Legislature Passes Bill Asking Enlargement of Medical School

DES MOINES (AP)—The Iowa legislature agreed late yesterday on the terms of a bill which calls upon the State University of Iowa to enlarge its medical school during the next two years to accommodate a minimum of 120 students.

The action was taken in approving a new capital improvements appropriation bill for the state board of education. The final figure agreed upon was $2,700,893. This compared with a total of $2,450,893 as originally approved by the senate and $2,950,893 as passed by the house. The senate passed the conference bill 37 to 0 and the house approved 86 to 0 as the legislature prepared to adjourn. The measure was sent to the governor.

The differences of opinion between the two houses involved the questions of whether more money should be made available for the construction of an addition to the hospital for handicapped children at Iowa City and what should be done about a proposal to expand the university medical school.

The house had provided $500,000 for the children's hospital whereas the senate original action made no allowance for the hospital. The university now has on hand $500,000 previously appropriated for the addition, but work on the construction had been held up for various reasons, including high prices.

The conference bill specified that $500,000 of the $2,700,893 appropriated by the bill should be set aside for the hospital project. The balance will go to the board of education to augment the capital improvements appropriations made by previous legislatures.

The conference bill recommended specifically that the college of medicine at the university be expanded during the next two years if possible and that the money necessary for the expansion be taken from any available funds which have been allotted to the university. This would include any capital improvements funds which have been allowed for the university but have not actually been allocated.

The original bill made no mention of the college of medicine when it was passed by the senate but the house had added a provision asking that the medical school enrollment be expanded to 150 students a year. The conference report cut this down to 120. The university had been graduating about 70 medical students annually. Senator Herman Knudson (R-Clear Lake), chairman of the senate conference committee said that the committee members had no criticism of the university in connection with the operations of the medical school.

"However, we felt it was necessary that we should bring to the attention of the university the need of more doctors in the state of Iowa," Knudson said.

Solely Comments...

Dr. Mayo H. Soley, dean of the college of medicine, said last night that passage of the bill is "obviously one of the solutions" to the medical school enrollment problem.

He added that he did not know what the net effect of the bill would be.

President Virgil Hancher was not available last night for comment on passage of the bill.

Police Chief Calls Property Owners' Attention to Wells

Chief of Police E.J. Ruppert warned Iowa City property owners yesterday of their responsibility to cover any abandoned wells that might cause accidents similar to the recent Kathy Fiscus incident in California.

The little girl who suffocated after falling into a deep well near San Marino, Calif., aroused the sympathy of the nation during the futile rescue operations and moved officials throughout the country to check their jurisdictions for such hazards to safety.

Chief Ruppert reported that he and Mayor Preston Koser recently investigated several reports of abandoned cisterns in Iowa City and found one of them suitably capped.

He declared that the other abandoned hole had been covered at one time but that a child could possibly fall in.

Ersatz Hero Confesses

Be-Medaled 'Veteran' Admits Winning Chestful By Crapshooting — Not Sharpshooting

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—Carl A. Bendzus, 66, told U.S. Commissioner Reginald Carter yesterday that he got his dazzling display of medals and decorations in Louisiana shooting dice—not Germans.

The outward evidence of Bendzus' military prowess was such that he led the last Armistice day parade here. But he admitted before Commissioner Carter that most of his decorations were won in crap games.

He was charged before Carter with illegally wearing the Distinguished Service Cross, the Silver Star, the Purple Heart, the World War I Victory Medal with 10 battle stars, the Victoria Cross, the Legion of Honor and the Belgian Croix de Guerre.

Percy Wyly II, in charge of the New Orleans office of the FBI said Bendzus reserved the best spot on his chest for the Congressional medal of honor. Wyly said he was not entitled to wear that either, although the U.S. attorney decided not to charge him with it.

Bendzus said he was in the Spanish-American war and in the Canadian army in 1914, but was not entitled to wear the medals. Carter released him in $250 bond.

New Drug for Hay Fever, Asthma Reported

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

DETROIT (AP)—A new drug for hay fever, asthma and other allergies is 20 times more potent than present ones, two scientists said yesterday.

It can be taken in far smaller doses, and it protects against an allergic attack three times longer than other drugs, they reported. It is also much less likely to cause undesired effects like sleepiness, nausea or dizziness, which the anti-allergic drugs bring on in some people.

The drug, named chloro-trime-ton, was announced by Drs. Richard F. Tislow and Annette La-

Medical Plan Presented Action Urged By President

No Pleasure in His Work

CHICAGO (AP)—Louise Seier, 34, clerk at a cleaning and pressing shop, was indignant when a robber threatened her with a gun yesterday.

"This is the fourth time," she told him. "I'm tired of being held up." "Do you think it's any pleasure for me?" he growled. "I'm getting tired of it, too."

He took $45, Miss Seier told police.

Labor Leader Hurls Attack at Government

PARIS (AP)—Donald Henderson, an American labor leader, told the Communist-dominated world peace congress yesterday that workers in the United States "will not be driven into a war against the Soviet Union."

The 2,244 persons from 46 countries who are attending the congress gave him an ovation. The delegates have heard speaker after speaker denounce the United States and other western powers and praise Russia.

Henderson, international president of the Tobacco, Agricultural and Allied Workers Union of America, an affiliate of the CIO, made a bitter attack on his own government.

He accused it of using "every device and trick to confuse, divide, bribe and use democratic people as weapons against the forces of democracy in the world."

The labor leader said the "headquarters of world imperialism" is located in Washington. The common people of America, he declared, have withstood a "filthy torrent of anti-Soviet propaganda."

American working people, Henderson said, have felt "some of the terror of reaction in the Taft-Hartley act, which was designed to weaken and if possible smash the unions and prepare the way for the Atlantic pact and war designs."

Dr. W.E.B. Dubois, 81-year-old American Negro author and chairman of the American delegation to the congress, made this reference to the United States: "Drunk with power, we are leading the world to hell in a new colonialism with the same old human slavery which once ruled us."

A number of speakers yesterday denounced tendencies which they said were leading toward warfare against the Soviet Union.

than other drugs now in use, he said.

The tests showed that far smaller doses are needed to overcome the attack of bronchial asthma, hay fever, hives or other allergies. The small dose means much less chance that it will bring any other unwanted effects in people taking it.

In animals, the drug has given protection for 29 hours, compared with seven or eight hours of protective effect by other drugs, Dr. Tislow said.

Chloro-trime-ton was prepared by a team of Schering research chemists.

