12.50 a month for foreign service. The maximum bonus any veteran may receive is $500.

SUI Physicists Reply To Committee Charge

Two SUI physicists reacted sharply yesterday to the Monday announcement of the house un-American activities committee that "Communists have engineered the Paris 'peace' conference to stir atomic and other scientists to disobey their governments."

The committee report suggested that Communists might "play upon the notorious political naivete of physical scientists and thereby gain American atomic secrets."

Prof. Arthur Roberts, director of research in nuclear physics, said "the record of U.S. atomic scientists favoring civilian control of atomic energy development does not sound like naive scientists." Civilian control of atomic energy development was set forth in the Atomic Energy act of 1946.

"If that is being naive," he said, "we need more of it."

Turner said he "doubts whether the Communists in their Paris meeting could stir up as much dissatisfaction among scientists as the house un-American activities committee has managed to do."

"Until the committee gives Dr. E.U. Condon a hearing or complete exoneration or apology, scientists will attach little value to their opinions on any subject."

Condon, director of the U.S. bureau of standards, was accused by the un-American activities committee of allegedly releasing secret information to Russia. The committee proposed a hearing in Condon's case, but after many months Condon was indirectly cleared and the matter dropped.

New York Actuary To Hold Conference With SUI Students

SUI students of actuarial science will confer today with D.D. Cody, associate actuary of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, N.Y., Prof. Lloyd A. Knowler, chairman of the mathematics department, said yesterday.

Knowler explained that an actuary "is the scientific head of the insurance company." His primary duty is to see that the business is conducted on a basis that will insure permanent solvency of the company.

The technical work of the actuary includes the calculation of premiums, reserves and dividends. He also plays a large part in writing the policies of an insurance company. He makes all the necessary calculations when policies are lapsed, surrendered, or changed in any manner.

Sixteen SUI students are scheduled to finish courses in actuarial science this spring. Actuarial science has been taught at SUI for 21 years.

Recent social security legislation involving old age assistance, retirement annuities and unemployment insurance has introduced many new problems which actuaries must investigate.

Announce Plans for Paving Lusk Avenue

Paving on Lusk avenue in west Iowa City will begin sometime this week, Contractor Richard Horrabain announced yesterday.

This will be the first paving of the year, Horrabain said, earlier operations having been held up because of the weather.

Beginning of paving on Lusk avenue awaits the placing of stakes on property lines on the street by the city engineer, Horrabain added.

After Lusk avenue is completed, F street, and East Court street are scheduled for paving. Completion of the project will be from six weeks to two months, Horrabain said.

This paving was authorized by the city council last summer, and the three streets are the remaining ones not finished before last winter.

Jenner Says Atlantic Pact Unnecessary

DES MOINES Sen. William Jenner (R-Ind) said last night that the United States should reject the Atlantic pact and accomplish its purposes "by extending the Monroe Doctrine."

The senator said the United States should refuse to ratify the proposed treaty because "it isn't necessary" in a debate broadcast on an ABC network radio program, American Town Meeting of the Air.

Major George Fielding Eliot, military specialist and author, and Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Ala) spoke up for the proposed treaty in taking the affirmative side of the question.

Curtis Nettels, Cornell university professor siding with Jenner, said that Britain and France, both parties in the Atlantic pact, have signed treaties binding them not to enter an alliance against Russia.

In rebuttal, Eliot said the French embassy had told him that France would be compelled to move against Russia only if the Soviets committed an act of aggression.

The military phase of the Atlantic pact alone would cost the United States $25-billion, Jenner said. But Eliot charged that his estimate was far too high.

Wally Beery's Rites Small But Dignified

HOLLYWOOD — Wallace Beery went to his final rest yesterday at one of the most quiet and dignified funerals Hollywood has known.

The simple ceremony at the church of the Reformation in Forest Lawn was a far cry from the grizzled actor's rough-and-tumble fame for four decades on the screen. It was a small funeral, the way he wanted it.