SIOUX CITY (AP)—Marvin T. Nodland, superintendent of public schools here, did a double take yesterday when he looked at the total figures on school enrollment at the close of the current six-week period. The number of boys was exactly even with the number of girls.

The total enrollment was 12,832 with 6,416 boys and the same number of girls.

Says Communists Were Told Russia Could Invade U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—Maryland Communist party members once were told that Russia could invade the United States through Alaska and Canada, a prosecution witness testified at the Communist conspiracy trial yesterday.

The witness, Charles W. Nicodemus, said the statement was made at a Maryland party meeting in the summer of 1945 by Albert Lannon, a director of the Maryland - District of Columbia Communist party and national party committeeman.

Nicodemus testified that Lannon also said American Communists should sabotage American industry and demoralize the population in event of war between Russia and the U.S.

Nicodemus said that a few months later the same official declared that American property lessened the chances of any revolution in the United States in the next few years, "even with the help of the Red army."

The 11 defendants in the trial, all top party officials, smiled openly at the testimony.

Federal Judge Harold R. Medina described this as "an attempt to laugh it off." His comment led to a sharp exchange with one of the defendants, John W. Gates, editor of the Communist newspaper, The Daily Worker.

"Are you forbidding us to smile?" asked Gates. "It's bad enough they're trying to forbid us to think without forbidding us to smile."

The judge answered: "You are a bold man, but you may get up and have your say. But I'm not going to have any hilarity in this court."

Nationalists Flee Capital

NANKING (SATURDAY) (AP)—This tottering capital of nationalist China was abandoned by its officials and its garrison today as Communist troops smashed across the river and reached its gates.

Communist troops, apparently cracking the nationalist defenses on a wide front, seized broad areas on both sides of the capital.

Best reports here said the latest crossing came from Pukow, across the Yangtze from Nanking. Communist veterans were said to have landed near Nanking's railway station, just outside the city's walls.

Looting began in Nanking, from which all high government officials presumably had fled along with the garrison. The city was a no-man's land, with both soldiers and police withdrawn.

Mobs broke into shops and carried all manner of merchandise to their homes and the countryside.

Dirty and disorganized troops, believed withdrawn from Pukow, streamed through the city.

Among those fleeing the capital were a number of foreigners. They went on the same planes which carried off high government officials including Premier Ho Ying-Chin.

Looters were helping themselves, starting with the mayor's house and the homes of government and city officials.

Soldiers were stopping cars on the street trying to commandeer them.

The Communists were expected to enter the city gates at any time but up to now (7 p.m. Iowa time yesterday) none had appeared.

Premier Ho Ying-Chin, who also is the national defense minister, and the whole defense ministry left by air about 7:30 a.m., presumably for Shanghai enroute to Canton where the official capital was set up some time ago.

The whereabouts of Acting President Li was not known here, but it was believed he had left the capital.

All nationalist troops have withdrawn from Nanking or have gone into civilian clothing.

It seems now as if no effort whatsoever will be made to hold Nanking.

An estimated 100,000 nationalist troops reportedly clogged the roads in disorderly retreat from Nanking. They fled south along four main highways.

In the hour of nationalist China's extremity, "Retired" President Chiang Kai-Shek joined in Hangchow yesterday with Acting President Li Tsung-Jen in declaring that they were resolved to "fight to the end."

Hangchow, the meeting place for nationalist leaders, is 150 miles southeast of Nanking. Li's home in Nanking was among those looted by Chinese mobs. He was said to have left Nanking early today for an unknown destination, but this could not be confirmed.

The flight of government soldiers led to belief that their commanders temporarily had lost control. Military quarters said the 26th army, which was ordered to move into Nanking last night to defend the capital, never arrived.

Crowd Breaks Up Communist Speech

DARTMOUTH, ENGLAND (AP)—Harry Pollitt, secretary of the British Communist party, was rescued by police last night when an angry crowd interrupted his speech and overran the rostrum.

The demonstration was touched off when the father of a British sailor killed in the Chinese Communist shelling of the frigate Consort on the Yangtze leaped on to the platform in the middle of Pollitt's speech.

He handed the Communist leader a rope and a note signed "from the father of one of the boys killed on the Yangtze."

The crowd was aroused and soon was swarming over the rostrum. A Communist flag was burned and police had to lead Pollitt to safety.

UN Votes Against Investigation Of Iron Curtain Church Trials

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—The United Nations voted yesterday against any U.N. inquiry now into the iron curtain trials of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty and 15 Bulgarian Protestant churchmen but decided to keep the issue alive until next fall.

The UN approved instead an American-supported plan to invoke peace treaty guarantees of human rights and freedoms in those Soviet satellite countries. A Cuban-Australian plan for an 11-nation commission to investigate charges of violations of human rights growing out of the trials was defeated, 30 to 4, in the 58-nation special political committee of the UN assembly. Only Australia, Cuba, Lebanon and New Zealand voted for the commission.

The winning resolution—offered by Bolivia and backed by the United States, France and Britain—urged Hungary and Bulgaria to cooperate toward settling the issue under the peace treaties.

The vote for this was 34 to 6. (The six were the Russian bloc). The special committee also recommended that the issue stay on the UN books until the regular assembly meeting next September to see what had been done.

A Chilean proposal to censure Hungary and Bulgaria at this stage was withdrawn in the face of certain defeat.

The Bolivian resolution now goes to the full assembly, where its final approval is expected over strong Slav objections.

The United States spearheaded opposition to the Cuban-Australian proposal for a commission to go to Europe and investigate accusations of violations of human rights in Hungary and Bulgaria.

These charges grew out of the trials of the Hungarian prime minister and the Bulgarian religious figures.

Benjamin V. Cohen, U.S. delegate, told the committee his government believed efforts should be made now to settle the charges through the peace treaty machinery. If that failed, he indicated, the U.S. then might favor further action by the UN.

Berlin's Communist Regime Asks Lifting Of City's Blockade

BERLIN (AP)—Radio Moscow yesterday broadcast a proposal by the Communist rump regime in Berlin that the blockade on the city be lifted, and said the majority of businessmen in the city's western sectors welcomed the proposal.

It was the first time the official Russian radio has commented on the flood of reports and proposals during the last two weeks regarding possible lifting of the blockade.

In Frankfurt western German Communists formally demanded that the western allies end the counter-blockade which they imposed on movements to the Soviet occupied zone in retaliation for Russia's economic blockade of Berlin.

But there was yet no sign that the Russian government was prepared to make the first move, as it must do to ease the situation.