Some 2,000 sobbing mourners — not the mobs of 10,000 that stormed Jean Harlow's and Carole Landis' funerals — jammed the tiny, stone church and spilled over on the lawn outside under a dark, cloudy sky.

Only a handful of the many movie stars who loved Hollywood's No. 1 scalawag gathered to hear the Rev. Ross Shaffer of Grandview Presbyterian Church say, "a harsh face and booming voice could not hide the loving quality of his heart."

E.F. Meade Files Suit for Damages

A $378.47 judgment suit was filed yesterday in Johnson county district court by Eugene F. Meade against Kenneth Alwine for damages resulting from an auto collision allegedly involving the defendant's auto.

Meade claimed his auto was struck by an auto driven by Alwine at the intersection of Iowa avenue and Riverside drive Nov. 14, 1948.

Meade claimed the accident was caused by the defendant's negligence and resulted in $378.47 damages for which he asked judgment.

Quonset 'Hogs' Road - Who's Gonna Back Up?

TRAFFIC CAME TO A STANDSTILL just outside of Iowa City yesterday when three trucks came face to face with a quonset hut which took up the full width of the road. The quonset was being moved from the Malcolm Lewis farm, a quarter of a mile south of Iowa City on the Sand road, about a mile down the road to the Charles N. Showers farm. The trucks finally yielded the right of way to the hut, owned by Sylvester Sharp.

Paul Revere Hates Horses

No Midnight Rides for him, Descendant Says Famed Ancestor Overrated

NEW YORK (UP)—Paul Revere, 51, a direct descendant of the famous midnight rider, observed the 173rd anniversary of the historic Boston-to-Concord gallop yesterday by disclosing his dislike of horses.

What's more, Revere wishes his great-great-grandfather, a silversmith, false tooth maker, coppersmith, optometrist and Revolutionary war hero, had stayed in bed the night of April 18-19, 1775, instead of hollering all over the countryside that the British were coming.

He said his forefather didn't really deserve all the credit he got. Two other men — William Dawes Jr., and Dr. Samuel Prescott, also went on the famous ride. But the name Revere has stuck out in history like a sore thumb (to the Revere family, anyway) for 173 years, just because it was the easiest for Henry Wadsworth Longfellow to rhyme in that famous clop-clopping poem he wrote to celebrate "Paul Revere's ride."

Old Paul should be remembered most, young Paul said, for his contributions to the industry of America, rather than for a purely routine ride. Revere pointed out that his great-great grandfather rolled the first sheet of copper in the U.S.A., and founded what now is the huge Revere Copper and Brass company.

Most aggravating of all to the current Revere, a Boston stock and bond salesman, is that the hero had to ride a horse. The fifth generation Revere said he's tried riding for the sake of the family name, but it wasn't for him. "I'm not a horseman," he said. "When I was 16, I spent two months on a ranch in Wyoming. I haven't been on a horse since. Automobiles are my speed."

Jaycee Official Sees Need for Publicizing Business Proficiency

A challenge to "wake up the people of America" and tell them the job free business is doing" was given to members of the Iowa City Junior Chamber of Commerce last night by Dwight Havens, a national Jaycee vice-president.

Speaking at the Jaycee's "Past President's night" dinner, Havens declared that "ideas . . . foreign to the American way of life," are creeping into the philosophy of our government.

"Business, which is responsible for what Americans hold dear, is sinking into public disfavor," the Rochester, Minn., Jaycee said.

The eight past presidents present at last night's meeting were given pins emblematic of membership in the "exhausted rooster" organization. They were Dale Welt, Jack Liechty, Olin Hauth, Newt Weller, Dean Jones, Jack White and Wayne Putnam, who is serving his second term as president of the local organization.

Driver Pleads Guilty To OMVI Charge

Charles Henry Moore, Eldon, was fined $300 and costs or sentenced to 90 days in the county jail yesterday after he pleaded guilty in court to a county attorney's information charging him with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

District Court Judge Harold D. Evans also suspended Moore's driver's license for 60 days.