Western occupation authorities continued to ignore the Communist campaign and their planes brought 8,427 tons of supplies to Berlin during the 24 hours ended at noon. It was the third biggest day of the airlift which started last June 25.

It was noted that Radio Moscow took no responsibility, so far as Russia is concerned, for the clamor for resumption of trade.

Hawkeyes Get One Hit, But Beat Illini, 3-0

Jack Bruner Hurls 4 Hitter

By NEAL BLACK
(Iowan Sports Editor)

Iowa got only one hit yesterday but the Hawkeyes got it when it counted to win their Big Nine opener, beating Illinois, 3-0.

Lefty Jack Bruner went all the way for the Hawks, giving up four hits. Although he walked 10, Bruner was able to bear down in the clutch and get 'em out to administer the first defeat to the Illini in four conference games.

Stan Feldman started and went seven innings for the Illini. He pitched one-hit ball but his control slipped badly in the fifth inning and that, combined with Murland Moran's hit, meant three runs for the Hawkeyes.

The two clubs are scheduled to meet again this afternoon on the Iowa diamond. The game is set for 2 o'clock.

The Hawkeyes put together five walks, a wild pitch, and their only hit of the game in the fifth for all the scoring.

Play Through Shower

Just after the big Iowa fifth it began sprinkling and it rained intermittently during the rest of the game but they played it out.

In each of the first four innings the Illini got two men on base but Bruner came through with those southpaw slants to retire the side—without damage. Illinois left a total of 14 men stranded on the base paths.

Bruner kept the four Illini hits well scattered, giving up no more than one in any one inning. The hardest safe blow off him was Russ Steger's double in the ninth. But Bruner struck out the last man to leave him stranded. Bruner whiffed eight.

Feldman was pulled for a pinch-hitter in the eighth and Tom Hoffman hurled the eighth inning for the Illini. Feldman struck out two and Hoffman got one strikeout.

After George Hand had fled out to open the fifth for the Hawks, Dale Erickson drew a walk. Pinky Primrose was next up and he followed Erickson to first via the base on balls route.

Moran cracked out his single between the shortstop and the third sacker to drive in Erickson, Primrose going on to third. Then Feldman let fly with one that the catcher couldn't hold to allow Primrose to score.

After Bruner had grounded out for the second out, John Sullivan and Keith Kafer walked to load the bases. Then Jack Dittmer drew base on balls to walk in Moran with Iowa's third run.

Brown fled out to the first baseman to end the inning.

The Hawks played errorless ball in the field while Bruner was silencing the bats of the Illini. Herb Plews, last years batting champ, went hitless. In five times up he drew a walk, struck out, hit into a force out and grounded out to the infield twice.

Bruner had them hitting weak grounders to the infield as he collected five assists. One of the Illini hits was of the fluky variety when the Iowa infielders could not decide who would take the ball and it dropped in the infield for a hit.

Iowa Coach Otto Vogel will probably start one of two more southpaws today. Either Dick Hoeksema or Dick Orth will probably get the nod to go on the mound this afternoon.

Illinois Coach Wally Roettger will probably start either Horace Tangman or Alby Plann.

Tex Hughson made his first start of the season and didn't do too well. The tall righthander, who went to Texas to pitch in the hot sun last season after two arm operations, walked six Yankees and was rapped for five hits in six innings.

The loss, however, was charged to lefty Earl Johnson, second of four Boston hurlers.

Allie Reynolds, starting and winning New York pitcher, wasn't much better as he walked five and was banded for all seven Red Sox hits.

The Yankees scored three times at Johnson's expense in the seventh.

Gil Wilson to Coach At DeKalb Teachers

(Special to The Daily Iowan)

DEKALB, ILL.—Gil Wilson, who resigned Thursday as head basketball coach at Iowa City high school, was signed to a one-year contract at DeKalb, Ill., Teachers college here yesterday.

No salary terms were announced by the college, technically known as Northern Illinois State Teachers, but it was believed Wilson's pay under the one-year agreement would run in the neighborhood of $4,800.

DeKalb authorities were happy to obtain the successful prep mentor. They had tried to sign him prior to this school year, but Wilson chose to remain at Iowa City.

Wilson has compiled a brilliant coaching record since graduating from Kearney, Neb., State Teachers college in 1942, where he was a regular forward for three years.

His overall record for six years of high school coaching is 109 wins and 22 losses, including one state title and three prep conference championships.

Southpaw Gene Bearden was wild in spots but went the distance for the Tribe, allowing six hits.

Zopf, Dean Kuever To Present Papers At Annual Meeting

Dean R.A. Kuever of the college of pharmacy and Prof. Louis C. Zopf will present papers at the annual convention of four pharmaceutical associations at Jacksonville, Fla. The five-day convention begins tomorrow.

Both papers report work done over a period of years by pharmacy students under the direction of Kuever and Zopf. The papers will be published in the journal of the American Pharmaceutical Association.

Attending the meeting will be members of the American Pharmaceutical Association, the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy, the National Association of Boards of Pharmacy and the American Society of Hospital Pharmacists.

Kuever is a past president of the American Pharmaceutical Association and is a member of the committee on professional relations.

Zopf is secretary of the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy.

The four organizations always meet together, Kuever said, usually in August. However, during years ending in nine the meetings are held in the spring to begin work on the U.S. Pharmacopoeia, published every 10 years.

Hawaiian Dishes Served at Luau

SUKIYAKI, A MAIN DISH in the Hawaiian Luau, or feast is being prepared by Helen Okamoto, Hilo, Hawaii, a student at SUI, for a luau held recently in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jac Colvin, 702 1/2 Grant street. Some of the ingredients in the dish were beef and pork, bamboo shoots, water chestnuts, broccoli spinach, mushrooms, soy sauce, garlic and green onions.

Guests Entertained In Native Fashion

Crisp won ton, lomi sukiyaki and lau lau were only a few of the Hawaiian dishes served here recently at a luau or Hawaiian feast.

Everything at the luau was done as it would have been done in the Hawaiian Islands. Guests wore white carnations in their hair and leis and sat on the floor with crossed legs. They ate the meal with chopsticks.

Laid the length of the room was a long white cloth which served as the table. Pineapples, bananas and lauhala mats were in the center.

The feast was given Monday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jac Colvin, 702 1-2 Grant street. The people who attended the luau were Ted Wakai, Honolulu, Hawaii; Helen Okamoto, Hilo, Hawaii; Charles Olmsted, Grace Hadley, Mr. and Mrs. Colvin, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bilodeau and Bruce Weiser.

The preparation of the food for the feast took three hours. All the special ingredients for the food were bought by Miss Hadley in Chinatown in Chicago.

Suki-yaki, which was the main dish, was prepared by Ted Wakai and Helen Okamoto, students at SUI. Some of the ingredients are cubes of beef and pork, bamboo shoots, water chestnuts, broccoli, spinach, mushrooms, soy sauce, garlic and green onions.

Salmon is placed on either side of a piece of pork to make lau lau. The meat was wrapped in spinach leaves and left in place of the regular "4" foil and cooked in a pressure cooker.

Dough stuffed with fresh shrimp and green chopped onions is called crisp won ton. The pieces of stuffed dough are then fried in deep fat until crisp and brown.

Three finger poi was also served. Poi, a sour-tasting dish, is made from a root and ranges in color from white to white gray to pink. Poi is classified as one, two or three finger poi depending on the thickness of the dish.

For the dessert the guests ate pineapple, Chinese tea cookies, with fortunes in them, madadamia nuts and lichee nuts. The pineapple, prepared luau style, had been taken from the shell, cut into pieces and put back in the shell.

Jasmine tea was served in Chinese tea cups. The meal was eaten from Hawaiian dishes belonging to Miss Hadley.

After the luau Miss Hadley showed colored movies of the Hawaiian Islands and displayed tapa cloth and other items she obtained while in the islands.

Atom Smasher Tested

Generator Hits 500,000 Volts

The high-power generator of SUI's Crockett-Walton-type atom smasher produced at least one-half million volts during test runs yesterday, according to Wayne Arnold, research assistant in nuclear physics.

When completed, the smasher will probably have the highest current for its type in the country, Arnold said. Strange things happened when the half-million volts were being generated by the smasher, which is located in the high-voltage laboratory of the physics building.

As the generation in the room "revved" up to an ear-splitting whine, a door knob 20 feet away mysteriously began to give off a bluish glow. Standing near the machine, your hair stood on end. Joseph Zajick, technician for the project, sat behind a concrete wall and read the dials on the machine through a periscope. As the voltage steadily increased, he had to shout to be heard over the noise.

The high-voltage point was reached and there was no blinding arc from the machine to the metal beams overhead. If the generator had discharged to the walls of the building, it would have been a failure. Arnold shut the generator motor off from the control room, but no one ventured into the room until the generator was well discharged. Even then each of the 44 condensers had to be discharged by hand until there was no juice left in the generator.

The voltage test was successful, and construction of the rest of the smasher got underway. Research is expected to begin this summer.

Arnold began designing the smasher in February, 1948, under the direction of Prof. James A. Jacobs, director of research in nuclear physics at SUI. Construction started last September. The generator transforms 8,000 volts of alternating current into 500,000 volts of direct current. It is this half-million volts which will propel particles down the accelerator tube to smash atomic nuclei at the target.

A relatively low-voltage smasher, its half-million volts compares with the 5-million volts which SUI's other atom smasher is designed to generate.

The new smasher will be able to bombard the target with at least 10 times more particles each second than the other smasher, but each particle will have a lower voltage.

The number of bombarding particles is important, Arnold said, because the more atoms that are smashed, the more radioactive fragments there are to investigate.

Algae Made Radioactive, Argonne Lab Reports

CHICAGO — The Argonne national laboratory revealed yesterday that algae, one of the simplest forms of plant life, have been made radioactive.

The laboratory, part of the atomic energy commission, said the radioactive algae will be used in the study of the basic processes of life.

The laboratory suggested that one direction of study will be on the animals that use the algae for food.

Summer Workshop — Ojemann to Offer New Course

A new approach to study and teaching in the fields of mental health and human relations will be offered at a summer workshop being presented for the first time at SUI June 20 through July 1. R. H. Ojemann, associate professor of educational psychology and coordinator of the course, said yesterday.

Developed here in the past few years the plan is a "dynamic approach" designed to acquaint students and teachers with the "how" and "why" in the development of human behavior, Ojemann said. The workshop will be the first application of the new approach. The workshop is planned for school administrators, teachers of social studies and home economics, and workers in the field of human development and mental health.

Persons taking part in the two semester-hour course will have an opportunity to work on individual projects, hear group discussions under experienced leaders and teachers and take part in the critical analysis of current programs.

Instructors for the course will be drawn from the fields of psychiatry, education and psychology at SUI.

Part of the workshop will be devoted to consideration of the fundamental problems at the elementary, secondary and adult levels, in order to help schools work out programs in mental health and human relations.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

IN "An All Sorts Treasury," Columnist Joe Harrington tells of a typical taciturn Vermont couple who sired a baby boy. The lad shot up like a bean-stalk and soon was performing yeoman chores on the farm—but he never spoke a single word. His parents were mildly alarmed.

Sometime after his seventh birthday he was helping his father in the vegetable patch, which was separated from the barnyard by a wooden fence. Suddenly he observed that a prize bull had broken through the fence and was heading for his father with lowered head and nostrils distended. The boy hollered, "Look out, Pa! The bull!"

Pa dove over an unbroken section of the fence and shattered all records to the family wash-and-recreation cubicle. There he reviewed the situation, and joyously exclaimed to his son, "Why, Will boy. You talked! Why ain't you ever talked before?"

The boy answered, "Shucks, Pa! I never had nawthin' to say."

Police Return Theft Suspect To Marengo

Iowa City police were notified yesterday that Thomas Calhoun, 15, suspected of robbing a Michigan horse buyer of $1,600 last Friday night at Victor, was arrested by Chicago police Monday.

Officers of the state bureau of criminal investigation returned Calhoun to the custody of Sheriff Milford Englebert at Marengo yesterday, police said.

No details were available concerning the suspect's arrest, but police were informed that Calhoun had about $100 on his person when arrested.

Calhoun is accused of taking $1,600 from the trousers pocket of A.D. Brink, his travelling companion, while Brink was asleep in a rooming house at Victor. Both were on their way to Michigan from California, police said.

Bandit Shot In Gunfight Still Critical

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Clyde Milton Johnson, 30-year-old bank robber and escaped convict who was shot and captured by FBI agents after a wild downtown shooting spree, was still in a critical condition last night. He had an even chance to live, doctors said.

Federal agents guarded the room of the "most wanted" criminal in the U.S. as he lay semi-conscious from gunshot wounds in Indianapolis general hospital.

Doctors said Johnson was being given heavy drugs every four hours but seemed to be "doing pretty well."

A charge of assaulting a federal officer was filed against Johnson here yesterday.

Agents hoped to be able to question him soon about his activities during the seven weeks since he escaped from the Dade county jail at Miami, Fla. He was held in Florida for the $40,000 robbery of a Memphis, Tenn., bank in February.

FBI agents spotted Johnson Thursday as he walked from the Washington hotel and followed him down a busy street. Realizing he was trailed, Johnson pulled a gun and fired at the agents. Then he ran toward Monument circle, busy center of the business district, jumped on an automobile while agents fired, and then commanded a taxicab.

He was shot as the cab pulled away. He ordered the driver, whose name was George Milton Johnson, to take him to a doctor.

Authorities said he was wanted also for robberies of groceries in California, a grocery in Atlanta, and other suspected crimes.

Mrs. Johnson was held on $15,000 bond as an accessory after the fact in the Memphis holdup.

A swing band composed entirely of young ministers will make seven appearances, including two radio broadcasts, in Iowa City this weekend.

The band, made up of ordained ministers of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (Mormon) is on a tour of six mid-western states, appearing at high schools, radio stations and meetings of local groups of the Latter Day Saints church.

The band, called the "Deseret Orchestra," will arrive in Iowa City Saturday and will broadcast over radio station WSUI from 7 to 7:30 p.m. Saturday. Elder Vaughn Hansen of the Iowa City church said yesterday.

The orchestra will play for a "Gold and Green" ball in the River room of Iowa Union at 8:30 p.m. Saturday night. Invitations will be sent out for the dance which is sponsored by the student group, Mutual Improvement association, Hansen said.

The members of the orchestra will be in complete charge Sunday of morning and evening services at the Latter Day Saints chapel, 918 E. Fairchild street, Hansen said. Morning services are at 10 a.m. and evening services are at 7:30 p.m.

Monday morning the band will play at junior high school at 11 a.m. and Monday evening they will broadcast over radio station KXIC from 6 to 6:30 p.m., Hansen said.

The swing band's last Iowa City appearance will be at the community building ballroom at 7:30 p.m. Monday. Iowa City young people and the general public are invited to attend, Hansen added.

All of the band members have temporarily left college to tour

Police Report Three Automobile Crashes; No Serious Injuries

Mrs. Edward Organ, 9 E. Harrison street, was injured Thursday at 7:45 p.m., police said, when she was struck by a car driven by Lynn Price, 110 E. Burlington street.

Price reported that Mrs. Organ was crossing west at the intersection of Dubuque and Burlington streets and that he was turning north on Dubuque street when the accident occurred.

Highway patrolmen reported four Oxford high school students were slightly injured when their car overturned four miles east of Iowa City on highway 6 early yesterday.

Gene Shebetka, a passenger, was treated at University hospitals for a cut ear and released. Bob McGirk, another passenger, was examined at the hospital and later released.

Bob Wegmuller, the driver, and Don Terrell both suffered bruises, the patrolmen said.

Two Iowa City high school students were involved in an accident at the intersection of College and Dodge streets yesterday at 3:40 p.m., police said. No personal injuries were reported.

John G. Wells, West Branch, told police he stopped for an arterial stop sign when his car was struck in the rear by a car driven by Marvin L. Fliss, route 6.

German Lawyers Face Job Trouble

HAMBURG, GERMANY (AP) — Some of the German lawyers who tried members of organizations like the S.S. (Elite Guard) had difficulty finding jobs after their task was finished, the British military government reported.

One prosecutor had to take a job as a manual worker.

His foreman was a former S.S. official whom he had prosecuted some time previously.

The foreman "did not waste the opportunity which so unexpectedly came his way," a British official report dryly said. "The prosecutor has subsequently been found more suitable work in a military government office."

Termite Extermination Ends in Two Buildings

Termite extermination of two of Iowa City's public buildings has been completed, Agent Jim Mennen of the exterminating company announced yesterday.

The work at the public library was done about a week ago and the Community building was completed yesterday, he said.

Several private homes and possibly the Masonic temple will be worked on soon, Mennen added.

Concert Wednesday — SUI Symphony to Perform

The fifth symphony concert in the 1948-49 series will be presented in the Iowa Union lounge Wednesday at 8 p.m. by the SUI symphony orchestra with Prof. Philip Greeley Clapp conducting. John Simms will be piano soloist.

Simms, piano instructor at SUI, will be featured in the Liszt "Concerto No. 2" in the first presentation of that selection in Iowa City.

The program includes "The Huntsman Accused" by Cesar Franck; "Suite in D Major, Opus 39" by Anton Dvorak; "Concerto in A Major" by Franz Liszt and an overture "Benvenuto Cellini" by Hector Berlioz.

The Dvorak suite is typical of Czech folk-vein music although the themes and treatment are his own. His orchestration is strategically planned for tonal contrasts, Clapp, head of the SUI music department, said.

"The Huntsman Accused" is a symphonic tone poem based upon a ballad by Burger. The concerto in which Simms is soloist is among the most brilliant of the works of this type by Liszt. Simms has already played the first concert as soloist with the SUI concert band about a year ago.

The public is cordially invited to attend the concert by the members of the orchestra. Free tickets are available at the Union information desk.

Virginia Firm Files Judgment Suit Here

The McNamara Furniture company and Jay McNamara were named defendants in a $639.25 judgment suit filed yesterday in district court by the Bald Knob Furniture company, Inc., Rocky Mountain, Va.

The plaintiff claimed that amount was still owing it for goods and merchandise sold and delivered to the defendants in June and August, 1948.

The Virginia firm asked judgment in that amount with interest at five percent from Oct. 23, 1948, plus costs.

F.B. Olsen is attorney for the plaintiff.

The Chancellor Didn't Answer Any Questions —

Many people representing many shades of political coloration are contending that American universities are hotbeds or radicalism. And — unless yours is a highly emotional argument in extreme defense or extreme accusation — the subject can be a hot potato.

A short time ago the Illinois legislature was considering several anti-Communist bills. A group of students noisily demonstrated in the legislative halls against the bills. In retaliation, the state seditious activities committee voted to investigate alleged subversive activities at the University of Chicago and Roosevelt college in Chicago.

This investigation brought Chancellor Robert M. Hutchins of Chicago university to Springfield to testify before the seditious activities committee.

He immediately labeled the state's proposed anti-Communist laws as "thought control," "un-constitutional" and "un-American." The validity of these charges — until the courts rule one way or the other — would make a good debating topic.

What concerns us now is the remainder of Hutchins' testimony. He came to Springfield to tell a legislative committee that only 11 students at his university belonged to a Communist club. That figure was supported by testimony of a Chicago newspaperman who recently wrote several articles about the school.

Hutchins intended to say that 11 students affiliated with the Communists did not contaminate the entire school. Also, the school's large Progressive party following was not subversive. But some of his statements lead to doubt.

For instance, he admitted that "one or two" students have publicly stated they are Communists, but added that "I am not aware that they have advocated the overthrow of the government by violence." The New York trial of Communist leaders is not over yet, but it is becoming pretty evident from its testimony that Hutchins' statement is a self-contradiction.

At another point, Hutchins was asked if he would rehire Oscar Lange, a former Chicago U. professor who renounced his citizenship to become a Polish delegate to the United Nations.

"If his views were the same as they were, I would take him back," Hutchins said. "Even if he denounced America?" he was asked.

"I don't believe he denounced America," Hutchins replied. "He just objected to some of the actions of this country. Other people have done the same thing." Lange's record as a Soviet voting puppet in the UN security council belies Hutchins' remark. No man with minor objections would renounce his citizenship and become a Russian servant in international councils.

In short, Hutchins' testimony did not answer any questions. If he aimed to dispel fears that his campus was "shot full of subversives," he failed. If anything, he aroused more suspicion. For who can accept the testimony of a man unwilling to distinguish between what is and what isn't "un-American" or "subversive"?

Make no mistake, "thought control" is bad. But so is the attitude Hutchins displayed in Springfield.

Commercial Ties Instead of Political Cobwebs —

The problem: at a secret London meeting of British Commonwealth prime ministers, Great Britain is trying to keep India from leaving the Commonwealth. India will achieve complete independence sometime around August 15 of this year and favors some sort of formula replacing "kinship" with "kinship."

Suggested solution: Great Britain no longer hopes to control the political destinies of India's 300-million people. At worst, she can lose Indian support all together and can have Pakistan and Ceylon desert also. At best, she can preserve the spiderweb of political unity known as the British Commonwealth of Nations.

The leaders of 300-million people can surely brush aside the spiderweb with a sweep of the hand. The British have no logical defense of the Commonwealth except on sentimental grounds. And international diplomacy has become unsentimental long ago. Britain herself is proud of claiming that Commonwealth members enjoy practical independence and can withdraw at will.

What is worrying the British then is not India's withdrawal from a diplomatic sewing circle. Britain is concerned with India's commercial ties, and that is at it should be.

The two nations complement each other when it comes to keeping their economies humming. There is no reason why the disappearance of a political cobweb should affect the sturdy trade ties that bind the two.

On the other hand, Britain can defend sentimental political ties as France is doing in Indo-China and the Dutch are doing in Indonesia. But private wars are costly things, if not immediately, then in the long run.

The answer for Britain is to replace the ties of the British Commonwealth with purely commercial ties assuring long-term good will on the part of India, Pakistan and Ceylon.

And if there is any hesitation over such a course, the tragedy of China going Communist several hundred miles to the north should act as an effective spur.

Interpreting the News —

French See Communist Threat to Indo-China

By J.M. ROBERTS JR.

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst Paul Reynaud, former premier France, says that the advance of the Chinese Communist army creates a "very dangerous" situation for French Indo-China and other far eastern countries. He says Chinese Communists are pouring across the frontier help rebellious natives in Indo-China, and pose an ultimate threat to Siam, British Malaya, Burma, India and Indonesia.

Reports from Indo-China already showed that the French had attained no more than a precarious military balance. Ho Chi Minh's Viet Nam government has not been stamped out. Ho, although he studied in Moscow, is not a follower of the Cominform line. He wanted to keep his revolution private. But as the Communists offer him the only important outside support he has received, he will not refuse it.

France's efforts to re-establish the throne of Annam and Tonkin under former emperor Bao Dai are not expected to prove fruitful. Bao Dai once worked with Ho, but later went into Riviera retirement and negotiations with the French. Western observers say whatever influence he once had in northern Indo-China is now gone.

Congress Must Choose — Administration, Taft and Hill Health Programs Compared

WASHINGTON (AP)—Here are the major points of President Truman's national health plan compared with medical care bills introduced by Sens. Robert A. Taft (R-O.) and Lister Hill (D-Ala.).

HEALTH INSURANCE
Truman plan—Voluntary hospitalization, surgery and medical insurance program are inadequate. Health insurance would be compulsory. The federal government would direct the program, financing it largely out of new payroll taxes.

Taft—The federal government would contribute funds, matched by states, localities and medical schools, to help out where needed. The government would have no overall control. The states, with federal help, would try to broaden existing voluntary health insurance plans and develop new ones.

Hill—Existing voluntary programs would be extended to cover everyone. With the government financing membership in non-profit programs for all who cannot afford to pay.

MEDICAL SCHOOLS
Truman Plan—Special Federal help to finance expansion of medical scholarships to increase the number of practicing physicians from 190,000 to about 237,000.

Taft—Direct subsidies to medical schools, based on the number of students, for a three-year period pending a full study of the personnel situation to be completed by Jan. 15, 1952.

Hill—No specific provision for expanding medical schools.

HOSPITALS
Truman plan—Increased federal aid (now $75-million a year) for construction of hospitals and other medical facilities in communities where they are needed. Extend the Hill-Burton construction act of 1946, which expires in 1951, and modify it so the government's contributions will take into account the resources of the different states.

Taft—The federal government would spend $1,250,000,000 over a five year period beginning in the 1950 fiscal year, with the states contributing from one-third to three-quarters of the federal building funds, depending on their resources.

Hill—No provision for new hospital building.

HEALTH SERVICES
Truman plan—More federal grants to states for clinics, public health stations, disease-control, maternal and child care and general activities.

Taft—Federal aid, running up to $25-million a year by 1952, to develop local public health services; $35 million a year for school health services, plus varying funds for state development and improvement of general diagnostic facilities.

Hill—Areas lagging in general health facilities would be surveyed and plans developed to improve the situation.

Book Review: 'The Heat of the Day' — Novel Is Vivid...but Incomplete

By ALICIA ARMSTRONG
In her first novel in ten years, Elizabeth Bowen has drawn a vivid picture of the life of a London civilian during the heavy German air attacks on the city.

The book, however, is disappointing, because it is incomplete. With her usual beautiful prose style, a careful selection of details that create an atmosphere of chaos and destruction, and with an excellent main character around which to center her story, she could have produced a great novel. But she does not fully exploit her material, so that, although the book is good, the expectations of the reader are never realized.

The story is focused on the moral and ethical problem of the main character, Stella, who is told by a rejected suitor that her lover, Robert, has sold war secrets to the enemy.

Stella and Robert have become lovers in the unstable war atmosphere, and, despite the intimacy of their relationship, they know little of each other's background or character. Stella also knows nothing about Harrison, the man who has fallen hopelessly in love with her and who, when rejected, tries to buy her off by telling her that he has evidence against Robert and can have him arrested.

She disbelieves Harrison and yet feels a growing distrust of Robert, and she attempts to discover the truth without offending Robert and without driving Harrison to action against Robert. She also must decide her attitude toward Robert in case the accusations made against him are true. Stella's confusion makes for a difficult and challenging situation, but the reader, unfortunately, is also frustrated by his lack of knowledge of the two men.

It, therefore, becomes a confusing book, instead of a book about confusion.

Miss Bowen gives little evidence of Robert's character, and although members of his family are brought in to reveal him through a glance into his background, they are so shadowy that they become as inscrutable as he.

Harrison is a complete mystery. There is absolutely no explanation for him.

More could have been done with the novel if the minor characters, used as contrast and for comic relief, had been omitted and all of the concentration had been placed on the center problem. The complete effect might also have been accomplished if one hundred or more pages had been added in order to fill out the disturbing gaps in the story.

I'D RATHER BE RIGHT Our Tragic Mish-Mash

By SAMUEL GRAFTON (New York Post Syndicate)

Vera Micheles Dean, writing from Berlin in the April "Bulletin" of the Foreign Policy association, goes into the question of finding pro-democratic groups in Germany that we can, as the saying goes, work with.

The prospects are unappetizing.

THERE ARE the youth, who grew up believing in Hitler, only to have him explode in their faces, and they are now tired and cross. The women are submissive; they "take" politically, from husbands and fathers, and since German husbands and fathers are not exactly political geniuses, as the last thirty or forty years show, there is not much hope for independent action in that direction.

There are eleven million German "expellees" who have been put out of Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland, etc.; these have not yet been organized, but their real interest lies in going home, rather than in building a democratic western Germany; what they probably would want, mostly, if organized, would be a nice, short war.

There are the industrialists, but many of these need more fumigation before their relations with Hitler can be forgotten, and others are so ostentatiously rich, in a hungry country, as to experience a certain difficulty in winning popular admiration and support.

ONLY WHEN we come to the German trade unions do we find some hope here, at least in a grouping which is anti-Nazi, anti-Communist and anti-Nonse. But here, finds Mrs. Dean, we come upon a snag. The snag is that this group "has least appeal" for those members of military government who want "untrammeled" free enterprise in Germany and are against all leftist trends.

The snag, in other words, is ourselves. We in this field, are our own biggest problem. We find it hard to cooperate with precisely those, in Germany, who have the most to offer. And how can it be otherwise?

How can we, who have yet to repeal the Taft-Hartley act at home, open the road to close and intimate relations with the German labor movement? How can we, who are still scared of our own labor unions, work with German unions? A dozen congressmen would faint at the thought, and, on reviving, would ask brokenly for an investigation of the American military government.

ALL OF OUR problems, vis-a-vis the twentieth century world, are tied up in this situation, as in a little nosegay. The conception that it is our role to keep down leftism of every kind, the moderate and democratic as well as the immoderate and undemocratic, is here revealed.

We have sold ourselves on our own unceasing harangues to the effect that anybody who doesn't see eye-to-eye with the most anachronistic kind of reactionary must be some sort of Communist, that we have confused friend and enemy; we have mingled those who are really for us, and those who are basically against us, in one of the greatest mish-mashes and olla-podridas of history.

WE ENDANGER, rather than save ourselves, by the tight little conception that it is our job merely to organize the world's right wing into a pushing match against communism. Actually, we need friends on the left more than we need friends on the right. We have plenty of those.

Quite unrealistically, we pamper ourselves and snag ourselves, when we try to set up a world policy in the image of the unquestioning kind of domestic economic preconception.

But how can we go about broadening our approach? How can we even get enough sensitive and perceptive officials appointed, in the present atmosphere of pompous suspicion and righteous self-justification?

IT IS A TRAGEDY, because a revived Germany, especially needs polling at higher than ordinary levels. A strong UN could do it externally; a strong liberal social current could do it internally.

Falling the one, we must, at least, have the other if a new Germany is to be a safe Germany. Without either, we are compelled to build Germany up while tying it down, to create complicated structures of regulation, trying to do with fences and bits of string what can only be done by the emerging hopes of men.

FRB Eases Credit Controls

WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal reserve board again relaxed installment buying controls last night. It reduced down payment requirements on all items except automobiles from 15 to 10 percent, and raising payment periods from 21 to 24 months. The change is effective Wednesday.

It was the board's third anti-recession move in less than seven weeks, and came amid signs of rising unemployment and falling commodity prices.

The board previously eased installment buying curbs on March 7. And on March 28, it cut stock market margin requirements from 75 to 50 percent. Member Mariner S. Eccles said at that time that the board's actions were geared to the belief that the nation was "in a recession."

The new order leaves the required downpayment for new or used automobiles at one-third of the total price. But payments for automobiles, like other items affected, may be spread over 24

Massacre Survivor Testifies In Mistreatment Investigation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Laughing German troops robbed and then slaughtered helpless American prisoners—some of them wounded—in an all afternoon scene of carnage during the 1944 Christmas season, a husky ex-sergeant related yesterday.

The witness, Kenneth R. Ahrens of Erie, Pa., survivor of the Malmédy massacre, said he dropped in the snow with two bullets in the back. He played dead for what "seemed like years," then raced into the nearby forest in a burst of gunfire.

Rescue 3-Year Old From 7-Inch Space

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Carol Ann Russell, 3, was rescued by firemen from a seven-inch slot between two buildings 20 minutes after she slipped off a play yard roof adjoining her second story home here late yesterday.

Playing with her sister, Frances, 10, the younger child fell into the gap between the building and dropped 14 feet before she became wedged fast. Frances ran crying to her mother, Mrs. Lois Russell, who called firemen.

Firemen clogged a hole in a foot-thick concrete wall and checked the child. She had suffered only minor bruises and fright.

Dependent Children Receive Most Aid

Dependent children received the highest average assistance of $61.76 per case in Johnson county, topping the average paid to the needy blind and the aged for the month of April.

The state department of social welfare reported yesterday that 522 Johnson county welfare cases received over $26,000 this month. Aid to the needy blind averaged $56.94 per case and old age assistance average $49.91 per case, the department said.

The total welfare assistance for April was reported as over $2.6-million, showing an increase of almost $11 million over last month.

Social welfare expenditures show an increase of over $170,000 from a year ago this month, the department said.

'The Chalk Circle' —

Play Amazingly Different

— Finest Production

By OPEN SENNSH sary brevity of the following run-down.

Miss Silberman, as Hai-tang was entirely captivating. Her voice, though small, has sufficient carrying-power to remain melodious without being "cute." She makes the most of the poetry of her speeches, and the appeal in her Act I soliloquy is irresistible.

Mr. Shull's "Chao" is masterful. His lines writing from his character every drop of the intended contemplability, and his clomping stage-walk is actually graceful in its clumsiness.

Special notice goes also to Mr. Steekel for his labored pomposity, to Mr. Spoutis for his ludicrous self-pity and sobriety, and to Miss Lerner who reappears for the first time since her man-sized job of "Electra."

Timing is on the whole noticeably good. And for this and too many other special effects to note, Harold Crain must come in for his share of the praise. The set is commendable and the same goes for the costumes.

Though perhaps longish, the production contains interest aplenty for any kind of audience.

Cows Produce Over 500 Pounds Butterfat in Year

Three registered Holstein-Friesian cows in the herd of the state sanatorium, Oakdale, produced over 500 pounds of butterfat in a 365-day period, according to official production tests taken recently.

Testing was supervised by Iowa State college in cooperation with the Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

Police Check Garris' Life For Motives

ATLANTA, GA. (AP) — Police followed the few clues in the slaying of a Metropolitan opera tenor into dead ends yesterday and began checking his personal life for a possible motive.

They asked Dallas police to check on a man, either a member of the Met troupe or an ardent opera fan, who was believed to be a close friend of Singer John Garris. Garris was found shot to death Thursday in an Atlanta alley.

Detective Supt. E. I. Hilderbrand said the "friend's" name was known to police but refused to disclose it. He said the man reportedly checked out of the Biltmore hotel here about the same time Garris did Wednesday night.

Garris intended to go with the troupe by train to Memphis Thursday; his reputed friend was to have gone on ahead to Dallas where the company was to perform last night. But Garris wandered away from the railroad station alone and met his death.

Police followed up two leads, both connected with suspicious cars reported in the vicinity.

The first, concerning a blue Packard with New York license plates and a bloodstained back seat, fizzled out quickly. Police discovered the driver had no legs. He explained the blood came from a sick dog.

Last night police tried to locate a green Buick automobile occupied by a small, saw-toothed man and a handsome woman.

They quoted Dewey Wrenn, a night watchman, as saying he saw the car Monday or Tuesday and again Thursday around the alley where Garris was found. Its last appearance, Wrenn said, was only a short time after discovery of the singer's body.

Investigators reported they also had found another night watchman and a taxicab driver who saw the automobile.

Chinkiang Defenders Dig Ditch to Stop an Army

HASTILY RECRUITED LABOR GANGS dig a big trench around pill boxes and blockhouses thrown up at Chinkiang last week in preparation for a new drive by the Communist armies. The big ditch is reminiscent of moats built around European cities in the middle ages. Chinkiang, important port on the Yangtze river is between Nanking and Shanghai, is in the path of today's sweeping Communist drive.

'Tour' Brings Understanding

Know Your Government Project Converts Polish Student to World Cooperation

Jay Zawodny, C3, Warsaw, Poland, returned to the SUI campus Tuesday from the YMCA sponsored "Know Your Government" tour, a convert to belief in international cooperation.

Eleven members of Zawodny's family were killed by the Germans in World War II and his mother and a sister were interned in German concentration camps, but the Polish student declares, "As far as the practical resolve of the tour goes, I now believe in international cooperation."

"I began my personal share toward this cooperation during the trip to Washington, D.C., and the UN by shaking the hand of a German boy who was a member of the student tour. It was the first time I shook the hand of a German in my life."

Zawodny, who served in the underground movement in Warsaw and later fought in a Polish outfit in the British army, expressed hope that the spirit of friendship and cooperation cultivated within the Y group will continue here on campus.

He sharply disagreed with a statement made by a minister who addressed the group at Washington, D.C. Zawodny described the minister's division of world ideologies into Catholic, Protestant and Communist as "unjust."

"If we can evaluate ideological trends, only two would emerge

Gen. Garibaldi Files Charges of Treason Against Communists

ROME (AP) — Gen. Giuseppe Garibaldi, 69, grandson of the liberator, said yesterday he had filed formal charges of treason against Communist Party Boss Palmiro Togliatti and Partisan Brigade Leader Luigi Longo.

The complaint charged the Communists with plotting an armed revolt, disgracing the name of Garibaldi by giving it to the Communist partisans and adopting Garibaldi emblems, and advocating desertion from the regular army.

Under Italian law a private citizen may institute criminal proceedings against another citizen by making a formal denunciation to the attorney general who must then decide if there is legal basis in fact before recommending it to a court. If the court accepts the complaint, a formal charge is instituted and legal proceedings begin.

Garibaldi filed his complaint April 15 and it was placed before the attorney general, Giuseppe Anomatsi, yesterday.

Burlington Woman Writes April Issue Of Historical Paper

Mrs. Harriet Connor Brown, native of Burlington, newspaperwoman and novelist, wrote all the April issue of Palimpsest, the state historical society's monthly magazine.

Mrs. Brown's three stories, all dealing with Burlington's history as she saw it and learned it as a child, are: "Burlington Backgrounds," "Schoolday Memories" and "A Town Looks Back."

"Backgrounds" is a brief early history of the city and the people who helped built it including her family, Col. Henry Dodge, Gov. James W. Grimes and others.

"Memories" tells of her Burlington childhood of which a major event was shaking hands with Gen. U.S. Grant.

"A Town Looks Back" is the story of Burlington's semi-centennial celebration in 1833. Mrs. Brown's work as a reporter included covering President McKinley's assassination and William Jennings Bryan's "Cross of Gold" speech at the 1896 Democratic national convention in Chicago.

DIRT REMOVE IT WITH A CARTER CERAMIC Fuel Filter

Dirt is a great enemy of good carburetion. It not only filters up air and gasoline passages, but it also accelerates the wear of delicate parts which should be replaced at regular intervals, if the carburetor is to function the same as when new.

How often a carburetor should be cleaned depends upon the conditions under which it is used. Every carburetor should be cleaned, and worn parts replaced at least once each year, and much more often where there is much dust.

A CARTER CERAMIC fuel filter element filters out particles as small as 1/25,000 of an inch.
